

Feds Play Eleven From St. Augustine To-night

Seminole Favored To Win Since Visitors Have Lost Services Of 2 Backfield Men

The Seminole High School Celery Feds will take to the gridiron tonight for their eighth contest this season with the St. Augustine Mulletts, furnishing the opposition.

Coach Bill Ferrazzi will bring his crippled eleven here for the tilt which is scheduled to begin at 8:00 o'clock at the local athletic field. On the injured list for the visitors is Bruar, ace halfback, who suffered a broken hand during the Daytona Beach tilt last week and it was reported Wednesday that William Forson, ace fullback, had left town and would not return in time for the game.

The Mulletts boast their best conference record in many years with six loop games won and one lost, but Harvel Lopez, sports editor of the St. Augustine Record, said yesterday afternoon that it was improbable the Mullet eleven would win from the Feds crippled as it is.

It is expected that Danny Altman, captain of the Baby Feds, will get promoted tonight for a portion of the game with the regulars. Altman was broke in last week in the Winter Park game and did some exceptional fine running and kicking.

DASHING GEORGE McCLELLAND, wingback on the Stetson football team, will be in the spotlight again Saturday afternoon when the Hatters meet Oglethorpe U. in the Homecoming game at DeLand. The Sanford boy, playing his third and last season for Stetson, has been a real powerhouse in his team's offensive this season—in which the Hatters have won five out of six starts, triumphing over the Florida Gators and the Tampa Spartans. McClelland's running gains were the most spectacular of the Armistice Day victory at Tampa when the Stetson lads piled up 42 points and held their rivals scoreless. A great crowd of gridiron fans is expected to view the Stetson-Oglethorpe struggle, which will begin at 3 o'clock.

U. Of Miami To Play Three Final Games On Home Field

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 18. — Back from their journey which netted but one victory in three tries, the University of Miami Hurricanes will play their last three opponents—Duke, Bucknell and Georgia in Burdine Orange Stadium where the Hurricanes have not met defeat this fall.

Though defeats to both Miami and Duquesne have eliminated both from high national rating, the intersectional clash has aroused tremendous interest in South Florida and the Hurricane home attendance record of 11,500 may fall for this game.

Practice this week indicated that the Hurricanes may try to take to the air to upset the Duke. Teams which have turned down the Night Riders have found the overhead route the easiest path, for the Dukes have a strong line.

Miami, too, has turned in a better than average defensive record save for the Drake game when submerging temperatures were of greater destruction to Miami hopes than submerging guards.

The Hurricanes, who have been without an experienced punter since Johnny Douglas suffered a broken leg in the Rollins game, found that Mike Cocoran, junior halfback from Savannah, could turn in a hardy performance and that anticipated improvement from now on will reduce the expected yardage deficits in this department.

Miami, out to wipe out the memory of the Drake and Catholic setbacks, will have an additional goal in this game for on the only previous occasion when the teams met, Duquesne won 33-7, New Years Day, 1934.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THIS WOULD PREVENT MOST CRIMES: Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Prov. 22:6

These are circus days in Florida

We see where the PWA recently approved a $1,000,000 hospital in Georgia.

Unfortunately not everyone who seems to believe in beautification keeps his own front lawn mowed.

A man may be said to be getting old when the football season is over before he realized it had begun.

In Germany, when you get thrown in jail by a gang of ruffians, because a mob had burned your home, they call it protective custody.

There seems to be about as much chance for peace among the labor factions as there is for the farmers to agree upon an agricultural program.

We see where some judge has refused to marry a man and woman because he didn't have a job and no visible means of support. Evidently the judge figured living off love alone is a lot of bunk.

One of the best special editions we have seen this year is that of the Charlotte News published in Charlotte, N. C. on its fiftieth anniversary. Containing 172 pages, the Golden Jubilee number of the Charlotte News is an edition of which any editor could be proud.

Outstanding among the newer attractions in Florida are the Marine Gardens near St. Augustine. Here are collected in surprisingly large and efficiently arranged tanks some of the largest, some of the rarest, and some of the funniest-looking fish to be found in Florida waters.

A warning by Orlando banks to Orlando merchants to look out for bad check artists should be a warning to us to look out for them here. Most of these rackets sooner or later are given a good workout in Sanford, but they can be stopped without serious damage if business men use their heads.

Relations between the United States and Germany are coming to such a pass that if it weren't for the Atlantic ocean and the difficulty of flying across it with a plane load of bombs, we would soon be in the same predicament England was shortly before Chamberlain's Anschluss under to Hitler's English. And we would probably have to knuckle too just as Chamberlain did because we are better prepared to fight a war in the air than England was.

We see where one of our reporters innocently removed from office County Judge B. W. Ware and transferred from the office of County Attorney to the office of County Judge E. F. Household, who several years ago was County Judge but who in recent years has been County Attorney.

The Measure Of Success

The other day a young man dropped into our office who seemed to be feeling unusually blue about business conditions. He had come here about ten years ago, invested his money in what seemed a good business opportunity, had spent the best years of his life trying to make a success of it, and now after all his struggles against competition, hard times, and adversity finds himself not one whit better off than in the beginning.

He pointed out to us that in all these years he has not been able to save a single dollar. He had hoped to buy a home when he came here. He had never wanted to be rich, but he had hoped to be able to save enough to send his children to college, to give them a few simple advantages of travel and education to which he believed they were entitled. He had also believed that he could lay by enough out of his earnings so that in his later years when ill health or old age came his way, he would not be dependent upon friends or relatives.

But after all these years of hard work, he has saved nothing. He has lived frugally as almost everyone has during these years. He has never taken a vacation, gambled, or spent money foolishly. He has saved a little money from time to time, but there have been doctors' bills, a new car to buy every two or three years, unexpected expenses like the time the garage burned down. And then too his taxes have increased ten-fold since he first went into business.

And so at the end of ten years, with the most productive period of his life now behind him, he finds himself exactly where he started, not exactly broke, of course, still with the same business with which he started out, still earning a bare existence for himself and his family, but getting nowhere, unable to save anything, facing an uncertain future without reserves for the education of his children, ill health, or old age.

But as he told us this story, he began to mention friends of his who were in the same fix. Nobody seemed to know had done any better. And he began to recall the names of certain other people who had been in business when he first came here. How times have changed! How the mighty have fallen! One after another he named them, the men who had been at the top in the various lines of business ten or fifteen years ago.

"Remember, so and so," he said, "He was running the biggest grocery store in town then. And then there was so and so. He had the finest men's furnishings store in this part of the state. What has become of them? Their businesses failed. They left town, gone, nobody knows where. And the big real estate magnate? The banker? The insurance man? Where are they? The 'big shots' of the 1920s? Folded up. Gone."

And so our friend began to think he was not so bad off after all. He hadn't struck it rich during these past ten years. He hadn't made much headway at all. But he had managed to hold his own against a tide which was sweeping others out to sea. He had stuck it out. He had kept up the good fight. He was ready to carry on as long as there was anything left to carry. After ten long years of work and worry he was still on the job at the same old stand.

It does make you feel a little better, doesn't it, if you are still in business.

State Expenses

Pointing out that Florida is now a $60,000,000 State, the Tampa Tribune declares that when our State expenses passed the $50,000,000 mark, we thought we were going some. But "we've gone far beyond that," the Tribune adds, revealing that Comptroller Lee's report shows the State's "business" for the past year was $59,449,346 as compared with $48,655,727 for the preceding year.

Indicating how rapidly our government costs and tax burdens are increasing, the Tribune goes on to say that "the increase consisted largely of payments of old age assistance, which called for nearly $4,000,000, and the establishment of a trust fund for future payments of unemployment compensation of more than $5,000,000. All of this comes under the general heading of pensions, which means that newly-devised pension plans cost the state, that is, the people of the state, nearly $10,000,000 the last fiscal year.

"Regular disbursements," which represent the cost of state government aside from pension funds, amounted to $48,000,000 for the year—and there was a net deficit of $1,217,585. So the state, despite its mounting expenditures, went 'in the red' more than a million dollars in one year. And the state received more than $6,000,000 in federal grants and donations from governmental agencies.

"The increases in 'regular disbursements' are chargeable to the public schools, the county road bonds and the Road Department, these three funds calling for $1,300,000 more than the year before. Reductions were made in the costs of the courts, the executive departments, charities, hospitals, prisons and public buildings.

"A $60,000,000 state government sounds big, but it has a rather ominous sound to the taxpayer. One of the problems of the 1939 Legislature will be to get the state's expenses within its income, which will be possible only through drastic cuts in state expenses. And that's so hard to do, and brings on such strong objections from those whose pay and perquisites are affected by rigid economy, that the Legislature probably will only make a try at it and finally do nothing about it."

WOULD ANYBODY HAVE ANY OBJECTIONS?

WHAT IT MEANS

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Now that election day is out of the way, three roads lie ahead to 1940:

- 1. The pro-Roosevelt Road.
2. The lukewarm Roosevelt Road.
3. The anti-Roosevelt Road.

Dozens of vote hunters have shot both barrels, either for or against the New Deal, and thus committed themselves for their terms in office. Dozens more have held their fire, and yielded themselves to, examine every legislative clay pigeon with independent eye.

At the same time the President himself has given the country his own definition of liberal and conservatives and announced his pat on the back for liberals of his stripe, in whatever party they might be found. Likewise, Republican chieftains have stepped across party lines in the search for likely candidates, and sought votes.

They have all conspired to make the public general and Congressmen are travelling. No final, positive answer is possible. The time-honored way is to watch how a man votes. On many issues coming before the 76th Congress, however, it is possible to dodge a stand for or against the President.

On relief, for instance, a Roosevelt supporter could explain a vote against the Roosevelt system by declaring relief on its present scale a wasteful, bankrupting process. On the other hand, a Congressional enemy of the President could support the Roosevelt system and claim human needs outweigh mere money matters. The same political puzzle pattern applies to other big issues, like national defense, increased taxes, farm relief.

One issue stands out as a clear-cut scragging ground: the labor issue. Amendments already have been proposed to the now famous Wagner labor act. That's the law that guarantees collective bargaining to the nation's workers.

The Wagner act is not cluttered up with taxes and high-voltage arguments. Moreover, the President is known in high administration circles to oppose any substantial amendment to that law.

But political experts, by and large recognize the law as a broad index, by which the temper of a Congressman and his constituents may be labeled.

How can you use that index to show where your Congressman stands? Here are pointers:

If your law-maker is Pro-Roosevelt—

He believes an attack on the Wagner act is an attack on fair play; that a majority of the nation's workers will have to be organized before they can sit down across the table from employers and bargain with them on even terms. Until then, he tells you, only minor charges may be made in the Wagner law.

If your Congressman is lukewarm Roosevelt—

He thinks the Wagner act is all right in principle, but he would amend it to make the labor board more of a referee and less of a champion of unorganized workers.

If your Congressman is anti-Roosevelt—

He hails the Roosevelt labor reforms as desirable but impractical and premature and would amend the law to increase the financial responsibility of labor unions. He wants them to pay for industrial sabotage and damage as a result of unfair strikes.

He argues that capitalism and democracy are synonymous and will stand or fall together. Any other approach, he believes, with the right of the best man to get ahead. He wants to be sure that labor unions do not get the upper hand in bargaining.

There's the picture. And it's a pretty good bet that as the labor tide goes in the next two years, so goes the nation in 1940.

Benefits Will Begin Jan. 1 For Unemployed

Florida will pay benefits to eligible unemployed workers starting January 1. This became an assured fact today with an announcement by Wendell C. Heaton, chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission and Harold C. Wall, Acting Director of the State Employment Service of the opening of 23 State employment offices throughout the State.

The State Unemployment Compensation Law was created by the 1937 legislature and imposed a tax of 1.5% for 1937, and 2.7% for 1938 and each year thereafter from employers of eight or more workers in all industries except those specifically exempted under the law. The Unemployment Compensation Division was created under this law and charged with the collection of these contributions. The State-wide Employment Service was also authorized at this session of the legislature and is the designated agency for the payment of benefits to qualified claimants.

The first contributions were paid in October 1937 and to date the Division has collected nearly ten million dollars. This money is on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States and can be used only for paying benefits to eligible Florida workers.

Immediate functioning of the State-wide Employment Service after a lapse of 18 months following a controversy between Governor Clegg and the Social Security Board over appointment of a State Director for the Service, was announced today.

King Carol's London Visit Is More Than Social Call

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN LONDON, Nov. 18.—King Carol's visit to London beginning November 15 will be more than just a social call on his English cousin, King George.

Rumania is on the spot—squarely in the path of Adolf Hitler's economic and perhaps political drive to the southeast. As an out, Rumania's playboy-turned-dictator, they say, has chosen the hazardous task of trying to carry water on both shoulders without getting wet.

Tall, mouselike Carol greatly fears domination by authoritarian Germany. Yet he may feel that increased trade with Germany is essential to achieve his dearest desire of leading his country to prosperity.

How can he eat with, without being eaten by, the Nazi dragon? Perhaps it will be by dining in the comforting shadow of a British St. George.

A Gesture Toward Britain So he wants to increase trade with Great Britain, too. The material benefits of the British market would be important but more important compared to the Hitler insurance he hopes to gain.

Up to now little has been done in Britain outside of developing a new Anglo-Rumanian clearing agreement and negotiating for purchase of 400,000 tons of Rumanian grain.

But Carol is thought to want more than trade agreements—to strike a loan of around $100,000,000 to buy guns and machines.

Germany, with an eye on Carol's oil-laden oil of modern warfare—already has offered, it is said, to supply his industrial requirements on generous terms. But Carol supposedly fears this might be a step into the Nazi drag net.

On the London visit, say some dispesters, may well hinge the success or failure of plans for the 16-year-old monarch may have to hold out against Germany.

But others tell you Carol, until recent years better known for his interest in affairs of the play than of state, would be playing a dangerous game in the southeast against the German giant.

"Austria is annexed," they remind you. "Czechoslovakia has surrendered. The little empire of Rumania is virtually dead. Rumania's good friend Poland is marching in the German camp. Rumania's arch-enemy, Hungary, is marching there, too, greatly strengthened by recent events. Rumania herself is as vulnerable on the minorities issue as was Czechoslovakia."

So far as family goes, Carol might be either an Angliophile or Germanophile. He is a descendant on his mother's side of England's Queen Victoria and on his father's side of Germany's Hohenzollerns.

He is generally believed, however, to share the English leaning of his late mother, wise Queen Marie, who is credited with having influenced the Rumanian jump to the allied side in the last war.

If Carol were a grudge bearer there would be reason to question his sympathies for Britain. The British government expelled him 10 years ago when he came here on a visit with Margda Lupescu, the red-headed Jewess for whom he went into exile.

He's Settled Down But blue-eyed, sandy-haired Carol's attitude has given little cause for reproach since he grew tired of sowing wild oats, dashed back to Bucharest eight years ago and settled down to be a serious king.

True, he gave Fascism a fling early this year but called it off—partly, informed circles declare, at the request of Britain and France.

Since Hitler covets Czechoslovakia, Carol has bent his efforts toward speedy rearmament of Rumania while his inspired press shouts: "Bullets more important than bread."

Carol was reported ready to fight for either Austria or Czechoslovakia if France had been.

Now some observers believe Carol is lobbying for the formation of a "Baltic-Aegean axis" of Rumania, Poland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece which would act as a politico-economic buffer against both German expansion to the east and Russian expansion to the west.

He is showing his true feelings, they say, by ostentatiously visiting Britain instead of knocking down to Germany.

But others say that no matter how he may feel he is too shrewd to try to make Rumania a Balkan bulwark against Hitler.

The affair was knotted 7 to 7 until the deciding rally and with three minutes remaining to play in the final quarter. Back Ferguson threw a short pass to Charlie Leavitt on the 41 yard line and Leavitt, red hot and before being brought down on the four yard line.

The game was then won by a punting play when Captain Art Williams drove over left tackle for four yards and the touchdown for a touchdown and the Mulletts kicked off to Sanford at the opening of the contest and Wilkinson returned the ball from his 26 to the 38 yard line. The Feds raked up a first down but a penalty and a pass red flag forced them to kick. The ball went into the end zone and was brought out to the 30 yard line and from there the Mulletts fireworks began.

Charles Barrett, Earl Hunt, Billy Hoche and Howell Palmer four new looks for the Mulletts carried the ball over, sent it all tackle and around the end to a march of 80 yards and Hunt plunged over from the three yard line for the first score of the game.

Sanford Theater News for the Coming Week

SO WISE and tender one instant and so full of mischief the next—it's a pranksy Shirley Temple in "Just Around the Corner," a great big beaming picture that turns the sunshine on. The 20th Century-Fox film opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre.

"Service De Luxe" Will Be Shown At Ritz On Thursday

Fast farce comedy, starring Constance Bennett, is promised in Universal's "Service De Luxe," scheduled to open at the Ritz Theatre Thursday.

Of note also will be the initial screen appearance of Vincent Price, New York stage star who is the latest to join the ranks of Hollywood leading men. Price established himself firmly in Broadway theatrical circles by his excellent performance in the role of Prince Albert opposite Helen Hayes during the two-year run of Miss Hayes' play, "Victoria Regina," in New York.

With the two principals will be seen a cast which includes Charles Ruggles, Mischa Auer, Helen Rodgerick and Joy Hodges in the chief supporting roles.

"Service De Luxe" deals with an exclusive personal service bureau which undertakes almost any assignment from its clients. When Price comes to New York to sell his patent tractor, Miss Bennett undertakes his management, with extremely laughable and complicated situations as the result.

The Unknown Deeds Of Heroic Navy Men Now To Be Revealed

The never-told before drama of the heroic "Splinter Fleet" chronicles John Ford's Award-winning career in "Submarine Patrol," the film Darryl F. Zanuck produced for 20th Century-Fox and which opens for a day at the Ritz Theatre, to be hailed as one of the greatest pictures of the year.

The sub chasers are a branch of the Navy that have received comparatively little notice and yet saw some of the most exciting action of the Great War. Manned by the strangest crews of civilian odds and ends, they board a fighting ship, the "Splinter Fleet" provides a powerful, dramatic theme worthy of Director Ford's robust, forthright technique.

"Submarine Patrol" is one of the Movie Quiz $250,000 contest pictures.

Dan Fitch's Jitterbug Revue Will Bring To Sanford The Sensational Country-Sweeping New Dance Craze

Dan Fitch is bringing to Sanford the entire revue Jitterbug, will be used as the theme for the entire revue.

Along with the dancing, the show will be spiced by brilliant humor and music that will have your feet tapping.

You really can't afford to miss this grand opportunity to enjoy yourself next Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Edith Fellows, in "The Little Adventurers" in the new Columbia film at the Ritz Theatre, professes Cliff Edwards' arms in the arms of the law in this scene from the picture, which has been hailed as her "best to date."

A Glenda Farrell We All Know And Love In "Exposed"

Candid camera system "Exposed!"

The Universal picture of that title, playing at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday with Glenda Farrell and Otto Kruger featured, brings to the screen for the first time a story based on the activities of the candid camera magazines that have recently assumed an important place in the journalistic field.

How the staff photographers of these publications obtain "scops" of major news events and human interest stories is portrayed in "Exposed," which presents Miss Farrell as a candid camera girl.

Both sides of the situation are shown as the film tells how sensational news is reported pictorially through the medium of the candid camera.

The camera girl's photos of a former prosecuting attorney who is down and out, alienate him from her friendship. The pictures, though, return him to public life as an important figure in breaking up a racketeering gang.

E. Fellows A "Little Adventurers" In Her Latest Screen Role

With the theatre and race tracks as its colorful backgrounds, Edith Fellows' newest Columbia vehicle, "The Little Adventurers," opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. Cliff Edwards, banjo-strumming comedian, is the child's star funmate in the new film, which is packed with entertainment, thrills, and excitement.

"The Little Adventurers" describes the efforts of a young orphan who, upon inheriting a trick horse, attempts to make an asset of the animal. She finally turns him into a racing horse, and thus initiates a series of scenes unexcelled for their thrill-thundering effects.

These sequences were filmed at the world-famous Santa Anita race-track, with many famous horses and jockeys taking part. "Fiddly" and "Human Backstage" episodes were also filmed.

"The Citadel," based on the novel by A. J. Cronin, which has been acclaimed by millions of readers in every part of the world comes to the Ritz screen starting Thursday with Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell playing the roles of the heroic young doctor and his schoolmistress wife.

"Swing That Cheer" Will Let You Throw Your Troubles Away

One of the first realizations of life at a typical American college, in which youthful romance is interwoven with all the thrills of the football season, Universal's college picture, "Swing That Cheer," Tuesday at the Ritz.

Written, directed and played mainly by young people, many of them former undergraduates themselves, the film presents an authentic picture of college life without resorting to the conventional.

The story begins with the almost typical situation of a viceroy, a coach whose job is endangered after three losing seasons for "Carlton College." He must win all his games, despite a threatened loss of team morale when two football stars carry their private grudge onto the gridiron.

High point is the rivalry of these two players, one a well-heeled star ball-carrier who attracts All-American rating on the strength of his teammate's blocking ability.

Alpaca garments are made from the wool of the alpaca, a partly domesticated South American hoofed mammal of the family as the camel.

"SWING THAT CHEER" brings the man with the gravel in his throat Andy Devine, to the Ritz Theatre Tuesday.

The food required for a family of four for 22 years would be worth $12,000, according to one home economist.

Have Your Heart Go Faster As You Help A Mysterious Rider

Gallantry rides the range in "The Mysterious Rider," Paramount's stirring drama of war, devotion and revenge in the Old West, which delighted local outdoor action fans as it opens Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

Written by Zane Grey and produced by Harry Sherman, "The Mysterious Rider" is without doubt the best thing either of those masters of range drama has yet turned out. It packs plenty of action, thrills and love as it tells its story of an innocent outlaw who returns from his exile in the desert to save his daughter from disaster and bring to justice the murderer of his friend.

Douglas Dumbrille, in a role exactly suited to his talents, is the central figure as the fearless horseman who "returns from the dead" to take a job at his daughter's ranch when he hears she is about to be robbed by a crooked guardian in secret league with a gang of rustlers. Without revealing his identity to any one, he devotes his efforts to ferreting out the guilty parties and preparing a trap for them.

Amazon Of Russia Air Force Given Soviet Distinction

By WADE WERNER
MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(AP)—For weeks Soviet Russia has been throwing its collective hat into the air for Valentina Stepanovna Grizodubova, 28, first woman Amazon of the civil air force.

She was commander of the airplane Iolima which, with an all-woman crew, flew nonstop from Moscow to the Far East, an air distance of 3,717 miles.

Valentina and her companions, Captain Polina Ouspenko and First Lieutenant Marina Raskova, took off just as the western European powers seemed about to plunge into war. But their flight was the big news of the week in Russia, especially after communication with the plane suddenly ceased and the nation for eight days was in doubt as to its fate.

A Triumph
It finally developed the women had landed unharmed in a swamp near Komsomolsk. Their return to Moscow was a triumph.

Not only had they demonstrated again the capacity of Soviet flyers; their flight was a spectacular illustration of the status of woman in the Soviet Union. All three were "daughters of the people" such as never could have hoped to participate in an important venture under the Czars. Ouspenko came from a collective farm. Raskova is a musician's daughter.

As for Grizodubova, one might almost say an airplane was her cradle. Her father, Stepan Grizodubov, was an airplane builder in the days when men who built flying-machines led a precarious financial existence. Her mother kept the wolf from the door by working as a dressmaker.

In Gorky Squadron
In 1928 she entered a school for pilots; she was 18 when she received her license. Soon she was first among pilots of the Ossavimchik (the voluntary organization for air and chemical defense). She trained 86 pilots then was assigned to the Gorky propaganda squadron.

She has established women's records for altitude, speed and distance, usually in light sport planes.

Between flights, she married an army flyer, Captain Victor Sokoloff. Between flights she became a mother. Her two-year-old son, Valery, is nicknamed "Little Hawk."

OUT OUR WAY

The non-stop flight to the Far East doubtless was Grizodubova's greatest. She put Soviet women in the world spotlight.

Behind such opportunities for women is, of course, Joseph V. Stalin. That women flyers do not forget this was shown in the message sent by Grizodubova and her companions to Stalin after their flight:

"With your name in our hearts we, the daughters of the great socialist homeland, flew non-stop through clouds, fog, cold and darkness, even to the banks of the Amur."

Florida's sugar production will be curtailed 25 percent and one fourth of the present cane crop will have to be plowed up, necessitating the dismissal of approximately 25 percent of the employees due to the reduction in acreage ordered by the Department of Agriculture. Independent growers planning to increase their acreage and build a cooperative sugar house are discouraged by these further restrictions.

Nazis Oppose Plan To Re-settle Jews In Former Colonies

Germany Interprets Move As Effort To Prevent Return Of War-Lost Territory

Concessions Are Made To Semitics

France And Britain To Discuss Military Co-Operation

Little Likelihood Of Allotment For Hospital Is Seen

Election Will Be Valid If New Appropriation Is Made

An announcement by British Prime Minister Chamberlain today of plans to re-settle German Jews in British Guiana and in Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, fell like a bombshell in Berlin today.

The Nazi press for days has been warning that any such attempt would meet with the sharpest protest.

Many Germans interpret the plans to settle German Jews in their former colonies as a ploy to prevent the return of war-lost possessions to Germany.

Chamberlain said the resettlement project envisaged the leasing of at least 10,000 square miles of British Guiana for homes for Jews seeking refuge abroad from the anti-Jewish drive in Germany.

Tanganyika is held at present by Britain under a League of Nations mandate. Chamberlain asserted last week his government was not considering its return to Germany to satisfy the colonial demands of Adolf Hitler.

The first signs of a let-down appeared today in the German anti-Jewish drive while indications arose that all would not be harmonious when British Prime Minister Chamberlain visits Paris this week.

"Concessions" to German Jews included permission for the resumption of some cultural activities and it was said authoritatively, for some Jews to continue their export business. Arrests were discontinued at least temporarily.

The issue between France and Great Britain concerned military co-operation in the event of war in Europe. Indications that Britain would refuse to train a large army to aid French troops on the continent seemed likely to lessen the cordiality of the forthcoming discussions in Paris which will deal chiefly with defense against the possibility of attack by the Fascist partners, Germany and Italy.

A foreign office spokesman in Tokyo indicated Japan might make a new statement concerning what she declares is the new situation in Asia which makes "inapplicable" the ideas and principles of the past and which "do not like the terms of the 'open door and equal opportunity.'" He said that principle was applied.
