Farmers Market to open

LONGWOOD — October 2 will be the grand opening of a Farmers Market next to Longwood City Hall. Vendors are signing up now for space in the market scheduled for Saturday mornings in the downtown historic district, according to planning director Dick Wells. Wells said he hopes a "preview" of the market will set up Sept. 25 as local merchants take part in a street festival featuring tours of city hall and possibly the Bradley-McIntire House, music and antique cars.

When the market is launched, it will operate Saturdays between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. except during organized annual events, such as the late November Arts and Crafts Festival.

Quality of water

SANFORD — "I'm not one to promote a TV show," said Sanford Program Coordinator Bill Marcous, "but when one comes along which I believe is highly important to people of Sanford and vicinity, I want everyone to know about it."

The program will be presented on Channel 24, WMFE, Monday from 8:55 until 9:05 p.m. It deals with the quality of drinking water, a subject that has drawn considerable concern recently from city and county officials.

Sponsored by the Mid-Florida Water Utility Council, the program addresses new federal guidelines on lead and copper, why it is necessary to sample water, and how to sample effectively if asked to participate in the local water utility's effort to improve water quality.

"This isn't a show which will deal specifically with Sanford," Marcous said, "but the situation of water quality is a local concern, and the information which this program will provide is extremely valuable."

Tolls: Put your two cents in SANFORD — The Office of Florida's Turnpike will hold a public hearing Wednesday to take public comment on tolls for the Seminole County Expressway.

The Seminole County Expressway Authority, designers of the 12-mile road, set rates in 1990 from 25 cents to $1.50 for the entire 12-mile trip. Those rates were used to justify the financial feasibility of the tollroad to the state later that year.

But now, as a state project, the tolls must be adopted by the state, said Gayle Geddes, expressway construction spokesman. The tollroad south of State Road 434 is now expected to be open to motorists by the end of 1993. The Lake Jesup bridge and the section extending to Sanford may not open until October 1994, a year behind schedule.

The hearing will be held in the County Commission Chambers at the County Services Building, 1101 E. First St. in Sanford. An informal discussion begins at 6:30 p.m. and the formal hearing begins at 7 p.m.

Correction

Due to a reporter's error, the amount of Seminole County's Community Development Block Grant contingency fund was incorrect in Thursday's edition of the Sanford Herald. The correct amount is $182,059, meaning a $75,000 request from the GoldenRule Housing and Community Development Corp. would leave $107,059. GoldenRule director Amefika Geuka said the request was for a drawdown as needed, not a direct appropriation.

Marijuana drive-in?

Cops set up shop, sting, in yard of Sanford house

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Agents of the City-County Investigative Bureau served a search warrant on a suspected drug house in Sanford Friday night and ended up running a drive-in marijuana sting operation, arresting eight adults and four juveniles on drug related charges.

CCIB agents served a search warrant at 7449 N. County Road 427, Sanford where undercover agents said they had previously purchased marijuana. The house was occupied by Joseph and Tanya Ruvolo. Ruvolo, 51, was charged with possession with intent to distribute after CCIB agents reported finding 16 individual packages of marijuana and a large zip-type plastic bag containing about one-half pound of marijuana in the bedroom. Mrs. Ruvolo was issued a notice to appear on possession of less than 20 grams of the drug.

While the search warrant was being executed inside the house, two undercover agents outside in the yard said people began stopping by the house inquiring about buying marijuana.

"They told the people Ruvolo was busy."

4th graders struggle to write

Sanford schools below poor Florida average

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Parents and educators have been complaining for over a year that students, especially those in the Sanford elementary schools, are not being given the necessary skills in writing and reading to prepare them to move on to middle schools and, ultimately to high school.

Some recently released figures may support those claims.

Seminole County fourth graders

each year are required to take the Florida Writing Assessment Test to determine what skills they have acquired in writing and to show where assistance may be needed.

Students in Sanford scored considerably below the state average while students in Lake Mary and other parts of the county scored above that mark.

"We need to put more emphasis on the writing and reading skills of all of our students," said school board member Larry Strickler.

State, county rehash fate of soccer training facility

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Florida Park Service has granted a "stay of execution" for Seminole County's deal with the U.S. Soccer Federation to use the $2.8 million training facility at Lake Sylvan Park, but World Cup and USSF teams still won't have first-choice to use the facilities built for them.

Last week, FPS rescinded their Aug. 26 order forcing the county to cancel their Sept.

24, 1992 contract with USSF and World Cup Soccer USA granting them conditional exclusive use of the soccer training facility built with tourist taxes. The contract granted USSF rent-free use of office space in the 15,000-square-foot facility for 10 year on an "as-needed" basis. The agreement also granted USSF and World Cup fulltime use of two soccer fields and four others when needed.

FPS and the National Park Service found the soccer contract violated the terms of the November 7 is a busy, busy, day in Sanford

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — The area around the Sanford Civic Center will be an extremely busy place on Nov. 7.

If all plans solidify, four events will be in progress near the same location.

Nov. 7 at 1 p.m. is the official opening ceremony for the Golden Age Games, a week-long event that attracted over 2,400 participants last year. The event will be held in the front half of the Sanford Civic Center.

Earlier that same day outside the Civic Center, toward the lakefront, the traditional lighting of the torch will take place.

Nov. 7 will also be the second day of the International Powerboat Super League World Cup Finals, a large scale boat racing event to be headquartered at the Holiday Inn on the Monroe Harbour Marina, just offshore from the Civic Center. The racing event has not been confirmed at the present time, and will require a special event permit to be approved by the city as well as other arrangements to be finalized.

Nov. 7 will see the Senior Expo. In the back half of the Sanford Civic Center. This program will present a number of booths and tables with exhibitors presenting items, tests, or information for seniors who will be attending the Golden Age Games either as participants or guests, in addition to local seniors.

Nov. 7 is the date for the Crafts Bazaar, sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, in the parking lot between the chamber building and the Sanford Civic Center.

Memorable letter from esteemed law professor

Morning folks! This morning I have information that might stir memories among you old and mid timers who remember the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Park Sr. He practiced medicine here for many years. At the same time they raised three sons in an ideal family situation despite his profession. In fact, in 1984, Geneva Park was the Herald's "Mother of the Year."

If you were a regular reader of this column you'll recall Dr. Park was one of the featured individuals in our Douglas Jobe story the Herald published last Palm and Easter Sundays. Much of what you'll read this morning will be excerpts from a letter written to Mrs. Mona Mills Walker by one of the Park sons, Robert (better known to his friends as Bob).

Robert was a member of the Seminole High graduating class of 1948. It held its 45th reunion this year. Bob could not be here so Mona sent him clippings about the reunion, a class directory, newspaper stories about Sanford from the Herald and our column about his dad.

Mona is "famous" in these parts for keeping up with members of the 1948 class and keeping them informed of events down through the years that have helped maintain friendships. Too, she has generated many memories of Seminole High and to those who were members of the First Baptist Church.

Mona, by the way, is one of three children of Ben F. and Grace Mills. He was a barber in Sanford for quite a few years before his death in 1984. You might be surprised to know, as I was, that Mona's mother is still living. She's 87. For the past four years she has resided at the Deltona Health Care Center. The Mills had two sons. Both have passed away. They were Benny and Frank.

Visitors call about carrying guns

TALLAHASSEE — The shooting deaths of two foreign tourists within a week prompted dozens of calls from gun owners who want to carry handguns while visiting Florida. The state attorney general's office fielded 36 calls about gun laws last week, some from as far as California, New York and Colorado.

"Most of the callers seem to be just honest people who say, 'I don't want to come and shoot anyone. I just want to protect my family,'" Assistant Attorney General Amy Beisner said Friday. Florida law allows people to carry weapons into the state only if they are "securely encased" in a glove compartment, zippered case or other container.

county's 1975 and 1981 federal grants which enabled them to purchase and develop the 120 acres for the park. The finding came after the county sought to "clarify" the contract in March, still granting USSF first choice to use offices and the two fields.

Following a Sept. 3 meeting among FPS and county officials, Don Gertelsen, FPS chief of the Bureau of Local Recreation Services, rescinded the order and granted the county until Oct. 29 to meet with NPS officials to resolve the matter. County commissioners directed County Attorney Bob McMillan to appeal the order, either through administrative channels or in court. Until then, Gertelsen wrote the county cannot grant USSF any special privileges to use the facilities not afforded any member of the general public.

"We're not backing off at this time," said Gertelsen. "We're allowing the county time to come in and discuss the situation. We want to avoid litigation."

County Manager Ron Rabun said he was glad the state granted the county time to resolve the situation.

"They have given themselves and ourselves time to talk more," said Rabun. "Our point was, 'Wait a minute, let's talk more' and they have given us that."

Virginia. She is a history preservation architect with a group based there.

Bob wrote Mona to thank her for all the clippings she sent to him, including our two-part Douglas Jobe story. "The pictures of the old Seminole High in the directory brought back memories of good times and a lot of great people. And for me, since I'm away from Sanford and the First Baptist Church and all the people I knew there before World War II and afterward in high school, I enjoyed it all very much."

"The two columns by Julian Stenstrom were very touching," he said. "They brought back some awfully good memories of Dr. (W.P.) Brooks and of my wonderful Dad. They were very close. When Dad died and my brother, Charles, called Dr. Brooks on the phone, there was a long pause, and then Dr. Brooks said, 'He was the best friend I ever had. And, then he began to break up. He couldn't say anything more, and hung up the phone.'"

"As Julian suggested, Dad and Dr. Brooks were cousins. The 'P' in Dr. Brooks' initials was for 'Park,' and my younger brother, Bill, was named William after Dr. Brooks. Both of them were from Georgia and they even looked somewhat alike — particularly the big ears all the Park men seem to have. Those years seem very far away, now, and sweet and gentle — the way we once felt when a summer day was ending at twilight beside Lake Minnie or on Sunday nights outside the church with the evening service hymns being heard through the open windows. How long ago that was."

Today, Robert's older brother, Charles Jr., is a retired physician.

He and his family reside in the Upsala area. The youngest of the three sons, William, lives with his family in Altamonte Springs. He is an author of several children's books, an illustrator, and a syndicated cartoonist. His studio is located in Winter Park. His career really began in 1959 in New York City. His life thus far is really worth an entire column of its own which we'll do one of these Sundays. I must add that some of Bob's cartoons have appeared in the New Yorker magazine.

Let me say this about these three brothers and their parents: No sons ever had a finer mother and dad than the Park boys. And no parents have even had three finer sons than Charles and Geneva Park. The three boys were very proud of their parents and the parents were very proud of their three sons.

In fact, all of us old timers who knew them were proud of all the members of the Park family.

The lives of the sons are a tribute to their parents and the lives of their parents are a tribute to the boys. The sons were taught right from wrong, to respect law and order, to love God and country, and their fellow man.

I can't recall a more highly respected family in the long history of our beloved Sanford.

So, we thank Mona for passing along to us the memorable letter from the Georgetown law professor. My old friend Buddy Lake, now 80 and a former altar boy at All Souls Church in Sanford, and I were talking about the Park family at lunch one day. Lake observed: "The Park boys must have learned some good lessons from their parents. Here's a Southern Baptist teaching law at a Catholic university."

Explaining advance disposal fee

By SHERRY NEWKIRK
Special to the Herald

Beginning Oct. 1, 1993, an advance disposal fee of one cent will be collected for every container sold or distributed to retailers in the state of Florida.

The advance disposal fee will also be charged on sales to the state, counties, municipalities, religious, charitable, educational, or any other nonprofit group which might be exempt from state sales tax.

The ADF fee will apply to all containers that have not achieved a 50 percent recycling rate within the state of Florida. This includes mechanically or heat sealed plastic, glass and paper containers, holding from 5 fluid ounces to one gallon.

Beverage containers, jars, bottles, jugs and beverage containers composed of more than one material, such as waxed-paper milk and beverage cartons, will be subject to the ADF. A six-pack of containers is subject to 6 cents, a 12-pack is subject to 12 cents, and a carton of 24 containers is subject to 24 cents.

Exempt from the advance disposal fee are tubs, cups, blister packs, flexible bags and tubes made of any material.

Aluminum and steel containers are also exempt from the one penny advance disposal fee because more than 50 percent are already being recycled.

Also exempt are containers for medical devices, drugs, medicine, or other medical items as determined by the Department of Environmental Protection.

The original goal of the advance disposal fee, as passed by the Legislature in 1988, was to help increase recycling. But recent changes made by the state should also help develop markets for recyclables. Manufacturers who produce containers with recycled material may opt out of the ADF program prior to reaching a 50 percent recycling goal.

After July 1, 1994 other container materials may also opt out of the ADF program if:

- Glass containers reach a 35 percent recycled content or recovery rate by July 1, 1994, and 50 percent by January 1, 1998.

- Plastic containers reach a 25 percent recycled content or recovery rate by July 1, 1994.

- Paper containers reach a 30 percent recycled content by July 1, 1994, and 40 percent by

Sherry Newkirk

January 1, 1997; or a 30 percent recovery rate by July 1, 1994, 40 percent by July 1, 1995, and 50 percent by January 1, 2002.

Encouraging manufacturers to use recycled material to produce new containers should help sustain markets for recyclables collected in local curbside recycling programs.

According to the Department of Revenue, the state estimates that approximately $23 million will be collected the first year of the ADF program. The revenue will be shared:

- 30 percent supplemental recycling grants to counties
- 12 percent to help improve recycling markets
- 19 percent to the surface water improvement trust
- 27 percent to the Sewage Treatment Revolving Loan Fund
- 12 percent to the Small Community Sewer Construction Assistance Trust Fund

Businesses may request more information about the advance disposal fee from:

- The Department of Revenue, 1-800-352-3671
- Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation, (904) 487-4865
- Florida Department of Environmental Protection, (904) 922-6104

On January 1, 1995 the advance disposal fee will increase to two cents for containers that did not meet the recycled content or recovery rate set by the state of Florida.

Default settlement clears house title

Lien against home of teacher accused of molesting students

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The default settlement of a court case last week will clear the title of the Lake Mary house owned by former Lakeview Middle School band director Stephen Paterson.

The partial settlement of the civil suit Paterson filed will remove a lien on his house so it can be sold. The lien was filed against the property by the father of one of the boys Paterson is accused of molesting. Four male former band students have alleged the band director molested them. The teacher has pleaded not guilty to all the charges and trial preparations are underway.

Suspended without pay after his February arrest on the sex-related charges, Paterson resigned his teaching job in early summer. The Seminole County School Board was preparing to fire him.

A few weeks after he was suspended, Paterson put his house up for sale. He did not discover the lien against his property until a title search was done in preparation for a sale. The title lien was filed after "David Doe" on behalf of himself and his son, filed a federal lawsuit against the teacher. The federal suit was closed a few weeks ago when Doe did not comply with court instructions.

The State Department of Education informed Paterson they plan to suspend or revoke his teaching licence after an investigation. Paterson was on probation from a prior incident when he was charged with the criminal counts. He has requested a formal hearing to defend his teaching license. Although a hearing officer has been named, a date for the hearing has not been set, according to a spokesman in Tallahassee.

The defendant in the slander of title suit did not respond in the case so a judgment in favor of Paterson was ordered by Judge Robert B. McCregor.

Paterson's attorney in the civil case, Larry Hanks said a hearing will be held later to determine the damages to be awarded to his client. Paterson originally sought to recover $95,000 and costs after the lien prompted a prospective buyer to withdraw from buying the house.

A final goodbye

Friends and family of Seminole County Commissioner Bob Stum said their final goodbyes to him Friday during funeral services at St. Augustine Catholic Church in Casselberry. Stum died Tuesday. Former county commissioner and long-time friend of Stum's, Fred Streetman, center, leads the pallbearers away from the hearse that took the politico to his final resting place.

Attempted murder

Longwood police arrested Janice M. Jacques, 27, 817 Longdale Drive in Longwood on Thursday. A police officer responding to a 9-1-1 call, arrived at the residence and reported seeing two men and a woman in a van attempting to leave. The officer said he pulled his vehicle in front of the van and stopped it. According to the arrest report, Jacques got out of the van and told the officer she had "stabbed her boyfriend and needed to go to the hospital." The report said Jacques and the man had been involved in an altercation in the residence. She was arrested on a charge of attempted murder.

Multiple charges

Lake Mary police arrested Leale Gene Golden, 49, of Osteen on Thursday. A patrolman reported seeing a vehicle with an altered tag and stopped it on Lake Mary Boulevard. In searching the vehicle, he reportedly found some bullets and a .32 caliber revolver. A computer check revealed he had been previously convicted on two felony charges. Golden was arrested for having an altered tag not assigned, possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, having an altered tag, and an expired tag.

Car chase

Sanford police arrested James Lenard Pritchard, 29, 146 Academy, Sanford, on Wednesday. An officer reported seeing a car at 8th Street and Perlmutter Avenue, believed to have been stolen. When he attempted to stop the vehicle, he reported Pritchard drove off, and struck two trees on 8th Street before finally going over a lawn at Castle Brewer Court, and colliding with a clothes pole. Pritchard was charged with grand theft auto, fleeing and attempting to elude an officer, reckless driving, and driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Men in truck

Longwood police arrested two men reportedly seen in the back of a pickup truck, "passing a hand rolled white cigarette." The officer stopped the vehicle on Rangeline Road near S.R. 434. William J. Alexander, 21, of Elkton, Maryland, and Robert Hontz, 25, of Orlando, were both arrested on charges of possession of cannabis under 20 grams, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Loitering

Edgar Ashley, 43, 1418 W. 18th Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at Sanford Avenue and First Street early Friday. Police said they saw Ashley behind a store in the area, and called to him, at which time he attempted to flee. He was apprehended and charged with loitering and prowling.

Domestic violence

He was found to be wanted on two warrants issued in Maryland, but not valid in Florida. He was charged with obstruction, and resisting arrest without violence.

Donald Albert Tannee, 27, 1806 Knox Avenue, Sanford, was arrested at the Jail Thursday where he was being held on other charges. He was wanted on a warrant for battery.

Incidents reported to authorities

Sheriff's deputies are investigating a business burglary reported to have occurred between Tuesday and Thursday, in the 1800 block of Southwest Road. Items taken included beer, wine, soda, and a weed eater with a total value of approximately $275.

A garage was reportedly burglarized in the 700 block of Silverwood Drive in Lake Mary on Thursday. Deputies reported items taken included a TV and VCR valued at $600.

Sanford police are investigating a burglary at the auditorium of the Cooperative Extension Service office on County Home Road Wednesday or Thursday. Police said a TV, VCR and other equipment were removed.

$2,500 in stereo equipment and speakers were reportedly stolen from a vehicle parked near a business Thursday in the 4000 block of S. Orlando Drive.

$1,600 in currency was reportedly stolen Thursday from the office of a business in the 400 block of E. First Street in Sanford. Police said entry was made by cutting a hole in the roof of the building.

Ad campaign launched touting peace signing

By THOMAS BECHER
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD, Conn. — As Yitzhak Rabin signed the document recognizing the Palestine Liberation Organization, some saw in the pen strokes a historic moment for world peace. What Ronald G. Shaw saw was a stroke of unbelievable luck — in the form of a $1.79 pen.

Of all the ornate tools Israel's prime minister could have used to sign the accord, he pulled out a plastic job made by Pilot Pen Corp. of America.

For Shaw, Pilot's president, it was as if the dove of peace had traded in its olive branch for one of his fine lines.

"All the cameras had a closeup of the pen and I saw it was absolutely ours," Shaw said. "I said, 'My God, here is a once in a lifetime opportunity. What can we do with it and keep it in good taste?'"

The answer appears next week in newspaper ads across the country. They show Rabin using one of Pilot's Precise pens to sign the document declaring Israel's recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"There's a line between war and peace," the copy reads. "This one was written with a Pilot pen."

Rabin used the pen to sign the document in Israel on Sept. 10, three days before before last Monday's ceremony at the White House when ministers signed a companion plan for self-rule for the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Pilot Pen Corp., a subsidiary of Tokyo-based Pilot Corp., projects 1993 sales of $65 million.

The Trumbull-based company is spending about $300,000 on the ad campaign in New York, Los Angeles, Washington, Atlanta, Miami, Chicago and Dallas as well as Connecticut.

The company did not request Rabin's permission. "We felt it was pretty much in the public domain," Shaw said.

Guns may be returned to streets

By CAROL PUGH
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — To demonstrate the link he sees between guns and violence, Florida's top-ranked policeman put his index fingers together, tip to tip.

"It's a one-on-one relationship," said James T. Moore, director of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

Cut one, you cut the other. At the time, he was in Miami with Gov. Lawton Chiles looking for ways to break the link following the shooting death of a German tourist.

Three days later, he and Chiles were together again, this time 430 miles to the north, in Monticello, Fla., where another foreign tourist, this one British, was gunned down.

Again, they talked of trying to counter the killings by reducing the number of guns on the street.

But even as they spoke and as headlines across the world screamed of tourists being murdered, a curious practice continued in Florida — some guns in police property rooms are being returned to the streets, sometimes even to those with criminal records.

"It's hard to make the same mistake twice, and I hate to see the same gun back on the street twice," said Sgt. David Kidd of Metro-Dade Police Department's property and evidence bureau in Miami.

Kidd sees about 10 guns per day coming into the department's property room. Most end up being destroyed, but up to two of those 10 may end up back on the streets.

There are no statistics on whether any of those returned guns has ever been used later for a crime, but police officers are often uncomfortable with handing over guns.

State law allows the return of a weapon by court order if that gun was taken by police officers either through a search warrant or when an officer observes a "breach of the peace." In some cases, detectives or other police officials can also return a

Kimberly Mays adopted by stepmother

By The Associated Press

SARASOTA — Kimberly Mays was legally declared the daughter of the woman she's called mom for the past three years, a newspaper reported.

The 14-year-old, who was switched with another child shortly after birth, jumped up and down and hugged Darlena Mays on Friday after Circuit Judge Hecky Titus granted the adoption request, the Sarasota Herald-Tribune reported.

"There is a bond of love that should not be broken," Titus said.

"Thank you!" a jubilant Kimberly shouted.

Kimberly was born to Ernest and Regina Twigg of Sebring, but was switched shortly after her birth with the daughter of Robert Mays and his wife, who later died. He married Darlena Mays in 1990.

The switch came to light after the girl the Twiggas raised died and blood tests showed she was not their daughter. The Twiggas have said they will appeal a judge's ruling last month that they had no legal interest in or right to Kimberly.

Darlena Mays had been Kimberly's stepmother since February 1990. Robert Mays was declared the teen-ager's legal father last month.

firearm, simply by signing a release.

But there are no state procedures or guidelines on checking the criminal record of the individual getting the gun back. It's up to the local officials to check, and some do and some don't.

"I don't question the judge. If he wants the gun released, I forward the order to the proper people and the gun is released," said Sgt. Dan Parker, Orange County Sheriff's evidence and property supervisor.

He doesn't check the criminal record of the person and said he assumes it's done by the judge or his fellow officers. Two or three people a day come to the Orange County property room to regain possession of their guns.

Parker said he's turned away people who were intoxicated or acted "goofy." But they usually come back for the weapon.

Dade County exercises more caution.

Kidd runs a 20-minute criminal background check of the person he's about to rearm. And he has an 8-inch stack of files on catches he's made after someone has approved a release.

"We have a problem with judges returning weapons back to convicted felons," Kidd said.

Bill Lawson, evidence manager of the Hillsborough County Sheriff's office, said his department won't release a gun without the criminal history attached.

He said the return of weapons to people who shouldn't have them doesn't happen routinely, but "it happens too often not to do" the criminal check.

"If you want to keep weapons out of convicted felons' hands, it's a very necessary thing," he said.

Kidd recently had to turn over a handgun to the wife of a convicted murderer and drug dealer. She also was arrested for assaulting a police officer — Kidd, when he was on patrol duty in 1989 — but her conviction was withheld as she completed her probation.

On March 23, 1989, Kidd stopped a Porsche speeding through a school zone. On the floorboard between driver Bobbie Lee Robinson's legs was a 10 mm Colt semiautomatic handgun.

Robinson was arrested on charges of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. The gun was taken to the property room.

Three days before that arrest, in a case that grabbed national attention, West Perrine grocer Arthur Lee Lawrence was sprayed with 30 bullets in an execution-style slaying. Police said he was killed because of his outspoken efforts against drug traffickers.

One day this summer, Valerie Robinson, 32, came by Dade County's police property room and got back the Colt, which wasn't tied to the Lawrence slaying.

Time to stop the violence

People often complain that government is always taking away individual freedoms. Every time something goes wrong, it costs John Doe some of his rights.

The situation has happened again, and the government has indeed taken away certain public freedoms.

Because a British tourist was gunned down at an interstate rest stop in north Florida this past Tuesday, armed law officers are now patrolling all rest areas in the state.

People can no longer park in rest stops to catch a few hours of sleep overnight, and they hesitate to take a walk to stretch their legs after driving long distances.

With the publicity generated by this protective measure, we must wonder if people will ever feel safe in a rest stop in the future. Are we now at the point where law enforcement officers must be permanently assigned to rest areas, and taken out of their positions on the streets and highways?

Because of the Monticello incident, and several other tourist murders in the past months, we may also lose some of our tourist dollars. We are constantly hearing that the perception of Florida overseas is one of a dangerous crime-ridden area from which visitors should stay away.

All of this may have been instigated by this one shooting death, but if it hadn't have occurred this week in Monticello, it may have happened next week somewhere else. It's the overall violence that has brought this about.

This problem is not going to go away even when arrests are made in connection with this particular shooting. It will not end even if citizens of Florida stand up and are heard.

The only way this will turn around is when concrete action is taken.

Just urging the legislature to do something is not enough. The urging must continue until action is taken.

Our government leaders are fully aware of the problem, yet the only result is to put it under study, which is only delaying any action.

Punishment for criminal activities must be increased. Our courts must stop allowing persons convicted of serious crimes to be released after serving only a short sentence.

If it takes more money for jails or law enforcement officers, our legislature must find the financing and start expanding our jails.

A man guarding our rest stops with a gun in his holster, and a $10,000 reward offered for information leading to an arrest in the killing are only temporary measures for this individual situation.

Let's let any future murderers know that we will no longer let them off easy.

Berry's World

"Since going on this regimen, my bad cholesterol is down and my good cholesterol is up."

No violence should be tolerated

The chief law enforcement officer in Seminole County is Sheriff Donald F. Ealinger. Amid all the furor created by the continuing violence against tourists, it seemed appropriate to discuss his perspective on the issues.

Sheriff Ealinger advised that 1,200 individuals have been killed in Florida within the last year. We should be just as intolerant and display as much concern for residents of Florida as for the tourist. Residents are confronted by violence on a daily basis and violence creates an adverse financial impact, whether the victim is a resident or a tourist.

Florida leads the industrialized world in violent crimes. Among the industrialized nations America ranks number one in violent crimes. Florida leads the 50 states in the number of violent crimes. Statistics reveal that in America 21.9 people per one hundred thousand meet with violence. Scotland ranks second in violence with a rate of 5.0. Americans are puzzled by the fact that we live with more violence than any other industrialized nation and are seeking some answers.

Gun control is always suggested as a prime means of curbing violence. However an analysis of violent crimes in countries that have gun control laws similar to ours do not affirm this contention. Israel, Sweden and Switzerland's violent crime rate per 100,000 people is 3.7, 2.3 and 1.4 respectively.

Our children seem to be desensitized toward human life and have acquired few skills for dispute resolution. The average American child has observed 250,000 acts of violence and 40,000 attempted murders on television by the time he/she has reached 18 years of age. This daily diet of violence certainly doesn't promote caring concern for others.

There is a book written by Deborah Prothrow Stith entitled "Deadly Consequence: How Violence is Destroying Our Teenage Population." Stith discusses free floating anger in the very first chapter of the book. She also offers solutions for beginning to solve our problems. The problems have developed over time and it is going to take time and effort to reverse the current violent trend.

Considering crime in Seminole County, 80 percent of crime is drug and alcohol related. Teenagers sell crack cocaine but the average age of the crack cocaine abuser is 28. The drugs being used by teenagers are marijuana, alcohol, LSD and Ecstasy (pills).

It is imperative that communities come together to address the problems of violence in our society. Emphasis should be placed upon prevention, education and awareness. Public and private health providers, educators, businessmen and law enforcement agents should develop short range and long range plans for confronting the underlying causative factors that foster violent crimes.

Public awareness must be increased particularly where "crimes of opportunity" occur. Citizens should be cognizant of their surroundings at all times and whether they are placing themselves in jeopardy.

Ealinger believes that we must re-establish deterrents to crime. This can be accomplished by speedy apprehension of persons committing crimes and swift punishment that is adhered to. There are multiple causes of crime and we need to work together to turn the tide on violent crimes in our state.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Never thought we'd see this

BOSTON — The same phrase was repeated again and again, until it became the distillation of everyone's wonder, the common denominator of everyone's quiet shock: "I never thought I would see this."

I heard the words Monday from a man of 40 and a woman of 80, from a Middle East expert and a Midwestern worker, from someone who had been on the White House lawn and someone who had watched in front of a television set in her living room.

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasser Arafat. The Israeli and the Palestinian did not just represent each other's enemies but each other's demons. Parents in Tel Aviv and children in the Gaza Strip have lost sons, daughters, brothers, fathers at each others' hands.

Yet there the two sides were, in a ceremony of gravity and solemnity, full of biblical references and cadences. The Israeli foreign minister Shimon Peres, signing a paper promising to recognize the "devil" as the legitimate representative of the Palestinian people. The PLO official, Mahmoud Abbas, signing a paper renouncing terrorism and acknowledging the existence of the nation they had promised to wipe off the map.

There they were, all of them, shaking hands. Shaking hands. And witnesses saying: "I never thought I would see it."

Students of body language may analyze the tortuously slow ascent of Rabin's hand to meet Arafat's hand. "This signing...is not so easy," Rabin had said soberly and his difficulty was palpable. It was as if he were lifting an enormous weight at the end of his arm. But in that handshake, the past loosened its hold.

For all the caution, for all the caveats about first steps, the Jewish New Year that begins this week may mark the true end of the postwar period. The unending Middle East crisis was, after all, as permanent a part of the postwar landscape as the Cold War that divided the world into U.S. and U.S.S.R. But beyond that, for many Jews this period was darkened by the shadow of the Holocaust.

Palestine was opened to Jews nearly a hundred years ago in a British version of a joint custody arrangement. But Israel had its moral and then martial birth in the postwar climate.

The Jewish claim to a homeland was seen as a kind of compensation by a world still gasping at the enormity of Hitler's genocidal murder. To the world's Jews, for whom the relentless history of anti-Semitism climaxed with the Holocaust, Israel became a homeland in Robert Frost's sense of home: the place where, when you had to go there, they had to take you in.

From the beginning, Israel was David surrounded by the Arab Goliath, always beleaguered, always on the defensive, the brink of extinction. In 1967, the Six Day War became a euphoric counterpoint to that fear of disaster and to the memory of helplessness, of European Jews being led to slaughter, it put military weight behind the postwar, post-Holocaust promise, "Never Again."

But over the past decade, the proud image of the Six Day War became the painful image of the Intifada. The moral image of the Jewish Army in self-defense came to include a murkier, more troubling image of the Israeli soldiers aiming weapons at Palestinian boys throwing stones.

In the eyes of the world it became harder to tell terrorist from terrorized. The Israeli claim to a higher moral ground came down to survivalism.

At times Israelis and Palestinians vied, not only for territory, but for the moral status of victimhood. And when that happened, even the Holocaust, as evil as anything in human history, was sometimes used as little more than a trump card.

When Rabin became prime minister, this skeptical old warrior who was born in Palestine told his country and its friends that the time had come to stop thinking "the whole world is against us." It was time to stop using fear as the guiding principle.

The end of the postwar period does not mean the denial of history or pain, but in President Clinton's words, the Middle East was so "drenched in warfare and hatred" that "many believed the past would always have the upper hand."

Instead, on a morning in September, two old enemies, with their devils and demons, shook hands. As Rabin said in his deep, flat, sad voice, "Enough of blood and tears. Enough." "I never thought I'd see it."

Yet there the two sides were, in a ceremony of gravity and solemnity, full of biblical references and cadences.

U.S. will pay large portion of Palestinian aid

WASHINGTON — An early position staked out by the Clinton White House with American allies suggests the United States may foot a fifth of the bill for aid to Palestinians in Israeli-occupied territories — which will be a minimum of $4 billion.

As first word of the breakthrough between the Israelis and Palestinians that occurred in Norway reached the White House, the National Security Council began putting together an immediate package of aid to the impoverished Palestinians in the soon-to-be autonomous Gaza Strip and Jericho.

The NSC and State Department envisioned an "Empowerment Fund" that would give a real boost to the Palestinians in the near future. The amount was $250 million, a small portion of what will eventually be needed to assist the Palestinians.

What was striking about these early efforts, according to some officials, was the share of responsibility the White House inherently assigned to the United States and other countries. America would ante up $50 million, or one-fifth of the amount, in the Clinton administration reckoning. The Gulf states — including Saudi Arabia and Kuwait — were requested to ante up $100 million, essentially assigning the richer part of the Arab world two-fifths of the buildup costs on Palestinian autonomous territory.

The United States may foot a fifth of the bill for aid to Palestinians.

The final $100 million, administration officials believed, should be pledged by the so-called G-7 countries, most notably Germany and Japan. This meant the White House thought that the rest of the industrial "First World" should come up with two-fifths of the bill for the Palestinians.

Over the last year, the Palestine Liberation Organization has been drafting its own internal estimates of what it would cost to transform the occupied territories of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank into an economically self-sufficient, viable Palestinian state. The architect of the plan is Abu Ala, director-general of the PLO's Economic Affairs and Planning Department, and one of the key negotiators during the secret Norwegian talks that developed into the recent accord. He relied on 67 Palestinian experts inside the occupied territories and 20 outside.

The upshot, say PLO sources, was that some $13 billion would be needed in the first five years to transform both the Gaza Strip and the West Bank into a viable market economy. PLO officials told us that this didn't seem so expensive when considering that the world, and particularly the United States, has spent tens of billions of dollars for more than 40 years trying to get Israel to stand on its own economically.

In fact, the PLO estimate may be too rosy. When considering all that is needed for those two occupied territories to become a productive state, the bill will likely be much higher. Internal U.S. estimates suggest that the PLO's $13 billion figure would be the cost alone for the social and physical infrastructure — the roads, hospitals and schools needed to support emerging industrial, agricultural and commercial sectors.

The Marshall Plan for the Middle East must begin with infrastructure. One source estimates that in the first 10 to 15 years, approximately 200,000 housing units will be needed in the Gaza Strip and West Bank. The good news is that foreign aid for construction might alleviate some of the unemployment, which, in Gaza, is already well over 60 percent.

The Gaza Strip and West Bank are currently home to about 2.3 million people, or 376 people per square kilometer.

"Good reading and writing skills are essential." Strickler said that the district is looking into financing programs, especially at the Sanford schools, that put a renewed emphasis on those basic skills.

The board recently assured parents who have been fighting for improved conditions at Sanford schools that there is money set aside in the district reserves to pay for programs once the needs have been determined.

"We are looking into the needs with the schools and we will make adjustments as the needs are identified," Supt. Paul Hagerty said.

Other school board members have expressed a similar sense of urgency.

"We need to find out what the problems are and do something about them," said board vice chairman Sandy Robinson. "We can't wait six months to start doing this."

Writing and reading instructors have also been added to the staffs at some of the middle schools to try to compensate for the lack of skills of students moving up from the feeder schools.

"We have had to hire on a full time reading teacher who works with students on their reading and writing skills," said Bill Moore, principal of Sanford Middle School in Sanford. "We are doing what we can to bring these students some success."

The highest score of any Seminole County school on the state-administered test was a 2.8 on a 6 point scale. That was at Heathrow Elementary School in Lake Mary.

Lake Mary Elementary School had an average score of 2.6.

The average district score was 2.3 and the average score for the state was an even two.

Every Sanford school except Wilson Elementary fell below the average state score.

Idylwild Elementary School and Pine Crest Elementary School each had a score of 1.9; Hamilton Elementary School had a score of 1.8 and Goldsboro and Midway elementary schools had scores of 1.7.

Wilson scored 2.3, the district average.

The score is a mean, or average, score of all the students' scores. It includes the scores of two tests: one given to assess skills in writing to tell a story, the other to assess writing to explain.

District officials refused to speculate about why the schools in Lake Mary and other areas scored consistently higher than those in Sanford, though advocates of the north county schools argue that a lack of money has been the biggest culprit in being able to provide books and teaching aids to the students.

The test scores show that change is needed Hagerty said, but it is up to the schools to determine what they need to do to help their particular student populations.

According to materials released by the state, a paper that earned a score of three would "generally focus on the topic but may contain extraneous or loosely related information, exhibits some evidence of an organizational pattern, has little development of supporting ideas, and may contain some errors in spelling and punctuation conventions."

A paper that earned a score of two "may be only slightly related to the topic because it contains extraneous or loosely related information, exhibits little information, exhibits little evidence of an organizational pattern, has a minimal of supporting ideas, and may contain many errors in spelling and punctuation conventions."

The school district has made a commitment to the schools, they say, to try to put programs in place to be sure that those students coming up through the primary elementary grades get a good foundation in writing and reading and that those who have not received the proper skills training are offered new opportunities to learn what they have missed.

"This is everybody's problem," Strickler said. "We need to all work to make it better."

George Proechel, Seminole County Sheriff's Office spokesman said, "but they set up a drive-in market on the spot to see what would happen." So while agents were conducting the search inside, several people were arrested outside after making drug purchases from the police. People were taken inside the house after being arrested, then after four or five were in custody, they were transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, Proechel said.

"They were doing a pretty brisk business," Proechel commented, "and we were happy to put them out of business."

Ruvolo posted $5,000 bond and left the jail about 4 a.m.

Arrested in the undercover operation were the following individuals:

● Bradley Wayne Haefner, 32, 909 Catalina Drive, Sanford was charged with battery on a law enforcement officer, resisting without violence and the purchase of less than 20 grams of marijuana. According to his arrest report, Haefner "tensed up" after being told he was under arrest and threw the marijuana packet away. He allegedly kicked an agent in the chest and began fighting. He was subdued, arrested and jailed.

● Grace Ellen Michel, 32, 279 Coachman Court, Sanford was charged with the purchase of less than 20 grams of marijuana. She was held on $3,000 bond.

● One male and two females were charged with the purchase of more than 20 grams. Kevin Demers, 34, no address given; Vickie Gene Dancer, 47, 206 Laurel Ave., Sanford and Susan Everts, 45, no local address were each held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

● Tracy Scott Coburn, 2819 South Magnolia St., Sanford was charged with purchase of less than 20 grams and held on $3,000 bond.

● Veri Weaver, 22, 3806 Elder Spring Circle, no city listed was charged with purchasing less than 20 grams. According to the police report, Weaver shouted to companions in the car to get out. It was a bust, after agents began to arrest him. The car occupants were interviewed and released. Weaver's bond was $1,000.

Four male juveniles were also charged with purchasing less than 20 grams of "pot."

Also arrested nearby during the evening was Richard Taggart, 45, 34 Broad Street, Johnson City, New York. He was charged with resisting an officer without violence when he refused to comply with an agent's order to stop. As agents were executing the search warrant, Taggart and his wife drove in next door. As agents questioned the woman, Taggart got out of the vehicle and walked toward them. After he did not stop walking toward the agent after being told to stop several times, he was arrested.

also listed as a co-sponsor for the International Powerboat Races, and the Golden Age Games.

"The various events shouldn't conflict too much with each other," said Senior Center manager, Chris Urry. "The only problems may be if the noise from the boat races interferes with the torch lighting ceremony outside the civic center, and of course, the use of the parking lot, which is normally used for people going to the civic center."

Chamber Executive Director Dave Farr said parking on that day is not expected to be a problem. "We have the area next to the post office, the county parking lot, the Fort Mellon Park area, and if need be," he added, "we'll open up parking on that unopened area across the street (west) from the chamber building."

Farr observed, "With all of these events, it's going to be one of the greatest weekends Sanford has ever seen and we really ought to have a lot of visitors in town."

From a public relations standpoint, Farr added, "Who says Sanford never does anything?"

Sam and Sherron Winter of New Martinsville, W. Va. are planning to hold the International Powerboat Super League World Cup Finals in Sanford on Nov. 6 and 7.

The Winters are awaiting final approval from the Coast Guard. A request for a special event permit must also be approved by the Sanford City Commission.

Sam Winter explained, "The boats are what they call 'tunnel boats,' in that they have sort of a tunnel under their hull, which allows them to control turns to almost the point of a 90 degree turn."

The boats are between 16 and 17 feet in length, and Winter said they are capable of obtaining a speed from zero to 100 miles per hour in five seconds.

"We examined four possible sites for the finals," he said, "before selecting Sanford. We believe it provides not only an excellent lake on which to run the boats, but plenty of spectator areas in an attractive surrounding."

The Winters recently conducted some of the preliminary International Super League races in Belfast, Ireland, and expect some of the boats that competed there to be in Sanford.

"We expect them to be from all over the nation as well as Europe," he said. "There is also a three or four boat team coming from Mexico."

Winters plans to hold three separate events for small, medium, and larger boats both Saturday, Nov. 6 and Sunday, Nov. 7. The finals for the larger boats, possibly 15 to 20 craft, will be held on Sunday, with time trials and lap practice scheduled for Saturday. The other two classes are expected to be racing each day.

"These boats make hardly any noise," he said, "and we don't expect anyone to have any complaints about them."

The races are being co-sponsored by the Holiday Inn, Lake Monroe, and The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Races scheduled for Sunday are not expected to interfere with other events going on along the Sanford lakefront area. They include the opening ceremonies for the Golden Age Games and Senior Fair, both of which will be held in Sanford Civic Center.

An additional event, an arts and crafts show, scheduled for the parking lot between the Chamber of Commerce building and civic center, will also be going on.

"We don't look at this as any conflict," Winters said. "In fact, each will be bringing people to the lakefront area, which will help the others." He added that he plans to support the events by having race events promoted in the Golden Age printed listings and chamber schedule.

"Without our final permits," Winters said, "this should still be considered to be in the planning stage. But if everything goes as we plan, this will be an outstanding event and I expect it will draw many people to Sanford."

He speculated that if the race is successful, he would consider making Sanford headquarters for world title events in future years.

Peer counselors give their all at SHS

SANFORD — One of the more helpful programs at Seminole High School is peer counseling.

Peer counseling is a way seniors can interact with and help their fellow students around campus and in the classroom.

No longer able to go off school grounds to local elementary and middle schools, the students enrolled in the peer counseling program go to a classroom on the Seminole High School campus and help teachers and students during one class period.

Teachers who wish to have a peer counselor in their classroom sign a request form issued by Mrs. Jane Epps, the peer counseling teacher.

More than likely, every teacher who requests a peer counselor will receive one.

Programs that ran last year for peer counselors included numerous guest speakers from the community.

The students were also instructed on how to recognize eating disorders, such as anorexia nervosa and bulimia; how to handle potential suicide threats; how to handle student mediation involving a need for conflict resolution; and how to handle peer pressure. They also learned "how to's" concerning students stealing or cheating and how to resolve those problems.

This year started with students in the classroom under Epps' instruction.

There she will teach the students how to successfully interact with other students and help them with their problems.

Peer counselors also come to the teachers' aid when a student needs help understanding a principle or concept in class.

Students who are excellent math students are paired with students whose math skills could be assisted by one-on-one attention.

Special education students are paired with patient peer counselors who help them solve difficult problems and are there to listen to their concerns.

In the past, peer counselors have been assigned to assist physically disabled students in classes such as physical education.

In these ways, peer counselors learn a very important lesson: they learn the helping others is rewarding for both parties involved.

To Seminole High, they are an essential commodity that should never be overlooked or forgotten.

Lisa Cullum is a junior at Seminole High School in Sanford.

Some of Seminole County's students have been working hard to earn honors for themselves in school.

The students have been named to honor rolls, subject area honors or citizenship lists at their respective schools.

Bringing the law to the people

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — For the last several years, Seminole Community College has been offering the People's Law School to give the public some information about the law and about what their rights are in legal matters.

People, young and old alike, all have rights under the law and they should learn what their rights are and they can learn about those rights at the People's Law School.

The school is an eight-week course that is sponsored by the college and the Florida Academy of Trial Lawyers and taught by judges and lawyers from around Seminole County.

There is no age limit governing who may take the classes. Those who are interested in a career in law can take the classes to explore the different areas of law. Those interested in learning about the judicial system can sit in on the classes.

And those who just want to learn how the law applies to their lives on a daily basis can learn a lot from the classes as well.

The classes will meet on consecutive Mondays beginning Sept. 22.

The classes will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. each week. They will be in room J-100 on the main campus of the community college in Sanford.

The fee for the course is $20 for Florida residents and $40 for non-residents. (Residents must have lived in the state of Florida for at least 12 months prior to enrolling in the class.)

Each Monday evening the instructors will cover two areas of legal study. The first evening, for example, they will look at the court system and the judicial process. Other topics include consumer law, real estate, personal injury, DUI, family law and estate planning.

The instructors include Judge O.H. Eaton, Beth Ruberg, Norman Levin, Dominick Salfi, Mark Rabinowitz, Alan Robinson, William Robinson, William Boyd, Judge Newman Brock, John Jones, Ton G. LaGrone, Phares Heindl, William Berzak, Patricia Strowbridge and Carmine Bravo.

Seen at school...

Summer may be drawing, officially, to a close, but students at Pine Crest Elementary school are showing off their finest beach wear at school. Celebrating "Beach Day," the cool dudes and dudettes donned shades and fancy swim wear to bask under the refreshing fluorescent lights of their classroom. They've all learned that real sunlight can damage their skin, so they decided to stay inside. Little Mermaid suits and towels seem to be the most popular among the little girls while the boys opt for more of a surfer dude look with brightly colored trunks and muscle poses.

Soul-searching in a small town

By CHRISTOPHER SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer

THOMASTON, Ga. — It was a lazy Sunday, and the three kids looking for something to do wandered over to the school. Though it was closed for the summer, they went in. They left with a few 50-cent Snickers ice cream bars from a cafeteria freezer.

No one denies that what they did was wrong, but many classify it as closer to a "schoolboy prank" than a crime, deserving a reprimand or maybe a term of community service. "Make them clean up the school," someone suggested.

The letter of the law said something else.

Regardless of what was taken, the law said that what happened was a burglary, a felony. Regardless of his child-like face, one of the three youths, Dehundra Caldwell, was an adult under the law: Two weeks earlier, he had turned 17.

And regardless of his good grades and lack of any previous police record, his sentence was fixed: Dehundra Caldwell received three years in prison.

The statutes and Uniform Rules of Superior Court are clear, judges and prosecutors here insist. If so, little else about the case is.

Was the sentence, as some say, really just a reflection of strict, rural attitudes about law and order, or have those traditional views become mixed with fear as rural crime has tripled in recent years?

Why did others who pleaded guilty to crimes at the same time get probation? Was the black teen-ager a victim of racial discrimination, as the NAACP contends?

Why does the judge say he didn't know the youth's age when it was included in court documents? Is the system — three judges handling 6,781 cases last year — too swamped to allow time for such inquiries?

And, finally, why did no one plead for leniency — not the youth's family, nor his court-appointed lawyer, nor his school — until it was too late?

"We're a pleasant community, a good place to raise kids. ... Now people think, 'Well, here's this hick town,'" said Betsy Hueber, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, housed in a renovated building on the handsome courthouse square in this old textile-making town of 9,100 an hour or so south of Atlanta.

"The basic feeling is outrage that this kind of thing has occurred, then embarrassment because of all the publicity," Ms. Hueber said. "The boy did a wrong thing. But the failure of the system is a shame and a travesty for him. If it's not resolved, I think it's going to be."

Superior Court Judge Andrew Whalen had set a hearing for next month to reconsider the sentence he imposed — which prosecutors call standard in the strict local circuit — but last week announced he instead would forward the case to the state Board of Pardons and Paroles, which gave no indication when it would be considered.

After spending 10 days in jail, the youth is free on $15,000 bond and has returned to 11th grade.

He has said that he, his 15-year-old brother and a 16-year-old friend were walking to play basketball when they stopped by the Upson-Lee Middle School on July 11. He has contended they entered through an unlocked door, though authorities say they found signs of forced entry.

The other two boys, who allegedly took the ice cream, have received punishment in Juvenile Court — Caldwell's brother was ordered to perform community service; the other youth, who had a juvenile record, was sent to a detention home.

As Dehundra Caldwell appeared headed for three years in prison as an adult, The Atlanta Constitution editorialized that the case represented "all that's wrong with this state's criminal justice system."

Responding in a letter, Whalen said the youth was advised of his rights and of the sentence in a plea bargain agreement he signed, and that no one asked for leniency.

The court was being criticized, the judge said, "for following the law and doing its duty as that duty appeared to be."

But if rules and duty were followed, why are townspeople so upset?

"You'd think they were schizophrenic in a way, but they're not," observed rural sociologist Douglas Bachtel.

Rural areas often are less tolerant of "deviant behavior," especially crime, Bachtel said from his office at the University of Georgia. In addition, "there's a fear factor here," caused partly by reports of urban crime in the news media but also because rural crime is up sharply.

FBI figures show that in 1980, there were 423 crimes per 100,000 rural residents in the United States; by 1990, that figure was 2,022 crimes, a 370 percent increase.

Still, Bachtel said, after demanding the kind of tough system that brought Caldwell's three-year sentence, another set of rural values apparently took over in Thomaston: "They said we need to show some compassion. We need to set him on the right road."

Richard Blahoff, Caldwell's lawyer, acknowledges criticism of his handling of the case. "We've done some soul-searching. I'll tell you that," he said. But he insists the representation he gave was his best and reflected his understanding of fixed courthouse practices.

"You know, you can Monday-morning-quarterback all you want ... but with what we have to work with here, I did what I knew to do, I guess," he said.

After reviewing police files on the school break-in, he doubted his client would be acquitted in a trial. That meant working out a plea bargain, though lawyers in this circuit say there's little to bargain over: Admitting burglary gets you three years — no probation, no first-offender treatment.

"It's just kind of an unwritten rule," Blahoff said. "I can't go and pull you something like a court directive that says, 'We will not accept a first-offender.'"

In fact, it can be found in writing. A sentence ordered by one of the three local circuit judges, Ben Miller, was thrown out in April by a state appeals court that cited his statement, "... this is a big folks' court, and I don't use the first-offender treatment. Never have, never intend to."

Such a "mechanical sentencing policy," the appeals court said, citing an earlier opinion, amounted to a refusal to exercise discretion and "an abdication of judicial responsibility."

Miller refused to comment, saying he had expressed himself fully in an open letter defending Whalen and the plea bargain. Such deals, he noted, resolve most of the 2,300 criminal cases in the busy circuit, where 4,400-plus civil cases also were disposed of last year.

But some say the sentence was not just a reflection of rigid rural law-and-order in a heavily burdened court.

"What happened to Dehundra Caldwell was commonplace," said Bruce Roberts of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Atlanta. "It's an overreaction to the idea that black males are violence-prone. So often, the discipline way outstrips the offense."

While police, prosecutors and judges use discretion in handling youths who are white or better-off, Roberts said, poor blacks "are always held to the letter of the law ... especially in Mayberry."

Studies by the University of Georgia found black youths were disproportionately committed to the state juvenile justice system and that they stayed in detention on average 27 days longer than white youths.

Mark Irvin, the assistant district attorney who prosecuted Caldwell, vehemently denied race figured in the case. He reviewed past cases to confirm white youths received the same punishment, he said. Upson County is about 28 percent black.

"I still seriously think that we acted properly," Irvin said, noting that the offense was not stealing ice cream but rather illegally entering a building. "Burglary is burglary," Irvin said.

What are bromeliads?

Jeanne Martz, from the Seminole County Bromeliad Society, admires some of the lovely plants featured at the club's annual show, held Saturday at the auditorium of the Agriculture Center in Sanford. What are bromeliads? They are plants that are native to the warmer parts of the Americas. Most have one trait in common: the leaves form a rosette from which the inflorescence emerges, but here the similarity ends. Some common examples of bromeliads are the pineapple and the Spanish moss.

Fashion is Parisian specialty

Editor's note: This is the second in a series profiling the Seminole Towne Center Mall anchor stores.

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Parisian is one of the five anchor stores announced for inclusion in the Seminole Towne Center Mall. The mall is scheduled to officially open on Sept. 7, 1995.

Founded in the late 1880s, Parisian now has 20 stores throughout the Southeast and Ohio. The Sanford location will be the third in Florida.

Donald Hess, president of Parisian indicated, "Simon and his associates have planned a really exciting project for Seminole Towne Center. We're happy to work with his team in continuing our expansion in Florida."

The store was started Oct. 5, 1987 as the Parisian Dry Goods and Millinery Company in Birmingham, Alabama. It was one of the first larger stores to offer customer service of interest-free credit, in 1945.

In 1968, it was named "Brand Name Store of the Year, and was recognized as one of the 200 best small companies in America by Forbes Magazine in 1988.

Present management is by the Hess and Abrams families. Emil Hess is chairman of the board. His son, Donald, is president, and Harold Abrams is executive vice president.

Sales for 1989 totaled $313.2 million. Inventory is turned over completely at least every 3 1/2 months to insure fresh needs for the customers.

Nationwide, the operation employs almost 5,300 people.

At the Seminole Towne Center, Parisian will have 140,000 square-feet of floor space in a two level store. So far, no specific information has been made available regarding how many persons the Sanford store may employ.

In a mission statement regarding the store, officials said, "Parisian will be the leading fashion specialty store for upper moderate to better-priced merchandise. Our primary efforts will be directed toward the updated and classic customer groups, the fashion leaders."

The statement continues, "Our secondary efforts will focus on customers with more traditional attitudes toward fashion. Our merchandise mix will include apparel, accessories, cosmetics, shoes, and other merchandise that meets the ego-intensive needs of our customers."

Theme parks play role in Sanford growth Universal set for major expansion

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — During a public meeting Thursday at the Sanford City Hall covered entrance area, officials of the State Main Street Program commented on how Sanford's participation in the program showed more potential than most other cities selected for the Main Street program across the state and nation.

"You have so much potential," said Bob Trescott, State Coordinator of Main Street.

Among the benefits he cited the excellent highway system, and the number of people using them to travel to the major entertainment theme parks in the Orlando area.

With Sanford's Main Street project to involve many years of work, the size and number of attractions will be showing marked increase.

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — A $3 billion expansion of Universal Studios Florida will put similar movie-TV theme park projects proposed for Japan and Europe on the shelf a while longer, company executives say.

"We have to prioritize. We will expand where we are. Japan may be next," said Sid Sheinberg, president of MCA Inc., the California-based co-owner of the Central Florida attraction.

Mike Gifford, managing director of the other owner, Rank Organization PLC of London, said the two companies have been looking for a suitable European site for five years, but there are many questions to be resolved.

"We're in no hurry about Europe, particularly now," Gifford said Wednesday after the Universal expansion announcement in Orlando.

Gifford said EuroDisney, Walt Disney Co.'s large complex near Paris, had proved that Europe was receptive to such theme parks.

"EuroDisney is stunningly successful in terms of people going there. They've had problems, but it's a popular park," Gifford said.

MCA Inc. had been interested in building a movie-TV-based theme park in Japan even before its acquisition by the Japanese conglomerate Matsushita in 1991.

Sheinberg said Universal Studios' movies were extremely popular in that country, particularly the top moneymaking films by Steven Spielberg, who is also acting as Universal's creative consultant on the Florida park.

"We are encouraged about Japan," Sheinberg said. "My hope would be that it would be built by the end of the century. ... The difficult part is acquiring the land we need."

Spielberg was enthusiastic about the Florida park's expansion project: a second gated attraction which will include a Jurassic Park adventure ride, five hotels, a golf course, convention facilities and other features.

SANFORD — Through the end of September, Purina Cat Foods is sponsoring the Purina Big Cat Survival Fund program. Locally, it is being conducted in conjunction with the Central Florida Zoological Park.

Through the end of the month, the zoo will be giving a free big cat poster and a $1 admission discount, when presented with proof of purchase of participating Purina Cat Foods, Tidy Cat, or Tidy Scoop cat box filler.

This is the fourth year Purina has sponsored this event, which has generated an estimated $2 million for big cat survival and public awareness programs through the cooperation of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums, and participating zoos.

This year, the Sanford zoo has been designated to receive $2,250 in support of its big cat conservation programs.

Free big cat posters, featuring a Florida Panther, are now available at the zoo with a proof-of-purchase of a Purina Cat food product through the end of September.

For information, phone the zoo at 323-4450. The Central Florida Zoological Park is located at 3755 N. highway 17-92, just east of Interstate-4 exit 52.

Retirement outlook for boomers

WASHINGTON — Educated baby boomers in two-income families will be better off financially in retirement than their parents, according to a congressional study that contradicts widespread fears about the generation's future.

But not all baby boomers can look forward to a comfortable retirement, according to the report Saturday by the Congressional Budget Office.

Single, poorly educated baby boomers could wind up on public assistance when they retire, the CBO warned, while couples who never bought their own home or relied on a single income may also have trouble making ends meet.

"Although the future looks bright for those who are well-educated, it is distinctly gloomy for those without many marketable skills," Congress' non-partisan budget analysts said in their report. "Those with a college education can expect higher incomes, faster wage growth and more resources available for saving."

3 seniors dead in bus accident

WINSLOW TOWNSHIP, N.J. — An ice truck slammed into a bus carrying elderly disabled people a rural, rain-slicked road, killing three bus passengers and injuring 13 other people.

The injured, including both drivers and a truck passenger, were taken to four hospitals. At least seven patients were reported in critical condition today.

Two women among the 13 passengers on the bus were killed in the wreck Friday afternoon, said township Patrolman Tom Linardo. They were Sallie Smith, 90, of Atco and Aileen Cline of Sicklerville. A third passenger, Gloria Jones, died at a hospital around midnight. Her age and hometown were not available.

The bus passengers were from the Berlin Senior Care Center. The vehicles were traveling in opposite directions. Police did not know how fast they were traveling or if rain caused the truck driver to lose control.

After 90 years, gunslinger acquitted

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Tom Horn, hanged 90 years ago for killing a sheep farmer's son, was acquitted after a mock retrial. But even his new attorney doesn't think that will necessarily clear the gunslinger's name.

"Settle?" defense attorney Joseph Moch said on the question of his long-dead client's guilt or innocence. "Hell, it's going to start it... it fuels it, it throws it into high gear."

The verdict was rendered Friday at the end of a day-and-a-half of courtroom theater that mixed highlights of Horn's 1902 trial with evidence that came out after his conviction.

The mock retrial was staged by the organizers of the "Tom Horn Kick and Growl," an annual celebration of his life and times.

Security tightened around Kathie Lee

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Authorities stepped up security Saturday for Miss America pageant co-host Kathie Lee Gifford after a man allegedly threatened to kidnap the television star.

Atlantic City police Capt. Jim Dinoto said no additional officers were being brought in but more attention was focused on Gifford.

"We're just looking at her a little more," Dinoto said. "She's secure. She's very secure."

Gifford rehearsed Saturday morning for the evening pageant, singing "Make Someone Happy" onstage at the Atlantic City Convention Center.

Gifford's assistant, Mickey Kaufman, declined to comment and requests to speak with Gifford were denied.

Authorities were searching for the Shelby, N.C., man who they say made threats against Gifford while he raped and burned his 59-year-old aunt Wednesday in North Carolina's Gaston County.

Handyman-murderer testifies

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Handyman-murderer James White testified Friday his desire for a woman from "the other side of the tracks" drove him to kill her twin's millionaire husband, a Huntsville doctor he had never met.

White, clad in prison whites and handcuffed, testified that his love for first-grade teacher Peggy Lowe drove him to carry out a murder plot masterminded by Mrs. Lowe and her twin, Betty Wilson. But he said he could not remember the details of the slaying after he encountered Dr. Jack Wilson at the Wilson home on May 22, 1992, and the two men struggled.

The star prosecution witness in Mrs. Lowe's capital murder trial, White stuck by the account of the murder he gave at Mrs. Wilson's trial in Tuscaloosa earlier this year.

Judge lets company keep operating

BATON ROUGE, La. — A federal bankruptcy judge hears arguments Monday on whether to appoint a trustee to run a video poker company that is in trouble with the state because of alleged mob ties.

Bally Gaming's request for a trustee claims only that Worldwide Gaming-Louisiana Route Operators owes it more than $10 million.

The allegations of mob ties were made by state police, who disabled Worldwide-LRO's 85 video poker machines on Sept. 9.

However, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Jerry Brown ordered them reactivated Sept. 9. On Thursday, he continued his order allowing Worldwide-LRO and its video poker machines to keep operating.

Admission in Jordan case affidavit

LUMBERTON, N.C. — A Robeson County man charged with slaying NBA star Michael Jordan's father admitted to an investigator he played a part in the death, according to an affidavit.

Larry Martin Demery, 18, of Rowland, "... admitted participating into the death of James Jordan," said the affidavit filed Aug. 18 in support of a search warrant. Contents of the affidavit were reported Friday by The Robesonian newspaper.

Demery and Daniel Andre Green, 18, of Lumberton each are charged with first-degree murder, armed robbery and conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

Shuttle astronauts monitor glow, track telescope

By MARGIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Discovery's astronauts monitored the gentle glow bathing the space shuttle tail Saturday and tracked an ultraviolet telescope they intend to pick up for this week's trip home.

Astronomers were delighted with the amount of stellar data collected by the telescope, which the astronauts released early last week, even though a newly discovered nova was barely perceptible.

Scientists focused the telescope Friday night on the nova — a binary star explosion — even though they knew they might not see anything in the ultraviolet wavelength.

"It turns out that we saw all of 13 photons. This can be compared with the 500,000 photons we're getting from some of our targets," said principal investigator Stuart Bowyer of the University of California at Berkeley. A photon is the smallest unit of light.

"I personally would have been a little happier" to see more of the nova, Bowyer said. "But as astronomers, that's not our job. We're supposed to find out what Mother Nature is doing. We're not supposed to tell her what she's supposed to do."

Overall, Bowyer said, the telescope had collected "a huge amount of data on a huge variety of different topics, things from nearby stars to the material between the stars to extragalactic objects."

The astronauts were to retrieve the telescope Sunday morning. Germany's space agency paid for most of the roughly $80 million project. The telescope and platform on which it's mounted are reusable.

As Discovery orbited around the world at 5 miles per second, the astronauts photographed the pulsating glow around the shuttle tail. The glow is caused by the impact of atomic oxygen and other gases on the orbiter surface.

"It's pretty impressive," astronaut James Newman said.

The astronauts were impressed again when they spotted Russia's Mir space station passing about 58 miles overhead.

"That's a unique opportunity," said shuttle commander Frank Culbertson Jr.

The crew sent down video shots of Tropical Storm Gert as Discovery flew over Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. The storm resembled a large mound of flour with a dark core.

They also transmitted scenes of forest fires in South America.

"It's a shame the picture you're getting now looks kind of hazy, but that's the way it really looks down there and that's from all the burning and clearing that's going on in the rain forest," Culbertson said.

Two crewmen sent special family greetings.

Culbertson displayed a sign that wished his daughter Ashley a happy 12th birthday. And Carl Wals flashed a scribbled note wishing his wife Pam a happy 17th wedding anniversary.

"I love you, and see you on landing day," Wals said.

Discovery's nine-day flight is scheduled to end with an early morning landing Tuesday at Kennedy Space Center.

Firefighters contain blaze that erupted at tree service

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

LONGWOOD — Longwood firefighters were called to the AAA Tree Service on CR 427 Saturday morning to extinguish a fire in a pile of limbs on the property.

The business, owned by Henry and Mary Hardy, sells firewood and grinds smaller limbs into mulch.

The fire was reported about 11:30 Saturday morning by firemen who were returning to their station.

A civil and criminal case are pending against Hardy and the business involving the dumping of mulch onto wetlands on the 17-acre property. An investigation is also being conducted to see if run-off from the site is contributing to the pollution of nearby Lake Griffin.

The property is up for sale.

Florida wins wild one

GAINESVILLE — Danny Wuerffel did his best to settle Florida's quarterback controversy, throwing for 251 yards and three touchdowns Saturday to lead the ninth-ranked Gators to a 41-34 victory over No. 5 Tennessee.

Wuerffel, who replaced Terry Dean as the Florida starter, finished with 19 completions in 38 attempts, while Errict Rhett rushed for 147 yards and two touchdowns for the Gators (3-0, 2-0 in the Southeastern Conference).

The Gators, who have not lost at Florida Field since 1989, extended the nation's second-longest winning streak to a school-record 20 games. Tennessee (2-1, 1-1) lost for the first time in seven games under Phillip Fulmer.

Tennessee's Heath Shuler completed 25 of 41 passes for 355 yards and five touchdowns in a losing cause. Billy Williams had TD catches of 41, 70 and 13 yards, while Cory Fleming scored on a 56-yard pass after the Vols fell behind 21-0.

Miami cruises

MIAMI — Frank Costa threw for 265 yards and the Miami Hurricanes forced five turnovers for a sloppy 21-2 victory over Virginia Tech.

The Hokies, who rolled up 675 yards a week ago in a 63-21 victory over Pittsburgh, advanced inside Miami's 20-yard line only once.

The third-ranked Hurricanes improved to 2-0 overall and in the Big East Conference. Virginia Tech fell to 2-1 and 1-1.

Miami's offense sputtered for much of the game. But two interceptions, two fumbles and a muffed punt return by the Hokies ruined any chance they had to pull an upset.

Costa, frequently harried by the Hokies' pass rush, was 18-for-37 with no interceptions.

The canes extended several winning streaks. They've won 52 games in a row at the Orange Bowl, 29 consecutive regular-season games and 59 straight over unranked opponents.

Marlins flounder

CHICAGO — Sammy Sosa's run-scoring single in the seventh inning broke a tie as the Chicago Cubs rallied for a 6-5 victory over Florida despite two, two-run homers by Orestes Destrade.

Sosa lined a single to right with two outs as the Cubs rallied from a 5-2 deficit. Jose Vizcaino singled with one out and Rich Rodriguez relieved Richie Lewis, walking Mark Grace. One out later, Sosa put Chicago ahead to stay.

Bill Brennan (1-1), pitched two scoreless innings for his first major league win and Randy Myers worked the ninth for his 47th save.

Seminole rebounds to knock off Oviedo

By RYAN ANDERSON
 Herald Correspondent

OVIEDO — Defeat is the best form of motivation.

After losing their Class 4A state ranking last week in a loss to Gainesville-Eastside, the Seminole Fighting Seminoles were determined not to make it two losses in a row.

The Tribe accomplished their goal Friday night with a 23-14 victory over the Oviedo Lions in a Seminole Athletic Conference football contest at Oviedo High School's John Courier Field.

"I take my hat off to Oviedo. They played a good ball game and were well prepared," Seminole Coach Ernie McPherson said. "I have said before that every time we play Oviedo, it is going to be a dog fight, and that's exactly what it was: a dog fight, right down to the final whistle."

The Seminoles jumped on the score board on their second possession with an 11-play drive capped by a 1-yard run by Robert Ruffin with 1:18 left in the first period. The two-point conversion run fell short.

Seminole increased its advantage on Oviedo's next possession. Punting from his own 15-yard line, Lion quarterback Ryan Hinshaw saw the snap sail over his head and he recovered in the end zone by Chris Bradley for a Tribe touchdown. Jason Walraven's extra point made it 13-0 with 11:35 left in the first half.

The Lions scored late in the first half on a 12-play drive kept alive by a penalty against Seminole for too many players on the field. Antjuan Battle finished the drive on an 11-yard scamper. The extra point attempt was short.

Seminole added to its lead in the third quarter when Walraven booted a 30-yard field goal for a 16-6 advantage.

Oviedo answered with a scoring drive of its own. Hinshaw connecting on a 3-yard pass to a wide-open Jimmy Jennings. Shawn Sams converted on the two-point conversion run, pulling the Lions to Quarterback Cliffon Branch (No. 7), who managed to elude Scott Dedlow on this play, helped Seminole rebound from its first loss of the season last week to beat Oviedo in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest Friday.

Lake Brantley follows lead of 'Double Jeffs'

By TONY DeBONNIE
 Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — While it may lack the pizzazz of "Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside," the "Double Jeffs" attack of the Lake Brantley High School football team is creating serious problems for opponents so far this season.

On Friday night at Lake Howell High School's Richard L. Evans Field, Patriot quarterback Jeff Shaw rushed for 167 yards and four touchdowns while fullback Jeff Butler ran for 201 yards and one touchdown to lead Lake Brantley to a 36-12 win over the Silver Hawks.

Lake Brantley, which is idle next weekend, improves to 2-1 overall and 2-0 in both 5A-District 4 and the Seminole Athletic Conference. Lake Howell, which hosts district-leading DeLand next Friday, is now 0-2 overall and 0-1 in the conference and district.

As in their first two games, the Patriots controlled the second half, scoring 20 points and compiling 236 yards of offense (all on the ground).

"We were thinking the same thing as the Lake Mary game last week," said Shaw. "We knew that when it came down to the wire, our offense was strong and could do the job. If we kept control of the ball and took time off the clock, that would help our defense, which is getting better every week."

While Butler only scored once — on a 1-yard dive to cap an 80-yard drive with 5:00 remaining in the third quarter — he was the focus of the Lake Brantley attack, carrying the ball on 22 of the Patriots' 46 offensive plays.

Even when Butler didn't carry the ball, Shaw almost always faked a handoff to him and he would crash into the line, drawing the attention of the defense. On four of those plays, Shaw got outside and found no-one between himself

Lyman coach Larry Baker's confidence in his offensive unit was well-founded Friday night, as the Grayhounds scored the game-winning touchdown on a 48-yard pass from Tommy Dixon to Willie Jones with 38 seconds left in the game to knock off the defending 5A-District 4 champion Mainland Buccaneers.

Dixon, Lyman get best of Mainland

By ROGER HARNACK
 Herald Correspondent

DAYTONA BEACH — Lyman quarterback Tommy Dixon engineered a 13-8 upset of defending 5A-District 4 champion Mainland Friday night at the Daytona Beach Municipal Stadium.

With only 38 seconds left in the fourth quarter and the score tied, Dixon completed his first pass of the game for 46 yards and a touchdown to Willie Jones to defeat the Bucs.

Not only did Dixon's pass seal Mainland's fate, it was the Grayhounds' first touchdown pass of the season and game Lyman its first win of the season.

"It's about time," said Lyman coach Larry Baker. "We are a young team and we needed this win. This was a confidence builder."

After a scoreless first half that saw penalties halt potential scoring drives, Lyman finally drew first blood on a 7-yard sprint by Kenny Lane midway through the third quarter. Mike Krupa's point after attempt failed.

It took a while, but Mainland finally answered early in the fourth quarter, taking the ball and scoring on a 12-yard Joe Gliddens pass to Dwayne Pellham, tying the game at 6-6.

Mainland opted to go two points on a fake extra-point attempt, but the Lyman defenders were ready and

DeLand ekes past Lake Mary

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — The Broadway Bullies are back.

Once a Central Florida football power, the DeLand Bulldogs had fallen on lean times the last few years, serving as something of a doormat for the Volusia and Seminole county teams.

But not any more.

Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Stadium, DeLand overcame its own mistakes and a furious comeback effort by Lake Mary to spoil the Rams' first home game of the year, 9-7, and improve to 3-0 overall and in the 5A-District 4 race.

The Bulldogs pushed Lake Mary around the field for much of the game, holding the Rams to 89 yards (29 in the first half) of offense, while rolling up 235 yards of their own through the first 42:48 of the 48 minute contest.

But DeLand was its own worst enemy, being flagged for 84 yards of penalties (63 in the first half), fumbling inside the Lake Mary 10-yard line, missing an extra point, and only averaging 32.8 yards on four punts.

It was a Ram fumble at the Lake Mary 20 on the opening play of the game that allowed the Bulldogs to take the lead. DeLand moved to the 4-yard line before the Lake Mary defense stiffened, forcing a 31-yard field goal by Brian Calkins that gave

Playtime titles still up for grabs

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — One week left in the regular season and hardly anything has been settled in the five Playtime Darts leagues.

Currently, not one of the league championships have been clinched and at least five teams in four leagues are still mathematically in the running for the four playoff spots.

HOY SHOTS

Duane Davis had six wins for M.T. Mugga. Ray Cisneros posted five wins, a bull, and a turkey. Rick Mann collected five wins, a bull, and an eight-throw fartout. Bob Crowe registered five wins and two bulls. Robert Khal also had five wins.

Cisneros, Mann, Crowe, and Ehnli all compete for teams sponsored by the Bamboo Cafe.

Jolyan Marsland topped the women's list with five wins and a hat trick for the Lake Mary Pub. Marta Hughes notched 4 1/2 wins for Uncle Nick's. Winning four games each were Allison Tomlinson of Bamboo Cafe, Lake Mary Pub's Katie Clements, Leesa Rhoden from M.T. Mugga, and Lake Mary Pub's Louise Morrow.

LADIES LEAGUE

Lake Mary Pub's Good Answer leads the way with 102 wins, seven games ahead of the Maimed Barbies, also from the Lake Mary Pub. The final two playoff spots will go to the Mugg Shots from M.T. Mugga (89 wins) and Nick's Nieces out of Uncle Nick's (88 wins).

Completing the league are Bamboo Cafe's Watch Your Back (68 wins); Lee's B's No. 1 of Lee's Halftime Pub (87 wins); Boneyard's Trastion (87 wins); and Lee's B's No. 2 (82 wins).

MEN'S A LEAGUE

Battling for first are Team No. 5 from Sir Walters (99 wins), Bamboo Cafe's The Family (99 wins), and the Eliminators from the Bamboo Cafe (97 wins).

Click's Team (89 wins) and Bad Company (88 wins), both from Bamboo Cafe, are scrambling for the final playoff berth.

They're trailed by Who Knows from the Lake Mary Pub (75 wins); and Bamboo Cafe's The Untouchables and M.T. Mugga's Salt and Pepper (both with 68 wins).

MEN'S B LEAGUE

Bamboo Cafe's Bamboosiers leads The Alternates from Sir Walters 104-100 in the race for first. The Pub Founders from the Lake Mary Pub are solidly in third place (87 wins).

Fourth will go to either Whiskey River's River Rats (72 wins) or the Bone Crushers of the Bone Yard (70 wins).

MIXED A LEAGUE

No-one has been eliminated from this playoff race yet.

The race for first is between Bamboo Cafe's Bamboo Bullets (118 wins) and Ron's Kids from Uncle Nick's (113 wins).

Rounding out the standings are Lake Mary Pub's It's That Nice (86 wins); Bamboo Cafe's The Under Team (83 wins); Lake Mary Pub's Playmates (77 wins); M.T. Mugga's The Bad Team (76 wins); and Lee's Luggers out of Lee's Halftime Pub (72 wins).

MIXED B LEAGUE

Closely bunched at the top of the league are Sir Walter's Bushwhackers (100 wins); Lake Mary Pub's Family Feud (99 wins); M.T. Mugga's Mom's Muggers (91 wins); and Bamboo Cafe's Ace of Aces (90 wins).

Still within striking distance are Bamboo Cafe's Crazy Darts (85 wins) and Lake Mary Pub's Kauchleheads (78 wins).

Completing the pack are Lake Mary Pub's Legends In Our Own Minds (61 wins).

within 10-14. When Demond Washington recovered a Clifton Branch fumble at the Seminole 15-yard line, Oviedo appeared to have seized the momentum. But the Tribe defense held the Lions to four yards, forcing Oviedo to try for a field goal. Kallan Edlich's kick was wide and Seminole took over on its own 20-yard line.

"I think our defense really rose to the occasion," McPherson said. "Our backs were to the wall. Oviedo had the momentum and our guys pulled it together and got the job done."

The Seminoles needed eight plays to capitalize on the missed field goal. Ruffin completing the drive with a 25-yard run. Walraven's extra point gave the Seminoles a 23-14 lead with 5:43 left in the game.

Oviedo's Oscar Duncan led both teams in rushing with 58 yards on nine carries. Ruffin led Seminole with 58 yards on 10 carries.

and the end zone, scoring on runs of 36, 45, 30, and 30.

Kelvin Chisolm led Lake Howell with 125 yards rushing, but most of that came in the first half as the Patriots limited Chisolm to 18 yards in the second half. Jackson Patkus rushed for 42 yards and a touchdown. Fred McCloud caught a pass that turned into a 60-yard touchdown play.

"We wanted to keep it close in the first half and wear them down," said Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon. "We knew they were going to come out and pound us. He (Lake Howell coach Mike Biasegna) is a great coach. He saw our weakness and tried to attack it. That worried me for a while."

"But we executed well and we didn't put the ball on the ground. We're getting better and better each week."

the Bulldogs a 3-0 lead they took into halftime.

DeLand scored its only touchdown of the game on the first drive of the second half, taking the opening kickoff and marching 63 yards on 10 plays (all running). Tracy Jackson scoring from the five. The extra point was missed and DeLand led 9-0 with 5:52 left in the third period.

Lake Mary was unable to get anything going. But just when it looked like the Bulldogs were driving for a game-clinching touchdown, a fumble gave the Rams life.

With the ball on the Lake Mary 20, tight end Wes Marshall took a Russ Kelton flip down to the five, where he was belted a crushing blow by Jermaine Harfield, forcing a fumble that was recovered by Lake Mary's Jason Perry.

The Rams then marched 95 yards on 14 plays, including a 28-yard hook-and-lateral play from Derrell Jackson to Tyson Hinshaw to Tyrant Davis on fourth-and-13. Derrell Jackson capped the drive with an 8-yard dash.

Just as Lake Mary was lining up for the extra point try, the lights on the home side of the field went out, forcing a 20-minute delay. Once the lights came back on, David Henkel nailed the extra point to make the score 9-7 with 1:06 left in the game.

The Rams tried the onside kick, but the bounding ball hit a Lake Mary player on the leg before the ball went the required 10 yards, giving the ball to DeLand at the Lake Mary 41. With the Rams only having one time out left, the Bulldogs were able to run out the clock on two plays.

Both teams will play 5A-District 4 contests next week. DeLand going to Lake Howell and Lake Mary hosting Deltona.

stopped the play. After the score, Mainland's defense began to show signs of over-confidence. That change in attitude of the Bucs' defense gave Dixon the edge he needed to come up with the big play for Lyman.

Despite having missed on his five previous pass attempts, Dixon went to the air and completed the game-winning pass to Jones. Krupa added the extra point to put the Greyhounds ahead, 13-6.

Keith Burgess led the ground attack for the Greyhounds, rushing for 93 yards on 13 carries. Danny Gandia, Christian Berglund, and Lane shared the punting chores with Burgess as Lyman compiled 174 yards rushing.

The Greyhound defense held Mainland to 182 yards of total offense, including 76 yards in the air.

After a week off, Lyman (1-2 overall, 1-1 in 5A-District 4) will return to action on Friday, Oct. 1, with a non-district game at home against the Edgewater Eagles. Mainland (0-3 overall, 0-2 in the district) also had a bye this week and will play again Oct. 1 at Oviedo.

'Parenting Without Pressure'

LONGWOOD — "Parenting Without Pressure" is being offered at South Seminole Hospital on Friday, Sept. 24, and Oct. 1, 8, 15, 22 from 7-9 p.m. in classroom 103.

This is a five week workshop that helps parents deal with confrontations before they arise. This innovative parenting tool dramatically decreases everyday hassles between parents and their children and allows adults to parent without pressure.

Macular degeneration steals vision

Macular degeneration is the most common cause of loss of central (reading and driving) vision in people over 50 years old.

The macula is the general center of the retina. The retina is the tissue that lines the inside of the back of the eye. The retina is like the film in a camera — it's the part of the eye that actually does the seeing. Although the macula or center of the retina deteriorates in this condition, the peripheral retina and therefore, the peripheral vision (side vision) is left intact. Therefore, no one ever goes blind in this condition — only central vision is lost.

There are two forms of macular degeneration. The first and most common form is in-volutional macular degeneration. A very slow, gradual loss of reading and central vision results from this form. The second form, exudative macular degeneration, occurs only in a minority of patients and has a more rapid loss of central vision associated with it.

"No one ever goes blind in this condition — only central vision is lost."

Robert B. Feldman, M.D.

Involuntional macular degeneration is caused by atrophy or a wasting away of the tissue of the center retina or macula. Exudative macular degeneration is caused by atrophy or a wasting away of the tissue of the center retina or macula. Exudative macular degeneration is characterized by the same atrophy along with membranes, full of blood vessels growing.

Children's overtraining injuries preventable

By IRA DREYFUSS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Grown-ups could prevent many sports injuries among children simply by being less demanding of the players, experts say.

Too much focus on how to play the game, and too little on whether the children's bodies are ready for it, causes the problems, according to a position paper of the American College of Sports Medicine.

Coaches, parents and doctors should concentrate more on improving a player's flexibility, strength and fitness, and on assessing whether the athlete has the right body type to do well in the sport, the report said.

Up to half of the injuries to children are preventable, the report states. But the authors, all doctors, note there is scant research to support the figure, and concede the estimate is based mostly on their clinical experiences.

"We guesstimated that 50 percent are due to training errors," said Dr. Lyle J. Michell, director of sports medicine at Children's Hospital in Boston.

However, there are plenty of injuries to keep doctors busy, said another drafter of the report, Dr. Jack T. Andriah.

"Certainly a good 40 percent of the injuries we see in the sports clinic in kids are overuse injuries," said Andriah, a pediatric orthopedic surgeon at the Cleveland Clinic.

Adult-organized sports are a typical cause, Andriah said.

"You don't get overuse injuries from kids playing in the playground," Andriah said. "You get them when you start practicing in a structured environment where there are rules like "You will practice an hour a day."

Training makes muscles stronger, provided the muscle is given time to repair the microtears it suffered in training.

Overtraining, too many repetitions of the same act — such as pitching a baseball, does not allow time for recovery.

"These microscopic overuse injuries may cause nagging, chronic pain or predispose the individual to sustaining a much more severe injury," the report said.

Children can be the best judge of when they have been working too hard, the researchers said.

"Kids have a very good ability on their own — better than adults — to sense when it's safe for them to do something," Andriah said.

Adults can help young athletes avoid injury by making sure they are flexible and strong. Flexibility exercises before practice can prevent strains and sprains, Michell said.

Strength training can build the athlete's ability to compete safely, especially if he is out of shape when he starts, the report said.

Strength and flexibility work should start a month or two before the sport's season, and increase no more than 10 percent a week in difficulty, the report said.

But this needn't force kids onto the field even sooner; a coach could, for instance, mail his players pre-season training regimens, Michell said.

Capturing spirit of Alaska

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Ken and Annette) Wing celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary a little early. They were married Dec. 30, 1963, but their dream trip on a dreamboat (or loveboat) does not set sail during the winter season, so they chose to celebrate early in order to fulfill their anniversary dreams.

And what a trip! They cruised for 11 days aboard Cunard's top of the line, Sagafjord, where they sailed the route of the glaciers in five star plus luxury.

"It was just a dream trip. A dream in every way," Annette said. "It was total relaxation, fabulous...breath-taking."

Ken said, "It was the nicest trip I ever had. Just fabulous."

The Wings flew from Orlando to Anchorage where they boarded the floating luxury vessel which was to be their hotel for the next 10 days. They sailed through the tranquil seas at night and explored the spectacular ports of call during the days.

They visited Homer, Seward, Valdez, Juneau, Skagway, Sitka, Ketchikan and several glaciers. They were impressed with the Columbia Glacier at Valdez which they visited via helicopter. "Breath-taking," Annette said. Ken was carried away with the cracking sound when portions of the glacier broke away and landing with a roaring splash in the icy waters.

Skagway, where the gold rush of 1898 originated, is covered with 100 feet of snow during the winter months. It was here that the Wings took a train into Yukon country to follow the trail of the brave frontiersmen.

The salmon spawning at Sitka, once called the Russian capital of North America, was most interesting to the Wings. They were fascinated with the birthing process including the young devouring the carcasses of their dead parents and the same babies returning to the same stream years later to spawn and die.

In addition to the historic day tours, night life aboard the ship was nothing short of the ultimate in glamour and excitement. Annette said the gourmet food was unreal...so much and so delicious... Three nights were completely formal and the Wings shared their dining table with a couple from Australia and another couple from British Columbia.

Wedding bells rang early Sunday

Hitchmon, Whatley exchange vows in little wood church

The sky was blue, with a cool breeze and the sun was shining brightly to dry the dew that was still on the grass. Family, friends and Christian well-wishers gathered early to get a seat. Sunday morning, 8 o'clock, the first Lord's day in September, the fifth, at the little wood church by the side of the road, the Glorious United Pentecostal Church of God in the country town of Osteen.

There was a sweet, sweet spirit all around, smiles on the faces of the early morning risers who were present to witness. "A Marriage Fellowship Uniting Carlton C. Whatley and Patricia Merritt Hitchmon. The dream was there with her name on it as the anointed wedding ceremonies began with a spiritual inspirational musical selection, "We Are Standing on Holy Ground" rendered by Sandra Petty, soloist and organist. "O, How He Loves You and Me" was sung by Gracia Muller Miller.

The processional began and all eyes turned toward the very lovely, vibrant bride and groom who with their bright smiles illuminated the entire church. One could see the rich spirit of happiness and joy as they proceeded to the altar to exchange their Christian vows. "And on the third day there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee...Jesus was invited." John 1:1-2.

Elder Barbara Gainey, pastor of the Glorious United Pentecostal Church of God, and the Rev. Amos C. Jones, pastor of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford, officiated. The altar call with prayer was made by Pastor Gainey to bless the couple, families and guests, as

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nathan rendered the musical selection, "Perfect Praise" on the saxophone and organ.

Scriptures of love, commitment and happiness were read to the couple. "Then the Lord God said it is not good for man to be alone; I will make him a helper suitable for him." Genesis 2:18. The repeating of the vows were officiated by Pastor Amos C. Jones. A special dedication to the couple, "Love is the Reason" was rendered by Sally Ann Saunders. Holy communion was administered to the newlyweds and their families by Pastors Jones and Gainey as the inspirational musical rendition of "Love, Joy, and Happiness" was played by the Nathans.

Carlton C. Whatley and Patricia Merritt Whatley were presented to the audience as Kamili Tajiri Hitchmon, son of the bride, paid tribute to the newlyweds with a saxophone rendition of "Walk With Me Lord." After this selection and his embrace of his parents, there wasn't a dry eye in the church.

The bride chose for her dream ceremony of love, an off-the-shoulder embroidered white tea-length Brandenburg lace dress designed by Marge Davidson. Her hat matched the dress with shoulder-length illusion veiling decorated with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of summer-bright flowers.

Camilla Barnes, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a bone color linen suit with embroidered sleeves. She carried a bouquet of summer mums to match her dress.

Gerald Betts, friend of the groom, served as best man.

Parents of the bride are Joie A. and Charles Merritt Sr. and Mrs. Corrie Merritt Wilson of Sanford.

Attending the wedding were the groom's daughter-in-law and his grandson, Donna and Keith Whatley of Miami.

The couple was joined by their guests for an old-fashioned reception breakfast under a beautifully decorated white tent with streamer bows. The guests □ See Hawkins, Page 6B

HEATHROW — Motorcycle enthusiasts are not Hell's Angels. Cissie Nall says.

She contends that the majority of motorcyclists are family people who enjoy doing things with their families and for those in need.

"It's all like one big happy family," Nall said.

Recently, motorcyclists from across the Seminole, Volusia and Orange county area gathered near Heathrow for the ninth annual Motorcycle Olympics.

"It's a really fun day," Nall said. "People from all over the region get together. You don't see everybody except for a few times a year, so this is really fun."

She said the motorcyclists dress a little differently and have different interests than the mainstream Americans, but their clubs serve the same purpose as any other social club.

"We're just like a social club or country club," she said. "We're just a little different, that's all."

Last Sunday's Olympics included family fun and games, music and food. There were vendors selling jewelry and clothing. There was face painting for the kids and tattooing for the little ones.

"Something for everyone in the family," Nall said. She said the motorcyclists have fundraisers for various organizations or causes throughout the year, but those events don't draw the full "family" of friends together the way the Olympics does.

"We had an event for the Chandler boy who'd been locked in the trunk of his car," she said. "We've done things for MDA and other charities too."

Phil Chandler was the victim of a carjacking and was locked in the trunk of his car by his assailants.

"We do what we can for other people," Nall said.

The money raised last week during the Olympics was donated to ABATE of Florida and will be used for various community service projects.

96th birthday

Annette S. "Ann" Latimore celebrated her 96th birthday at a party given by members of the Carriage Cove Crafters Club in the Carriage Cove clubhouse with Barbara Terhune serving as chairman.

Ann was born in New York City and moved to Sanford about two years ago from White Plains, N.Y. During her previous years, she was an accomplished seamstress, made all of her clothes and enjoyed all forms of needlecrafts. She also did clerical work and helped her husband in his business.

Ann lives near her only daughter, Evelyn Burgen, who helped with the birthday celebration. She is active and in good health except for failing eyesight.

At the party Barbara said, "There were roses, a birthday cake, cards, a few little gifts and lots of admiration." Ann was real excited about the celebration. She said, "Everybody's just wonderful here."

She considers herself to be fairly healthy and said, "I've been blessed."

10,000 mile motor trip

For several years, Marian and Lester Rethwill have planned their vacation according to the site of the Pilot International Convention which was held in Las Vegas this year.

The couple's vacations usually last three months with Marian at the helm of their motor home. This year, they traveled 10,000 miles and were away from home for 10 days shy of three months.

But the couple has friends, as well as relatives, scattered throughout the states.

They took 10 days getting to Vegas, visiting along the way, and toured California, Utah and Canada where Lake Louise was the "most beautiful" part of the trip.

They also visited with friends and family in Minnesota.

Wisconsin, Illinois, West Virginia, and Flo Taylor, formerly of Sanford, in Kentucky.

Marian said they encountered no problems and "felt safer" in monitored campgrounds than in motels.

Birthday congrats

Hold on to your hats, that very active Hardee Bunch has had another birthday. This time the gang honored Louise Bruce, a participant, of DeBary. Louise and her sisters, Hazel Johnson and Mildred Peters were brought up in Sanford.

Hostesses were Ann Hootelian and Mona Bridges who fashioned a money corsage for the honoree. "I'll never be broke," Louise laughed. "I'll never tear it up and use it."

Twenty-one members of the group gathered at Riverboat Willie's for dinner Monday to honor Louise on her birthday. Oh, what the heck. She doesn't mind the world knowing she is 67.

There were door prizes and Louise said, "We had a great time."

She is a retired hairdresser and was quite surprised when her husband, Robert, and her daughter, Leslie Dalton, showed up for the celebration.

Pilot had local ties

Television and newspapers carried headline stories of the crash of an ultralight on Labor Day in Leesburg, but no mention was made of the pilot's Sanford ties. Pilot of the aircraft was Max Weltstein Jr., 49, a teacher and football coach at Tavares High School.

Max was brought up in Leesburg, attended Florida State University where he played football and was a member of the Magnificent Seven and later went into teaching.

Over three years ago, Max married the former Vicki McArdle of Sanford, and from reports, they were sublimely happy. Also mourning the loss of their fine son-in-law are Oma Lee and Mac McArdle, and their daughter and her husband, Linda and David White.

All members and their guest prospective members are invited.

The next bridge social will be on Oct. 13 at the home of Man prefers skipping wedding to facing a cool reception

DEAR ABBY: My sister "Kim" is being married in two months. Since our father is deceased, Kim has asked me to give her away. She lives in a distant state. Now my problem:

I have met my future brother-in-law, "John," half a dozen times. He has always been rather cool toward me — although he has been warmer with the rest of my family. When I asked Kim about this, she explained that she had told John that I was gay (which I am) and that he strongly disapproves of gays!

Last weekend, I called Kim to discuss some arrangements pertaining to the wedding, and she told me I could arrive the day before the ceremony and indicated that aside from the wedding reception, there wouldn't be any other festivities.

Today, I called "Chuck," a cousin who is invited to the wedding, to see if he would like to share traveling expenses. I told him I was driving out on Thursday, two days before the wedding. Chuck then asked me why I wasn't going on Monday, like everyone else, for the family dinner that John's parents are hosting as well as the bachelor's party.

Well, I called Kim and found out that John and his family don't want "someone like me" around. Kim said she had to wheelie to get them to let me come to the church, because his family is very religious and they despise gays. He told her that my being at their wedding would be "a slap in God's face." (Never mind that Kim and John have lived together for the past two years.)

Abby, I love my sister, but I feel hurt, and now I'm not sure I want to lay out the money and time to go where I'm not particularly welcome. What should I do?

CONFIRMED BACHELOR, COCKEYSVILLE, MD.

DEAR BACHELOR: Kim surely knows that your sexuality is not a matter of choice. She appears to be immature, and powerless in the relationship, not a very auspicious beginning for a marriage.

Tell her that you love her and wish her well, but you would not feel comfortable attending a wedding where you are not particularly welcome.

DEAR ABBY: After years of reading your column, I have run into a problem and need some advice.

I usually choose the large-door restroom stalls in public buildings because they are roomier and more convenient.

Recently, I was confronted in a loud manner by a man in a wheelchair who scolded me for using the stall, which he felt was for the exclusive use of handicapped persons.

Never in a million years would I park in a parking space that was reserved for disabled persons, but I assumed that restroom stalls were a first-come-first-served proposition. Most of my co-workers agree with me — none of us is disabled.

What is your opinion?

PERPLEXED IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR PERPLEXED: An able-bodied person should not use a restroom stall intended for one who is disabled. If you enter a restroom and the larger stall is available, do not use it — a disabled person might come in and have an urgent need for it.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Lake Mary parents get a glimpse of elementary school student life

By SARABEGGA ROBIER
Herald Columnist

Parents of Lake Mary Elementary School students recently got an inside look at what their kids do every day.

Sept. 7, 8, and 9 were Parent Information nights. On each of these designated evenings two or more grades met in the auditorium before visiting classrooms.

Fifth grade parents met Wednesday. Sherry Jackson talked about upcoming field trips and the first PTA general meeting of the new school term, set for Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. At that time the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program will be introduced. DARE equips elementary school children with the skills and knowledge to resist peer pressure to experiment with alcohol, tobacco and narcotics. Parents were enthusiastically encouraged to attend this enlightening program.

On Nov. 16, the fifth graders will be going to the Environmental Center for "Wet Day," one of the highlights for fifth graders.

Also, toward the end of the year, fifth graders will hold their Third Annual Colonial Festival.

Each of the five fifth grade teachers discussed one aspect of the proposed curriculum for the year. Sonja Thomas discussed the science program. This is an "investigative hands-on approach with 'lab work.' The children are quite enthusiastic as they come in and say "What are we going to find out today?"

The "three areas that are incorporated are Life/Physical/Earth and they learn about life, plants, earth and matter. They will be using the Silver Burdett Science program and studying many new things about the world around them and about people and how they live.

It was suggested that parents can share in this learning experience with their child by picking some flowers or plants and together trying to locate the petals, stamens and pistils in each flower.

Margie White discussed language arts and that a lot of what the children learn will be in preparation for middle school such as perseverance, creating and accepting changes, courage to make the right decisions, learning about themselves and others, the challenges of nature and how appearances can be deceiving. A lot of attention will be given to making book reports, writing poems, stories, plays and making books. "It's going to be a very exciting year."

Terry Lawrence discussed the "Math in Action" book that students will be using this year. "Also, there will be a hands-on approach and that will incorporate math and science together in addition to practice on the computer. Students will have daily math-solving problems."

Diane Lebruto discussed social studies and said that the students would be studying "American history this year including the Revolution and the early colonies, as well as how our nation was formed and became great. World War II would be studied up to the present." "The wonderful thing about the colonial play that will be put on is that it takes history out of the textbooks and puts it into action."

Following the teachers' presentations, Principal Sherrill Casey introduced herself and Assistant Principal Joanne Beckner, and took questions from the floor.

Parents were then disbursed to their children's classrooms to meet with their respective teachers.

In Thomas' classroom, she said she was "teaching the students to stand on their own and to do a superb job and they would develop self esteem."

less than one percent of people may have an allergic reaction to the fluorescein; patients should tell their doctor before the test if they have any allergies or if they are pregnant). The dye travels to the eyes and pictures are taken with a special camera. Damaged areas are pinpointed when they light up from the dye. This guides the doctor in the laser treatment. A fluorescein angiogram can also confirm or deny the presence of macular degeneration. After the laser treatment is performed, the angiogram is then used to determine if the treatment was successful.

If you are over 50 years old, or if your family has a history of retinal problems, you should have your eyes checked regularly for problems like macular degeneration. Early detection and treatment may help prevent additional vision loss.

If you have already lost some of your vision because of macular degeneration or any other type of eye disease, there are low vision aids that may help you see better. Certain ophthalmologists or optometrists specialize in fitting people with low vision aids. Several types of low vision aids are available. Magnifying glasses, either hand-held or the table type are available, some with a built-in light. Strong bifocals are another low vision aid as well as eyeglasses with telescopic lenses. Magnifying television screens may also be purchased that greatly enlarge the page of a book. Talking books are available for people with severely impaired vision.

Other types of aids called daily living devices are available to help people with low vision. One of these types of aids is a small metal plate with a slot in it. The plate helps a person with poor vision sign their checks in the correct space. Many other daily living devices are available.

This is just a short list of the many services and benefits available to help a person with macular degeneration. For more information on these services and independent living programs, contact the Division of Blind Services. The Seminole and Orange County area's telephone number is 423-8305.

If a person is legally blind, there are extra tax deductions available such as higher homestead exemption. To receive many of these benefits, patients would probably need a statement from their eye physician stating that they are legally blind.

The Division of Blind Services can also provide a full list of financial benefits that legally blind individuals may be entitled to.

Robert B. Feldman, M.D., is an ophthalmologist with offices at Florida Eye Clinic, 100 Boston Ave., Altamonte Springs, and 1000 W. 23rd St., Sanford.

The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

Early detection is a must for successful treatment. That's where the Amler grid plays a key role. Patients with macular degeneration problems should check their vision using this grid at least three times a week. To use the grid, look directly at the center spot, straight ahead with one eye only. Do this at reading distance wearing your bifocals. If any major changes are noticed, such as blurring, laziness, distortion or lines and boxes missing from the grid, the patient needs to see an ophthalmologist as soon as possible.

A fluorescein angiogram is also used to help diagnose this condition. Harmless fluorescein dye is injected into the veins

Public Notice of Amendment to Community Development Block Grant Program Projects - County of Seminole, Florida. This notice is to inform the public of the following projects:

- Lachry's Subdivision Target Area Midway Target Area Sanford (Goldsboro/Georgetown) Housing Rehabilitation Target Area

Environmental Reviews were recently prepared for this multi-year project to evaluate a new activity to be undertaken by Seminole County Planning and Development Department, under provisions of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended. The project areas are located within the northern section of Seminole County and the City of Sanford.

Previous public notices for these projects were published on November 28, 1988, March 1, 1992 and September 28, 1992. At that time, these target areas contained the following activities:

- Housing Rehabilitation
Emergency Housing Repairs
Paving and Drainage Improvements
Water and Sanitary Sewer Improvements
Clearance and Retention Land Acquisition
Public Services

New Housing Construction activities carried out by eligible subcontractors pursuant to 24 CFR 970.20(a)(1) as part of a neighborhood revitalization project has been added to the target area projects. CDBG funds will be used to pay start and general administration expenses used to implement a first-time homebuyers program, including client eligibility determination, site acquisition, environmental assessments, approvals, arrange construction and mortgage financing, client counseling, contracting for construction, monitor construction, and general administration in the amount of $68,240. However, the construction of housing will be privately financed.

The construction of permanent housing for lower income persons will be located within each target area of unspecified sites, but will meet the County's environmental review site monitoring strategy. The project's goal is to provide housing to lower income persons in certain environmental factors from the project and the probable impact of the project upon certain environmental factors. Project modifications and alternatives were considered, and it was determined that the previous Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) for each project remains valid. Thus, no Request for Release of Funds and Certification is made to HUD.

An Environmental Review Record has been prepared for each of the above projects and may be examined between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday at: Seminole County Planning and Development Department, Community Development Section, County Services Building, Room 3301 1101 East First Street Sanford, Florida 32771. Public Comment on this notice may be submitted over a 15 day period following the date of the notice. Publish: September 19, 1993 DE1-149
