Massive Federal Sting Nets 3,400 Fugitives

From Staff and Wire Reports

A federal operation which led to the arrests of more than 3,000 fugitives wanted on felony warrants in Florida — the U.S. Marshals Service's largest roundup ever — was a "huge success," sources said.

The nearly 3,400 people arrested in the Florida operation, surpassed even the 3,309 fugitives arrested by the marshals service last year in eight Northeast states, the sources said Sunday.

Two Seminole County sheriff's deputies were assigned to work with the marshals through out Central Florida, Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said. Seminole officials are waiting until U.S. Marshals release more information on the operation on Wednesday, before commenting on the arrests, some of which were made in Seminole County, he said.

"The operation has been a huge success," one source told United Press International. "We picked up more fugitives than we ever dreamed possible. It's winding down now, but it's a success by any measure."

The marshals were aided by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and local police and sheriff's departments.

A Marshals Service spokesman declined to comment on the roundup, but Attorney General Edwin Meese has scheduled a news conference for Wednesday morning in Miami to discuss it.

The marshals operated throughout Florida as part of the Fugitive Investigative Strike Team, which the agents called "Operation FIST."

Marshals offered promises of free trips, dinners at exclusive restaurants, screen tests for movie extras, and other prizes to flush out the fugitives and fool them into identifying themselves. They were then arrested.

One woman was so surprised by a Miami scam that she asked agents after her arrest, "Can't we take care of this next week? I've won a free trip and I want to take that first."

One man called agents from jail, asking if he could reschedule his free trip at a later date.

Both bogus trips had been arranged by the Marshals Service in letters to the unsuspecting fugitives that began: "Congratulations! You are the winner of a weekend retreat in the Bahamas. Enclosed please find your Champagne-flight boarding pass."

Sources said the 11-week operation began April 1 and netted more than 30 murder suspects and hundreds of others sought on felony warrants for rape, robbery and aggravated assault. In all, more than 3,000 of the arrests were made on felony warrants, with the rest citing misdemeanor infractions or traffic warrants.

The Marshals Service operated from temporary quarters set up in Miami, Orlando, Tallahassee, Jacksonville and Tampa.

Many of those arrested were sought in other states, the sources said, but most were wanted on Florida warrants.

Last Nov. 21, federal agents announced the arrest of 3,309 fugitives in a two-month sweep of eight states from Maryland to Massachusetts. About 30 murder suspects also were arrested in that crackdown.

Then Attorney General William French Smith described that $2.5 million operation as "the largest and most successful manhunt in law enforcement history." Sources said Florida's sweep was more successful than the earlier operation.

At right, the bird bounds into the air, wings and talons flapping. The bird was released Saturday after the 10th race at Seminole Grayhound Park in Casselberry. He was found there earlier this year by workers who were renovating the park. Race proceeds were donated to the Birds of Prey Center.

Hostages Removed From Airliner

Location Unknown

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Amal militiamen today removed the hostages from the hijacked TWA Boeing 727 and took them to an undisclosed location in Beirut for security reasons, Amal militia leader Nabih Berrri said.

"I have personally ordered their evacuation because we were afraid of an operation or a battle in which all of them would have been killed," Berrri told a news conference.

In Washington, the State Department confirmed the passengers had been taken off the plane, hijacked four days ago by Shiite Moslem gunmen who demanded the release of hundreds of fellow Shites from Israeli jails.

Assistant presidential press secretary Robert Sims said the White House received a report that the hostages — about 30 and all Americans — had been taken off the plane and were in the joint custody of Berrri and the Shiite militia.

Sims said it was understood Berrri had taken responsibility for the hostages.

Berrri said the passengers were taken off the plane after midnight but gave no specific time and would not say where they were taken.

He said only the hostages were "somewhere outside Beirut airport."

Berrri said none of the hijackers were still aboard the commandeered Trans World Airlines jet.

Security sources said the passengers were taken off early today, when reporters were

Sanford Misusing 'Treasury Of Trees,' Board Says

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer
Second in a series

Evidence of the need for a change in the way the city of Sanford manures itself could not have been clearer than at the city commission's last meeting June 10. City Manager Frank Fulton requested that a private tree company be hired to remove 130 dead trees around town.

Some of the trees were ordered cut down in 1983 but are still teetering dangerously. Why did the city have to turn to a private tree firm to do the job? Because, as the Scenic Improvement Board says, the few members of the Parks and Recreation Department who do ground maintenance are already overloaded with work.

'Sanford cannot compete with south Seminole's modernity and newness unless we accentuate our uniqueness... Sanford's marketable charm and distinction rests in its historic integrity.'

Fulton said the workers were busy on a project at the marina and after they finish there they are scheduled to remove tree stumps at Chase Park on Celery Avenue.

They just don't have the time. In its 16-page Master Plan for Visual Improvements, the Scenic Improvement Board recommends a solution to this — add more maintenance workers, including a tree trimmer, to the parks department and don't plant anymore trees until the old ones are pruned or the dead ones removed.

The recommendations are part of the 13-point plan the board recommended to the city commission June 3. The commission will be discussing the report at its June 24 meeting.

In this, the second in a series of reports on the plan, more of the board's recommendations to get Sanford sparkling again are detailed.

Tree Plan

Sanford's majestic "treasury" of 100-year-old oak and other trees are treated in a way that's certain to kill them, the report said. Some of the trees are diseased and some are limb heavy, in desperate need of trimming, the board reported. The old and large palms around town receive no fertilizer and some died during the freeze, "leaving ugly dead trunks or a blank spot in an otherwise geometric row of trees," the report said.

To change this situation, the board recommends working with the Seminole County Urban Forester to devise a tree survey. The purpose of the survey would be to:

- Identify areas where there are tree problems or no trees.
- Identify diseased trees.
- Determine appropriate action.
- Present to the commission an organized long-term plan of action, including information about pruning, fertilizing and watering.

The board also recommends

Polk Gets OK For 8 New Staff

Sheriff John Polk got preliminary approval from county commissioners this morning for nine out of 31 requested new employees as commissioners kicked off budget work sessions for the 1985-86 fiscal year.

Commissioners Bob Sturm, Fred Streetman, and Barbara Christensen told Polk they will consider his request for the other 23 new employees later this week.

Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirchhoff were absent.

Approved by the commission with the recommendation of County Administrator Ken Hooper are four new corrections officers, a communications officer, three clerk typists, and life and health insurance clerk for total salaries of $160,000.

In his budget requests, Polk is asking for four new corrections officers, and a cook for the overcrowded county jail. He said increasing the number of corrections officers is absolutely necessary to show the state "a good faith effort" to bring supervision of inmates up to standard.

Polk requested an $11.5 million budget the year up 7.3 percent from over last year's $10.07 million. Polk reported to the commission that he will return to the county more than $1 million in revenues from a variety of sources including $620,000 from the housing of federal prisoners at the county jail.

Streetman urged the sheriff to consider including money for school crossing guards in his list of top priorities. Polk said he will submit a proposed budget of $150,000 for school crossing guards later today.

County Commissioners began budget workshops this morning with the choice of slashing department requests or raising taxes.

Base budgets hold on capital improvement, according to a report to the commissioners from its Office of Management and Budget. But the salaries and fringe benefits are up 18 percent from $18.1 million to $21.9 million, a 2.8 million increase.

The increased costs include more than $1 million for overtime salaries because of the Supreme Court decision requiring overtime payments for county employees, especially in emergency services such as police and fire. At the same time the cost of state retirement and social security are also going up.

Some $419,000 is set aside for 20 new employees, $212,340 for merit pay raises and $972,000 for other salary increases. In addition the cost of life and health insurance is up by 26 percent to $219,000.

Sugar Substitute NutraSweet Linked To Infant Brain Damage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two pediatric and genetic researchers say many pregnant women who consume aspartame, the popular sugar substitute sold as NutraSweet in soft drinks and other products, may have babies with permanent brain damage.

In a contention rejected by NutraSweet's manufacturer, Dr. Louis Elias of Emory University in Atlanta also said he believes a key aspartame component can cause similar damage to infants if they ingest it in the six months following birth.

"There's no reason why the pregnant female should be taking aspartame," Elias said, "and there's no reason why a child less than six months old should be taking aspartame." He said the damage may not show up for years.

Meanwhile, lawyers for a 5-year-old boy who a research team said became "unconsciously and wildly emotional" after drinking NutraSweet products have filed a $2 million damage suit against the product's manufacturer, G.D. Searle Co. of Skokie, Ill.

The suit, filed three weeks ago in Washington, charges that aspartame is an "unreasonably dangerous and harmful food additive" that causes permanent effects when combined with glucose and given to children under six years old.

It was disclosed last month the General Accounting Office is investigating the manner in which Commissioner Arthur Hull Hayes of the Food and Drug Administration approved aspartame in 1981 over the objections of several agency scientists who challenged brain tumor studies.

Officials of G.D. Searle, which last year sold more than $600 million in NutraSweet for diet soft drinks and other products, dismiss the allegations and criticisms of aspartame. They say the product has undergone the most extensive testing of any food additive ever approved by the FDA.

"I think quite clearly the data on aspartame does support the safety of the product," Roger Thies, Searle's associate general counsel, said in a recent interview.

Dr. Lewis Stegink, a professor of pediatrics and biochemistry at the University of Iowa who, with funding from Searle, performed some of the pivotal studies that supported FDA approval, said, "Am I concerned about the safety? The answer is no. Would I like to see additional studies done? Of course. That's what science is all about."

Dr. Richard Gaul, vice president for nutrition and medical affairs of Searle's NutraSweet group, said aspartame "has no adverse effects on the behavior of children" with the exception of a select group who are alerted to the contents in warning labels.

Elias, director of medical genetics at Emory, and Dr. Reuben Matalon, professor of pediatrics and genetics at

Not The Real Thing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Waving signs reading "New Coke? The gods must be crazy!" protesters in Union Square Saturday urged the public to give the soft drink's new flavor a resounding raspberry.

"It's not Coke!" complained Ken Passameneck, 48, life-long Coke drinker — until recently. The protest, organized by the Seattle-based Old Cola Drinkers of America, followed a suit filed Friday by the group to pressure Atlanta-based Coca-Cola Co. to return to its nearly century-old flavor.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court in Seattle seeks a temporary restraining order against the company and asks that the new formula Coke no longer be packaged like the old Coca-Cola.

The group cited violations of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act, the Washington State Consumer Protection Act and common law principles relating to fraud and misrepresentation.

NATION IN BRIEF

Mayors Ready For Battle Against Reagan Tax Proposal

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The nation's mayors marshaled forces to battle President Reagan's plans to eliminate federal revenue sharing with cities and to wipe out the federal income tax deduction for state and local taxes.

Committees of the 53rd U.S. Conference of Mayors Sunday approved resolutions attacking Reagan's effort to cut revenue sharing after fiscal year 1986 and condemning his plan to drop the state and local tax deduction.

Representing about two-thirds of the nation's larger municipalities, 180 mayors are attending the five-day conference but about 200 were chief executives of the largest cities — New York, Los Angeles and Chicago.

The committees also adopted resolutions opposing education vouchers, setting July 19 as POW-MIA Recognition Day, noting 2,477 Americans still are unaccounted for in Vietnam, and urging help for growing numbers of homeless.

Strike Over, But Issues Remain

CHICAGO (UPI) — United Airlines pilots and flight attendants are returning to work, but bitterness over the monthlong strike and several unsettled issues still cloud the friendly skies.

Court proceedings on the unresolved issues begin today. The issues concern about 570 newly trained pilots who refused to cross picket lines during the strike and a charge by the flight attendants' union of attempted intimidation by United.

Union spokesmen said U.S. District Judge Nicholas J. Bua will decide whether United must hire the trainees who were called up from their school in Denver the day after the pilots walked out.

United President James Hartigan said the airline will restore its schedule to 33 percent capacity by June 20, 40 percent by June 25 and "virtually all of the schedule will be back in operation" sometime in July.

Curfew Cramps Teens' Style

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city's trendy Westwood district, home to UCLA and everything else upscale, evicted all unescorted teens who wandered past curfew in a weekend crackdown.

Police arrested 21 juveniles, including a 7-year-old boy who was out for a night on the town with his older brother, in the two-night sweep that netted a total of 33 suspects, Sgt. Curt Hussey said.

Merchants in the area adjoining the UCLA campus — the city's busiest nightlife district, with a dozen first-run movie theaters, upscale shops and nearly 100 trendy clubs and restaurants — have complained that crowds of wandering youths were creating a "carnival-like" atmosphere that drove away adults and helped boost crime.

Spain Won't Bow To Hijacker's Demands; Israel Mum

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel will study any U.S. request to consider demands by hijackers of a TWA jet for the release of about 760 Shiite prisoners, a key government official said today.

The official, who declined to be identified, said no such request — formal or informal — has been received from the United States.

Spain, however, said it will reject demands by the hijackers for the release of two Lebanese Shiite Moslems jailed in Spain.

"The government can hardly agree to this request," said Foreign Ministry spokesman Fernando Schwartz Sunday night.

"The situation is very delicate," he said. "If we give in now, tomorrow they will do the same, multiplied by ten."

Schwartz said Foreign Minister Fernando Moran talked with American officials several times Sunday.

Among the demands made by the hijackers holding about 30 Americans in Beirut was a call for the release of Mohamed Rahal and Mustafa Jallil, who are jailed at the Alcala-Meco maximum security prison, 19 miles west of Madrid.

The two were arrested Sept. 12, 1984, hours after shooting and wounding a Libyan embassy employee in downtown Madrid. Police said the gunmen attacked Mohamed Idris, 45, to retaliate for the disappearance of Shiite leader Iman Musaa Sadr in Libya in September 1978.

Israel May 20 exchanged 1,150 Arab prisoners for three Israeli POWs — perhaps setting a precedent for a release of the

Retaliation Promised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A caller claiming to represent the militant Jewish Defense League threatened "very heavy retaliation" against Shiite Moslems in the United States if Jewish people aboard a hijacked jetliner were injured.

"We promise very, very heavy retaliation against Shiite Moslems in Washington, and in Pennsylvania, New York and Texas," said the woman caller in a telephone call Sunday to United Press International.

The caller said the JDL is awaiting word if reports are true that some passengers with Jewish surnames were taken off the hijacked TWA jetliner in Beirut Friday night and taken to an undisclosed location. The State Department has said it was checking the report.

"We are only waiting to see if the negotiations work," the caller said. "We would like to know if the eight people taken off the plane in Beirut are of Jewish religion," the caller said. "We have singled out a number of Moslem groups at various campuses and colleges and other places," the call said.

Shiites now.

The Israeli government has ordered a news blackout on the hijacking.

"Our views concerning terrorist acts are well known," a Foreign Ministry spokesman said. "It must be clear, in the case of the hijacking of the TWA airliner, that lives are at stake and we refrain at this point from making comments that might make the situation more difficult to resolve."

Asked to restate Israel's position, the spokesman said his country's view was "never to give in to terrorist demands."

At Atlit Prison, where the Shiite prisoners have been held since April 2, there was no sign today that any release was imminent.

Israel radio said "tens of thousands" of persons, shouting "Death to the terrorists," gathered in Tel Aviv's King of Israel Square Sunday night to protest the hijackers' demands.

A Defense Ministry spokesman told United Press International Sunday that Israel has planned to release the Shiite prisoners on a schedule determined by security considerations and the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Lebanon.

Israel postponed the scheduled release of about 300 prisoners last week because of Shiite attacks against Israel in the security zone.

Israel says it intends to free the Shiite detainees and to date has released more than 300 of them, including 121 in the May exchange, but Defense Ministry spokesman Nachman Shai said Israel has no plans to speed up the release.

Freed Hostage Describes Ordeal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A freed American hostage, whose son remained in the custody of hijackers, says he was given only hot water to drink during his three-day ordeal, and that the inside of the hijacked TWA jetliner was "a real pig pen."

But Bob Peel Sr., 59, of Hutchinson, Kan., who was released Sunday because of illness, emphasized that the message from the hostages to President Reagan urging that he not resort to a military solution to the crisis "was not written under duress."

"It is dirty, filthy, a real pig pen," Peel said of the plane. "There is food, clothes, checkbooks and money lying all over the inside of the plane."

"I have not had a meal for three days and only hot water to drink. No one liked what we were living through," said Peel, who was on his way back to the United States with his family when their flight was hijacked Friday.

He said his son, Bob Peel Jr., 33, was still being held captive but was "OK" the last time he saw him.

'I have not had a meal for three days and only hot water to drink. No one liked what we were living through.'

—freed hostage Bob Peel

Peel's wife, Esther L. "Lou" Peel, 59, was released in Beirut Friday. Released later in Algiers was the couple's daughter-in-law, Kristi Peel, 33.

The hijackers, who seized the plane Friday shortly after it took off from Athens, Greece, en route to Rome, had ordered airport authorities to bring an ambulance to the plane to pick up Peel.

"He's old, dizzy and very tired. We have no medicine here, let (the ambulance) come now," said a hijacker by radio. "Don't think that we want to release this man, but because he's tired and sick he's being sent away."

Looking disheveled and tired as he was put in an ambulance, Peel's shirt was unbuttoned and revealed a large blue bruise across his abdomen.

Peel said the bruise and suspected broken ribs were suffered in a boating accident and were not connected to a beating that the hijackers inflicted on some of their captors.

Peel Sr. owns Peel's Friendly Beauty Supply Co., a beauty shop wholesale firm that has been run in Hutchinson by the family for more than 45 years. His wife also has a business, Lou Peel Institute, where she is a makeup and fashion consultant.

The family had been on a trip with a group of customers of Redken Laboratories of Canoga Park, Calif., a beauty products manufacturer. The Peels left Wichita, Kan., June 7, and were on their way home.

Glen Gallart, general manager of Peel's firm, said the Peels originally were to be on a different flight, but were diverted to this flight because their first plane had mechanical trouble.

Hostage's Father Dies

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The elderly father of the hijacked TWA jetliner's flight engineer, fearing his son would be killed, suffered a heart attack and died minutes before Father's Day without word on his son's fate.

"He went right downhill as soon as he heard," Dr. Fred Mortensen said of the Rev. Elmer Zimmermann, 88.

The family first learned from television reports that Benjamin Zimmermann, 45, working his first overseas flight as an engineer, was aboard the plane hijacked Friday by Shiite Moslems.

Zimmermann, hospitalized last week for a heart ailment, had a heart attack Saturday and died late that night.

Mortensen said he believed Zimmermann would have died earlier Saturday, except for his will to see his son freed safely.

State Says Milk Linked To 28 Cheese Deaths Properly Pasteurized; Other Causes Sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Milk suspected of contaminating cheese linked to the deaths of at least 28 people was properly pasteurized, officials investigating the deadliest episode of food poisoning in California history say.

"The first and most critical thing that could have gone wrong was pasteurization," Hans Van Nes, deputy director of the state Department of Food and Agriculture, said Sunday.

"But they (investigators at the cheese factory) told me that they felt that pasteurization was excellent," Van Nes said. "The temperatures and all of the records were in order."

A breakdown in the pasteurization process, which kills disease-producing bacteria in milk, was among the likeliest candidates as a source of the contamination of Jalisco Mexican Products Inc.'s queso fresco and cotija cheese, Van Nes said.

A 15-member team of investigators from the state and federal Centers for Disease Control spent the weekend scouring the suburban Artesia plant to find out how the Jalisco cheese became contaminated with the bacteria Listeria monocytogenes.

Van Nes said the investigators would turn today to examining other ingredients and handling processes both before and after production. In addition, records of previous sanitation inspections will be checked, he said.

"There are some aspects of sanitation that are very critical — cleaning of equipment, handling of the product and cooling," he said.

Listeria infection is being blamed for 28 deaths and stillbirths and 59 illnesses — mostly Hispanic women and children — in the Los Angeles area since March.

Deputies Have No Clues In Drowning Death

An autopsy on a 13-year-old Orlando boy who drowned Friday in a swimming pool at an Altamonte Springs home showed his lungs were full of water, but Seminole County sheriff's deputies have no clues to the events surrounding the death.

Sheriff's investigator Sgt. John Thorpe said Tony Madison showed no sign of having hit his head on the pool before drowning. His body was recovered from the deep end of the pool and efforts by neighbors failed to revive him.

The boy, who apparently couldn't swim, had asked Maria Torragrosa, of 104 Valencia Loop, if he could go into the pool after he finished pulling weeds at her home around noon Friday. She said no, but he apparently went into the pool with his shoes off but clothing on, sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said.

Ms. Torragrosa heard the boy in distress and went to a neighbor for help. But the woman, Vicki Kontogloris, of 106 Valencia Loop, who grabbed a flotation device, said she couldn't swim and when she saw the body at the bottom of the pool she called police.

Other neighbors pulled the boy from the pool, but he was dead at the scene, Spolski said. The boy usually did yard work with his father, Ernest, Spolski said, but his father wasn't at the scene.

The autopsy was performed Saturday at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. Thorpe said deputies have no clues as to exactly why the boy drowned.

Ban On Payments To Defense Contractor Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two congressmen say they will ask the House to bar payments, at least temporarily, to Hughes Helicopter because it could not back up millions of dollars in bills it sent to the Pentagon.

House Armed Services Investigations subcommittee Chairman Bill Nichols, D-Ala., and procurement subcommittee Chairman Sam Stratton, D-N.Y., said Sunday the firm's records were a mess when subcommittee and Pentagon investigators took a look at billings for overhead from 1979 to 1983.

The helicopter operation, which was purchased last year by aviation giant McDonnell Douglas, could not provide data to back up 40 percent of its billings, said Nichols, and the records "were in a deplorable state. Hughes' accounting system is neither accountable nor systematic."

Stratton said he plans to offer an amendment to the defense authorization bill, due before the House Tuesday, "to prohibit any payment to Hughes until it establishes an accounting system that can produce the backup data essential for government auditors to check the accounts."

Jerry Meyer, McDonnell Douglas communications vice president in St. Louis, said the firm believes there is no need for punitive action because Hughes has developed a plan for correcting the bookkeeping problems.

"We think we'll be able to demonstrate quite rapidly that Hughes Helicopter has in fact come up to snuff," said Meyer, saying the firm "realized almost since the purchase of Hughes" there were problems on the years in question.

He said the corrective plan was coordinated with the Army and the Defense Contract Auditing Agency, which had reviewed the records, "and we're now in the process of taking steps to make sure (the plan) is fully implemented."

Nichols said the auditing agency had to suspend a review of Hughes' overhead billings in February because Hughes could not furnish basic records and supporting documentation to back up its billings.

Tax-Plan Bandwagon Rolling Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan tax reform bandwagon plays before new but familiar audiences again this week, picking up a head of steam as the initial reaction in Congress turns from measured interest to skepticism.

The White House has arranged a full slate of events that will enable President Reagan to mount his soapbox and preach overhaul of a tax code he denounced last week as "inherently unjust" and "ready for the ash heap of history."

Today, the forum was a meeting with small-business leaders at the White House. Tuesday, Reagan probably will raise the issue during his first prime-time news conference in three months.

Later in the week, the pitchman-president is on the road again, selling his tax plan Wednesday to the national convention of the U.S. Jaycees in Indianapolis and members of the Lions Club International Friday in Dallas.

The day trips will bring to 10 the number of states Reagan has hit since unveiling his proposal May 28 for redesigning the tax code by lowering rates in exchange for eliminating many popular deductions, exemptions and credits.

By the Fourth of July, Reagan will have taken his crusade into the West, exhorting Americans to join his modern-day rebellion — the top domestic priority of his second term — against the present tax system and its special-interest protectors.

Reagan resumes his hard sell as Congress opens a new round of tax hearings following sessions last week that saw the president's proposals come under the strongest attacks yet — not only from the special interests he has ridiculed as "sharks" but also from lawmakers of both parties.

Democrats called for changes to make the proposal more equitable for the middle class and poor. The administration, knowing of the tough fight ahead, vowed to fight any further shift of the tax burden from individuals to corporations.

One new entrant to the fray is organized labor, which attacked the plan with vigor last week, alleging its provisions would retain many tax breaks for business but offer middle-class Americans little relief.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill contended the Reagan plan would be "another windfall" for the wealthy.

But Reagan and his strategists believe the best bet for building pressure on Congress is to portray his proposals as profamily and providing bigger personal exemptions.

Reagan bolsters his argument for the abolition of such longstanding items as the deduction for state and local taxes — perhaps the most controversial element of his plan — by arguing most Americans do not even file itemized returns and, therefore, do not benefit in the first place.

Canada Finally Gets A Bill Of Rights

By Les Whittington
Editor's note: Whittington covers current affairs in Canada for Southam News, a Canadian newspaper group.

TORONTO — Nobody has ever doubted for an instant that Canada was committed to democracy, perhaps even more so than the United States. Until recently, however, that commitment had been in practice rather than on paper.

But now, for the first time since its creation as a nation 118 years ago, Canada has a bill of rights that guarantees basic liberties. And the new document could disrupt the country's legal system.

Established in April, the wide-ranging Charter of Rights and Freedoms assures Canadians protection against all forms of age, sex, race, religious or ethnic discrimination, and even provides equality for the mental and physically handicapped.

So it may be that Canadian civil rights activists, who have long looked at the United States with envy, will now find Canada more liberal than America — at least in its statutes.

Under the new charter, for example, Canadian women are going to be far ahead of their American sisters, who have been struggling for years in their campaign for an Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

The Canadian document will certainly prompt thousands of suits that challenge existing laws, from workers demanding compensation for injury, prison inmates denied the right to vote, and minorities claiming that they are being unfairly treated.

The minister of justice, Joun Crosbie, views the innovation with a mixture of pride and concern. Hailing the "new era," he warns that "every law is in danger" of being tested.

The enormous legal complications that lie ahead include the question of the status of citizens in Quebec, the French-speaking province, whose regime refused to subscribe to the national constitution.

Such issues could tie up the courts for years ahead, imposing what Claude Thomson, president of the Canadian Bar Association, calls an "onerous burden" on the judiciary if it is forced to re-examine the nation's legal texts in detail.

The bill of rights is likely to change the role of Canada's courts, and give them the kind of authority judges have in the United States. Formerly, power was mainly vested in the federal and provincial legislatures, a legacy of the British colonial heritage.

The slow process of change began in 1982, when Queen Elizabeth signed a new Canadian constitution. Its civil rights provisions were delayed for three years, however, until the federal and provincial governments could review their statutes — a task that is far from completed.

After looking at more than 1,000 federal laws, a parliamentary committee has estimated that considerable sums will be needed to underwrite the various groups and individuals who will almost certainly request funds to launch legal actions under the new charter.

David Baker, whose organization is concerned with the handicapped, reckons that a single case would cost as much as $50,000, or one-seventh of his total annual budget.

Predictably, some left-wing factions have reservations about the charter, contending that it is filled with loopholes. The argument is not without merit, since much will depend on how the courts interpret and enforce the document.

FBI Official:

Friendly Persuasion Used To Recruit Spies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviets trying to recruit Americans as spies generally apply friendly persuasion, often over lunch or dinner, instead of blackmail to draw them in, the FBI's chief of intelligence says.

Assistant FBI Director Edward O'Malley also says the spy game is not the adventurous stuff of novels and movies; rather, it is tedious work done by people with concerns other than ideology.

O'Malley, in a wide-ranging interview last week in his office at FBI headquarters, declined to discuss the recently uncovered family-and-friend spy case but spoke in general about espionage in the United States.

Michael Walker, his brother Arthur, his son John and Jerry Whitworth, who all served in the Navy, are accused of funneling Navy secrets to the Soviets for as long as 20 years.

The case, which broke with John Walker's arrest May 20 and still is under investigation, has been called the biggest espionage ring in 30 years.

The case is prompting members of Congress and the intelligence community to call for limiting security clearances, using polygraph tests to screen people with security clearances and enacting the death penalty for peacetime espionage.

There are now 15 spy cases pending in the courts, the most ever, but O'Malley says, "It's very dangerous to try to come up with a profile of a spy, and once having done that, to use that profile to identify spies."

"It's not the way we do business. There are certain things that are fairly obvious ... a lack of patriotism, a lack of loyalty to institutions," he said.

In recent years, O'Malley says, the FBI has identified the method of operation used most often by the KGB, the Soviet intelligence service, and other East-bloc agents to make contact with Americans who might pass secrets.

"What they (the KGB) stress when trying to recruit a target is friendship," O'Malley says. "Coercion and blackmail are not used. The approach is one of friendly persuasion to encourage loyalty on the part of the target."

In many cases, a KGB agent will meet a potential target at a scientific convention, a university or a singles bar in northern Virginia, where the CIA is based, O'Malley said.

"The KGB is very patient, O'Malley said. An agent will spend time cultivating the friendship and looking for the target's weaknesses.

"Mainly, as I've said many times before ... the motivation that transcends all others that we see in this country is money," he said.

"I can assure you, it's anything but glamorous. Most of what an agent does will not involve James Bond-type scenarios. It's humdrum, tedious and dangerous."

In the last six years, the FBI has started a special awareness program for civilian defense contractors. The program has been in touch with 9,000 defense contractors to educate them about espionage.

"Soviet officials here don't have much money to spend on things," O'Malley said. "The odds are that if a Soviet purchases lunch or dinner for someone, that is an intelligence officer — not always, but the odds are there."

Man Suspect For Foiling Burglar Alarm, Stealing

A man who helped a bartender close a Longwood bar and claimed to have set the burglar alarm has been charged with burglary and grand theft after allegedly returning to the bar and taking cash from a hiding place.

The suspect reportedly helped Anita Montgomery close Woogies at the 434 Center, at about 2 a.m. Wednesday. Longwood police alleged he returned to the bar, entered through a door he had unlocked earlier and took about $235 from a hiding place.

The suspect had reportedly told Ms. Montgomery he had set the burglar alarm when she was closing the bar earlier that evening and it didn't go off when the business was burglarized, a police report said.

Arthur Robert Rippey, 18, of 1340 Boyer St., Longwood, was arrested at the Longwood police station at 3:39 p.m. Friday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

GUITAR MAN

An 18-year-old Longwood man, had been charged with burglary and grand theft in connection with the theft of an electric guitar and amplifier from a Winter Springs church.

Winter Springs police reported the items were stolen from the Winter Springs Baptist Church, after a window of the church was broken.

Jon Scott Blankenahop, 18, of 1405 Parrot Way, was charged in the case at 6:40 p.m. Friday. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect who may have taken $75 cash, a $15 computer tape and seven magazines from her home on Friday or Saturday.

Two shotguns, a necklace and a $350 stereo are missing from the home of Bruce McGonigal, 22, of 1097 Black Acre Trail, Casselberry. He gave deputies the name of a suspect and reported the items, with a total value of $1,263, stolen on Friday.

A stereo and 36 record albums, valued together at $150, were stolen from 619 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, a police report said. Mark Najanick, 18, discovered the items missing when he returned home Tuesday, the report said.

Two radios, together worth $150, were stolen from a 1983 Jeep parked at the Auto Train, 600 Persimmon Ave., Sanford. The radios and vehicle belong to William Thompson, 66, of Sanford. The theft occurred between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, a police report said.

About $1,000 worth of television sets and stereo equipment was stolen from Faye Cashe's home at 410 Bay Ave., Sanford, on Wednesday, police reported.

Someone broke into the Dunan Brick Co., 702 S. French Ave., Sanford, between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning and stole a $44 radio and a cash box containing $50, police reported.

WANTED CLOTHES

A 28-year-old Altamonte Springs woman who said she wanted her clothing has been charged with trespassing, burglary and battery after allegedly breaking into the apartment where her clothes were supposed to be and assaulting the male occupant.

Police were called twice to the home of Daniel R. Kupfer, 101 E. Altamonte Drive, #1331, Altamonte Springs, which the woman also listed as her address, a police report said.

Kupfer told police the woman broke a window about 2:30 p.m. Sunday, entered his home and demanded her clothing. He told her he had given her belongings to friends of hers. She allegedly attacked him and he forced her from the home, the report said.

The woman was at the scene, outside the apartment, when police arrived. Kupfer refused to press charges but police, at the request of the apartment complex manager, issued a trespass warning to the woman.

The woman walked away, but in about 10 minutes police were called back to the apartment. She was spotted outside the home with a small steel pipe in her hand and broken glass from a window around her feet. Her feet and hands had been cut by the glass, the report said.

Kupfer decided to press charges and Carmon Elaine Cromody, 28, was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Daniel P. Pursell, 31, of 1086 S county Road 427, Longwood, was arrested at 10:30 p.m. Friday at his home after a motorist stopped a Longwood policeman and told him his car had been involved in an accident with Pursell's vehicle. Pursell had allegedly left the scene and the other driver tracked him to his home and then led police there to make the arrest, a police report said. He was also charged with leaving the scene of an accident with injuries and careless driving. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

—Robert George Yates, 50, of 231 S. Short St., Longwood, at 6:57 p.m. Friday on Crystal Lake Avenue, Lake Mary, after motorist told police they had seen his pickup truck run off the roadway.

—Zackrie Taylor Dunn, 30, of Dade City, at 2:50 a.m. Saturday after his vehicle failed to maintain a single lane on state Road 434, Oviedo.

—Johnny Melvin Ragdale, 23, of Orange City, at 1:15 a.m. Saturday on First Street, Sanford, after driving on the wrong side of the road.

—Raul Landin Villarreal, 25, of 852 Church Ave., Longwood, at 2:16 a.m. Saturday after driving erratically on U.S. Highway 17-92 from Casselberry to Fern Park.

'People Just Love To Holler'

SPIVEY'S CORNER, N.C. (UPI) — The newly crowned winner of the 17th Annual National Hollerin' Contest says letting loose with ear-splitting screams is a relaxing hobby.

"Whenever I feel bad, I haul off and holler and it makes me feel good," said James Grastie Jr. of Fayetteville, N.C.

Clad in bib overalls, a worn felt hat and sunglasses, Grastie clutched the microphone and emitted sounds like a wild animal Saturday to win the hollerin' title.

Ginger McLamb of Linden, N.C., swept honors in the women's hollerin' competition with a loud rendition of "Dixie" and the names of her four children, screamed just as she always does when she announces dinner time on the family tobacco farm.

More than 5,000 people gathered for the contest and other festivities, and some occasionally were inspired to let out a few hollers of their own.

"People just love to holler, and I just love to listen," said Claude Green of Roseboro, N.C.

Though some hollerin' entries drew chuckles from the crowd, 1970 hollerin' champion Herman Oliver said he did not think his talent should be regarded as a joke.

"Back on the farm, it was used as a tool," he said. "You'd holler to your neighbor if he needed help."

Just Wait Him Out ...

The good news is that the conservative New Democracy Party gained ground in the Greek parliamentary elections on June 2. The bad news is that Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu's Socialist Party retained its slim majority.

Ever since Mr. Papandreu came to power in 1981, he has posed a problem for the Western alliance in general and the United States in particular. He has pledged to pull Greece out of NATO and the European Common Market. Similarly, he has threatened to close the four major U.S. military bases in Greece. Although he has done neither, the Greek leader has boycotted NATO military maneuvers in the Aegean Sea — Mr. Papandreu worries more about Turkey than the Warsaw Pact — and opposed the deployment of Pershing-2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe.

At the same time, Mr. Papandreu has gone out of his way to side with the West's enemies. He refused to support economic sanctions against Poland for smashing Solidarity. Worse, he went to Warsaw, condemned the beleaguered trade union and praised Polish strongman Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski as a "patriot." And, although Mr. Papandreu's visit coincided with the murder of Polish priest Jerzy Popieluzsko, he said nary a word about it.

The Greek prime minister excuses the Soviet Union's shooting down of KAL 007, charging that the Korean airliner was on a CIA-sponsored spy mission. He downplays the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, suggesting that Moscow has a right to secure its borders. He lauds Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy and allows his "death squads" to march in Athens under police protection. He also embraces Yasir Arafat and the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

Mr. Papandreu defends his fractious foreign policy by suggesting that it makes good sense for small countries to send "uncertain signals" to their allies. Still, Greece's erratic behavior during these last four years has been an embarrassment to other semi-neutralists in NATO.

The same fuzziness of purpose has pervaded Mr. Papandreu's domestic economic policies. Beginning with a burst of nationalization and deflation, he has been forced by economic realities — more than 18 percent inflation, two years of falling real income and a staggering foreign debt — to rein in some of his profligate programs. Nevertheless, the bloated public sector is still squandering money and the private sector is paralyzed. Unemployment hovers at about 10 percent and the inflation rate is three times that of any other Western European country.

These daunting domestic problems explain in part why Mr. Papandreu dwells on denouncing America and the West. He tells many Greeks that they want to hear, namely that their country's problems are caused by outsiders. His demagoguery includes denouncing the United States as "the metropolis of imperialism" bent on the "perpetual accumulation of capital," which supposedly smothers the aspirations of smaller nations such as Greece.

This and other anti-American diatribes have damaged Greece's credibility in Washington. Accordingly, there is a move afoot in Congress to send Papandreu a message by cutting off all U.S. aid to Greece and canceling the military-base agreement that is scheduled to expire in 1988.

However tempting, this response would be shortsighted for several reasons. Denying Greece economic aid would prompt Mr. Papandreu to seek help from Moscow. Worse still, the absence of U.S. naval bases in Greece could alter the strategic balance in the Mediterranean.

The Reagan administration should, therefore, resist any congressional attempts to pull the plug on Greece. Instead, the president must bide his time and wait for the Papandreu government to self-destruct. Once that happens, perhaps Greece will once again become a reliable ally.

Functional Illiteracy Current Fashionable Crisis

Prepare for another crisis: functional illiteracy. It's on "Nightline." It's on newspaper op-ed pages. Jonathan Kozol has written a book about it titled Illiterate America. Kozol's alarmist tract is best summed up on the volume's jacket: "One out of every three adult Americans cannot read this book." I urge that the remaining two out of three — don't bother.

It's not that the lack of reading skills among some adults isn't a problem in America; indeed it is. But Kozol's analysis is so exaggerated, illogical and politicized that it is useless. (He says we purposefully mal-educate the oppressed, and they must now be mobilized to express their rage.)

Unfortunately, Kozol is not merely one radical educator. In an overblown way he echoes some seminal silliness in the broader education establishment, including, in some respects, the conservative parts of it.

Thus, Kozol attacks Census Bureau data that maintain that 99 percent of adult Americans can read and write. Using a variety of studies, he says 60 million adults are either "functional illiterates" or "marginal illiterates." Much of his data come from government studies, including ones from the Department of Education and the National Institute of Education. These days, conservatives like to trumpet such crisis numbers to prove education is in bad shape because of prior liberal policies.

The thing is preposterous — left and right. We are being victimized, not for the first time, by "definition inflation." What is a "functional" or "marginal" illiterate, anyway? Kozol says that functional illiterates can't read a menu, can't read traffic signs, can't use a phone book. How many such 15-year-olds do you know who can't read "french fries" on a menu? Elsewhere Kozol says that if you can't understand an insurance policy or a tax form, even you may be an illiterate. (Me, too.) In short, the numbers are vastly over-inflated.

Is there a problem? Yes. Actually, two problems. Kozol and others correctly note that we need greater literacy these days; learning to program a computer requires more reading skill than learning to plow a field. Secondly, some of our children are not getting as good an education as they should. Why? Because schools followed advice offered earlier by Kozol and others — less discipline, relaxed curriculum standards.

What's the solution? Surely not the revolutionary one Kozol suggests. He wants a $10 billion-a-year program whose goal is "civil disobedience" to denounce "imperial injustice" imposed by "dynastic power." (That's us.)

Isn't there a more sensible posture? Let's acknowledge that we've made some real headway; that we've made some dumb mistakes; that we've got to set up tough standards in our schools; that we ought to help re-educate adults who want help; that this is a problem where governments can help. And let's do it without breast-beating, without America-bashing.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Change Is Not Reform

John Randolph of Roanoke, the great Virginia statesman of the early republic, was fond of reminding his countrymen that "change is not reform." It's too bad that he isn't around today to remind contemporary Americans of that in connection with the Reagan administration's tax proposal.

This proposal, or series of proposals, is being sold to the public as conservative populism. However, columnist George Will has rightly said that conservative populism is an oxymoron, a combination of words as meaningless as "honest thief." Populism, in the event anyone is unclear, is old-style grassroots liberalism built around cheap greenbacks, inflation and large helpings of political bombast. Populism never helped anyone anywhere.

Unquestionably, the goal of tax reform and IRS code simplification is an important one. And as the Congress and the public study the fine print in the many features of the administration proposal, worthy things undoubtedly turn up. Realistic observers, however, would do well to focus attention on specific features of the proposal which are damaging and should not be enacted into law.

One of the sharpest analyses of the "tax reform" comes from Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman Brothers. In a recent bulletin, Mr. Sinai delineates the principal characteristics of the tax program, which he describes as "a radical change from current law." One of these characteristics is "higher business taxes" with the elimination of the investment tax credit and limitation of depreciation write-offs for investment in plant and equipment.

To impose new taxes on business may be the essence of populism, but it also is likely to lead to a loss of job opportunities as business becomes reluctant to invest in new plant and machinery. The United States already had a severe problem in that area. Business already had difficulty retaining earnings.

There's no question but that the tax proposal represents what Mr. Sinai calls "a stroke of political acumen." On the other hand, the plan seems to contain heavy borrowings from the President's liberal opposition. It's yet to be proved that this particular "tax reform" plan will generate the capital essential for the creation of industrial jobs and a prosperous future for America. This means that Congress has an obligation to get down to the nitty-gritty and determine the impact of this plan on the productive, wealth creating industries of the country.

WASHINGTON — What would you think if the Justice Department announced that it was doing away with its subpoenas and grand juries and was going after underworld leaders by "begging" them to tell what they know, by promising to keep their testimony secret and by paying them for their information?

You'd think the Justice Department had gone bonkers, wouldn't you? Well, believe it or not, the Justice Department supports the Pentagon's identical handling of defense contractors who are asked to help with military investigations into fatal accidents, design errors and mechanical malfunctions involving weapons the contractors sell to the armed services.

JEFFREY HART

Murder In Essence

The plot to murder the pope has frequently been called, with much justification, the crime of the century. The puzzling thing about it from the start has been the reluctance of the Western media to recognize what was staring them in the face, and the entire failure of the U.S. government to exploit the crime for purposes of political warfare throughout the Catholic world.

With a few honorable exceptions, Western media downplayed the crime and the accumulating evidence that pointed to its political and international character. The New York Times first assured its readers that Mehmet Agca appeared to have acted alone. Then, when the Bulgarian connection surfaced, opined editorially that some loose-cannon zealots in the Bulgarian secret service were probably acting on their own — a proposition that anyone familiar with the relationship of the KGB would find stupefyingly ridiculous. Clare Sterling, Bernard Kalb, John Wallach, and a few others laid out the facts and their meaning to the public. Nevertheless, a peculiar silence continued to surround the story.

From the start, our diplomats and CIA people have discounted the idea of a conspiracy — even as Judge Martella, a universally admired Italian jurist, meticulously assembled the evidence. I myself was told directly by a high CIA official that the agency had no reason to believe that there had been a conspiracy.

And, certainly, we have not used the plot against the pope to damage the communists in Latin America, for example. The impact there of a widely circulated documentary film on the matter would be politically devastating to the Soviets and their local allies, but we have done nothing of the kind. The explanation remains mysterious.

My colleague and friend William Safire writes in his column that the media hung back as long as Andropov was the Soviet leader. He reasons that the implications of the plot were just too horrifying. Any scheme that momentous would have had the approval of the Politburo, which means Brezhnev, Andropov and the others; and Andropov, at the time of the murder attempt head of the KGB, would have been the man who ran the show directly. Safire thinks the media ignored, or mostly ignored the story because, with the elevation of Andropov, the need to do business with the chief hit man himself was just too horrifying. Now that Andropov is gone, everything has changed. Gorbachev can say Not Me. The media people are flocking to the trial.

There may be something to that analysis, but it does not seem to me to go far enough. Now that the trial is receiving media attention, the crime of the century is still not being seen as a spectacular revelation of the Soviet mentality and the Soviet system itself. The assassination attempt is of a piece with the shooting down of the Korean Airliner 007, with the regular murders at the Berlin Wall, with the Gulag. The shooting of the pope was yet another revelation about a system that is based upon the normalization of sheer brutality, a system that knows no restraint upon such brutality.

Perhaps that recognition is also too painful for the U.S. government itself to face, and hence its failure to exploit the assassination attempt as a weapon of political warfare.

To a certain extent one sympathizes with them. Looking directly at it is indeed unpleasant, and it makes it repellent to do business with the Soviets.

But it would be much healthier in the long run if we faced the double truths: that on some questions our self-interest requires that we do business with the Soviets, but, equally true, that the very system we are dealing with is murderous in its essence.

ROBERT WALTERS

Drying Up The Pork

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When the House of Representatives recently refused to appropriate any money for 31 water development projects, it perpetuated the congressional tradition of doing the right thing for the wrong reason.

Water projects, although often economically unsound and environmentally destructive, long have been treated with exceptional reverence and respect on Capitol Hill.

That's because they offer a unique opportunity for members of Congress to demonstrate their ability to produce federal largesse, in the form of multi-million-dollar government contracts, for their states and districts.

Thus, the House acted out of character in early June when it voted, by 203-202 margin, to strip from a supplemental appropriations bill water projects that were expected to cost almost $100 million this year and approximately $1.5 billion when completed.

That surprising House vote was, in great measure, the product of pique on the part of legislators resentful of the disproportionate share of "pork barrel" projects in districts represented by members of the House Appropriations Committee.

The House, having taken the extraordinary action of rejecting (at least temporarily) so many traditionally sacred pork barrel initiatives, ought to consider doing the right thing for the right reasons.

Among the logical candidates for termination are these projects, each of which will cost in excess of $1 billion to complete:

— The Garrison Diversion Plan in North Dakota, designed to benefit 408 farmers by irrigating 130,000 acres at a cost of $1.3 billion. At the same time, the project would destroy thousands of other acres of farmland and waterfowl habitat.

— The Red River Waterway in Louisiana, conceived to provide a navigable link between Shreveport, La., and the Mississippi River at a cost of $1.6 billion.

— The Bonneville Unit of the Central Utah Project, an elaborate system of reservoirs, tunnels and aqueducts to carry water over the Continental Divide into the Salt Lake City area at a cost of $1.6 billion.

Efforts now are underway in Congress to induce an unprecedented degree of rationality in the process of approving water projects and allocating scarce federal funds for their construction.

As long as individual legislators persist in selfishly promoting unwarranted public works projects for their states and districts, however, those attempts to produce needed reform will continue to be undetermined.

adviser to the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center:

"The contractor shall be reimbursed costs incurred in connection with mishap investigation and related tests or analysis. Nothing I have found in the contract, however, specifically requires General Dynamics Corp. to provide evaluations and analyses after an aircraft mishap.

"Further, there is no penalty provision in the contract governing the refusal of a contractor to provide such technical assistance."

Why protect any embarrassing information General Dynamics may have provided to the Air Force in the F-16 investigation? A Justice Department attorney explained in another sworn statement:

"It is important to the military branches that when investigating an accident, they have access to reports provided by the manufacturers without regard to possible adverse reflections" — an apparent reference to public outrage over a $16 million plane that won't fly.

"Further," the statement added, "the candor of information supplied voluntarily in confidence may be substantially greater than that of information compelled to be produced with the knowledge that it will be made public."

Ranciglio made it clear that protection of defense contractors' embarrassing secrets is nothing new, nor is it confined to General Dynamics. It "has been the longstanding practice of the Air Force," he said, adding: "The defense contractors, including General Dynamics, are briefed on the confidentiality of the information ... approximately every 18 months."

Barnett Hurdles Timpson

ELMHURST — He had to go 1,200 miles to do it but Frank Barnett finally whipped Michael Timpson for the first time Saturday in the International Prep Invitational at Elmhurst York High School.

Seminole High School's Barnett, who had lost to Timpson on four previous occasions, hurdled to an early lead and then held off Timpson's closing rush to win the 120-yard hurdles in 13.5. Miami Hialeah Lakes' Timpson was closed in 13.6. Tony Brooks of Rockdale, Texas was third in 13.9.

The IPI invites the top eight high school hurdlers to Elmhurst, a suburb of Chicago. "It was one of their typical races," said Seminole High coach Ken Brauman about the duel. "Frank got out fast and this time Timpson didn't catch me."

Timpson topped Barnett in the 1984 state meet and bested him three times this year — at the Bob Hayes Invitational, the state meet and the Golden South Classic. All three were close races where

Track/Field

Barnett led early but Timpson's surge midway through the race always made the difference.

"I ran my own race," said Barnett about the win. "I got a good start and made it through the first three hurdles in real good shape. Timpson didn't come back on me like he usually does."

Barnett, who is headed to Arizona on a track scholarship, will compete in the Junior Nationals this weekend at Elmhurst. This meet will draw the top 19-year-old and under athletes, according to Brauman, who said the U.S. Junior National team, which competes against Canada, will be selected from this field.

Seminole girls' coach Emory Blake will also take national-class half miler Shownda Martin to the meet along with his mile relay team of Glenda Bass, Trina Walker, Dorchelle Webster and Martin. — Sam Cook

Major Game: Tigers, Oviedo Play Tonight

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

This one should be worth the trip to Eustis. The Oviedo Angels and Altamonte American Tigers go head to head tonight at 7:30 at the Eustis Little League Complex in the Top Team Tournament District 14 Major Division winner's bracket final.

The Angels go into tonight's game with a 22-1 record which includes 22 straight wins. After two victories in Top Team play, the Tigers stand at 20-2.

The winner of tonight's showdown advances to the division finals while the loser will have to come back through the loser's bracket.

Behind the no-hit pitching of David Blanton on Saturday and opportunistic baserunning on Sunday, Oviedo advanced to the winner's bracket finals.

Saturday, at Orange City, Blanton was untouchable as he fired a no-hitter and was backed by an 11-hit offensive attack as the Angels buried Southwest Volusia, 15-0.

Blanton struck out 14 of the 19 batters he faced and walked just one. Blanton had a perfect game through three innings when he walked the leadoff hitter in the fourth. Blanton went on to strike out the next three hitters and set down the side in order in the fifth and sixth frames.

Blanton helped his own cause with three singles and Marvin "Bubba" Fore continued to swing a hot bat for Oviedo with three base hits. Jody Spencer contributed a singled a triple while Morris Jacobs, Dana Allen and Bryan Hart added two singles apiece.

Sunday, at Eastmonte Field in Altamonte Springs, Oviedo managed just five hits but took advantage of five errors and ran the bases with reckless abandon en route to an 11-4 victory over Maitland.

The Angels erupted for four runs in the top of the first with the first two coming on a double off the bat of Fore and the second two on Spencer's single.

Maitland came back with four runs on three hits in the bottom of the first to even the score. Ross McDryde brought two runs in with a double off Fore while Charles Weddman rapped a two-run homer to center to tie the score.

Fore settled down to pitch shutout ball the rest of the way; allowing only three more hits. Fore struck out three in the game and walked four. Reyes Daunic had a double and two singles to lead Maitland at the plate.

Oviedo took the lead for good with two runs in the second. Blanton walked and scored when Jacobs reached on an error and Jacobs eventually scored on Allen's groundout.

The Angels picked up one more run in the third on no hits. Terry Smith was hit by pitch, stole second and third and scored on Chester Tulp's suicide squeeze bunt.

Oviedo made it 6-4 in the fourth when Allen reached on a three-base error and scored when Fore reached on another error.

The Angels pulled away with two runs in the fifth. Spencer doubled and scored on Hart's single and Hart, who stole second and third, scored when

City Series Opens

Derrick Taylor, Sun Bank's pitcher and slugger, watches a triple sail into the outfield before taking off for first base. Taylor will turn his attention to the pitching mound tonight at 6 when Sun Bank squares off with First Federal in the first game of the Sanford Little Major League City Championship Series. Both teams posted 18-0 records during the regular season. They will play a best 2 out of 3 series tonight, Tuesday and Thursday, if necessary, to determine the champion.

Sheffield, Derr Propel Seminoles To Split

Brian Sheffield tossed a four-hitter and Gary Derr drilled a two-run homer in the fourth as the Oviedo Seminoles trimmed Winter Garden, 2-1, in the first game of a double-header Sunday in Big League District 14 play at Winter Garden.

In the nightcap, the Seminoles came back from a 3-0 deficit but couldn't hold on as they dropped a 6-5 decision.

The Seminoles return to action Wednesday at 7:30 when they host Pine/Rolling Hills at the Oviedo Little League complex.

In Sunday's first game, Sheffield allowed just four hits, struck out nine and walked four as the Seminoles won their fourth game.

Winter Garden took a 1-0 lead into the fourth inning but the lead evaporated when Jeff Greising singled and Derr lined a two-out, opposite-field homer for what turned out to be the game-winning hit.

In the second game, Winter Garden built a 3-0 lead but the Seminoles bounced back to take a 4-3 lead in the third. James Hersey got the rally started with a double down the right field line and Derr followed by blasting a two-run homer to left center. Tracy Turner walked, stole second and moved to third on David Rape's bunt single.

With two outs and Larry Thomas up, the Seminoles tried a double steal and Rape got in a rundown and Turner to scored the tying run on a wild throw to the plate. Rape, who took second on the play, then stole third and scored when the ball got away for the third baseman.

Winter Garden bounced back to take a 6-4 lead into the sixth. Sheffield was robbed of a single to center but Hersey reached on an error. Hersey then stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Consecutive walks to Derr and Tracy Turner loaded the bases. Troy Turner then lofted a fly ball to shallow center in which the second baseman made the catch but fell down, allowing Hersey to tag and score. But the inning ended on the play when Derr was thrown out trying to advance to third.

COUSINS CARRIES AWS

ORLANDO — Skip Cousins pitched no-hit ball for four innings before finishing with a two-hitter as Apopka West Seminoles topped West Oak Ridge, 4-2, in Big League baseball Sunday. The game was stopped after five innings due to rain and the second game of the double-header was cancelled.

Manager Richard Coffey's team improved to 14-1 for the year. AWS plays at Ocoee Wednesday night at 7:30.

struck two and walked five. The two WOR runs were unearned and came in the fifth when the leadoff hitter blooped a single which fell between the center fielder and the second baseman. A walk and bunt single loaded the bases but Cousins fanned the next hitter and induced a popout for the second out. An error by third baseman Mike Smith allowed both runs to score.

Apopka West Seminoles used a clutch single by Tim Bruchi and an error along with two infield hits and a groundout to push across all of its runs in the top of the fifth.

Cousins reached on an error to

Sunday's Stars

Sunday's stars were (from left) Gary Derr, Brian Sheffield and Val Smith. Derr hit two homers and Sheffield supplied the pitching prowess as the Oviedo Seminoles split a double-header. Smith batted .600 as the Seminoles finished third in their softball invitational.

Savages Are Stuck On 3rd

Smith, Chavis, Frey Swing Torrid Bats In Invitational

By Chris Fister

The Seminole Savages seem to be stuck on third place. After winning their opening tournament, the Seminole Softball Club's 15 and under All-Star team has finished third the past three weeks.

But, while the Savages have struggled in past weeks, they played impressively this past weekend in winning five and losing one in the Seminole Savages Invitational at the Seminole Softball Club complex.

After going 4-0 in round robin play, the Savages advanced to the semifinals of the single elimination round before dropping a 4-3 decision to the Jacksonville River City Rebels. The Rebels went on to defeat Tampa Magic for the tournament title.

In its opening game, Caroline Chavis drove in three runs and Val Smith knocked in the winning run as the Savages trimmed West Orange, 4-3.

West Orange took a 3-0 lead after three innings but the Savages got on the board with two runs in the fourth. Bridgette Genette singled and Lomicia Whitaker reached on an error to put runners on second and third. Chavis then smacked a single to drive in both runs.

The Savages came back to take the lead in the sixth. Heather Meyer singled and Laurie Leiffer hit back to back singles and Chavis singled in Meyer to tie the score at 3-3. Smith then singled in Leiffer with the winning run.

Niki Burke pitched a five-hitter and was backed by a solid defense that shut West Orange out the last five frames. Smith was 3 for 3 to lead the offense while Marnie Frey, Chavis and Meyer had two hits each.

North Wins Open

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI) — Andy North now has a ready answer when asked what he has done lately: "Won my second U.S. Open."

North added the 1985 Open to his 1978 crown with a 4-over-par 74 Sunday that let the veteran escape Oakland Hills with a 281 and a one-shot victory over T.C. Chen, Dave Barr and Denis Watson.

It was, as usual, an Open that one survived, not won.

Chen, who lost a four-stroke lead, shot a 7-over 77 in the last round. Barr bogied the last two holes to finish with a 72 and Watson, after taking a two-stroke penalty in the first round, shot a 70 on Sunday.

"Maybe it'll get some of these guys off my back about 'What have you done lately?'" said North, 35, has won three PGA Tour events but none since the 1978 U.S. Open at Cherry Hills in Colorado.

After three rounds in which golfers appeared to have tamed the tough Oakland Hills Course, Barr put the final round in perspective.

"The 'Monster,'" said the Canadian, noting the nickname Ben Hogan hung on the 6,996-yard course, "bit back."

Chen took what the Taiwan golfer called a "double par" eight on the 457-yard, par-4 fifth hole. That obliterated a lead of four shots over North that once looked like money in the bank.

"T.C. opened the door for a lot of us," North agreed. "It was a freaky thing that has happened to all of us — unfortunately."

A double hit on a chip from the rough, giving Chen a penalty stroke, plus a missed putt contributed to the eight. He bogied the next three holes, but North helped Chen come from three shots down with a his own three-hole run of bogies.

"It was all No. 5," the weakly smiling Chen explained. "I really don't complain. I just played bad, pitiful golf. But I finished second, (that's) not too bad for (playing my) first U.S. Open. I make a lot of friends."

North, whose closing 74 was the second-worst finishing score in Open history to the 75a Cary Middlecoff and Hale Irwin shot in 1949 and 1979 respectively, became the 15th U.S. Open double winner.

The $103,000 first prize was considerably more than North won last year ($22,131) when he came back from elbow surgery.

But despite only three victories North has a cumulative $1,039,206 in winnings that makes him the 52nd player to earn $1 million from golf tournaments.

Once North got the lead from Chen he lost it briefly during the three-bogey stretch, before shooting back into a tie with Barr and Chen via a 10-foot birdie putt on the 172-yard, par-3 13th.

"I hit a 5-iron (to within) about 10 feet," he said. "It was really the shot I needed at that point."

North said there were similarities Sunday to his 1978 win, when he also closed with a 74.

"I played poorly in the middle, then got my act together in 1978."

The victory, combined with the Chicago Cubs' 5-2 loss to St. Louis, leaves the Expos in first place with a one game lead.

Bill Gullickson, 7-5, worked five innings for the victory, yielding three hits and four walks. Mickey Mahler allowed two hits over four innings to gain his first save. Aguilera, 1-1, took the loss.

Phillies 3, Pirates 2. At Pittsburgh, Charles Hudson, 3-8, scattered four hits over 6 2/3 innings and also singled to start a three-run sixth, leading Philadelphia.

At Atlanta, Nick Esasky belted a 3-2 two-out pitch from Bruce Sutter for a home run in the 10th inning to lift Cincinnati.

At San Francisco, Chris Brown's two-out single scored Jeff Leonard from second in the 13th inning to give San Francisco a sweep of their double-header.

At San Francisco, Chris Brown's two-out single scored Jeff Leonard from second in the 13th inning to give San Francisco a sweep of their double-header.

At Anaheim, Calif., rookie Urbano Lugo fired a four-hitter over eight innings for his first major-league victory.

At Arlington, Texas, Gary Gaetti hit a two-run homer and rookie Greg Gagne added a solo shot to back the seven-hit pitching of Ken Schrom.

At Las Vegas, Nev. (UPI) — The alphabet soup world that is boxing these days had a wild weekend. The developments included:

— The World Boxing Council heavyweight champion, Pinklon Thomas, defended his title by knocking out the former World Boxing Association champion, Mike Weaver, in the eighth round.

— The North American Boxing Federation heavyweight champ, Tim Witherpoon, retained his title with an easy 12-round decision over James "Boncrusher" Smith.

— Trevor Berbick captured the United States Boxing Association heavyweight title by stopping champion David Bey.

— The NABF champion said he'd fight anyone, except Holmes, the IBF champion, because Holmes is too old. The IBF champion, however, has already beaten the NABF champion.

Boston Sweeps Toronto

United Press International. The Toronto Blue Jays bullpen, which had been impregnable lately, collapsed this weekend in Boston.

The Red Sox inflicted some serious damage to Toronto's relief corps and Sunday used a four-run eighth inning to beat Gary Lavelle and complete a sweep of their four-game series with the first-place Blue Jays.

Dwight Evans' sacrifice fly capped the rally in Boston's 7-6 victory, which marked the second day in a row which the Toronto bullpen blew a game.

"We're pretty happy to be getting out of here," said Toronto catcher Ernie Whitt. "It's a nice city and everything, but we're happy to leave."

Despite getting swept, the Blue Jays still hold a 3 1/2 game lead in the American League East.

"We gave them three games," said Toronto manager Bobby Cox. "They're a great club, but you can't give them games. We're still in first place. A lot of other clubs would like to be in our position."

The Red Sox, who moved into a tie for second place, have now won five straight and 13 of their last 14 games. They have also come from behind to win nine of their last 18 games.

At Baltimore, Wayne Gross slammed a pair of home runs and Jim Dwyer, Fred Lynn and John Shelby each added a homer to back the six-hit pitching of Mike Boddicker.

At New York, Dave Winfield singled home Ricky Henderson with in the bottom of the ninth and Bob Shirley, 2-1, hurled a four-hitter to help the Yankees snap their four-game losing streak and Detroit's six-game winning string.

At Seattle, Jim Presley singled to center in the bottom of the ninth to score Barry Bonnell and lift the Mariners. Karl Best, 2-1, was the winner in relief.

At Cleveland, Carney Lansford's solo homer sparked a seven-run fifth inning in the nightcap and Dwayne Murphy cracked a one-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener to carry the A's to a double-header sweep of the Indians.

At Anaheim, Calif., rookie Urbano Lugo fired a four-hitter over eight innings for his first major-league victory.

At Arlington, Texas, Gary Gaetti hit a two-run homer and rookie Greg Gagne added a solo shot to back the seven-hit pitching of Ken Schrom.

Elliott Gambles, Wins Miller 400

BROOKLYN, Mich. (UPI) — Bill Elliott took a bold gamble Sunday and it paid off with a victory in the Michigan Miller 400 Grand National stock car race before a record crowd at Michigan International Speedway.

Elliott gambled on the last round of pit stops with about 50 miles to go when he declined to change tires while second-place Darrell Waltrip took on right side tires.

Elliott spent 6.2 seconds in the pits while Waltrip languished for 13.5 seconds.

When the checkered flag fell, Elliott had beaten Waltrip by 13.5 seconds at an average speed of 144.724 miles an hour.

"We didn't need to change tires," Elliott said. "The car felt good so I said 'let's leave 'em on.' I thought at the end of the race I pulled away because I was working the corners better than Darrell. He's a very hard man to beat at MIS."

NASCAR

"We were leaking oil but we ran good all day," Waltrip said.

Cale Yarborough was third. Tim Richmond fourth and Dale Earnhardt fifth.

The victory was the seventh of the season for Elliott in the 14 races on the NASCAR circuit so far and the 11th of his career.

The race had 18 lead changes among eight drivers and was slowed only twice by caution periods for blown engines.

Speedway officials estimated the crowd at more than 70,000.

Elliott had started on the pole after time trials on Saturday were rained out. The field started in the order of driver point standings and with the victory Elliott increased his lead in the race for the national title.

Waltrip had started in fourth place.

Elliott now has 2,126 points with Waltrip in second at 2,040.

IN BRIEF

Boothe: Smith Replaces Smith As New Patriot Baseball Coach

Mike Smith, the baseball coach at Orlando Bishop Moore High School the past six years, has been named the new baseball coach at Lake Brantley High School Principal Darvin Boothe announced today.

"Mike has all we need to get the program going in the right direction," said Boothe about the 34-year-old former Ohio native. "We're real thrilled to have him."

Smith succeeds Gary Smith who resigned in May after two years as head coach. The new Smith posted an impressive 121-63 record during his six years as Hornets' coach. His teams won three district, two Orange Belt Conference and two sectional championships.

Smith had 14 players returning from this year's district championship team but said the challenge to coach at the 4A level and better retirement benefits from the public school situation were the reasons he left behind a successful program.

Smith played football, basketball and baseball at Wheelersburg, Ohio. He started college at Ohio University but was drafted into the Navy. After completing his Navy duty, he attended several tryout camps where he drew the interest of the New York Mets.

He was drafted following the June 1970 draft. He spent two years in the New York organization before a serious eye injury — incurred when he was hit by a line drive — ended his career.

Smith taught Business Education at Bishop Moore but will teach math at Lake Brantley. He and his wife, Maria, have a 3-year-old son, Bryan.

Banks Sets Triple Jump Record

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Willie Banks, who finished out of contention at the 1984 Olympics, redeemed himself Sunday smashing the world record in the triple jump at the U.S. Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Banks set the record of 58-feet-1 1/2, bettering the previous world mark of 58-8 1/2 set by Brazilian Joao Oliveira in Mexico City in 1975. Banks also bettered his own U.S. record of 57-7 1/2.

"This is like the greatest moment of my life," Banks said. "I missed the (Olympic) gold medal. It wasn't until I decided to go for the world record that I could look at myself in the mirror."

Banks, 29, from Santa Monica, Calif., leaped into the air joyously and sprinted across the infield of the Indiana University Track Stadium as officials confirmed his record leap.

"I think I can go for 60 feet now. I'm greedy," he said. Michael Conley, who was second in the triple jump, won the long jump with a wind-aided leap of 28-0.

Former Seminole High and SCC track star Ocky Clark finished eighth in the 800 meters. Clark, running for the Bud Light track team, ran a 1:46.8.

Bradley Perserves At Rochester

PITTSFORD, N.Y. (UPI) — Neither rain nor Nancy Lopez could stop Pat Bradley from winning her first LPGA tournament in 18 months.

Bradley, who endured two rain delays Sunday including one that lasted nearly two hours, registered a two-shot triumph in the $255,000 Rochester International.

Struggling to an even-par 72 on the 6,162-yard Locust Hill Country Club course, Bradley sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th to finish with an 8-under-par 280.

Lopez, who stizzled with a final round of 69, also birdied the 18th to finish at 282.

"Thank God it's over with," said Bradley, who last won at the 1983 Japan Classic. "I don't know how it came from within me to hang on, making par from everywhere when I needed them."

Altamonte Seniors Disqualified

Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

A year ago, the Altamonte Springs Little League program could do no wrong. It sent two teams to the World Series, a feat never accomplished in Little League Baseball's storied history.

One of those teams, manager Gene Letterio's Senior All-Stars, won the World Championship in Gary, Ind. The other, manager Jerry Thurston's National Major League All-Stars, finished second before a national television audience at Williamsport, Pa.

A World Champion and a United States Champion — that's a pretty good year in any program.

It seems that everything that went right last year, however, has had the opposite effect so far in 1985. The Senior program was nearly decimated in May when over 20 players decided they would play American Legion with the high school teams instead of Little League.

Little League Baseball has a rule that once a player participates in another organized program, he is no longer eligible for Little League Baseball.

Altamonte's woes with ineligibility continued Saturday in the District 14 Top Team Tournament. Two teams — manager Terry Hagen's Angels and manager Joe Cotroneo's Yankees — each posted opening-round wins but then had to forfeit their games because they used players who had participated in American Legion baseball.

Hagen's Angels whipped Southwest

Baseball

Volusia, 10-2. They forfeited because Jeff Hagen, Wes Weger, Zack Maddox and Jimmy Waring were ineligible. Hagen said Hagen and Weger had tried out with Lake Mary and played with Trinity Prep. Maddox and Waring played for Lake Brantley's Legion.

Cotroneo's Yankees blanked Oviedo, 2-0. Randy Green, a member of the Lake Brantley Legion team, and Rusty Swain, who played for Trinity's team, were the ineligible players, according to Cotroneo. Green blanked Oviedo the last four innings.

After the games, which were moved to Eustis from Lake Brantley High School because of the inclement weather, a protest was filed with Don Crawford, District 14's administrator. Crawford ruled that since the boys had committed or played American Legion, they were therefore ineligible for any further Little League competition. The games were forfeited and Altamonte was disqualified from the tournament.

Crawford and Jim Hovis, president of the Altamonte Little League, both said there was a misunderstanding which led to the participation of the players.

Hovis said Crawford told him in mid May that the players could not participate in the All-Star Tournament competition but could play in the Top Team Tournament because it was under District 14's jurisdiction and some other teams were experiencing the same problems.

"I would have never sent two teams off to play this tournament if I thought we would be ruled ineligible," said Hovis Sunday night. "And I never would have gone to the expense of getting Lake Brantley's field had I known we were going to be disqualified."

"It's a big disappointment. Bless the parents for being so understanding through this whole thing."

Crawford said Sunday that he couldn't remember any such conversation with Hovis. "Jim swears up and down that I told him they (the Legion players) could play," said Crawford. "After the problems last year, there isn't no way I'd let that situation happen again."

Last year, Altamonte had seven players ruled ineligible for American Legion participation. The "Altamonte 7" was later reinstated and all played pivotal roles for the World Champion Seniors.

Cotroneo said he didn't plan on using Green but then found out Friday night from Hovis that he could. "I feel sorry for the other boys," said Cotroneo Sunday night. "This is really a shame after all the problems we've already had."

Hagen said he had told his players after the regular season to turn in their uniforms because they didn't have enough to field a top team. Later, he was advised that he could have a team.

"To be told that we couldn't then be told we could and then be disqualified really ticks me off," said Hagen. "It's been that kind of a year."

Sheiman Responds, Expos Take Opener

Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Ricky Sheiman responded with a four-hitter and Danny Hendricks ripped three hits as the Altamonte Junior Angels slugged Rolling Hills, 7-1, in District 14 Top Team Tournament baseball at Rolling Hills Sunday.

"We held back Curt Prom for Apopka," said Altamonte manager Kelly Wainscott about his choice of pitcher. "We knew we had to get a win from Ricky or Kent Brubaker and Ricky really responded to the challenge."

Altamonte (1-0) will play Apopka tonight at 8 at Rolling Hills. "Apopka has a great team," said Wainscott, whose own Expos were 17-3 during the regular season. "Curt will have to be at his best."

At his best is what Sheiman was Sunday. The tournament was moved back a day by Friday's rain. Rolling Hills struck for its run in the first inning but Sheiman shut the door thereafter, outdueling previously unbeaten Billy Duncan.

"That's the best he pitched all year," said Wainscott. "The mound was just right for him."

Baseball

We didn't make any errors either. That helped. The kids really played good."

Altamonte made use of the bunt in most of its outbursts. In the first, Hendricks ripped a two-out single to center, stole second and scored when the center fielder misjudged Sheiman's fly ball for an error.

In the second, David Hamilton walked, stole second and moved to third on a bunt by Mike Locke. One out later, Pat Battle singled home the go-ahead run. Kent Brubaker followed with a single which moved Battle to third as Brubaker took second on the throw.

Kevin Wainscott then stroked a liner to right center to score both runs for a 4-1 lead. Wainscott was thrown out trying to stretch his hit into a double.

Altamonte picked up two more in the sixth and one more in the seventh. Prom walked and stole second to lead off the sixth. Hamilton dropped a bunt single to move Prom to third. Alex Sasser followed with another bunt to score Hamilton. "If we got a guy on we put it on the ground (bunted) to move him," said Wainscott. "I don't know if we'll be able to do that against Apopka, though."

In the seventh, Wainscott walked, stole second and scored on Hendricks' third hit of the game for the 7-1 final.

Along with Hendricks' trio of singles, Battle, the Expos' No. 9 hitter, rapped a pair of hits. Brubaker, Wainscott, Hamilton and Locke each added a base hit.

Mullins Wins Hot Rod Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Bill Mullins of Pelham, Ala., won his first National Hot Rod Association Top Fuel race Sunday and he says it was just like driving a luxury automobile.

Mullins, who now has won one national NHRA event in three different dragster classes, had an elapsed time of 5.62 seconds, 257 miles per hour, over the quarter-mile course at National Trail Raceway, in defeating defending Top Fuel champion Gary Beck of Hemet, Calif.

Mullins was the 1971 Springnationals champion in the now defunct Top Gas class and was a top alcohol dragster champion at the 1981 NHRA Cajun Nationals.

Mullins, now in his 30th year of racing, began driving in the Top Fuel division only this year.

Kenny Bernstein won the Funny Car division with an elapsed time of 5.81 seconds, 251 mph, defeating Billy Meyer of Waco, Tex. It was the 9th NHRA career victory for Bernstein, of Dallas, Tex. He was runnerup on eight other occasions.

Warren Johnson of Duluth, Ga., won the Pro Stock division with a time of 7.68 seconds, 180.94 mph, over Bruce Allen of Lapeer, Mich.

start the rally. Brown, who led AWS with two singles, followed with a base hit. Bruce Bonaventure then dropped a bunt single to load the bases.

Bruce Carlson then legged out an infield hit to push across the first run. "It was a perfect swinging bunt," said Coffey.

"Bruce hit it just to the right spot."

Bruce then slapped a base hit to right center to score Brown and Bonaventure for a 3-0 lead. A groundout to second base by Tony Johnson chase home the final tally.

"Cousins pitched the best game he has all season for us," said Coffey. "Both hits were lucky. One just fell in because the two players pulled up and the other was an infield hit."

GOLDENROD TAKES 16TH
Chris Davis tossed a three-hitter Sunday as the Goldenrod Elks ran their record to 16-0 with a 4-2 victory over Kissimmee in District 3 Big League action at Azalea Park.

Davis, who struck out six and walked just one, ran his record to 4-0 for the Elks with a 0.55 earned run average.

Goldenrod broke a scoreless tie with one run in the third frame.

Tom Boucher drew a walk and eventually got to third on Damon Marlette's sacrifice bunt. Boucher then scored on a passed ball.

Kissimmee, which now stands at 12-2, took a 2-1 lead in the fourth when Steve Miranda cracked a two-run homer. Davis pitched shutout ball the rest of the way.

Goldenrod came through with three runs in the sixth inning to sew up the win. Ed Taubensee smacked the first pitch of the inning over the centerfield fence to tie the score at 2-2. Scott "Thurman" Munson then reached on an error. Kevin Lenard walked and Dave Marlette singled home Munson with what turned out to be the winning run. Lenard scored the third run of the inning on a passed ball.

The Elks go for their 17th straight Tuesday against Pine Castle (12-4) at Azalea Park. Todd Hicks will be on the mound for Goldenrod which has a chance to be the first team to go unbeaten in Big League District 3 play.

"We've got six games left," said manager Jim Boggs. "I think we can do it. The tough ones will be Kissimmee, Pine Castle and Winter Park. If we get by them, Taft isn't real strong."

Jacobs reached on an error. In the sixth, Allen reached on a three-base error and scored on Tommy Stiklearth's double.

Altamonte's Tigers rode the clutch hitting of John Jump on Saturday and the no-hit pitching of Chris Jackson on Sunday.

Saturday at Orange City, Jump drove in three of the five runs in the game for the Tigers to back the four-hit pitching of Kevin Morro as Altamonte claimed a 5-1 victory over Deltona.

Morro struck out 10 in the game and walked four. Jump drove in three runs with a double and single while Doug Harris added an RBI single.

Sunday at DeLand, Jackson fired a no-hitter and was backed by a 14-hit offensive barrage as the Tigers trounced West Volusia Sherwood A's, 14-0.

Jackson struck out 12 in the game and walked just three. "Downtown" Terry Brown led the Altamonte assault with four hits and Harris contributed three.

"We got performance from the whole team on offense and defense," Tigers manager Mike Morro said. "We have a good fielding team that knows how to make cutoffs and relays and back up plays. We don't really have one strong aspect, just a well-balanced team."

Morro said Chuck Lamb, who had a 1.86 earned run average this season, will be on the mound tonight for the Tigers. "He has a good fastball and curveball," Morro said. "And he has experience and a lot of confidence."

ASTROS FALL TO MATTLAND
Andy Spolaki tossed a no-hitter but control problems and some key errors were the downfall of the Altamonte National Astros as they dropped a 6-4 decision to Matlland Saturday at Orange City.

Spolaki struck out seven in the game but walked eight and hit one batter. "They (Matlland) only hit one ball out of the infield and that was a little bloop fly ball to left the fielder," Astros manager Duke Pleicones said.

Altamonte had six hits and had the lead, 3-2, through three innings but couldn't hold on. Matlland took the lead for good by scoring three times in the fourth frame.

"If Andy (Spolaki) could have got the ball across the plate and we wouldn't have made a couple key errors we would have won," Pleicones said. "We hit the ball really well."

Chris Pleicones was 2 for 3 with two doubles to lead the Astros but both of his doubles came with the bases empty. Kyle Eshilman hit a double off the centerfield fence while Dave Robison and Rich Schau each had singles.

Altamonte will look to get back on track tonight when it takes on Pierson at 5:30 at Matlland. Pleicones will pitch for the Astros.

The Savages had little trouble with their second opponent as they crushed Clearwater, 22-7. Leiffer and Meyer led the offensive assault with three hits each. Generette slugged a pair of doubles. Chavis, Smith and Whitaker added two singles each and Aretha Riggins drilled a homerun.

In game three, the Savages made the best of their opportunities in an 8-1 win over the Tampa Mustangs. The Mustangs left 12 runners on base in that game.

Chavis, Whitaker and Generette kept their bats going with two hits each and Jaudon Jonas contributed a double.

Burke was the winning pitcher again and Sharon Bonaventure made the defensive play of the game when she made a fine running catch in rightfield and doubled the runner off first.

Burke tossed a four-hitter and the Savages played another outstanding defensive game en route to a 4-1 victory over the Orlando Lil Sluggers in the last round robin game. Burke also went 2 for 2 to lead the offense. Bonaventure unloaded a home run, drove in two of the four runs and scored twice.

In its first game of the single elimination round on Sunday, Seminole came through with a 4-2 victory over the Satellite Beach Mets on a six-hitter by Burke.

Smith continued her hot streak at the plate with two hits and one RBI. Chavis was 1 for 2 and drove in two runs while Frey, Leiffer and Meyer were each 1 for 2.

Smith, a Lake Mary High freshman this past school year, was Seminole's leading hitter for the tournament. Smith was 9 for 15 for a .600 average. Frey, also a Lake Mary High frosh in 1984-85, was 6 for 12 for a .500 average and Chavis, an Oviedo High sophomore, was 7 for 15 for a .457 clip.

EAGLES HAVE ROUGH TIME

After winning six straight before bowing out a week ago, the Seminole Eagles, the Seminole Softball Club's other All-Star team made up of only 13-14 year olds, had their problems over the weekend, winning two and losing three.

Corey Lawson carried the big stick for the Eagles in the Savages Invitational with a .647 average. Sanford's Katrina Shuler, who had hit over .600 in every prior tournament, hit at an even .500 clip.

Heavy rains on Saturday morning made playing conditions tough but the Eagles sloshed through the mud for a 12-2 victory over Palm Bay in their opening game.

Lawson was 3 for 4 in that game as was Leticia Strickland who also drove in two runs. Jodie Switzer was 2 for 3 with two RBIs and the Oviedo High lefty also pitched a five-hitter.

In game two, nine errors cost the Eagles the game as they lost to Tampa Magic, 9-8. Robin Whithead was the hitting leader as she went 2 for 3 with an RBI and Shuler was 2 for 4 with an RBI.

Papal Murder Plot Trial Resumes With Shooting Film

ROME (UPI) — The judge at the trial of three Bulgarians and four Turks accused in the 1981 papal assassination attempt has ordered film footage of the shooting be shown today to determine whether Melmet Ali Agca acted alone.

The film of Agca, the Turkish terrorist who shot Pope John Paul II, was taken by a tourist who was at St. Peter's Square at the time of the shooting and handed over to Italy's DIGOS anti-terrorist police squad.

Judge Severino Santapichi gave the orders to show the film today in a bid to determine whether Agca acted alone.

Agca, 27, who has already been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for the papal shooting that seriously wounded the pontiff, is the prosecution's star witness.

He has testified that the Soviet Union ordered the attack and that Bulgarian agents helped carry it out, but has also repeatedly disrupted the hearings and damaged his own credibility with outbursts in which he claimed to be Jesus Christ.

Namibia Gets Limited Self-Rule

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa, defying world condemnation for the second time in four days, today granted limited self-rule to South West Africa — also known as Namibia — while retaining control of its foreign affairs and defense.

Western governments and the United Nations already have rejected the new administration, the second attempt by South Africa to give Namibia limited self-rule. The first government collapsed after four years in January 1983.

The new government excludes the South West Africa Peoples Organization, SWAPO, which is recognized by the United Nations as the sole legitimate representative of Namibia's 1.2 million inhabitants.

Members of the moderate Multi-Party Conference, MPC, an alliance of six white and multi-racial parties including a branch of South Africa's ruling white National Party, make up the new administration.

budget is $113 million, up $10 million from last year's $103 million, all of those funds except $37 million reflect transfers from budgets to budgets and income and expenditures from self-supporting operations such as water and sewer utilities and the garbage disposal program.

General fund programs under the control of the county commission — public works, administration, management and budget, public services, public development, personnel department, public safety — total $38.7 million for the upcoming 1985-86 fiscal year, up $2.5 million from last year's $34.2 million.

New revenues expected this year are slightly over $1 million because of an increase in the taxable property values of the county.

This still leaves a proposed deficit of $1.5 million and gives the commissioners the choice of raising property taxes or cutting expenses.

Commissioners also have some control over the budgets of the constitutional officers — the sheriff, clerk of the circuit court, supervisor of elections, property appraiser and tax collector.

However, the constitutional officers have the right of appealing to the governor and the cabinet any cuts which the commissioners might make in their budgets. —Donna Estes cleared from the airport and the airport's lights switched off for fear of an Israeli attack.

The transfer of the hostages came after Bob Peel Sr., a Kansas man freed by the hijackers Sunday, was allowed to leave Lebanon for Cyprus aboard a Middle East Airlines jet.

Between six and 12 Americans with Jewish-sounding names were believed taken off the plane Friday — the day the plane was seized on a flight to Rome from Athens, Greece — and hustled away to the Shilte suburbs around Beirut airport.

Greek pop singer Demis Roussos and his American girlfriend, Pamela Smith, were also taken off the plane and held somewhere in Beirut, Greek diplomats said Sunday.

Robert McFarlane, President Reagan's national security adviser, said in Washington today the United States would not ask Israel to free between 700 and 800 Arab prisoners — mostly Lebanese Shites — held near the Israeli port of Haifa, as the hijackers had demanded.

"We don't make concessions," McFarlane told reporters. "We're not going to make others do so."

Asked specifically if the U.S. would ask Israel to release the prisoners — its forces rounded up during their occupation of southern Lebanon, McFarlane said: "No. We would not consider it."

In Israel, news reports said officials in Jerusalem would consider freeing the prisoners only if Israel received a high-level U.S. request.

McFarlane said he spoke by telephone with Berri to win release of the hostages.

"We have had lots of contact during the night," said McFarlane, the first U.S. official to contact Berri from Washington. He called the hijackers' demands "unfortunate" and said the prisoners stood a better chance of freedom without a hostage connection.

Berri, Lebanon's justice minister and leader of the Amal militia, made no comment on his discussions with McFarlane when he announced the transfer of the hostages.

The Beirut airport is controlled by Berri's Shilte militiamen.

Reagan administration sources said members of the "Delta Force" — a crack anti-terrorist rescue unit based in North Carolina — flew to the Middle East Friday, but the Defense Department did not confirm it.

Navy officials in Washington said a four-ship task force, led by the nuclear-powered carrier USS Nimitz, is off the Lebanese coast and a three-ship amphibious force, with 1,500 Marines, has left Gibraltar for the Middle East.

Sunday night, President Reagan, who cut short a weekend stay at Camp David, warned the hijackers: "For their own safety, they'd better turn these people loose."

But a letter scribbled on a yellow pad and reportedly signed by 32 American hostages aboard the plane begged Reagan to avoid military intervention and urged him to pressure Israel to meet the hijackers' demands.

"We implore you not to take any direct military action on our behalf. Please negotiate quickly our immediate release by convincing the Israelis to release the 800 Lebanese prisoners as requested now," the letter said, adding that it was written "freely, not under duress."

TWA officials said from 27 to 29 passengers and three crewmen — the pilot, first officer and flight engineer — were still held hostage. The rest of the estimated 150 people on the plane when it was seized were released during earlier stops in Beirut and Algiers, Algeria.

"All the Americans aboard that plane have just about had it," released hostage Peel, 59, said from a stretcher at American University Hospital in mainly Muslim west Beirut.

"All their money, jewelry and travelers checks have been taken. They have no identification," said Peel, a Hutchinson, Kan., man who the hijackers freed because they said he was "old, dizzy and tired."

"It is dirty, filthy, a real pigpen," Peel said of the Boeing 727. "It's just pure hell on three right now."

A maintenance crew was allowed to board the plane today to clean it.

Discovery To Return June 24

International Shuttle Crew Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Five Americans, a Frenchman and an Arab prince blasted off in the shuttle Discovery at 7:33 a.m. today for blastoff on an international flight that includes the first space test of a "Star Wars" laser experiment.

Tucked in Discovery's payload bay were communications satellites owned by Mexico, the 21-nation Arab Satellite Communications Organization and American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Commander Daniel Brandenstein, co-pilot John Creighton and crewmates Shannon Lucid, Steven Nagel, John Fabian, Patrick Baudry of France and Prince Sultan Salman Al-Saud of Saudi Arabia boarded the giant space freighter about 5:30 a.m.

The crew plans to spend a week in orbit before returning to Earth June 24 at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Discovery stood bathed in searchlights at its ocean-side pad when workers began loading its half-million-gallon supply of supercold liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen fuel at 11:37 p.m. Sunday — about 30 minutes late — under heavy cloud cover.

Dismal weather has marked Discovery's countdown and Sunday night, a thunderstorm swept over the Kennedy Space Center and a lightning bolt hit the launch pad but work proceeded toward blastoff. Early today, the sky cleared and the launch was given the green light.

NASA was paid about $30 million to ferry the international cargo of satellites into orbit but the overall cost of the shuttle flight is about $150 million.

Mexico's Morelos satellite, that nation's first space communications station, was scheduled to be deployed about 3:38 p.m. today to kick off three days of hectic launch activity in orbit.

Saud, a nephew of Saudi King Fahd and the first Arab to fly in space, will monitor the launch of the Arabsat relay station, but he has little else to do and his assignment is viewed primarily as a gesture of international goodwill.

Baudry, an accomplished test pilot, plans to carry out a series of sophisticated French medical experiments to determine the physiological effects of weightlessness.

On Wednesday, the crew plans to install an 8-inch-wide mirror assembly in Discovery's side hatch window that will serve as a target for a low-power laser in Maui, Hawaii, to test a Strategic Defense Initiative — "Star Wars" — laser tracking system.

The research one day could be applied to an exotic weapons system in which powerful blasts from ground lasers could be bounced off giant orbital mirrors to hit enemy missiles before they could reach the United States.

The international nature of Discovery's flight has generated widespread interest in France, Mexico and the Middle East, and hundreds of foreign journalists and dignitaries converged on the Kennedy Space Center to witness the blastoff.

The first Arabsat satellite, launched atop an unmanned French Ariane booster in February, was to be used to help broadcast the shuttle launch live to member states of the Arab Satellite Communications Organization, a consortium that includes the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The broadcast was expected to be available to some 150 million Arabs in all 21 Arab League nations — the first time such a coordinated broadcast has been attempted.

Discovery's crew also plans to launch and retrieve a small X-ray observatory that will study the heart of the Milky Way and a cluster of galaxies to learn more about the evolution of the universe.

that a tree trimmer be added to the parks department staff and that trees in troublesome spots be transplanted to sites where there are no trees. This could be cheaper than buying new trees, which stand only five or six feet tall, the report said. Plus, transplanting the trees would create "beauty in a minute," according to the report.

Moratorium on New Planting and Construction

Because of past neglect, almost all of the planted areas in the city are in "dire need" of trimming, weeding and pruning, the report said. Parks workers are overloaded and have no time to catch up because they are constantly given new assignments.

Recreation equipment in the parks is "half painted, half gone or half broken" as are many of the city's irrigation systems, the report said.

The board recommends the city put a moratorium on new planting and construction projects in the parks until the old ones can be completed.

Work With School Board

Part of the reason newcomers are choosing to live in south Seminole County instead of Sanford is because the schools are nicer there, the report said. Sanford's schools, except for Hamilton Elementary, are old and worn.

The board recommends the city work with the Seminole County School Board to improve the schools' appearance. Sanford Middle School would be a good place to start, the report said. Some of the schools' ball fields and playgrounds could be used by the community after school hours if the school board agreed, the board said.

The two governing entities should also see what surplus properties they could trade. The school board has already offered the 10-acre vacant lot across from Sanford Middle School as a possible park site for the city.

Continue Clean-Up Campaign

The city needs to convert its clean-up fervor displayed in a March campaign into an ongoing pervasive attitude, where public servants and citizens are constantly on the alert for trash and junk.

The board also recommends that the city use the Code Enforcement Board more to ensure maintenance rules are followed. The board's procedures need to be simplified so it will be more efficient and be able to handle the anticipated flood of complaints that will come as the plan is implemented.

The board said the CEB should be getting a weekly list of infractions to review and pursue. To investigate the expected deluge of complaints, the city will need to hire two code inspectors. The board also volunteered to spend time weekly reporting eyesores.

The public also needs to be encouraged to use the CEB to "solve problems of neighborhood blight," the report said.

Lawn and Garden Counseling

Some of Sanford's residential and commercial areas that were once attractive are now showing their age. Freezes, overgrowth, insects and general neglect have blighted some of these areas, the board said. Since most people are unaware of proper techniques for maintaining their lawns and gardens, or cannot afford technical assistance, the city needs to provide the information without charge, the report said.

The city could also offer awards for the most improved site each month at a commission meeting, the board suggested.

Upgrade City's Professional Image

The board ventured into one area not connected with plants or trees, but what it considers just as important — the attitude of City Hall.

"It is important that City Hall appear warm, congenial and professional in appearance," the report said. City employees and volunteers representing the city should be given training in public relations, office, telephone and counter diplomacy and positive thinking.

"The Scenic Improvement Board feels it would be appropriate and within the scope of the city commission and the city manager to deal with the issue. Please accept this point with our best intentions and be brave enough to deal with it," the report said.

In Tuesday's concluding report, a priority list of where the city of Sanford needs to clean up its own property, according to the Scenic Improvement Board.

and History.

To keep the historic areas historic, the board recommends the city draw up an ordinance establishing a Historic District Council. The council would control the type of buildings that go up in the district, ensuring that its historic quality remains intact.

Sign Ordinance

Signs in Sanford are "popping up most recklessly; if the messages on the signs were made with voices instead of letters, they would make an ugly sound," the report said.

The board recommended that an ordinance regulating the type of signs that go up in the city be adopted. City Manager Frank Faison is considering introducing such an ordinance for the commission to take action on, the report said.

Historic District Council

"Sanford cannot compete with south Seminole's modernity and newness unless we accentuate our uniqueness," the report said. "Sanford's marketable charm and distinction rests in its historic integrity."

Sanford's central business district is listed in the National Register of Historic Places, the report said, and many of the city's homes are mentioned in the state Department of Archives

University of Illinois Medical School, have yet to publish any findings that specifically refer to aspartame.

But they said they have extensively studied a key component of the sweetener — phenylalanine — and they consider it a hazard for fetuses and infants.

The scientists said that they approached Searle in the 1970s about their concerns and they believe company-sponsored studies of aspartame have not adequately tested the substance for its effects on the human fetus.

"They don't want to listen," Elias said. "The people at Searle would like to have you think that nothing happens as long as the phenylalanine level is below the tenfold elevation level" that is the FDA's safety standard.

Elias also noted that women who consume the substance while nursing could present a similar risk to their babies because of the extent of phenylalanine in mother's milk has yet to be investigated.

Elias and Matalon said consuming even moderate amounts of NutraSweet raises the concentration of phenylalanine in the blood. Matalon said he was "not too concerned" about older children consuming aspartame because the effects on them should be "reversible" through dietary changes.

Matalon, who began a study April 1 with a grant from the National Institutes of Health, said one in 50 women are particularly sensitive to high phenylalanine consumption and if they ingest aspartame during pregnancy "it may cause birth defects" such as mild retardation.

He said the defects would be a matter of concern because 8 to 10 million American women are believed to be sensitive to phenylalanine.

The affected women, Matalon said, are known as "carriers" of PKU — phenylketonuria — a disease resulting in reduced IQs in babies. If not put on a special diet, PKU infants will suffer severe mental retardation as they grow, he said.

Although the FDA requires all aspartame products to carry a warning for PKU victims, no warning is required for carriers — those who do not have the disease but have one PKU gene and are susceptible to phenylalanine.

The problem is complicated because carriers generally are not identified unless they have PKU offspring. "We don't know them and they don't know themselves," Matalon said.

Matalon, head of the PKU clinic at the University of Illinois, said he was concerned about studies showing that any rises in phenylalanine levels from aspartame consumption would still be within safe limits. Matalon said those studies are "not based on a lot of experiments."

He said Searle did not adequately test the levels and effects of breakdown products — known as metabolites — of phenylalanine in the body.

Gaul and Stegink, however, defended Searle's testing and said it shows that even at "abuse levels" — extremely heavy consumption of aspartame — the phenylalanine levels in the blood do not rise significantly.

Gaul also said the levels of phenylalanine quickly drop. He said that while PKU carriers "have less ability to metabolize" than those with the disease, "it is not limiting in their ability to fully metabolize" the substance.

Consumption of aspartame, he argued, results in increases in blood phenylalanine levels "no greater than the increase in concentration after a meal ... consisting of a hamburger and a milkshake."

Elias, who already has published one study on humans, said he believes the potential danger extends to all pregnant women who regularly consume aspartame and possibly to young children who may experience behavioral and neurological disorders if they drink or eat aspartame.

Elias said a woman who drinks one can of a soft drink sweetened with aspartame may experience a fourfold increase in her blood phenylalanine level.

As a result, he said, the concentration found in the fetus can reach a level four times as high as the prospective mother's because the chemical concentrates on the fetal side.

"Now the fetus's brain is growing, and that phenylalanine interferes at critical movements of brain cells and that child could come out with severe mental retardation that's unrelated to anything you could measure after birth," Elias said.

Scouts To Perform With Youth Band At Jamboree

Boy Scout Troop 237 of Altamonte Spring is honored that two of its members, Eagle Scout Jeffrey Barnhart and Life Scout David Hutchinson have been selected to perform with the Youth Band at the Boy Scouts of America National Jamboree. The two scouts will travel to Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia for the event.

Both young men are Brantley High students and both will play percussion instruments with the band. Jeffrey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Barnhart while David's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Art Hutchinson.

The Vietnam Veterans of Central Florida and Roste O'Grady's of Orlando will hold a Street Party on Saturday, June 22 at Church Street Station in Orlando's festive downtown.

The fun begins at 5 p.m. and will continue until 7 p.m. Music will be by Gary Puckett and The Union Gap, Miss Linda B. Jordan, and Orlando's Navy Band. Food and libation will be plentiful.

Proceeds from the event are to aid the Vietnam veterans' group. Advance tickets are $4.00 per person and may be obtained by calling Peter Patterson at 629-1299. So, veterans, friends and supporters "come on down!"

An advanced lifesaving course will be held at the Westmonte Park pool in Altamonte Springs from June 25 to July 30 on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7-10 p.m.

The classes are geared to general lifesaving skills. Candy Goebel of the recreation department will be instructing.

The Altamonte park also has adult swim classes scheduled from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Mondays & Wednesdays June 24-July 10.

Mars Hill College has announced that 243 students have been named to the Dean's List at the Baptist related college in North Carolina.

To be related to this honor, a student must maintain a grade-point ratio of 3.5 or better on a minimum of 12 semester hours of study. Attaining the list from Altamonte Springs is Susan Gore, a senior psychology major, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Frank Gore of Hilltop Place.

Casselberry's Community United Methodist Church will hold Vacation Church School for community youth the week of June 24 through 28. Children 2 years old through the 4th grade will meet for activities at the church, while youngsters of the 5th & 6th grade levels will attend a camp at a residence on north Lake Triplett Drive.

A special program closing the week's activities is planned at the church for Friday, June 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Second Lt. Richard Murdock, formerly of Longwood, has completed special Air Force courses in communications at Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi.

Lt. Murdock, son of Marvin and Doris Murdock, will serve with the 5th Combat Information Systems Group at Robins Air Force Base in central Georgia.

Southern College of Collegedale, Tenn has announced that Kimberly Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shearer of Longwood has received an Associate of Science in Business Administration Degree at the school's recent graduation ceremonies.

A class in greenhouse and nursery practices in horticulture is being offered for the summer session at Seminole Community College from June 26-August 14.

For information concerning class hours or questions, please call Sam Brashear at 323-1450 ext. 355.

The final production of the season by the drama department at Seminole Community College is to be Elan Garonzik's "Scenes and Revelation" with Kaitlan Ploff directing.

The play will be presented at the SCC Fine Arts Theatre at 8 p.m. June 19-23 with a matinee performance on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

General admission is $4, with $3 per ticket for senior citizens and students. Ticket reservations may be made at the theatre box office by calling 323-1450 or 843-7001.

Just To Be Eggzact, The Egg Came Before Chicken

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem, but you seem to have one. The answer you gave to "I Am Serious," who asked, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?" was ridiculous!

Didn't you learn anything in school? I knew the answer to that 50 years ago while I was still in grade school.

The facts are: The chicken is a bird, and all birds evolved from the reptile family approximately 100 million years ago. Reptiles have been laying eggs for millions of years before that time, and the chicken evolved from the reptiles.

Of course, the egg you laid in your column when you cited the Bible as your source of information is another matter. Next time you want an answer to a scientific question, consult The Book of Knowledge. Darwin was right. The book you referred to has no answers, only questions.

Dear Abby

C.G., MCPHERSON, KAN.

DEAR C.G.: Read on for more letters on the chicken-and-the-egg subject.

DEAR ABBY: You cited Genesis 1:20 to support the theory that the chicken came before the egg. Wrong!

Abby, birds did not show up until about 150 million years ago. Eggs have been used as a form of reproduction for a much longer period — even counting the eggs with shells hard enough to survive out of water. The first eggs were laid by reptiles more than 100 million years before the first bird existed.

I'm reminded of the "news" last year, when the Vatican finally decided that Galileo was right about the Earth revolving around the sun. It seems hard to believe that once upon a time people actually thought that the faith would be weakened if anyone thought the Earth was not the center of the universe.

It may take another 200 years before we admit that the Earth is 4 billion years old — not 6,000 years.

A SECULAR HUMANIST IN N.J.

DEAR ABBY: "I Am Serious" wanted an intelligent answer to which came first, the chicken or the egg. Of course the fundamentalists will not accept the facts, which are as follows:

The reptile evolved from the egg of a fish. The bird evolved from the egg of a reptile. And with man's help, the chicken evolved from the egg of a bird.

The correct answer is: The egg preceded the chicken by several hundred million years.

2 B EGGZACT

DEAR ABBY: Reliance on Scriptures as authority for facts is not always valid. Since all forms of life begin as a seed or an egg (even us), it's obvious that the egg had to be the predecessor of what evolved into the chicken.

Get you get a ton of vituperation on this one.

D.B., LAHAINA, HAWAII

DEAR D.B.: I did. And most of it was foul. Read on.

DEAR ABBY: The theory of evolution is logical. Originally, all life came from the ocean. Millions of years later it made its way to the land, then some reptilian forms returned to the sea and became air-breathing mammals. Other reptiles evolved into birds and learned to fly. Most fish lay eggs. The dinosaur, which were reptiles that lived millions of years ago, laid eggs. We even have fossil evidence (their bones and petrified eggs).

Abby, it's silly to say "the theory of evolution." Evolution is not a theory; it's a proven fact.

I.M. SERIOUS II

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old male student nurse. Recently I met representatives from several hospitals and learned that my chances for employment are excellent — but my chances for the jobs of my choice range from poor to non-existent. Why? Because I am a man.

Some hospitals will not hire a male R.N. for general medical-surgery duty because male nurses are not allowed to perform routine care of female patients without a female nurse present. Obviously this is not cost-effective if two nurses must be in the room while only one is necessary.

On an obstetrics-gynecology service, the male R.N. is simply not allowed in most hospitals because "intimate care" is required. At least that's how it was explained to me.

Abby, female nurses take care of male patients (even on urological services), and no chaperones are required.

Is this discrimination practiced all over the country? Or is New England behind the times? I would also be interested in knowing how your female readers feel about having a male R.N. care for them in the hospital.

M.B.E.

DEAR M.B.E.: Discrimination against male nurses is news to me, and I have no way of knowing how widespread it is until I hear from readers. I personally feel the sex of a nurse is unimportant as long as that nurse is competent. Readers?

Kotkoski Marries Williams

Barbara Ann Kotkoski and David Gene Williams, both of Sanford, were married May 26, at 4:3 p.m. in a garden setting on the patio at Quality Inn North, Longwood. Gyle Workman, notary public, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kotkoski, Paxinos, Pa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams, 101 Club Road, Sanford.

Given in marriage by Eugene Williams, the bride chose for her vows a mauve colored gown, fashioned along the slim silhouette with an accented skirt and round neckline enhanced with wide lace. She carried an arm bouquet of roses, mums and baby's breath.

Martha Williams of Longwood, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a deep rose-colored gown. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's daughters, Melissa Williams and Sandra Williams, Sanford. They wore pastel pink gowns and each carried a long-stemmed red rose.

Carl Dietrich of Sanford, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Richard Williams and David Eugene Williams, sons of the bridegroom, Sanford.

The reception followed in a private dining room at Quality Inn. Following a wedding trip to Ormond Beach, the newlyweds are making their home at 2017 Cedar Ave., Sanford. Both are employed at Quality Inn.

Youngsters Plan Space Futures

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Kristin Hotaling has no doubt there eventually will be colonies of people living in space, pets and all, and she intends to design their houses.

Kristin, 12, can be excused if her mind is filled with thoughts of outer space these days. She is one of six children who was to get a VIP view of the liftoff of the space shuttle Discovery Monday.

"I think they'll be a lot more creative," she said of her generation of space architects. "The houses will look like bubbles and have different weird shapes and colors."

The Eisenhower Elementary School sixth grader was chosen from among 100 applicants to make a three-day Florida trip sponsored by Boulder's Ball Corp. Sunday, she toured the Kennedy Space Center.

Hotaling knows that there are practical problems which must be solved before life in space will be comfortable, like training her pet dog to behave in weightlessness. When Sam Stoller, 10, found out he had been selected to view the liftoff, he went to his library at Mapleton Elementary and checked out the space shuttle operator's manual.

Stoller said he wants to be a space engineer. "I'd like to work with constructing a space colony. I think we'll have astronauts living up there, for like years at a time," he said.

Brian Koprowski, 10, said he wants to be an astronaut, and he knows what his job will be like.

"I'm pretty sure astronauts will be building space colonies. They'll be doing almost everything we'll be doing down here..."

He envisions space stations as "like a tube, going around in circles, then in the center they'll have a docking bay, and some solar panels and some other panels pointing straight into black space, where it is really cool. That will be their cooling system."

Koprowski said he was looking forward to viewing the liftoff because his grandfather was a pilot and he has "grown up in a space environment." That includes a passion for launching model rockets.

"I'll take any information they can give me," he said of the people he meets on the trip. "I'll store it and use it when I grow up."

Sixth grader Doug Swink wants to be a space archeologist to "check out the planets" and see if there's evidence there once was life on any of them.

He said the nation's space program is "doing good. We're not really behind anyone, but we're not too far ahead either."

But fourth grader Kristofer Knapp, a future aeronautical engineer and astronaut, said space is being used for the wrong reasons today.

"We're putting space weapons into space, and there's a guy who's putting the ashes of 10,000 people into space. I don't think we need that orbiting around up there," he said.

NOTICE OF HEREBY GIVEN
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by virtue of that certain Will of Escutcheon issued out of and under the seal of the County Court of Orange County, Florida, upon a final judgement rendered in the aforesaid court on the 2nd day of August, A.D. 1982, in that certain case entitled: Sun Bank National Association, Plaintiff, vs. Gail D. Ellis, Defendant, which aforesaid Will of Escutcheon was delivered to me as Sheriff of Seminole County, Florida, and I have levied upon the following described property owned by Gail D. Ellis, said property being located in Seminole County, Florida, more particularly described as follows:

LEG SEC 22 TWP 19S R0E 31E S 66 FT of N 120 FT of W 1/4 of SW 1/4 of SW 1/4 of NE 1/4 of SE 1/4

Physical Address: 2441 Church Street, Sanford, Florida, and the undersigned as Sheriff of Seminole County, Florida, will at 11:00 A.M. on the 25th day of June, A.D. 1983, offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder, for cash, subject to any and all existing liens, of the Front (West) Door of the steps of the Seminole County Courthouse in Sanford, Florida, the above described real property.

That said sale is being made to satisfy the terms of said Will of Escutcheon.

John E. Poole, Sheriff
Seminole County, Florida
To be advertised June 3, 10, 17, 24, with the sale on June 25, 1983

Vitamin B Helps Some People Fight Depression

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have heard that B-complex vitamins may act as antidepressants. Is this true?

DEAR READER — I, too, have heard this, but I've yet to see it scientifically confirmed.

A vitamin deficiency can certainly cause depression, so B-complex therapy could reverse that state — if the person were vitamin-deficient to begin with. If you are depressed (and not nutritionally deprived), there are more appropriate methods of treatment. Occasional depression is a normal human experience. Persistent or severe depression is more effectively treated medically than by diet. Also, "megadoses" of some B vitamins can cause nerve damage.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is vitamin C of any value in fighting a cold? DEAR READER — No studies have shown that vitamin C affects the virus that causes colds. In one experiment, however, investigators concluded that cold sufferers who took vitamin C felt better than those who did not. There may be some justification in taking the vitamin if it will reduce symptoms. But, vitamin C or not, the cold will run its course.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Will vitamin E help to prevent heart attacks?

DEAR READER — I am unaware of any valid evidence that vitamin E helps to prevent heart attacks. Although research is being carried out because the effects of vitamin E are incompletely understood, it has not been shown to exert cardiovascular protection.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What causes ulcers? DEAR READER — Nobody knows for sure. However, we do know that two situations exist in ulcer sufferers.

Glands in the stomach lining produce acid for digestion. This lining is protected by a coating of mucus that prevents the gastric acid from digesting the stomach itself. Nonetheless, given enough acid, the mucus barrier can be breached and a sore — an ulcer — can form on the part of the stomach that is unprotected.

The stomach's contents empty into the duodenum, a portion of the small intestine. This first section of the small bowel is the place where alkaline digestive juices continue the process that started in the mouth and stomach. Although the duodenum releases digestive compounds, its lining is not protected by an acid-resistant mantle. Ordinarily, stomach food neutralizes stomach acid, but if enough un-neutralized acid gets into the duodenum, it can burn a hole in the intestinal wall. An ulcer can result.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Ask some of your bridge partners to make six hearts on the opening lead of a spade. The smart ones will say, "Sure." What will be their line of play? Play the spade king, ruff after East goes up with the ace, and lead a club toward the queen.

If West ducks the ace, win the queen, shed the king of clubs on the spade queen, draw trumps and give up a diamond. If West rises immediately with the club ace, you'll have two diamond discards on the black queens.

So bet they're wrong. On declarer's play of dummy's spade king, have East refuse to take the ace. Now declarer has to take his discard too soon, before he has led up to the club queen. Finally, when you're being congratulated on being clever and cute, bet that you can make the hand after all. How do you do it? Simple. On the lead of a low spade, play low from dummy. Now you can ruff and lead a low club to the queen once again.

If West ducks, you win the queen, ruff out the spade ace by leading the king from dummy, and get back to dummy with a trump to discard the club king. If West takes the club ace right away, you can still ruff out the spade ace and get two diamond discards as before.

How could East know to duck if declarer plays the spade king at trick one? If the bidding is as shown, the five-spade cue-bid by South shows a spade void, and so playing the ace at once really gains nothing.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 16, 1985
In the year ahead you will take on greater responsibilities in your chosen field. Although you will be working harder, you will also receive greater compensation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though your intentions will be sincere when dealing with friends today, you might slight someone through thoughtlessness. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In your mind's eye today you may see things as completed when, in reality, they are only half-done. Don't quit before the whistle

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Important matters should be attended to as early as possible today. If you let things drag on, it'll considerably lessen your chances for success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Major career objectives can be achieved today, provided you're ambitious and bold enough to go after what you want. Be forceful, not wishful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be able to handle weighty measures with relative ease today, but this may not be true of your companions. Make allowance for their frailties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An opportunity to profit through the auspices of another may present itself today. Don't be fearful if the project is larger than ones you normally handle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your initial assessment of situations today will be quite accurate. However, if you begin to over-analyze things, unrealistic doubts may arise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One way to capture the boss' attention and approval today is to treat the assignments he or she gives you as conscientiously as you know how.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll be reasonably fortunate when taking chances on things today that are well thought out, but blind gambles should definitely be avoided.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not let events dictate your courses of action today. Instead, take charge of matters personally and bend them to serve your needs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others will be more cooperative toward you today if you present your proposals in a straightforward fashion. Keep it simple and eliminate all the frills.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your possibilities for personal gain are still strong. Don't let an undeserving onlooker make you feel guilty because he or she isn't included.
