The word is that NAS commander Bob Ware will tell the City Commission tonight that it's imperative that the pipeline be utilized here to continue the permanent status of the air station.

Hey, did you know the Art Association has approached the city about leasing the old library when that facility is moved downtown.

By the way, the Public Welfare Department wants to use some of the parking area around the library.

Has anyone checked out the safety factor of the pipeline from the lakefront to NAS. Only askin'... It goes by our friend Jim Crapps' and Earl Higginbotham's house... not to mention Jim Spencer's... wouldn't want anything to happen out there.

Gee, we were right about the County Commission meeting Friday night... However, the general tells us there was no discussion about pay raises.

We checked with Jim Avery about the pay raise but Jim says he doesn't recall that item being brought up.

County taxes coming in slow. About $2 million collected thus far... Tax roll estimated at $2,700,000.

Tax Collector John Galloway also tells us that people are just not coming in to get their new license plates and are waiting (as usual) for the last minute... John says an extra force has been hired but the girls are standing around doing nothing.

Chase and Co. wholesale building materials department opened a branch warehouse in Orlando last Saturday.

Because of his activity and prominence in the chiropractic circles in the state, it isn't any surprise to learn that Dr. A. W. Woodall has been elected treasurer of the Orange County Chiropractic Society... Right on the money, that's our bud.

Remember when Ann Lovell, who lived on Celery Avenue at Brisson Avenue, (and whose family still does) was "sawing a scratch fiddle" as she was learning to play that instrument called a violin. Later, her talent blossomed and Alphonse Carlo at Rollins tutored her... Now Ann is playing in the Florida Symphony Orchestra—and not on violin but on viola... And this isn't the first high caliber orchestra that has included Sanford's Ann on its roster.

And speaking or capable Sanfordites, you already know that Dick Holtzclaw is to sing in the Opera Gala's La Boheme in Orlando next month.

Sen. Beth Johnson as she spoke to the Jaycee banquets Saturday night said re-apportionment of our state legislature can't be properly done just by adding more senators and representatives... That is right about the alley of thinking of our own Mack Cleveland and Joe Davis... But watch what comes out of the special session—if anything does—it will be an increase in the personnel of our legislature... Not because serious thinkers like the three named in this paragraph believe it to be the solution, but because the "power bloc" won't give way and some compromise plan will me out of the hopper on "nothing" footing.

County-Wide Water Study Seen

State Okay Sought For Control Group

An overall county-wide water control program was taken under study by the County Commission in a closed meeting Friday evening. It was learned today.

Gen. J. C. Hutchison, Commission chairman, said today the county is considering a water management program for conservation and drainage, which would indirectly effect the county water supply.

General Hutchison stated that County Attorney Harold Johnson had been directed by the Commission to draft proposed enabling legislation establishing a county-wide plan for approval by the State Legislature in April.

Halt Special Session, Stop Pay, Court Asked

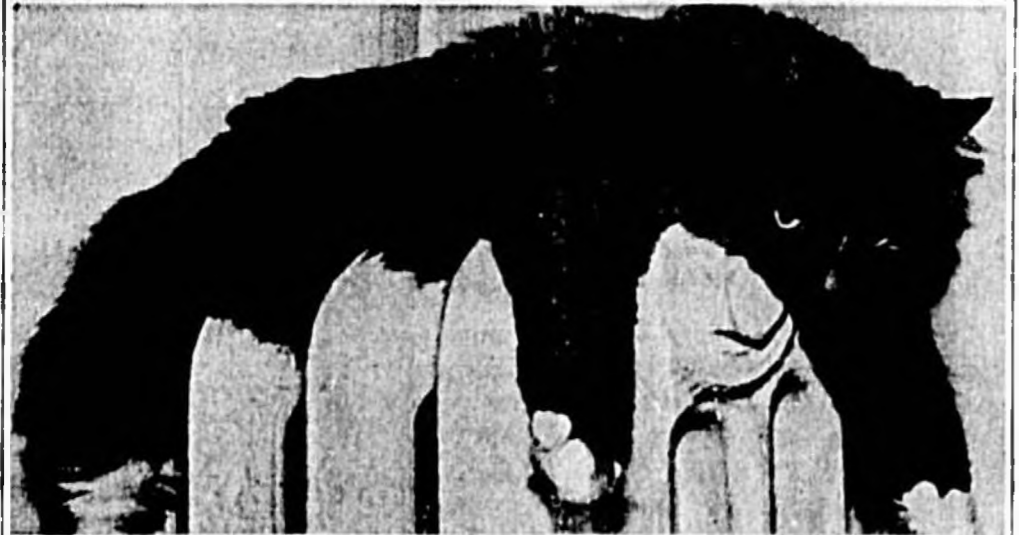

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A group of big city mayors asked a federal court in Tallahassee today to halt a pending special session of the Legislature on reapportionment and cut off the pay of the lawmakers.

The five mayors, through Tampa Attorney William R. Weaver Smith Jr., filed a suit for declaratory decree before Federal District Judge Harold Carswell. Carswell did not immediately indicate what action, if any, he will take.

The suit was filed by the mayors conference on fair apportionment as legislators flocked back to Tallahassee for convening of the third special session on reapportionment in five months. The session opens at 11 a.m. Tuesday by call of the governor.

It was filed one day after Miami Attorney Peter B. Sobel said he would ask a three-judge federal court in Miami to lay down guidelines for the Legislature to follow in determining a proper solution to reapportionment.

The suit filed in Tallahassee asked the federal court to declare the present Legislature as illegal and without authority to act, to cut off the pay of the legislators and to enter a judgment apportioning the Legislature to assure equal representation for all the people.

Snow Slams Into New York

By United Press International
A heavy snow storm swung through New York state today, leaving up to 70 inches of snow in its tracks and leaving emergency conditions. Elsewhere, much of the nation was an icebox.

It was below freezing from Atlanta, Ga., to Dallas, Tex. Chicago's Midway Airport registered 12 below to break the 1885 low for this date.oline, Ill., had 23 below, the coldest since 1933.

High winds whipped and churned the heavy snowfall into near impassable highway conditions north of Utica, N. Y., as the storm spun south of Watertown into Rome and New York's Mohawk Valley. Roads were hazardous throughout western New York.

Strike Wrap-Up

Longshoremen Return To Work In Force

By United Press International
Atlantic and Gulf Coast stevedores and Lockheed machinists were on the job today after settlement of two major disputes in the nation's worst outbreak of labor unrests in months.

Court orders kept Boeing machinists and Monon Railroad trainmen at work. The mayors of New York and Cleveland scheduled talks to attempt settlement of the long newspaper strikes in their cities.

The Philadelphia transit strike, believed near settlement, reached another impasse.

LONGSHOREMEN:

Dock workers in the South Atlantic region, the last to end their walkout in the lengthy longshoremen dispute, signed a new contract Sunday. It called for a 39-cent pay increase similar to raises obtained by other dock workers who had struck from Maine to Texas.

A controversial issue involving the size of work gangs—the shipping firms have sought to reduce them because of automation—was to be studied by the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and the shipping interests with the Labor Department as a mediator.

The strike, which came after an 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling-off period expired, began Dec. 23. More than 100,000 longshoremen and maritime workers were idled. Its cost was placed at nearly $90 million.

In New York, 12,660 longshoremen were called in Sunday on doubletime pay rates to work 91 ships at 63 piers. In Houston, several hundred longshoremen worked Sunday loading and unloading 30 ships, some of which had been tied up since the start of the strike.

MACHINISTS:

The International Association of Machinists (IAM) accepted a proposal of a 28.3-cent hourly blanket pay raise over a three-year period from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. — 20 days before an 89-day cooling-off period was scheduled to run out.

The agreement quieted a strike threat by some 55,000 workers at Lockheed-California Co. and the firm's Missiles and Space Division at installations from Cape Canaveral to Honolulu.

Lockheed rejected IAM demands for a union shop or an agency shop clause, the contract did not include provisions for compulsory union membership or mandatory payment of union dues.

IAM workers continued on the job at Boeing facilities across the nation. Federal Judge William J. Lindberg issued the 10-day restraining order Friday after instructions from President Kennedy, and a hearing was set for this Friday.

Some 40,000 production and maintenance workers are in the bargaining unit involved in the dispute between the IAM and Boeing, maker of Minuteman missiles and KC135 jet tankers.

NEWSPAPERS:

With Mayor Robert Wagner personally taking a hand, representatives of New York publishers and striking printers met into the early hours today.

Publishers have proposed a $10 weekly package increase, while the union wants a $34.25 package over a two-year contract period. The disputed items also include use of automatic typesetting equipment, setting of unused material and contract expiration dates.

The 52-day-old strike has idled 20,000 employees at a cost of more than $41 million. Others have estimated the loss to the city's economy at $3 million daily—or more than $150 million.

Mayor Ralph Locher was to meet today with representatives of 11 unions and the Cleveland Press and Cleveland

Plain Dealer in an effort to end their strike, which has been going on since Thanksgiving.

RAILROADS:

The 200 striking members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen returned to work at the Monon Railroad under court order.

The strike began at midnight Saturday and more than 1,000 employees were affected. The issue was the firing of several men in April, 1962, for refusing to ride in privately owned vehicles on public roads in the course of their duties. The line runs between Chicago and Louisville, Ky.

Eleven non-operating unions continued their walkout against the Florida East Coast Railway, which serves, among other points, Cape Canaveral and Florida resort cities.

The union is asking a 10.28-cent wage increase. The railway says it was hurt by the Cuban crisis and cannot afford the increase.

Watercress ranged from 12 to 15 cents per bunch, mostly 15 cents.

In Central Florida Thursday, falling temperatures and cold weather predictions curtailed trading sharply as growers and shippers concentrating on protecting as much of the crops as they could.

LCDR. John N. Spartz, USN, a Bombarrier/Navigator, was promoted to that rank recently at the Naval Air Station Sanford. Spartz is attached to Heavy Attack Squadron One (VAH-1) the "Tiger" squadron, where he serves as the Bombarrier/Navigator Training Officer.

Common Market Talks Disrupted

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The Common Market Council of Ministers gathered today to decide whether to break off negotiations with Britain — a move that would have a major impact on economic relationships in the Western world.

A series of top-level meetings among officials of the countries involved was under way this morning in an effort to find some way to keep the talks going.

A French source said, however, there had been "no change" so far in the French demand that the talks be adjourned.

French President Charles de Gaulle said Jan. 14 that Britain is not ready to accept the Common Market's membership conditions and really not ready to take part in Europe.

Britain, supported by the United States, is trying to join the six-nation market on terms that will protect its agricultural interests and trade relations with its Commonwealth partners.

Three of the Common Market nations — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — made it clear they believe Britain should join and that obstacles can be overcome.

They even were talking about blocking associate membership for former French African colonies, duty-free Algerian imports and agricultural compromises France wants unless De Gaulle agrees to Britain's entry.

Germany and Italy, the two other members, were trying to find a compromise.

The British press was in an uproar.

"One of the classical diplomatic double-crosses of the century," said the Sunday Telegraph about De Gaulle's opposition.

The Sunday Times urged British negotiator Donald Heath to "stand firm" and not give in to the French.

The Daily Herald accused De Gaulle of taking a "mad gamble" that would destroy the Common Market if it succeeded.

"Britain must be excluded in the French view because to have her it would mean a common market linked with America and turned outward to the world," the Herald said.

Heath, Britain's first private secretary, said on his arrival here Sunday night that the negotiations "must continue."

"What is important is that the future of Europe will be decided," he said. "It must be a stable and strong Europe and we want to help in its construction."

Teachers Pay Here Below Area Normal

The nation's public school teachers this year will earn an average annual salary of $5,735, or $220 more than last school year.

The figures are estimates compiled from all 50 states and the District of Columbia by the Research Division of the National Education Association. The figures, issued annually by the NEA, show estimates only for public elementary and secondary schools.

Although the estimated average salary represents a four percent increase over the average salary of $5,515 paid in the 1961-62 school year, it is the smallest pay hike in the last eight years.

In Seminole County the salary of teachers averaged approximately $4,500, with 210 of the county's 320 teachers in the category of beginning teachers at an annual salary of $4,050.

The highest paid teacher in the county, personnel director Stewart Gatchel revealed, is one with 14 years experience and a master's degree who draws $8,100 a year.

Although state-wide Seminole County puts the second highest percentage of its income into teachers' salaries, the county salary still is below that paid by the surrounding counties, by as much as $1,000 a year.

Seminole County keeps its transportation and maintenance costs among the lowest in the state in order to put more money into salaries to get good teachers, but Seminole, Brevard and Charlotte counties have been the three fastest growing counties population-wise for a number of years, Gatchel pointed out.

Future Farmers Set For Fair

More than 75 Future Farmers, their teachers and some of their parents from the two local chapters, Seminole High and Sanford Junior High will join approximately 5,000 other Future Farmers at the Florida State Fair, Feb. 9, Future Farmer Day.

Many Future Farmers throughout the State will have their Dairy Cattle in the barn to start showing at 9 a.m., Feb. 9. This year, a great increase has been made in quantity and quality of the members' cattle. Many of them will be showing again in the open show during the week.

Feb. 8, the State FFA Officers will attend a luncheon as guests of E. W. Johnson, president, and Bob Morris, agricultural representative of the First National Bank of Tampa; at 8:30 a.m. the State Officers will hold their annual meeting at the First National Bank, and attend the annual Fat Cattle Sale that afternoon.

That evening they will be guests of J. E. Gorman, general manager of the Florida Retail Federation for dinner at the Las Novedades Restaurant.

for the Future Farmers in the Poultry Building at the Florida State Fair.

FFA Day, Feb. 9, will see approximately 5,000 Future Farmers in attendance at the State Fair for a special program in the Grandstand, Judging of Dairy and Livestock (Dairy Cattle and Swine), for which the top award will be trips to Waterloo, Iowa, and Kansas City, Mo. During the program in the grandstand, the Florida Ford Tractor Co. will present a new Ford tractor to the outstanding chapter in each of the six FFA Districts.

The Junior High Chapter has a Black Angus heifer entered in the Fair, which they won at last year's competition. They will bring the purchased heifer back with them when they return from the judging.

Both local chapters will enter judging teams again this year, said Bill West, Seminole High V-Ag teacher.

"Last year, our chapter's judging team won honors in the dairy cattle judging show, and we hope we can do as well again this year," said West.

Occasionally you may have stress and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing control by cutting irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Ask CYSTEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

Illusion Of Change

These are the days when the Congress is referred to as "new." The 88th is barely getting warmed up. Yet what seems to impress some political specialists most is how little changed it is in real substance. Surveys of congressional elections indicate that roughly 50 percent of United States House seats never change from one party to another — though they are up for grabs every two years. In another 25 percent of these seats, changes are uncommon.

Thus, as measured by party control, some three-fourths of the House is largely unaffected by any but the very highest political tides. The last time one rolled was in 1936, when the Democrats assisted by Franklin D. Roosevelt took 334 of 435 seats.

Normally only some 125 seats are genuinely competitive. And the Republicans are now complaining again that they have to win far more of these than do the Democrats to seize House control. For the Democrats root their strength in the one-party congressional districts.

Setting the facts against the evident purposes of the Founding Fathers produces a rich irony. The aim of having House elections every two years — affecting all 435 seats — was to make the lower chamber especially "responsive" to popular will. Obviously only a small part is affected by moderate shifts in the voting winds.

In the last year, a great stir has been created about correcting some of these inequities through reapportionment. But Republicans, smarting on the short end of present arrangements, now argue that much broader effort is needed than has been suggested so far.

Congressional reapportionment is compelled by law only in those states which, under a complex formula governed by population changes, either gain or lose seats after a decennial census.

After 1960, for instance, some 25 states — just half the total — had gains or losses. The other 25 held their old number of seats and had no need to redistrict.

But GOP experts think they may be suffering nearly as much from population imbalance within these states as from improper or insufficient reapportionment in those areas compelled to act by law.

The steady drift of people from rural zones to city and suburb thins out many districts and vastly overloads others. Yet there often is no congressional seat — shuffling.

Republicans may one day sponsor legislation to force periodic redistricting, even when a state's seat quota remains the same.

Their stake in such change is clear. The swelling suburbs, where they already do well competitively, loom as their great opportunity to recapture the congressional power that was theirs so much of the time before the Roosevelt era. In the 80 years since 1932, the GOP has had House control but twice.

No one can imagine easy sledding for any legislation that would make congressional elections truly more competitive. The single-party district lawmakers, generally some 800 strong, must surely be the world's most powerful lobby.

Helen Fuller Says

Secret Ballot—Tricky

WASHINGTON — Tricky thing, the secret ballot. Because of it, Speaker John McCormack and the official Democratic leadership of the House of Representatives temporarily lost their followers in a surprise development last week. But as a result, strangely, President Kennedy's chances of winning approval for his tax and Medicare programs are improved.

House Democrats was who among them should fill two vacancies on the powerful Ways and Means Committee; it fills vacancies on other committees and has jurisdiction over some of the most important legislation, including President Kennedy's two top priority measures for this session, taxes and Medicare for the aged.

Rep. Phil Landrum of Georgia, an administration man, was set for the other. Landrum, a longtime conservative, co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, organized labor and an opponent of most of the Kennedy legislative program in the past, changed his spots at the opening of this session of Congress to vote with Kennedy supporters for checking Virginia Rep. Howard Smith's control over the Rules Committee. Landrum brought the entire Georgia delegation with him over to the President's side in the Rules fight. It was widely assumed in Washington political circles that there had been a deal.

Peter Edson Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — You have to carry your check-book at the ready if you want to stand in well on the New Frontier. The philosophy of "ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country" has been carried to extremes. If you don't volunteer, you are invited.

Washington is pretty agog now over two parties celebrating the second anniversary of President Kennedy's inaugural while Democratic leaders were in town to plan 1964 strategy.

First, a $1,000-a-plate dinner at the new International Inn. The 600 or more big fish attending this affair get a $100-a-seat gala which followed at the National Guard armory, without food, for maybe 5,000 little fish.

The party could gross maybe a million dollars toward reducing the National Committee debt.

No printed guest lists were available for either affair to identify the suckers. This trick was used extensively by the Republicans during the Eisenhower administration, but the GOP holds no copyright on it and both parties use every strong-arm method they can think of to raise political funds.

Washington newsmen have received many anonymous phone call protests on this in recent days. Most have come from career civil servants in the upper grades, complaining they have been pressured to buy tickets to the $100-a-seat gala.

The callers can't reveal their identity for fear of political reprisal. The implied threat is that if they don't contribute, they won't get that promotion or might be downgraded.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., has demanded an investigation of newspaper charges that government workers were told to buy tickets $10 down and $10 a month if they couldn't pay cash.

On a smaller scale, this is characteristic of the zeal and ingenuity shown in raising the $25.9 million in ransom

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE O-448: Molly, aged 10, is a gentle mare belonging to our neighbors near our Indiana farm home.

"Dr. Crane," our neighbor's wife began, "Molly has a phobia about thunderstorms. She gets literally scared almost to death when thunder and lightning occur."

"During the summer, for example, we were away from home one Sunday afternoon when a storm occurred."

"We worried about Molly but the storm was over by the time we had returned. Later in the afternoon, it grew cloudy again and threatened to rain."

"So my husband hurried out to the pasture to bring Molly into the barn, for she is less terrified when indoors."

"Molly seemed all right when my husband shut her inside her stall."

"But we had a severe thunderstorm shortly afterwards. It continued for several hours during the night."

"And the next morning, Molly was still shaking all over. Each time her heart would beat, Molly would twitch like a St. Vitus dance patient."

"Besides, her sides were caved in and so sunken she looked as if she had been starved for weeks, so we called the veterinarian."

"He said she had no fever but agreed she looked as if she would die before the day was over."

"Figuring maybe she had a bleeding vessel internally, he gave her a shot to coagulate the blood. Then he told us he'd consult with the other two vets with whom he was associated."

"Later, one of the other veterinarians arrived and told us he had a horse just like Molly which was terrified by thunderstorms and lightning, so he figured Molly was just a victim of fright."

"This doctor also said he thought Molly would probably be all right by the next day. And so she was. Her twitching had ceased and she began to eat normally."

"Dr. Crane, would you say that Molly was a victim of a psychosomatic medical ailment?"

Yes, indeed, Molly is an excellent example of the fact that animals below mankind can also suffer from fear until they get sick.

Indeed, fear can raise blood pressure alarmingly. In a previous case I reported an Army colonel whose normal blood pressure was only 135 but who had a phobia of any medic in Army uniform.

So when this colonel, during World War II, went back into active service, the Army medic got a blood pressure reading of 210, though civilian doctors clocked it at 135.

Fear can also speed up your pulse rate so fast it can hardly be counted. Fear often produces spasmodic colitis and adds more acid to your stomach so your peptic ulcers may perforate.

So, if a big otherwise healthy horse can be scared almost into fits, imagine the terror of children as well as human adults when they cherish horrendous pictures of what may befall them in a hospital.

Most surgical patients are abnormally afraid before an operation, largely because too many medics are tongue-tied with patients and don't use enough simple explanations with chart talks, etc.

So send for my booklet "How To Prevent Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. It relieves unnecessary fears.

What do they mean "smart money?" The dollar today doesn't have enough cents to buy near as much as it used to.

Still Going Strong - Butner

"Despite the bad weather, we are a long way from being out of business and are still going strong, black newspaper stories notwithstanding," Leo Butner, manager of the State Farmer's Market assured Kilmans last week.

"We had 31 varieties of fruits and vegetables going through the market last month," Butner said, "and our volume of business was $577,635."

Besides Florida-grown produce, approximately 43 varieties of fruits and vegetables grown in the north are distributed from the state market, as well as imported produce from Mexico, Isle of Pines and Canada, the market manager said.

He described the beginnings of the state farmer's market in Sanford saying that his father decided to come to Florida in 1921, after having toured the state and found this area to be "the best spot in the state, with the most beautiful farms in the country."

For lack of refrigeration storage and shipping facilities surpluses accumulated and the idea of the farmers market to gather it all under one roof, was born.

Alex French donated 20 acres of land at the present site, Butner recalled, and in 1933, the Florida legislature created the marketing board. In 1934 the first state-owned farmer's market was built. The late Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, dedicated the Sanford Farmer's Market.

Business increased steadily and in 1957 the market had reached a volume of $5 million.

"People came from all over the world to see our farmers market system, and the 27 other markets throughout the state," Butner said.

In 1957, a disastrous fire burned the old wooden building to the ground, but in December of that same year, the new concrete and steel, fire-proof market was completed on the present spot, a few yards south of the old location. The new $275,000 building has 22 stalls of 2,000 square feet each, office and loading platform space, electric and water supplies for processing of produce, a modern truck scales, and careful regular inspections by laboratory specialists.

"Last season, values of the produce passing through the market again rose to over $6,000,000," Butner said.

"We pay our own way, with revenues from rentals and service charges, with two and a half million units of produce going through the market last year," he added.

Ten members of the Osteen Demonstration Club attended the county meeting in DeLand recently. It was held at Stetson University. Mrs. Walter Merton, vice president of County Council, presided at the morning session.

A program of music on the new chapel organ was presented by Charles Moore, a student at the university. This was followed by installation services of all county officers.

A styrofoam circle of green leaves was placed on the stage. As each officer was installed, she placed a fruit in the circle. When it was completed they had a beautiful wreath of colorful fruit.

The members then retired to the Student Union dining room for a delicious luncheon. Tables were decorated with a theme of green, white and yellow. Mrs. Edna Eby, county agent, presented each of the distinguished guests an orchid which her husband had grown and numbered them.

Two lucky winners who received orchids. The youngest member present also received one.

A hat fashion show was held, each member participating, modeling her own creation. Mrs. John Vaughn was speaker for the afternoon. Her subject was "The Role of the Homemaker in Other Countries."

She told of many interesting things that she and her husband experienced when they traveled in Pakistan and Japan.

One was of being entertained at a 16 course dinner in Tokyo, Japan, when her hostess was the mother of a student at Stetson University. The mother at that time had not seen her son for 16 years but at the present time she is here in the state visiting the son and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn in DeLand.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. James Wallin, Mrs. Norman Miller, Mrs. Eugene Kistowski, Mrs. Laura Ball, Miss Alice Dayton, Mrs. Guy Beall, Mrs. Joe Masters, Mrs. Harry Osteen, Mrs. Hazel Gilluly and Mrs. Julius Gerhardt.

Mrs. Cross Hostess For Oviedo Club

During the social hour the hostess served apple-date cake and coffee. The group then enjoyed a film entitled "The Lady and the Stock Exchange," presented by Kim Harley of the A. M. Kidder Brokerage Co. in Sanford.

Others present were Misses W. W. Dietrich, Barney Guthaus, K. Lyons, William Kovak, A. C. Hopkins, R. E. Smithson and a new member, Mrs. W. B. Sargent.

"LET'S TALK DRY CLEANING"
By - WOODROW CASH
Here's a suggestion about SHIRINKAGE... a complex subject that deserves more discussion in future columns. Most clothes you buy bear a manufacturer's label indicating the percentage of maximum shrinkage. To the average person it doesn't mean much to know that the garment won't shrink more than 1%... so translate this into inches.
If a dress has a waist width of, say, 35 inches and the shrinkage is 1%; that means that the shrinkage in width will be 3/4 inch or less. If it's 50 inches long, it won't shrink more than 3/4 inch in length. This minimum shrinkage means your clothes will retain good fit. If the shrinkage goes up to 3%, be sure there is no risk of the garment getting too tight (3% shrinkage on 25 inches is 3/4 inch, on 50 inches, 1 inch, etc.) Any greater listed shrinkage should make you hesitate unless the garment is unusually loose fitting.
Proper cleaning assures minimum shrinkage of any fabric... besides keeping your clothes fresh and new looking. See us for expert dry cleaning... attend We pickup and deliver...

Roy Collins Observes 76th Birthday

By Mrs. Clarence Snyder
Roy Collins was 76 years old Sunday and members of his family gathered at his home on Lake Butler to help him celebrate the occasion.

Refreshments of the traditional birthday cake and ice cream were served to Mr. and Mrs. Collins, his two daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Riggs and children, Steve, Ronnie, Mickey and Linda, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prevatt and children, Frances, Nancy and Janet Riggs, all of Osteen.

A most effective and simple way to remove asphalt and vinyl tile blocks that need to be replaced in a floor, is to hold a steam iron about one inch above the surface of the tile for a minute or two. Place a putty knife under the edge of the tile and work it out.

New Strike Zone Starts 'Hassle'

By United Press International
They've planted the rhubarbs early this year.
A boiling controversy is waging among big league stars today on the merits, if any, of baseball's new strike zone that has lengthened the target area from the batter's knees to the shoulders.

"It's terrific . . . I don't think it's going to hurt the batters . . . Will open the game . . . Ain't going to make much difference" were some of the comments evoked from big leaguers.

Right-hander Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers called it "Terrific. The breaks are for the pitchers. But seeing is believing and now I want to see the umpires call it."

Batting star Stan Musial didn't think the new rule was going to hurt the batters.

"The strike zone now is higher and most batters are high-ball hitters," said the St. Louis Cardinal great. "I think if they wanted to help the pitchers, they could have widened the plate."

The old zone, in the vicinity of the batter's knee top to his armpits, was changed Saturday by baseball's rules committee on the recommendation of many big league managers.

Veteran umpire Tom Gorman, already targeted for the mass disputes bound to arise, said the new rule "will open the game a lot and I think it will help the more finicky hitters who will receive more opportunities to swing."

"It ain't going to make much difference to me," muttered Bill Skowron, the erstwhile New York Yankee star who was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers for Stan Williams.

"I've been a bad ball hitter all my life and this isn't going to change anything for me."

The new rule, designed to speed up the game by cutting down the number of walks issued, doesn't sit too well with pitchers Hank Aguirre of the Tigers and Bob Purkey of the Cincinnati Reds.

"They'll never make that strike zone big enough," said Aguirre, the American League leader with a 2.21 mark in 1962.

"I don't think it will help me," chorused Purkey.

The strike zone has never bothered San Francisco Giant outfielder Willie Mays and he doesn't know how it will affect the pitchers.

"As for me," says Willie, "I just go up and swing, that's all."

Teammate Willie McCovey thought it would be "a big advantage for control pitchers. That's a lot of extra room they'll get. And it could hurt some batters who are in a slump."

For pitchers Don Drysdale of the Dodgers and Ed Rakow of the Kansas City Athletics the new rule is almost meaningless.

"I don't think it's going to affect me as a low-ball pitcher," said the speedballing Drysdale, who won a major league high of 23 games last season. "The rule change may help pitchers in the American League where the umpires have a tendency to call more high strikes than in the National League."

ACTION WAS PLENTIFUL in the Bishop Moore-Sanford tilt here Saturday night as the Hornets won 61-53. (Herald Photo)

Seminoles Drop 2; Jayvees Lose First

Sanford blew an early lead as the Bishop Moore Hornets came on strong in the second half to rattle the locals 61-53 in cage action Saturday night.

It was the fifth straight loss in a row for the locals as they were defeated by New Smyrna 41-36 in Friday night's contest.

In Saturday's game, Sanford took an early 15-12 lead but the locals duked in only six points in the second period and Bishop Moore led at the half, 31-21.

The Hornets were never headed after that.

Mike Woodruff was the scoring ace for Sanford hitting for 22 points followed by Butch River, 13.

In Friday's game, Woodruff was high again with 13 points. For the first time this year, the Sanford Jayvees were defeated as the Baby Cudas won, 52-47.

The Jayvees came back strong Saturday to knock off the Hornets, 61-50.

Smith Paces Lyman Victory

Paced by the pinpoint accuracy of Donnie Smith, the Lyman Greyhounds broke out of the losing column Saturday night as they bombarded Howey, 61-46.

Smith scored 17 points for the locals to pace the attack as the Howays rolled up an amazing total of 23 points in the first period of play while Howey was held to only five markers.

At the half, Lyman led, 36-12.

In Friday's game, Lyman lost to Apopka 69-23 with the Blue Darters opening up an 11-8 first period lead and never being headed after that.

Lil Buggers Hold Lead

The Lil' Buggers are still holding the lead in the Jet Bowlerettes League by the slim margin of one. They have 48 wins and 24 losses while Cut 'n' Curl has 47 wins and 25 losses.

High game and series honors this week went to Elaine Koval for her 207 game and 834 series. Pat Siplely had a 200-even game while Shirley Martin had a 820 series.

New President

Earl Burcher was elected president of the Seminole Archers in a recent meeting at Fort Mellon Park. Others chosen are Don Parker, vice president; Betty Burcher, secretary; Frank Romanio, range captain, and Bob Orwig and Tom Wilkinson, board members.

Those interested in archery are requested to contact Betty Burcher, 620 Egan Drive, Orlando, or call 275-0106.

Old Pros 'Bitter' Over Fame 'Neglect'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sam Rice and Eppa Rixey displayed happiness mixed with bitterness and 87-year-old Elmer Flick said, "I figured I was too old for anybody to remember me."

That was the reaction of three of baseball's old-timers who were elected Sunday to the Hall of Fame along with John Clarkson, a National League pitcher before the turn of the century who died 53 years ago.

Rice, repeatedly passed over in past balloting by the main body of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, finally won the nod from the Hall of Fame's 12-man veterans committee. He and Rixey were elected from another category of players who retired between 1931 and 1943.

Clarkson and Flick were chosen from another category of old-timers who retired before 1931.

Rice and Rixey both admitted they were "very happy" over their selection. However, they wondered out loud why they didn't rate entry to the Hall years ago.

"I was disappointed at the number of times I had lost out in the voting," declared Rice, 70, a star outfielder with the Washington Senators from 1910 to 1933 who had a lifetime batting average of .322. During his 19 seasons in the American League, he collected 2,987 hits but hit only 31 home runs.

Rixey, 71, former National League pitcher, also admitted he "was getting a little discouraged" after past rejections.

In addition to his advanced age, Flick attributed his failure to gain the Hall of Fame earlier to the fact that "I never had anybody pulling for me in these elections."

"And we needed the money," cracked Jackie after the victory. "Between us we have eight kids to feed."

Burke, who will be to years old Tuesday, has been haunted by a hand injury for years. It finally forced him to give up the tour for about half of each year.

Oviedo Rolls On Torrid Pace

Oviedo continued its winning ways on the basketball front Friday night as they squeezed past Titusville, 58-53.

With just two minutes remaining in the game and the score tied, Jim DeShazo of the Lions dropped in two free throws to move the Lions ahead where they never strayed.

Jim Courier was high scorer for Oviedo with 18 points.

Bankers Top Marines In Play

Florida State Bank defeated the Marine Barracks 54-34 in the Sanford Recreation Department's men's basketball league.

McKeel hit 13 points for the bank and Perrine scored 18 for the Marines.

In the second game VAIL-3 scored 37 points to win over VAIL-11. Blazek was high scorer for three with 24 points and Christoff had 14 for 11.

Visitors are welcome to the Wednesday and Saturday night games at the junior high school.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Statistics show that widows and divorcees have a 70 percent better chance of getting a husband than an unmarried woman. WHY? Why do men want two and three - times divorced women? What do these common retraits and warmed-over has - beens have that we respectable never - married girls don't?

BACHELOR GIRL, AGE 32

DEAR BACHELOR GIRL: Respectable, never - married girls are saying "I do" every day. Don't snipe at one who has loved and lost - just because she gets another chance. Some men prefer to do business with old, established firms.

DEAR ABBY: When I had my first child (a boy), my mother-in-law adored him and still does. When I had my second (a little girl) she said she had never seen such a home-ly baby. She told me she'd take care of my oldest child any time but not the little girl. I'm ashamed to admit this to anyone but you, Abby, but she hates my daughter. She brings gifts for the boy and fusses over him, and ignores the little girl. It hurts me terribly. How can I get her to like my daughter?

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

One of the advantages of playing a contract with four trump opposite four is that you can choose the master hand.

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and shifted to the seven of clubs.

South won with the ace and promptly went wrong. He counted eight top tricks and needed two more for his contract. He should have tried for them by working with the diamond suit, but South forgot that he could make dummy the master hand. Accordingly, South cashed his king of hearts, discarding a club from dummy, ruffed a heart, played dummy's king of spades, led another spade to his queen, heart which South had to ruff. At this point South finally went after the diamond suit, but time had run out because West came up with a beautiful play. West, counting the hand, realized his partner had started with six hearts, three spades, and two clubs. That left him with exactly two diamonds and one of them had to be the king because South had already shown up with 16 points for his opening no-trump.

West played the queen of diamonds. This left South stuck between a rock and a hard place. If he ducked West would cash his last high club. If he went up West would get that club later on.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

Men don't get the emotional satisfaction out of shopping that women do, says an advertising executive.

Of course they don't. Just consider all the ways in which women get emotional satisfaction out of shopping that would never occur to a man:

A husband and wife have a fight, and how does the wife get even for all those mean things her husband shouted at her? She goes downtown and buys herself something extravagant and charges it to her husband.

A woman feels lonely or restless, and what does she do? She goes for a day of shopping and comes home feeling better, even if all she did was look and try on clothes without buying a thing.

A woman finds herself in a strange city for a day, but she's not lonely. Not as long as she can get out and have a look at the department stores and what they have to offer.

A woman struggles along month after month on a tight budget, making do and doing without until she begins to feel sorry for herself. When she can't stand it any longer she goes out and buys something. It doesn't have to be a big pur-

Boost Science Knowledge Powers Urges

HOUSTON (UPI) — Col. John A. Powers, often called "the voice of the astronaut," told a group of Texas editors Sunday he feels today's citizen must increase his knowledge in the field of science.

Powers, publicity officer for Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center, said people must increase their space knowledge if the decision-making process is to remain democratic.

"Today's space age citizen, assuming that our news media has done its job, needs to know more about science than a science teacher knew a generation ago just to read and understand his newspaper," Powers said.

He told the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors that newsmen must perform a vital function in raising the space IQ of the average person.

"The news media will have to spend more money to acquire new people and equip present personnel with an improved scientific literacy," he continued.

In discussing the almost $99 billion space budget, Powers said it calls for complicated weapons systems, space and nuclear science advancements and other complex subjects that require more understanding by newsmen and the public alike.
