State Attorney Investigates Charge Court Clerk Accepted Fees

The Consumer Fraud Division of the Seminole state attorney's office today is investigating charges a deputy court clerk illegally helped a woman prepare divorce papers and pocketed $180 cash which she charged for the work.

And the Sanford woman making the accusations said the same deputy clerk offered her $50 Thursday to destroy possible incriminating evidence and disavow her claim.

However, when confronted with the charges, the 8-year veteran clerk's office employee told The Evening Herald she has done nothing wrong and that while she talked to the woman, she did not prepare the documents nor charge her. The deputy clerk declined to comment further concerning the charges, referring additional inquiries to her lawyer, James Golden.

Golden declined to comment on the case.

The matter came to light last week during divorce hearings before Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. when Beatrice Lee Baker of 2411 Granby St. told Davis she needed to seek advice from a clerk who prepared her divorce case concerning a question asked by the judge.

When Davis inquired further as to the deputy clerk's involvement in the matter, Mrs. Baker said the clerk prepared and filed the necessary divorce documents, had written out courtroom instructions for Mrs. Baker and her daughter, who was a witness in the divorce hearing, and charged her $180 cash for the service.

According to Clerk of the Court Arthur

Beckwith Jr., who is also the accused clerk's supervisor, no clerk's office employee is permitted to offer legal advice or prepare legal documents for a petitioner unless the petition is made in small claims court. A divorce petition is filed in the circuit court, he said.

Davis, who originally initiated his own probe into the allegations, has now turned the investigation over to the state attorney's office, saying that because of demands on his time this week in court he is unable to properly research it.

"I'm like a Monday morning quarterback," said Investigator Douglas Huth of the consumer fraud division. "I've been given the case this morning but I haven't had time to really get into it. I am going to be talking with Mrs. Baker this morning and others concerning the allegations and we'll go from there."

"I don't have anything against the woman and I sure don't want to get anybody in trouble," Mrs. Baker said. "But if she knew what she was doing by taking my money and doing my papers was illegal then she ought not to have done it."

Mrs. Baker said she knows of other incidents where the deputy clerk prepared legal documents for family members and friends, also charging them in cash for the work.

No receipt for payment was given, she said.

"She did my papers and she did the papers for my daughter in Longwood, who although she didn't go through with the divorce, she had to pay anyway," Mrs. Baker said.

"She also wrote out these notes for me to read in court before the judge," Mrs. Baker said, concerning two hand-written notes which she brought with her to The Evening Herald.

"These notes give me and another daughter, Mary (Daugherty) instructions on what to tell the judge," Mrs. Baker explained.

According to Mrs. Baker, she and Mrs. Daugherty were approached by the clerk at about 1:30 p.m. Thursday in a parking lot near the courthouse and the clerk "told us it was her word against my momma's and that there was no way we could win this," said Mrs. Daugherty, also of Sanford.

"We told her we still had the papers that she wrote out for us to tell the judge and she offered Momma $50 in five $10-bills to destroy those papers and forget the whole thing," Mrs. Daugherty said.

"I told her I didn't want her money and that I didn't want to discuss it with her," Mrs. Baker said. "I don't want no part of her money."

"I sure enough took it," Mrs. Daugherty said, pulling a fistful of money out of her pants pocket. "She's taken enough money from my momma and innocent people and I figured she owed us something."

Mrs. Daugherty said the deputy clerk also tore a small portion of paper from a personal check bearing the clerk's unlisted home telephone number and asked Mrs. Daugherty to destroy the courtroom notes and call her Thursday night to let her know they were destroyed.

Mrs. Daugherty said she will turn the money and telephone number over to the prosecutors to help them in their investigation.

Mrs. Baker, accompanied by Mrs. Daugherty and her son-in-law Thursday afternoon, filed a formal complaint against the deputy clerk Thursday with the Sanford police department. Police said they have forwarded the information to the state attorney's office where prosecutors today are expected to begin questioning Mrs. Baker and others who may be involved in the cases concerning the alleged wrongdoings.

"I do not plan to talk with the clerk, Huth said. "I've got to wait until I've talked with everyone. The case is brand new to me."

"I, for one, am going to see this thing through," said John Jeffries, Mrs. Baker's son-in-law. "I'm tired of the people of Midway being taken advantage of. Those people, including my mother-in-law (Mrs. Baker), are just good Christian people and people try to use them because many of them aren't well educated."

"As far as this matter is concerned, the word is out in Midway that if you need any legal advice or assistance you go see (the deputy clerk)," Jeffries said.

Beckwith said he has talked to his employee and "she has denied doing anything more than talking with the woman" concerning the divorce papers.

Beckwith said even if the allegations prove to be true, he doesn't believe the wrongdoings are a violation of the employee's work duties.

However, Beckwith said it is against the law for anyone not licensed by the state bar to practice law, adding that the accused employee is not a licensed lawyer.

For Students, Parents

Immunization Law Creates Problems

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Hundreds of Seminole County students are expected to be turned away when classes begin Aug. 30 because they do not have proper immunization records, a Seminole County school official estimates.

Ralph Ray, administrative assistant for the Seminole County School District, said 7,000 students did not have the proper immunization records on Aug. 1.

Despite notices sent to parents of a child with improper immunization records and extended hours at Seminole County health clinics in Sanford and Longwood, he said many students will probably be turned away Aug. 30.

"Lake County had 469 students turned away when they opened school Monday," Ray said. "They have about 15,000 students there. We have about twice that many."

Ray said school officials have not had the opportunity to update their figures since they determined that 7,000 of the county's 36,000 students did not have the proper records on Aug. 1.

But the Seminole County Health Department has kept track.

The clinics have been open daily in August. During the first week, 645 students showed up. Another 836 showed up last week and even more were daily coming in this week, said Bernice Duncan, community health director for the health department.

She explained most of the people who don't have the proper records just need to fill out forms and have them verified by a doctor that proper immunizations have been administered.

In addition to the clinics, family doctors also have been distributing the forms necessary for entrance to school.

"We've been giving out a lot of paper," Ms. Duncan said. "All the private physicians have been giving them out too."

At Dr. Charles Mella's office in Oviedo, the rush to get everything in order for students' return to school has led to a 30 to 40 percent increase in the number of inoculations.

Charley Good, assistant office manager, said the new regulation has "created a lot more work for us."

"We've noticed a big increase in the number of parents bringing their children in as well as calling in," he said. "It takes time for us to pull all their records and check to see that they've had the proper shots."

A nurse at the office of Dr. George Pyke in Lake Mary agreed that the new regulation "has increased the number of students coming in for shots."

She said the extra work has slowed things down at the office, with an increase in paperwork.

For most students, getting the necessary documentation is not a big deal. Most family physicians and clinics keep records of when children were immunized.

"With most of the students it's not that they haven't had the shots but that we don't have their records," Ray said.

In those cases, all the students need to do is get a doctor's signature verifying that they have had all their shots.

But one Sanford student has been put into a Catch-22 situation because of the new regulation.

ording to her mother.

Laura was turned away by Bishop Moore admission officials Tuesday when she failed to have the proper records, her mother, Virginia Prendergast of Sanford, said.

She explained that her husband is a construction engineer and the family has moved 16 times in the past 18 years.

"The doctor who delivered her is in Wisconsin and I can't reach him," Mrs. Prendergast said.

The Prendergasts, who live on Longwood-Markham Road in Sanford while Thomas Prendergast is working on the State Route 46 overpass near Sanford, always have seen that their children have the finest health care, Mrs. Prendergast said.

"How do I go back and find out who her doctor was when she was one year old?" she asked. "I can't even remember who our doctor was when she was five years old."

An admissions official at Bishop Moore High School said the state law does not take into consideration extenuating circumstances. The official said the girl must either present certification she has received the shots or take them again before she can be admitted to school.

Lake Mary Tax Rate Is Up In The Air

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

What Lake Mary's property tax rate for the 1982-83 fiscal year will be is anyone's guess.

The City Council in a workshop session Thursday night considered a budget carrying a tax rate of $4.08 per $1,000 assessed valuation of real property.

But Mayor Walter Sorenson said today this probably will not be the final rate set.

Earlier, City Manager Phil Kubles submitted a budget to the council calling for a tax rate of $3.90.

Two weeks ago, the tax rate was changed to $4.35 and the rate was sent to the Seminole County Property Appraiser's Office for advertisement on tax notices and used in newspaper budget ads.

Thursday night a new budget, this time accompanied by a memo from City Treasurer Madeleine Minns, recommended a tax rate of $4.08.

Sorenson explained today $4.08 probably will not be the final tax rate approved by the City Council following its budget public hearing Sept. 2.

He said the basic budget worked out for the council in the beginning included a tax rate of $3.90. When it came to tentatively setting the tax rate, the mayor said, the council agreed to $4.35, the same rate as this year. That was because once the rate was tentatively set, it could not be increased, according to state law. But, he added, the law allows the rate to be reduced.

The latest rate of $4.08 is more realistic, he said, but still it may be changed.

Mrs. Minns reported to the council that she has found another $30,000, this time in the water department. This money can be carried over into the new budget.

Earlier she found $100,000 which also can be carried into the new budget. Much of these monies are to be placed in a contingency fund.

The total of the latest budget is $912,742. This includes $694,025 in the general fund; $13,512 from federal revenue sharing; and $205,205 in the water and sewer utility fund.

Councilman Ray Fox objected vigorously to $7,500 designated by City Manager Phil Kubles in the budget proposal for the construction of eight barbecue pits, shelters, tables and benches at Crystal Lake Park.

Fox said that was too much money. Councilman Richard Fess said the improvements should be spread around at other city parks as well.

The council tentatively agreed to cut the expenditure to $3,800.

Fox also criticized allocations in the police and fire department budgets, but received no support. Sorenson said those issues could be voted upon at the Sept. 2 public hearing.

In the proposed police department budget, Fox said he could not support a proposal to buy another new $9,566 police car in the new year. He said the police department got two new patrol cars this year and now has four patrol cars, an unmarked car and a jeep. With proper maintenance these vehicles should be enough for the new year, he said.

Councilman Gene McDonald just as vigorously defended the proposed purchase, saying the department needs a reliable fleet of cars. The one car to be replaced will register 120,000 miles by year end, he said.

Noting he has no complaints with the volunteer fire department, Fox said proposals to buy rescue suits and cutters, costing $6,500 and two acid hazard materials suits for $2,500 is "too much, too quickly."

Fight Looms Over Man's Body

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

A state agency that regulates funeral directors in Florida was reportedly sending an investigator to Sanford today to look into allegations a funeral director refuses to turn over the body of a Sanford man to another funeral home.

The dispute came to a head Thursday after a week-long effort by family members to get the body released. Relatives of Vincent Foster, 29, of 1120 W. 11th St., who was killed last Friday when the wall of a building on First Street he and others were razing collapsed. Two other persons were killed and five others were injured in the tragedy.

Sanford Police were called Thursday to the Browns' Paradise Memorial Chapel on West 13th Street, Sanford, when Foster's relatives complained Robert L. Brown, the funeral director, would not release the body to the Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary.

Sanford police told complaining relatives that Brown insisted he be paid $2,000 for the work he had already done — embalming the body and purchasing a casket — and that there was nothing they (police) could do about it because Brown produced a signed contract and the issue is a civil matter.

Brown is reportedly in fair condition today at Florida Hospital-Orlando, but would not comment on the matter, nor disclose the nature of his illness or why he was admitted to the hospital.

A spokesman for the Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary said today their hands are tied and that they could not pick up the body until a family member signed an authorization. Wilson-Eichelberger employees also said since the state is sending an investigator to look into the matter, they can do nothing further.

James Wylie, executive director of the Florida Funeral Directors Association, said this morning since Brown is not a member of his organization, they cannot get involved. He added, however, state law prohibits a funeral home from refusing to release a body to the family. He said all a funeral director can do if he's owed money is to try to collect from the estate.

IN BRIEF

Intense Lobbying Pays Off In Reagan's Tax Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intense presidential lobbying and an equally intense appeal from House Speaker Thomas O'Neill paid off with Congress' approval of the $98.3 billion tax package President Reagan says is crucial to an economic recovery.

The House, swallowing what one Democrat called the "castor oil" of an unpopular tax increase in an election year, voted, 226-207, Thursday for the measure. The GOP-dominated Senate approved the bill a few hours later in a closer than expected 52-47 vote.

As a sweetener to attract votes, the bill contains up to 10 weeks of additional federal unemployment compensation for about 2 million workers who have exhausted, or will exhaust, their benefits in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Banks, S&Ls Growing Alike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee is taking a step toward easing the distinctions between banks and savings and loans.

Under a bill approved by the committee Thursday, savings and loans would be allowed to make consumer and commercial loans, a business long reserved for banks. In the past S&Ls' lending has been limited largely to home mortgages.

Historically, savings and loans have attracted deposits by offering interest rates on savings accounts slightly higher than those permitted at banks. The bill phases those differentials out by 1985.

5 Die From Encephalitis

ATLANTA (UPI) — Five people and thousands of domestic animals have died this year from encephalitis borne by mosquitoes, the national Centers for Disease Control reported.

Sixteen cases of the disease, five of them fatal, have been reported in four states, the federal health agency said Thursday.

There is no vaccine to protect humans against the several kinds of mosquito transmitted encephalitis, which cause inflammation of the brain and spinal cord, and the only treatment is supportive. Infants and older persons are most susceptible to the disease.

New York and Georgia each reported seven cases of the disease in humans, Florida reported one, plus one suspected case, and Wisconsin one. New York listed three fatal cases; Florida and Georgia reported one death each.

Nancy's Father Buried

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — First Lady Nancy Reagan awaited the arrival of President Reagan today for the funeral of her father, Dr. Loyal Davis, one of the president's first conservative influences.

Davis, an internationally known neurosurgeon and instructor, died Thursday of heart failure. Mrs. Reagan was at her father's bedside when he died at Scottsdale Memorial Hospital. He was 85.

Pizza Delivery Man Escapes Robbery Try

By TONY ARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Maine book salesman told police he was assaulted and robbed in a Sanford parking lot Thursday while a Casselberry pizza delivery man said he managed to escape a robbery attempt by a youth supposedly carrying a toy gun.

David Dunlap Guild, 21, of Dover, Maine, told police he was robbed of $400 cash, his wallet and personal papers, and was also hit in the face by men who approached him at the Lake Monroe Terrace apartment parking lot at about 7:10 p.m.

Guild, a student selling books to pay his way through school, told police that three men approached him as he sat in his vehicle and said they heard he was a police officer and demanded to see Guild's identification. Guild said the men started tearing at his pants pocket, grabbed his wallet, hit him in the face several times, then fled with the money and other property, police said.

Meanwhile, pizza delivery man Alan T. May, 20, Casselberry, told police that a youth, who was supposedly picking up a pizza and beer which his brother ordered, tried to rob him at gunpoint at about 6:40 p.m. Thursday.

May, an employee of the Village Pizza Parlor, State Road 434 and Pressview Drive, told police he was to deliver the pizza at a convenience store. Upon arrival, May was met by a boy who said he was the customer's younger brother and that he was sent to pick up the food, police said.

The boy got into the car and the two proceeded toward a home on Plumosa Drive, police said.

Minutes later, the boy pulled out a gun and demanded May's money. May reportedly told the boy "I don't have time for this," and was then ordered to stop the car and get out.

May asked the would-be robber to show him the gun, suspecting it was a toy weapon and the boy became nervous, police said. May returned to his vehicle and was about to drive away when the boy reached into the car, hit May in the face, tried to steal the beer but was unable to do so, police said.

May drove away and notified police of the attempted robbery.

BOAT, MOTOR MISSING

A boat and motor, valued at about $2,200, were stolen from a fish camp near Oviedo between 12:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Harry H. Odum, of Oviedo, told deputies his boat and motor were last seen at the Black Hammock Fish Camp, where it is docked, by a camp employee who said he saw two men traveling down the river in the boat around noon Wednesday.

YOUTH GRABS PURSE FROM MOTORIST

A 17-year-old Altamonte Springs girl told deputies a youth grabbed her purse from her lap while she and another girl were stopped in her car at the intersection of North and Jackson streets, near Longwood, at about 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Ann Margaret Rush, of 801 White Oak Dr., told deputies she stopped her car at the intersection and a group of boys surrounded her vehicle. One of the youths reached into the car and stole her purse, she said.

At about 5 p.m., deputies said Miss Rush received a call from someone who said they had found her purse near North Street.

Upon investigation, Miss Rush recovered her purse but keys and a wallet had been removed, deputies said.

MAN HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGES

A 19-year-old Pine Hills man was being held in the county jail under $8,000 bond following his arrest on charges of attempted armed burglary, possession of burglary tools and use of a weapon in the commission of a felony.

Rick Lee Johnson, of 1250 Meadowbrook Ave., of Pine Hills, a suburb of Orlando, was arrested after Longwood police received information that someone was trying to break into the VFW House along U.S. Highway 17-92 at about 6:04 a.m. Wednesday.

Upon investigation, police discovered a window of the structure had been broken and arrested Johnson in connection with the burglary attempt.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people were arrested on the charges of driving under the influence (DUI) of alcoholic beverages in Seminole County:

— Charles Arthur Poe, 52, of Eustis Fla., arrested 8:17 p.m. Wednesday, charged with DUI. Poe was arrested by deputies along Markham Road near Lake Markham Road. Bond was set at $500.

— David Knoll Barnes, 33, of 324 W. Club Blvd., Lake Mary, arrested 1:40 p.m. Wednesday, charged with DUI by deputies. Bond was set at $500.

SANFORD BUSINESS BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a Sanford accounting business between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 7:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Police said thieves broke into the Greene & Dycus CPA building at 205 N. Elm Ave., by pushing open an already broken window, causing an additional $100 worth of damage to the window and frame.

The thieves entered the building and stole about $210 worth of office equipment, police said.

Man, 79, Involved In Fatal Wreck May Lose License

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 79-year-old south Seminole County man, charged with reckless driving in connection with the July death of a 7-year-old girl, may have his driver's license revoked if state officials determine he is an unfit driver.

Although David T. Green, of 2321 Knowles St., Winter Park, surrendered his license to officers earlier this month and his relatives have promised he will never drive again, Florida Highway Patrol troopers are asking that the state take away his driving privileges, saying he is a "dangerous driver."

Troopers cited Green's advanced age, poor health and history of traffic violations as the basis for the request which was prompted by their investigation into an accident July 26 in which Green lost control of his car and struck two children, killing one and seriously injuring the other.

Dana Dietrick, 7, of 5244 Lake Howell Road, was killed while she and a playmate, Shawn Balencie, 10, of 5226 Lake Howell Road, were standing along the roadside waiting to cross during an afternoon rainstorm. The children reportedly were struck by Green's car which jumped the curb, ran through a yard, hit them, returned to the roadway and struck two other cars. Persons in the other two cars involved in the accident were not injured, troopers said.

Balencie is reported in good condition today at the Winter Park Memorial Hospital.

Accident investigators said the accident was caused by inclement weather and driver error, adding that they do not plan to file further charges against Green in the fatal crash.

State records indicate that Green was involved in traffic accidents in April and November, 1981 and was charged with running traffic stop lights in April, 1980 and May, 1982. He was charged last May with making an illegal U-turn and not having a valid driver's license. His license was also temporarily suspended in February for failure to have personal injury insurance.

Troopers said Green is in poor health, suffers from dizzy spells and has a heart pacemaker, which was implanted in 1981. Troopers said they are awaiting word from the state's license revocation officer who will review their report and determine if Green should be re-examined and evaluated on his driving ability and physical health. The outcome of that review will determine if Green's license will be revoked, troopers said.

Since the fatal accident, which sparked an angry uproar from Lake Howell Road residents complaining of increased traffic and the need for additional controls, sheriff's deputies have been coming down hard on speeders in the area. While Green, reportedly, was not speeding when the accident occurred, deputies said motorists traveling the posted 25 mph road are speeding at an average of 35 mph. Citations have been given to numerous traffic offenders in the area since the accident in an effort to prevent further mishaps and officers say the larger portion of those citations have ironically been handed out to local residents.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Showers and thundershowers were scattered from the Gulf Coast to New England and heavy storms battered the Midwest with 1-inch hail and pounding rain that washed out a Michigan highway. Temperatures reached 100 in the Northern Plains. A lightning bolt sparked a grass fire and knocked out power during a storm in the Monterey, Calif., area. Intense, slow-moving storms lashed western Nebraska and northeast Colorado early today. One-inch hail knocked out windows at Salem, S.D., and 2 inches of rain soaked neighboring Humboldt. Nearly 2 inches of rain hit Fort Myers. Relentless heat baked the Southwest as the mercury rose to 115 at Bullhead City and 114 at Yuma, Ariz. One-hundred-degree readings were reported as far north as Idaho, where Lewiston hit 105 Thursday. Winds whipped by thunderstorms caused minor damage in northwest lower Michigan but the accompanying heavy rain washed about a foot of sand across a highway a mile south of Ellsworth. A subtropical mass of warm, moist air from Montrey Thursday, California crossed over California around Montrey Thursday, National Weather Service forecaster Bill Hackel said. One lightning bolt near Morgan Hill ignited a grass fire 20-feet in diameter and caused a brief power outage.

Cardinal Rejects Union

The employees of Cardinal Industries' Sanford plant have rejected union representation by a vote of 122 to 31 in an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The Thursday vote was the result of a petition filed by the UBC Southern Council of Industrial Workers, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, AFL-CIO.

According to Cardinal vice president, Ron Guyer, "Our employees considered the pros and cons of union representation and decided that a union was not the solution to anything." Guyer added that "among other things, our employees considered the poor job the union had done in representing other employees."

McClanahan To Health Job, Will Oversee Former Boss

A. A. McClanahan, the former personnel director of the Seminole County Mental Health Center, has been appointed to a post that oversees the man who fired him from the health center position.

McClanahan, a former Sanford city commissioner and a Sanford real estate broker, was appointed by the Seminole County Commission to the Community Mental Health Board of Central Florida Inc., District VII, for a term ending Jan. 1, 1984.

The purpose of the group is to review and evaluate the plans, mental health needs, services and facilities of Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties. The board has the responsibility of administering mental health programs within the tri-county area. It is the official link between the state Division of Health and Rehabilitative Services and community programs.

McClanahan was fired more than two years ago by Dr. George Lindenfeld after Lindenfeld became the Seminole County Mental Health Center's executive director.

At the time, Lindenfeld said McClanahan tape-recorded a meeting without his knowledge.

McClanahan receives no pay in his new post.

The board determines how state and local mental health funds should be allocated according to community needs.

Hope For A New Federalism

The National Governors Conference at Afton, Okla., went mostly in circles on the main political issue before it — President Reagan's New Federalism. That makes it unanimous. The administration is going in circles on it, too.

Mr. Reagan pulled back on New Federalism earlier this year when the governors objected to the terms he was proposing for a swap of welfare and anti-poverty programs between the federal government and the states. Having convened at Afton with threats of going to Congress with their own proposal, the governors then adjourned with a promise to negotiate further with the White House for a plan most can support.

State governors are captives of their own ambivalence toward a change in federal-state relationships. On the one hand, they complain that Washington has robbed them of the prerogative to set policies for dealing with problems in their states. Faced with the opportunity to assume responsibility for some of those same problems, they are fearful that their state budgets will be saddled with the kind of open-ended costs that are creating huge federal deficits.

Mr. Reagan, meanwhile, has learned that his New Federalism won't fly if it is perceived by the states to be a convenient way to bring the federal budget under better control. So far he has not come up with a plan that convinces the governors he has a more benign purpose in mind.

A new concept of federal and state responsibilities for social programs was dear to Mr. Reagan's heart long before he encountered his intractable budget problems. It is based on his conviction that state and local governments can design and implement programs suited to their own needs and problems more efficiently than a federal government which assumes that all states and cities are alike.

Few governors can argue effectively against that premise, and they and the president do not seem to be far apart on the goals of a New Federalism. There is still hope that a plan can be offered to the next Congress with broad enough support to begin the process of a realignment of federal and state responsibilities.

Judgment Finality

The refusal of the U.S. Supreme Court to prevent the execution of convicted murderer Frank J. Coppola in Virginia is consistent with Chief Justice Warren Burger's views on crime and punishment.

In his annual report on the judiciary last January, Justice Burger complained that "the administration of justice in this country is plagued and bogged down with a lack of reasonable finality of judgments in criminal cases." He and his fellow justices brought about a finality of judgment in the Coppola case.

A message may be coming from the Supreme Court — that lawyers jockeying for time for prisoners under death sentences can expect less sympathy in their endless appeals.

Coppola was only the fifth person to suffer the death penalty in America in the last 25 years, even though most states have enacted capital punishment statutes which seek to conform with guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court. Four of the five have been executed at their own insistence, defying attempts by their lawyers to prolong their lives.

There is an obvious dichotomy between the willingness of state legislatures to enact death penalty laws, and the capacity of the judicial system to see that they are carried out. One reason is that attorneys who lose appeals for condemned clients in state courts find it fruitful to renew the process in the federal courts.

Under the doctrine of "collateral review," the federal courts are obliged to review cases from state courts for possible miscarriage of justice. That doctrine is sound enough, but the signal coming from Justice Burger and his court is that this avenue of appeal — and delay in the finality of judgment — may be less inviting in the future.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Ya know, Nancy, a day like this is enough to make a person forget a balanced budget amendment."

I've recently encountered several cases of a highly contagious disease which is transmitted by bureaucrats. The ailment has no known cure and doesn't even possess a name. I call it creeping bureaucratic lingo-itis.

For the uninitiated, that is the use of terms made up by bureaucrats. People afflicted with the disease use a lot of terms which end in -ize and -age.

Over the years, these words have crept into our everyday vocabulary. For example, the term preventative is now used in place of the previously only correct, preventive.

Another example is sewerage. This has had two bureaucratic lives. It was originally made up to replace sewage system. But today it is often used as a synonym for sewage. If you insist on using the word, remember sewerage is the system of pipes, sewage is what flows through them.

A more recent word is signage. That refers to street signs. Signalization, a related term, means to install traffic signals.

There's also the ever popular monies. This is perhaps the single most over-used bureaucratic term. "We'll be receiving federal monies for the project." Unless they are getting funds from more than one country, this is wrong. Monies refers to different kinds of currencies such as dollars, pesos, drachmas and rubles.

I thought I had heard about every bureaucratic term there was but I've recently learned two new ones. Containerized and mode are my new favorites.

I recently heard an attorney say, "The chairs will be containerized." I'm not certain what that means but I assume he meant the chairs will be in containers or will have attached containers.

Mode is proving to be a word for all seasons. If a project is in the planning stages it is in the planning mode. If a baby is sleeping it is in the napping mode. If you're eating apple pie with ice cream it's apple pie a la mode.

New Food System

HARTFORD, Conn. (NEA) — Almost half of the nation's households now have some form of home garden, but few have much in common with the bountiful half-acre over which Annie Amos presides on the edge of this city's desolate North End.

Rimmed by bleak public-housing projects, the garden provides not only fresh food at low prices but also a sense of pride, accomplishment and self-reliance for some of Hartford's poorest residents.

It is one component of the Hartford Food System, which offers improved nutrition, grocery-bill savings averaging $500 a year and enhanced self-confidence to thousands of low- and middle-income families.

The operation, coordinated by a staff of four young people on a modest annual budget of about $100,000, includes:

— Five self-managing farmers' markets, each in a different neighborhood, which bring scores of Connecticut farmers into the city to sell their produce to an estimated 60,000 customers throughout the summer and autumn.

— Four cooperative food-buying clubs that enable 150 participating families to pool their purchasing power and gain the benefits of low-overhead volume buying.

— Community gardens located at 22 sites in seven low-income neighborhoods that allow about 750 families — most of them elderly, the working poor or members of minority groups — to grow their own fruits and vegetables.

— Two solar greenhouses, which facilitate the year-round propagation of thousands of seedlings that are transplanted to the community garden.

— A community canning center, which provides an opportunity for local residents to learn canning techniques in a safe and clean environment, then process large quantities of fruits and vegetables for winter consumption.

Many other cities have one or more of those components, but none has all of them integrated into a city-wide operation designed to build community confidence by helping local residents control at least a portion of their food supply.

"There exists in Hartford today the beginnings of a new food system," says HFS Director Mark Winne, who suggests that the effort is especially important in New England, where an estimated 85 percent of all food consumed is imported from other regions of the country.

HFS, which was formed five years ago, is a loose coalition of about a dozen organizations supported by numerous government agencies, foundations, religious groups and companies.

The greenhouses were constructed with funds provided by the Department of Energy. The Department of Housing and Urban Development provided aid through its Community Development Block Grant program, and the federal Action agency offered both financial assistance and Vista volunteers.

The Knox Parks Foundation, a local organization whose previous efforts were concentrated on beautification of middle- and upper-income areas of the city, expanded its program to include gardening in poor inner-city neighborhoods.

PLO Atrocities Added To War's Horrors

BEIRUT — At this writing, the first rays of peace have broken through the war clouds over Beirut.

The PLO chieftain, Yasser Arafat, first told me he would fight to the death in Beirut. Now an aide says Arafat has offered to take the PLO out of Lebanon.

This would remove the incendiary from where the powder kegs are kept. Perhaps the more cautious elements on both sides can now control the delicate triggers and somehow muddle through without more carnage.

War is the most spectacular event that men produce. But behind the sound and the fury, war is ugly and evil. Even in Lebanon, a land inured to catastrophe, the bombardment of Beirut was a horror beyond endurance. Grief turned to anger, and anger to bitterness, as the civilians dug the corpses from the rubble.

The horror, however, has been all on one side. I have seen ghastly evidence of atrocities committed by the PLO.

Witnesses told how squads of PLO irregulars had appeared on the beaches of the seaside city of Damur and bombarded the defenseless Christian settlement. Then at gunpoint, survivors were dragged from their homes. They allegedly were taunted, tortured and killed, without mercy.

I heard of no such massacres by the Israelis. But the Israeli troops were not gentle with their prisoners. I spoke to PLO prisoners who told of being pummeled with fists, beaten with sticks and burned with cigarettes.

Volunteer hospital workers were seized by the Israelis who accused them of running a PLO hospital. Hundreds of prisoners, including medical personnel whose skills were desperately needed, were interrogated in the stifling heat for days. According to eyewitness accounts, some were beaten and threatened by their Israeli captors.

A young Canadian surgeon, Dr. Chris Giannou, flew to Washington to complain about the mistreatment of detainees. He was joined by two Norwegian health workers, Dr. Steinar Berge and Oyvind Moeller.

My associates Jack Mitchell and Indy Badhwar interviewed them separately. Berge and Moeller confirmed the accounts of Israeli beatings. They swore that they had personally been forced to sit motionless for 36 hours, surrounded by armored cars and personnel carriers.

The Israelis put out the story that all three were "suspected" of connections to an unnamed European terrorist group. This has brought howls of protest from Canadian and Norwegian authorities.

I went to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, meanwhile, with the stories of Israeli brutality. I found him in shirtsleeves in his Jerusalem office. He listened intently to the allegations. Outwardly, he appeared calm enough. But I felt a tenseness in him, sometimes a sense of beleaguement.

He told me that he had already heard reports of prisoner abuse and had summoned the subordinate responsible for the treatment of prisoners. "I told him, 'I am your prime minister. I want you to look me in the eye and tell me whether prisoners have been mistreated,'" related Begin.

The prime minister was told that there had been no known atrocities but some prisoners had been slipped around a little. Begin then said: "I told him that such treatment is not tolerable and that I absolutely forbid it."

Begin wrote down the names of the prisoners who told me they had been abused and promised an official investigation. A PLO spokesman, meanwhile, insisted that the stories of PLO atrocities were "Zionist propaganda."

FOOTNOTES OF WAR: In a Palestinian refugee camp that had been slightly damaged by the passing Israelis, an ancient woman, wrinkled and toothless, asked me in Arabic to fix her roof. Flying Israeli shrapnel had left a hole in it. "It is no problem now," she said patiently, "but when it rains, it will be a problem."

Foreign Policy Threat

The Reagan administration has done so much good in strengthening the nation's defenses and taking a strong stand against Marxist revolutionaries abroad that it would be tragic if it faltered on the economic front at home.

If Mr. Reagan's realistic foreign policies were eliminated in 1984 by domestic political change, the U.S. would suffer dearly. The radicalized types that had such great influence in the Carter administration would be returned to key policy positions.

It's important that Americans recognize that the old advocates of a soft policy towards the Soviet Union, Cuba and other Marxist totalitarian states are waiting in the wings, hoping for a return to power. Like the Bourbon kings of old, they have forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

Remember Theodore C. Sorensen, former special counsel to President John Kennedy and a very influential liberal with a very soft view of America's adversaries? Well, he's still around. Writing in the latest issue of Foreign Policy, he calls for a new "foreign policy posture." What has he in mind? Among other things, he says his party "could agree on the logic of offering an alternative source of friendship and contact to such governments as Nicaragua, Angola and even Cuba"—all Marxist dictatorships. Is that what the American people want beginning in 1985?

And everyone remembers former presidential candidate George McGovern, the ultimate liberal. He wants the same thing as Mr. Sorensen. In a speech at Northwestern University last March, Sen. McGovern proposed that the U.S. court Marxist nations that are dependent on the Soviet Union. This, he said, "would apply especially to Marxist states...such as Angola and, quite possibly, Cuba."

Sen McGovern has not faded away. He has a new organization "Americans For Common Sense"—something he has never been noted for. What does it do? Its principal thrust is aimed at President Reagan's program to rebuild America's deteriorated defenses. He says we must "reverse the arms race." That means he wants the United States to cancel defense programs in the face of a colossal Soviet arms buildup.

Meanwhile on the domestic front, liberal voices are calling for a return to the New Deal policies of the 1930s which failed to bring the nation out of Depression. The New Republic magazine calls for a "guaranteed national jobs program," a kind of super WPA for the mid-1980s.

Liberal blueprints in the foreign policy and domestic areas should be studied by concerned citizens. They must know that any failure of nerve and vision on the part of conservative leaders could lead to terrible disaster for the United States, a return to the mistaken policies that undermined our economic supremacy and our position as the strongest country in the world.

What the Sorensens and McGovern are planning and hoping for should not be out of our sight at any time.

'Scalping' The Lawn Can Seriously Injure Grass

An attractive lawn is largely the result of regular cutting at the proper mowing height. A properly mowed lawn is more vigorous and will have fewer disease problems.

It is natural for the homeowner to want to cut the grass as short as possible in order to lengthen the time between cuttings. However, "scalping" the lawn can seriously injure the grass. Removal of large portions of the leaf results in reduced carbohydrate production, because the leaves are largely responsible for photosynthesis.

Reduced carbohydrates will weaken the turf and allow it to be invaded by weeds and injured by disease and insects. Loss of large portions of leaf will also cause severe reduction in root, rhizome and stolon growth.

Starting with a sharp mower, the homeowner should avoid removing more than one-third of the leaf surface of his grass at a cutting.

Mowing height is fairly well established for Florida lawngresses.

Bermuda-grasses and zoysiagrasses can be mowed at 1/2-1 inch, centipedegrass and carpetgrass at 1-2 inches, and St. Augustinegrasses and bahiagrasses at 2-4 inches. There are, however, exceptions to these guidelines. 'Argentine' bahia is quite attractive, when maintained at 2 inches and 'Floratine' St. Augustinegrass has been maintained satisfactorily at 1 inch.

A high mowing height is suggested for grass in shaded areas. This increases the leaf area for capture of the limited light energy. Higher mowing height will also benefit a lawngress when weakened by pest injury, traffic or environmental stress.

Mowing frequency is determined by the growth rate of the grass. The rate of growth will depend on temperature, light and moisture conditions, and nitrogen levels. Since the amount of moisture and fertilizer applied differs greatly from one lawn to the next, it is not correct to say that all bahiagrass lawns must be mowed every 7-10 days. Frequency depends on how rapidly the lawn is growing.

The "rule of thumb" is to mow often enough so that not more than 1/3 of the total leaf surface is removed at any one mowing. If it is desirable to maintain St. Augustine at 2 inches, mow when the grass is 2 1/2-3 inches tall. If you return from vacation and the lawn is 6 inches high, reduce the height gradually through several mowings a few days apart.

Another factor which is not as critical as cutting height and frequency is mowing pattern. In successive mowings, try varying the pattern in two or three directions. This will distribute the mower wear more uniformly over the lawn and improve the quality of the cut. Also, to minimize wear on the turf, try making your turns on the sidewalk or driveway. When turning on the grass, make a wide, sweeping arc rather than a sharp, rapid 360 degree turn. Rapid, spinning turns can bruise and tear the turf.

Avoid mowing wet grass. Dry grass cuts easily, does not clog the mower, reduces the chance of spreading disease-causing organisms and gives a more pleasing, finishing appearance.

Removal of clippings is another factor that merits consideration. If the lawn is mowed frequently, the small amount of clippings may not be detrimental. Short clippings decay rapidly and usually do not contribute to thatch formation.

However, accumulation of excessive amounts of clippings may smother the lawn, contribute to thatch buildup and provide an excellent environment for disease and insects. Therefore, removal of the clipping with a grass catcher or sweeper is recommended.

School Open To Register New Students

On Monday, Aug. 30 at 8:25 a.m. the school bell will once again ring in the halls of Geneva Elementary School sounding the start another school year.

Polly Denton, secretary, reminds everyone that the school office is already open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday to register new students.

"Miss Polly," as she is fondly called by most in the community, also says not to forget that the students registering for kindergarten and transfer students will be required to furnish current immunization records as well as certification of a physical examination within the past year.

You may obtain the required Florida Immunization Certificate by taking your shot records to the Seminole County Health Department on French Avenue in Sanford. It is best to get there early in the morning to avoid a long wait.

It is hard to imagine what interesting plans school principal, Mrs. Nancy McNamara, and the GES teachers have for the students in Geneva this year. It certainly will be hard to top the activities that revolved around last year's vegetable garden!

Mr. Don Rose, director of the Lighthouse Youth Ranch, reports that there are still a few exciting "field trips" planned for the residents of the facility before summer draws to a close. They include Disney World, skating and go-karting — all of which have been donated.

He also stated that about a dozen Geneva residents have been actively volunteering their time in helping at the Lighthouse when needed. Don said this really has been appreciated by him and his wife, Connie.

The Lighthouse is currently in need of relief house parents for the Youth For Christ-affiliated project. If you know of someone who has a super love for teen-agers — especially teen-agers experiencing difficult times — how about putting a bug in their ear. They may call Don Rose, 349-5099, for further details.

There will be two orientations for new students at Oviedo High School this year. Wednesday, Aug. 25 at 7 p.m., the ninth graders coming from Jackson Heights Middle School and St. Luke's will meet in the commons building, and Thursday, Aug. 26 at 7 p.m., the ninth graders from South Seminole Middle School and all new transfer students to OHS will come for their orientation.

Geneva Elementary School is not the only local school tightening up on the new state health certification requirements. I learned that the Oviedo High School will be sending students home the first day if they are not in compliance with the School Immunization Law, Florida Statutes 232.032.

In fact, they sent out a letter this week letting parents know that admission to school would have to be denied if the needed Florida Immunization Certificate 680 was not on file.

Besides the Sanford Health Department where form 680 can be obtained Aug. 30 through Sept. 3, from 8-11 a.m. and 1-4 p.m., you may also go to the Longwood Health Department, 174 Church Street, Longwood the same hours.

After Sept. 7, both facilities will be open only two days a week for this purpose. In Longwood after Sept. 7, the hours will be Monday 8-10:30 a.m. and Thursday from 1-3 p.m. For the Sanford Health Department after Sept. 7, the times will be Monday from 8-10:30 a.m. and Friday from 8-10:30 a.m.

Jackson Heights Middle School, where Geneva's middle school students attend, will also be on guard of the heavy crackdown on the immunization law.

Custom Draperies Course

Individualized instruction in drapery construction is now available in the well-equipped home furnishings laboratory at Seminole Community College. Students will construct draperies on long tables and heavy equipment. A wide assortment of machinery is available including sergers and blind hemmers.

The instructor is available from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Students can arrange their schedules to fit individual needs with Mondays and Wednesdays being designated for beginning and advanced students and Tuesdays and Thursdays designated for intermediate students. Cost: $35.00 per term.

A special short course dealing with under treatments for the consumer will be offered on Fridays 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.. Cost: $10. Class begins Aug. 30. For information, call SCC.

Folks Next Door Flunk 'Good-Neighbor' Test

DEAR ABBY: This is a letter I would like my neighbors to see. Perhaps your column will reach them:

"Dear Neighbors, "I am reminiscing today over the 25 years that we have been your neighbors. When we moved here from out of state, we waited for you to welcome us. You never did.

"We are a decent, respectable family. Maybe our children were a little noisy at times, and our grass was uncut once in a while, and our religion was different from yours — so you ignored us.

"Events in our lives — births, graduations, wedding, deaths — came and went with no acknowledgments from you.

"Now that we are all old and the children are gone from the street, shall we be hypocritical and mourn your deaths, or regret your moving away?"

"I think not. We are all poorer for having ignored one another, but we survived. May our children extend the hand of friendship to their neighbors.

AGNES IN CULVER CITY, CALIF.

DEAR AGNES: What's done is done, but times have changed. Neighbors need each other today for security as well as for the sake of old-fashioned friendship.

This is a plea for people to reach out and offer their friendship to the newcomers in the neighborhood. And if the welcome is slow in coming, the newcomers should initiate the dialogue.

Dear Abby

Nothing separates like silence.

DEAR ABBY: One of my relatives intimidates me every time I use the word "supper" — as though it is a long-outdated word used only by uneducated peasants.

Abby, if you had invited guests to a large, heavy meal on Sunday around noon, how would you feel if they said "Thanks for the 'lunch'?" And if you served soup and crackers for an evening meal, should you be thanked for "dinner"?

Just what is the correct name for the heaviest meal of the day if it is served at noon? And what would you call the lightest meal of the day if it is served at night? Thank you.

CONFUSED IN PASADENA

DEAR CONFUSED: "Dinner" is the principal meal of the day. "Lunch" is a light meal — usually eaten at noon. And "supper" is the evening meal when dinner is taken at noon.

If I'm in error, I'll eat my Webster's dictionary for "supper" because I've already had "dinner." You're welcome.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man with a problem I've never seen in your column: the terrible curse of being a redhead! I'm 32 years old, and I can't get a girl because of my red hair. All my relatives tell me I'm good-looking, but they probably feel sorry for me.

I hate feeling like a freak. Is there a club for redheaded men I could join? When people with the same problem get together, they tend to help each other, and I sure do need help. Thanks.

BETTER DEAD THAN RED

DEAR RED: I know of no club for redheads, but I know a lot of men who would be happy to have a head full of hair — regardless of the color.

There are many good-looking, successful redheaded men: Red Buttons, Red Skelton, and that heart-breaker of all times, Van Johnson! Cheer up, Red! You don't have a problem. It's all in your head.

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Funderburk's Thunder Shakes Savannah, 6-5

O-Twins Trail Jacksonville By 1/2 Game.

Baseball

ORLANDO — The rain may have finally subsided at Tinker Field Thursday night. The thunder, nevertheless, was very prevalent. Especially in the fifth inning of game one.

Mark "Thunder" Funderburk crashed his 20th home run of the season with one aboard in the fifth to lift the Orlando Twins past Savannah, 6-5, in the first game of a double-header Thursday.

In the second game, Ron Grout clobbered two homers and drove in four runs while right-hander David Clay scattered five hits as Savannah posted a 7-2 victory.

The split kept the Twins on division leader Jacksonville's heels, just one-half game back. Jax had a double-header rained out with Charlotte. The O-Twins play Charlotte and Savannah on the road the next six days before finishing the season with seven pivotal games with Jacksonville.

In game one, Orlando trailed, 4-2, entering the bottom of the fifth. Two round-trippers, good for three runs by Braves' shortstop Steve Curry had been the difference.

Kevin Williams rapped the second of his three singles to start the rally. After Steve Douglas flew out for out number two, Mike McCain drew a walk. Dave Meier followed with a single to center which scored Williams. And when the throw from the center fielder got past third base, McCain also scored to tie the game at 4-4.

Funderburk, hailed as the second coming of Harmon Killebrew two years ago, followed with a smash over the left field fence which hooked around the foul pole for a 6-4 lead.

"I hit a hanging curve or whatever his (Rick Coatney) breaking stuff is," said the giant first baseman. "I did get a little worried at the end because it was hooking so much."

After Funderburk's blast, manager Tom Kelly yanked starter Sam Arrington in favor of ace reliever Eric Broersma. The young right-hander allowed a run in the sixth, but escaped further damage by getting Mike Reynolds on a called strike out.

In the seventh, a one-out walk to Brad Komminsk and a single by Grout brought Kelly to the mound. The sagacious manager pulled Broersman in favor of Eddie Hodge, who whiffed the final two batters to preserve the victory.

"Hodge did a great job," raved Kelly. "His slider really had them off balance."

Arrington, who has yet to complete a game in 20 starts, picked up the win to improve his record to 8-6. Hodge earned his eighth save, tops on the staff.

Homers Trip Twins

The second game was no contest as the Braves played long ball with Twins' starter Doug Fregin and reliever Smokey Everett.

Mike McCain, Orlando second baseman, scores on an errant throw from the outfield. Teammate Kevin Williams instructs McCain to get down.

Grout and Randy Ingle smashed solo homers in the second inning and Curry chased home a run in the third for a 3-0 lead.

Orlando pulled within, 3-2, in the fourth on an RBI-double by McCain and a wild pitch by Clay which scored Douglas.

In the fifth, however, Thompson stroked a leadoff home run and Grout followed with a three-run shot off Everett to put the game out of reach, 7-2.

Legendary baseball clown Max Patkin entertained the crowd of 1,225 during the first three innings of the second game by coaching first and third base and hitting a single to left between innings.

McKay Tempers Joy For Rookies

Buccaneers

Who: Tampa Bay (1-0) vs. Washington (0-1)
 What: Second preseason football game
 When: Saturday, 7:05 p.m. kickoff
 Where: Tampa Stadium

By SAM COOK
 Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA — John McKay depend on rookies?

Perish the thought. Not in a year when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers are keeping players who can help them now and not worrying about the future.

Well, maybe not perish it. Just put it on hold for a while. As odd as it may seem, first-year players scored four of the Bucs' five touchdowns in the 35-7 massacre last Saturday against Philadelphia.

"The younger players did well when they had the opportunity," admitted McKay. "But that has to be tempered by who they did it against."

"That late in the game the Eagles didn't have their top players in. But we saw in the game the things we thought we had seen in practice."

One of those sights most visible was the acceleration of running back Michael Morton. A 12th-round draft pick from Nevada-Las Vegas, Norton zipped for a preseason record 104 yards on five carries. He contributed two of the rookie touchdowns. One came on a nine-yard burst around the right side and the other came on a record-setting (preseason) dash 80 yards around the left side into the cherished land.

Another Las Vegas grad, free agent Melvin Carver, also turned in a solid performance. Carver was a blocking back for the 5-8, 180-pound Morton at UNLV. He added the final Buc score on a 30-yard sprint late in the fourth quarter.

The fourth rookie score was turned in by linebacker Jeff Davis. A fifth-round selection from national champion Clemson, Davis made a perfect drop, picked off a Joe Pisarcik aerial and returned it 29 yards for a TD. The 6-0, 225-pounder also made seven tackles.

Tampa's first score came on a dart-like, two-yard pass from Doug Williams to Jimmie Giles. Williams was sharp. He hit 7-of-9 (one dropped) for 68 yards in about a quarter's time.

Former Orlando American signal caller Jerry Golsteyn also turned in a top-notch effort. Golsteyn is competing for the backup job to Williams with Chuck Fusina.

The 6-4, 200-pounder had a hand in all fourth-quarter scores. He hit on 3-of-7 passes for 49 yards and had two dropped. Fusina was a weak 4-of-8 with a fumble and an interception.

Another rookie carrying his load was Booker Reese of Bethune-Cookman College. Reese, a defensive end, turned in three tackles including one for a loss while playing most of the game.

"It's very important I get down the basic skills," said Reese, who went from playing against the University of Central Florida to the Philadelphia Eagles in nine months time. "The Bucs took a chance on me and I don't want to let them down."

Tampa traded its first choice in the 1983 draft to Chicago in order pick Reese in the second round.

McKay, however, feels the move was justified. "We feel we have a first-round caliber player. There aren't many 260-pounders who can run a 4.7 40-yard dash in a cow pasture," he said, referring to BCC's practice field.

Although McKay was pleased with his rookies' performances, the caustic Buccaneer wasn't ready to cut loose any veterans just yet.

"With each week, the game becomes more complicated," he pointed out. "More variations on offense and defense and the younger players have to show us that they can keep up and be alert."

"We also want to see them against the other teams' top-line players. Washington will be a good test for that." The test continues Saturday.

Bahr's Clutch Kick Nips Rams, 26-23

Pro Football

United Press International
 Cleveland Browns' kicker Matt Bahr became the first player to "officially" make the team's final 45-man roster Thursday night.

Bahr kicked four field goals, the last with 3 seconds left, to give the Browns a 26-23 preseason victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

As far as Cleveland Coach Sam Rutigliano was concerned, Bahr won himself a spot on the roster.

"I think Matt can buy a State Farm policy," Rutigliano said. "There is no question about Matt Bahr. A good kicker can give a team an up feeling just like a poor kicker can give a team a down feeling."

The victory, which gave the Browns a 2-0 record, was largely engineered by backup quarterback Paul McDonald, who completed 18-of-25 passes for 245 yards. Bert Jones connected on 6-of-8 passes for 73 yards. Vince Ferragamo was 8-of-17 for 87 yards.

In other training camp news: —Minnesota acquired All-Pro defensive lineman Charlie Johnson from Philadelphia for a "high" 1983 draft pick. Johnson, a six-year veteran, had requested a trade to a West Coast team.

—Pittsburgh released kicker Tom Birne and defensive lineman Al Hughes.

Many Worthy For Hall Of Fame

Any athlete, coach or individual who brought attention to his school or team through athletic endeavors is eligible for the Seminole County Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame will be housed in the Seminole Community College gym and nominations began last Sunday. So, if you know of anyone who you think is worthy of being enshrined, let us know.

The first name to come to mind, obviously, is Tim Haines. Some of the greatest athletes in Seminole County history could be left out because there may not be anyone around who can recall the entire history of athletics in Seminole County.

If there is, he would probably be eligible himself.

Although there may be someone around who knows every athlete who ever did anything in Seminole County, the Hall won't get many nominations that say "Grog—Most Valuable Caveman, 2,000 B.C."

Without getting carried away, all the Hall of Fame wants to do is recognize those prominent people involved with athletics in Seminole County. Nominees who get 75 percent of the vote (15 of 20 votes) will automatically be elected.

Some of the names that come to mind are:

Red Barber — Sanford High graduate, Barber was one of the greatest sports broadcasters of all time. For his endeavors on the air waves, Barber was enshrined into the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Buddy Lake—Played for the old Sanford Giants minor league club and was the star in one of the greatest minor league games ever, pitching 19 scoreless innings and hitting a homer to win the game. Lake, also a former sports editor at The Evening Herald, still lives in Seminole County.

Joe Sterling—32 years of coaching service puts the current Seminole Community College athletic director near the top of the list. Sterling had a 319-106 high school coaching record and a 351-116 record at the helm of the SCC basketball squad. His record includes 14 conference champions, 17 state tournament teams, two state runners up and three state champions. His overall coaching record stands at an impressive 670-222, which is about a 75 percent winning percentage.

Chris Fister
 Herald Sports Writer

Zion Beck—Was involved in baseball for 74 consecutive years as a player, manager, business manager and scout. One of the first players Beck signed was Goose Goslin and one of the last was John Castino. Beck lived in Seminole County for about 40 years.

Paul Mickler—Probably the top nominee from the Oviedo area. Mickler coached baseball, football, basketball and also was athletic director at Oviedo High School. Mickler's span with Oviedo started in 1941 and ended when he retired in 1978. "The big thing I did was give five kids a chance to play," Mickler said.

Johnny Jones—Mickler named Jones as one of the top athletes to ever come out of Oviedo High. Jones was the key man on the basketball team that was a state power. Some of his state tournament scoring records still stand. Jones graduated from Oviedo in 1955 and was awarded a scholarship to the University of Florida.

Jim Payne—Long-time coach at Lyman High, took his teams to many state tournaments and retired along with Mickler in 1978.

Vernell Elzy—A graduate of Crooms High School and a basketball player at SCC. Elzy was an honorable All-American in Junior college and had an NBA tryout. He played with Dave Cowens at Florida State.

Perez Loses Way, Niekro Finds Seven Innings To Beat Expos

United Press International
As Atlanta first baseman Bob Watson says, "You have to get lost to find yourselves sometimes."

National League

The Braves have been in a months-long slump, but something happened Thursday night that may contribute to a turnaround. They won at Atlanta, 5-4, over the Montreal Expos, behind seven strong innings from Phil Niekro.

Niekro wasn't supposed to be starting the game, but Pascual Perez, who was, got lost. Perez, a native of the Dominican Republic, was driving alone — for the first time in the United States — and couldn't find the stadium.

He finally arrived just as they were playing the national anthem.

Manager Joe Torre was not sympathetic. He fined Perez $100, and said, coldly, "It's the player's responsibility to get to the stadium." Later in the clubhouse, the Braves hung maps of the city on Perez' locker.

"Maybe this is the something out of the ordinary we need to break this thing up," said Niekro of the incident and the Braves' slump.

Claudell Washington drove in three runs with a home run, double and single. The Braves trailed the Expos, 4-3, entering the seventh, when Montreal starter Scott Sanderson left the game because of dizziness.

Jerry Royster's sacrifice fly against Woodie Fryman got one run home and Washington's single to right put Atlanta ahead.

In other games, Cincinnati defeated New York, 3-1, in 10 innings, Pittsburgh topped San Francisco, 6-1, San Diego edged St. Louis, 4-3, Chicago ripped Los Angeles, 8-2, and Houston nipped Philadelphia, 7-6, in 11 innings.

At Pittsburgh, Jason Thompson had two RBIs, singles and Tony Pena went 3-for-4, including a solo homer, to give the Pirates the win. Padres 4, Cardinals 3.

At St. Louis, Garry Templeton singled home, a run to highlight a three-run third inning that helped San Diego snap the Cards' five-game winning streak.

Cubs 8, Dodgers 2
At Chicago, Ferguson Jenkins, backed by a 17-hit attack that included solo home runs from Jay Johnstone and Bill Buckner, picked up his 272nd major-league triumph.

Astros 7, Phillies 6
At Houston, Denny Walling singled home Danny Heep from second base in the 11th, giving the Astros a comeback triumph.

Gura Stymies White Sox; Lynn's Hits Dooms Boston

United Press International

If Larry Gura had felt any worse, he might have pitched a no-hitter.

"It scares you when a guy is making 60, 70 and 80 pitches without his normal delivery," Kansas City Manager Dick Howser said Thursday night, after Gura, hampered by a slight groin pull, pitched seven strong innings in the Royals' 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Howser added, "I think he said it best when he told us, 'I don't know how I'm doing it but I'm getting them out.'"

Frank White singled home one run and scored another to back Gura's 100th career victory. The lefthander scattered five hits, running his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 17 in becoming the AL's first 15-game winner.

Dan Quisenberry hurled the final two innings to record his 27th save as the Royals improved their home record to 42-16, best in the major leagues.

Chicago threatened only once, in the sixth, when Tony Bernazard walked and went all the way to third on a hit-and-run groundout to second by Tom Paciorek. But Greg Luzinski followed with a one-hopper back to Gura, who trapped Bernazard off third to preserve the shutout.

American League

In other games, Minnesota thrashed Baltimore, 9-3, Milwaukee ripped Oakland, 10-6, and California beat Boston, 8-5.

Twins 9, Orioles 3

Brewers 10, A's 6

At Oakland, Calif., Ben Oglivie and Ted Simmons drove in three runs each and Paul Molitor had two doubles and two singles to pace the Brewers. Rickey Henderson of Oakland stole his 111th base in the seventh to pull within seven of Lou Brock's all-time record.

Angels 8, Red Sox 5

At Anaheim, Calif., Fred Lynn singled home two runs and sparked California's five-run outburst in the seventh, leading the first-place Angels from a 5-0 deficit.

Trying To Control Athlete's Toenail

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — For some years I have experienced constant difficulty with athlete's foot. It affects the toenails turning them white and causing them to grow thick in some areas. It also attacks my left thumb-nail similarly. The white areas of the nail are no longer attached to the underlying skin and tissue.

Desenex cream helps the skin and keeps the fungus subdued but apparently is not effective for nails. Upon seeing a doctor I was given a prescription for tablets to be taken several times a day. He stated it would require four months to rid my system of this fungus. However, he stated also that it would be necessary to have my blood checked occasionally, but did not go into any detail. I did not pursue this course.

Can you recommend a remedy that might be purchased over the counter, something stronger than Desenex, or should I visit another doctor and start anew?

DEAR READER — You have found out what your doctor knew all along, that fungus involvement of the nails will not respond to the medicines we use for athlete's foot of the skin.

Undoubtedly he prescribed griseofulvin (Fulvin U-R-F) which is commonly used to treat nail involvement. It rarely may have important side effects so he wisely told you that he wanted to check you as you took the treatment.

There have been some other medicines tried but they have not proved to be permanently effective. Don't expect an over-the-counter preparation to cure your problem. If you see another doctor he is likely to give you the same prescription.

used for this condition. I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-10, Common Foot Problems. What to Do About Them, which includes a discussion of athlete's foot. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — While talking with the doctor recently about prickly fingertips, slippery and numb feelings I casually mentioned that I had been taking Furadantin or Macro-dantin for many years for a kidney infection. The doctor stopped immediately and said that if I kept that up I would be dead in a year. None of my previous doctors had ever mentioned that. Please comment.

The new doctor put me on Keflex. Incidentally, no one recommended anything for my prickly fingertips but said it was a problem with the nerves to the hand and recommended I see a neurology doctor. I'm 85 years old.

DEAR READER — Macro-dantin and Furadantin are the same chemical and that chemical is usually safe and a very effective method of treating many urinary tract infections. Rarely it may cause complications, by involvement of the peripheral nerves. That may be what your doctor was concerned about.

There is a good chance your prickly fingers are totally unrelated, but an examination by a neurologist is indicated. It may be a response from pressure on the nerve fibers. Often different medicines must be tried to find the most effective treatment for some urinary tract infections.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, August 21, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 21, 1982
This coming year you should be quite lucky in businesses or enterprises which are artistic or have elements of glamour. You'll comfortably fit in these areas, even if you've never been involved before in these fields.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Concentrate on bringing joy and brightness to those you're with today. In the process of making them happy, you'll lift your own spirits. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Because you will be able to see geraniums today where others only see crabgrass, you could find opportunities they'll completely overlook.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're a quick thinker today. What is even more admirable is that your thoughts and ideas will be for helping others, rather than for advancing your own interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
The wheel has a way of turning, and today you could be rewarded for a kindness you performed in the past. Ironically, it's not likely to come from the same source.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Even in the expense of old projects, devote your energies today toward furthering your newest interests.

YOUR CHANCES FOR SUCCESS ARE BETTER IF YOU ARE ENTHUSIASTIC.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Opportunities could come your way today in very unusual guises. Be extremely attentive when you hear of anything unique, but promising.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Where important agreements are concerned, you are in a far stronger bargaining position today than you may realize. Don't make unnecessary concessions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You may be drawn into something today which is not of your making or choosing. However, when the dust settles it could prove to be highly advantageous.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Don't be too hasty to discount the ideas your mate comes up with today. After careful study they may not be as outlandish as you first thought.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Associates may look upon you as a champion of lost causes today, owing to your knack for reviving apparently dormant issues.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Strive to fulfill your social obligations today, especially if there is a possibility of meeting new people. You could encounter someone unique.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You could reap some personal rewards today by being in just the right position at just the right time. Lady Luck will help engineer the happening.

The Professor remarked to his pupil, "Even if you had not made that weak two heart overall we would have reached the game. Too bad you didn't make the contact."

"Didn't I give it the old college try?" replied the student. "If East had followed to the third diamond I would have been home with the bacon."

"It wasn't a very high-grade college you were trying for," replied the Professor. "A good college try would have been a winner."

East took his ace of spades and led a second spade for West to ruff. West had led back his queen of clubs to dummy's ace. The student had played the king and ace of trumps and gone after diamonds. East had ruffed the third diamond and eventually South had lost a club trick.

If the student had learned to count to 13 in college he would have noted that East had shown up with seven spades, three hearts and the king of clubs. That showed 11 cards that weren't diamonds. It was impossible for him to hold three diamonds.

Then the student would have simply played a third trump. East would take his queen and have no club to lead his partner. The student would play diamonds safely and make his contract.

Any chance is better than no chance at all.

Complete Week's TV Listings

Sanford, Florida — Friday, August 20, 1982

Jeff Russell, 15, of Sanford, is just one of thousands, maybe millions, of Americans who have fallen victim to the latest fad disease — video vertigo, a general category which includes such specific maladies as Pac-Man fever and Donkey Kong-itis.

Once, In An Arcade Far, Far Away...

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Diagnosis: Pac-Man Fever.

Symptoms: Seeing sopts before your eyes, walking around in a trance-like state and muttering incoherently about Inky, Pinky and Blinky.

Treatment: Deposit vast numbers of quarters into video game.

Cure: Unknown.

Pac-Man fever has reached epidemic proportions in the United States where millions of Americans poured billions of dollars into video games last year.

But all those quarters pumped into the thousands of Pac-Man machines installed in arcades and game rooms across the country did little to abate the illness. In fact it got worse. You can even find quarter-gulping video games in gas stations.

Lesser-known strains of the disease developed, like Donkey Kong-itis and Gorf-mania. The latest strain, from the game Tron, hasn't even been named yet.

Holy television

TV viewers have become accustomed to iron-jawed young men in uniform making their recruiting pitch via the Tube. But there's a new breed of recruiters out there in video land and they're not wearing helmets and fatigues. Would you believe a nun's habit? Page 2.

Who's stupid ?

TV programmers have long claimed that the American audience is stupid. That's why, they say, the rancid masses don't take to quality shows like "Hill Street Blues." But critic David Handler maintains that the viewing audience is brighter than the networks think. Page 5.

Moral media

Some of the folks in Massachusetts are quite alarmed about what's coming into their homes via cable television. It seems there's a bit of skin being flaunted and they don't like it. In fact, they've sponsored a bill designed to regulate the cable TV industry. Page 7.

Martin Sheen & Son Form One Reel-istic Duo

DEAR DICK: I recently saw an ABC movie, "In the Custody of Strangers," with a father and son who looked a lot alike and even acted alike. Were they really related? R.R., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Yes. Martin Sheen played the father, and his son, Emilio Estevez, played his son. The young man has opted to take the original family name back.

DEAR DICK: There's a lemonade commercial on TV, Realemon, I think. It's driving me crazy. The man on the commercial is bald and looks like Telly Savalas. I say it's not him, but my dad says it definitely is. Who's right? FAITHFUL READER, Moncton, New Brunswick, Canada.

You are. Savalas' only commercial appearances are for Ford in the United States and for Bacardi Rum overseas. It could be a deliberate look-alike, however, so your confusion is understandable.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a disagreement between my mother and me. She says Jack Albertson died. I say he's still alive. Who's right? D.M., Albuquerque, N.M.

Mother, unfortunately, wins this one. Jack did die.

DEAR DICK: I have been trying to remember the name of the dark-haired actress who played Joan Crawford's daughter in the movie "Mildred Pierce." Can you help? G.G., Trenton, N.J.

Yes, that was Ann Blyth.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. My husband says Clint Eastwood is 6 feet, 2 inches and my brother-in-law says he's only about 5 feet, 10 inches. There's quite a bit of a bet running on this. Please say he's tall! G.L., Sterling Heights, Mich.

They're both wrong, but your husband is closer. Clint is a towering 6 feet, 4 inches.

DEAR DICK: I'm writing to enquire about John Carroll, who has been a favorite of mine for many years. Any news about him will be greatly appreciated. MRS. A.V.R., Freeport, Texas

Not much new with John. He died in 1979.

DEAR DICK: Is Mrs. Olsen of coffee ad fame perchance Evelyn Knapp, an actress from the old movie days? If not, what became of her? Also, what about Karen Morley, an actress I remember from the '30s? MRS. LOIS LEE, Eureka, Calif.

Mrs. Olsen is not, perchance, Miss Knapp. She is Virginia Christine, a noted actress in her own right. Both Evelyn Knapp and Karen Morley are still with us, although not active as actresses. Miss Knapp is 75, Miss Morley 77.

DEAR DICK: I hope you can clear up a difference of opinion between my husband and me. I say the girl owner of a rundown ranch called The Big Muddy in the movie, "Show Down At — Pass" was played by Suzanne Pleshette. He says it was Natalie Wood. I don't remember the name of the movie, but it was about two cattle barons — Burl Ives was Hennessy and Joseph Cotten was Major Tyrell — who had ranches on either side of the one the girl owned. Both ranchers were trying to buy the ranch for its water. The feud ended with both ranchers killing each other. M.M.H., Baxter Springs, Kan.

Some of my movie buff friends and I have talked about your question for a long time. We think you must mean a 1958 picture called "The Big Country," which had the situation you describe and Ives and Charles Bickford, not Cotten, as the ranch owners, and Jean Simmons, not Pleshette or Wood, as the girl in the middle.

DEAR DICK: Recently, we read that the owner of the Procter and Gamble company had appeared on Merv Griffin's show and reportedly gave Satan credit for the success of his company. Is that true? Fact or fiction? MRS. D.R., Iantha, Mo.

Total fiction. That rumor and others involving P&G's old-fashioned trademark, which actually depicts the man in the moon, have swept across the country. The company is even now suing a few people for libel, in spreading those untrue rumors. Nothing at all Satanic about it.

Oklahoma Nuns Turn To Airwaves

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — An order of nuns with an eye for the dollar has hit the airwaves in cities throughout a four-state region with a decidedly nonparochial recruiting blitz.

The Sisters of the Sorrowful Mother are asking soap-opera audiences, late night television viewers and radio listeners in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Texas to consider the convent life.

As many as 20 women have inquired in the three weeks the ads have run. It is perhaps a small response by normal standards, but not bad for an order that has added only a couple nuns in the last few years.

"It (television) is the up-to-date medium and seems to be what catches people's attention," said Sister Julietta, provincial superior of the order. "It's wise to utilize what's available to us. If you're reaching a larger number, it's more economical.

"We have fewer (nun) than we used to," Sister Julietta said. "That's neither good or bad. I don't think it (the ad campaign) is a defensive measure as much as it is a positive method of helping women become aware of their vocation."

Television and radio spots are running in Wichita and Pittsburg, Kan., Joplin and Springfield, Mo., Wichita Falls, Texas, and Tulsa. The Oklahoma City market receives only radio advertisements.

The manager of the ad campaign is Lina Lee Ryan, director of community relations at St. John Medical Center in Tulsa, which is owned by the order..

"They (the nuns) are good business people," Mrs. Ryan said. "They do have an eye for the dollar."

"We're looking for someone who's dedicated and seeking to respond to the Lord's call," Sister Julietta said. "There are women called and the idea needs to resurface for them."

The order, which has 111 nuns, owns St. Francis Regional Medical Center in Wichita as well as the St. John center.

Sister Julietta said the order dropped its hospital-affiliated nursing schools several years ago and has cut back on its religious education work. Without those two high visibility programs, she said, the nuns have less contact with others.

"We haven't had but one or two enter in the last few years," she said. "We've had calls (about the ads). At least it's opened our doors."

The target audience comprises women between 18 and 35. Sister Julietta said the convent takes no one younger. Many women older than 35 find change or adjustments are more difficult, she said.

The order plans to gather all the prospective nuns for a prayer day Saturday (Aug. 21) at its Broken Arrow convent east of Tulsa to see what religious life is like, "by sharing it with us."

...Pac-Man Fever

The ailments are contagious and addictive. Contact with anyone already afflicted can infect you and have far-reaching implications.

Even hard-boiled journalists are susceptible to the fever. From a personal standpoint, I've been addicted since the original Space Invaders was introduced five years ago.

Today, after going cold-turkey for about two years I can walk by the arcade without going in. I look, but I keep on walking. It's difficult, but I manage to quell the urge to cash my paycheck in for quarters.

But the other day, I forsook my vows for the sake of this story. What dedication!

I withdraw the first quarter from my pocket with shaky hands. Nearly paralyzed with fright, a glaze forms over my eyes and my mouth grows cottony dry.

I force the quarter into the slot, struggling to overcome the tremors in my hand.

At last the game starts, the electronic anthem blaring in my ears, the Pac-Man appearing on the screen. His appetite is voracious and I direct him at a meteoric pace gobbling up the dots.

I begin to lose my sense of direction, the long layoff has dulled my reactions and I'm trapped in a corner by a rampaging Blinky and a slow but steady Inky. Then, I remember the big blinking dots. I make a mad rush for the nearest one and make it, an instant away from Inky's bite.

As I hit the dot, the little buggers turn blue. Now's my chance. I send the Pac-Man after them, hoping to score extra points and to put them off my trail for a few precious seconds.

First one, then a second, and a third little blue guy has been gobbled by Pac-Man. My breathing returns to normal and I wipe the sweat from my brow.

But the relief is short-lived. In my zeal to gobble them all up, the Pac-Man has been trapped. I try a series of feints, going one way then another trying to confuse them. But the efforts are futile and Pac-Man gets gobbled.

The three other confrontations wind up in similar fashion, with me nearing victory, represented by a screen clear of dots, but winding up frustrated at every turn.

Certain I can beat the machine I fish another quarter out of my pocket. Hooked again!

I finally made it out of the arcade that day, but not until I had made a considerable dent in my financial outlook. I hope I can get back on the wagon, after all I've aggravated an old case of tennis elbow and I have video game thumb.

Fame For Merlin Olsen

Merlin Olsen — football player, sports announcer, actor — will be the subject of a special half-time feature during the New York Jets-Houston Oilers NFL pre-season game Sunday, Aug. 22 on NBC.

The focus of the special will be Olsen's induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, which took place Aug. 7 in Canton, Ohio. The 41-year-old Olsen is one of only 20 players in the 110-member Hall of Fame who was elected in the first year of his eligibility.

Olsen played defensive tackle for the Los Angeles Rams for 15 years and was a selectee for the Pro Bowl game 14 consecutive times — an NFL record. He joined NBC sports as an analyst in 1977 and now stars in the title role of the NBC series "Father Murphy."

Viewers Not So Dumb

By DAVID HANDLER

The biggest surprise of the video summer is the ratings that NBC's "Hill Street Blues" — reruns — is pulling down. They're great ratings. Top 10 ratings. Fifth place overall, one recent week. People are watching it.

This surprises many of the so-called experts. After all, "Hill Street Blues," a seriocomic precinct house serial, is supposed to be too intelligent, too sensitive, too good for the semi-literate masses.

But the success of "Hill Street Blues" should not come as a surprise. Recent TV history has shown us again and again that the audience responds to a quality show. Leave it there long enough and people will find it.

The problem isn't that Americans won't watch intelligent shows, as the programmers believe. The problem is that the programmers won't leave them on the air long enough for Americans to develop a taste for them. They have no faith.

Look at how many of the past decade's solid shows were slow starters — "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Barney Miller," "M-A-S-H," "Taxi." It takes time for the audience to get to know and love flesh and blood characters. It can take as long as two seasons.

Let me ask you something, when was the last time a network put on a good show, left it on and watched it fail? Can you think of a good show that didn't find a good-sized audience? I can't.

Oh, there was "Paper Chase," which CBS left on for a whole season despite dismal ratings. But I never thought "Paper Chase" was a good show. It had certain trappings of intelligent entertainment, but it was neither compelling nor entertaining. It had no growth potential. You didn't care about the subsidiary characters.

Mostly, there have been good shows that weren't given a chance. All three networks are guilty.

CBS killed "Paris," an MTM precursor of "Hill St. Blues" that starred James Earl Jones as a cop-criminologist, before the audience had a chance to find it. Excellent show. Too bad.

NBC decked "Skag," the Karl Malden starrer about a Pittsburgh steel family. ABC flattened "The American Dream," about a suburban Chicago family that returns to the inner city.

All three were well-acted, entertaining and, you should pardon the expression, relevant. The networks will tell you they gave the shows every chance. No way. Six weeks isn't a chance.

It is very difficult, of course, for programmers to stand behind a slow-starting show. Risk is involved. These are very frightened executives, people who survive from one week's ratings to the next, people who can no longer trust their own instincts. Their natural inclination is to 'dump' a show, try something else instead. And to call the audience stupid.

Not so. The audience is brighter than the networks think. Given the capability of seeking out other forms of evening viewing — cable, satellite, cassettes, discs — Americans are abandoning the networks at an alarming rate. Alarming, but not surprising. They don't like watching junk.

The evident success of "Hill Street Blues" after two seasons on the air shows that series television is an investment. A quality show will pay off with the dividend of long-term viewer loyalty. And a show that everyone can be proud of.

Bernadette Peters On 'Pops'

Funny lady Bernadette Peters, tossing her fuzzy blonde corkscrew curls and pouting her bright red lips, adds flash and glitter to this week's performance of "Evening at Pops."

Miss Peters joins Maestro John Williams, who conducts the famous Boston Pops Orchestra Monday, Aug. 23 over PBS. This is the third year Williams has been conducting "Evening at Pops," which began its 13th season on PBS this summer. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

The porcelain-skinned Miss Peters begins her hand-picked program with a jumping rendition of "We're in the Money," and barely misses a beat to throw gold coins out to the audience, coins that she plucks from a shimmering, feathery stole wrapped around her shoulders.

Though glamour seems to be the goal here, Miss Peters is probably best known for her comic roles. And she quickly reminds the audience of that — she sings the song again in Pig Latin.

Over the years Miss Peters has made her name in comedy in both film and television; the leading role in Mel Brooks' "Silent Movie," as well as "W.C. Fields and Me" and "The Longest Yard," which starred Burt Reynolds; regular guesting spots on "The Carol Burnett Show" and a stint on her own series, with Richard Crenna, "All's Fair."

The 1976 TV series didn't fare very well — it was off the air a year later — but it hasn't hurt Miss Peters any. Her recent film credits are "Pennies from Heaven," in which she co-starred with fellow comic Steve Martin; "Heartbeeps," in which she co-starred with Andy Kaufman; and "Tulips," in which former "Welcome Back, Kotter" star Gabe Kaplan shared the screen with her.

Humor and glamour aside, however, Miss Peters has a lovely voice. She uses it with versatility in "Evening at Pops," whether it's for a soulful tune or a campy "Broadway Baby." Other numbers include a medley of songs from "Pennies from Heaven."

The Boston Pops are spotlighted on the special, too, of course, playing themes from "E.T." and "Raiders of the Lost Ark," both of which were written by conductor Williams, and Leonard Bernstein's "Divertimento for Orchestra."

The first native-born American composer was Francis Hopkinson, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

BOSTON (UPI) — The phrase "Banned in Boston" may have new meaning in the electronic age of Pac-Man, video games, Betamax and 6-foot television screens. Instead of referring to books, the term may apply instead to what proper Bostonians can watch on their cable television stations. Actually, since Boston does not yet have cable TV, it would be people in the rest of the state who first would be affected by laws that could regulate what they watch on that system. If a bill is passed, Massachusetts would be the second state to adopt laws trying to regulate cable television. A similar bill in Utah was struck down by the federal courts as unconstitutional. Spurred by a group called "Morality in Media," Massachusetts' conservative Gov. Edward J. King has formed an Advisory Committee To Study Cable Television Programs Relative to the Showing of Obscene Material. MMM wanted King last year to file a bill prohibiting the showing of R-rated movies with explicit nudity — but not those showing violence. King almost went along, despite warnings on its constitutionality, because he had some bait.

MMM showed King a clip of some RV-rated soft core pornographic movies in his office. He was burning. "It was disgusting," said King, who has made the preservation of the family one of his major campaign issues. State Cable Television Commissioner Tom Steel, however, says, "I kept stressing with him (King) not to overreact because there exists no X-rated movies on cable." What's upsetting MMM, and King, is the occasional flash of complete frontal nudity in the movies cable offers. These usually are on at late-night hours, and some are in award-winning foreign films. The commission includes half a dozen MMM members, child psychiatrists, Steel, an assistant district attorney who has prosecuted obscenity cases, physicians and private citizens. One of the members, Thomas Salem of the little town of Dracut, Mass., doesn't even have cable in his home but is on the community's television advisory board. Salem says he's wary of the obscenity but doesn't want to cross the First Amendment line protecting freedom of speech. "Looking at what I see on cable television, it's like the magazines you see on the shelves. Things are there for people to buy and if you don't want it, you don't pay for it," says Salem. "If you're a person complaining about what's coming over the airwaves, you don't have to buy it if you don't want it. It's not the same as what you get when you put an antenna on the roof. If something is coming into my house that's offensive to me, I can change that." Salem says his wife, however, is "definitely against all types of four-letter words and things like that. If I'm going to get cable, it's going to be restricted to minimal package, like sports, but no movies or anything like that." Steel says he's concerned there haven't been protests against some of the gratuitous violence on movies selected by cable. Some of the films, like "The Prowler" and "My Bloody Valentine," graphically depict people being hacked and sliced and diced to death in long-lasting shots with lots of blood. "We're going to discuss that because that's in the nature of obscenity," he says.

Ms. Cable Special Traces 'Her-story'

Women's struggle for equality under the law must be included in any retrospective that claims to document the progress of American women. "She's Nobody's Baby: A History of American Women in the 20th Century," an award-winning 60-minute special produced by Ms. magazine, incorporates that theme with bite but a minimum of sarcasm.

With the recent defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment, it seems fitting that Home Box Office has chosen to bring the special out for an encore Aug. 23 and Sept. 4. Alan Alda and Marlo Thomas, two celebrities who often lend their resources to the cause of women's rights, narrate the program, which is peppered with pertinent and ironic reminders that the long struggle has not yet ended. During World War I, suffragettes asked, "How can we fight to save democracy when half the people in our democracy can't even vote? Decades later, that same half is still not written into the Constitution of the United States. Newsreel footage of a post-WW I rally reveals a placard with the bold words "equal pay for equal work." Today that motto has become the battle cry of feminists like Betty Friedan, who remarked in her latest book, "The Second Stage," that economic survival is the chief issue confronting women in the 1980s. On a less righteous note, "She's Nobody's Baby" contains some priceless and entertaining material, such as an excerpt from a 1930s radio soap opera that asked the question, "Can a small-town girl from Colorado find happiness as the wife of a wealthy, titled Englishman?" There's a clip of the great blues singer Bessie Smith in the only film she ever made, and a WW II propaganda film used to persuade housewives to get out and work in the war factories. (After the war, of course, these women were told to go back to the kitchen so homecoming veterans could have their jobs.) "She's Nobody's Baby" is interesting and timely, but not extraordinary. Mostly it's an example of the retrospective documentary that HBO seems to be fond of. There's some preaching and some fun. You could find a lot worse ways to spend an hour.

Why Actress Theresa Russell Moved To England

By DICK KLEINER
LONDON, ENGLAND (NEA) — For a century or so, the admonition to the ambitious has been, "Go West, young man." And countless young men (and young women) are still going West. The Hollywood hills are even full of bright beautiful and ambitious young English actors and actresses. But there are exceptions to every rule. And that brings us to gorgeous Theresa Russell, the ambitious young actress who apparently believes that motto should be, "Go East, young woman." Theresa Russell, the kid from San Diego. Theresa

Russell, the Burbank High School beauty. Theresa Russell, who was still a teenager when she bravely auditioned for Elia Kazan and was given a big part in his "The Last Tycoon," playing with such names as Robert De Niro, Robert Mitchum and Tony Curtis. And here she is, comfortably settled in London, doing her second straight film for the distinguished English director, Nicolas Roeg. Why has she gone from West to East, from Hollywood to London? For probably the oldest reason in the world — well, perhaps the second oldest, because the first oldest was money and money isn't her motivation. Love is. "I fell in love with an Englishman," she says. And, of course, all England knows that Englishman is Roeg. She first did "Bad Timing" for Roeg, with Art Garfunkel. Now she is wrapping up the second Roeg-Russell bit of teamwork, "Eureka," with a big cast headed by Gene Hackman, Rutger Hauer and Ed Lauter. And, of course, Miss Russell, looking sensational in every scene. "I think it will be a wonderful movie," she says. "All I really know is that my character is a wonderful character and I enjoyed playing it very much."

She says she has been a lucky woman. After all, to start off at 19, with no experience and no credits and nothing but a beautiful face. And to start off in a Kazan movie. "I started off lucky and I started off good," she says. "Now I am trying to maintain my validity. And that's hard to do." She realizes her romantic move to England may hurt her in Hollywood. But she hopes not. Time will tell. "It really is amusing," she says. "Everybody is going the other way. So many English actors are moving to California. But I have to do what I have to do." There are problems for her here. She cannot work — cannot even go in and audition for a part — unless she is specifically requested by the producers. Roeg requests her, of course, which is the least he should do, but otherwise, she can't work. Like many teen-agers, Theresa Russell, at 16, wanted to be a veterinarian. So she left home and hearth and school at 16. Why the desire to become a vet forced her to leave home is something she doesn't completely explain. Presumably there was parental opposition to her goal, and she had to finance those veterinary studies herself. So she modeled, to earn money. "Before I even knew what it was all about," she says. "I found myself going to movie auditions. And I didn't know anything about acting."
