Be Sure Your Diet Contains More Bulk

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read your column regularly and need some assistance. I was recently diagnosed as having low blood sugar and the doctor suggested that I eat protein snacks between meals as well as high-protein meals.

I do feel better but have gained weight and now feel like a healthy sausage. I would like to know what I can eat that will give me the needed protein without the increase in weight.

DEAR READER—I wonder how many of my readers have ever questioned the popular concept that a high-protein diet causes you to lose weight when protein like you tend to gain weight when they eat proteins.

The truth is that proteins are just carbohydrates and fats with ammonia attached to them. The ammonia part of the amino acids in the protein is simply stripped off and the excess protein becomes fat and carbohydrate. The extra ammonia is converted to urea and eliminated in your urine.

There are plenty of high-protein foods that are relatively low in fat. The problem is that many people choose foods that they have been told are high in protein but that also contain lots of fat and therefore lots of calories. A good example is whole milk. It is a protein-rich food, but it is also a fat-rich food. Most is an excellent source of protein but you must use less meat if you want to avoid a lot of fat calories. A good example would be lean round steak with all the visible fat removed.

Chicken breasts or turkey breasts are good sources of protein without fat, particularly if you remove the skin.

The purpose of the high-protein meals and snacks is that they are emptied more slowly from the stomach than are carbohydrates, particularly

"What could I have done?" asked South. "Nothing breaks for me."

"One trick better," said North. "When West bid three diamonds he had drawn a blueprint of the hand for you."

North was right. South's play of the trump ace was a luxury he could not afford. He should merely have led a trump to dummy's king and then played the diamond. Now East could not pick up a trump lead. He would probably have returned a diamond.

South would take his king and cash his ace of trumps to find out that West had been dealt just one heart.

Not upset at all, South would play all the clubs to ruff the last one with dummy's last trump.

With just two cards left in each hand, he would lead one of dummy's diamonds. East would have to ruff. South could overruff and score the game.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISES ASSN.)

South ruffed the third spade, cashed his ace of hearts, led a second heart to dummy's king and played a diamond.

East went right up with the ace and led a third trump. South led the seven hearts with the 10 but eventually had to lose a club trick to wind up a trick star.

Bad News On Job Rate, Inflation

Unemployment At 6 Percent Inflation Soars 1.2 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's unemployment rate jumped to 6 percent in August—its highest level in nearly a year—as the recession began to take hold, the Labor Department reported today.

Much of the increase, from 5.7 percent in July, was due to workers being laid off.

The report was a sharp change from the pattern of the past year. The last time the unemployment rate stood this high was September 1978. It has hovered around 5.6 percent for most of the past year.

The news confirmed what economists have been saying for months—that the economy is due for a gradual rise in unemployment, as a result of the current recession. By some forecasts, it will increase to 7 or 8 percent or slightly more by next year. Each percentage point represents about 1 million individuals.

The number of unemployed persons, the Labor Department said, rose from 5.8 million in July to 6.1 million in August.

There was a sharp increase in the number of workers laid off. Employment declined 50,000 in the construction industry and by 125,000 in manufacturing. The department said there also were declines in the automobile industry, but it did not give a figure for this because of statistical problems.

Overall employment, as measured by a monthly survey of households, fell by 310,000 in August to 85.9 million. Much of the decline was among teenagers.

The department gave figures for particular groups in August:

- Adult men: 4.2 percent, little change from July but higher than June.
- Adult women: 5.9 percent, up from 5.5 percent the month before.
- Teen-agers: 18.5 percent, up from 18.3 percent the month before.
- Blacks: 11 percent, virtually unchanged.
- Whites: 5.3 percent, up from 4.9 percent the month before.
- Black teen-agers: 30.7 percent, an insignificant decline was among teenagers.

Rudy Oswald, chief economist for the AFL-CIO, expects unemployment to rise gradually, then more rapidly, as the recession takes hold.

The nation's unemployment rate edged up from 5.6 percent to 5.7 percent in July. Despite the recession, this is still roughly the level around which it has hovered for the past year.

The 1.2 percent rise in wholesale prices during August was slightly above July's 1.1 percent level and was the highest since a 1.3 percent advance registered last January, the Labor Department said.

Food for sale to grocers jumped 1.2 percent. Wholesale food costs had fallen or remained unchanged between April and July and was one of the bright spots on the inflation front.

The food prices acceleration was led by sharp gains for fruits and vegetables, coffee, dairy products, sugar, pepper and flour, the survey showed.

Pork and poultry prices turned upward after declining for several straight months. Beef and veal prices, however, declined 1.3 percent for the fourth straight monthly drop in that category and egg costs also dropped.

Energy prices climbed 5.8 percent last month, only slightly less than July's 6.2 percent increase.

Since August 1978, the wholesale cost of energy items has soared by 47.4 percent, the department said.

Gasoline prices rose 6.1 percent, compared with 3.9 percent in July. Home heating oil costs rose by 6.0 percent, a slight deceleration from the 9.0 percent July increase.

Meanwhile several New York banks raised their prime lending rate by half a percentage point to a historic high of 12 1/2 percent today, leapfrogging the traditional quarter-point move announced moments earlier by other banks.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth largest, ignited the steepest-than-expected increase, saying it felt the 1 1/2 percent prime was "appropriate to given conditions."

Still higher interest rates are expected, according to many analysts. The prime itself affects only corporate borrowers but it reflects the rising trend in all interest rates.

Would You Pay Extra For Light, Hydrant?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

If Tuesday's special referendum on a proposed property tax increase doesn't pass, the people of Lake Mary may have to start paying extra for services such as street lighting and fire hydrants.

The Lake Mary City Council on Thursday night, by a 3-2 vote, instructed City Attorney Gerry Massey to prepare ordinances creating street lighting and "fire line" special tax districts in the city.

According to Councilman Harry Terry, senior member of the board, the ordinances should be considered "in case" the referendum doesn't pass.

At a special election to be held Tuesday, the city's voters are being asked to approve a property tax increase from $5 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $4.25.

Supporting Terry in his move was Councilman Francis Mark. Mark, who has been vocal in his opposition to the referendum, said he was not voting for the referendum because he believed the city should be able to pay for its own services.

At the same time, former City Councilman Virginia Mercer, speaking against the proposed street lighting district, said the concept of a franchise tax on power bills in the city originally was designed to pay street lighting costs.

Perinich, just prior to adjournment, said citizens of the community have many concerns about the proposed property tax increase. Among them, he said, are concerns that the city has too many police officers, the employment this year of a city manager, and that the city is not reviewing more property tax revenue from the new homes and businesses built in the city.

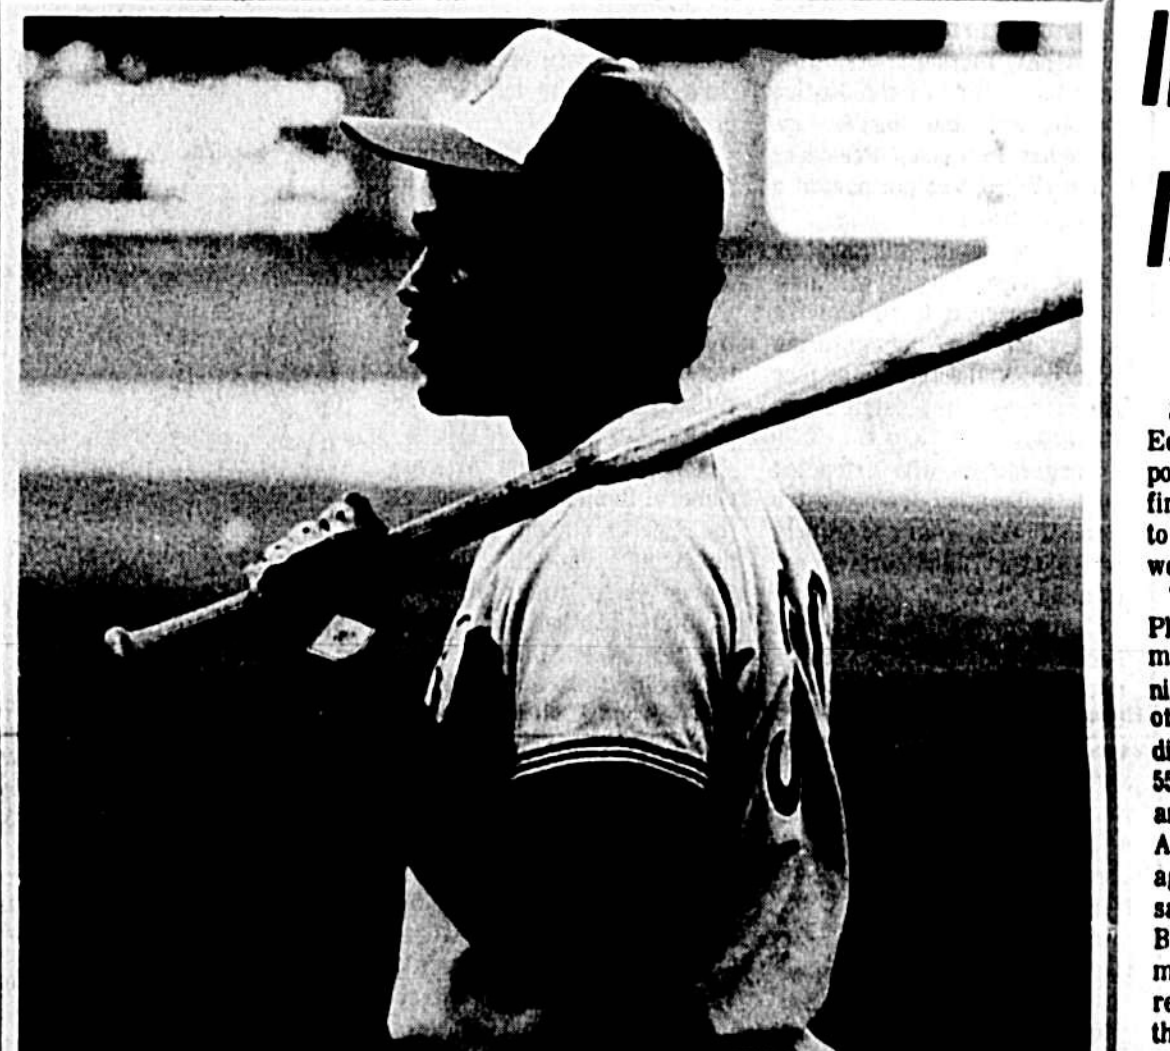

Perinich said, however, that the police personnel are necessary to protect people and property. "The city didn't ask me before they installed the fire hydrant near my property," he said, adding he objects to having a "franchise" decide where hydrants are to be and then tell me I have to pay for them."

When Mark said he and his neighbors on Linda Lane would like to have a fire hydrant near their homes, Nelson responded, "Talk man out, I don't want it." Mark said, "Linda Lane will take it."

Meanwhile, Wheeler who sat in the audience throughout the council meeting venturing his opportunity to move on the proposed 1979-1980 $644,318 budget, made it clear he opposed the proposed tax increase.

"I've had it up to here," Wheeler said while motioning to the top of his head. "With taxes." Critical aspects of the city council's support for the referendum, he said, are currently constituted with nine sworn officers and a communications unit, Wheeler said. "Half of the police department is staffed with non-sworn personnel."

He said the city had gotten into financial quandary by the federal funding cut.

Sanford's Raines Joins The Majors

Sanford's Big leaguer Tim Raines

Tim Raines became the first player from Seminole High School in the last 35 years to make baseball's major leagues Thursday when he was called up by the Montreal Expos.

Raines does not expect to see much duty with the Expos, who have veteran Dave Cash playing second base. However, he may see some late-inning duty or possibly be used as a pinch runner. He led the Southern League in runs scored this summer and was second in stolen bases. Raines had 160 hits for Memphis third in the loop. He hit nine triples.

Raines was a three-sport star athlete at Seminole High and in his third year of pro ball in the Montreal organization.

A graduate of Seminole High School with the class of 1977, Raines is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Raines, 2318 Airport Boulevard, Sanford.

Raines will receive a lifetime dream tonight at Busch Stadium when he will be in the arm. Oliver was wounded in the chest.

After the shots, Seely and his partner hid behind a wall while Oliver looked out the front door. Another police unit arrived while Oliver was calling for help. The storekeeper, Harry Strain, fled through a back door.

The other holdup suspect, still at large, also escaped through the back door.

The store was surrounded and a canine unit brought in. When the dog entered the pawn shop, it found Seely dead behind a gun rack.

Two expanded shells were discovered.

The brand of the bullet, it was revealed by the autopsy, was absorbed by the skull.

Oliver is listed in stable condition, with no apparent complications.

Industry Site Is Rejected

By GEOFFREY POUNDS

Seminole Employment Economic Development Corporation (SEEDCO) lost the first battle this week in its fight to develop an industrial park west of Sanford.

The Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Wednesday night recommended rejection of a request by SEEDCO director Horace Orr to rezone 65 acres south of State Route 46 and one-third mile west of Airport Boulevard from agricultural to industrial. Orr said he feels the Seminole Board of County Commissioners will reject the recommendation and approve the rezoning when they meet to decide the matter Sept. 25.

"If we can't get a rezoning on this, we'll have to find another site that will qualify for federal funding. That's not going to be easy," Orr said.

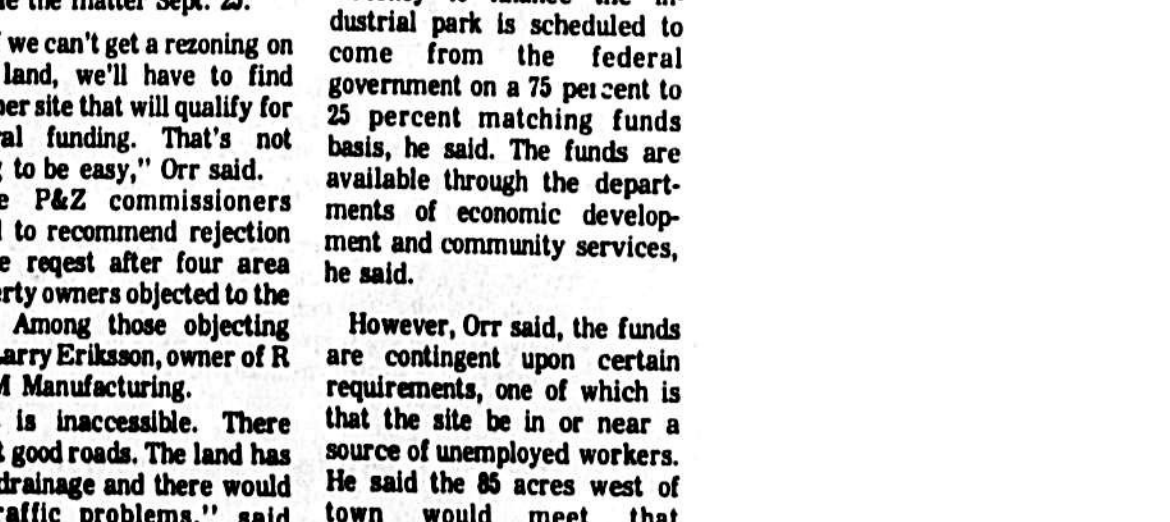

The P&Z commissioners voted to recommend rejection of the request after four area property owners objected to the plan. Among those objecting were Larry Erickson, owner of R and M Manufacturing.

"It is infeasible. There aren't good roads. The land has poor drainage and there would be traffic problems," said Erickson.

According to Orr, the planned industrial park would occupy about 80 acres when completed. Some 25 acres next to the 65 acres in question already are zoned industrial, he said. He said plans call for 18 businesses to be located in the park over a seven-year period.

"In many ways it is an ideal spot," said Orr.

Three industries already have committed to locating at the planned site, Orr said. He said a plastics company has indicated it would like to begin operation as early as next March, with an initial employment of 50 workers. Over the seven-year period, the 18 projected businesses would provide jobs to about 900 workers, Orr said.

Casselberry Man Kills Himself After Robbery-Shootout

By GABRIEL GRAU
Herald Staff Writer

Department today said the man, 39-year-old Donald Casselberry, was shot in the chest by a police officer during a robbery.

According to police, what happened was this: Seely and an accomplice allegedly were in the process of robbing the pawnshop at about 7:25 p.m. on Thursday.

In his month, after being wounded by an officer, an ambulance took Seely to a hospital. He died there.

Seely fired a single shotgun blast at Oliver, at the same time Oliver fired his 40-caliber service revolver at Seely, who was hit in the arm. Oliver was wounded in the chest.

After the shots, Seely and his partner hid behind a wall while Oliver looked out the front door. Another police unit arrived while Oliver was calling for help. The storekeeper, Harry Strain, fled through a back door.

Sanford Heart Park Opening On Nov. 3

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Nov. 3 has been set as the tentative date for the opening ceremonies for the Heart Park on Sanford's Lakewood.

The date for opening the exercise course was selected to coincide with the annual Golden Age Olympics week, but will depend on whether the necessary wood and metal components for the exercise stations can be delivered and assembled by that time, according to Mrs. Nancy Julian, co-chairman of the Sanford Junior Women's Club project.

The exercise stations will provide a place for those running (or jogging) the course to stop and do exercises such as chin ups, sit ups, step ups and pole climbing. At this point, Mrs. Julian said, the committee still is investigating the feasibility of installing a heart monitor in the park.

"If a person is in doubt about what type of exercise to do, the exercise they are up to, they should check with their doctor," Mrs. Julian cautioned. "We have been working to raise funds for this project since the kick-off on April 1. At this point we have $2,625 in pledges with 80 percent in hand," she said.

Graham Seeks Disaster Aid

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham says he hopes to ask President Carter later today for emergency disaster relief to help coastal residents rebuild in the wake of Hurricane David.

Graham told the Cabinet Thursday a damage estimate is due by Friday afternoon and he wants to make an "accurate, well-documented" plea to the president.

The governor, who on Wednesday toured central and northeast coastal areas hit by the storm, has declined to speculate on release or damage estimates. An unofficial survey of local authorities, however, has pegged the damage at between $50 million and $80 million.

"We hope (by late today) we will have those estimates in hand to request the White House for assistance," Graham said.

The governor indicated there were heavy losses to the central and south Florida citrus, sugarcane and vegetable crops.

Entries Coming In For 'Golden' Olympics

By JANE CASSELBERRY Herald Staff Writer

The greatest advance response in the history of Sanford's Golden Age Olympics has been reported by Jim Jernigan, coordinator of the event.

"We have received 45-50 applications from entrants already from far and near," said Jernigan, "and that's many more than this time last year. Usually the response is the heaviest the last 2 1/2 weeks before the event."

The Fifth Annual Golden Age Olympics, a week of cultural and fun events as well as athletic tournaments for persons 55 and older, will be held Monday, Nov. 5 through Saturday, Nov. 11.

"We have gotten a lot of inquiries from clubs who want to participate as a group from Palm Beach County, West Palm Beach, St. Augustine and Fort Lauderdale, as well as out of state from Illinois, Connecticut and Virginia," Jernigan said.

"Our advisory board has the feeling this will be the year we will really tax the capability of our facilities," he added.

Down the road, there are plans to approach government agencies to provide facilities and make available to us a larger stadium and grandstand."

"The committee met Wednesday to confirm last minute details and we're off and running," said Jernigan. Stella Taylor, the marathon swimmer, will be the honorary hostess for this year's Golden Age Olympics.

Several other celebrities are being invited to take part in the opening ceremony at the Sanford Civic Center on Nov. 5, including Miss Florida. There will be the usual lighting of the torch and trumpet fanfare.

A "beauty contest" for both men and women will entertain participants Monday night. A mid-week banquet is planned for Wednesday night and a variety show on Thursday night.

Medals will be awarded winners of athletic events as soon as the particular tournament is completed, said Jernigan, as in the past many of the winners were unable to stay for the Saturday night award ceremony.

Tickets now are on sale for the Oct. 6 McDonald's Day when the Golden Age Olympics will receive 40 cents on every dollar meal ticket turned in. On tickets purchased but not used, the organization will get the full amount. Receipts will go for awards, medals and other expenses.

Zayre Department Store will be sponsoring the celebrity host again this year, and Hartford Insurance Co. will be offering the specially designed low rate accident policy to cover participants.

"We are no longer just an event, but now the Golden Age Olympics is an annual 'happening' which has received national publicity in trade magazines such as Days Inn magazine placed in motel rooms around the country, Hartford Insurance's trade publication, and various automobile and industrial and tourist development trade magazines," said Jernigan.

"The Golden Age Olympics is an economic asset to our area and we hope to continue to develop."

Seminole Caucus Silent On Nomination

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Delegates to be chosen at the Seminole County caucus Saturday, for the state Republican mini-convention to be held in Orlando in November, will be encouraged "to keep a vow of silence" on their preference for the GOP presidential nomination.

Seminole State Republican Committeewoman Mary Ann Morris said today local party leaders "would prefer" that the delegates not reveal who they are personally supporting.

"It will make it more interesting," said Mrs. Morris. "There will be no straw ballot taken of the representatives selected for the 23-member Seminole delegation," she said, noting the caucus is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at the Spring Oaks Recreation Center in Altamonte Springs.

The three permanent members of the delegation are to be Mrs. Morris, State Committeeman Fred Streetman and Bill McCollum, local party chairman. These three persons — along with Mrs. Dot Meadors, treasurer of the Seminole County Executive Committee; Audrey Holloway, Larry Johnson and Mrs. Marone — will elect four additional permanent delegates.

The names of the remaining 18 delegates selected in this fashion must be present to be recognized, she said. Those selected must pay a $20 registration fee.

Mrs. Morris said all cards of delegate candidates will be pulled out of the drum and listed as alternates in order, beginning with the 17th name. "If through some error two or more cards containing the same name of an individual are found within the drum, that person will be disqualified from consideration," she said.

Mrs. Morris said presidential candidates or representatives will not be permitted to make speeches to the delegates, but will be allowed to set up information tables on the walkways to the building.

Those wishing to be delegates are identified by Mrs. Morris to have identification, preferably voter registration cards. Drivers licenses or other appropriate identification will be accepted, however.

The mini-convention is scheduled for Nov. 17 at the Hyatt House near Disney World.

How new Watt-Wise Living homes save up to 25% on electricity.

EXAMPLE 1: The Higher-Efficiency Heat Pump.

What makes a Watt-Wise™ home a Watt-Wise home? A higher-efficiency heat pump, for one thing.

It's a device that heats your home when it's cold, cools your home when it's hot. It does everything a standard air conditioner can do, but costs a lot less to run.

You see, in order to heat the average home, the standard air conditioner with electric strip heating has to actually heat all the air inside the house. And that takes quite a bit of electricity.

But the higher-efficiency heat pump simply gathers the heat that's in the outside air and pumps it inside the house. In the summer, it gathers the heat that's inside the house and pumps it out. The result: lower electric bills, winter and summer.

To meet FPL's recommended Watt-Wise standards, a heat pump must have a COP (heat rating) of 2.5 and an EER (cool rating) of 7.5.

Of course, the higher the rating the lower your dollar number.

But a higher-efficiency heat pump is just one of the many features of a Watt-Wise home. Others can include an energy-saving water heater, proper insulation, treated glass and more efficient appliances.

Ask your builder to show you how a certified Watt-Wise home can save you up to 25% on electricity. Or, pick up a Watt-Wise Living folder at your FPL office.

The Watt-Wise Living home. It costs a little more now, but in the long run it costs a whole lot less.

Ask your builder about it.

Sabrina's Absence Explained

DEAR DICK: Settle this once and for all. Did Kate Jackson quit "Charlie's Angels" or was she fired? The National Enquirer says one thing and The Star says the other. Also, how are they going to explain the departure of Sabrina Duncan? ROBERT SCHUSTER, Constantine, Mich.

They're both right and both wrong. Actually, it was a mutual thing. Kate wanted out and the show didn't want to put up with her demands, so everybody was satisfied to call it a career. On the first episode this fall, the other girls will say how Sabrina got married and is pregnant, and you can't very well have a married, pregnant Angel.

DEAR DICK: For a couple of years now, I've seen this hair commercial with an English actress named Rula Lenska. But I have never seen Rula Lenska in anything! Is that commercial a gag, or is there really such a person? DAN EHELFPS, Mobile, Ala.

Yes, Dan, there really is a Rula Lenska. And her commercial has given her such a boost there now is a Rula Lenska Fan Club. In England, she is fairly well-known, because she starred in a series called "Rock Follies" — she was a singer in a three-woman rock group — which has been shown here in a few spots. And she's done a couple of minor league movies, too. There was even something called "Queen Kong." She's 32, the London-born daughter of an exiled Polish count.

DEAR DICK: When Susan Flannery was on "Days Of Our Lives," what part did she play? I started watching the program after she had left. MARY POLLARD, Lodi, Calif.

Susan was practically a fixture on that soap opera, as she played Dr. Laura Horton for more than eight years.

DEAR DICK: Recently, I watched "The Last Giraffe," with Susan Anspach. I thought she was quite good. Would you please give me some information about her background, like where she was born, etc. M. FRANKLIN, Hollywood, Fla.

Susan Anspach is one of those very stylized actresses you either love or hate. She's done good work, I think, in some feature films — "Five Easy Pieces," "Blume in Love," "Play It Again, Sam" — and some TV movies, including "The Secret Life of John Chapman," with Ralph Waite. She was born and grew up in New York, the product of a poor family and a poor neighborhood, and says she is half-Irish, half-German.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why, on the old reruns of "My Three Sons," they never show any of the early episodes featuring the oldest son, Mike? CRYSTAL STECHER, Charlottesville, Va.

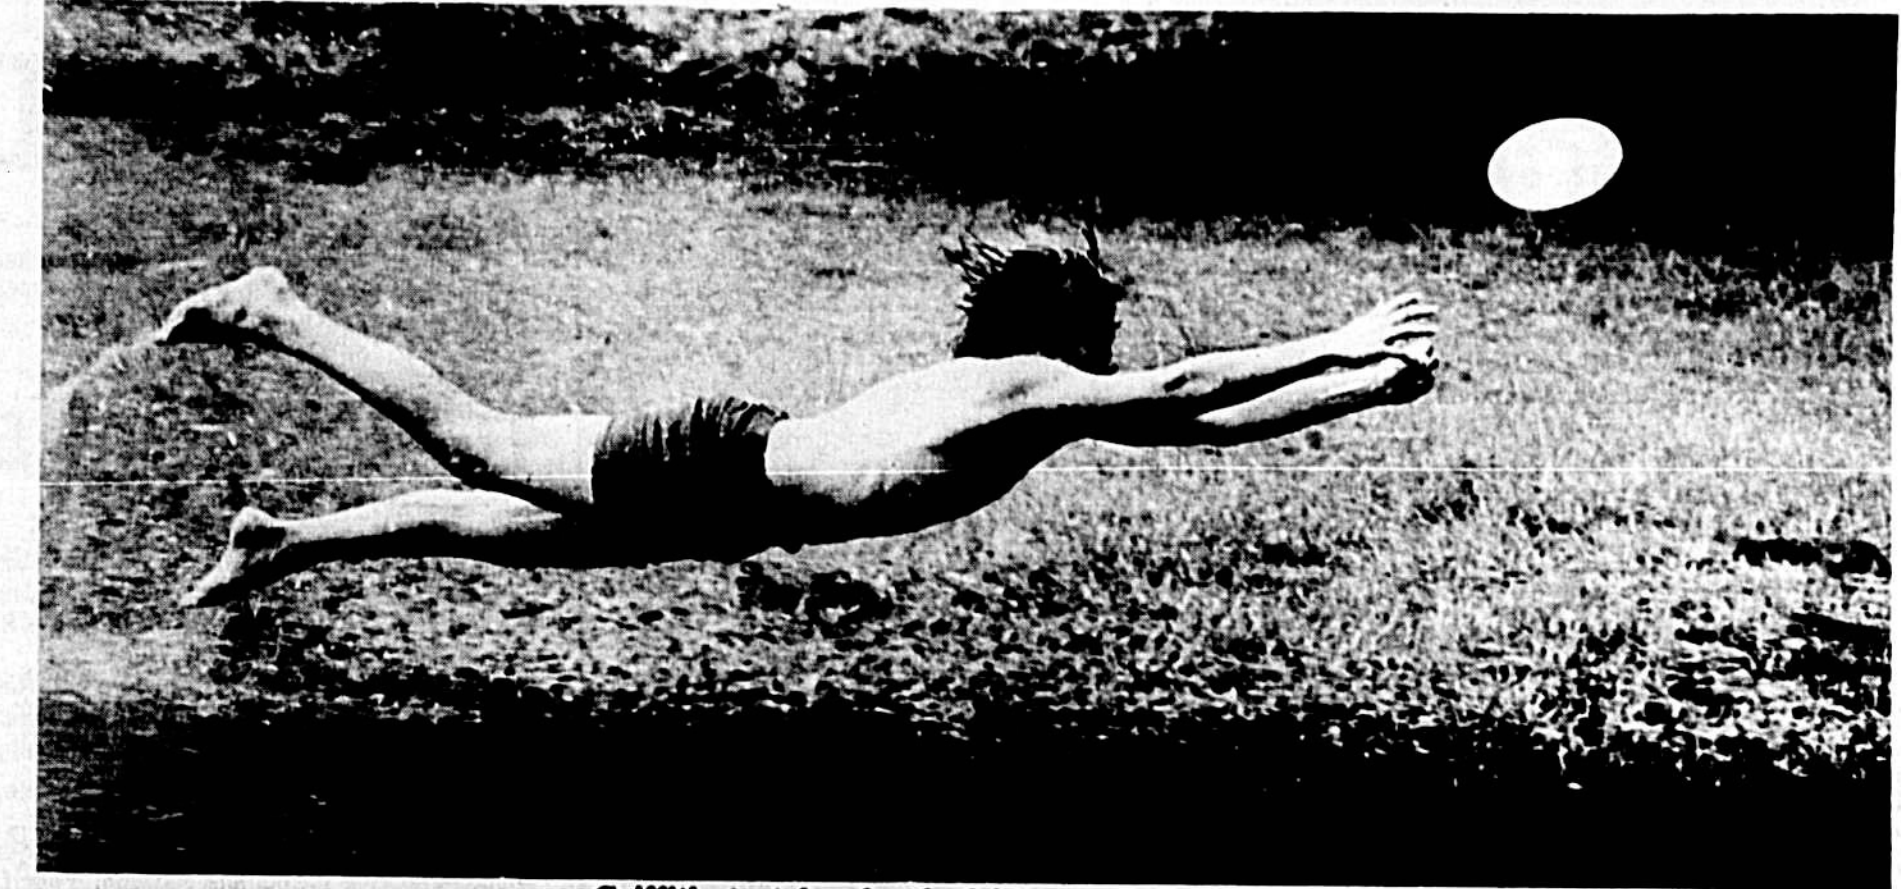

Because those episodes, made from 1960 to 1965, were all in black and white, and they only re-ran the episodes filmed in color. So Mike (Tim Considine) does not appear. And neither, as a matter of fact, does William Frawley, who played the grandfather in those early shows. The first show that is in the re-run package is the one that introduces William Penneroff, to Uncle Charley.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me when the new "Star Trek" movie is going to be out? Is it on TV or the theaters? PATRICK, Vancouver, B.C., Can.

"Star Trek: A Movie" is the title, which should tell you that it is destined to be shown first in theaters. It will be released next summer.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me what ever happened to the little girl who played Clark Gable's daughter in "Gone With the Wind"? GILBERT VOLUNTO, Houston, La.

Her name was — is — Bonnie King and she played Bonnie Butler in the 1939 release, when she was four. She is now married and works as the director of development for Marymount High School, a Roman Catholic institution in Los Angeles.

Griffith stretches for the frisbee and a belly flop ...

... Oops, where did he go?

Greg Carter, 14, and Gary Anderson, 12, helped Griffith with his aquatic acrobatics and all three said it was great fun, though one drawback was finally admitted after hours of pounding. "The only bad thing about it," Griffith said, "is it hurts your stomach."

Having Fun Following A Hurricane

When Hurricane David slammed into Florida earlier this week with its tree-snapping winds and driving rain, it was definitely a serious situation that was not to be taken lightly. Luckily, most of the state was spared the damage experienced by the islands to the south.

But, even that ill wind blew some good. Surfers along the coast enjoyed waves large enough to write home about and the heavy rain gave Sanford's Andy Griffith a swimming pool for his front yard.

Admittedly, the pool looked more like a large puddle on his lawn at 2780 Narcissus Ave. But, when subjected to his 14-year-old imagination and that of two of his friends, it took on olympic proportions.

Though only a few inches deep, the water provided enough cushion for belly flops and dives for frisbees. Skim boards carried the teen-agers across its surface after a short run on the soggy turf.

Greg Carter, 14, and Gary Anderson, 12, helped Griffith with his aquatic acrobatics and all three said it was great fun, though one drawback was finally admitted after hours of pounding. "The only bad thing about it," Griffith said, "is it hurts your stomach."

It's Not Just Kid Stuff

By DAVE PICCIOLI
LA SALLE, III (NEA) — Recognize the terms "squidger," "nurdle," "piddle" and "squop"? Then how about "tid-dy-winks?"
Ah, yes. That childish game of flipping plastic discs into a cup.
Perhaps at age 5 it was childish.
But 25-year-old David Lockwood, an economic forecaster for a major U.S. airline, is committed to the game. He is one of its estimated 200 devotees in the United States and England. Last year he won the North American tiddywinks championship.

Lockwood says tid-dy-winks is a way of bringing "the ridiculous" into his life.
"It combines the elements of golf — putting and potting out," Lockwood explains. "It draws elements from chess strategy."
"But at its purest level, tiddywinks is tougher than chess because of its estimation of probabilities. In chess, you know the possibilities because you know what each piece can do. Tid-dy-winks is probabilistic; it depends on your ability."
Far from just flipping six colored plastic discs into a cup, Lockwood plays a 20-to-25-minute game of strategy, covering and maneuvering winks against another player. (There is also team competition in which two pairs of players pit their abilities against one another.)

Lockwood admits the game is "not interesting at the novice level — you can't get into strategy if you can't execute the shots."
The shots, yes, the shots. They include the piddle or freing of a friendly wink, the squop or covering of an opponent's wink, and the nurdle, when a shot leaves a wink too close to the cup.
Lockwood has five squidgers — large plastic

Tiddywink's Champion David Lockwood

discs used to flip the smaller winks.
As in the children's version of the game, play ends when all the winks are flipped into the cup. Lockwood holds the record for most shots potted without a miss — 72.
Lockwood took up tid-dy-winks in earnest in 1972 as an engineering undergraduate at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has since spent hours a day practicing potting and other shots oddly described in the arcane language of the game.
Last November he was even pictured in People magazine.
"As a result of that, I now have an agent," he laughs. According to Lockwood, most U.S. tiddywinks Beaut about how much push you have and we'll suggest you save gas by getting out of our hair salon.

Telethon Year's Total
Jerry Lewis did it again for his favorite charity. His Labor Day telethon for muscular dystrophy raised $30,075,227 — breaking last year's record of $28,074,665 — to fund the fight against the neuromuscular disease. A spokesman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association in New York says more than 90 million people watched the 21-hour TV special, broadcast over 233 stations. He says that means at any given minute, about 1 million Americans were tuned in and that 47.4 percent of all American homes had the telethon on their sets at on time or another.
BARBS Phil Pastoret
A lunch counter is an accountant in charge of monitoring expense accounts.
If the shoe fits, it'll be in a color you desire.

Young Poets

These poems are by elementary schoolers from Seminole County. They resulted from the Florida Poetry in the Schools program. These pupils are taught by poet Bob Wischoff of Oviedo. Pupils are generally provided with a theme, but are not told what they should write.

I wish I had a pet ant that would do all that I wanted
One day I told it to heel and it didn't
I crawled up my pants and onto my shoulder
Again I told it to heel and it bit me
I flushed it down the toilet
I wish I had a space ship faster than a falcon
I would take all the boys on a ride to the farthest universe where there is no school
When we got there we would all say
Praise the Lord
Boe Marshall

I wish I had a horse that was as nice as the sky

I wish I had a purple dolphin with blue eyes.
I wish I had a green monkey with a purple nose and pink fur.
Tracy Westgren

I wish I was the queen of the world and my castle was the shape of a huge telephone.
I wish I was as big as a grizzly bear.
I wish I had an arm that could stretch as long as a python.
I wish I could get all the attention in the world.
Kelly Johnson

I wish I had a magic pencil that could do all my work, it would have a high powered engine on the eraser and go lightning fast.
I wish I had a car like James Bond.
If you pressed a red button, a machine gun would come out of the roof
If you pressed the blue button they would shoot.
Jeff Phillips

I wish I had a blue and white horse.
I wish I had a doggie and a catama that would bite my sister's hand.
Stacie Freedand

I wish I had a four-door limousine with a double-T top
45 million millimeters long and twice that in trunk space
I'd paint it purple with red, white and blue dots.
I wish that my brother was so small that I could almost step on him, he'd walk right through the wall.
Jeff Moore

I wish I had a moving chair that would fly and roll over when I pushed a button.
I wish I had a flying car that was red, white and blue and had baseball wheels.
Karen Kiker

I wish I had a corvette, a red one, with flames on its side.
I wish I had a three story house and a black van with a beach painted on it.
I wish I had a million dollars and was the prettiest girl in the world with blonde hair and a real tan.
Cheryl Foster

A One-Woman Effort

By ROB PATTERSON

Those of you who know Jennifer Warnes as the singer of the hit "The Right Time Of Night," or as the hippie folk singer on the old Smothers Brothers Show, take another long, hard look and listen.

As she says of her latest album, Shot From The Heart: "It took one year to make because I produced it, arranged it, wrote a lot of it, looked after it night and day, top and bottom, and had to learn how to do a lot of things I had no idea how to do."

Why? "Because nobody else could do it good," states the pretty Jennifer firmly. "I was sick and tired of turning it over to someone who'd screw it up."

Those who know Jennifer's fine last album might be surprised with her on that point. Still, Shot From The Heart is a strong case for the lady's talents at a number of skills. Probably most amazing about Warnes is her stunning clarity and range of voice and emotions. No mere Linda Ronstadt tag-along, Jennifer is a modern female pop singer with a difference — she feels every word she sings. You feel it too. "My idea of an album is clear, succinct, the words able to be heard, and nothing there that isn't needed. The personal connection. I never could get that by singing expansive ballads with lots of strings on them.

"All I got was: 'Still a voice, still a voice, still a voice.' I'm more than a voice!"

"How are you more than a voice, Jennifer?" she asked herself in an internal dialogue.

"Well, I hear things, I write things, I feel things, I think things, I am things."

"How do we know that? You've never written a song!"

"Okay, I'll write a song and show you I can do things. So I wrote Shot Through The Heart and recorded and arranged it myself, with some help from Andrew Gold. He's my hands because he can play everything."

"So I'll just keep on doing it that way, now that I know how, until I get tired of it or find someone who understands me to work with."

Jennifer needn't worry. The stunning beauty of Shot Through The Heart should bring some very important people to know and understand her — the general listening public.

Books Help Juggle Work, Home Life

By DENISE PERRY DONAVIN

American Library Ass. Juggling a career, home and family may well be this decade's best trick. Caroline Bird's "The Two-Paycheck Marriage" is an in-depth report on how working women are affecting American life on every level. Her jumping-off point was a questionnaire circulated in "Family Circle" which elicited responses from 30,000 husbands and wives. From there, she conducted further interviews and research. The result is a book which provides no pat answers but at least provides the information on which sound decisions depend.

Marriage is, of course, the most obvious institution affected by a woman's decision to work. Profoundly changed are such issues as money management, sexual relations and the care of the house and children. To add confusion to chaos, gone are the days when husband-wife conflicts are exclusively in-house. Whose career takes precedence when job transfers, late hours, travel or business entertainment are required? The text is laced with comments from people who have faced these questions and sometimes even found answers.

As mentioned before, Bird's business is information, not advice. She does, however, engage in a bit of crystal-ball gazing and sees a race of self-actualized individuals enjoying stable marriages and fewer — single mother, and remaining childless. The authors do not lobby for any of the three, but simply examine the decision-making process and explain how compiling the study influenced their own decisions.

The authors discuss the special medical and psychological problems some doctors believe older women risk (older doctors say it matters not whether the first baby comes at 22 or 30). They also provide advice on getting family support when the decision is either for single motherhood or childlessness.

Author Grace Mitchell

In "The Two-Career Couple" Francine and Douglas Hall analyze the various ways couples meet occupational and domestic challenges and then type them with the labels: accommodators, acrobats, allies or adversaries. Full of pragmatic advice on coping with everything from identity crises to office romances, they even cover the option of resolving conflicting career obligations through something they call a "visitors' marriage."

The final interviewee is an older woman who opted for childlessness against a strong current of conventional opinion. Her broader experience will prove enlightening to what is really the first generation of married women ever to have the freedom of this particular choice.

In "The Working Mother's Complete Handbook" Gloria Norris and JoAnn Miller accept the fact that the responsibility for child care and housework still usually falls on the mother,

"Day Care Book" is truly, as the subtitle claims, "a guide for working parents to help them find the best possible day care for their children" — and to help them help their children and themselves adjust to day care. The author, who visited 150 centers throughout the United States in writing this book, suggests the best place for parents to start in their search for day care. The quality of the facilities and the attitude of both teachers and children should be obvious.

Next, they should use the checklist Mitchell provides to evaluate the people, place and program. The author describes the attributes of a good program in minute detail.

Football Satire A Sensitive Film

NEW RELEASE

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R) — Nick Nolte, Mac Davis. (Footbal satire) If you can get past the brutal promotion of this film, you'll be surprised to discover a remarkably sensitive portrayal of professional football.

Although this was filmed during Neil Young's tour last fall, it is not a strident documentary. Unfortunately, miming "rockies" merely add tedium, and Young's "statements" about aging rock singers and their ever-young audiences don't really work. But the man has talent, and watching him in action should make up for a lot. GRADE: B-plus for fans; C for detractors

GENERAL RELEASE

APOCALYPSE NOW (R) — Martin Sheen, Marlon Brando, Robert Duvall. (Drama) This is Francis Coppola's long-awaited and very expensive epic — and worth the wait and the cost. It is a study of the madness of war, and Coppola has created a procession of insane images of Vietnam and that terrible war to make his point. It is long and flawed, but must be rated an American classic. GRADE: A-plus

BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Daniel Stern, Jackie Earle Haley. (Romantic comedy) This American-made movie is the kind of film the French always do so well: warm, funny, a little romantic, tied up just right. It's set in Bloomington, Ind., a college town, the summer the local boys finally realize they don't mind being "townies." Briefly, it's the "Rocky" of bicycle racing — but so much better. A fine job by these four young actors. GRADE: A

CONCORDE: AIRPORT '79 THE (PG) — Alain Delon, Susan Blakely, George Kennedy and a cast of thousands. (Adventure) This time, it's the supersonic Concorde that's in trouble — one of its passengers is carrying a secret and the bad guy tries missiles, sabotage and everything else to bring it down. It's all exciting, but more sensible than earlier "Airport" films and this has some people you care about. GRADE: B

SUNBURN (PG) — Farrah Fawcett, Charles Groat, Art Carney. (Comedy-Detective) Obviously designed as a showcase for Farrah, nobody paid much attention to story, acting, direction or editing in this sorry film. It's about an insurance detective and the lady he hires to make like his wife, and all the alleged jokes are about at that level. It makes "Charlie's Angels" look good. GRADE: C-minus

Benji Plays Just A Dog

By JIM HARWOOD "Daily Variety"

HOLLYWOOD — One of the more gripping reports of the week was that Benji will appear in "an adult comedy that will mark the first time film's canine will not play himself."

Of course, it's absolutely clear what the writer has in mind here: After two pictures playing Benji, the next will have to play a dog that isn't Benji. That's a risky enough bet as it is, but we have no idea how you would explain that to a dog. "Now, just forget you're Benji and think of yourself as another dog," we repeat as the instruction would be. But it still seems a night odd. Not being privy to the script, on the other hand, we can't say how much Benji will have to adapt for the role. If it's a shaggy spaniel, it's a shaggy spaniel, but the script also offers a Great Dane, it might take more rehearsal. We've mentioned before that we could never understand why dogs become actors, anyway. It is, after all, a form of work. And work certainly something your average housebound never needs concern himself with. Try to get your own dog up from the fireplace to fetch a slipper and it will stare incomprehensibly. Leave it outside to guard the premises and it will run away with the first person who promises a Matsuo of play and trade.

But somehow a dog like Benji not only understands a day's work for a day's pay, he's willing to give some thought to the task at hand. In fact, if some humans in the same art were as personable, directors would be happier people. It's tough enough for a dog to think of a dog, as Benji must do, but the script also offers an odd challenge: He must think of himself as Cherry Chase. All Chase has to do is think of himself as a dead detective who comes back in the body of a dog. Simple enough. But to be the dog — ah, that too, would require some explanation. After all, there are many humans who can't quite grasp the concept of Cherry Chase. But lets see Benji can do it.

Actually, though the writer was quite correct when he said this is the first time Benji plays another dog on film, a footnote is required. Before he became Benji, his name was Maggie and he starred for several years on television in "Folliott Junction."

So you see, somebody already once had to explain to Benji that he was going into the movies where he would be known as Benji. But we suppose once you've grasped this sort of thing the first time, it gets easier the second time around.

Real people featured are reports on a holiday contest; a party for former state senators at "Pleasant Inn" in Arden; the where persons box with their drink; and a woman who came from the U.S. to Sweden.

Seminole's Information Service Being Forced Out Of Business

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

The yellow street sign outside the tiny Information and Referral Service office at the Five Points complex tells the whole story: dead end.

The three-year operation of the agency was dead-ended recently when the Seminole Board of County Commissioners nixed last minute appeals by I&R advocates seeking continued funding for 1979-80.

As a result, Margaret Barnes, 30, will be out of a job Sept. 30. In addition, Ms. Barnes said, about 400 persons each month who call on one of the two phone lines for help will have to go elsewhere.

"We don't handle the dramatic calls like suicides. What we do is provide information about services that persons or other agencies need and don't know where to find," Ms. Barnes said.

But the county commissioners decided that the other agencies were, in fact, doing their own referrals. The I&R service was a convenience but not a necessity, they reasoned. With limited funds available, conveniences such as I&R became expendable, inevitable victims of a limited budget.

"You have to look at two things. First, are we losing a service? And second, what do the priorities have to be in meeting the areas of deficiency?" said commissioner Dick Williams.

"The service can be performed without the agency. It is being performed. The black community turns to Seminole Community Action when they have questions. The senior citizens look to one of the senior citizens groups. The veterans have their own contact person. There are numerous youth groups, and so forth.

"In terms of priorities, I think there are deficiencies that must be met — transportation, fire protection and police protection," he said.

According to Williams, when the I&R service was started three years ago its purpose was to provide human service consumers with one central number they could call and be directed to the right source for help. He said I&R service then became a convenience for the agencies themselves rather than an aid to the consumers, he said.

But Mickey Adams, who organized the initial I&R agency and coordinates a similar service in Orange County, said the commissioners don't understand the function of I&R.

"There seems to be the idea that all the other agencies do what we do. They don't. We are the only comprehensive information center. If we close, there is going to be a definite gap in services to the people of the county," Ms. Adams warned.

Ms. Barnes agrees. She said the calls she receives every day often come from those who have tried to get help from one source or another, but were unsuccessful.

Many people who have problems with the government have no idea which agency to call, or even what agencies exist, Ms. Barnes said. Typical, she said, are the poor or the elderly with medical bills beyond their means — they don't know where to turn. Also common are those who have had their utilities cut off and need help, she said.

"Something that will be lost when we close is the ability to update our referral numbers," she said.

The I&R service is not just a matter of making referrals to one agency or another, Ms. Barnes said. There are many groups or services that are quasi-formal, perhaps run by one person out of their own home, she said. Numbers and names of those sources change constantly.

For example, Ms. Barnes said, she has made referrals to such little-known groups as the Florida Society for Autistic Children, the Florida Council for the Hard of Hearing and Deaf, the Lupus Foundation and others.

Ms. Barnes took the job with I&R in July after county commissioners gave preliminary indication that the agency would lose its funding for the coming year.

"I knew we'd probably be going out of business when I took the job, although there was some hope we might get other funds," she said.

The $12,000 received by I&R last year goes to pay the salary of Ms. Barnes, operating expenses and administrative fees. The other member of the staff, a clerk-typist, is paid through CETA funds, also due to expire.

For the next month, Ms. Barnes said, she is not going to worry about where she'll be working next. The real question, she said, will be determining who will receive the thousands of indexed referral cards, booklets, pamphlets and miscellaneous information packets when her agency closes down.

Ms. Barnes said she has made referrals to

Don't Push Panic Button On Cuba, Cautions Carter

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, urging Americans not to push the panic button, says the presence of a Soviet combat brigade in Cuba calls for "firm diplomacy" and a "sense of proportion."

In an attempt to head off a backlash on Capitol Hill that threatens Senate ratification of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty and to calm the nation, Carter made a brief televised statement Friday in the White House press room.

To some extent it may have worked. Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., telephoned Carter in the Oval Office to say he was withdrawing a proposed resolution to delay the debate on SALT II.

Carter said the Soviet combat unit "is not an assault force ... and does not have any weapons capable of attacking the United States."

At the same time, he said, the purpose of the brigade 90 miles from Key West, Fla., is not yet clear, and warned relations between the two superpowers "inevitably will be adversely affected" unless the issue is resolved.

The Russians' initial response, according to an official, has been to indicate they are "willing to sit down and talk about it," leaving the door open in the opinion of Carter's advisers.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance was awaiting the return of Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to Washington following the funeral of his father. An official said the United States has "let it be known" it considers the matter important and the Soviets should send an alternate emissary if Dobrynin cannot make an early return to Washington.

Carter gave no hint of what further steps he contemplates, or whether he would demand the withdrawal of the Soviet force. He said it is a "serious matter" and "this status quo is not acceptable."

"We are confident about our ability to defend our country or any of our friends from external aggression," he said. "The issue posed is of a different nature. It involves the stationing of Soviet combat troops here in the Western Hemisphere in a country which acts as a Soviet proxy in military adventures in other areas of the world, like Africa."

Carter gave no hint of what further steps he con-

County School Social Workers

They Help Children To Function

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

They deal with virtually every situation, from child abuse to youngsters who can't go to school because they have no shoes.

Sometimes they want to scream in frustration, but they say a simple thank you often seems to make it all worthwhile.

"The social workers program for Seminole County schools was started almost 10 years ago to serve as a conduit between the parental community and the school system," said Marie Taylor, chief social worker in an interview.

The program's chief aim is to help the child function well as a student and deal any problems that may hinder that goal, she explained. Problems vary, she said from poverty to a need for a special instruction to treat a learning disability.

Ms. Taylor, a silver-haired woman with warm eyes, says the program was founded in 1970 with one social worker, herself, to serve the entire school system. Since then, five more social workers have been added and another one may be hired in the near future.

"We saw a need of involving parents in these types of situations," Marie says. "It's always better to have the parents involved where they understand what is going on with their child."

Since the program began, the needs of parents and children for the help of social workers has heightened, she noted. During the 1978-79 school year alone, social workers visited 2,266 homes, helped 555 families in crisis situations, and screened 271 children for child abuse or neglect.

Social workers also made 4,325 telephone calls, traveled 25,488 miles in performing their job and worked 350 hours overtime for no compensation, she said.

Asked the most prevalent problems among children, Gladys Wilson said she couldn't pinpoint one saying they tend to be multi-faceted.

Ms. Wilson, who has worked with the program seven years, recalled talking with a mother last year about her child who was having learning problems.

"Just through our conversation, I realized the father was out of work," Ms. Wilson said. "So, we stopped and got some food for the family."

The salaries of the school's six certified social workers are paid through the Seminole County school district. The district also allots a contingency fund of $2,000 annually to the program for clothing, food stuffs and other expenses for needy families. organizations and local churches. Ms. Taylor added, "We have more help around Thanksgiving and Christmas. People are more generous." (See THEY, Page 2A)

Lake Mary Police Officer Got His Wires Crossed

What's the difference between a telephone line and an electrical wire?

Lake Mary police officers will get a chance to find out before another hurricane comes near Seminole County. They are to receive instructions on the issue.

Necessity for the instructions came to light this week when a Lake Mary policeman accidentally cut a telephone line in the mistaken belief it was a dangerous electrical wire.

"All I can say is, it won't happen again," Police Chief Harry Benson said.

The cutting of the telephone line left seven Lake Mary families without telephone service for 24 hours, according to a Southern Bell Telephone Co. spokesman.

The story of what happened according to Mrs. Arthur Short of 188 W. Wilbur goes like this: At about 3 p.m. during the rainstorms Monday from Hurricane David, Mr. and Mrs. Short said a telephone pole near their home came loose and "eased down on our fence."

They called the telephone company to inform it about the pole and that service was disrupted. The company representative said service personnel would be out Tuesday to repair the pole. "We laid the line along the fence and everything was fine," Mrs. Short said.

"The next thing we knew a police car had pulled up front and an officer using a long handled pruning hook had cut the line and let it drop right across the driveway," Mrs. Short said. "Our telephone service was out 24 hours."

The story as related by Chief Benson from information given to him by the officer is:

The officer while on patrol saw what he believed to be a power line hanging down into the driveway at the Short home.

"He clipped the wire for the safety of residents of the home and the neighborhood," Benson said.
