Woman presides over Senate

By Michael Mount United Press International

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Gwen Margolia of North Miami was installed as the first woman to preside over a state Senate Tuesday as the Florida Legislature reorganized and took up a package of ethics reforms.

Lawmakers were going ahead with a vote on the ethics reforms, ignoring a request by Gov.-elect Lawton Chiles to wait and consider campaign finance reform at the same time.

Chiles made the best of it, noting that on Monday legislative leaders agreed to eliminate loopholes critics that said would permit lawmakers to evade intended restrictions on gift-giving by special interests.

"That's their right, to go forward and make inprovements." Chiles told reporters. But he added, "When we get finished studying, we might want to make some further improvements," including campaign finance reform.

The revised ethics bill bans gifts worth $100 or more from lobbyist or their employers; makes it clear that expensive trips commonly given lawmakers by lob-byists are considered gifts; and prohibits solicitation of gifts by lawmakers.

Lawmakers could still accept meals to be eaten at a single sitting. But the reforms were intended to halt practices that have led Gov. Bob Martinez to appoint a special prosecutor to review legislative ethics.

Margolis was elected 23-to-17 by the reconstituted state Senate. Then Sen. Jim Scott of Fort Lauderdale, the Republican leader, suggested making Margolis' selection unanimous, and the full Senate agreed amid a standing ovation on the Senate floor and galleries.

This is a new day in the Florida Senate." Margolis said.

"It was not easy for me to reach this historic moment, but I think you know that easy is not in my vocabulary, and I caution anyone who thinks the next two years will be easy.

CNN surrenders jailhouse tapes, Noriega seeks fine for contempt

MIAMI - Cable News Network surrendered tapes containing jailhouse recordings of Manuel Noriega's phone calls Tuesday, and the deposed dictator's lawyers said they would ask a judge to fine CNN $600,000 for airing them.

CNN complied with a court order and turned over copies of the tapes to U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler. He then gave them to U.S. Magistrate William Turnoff, who will listen to the recordings and advise Hoeveler whether broadcasting them would violate Noriega's right to a

"We are confident that after Magistrate Turnoff reviews the tapes and reports to the judge that the court will conclude that Mr. Rubino (Noriega attorney Frank Rubino) and Gen. Norlega have not met the heavy burden of establishing the propriety of prior restraint here," said CNN attorney Steven Korn.

At Rubino's request, Hoeveler temporarily barred CNN from broadcasting the tapes last week and the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the order Sunday.

But CNN played a portion of the tapes after Hoeveler's order, and Norlega's lawyers have asked the judge to hold the network in contempt of court and fine it $600,000. Jon May, one of Noriega's attorneys, said the pertaining to Noriega's defense strategy. The government taped the calls made from a phone at Norlega's cell in the Metropolitan Correctional Institution south of Miami.

Battle over bar location conti

LONGWOOD - A new battle is shaping up over an old issue in Longwood: whether to allow the establishment of a new Plus III Lounge in a former TOAY store on U.S. 17-92. Round one of the bout started Monday night, with round two scheduled for Monday night of next week.

Discussion of the issue was finally tabled until a work session next week.

Earlier this year, a variance was requested to allow establishment of the lounge within the Longwood city limits. and although approval was re-commended by the city's staff as well as the planning and zoning board, the commission voted it down 3 to 2.

Since the Nov. 6 election has changed the make-up of the commission, a new request has been submitted for reconsideration of the matter.

During this week's city commission meeting, a number of citizens discussed the request during the public participation period, with most of them speaking in opposition.

One citizen, Terry Welsh, told the commission the lounge would be within 50 feet of a drug rehabilitation center and within 100 feet of a church. "It just doesn't belong there," he said.

Bit's not necessarily a conflict of interest, but it could be an ethical question.

"but legally there is rather spending $12,000 to $15,000 in legal expenses.

Carolyn Emmeling called attention to the fact that Shader was a campaign contributor to the candidacies of Gary Hefter and Paul Lovestrand, who have now replaced former Mayor Gene Farach and former Deputy Mayor Jeff Morton, who voted against the original lounge request. "Now, here it is, the very first meeting with the new commissioners and you bring this up again," she told Shader.

Another Longwood citizen. Rudy Carmack, suggested that because of the campaign con-tributions from Shader, Lovestrand and Hefter should disqualify themselves from voting on the matter, "It's not necessarily a conflict of interest." he said. "but it could be an ethical question."

Newly scated interim City Attorney Jerry Korman suggested the lounge reconsideration be set up for a workshop session. "I nothing in the o.dinances to prevent the lounge from operat-ing in the city." He added that the city's best interests to let the matter go into court."

Commissioner Adrienne Perry, who was one of the two votes in favor of the lounge when it was first brought up, said she feels as though she is a hostage being held in face of a lawsuit.

Mayor Hank Hardy postponed further discussion on the lounge until a special workshop session set for Monday, Nov. 26, at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers at the Longwood City Hall, 175 W. Warren Ave.

FPL seeks rate increase due to high fuel prices

By DON PINEPROCK UPI Business Writer

MIAMI - Florida Power & Light Co., the state's largest electric utility, sought permission Tuesday to raise its average residential bill by 6 percent beginning Jan. 3 because of rising fuel costs.

In Seminole County, FPL serves about 33,500 utility customers in Sanford, Geneva, Chuluota and the northern 10 percent of Lake Mary.

FPL said it filed papers before the state Public Service Commission seeking an increase that, if allowed, would raise the warm weather during the typical 1,000-kilowatt-hour resi- month, which increased the dential bill to $80.37 from $75.85, an increase of $4.52.

Rate increases for FPL's other customers vary under the proposal, FPL spokesman Gary Mehalik said. FPL serves 3 million customers in Florida.

Sanford

A spokesman for Florida Power Corp. in St. Petersburg. which serves 1 million customers, said that utility has no plans to seek such an increase. Its residential customers pay $71.89 for 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity. Mehalik said FPL needs the extra money because of rising fuel costs that have created a $66 million gap between projected collections and expenses for the six-month period beginning Oct. 1. The company also said it burned more oil than expected

Barreling down the 3-mile-long runway at more than 200 mph. commander Richard Covey gently brought Atlantis's nose down and pumped the shuttle's beryllium brakes to bring the ship to a stop after a 2- mil-lion-mile flight, presumably leaving a secret Pentagon spy satellite behind in orbit.

"Welcome home, that sure was a beautiful sight," astronaut Kenneth Bowersox radioed the crew from mission control in Houston as Atlantis came to a halt just a few miles from the launch pad where the flight began last Thursday.

Forrest McCartney, director of the Kennedy Space Center, said Atlantis appeared to come through its launch and re-entry in excellent condition.

"I was very pleased to see the successful completion of the mission here," he said. "We have had in place for quite a while contingency plans such that if we needed to land the orbiter here, we could. We implemented the plan and it turned out extremely well. It's good to have the vehicle back home."

It was the sixth Florida shuttle landing in the 37 flights in the program's history and the first since April 19, 1985.

Educational tyranny

Lynne Cheney's stroke of genius is her title, "Tyrannical Machines." Her report on "Educational Practices Gone Wrong and Our Best Hopes for Setting Them Right," as the subtitle has it, breaks no new ground — but that central impact control impact that central image crystallizes an important Certain practices and values instituionalized in the American educational system are counterproductive, Mrs. Cheney says. They actually ensure the low achievement of American students, yet they resist change because they are so widely entrenched. Real reform consists of developing alternatives and increasing people's freedom and ability to choose among them.

The phrase is taken from American philosopher William James, in a 1903 essay warning of the growing specialization of higher education. Mrs. Cheney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, applies the term to prevailing methods of training teachers, selecting textbooks and testing students, as well as to colleges' undervaluing of teaching and overvaluing of ever narrower scholarly research.

The plainest example of a tyrannical machine is teacher education. The barrenness of most education courses has been criticized for decades. A well designed alternative would stress liberal education. knowledge of the subject to be taught and supervised experience in the classroom.

Such an alternative is bringing excellent results in New Jersey — but only two other states, Connecticut and Texas, are following suit. Why? Because the teacher-certification machine has the law and mighty vested interests on its side.

Mrs. Cheney has hit on a crucial truth: Some systems are unreformable. Hope lies only in getting out from under them. This is the premise of the most sweeping proposal for public school reform yet made, the radical choice plan recently advanced by John Chubb and Terry Moe of the liberal Brookings Institution. Public schools will never achieve the freedom from bureaucratic control that private schools enjoy, Chubb and Moe aruge, until they are forced to compete for students.

Mrs. Cheney cites Chubb and Moe's work approvingly. More important, she brings needed reinforcements to the view that old educational orthodoxies must be bypassed rather than adapted from within. The skimpy results of education reform in the 1980s show how easily the tyrannical machines have withstood reformers' efforts so far.

Grass-roots diplomacy

Since 1940, when 130 Latin American journalists were invited to visit the United States as part of a new visitor exchange program, nearly 100,000 foreigners - most of them rising politicians, government officials, journalists, scholars and others — have spent a month here as part of what's now called the International Visitors Program, run by the State Department. Fifty years on, the program is going strong and, in its way, may well be one of the most effective forms of diplomacy.

Most of those invited here have not yet achieved VIP status, thus they are able to see America, and meet Americans from many walks of life, on an informal level. They are usually accompanied by a free-lance escort not a government official - who doubles as an interpreter when necessary. They may meet with scholars, students, politicians or farmers, often staying overnight in private

There's no guarantee, of course, that such people-to-people contacts will result in a friendlier face toward this country if, as often happens, a foreign guest later becomes a president or prime minister or Cabinet minister, as more than 700 such visitors have done. Indeed, some go home with the same prejudices they came with. Yet more often than not, the experience leaves a lasting positive impression, as it did with such "alumni" as Willy Brandt (1954), Margaret Thatcher (1967) and South African President F.W. de Klerk (1976). Saddam Hussein, be it noted, never got with the program.

Dear Mr. President: Please read this from conservative orthodoxy, I have generally been a good onl more forgiving than most of my colleague on the right. For one thing, I sympathize profoundly with his basic problem: how to cope with a Congress both Houses of which are controlled by the opposition party (a problem, incidentally, that Ronald Reagan didn't have for the first six of his eight years in the White House). White House).

But I feel obliged, now, to warn Mr. Bush that I am beginning to detect rumbles on the right that are deeper and more serious than any I have heard heretofore. If he disregards the disaffection that is now growing among conservatives, it is not impossible that he may confront a rebellion in 1992 that will spell the end of his presidency.

Normally the response of a president to supporters farther than he is from the supposed "center" would be, "They have nowhere else to go." He might even welcome their criticism on the theory that it would simply endear him to voters nearer the center who might otherwise vote for his opponent.

But the bad news for Mr. Bush is that serious conservatives have begun talking seriously about running an independent against him in 1992, even if the result is a short-term victory for

King: Content of his character

BOSTON — At the beginning, the subject was so touchy that the scholars were asked not to even use the word. For over a year, those working with Martin Luther King Jr.'s, papers called it, cynically and sadly, "the P-word."

Now the revelation that King appropriated the words of others throughout his graduate career is common knowledge. Great passages of his Ph.D. thesis weren't his.

Again, a P-word has tarnished the bright heroism of this leader. Last time it was promisculty. Today it is plagiarism.

Once, Martin Luther King Jr., talked about a time when his children would live in a "nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character." Today, he is being judged by the complex content of his own character.

The country is learning of the flaws that their owner felt so intensely. King was no stick figure, appropriate for holiday traming, no object for the school lessons we offer up to our holiday heroes. George Washington fathered the country. Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves. Martin Luther King championed civil rights. Class dismissed for the long weekend.

This person of great courage and vision had wide fissures in his moral makeup. The man who had a dream also had secrets, though not from himself.

By all accounts. King was mercilessly self-critical, often insecure, wounded by guilt and nagged by a sense of unworthiness. Once he preached. 'There is a achizophrenia...within all of us. There are times that all of us know somehow there is a Mr. Hyde and a Dr. Jekyll in us."

While he was far and away his own harshest judge, King was also wiscst perhaps in calculating the distance between a hero and a human. It is something the rest of us find

To be sure, promisculty is not a felony, nor is plagiarism. It matters little to the world what King might have written on the Ph.D. subject of "A Comparison of the Conceptions of God in the Thinking of Paul Tillich and Henry Nelson

It was what he did for, and said to, the country that crystallized our ideals as much as any Gettsyburg Address. But where do we put the revelation that the man who took on the mantle of leadership in a moral cause, also cheated. On his wife. In his scholarship.

In the time-honored tradition, King has gone through the transformation from ordinary person to leader to martyr to saint. The cause was personified and the personification was Martin Luther King Jr.

The people who discovered his plagiary knew in their dismay that this would give aid, comfort and ammunition to enemies. Not just the enemies of King, but of civil rights.

Now, as David Garrow, a King biographer deeply surprised by the evidence of plagiarism. says: "Using King as an inspirational symbol for children or teenagers is much, much more difficult now. There's no getting around that."

But maybe we have had too much of heroes manufactured and disassembled. As Clayborn Carson, the head of the King papers project, says: "I don't think it's healthy in a democracy to believe that there are some people who were born great and not without human flaws and limitations. To me a heroic figure is someone who recognizes his or her own limitations and yet has the courage to respond to the demands of historical moments."

The man who had a dream also had secrets, though not from himself.

Perhaps it's time not just for a revisionist view of King, but of hero-worship itself. We have lived, after all, most familiarly with the notion that leaders make change. The Great Man school of history is taught to our children.

America doesn't celebrate National Founding of the United States Day nor The War to End Slavery Day nor Civil Rights Day. We give faces and names to our crises. Today, many talk about a lack of leaders as if the genetic strain had run thin. But is moments and movements that produce greatness in people.

In one sermon, King said prophetically: "You don't need to go out this morning saying that Martin Luther King is a saint. I want you to know this morning that I am a sinner like all of God's children, but I want to be a good man and I want to hear a voice saying to me one day. 'I take you in and I bless you because you

After all the P-words are placed in the alphabet of his character, this is the lesson for the children. Here was a man, an ordinary man, with human strengths and weaknesses. But when the time came and much was demanded of him, he found the greatness within himself. Martin Luther King Jr., "tried" - and he changed the world we live in.

Travel agent kisses off government cash

WASHINGTON - Maryland travel agent Jack Skloff knows firsthand how cavaller the federal government is with your money. For the past seven years, his company. Dimensions Travel, has made travel plans for several federal agencies. But no more.

Skloff has kissed $7 million a year in business goodbye because, "I didn't want to continue to help them to rape the tax-payer," he told us. "I want to work for people who say. Jack, save me money,' not 'Jack, spend my money.

No longer will he face the rush to book and Paim Springs for 'meetings' just because it's the end of the federal fiscal year. (One federal agency called Skloff one September and exclaimed, "We've got $49,000 left in our travel budget. Set up some meetingsi We'll figure out what they're about later.")

Skloff has

Our associate Jim Lynch has examined the ledgers of several federal agency travel budgets for last year. The amount spent on travel in September, the end of the fiscal year. is almost double that spent in August and most other months too.

That's not all. Skloff said federal travelers are encouraged to use their frequent flyer miles to upgrade their tickets to first class rather than save them for a free coach ticket

Not only is the government wasteful. Skloff has seen it be downright stupid when it comes to venturing outside Washington D.C. One federal travel coordinator called Dimensions asking for help to find the town of Vicinity. Her office told her to book travel to St. Louis and Vicinity, but she couldn't find it on the map. Another federal employee asked for help finding the town of Maconga. As it turned out, the destination was Macon.

Skloff has also had to cope with some quirks, like the bureaucrat who kept demanding advance boarding passes from airlines that didn't issue them, and the woman who complained to him that there were "gay people in the lobby" of the San Francisco hotel where Dimensions booked her to stay. She also griped that the counter in the bathroom was too small to hold her curling Skioff said he doesn't mind going above and beyond the call of duty for his clients. But seven years of watching the government throw away taxpayers money went beyond common sense. Skioff did not bid to continue his contract work with the government last spring. But he still had some leftover contracts to fulfill with a few agencies. including the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

In late September, NRC Chairman Kenneth Carr went to Europe for an international meeting on nuclear energy. An assistant who went along. Stephen Burns, planned to stay in Europe after the meeting for a vacation, so he wouldn't be coming home with the rest of the team, according to a travel document

Carr filed in August. But when it became clear that Burns would have to spend about $400 of his own money to change his return ticket. Carr signed a new memo saying that Burns would return on the same day as the others, flying first class as the others were. It wasn't true, but it bought Burns a ticket with enough face value that it could be exchanged to cover his extra vacation travel.

Carr says he wrote the second memo to give comparative costs for Burns' travel plans. Burns says the trip was "fully above board." Carr and Burns both noted that the travel is being reviewed by the NRC's legal

This year, the Salvation Army is joining the Rescue Outreach Mission's event and helping to supply much of the food, some of which was pre-prepared by Army workers and volunteers.

Capt. Gary Bergen of the Salvation Army said, "Our advisory board took a look at the situation this year, and de-termined that while there wasn't enough demand for us to have a separate meal here at our headquarters, we could help many people by joining in with the mission."

Eighty-five baskets of food were handed out to needy families this morning at the Sanford Salvation Army office. "Folks took them home to do their own cooking and have their own meal," Bergen said.

The Salvation Army tomorrow is also providing vehicles and help in delivering a number of complete turkey dinners to the homes of shut-ins in Sanford and the surrounding area. In all, some 20 to 25 turkeys have been prepared for the event.

Eslinger has served Polk 12 years. Polk announced in August that in January Eslinger was to become his undersheriff. A couple of months ago Polk promoted Ealinger from the rank of lieutenant to major. Since August, Eslinger has acted as a key adminstrative aide to Polk. He is slated to attend the PBI National Academy for 11 weeks beginning in April.

Even during his one year as a dispatcher, Ealinger became a member of the SWAT team and worked with the undercover drug unit of the department. For two years he was assigned as an agent for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administation.

Although he is a Republican, Ealinger has not been a political activist. He said he has been too busy doing his jobs and related community service to become involved in politics, except in support of Polk. Polk switched from the Democratic to Republican Party to support Martinez in the 1986 election. Eslinger declined comment on the 1992 sheriff's race.

Wilder bucks VMI tradition

RICHMOND, Va. - Gov. L. Douglas Wilder broke his silence Tuesday over the admission of women to Virginia Military Institute, saying he believes the school's historic all-male policy is discriminatory and should be abandoned.

Wilder stopped short of suggesting that the state stop fighting a federal lawsuit seeking to reverse the admissions policy, but he hinted he may cut off state funds if the school in Lexington remains closed to women.

"As a legal conclusion, the determination of whether VMI's present admission policy is dis-

The high-profile governor, seen as a possible 1992 Democratic vice presidential candidate. emphasized that his announcement was not motivated by political considerations. "I'm not interested in national office," Wilder said. "It has nothing to do with the future or the past."

Wilder said he would not advise Terry, a fellow Democrat who hopes to succeed him as governor, to withdraw from the legal dispute, but he said, "I

Asked if there were anything he could do to pressure VMI to include women, the governor said, "It's a question of whether I could hold funds back with the case in litigation."

Karen Petersen, the state's deputy education secretary, said Wilder has various options on withholding funds under Virginia appropriation laws, including pleading lower state revenues or "program evaluation" — meaning he could say he disagrees with the school's admissions policy.

His threat to withhold funds from the institute is likely to provoke widespread anger among VMI's network of loyal alumni, whose well-known male comradeship was depicted in the movie "Brother

"I'm not threatening the board one way or another," Wilder said, referring to the school's governing Board of Visitors.

VMI and The Citadel in Charleston, S.C., are the only two state- supported military schools inthe nation that refuse admission to women.

U.S. studies boost in Iraqi troops

By ELICY SNEWMER
United Press International

WASHINGTON - The Iraqi announcement that another 250,000 troops will be sent to Kuwait does not automatically mean the United States will rush more troops to the region, a Pentagon official said Tuesday.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said there has been no evidence yet that Saddam Hussein has started moving forces foward into Iraq. There are more than 430,000 Iraqi soldiers with 3,500 tanks located in and around Kuwait.

"If they are going to do it, it could well take a long time. It could take over a month to do it." said Williams.

"As Gen. (Colin) Powell pointed out this morning, the additional troops they are talking about would probably be less capable than the troops that are deployed there now. It is not clear that if this announcement were followed through that it would add to the combat power." "These forces probably wouldn't be as well trained or well equipped as the forces that are there now," added Williams.

Should Iraq follow through, he said. "It would be a further tightening of its grip on occupied Kuwait and just the opposite of

Thatcher vows fight in close leadership race

By JOHN PHILLIPS United Press International

PARIS - British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says she is disappointed the contest for Conservative Party leadership was going into a second ballot but cooly announced she would fight the final round of the political battle.

"I am disappointed that it was not quite enough to get the thing through." Thatcher told reporters Tuesday in the courtyard of the British Embassy.

'But I am very pleased that half the parliamentary group voted on my behalf and I will put my name forward for the second ballot.

Presidential press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, in Paris with President Bush, said of the vote, Ve would not take any position on the internal affairs of Britain. The prime minister has been a personal friend of President Reagan and President Bush. She has been our strongest ally but we have no further response whatever the outcome of the vote in London."

It was not immediately clear if Thatcher would attend a ballet and banquet at Verseilles as scheduled. "Now I must to and make some telephone calls." said the Iron Lady, looking icily cool in a black evening suit with a fur collar. Earlier a British Embassy spokeswoman said Thatcher would go to Versailles.

She will then travel to Versailles for congratulations or commiseration from her counterparts from around Europe at a bailet in the Royal Palace performed by the Opera di Paris followed by a banquet hosted by French President Francois Mitterrand.

"She is definitely going to Versailles," the spokeswoman said. "She will come back (to the embassy), presumably wait for the result then change and go (to Versailles).'

Hordes of British journalists besieged the British Embassy to try to catch a glimpse of the beleaguered prime minister. But only a small pool was authorized to enter the courtyard of the mission lest she speak before heading to Versailles.

Thatcher looked relaxed and smiled broadly during a morning meeting with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev at the Soviet Embassy. She also met with Mitterrand.

Junk bond king faces sentencing

Dy Bosiness Writer

NEW YORK - Admitted felon Michael Milken, who came to symbolize the Age of Greed as he earned a fortune peddling the junk bonds that fueled the 1980s takeover mania and ran afoul of the law, faces sentencing Wednesday on six guilty pleas to securities and tax violations.

U.S. District Court Judge Kimba Wood, who accepted Milken's guilty plea April 20, could hand him up to 28 years in prison at a 10 a.m. sentencing in federal court in lower Manhattan. Before sentencing Milken, the judge earlier this month heard long arguments from federal prosecutors who painted

Milken as a manipulative financial conspira-tor and defense lawyers who said he merely alipped into illegality

Milken, 44, pleaded guilty to five counts of illegal securities trading, each of which carries a minimum sentence of five years in prison, and one coust of filing a false tax statement for a minimum three-year term. Federal officials urged that Milken serve the sentences one after amother.

As part of his ples bargain with the Justice Department, Milken agreed to pay $600 million in fines and penalties. Pleading guilty enabled him to avoid some tougher racketeering charges in the original 96-count indictment handed up in March 1989.

The financier's sestencing not only concluded his own case, which investigators started building in 1986 when Wall Street arbitrager Ivan Boesky agreed to cooperate with their probe into Milken's activities, but brought down the curtain on the 1980s era of debt-fueled enrichment schemes Milken virtually invented high-yield, high-risk junk bonds, touting them as a way for companies without access to traditional credit markets to finance mergers and takeovers. His firm, Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., dominated the junk bond market. In December 1988 Drexel reached an agreement with the U.S. Attorney's office in the Southern District to plead guilty to six felony counts involving insider trading. stock manipulation and other securities law violations and topay $650 million in penalties and fines.

Leaders call for national skills tests

By JAMET BASS

United Press International

WASHINGTON - Business leaders told Congress all high school students should be required to take a national compentency examination to ensure they have adequate skills for the working world, but Education Department officials rejected the idea. At a House Education and Labor Committee hearing Tuesday, four business leaders testified that America's competitiveness is being jeopardized by a generation of children leaving high school without a firm grasp of basic skills.

For many years, business organizations have sensed that there is a growing problem with the level of competencies in entry-level workers. Now we know from research data, surveys and individual companies that the problem is real," said William Kolberg, president of the National Alliance of Business.

'America cannot be competitive," said Sol Hurwitz, president of the Committee for Economie Development, "unless we succeed in educating all of our children to their highest capacity. But when we look at the new generation growing up, we're worried that they won't measure

To establish confidence in student achtevement, Kolberg said all students by the age of 16 should be able to pass a national competency examination.

"The establishment of a system of national standards. coupled with assessment, would ensure that every student leaves compulsory school with a demonstrated ability to read, write, compute and perform at worldclass levels in general school subjects, holberg said.

"Students should also have exhibited a capacity to learn. think, work effectively alone and In groups and solve problems."

Hurwritz generally agreed that competency exams are neces-sary, but said extra help must be given to disadvantaged students carly so that they would be on equal footing with the more privileged students by the time they all are in high school.

Assistant Education Secretary Christopher Cross said in an interview that competency tests are fine, as long as they are handled by the states, not the federal government.

"One single exam is not practical ... or appropriate," Cross said.

Agent: Dixon paid too much for 'sex home'

By WILLIAM H. INMAN United Press International

DALLAS - A California leasing agent testified Tuesday that thrift king Don Dixon paid five times too much for a posh corporate beachfront home which prosecutors say was devoted largely to "sex parties." "There is no way you can justify what was paid, even under the most optimistic circumstances," said Lori Goetz, a leasing agent testifying as a prosecution witness.

The home, located in Solana Beach, Calif., should have leased for $3, 000 to $3,500 a month during the mid-1980s when Dixon arranged payments, she testified.

Instead, Dixon paid between $13,000 to $15,000 a month in a complicated arrangement in which tax benefits were swapped with the home's owner and the entire package was subsidized through loans furnished by Dixon's thrift. Vernon Savings and Loan.

In a 38-count indictment, Dixon is accused of illegally filtering expenses used for prostitutes. politicians and high living through Vernon corporate accounts. When Vernon failed in 1987, taxpayers were socked with $1.3 billion in losses.

Rams in Rotary Bowl

Peters' rebuilding project turns corner with bowl bid

By PHIL SMITH Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - in only his second year as head coach of the Lake Mary Ram football team. Doug Peters has led his team to a 5-5 season and a berth in the Rotary Bowl Thankagiving Day at Lyman High School. "We're still in the rebuilding process," said Peters. "I knew it would be a tough job when I came to Lake Mary, but everything is starting to come together."

Dr. Phillips High School, with a 7-3 record and a fourth place finish in the Metro Conference, will supply the opposition.

"We're tickled to death to be playing in the Rotary Bowl." said Peters. "Dr. Phillips is a very good team and we'll have to be at our best to win."

The Rams will need a tremendous effort from All-County selection Chris Hancy, who has rushed for 1,131 yards an 11 touchdowns this season, second only to Lake Howell's Marquette Smith.

"Chris is a major reason why we are here," said Peters. "The Rotary Bowl people saw that we were playing well at the end and decided to take a chance on us."

Two years ago, Peters took over a program that went 5-5 in 1968. In Peters' first year, the Rams went 3-7, the three wins coming in the last five games of the season. Counting that 3-2 finishing run in 1989, the Rams have won eight of their last 15 games over the last two years and finished second in the Seminole Athletic Conference this

"We're trying to build a collegiate-style program here," said

Peters. "The kids see a lot of college teams invited to bowl games and now they're playing in a bowl game. It gives them something to be proud

Lake Mary has accomplish as much off of the field as on the field. The Rama have not lost a player because of grades all season and a majority of the team carries a 'B'

"Academies comes first at Lake Mary," said Peters. "We have stressed to the players that they have to focus on doing the things that make you a good person and a good representative of the community. It all starts with an education."

SANFORD - Teressa Martin scored 23 points and pulled down 18 rebounds to lead the Seminole Community College Raiders to a 56-55 victory over the Indian River Community College Pioneers in women's basketball action Tuesday evening at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

"We've been giving up our position too soon in the other games," said Martin. "So we worked on holding our positions longer in practice and it worked for us in the game.

Led by Andrea Popwell and Nollta Wilson, the Pioneers led 28-21 at halftime.

"We came out slow in the first half," said SCC Coach fleana Gallagher. "We were very flat and it took us a while to get going." The Raiders came out blazing in the second half with a 12-0 run, eight straight by Martin, to take a 33-28 lead. "I got on a roll, so I asked for the ball more and kept taking it to the hole," said Martin.

AVON PARK - Seminole Community College's men's basketball team played its best game in several weeks but it was still not good enough as the Raiders dropped a 75-70 decision to South Florida Community College at Panther Gym Tuesday night.

The loss was the third straight on the road, and fourth overall, for SCC as it fell to 1-4 on the season. The Raiders will finally return home Saturday night when they host Columbia State College of Tennessee in a 7:30 p.m. contest at the Health and Physical Education Center on the SCC campus.

South Florida (5-1) jumped out to an 18-9 advantage halfway through the first half. But the Raiders, behind Brian Nason and Dennard Ford, came back to tie the game at 27-27 at the 2:00 mark on a steal and dunk by Ford. SCC took its first lead on two free throws by Nason with 1:12 □Gee Men, Page 3B

From staff reports

Del.AND - Dawn Burks and Jennifer Benge each scored a first-half goal Tuesday night to lead Seminole High School to a 2-0 win over DeLand in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match at Spec Martin Stadium.

The win is Seminole's second in a row, lifting the Tribe's mark to 2-1 overall and 1-1 in the conference.

"It was a total team effort," said Seminole Coach Suzy Reno, who made some changes in the starting lineup before the match. "The girls went over there determined to do they best they can. They really work hard in practice. Tonight, it showed."

Just 10 minutes into the match. Burks put the Seminoles ahead to stay, scoring on an assist from Sabrina Riley. Benge gave Seminole a cushion 18 minutes later when she played a 22-yard free kick around the DeLand wall. Benge, who Reno moved to mid-

Lake Mary draws Lyman

By TONY DOSORMIER Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - Just because Lake Mary and Lyman are among the schools favored to challenge for the Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer championship doesn't necessarily mean they're immediately ready to pay for the state title.

On Tuesday evening, after the teams had played to a thrilling 3-3 tie, both Lake Mary Coach Bill Elssele and first-year Lyman Coach Jim Thompson both said their teams have a lot of work to do.

"We're young." said Eissele, who guided Lake Mary to the state Dec Tie, Page 28

"The girls showed a lot of character. They fought all the way to the end."

For Thompson, whose team built a 3-1 lead in the second half only to see Lake Mary score twice in the final seven minutes to tie the score. the game underscored some things that the Greyhounds will have to work on.

SANFORD - in 1620, the Pilgrims landed in Plymouth, seachusetts aboard the good ship Mayflower. It was that maiden voyage to the new world that brought our forebearers to a great land mass of good and plenty.

The cooks aboard the small vessel are assumed to be every mother and young maiden who made the journey. History does not record specifically who could cook nor their years of experience. What Margaret Hodges. in her book, "Hopkins of the Mayflower" does record are the recollections of Bradford and Winslow of the first Harvest Festival in America in 1621.

Their menu for the feast included five freshly killed deer, a gift from Massasoit and his tribe. wild turkey birds, geese, ducks, lobsters, cels, clams, oysters, fish, dried gooseberries. strawberries, plums, cherries, white wine, red wine, corn bread and Indian pudding. The menu has been deduced to be the official fare for the three-day celebration with 90 Indian guests at the Plymouth Plantation with the Pilgrims.

As the Pilgrims shared their bounty and cooking knowledge 369 years ago, so too did the Ladies of the Moose and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve in Sanford, in 1990.

Recently, the ladies gathered together in the well-equipped kitchen at Moose Lodge #1851 to start Operation Cookie. . The cookie brigade collectively

ADVICE

VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: Here's an update on my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving, so why not take a few minutes to count your blessings?

How's your health? You have a few minor complaints? Well, thank God they're not major. Obviously you're still alive. You can probably think of at least one person who isn't around this year. (I can.)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one), praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't. How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. No Medicare. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight. Would you rather be in Poland, the Soviet Union or Iraq — God forbid!

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, pick up the phone and call somebody.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. If you don't like your elected officials, you can go to work and vote them out of office.

Freedom rings! You can still worship at the church of your choice, or not worship at all if you don't want to. You can cast a secret ballot, or criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock at your door in the middle of the

And if you prefer to live under a different system, goodbye and good luck. You are free to go. In closing, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer. Perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow. Let one of the children read it.

"O, heavenly Father, we thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

BUGS BUNNY

40-year-old female recently diagnosed with having a fibroid tumor of the uterus the size of a grapefruit. While my doctor recommended hysterectomy, I opted for the hormone Lupron Depot to reduce the tumor's size with eventual removal through the vagina. My Lupron injections will continue for several months prior to surgical removal. I've also considered a myomectomy. instead of hysterectomy, in the hope I can continue a normal sex life, yet have read there is a 10 to 30 percent chance fibroids will recur. What are the pros and cons of this procedure?

DEAR READER: Fibroids are benign growths arising from the muscular wall of the uterus. When small, they rarely cause symptoms other than increased menstrual flow. As fibroids enlarge, however, they can lead to menstrual hemorrhage (and anemia), excessive menstrual cramps, lower abdominal discomfort and painful intercourse. Fibroids, even big ones, may spontaneously degenerate (shrink and disappear). Therefore, treatment is reserved for women with large. symptom-producing fibroids that do not regress with time.

Lupron (leuprolide) injections reduce the level of estrogen in the body; this treatment usually shrinks fibroids, which appear to be stimulated by estrogen. As you say, Lupron may make removal of fibroids easier because they are smaller. Under these circumstances, many gynecologists would opt simply to remove the fibroids (myomectomy) through the vagina, rather than subjecting the woman to the more complicated and dangerous hysterectomy.

Also, hysterectomy is permanent; although it effectively reduces any possibility of future fibroids, it makes pregnancy impossible. Thus, women who wish more children invariably choose the limited, nonhysterectomy approach.

Hysterectomy does not, in the vast majority of women, reduce sex drive or sexual pleasure. However, like any surgery, it is best avoided if at all possible. Fibroids tend to recur. If you eventually decide on myomectomy, you may experience future growth of new fibroids that would possibly require further Lupron treatment or limited surgery.

The four-heart contract was might have done better. He won the ace of hearts in his hand, and then played dummy's A-K of clubs and ruffed a club. East throwing a spade. A spade was played to dummy's king, and then a diamond back to the king. West took the ace and played ace of spades and a spade, ruffed by East. East still had the queen of hearts to take, so the contract was down one. Of course South has a lot of work to do in the slightly ambitious game con-tract, but the bidding holds some clues to the right approach. West, a passed hand, came in with a takeout double over one heart. Almost surely that denied a five-card spade suit. (With five, most practical players simply make a one-spade overcall.) So declarer can take not easy to play, but declarer the heart ace and play queen of spades from his hand. West will take the ace. When West fails to play a second heart, that is a strong indication that the opening heart lead was a singleton. So declarer can cash two spades and then lead a diamond. West will win the ace and perhaps play a second diamond, ruffed in dummy. Now South can safely play A-K and ruff a club, ruff another diamond, and ruff still another a club. It does no good for East to ruff in with the queen of hearts, since that will be the only trick left for the defense. This time the eight of hearts in the South hand is as good as a face card.
