

For The Democrats:

Is There A Feud In Future?

By Bruce Blossat
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Lyndon B. Johnson will have no competition as the dominant figure in the Democratic party in the four to eight years ahead. But there will be some interesting trainees for his job.

They include, of course, Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, and his brother, Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts.

If the President holds his health and wins a second full term, the job will not be vacant until January, 1973. Thus the hard, practical rivalries of the succession are a long way off. But the vital career-building leading up to the test begins right now.

A Democrat who has helped make some presidents says:

"In the first six months of 1965 these fellows will be getting into position, determining what roads there are to travel. By next fall it will be time for a beginning look at who is doing what."

A quick assumption took root after the election that Humphrey would become the Johnston's own ascendancy to power through John Kennedy's death, and the Republicans' 1960 nomination of Richard M. Nixon, fired the growing notion that it is virtually axiomatic to give the vice president a presidential bid. Before Nixon, however, it had not happened for a century and a quarter.

The President is giving Humphrey plenty to do—in tough fields like civil rights and poverty. These burdens spell opportunity, but also risk.

There is the further matter of age. By 1972 Humphrey will be past 60. One Democratic observer in New York suggests that for an incumbent vice president, risk in top level experience, that may be no drawback. Party men agree, though, that 60 has had an old sound since John Kennedy passed on the scene.

It is a fair guess that the colorful Hubert will continue to enjoy the kind of strong personal following he has today. This naturally will stand him in good stead when the time comes for combat. Nevertheless, Humphrey's flamboyance is not all political blessing. Four to eight years of maximum national exposure on the wide screen could cost him some points. Some of his friends were distressed that he could not find a good cut-off place in his talky victory speech election night.

After Humphrey, the two Kennedys spring to mind. The question that bugs many people, in and out of the Democratic party, is: Which one? Bob Kennedy has many of the necessary attributes. He is steeped in political know-how, has much government experience on the administrative side, will be operating as senator from one of the country's most powerful political bases—New York.

Still, a good friend of both Kennedys says: "I think Teddy may come along too fast for Bob." Before Ted Kennedy broke his back (now pretty well mended) in an airplane crash last June in Massachusetts, he was indeed moving along in great leaps. His early 1964 campaigning for the Democrats across the country had begun to create a dazzling legend. He is the family's most exuberant campaigner.

In the years to come, comparisons between the two Kennedys are going to be made at every level of activity. Inevitably, in the view of some who know them, this public game of watching is going to be painful for one or the other, or both.

Bob's obvious seasoning, and six years' age advantage, must be thrown into the balance against a young brother whose learning capacity impresses some of the wisest heads in the party and in Congress.

HUMPHREY: Burdens of opportunity—and risk.

First, however, this incipient feud is not between Humphrey and the Kennedys.

All the principals, properly occupied with the immediate business of making a record, insist they are giving no thought to the competition. They express dismay at talk they are already trying to maneuver.

Humphrey is reported to have urged an old Kennedy associate not to leave the government. The Humphrey-Kennedy bond established during the late President's tenure appears to have, for the time at least, a smiling durability. Most of the worrisome huffing and puffing in the two camps, if they now deserve that label, comes from friends who are a few stages removed from the inner circle. It is an old phenomenon in politics: Their cocktail party talk often is elevated far beyond its importance.

The era of Humphrey-Kennedy good feeling may get its first sharp blow when some of the books on John Kennedy's public life—done by former Kennedy men—reach print. The bitter 1960 nomination fight between the late President and Humphrey left some scars that may be uncovered.

Not long after the 1964 election, it was suggested in some quarters that Lyndon Johnson might find political advantage in putting the Humphrey and Kennedy forces at war with one another.

Most Democratic leaders consider this nonsense, since no one in his party will even try to compete with Johnson so long as he is President and there is nothing he needs less for a 1968 re-election bid than two battling factions.

The fact that both Humphrey and the two Kennedys have substantial personal followings among party politicians and voters alike is the best assurance Johnson is unlikely to promote a stir—even if any other political logic favored it.

This does not mean that when the time arrives for hard rivalry to begin, the President will take no part. Says a respected Democrat: "I suppose he will do his best to name his successor. Few presidents can resist the temptation to try."

What he will really attempt to do, he has years to decide. But some of the men he may try to do it to—or for—are in plain feet—awaiting another stirring gate as 1965 gets underway.

Unified Florida Promised By Gov. Haydon Burns

Union 'Free, Growing And Full Of Hope'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson set to work today on details of his "Great Society" program for bettering life in America and promoting peace through the world.

He began filling in specifics of proposals in his State of the Union message Monday night for increased action at home and personal diplomacy through his own trips abroad. (DETAILED ARTICLES ON PAGE 5)

The Chief Executive told a joint session of Congress in his televised address that the State of the Union was "free, restless, growing and full of hope."

He was interrupted 57 times by applause, mostly from the Democrats.

His proposals ranged from a $1.5 billion education program to an invitation for the new Soviet leaders to visit the United States.

He announced plans to visit Europe and Latin America himself this year.

WORKS ON MESSAGES — Today, Johnson kept his calendar clear to begin talking five special messages he will send to Congress between now and his inauguration Jan. 20.

The first will be a message Thursday setting forth a health program "to match the achievements of our medicine to the afflictions of our people."

This will include a proposal for 32 regional medical centers, at a five-year cost of $1.2 billion, to provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major diseases.

Next Tuesday, Johnson plans to send the House and Senate his education package for 1966.

Before Jan. 20, he also will submit proposals for loosening immigration laws, reducing foreign aid, and advancing American efforts in space.

There will be still more messages — probably 15 or 20 this year — to follow through on the address, Johnson said in a message that Johnson conveyed to lawmakers and all Americans Monday night.

BEGIN NEW QUEST — Johnson pointed to two centuries of struggle in this nation and said that in 1965 America begins "a new quest for union."

"We seek the unity of man with the world that he has built," Johnson said, "with the knowledge that can save or destroy him — with the cities which can stimulate or strangle him — with the wealth and riches which can enrich or enslave his spirit."

Johnson, in his first State of the Union message as an elected president in his own right, said this nation needs "to establish a harmony between man and bounty which will allow each of us to enlarge the meaning of this life and all of us to elevate the quality of our civilization."

Inside was a cute little card and a penciled message: "Thank you for the new year set."

British Send More Troopers — Another 50 British paratroopers flew into Singapore today to help defend Malaysia against possible attack by Indonesia.

A first contingent of 50 paratroopers landed in this island city Monday. It was announced 400 will arrive before the end of the week and that 1,000 soldiers will land here eventually.

Gov. Farris Bryant moved out Monday, cleaning off his desk and removing everything from the desk drawers and table tops.

In the adjoining cabinet room, there were early signs that incoming Gov. and Mrs. Burns and their friends would be served lunch there after the inaugural ceremony.

Huge boxes, piled with papers and silver from the governor's mansion, lined the walls.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Hand, owner of Jacksonville, who are moving over with the new first family to enter and take charge of meals in the mansion for at least six months, were bringing the food in warming ovens and containers from Jacksonville for this first luncheon for the new governor.

While hundreds were whooping it up for Governor Burns Monday night, Governor and Mrs. Bryant slipped away to the coast for a quiet seafood dinner.

Local bills from any municipality should be ready by March 1, the letter advised.

North Orlando will seek to amend its charter, subject to approval of the State Legislature, to change the mayor as well as the five council members will be elected by vote of the people. Requests for the other minor changes also are expected and will be announced upon completion of the resolution.

Stress Laid On Schools

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Haydon Burns promised in his inaugural address today to be an all-Florida governor and not permit the state to split in sectional strife.

Burns, who was mayor of the biggest city in North Florida before stepping into the governorship over the bid of South Florida's Robert King High, mayor of Miami, pledged that in the performance of his executive duties "I shall see no East, no West, no North, no South, but one great State of Florida."

He saved for his biennial message to the Legislature next April the details of the ambitious program on which he successfully campaigned this year after running third in his first try four years ago.

But he did announce some specific plans for road improvements particularly Interstate highway 95 south of Jacksonville and below Daytona Beach, Interstate 75 from Wildwood to downtown Tampa and the East-West expressway in Miami.

He also said he will immediately appoint a committee of educators and laymen to study the trimester system of keeping the state universities running all year round which he wants to abandon.

He threw strong backing to Miami's Inter American Center Cultural Authority (interim) and the cross state barge canal.

He also pledged to do everything possible to attract new industry, bolster Florida's beef cattle production and marketing, work for expansion of military installations and foster trade with central and South America.

Greatest Stress — But it was on education that Burns laid the greatest stress. "If in the annals of history our administration can only be remembered for one contribution, then let it be said that we devoted our maximum experience, courage and labor to ward helping Florida reach a peak of excellence in its educational system," he said.

He promised improvements to assure that Florida's public schools, junior colleges, technical and vocational schools are second to none.

Harking back to the times to preserve what is good and desirable and to eliminate that which is undesirable in our system. We want to graduate young people as quickly and economically as possible but fresh water.

"I do not have all the answers to all our problems, but I do have the will and determination to pursue with vigor every responsible avenue of solution, to seek advice both in and out of government."

"I shall daily need and seek guidance from the Supreme Being from whom all power and wisdom flow. I pledge you the full range of whatever talents I may possess."

"My head, my heart, my state 95 with a rebly dedicated to immediately at Dade Board, your service."

In the adjoining cabinet room, there were early signs that incoming Gov. and Mrs. Burns and their friends would be served lunch there after the inaugural ceremony.

Huge boxes, piled with papers and silver from the governor's mansion, lined the walls.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Hand, owner of Jacksonville, who are moving over with the new first family to enter and take charge of meals in the mansion for at least six months, were bringing the food in warming ovens and containers from Jacksonville for this first luncheon for the new governor.

While hundreds were whooping it up for Governor Burns Monday night, Governor and Mrs. Bryant slipped away to the coast for a quiet seafood dinner.

Local Solons Ready Studies On Legislation

North Orlando Village Council Monday night was notified by letter from Sen. Mack N. Cleveland Jr. that Seminole County's legislative delegation must have requested municipal charter amendments changes in resolution form at least 100 days prior to the Feb. 2 delegation action.

Local bills from any municipality should be ready by March 1, the letter advised.

North Orlando will seek to amend its charter, subject to approval of the State Legislature, to change the mayor as well as the five council members will be elected by vote of the people. Requests for the other minor changes also are expected and will be announced upon completion of the resolution.

Billy Eckstine Disappears But Show Goes On

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dozen of the biggest names in show business made sure the show went on last night at a posh Manhattan night spot, the smiles on their faces covering their concern for the star who failed to appear—singer Billy Eckstine.

Eckstine never showed for his opening performances at the Royal Box Room of the Hotel Americana. A spokesman there said he had not been seen since a rehearsal late Sunday afternoon. The singer was to have begun a three-week engagement at $5,500 a week.

Police were notified and they said they were investigating. The singer's worried son said he thought Eckstine might be ill but he did not know where he was.

"He's never missed one before," said Ken Eckstine, 21, home on leave from Army service at Ft. Eustis, Va.

He said his mother, Carole Eckstine, had flown here from California for the opening and what was to have been a family reunion—the first since October when the family was together here.

When Eckstine's disappearance became known, into the breach jumped a fortune of talent—top stars who counted Billy among their friends: Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., singers Tony Bennett and Robert Goulet and comedians Jack E. Leonard, Red Buttons, Bill Cosby and Nippy Russell, among others.

They took the missing singer's place in the spotlight at both shows last night.

This Burglar Was 'Hungry'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A burglar slipped into a bank teller's drive-in cage while she was at lunch and made off with $27,000 in cash, according to the FBI.

The teller at the Miami Beach Bank told officials she discovered the loss when she had returned from eating. FBI agents here said the thief didn't empty the cash drawer. Officials estimated it contained $40,000 before the burglary.

The drive-in windows are located in the middle of a large open parking lot.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford Young GOP Speaker

By United Press

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, considered a spokesman for young Republicans who want to give the GOP a new image in Congress, has steadily advanced up the leadership ladder toward the party's job in the House.

Long respected by his colleagues as an able legislator, Ford recently received nationwide publicity when he was named by President Johnson to the presidential panel which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The 51-year-old congressman first gained attention as a possible successor to House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., two years ago when his backers staged a coup of sorts to install him as chairman of the House Republican caucus, which is the formal Republican organization in the House.

Ford replaced Iowa Rep. Charles B. Hoeven, 67, a member of the party's old guard, in a hotly contested 86-78 vote. The victory was engineered by a group of younger representatives who claimed the GOP needed "a little bit more aggressive, dynamic leadership" in Congress.

Although party spokesmen denied that there was any bitterness in the fight to install Ford as chairman, observers noted that there were no attempts to make show of unity as is usually done in intra-party policy battles.

The younger Republicans say Ford's new position as

T. S. Eliot, Nobel Winner, Dies

LONDON (UPI) — T. S. Eliot, who captured the spiritual desolation of the post-World War I era in his spare, dry poetry, and shaped the writers of a later generation with his criticism, died Monday. He was 76.

Probably no man of letters exerted greater influence on 20th century English literature than Eliot. He turned poetry to new and radical forms and founded the "new criticism" still dominant in literary scholarship.

The slender, bespectacled poet had been ailing for more than a year. A minor operation had been performed some months ago. Death came at his London home.

One of his last outings was three months ago, when Eliot journeyed to the U. S. Embassy in London to receive the U. S. Presidential Medal of Freedom. He was born in St. Louis, but took up British citizenship in 1927.

To students of the 1920s, Eliot is a remote figure. The peak of his career came in 1948 when he received the Nobel Prize for Literature "for his remarkable pioneering work in modern poetry."

But in later life he found a new career as a playwright. "The Cocktail Party" and "The Confidential Clerk" met with critical acclaim in London and New York in the 1950s.

"I am just beginning to grow up, to get maturity," Eliot said in 1958, when he turned 70. "In the last few years everything I'd done up to 60 or so has seemed very childish."

But his devotees will remember him best for "The Wasteland," "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock," "The Hollow Men," and the other poems which agitated the literary scene in the 1920s.

Tugboat Burns, Is Abandoned

MIAMI (UPI) — The crew of an ocean-going Cuban tugboat abandoned ship and took refuge on a Caribbean island last night after the vessel caught fire and burned out of control.

The report was monitored here on a Cuban maritime radio band. The broadcast said the tug "10th of October" caught fire near noon from a failure in its electrical system. The size of the crew was not indicated.

It was recalled here the "10th of October" was used in rescue efforts last fall when the Spanish freighter Sierra de Aranzazu was attacked by two mystery raiders.

In 1943, Elmer G. Johnson of Fairborn, Ohio, patented a design for an airplane to be powered by the sun's heat. It was to have a transparent upper wing surface for solar radiation with a radiation trap beneath it, according to the World Almanac.

Ford was first elected to Congress in 1948 from Michigan's 5th District, unseating the conservative Republican incumbent by a two-to-one primary margin. He has been reelected every two years since.

A native of Omaha, Neb., Ford moved to Grand Rapids, Mich., as a boy and attended local schools. He was graduated from the University of Michigan playing varsity football there, and then went on to Yale Law School, where he took time out from his schoolwork to serve as assistant varsity football coach.

Ford served in the Navy for four years during World War II, emerging as a lieutenant commander after service on a light cruiser and with the naval aviation training program.

Orlando Hunter Found Drowned

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Searchers found the body of a University of Florida medical school senior in a pond near where he and friends had been duck hunting.

Officials said the body of Ronald Arthur Julian II, 28, Orlando, was found in about 10 feet of water, near his shotgun, hunting jacket and a dead coot.

His friends told officials Julian swam to retrieve a duck. They theorized he drowned trying to retrieve the coot.

Miners To Retire At Age Of 55

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Effective Feb. 1, members of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW) will be able to retire at age 55 and draw full union pension benefits.

Trustees of the UMW's welfare and retirement fund announced that the retirement age for full benefits was being lowered from 60 to 55, making the plan one of the most liberal union-operated pension plans in the nation.

At the same time the fund's trustees said that monthly pension payments would be increased from a maximum of $75 to $85.

This benefits more than 64,000 miners currently receiving pensions as well as new pensioners.

Child Protection Film Scheduled For Prevue

Preview of a movie designed for child protection will be held for parents, educators and other interested persons at 10 a.m. Thursday in the conference room of the School Board offices, on Commercial Street.

Presented by the Sanford Women's Club, through the co-operation of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, the showing primarily is for principals and parents of children in grades 1-7 but other interested persons are invited, according to Mrs. J. L. Horton Jr., committee member.

It will be decided following the preview whether the film — "The Riddle of the Friendly Stranger" — will be shown to school children of Seminole County.

The film is designed to protect small children from sex deviates. The story is presented in an entertaining manner by Pat Bridge, honorary member of the St. Petersburg police department, and her ventriloquism dummy, "Yabby," the star of the film.

The film teaches with great impact . . . and with warmth, good taste and an understanding of child psychology.

You won't get rich overnight buying U. S. Savings Bonds. But for the long run, they make an excellent investment.

You get a guaranteed rate of interest—3 3/4% when held to maturity—so there's no ups and downs to worry about.

You also get certain tax advantages since Savings Bonds aren't subject to state or local income taxes and the federal tax can be deferred until the Bonds are cashed.

But probably most important is that Bonds pay off in more than dollars. When you get your Bond investment back you know it has helped Uncle Sam strengthen the cause of freedom (your cause) all around this troubled world of ours.

Cut Your Own Taxes - 2

By Ray De Crane

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Here's a term you will hear more and more during this year's income tax filing time: NEW MINIMUM STANDARD DEDUCTION. If your total income for the year is less than $10,000 and you do not ordinarily itemize deductions, this can be the first of your many tax-saving opportunities on your 1964 tax return.

By now nearly everyone is familiar with the old OPTIONAL STANDARD DEDUCTION. This was the device used by those who don't have high interest payments on a home mortgage or loans, real estate taxes, heavy medical expenses or sizable contributions. Instead of listing all his deductions the taxpayer could take 10 per cent of his total income and consider that to be his deductions total. This meant that a $7,500 family received $750 allowance, a $10,000 family, $1,000 and a $15,000 income also $1,500. Regardless of the highest total that could be used on the standard deduction was $1,000.

The new MINIMUM STANDARD DEDUCTION is still restricted to a maximum of $1,000 but in certain incomes up to $10,000 it can be a real money saver. Here's how it works:

All taxpayers (other than married persons filing separate returns) can claim $200 plus an additional $100 for each exemption. This of course, is in addition to the regular $600 credit for each exemption.

This means that a husband and wife with five dependent children could take $900 for their minimum standard deduction—$200 plus $100 for each of the seven exemptions. If their yearly income was $7,000 they could claim only $700 under the optional standard deduction method in effect in former years. This little device will save that $7,000 family a minimum of $200 on their tax return.

Not only big families but students with after-school and summer jobs and young people just starting a first job will use this new method to great advantage. Under last year's law these younger people started to pay an income tax after they earned as much as $675 for the year. The 1964 tax table sets the first bracket for unmarried persons at $900 to $925 with only $2 in tax due for total income between those figures. This means an additional $224 of tax-free income in 1964 for these people.

Don't forget, too, that the student's father can still claim him as a dependent on the father's tax return and get an additional $800 dependency credit for him if, despite the student's earnings, his parents still furnished his chief support.

Married persons filing separate instead of joint returns will find special rules applying to them in the handling of the minimum standard deduction.

The old rule continues that when husband and wife file separate returns they must follow the same pattern. This means that both must use the minimum standard deduction, or both must use the optional standard deduction, or both must itemize deductions.

The reason for this is obvious: If one were permitted to itemize his deductions and the other take the 10 per cent allowance for deductions the temptation would be great to shift all the deductions to the one itemizing so that the one getting the 10 per cent would be receiving pure gravy.

Where married couple filing separately elects to use the minimum standard deduction they are limited to $100 plus an additional $100 for each exemption, up to maximum credit of $500 each.

There will be five new optional tax tables accompanying this year's tax forms, accumulating incomes up to $5,000.

They will be for unmarried taxpayers, for head of a filing joint returns, and two for married persons filing separate returns. For married persons filing separate returns one table will use the optional standard method of deduction (10 per cent of total income), the other will use the new minimum standard deduction.

For the three classifications—unmarried, head of a household, and married couple filing a joint return—the table will automatically give them the benefit of the lesser of two deduction methods, optional standard or minimum standard.

(NEXT: Reporting Income.) All of the valuable information contained in this series, "Cut Your Own Taxes," PLUS additional advice and sample tax forms are available in a new 64-page book.

Box Score Of Bills Before Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here is a box score of the major legislation expected to come before the 89th Congress:

MEDICARE—High on President John's legislative list. A hospital care plan for the aged financed through the Social Security system was approved by the Senate last year but never reached a vote in the House. Change in membership offers excellent chance for its passage this year.

EDUCATION—A multi-billion dollar program of federal aid to elementary and secondary schools will be offered. Administration hopes to win congressional approval by skirting sensitive church-state issue.

APPALACHIA—Held back by the administration last year because of a lack of votes in the House. Administration is confident the overwhelming Democratic majority in the new House will approve long-range federal aid program for economically depressed areas of this 11-state region.

TAXES—Administration has promised to ask for reduction or elimination of excessive taxes on a host of luxury and semi-luxury items imposed during the Korean war. Congress is certain to go along with a proposal so obviously popular with consumers.

IMMIGRATION—Administration plans to ask for major revision on immigration laws, with less emphasis on national quotas. Could be hard-fought issue.

Art Federation Has Exhibition—Mrs. John Leone, Florida Federation of Art, Inc., held its first exhibition of the new year Sunday at the Madison Hotel in De Bary with a reception and tea between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Clubs exhibiting were The Artists Workshop, New Smyrna Beach, The Harbour City Art League and Florida West Coast Clubs. Artists of note submitting work included Areta Williams and Ruby Napier of Sarasota and Charles Miller of St. Petersburg.

Flora B. Snyder Funeral Held—Mrs. Flora B. Snyder, of Hagerstown, Md., mother of J. Leon Taylor and grandmother of Mrs. J. W. Jones, both of Lake Mary, died Dec. 27. Services were held in Honesboro, Md.

Hodges Predicts '65 Prosperity—WASHINGTON (UPI) —Luther H. Hodges, outgoing secretary of commerce, said 1965 will be another year of prosperity.

But Hodges said "continued wage and price restraint" by labor and management are necessary if "the greatest period of peacetime prosperity in our nation's history" is to continue for its fifth year.

Hodges made his forecast in a year-end review of the U.S. economy. He is leaving his cabinet post Jan. 15 to return to private life.

U. S. Prestige Shows Increase—WASHINGTON (UPI) —U.S. Information Agency Director Carl Rowan said that this country's prestige in foreign countries is higher today than ever before—with "a few rare exceptions."

"We do a continuing check on attitudes toward the United States in a great many countries and I can say categorically that U.S. prestige is higher today than it has been, or was, five years ago," Rowan said.

Cancer Society Plans For Year

Members of the Seminole County unit, American Cancer Society, held a luncheon-meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Richard Gleason to make plans for the coming year.

Invited to attend were persons whose interests and talents will be utilized for a renewed effort of intensive cancer educational program for Seminole County, for which a number of new films are available.

Ralph Brant, field representative for the Florida Cancer Society, presented to the group the aims for the future educational programs. He was assisted by Mrs. Gleason.

Returning to the local Cancer unit was Mrs. Ann Sieczkowski, who re-organized the local unit in 1958 and served as first president.

Also present at the meeting were Dr. M. A. Nesmith, Dr. Edwin Epstein and Dr. Tom Largent. Dr. Largent has been medical advisor to the group since its re-organization.

Others present were Garrett White, a past president, and Mrs. Pat Largent, who was recently appointed to a district office in cancer education.

Mrs. P. Gray was named to be co-chairman of church groups for the 1965 Cancer Drive and Bart Gallagher will be co-chairman in charge of business. Mrs. Sieczkowski was named to co-ordinate the program for the Navy and for South Seminole County for the coming year.

DeBary Singers Honor Member—By Mrs. John Lesne, DeBary Choristers surprised Mrs. P. Gray Goodson with a birthday cake, presented with candles aglow, during the social hour and Christmas party following the last rehearsal meeting.

Twenty-two members attended the event held at the social hall of the Community Methodist Church.

An official report and discussion will be given at the start of the city commission meeting at 8 p.m. by the oncoming firm of Maurice H. Connett and Associates, Inc., of Miami.

Invitations are being sent by city Manager Warren F. Knowles to those who received copies of the extensive brochure but, he said today, "all persons interested in this vital project are urged to attend."

Pertinent questions will be answered by members of the engineering firm, Knowles said.

Ben Tomb Does 'Reappearance'—WEST HENEFIELD, England (UPI) — Three years ago 70-year-old Ben Tomb was killed by an automobile as he walked along the village road here in an overcoat and cap.

Mrs. Margaret Prior said a few nights ago she struck a man wearing an overcoat and cap on the same road and when she got out of her car to look "No one was there."

The village authorities are investigating the "ghost" of Ben Tomb.

Minister's Wife Protests, Holds Hers To 'Lousy Job'

LONDON (UPI) — The 28-year-old wife of an Anglican Minister said in an article published by the church monthly "Prism" that marriage to a clergyman is a "lousy job."

"Clergy ought to be celibate," said Brenda Wolfe. "No decent, right-minded man ought to have the effrontery to ask any woman to take on such a lousy job. It is thoroughly un-Christian."

"I had high-minded visions of entering with my husband into the great work of covering the world but here I am surrounded by four children tied to the house, expected to turn up at every cat-hauling and feeling like a widow as my husband is always on duty."

"Any woman has a right to some share in her husband's life. For a clergy wife it is an occasional privilege. In spite of all this, I myself am happy basically, because I love my husband—but I am afraid that it is often in spite of the church."

Mrs. Wolfe said she resents the feeling that she must at ways be on parade.

"If we do enjoy a few harmless worldly pleasures, such as an occasional film or dance, then we are called broad-minded, modern or some such thing."

"What rubbish!" Mrs. Wolfe said she showed the article to her husband who is the vicar of a parish in northern England, before she sent it in.

"Fortunately he has a sense of humor," she said.

Marina Proposal To Be Presented

A formal presentation of the proposed "Risefront Marina" for this city will be made Jan. 11 at City Hall with all persons interested in it invited to attend.

An official report and discussion will be given at the start of the city commission meeting at 8 p.m. by the oncoming firm of Maurice H. Connett and Associates, Inc., of Miami.

Invitations are being sent by city Manager Warren F. Knowles to those who received copies of the extensive brochure but, he said today, "all persons interested in this vital project are urged to attend."

Local Sailors Adopt 2 Oriental Daughters

The men of BACE (Basic Automatic Checkout Equipment) Shop recently became the proud fathers of two little girls. Their "daughters" Edita, 7, and Kwong Chi, 6, were adopted through the Foster Parents Plan, Inc., and live in Manila, Philippine Islands, and Hong Kong, respectively.

The BACE Shop has been contributing to the support of these two children since September, 1964. This financial support is forwarded to Edita and Kwong Chi through Foster Parents in the form of food, clothing and medicine. In return the girls write letters to the BACE Shop personnel telling of their lives.

The adoption of Edita and Kwong Chi was accomplished through the leadership of George Fleet, aviation electronics technician first class, who originally proposed the idea and handled the necessary arrangements.

RVAF-5 BACE Shop personnel, currently deployed to the Far East aboard USS Ranger (CVA-6), are looking forward to future stops in Hong Kong and the Philippines where they will be able to visit their foster children.

Parents Organize

Everybody, it seems, is organized or organizing but parents, who are strangely content to go it alone, one by one or pair by pair.

The result is that fathers and mothers are sitting ducks for the pressures applied by their sons and daughters—most of whom believe or profess to believe that they are unduly and even cruelly restricted in their pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

The theme song of teen-agers the country over is, "Jim's dad lets him have the car" or "Jane's mother lets her . . ."

The mystery is why more dads of Jims and mothers of Janes don't check signals with dads of Joes and mothers of Jills and come up with some kind of organized rebuttal to youthful protests and pressures which range from anguished wails to mild blackmail.

There are indications that some such trend is under way. In Warwick, R.I., for example, beleaguered parents have joined in formulating a teen-age behavior code based on more than 4,000 answers to a community-wide questionnaire.

The code is aimed at alleviating the traditional parental fear that children will be "left out" if they are refused permission to engage in questionable activities that "every-body else does, why can't I?"

The code covers such perennial parental-progeny problems as driving, drinking, dating, dress and curfews.

And in the nation's capital, the newly formed Parents' Council of Washington—endorsed by 17 leading private schools in the area—has drawn up a code of social conduct for youngsters of high school age. It bans serving of alcoholic beverages at teen-age parties, condemns party crashing, urges that teen-age social activities be confined to weekends and holidays, and fixes definite curfews.

These simple and logical moves offer definite hope that parents may be moving in on the wave of undisciplined juvenile behavior that has included crime, violence, brutality and open defiance of law and order.

Since the vast majority of teen-agers are fine youngsters, it is probable that many of them not only will accept but even welcome more firm direction from their parents.

As for the others, it's better that they be cooled off by parents than by law enforcement officers. Much, much better.

Thought For Today

Rebuke the beasts that dwell among the reeds, the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples. Trample under foot those who lust after tribute; scatter the peoples who delight in war.—Psalms 68:30.

The Lighter Side

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — We have a new director of Internal Revenue who is fond of quoting Shakespeare.

After his recent appointment as the nation's tax chief, Sheldon S. Cohen told newsmen that his philosophy of life and tax collection could be summed up by following quotation:

"This above all: To thine own self be true."

Cohen added that "if everybody lives by it, we won't have any trouble."

I think it is splendid that the collection of our income taxes, and the examination of our tax returns, will be in the hands of a man who admires Shakespeare.

It was Shakespeare who wrote, "the quality of mercy is not strained, it droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven." Perhaps Cohen will embrace that quotation, too.

He likewise will find in Shakespeare a line to the effect that "it is all men's office to speak patience to those that wring under the load of sorrow."

Let us hope that Cohen will keep that in mind when we next reach "the uncertain glory of an April day"—specifically, April 15.

In fact, the works of Shakespeare abound with quotations that could be applied to the payment and—or collection of taxes. He could well have had form 1040 in mind when he wrote, "confusion now hath made his masterpiece."

Nobody ever summarized tax deductions better than Shakespeare when he wrote, "you shall seek all day ere you find them, and when you have them, they are not worth the search."

I feel certain that most tax inspectors are "learned and authentic fellows." But the one who audits my returns appears to be "a snapper-up of unconsidered trifles."

He leaves me "no hinge nor loop to hang a doubt on." His policy is: "Be sure of it; give me the ocular proof." In short, "he is a great observer, and he looks quite through the deeds of men."

To receive a letter challenging your tax return is to receive "a few of the unpleasant words that ever blotting paper." For then it is "forever farewell the tranquil mind."

I always read the instruction sheet carefully but "it is sweet to me" This causes me to "commit the oldest sins the newest kind of ways."

When this little slip-up occurs, I shall hope that Cohen, being a Shakespeare fan, will not "make a star-chamber matter of it." But I doubt there will be much change.

As Shakespeare said, "all his successors gone before him have done it, and all his ancestors that come after him may." Which means that "some of us will smart for it."

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson is busy these days confounding those observers who have tried to portray him in simple, unshaded colors.

For instance, he has a strong reputation for vanity. Some appraisers expected from the outset of his presidency that he would sooner or later, in service to that vanity, sweep out every movable vestige of the Kennedy administration and install his own people.

He has never done it. Most of the important Kennedy people who left he urged to stay on. Right now he is appealing to several, though not all, potential departees to "stay for a little while," if not indefinitely.

Appeals like this may be heard by White House staff men, by cabinet members, or by such diplomats as David Bruce, our ambassador to Britain. Our are not easy to resist. One who has heard them says:

"The process of extricating yourself from this man's employ can be pretty difficult. I still haven't managed it." How you would be laughed out of Washington if you suggested that Lyndon Johnson dine regularly on humble pie. But the truth seems to be that realism can put a stiff curb on his egotism.

For one thing, he does not want an impression to be gained in the nation and the world that he is about to be deserted by a cluster of bright people who stayed with him "just through the election."

The pet of that could be to shake confidence in him as a continuing magnet for men of proven ability and experience.

For another, as the President himself has publicly complained, men of such talents—willing to work at family and financial sacrifices—are at best hard to come by. White House recruitment is moving with glacial slowness.

When Johnson took up his presidential burdens, a top Kennedy man told him he should act quickly, in his own interest, to install his own staff.

Bluntly, the President indicated he felt he did not have the makings.

There is not much reason to doubt he is as sincere to-day as he was judged to be when he tells his inherited helpers he needs them badly. Furthermore, he has come to have a singular regard for the capacities of most of them.

Yet some of Johnson's critics find in all this not much "a suppression of his vanity as an expression of it with a kind of reverse English."

They believe he wants nothing to disturb the notion that he is in tight command of his ship. They think this explains his constant annoyance at premature disclosure by others of proposed policy and personnel developments.

The President's evidently growing fetish for secrecy is considered to fit this pattern. A striking example:

For a considerable period this month, Marvin Watson, Texas steel man and frequent aide to the President, has sat at a desk in Walter Jenkins' old office—doing White House chores. Whether his presence is permanent (as earlier printed) or temporary is not clear. There has been no announcement he is even there.

A few of the President's friends think his vaunted realism, so often powerfully controlling, has deserted him in this and some other cases. It can hardly help his image to have it thought that he might reverse himself or keep just to discredit "premature" forecasts.

Many presidential assistants are to a large extent unassuming public servants. They gain reward from silent authorship of some of the nameless songs which appear in print under "White House" imprimatur.

It has always been so, not only in the White House but across the width of government. Friends of Johnson say realism should lead him to accept this and channel his driving ego in more fruitful directions. The problems on his doorstep seem a sufficient challenge for even the tallest Texan.

Barbs

By Hal Cochran

Some holiday partying is hard to avoid, but just make sure the face on the barroom floor is not your own.

Anyone with a sense of humor doesn't mind being needed—except by a nurse with a hypo.

A telephone pole fell on one auto after being hit by another, which seems like a perfect way of fighting back.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Clara suffers from woman-kind's oldest delusion: to be sure you scrubbed this medical column. Ever since Adam and Eve, men have been driven almost crazy by nagging or weeping wives who are goaded by an inner terror that is based on a false medical observation. Send for the sex booklet below!

CABE U-474: Clara G., aged 39, is the 168-pound wife who was despondent about the menopause.

So I told her she could dismiss the menopausal worries at once.

"Clara," I began, "you have two problems but one of them is purely imaginary."

"For you need to slenderize your figure and regain the allure that you held for your husband 20 years ago on your wedding day."

"That is a real problem and will take time."

"Your unreal dread is the menopause, which has scared women needlessly ever since the time of Adam and Eve."

"For human beings often draw false conclusions from medical data."

"For example, lay men routinely have tried to reduce fever when one of their family is ill, yet fever is one of the best defensive weapons your body uses to fight infection."

"Nowadays, therefore, we medic even use artificial fever to help kill germs!

"In like manner, women have figured that their greatest seductive charm coincides with the years from 18 to 45."

"That is also the usual span of time during which their womb is functioning."

"So they jump to the conclusion that the womb is the barometer of every woman's charm."

"Yet that is an entirely false assumption. But because women of all races and creeds firmly believed that notion, they worked themselves into nervous breakdowns and even were admitted to mental hospitals."

"Actually, the womb is not significant as regards a woman's sexual charm and seductive allure."

"Thus, there is actually no medical cause for a young woman to grow moody or hysterical if her womb must be removed surgically because of fibroids or cancer."

"And if it ceases its natural monthly function by the time she reaches the age of 40 to 45, so what!

"The womb is not a sensitive organ that affects her marital charm."

"In fact, if a husband were away on vacation for a few weeks, during which time she had a hysterectomy (womb removal), he wouldn't know the difference when they were reunited upon his return."

"For the womb, like the vermiform appendix, is chiefly excess baggage."

"It is intended to be an inner incubator for babies, but doesn't serve in that capacity except a few times during the usual wife's entire marriage."

"So please get hep to medical facts! For the womb is not primarily a sexual organ at all but a maternal organ!"

As a result of such advice, I helped banish Clara's underlying dread about passing her 40th birthday.

Many wives attain their greatest enjoyment of marriage after the age of 40, partly due to the removal of their fear of pregnancy.

But much of their greatest pleasure in marriage is due to learning the medical facts, which have been hidden from mankind in past generations."

So send for the medical booklet "How to Banish Menopausal Complexes," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Husbands need to read the booklet, too, for most divorces start in the bedroom—due to sexual ignorance!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Phil Newsom Says

Political Stability

UPI Foreign News Analyst
The traditionally ceremonial role of Italian presidents may undergo a change under Italy's new president Giuseppe Saragat.

Indeed it would seem it must if any sort of political stability is to be restored to the young republic which in order to name the new president has just gone through 13 days of insults, name-calling and an incredible display of a lack of responsibility among Italian politicians.

The contest which ran through 21 ballots of the National Assembly found Italy's largest party, the Christian Democrats, in total disarray and, in the end, the key ballots restly with the Fascists on the right and the Communists on the left.

It was with Communist help that Saragat finally won. The exhibition put on by Italy's senators and deputies led the influential Milan newspaper, Corriere Della Sera, to compare the situation with the closing years of the French Fourth Republic.

The newspaper said it was the failure of politicians who disbelieved in democratic processes but still could not form an effective coalition, that led Italy to fall under the Fascism of Benito Mussolini in 1922.

"Thus," the newspaper said, "the Italian republic is consuming itself in factional struggle; thus the French Fourth Republic consigned itself to General de Gaulle."

"And it was lucky because it could have done worse. . . ."

Italy actually has known no political stability since the eight-year rule of Premier Alcide de Gasperi ended in 1953.

As a precedent Saragat has the increasing behind-the-scenes influence wielded by both its predecessors, Giovanni Gronchi and Antonio Segni. Saragat himself has in the past seen himself in the role of catalyst.

Saragat, leader of the Social Democratic party, was one of the earliest to propose a government of the center-left and he saw his party as a binding force between the Christian Democratic left and the non-Communist Socialists.

The coalition of the two forces would exclude both the Fascists of the right and the Communists of the left.

It was largely the influence of such men as Saragat and Premier Aldo Moro, a Christian Democrat, that brought old-line Socialist Pietro Nenni into the government after nearly 20 years of opposition.

Nenni, allied with the Communists from the end of the war until 1957, broke with them over the repression of the Hungarian revolt.

Highlights Of LBJ's State Of Union Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Johnson's State of the Union message last night:

THE WORLD
"Our concern and interest, compassion and vigilance, extend to every corner of a dwindling planet... we were never meant to be an oasis of liberty and abundance in a worldwide desert of disappointed dreams... our nation was created to help strike away the chains of ignorance and misery and tyranny wherever they keep man less than God means him to be..."

COMMUNISM
"With the Soviet Union we seek peaceful understandings that can lessen the danger to freedom... in Asia, communism wears a more aggressive face."

"Our goal is peace in Southeast Asia. That will come only when aggressors leave their neighbors in peace."

NON-COMMUNIST WORLD
Johnson said he hopes to visit both Europe and Latin America this year.

"... A great unfinished task is the reunification of Germany through self-determination... I will seek new ways to use our knowledge to help deal with the explosion in world population and the growing scarcity in world resources..."

GREAT SOCIETY
"We are in the midst of the greatest upward surge of economic wellbeing in the history of any nation... but we are only at the beginning of the road to the Great Society. Ahead now is a summit where freedom from the wants of the body can help fulfill the needs of the spirit..."

NATIONAL AGENDA
"I propose we begin a program in education to ensure every American child the fullest development of his mind and skills... A massive attack on crippling and killing diseases... A national effort to make the American city a better and more stimulating place to live... I propose... a new program to develop underprivi-

'Great Society' Outlook Bright For Culmination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 89th Congress—the most heavily Democratic in a generation—geared up today for swift action on key measures in President Johnson's sweeping program for "The Great Society."

The President outlined his views of the nation's unmet needs in his State of the Union message before a joint session Monday night. How he proposes to deal with them will be spelled out in five separate messages to Congress between now and his inauguration Jan. 20.

Generally, the outlook is bright for most of Johnson's program. He has the votes in the 89th Congress and will work with Democratic majorities bigger than any since the heyday of the New Deal in 1936.

Even the House parliamentary roadblocks of previous years were all but erased Monday when the Democrats changed the House rules.

Hospital care for the aged is bill No. 1 in both the House and Senate. The $1 billion measure to aid poverty-stricken Appalachia, a replay of a bill which did not make it during the 88th Congress, was not far behind on the agenda.

OPPORTUNITY
"Hospital care under Social Security... Doubling the war against poverty this year... Enforcement of the civil rights law and elimination of barriers to the right to vote..."

CONSERVATION
"We must make a massive effort to save the countryside... We will seek legal power to prevent pollution of our air and water before it happens... ARTS AND SCIENCE... I will propose a national foundation on the arts... and recommend programs to encourage basic science, particularly in the universities..."

GOVERNMENT
"Wherever waste is found I will eliminate it... I will propose laws to ensure the necessary continuity of leadership should the president become disabled or die... I will propose reforms in the electoral college... STATE OF UNION... This, then, is the State of the Union. Free, restless, growing and full of hope..."

Lyndon Offers Hand To Rest Of World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson wants the new Russian leaders to visit the United States to discover for themselves America's economic vitality as well as its passion for peace.

The President's top aides would not be surprised if his general invitation, announced in his State of the Union address Monday night after being conveyed earlier to the Kremlin, sparked a return bid from Moscow. Officials said Johnson might accept.

These disclosures, coupled with Johnson's plans to visit Western Europe and Latin America this year, signaled his intention to take a free-wheeling personal hand in diplomacy once Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is installed in office.

Johnson is particularly agreeable to the idea of calling on President Charles de Gaulle, the aloof French leader who is an critic of American policy in Europe.

And the Chief Executive would certainly visit other Allied leaders in West Europe before undertaking any trek to Moscow, officials said.

Johnson's decision to express his "hope" for a visit from the Soviet officials who replaced Nikita Khrushchev Oct. 5—Premier Alexei Kosygin and Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev—was taken a week ago at a conference in Texas with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Johnson made it clear in his address to Congress that he considered his overwhelming election victory a mandate to "seek peaceful understandings" with Russia.

Capitol Police Caught Flatfoot By 'Intruder'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red-faced Capitol police officials promised "improvements" today in the security system which permitted a black costumed intruder to invade the House chamber only hours before President Johnson appeared there.

The interloper, identified as Robert Lloyd, a member of the American Nazi Party, dashed into the well of the House Monday during the roll call vote for election of the speaker.

Clad in black from head to foot and wearing blackface minstrel makeup, he pranced and grimaced before the stunned House members, shouting, "I am de Mississippi delegation."

He waved a large, unslightly crushed top hat. A fur loincloth hung from his waist.

Capitol policemen, caught unawares by the bizarre invasion, surged onto the floor and dragged Lloyd away. He later was charged with two counts of disorderly conduct and released after forfeiting a $20 bond.

Lloyd apparently staged his exhibition to demonstrate against the efforts of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party to unseat the all-white House delegation and seat three Negro women elected in an unofficial ballot among the state's Negroes.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House judiciary committee said he was irked at the relative lightness of Lloyd's fine. He said he would have "thrown the book" at the intruder. He said Lloyd should have been held "on far more serious charges."

New Law Firm Is Organized

C. Vernon Mize, who relinquished the keys of the county judge's office today to Karlyle Housholder, became associated with Sanford attorney Mack N. Cleveland and Gene Stephenson of Altamonte Springs in the practice of law.

The firm, to be known as Cleveland, Stephenson and Mize, will have offices in the Atlantic National Bank Building and also at 349 Highway 17-92 in Fern Park.

Mize is a native of Gainesville and a graduate of Gainesville High School. The 33-year-old attorney earned his BA degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and his LL.B. degree in law from the University of Florida in 1958.

After practicing law for a brief period in Gainesville he came to Sanford in December of that year and was associated with A. Edwin Shinholter. On April 15, 1960, Mize was appointed to the office of county judge upon the death of the late Judge Wilson Alexander.

Mize ran unopposed in 1960 for the office and completed his only four-year term yesterday. He did not seek reelection last May in the primaries.

In 1962 Mize was given the Distinguished Service Award by the Sanford-Seminole Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club and currently is a member of that organization's board of directors. He served a term as a member of the board of directors of the Jaycees and was secretary of that organization one year. He is also a member of the official board of the Grace Methodist Church and is an advisor to the Seminole County Juvenile Council.

Cautious Hope For School Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional school aid supporters today saw little that was new but plenty that will be hard to pass in President Johnson's $1.3 billion education proposal.

Cautious enthusiasm was about the strongest initial reaction to Johnson's generally sketched plan to give "every child the best education our nation can provide."

Supporters of federal aid to education, who had little to show but lumps for years of work until the last session of Congress, welcomed the President's renewed attempt to help the nation's elementary and secondary schools.

But few expressed anything more than hope born of faith that the President's plan—apparently modeled on the education section of his 1964 "war on poverty" program—would crack the obstacle that has stalled grade and high school aid bills for years.

Accompaniment With Surgery

Rough Ride Due House Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new model of House Republican leadership, labeled Ford of Michigan, may provide the Democrats with a rough, noisy ride.

The election of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as GOP leader will do nothing to transform the 140 Republican votes in the House into a majority.

No Republican doubts that the 295 Democrats, if they stick together, can call the shots for the next two years.

Norwegian Leads In Ski Jumping
INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Thorger Brandtzaeg, Norway's double bronze medal winner in the 1964 Olympics, took an almost unbeatable lead in a four-town international ski jumping competition when he scored with leaps of 296.10 and 285.5 Sunday for a 620 point total.

With one event to go on Wednesday, Dave Hicks of Duluth, Minn., is 21st with 575.7 points; Jay Martin of Minneapolis is 23rd with 558.9 and John Balfanz of Minneapolis, 35th with 552.2 points.

Labor Leaders Made Happy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson kept AFL-CIO leaders happy today by throwing his support to organized labor's drive to repeal "right-to-work" laws in 20 states.

But any presidential request to Congress for action seemed months away.

Johnson called for changes in the nation's basic labor law in his State of the Union address Monday night. His proposal was certain to stir opposition from Republicans and business groups.

As when it was caught the first time years ago, it was tagged, its age and dimensions were recorded and it was set free again.

The plans bumped down through the mist hanging over Baltimore, carrying a load of losers, and as the wheels lightly kissed the concrete runways, one of the Colts interrupted his poker game in the lounge area long enough to yell out, "First touchdown we've made today." . . . It came, of course, after the Colts were blanked by the Browns, 27-0. . .

How about this for a reacher? Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, to be Ford Frick's successor as baseball commissioner or at least to be offered the job. . .

The twist: what isn't generally known about Blanton Collier is that he was the first choice of the Baltimore Colts to be their head coach back in 1953 when they set out to build the modern regime. But Blanton has a hearing problem, and the Colts settled instead for the more dynamic Weeb Ewbank, who was Collier's co-worker on the Cleveland staff under Paul Brown. . . And if Blanton had been more successful in his eight years at Kentucky, he probably wouldn't be the Cleveland coach now because Paul Brown couldn't have brought him back as an assistant in '62. . .

The mink football that was presented to Janice Wilson (hubby Ralph owns a little toy called the Buffalo Bills) was the brainchild of Jack Tompkins of American Airlines "for the football widow who has everything." . . . "Five years ago," shrugged the AFL's Jack Horrigan, "the NFL insisted we didn't own any kind of football." . . . Sid Gillman has turned green in defeat. The San Diego Charger coach applauded the Buffalo groundskeeper because he "built the field for the chargers' kind of game, by putting sand in it to make the footing fast." . . . The guys who hurt the Chargers, most, by getting hurt, should both be ready for the AFL All-Star game in New Orleans—namely, Ralph Miller and Keith Baker. . .

Biletnikoff Nets Cool $150,000

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The Jacksonville Journal reported Monday that Jacksonville University flankerback Fred Biletnikoff was given about $150,000 for signing with the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

The paper, quoting a "reliable source who was close to the bidding war for Biletnikoff," said the Detroit Lions of the National League offered the same amount, but spread over five years. The paper said the Oakland contract was for two years. Biletnikoff was signed on the sidelines immediately after catching four passes for touchdowns in Florida State's 38-19 victory over Oklahoma Saturday in the Gator Bowl.

East-West Stars Roll Complete

NEW YORK (UPI) — The rosters for the Jan. 13 National Basketball Association East-West All-Star game in St. Louis were complete today with the addition of two players from each division. The nine league coaches selected rookie Willis Reed of the New York Knicks and veteran Larry Costello of the Philadelphia 76ers to round out the 10-player East squad and added Nate Thurmond of the San Francisco Warriors and Don Oniz of the Baltimore Bullets to the West lineup. The first eight men on each team were previously selected by the players in league balloting.

Henry Rests

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wing Camille Henry of the slumping New York Rangers will be used only as power play in upcoming games according to coach Red Sullivan, who wants to give the team's second-highest scorer a rest.

Thompson Inherits Player Worth Million

By Sandy Padwa
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Gary Thompson goes around smiling and happy all the time, which is only natural for someone who has inherited the equivalent of a million dollars.

DAVE STALLWORTH people will know his former coach and boss, Ralph Miller, accepted the Iowa job.

All Miller left was forward Dave Stallworth, the 6-7 All-American, and four other starters from last year's NCAA tournament team plus a second-line frontcourt that averages 8-foot-7.

"There are two ways of looking at it," said Thompson, who played backcourt for Wichita from 1951 through '54. "A lot of times a young coach looks for a place that's been down for a few years. He wants to come in and build—be a hero.

"But not me. I prefer this instead of coming in cold. That's because I like to feel I had a little bit to do with building this club. There's not a boy on this team that I didn't help to recruit.

"Anyway, I don't particularly feel like a rookie. You don't come out of seven years as a Missouri Valley assistant feeling like that."

Nate Bowman, the 6-foot-10 center, and Stallworth give Wichita the board strength, usually clearing to Kelly Peck, a swift guard, or Dave Leach, an excellent ball handler and jump shooter. Vern Smith is the other starter and can play guard or forward like Leach.

Stallworth is the main offensive threat, but he's only eligible for a half-semester (Jan. 30) this season. When he leaves, people will know more about Gary Thompson, basketball coach.

"The reason Dave's only eligible for a half year," Thompson said, "is because he came out of high school at mid-term (Dallas, Tex.). And when he was eligible for the varsity at Wichita I decided to use him right away because we still had a chance for the conference championship.

"Right now it looks like a poor move, but we won't fold. We have a good bench and when I've called on them they do the job.

"I'm not saying right now who will replace Stallworth because I've got three guys fighting for the spot and I want them to keep battling each other." The three are 6-9 junior Gerald Davis, 6-7 senior Larry Noshik and 6-8 sophomore Mel Reed.

Nones, however, is a new Stallworth and Thompson realizes this.

"Stallworth is a complete ballplayer," Thompson said. "He possesses everything an inside man needs. He has all the shots—with either hand. He has natural speed and is probably the fastest man on the team."

"His passing game is very sharp, too, and has improved 50 per cent. In fact, the professional scouts have been coming up to me and asking if I worked on his passing game with him. I didn't. He's just that natural. He's led the team in assists for three years.

"Truthfully, I think the kid would like a good feed a lot of times instead of a basket. That's my only criticism of him. He's not hungry enough. If I had his shooting ability I'd be throwing a few up."

Thompson didn't sound too unhappy saying it.

Kaline Pay Cut Down To $60,000

DETROIT (UPI)—Slugging outfielder Al Kaline took a $2,000 pay cut when he signed his 1965 contract with the Detroit Tigers, but bonus baby Bill Freehan today signed for a hefty raise.

Kaline, admittedly on the heels of his worst season in baseball, Monday signed for an estimated $60,000 for the next campaign, compared with his $62,000 salary last year.

Neither the terms of Kaline's nor Freehan's contracts were made public, but it was believed the 23-year-old catcher moved into the comfortable $30,000 neighborhood when he signed his 1965 agreement.

Boxer Of Year

TORONTO (UPI) — Light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano was named "boxer of the year" today by the World Boxing Association because of his two title defenses, in which he scored technical knockouts.

Johnny Unitas Player Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quarterback Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts has been selected the 1964 player-of-the-year in the National Football League by United Press International for his part in directing the Colts to the Western Conference championship.

The nine-year pro veteran was a landslide choice of the UPI panel of 48 writers three from each league city who covered the season regularly.

Harness Horse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The O. S. Trotting Association's Ohio membership chose Bret Hanover "Ohio Harness Horse of the Year" by an overwhelming margin, 110 of 163 first-place votes.

Wing Called

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins have called up wing William Goldworthy from their junior team at Niagara Falls, N. Y., to fill in for injured Dean Prentice and Ab McDonald in two National Hockey League games.

COMING CLEAN—Having cleaned up against the Baltimore Colts to win the NFL professional football game, Frank Pierce will play in the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles Jan. 10.

Annual Scholarship Program Set Tonight

Sanford - Orlando Kennel Club presents its annual scholarship program tonight. All profit from the 11-race card will go for scholarships at state institutions of higher learning.

Over the years, tracks around the state have raised millions of dollars for worthy students at University of Florida, Florida State and Florida A and M.

Frank Pierce's Doc Robbie looms as probable favorite in the featured Scholarship handicap. It is scheduled as the 10th race on an 11-event card.

Doc Robbie ran second to Inaugural Handicap contestant Orbital in all three of his schooling starts. With Orbital out of the way, Doc Robbie probably will be favored at post time.

Orbital, one of the top greyhounds at the track, ran third in the opening night Inaugural behind Miss Whirl and Ebony Rock.

The first matinee program of the season is on tap tomorrow with a 10-race card scheduled to begin at 2.

Greyhounds, Apopka Go Tonight

By Jim Bacchus
Herald Sports Writer
Something will have to give tonight at Apopka where the Blue Barbers will host the Greyhounds of Lyman High when the two Orange Belt Conference clubs go into action at 8 p. m.

Both clubs sport identical records of one victory and no losses in OBC competition so far this season. Lyman, however, has dropped three non-conference contests but the 'Hounds could begin to jell tonight and rack up win number two of the current campaign.

Chances are that the Greyhounds will open with Gene Winkelman, Dave Matia, Joe Asher, Mike Sterling and Richard Moore. Meanwhile, Apopka's starters likely will be Steve Sabados, Dewey Wincey, Bruce Altman, Rick Fly and Dick Goding.

A preliminary event will get underway at 6 p. m. when the junior varsity units of the two clubs will clash. The main event will follow at 8 p. m.

Braves' Move Pictured Soon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't be surprised if the Milwaukee Braves are operating in Atlanta by All-Star time. That would be the second week in July, and on the contrary, it would be rather surprising if the Braves still were in Milwaukee much longer after that.

The people who own the Braves would move them to Atlanta tomorrow morning were it not for two stumbling blocks in the form of a court injunction and a vote by other National League owners for the club to sit tight.

Floyd Celebrates 30th Birthday

MARLBORO, N.Y. (UPI) — On Floyd Patterson's 30th birthday today, a friend reminded the former two-time heavyweight champion that he once had promised to retire from the ring when he reached 30.

Floyd chuckled and said: "I've got a whole year for 30. And if I beat George Chuvalo on Feb. 1, I'll probably be 30 for a long, long time."

Gunning for another shot at the title, the ex-champ is training here for his make-or-break 12-reunder with Chuvalo, champion of Canada at Madison Square Garden in New York.

2 Knocked Out Of Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — A knee injury has knocked Florida State end Fred Biletnikoff out of the Senior Bowl game Saturday and Alabama's Joe Namath may see limited duty for the same reason.

Gary Porterfield of Tulsa was named Monday to replace Biletnikoff.

Indians Out To Avenge

By David Higginbotham

Seminole High's cagers will go back into action tonight after two defeats in the holiday tournament competition, losing to Bishop Moore and Colonial.

The tilt tonight is against the Bishop Moore Hornets, who defeated the Tribe 32 to 31 during the Elks Tangerine Bowl tourney.

The contest will be played in the SHS gym with Ralph Stumpf's Jay-Vee quintet leading off a twin bill at 6:30 p. m. in a game with the Bishop Moore's Junior varsity. The probable starters for the Baby Tribe are Frank Whigham, Terry Echols, Larry Hodges, Ron Dudley and Paul Leroy. The varsity clash will follow at 8 p. m.

In the Tribe's last game before the holidays they went up against one of the top rated teams in the Metro Conference, the Evans Trojans. Before the game Head Coach Mike . . .

When you go over to Evans you can expect a tough battle all the way." This held true when the Tribe lost the match, giving them a four loss and one win record.

This has not been a good season for the Tribe so far. But at the beginning of the season Blythe said, "We hope to reach our peak by the middle of January." If this holds true Sanford fans can expect to see some fine basketball out of Seminole High during the rest of this season.

The game with the Trojans was the final tilt of the 1964 part of the season and the SHS cheerleaders have asked for the support of the Sanford fans in 1965.

Federal Fight Chief Favored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) and Rep. John Varick Tunney (D-Calif.), were "in their punching" today for a national boxing commissioner.

Hart, chairman of the Senate's subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly, announced shortly after the opening of the 89th Congress Monday that he will re-introduce later this month the bill to provide for a federal fight commissioner.

Tunney, only 29 and the son of former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, declared: "I'm all in favor of a national boxing commissioner and I'll do everything I can to help get one. But, of course, I'm just a freshman representative and I don't know how much help I'll be."

MIDWAY BETWEEN SANFORD & ORLANDO

By Dottie Austin. TIME IS DRAWING near for the election of the new NOWC officers for the first half of 1965 with four of the loveliest and smartest wives in the running—two for president and two for vice president.

MARY DURANT

MARCIA FOY

This Dragon Lady's other widely varied activities included a full time job for a New York brokerage firm for two years, and on the side, dramatic activity with a Little Theater group.

Besides all these vocational and avocational pursuits, Mary enjoys tennis and water skiing with her husband, Lcdr. Michel Durant and her children.

MARCIA FOY, who is candidate for president represents the RVAH-7 Officers Wives Club.

The Foy's have been in the Peacemaker squadron a year during which time Marcia has served as hospitality chairman, bridge chairman and as Seven's representative to the board.

A native of Norfolk, talented Marcia pursued a singing career, beginning way back when she was just a little girl and throughout her school days in chorus groups as well as starring as a soloist.

A weekly radio program featured her lovely voice for two years and she made several television appearances in the Norfolk area, sang in musical stage recitals, was church soloist and sang on numerous occasions for local organizations and clubs.

But singing is not Marcia's only talent. When her husband Lcdr. Edward Foy first saw her, she was modeling for the National Photographic Festival at Virginia Beach.

Naturally he fell hard, and so they were married and now have three fine sons, Chris, Keith, seven and Gary, three. Duty stations of the Foy's have included George AFB, Calif., an exchange duty with the USAF; Millington, Tenn., Kingsville, Texas and Norfolk, Va.

PRIMARY EVENT of the new year is the election of the new Naval Officers Wives Club leaders.

This is slated for January 14th at 7:30 p.m. at the NAS Ballroom. It will be a "birthday theme" with everyone whose birthday falls in the same month all sitting at the appropriate table.

An interesting-sounding idea, and one which should promote some getting acquainted and some sparkling conversational gambits.

Note to arrangements chairman—Your reporter is a Moonchild.

LEA ROCHELLE BERGEN is one year old today! And behind that simple statement of fact lies an interesting story.

It began a year ago today when Lea got her signals crossed and arrived two and a half months before she was scheduled. Needless to say this caused considerable consternation among a number of grown-ups including the doctor and Dottie and Richard Bergen, Lea's parents.

Tiny Lea, weighing in at only two pounds, 11 ounces and measuring only 14 inches long found herself in a peculiar home and one for which her parents were most grateful. This was the Islette, a marvelous type of incubator at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Here little Lea spent the first 68 days of her life and this Herald reporter photographed her in her first home. Later we recorded her photo again on the day Dottie and Richard took her home. Still later, when she was about six months old she was named Princess Checkmate at the VAH-11 Checkmate Wives party.

Today, we present her picture again, taken the day before her birthday—doesn't she look healthy, happy and adorable? She is, say Momma and Poppa. This sentiment is echoed by Lea's five brothers and sisters, Donna, Dana, Dennis, Danny and John Hogan.

It just so happens that today is another red-letter day in the life of the Bergens. Richard is transferring to shore duty with VAH-3 and will finish out his Navy career for the next three years, after which he plans to retire in Sanford. Richard is an electronics technician second class.

So it looks like we may get to see little Lea grow up. She now reached 15 pounds and is 26 inches tall—fine progress for this little early bird.

So up to now—this is Your Life, Lea Bergen!

Jet Lanes Fly To No. 1 Spot In City League

This past Wednesday evening found the bowlers of Jet Lanes flying into the top spot in the City Bowling League. The blue-shirted Jet Lanes five-some took all four points to the fifth slot with another clean sweep, this one over Sanford Manufacturing team.

Cook's Corner moved up into the fifth slot with another clean sweep, this one over Sanford Manufacturing team. M. Spain bowled extremely well with a lofty 625 series, including games of 232, 216 and 178.

Sanford Manufacturing's Jack Frost "nipped the pins" to the tune of 194, 206, 235, 635 series.

It was an excellent week to finish out the old year of 1964 with quite a few games of 200 and over, in addition to five six-hundred-plus series.

Those bowling above the 200 - average mark were George Paulk, 639; Jack Frost, 635; M. Spain, 625; Harold Herbst, 620 and John Harris, 607.

Those including Eddie Monroe 248 and 206; John Harris 236, Jack Frost 232 and 216, Harold Herbst 232 and 221, George Paulk 226 and 228, Cliff Proctor 216, Bob Combs 225.

The American Legion group clipped three points from the Lake Monroe Inn team which in turn dropped L.M.I. from the league lead to the fourth place in position standings.

Harold (the Colonel) Herbst was hot for the Legionnaires as he rolled a nice 620 set with games of 221, 167 and

Pentecost Holds Onto Top Spot

This past Monday evening found Harry Pentecost taking over first place again as he took all four points from Joe Kern, and collected 29 points. Pentecost is now leading John Bridges by a scant 1 point in this Singles Classic League.

Bridges dropped into the second slot as he ran into a hard-fighting Rich (Slingshot) Murphy. Murphy clipped John by three games with an 801 series to Bridges' 712 set.

Jack Kanner, another one of the leaders in this league, also ran into a buzz saw in the form of Pete Peterson. Kanner dropped three games to Pistol Pete, 750 to 683 series.

John Spolski continued to hold onto the fourth position with a three game win over Bob Guthrie. Also picking three games was Paul Marcotte with a 773 four game series to his opponent's (Gerald Behrens) 725.

W. A. Ward salvaged three points as did Johnnie Jones. Ward picked his from George Paulk as Jones lifted his from Bob Steele.

Those bowling over the 200 mark were John Bridges 236, Harry Pentecost and Rich Murphy with 213 with Murphy also bowing a 201 game; Paul Marcotte had games of 211 and 206, Pete Peterson 208, W. A. Ward 205, Phil Roche 202, Johnnie Jones two 201 games, Bob Steele 201 and John Spolski even 200.

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been going out hunting every year for the past eight years. He stays seven weeks. He looks forward to these trips and can hardly wait to get started. Last time he lost his diamond ring, and about four months later he got a letter from a married woman informing him that she had "found" the ring she lost while THEY were out hunting.

Now, Abby, I know this woman and she doesn't have a very good name. I asked my husband how come she was along and he said her husband was there, too, which I doubt. He did bring some suits home, so I know he went out hunting. He comes and goes as he pleases with no consideration for me. What should I do?

HUNTER'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: Your husband's report on "not hunting" sounds a little squirrely to me. You had better find out if your Filbert is philandering, and crack down on him—or shell out. P.S. If he is telling the truth, he's certainly gone nuts on his hobby.

DEAR ABBY: I became engaged to a girl in June. The engagement ring I gave her resembled my deceased mother. It was a small, but gem quality diamond. I won't go into detail here, but because I learned that she had been unfaithful to me several times during our engagement, I broke off with her. My lawyer tells me that because it was I who broke the engagement, she is entitled to keep the ring. I want that ring for sentimental reasons, Abby. How can I get it back?

SENTIMENTAL DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Ask her for it and tell her why you think she owes you its return. If that doesn't work, offer to buy it back, and if THAT doesn't work, thank God for saving you from a wretched marriage.

DEAR ABBY: My aunt asked me, "What do you want for a wedding present?" I said, "How much do you want to spend?" My mother heard me and she almost killed me. I don't see anything wrong with my question, do you? I know my aunt is going to buy me something, and I could use anything from a dish towel to a television set. My mother said I should have said, "Oh, nothing, really. All I want are your good wishes." Now isn't that ridiculous? (My aunt happens to be the richest one in our family.) TOO HONEST DEAR TOO: No one can be "too honest"—but you could have been more tactful. You might have replied, "I will leave the choice of a gift to you," or you could have TOLD her what you wanted.

Queen Sirikit Designated As World's Best Dressed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Queen Sirikit of Thailand, in whose wardrobe the twin of Eastern and Western fashions meet, occupied fashion's summit today with the official title of world's best-dressed woman.

The dainty wife of King Phumphon Aduldet topped the 1964 listing of the first ladies of fashion followed closely by Mrs. John F. Kennedy, her mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, a close friend of the Kennedy clan, Mrs. Charles Wrightman of Palm Beach, and the former First Lady's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson failed to poll enough votes from fashion authorities to appear on the list.

Completing the annual list were film star Dina Merrill, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Coopers, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. William McCarmick Blair Jr. of Chicago, wife of the U. S. ambassador to the Philippines, Mrs. Paul Mellon of the Pittsburgh bank family, Mrs. Alfred B. Bloomington of Beverly Hills, whose husband heads the Diners Club, and sisters Anne and Charlotte Ford, daughters of automobile tycoon Henry Ford II.

The listing was based on voting by more than 2,000 fashion authorities and 2,000 fans all over the world. The ballot-counting committee noted that Queen Sirikit, 33-year-old mother of four, had dazzled Europe and America with her elegant apparel on recent global tours with her husband. She prefers native costumes of Thai silk alternating with Western clothes designed by Balmain of Paris.

The committee also commended Mrs. Kennedy, who returned to the list after an absence of a year in recognition of her mourning, and her mother-in-law for "perfect taste in dress." It said their decision not to wear deep mourning over a long period "reflected the same sense of discipline and contemporary dignity which the late President always displayed."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Robert J. Smith, organist, played the traditional nuptial hymns with Gerald Covington singing, "O Perfect Love," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a white formal gown of original design by Alfred Angelo. The Alencon lace bodice featured a semi-Empire waistline with elbow length sleeves and a bateau neckline. The A-line skirt of pure silk peau de soie was accented by a chapel-length pointed coronation court train, highlighted with a floating panel of matching Alencon lace. Her elbow length bouffant illusion veil fell from a peau de soie headpiece of pearl encrusted roses and Alencon lace petals. She carried a cascade arrangement of white Bride's roses showered with seed pearl loops.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. John Graves who was gowned in formal pink paraffin crepe styled along Empire lines with draped capped sleeves and a bateau neckline. Her head piece was matching roses and her accessories were of pink paraffin. She carried a single long stemmed American Beauty rose.

Bridesmaids attending the bride were Miss Jan Watkins, Jacksonville, Miss Kay Partlow, Orlando, Miss Connie Currie, cousin of the bride, Orlando Beach, and Miss Patricia Stenstrom, cousin of the bride from Sanford. They were gowned identically to the matron of honor and carried a single rose.

Frank W. Springstead served his brother as best man and ushers were Jim Adams, Orlando, Doug Thompson, Belle Glade, Bill Stempert Jr., brother of the bride, and Gerald Springstead, brother of the groom.

Petite Miss Ann Smith attended the bride as flower girl, gowned similar to the bride attendants, and Matt Wilson served as ring bearer.

Miss Stemper And R. W. Springstead United In Impressive Church Rites

Miss Martha Stemper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stemper of Sanford, and Richard Wilson Springstead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Springstead of Brooksville, were united in holy matrimony on Dec. 28, 1964, at 7:30 p.m. at the Pinecrest Baptist Church.

Mrs. Stemper chose a formal aqua crepe fitted gown with clusters of jewels adorning the collar. Her accessories were matching and she wore a corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Springstead, mother of the groom, was gowned in formal blue brocade with matching accessories and she wore a corsage of white orchids.

MRS. RICHARD WILSON SPRINGSTEAD

Immediately following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the social hall of the church.

The two punch tables, cake table and bride's book table were overlaid with exquisite coverings created by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. George Wells. Tied white net bound in lace over pink satin was gracefully draped with pink roses showered with white satin streamers securing the drapes at the table corners.

Centering each punch table was an antique silver three branched candelabra holding one single white taper accented by a crescent of pink sweetheart roses and carnations artistically arranged in the remaining branches.

A wag of styrofoam wedding bells, gilded and interspersed with pink satin streamers and gold wish bones adorned the wall area behind the bride's table.

Complementing the sparkling cranberry punch, floating a wedding band ice mold of pink sweetheart roses, was the traditional four tiered wedding cake and an attractive assortment of dainty delicacies.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Volle Williams Jr., Mrs. Terry Christensen, Miss Merritt Phillips, Mrs. Robert Karns, Mrs. Arthur Beckwith, Mrs. Warren Knowles and Mrs. Robert Jackson.

Also Mrs. Douglas Stenstrom, Mrs. Bob Drabik, Mrs. Milton Smith, Mrs. Richard Stenstrom, Miss Grace Marie Steinhilber, Miss Sheryl Stemper, Miss Carol Stemper, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Wally Phillips, Mrs. Donald Jones, Miss Rose Kratzert and Mrs. Alex McKibbin.

For her going away outfit the bride was attired in an imported Italian pastel blue knit suit with blue lizard accessories and she wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to the Florida east coast, Mr. and Mrs. Springstead are residing in Atlanta, Ga., where he is a medical student at Emory University.

Among the out of town wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Springstead, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Springstead, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Springstead, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Springstead, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Murphy, Mrs. J. D. Springstead, Jack and Neil Springstead, Mrs. Jack Arrants, Emilio D. Vergera, Jake Varn and Ray Joel Underwood, all from Brooksville.

Also Edward Robinson, Aniston, Ala.; Mrs. Fred Howell and Miss Deborah Howell, Concord, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. George Bensch, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. James O. Craig and John Craig, Hunnell, and Mrs. Ola Keene, Jacksonville.

Aerosol Hair Spray Cans Outmoded By Nifty Gadget

Chalk one up for progress, ladies. The days of home hair spraying with an aerosol can may be numbered.

The nifty gadget, itself a relatively recent innovation, is about to be outdated by a much more professional tool—a miniature, oil-free power unit which propels hair spray through an applicator resembling a spray gun.

The applicator and power unit are linked by a long, clear plastic tube... easily adjustable for light, medium or heavy spray.

Attractive in any boudoir, its advantages include a controlled even spray at all times... a spray tool that never clogs... and use of full strength, more effective formulas (aerobically).

How Traffic Cops Of The Sky Are Halting Deaths

By Tom Nolan
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The chances of the plane in which you are flying actually hitting another in mid-air have been cut drastically in recent years. Still, however, there will be about 15 collisions in the skies this year—mostly involving private planes not protected by new traffic control systems. Public attention was focused on the potentially deadly nature of air traffic by the collision four years ago of two airliners over Brooklyn, N. Y. It remains the world's worst plane disaster, with 134 deaths, including six persons killed on the ground. Since the Brooklyn crash, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has made more than a dozen changes in its Air Traffic Control (ATC) regulations designed to reduce the danger of overcrowded air lanes. The latest change, completion of the Area Positive Control (APC) separation center network, is the most spectacular and far-reaching of these. With the addition of the Boston and Great Falls, Mont., ATC centers late in 1964, virtually all airspace in the continental United States between 24,000 (minimum jet cruising altitude) and 60,000 feet is now controlled by APC. Only properly equipped aircraft operating in accordance with an approved instrument flight procedure (IFR) are permitted in APC airspace. These planes are under constant radar surveillance. Most other commercial flight at lesser altitude is governed by IFR, but is not under constant radar surveillance except in the heavily traveled air routes. In good weather, collision avoidance is on a "see and be seen" basis. In bad weather, planes not on IFR are grounded. More than 95 per cent of the small private planes in this category fly under 15,000 feet and 90 per cent of them fly under 10,000 feet. The 22 APC centers use a total of 76 long range radar sets. This near-solid coverage permits two aircraft to be safely separated by as little as three miles, thus speeding up traffic. Yet, despite precautions, officials still expect that mid-air collisions will continue to average about 15 a year in the near future. In 1964, there were 17 mid-air collisions resulting in seven fatalities. In 15 of these both planes were private craft. Each of the remaining two involved a military plane and a private plane. There has been no mid-air collision involving airline traffic since the Brooklyn crash. Main reason for the belief that these accidents will continue to average roughly 15 a year is that the number of "near misses"—those mid-air collisions avoided only by pure chance or evasive action by a pilot—reported to FAA has remained constant over the last four years. They average between 50 and 60 a month, roughly two a day. Their actual number could be considerably higher. FAA officials note that many pilots, fearing punishment which could ground them permanently, will not file a near-miss report under any circumstances. How many of these potential collisions go unreported in a year is anybody's guess. In a 1956 study conducted anonymously among its own members, the Air Transport Association reported an average of over four per day in the United States. In another anonymous study, the Flight Safety Foundation reported that over 2,500 near misses occurred between July 1961, and June 1962. This averages out to seven per day. In both cases, these statistics were gleaned from confidential pilots' reports which were not submitted to FAA for official evaluation and corrective action. Of the 2,500 or so near misses reported to FAA in the last four years about 12 per cent have been classified as "Critical, avoided by chance only." Another 40 per cent are classed as "Potential, averted by prompt evasive action." The remainder are judged "No collision hazard." The best means of averting near misses under normal conditions are a pilot's eyes, says one FAA official. "But at sonic and supersonic speeds," he adds grimly, "you run out of eyeball." Only 10 per cent of the collisions at these high speeds are due to pilot errors. The rest are caused by controller and altitude errors, mainly the latter. The radar beacon screen, a simple instrument which looks like a horizontal bar, sends beams from the ground to the aircraft. Instead of bouncing off the plane as normal radar beams, they are received by a device called a transponder which turns them into coded symbols, passes them through the plane's altimeter, and returns them to the ground with height information.

Mayor-Commissioner A. L. Wilson lost "one of his hats" at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday when he stepped out of the mayor's seat after a year of service. Before he did, he reminisced on the past 12 months, calling it a "very busy, beneficial year." Wilson pointed to the start of the water improvement program, work on 13th Street and Southwest Road and, above all, the first step toward a lakefront marina.

Pilot Hurt As Plane Explodes

Another Vigilante wrecked this morning at the Sanford Naval Air Station in what was described by Navy officials as an aborted takeoff.

Only the pilot was aboard, officials said.

The pilot, identified as Lt. Michael Daniel Hornsby, is in Seminoles Memorial Hospital with severe injuries. At an early hour this afternoon his condition was listed as "serious" by base officials.

Witnesses said the crash occurred about a mile west of Mellenville Avenue and near the fence enclosure. They added it appeared that a tire had blown out and the plane then rolled over.

Fires were still blazing shortly after noon today.

The Navy described the plane as a twin-jet fighter, an A5A and one of the original models of the Vigilante.

Another modified version, the RASC Vigilante, has been grounded by the Navy pending a thorough study of the aircraft.

It has been in a series of crashes in recent months and a full-blown inquiry into these is being made at this time.

Only routine runs are being allowed by the RASC pending results of the investigation. Training missions are banned.

It was only two weeks ago today—and at about the same hour—that an RASC jet reconnaissance bomber crashed in Delary, killing the pilot and injuring one crew member.

A huge crowd gathered at the sides of the Navy station this morning shortly after the mishap and they continued to remain there till late this afternoon.

Marine guards were posted around the shattered jet but the Navy and Marines were quick to let the press on the station to personally view the scene.

When mishaps occur aboard a military reservation, it is at the discretion of base officials as to whether civilians will be allowed at the scene.

Social Security Checks On Way; Thought 'Lost'

Many social security beneficiaries throughout Seminole County are still without their monthly checks today, according to Miss Cecile Heard, Sanford postmaster, and social security officials in Orlando.

Checks are usually distributed on the third day of each month. A few checks, according to Miss Heard, were received in the Sanford post office Monday and distributed.

"Some more came in yesterday," said Miss Heard "but I'm positive they're not all here yet."

The local post office was deluged with telephone calls Tuesday. Many social security recipients also telephoned The Herald. Social security officials in Orlando told The Herald that the situation was widespread according to reports they had obtained from offices in Lakeland, Jacksonville and Atlanta.

"Normally," said one spokesman of the Orlando office, "the checks are sent from Atlanta to Jacksonville where they are re-sorted and sent to local post offices between the 28th and 30th of each month."

Miss Heard said, "When we receive them the bundles are marked with instructions for as not to distribute them before a certain date. Usually it is the third of each month."

"We don't know exactly what's happened," said the social security office spokesman in Orlando. "Neither do we," said Miss Heard. "But it's the first time it's ever happened to my knowledge."

First Federal Reveals 10% Growth In '64

The year-end statement for 1964 of First Federal Savings and Loan Association shows assets of $19,123,593.24, of which $16,563,290.67 is in first mortgage loans. These figures according to E. C. Harper Sr., president, represent a growth of over 10 per cent from the comparable figures for 1963.

The 30-year-old financial firm on Dec. 31 had savings amounting to $16,851,344.44 on its books, representing balances in over 6,200 accounts. The savers were paid dividends at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent a year and the earnings totaled over $657,000, Harper said.

The closing statement for the 1964 operation of First Federal reflected reserves in excess of $2 million which the S&L official said was up over $90,000 from the 1963 figure.

Single dwelling construction throughout the nation ebbed during 1964, it was said, and while this trend was apparent in Central Florida, it was not so severe as in other areas in the country. The local S&L however, showed an increase in the number of loans, and during 1964 invested $8,750,000 "in round figures" in real estate mortgages.

In a year in which Washington has used a number of devices to spur spending and stimulate the economy the effect on savings has been to give them more than usual activity, Harper said. While as much money was received in 1964 as was credited in the preceding 12 months, the turnover was much more rapid and the net was lower than could justifiably be anticipated.

In a spirited nationwide contest for the "disposable dollar" waged by the "reservoirs of savings," the performance of the savings side of the business here has been most gratifying, the thrift association leader said.

The year ahead looks good, not only for the area's economy, but for First Federal, Harper indicated. The local conditions by themselves in the face of increasing population and greater industrial activity justify this opinion, but "we may be sure that the federal government will be exerting its full weight to see that the country's business outlook maintains a rosy hue. This should help our community just as much as it does any others in the U. S."

"Alert businessmen will capitalize on the administration's effort to sustain buoyant business outlook, and we feel that our local leaders are the type that will see to it that Seminole county will get its share of this year's boost of business," Harper added.

Directors of the association are Harper, George Touhy, A. Edwin Shinholser, Jack I. Greene, Robert E. Karns, J. H. Van Hoy and S. F. Doudney.

When Wilson was reading his nomination speech last night he left the name off till last. His glowing tribute to the nominee caused Commissioner Earl Higginbotham to comment, before the name was revealed: "Guess somebody got elected to this board that I don't know about." The chuckles ended and the nomination and election was concluded.

And when Jimmy Crapps took over as mayor, he may have added the key to his success. He had a lot of fish to fry so let's get with it.

Some tickets for the inaugural ball are still available and persons desiring to attend the Thursday night event may obtain them by calling Eddie Hunt at 322-4884. The ball is to be held at the Jai Alai Fronton in Fern Park with top state dignitaries on hand. Hunt said the tickets may be exchanged at the door for souvenir formal invitations. Additional tickets were sent here when interest soared in this area.

Members of Seminole High School Glee Club who'll be attending the All State Clinic Course in Jacksonville Thursday through Sunday are Michele Jones, Linda Hobson, Lucy Wilks, Buddy Burton, Bobby Rumbley and Terry Rabun. They'll be accompanied by their director, Miss Olive Reese Whittle, and his driver, Miss H. L. Johnson, and will stay at the Robert Meyer Hotel while there.

The C. V. Nolta Memorial Scholarship Fund will continue in a drive for funds until Jan. 31, fund chairman W. K. McRoberts said today. Recipients of the scholarship fund will be a Navy dependent student who will be selected at a later date by the commanding officer of the Sanford Naval Air Station. The fund was started three weeks ago by local citizens wishing to show their appreciation for Commander Nolta's sacrifice of his own life in an attempt to avoid crashing into a Delary residential section.

Commission Chooses Crapps City Mayor

James H. Crapps was the unanimous choice of the Sanford City Commission last night to serve as mayor for 1965. He succeeds A. L. Wilson.

Wilson made the surprise nomination after asking that he be relieved as chairman for the election. He and Crapps swapped seats and seconds the election was over.

Crapps is a businessman and civic leader in the city and has played a prominent role in city activities during the past year. He previously served as mayor two terms ago.

"Prior to the election, Howard Wheelchel, city clerk, issued the oath of office to Joe Baker, incumbent commissioner re-elected last November. Commissioners were all business as they sped through an agenda—which normally takes hours—in less than an hour.

In other action, the Commission:

- Appointed C. Vernon Mize, retired county judge, as municipal judge to succeed Kenneth McIntosh. The latter has assumed the post of county prosecutor.
- Delayed the first reading of an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of junk cars, parts and debris in residential areas after City Atty. William C. Hutchison said such reading must be made at a formal meeting. Last night's session was a special, re-organizational one.
- Approved a continuation for one month of the school
