Hart Fenn of Connecticut (lower left) says the Dane attacked his dog and so he joined an array of society folk and butcher boys in petitioning the court for a muzzling order. Mrs. "Chip" Roberts (center), wife of the former assistant secretary of the treasury, appeared as a defense witness for "Hamlet" and Joseph Tumulty (lower right), secretary to the late President Wilson, served as "defense counsel." History Of Sanford Lodge Of The Elks And Its Homes During A Quarter Century

By R. RUNGE, TRUSTEE
Sanford Lodge No. 1241 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was organized and installed by the Orlando Lodge of Elks on Mar. 19, 1911, and now for its 25th anniversary finds itself with one of its main ambitions realized—a splendid home of its own. It took nine moves of lodge quarters to its present home, and it is one of the most complete and comfortable of Elks homes in the state. A few months ago the lodge bought the property originally owned by A. Walker on East Second Street, opposite the Mayfair Hotel. The building on the property was remodeled and put in shape for lodge and club purposes at considerable expense, and is now the pride of its owners and an addition to the scenic beauties of Sanford.

The receipt of the entrance fee, amounting to two pounds, three shillings, is acknowledged. On Mar. 3 of the following year, "Mr. George Washington" is recorded as having passed a fellowcraft, and on the succeeding Aug. 4 the record states: "Mr. George Washington was raised in the sublime degree of Master Mason."

Pacific Coast Swept By Gale; 2 People Hurt

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Southern California had its own peculiar variety weather today. Lashed by torrential rains, flooded by swollen streams, and ripped by a roaring tornado, the region lost five persons injured and property damage at $100,000. The tornado cut a path southwestward from Alhambra to Long Beach, uprooting trees, lifting roofs from small buildings and bowling over five derricks. Several fires were started by the storm but were quenched. For several hours rain fell at the rate of one inch an hour.

More than a dozen houses were unroofed in Long Beach and Alhambra and hundreds of trees were uprooted. Dorothy Thompson, 11, suffered fractures of both legs when struck by flying timbers in Long Beach. Hermann Consett also of Long Beach, was injured when the wind threw him against the collapsing walls of his house. Blizzards raged in the High Sierras. Hail and snow closed the Columbia River Highway and Rail Gorge, near Dalles, Ore., but rotary plows reopened rail traffic. A tornado drove a waterpout in and at Long Beach, thoroughly drenching the neighborhood with salt water. A second tornado roaring out of the northeast, struck Alhambra. The city park there virtually was denuded of shrubbery and trees.

The storm has been in progress for the last two days, originating as a heavy downpour, which was coming down in steady streams, last night caused hundreds of residents in the foothills near Glendale, Montrose and La Crescenta to abandon their homes. The flood control projects were said to be taxed to their capacity by the county authorities. Lightning and thunderstorms accompanied the rain and the wind. Downpours flooded streets in Sacramento, where the rainfall for 36 hours was 3.80 inches.

An eight-foot wall of water, silt and rocks swept out of the mountains near Ontario, east of Los Angeles causing damage estimated at $10,000. One man was swept a quarter of a mile by the torrent. Another battled through the swirling water to save his wife and four children from an automobile. A Hollywood motion picture company of 150 persons was snowed in at Brockway, north of Tahoe City. The wind reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

Every business man being served with a summons to appear in court has been notified by mail by the City clerk that occupational taxes were due and payable on Oct. 1, last, and in addition to this notification Lieutenant Shaffer has personally notified each of them. Summonses are not being served on delinquent business men who have not been personally interviewed by the police, the lieutenant stated.

Roosevelt Plans To Come To Florida To Fish Again In March

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—With snow surrounding the White House, President Roosevelt indicated a desire to take his annual late winter fishing trip in Southern waters off the Florida coast. Governor Sholtz of Florida extended the invitation to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday and reported that the President expressed a hope of starting south some time in March.

Mr. Roosevelt often has expressed the belief that a Chief Executive should get away from the White House at least every three months. For the last three winters he has spent a week or two each year fishing off Florida. Definite announcement of this year's trip is expected to await a final checkup of progress on Capitol Hill and of national conditions generally.

After the dinner a motion picture, "Double Harvest," was shown, and representatives of the company told of beneficial effects from using Arcadian soda fertilizers, which they said, are endorsed by federal and state experimental stations.

Talk Of Coalition Cabinet Request Made By Hauptmann To See Lawyer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Talk of a coalition cabinet in event President Roosevelt fails of re-election, occurred today coincident with the shaping up of further New Deal efforts toward recovery in the housing field.

Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the National Republican Committee, told reporters he had heard the possibility of bi-partisan cooperation mentioned, but would not discuss it. The capital also read of the welcome extended last night by Senator Vandenberg, Michigan, Republican, presidential possibility, to Democrats who might support the GOP campaign and in council afterwards if it succeeds.

Possibility of new housing legislation at this session of Congress arose as the President called his aides to discuss needs. Senator Wagner of New York seeks $1,000,000,000 of federal aid for low cost housing and liberalization of mortgage, insurance to stimulate private building and was among the conferees.

Hauptmann summoned Colonel Mark C. Kimberling, principal keeper at the state prison, to the death house and made the request to him. Kimberling directed it be in writing and waited while Hauptmann wrote the note. Kimberling said Hauptmann did not tell him why he wanted to see Leibowitz, merely saying he discussed the matter with his wife, Anna, yesterday on the advisability of engaging a new attorney. Asked if Leibowitz would not technically be a member of the defense staff if he enters the death house, Kimberling said he believed he would.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense staff, welcomed today the entrance of Samuel S. Leibowitz, New York criminal lawyer, into the case, but expressed doubts of Leibowitz's usefulness. "Hauptmann has only one story to tell," said Fisher, "and that is the story he told me the day of his arrest, at his trial at Flemington, and that he has told me 50 times since. That is the story I believe to be true. If Mr. Leibowitz cannot depend on the story as told by Hauptmann, I don't see how he can be of much help."

Leibowitz announced he was ready to visit Hauptmann in the deathhouse "if Hauptmann would tell the truth." He challenged the state theory that the crime was a one man job. "Any person with the least bit of discernment can place little credence in the fish stories told in Bruno's behalf from the witness stand in the Flemington courtroom," Leibowitz said.

Hauptmann has repeatedly said that the Lindbergh ransom money found in his Bronx home was left him by his business partner, Isador Fisch, who died later in Germany.

Restaurant Fire Takes Five Lives And Injures 41

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Fire that swept through a crowded mid-Manhattan Chinese restaurant, terrorizing more than 150 persons, left five dead and 41 injured. While several of the injured lay near death in a hospital, the city fire marshal called Lum Fong, proprietor of the restaurant, and Harry Riker, real estate man, before a board of investigation.

Burning through the floor, flames quickly swept over hanging drapes and trimmings decorations of the restaurant. Smoke billowing into the restaurant was followed immediately by sheets of flame which spread rapidly through the flimsy decorations.

Throng of bystanders gathered quickly and a police emergency squad was ordered out to control them. The scene of the fire is at a bus corner, Fifty-Ninth Street, carrying heavy traffic from the Queensborough Bridge. The blaze was believed to have started in a shirt shop on the ground floor and to have spread upstairs to the restaurant, on the second floor. Two alarms were sounded.

Making Our Highways Safer

The cry for sterner laws governing the operation of automobiles is being heard in ever-increasing tones throughout the country. Due to the mounting death toll from motor vehicles, public officials are beginning to realize that drastic action must be taken or most of the population will be killed off.

In New York state, a senator has announced that he will introduce in the Legislature a series of bills which, it is hoped, will at least correct some of the obvious defects in the present system of uncontrolled driving. The measures would make drunken driving a really serious offense, would compel all chauffeurs pass physical examinations, would compel all persons having a driver's license to submit to an examination every four years to prove their fitness for driving.

These sound like sensible laws, but it occurs to us that the problem of safer driving is fundamentally one of education rather than regulation, and it is our opinion that before the highways of the country become safe there will have to be a lot of missionary work done among the younger generation.

It is along this line of reasoning that school and safety authorities of a California city have adopted a safety program which would be a good model for the rest of the schools of the nation to follow. Briefly, it is as follows:

- First: Students must bring into class newspaper clippings of all automobile accidents.
- Second: Class discussions will analyze the accident and decide the cause; whether through drunken driving, slippery streets, faulty mechanism, etc.
- Third: Students then will decide what steps could have been or should have been taken to prevent the accident.
- Fourth: Injuries resulting from the accident will be listed and the proper first aid or emergency treatment decided upon.
- Fifth: The situation will then be analyzed to decide what laws and traffic regulations were involved and whether new ones are needed.
- Sixth: A study will be made of local conditions, listing all hazards and deciding how such hazards can be overcome.

A program of this kind will have the effect of instilling in the minds of our young people the seriousness of driving an automobile. It will teach them how accidents occur, how to prevent them, and what to do after they have occurred. In short it will make them conscious of the fact that when they get behind the steering wheel of an automobile they have a great responsibility, not to be taken lightly.

Watch Your Typing

It has long been known that a man's character and personality are reflected in his handwriting. Now comes Herbert Gerstner, a German expert, who says that the same thing is true of typewriting. According to him, the habitual mistakes made by a writer in typing are linked directly with certain features of his character.

The following are some of the habitual mistakes and other peculiarities of typewriting, confronted with the traits of character they are supposed to indicate, as enumerated by Gerstner:

- Neglect of punctuation indicates carelessness and lack of sense of duty.
- Inverted order of letters—a cramped neurotic character.
- Habitual substitution of one letter for another—lack of critical sense, and preconceived ideas.
- Irregular typing—lack of stability and possibly hysterical.
- Striking wrong keys—lack of sense of detail.
- Careless use of shift-key also indicates lack of sense of detail.
- Excessive use of abbreviations shows indiscretion and over-familiarity of manner.
- Neglect to use spacebar shows absent-mindedness and confusion of ideas.
- Excessive spacing after commas indicates cautiousness and circumspection, while richness and excitability is shown by over-typing one letter on another.
- When a typist corrects a mistake by typing one letter over another it shows conscientiousness seeking to overcome a lack of order.
- Qualified letters show a weak memory or carelessness.
- Failure to correct mistakes shows strong instincts, self-assertion, or sheer ignorance.
- Emotionalism finds an outlet in too many italics, stingsiness shows itself in narrow margins, and punctiliousness in over-wide margins.
- The degree of pressure on the keys is in direct ratio to the degree of self-assertion of the typist, but a varying pressure reveals a changeable character.
- A heavy, solid manuscript indicates lack of discretion, also pleasure-seeking.
- No margin shows stinginess, while too wide a margin indicates punctiliousness, formality of behavior.
- The space between the lines, according to Kerstner, indicates the writer's sense of economy.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

When the Civil War broke out, FORT BARRANCAS was surrendered on Jan. 12, 1862 to the Confederacy, after its guns had been spiked by the Union forces. It remained in possession of the Confederates until the night of May 9, 1862, when it was dismantled, fired along with other Pensacola fortifications and abandoned to the Union garrison at Fort Pickens. Thereafter, Barrancas remained in possession of Federal troops until the end of the war. The last of the army of occupation to leave Barrancas was the negro troops under Gen. Slocum, and they left during the latter part of March, 1865. The great Government Naval Air Station is located immediately east of Fort Barrancas.

Prison Population Nearly Trebled In The Last 15 Years

Penitentiary Housed 1,125 in 1921, There Are Now 3,041

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Florida's prison population has almost tripled in the 15 years since the beginning of 1921.

Records in the state prison bureau here can draw no conclusions, yet they give these facts: In 1921, there were only 1,125 prisoners in the Florida penitentiary. Through the boom years of the twenties, the number increased steadily, reaching the peak of 3,310 in 1932.

A year later, the prison census dropped to 3,144, and in 1935 there were 3,041.

For some reason which prison officials do not care to assign, commitment of prisoners started increasing in 1924, when there were 621, and by 1927, when Florida's boom-time business reached its peak, new prisoners numbered 1,274 for the year.

For another ungiven reason, receipt of new prisoners decreased in 1928 and 1929, but took an upward turn again in 1930. The peak came in 1932, when 1,334 were committed.

Robbers, too, apparently went in the increase in 1924, when 62 per cent were committed for that crime in 24 degrees, and the number reached its highest point with the 125 of 1927.

Manslaughter went on the decrease as the boom ended, but shot back to a peak of 91 in 1931. Burglary reached its high point in 1927, when 17 persons became convicts for that offense, then went on the decline, but in 1932 not a single burglar was committed to the prison.

During the middle twenties, robbery—armed and unarmed—began taking its place as one of the commoner offenses, and 1933, with 113 offenders, became the peak year.

Breaking and entering, the commonest of the crimes, sent 456 persons to prison in 1932, then went slightly on the decline in the years that have followed.

Pardons, paroles and commutations, which have become commonplace in recent years, were rare 15 years ago. In 1921, there were only six paroles, 42 pardons, and not a single commutation.

The all-time low record temperature for North Carolina is 21 degrees below zero; the all-time high, 108.

'Substitute' Label Gives Tax Plans A Sugar-Coating

(AP)—The phrase "substitute taxes" will be employed studiously on Capitol Hill by Administration leaders in all references to proposals for additional taxation at the present session of Congress.

The reason will be to enable senators and representatives up for re-election this year to swallow the tax pill without becoming too jittery. "At that, however, the problem of persuading them to swallow the sugar-coated concoction promises to be a difficult one."

In the matter of finding a way to finance the new farm program, the term "substitute taxes" is not so much of a misnomer. The invalidation of AAA by the Supreme Court swept away the processing tax and Congress must devise something to take its place.

Insofar as raising the money to pay the soldiers' bonus is concerned, however, another question presents itself. It will be difficult to tag that one "substitute."

Hence all this renewed talk of inflation. Administration leaders in Congress are confident there are not enough out-and-out currency inflationists to pass a bill which would start the printing presses turning out greenbacks at will. But they are not so sure how many members on a showdown would prefer to take a flier in "controlled" currency inflation to risking the anger of their constituents at being forced to pay more taxes.

Their anxiety concerns the House principally. There are reasons to believe any sort of inflation proposal would encounter rough sailing in the Senate. A presidential veto, which most certainly would come were such a measure to be enacted, in all probability would be sustained. The Senate stood by the President in his disapproval of the Patman bonus measure, carrying the provision for issuance of more than two billion dollars in greenbacks, although the House overrode.

Were it not for the fact the Administration has suggested that additional taxes must be raised (an expert on government finances is reported to have been called in by the treasury already for the purpose of devising means), together with the fear of members of Congress to the passage of a new tax bill on the eve of a national election, inflation would not be getting the free ride it is now.

The arguments advanced by the inflationists for "controlled" currency expansion may sound plausible at first sight. Even its most avowed foe admit that. "But the trouble is," as one opposed puts it, "inflation is easy to start, but hell to stop."

100 Dead In Europe LONDON, Feb. 13.—More than 100 persons had died from the terrific storm now sweeping Europe as the gale, accompanied by snowstorms and frigid temperatures, entered its fourth day.

At least five ships were wrecked. Shipping, communications and travel were at a standstill. Tremendous property damage was inflicted in a dozen countries. Twenty-five died in Greece, where an earthquake added to the horror of the blizzard. The death toll in Italy rose to 25 when wreckage of two fishing boats, carrying 11 men, was found and the crews given up as drowned.

Twenty-one were killed in England, 13 persons died in a Bulgarian train wreck caused by a frozen switch and seven Spanish sailors were drowned when the gale overturned their boat. There were nine deaths in France, where food supplies were endangered in some areas.

Scores of deaths were reported in Austria and Hungary from excessive cold.

Icy Storms Take Toll LONDON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—General icy storms sweeping Europe and Asia Minor have killed at least 133 persons in the last three days. A snowstorm which hit Thace and Anatolia was the worst in 25 years.

"I know the value of extra nitrogen!"

I may be an "old timer" yet I keep in touch with new things. And when any new thing is better, that's what I want.

Ever since I learned the Department of Agriculture and Immigration of Virginia reported that contained extra nitrogen over the guaranteed 16% with an extra cash value as high as 88c per ton, I have used no other.

I know the value of extra nitrogen and I make sure to get that extra value.

For track, fruit and all crops it is now proved that ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA brings the farmer big value.

SOUTHERN FERTILIZERS FOR THE SOUTHERN FARMER

"I Know That Its Good. I Bought It From HONEST ABE LINCOLN"

Housewives in a little backwoods section of Illinois a century ago knew they could buy with complete confidence from the storekeeper at New Salem. His name was Lincoln; and he was known personally to nearly every man, woman, and child in Sangamon County.

Life is more complicated today. You could not possibly meet all the men and women who make and sell the things you buy. But there is a way you can know them... and that is through the columns of this newspaper.

Every day these manufacturers and retailers place important messages here for you. There are announcements of interesting new products, and of improvements in old ones. News about unusual values. Suggestions for ways to make your home more comfortable, and your work less tiring.

It will pay you to read these messages... and get acquainted.

Washington Social Tempest Over 'Dolly' Gann's Rating Recalled By Curtis' Death

By SIGRID ARNE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The loyalty and affection felt by the late Charles Curtis for his handsome, white-haired sister, Mrs. Edward Everett (Dolly) Gann, tossed social Washington into one of its more exciting battles soon after President Hoover and Vice President Curtis took office.

Curtis, a widower, announced Mrs. Gann would be his official hostess. Then he discovered that the going Secretary of State Collogg had ruled since the Curtis hostess was a sister and not a wife she would rank below the wives of the diplomatic corps at these functions.

Curtis protested to incoming Secretary of State Stimson, and the ruling was reversed. He eyes twinkled when he discussed the affair but he pressed the issue resolutely.

Hostesses, long before the arrangement, had scheduled dinners and receptions. Diplomats had invitations out. There was consternation. Should they risk the anger of the state department by ignoring its ruling, or extend the new vice president?

The diplomatic corps was called together by Sir Esmé Howard, British ambassador, and after two solemn hours the corps wound up with a request to the state department to settle the Curtis-Gann precedence tangle as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Curtis and his sister were attending functions and smilingly taking whatever positions at the table their hosts had chosen for them.

At a White House dinner President Hoover took Mrs. Gann in to dinner, and that seemed to indicate that the Hoover believed she should have the rank of the vice president's wife, that is, above the long string of diplomatic wives.

Then the state department notified Sir Howard that it had no jurisdiction over persons not in the diplomatic corps.

Again Sir Howard called a meeting. This time the representatives of foreign governments gathered an hour and came out with their decision. Mrs. Gann was to rank above their wives.

Washington breathed more easily and Mrs. Gann and Curtis beamed at Washington's parties.

Then came a party to which were invited Curtis and Mrs. Gann and the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

The Gann arrived, but the Longworths didn't. Alert Washingtonians buzzed immediately about Longworth's contention that the speaker should rank above the vice president.

The Longworths made no public explanation of their absence from the party.

Mrs. Gann summed up the entire affair later by saying with hearty laugh, "Nothing but a tempest in a teapot."

History Of Elks Lodge And Homes It Has Occupied

instrumental in helping his home county to such a splendid Court House. It is a contribution of Elks civic spirit and energy to their home city.

Next, the lodge took temporary quarters over the then Seminole bank, to try to rebuild its strength, and before very long became the owner of the building built by the Rod and Gun Club during the boom years. There the lodge prospered and grew back to its former strength again, but, unfortunately, the building was destroyed by fire on Oct. 12, 1924.

For temporary quarters the lodge then leased the property of Walter Hand on the lake front on the West Side until in 1924, when the property formerly owned by the Fraternal Order of Eagles on Oak Avenue was bought and occupied for several years, until litigation after the collapse of the boom made it advisable to relinquish this property, as well as the lot of the former home on the lake front.

In 1930 the lodge moved to the second floor of the Bishop building on East First Street and Palmetto Avenue, where commodious quarters were put up, and the fight for building up and owning a home was started all over again, and presently ended with the possession of the present fine club house.

Leaders in the fight for this accomplishment were its last two exalted rulers, G. W. Spencer and E. F. Housholder and an efficient building committee under the leadership of Wm. Tipl.

Good leadership is what helped the lodge over and over again through all its often hard and stormy trials, and even brought it up again to strength and success. From its first Exalted Ruler W. D. During all the 25 years of its life, Sanford Lodge has always lived up to its ideals of a real Elks lodge, by giving its untiring efforts to deeds of charity and aid and cheer at Christmas to poor children and indigent elders were a regular program.

Prompt relief for hurricane sufferers, support of students at the university, prize essays for schools, and support of the Elks Hospital for crippled children at Umataha, are only some of the activities of their under cover work.

May the proud possession of this beautiful new home stimulate all its members, present and future, to emulate those two great principles of Elksdom—Brotherly Love and Charity—and in further growth and success will be assured.

Death Of Curtis Removes An Able Landon Strategist

By HERBERT LUMMER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Had former Vice President Curtis lived until the coming presidential campaign entered the really crucial stage, his contribution undoubtedly would have been an important one.

As far back as last August he announced his support of Governor Alfred M. Landon for the Republican nomination. His position was made clear in an interview in which he denied published reports aligning him on the side of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois.

"I'm for Governor Landon if he is a candidate," said Curtis. "I never commit myself for anyone else until I know what he intends to do."

Always a colorful campaigner, Curtis doubtless would have been a valued ally for the Kansas governor and his presidential aspirations. Few men knew the inside of politics, both from the standpoint of prenomination maneuvers and the rough and tumble of the hustings, as did the former vice president.

He had come within striking distance of the White House himself. The story has been told on good authority that in 1920 he missed the Republican nomination for president by an eye-bash; that except for mere chance he would have been selected by those in control of the party machinery at the Chicago convention instead of Harding.

Curtis' political philosophy was of the practical sort. One of his pet theories was that in a national campaign everything was over by the middle of October. Check back over his record and you will find that he rarely made a speech after that time. Usually he could be found in some out-of-the-way place taking it easy.

Both as a member of the Senate and later as presiding officer of that body, he was a great stickler for form. He probably was the strictest man ever to preside over the Senate in recent times. He demanded order from senators and got it even if he had to stop proceedings for several minutes.

He always said that party politics in itself played a minor part in the enactment of major legislation in the Senate. Members of the Senate, he said, stress politics in the cloakrooms, but on the floor during consideration of major legislation they forgot about it and moved in a nonpartisan effort.

This observation was made after service of more than a quarter of a century in both houses of Congress.

Efforts of German agriculture experts are being directed to increasing farm production by reducing plant and animal diseases.

Hessian Fly Holds Big Crop Threat For Next Season

By PORTER M. HEDGE

DES MOINES, Feb. 12.—(AP)—From Ohio to Nevada, countless hordes of pestilential insects, a threat to millions of dollars in crops, are lying in hibernation awaiting the first spring warmth to awaken.

Potentially most dangerous, an Associated Press survey indicates, is the Hessian fly that preys on wheat. Other pests that threaten widespread crop damage unless nature steps in with a dose of unfavorable spring weather are grasshoppers, chinch bugs and the dreaded European corn borer.

The federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine estimates insects harvest an annual toll of $2,000,000,000.

The Hessian fly is entrenched across a front extending from Oklahoma to Ohio. Dr. P. N. Annand, federal entomologist, reports the pest multiplied enormously during the favorable fall weather from north central Oklahoma, Missouri, southern Iowa, Illinois and much of Indiana, tapering off into light infestations in Ohio.

Grasshoppers are expected to strike most severely in south central Montana, eastern Nebraska and lower Michigan. But even in these areas entomologists have found fewer eggs than a year ago.

Entomologists believe there are enough eggs to cause "very severe" infestations (50 to 100 percent) in the heavily infested areas of these three states, and enough to cause "severe" infestations (25 to 49 percent) in parts of Kansas, North Dakota, Iowa, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Nevada, Colorado and Utah.

They assert that chinch bugs are hibernating in "dangerously large" numbers along the fence rows and in the grain fields of southeastern Iowa and west-central Illinois.

As for the European corn borer, perhaps the most serious insect threat to the corn belt in the long-time view, more concern is expressed over its advance westward than over the threat to crops in the areas in which it is entrenched.

Fletcher Will Keep Up Fight For Ship Canal

Senator Returns To Capital Hoping To Get Appropriation Into Next Budget

Danger To Water Supply Ridiculed

False Propaganda Is Distributed, Says Florida Senator

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher returned to Washington today to "continue the fight" for sufficient funds to complete the Florida ship canal.

At a meeting of canal supporters here Fletcher outlined the steps necessary to obtain another appropriation. He expressed regret that the House sub-committee had struck the $12,000,000 canal item from the way department list of projects, but expressed the belief that Florida House members will be able to have the item reinstated on the floor.

"Somebody is putting up a lot of money to fight the canal," Fletcher said. "I don't know where the money is coming from, but they are putting out a lot of false propaganda, buying advertisements in the newspapers and spreading false statements. The purpose about the effect the canal might have on the water supply of South Florida is perfectly ridiculous, but they continue to make these statements without any facts whatever to support them."

Says Democrats To Blame
DAYS BEACH, Feb. 14.—(AP)—In a formal statement issued today E. E. Callaway, former chairman of the State Republican Committee, challenged what he said was an attempt by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher to blame Republicans for the House appropriation committee's failure to include funds for the continuation of Florida cross-state canal.

'Cocktail Marriages' May Be Prohibited In New York State

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Assemblyman Jane H. Todd, Westchester Republican, introduced in the New York Legislature today a bill aimed at "cocktail marriages."

The measure, to become effective immediately if approved, prohibits "marriages shall not be solemnized within 72 hours from the date of issuance of a marriage license except in cases of emergency, and then by court order."

In addition, every marriage license would be required to bear the notation of the day and hour of its issuance, and the clergyman, judge or other public official performing a ceremony would be required to note on the license the day and hour the marriage is solemnized.

Marriages within the 72-hour period would be permitted only when one of the parties is in danger of imminent death or by reason of other emergency public interest will be promoted thereby, or when such delay (72 hours) will work irreparable injury or great hardship upon the contracting parties or one of them.

War Vets To Have Pronouncement Printed, Framed

Believing that "the future of the nation rests with its youth," veterans of the Spanish-American War of 1898 plan to place in each school room in Seminole County framed printed copies of the "American's Creed." The local organization—Theodore Roosevelt Camp No. 12, U. S. W. V.—ordered the printing when it met in the Legion, here last night, and Chairman Fred T. Williams of the County Board of Education stated that there will be no objection to placing the Creed in each school room. Mr. Williams is also adjutant of the local post of the Spanish War veterans.

The Creed reads as follows: "Americanism is an unfailing love of country, loyalty to its institutions and ideals, eagerness to defend it against all enemies, undivided allegiance to the Flag, and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

Resolutions expressing to Frank Evans, member of the local camp, the sympathy of the veterans in the passing of Mrs. Evans were passed. An invitation was read to the camp to send a delegation to a meeting of the veterans of '98 in Miami on Mar. 2 when Rice W. Means and W. L. Matlock, past national commanders of the U. S. W. V. and editors of the National Tribune, will be present.

Dust Storms Roll In Panhandle Of Texas

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Dust storms such as devastated great areas in the Southwest and Middle West in 1935 rolled again yesterday in the Texas panhandle.

Blustering winds carrying soil scooped up from bare fields blotted out the sun. It was the most severe "black blizzard" of the current year—but still a far cry from those which ravaged soils, destroyed crops and impaired health in the so-called "dust bowl" last year.

Grain fields lacking sufficient vegetative covering furnished ammunition for the 45-mile south-west wind that swept toward a low pressure area in the North-western panhandle.

Visibility at one time was reduced to one-fifth of a mile. Downtown Amarillo was under a haze of dirt.

Two Killed When Gas Blast Wrecks Plant In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A stock-yards blast which wrecked the hydrogen plant of Swift and Company, caused the death of two workmen and serious injuries to at least a half dozen others yesterday.

A leak in the hydrogen gas pipe, officials said, probably caused the blast, which blew out the building "like a box," according to witnesses.

The structure was leveled except for portions of two walls. No fire followed the blast immediately, witnesses said, but tanks of various gases soon were ignited. The plant was used principally by the company for the manufacture of hydrogen gas.

Mayor's Son Is Accused Of Theft

Investigation Made Upon Orders From Governor Sholtz

DELAND, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Mayor E. H. Armstrong and City Manager M. S. Howard Armstrong, son of the mayor, was charged with forgery and embezzlement of payrolls amounting to $3,719 an embezzlement of $696 of Volusia county district funds while employed as a timekeeper in county commissioners' district No. Four.

Adkins said the informations were based on investigation made by him and state auditors at Sholtz's direction.

Six informations were filed against the younger Armstrong and the seventh named his father and Couch.

Mayor Armstrong and Couch were charged with embezzling money Dec. 2, the last day prior to the city election. The son was charged with falsifying six district payrolls during a two-week period last August and September.
