1st Dentist Visit Important To Child

(This article is published as a public service by The Sanford Herald in cooperation with the Seminole County Dental Society.)

The child should make his first visit to the dentist at the age of about three. Although little dental treatment usually is necessary at this age, the visit is important. As the youngster becomes acquainted with the dentist and familiar with such instruments as the mouth mirror and implements for cleaning teeth, his confidence is bolstered and his curiosity stimulated.

An X-ray examination is usually given during the first visit to help disclose any hidden defects that might be present and to determine if the child's teeth are developing properly. Since a small child usually knows something about having his picture taken with an ordinary camera, it is easy to explain that a picture of his teeth is being made.

There are a number of do's and don'ts for parents of active youngsters. The child who breaks a tooth, for instance, should be taken to a dentist immediately—within an hour, if possible—after the accident occurs. The amount of time which has elapsed since the accident occurred is an important factor in treatment.

Some habits that boys and girls sometimes follow may be harmful to the teeth and development of the jaws. The youngster who repeatedly bites his lip, or bites his finger nails, or attempts to remove bottle tops with his teeth, or bites on pencils causes damage to the gums and other mouth tissues as well as to the teeth themselves.

However, failure of the teeth to meet properly as a result of faulty habits may correct itself to some extent, provided these habits are stopped early enough.

If thumb-sucking is continued beyond the age of about four years or if mouth breathing is noticeable, advice should be obtained from the dentist and the physician.

In summary, if the parents see to it that the child and dentist are friends, and if they conscientiously see to it that his advice is followed in important home care, there is little reason, except in rare cases, that children should not be assured a reasonable start toward a lifetime of good dental health.

Building Of New Causeway Will Assure City, County's Growth

How big is Sanford and Seminole County's future?

Part of the answer comes in the action taken at Saturday morning's special meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

With the resolution passed by the Board of Commissioners there rests the answer to a problem that has confronted Sanford, Seminole County, and Central Florida for a long time.

How could this important section of Florida be immediately linked with the Turpanka and provide an access highway to the north and to Daytona Beach as well as serve the communities in between, no matter how small or how large?

Certainly, everyone must realize that our problems of today must be solved by answering transportation needs, and transportation needs are more and better highways.

Forward looking people in the Sanford community have, for a long time, favored a causeway across Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River to link 17-98 with the French Avenue Throughway.

The answer came recently when a brand-new highway was proposed through Volusia County changing the route of 17-92 so that it would continue, in a straight line, from Orange City south to Lake Monroe through Enterprise.

The new highway will serve every community—DeLand, Orange City, De Bary and Sanford—giving easy access to every section of the State and bringing the distance between communities to a more reasonable neighborhood length.

Another feature of the new causeway will be the two six acre islands for fishing, boating, swimming and recreation, both to be reached by access roads from the causeway.

This part of the causeway will bring thousands upon thousands of people to the Lake Monroe area for pleasures they have not yet had the opportunity to enjoy.

Engineers report, too, that the building of the causeway across Lake Monroe will calm the waters making the huge water area an ideal spot for sailboats and sking.

There is no end to the multitude of reasons why the causeway across Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River will help make Sanford and Seminole County a bigger and better place in which to live.

One other thing that we would like to bring out is the fact that the State Road Department will provide a brand new access road to the four-lane throughway for the residents of De Bary. They need never fear that their interests are forgotten—as a matter of fact—such a road from De Bary into 17-92 will make De Bary more and more popular as a community for finer living. And with the completion of the causeway and highway, our friends and neighbors in De Bary will become closer neighbors and better friends.

The resolutions, one passed by the Board of Volusia County Commissioners and the other by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, will result in the expenditure of $25,000 by the State Road Department for engineers to complete the survey and feasibility report. On the basis of these reports and from the plans and specifications prepared by the State Road Department, no doubt, according to the engineers, bids will be ready to award by January 1, 1957.

Work on the causeway is expected to get underway within twelve months with the completion date probably two years away.

All of this adds up to just a part of "How big is Sanford and Seminole County's future."

However, the additional part comes in the thinking of our leaders. Sanford and Seminole County can be as big as those who are civic and community leaders. Think big and grow big.

If we think little we stay little. There is no project too big to be tackled as long as those who have placed upon their shoulders the leadership of the community plan in terms of progress, expansion, economic security and continual growth.

Some of our citizens, when confronted with plans for the causeway had only two comments to make—"It's too big a job for us to tackle" and "It will never be accomplished."

Nothing is accomplished without trying—and in the plans for the causeway—one of the biggest projects ever dreamed up within the area—the actual reality of the project was merely for the asking and some sound thinking.

Now that this area is assured of one of the most forward-looking projects of the present day we can continue to think in terms of additional improvements that will bring new industry, new visitors, new residents, and new businesses along with the new and modern roads that will serve them.

Credit for accomplishing these tasks must go to those who have had the courage to say "We can do it", and continue to work constructively and progressively.

We cannot sit idly by and wait for "the other man" to do the job that the community as a whole should pitch in and accomplish together.

Sanford and Seminole County's future can be as big as we want it to be—without standing that there are some who would like to see our community dry up and wither away.

As the thinking of our community grows so will the future increase and expand to untold heights second to none.

Stevenson Has Inside Track

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, after knocking Estes Kefauver into the political bushes, has the inside track for the Democratic presidential nomination, but—

The main problem of the Democrats remains exactly what it was before the primaries: Will they have issues sharp enough and heated enough to make the voter want to scrap President Eisenhower for a Democrat?

Neither Stevenson nor Kefauver was able to set any prairie fires with primary campaign attacks on Eisenhower and his administration. The reasons are not hard to find.

In the first place, the Democrats this year lack the inflammatory issues the Republicans had or were able to create in the 1952 campaign: the Korean War, the "scandals," and the Communist scare.

In the second place, the bulk of the Democrats and Republicans are so close together—in following a middle-of-the-road course—that the basic differences between them are more of degree than of kind.

A foreigner, or a person without emotional or political attachments to either party, might have difficulty recognizing any real differences between Democrats and Republicans at all.

In the third place, the Republicans have taken over the Democrats' basic programs, thus robbing them of a lot of talking points.

For the 20 years they were out of office the Republicans preached against what they called the "creeping socialism" of the New Deal and "Fair Deal."

But after Eisenhower moved into the White House the Republicans not only retained all the major programs of the Roosevelt-Truman years, including foreign policy, but even expanded them. They repudiated none of them.

In the fourth place, the country is at peace, it is enjoying high prosperity, and war with Russia seems more remote than any time since 1945, all of which makes it difficult to get voters excited.

And even one of the issues upon which some Democrats seemed to be basing a lot of hope—the charge that the administration was giving away natural resources—has been diluted.

When Democrats start talking about giveaways, the Republicans can remind the voters that Southern Democrats were in the front of the fight which persuaded Congress to let the government give the states the oil-rich submerged lands.

And it was Southern Democrats who this year led the successful fight to get Congress to pass a bill taking direct federal control off the natural gas producers. Eisenhower vetoed the bill, while supporting its objectives.

Auto Industry Trying Stiff Medicine

By SAM DAWSON
DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry—touchy at the charge its current ailments may be catching and uped the nation's good times in general—is trying stiff medicine today.

It professes confidence that by fall it will cease to be one of the nation's fever spots. And it stresses that retail sale this year of an estimated $1½ billion, cars or more would be higher than the average of the six years prior to 1953.

The dose, however, has a bad taste. The mixture includes: Layoffs around the nation of 150,000 or more; less of overtime and often short weeks and pay-

Entertainer Has Unusual Ambition

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—Sammy Davis Jr., currently one of the hottest figures in show business, has an unusual ambition and makes no secret of it.

He wants to star in a Western movie.

The idea of a film featuring a Negro cowboy doesn't seem at all singular to Sammy.

"People forget that after the Civil War many former slaves migrated and became cowboys," he said. "There were a lot of Negroes in the Old West."

"Sammy, whose mind is restless as his agile feet, is an entertainer who always likes to try something new. He is looking forward to costarring with his friend, Frank Sinatra, in a film called 'Jazz Train' and he'd like to do the 'Story of Bill Robinson,' the great Negro tap dancer who taught him many of his tricks.

This year Sammy—a triple threat artist who can sing, dance and mimic—made his Broadway debut in the musical, 'Mr. Wonderful.'

To him that was like stepping alive into heaven. The Harlem-born kid, who celebrated his first birthday in a crib in a dressing room of the old Hippodrome theater, had reached the top at the age of 30.

There were a lot of hard years of tramping along the way, but now Sammy has it made. He has sold 2½ million records. He and his daddy and "Uncle Will" Mastin now have an act that strikes them from $15,000 to $25,000 a week. They get up to $20,000 for a single television show.

His dad and "Uncle Will" handle the money, give Sammy an allowance and are buying two annuities that will make him independent at 60.

"I couldn't get an extra $2 from them if I was dying," he said, grinning.

When Sammy goes to see something—he goes to the hills. He owns a $70,000 Hollywood home that once belonged to Judy Garland. He likes hi-fi, so the home has three complete hi-fi setups.

He likes photography, so he has 10 cameras.

He likes Western history, so he has collected 20 valuable old single-action frontier Colt revolvers.

He likes records, so he has a collection of 20,000. In the last four months he spent $1,000 for records.

He likes cutt links, so he has sales volume a return to normal after the abnormal pace of the 7½ million car year in 1953.

All of the Big Three say that the failure of the traditional spring pickup in sales to appear this year was a surprise to most observers but didn't affect their changeover plans.

Hope for a good pickup in the fall are based on many things. A top GM executive notes that used car sales have perked up, always a healthy sign. He notes that employment in general around the nation is still at top levels and personal incomes at record high.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Peggy Butler, Edgar Benson

In a quiet and simple double-ring ceremony Miss Peggy Gail Butler and Edgar Karl Benson were married June 9 at 7:30 p. m. in Tampa by the Rev. Lu Dardy.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny C. Butler and the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Benson of Tampa.

Baskets of white gladioli against a background of fern decorated the church.

Mrs. Dardy was organist for the event while Mrs. Billie Gibbs sang "Because" and "Always."

Given in marriage by her father the former Miss Butler wore a traditional white dress featuring a pointed waist line tapering into a full skirt. The creation showed a cuff neckline collar coming to a point in the back. Her accessories were also white and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Jeannette Cleveland, maid of honor and only attendant was given in a white and gold sheath dress with white and gold accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

A delicious luncheon was then served to Mrs. Kirchhoff, Gretchen, Mrs. G. H. Davis, the bridesmaids, Mrs. George Lewis, Miss Jo Ann Bynum, Carol Rodgers, Connie Ludwig, Ada O'Neil and Mildred Miller.

Keeping the bride's book were Miss Margaret Ann Young and Miss June Jennings.

The bride was born in Folkston, Ga., but has lived in Sanford most of her life. She attended Seminoles High School graduating with the class of 1932. She attended Florida State University and was graduated May 19 of this year, and was a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

Mr. Lewis was born in Tallahassee attending schools there. He graduated from Virginia Military Institute serving thereafter in the U.S. Army overseas. At present he is studying for his Master's degree at Florida State University. He is employed at the Dan Carter Co. in Tallahassee.

Who Will Attend Meet At Annapolis

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will attend his conference on fitness of American youth at Annapolis, Md., June 19, and close it with a speech.
 The two-day conference originally was set for last fall but was postponed after Eisenhower suffered his heart attack.
 The President plans to motor to Annapolis around 5 or 6 p. m. June 19, go to a barbecue, make an informal speech and return to the White House that evening.

Astronomers Going To Set Up Optical Fences Across Sky

SAN FRANCISCO — Astronomers are going to set up "optical fences" across the sky to observe the artificial satellites which will be whizzing around the earth a year or so hence.
 Professionals as well as amateurs, equipped with instruments to be especially designed for the job, will form teams constituting the "posts" of the fence.
 The instruments at each observation post on the ground will be set to cover a particular strip of sky. The angle of total vision in this strip would be possibly 20 degrees wide and about 104 degrees long. That will mean a width of about 100 miles and length of several times that at a height of 200 to 300 miles—the level the satellite is expected to follow.
 Many such observation teams, placed along north-south lines, will make up several fences paralleling different meridians of longitude. The astronomers are counting on having enough observers so that many of them will see and track the satellite every day. They will be trained to give its time of appearance and fence-crossing time accurately within one second and its direction and altitude with similar precision.
 Hundreds of such reports when put together are expected to yield fairly accurate data needed to help solve some of the elusive problems of earth and sky measurements.
 These reports will be all-important, says Dr. Armand Spitz, co-ordinator of the observer program, in case the little radio transmitter in the satellite fails.
 So long as the transmitter works it will broadcast intermittent signals which will yield a high-accuracy record of its motion. But the radio cannot be expected to operate for more than two weeks and it may fall even before that, Dr. Spitz said. And some of the satellites may keep going far longer than a fortnight.
 Dr. Spitz, observer coordinator for the program, which is being supervised by the Smithsonian Institution, disclosed the plan to representatives of astronomical groups in this area. It will be a large-scale, country-wide operation, he said.
 Observers will come mainly from such organizations as the astronomical league, the American Assn. of variable star observers, the Assn. of Lunar and Planetary Observers, the Western Amateur Astronomers and elements of the Civil Defense Ground Observer Corps.
 First of all, Dr. Spitz reported, the observers will need a type of optical instrument not now available—a binocular with an extremely wide angle of view. He hopes for an instrument that will cover a field 20 degrees in diameter—about 40 times the width of the full moon. Most binoculars have fields of only about 3 degrees and the big telescopes covers areas even smaller than that.
 Nobody will see a satellite twice exactly in the same place at the same time of day. Its orbit will change with each passage. The rotation of the earth will produce other apparent changes. It will be traveling in an approximate circle whose center will not be exactly the same as the earth's center. This will cause variations in its altitude. And it will be slowing down gradually. This will make a further slight difference in its position each time.
 If the observers can cope with these variations they will pile up data that will help to give scientists some long-needed information. It will aid in making more

Citrus Commission Approves Proposed Advertising Plan

LAKELAND — More than half the Florida Citrus Commission's 1956-57 advertising budget will be spent on television.
 The commission Wednesday approved in principle a proposed $3,050,000 advertising program submitted by its agency, Benton and Bowles of New York. The budget committee was asked to give the program further study.
 Here's how the money will be spent:
 Television $1,571,000; radio $104,000; newspapers black and white advertising, $484,000; magazines and Sunday supplements $332,000; Canadian advertising and promotion $125,000; special projects in production and marketing $150,000.
 Themes of the advertising program will be that Florida citrus is "low in calories and high in Vitamin C," and "Florida citrus is cheaper and you get more for your money than you do in bottled drinks."
 One of the aims will be to get the American family to drink fresh orange juice morning, noon and night.

Parents Are Urged To Secure Polio Shots For Children

Members of the Sanford Rotary Club at its regular weekly meeting yesterday at the Yacht Club witnessed the induction of John Burton, classification Architect, and Thomas McDonald, classification Abstracter, by the father of the latter, Morton McDonald of DeLand, Past District Governor of Rotary International and presently president of the National Title Association.

The ordinance granting the Florida Power and Light Company a franchise for 30 years in the City of Sanford was passed last night by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners despite a group who appeared at the meeting to enter protests.

At the conclusion of the arguments against the granting of the franchise immediately, Commissioner Krider made the motion "After six months of study and investigation I move that we grant the Florida Power and Light Company a franchise for 30 years."

The large group of business and professional men rose spontaneously and applauded for a long time, the 68-year-old patriot who has received national acclaim for the daily act of respect to the flag and the annual mailing to the Treasurer of the United States of $12.25 for the privilege of enjoying the opportunities of an American citizen.

Robert H. Fite, president of the FP&L explained, again, the franchise contract offered to the City of Sanford enumerating the benefits to the city.

Florida is now receiving plenty of Salk vaccine to meet the demand, announces the Florida State Board of Health today, and that parents whose children are not immunized against poliomyelitis are urged to secure this protection for them as soon as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Bruce, skiing specialists of De Bary, have gone, with their two children to Port Jefferson, N. Y. for the summer, where Bruce operates a Ski School at the Port Jefferson Yacht Club.

According to investigating officers, Captain Arnold Williams, and Ephraim Joe Hickson and Carl Dodson, Willie Lowery found the rifle in a bedroom corner and began to play with it. Robert Lee, who had been taught to handle firearms gently, took the rifle away from the younger Negro and had rested in his arms in order to replace it.

According to the officers, Willie attempted to scare Robert Lee and jumped on him shouting "Bad boy" when the rifle was suddenly and unintentionally quipped.

The Sanford Boat and Ski Club will hold its meeting tomorrow, Wednesday, night instead of Friday.

The group will gather in the City Commission room in the City Hall at 8 o'clock. The members will be notified later of the next meeting date, time and place. The public is cordially invited to these meetings.

William A. Luffler spoke to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners and urged that they give additional study to the franchise and said "The (FP&L) are continually hounding to get the Sanford, Lake City and Arcadia franchises." Luffler said "You had better talk rates."

The City was asked to make his remarks a part of the minutes of the meeting.

Randall Chase appealed to the Board of Commissioners to give further study to the franchise on the basis of several features "That I would like to call to your attention," he suggested "a careful study should be made by engineers for the protection of the citizens of the City of Sanford."

However, Fite came back with an explanation for every suggestion that had been presented to the Board of Commissioners and agreed to change wording of the franchise ordinance by letter in order to clarify the issue.

Fite agreed that the books of the Florida Power and Light Company were open for audit and examination when he said "Any of the figures or the books from which they come are open for examination. We will welcome any check."

H. H. Coleman, Division Manager for the Florida Power & Light Company revealed that there was a City Ordinance allowing the city to check the records of the company.

President Fite explained "The franchise in no way affects rates. The rates are subject to the Railroad and Public Utilities Commission and we cannot regulate that right away."

Commissioner David Gatchel, in viewing his opinion to the audience attending the meeting and to the commissioners said, "In the event the City would spend anywhere from 15 to 20 thousand dollars for the franchise, we would lose all of the benefits offered."

Figures just compiled by the State Board of Health show that as of June 1, 1934, there is an estimated 100,000 in the eligible age group (4-10 years) in the estimated number of 100,000 have received only one injection; 37,852 have received two injections and only 35,146 have received three injections.

As the supply of Salk vaccine became more plentiful during the last three months, the maximum age limit for receiving the Federal vaccine was raised on May 15 from 15 to 18 years. There is no age restriction on vaccine purchased by the private physician from a commercial source.

To receive the immunization against polio, Dr. Bond says, "Go to your private physician of your county health department. We strongly urge those parents whose children have received no Salk vaccine to have them immunized with at least one shot immediately as the polio season is just getting started."

"We are happy," continues Dr. Bond, "that we are now receiving Salk vaccine in excess of current demand and we hope no child in the eligible age group will fail to receive this protection."
