Like most of us, Charlie thought it was a long time to get in a car.

But when it hits, he drives carefully. Better late than never, he mused.

Others also "gun it" the instant the light turns green, puzzled Charlie.

That's kid stuff, he thought, like little boys hopping on pogo sticks.

Rice Brings Economic Problems

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Rice means life itself for a billion people—almost half the world's population. Today there is too much rice on hand in Southeast Asia—and yet too little. In that paradox lies a problem which can become acute for governments struggling to build up economies of the area's new nations.

This has been an exceptionally good year for rice crops. That means nations which import rice are going to buy less of it. It means nations which export rice will have a surplus on hand that normally would be sold. That brings economic problems just as keenly as the problem of shortages in an area chronically short of food.

Rice means everything to Asia. It has broken governments. It can even cause wars. It can mean the difference between communism and freedom for a half billion people. It is politics and economics.

In one part of the world special varieties of rice are a luxury for the rich man's table. In another, rice is the vital necessity of the poor. One side of the world it is sown by hand and cultivated with backbreaking toil. On the other side it is sown from airplanes and cultivated with modern machinery.

Rice has spread all over the world. But it is in Asia that it has its life-or-death meaning. Nobody is sure just when and where rice originated. It was mentioned in the earliest Chinese writings. In some places of Asia it was connected with ancient religious rites.

Ninety per cent of the world's rice is produced by Asian nations, all the way from Iran to the Philippines. The rest is grown in many places—Egypt, North Africa, Spain, Italy, the United States.

There are more than 5,000 different varieties of the cereal. It can be cultivated in the submerged paddies or in the hills, at sea level or as much as 7,000 feet above it. It can be sown in tropical, semi-tropical or temperate climates.

The principal rice exporting countries there are Burma, Thailand and the Associated States of Indochina. But Burma's transport was so badly mangled during World War II, and her internal situation so unstable for many years, it has been difficult for her to transport her rice to markets. The Indo-China rice crop was good but the violent political change there interferes with normal processes in which the south, in non-Communist hands, ordinarily ships rice to the less productive north, now in Communist hands. In the case of both, export markets are shrinking anyway with the increased production of countries which still do not have enough for their populations.

Today, for a combination of political and economic reasons, Red China is exporting rice although that is its principal food and for centuries its export was forbidden. It is part of her desperate quest for raw materials and industrial machinery.

India at present imports rice. The amount is decreasing steadily and imports soon will be used primarily for creation of a food reserve. A large part of the importation—500,000 tons this year—comes from Burma which charges a higher price than other sellers. But India takes it not only as a gesture of good will but as a means for Burma to make payments on her debts to India.

But the peasant in the field who produces the rice understands little of all this. He knows rice is a rich food and that it has many uses.

Broken rice or brown rice is used to feed his cattle, pigs and poultry. Rice straw is used to make his hats and sandals. In that a his roof, make his bedding, floor matting and screens and even some of his fertilizer. White broken rice he uses for brewing beer. It is also used in manufacture of paper and in the making of alcohol. Some of the finest rice flour is used to compound medicines. Husks are used for fuel, for insulating material and even packing material.

The rice-eating areas of China, the amount of arable land available per person is so small that the farmers must give their whole attention to producing the one crop which can do this for them. Laboring from dawn to dusk, he dredges canals and sluggish streams, carries the water to his fields, builds levees between the water-filled trenches. By hand he sows the rice on the water. When the seedlings are about a month old, he laboriously transplants them a few inches apart in the long rows separated by the levees. Plodding water buffalo and primitive hand tools are all he has to ease his burden.

In the United States, farmers produce rice in a way which is a far cry from the unending toil of the East. They broadcast seed on the water from airplanes.

Priest Not Anxious To Be Demo Whip

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Rep. J. Percy Priest of Tennessee's 5th District says he probably will turn down the job of House majority whip in the new Congress.

Priest, who held the post for four years before the Democrats lost control of Congress in 1952, apparently would be in line to resume his old job.

But, he said, he plans to devote most of his time to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which he is the ranking Democratic member.

STARLINGS IN BARRAGE
CINCINNATI (AP)—Forty shotgun "minute men" popped off at starlings in downtown Cincinnati Sunday night and very few birds were sighted thereafter.

Police Lt. Herbert Walke, who directed the firing, said he scanned many former roosting places afterward and could see "very few" birds.

DAV Chapter Here Has More Members

Sanford Chapter No. 30 of the Disabled American Veterans is one of the first 100 DAV Chapters in the nation to surpass its membership enrollment of last year with a recent total of 41 members.

This achievement brought a special message to local chapter officials from Judge Alfred L. English, national commander of the DAV. The DAV nationally seeks to reach a goal of 210,000 members by next July and has reached a new national record for the 14th consecutive year.

"Your chapter is to be commended," Judge English said. "Only through a strong membership can we fight ahead to achieve the goals we have found are necessary to successfully rehabilitate our war handicapped."

"Every eligible veteran is urged to join with us in this important work."

Generally speaking, American veterans who have been wounded, gassed, injured or disabled while serving in the armed forces of the United States in America's wars, are eligible for membership. This DAV eligibility includes, in addition to World War I disabled veterans, those who have served in the armed forces at any time between December 7, 1941, and the conclusion of the Korean campaign.

The American Bible Society has published the whole Bible in 200 languages and dialects.

President-Elect Of AMA Says Physician Should Have Faith

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Elmer Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., said yesterday any doctor "who lacks faith in the Supreme Being" has no right to practice medicine.

"A physician who walks into a sick room is not alone," said the Erie, Pa., doctor, who is a specialist in urology. "He can only minister to the ailing person with the material tools of scientific medicine—his faith in a higher power does the rest."

"Show me the doctor who denies the existence of the Supreme Being."

ing and I will say that he has no right to practice the healing art."

Hess made the statements in a prepared digest of extemporaneous remarks he planned for the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical Assn. The SMA, with a total membership of 10,000 doctors, ranks second only to the AMA as the largest general medical organization in the country.

CANADA'S BUILDING PLANNED IN N.Y.C.

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (AP)—Canada's consul-general in New York, Ray Lawson, says sponsors of a proposed eight-million-dollar "Central Canada House" hope to select a site in New York City before the end of this year.

Interviewed during a visit here yesterday, Lawson said 29 private sponsors already have pledged $100,000 each to get the project going. A sponsors' committee will be named soon to select the building site, he added.

The building is planned to house offices of Canadian government agencies and firms as well as the Canadian Club of New York.

Scientists estimate that the average depth of the ocean is 13,600 feet.

"Our medical schools are doing a magnificent job of teaching the fundamentals of scientific medicine," declared Hess. "However, I'm afraid that the concentration on basic science is so great the teaching of spiritual values is almost neglected."

At another point he asserted: "Any man who enters the medical profession with financial gain as his sole objective is a discredit to his colleagues. The market place is where you go to make money, not the sick room. Doctors take care of sick folks—period."

The AMA official declared that organization has launched a long-range program designed to save the medical care problems of the indigent and the chronically ill.

"Special attention must be given," he said, "to the problems of those who are unable to pay for their own medical care, or buy insurance to protect themselves against such costs. We are urging state and county medical societies to make this a major project."

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
I STOPPED at the purser's office. Inside Mr. Grenier sat at his ornate desk, late sunlight making a halo of his pale hair.

"Russell asked me to wait for him here," I said.

"Of course," Grenier smiled. He rose, indicated a chair and politely waited for me to sit down.

"Hope I'm not interrupting anything," I said. "I could just as easily wait in my room."

"No, no. Not at all, Mr. Wilde. In fact I'm pleased to have an opportunity to speak to you. Considerably as it were. You've seen your little family here at its worst, Mr. Wilde. It happened that I had a long talk with Mr. Russell this afternoon. He explained a number of things to me. All of which convinced me in decency and candor to extend my sincere apology for the discomfort caused you by officers of this boat. It is shameful."

"Nothing that's happened calls for anything like that," I said in the embarrassed tone. "Let's forget it."

"If you don't mind, sir," Grenier said, "I'll just glance through these menus for approval before I forget. The chef will need them soon. There is Mark Twain on the stand beside you. And several magazines of merit on that table."

He burrowed into a stack of papers and I stared out the window at nothing, trying to wait patiently. I meant to be polite but with myself on a certain boat would duck Ellen's camera. I was willing to back it with solid cash. It wasn't hard to guess.

The boat came to its halt with a sudden whirling noise. The big engines turned over, the paddlewheel lurched and rocked for a moment and then settled down to a steady surge. We backed out, the wheel swung reversed and we began the last lap of the cruise to New Orleans. I picked up Mark Twain and cracked it to the appendix where he told of the disaster that hit the bayou country in 1862. It was greatly amusing but it suited my mood just then.

I was ready to pound the table with impatience by the time Ellen and Russell came into the office. Ellen sank immediately into a chair and sighed deeply. She smiled a wavery smile for me. Russell dropped his camera case on the floor and sat heavily.

"What a mess!" he snarled.

"Never again, so help me Ellen, is your job always that bad?"

Ellen shook her head wearily.

"I've never known anything quite like that," she said.

Mr. Grenier came around the desk with a sheaf of papers in his hands. He bowed ceremoniously to Ellen and excused himself.

Russell said: "Nearly everybody wanted a picture taken. Word has got around that Ellen is a real live professional and her pictures are going to be in 'Vacation'."

Ellen said: "I took 24 pictures. That's all the bulbs I had. How many was the captain in, Russell?"

"Twenty-four," Russell growled. "So the captain is eliminated."

I said:

"Doc Riggs held the reflector for me," Ellen said. "He said he would permit his picture to be taken. Mr. Ed. Boltzsch dropped out of the one we arranged for him. He wanted to go get the missus. He and Bebe got back just as I started the last bulb."

"And Dr. Dunbar just flatly refused," Russell added. "Two solid hours down there and what answer did we get for that, Wilson?"

"I said: 'You got just what I wanted. I know who slugged Russell.'"

"Who?" Ellen asked.

"Intuition, Wilde?" Russell asked.

"The boat's moving," I said.

"What do we do with this guy until we get to New Orleans? You don't have a brig on the boat, do you?"

"No," Russell shook his head. "No brig. No way to restrain him short of docking at a town and sending the police. And Jellie would resign before he'd make an uncheduled stop."

"So what do we do?"

"I said: 'You got just what I wanted. I know who slugged Russell.'"

"All right, Carney," she said. "There was so much of a question. Come get me in half an hour."

Ellen touched me lightly on the cheek and then left. When the door closed, Russell said: "You want to tell me, Wilde? I can keep it to myself, but don't tell me unless you want to be hauled."

"No. So help me, no. I was figuring Doc Riggs."

Quemoy Isn't Warlike

QUEMOY ISLAND, off Quemoy lies beneath the very eaves of the China and is today the closest thing on the globe to a battlefield. But you find it peaceful and warm and pleasant—except for the military camps—and not at all warlike and not very warlike. Quemoy seems something like a midsize New Caledonia, a Pacific island which peacefully dored through World War II despite the presence of half a million soldiers. The war's cutting edge never quite reached it. Quemoy hasn't been so lucky. She has already tasted war and probably will taste more.

The rocky island is part of the outer barrier of Amoy Harbor, a Red Chinese point directly opposite the middle of Nationalist-held Formosa. Communist land looms only a few miles away to the west, north and south.

On Sept. 3, for unknown reasons, the Reds opened up on Quemoy from Amoy with 8,000 artillery shells and have kept on pounding, although with much less intensity. The Nationalists retaliated with island guns, gunboats and Formosa planes. The United States, committed to defend Formosa, found herself confronted with the awkward question of whether that also meant Quemoy.

The question had not officially been answered when on Sept. 22 Nationalist naval and air action was suddenly broken off and shelling limited to retaliation, which still is the case. International pressures are suspected of having slowed the action.

Was the danger of invasion passed?

Not likely. Many Red small craft concentrations were spotted off and dispersed by gunboats and planes. When the planes and gunboats left, the Reds waited a month. Now they have again gathered and are practicing landings in the backwaters. Two bamboo rafts good for one soldier and his weapons were captured the other day. Guerrillas say there are small boats hidden back from the shore, a ruse the Reds used in crossing the Yangtze in 1949.

With few planes overhead the Reds are getting bolder, says Gen.

Yin Tien Chia of the Quemoy staff. One of these days they may stop practicing and make a run for Quemoy. Yin says they would lose but the Nationalists don't like pulling their punches now.

Is Quemoy worth saving?

That can be argued both ways. Yin points out that an adherent to the Ming dynasty, known to the west as Koxinga, occupied Quemoy in 1661, before he took Formosa from the Dutch, and that the Japanese in 1937 took it as a preliminary to invading China. In case of a Nationalist return to China it would be a valuable forward base. Defensively Yin called it part of the shield around Formosa, along with the other small islands of Tachen, Matsu and the Pescadores. Since Formosa is supposed to be part of the West's island shield in the Pacific, these little islands are the shield for the shield.

While Chiang Kai-Shek holds these islands the Reds cannot safely invade Formosa from across channel waters. They have to keep their invasion bases awkwardly far to the north or south.

Alleged Swindling To Be Investigated

CINCINNATI (AP) — Roy Hess (R-OH) said Sunday night a House Special Subcommittee will start an investigation on the swindling of a million dollars in Europe by a man named "Doc" Riggs. Hess said the investigation was prompted by a letter he received from Michael Stein of Vienna, Austria, and by the information received by a committee of the House.

Stein alleged that Riggs had used the money to buy a house and insurance.

Control Of Deer Presents Problem

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The day you get chased out of the city park by a couple of deer will think they own the place is the day you can realize that there are one species that defied the modern science of game management.

The deer are at least half of the deer in the United States that are left in the wild. The deer are the delight of children, the darling of the fur industry, the treasure of the sportsman and a part of the folk lore of the conservative people who have to reconcile themselves with the fact that animals which have few natural enemies will multiply.

As a result deer have become a pest in Chicago. Two last weeks and the first deer hunting season in modern times. The animals are a traffic hazard in parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania. And not about every deer state except Maine is trying to meet a similar problem by increasing hunting opportunities to control deer population.

Here is where you get into the trouble. That is, in addition to what is presumed to be natural killing, the deer are being hunted for sport. The maximum number of deer per acre is about one. There will be two and a half next year. And a single doe will add more than 100 to the population as the number of fawns born to her will be about 10. And the deer are being hunted for sport.

The deer are being hunted for sport. The deer are being hunted for sport. The deer are being hunted for sport.

3 County Commissioners Claim Herald Brings Undue Criticism

Yesterday, a Herald representative walked into a meeting of the County board of commissioners and ran into a hornet's nest of criticism.

It seems that certain members of the commission are not satisfied with reports of meetings as they have been published in this newspaper, complaining we have been causing uncomplimentary remarks to be aimed in the direction of this governing body.

When the representative entered, the commissioners were discussing bids and this topic was their sore spot.

Commr. John Meisch seemed to be the most disgruntled of the lot. He said the paper purposely caused misconceptions among the people of the county concerning the commission's activities relative to bids, and that as a result, the commission was receiving unfavorable criticism.

When he was told by the Herald representative that this newspaper just printed the facts, Commr. Meisch retorted that we did not print all the facts. He claimed that when a report was made on the letting of a bid by the commission, that the paper did not print all the information about factors which led to the awarding of a particular bid.

He was joined by Chairman Ottis Fouracre and Commr. Fred Dyson in his comments. Commr. Fouracre remarked, "We pay for what we get and get what we pay for." Commr. Brown Miller kept quiet and Commr. B. C. Dodd was not present.

Of course this newspaper is not greatly disturbed by such accusations, as they are absurd.

As it was said at the meeting, this newspaper prints facts. However, when it prints facts about the commission meetings, it can only publish those facts which come out at the meetings; it cannot print about decisions that are reached over coffee cups in a corner drug store.

County clerk O. P. Herndon attempted to pour a bit of oil on the waters, saying the commissioners had been listening to too many of the local, regular street critics, and that the commission, he believed, was well thought of by the general population of the county.

Commissioners differed with him and seemed to express considerable concern over the opinions of these "sidewalk politicians."

Which is it better to do, gentlemen—listen to these bench sitters or to your constituents in your districts? Sometimes, one can wonder which you really do think is more important.

Anyway, this newspaper can assure you of one thing, gentlemen, we will increase our efforts to get the facts concerning your commission doings—and all the facts.

Quality Radio

Television, for all its banality, has had some beneficial results. It has already spurred an improvement in the quality of movies, and promises to improve radio.

A new radio network has recently been formed to meet the competition of television. Member stations, from Seattle to Atlanta, from Boston to Los Angeles, have worked out a unique arrangement to share the best programs of each. The new organization is known as Quality Radio Group, Inc.

Instead of being linked by telephone lines, as existing networks are, these radio stations are bound by the sharing of tape-recorded programs. This means that Portland, Ore., listeners, will be able to enjoy programs which have had an outstanding success in Raleigh, N. C., and vice versa. All the member stations signed up so far are affiliates of national networks. The Quality Radio Group will not attempt to supplant the networks, but to enrich the offerings of member stations. Thus it hopes to recapture some of its lost audience.

This is the American way of meeting competition. It also illustrates the advantage of television's novelty by improving their own product, which, in turn, could have the effect of forcing television to improve its quality. Such competition works in the best interest of all.

Vanderbilt Aids Crippled Vets

NEW YORK—For 20 years Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, owner of one of America's greatest racing stables, has spent most of his time amiably improving the breed of thoroughbred horses.

But at 42, Vanderbilt, who inherited 20 million dollars by the time he was 35, is deeply committed to a more serious interest—the rehabilitation of war veterans in the free world.

Vanderbilt served as a naval lieutenant in World War II, and won a Silver Star for gallantry as a PT boat commander in the Pacific. Two years ago he became interested in the young World Veterans Federation, an organization which works closely with the United Nations in trying to alleviate the conditions which lead to war.

The toughest job—collecting money—fell to Vanderbilt as president of the World Veterans Fund, the finance-raising arm of the federation in this country.

His friends have been amazed at the vigor with which "Al" plunged into the work. In the two years he has traveled more than 50,000 miles on a job that pays off only in the feeling he has helped doing something that needed doing.

"Last year we met our goal—half a million dollars," he said. "But we could have used five times that amount."

The money isn't contributed directly to individuals. We send rehabilitation teams into the various countries. They show the governments the need for programs to help disabled veterans and how to organize the programs."

The WVF now has 118 member organizations representing 18 million veterans in 25 countries.

"To give you an idea of the size of the problem," said Vanderbilt, "there are some seven million war disabled in these countries, and more than half have had to go without adequate medical treatment or vocational training."

"You can imagine how bitter they sometimes get... so many years after the war is over... and so little done to help them. The benefits the American veteran gets are unique. You don't find them in other lands."

He and other WVF leaders feel it is vital that veterans of free world countries work together democratically to solve postwar problems. Responsible vet groups from former enemy nations, such as Germany and Italy, have been welcomed into the organization.

The handsome, boyish-faced multimillionaire who for so long enjoyed his career as a socialite sportsman still loves his horses as much as ever. But he has also found he likes playing an important role in a race more vital to civilization than who wins at Hialeah or Belmont.

In 1952 the Detroit River carried 116,560,000 tons of freight, the St. Marys Falls Canal at Sault Ste. Marie 104,550,000 tons and the Mississippi River 77,584,556 tons.

By WALTER CHAMBLIN JR.
The Bricker amendment issue will be raised in Congress again next winter.

This amendment has as its basic objective the prevention of any treaty or international executive agreement overriding the United States Constitution or federal or state laws.

The original amendment, sponsored by Senator John W. Bricker (R-Oh.), failed in the Senate last winter by one vote. A new resolution he has offered is designed to meet some of the criticism leveled by the administration against his original proposal which the administration held would tie the hands of the President in international affairs.

The new resolution does not remove all of the administration objections but Senator Bricker is hopeful that it will win sufficient Senate support to be adopted.

Senator Bricker says recent developments especially emphasize the need for this constitution amendment. He holds that the U. S. Human Rights Commission has revealed a determined effort will be made on the part of influential persons and organizations at the 1956 conference to revise the charter of the United Nations to place a part of the control of American sovereignty under some form of world government.

He also feels that recent debate on the subject of revising the Human Rights Convention has revealed a determined effort will be made on the part of influential persons and organizations at the 1956 conference to revise the charter of the United Nations to place a part of the control of American sovereignty under some form of world government.

Supporters of the Bricker amendment invite discussion. They are hopeful that it will be debated by business, educational and other groups so that public sentiment may be apparent when Congressional debate opens.

The legal effect of the new resolution—if written into the Constitution—would be first of all that NO treaty or other international agreement shall have any effect if in conflict with the Constitution. The Ohio Senator believes a flat declaration is necessary because courts have held that treaties prevail.

Secondly, the proposed amendment would require that all treaties and other international agreements must be made "in pursuance" of the Constitution. The argument in this provision enters the realm of the Constitutional lawyer. In effect, it is that a treaty to effectuate internal social reforms would not be one "in pursuance" of the Constitution. The provision would block efforts of international socialists to change basic American concepts of the right of individuals through treaties. The Administration has imposed no objection to this provi-

McCarthy Predicts Will Be Censured

WASHINGTON—There is more irony in the predicament of Sen. McCarthy than just the fact he was cut down to fry in the administration of his own Republican.

That he will be censured by the Senate is a fate he predicts for himself. The Democrats tried to box him in, but didn't when they were in power. It didn't happen till the Republicans took over.

In the 1952 elections the Republicans used McCarthy and his Red-in-government claims against the Democrats and won. This year they used the same theme, but left McCarthy on the sidelines, and lost.

This year the Republicans, perhaps out of respect for President Eisenhower's expressed wishes a year ago, didn't use the Communist issue at first. They did when it began to look as if they might lose.

Why the party leadership didn't use McCarthy in 1954 is not known. They may not have wanted him around, though they could win without him, or feared if they won with his help he'd claim credit and want concessions.

Now that they've lost, McCarthy is as predicted—reverses the coin and claims one of the reasons for the Republican defeat was the treatment given him.

This week, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, he not only says that but points his finger directly at the White House.

"I think there was a great deal of resentment on the part of a sizable segment of the population against the jungle war which now-trials waged against those of who were trying to expose and dig out Communists."

Since that's the way he feels, a vote of censure now by the Senate, still run by Republicans, could hardly deepen any affection he may have left for the White House.

The fact that he said yesterday he would have made a punching bag to fight against communism would indicate that he may cause the Eisenhower administration some grief in the next two years.

Any search he makes for Communists in government will almost have to be directed at the executive branch, which will be in the administration's hands.

Nevertheless, any desire he may have to sharpen the administration will be limited by the fact that after this year he will no longer be chairman of an investigating committee with a large staff to help him.

The Democrats, as a result of the election, will run the committee. Not being chairman and not having a committee staff would not necessarily slow him down, though.

For the two years from 1950 until 1952, when he made a punching bag of the Democrats who then were running the executive branch and Congress too, McCarthy had no chairmanship.

It's questionable that he could be as effective against the Eisenhower administration as he was against the Democrats in 1950-52. In those years he was a man on the way up, building a following. Interest in McCarthy, according to reports, began to wane a bit after the Army-McCarthy hearings.

Local young men interested in more details about the Organized Reserve Corps Reserve may wish to report, began to wane a bit after the Army-McCarthy hearings.

OIL—Early this year 10 people were treated for food poisoning from popcorn, which killed one woman. This happened down south of the border and could happen here.

FEEDING the right kind of cattle will be profitable for the next few years. Florida cattlemen who have been hit hard by the 60 per cent drop in their average cattle prices during the past three years will have a chance to regain most if not all of their losses during the next 5 or 6 years if they play their cards right. After the effects of the country-wide drought are over, they can take advantage of the purchase and sale of feeder or even stocker cattle from time to time as often as their needs and supplemental feed will permit.

Hever, 43-year old owner of the Cadence Record Co., left Godfrey after a seven year association in December 1952.
Miss Etel, 41, is a member of the Chordettes.

Another provision—perhaps the most controversial—says that a treaty or other international agreement shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation valid in the absence of international agreement.

The sponsors of this provision explain that under it NO treaty could become internal law simply by reason of its own existence... there would be no more self-executing treaties, but legislation would be necessary to effectuate a treaty as law.

Since the Senate was so closely divided on the Bricker amendment last winter, it is impossible to forecast the result of a new vote on the revised proposal.

EVEN POLICE OFFICERS, used to all kinds of criminal quips, blinked their eyes when a gent in Norfolk, Va., made off with all four tires of a car but spared a well-filled purse and diamond ring on the front seat. The car owner found this note next to the ring: "Roses are red; violets are blue; we admire your jewels but your tires are new." A hardened criminal, with a flair for poetry, opined the court. Not at all, demurred Pundit E. D. White; a plain case of a confirmed poet who was willing to go to any length in order to place his composition. We string along with Mr. White.

E. D. White also tells about a minor adventure in his days as a cub reporter. He was covering the morgue when a man was called in for possible identification of his wife. Somebody pulled back the sheet. The man, took one agonizing look and cried, "My God! It's her!" That's how White reported the incident. His city editor, a stickler for proper English, changed it to, "My God! That's she!"

SEC Squads Hold Light Practices For Saturday Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southeastern Conference football squads held light drills Monday to get in shape for Saturday's rugged contests.
Georgia, at the top of the league, worked out in sweat clothes. No crippling injuries were suffered in the 14-13 victory over Florida and coaches thought the second should be in line physical fettle for the clash with Auburn.
The Auburn squad also took it easy after the upset victory over Miami. Fullback Joe Childress, who worked out in the practice, and Jim Byburn and tackle Frank D'Agostino all sported bruises but were expected to be ready for the big game.

The Georgia Tech squad drilled behind closed gates. Coach Bobby Dodd said they would continue to do so the remainder of the season. Teams alternated between defense against Alabama plays and offense against Alabama-style defense.

Alabama in turn worked hard to develop an offensive punch. The team hasn't scored a touchdown in 10 quarters. Fullback Jerry Chapparel was reported back in form after missing action for several weeks.

The Florida squad concentrated on becoming familiar with the single wing formation they'll see Saturday when they face Tennessee. Coach Bob Woodruff said they also spent a lot of time working on defense.
At Tennessee, Coach Harvey Robinson put the reserves through a brisk drill against the offensive formations Florida is expected to use. Ace fullback Jimmy Wade was recovering from a new leg injury and may see only limited action Saturday.

Louisiana State scrimmaged until dark on the kind of plays Mississippi State is expected to use. Tackle Gary Dilly returned for his first contact work since suffering a broken hand in the Texas Tech contest.
The first two Mississippi State teams held light scrimmages while the other players worked against freshmen using Louisiana State plays.

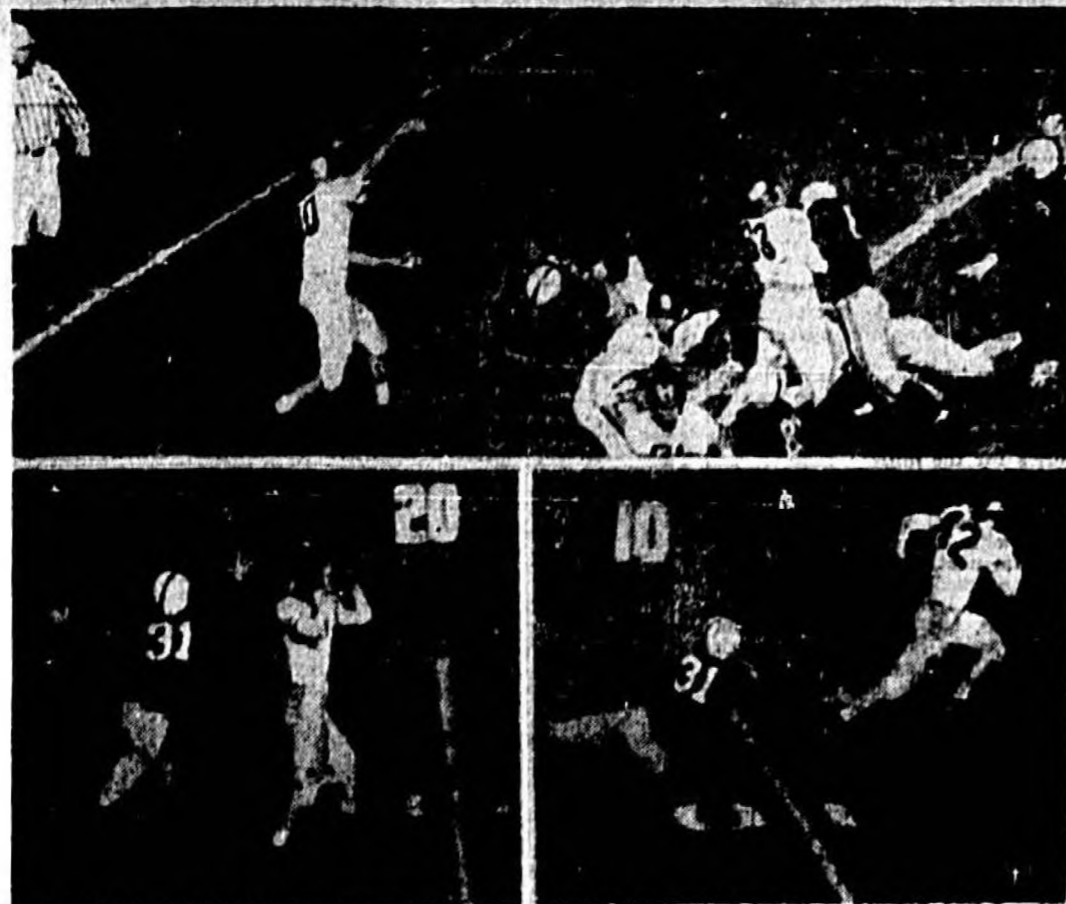

The Tulane regulars went through light signal drills and then studied scout reports on Vanderbilt. At Knoxville, Vanderbilt Coach Art Cane gauged the offense a complete checkup and worked with the backfield. Both teams have yet to win a game this season.
The Mississippi squad moved through individual drills preparing for the game with the University of Houston in Texas, while the Kentucky varsity was given a holiday for the first time this season.

Fatherhood Goal For Winning Racers Instead Of Pension

NEW YORK—Fatherhood to a successful race horse often means an old man and a new family.
Take Native Dancer, for example. The big gray stallion, fourth biggest money winner in American turf history, racked up $785,340 in 22 starts and lost only one—his Kentucky Derby, by a nose.
Now retired, he may earn even more money through planned parenthood in his later years than he did during his brief, fabulous track career.
"It's quite possible, if he lives long enough, and his owner, Alfred (Wynne) Vanderbilt, the Dancer, whose stud fee is $25,000, already has a full calendar for his first year as a sire. He has been booked for 40 engagements."
Whether he continues to earn $200,000 a year as a career father depends on whether he transmits to his offspring his own dazzling qualities—speed, heart and strength.
Only time can determine that. But the Dancer's own tremendous record has given him a head start in his new vocation. In developing thoroughbred owners generally follow the maxim, "you breed the best in the best and hope for the best."

Native Dancer's $5,000 stud fee is high, but there have been higher. There are perhaps 20 American stallions that get a $20,000 to $25,000 stud fee. In some cases the fee is paid only if the breeding results in a live foal.
The influence of a stallion's age on the quality of his offspring is highly debatable.
Native Dancer's famous grandfather, Discovery, was put to stud at the age of six. He will be 14 next year, and is still active, although the number of his engagements has been cut gradually from 40 a year down to 12.

"But he's got more good horses from the last five years than he did the first five years," remarked Vanderbilt.
Great track performers don't always go on to become the great sires. The fabulous Man O'War, still regarded by many as the race horse of the century, led American stallions only one year. In 1936 his offspring won 67 races and $468,187.
The most successful living sire, Bull Lea, not yet old enough to win, never set any big money records in his saddle-wearing prime. He was put out to stud in 1940 at the age of 8. Since 1947 he has had the age of six every year except one. Bull Lea's stud fee is $25,000 a year, and he has had at least a million dollars in stud fees over the past few years. In 1951 he set the modern record in track earnings. He was a $1 million sire in an unimpeachable industry, and every year he has set a new record. It has to be said, carefully, that men like Bull Lea, who have won a name in win, are not the ones who have to be said that way. The percentage is against you.

UCLA Picked Top College Team In Nation; Miami Hurricanes Are Rated In 11 Position

By RICH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press.
By a comfortable margin in a whipping-hot ball of fire, UCLA claimed the nation's leading college football team in this week's Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.
An even 300 votes were tabulated to confirm the high-schooler's claim to the top place over the challenges of Ohio State and Oklahoma, leaders in earlier polls this season.
UCLA was first on 117 of the 300 ballots, Ohio State got 80 first place votes.
Points were tallied on the usual basis of 14 for each first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

The first five teams held the same places they dropped into during the general reshuffling of the past two weeks, but several important changes were registered elsewhere in the first 10.
After UCLA, with 2,599 points, and Ohio State, with 2,591, came Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Army, Mississippi, Southern California, Iowa and Navy in order.

Georgia- Auburn Rivalry Intense As Battle Nears

COLUMBUS, Ga.—When Georgia and Auburn come here Saturday for their traditional football game, a lot of fans are going to recall their dramatic 1942 battle.
That year, as this, Georgia was riding on top of the Southeastern Conference standings and looking ahead to a bowl game. Auburn had been beaten several times.
Georgia had Frank Sinkwich and George Poschner, both All-American that year, plus Charley Trippi and Lamar (Horsehead) Davis.
The Bulldogs were undefeated, ranked No. 1 in the nation and already smelling the roses of Pasadena.
But Auburn had Monk Gifford, Gifford had Georgia's number and the Plainsmen walloped the Bulldogs 27-13.

Although Georgia has a 6-1 record this year compared with Auburn's 4-3 mark, the game probably will be rated a tossup.
Georgia has used a strong defense this season to remain unbeaten in conference play, but statistically Auburn's defense is better. And the Plainsmen hold a definite edge in offense.
For this game, though, statistics don't mean much. Each team will be "up" about as high as a team can get.

Georgia has no passing attack to compare with Auburn's Bobby Freeman-to-Jim Pyburn combination. And Auburn runners, led by fullback Joe Childress, may own a slight edge, particularly in speed.
But Georgia managed to beat Florida 14-13 while Auburn lost to the Gators 19-13. They have played two other common opponents—Florida State and Tulane. Georgia beat FSU 14-0, Auburn won 33-0; Georgia beat Tulane 7-0, Auburn won 27-0.

Fullback Bobby Garrard and Charley Hudson are Georgia's top runners, followed up by fullback Herb Clements, hampered in his last two games by a bruised thigh, and halfback John Bell, who played his best game against Florida Saturday.
In addition to Childress, star of Auburn's conquest of previously unbeaten Miami, Plainsmen runners include halfbacks Foy James, Dave Middleton, Johnny Adams and Alton Shell.

"The great competitive spirit of this team continues to amaze me," said Georgia Coach Wally Hittle. "Auburn potentially is the best team we've faced. But if the boys play like they did against Florida, we've got a fighting chance to win."
Georgia came out of the Florida game without any new injuries. Several Auburn players were bruised in the Miami game but all are expected to be ready to go at top speed Saturday.

"We will have to play as good as we did Saturday to win," Coach Ralph Jordan told his Auburn players. "Georgia is a well-coached and inspired team with hopes of the SEC championship."
Concerning Childress: "He is everything I want. He can run to the into his 20 million dollar inheritance to support his expensive stable. His runs to 50 or more horses. Now he aims to 40 or so in training season."
In the last four or five years he certainly has been paying for his horses said, carefully, "but men like Bull Lea, who have won a name in win, are not the ones who have to be said that way. The percentage is against you.

Gators Seek Win Against Tennessee; Defense Planned

GAINESVILLE—Their hopes for winning a Southeastern Conference crown practically wiped out, Florida's Gators will have a big goal to shoot at this week in their game with Tennessee.
The Gators have never won from the Vols since the two teams began playing in 1916. In 10 games, Tennessee has always won, even if by narrow margins at times.
Last season, Tennessee came from behind late in the game to kick a field goal and win, 19-7.
"Our work this week will be mostly on defense," says Coach Herb Woodruff, himself a former star for Tennessee.
"We have the big job of getting our team ready for the single widest formation package haven't played against this season."
Like a deer and has the endurance of a bloodhound. Imagine all this and one of the league's best line-backers wrangle up on one pack-out our package.
After that 1942 Auburn defeat, Georgia smacked down previously unbeaten Georgia Tech 34-0, won the SEC title and went to the Rose Bowl and beat UCLA 39-0.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—The thought persists here that there is no football coach in the land who can quite match Earl (Red) Blaik's talent for building an explosive attack when he has the sort of speed he needs to work with.

Up to this point, the Army coach's current machine has rolled up an average of 38 points in its seven games and probably will hike that mark then it tips into the helpless Penn Quakers Saturday at Philadelphia. Some Eastern experts are enthusiastically comparing Army's breakout backs with those of the Davis-Blanchar era.
This is the greater tribute to Blaik's coaching skill for it's only four seasons since the so-called cribbing scandal brought the world down about his head and forced him to start all over again.

The transatlantic traffic in racing brood mares, we learn, is not all one way. Representatives of the Aga Khan, having just sold 20 of his most blue-blooded matrons to American buyers at an average of $27,000 each, are spending part of the loot for two females whose progenitors are as Yankee Doodle as the hot rod.
One of them is loaded with the Man O'War strain. The other, a filly named Imperia purchased from Calumet Farms, is a daughter of Bull Lea and a granddaughter of Nellie Flag, a combination which, we understand, would be difficult to beat.

Major Cyril Hill, manager of the Aga Khan's stud farms, says this time he has no doubts as to the value of Imperia. He can't quite believe his luck yet in landing Imperia.
"Several of your breeders have asked me how I did it," he said.

"They say that Calumet simply does not let go of that kind of horse. I see that they also have sold Hill (Gail, their Kentucky Derby winner, to an Irish buyer. I imagine that will cause some surprise too."
While American breeders have done much importing of top stallions from Europe and Australia in recent years, the major points out, foreign breeders have not had the dollars to make similar purchases from this country until now, when restrictions have been eased just a little.

TAMPA—The University of Tampa football team begins rough workouts today for Livingston State, which plays here Saturday night.
The Spartans came out of the East Carolina game last week without new injuries. Coach Marcelino Jureta said he plans to keep the same starting lineup.
Tampa, which has won five and lost only to strong Chattanooga, will be favored heavily over the Atlanta team, unless in eight games this season.

MELBOURNE—Frank Sedgeman, who almost singlehandedly brought the Davis Cup back to Australia, today blamed Jack Kramer for what he termed "a deliberate decline in world amateur tennis standards."
Writing in the Melbourne Sun, Sedgeman, the 1952 Wimbledon champion who now is a touring professional, described Kramer as a "certain sly American gent" who caused amateur tennis to suffer because he was able to buy up the best amateurs.

"After each contract has been signed, there always has been a lull among the amateurs, until someone else hits the front," said Sedgeman, who currently is playing with Kramer's troupe.
"We are in one of those lulls at the moment and it is taking quite a while for the amateurs to come out of it," he said. "Amateur tennis at the present time lacks that hero—a world hero who awakes all other players to knock off his crown."

Sedgeman obviously was thinking of the past season when no one player stood out. The major championships of the world were divided among several players with Vic Seixas winning the United States title—the last big one

Writing in the Melbourne Sun, Sedgeman, the 1952 Wimbledon champion who now is a touring professional, described Kramer as a "certain sly American gent" who caused amateur tennis to suffer because he was able to buy up the best amateurs.

"After each contract has been signed, there always has been a lull among the amateurs, until someone else hits the front," said Sedgeman, who currently is playing with Kramer's troupe.
"We are in one of those lulls at the moment and it is taking quite a while for the amateurs to come out of it," he said. "Amateur tennis at the present time lacks that hero—a world hero who awakes all other players to knock off his crown."

Sedgeman obviously was thinking of the past season when no one player stood out. The major champ-

Fullmer Defeats LaBua By TKO At Eastern Parkway

NEW YORK—Undefeated Gene (Cyclone) Fullmer, a good, tough and aggressive middleweight, got his invitation to come back to New York any time as a result of his rousing Eastern and television debut against Jackie LaBua.
The strong-legged, 23-year-old middleweight from West Jordan, Utah, made his perfect record 25-0 last night by drubbing the New York prospect at Eastern Parkway Arena for a lopsided 10-round decision.

As a result, matchmaker Teddy Bremner signed the Rocky Mountain copper miner for a Dec. 20 tilt with Rocky Castellani, fourth-ranking 160-pound contender.
"If Castellani doesn't want to take on the kid—but I think he will—we'll get Paddy Young or some other top middleweight," said Bremner. "This kid is the best Westerner I come here since we brought Bobo Olson in from the Coast for his Eastern debut."

"Castellani, Olson, or anyone," said the calm victor. "It's all the same to me. All I want to know is did the fans like it?" That's what I wanted most. It was my first time on television."

He was assured that he did like it. He said "I could have done better," he said. "I wasn't as sharp as I've been before. But I'm glad the fans liked it."

The only thing the Korean War vet didn't do was floor or knock out the strong jawed, 22-year-old New Yorker, Jackie, however, is a tough foe to down. He has been stopped only once.
Fullmer weighed 150 1/2, LaBua 155.

In the other TV fight of the night at St. Nicholas Arena, Keny Lane, of Muskegon, Mich., scored a 10-round upset and disputed split decision over Orlando Zulueza (fifth-ranking lightweight from Cuba). All six writers at the ringside thought the Cuban, a 1-5 favorite, won it handily. Zulueza weighed 136, Lane 137.

When he heard the decision, Hyman (The Mink) Wallman, Zulueza's manager, was speechless for one of the few times in his life. After that his screams of protest went on and on.

LINEMAN NAMED

TAMPA—Bill Minahan, University of Tampa quarterback, and Billy Burke, Florida tackle, were named back and lineman of the week in Florida by the Florida Sports Writers Assn.
Minahan passed for two touchdowns and ran for another six in Tampa's 21-14 win over last week. Burke was outstanding in the line for the Gators in Florida's 14-13 loss to Georgia.
Gators getting votes: Backs—Joe Brodsky, Florida; Mario Bonafiglio, Miami; Linemen—Steve DeLaTorre, Florida; Nick Waytovich, Tampa.

Jaycees Will Handle Bookings For Appearances Of Santa Here

NORTH POLE (Special to The Sanford Herald)—In an exclusive interview with a Herald reporter Santa Claus said this morning that he has turned over all scheduling of his public appearances in Sanford this season to the Seminole Jaycees.

"We are extremely proud of this invitation and will do all we can to help the good St. Nick see all the folks possible," Herbert Rolter, president of the Jaycees, remarked.

The local civic club took immediate steps to make the Jaycee information booth Santa's clearing house. Telephoning has been designated the means by which organizations may schedule a Santa appearance. Mrs. Arla Jane Lundquist, Jaycee secretary, will handle bookings.

Strolling In Sanford

Miss Frances Cobb, president of Girl Scout Leaders in Sanford, announced that on Thursday, Nov. 11 at 8 p. m. discussion of an area council for Girl Scouts will be held at the Presbyterian Church recreation room. Every one is welcome.

Since tomorrow is Veteran's Day there will be a meeting of the City Board of Adjustment.

John Angel, instructor at Seminole High School, said the Junior Class play, scheduled to be held in the school auditorium Friday night, will be held on Tuesday to keep from conflicting with the Junior High School's variety show Friday night.

Some driver yesterday probably was a bit sorry for the manner in which he parked his car on Magnolia Avenue downtown. The car was parked in the stall backwards which is a bit unusual, but it was parked crooked in the stall, taking up more than the allotted space. Yep, he got a ticket.

The post office and the Sanford Public Library will be closed tomorrow for Veterans Day.

John Galloway said today the taxes are being paid well at the tax collector's office. Yesterday, one firm paid $9,900. A four percent discount is allowed on taxes paid during November.

Police pulled in a dog recently which was causing a nuisance at a residence, and which had no tag. Police have been given orders to pick up dogs running at large with no tags. Animals picked up by police are taken to the municipal zoo.

FD MAKES RUN
 The Sanford fire department yesterday answered a call to the City sanitary land-fill. Trash was burning.

Dance Here To Mark First Veterans Day Legion Sponsoring Affair Tomorrow To Gather Funds For New Building

The Campbell-Losnie post of the American Legion is promoting a fair building fund on Veterans Day, tomorrow, with a dance at the National Guard Armory from 8:30 p. m. until midnight.

Proceeds from the dance, according to Joel Felts, post spokesman, will go toward the "most important project this post has ever undertaken—the new fair building to be built on the Legion fair grounds."

The spokesman continued that "every citizen is requested to buy a ticket to this dance, and whether he attends or not, he will have the satisfaction of doing his bit toward a community project.

"This building, when completed," he said, "will be the pride and joy of every man, woman and child in Seminole County, for then we will be in a position to have exhibits and displays from all over the state and nation that will not only thrill but educate all our people, both white and Negro."

"It will be available to any local organization, except during fair week, for all worthwhile purposes, and will not be used exclusively by the Legion for a club house or otherwise," he pointed out.

"The proposed buildings," he continued, "will be of all metal, rigid construction with a solid concrete floor, and will be fireproof, theftproof and weatherproof. It will be 100 feet long, 30 feet wide and will have sidewalks 14 feet high. This will be the first of a series of buildings that will eventually enable Seminole County fair to be comparable with the fairs held in much larger counties such as Polk, Lake, Volusia and Orange."

Kiwanians Hold Inter-Club Meet With Groveland

Sanford Kiwanians today held an inter-club luncheon meeting with Groveland at the Yacht club, at which the principal speaker was Frank Farr, supervising principal of the Groveland schools.

Farr chose as his topic tomorrow's Veterans Day. He explained the meaning of the day and its beginning on Nov. 11, 1918, when World War I came to an end. "We should face this day not as a recent bereavement, but as one which time has softened," he said, relating how the world has been changed through the advance of science in the 36 years of its existence.

Millions Killed
 Farr spoke of the duty of the living to the eight million who lost their lives in that conflict and the other conflicts during the nation's existence, and said that, through the workings of science, we face the possibility of an even greater holocaust unless the forces of our faith and service is brought strongly into play.

He gave a moving recitation of "In Flanders Field," and said we must continue to hold up the beacon of freedom to a troubled world.

Five Groveland members were present at the inter-club meeting, led by their president-elect, Will Carlin.

Harvey Hale, formerly of Kiwanis, the new manager of the A&P supermarket on Magnolia Ave., was welcomed into the club.

Statement Prepared
 President Rolter prepared a statement to read at the meeting to the clubs, churches, groups and organizations that usually visit Santa to appear before them.

In the statement Rolter said: "We know that every year you have been worried for fear good old St. Nick might have a previous engagement just when you want him for your kiddies. Sometimes he has been in such a rush to get from one party to another that he's flared his scowled brow for the condition of his suit."

Will Look Next
 "This year, because we are going to shoulder his schedule work for him, he will be able to have his clothes made, his hair combed and just generally make a good appearance everywhere to please parents and children alike."

Hearing the news, W. B. Phillips, president of the Merchants Association, said, "I'm delighted to know that we won't have to worry this year about helping people find Santa."

Tom also glad to learn the Jaycees have scheduled the good St. Nick to appear daily on downtown sidewalks from Dec. 15 to Dec. 31.

Santa hinted he might even find time to drop in on some private homes for parties. He should be informed of these parties through the Jaycees by calls between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. on weekdays and on Saturdays, from 9 a. m. until noon.

Reception Planned For New Minister
 Members of the First Christian church will hold a reception tomorrow evening between 7:30 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. at the parsonage, honoring the Rev. H. Eugene Johnson and his wife.

All friends of the church and the public are cordially invited.

Miami Beach Bank Robbed Of $25,158

MIAMI BEACH—A nervous gunman snatched $25,158 in cash from the Chase Federal Savings and Loan Assn branch here today and escaped with $25,158 in cash after threatening to blow up the place if he met with interference.

The robber, a stocky, middle-aged man wearing green sun glasses, herded the employees into a vault before leaving and ordered them to count to 600 before running out.

"We had counted out loud to 150 when a woman customer came in from the front door," Manager Robert W. Swick said. "That gave us the tipoff that the robber was gone."

The Miami Beach police sent out 20 patrol cars and motorcycles and blocked off all three entrances to the bank. Swick said he pulled a gun from a brown briefcase and said he wanted all the money in the place.

"Before I could finish reading the note," Swick said, "the man pulled a gun from a brown briefcase and said he wanted all the money in the place."

Comments On Escorts
 The President has this to say on the question of fighter escorts: "If such escorts are advisable then we should use them. It's our feeling is that when we use planes in any risky area we should not make them sitting ducks."

Eisenhower said he isn't going to sit here at this distance and say that Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to Russia, was wrong in attending a Russian anniversary party in Moscow after the plane incident took place.

Bohlen's presence at the affair has drawn critical blasts from some members of Congress. Eisenhower said the ambassador got word of the Soviet downing of a U.S. plane just before the Moscow party but apparently knew nothing of the details or whether an accident was involved.

He said Bohlen had to make up his mind on the spur of the moment and the President believes we have a good group of Foreign Service officers who exercise good judgment.

Mrs. Swanson stated that the program participants announced by Harper Sibrey, chairman of the Department of Church World Service, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., after a long series of conferences with denominational leaders and with the purpose of raising funds for the club's main project, "The Milk Bank". Mrs. B. E. Chapman requested that all rum-

 The President has this to say on the question of fighter escorts: "If such escorts are advisable then we should use them. It's our feeling is that when we use planes in any risky area we should not make them sitting ducks."

Eisenhower said he isn't going to sit here at this distance and say that Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to Russia, was wrong in attending a Russian anniversary party in Moscow after the plane incident took place.

Bohlen's presence at the affair has drawn critical blasts from some members of Congress. Eisenhower said the ambassador got word of the Soviet downing of a U.S. plane just before the Moscow party but apparently knew nothing of the details or whether an accident was involved.

He said Bohlen had to make up his mind on the spur of the moment and the President believes we have a good group of Foreign Service officers who exercise good judgment.

Children Have Right
 A program is needed which will give every boy and girl that equipment in education and training which is his right under our democratic government, and one which will make of all, whether native or foreign, good American citizens; the kind of citizens that will be successful and useful to society.

"Won't you be that interested citizen and accept the responsibility that is yours? If you will, our schools will be better schools because you have helped them to be so. The whole country suffers the loss when it neglects the talents, the potential good schools are your responsibility. Let's work together for the good of all," the spokesman concluded.

Favors Power Contract Comment Made About Diplomat

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Russia seems to be showing a somewhat more conciliatory attitude in the latest plane shooting incident than has been the case in earlier similar episodes.

The President told a news conference that the American photo-mapping plane shot down by Soviet fliers off the Japanese Coast on Sunday had a right to be where it was in this country's view.

"These things are not always as clear cut as they seem and this one is clouded in some extent," Eisenhower said.

The President said he thinks that on this case the Russians have shown a considerable difference of attitude toward American planes than they
