Judging by the responses to inquiries on the subject, I'm led to believe that many people don't really understand the term impeachment.
As an example, ask them if they are in favor of it and some (less than one per cent) now separating the two thoughts—yes or no will respond "No," and yet they'll volunteer the afterthought that "He should be fired!"
According to Webster, it means "to charge with a crime or misdemeanor; to call to (Cont'd. On Pg. 3A Col. 4.)

Richardson: People Will Judge Nixon

ELLIOT RICHARDSON... Gets applause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson said today the ultimate judgment on the Watergate crisis must be made by the American people. He said he is not the man to pass judgment on the question of whether President Nixon should be impeached.
While he made no direct reply to the impeachment question at a nationally televised news conference, the former attorney general said he believes in the goals and priorities of the administration, particularly in the foreign policy.
Richardson recounted the negotiations, deadlock and presidential orders that led him to resign Saturday rather than fire Archibald Cox as special prosecutor in the Watergate case.
He said those events, too, are matters to be judged by the people, and that the fairness with which they are judged may determine the future wellbeing and security of the nation.

Richardson said he does not believe the President is now or will be in direct violation of a court order for his refusal to yield White House tape recordings, although the courts have instructed him to do so.
Richardson's farewell appearance at the Department of Justice began amid the applause and cheers of the staff he had headed for some five months.
Later came the direct question: Does Richardson believe the President should be impeached?
Richardson replied by noting that he served the administration in varying roles since Nixon took office. "I believe in the directions and priorities of the administration," he said.
"I regard as particularly important the role of the President of the United States, President Richard Nixon, in dealing with international problems," he said.

"As for events in the Watergate case which have led to congressional demands for an impeachment move, Richardson said only: "I do not believe that I am a person... who should try to pass judgment on them."
In his opening discussion of the case, Richardson did not criticize the President.
At stake in the controversy, Richardson said, is the integrity of government that "I came to the Justice Department to help restore."
Richardson said the case became one of deadlock between Nixon's insistence on the principle of confidentiality of presidential conversations, and his own assurances that Cox would be unfettered in the Watergate investigation.

U.S. Caught In Middle

Anguish Still Exists For MIA Families

COPLEY NEWS

The cruelties of war linger long after the fact. Americans are no longer dying in combat in Vietnam, but the anguish continues for thousands of Americans who wait for word on the 2,400 servicemen still officially unaccounted for in Indochina.

Sadly, all indications are that the wait is largely a death watch. Some 1,100 men have been officially declared dead although their bodies have not been recovered. Of the 1,300 now carried as missing in action, logic and experience leave little room for hope that even a handful can still be alive. But this is no solace for families and friends. Only a thorough search will suffice.

The search is under way, but its results thus far have been disappointing. Terrain and weather would have made it a formidable task even with full Communist cooperation, but cooperation has in fact been nil. No search parties have yet been allowed into Communist-held territory, and a recent Hanoi statement makes the prospect of this seem remote.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said last week that no cooperation could be expected so long as the Thieu government holds 200,000 "political" prisoners. The South Vietnamese "political" prisoners, the South Vietnamese return that almost 100,000 South Vietnamese are being secretly held in Communist prisons. Our American search mission is thus caught in the middle.

Apart from the issue of unreleased prisoners, it is doubtful that the Communists ever intended to help us find our MIAs and unrecovered dead. From their point of view, it would mean allowing foreigners whom they consider spies and agents to move at will through their territory. They find our unreleasable concern all by incomprehensible, and unconvincing in any case. Such concern as they may have for their own MIAs, who must number in the tens of thousands, is manifested only in propaganda.

The Vietnam peace agreement, signed eight months ago, specifically provided that all parties would assist in accounting for the missing and dead, both military and civilian. Of the two signatories, however, only the United States of America appears to be serious about carrying out this provision. This is not surprising, but it poses a dilemma: how can we get the Communists to cooperate when their only interest is to obstruct?

Short of military action—which even those personally involved could not seriously advocate—our best channel for persuading the Vietnamese Communists to live up to their agreement may be through Moscow or Peking. Our agricultural resources and our technological superiority, which both of the Communist giants want so desperately, could well be among our major bargaining tools.

"I used to worry about the ducks and geese being shot while flying south. Now, I worry about them having to fly over some of our cities!"

Colleges Not For All Public Attitude Must Change

COPLEY NEWS

We Americans have long been conditioned to regard a college degree as a prerequisite for success. Parents scrap and save to put their children through college as if diplomas are magic keys that unlock the doors to riches and fame. In other countries, however, education is crowned with the same aura of indispensability.

A college degree, however, no more guarantees success than the lack of one insures failure. No one knows how much our education system has cost in terms of waste, frustration, and even tragedy. It took the law of supply and demand to tell us our obsession with the diploma had finally gone too far. Quite simply, the job market for college graduates will no longer absorb all those who complete four or more years of higher education.

This embarrassment of educational riches was recently noted in a report by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education. Estimating that from 5 to 12 per cent of college and university students are "reluctant attenders," the report said students and job training available in the armed forces. Meanwhile, however, inflation threatens to reduce the surplus of college graduates by booting the price of a college education beyond the means of all but the rich or those who qualify for scholarships or government aid.

The films also demonstrated that highway cremations can be reduced simply by relocating the gas tank. When the test car was modified to place the tank over the rear axle, the crash fall to split the tank. The only leakage came from the filler tubes.

Other documents, obtained indirectly from Ford's internal files, showed the failure of the Los Angeles police to accept a report by West Los Angeles police officer Byron Boech, show Ford has been crash-testing its gas tanks since 1975. Yet the company, while making some concessions to safety, still refuses to put the tank over the rear axle.

News Analysis Ford Hopes To Bridge History

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford hopes to make his vice presidency a bridge between Congress and the White House, but history puts long odds against him. That is a mission vice presidents have attempted before, usually without success.

Ford, the House Republican leader, is a man of Congress, House and Senate applauded his vice presidential nomination and signaled before the recent annual confirmation, virtually certain confirmation.

He will take with him the friendship and knowledge gained in 25 years as Capitol Hill. His would seem to be ideal credentials for an administration lobbyist.

But other men with similar backgrounds have found it doesn't work that way. Even the late Lyndon B. Johnson, master of the Senate when he was leader of its Democratic majority, found himself without congressional clout as vice president.

The barrier has been of institutional loyalties. And members of the Senate and House tend to be particularly wary of intrusions on their independence by a former colleague who has joined the executive branch.

One administration aide described the view in Congress this way: "The minute a man takes that oath and lifts his hand off the Bible, he's gone. He's part of another branch of government."

Ford has said that as vice president he hopes to forge compromises and reduce friction between the Democratic Congress and the Republican administration. He said he might try to work for the committee level, dealing directly with the chairman of the House and Senate panels that draft legislation.

He acknowledged that would be a "delicate operation" for a vice president. A White House official said Ford undoubtedly will be helpful in dealing with Congress, particularly in shaping proposals, planning strategy and maintaining contacts with members. But the official said he doubted any vice president could accomplish much by lobbying in committee or on the floor of Congress.

In nominating Ford, President Nixon said he needed a vice president who could work with members of both parties in Congress "for those programs of the administration which we consider vital in the national interest."

Lethal Gas Tanks

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Between 2,000 and 3,500 Americans are burned to death in auto accidents every year. All too many are the victims of poor engineering and government indifference.

We have studied dozens of pictures of scorched cars and blackened corpses. We have also watched vivid color films of auto tests paid for by the U.S. government but left to gather dust in UCLA's engineering library.

These show that rear-end collisions can do to standard Detroit cars with gas tanks located near the rear, what the test cars did to the experimental cars. The results are horrifying.

At 30 to 40 miles per hour, the filler tubes were ripped from the tank, which began to rupture. Leaking gas sped into the car, and the fuel was purposely ignited, as often happens from sparks during an accident. The test cars were consumed by fire.

The films also demonstrated that highway cremations can be reduced simply by relocating the gas tank. When the test car was modified to place the tank over the rear axle, the crash fall to split the tank. The only leakage came from the filler tubes.

Other documents, obtained indirectly from Ford's internal files, showed the failure of the Los Angeles police to accept a report by West Los Angeles police officer Byron Boech, show Ford has been crash-testing its gas tanks since 1975. Yet the company, while making some concessions to safety, still refuses to put the tank over the rear axle.

At Ford, a spokesman said car fires are extremely rare, with the fatality figures more like 600-1000 than the 2,000-to-3,500 estimate. The Ford man said there has never been "any demerit" in the company's safety record.

Chrysler claimed there isn't enough data available on the tanks for a final decision. By shifting the tank forward, said the spokesman, the danger might increase from frontal crashes, side accidents and rollovers.

Footnote: Despite these provisions, Toyota tests have demonstrated the safety of tanks over the rear axle. In Mercedes-Benz's new sedans, the tanks have also been moved over the rear axle. Studebaker Avantis have had firewalls and rear-axle tanks since 1967. Furthermore, a proposed law that would force automakers to provide public access to the state's beaches and require local governments to adopt a land development code.

Teenages Charged In Torch Death

MIAMI (AP) — Two 13-year-old boys and a 12-year-old girl were charged Monday with first-degree murder in the death of a homeless lighter fluid and set fire.

Officers said the boys, whose names were withheld, admitted setting fire to Charles Scales, 36, as he slept off a wine drink behind an abandoned building Saturday night.

The boys also were charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder for setting fire to two other men, officers said.

Police said the boys, all of whom have long records of vandalism, larceny, burglary, robbery and narcotics possession, bought or stole several cans of lighter fluid from a neighborhood store.

They started their spree by soaking a cat with the fluid then watching it burn to death, police said. A short time later, officers said, they set fire to an unidentified homeless drunk.

N.C. Official Testifies In Turner Trial

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The attorney general of North Carolina ruled that Glenn W. Turner's Kosocot Interplanetary cosmetics business was operated as a lottery, a witness testified at the "mail fraud trial of Turner and eight associates. The witness was William Coppedge, an attorney with the North Carolina secretary of state's office, which regulates securities in that state.

Coppedge testified Monday that the ruling was issued in February, 1972, and after that a consent judgment was entered with Kosocot agreeing to operate within North Carolina lottery laws. Turner operated a lottery, Army Sgt. Walter N. Stallings, FBI, said. Turner's attorney, Charles McCarty, who lives near Dumfries, said 22 to 30 coffins have been disposed of there. Blanton said fragments that appeared to be part of a North Carolina license plate "wasn't as gruesome as some people painted it to be."

It also voted to schedule a hearing at some later date for Seashore Funeral Parlor of Jacksonville and its director, Michael Seashore, R.C. Blanton, chief investigator for the state board, said Seashore admitted its employees dumped four burned coffins in the dump near Ribault High School in Jacksonville last Thursday. Neighbors called the City Health Department, complaining that the torso of a person was visible in a casket near the dump.

Committee Mulls Beach Access Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Environmental Land Management Study Commission is considering a proposed law that would force developers to provide public access to the state's beaches and require local governments to adopt a land development code.

The committee Monday recommended that local and state governments protect Florida's beaches by using their powers to require removal of harmful buildings and structures. The committee also recommended that the state provide funds to local governments to condemn land for public access routes to beaches and require developers to include beach access routes in new subdivisions.

Florida News Briefs Stamp Fraud Charged

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two families have been charged with fraudulently receiving $2,500 in food stamps and ordered to repay the money.

Joseph and Willy Williams of Vero Beach allegedly received $1,828 in food stamps between October 1971 and July 1972 for which they were not eligible, the State Attorney's office said.

Rockets Wash Ashore FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Six explosive tubes washed up on a beach here have been identified by a police bomb demolition expert as sound-sensitive rockets used to deploy Russian distress flares.

Task Force Appointed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew has named Tom S. Coldway, vice president of the St. Joe Paper Co. of Port St. Joe, to head a task force to study the Florida Workmen's compensation program.

Named vice chairman of the 21-member panel was John H. Lewis, Miami, former general counsel to the National Commission on Workmen's Compensation Laws. "We are bringing together for the first time leaders of labor and industry to review Florida's workmen's compensation program and to recommend how it can be improved," Askew said in announcing the task force.

State Crematoria Investigation Starts

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The discovery of a partially cremated body at Jacksonville dump has triggered an investigation of the state's crematoria by the Florida Board of Funeral Directors.

It also voted to schedule a hearing at some later date for Seashore Funeral Parlor of Jacksonville and its director, Michael Seashore, R.C. Blanton, chief investigator for the state board, said Seashore admitted its employees dumped four burned coffins in the dump near Ribault High School in Jacksonville last Thursday. Neighbors called the City Health Department, complaining that the torso of a person was visible in a casket near the dump.

Other Thoughts

The secret is out. We're going to be paying 10 cents pretty soon for a regular, first class stamp that now costs eight cents.

The Bureau of Engraving has been printing and stockpiling the 10 cent issues although the Postal Service has said nothing official about raising the rates. The engravers also report they are at work designing eight cent post cards, another two cent increase.

Dear Abby

Readers give advice to 'Smells Bad'

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE" wrote to say she was extremely clean about herself and her clothing, but she smelled a terrible odor about herself, which nobody said they smelled, and it was driving her out of her mind.

I had the same problem for four years. Finally my doctor discovered I had diabetes. He put me on a low carbohydrate diet, and the smell left me. CURED NOW

DEAR ABBY: This is my 50th year as a physician and I have seen a number of cases like the one described by "SMELLS BAD."

That person should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist for possible "Ozena" (stink nose), which causes a breath so foul that everything smells bad to her. The condition is the result of a chronic infection in nose and sinuses causing upper respiratory membranes to degenerate.

DEAR ABBY: I also smelled bad and didn't know why. My doctor looked into my navel with a flashlight and that's where the smell was coming from. He cleaned it out and advised me to keep it clean with a bit of cotton on a toothpick, and my problem was solved. ON THE BUTTON

DEAR ABBY: Dr. Marion B. Sultzberger, a famous dermatologist, once told me that he had a patient who had the same problem as "SMELLS BAD." The doctor told the man to remove his gold wedding band. That was the culprit! In some people, their body chemistry and certain metals create a very unpleasant odor.

J. T., CORONA DEL MAR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who smells bad my brother had the same problem. He went to doctors and nobody could help him. Finally an old man told him to drink four ounces of dry white wine four times a day before meals, and again at bedtime. He did in a week and the odor was gone, and he was like a new man. COFFEYVILLE, KAS.

DEAR ABBY: "SMELLS BAD" should make an appointment with her dentist immediately. I had that problem, and didn't know it was caused by an infected wisdom tooth. When my dentist discovered it he was amazed that I did not have a toothache that raised the top of my head. I never had a twinge of pain, but that terrible odor nearby drove me nuts! OKAY NOW

Longwood Council Actions

Maitland Bank Named Depository

City council Monday night on a 3 1/2 vote named the Southeast First National Bank of Maitland depository and paying agent for the city's proposed $2.72 million sewer and water bond issue.

Representatives of both the Maitland Bank and Com-Bank of Casselberry offered to service the special account at no charge.

Lee Barrett, Maitland Bank's senior vice president, said the only charge the city would have to pay is the fee levied by the First National Bank of New York. He said, in addition, he will recommend the Maitland Bank buy $400,000 of the bonds.

Councilman Dick Crenshaw, voting for the Maitland bank, criticized ComBank of Casselberry for its service charge on personal accounts while Maitland bank's services are free. Also, voting in favor were Councilmen B. L. Helms and Bill Klisky.

Councilmen B. H. Ferrell and E. E. Williamson voted no.

New Apartments Planned

After a public hearing Monday night, the city council approved the rezoning of the Greystone Group property (known as the Lake tract), 46.2 acres, on the Longwood-Maitland Road from business district to apartment zoning.

The rezoning request was made at the mayor's request. Jacques said Monday night.

The Greystone Group has another parcel on the Markham Road at Range Line Road (Stump's corner) already zoned for apartments and submitted plans some weeks ago for the development.

There was no opposition to the rezoning.

WORRY CLINIC

Barbara's problem should be of interest to every reader of this column. As a fan game, too, make a hobby of writing down the unique surnames you encounter. And use the booklet below to gain an "A" on English themes, plus business letters!

CASE Y-550: Barbara Kromm, aged 16, asked me for some suggestions for English themes.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "sometimes we are free to select the topic for a theme."

"So what would make an interesting subject?"

SURNAME ORIGINS

I replied that she could easily write several themes on the origin and uniqueness of her surname.

When the world population was small and people lived in groups of 50 to 100 villagers or tribesmen, there might have been no duplication of such names as Bob, Bill, Tom, Dick and Harry.

But soon there might be several Toms so how could they be distinguished easily in conversation?

Well, Tom, the farmer's son, was shortened to Tom Farmer.

And that's how many trade names became attached to our first names, such as Smith, Cooper, Shoemaker, Cook, Miller, Shepherd etc.

Other surnames came from geographical locations, as Tom Meadows vs. Tom Hill, Tom Lake, Tom Rivers etc.

Again, surnames were taken from birds and beasts, like my name Crane, plus Wren, Dove, Bird (Bird), Raven, Nightingale, Quail as well as Beaver, Fox, Wolf, Bear and Lion (Lyon).

You might also write one entire theme on unusual names for I have personally met men named Kneebone, Clinkalcles, Halfacre, Redheffer and a prominent dentist in Indiana has the surname Toothaker.

Colors were also employed for surnames, as Brown, Black, White, Green, Gray etc.

Until recently, Scandinavians merely liked the father's first name, then added "son" or "sen."

Thus, if your father's name was William, they'd call you William Johnson.

But if you then had a son

Free Bus Service Provided

The Seminole County Migrant Service recently started a free bus transportation service to bring migrant and agricultural workers from rural areas of the county to health clinics located in Sanford, Oviedo, Lake Monroe and Goldsboro.

Health specialist in the Migrant Program, Jenny Walker, said the 12-passenger van, purchased in March, is used particularly during the winter months when the population of migrant agricultural workers is at its peak.

Between 10 and 15 persons travel in the bus daily, making the total served since March to some 300 persons.

Many of these persons are migrants qualifying for Division of Family Services aid, said Miss Walker.

However, an increasing number of permanent agricultural workers and other county residents are taking advantage of the bus service to reach the clinics.

She said many persons in Seminole County are without cars.

An estimated 7,000 migrants are residents in Seminole County during the November-December harvest season.

Many have permanent homes in the county and the men only still travel north to harvest summer and fall crops in the Carolinas and New York State.

Community health workers tell prospective clinic patients of the bus service when they are visiting county residents to inform them of health services.

Unions Tiff To Halt Soon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—

AFL-CIO President George Meany says a tentative agreement seems close in a jurisdictional dispute between the Teamsters and Cesar Chavez AFL-CIO United Farm Workers.

Meany said in a report to the AFL-CIO convention Monday.

"I understand the Teamsters executive board is meeting in a week... we have been in touch with their West Coast representative and are hopeful of bringing the agreement to a final consummation," Meany said in a report to the AFL-CIO convention Monday.

A tentative peace pact announced Sept. 28 by Meany and Teamsters boss Frank E. Fitzsimmons has never been implemented.

It called for the Teamsters to abrogate all contracts with California grape growers and to leave eventual representation of all field hands to Chavez' union.

Under the pact, the Teamsters would retain jurisdiction over all other workers, such as those in canneries and warehouses.

Meany refused to go into details, saying only that complications developed.

The growers continue to insist that their contracts with the Teamsters are binding and valid.

In Dual Meet Today Lyman, SNA Harriers Square Off

Two of Seminole County's powerhouse cross country teams square off today at 4 p.m. in round two of a three meet series.

The Seminole County Lyman team will play host to their rivals from the south end of the county—Lyman.

In their first of recent meetings the Harriers emerged the victor behind "back running" and team depth.

In the Seminole County Championship Saturday. Today is their second meeting with Friday the date for the third confrontation, at the SNA Invitational.

Lyman Coach David Huggins is juggling his usual lineup in order to rest certain runners in addition to giving valuable experience to others.

He is especially concerned about the health of his team as they prepare for the Metro Championship, District Championship, and most importantly State Championship.

The first of this threesome is scheduled for November 2, with another meet the following week. Scheduled to challenge the Middle course are Kenny Duncan, Mark Bouquet, Dennis Burns, Jimmy Brinker, Eddie Esch, Jimmy Copeland, and Ray Agurkis.

Agurkis is a questionable starter as he has been hampered by illness in recent weeks. Huggins is also waiting until before meet time before deciding on whether to run Duncan.

He has been sidelined with a virus but Huggins reports that he has been looking better at practice.

With their recent win at the Seminole Championship the Harriers edged their record to 9-1.

In their last meet at SNA the Greyhounds managed to place all their runners in the top 17 and their scoring distancemen in the top 13.

Bousquet was the high funder finishing in third. Seemingly to like the old numbers Lyman also took fifth, seventh, ninth, and thirteenth. In that order were Tom Herron, Burns, Jim Donaldson, and Willie Smith.

Other runners that placed for Lyman were Jimmy Brinker in 15th and Kenny Duncan placed 17th.

Friday in the SNA tournament. The positions of the other Middle runners were Dickens in 16th, Ross, 18th, Steve Odegaard in 19th, Klein, 20th, Van Antwerp, 20th, and Parker placed 30th.

The previous meet was held by rival Flash Bertel of Mt. Dora Bible, who will be at the Sanford site on Friday in the SNA tournament.

World Series, 1984: Peking Vs. Yankees?

NEW YORK (AP) — It is October 1984.

The opening game of the World Series matches the Peking Reds and the New York Yankees.

Preposterous? Not at all, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn says he expects a major league expansion in the next few years, and he'd like to see Japanese teams in the American majors right now.

"It would certainly be possible to have a Pacific League, with American teams from the West Coast and Honolulu, Japanese teams like Tokyo and Osaka, and perhaps Taiwan and Manila.

"And, can Peking be far behind?" asked the commissioner in an interview Monday. His remark was half in jest and half serious.

With improved relations between the West and mainland China and with air travel speeds increasing all the time, there is no reason why athletic teams from the Orient could not compete regularly with Western Hemisphere teams.

Kuhn said baseball is on the verge of expansion—perhaps not immediately, but not before long. He mentioned such cities as Toronto, Seattle, New Orleans and Mexico City as prime candidates.

"We'd like to be playing in Mexico City and Toronto right now," Kuhn said. "There is no reason why not."

Travel is virtually no problem. The flying time from Seattle to Tokyo is less than six hours. West Coast major league teams already are flying more than five hours to get to the East Coast.

Japanese baseball is very well developed and well supported. A number of American ex-player leaguers are playing for Japanese teams.

As far as is known, the sport has not been introduced in mainland China, but Taiwan has an extensive program, and the Taiwan entry in the Little League World Series has won two straight World Titles.

Kuhn sees the possibility of three major leagues, the Pacific League plus two others. He also says realignment of the leagues could lead to divisional playoffs involving seven games instead of five.

A number of U.S. cities, including New Orleans and Seattle, are building dome stadiums. Kuhn would not speculate on when such cities would get major league teams, but said those certainly are in the expansion picture.

Airport Inn Catering For Festive Season

The party season is about to begin. From now until the new year we can look forward to all kinds of celebrations from informal pool parties and barbecues to Christmas banquets and formal balls. As often as not it is the catering that can make or break an event in this season of good cheer when the accent, of course, is on good food appetizingly presented.

The Airport Inn of Sanford, Inc. is a local catering business which offers outstanding services for all occasions. Partners in the business are Leon Walker and Flo Pemberton who have been a Sanford resident for 27 years, and has been in the restaurant and catering trade all that time. Mrs. Pemberton is also a long-time Sanford resident, who has been connected with the catering trade most of her life. You're in good hands when you hire the services of these two experienced caterers. They are in such popular demand, in fact, that they are already taking bookings for Christmas breakfasts and other yuletide affairs. If you have some special celebration in mind and want to produce an enchanting tropical effect in the banquet room which can hold up to 200 persons. They can arrange for floral decorations too.

The Airport Inn will cater for up to 1,000 persons, or for an intimate gathering of just two or three couples. Private house parties, club affairs, poolside barbecues and picnics out of doors are all within their realm. They also offer a take-out service, where you can call in your order and collect it at the appropriate time.

Talk with these caterers about the delicious hors d'oeuvres they prepare, the mouth watering desserts. Their barbecues are famous, and their snack platters keep you coming back for more...and more!

For efficient, reliable catering service, call the professionals at the Airport Inn.

Perhaps collecting interesting and unusual accessories is your hobby? B & E is packed full of inspiration! There is always a good selection of lamps, both electric and kerosene, for example. And while you're there check out all the old pictures. You might not be wild about the pictures, but what about the lovely old frames?

Both Betty and Ethel are antique glass specialists. A special section of their store is set aside for the large, and growing, glass collection.

Browse through the attractive displays of antique and collectible glass which includes an outstanding selection of depression glass, and excellent samples of old pressed pattern glass. There is plenty of Parfy American also, including the popular kerosene lanterns and fine old jugs and crocks so favored by interior decorators.

At present the two women are preparing for the annual Depression Glass Show to be held January in Sanford.

B & E Furniture is worth calling on—often. Betty and Ethel attend auctions regularly, buying single items and entire estates. Every time you stop by, there's sure to be a new item of interest in the store.

Buy, sell or deliver—Betty and Ethel do it all three!

SOMETHING NEW under the English Channel sun will be a seagoing Volkswagen if Mike Gehrke doesn't get wet during trial runs. Gehrke, of Hanover, West Germany, plans to make the Channel trial in his six-mile-an-hour, did-it-himself amphibious model early in 1974.

2 Americans, 1 Briton Win Nobel

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The 1973 Nobel Prize for Physics was awarded jointly today to two Americans, Leo Esaki and Ivar Giaever, and a Briton, Brian Josephson.

The three winners were announced after lengthy deliberation by the Royal Academy of Science which cited the two Americans for "their experimental discoveries regarding tunneling phenomena in semiconductors and superconductors, respectively."

Josephson was cited for "his theoretical predictions of the properties of a supercurrent through a tunnel barrier, in particular, those phenomena which are generally known as Josephson effects."

Japanese-born Esaki, who works with the IBM Corp., and Norwegian-born Giaever, who works for General Electric, share one half of the $120,000 prize, while the other half goes to Josephson of Cambridge University.

The decision was delayed for more than two hours with four choices — one a last-minute outsider — being discussed during the academy's general session.

The tunneling phenomena in solids for which Josephson, Esaki and Giaever were singled out belong to the most direct consequences of the laws of modern physics, the awarding body stressed. They belong to the area of quantum physics.

The initial pioneering discovery on the tunneling phenomena was made by Esaki in the late 1950s when he was working for the Sony Corp. in Japan.

The next important step was taken by Giaever in 1960. His experiments gave a very direct evidence for the existence of the so-called energy gap in a superconductor.

This was one of the key predictions in the microscopic theory of superconductivity developed by John Bardeen, Leon Cooper and John Robert Schrieffer, for whom were awarded last year's physics prize for their joint theory.

Then, the United States made a clean sweep of the physics and chemistry prizes with Bardeen — one of the inventors of the transistor — a unique double physics winner.

"Pablo Casals was one of the greatest musicians of all time and the greatest cellist," said Eugene Ormandy, the music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra. "His love of people was probably the reason for his rich and long life."

He moved to Puerto Rico in 1955. Two years later, at the age of 80, he married his pupil, 20-year-old Marietta Montanera. It was Casals' fourth marriage and her first. She was at his bedside when he died.

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Clifford Irving, who is serving a two-year conspiracy and grand larceny sentence for faking the Howard Hughes autobiography, is literally counting away the days at the Danbury federal prison.

BERLIN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt led his party's parliamentary delegation into the restored Reichstag building, marking the first time in more than three years that a meeting was held by the Social Democrats in West Berlin.

Mideast Truce Is Ignored

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Hard fighting continued today on both fronts of the Arab-Israeli war despite the cease-fire ordered by Israel and Egypt Monday night.

The military correspondent of Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported that Egyptian and Israeli forces were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Israel charged the Egyptians with "incessant" cease-fire violations and said its forces in the southern sector of the Suez Canal front had been ordered to continue fighting to counter Egyptian attacks in that area.

Egypt accused the Israelis of seizing new positions during the night, particularly on the west bank of the canal, and said that Israeli planes bombed and strafed the Egyptian forces.

It said this "compels our forces to use force to strike at the Israeli forces in the positions occupied after the cease-fire."

Israel also reported a big air battle over the Syrian front and claimed its pilots shot down 10 Syrian planes during the morning.

Syrian planes during the morning. Syria charged that Israeli planes and artillery were attacking villages in the eastern foothills of Mt. Hebron.

An earlier Israeli communiqué reported heavy Egyptian fire Monday night and said, "toward the end of the night the shooting lessened but did not cease completely."

Several hours later a second announcement in Tel Aviv reported: "At daybreak the Egyptians opened heavy fire on Israeli forces on the western bank of the Suez Canal on the central sector."

There was no immediate word on Israeli retaliation in that area, but an official of the Israeli command said after the earlier reports of Egyptian firing that the Israeli forces "showed as much restraint as was possible before returning fire."

Damascus Radio announced that the Syrian government was still studying the Egyptian resolution voted early Monday by the U.N. Security Council.

Observers in nearby southern Lebanon said the sounds of fighting seemed to die out on the Syrian front just before the cease-fire hour, and Associated Press correspondent Alex Eby reported from Damascus that artillery flashes were not visible there Monday night for the first time since the war began.

Israel, Syria's major military ally and one of the most outspoken Arab enemies of Israel, rejected the cease-fire. Jordan, which has about 8,000 troops with the Syrian forces, said Monday it would accept the resolution if Syria did, noting that its forces in Syria are technically under the Syrian command.

But there was no public word Monday to get peace talks under way. Sir Laurence McNairy of Australia, the council chairman for October, said no council member had approached him about scheduling a meeting for today, and diplomats at U.N. headquarters did not expect a session until next week.

The combined operations are forcing the enemy to fall back east while savage bombardment of enemy rockets on the west bank have reduced them to virtually nothing," he said.

An Egyptian military spokesman charged that Israeli tanks and tanks were carrying out "combat operations ... on several occasions."

The cease-fire resolution said negotiations toward a lasting peace agreement should start immediately and concurrently with the cease-fire under appropriate auspices. "A U.N. spokesman said the Security Council would determine the appropriate auspices for the negotiations."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who worked out the cease-fire proposal in Moscow over the weekend with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev, returned to Washington early today after talks Monday with Israeli and British officials. He had nothing to say to newsmen on his arrival, but a report of his trip was promised later in the day by the White House.

It was clear, however, that initial reaction to the President's reversal was favorable. "Thank God," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. "I'm glad it came to pass," said Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss.

It was a day of surprising events. Here is where things stood when the dust settled:

Impeach Nixon Cries Are Fading

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's promise to surrender nine Watergate tapes has blunted an impeachment initiative, but hasn't stilled calls for a new special prosecutor.

President Nixon, reported concentrating on Middle East developments, canceled plans for a Wednesday night address to the nation on Watergate and instead scheduled a broadcast news conference for 9 p.m. EDT Thursday.

He was expected to appeal for national unity in the wake of Monday's startling about-face, when he surprised even his closest advisers by deciding to obey a federal appeals court order on the tapes.
