

Twenty Men Have Been Signed For Sanford Ball Club

Approximately 20 men have been signed to play baseball for Sanford in the Florida State League, Henry Watson, proxy of the local baseball Association, stated today, but failed to reveal the identity of any of the prospective members of the roster.

The season opener is scheduled for a month from today in the local park against the DeLand outfit which was one of the top ranking teams in the League last season. The localites are scheduled to begin practice on the local field on April 1.

Mr. Watson stated that he had signed a number of players and that additional prospects are being signed by Manager Lacy who is making a trip through several States in quest of material from which the local team will be built.

The local proxy also indicated that at least 25 to 30 players will be signed by Apr. 1 and that Sanford's team this year will be selected from this group.

Regarding a name for the local outfit, Mr. Watson stated that "it will probably be Lookouts right on." He said, however, that he didn't know definitely as yet what the team will be called and would not know for another week.

Uniforms which may be used, are equipped with the name "Lookouts" in large letters and will probably not be changed.

Tokyo Confirmed As Site Of Olympics

CAIRO, Egypt, Mar. 17.—(AP)—Defeating opposition from China on the one hand and the United States, Great Britain and France on the other, the International Olympic committee yesterday confirmed Tokyo as site of the 1940 Olympic games and changed the dates to Sept. 21 to Oct. 6.

Japan's right to hold the games was upheld despite a proposal by the Chinese delegates, Dr. C. T. Wang, that the games not be held in any country at war.

A communique from the I. O. C. said the proposal did not come to a vote. The communique stated that in view of the Olympic charter and assurances Tokyo was able to prepare for the games, the I. O. C. was "unable to consider" the request to hold the games elsewhere.

The change in the dates, originally set for Aug. 25 to Sept. 8, was regarded as a serious blow to the United States by Avery Brundage of Chicago, one of the American delegates. "The United States will be affected especially by the change," said Brundage, "since American college athletes now will be unable to compete." The new dates conflict with the opening of college terms.

Citrus Leader To Seek Advantage For Florida Fruit

LAKELAND, Mar. 17.—(AP)—Chairman John Maszy, of the Florida citrus commission, will appear before the committee on reciprocity information in Washington Friday to urge inclusion of citrus fruits in any reciprocal trade agreement with Great Britain, including the dominions. Accompanying him as he left yesterday were R. E. Bauman, secretary and John D. Clark, Waverly, a member.

Florida citrus leaders already in Washington will hold a conference today at 4 o'clock. Among those already there are C. E. Lindsey, of Lakeland, president of the Florida Citrus Fruit Canners Association, and E. O. Ramsey and Jack Welch of Orlando.

The committee on reciprocity has been meeting for three days, but citrus matters do not come up for discussion until Friday.

The city commission officially went out of the real estate business today by turning over to licensed real estate brokers the sale of its properties. In the past several months the city has dealt directly with buyers in the turnover of considerable foreclosed property.

Farmer Takes Up Art But Won't Paint Vases

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Mar. 17.—(AP)—When farmer Francis Bender, 75, was a boy he wanted to be an artist.

But he couldn't do much toward reaching his goal because, as he puts it, "teacher would make you stand in front of the class if you so much as drew a picture on your slate."

So he grew up to be a farmer. Now retired, he has taken up art for "pleasure and relaxation." He has his own ideas about drawing which even his art teacher can't change. When a display of vases was arranged for some work in still life sketches he said:

"I don't want to paint that. I want to paint a horse."

"Beauty is where you find it. Farm life is familiar to me and I find beauty in a horse, a cow, a granary and even a pig pen."

'Herr Schmidt' Would Not Pass Forty Years Ago

LOUISVILLE, Mar. 17.—(AP)—"Herr Schmidt," Sebastian Weisbach's adoption of a German folk dance, would not go 40 years ago but Dr. Weisbach thinks it ought to now.

The 81-year-old composer, a former swimming instructor in the German army, explains why: "I see all these dances the young people do—the Big Apple and the Susie Q, and there are others. I say to myself, Sebastian, the time is ripe for Herr Schmidt."

Dr. Weisbach persuaded the orchestra leader at the Turner hall, where he tried out his star four decades ago, to play his dance piece, the first line of which verse going, "Herr Schmidt, Herr Schmidt, was bringt das Gretchen mit."

On the word "Schmidt," Dr. Weisbach and his partner, comely Mrs. Freda Krupp, both dressed in costume, faced each other holding hands and skipped forward in an easy, gay motion. A brisk two-step filled in between the frequent "Herr Schmidt."

The song goes on to tell of the lucky Herr Schmidt, among other things a feather hat and a veil, a horse and a calf and three acres of land in grass.

It wasn't long before the couple had the floor crowded with younger Turners moving to the tone of the rattling ballad.

Whose Fight?

During the present crisis in Europe it might be well to fix firmly in mind, or perhaps to jot down on a piece of paper, important events of the day, so that in years to come when it is time to pay the bill for the resulting destruction and chaos of the next World War, we will know exactly where to place the responsibility.

As we remember it now, the last World War was caused by greedy international bankers and the munition makers who so manipulated things as to make one country fight another, and vast armies slaughter each other by the millions, just so that customers could be found for bullets, cannon, and similar products of the armament factories.

It can hardly be said, however, that if Adolf Hitler invades Czechoslovakia, as he did Austria, in response to appeals of millions of Germans, and a World War develops as a consequence, the international bankers will be to blame. Nor will the fault rest upon the munition makers if the Polish premier in response to the demands of hundreds of thousands of Polish citizens parading the streets of Warsaw sends an army against the Lithuanians.

As we see it, it is the people of Europe who are demanding war today. Hitler may be said to be primarily responsible for the aggressive acts of the German empire, but he is acting only because the German people are themselves demanding the return of their lost colonies and a higher degree of prosperity for themselves, even at the sacrifice of their neighbors.

In France it is the parties of the left, the socialists, communists, and in general the workers, who have been demanding that France intervene in the Spanish civil war, and who are now most vociferous in their appeals for support of Czechoslovakian independence. It is the bankers and other conservative interests who are telling France to keep out of it.

It is the same in England. Chamberlain is the leader of the Conservative Party. His support comes from the bankers, big business, and we dare say even from munition interests. And he is the one who has been trying to maintain friendly relations with Germany and Italy. The cry for drastic military action both against Hitler's aggressions and in the Spanish war comes from the people.

It seems to us that the people are right. Our own idea of the situation is that England and France will have to fight Germany and Italy sooner or later and that they are in a better position to win such a war now than they will be a few years hence after Hitler and Mussolini have built for themselves gigantic empires in Central Europe and around the Mediterranean.

But it is well to remember that it is the people themselves who are starting this war, and that the bankers, business men and commercial interest in general are leaning over backward in their efforts to avoid military action.

Troy Re-Discovered

Persons who are wondering where their next meal is coming from, who is going to finance their next year's celery crop, or whether they will be marching off to war in another month or two, will be interested to learn that in the face of all that is happening in the world, the archaeologists have by no means been idle. They have just announced they are now in a position to prove beyond all question of doubt that the site of Troy was where they thought it was all the time and not at some other more or less indefinite location.

"It has been recently affirmed that archaeologists are now satisfied that the problem of the position of ancient Troy has been solved, and that the site known by that name at present was actually that of Homer's town," says the Christian Science Monitor. "The savants have had to mine deeply for their information; for the 'topless towers of Ilium' lie very low today. As many cities, one beneath the other, have contended for the honor of inspiring Homer, as once contended for the honor of having bred him."

"The verdict is not to be doubted. But authentic as these crumbling ruins must be, they are not the real foundations of Troy—those lie deeper than the spade can reach. Nevertheless, there is another aspect, and in the reconstruction of the past, anything that goes to confirm Homer as an historian, and hence allows him to be looked to for further clues, is of importance, and is one more reward for the long and arduous work that has been carried out on this spot."

And now that this momentous question is definitely settled, we can all breathe a sigh of relief that nothing more serious resulted from this prolonged uncertainty.

STANDARD NEWSPAPER PRACTICE
 FORT MYERS NEWS-PRESS

The Ocala Star, which usually takes us to task for annually pointing out that the Florida Waterways Congress is merely a stodge for the ship canal crowd, failed to administer its scolding this year, probably because it is the cat out of the bag itself about the time we were identifying the yowl.

The Star admitted that the waterways congress had the ship canal act off the stump piece by trying to make something of the circumstances that the Orlando Sentinel, which it branded as "none too friendly" to the canal, had sent staff reporters to Mount Dora, in other words deducing that since the Sentinel noticed the waterways congress it must have asked us toward the canal. Martin Anderson, publisher of the Sentinel, promptly took care of that by replying that the meeting took place in the territory which his paper serves and that there was no connection between the Sentinel's editorial policy and its coverage of news events. As that is a standard newspaper practice, which the Star itself observes, the answer had to be accepted as sufficient but it left the Star in the position which it had previously been at pains to deny.

This incoherence may be due to the fact that there is no longer any reason to deny it. The management of the waterways congress, by headlining such ship canal agents as General Summerall, has made the purpose so clear that meetings are now attended principally by canal promoters and there is no point in deceiving them as to what they are there for. Also, it doesn't matter much any more. The "congress" was originally devised to get the ship canal on a list with neotoma projects elsewhere in Florida and thus to get the waterway interests to go to the fall of the line the canal. But, with everybody wise to what is going on, including Washington—the stunts has lost much of its usefulness and is now chiefly of value as a means of getting some canal publicity once a year.

There is no objection to that. Publicity is a racket anybody can engage in, and no one should be envious of any canal booster who is getting General Summerall to tell how he would risk his doughboys on ocean transportation with both our coasts under attack. The objection comes when interests promoting the West Coast inland waterway of Nicaragua and Miami harbor improvements are represented as being equally in favor of the ship canal. They positively are not and any attempt to cast them in that role is sootiful, even when done with occasional consent woefully lacking in knowledge.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Stalking a spot of late lunch in a Madison avenue theatre the other day I came upon John O'Hara, the excellent-Tribune reporter who gave up newspapering several years ago to become a successful novelist.

The big fellow said he has a new book due next week, and when I asked him what it was about, he replied: "It's about some young people who live in Hollywood—but are not in the movies." John, you'll recall, won his first fame with "Appointment in Samarra," a novel which caused the critics to express acute disappointment in his second book by heading their reviews, "Disappointment in O'Hara."

But he has high hopes for this new one. He is a bridegroom now, and like the Duke of Windsor, "a happily married man." When I saw him he had just checked out the Algonquin and was heading for a place on Long Island, where he'll rest and, more probably, complete a book of short stories promised for fall. He also was thumbing through a copy of "Man Against Himself," a bulky, heavy tome which he said was "All right, but not to be taken in lengthy doses."

Later in the day I wandered up 54th street with Helen Deutsch, and she was nice enough to mention a recent column in Alexander Woollcott's debut as a dramatic actor.

"But you don't have to worry about Woollcott now," she told me. "He's all actor. There is evidence." "What do you mean?" I demanded, remembering the eight years it has been since Woollcott appeared briefly in "Brief Moments." "Oh," explained Helen, "we caught him in his dressing room the other day, correcting proofs of a magazine article with an eye-brow pencil."

The only memorial to General Pershing in New York is a trio of lamp posts across from Grand Central. This is what is laughingly called Pershing Square, but anyone visiting there would be hard put to recognize it as a Square. Actually, it is nothing

Tiny Red Raiders Threaten Timber Of 2-Big States

Texas Town Ants Are Menace To Program Of Reforestation

ALEXANDRIA, La., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Tiny red raiders threaten the timber resources of two big states. Scores of foresters and CCC workers are engaged in a war to the finish with the raider—Attis toxans.

In everyday language, the destructive menace is the plain Texas town ant; to the government's reforestation program in Louisiana and East Texas, it's public enemy No. 1.

The insects, amazingly organized into colonies of soldiers, workers and royalty, cut off the foliage of pine seedlings and the plants wither and die. Some 200,000 acres of national forest and probably ten times that many acres of privately owned land in the rolling hill country of the two states are involved.

In the sections infected most seriously, the ants were nullifying all that nature and the United States Forest Service were doing in reforestation. Then experts discovered that a few ounces of carbon disulfide would end their depredations.

Immediately the Forest Service organized ant-killing crews of 100 men each to combat the menace from November through March—the period of maximum damage.

Scouts go ahead and mark each ant hole with a stake. Then come CCC workers armed with cans of the chemical, fannels and rubber hoses. Into the ant hole goes the rubber tube and down the funnel and tubs two ounces of potent carbon disulfide.

When the tube is withdrawn and the opening closed with the heel, suffocating fumes sink into every gallery and chamber of the colony, asphyxiating the ants.

This treatment applied triply strips over the entire territory, appears to be almost 100 percent effective. Foresters expect to have vigorous young pines growing soon on vast areas left barren by timber cutting and fires.

Forestry experts reported they found each ant colony had a carefully guarded chamber that housed a ruling class apparently composed of a queen and her consort with prince and princesses that later will form new colonies.

They also found fierce-lawed soldier ants policing the colonies and directing workers. The worker ants climb trees, cut the leaves and drop them in segments to carriers. Carriers take the segments below ground where they are stored by "starving" ants. The ants do not eat the leaves. It is reported, but not the least significant, to make underground gardens that produce a fungus which the ants feed on. A supply of fungus is taken to plant gardens in each new colony.

Bees Are Friend Of Watermelon Grower

LEESBURG, Mar. 17.—In addition to their value as honey producers, bees are a friend in need of the Florida watermelon grower.

In fact, according to C. C. Goff, assistant entomologist at the local branch of the State Experiment Station, the early watermelon producer would have a hard time making a profit on his crop if it were not for bees. Watermelon flowers, Mr. Goff says, are pollinated largely if not entirely by bees and the grower who has plenty of these insects near his melon field is fortunate. Barring attacks from insect pests, diseases and wet weather, he can feel fairly sure his crop will be good and early enough to reach the Northern markets in time to bring the high prices prevailing during the first two weeks of the season.

When Menendez Discovered Tegesta!

Invisible Half-Soling
 No Seam Visible.

The Old Way

It was in 1567 that Menendez, an exploring Spaniard, arrived off the coast of Florida where Tegesta is now located. He found a curious little village that was called Tegesta. After landing a quantity of his troops and some provisions in the morning, he went out to hunt for a deer. As he was returning to the camp he saw a deer and he shot it. The deer was very fat and he had a large quantity of venison. He took some of the venison and he ate it. He was very hungry and he was very tired. He had been on the sea for many days and he had not seen land for a long time. He was very happy to see the deer and to see the venison. He had found a new source of food and he was very glad. He had discovered Tegesta!

CZECHOSLOVAKIA NEXT GOAL OF DER FUEHRER?

Having annexed Austria as just another state in the German Reich, Adolf Hitler looks eastward toward Czechoslovakia, held in the pinchers of the new Germany. The black area shows where the population of Czechoslovakia is predominantly German. The Nazi dream is the unification of all Germans and in this area there are 3,500,000 of them.

AUSTRIANS HAIL GERMAN TROOPS ARRIVING AT LUTZ

Transported in armored cars and tanks, German Nazi troops are shown in this radiophoto as they arrived at Linz, Austria, and were greeted by masses of cheering, saluting Austrians. These troops and thousands of others spread out over the country in the bloodless coup that brought about union of Austria with Germany.

'T WAS A SPECTACLE WHEN THE KENNEDYS SAILED

It looked like a convention or something of the sort when one section of the Joseph P. Kennedy family sailed from New York for London to join the new United States ambassador to the Court of St. James. Leaving out all the miscellaneous cameramen, reporters, sightseers and such in the foreground, those facing the camera, left to right, are: Daughter Kathleen, 18; J. F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Kennedy's father who used to be mayor of Boston; Mrs. Fitzgerald, son Robert, 13; Joe Gargan, playmate of the younger Kennedys; Mrs. Kennedy, son Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., 22, who is not sailing; son-in-law, daughter Jean, 10; daughter Patricia, 14. Kennedy already is in London. The rest of his nine children will make up a third contingent sailing later in the spring.

NAZI EMBLEM UP IN AIR

Up in air over Graz, Austria, demonstrations in which forbidden Nazi emblem even appeared on balloons are other nations, fearful of Hitler's expanding influence.

FLEEING AUSTRIA

Wilhelm Miklas (top), president of Austria, and Karl Vaugoin (below), war minister in the Dollfus cabinet, fled the country after Austria ceased to be a nation and became a part of Adolf Hitler's German Reich.

SWASTIKA FLIES OVER VIENNA

This radiophoto of a man waving a swastika flag of Nazi Germany from the balcony of the Austrian chancellery at Vienna signifies the success of the fantastically bloodless coup that overnight made Austria German and Nazi.

FARMERS VOTE ON MARKETING

C. J. Camp, cotton farmer of Fairburn, Ga., here casts his ballot as producers in 20 states voted to decide whether the federal government shall limit marketing of cotton and two types of tobacco in 1938. Farmers voted in all but four of Georgia's counties. In Fulton county, where Camp voted, cotton sales restrictions was the only issue.

DEATH RIDES TORNA DO'S BLACK FUNNEL

This rare picture shows the approach of a terrifying tornado that killed at least seven persons and demolished numerous buildings at Belleville, Ill. A few moments after the daring photographer snapped the view of the funnel-like black cloud moving in from the southwest, the wind struck a section of the town with full fury. Its ravages were concentrated within four square blocks.

DEMOLISHED HOUSES LITTER TORNADO'S PATH

The tornado, which struck Belleville, Ill., with a death toll of at least seven, left numerous demolished houses in its wake. Here's a view of the town's grade school with the top floor ripped away. School had been dismissed for the day and no children were within the building when the wind struck.

LUISE RAINER AND TRACY HONORED BY HOLLYWOOD

Hailed as No. 1 stars of the 1937 film year were Spencer Tracy (left) and Viennese actress Luise Rainer, who is shown at right with her playwright-husband Clifford Odets shortly after being informed that she was selected for the annual movie academy award for her outstanding performance in 'The Good Earth.' Miss Rainer also won the award last year. Tracy received his 'Oscar' statuette for his characterization of a Portuguese sailor in 'Captains Courageous.' The awards were made in Hollywood by Louis B. Mayer, studio executive.

Barcelona Raids Continue While Casualties Grow

A government communique said their forces had been forced by the overwhelming rebel power to evacuate both Caspe and Alcoriza, small towns dominating the Alcaniz-Mon Alban highway.

After giving up the desperate resistance at these two points, where the powerful rebel advance had been held up temporarily, the government fighters dropped back into the mountains to hastily thrown up defenses.

Regains Momentum ... Evidence that the rebel advance had regained its momentum and was moving south was indicated by a government announcement of heavy fighting on the Alcaniz-Morella road. The rebels were reported to have been repulsed there.

Rebel reports said five international brigades were dispersed in the capture of Caspe and hundreds of foreigners taken prisoner. Caspe had been heavily fortified by the government defenders and was the last stronghold in the path of the rebel left-wing except for Faldes, only 10 miles from the Mediterranean and key to the coastal city of Tarragona.

The city had served as general headquarters for the government's eastern army with large supply depots and airports. Rebel center columns apparently attempted to new forward thrusts to break up the flanking columns to move up before continuing on toward the sea.

The French government closed its Spanish frontier between Hendaya and Irun to the passage of all merchandise. No reason was given for the move. Persons were still allowed to pass in either direction.

ARRESTED FOR HIS MUSIC

Music may have the charms to soothe the savage breast, but to Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton, one of President Abraham Lincoln's cabinet members, a certain tune had exactly the opposite effect.

The trouble with his first success, Winner recalled, was that he had written it under a girl's name—Alice Hawthorne. Again, he had sold the copyright to the publishers, Lee and Walker, for a mere $25 and they had sold no less than 20,000 copies.

His new song and immediately 80,000 copies were from the presses, were circulated through Union army camps. The tune caught on and spread like wildfire.

Another thing he would try to do would be to help the tourist trade for Florida; to help develop trade with South America where vast unexploited markets exist and to help improve the harbors and rivers of the state.

Referring again to his record as chief executive of Florida, Sholtz said that while he had not over twice as much money from the state as ever before, the county received a total of $1,500,000 of state and federal funds during his administration, he asserted.

Another thing he got for the people of the state he said, was the Homestead Exemption Act, which enables persons to own their own homes up to a value of $5,000 without paying taxes on it.

As he closed his plea for votes from citizens of Sanford and Seminole County he said "with every faith in the future of our beloved state, and with the help of Almighty God, I please you as your next United States Senator to do everything possible to make Florida our leading 'Citrus State'."

Today he will speak in Mount Dora, Bayard, Wildwood, Inverness, Crystal River, and Brooksville.

Germany Demands Czechs Quit Pact With Soviet Russia

Hitler Makes End Of Russian Alliance Basis For Talks To Eliminate Friction

Czech-Germans Are Recognized

3,500,000 Nazis Are Given Voice In Government Of Czechs

COPENHAGEN, Mar. 18. (AP)—The German government today announced that it had decided to demand that the Czechs quit their pact with Soviet Russia. The demand was made in a note to the Czech government today.

PRAHA, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources today asserted that Adolf Hitler had demanded that Czechoslovakia renounce her military alliance with Soviet Russia as the price of peace with Germany.

The demand, said to have been conveyed to President Benes through diplomatic channels, was reported as the Czech government confronted with other German demands and gave 3,500,000 Germans within their borders a greater voice in the government. The end of the Russian alliance is said to be Hitler's basic condition for any talks to lessen Czech-German friction.

Referendum On Hospital Project Set For May 10

County Bond Issue Of $85,000 Needed For $180,395 Hospital

A referendum on the issuance of bonds for the proposed Seminole County hospital will be held on the second Tuesday in May according to a resolution unanimously adopted by the Seminole County Commissioners at a special meeting in the Court House today.

The request, made of the Commissioners at their regular meeting, that the referendum, called for in a petition signed by over 300 freeholders in the County, be held in connection with the Democratic Primary on May 3, was declared inadvisable by County Attorney E. F. Housholder who said that while he was unable to find any legal objections to holding the referendum at that time, "I am of the opinion that it would not be a good policy."

The County Attorney further explained that the Democratic Primary was open only to white Democratic voters and that the referendum should include negro freeholders as well as Republicans and also that separate bonds and ballot boxes will be required for referendum ballots and that these are at present not available.

The motion that the election be called for May 10 was made by Commissioner D. L. Thrasher and was seconded by Commissioner W. B. Ballard.

Under the original set-up it was proposed that a PWA grant be secured for the construction of the hospital.

BLAZING FIERCELY, THE BOREALES CARRIES 600 MEN TO DEATH

Blazing from stem to stern, with 600 men either drowned or screaming in agony from the raging fire, the Spanish insurgent cruiser Boreales heads for the bottom after its tragic encounter with the government cruiser Lepanto. This exclusive picture was taken for the Associated Press by Lieutenant Milne-Holton from the quarter-deck of the British destroyer Kompendell, in foreground. After the Lepanto's torpedo, which caught the doomed vessel amidships, had set the magazines afire, six air bombs were dropped to finish off the job. The Kompendell's searchlight reveals a horrible sight. As the Boreales burns and sinks, panic-stricken men can be seen lining the deck and sliding down ropes. Down below are rescued floating in the water as they strike out for the two British ships standing nearby. Of the 800 men aboard only 200 were rescued.

Hitler And Mussolini Celery Shipments May Control Old World Cut Two-Thirds In Drastic Prorate

NEW YORK, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Centuries Hitler and Mussolini have proceeded far enough in their brotherhood of conquest to make clear the appalling fact that they are out to dominate the old world between them, each having his assigned sphere of influence.

Hitler also wants Russia's rich Ukraine. Other countries which he doesn't actually annex, he hopes to control through iron-clad economic pacts.

Mussolini's piece in the sun is the great Mediterranean zone which is now dominated by Britain.

Within 1100 miles of operation, Hitler and Mussolini are concerned, through his own deeds and fiery speeches, supplemented by the renegade words he has uttered in the months of his noisy campaign.

Such a setup would give Italy four. His position now is too plain for comfort, and it is this: He contemplates creation of a vast and powerful Germanic empire which will dominate Europe.

Shipping Allotment Of 33.62 Agreed On At Lakeaid Meet

In view of the heavy shipments of celery during the past week, and the continued downward trend of the celery market, members of the Celery Control Committee at a regular meeting in Lakeaid yesterday afternoon recommended a shipping allotment of 33.62 percent for the coming week.

This is by far the most drastic prorate since the operation of the Control Committee but was deemed advisable in view of the present condition of the celery market.

It was reported at the meeting that the available supply was lower than last week but the amount ready for shipment during the coming week only 220 cars will be marketed.

In addition to the drastic prorate, shippers today also decided to declare a shipping holiday on all commercial shipments on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday and to distribute shipments as evenly as possible over the remainder of the week.

Although members of the Control Committee last night requested the Surplus Commodities Corporation to purchase 100 cars of the surplus for relief distribution during the coming week, information received from Washington today indicated that the CCC could purchase the 100 cars at not more than 50 cents per crate, 40 cents to the grower and a similar amount to the shipper.

Youth Societies Call For 22,000 Volunteers In 10 Days

BARCELONA, Mar. 19.—(AP)—This capital of government Spain today gave evidence that its determination to fight on has survived two days of the most terrific air raids of the civil war.

Barcelona is the junction point of a highway connecting Caspe, which the insurgents captured two days ago, with the main route between Valencia and Madrid.

London, next main center in the path of the southeast drive is only 20 miles shy from the Mediterranean though blocked off from it by mountains which would force the invading army to take a longer sweep to reach the seacoast.

The insurgents announced 2000 government fighters, most of whom were foreign volunteers, were killed in the fall of Caspe.

Regarding her departure, Capt. R. E. Rose, commanding officer of the Citadel, declared "I regret very much that this transfer has been ordered by the Divisional Commander since I appreciate a great deal the willing spirit and untiring efforts of the Lieutenant."

Prompt Capitulation By Little Country Averts War Threatening World Peace

Warsaw Crowds Said Disappointed Over Peaceful Solution

WARSAW, Mar. 19.—(AP)—The Lithuanian capitulation to Polish demands for normal commercial and diplomatic relations — demands backed up by a great show of Polish arms on the troubled frontier — today averted a clash that might have plunged all Europe into war.

The announcement of the successful conclusion of Poland's ultimatum-back drive for friendly relations with its little northern neighbor found Polish infantry, artillery, cavalry, tanks and planes concentrated on the border facing Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital.

The ultimatum expiring at 9:00 o'clock tonight demanded, as its foremost point, that the Lithuanian and Polish ministers in Tallinn, capital of neutral Estonia, exchange notes before the deadline establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Lithuania's poorly equipped army of 24,000 men is outnumbered ten to one by the fighting forces of Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Poland's virtual dictator who had assumed his war-time command.

The Lithuanian Parliament, or Diet, was convened today to hear the government's answer to the ultimatum.

The wildest demonstrations last night occurred at Vilna, medieval city of 200,000 and Lithuania's Polish born Joseph Pilsudski, Vilna was seized from Lithuania by the Polish freebooter, Gen. Lucien Zeligowski, on Oct. 9, 1920.

NEWARK, N. J., Mar. 19.—(AP)—Thomas J. Donegan, special agent in charge of the New Jersey division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today the arrest of a man in the Peter Levine kidnaping case. Donegan refused any further information and referred questions to the Attorney General's department in Washington.
