Sanford, Florida 32711—Price 10 Cents

Sanford Group, County Win Grant $20,000 For Downtown Development

Greater Sanford Development Corp. (GSDC) has received a $20,000 grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) for general administration and planning of the revitalization of downtown Sanford.

$3.4 Million Okayed For Five Points Jail

Sheriff John Polk said today that the federal Economic Development Administration has approved a $3.4 million grant for construction of a new 220-bed Seminole County Jail at Five Points on Sanford's south side.

The federal grant must be matched by $6,668 from GSDC, said consultant Sara Jacobson.

"We applied for the grant in March," said Miss Jacobson, "but there was a lot of red tape involved. We're glad it finally came through."

Polk said the bids on the project may come in low enough to allow construction of the exterior of the administrative offices within the $3.4 million of federal funds.

Teacher Panel Accepts School Pact Offer

The Seminole Education Association has accepted a school board offer for teachers in neighboring Orange County, said Gene Grooms, executive director of SEA.

"Our team is relieved we got the contract and will take effect retroactively, beginning Aug. 26, the date the teachers first returned to school," said Grooms.

The contract will go to the school board and teachers for ratification "as soon as it is typed, but that may take a while because my secretary is tied up with our negotiations with three other unions that work for the school district," said Cowley.

Roumillat's Closing In 56th Year

After 55 years in business at 100 E. First Street in Sanford, Roumillat's Drug Store, an institution unto itself in the county seat, will close its doors to business Saturday.

And on Sept. 12, Francis Roumillat Jr., who worked in the store when it was operated by his father, Francis Roumillat II, from his youth until he took over completely after his father's retirement in 1970, will be a pharmacist at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Selection Criteria Detailed To Fill Commission Spot

Several weeks of speculation surrounding the selection procedure of who would replace John Kimbrough as Seminole County Commissioner of District 2 was put to rest last night.

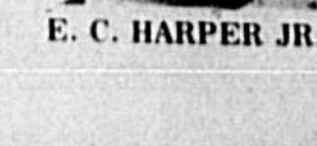

Gov. Reubin Askew has set forth a three-point criteria for eligibility, according to E.C. Harper Jr., the governor's spokesman.

Harper said he would then forward his committee's recommendations along with resumes from all other applicants to Gov. Askew for judgment by Sept. 12. Harper also has been given a packet containing all 24 resumes and a ballot. Each rating committee member individually will review the resumes and using the point system will rate the applicants from 1 to 24. The ballots would then be returned to Harper and the procedure would be repeated until a final selection of the four applicants receiving the most points have been selected.

'Son Of Sam': His Trial Now In Doubt

NEW YORK (AP) — In the first of a series of psychiatric examinations, David Berkowitz, accused as the "Son of Sam" killer, has been found unfit to be tried, but one prosecutor says further tests will clear the way for a trial.

Legal experts say a final court ruling of incompetence would mean that the suspect would be confined to a state facility for the criminally insane for an indefinite period. If his mental state improved, he could be brought to trial, assuming that witnesses were still available, but it is also possible that within a few years all charges against him would have to be dropped.

What Went Wrong?

They Faced Fire, 'Fate,' Helplessness

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
 Herald Services
 SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Charlie Davis wasn't one of the lucky ones. He owned a custom five-level home high up on Camino Verde that he had practically built for himself over a period of five years. It would be worth, if it were still standing, conservatively $150,000.
 Charlie, a police lieutenant who has been on the Santa Barbara force for 22 years, was no more than 20 feet away and watched, helplessly, as his house burned to the ground in the tragic, devastating conflagration that hit the Riviera section of the city this summer. Two hundred homes were leveled.

"I figure," said Charlie, "it's kind of fate. Like an earthquake." If Charlie's bitter at all, it's at "those damned CBSers" who cluttered up the canyons the night of the fire and almost prevented him from escaping with his life on the clogged, narrow roads.
 Miraculously in a blaze that could total $40 million in damages when possessions are included, there were no fatalities. More than 1,100 firemen fought the blaze, and there were 200 injuries reported, from smoke inhalation to slight burns and many eyes damaged from flying debris. But all were relatively minor.
 The fire took freakish turns as it whipped along on the heels of a "Sundowner" wind that reached gusts of 70 miles per hour, swirling in and out of canyons in the hills above the city. Normally, at this time of year, the wind blows toward the mountains and away from the city. But on this night, the wind blew toward the ocean and at one point came within a mile of downtown Santa Barbara, threatening to wipe out the entire city. It has scorched hell out of the residents because the area, as well as all of California, remains bone dry. And another fire of equal magnitude could recur.
 "At one time," says city fire chief Rich Peterson, "I felt there was no way it wouldn't go to the Pacific Ocean."
 So the danger remains, fed by some mentally sick pyromaniacs who regularly drop arson devices—a favorite is a lighted cigarette stuck into a book of matches—into the bone dry shrubs and long grass that snake down the ridges and blast. Ironically, there were inexplicable miracles. Five substantial residences having nothing left but concrete slabs, twisted metal and a naked fireplace. But a sixth, on the same route of the blaze, is untouched. Along Sycamore Drive, an aluminum boat is consumed, its hull melted and grotesque. But the camper to which it was hitched doesn't have a scorched mark.

 Today, still, you see people who had lived there sifting, semi-dazed, through ashes, lucky to retrieve a door knob. Roger Horton wasn't one of the lucky ones, either. His house at 1589 Sycamore Drive, which had been in the family two generations, was completely blotted out. And with it, all the memories of his childhood there.

 "At one point," says Roger, "I stood on a garden hose, but we lost water pressure; it was hopeless."
 "And hot? I had a freezer and carried a $44,000 mortgage on the 1,600 square foot house. That would leave him $12,000 to rebuild a property that in today's market would sell for $125,000.

Winter Springs Residents Get Slight Tax Reduction

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

WILLIAMS ARGUED AGAINST HIGHLANDS PLAT

Winter Springs Council Monday night adopted an $813,218 budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year while dropping the property tax slightly from $2.43 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $2.40. Council also reduced the utility tax from five per cent to four per cent beginning Jan. 1 of the fiscal year Oct. 1.

Finance, $96,167.78- $678,033; and construction, for the coming year, $5,200. Included under the finance department figure are salaries for employees, mayor and council, social security, insurance, utility bills, electricity, and planning and zoning board. Under a new personnel policy initiated by the city all employees except one will be receiving a pay boost.

Miami Utility Boycott Effect Slight

MIAMI (AP)—A radio station blasted off tremendous responses, but spokesmen for South Florida's two largest utility firms denied that a one-day boycott against their firms had any significant impact.

Service Commission. FPL received a $195.5 million rate hike, increasing the average homeowner's bill $4.50 a month based on 1,000 kilowatts usage.

The Pembroke Pines City Hall was closed by order of the City Commission. And at Miami's Eighth Street Barber Shop, barbers evicted and electric trimmers with clipper and turned the backs of their customers' heads toward the window so they could see where to cut.

Probe Denied By FPL

MIAMI (AP)—Florida Power & Light Co. says it is not the target of a Federal Energy Administration probe of possible overcharges by one of its fuel suppliers.

The utility, in a press release issued Tuesday, said federal officials only are investigating Miami-based Belcher Oil Co., which officials say may have overcharged FPL by $21.5 million for fuel between August 1973 and December 1975.

CRIMEWATCH

This week's crime comes from the files of the Alamo Springs Police Department. On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, 1974, a 20-year-old male was putting his dirt bike through his paces in a field behind the Interstate Mall off of the 436 exit to I-4.

For nearly three years, Alamo Springs police have combed almost every minor person filed across the county in their effort to determine Jane Doe's identity with no success. They need your help!

Seminole County: 12 More Precincts

One out of every six registered voters in Seminole County will be voting in a precinct different from the one where they voted in the last election. Twelve new precincts have been added in the county, bringing the total number of precincts to 67, according to Camilla Bruce, supervisor of elections. The new precincts will be ready for next year's primary elections in September.

base on total population, but the voting precincts are based on voter registration. In October, Mrs. Bruce's office will send registered voters a "renewal card" which will contain the number of the precinct where voters will cast their ballots.

new voters is probably about double the increase, since many people have moved out of the county or changed their addresses," Mrs. Bruce said. "We've lost as many as we've added."

Get Tough Measures Response To Racial Violence

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Bury "Big George" Sumner, warden of San Quentin Prison, glared across the shiny conference table and spit out the words like they were tough meat: "We will be in control!"

Despite all the authority the 6-foot-3, 250-pound prison boss put into the statement, it remains more hope than fact. For San Quentin, in the 125th anniversary of its tempestuous existence on a sunny hook of land jutting into San Francisco Bay, is a prison in crisis.

In July, gang-inspired racial battles left three convicts dead. Now, nearly a third of the convicts are "locked down" in the east block — 200 men penned in their cells all day under maximum security.

Another 100, hardened gang leaders and members, are isolated under the gun in the north block with little likelihood of ever returning to the main population. The rest go about their business within the walls in an uneasy peace. Sumner prays will stick. Officers scan the group for "underground" gang members who face the north block if found.

"I don't have any reason to believe the same thing would not happen again," Sumner admitted ruefully of the day of violence.

His main complaint is one shared in varying degrees by most of the men who have held the warden's post at one of the world's most notorious penitentiaries.

In short, trouble brews when hard cases are mixed with peaceful inmates who are unable to defend themselves against hate-filled crazies whose solution to disputes is sudden death at the end of a file-down spoon.

"I think the great, great majority of inmates want to have a peaceful, tranquil place," he said in an interview. "But we've been at the mercy of gangs for some time. We were controlled."

"If they decided they wanted to kill somebody, we weren't in a position to do a heck of a lot about it."

On July 12, the decision came. Sumner said it was little consolation that the blood-spattered walls were the result of a "mistake" that killed the normally peaceful Black Muslims against the Nazi-type whites of the American National Socialist and Satan's Few motorcycleists.

As Sumner told it, the whites mistakenly killed a Muslim in the morning, thinking he was a member of the Black Guerrilla Family. The Muslims, who profess to be law-abiding and aloof from the troublemakers, backed up a standing threat to retaliate when one of their members is hurt.

Nine hours later, the warring factions clashed with clubs and knives, turning prison corridors into a bloody battlefield. When it was over, another two inmates, whites, were dead, including a man who was hurled from a third-story tier.

Within a few percentage points, the racial mix at 2,800 inmates San Quentin is fairly representative of the statewide prison population: White, 41.9 per cent; black, 32.7; Mexican-American, 18.7; other, 1.7. The average age at Q is about 30.

Sumner says there are signs peace may return to the old battle line now that the gangs are isolated from the mainline. The warden guesses the "really hopeless bad guys" make up no more than 2 or 3 per cent of all inmates, and the guys that belong to the gangs decide at between 15 and 20 per cent at most.

Their segregation, says Sumner, has brought hope to the peaceful inmates who could not stand up to the killers.

"Now that most of the gang guys are out of the population, the peaceful prisoners are expressing opinions that it's a good thing," he said. "It's my intention to keep the gang guys completely separate from the rest of the prison."

In the same vein, Sumner plans to create a number of small "prisons within a prison," in the face of the legislature's rejection this year of an administration proposal for $92 million to build at least two new flexible-security prisons in California.

"I'm trying to divide San Quentin up into small sections. It's impossible to work with masses of people," Sumner said.

Even in the hard-bitten north block, swarming with hostility, Sumner entertains hopes of spiritual reconstruction.

"I think some of the gangs can be dissolved, if we can work with these people as individuals and (have them) make individual decisions." Then Sumner sets his jaw again: "As far as the gangs go, we have to be in control — and I'm going to do so. And they know it."

He admits to much anxiety about the crowded east block, calling it a "large, unmanageable situation," and the inmates there "600 question marks." He adds wistfully: "It's hard to really know inmates. ... It's difficult to determine when to let them out. I don't have any reason to believe the same thing (repeat violence) would not happen."

Sumner is unhappy with the lockdown because "it's unfair. When lockdowns occur, many who aren't guilty of anything are locked up with the bad ones."

He noted with profound disappointment that feeling guided his release of a lockdown prior to the July killings.

He said he had met with gang leaders "and impressed on them my intention of having a peaceful prison here. They assured me they would work together in harmony."

IS LOW PRICE THE MAIN MEASURE OF A PRESCRIPTION SERVICE?

It's important, of course, but so is the other word up there... service.

Volunteer Cooking For Crowd Her Niche

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

VI Segrest, Maitland, believes she has found her niche in her service to the Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry, Fla.

When she says she cooks, she means for large groups, a hundred or more, and once a month, for a 250 plus group. VI does this on a strictly volunteer basis, and is in charge of any dinner served from the church, and furthermore, she loves it.

"It's really a ministry, to the people you serve and to the people with whom you work. It's a love of the church, also," she said.

VI's faith comes in handy when she sometimes has to figure out a recipe for a large group. "I taught myself how to enlarge recipes, and you do have to be cautious with some of them. Shrinkage of meat is important to take into consideration. You have to go by the time, a lot of the time," she said.

The one big monthly get-together at the church is a Golden Years Luncheon, for senior citizens and retirees. It's open to the public, but reservations must be made in advance.

Starting in September through May, the luncheons feature good food, a social time and some form of entertainment. Sometimes a speaker is brought in on a timely subject, or a musical program may be presented. At the end of the year a giant Luau is enjoyed, with a Polynesian dinner. All this for a labor of love—VI's hobby. She enjoys yard work, but said, "Working with people and doing for them, I really enjoy it!"

VI's cooking is not only a labor of love—it's a hobby. She enjoys yard work, but said, "Working with people and doing for them, I really enjoy it!"

Anyone cooking for large groups will welcome VI's recipes.

When Child Begins — School Made Easy

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The start of school is approaching and parents with youngsters about to attend class for the first time should start now to make sure that the big event goes smoothly.

The Office of Child Development of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a guide for parents, prepared by Luleen S. Anderson, coordinator of psychological services and elementary guidance for the Quincy, Mass., public schools.

The pamphlet, "When a Child Begins School," is available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 635E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Here, meanwhile, are some suggested dos and don'ts: —Don't make the beginning of school a topic of daily conversation. Treat going to school as something that happens in the normal course of events — something that is expected and natural.

—Don't allow older children to frighten or tease the younger ones. Talk to older children and make them partners in the effort to help younger brothers and sisters adapt easily and without fear.

—Do answer all questions honestly. You can help ease a child's uncertainty by telling him how long the school year lasts, how many hours he will be away from home each day and how he will get to and from class. If you try to reassure the child by lying — telling him it won't last very long, for example — he will only be more upset when he learns the truth.

—If both parents will be working, arrange for before and after school care and make sure the child knows exactly what the setup is. Again, knowing the details of what's ahead makes a child feel more secure.

—Do see if your school system runs orientation sessions for parents and first-time pupils to familiarize the youngsters with staff members and physical facilities.

The pamphlet, "When a Child Begins School," is available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 635E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The publication offers guidelines for the first year of school.

—Don't give the impression that the child has a choice about going to school. If your youngster announces, "They can't make me go to school," respond calmly, but firmly. Let the child know you understand his concern, but take a positive attitude. You believe he can handle the situation.

—Do let the child know you support him and understand the effort he's making. Give the child some control over the situation. Ask which clothes he would like to wear on the first day of school. Or what he'd like in his lunch box.

—Do make transportation plans clear. If the child is going to walk, go over the route once or twice before classes begin or accompany him to and from school for the first few days. Check to see if there are other neighborhood children with whom he can walk. If the child will be picked up by bus, point out the kind of bus he'll be using. If possible, take a bus ride before the first day of school.

—Don't drag out farewells by walking into the classroom and standing around while the child gets seated. This may lead to tears which gets the child off on the wrong foot and can prompt teasing by other children. Say goodbye at home or in the school yard. If you are taking the child to the bus, let him board by himself.

Auditions Slated Tonight For Centennial Pageant

Auditions for individuals and groups interested in participating in the Sanford Salute will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sanford Civic Center.

The Salute, a project of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Centennial Committee, will be held in mid-October, according to chamber executive manager Jack Horner.

"The overall pageant will give a picture of Sanford through its first hundred years," said Horner. "We will have skits about the flapper era, the forties, the rock and roll era, all sorts of important things happening in the growth of Sanford," he said.

"Eddie Rose, director of the Atlantic Civic Center & vaudeville performer and Margo Dowland will be here as guest artists," said Horner. "And we are hopeful of getting lots of local people to back them up."

"I've had some people call me thinking this will be a talent competition," said Horner. "But it is not. It is a production, intended to honor the Sanford Centennial."

What is needed, said Horner, is a collection of local folk with talent, individuals or groups, willing to perform and talented.

"We need backstage help, musicians, musical groups. We can use choruses or choirs," Horner said. "But bring your own instruments to the audition because the only thing we will have there is our piano."

"If you want to participate, get in touch with us at chamber or call the co-directors of Sanford Salute, Florence Korgan and Gayle Stewart."

Martha Yancey is publicity director for the centennial pageant, Horner said, and he is scheduled to emcee the event.

County's Cami Not A Come Lately Elections Supervisor Tops In Tenure

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

If you measure county officials' success by their tenure, Camilla (Cami) Bruce is the most successful of all. She's been the county's supervisor of elections since 1961, when she was appointed by Gov. Fuller Warren to fill the remainder of Lorraine Messenger's term when she retired. Mrs. Bruce was elected to her first four-year term in 1962, and she's never lost. "A Democrat ran against me in 1960, and a Republican ran against me in 1968 and 1972," Mrs. Bruce says.

She's a Democrat, but says she treats everybody the same. "When a public official is in office they should act as if they're non-partisan, even if they're a Democrat or Republican," she said. Mrs. Bruce, who has won seven straight terms as election supervisor, will retire in January of 1981 when her current term expires. She's looking forward to it. "Each year it's harder on me because of what the state legislature does with the election laws. I'll be glad to retire," she says.

Mrs. Bruce didn't seek the appointment by Governor Warren back in 1961. "The governor's committee came to me and asked if I could do it. I didn't know what was involved. I didn't even know the office was available. I thought I knew all the streets in the county, but I found out I didn't."

Things were different 25 years ago. There were only 9,000 registered voters at the time. (Now there are more than six times that number.) The election supervisor's salary was $100 a month, and it was a parttime job. "We closed down every other year," Mrs. Bruce recalls.

The current salary is $21,085, according to state law. Until 1963, Mrs. Bruce said she worked as a "chamber maid." "I was an assistant to the head of what was then called the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce."

"I didn't even used to have a budget. In 1962 I got a bill for $5 in annual dues to the State Association of Supervisors of Registration as it was called. I sent the bill to the county clerk, and he said he couldn't pay it because there was nothing in the budget for it."

Mrs. Bruce didn't go to the first state association meeting until 1964 when the county commissioners budgeted money for her to go.

The election supervisor's office is going to have its headquarters in October. "That's when we send out the renewal cards and conduct the purge," in which the voter registration rolls are brought up to date. "You have to be registered Aug. 12 to vote in the Sept. primary, and you have to be registered by Oct. 7 next year vote in the November general election," according to the election supervisor.

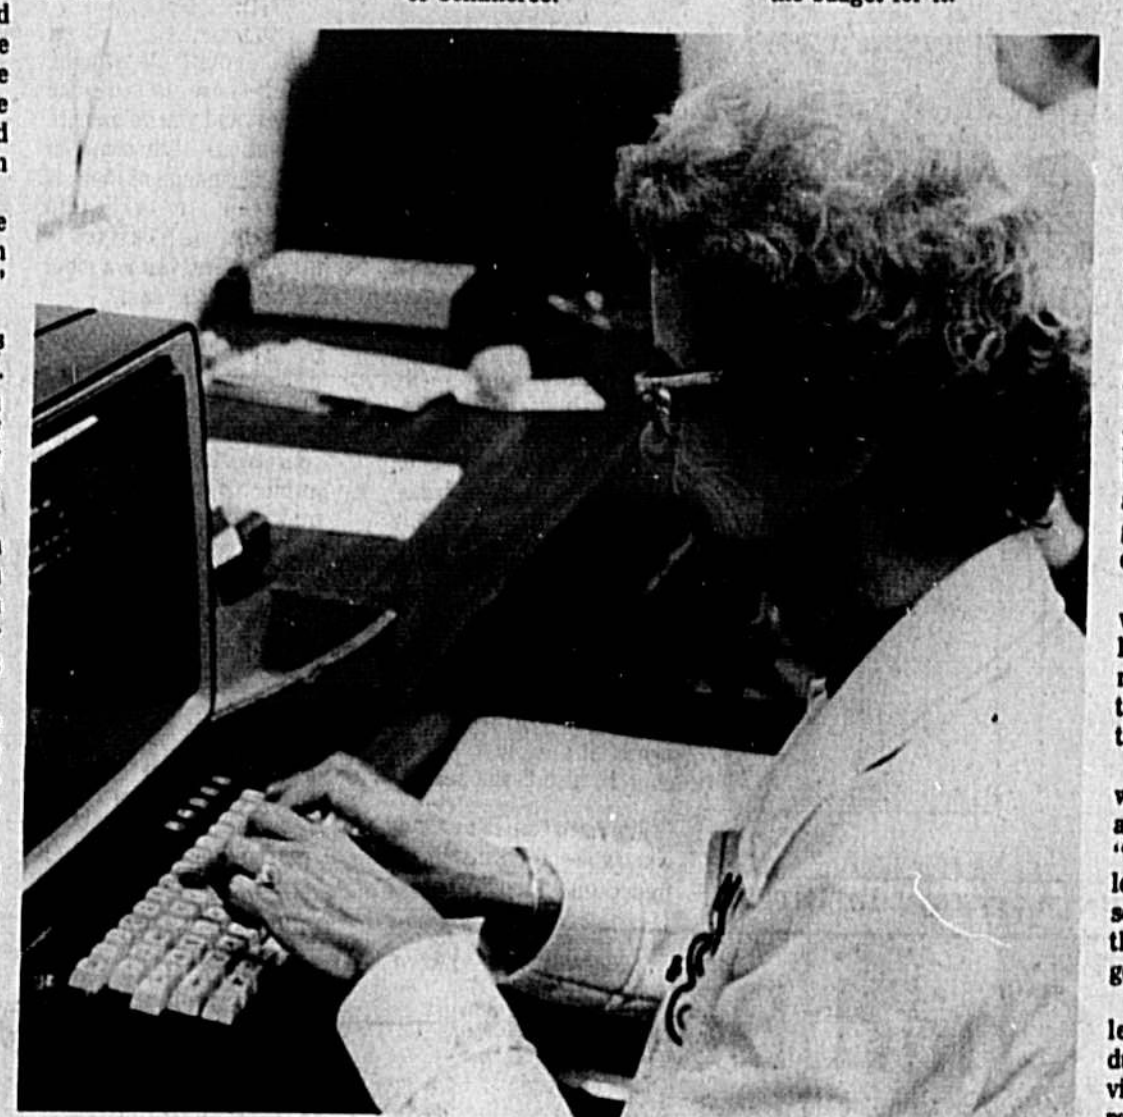

Mrs. Bruce serves on the legislative committee of the State Association of Supervisors. "We don't have a hired lobbyist. We do our own lobbying. We look at the bad bills as much as the good. They revised the election code, and they have a number of things in there I disapprove of."

One change by the legislature was the elimination of the application for absentee voters. "Now you just have to send in a letter saying you want an absentee ballot. They eliminated the application, and it was a good application."

Mrs. Bruce adds that the legislature mandated more duties for the election supervisors "without adding any revenue."

The election supervisor's office includes Mrs. Bruce and four assistants — all women. "Not very many men would want to work for me because of the pay — but it's not as bad as it used to be," Mrs. Bruce says. She's proud of the fact that 90 percent of the county's registered voters exercised their voting privilege in last year's general election.

But sometimes voters are peculiar people. "Once a man came in to register. When we got to the question about his party, he said, 'Well, I've got three children.'"

County Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce checks a voter's registration using the computerized records system. The computer itself is in Orlando.

Spend A Buck And Save A Pet

DEAR ABBY: I recently drove past dog that was wandering aimlessly across a busy highway. It looked so lost and bewildered that I stopped to see if I could help. She was an old dog, thoroughly exhausted and utterly filthy. What must have been many days or weeks of travel. The poor thing was so weak and tired to object when I put her in my car. She was a large dog, part collie and gentle as a lamb.

I made inquiries (no leads), stopped at an animal hospital (closed), drove to the police station (the animal warden's van was not available) and finally drove her to our SPCA, where she was given food, shelter and a chance for her owners to find her.

Later I searched the lost and found columns, only to be shocked by the number of advertisements for lost pets, such as "Generous reward for our beloved pet," or "Entire family grieving."

Abby, where are these people's brains? They are spending money now when it's too late, when for $1 they could have bought an I.D. tag with the animal's name, and the owner's address and phone number!

HEARTSICK IN PA. DEAR HEARTSICK: I agree, there is no excuse for "losing" a pet. Pet owners out there — are you listening? DEAR ABBY: My husband says that I am "sick" and in need of a doctor because I complained about the following: Before I am out of the car, my husband is already in the house. When we go anywhere, he is already in the car "waiting" for me before I am out of the house. When we go to a restaurant, I'm not even out of my chair and my husband is out of the door. Recently, at the funeral of a relative, all the other husbands were standing beside their wives, and I didn't even know where mine was until it was all over.

DEAR HOSTESS: No. Offer

ASPIRIN CAN Cause Bleeding
Dr. Lamb
DEAR DR. LAMB - I have migraines and back pains plus osteoarthritis. The usual advice of my doctor is to take aspirin, every four hours, and this has worked well.
But last May I went to a well known clinic for a checkup for a problem I had and they found I had gallstones and removed the gall bladder.
With all the tests that I went through, no one thought of making me a coagulation test. Result, during surgery I bled profusely and the surgeon had quite a problem stopping the bleeding. Later I was black and blue from the navel down to the buttocks. The aspirin products had thinned the blood to an extreme point. The surgeon told my wife that if I had had the operation for a stomach ulcer he could not have stopped the bleeding and I would have passed on.
It seems strange that some doctors will prescribe aspirin in large amounts for arthritis when the results can be fatal or cause severe bleeding as it did in my case.
I have followed your column for years but cannot recall any mention of this possible effect of the use of aspirin which is so readily available and can be misused.
DEAR READER - I have mentioned this not once but several times. Your paper may not have carried that particular column or you may have missed it.
In any case, aspirin does affect blood clotting mechanisms. That is the logic for the study of the possible use of aspirin to prevent heart attacks and strokes - which is still experimental.
When taken properly, in moderate amounts with food, or at least a cup of milk, there is little danger that aspirin will cause bleeding in normal people. If you had an ulcer that was ready to bleed it might cause sudden bleeding.
I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-4, Aspirin and Related Medicines. It will give you more information on aspirin and bleeding as well as other information on aspirin. You will be particularly interested in seeing the long list of other medicines by other names that you can buy without a prescription that also contain aspirin. All of these medicines will also affect the blood clotting mechanism. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE
By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
South won the diamond lead in dummy, drew two rounds of trumps, paused briefly when West showed out, led a diamond to his king, ruffed his hand and came to a real halt when Andy underdressed.
He tried to visualize Andy's hand and decided that he was holding three hearts to the queen and four clubs to the jack.
He thought some more, confirmed his diagnosis, cashed dummy's last trump, led the three of clubs, thought some more, played his nine of clubs and led West score the setting trick with his unprotected jack.

Chili Warms Appetites

"A bowl 'o' red." That's what Southwesterners call chili, a dish unsophisticated and unimproved, but most extraordinary by virtue of its variety and universal appeal.

Texas, who claim chili as their own invention, define a true one as a combination of meat, which can be anything from beef or pork to armadillo or racoon, with chili peppers, pepper sauce and various spices and seasonings. Beans, considered basic to a good chili in some regions, are the ultimate chili sacrifice in other areas.

Practically anyone who has ever turned on a stove has his own chili formula. But no two pots will ever be alike. The texture and juiciness of the meat alone can change the flavor of the same recipe time and time again. However, the zealous "chilihead" who prides himself on a personal blend will insist on the superiority of his creation like a parent for a child.

In 1968 humorist H. Allen Smith's claim "that no one knew more about chili than he" prompted some proud Texas chiliheads, Frank Tolbert and Wick Fowler, to challenge Smith to a chili show down. This cooking contest ended in a draw but inspired several other competitions.

Chili cooking has come down to serious business and contests are held in 34 states, annually culminating with a grand cookoff to determine the world's best chili. This year's event, The International Chili Society's 11th Annual World Championship Chili Cookoff, takes place Oct. 23 in an abandoned gas mine in Rosamond, California.

The McIlhenny Company, makers of Tabasco sauce, is among the 1977 sponsors. A saucy chili, made with cubed beef is thoroughly authentic and a favorite chili recipe of Mr. Walter McIlhenny. It has a milky spicy flavor, as preferred by many chili lovers, but you can serve it with a bottle of pepper sauce on the side to adjust the flavor to personal taste.

A crisp salad with a chilled dressing complements this spicy, full bodied dish. The plump cucumber dressing, made with sour cream and mayonnaise, is enlivened with a measure of pepper sauce.

MR. McILHENNY'S CHILI
3 pounds lean stewing beef, well-trimmed, cut in 1-inch cubes
1/4 cup salad oil
1 cup chopped onion
3 cloves garlic, minced
4 to 6 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons ground cumin
2 teaspoons pepper sauce
1 can (4 ounces) green chilies, seeded and chopped
1 quart water
1/4 cup chopped onion
In large saucepan, brown beef in oil. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer uncovered 1 1/2 to 2 hours until meat is tender. Garnish with chopped onion. If desired, serve with additional pepper sauce.
YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

COOL CUCUMBER DRESSING
1 cucumber, pared, seeded and chopped
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sour cream
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

CHILI WITH CUBED BEEF

1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon pepper sauce
In a small bowl, sprinkle cucumber with salt and let stand for 10 minutes. Drain off excess liquid. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and chill at least 1 hour before serving.
YIELD: 2 cups.

Go Easy On Fiber In Diet

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Armed Services
Watch out for advertisements warning you are not getting enough fiber for your health. The amount of fiber required in the diet is still to be determined by nutritionists and medical researchers. So go easy on adding it to your diet. Remember, no scientists are absolutely sure just what the long-term effect may be. "So don't believe everything the advertisement tells you. But in respect to the structural failures such as diverticulosis, the evidence is much stronger. Doctors customarily put their patients on diets with increased fiber," says Dr. Roy Morse, professor of food science, Cook College, Rutgers University.

In an article in the pamphlet "Food Facts From Rutgers," he says further, "Diverticulosis literally means intestinal 'blowouts.' It generally happens to persons 50 years or older."

Current medical opinion holds that the cumulative effects of many years of lowbulk diet and infrequent constipation may lead to these intestinal "blowouts." The blowouts frequently become infected. Symptoms include a vague continuous abdominal aching, erratic bowel movements, and occasional seizure of severe stomach pain." Dr. David Morris, of Rutgers Medical School, states in the same publication.

Soul Foods Are For 'Jazzing Up' Your Family Menu

GLAZED HAM

In America, "soul food" is black food. And while soul food of South Carolina is different from that of Louisiana or Texas or the ancestral homeland of Africa, it's a heritage of cooking that has a taste all its own.

When blacks were first brought to the New World, their only baggage was a memory and in that memory a spirit, a feeling. Perhaps this feeling is the tie that binds all varieties of soul food. It communicates in much the same way music does, a tradition that has become part of American culture.

In some ways, black music and black food are analogous. It has been claimed that the term "soul food" originated with traveling jazzmen yearning for some home-cooking. Like good jazz, soul food has certain improvisational characteristics that resist easy transfer to paper.

The artist-musical or culinary—imposes an elusive quality of personal inspiration upon basic and recognizable materials. In music, when all the elements merge, providing audiences with new transports of delight, the musicians are said to be "cooking." Similarly, in cooking, when all the raw ingredients have been merged into a palate-pleasing dish that tastes out of this world, the cook is said to have "soul."

Given ingredients produced from the land in their region, black cooks created an entourage of delectable foods. Whether in the "big house" or the slave quarter, with the remembered techniques from the past and the inspired embellishments of the moment, they concocted a cuisine that nourished the body and soothed the soul. And that formula has been the guide for many generations. It's a delicious and noble heritage.

BLACKBERRY COBBLER
1 1/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine
2 cups cold water
1 cup sugar
3 the cornstarch
1/2 cup cinnamon
Dash of salt
1-1/2 oz pkg.
frozen blackberries, partially thawed
Hard Sauce
Combine flour and salt; cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with water, while mixing lightly with a fork; form into ball. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough to 8-inch circle. Cut several slits in dough.
Combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon and salt. Add berries, mix lightly. Place in 8-inch skillet. Top with dough; flute edge along side of skillet. Bake at 400 degrees, 45 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden. Serve with:
HARD SAUCE
Combine cheese, macaroni, margarine and seasonings; mix well. Spoon macaroni mixture into greased 8-inch square baking dish. Combine milk and eggs; pour over macaroni mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 425 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes or until set. 4 to 6 servings.
SPOON BREAD
2 cups milk
1/4 cup cornmeal
1/2 the margarine
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs, separated
Heat milk. Gradually add cornmeal; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Remove from heat. Add margarine and salt. Stir small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks; return to hot mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form; fold into cornmeal mixture. Pour into greased 1-1/2 quart casserole. Bake at 350 degrees, 35 minutes. 6 servings.
HONEY YEAST ROLLS
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
1/4 to 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
margarine, melted
1 egg, beaten
2 the honey
Dissolve yeast in water; combine 1/2 cup flour and salt. Add dissolved yeast, 1/4 cup margarine, egg and honey; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to form a stiff dough. Place dough on floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic. Place dough in greased bowl; brush with margarine. Cover; let rise in warm place about 20 minutes or until double in volume. Punch down; shape into 1-inch balls. Place 3 balls in each greased medium-size muffin cup. Cover; let rise until double in volume, about 20 minutes. Brush with margarine; bake at 400 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Approximately 2 dozen.
GLAZED COUNTRY HAM
16 to 20 lb. fresh country ham cherry cloves

1/2 tsp onion salt
1/4 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
Paprika
2 the pure prepared mustard
Scrub any mold off ham. Soak in cold water 12 to 24 hours. In large kettle, cover ham with fresh cold water; bring to boil, reduce heat; simmer 25 to 30 minutes per pound. (Ham is done when meat pulls away from shank bone about 1/4-inch.) Place ham in baking pan. When cool enough to handle, remove skin and excess fat; score, stud with cloves. Combine marmalade, orange juice and mustard; brush over ham. Bake at 350 degrees, 1 hour; brush with additional marmalade glaze every 10 minutes.
COMPANY GRITS CASSEOLE
1 cup quick cooking
2 cups (8 oz.) sharp natural cheddar cheese
1/4 cup margarine
1/2 tsp salt
1/4 tsp cayenne pepper
2 eggs, beaten
1 the chopped parsley
Prepare grits as directed on package. Add 1 cup cheese, margarine, salt and cayenne to cooked grits; stir until cheese is melted and margarine blended. Add small amount of hot milk; add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Pour into greased 2-quart casserole. Bake at 300 degrees, 1 hour. Top with remaining cheese during last 10 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Sprinkle with parsley, 6 to 8 servings.
BRANDED PEACHES
2-1/2 oz. cans peach halves
4 to 6 whole cloves
1-1/2 cup brandy
Drain peaches, reserving syrup. Boil syrup with cloves until reduced to 2/3rd cup; add peaches to syrup; heat thoroughly. Drain brandy over fruit; add syrup. Cover; store in cool place at least 24 hours before serving. Approximately 1 1/2 pint.

This Pie Has Lots Of Spirit

DAIQUIRI PIE

COOKING IS FUN
DEAR DEBILLY: My husband likes the light and airy pies that have cocktail flavors. Some time ago you gave me the Grasshopper Pie, but if you've ever published one for Daiquiri Pie I've missed it. When I told my husband I was asking you for that recipe, he said, "Well her to put in plenty of spirit!"

DEAR COOL COOK: The chiffon-type pies patterned after favorite cocktails have certainly caught on. The earliest recipe for Grasshopper Pie sent to me dates from 1900; I believe Daiquiri Pie was created shortly after. When I tried the following recipe on eight tasters, four men and two women thought it "Perfect—delightfully refreshing." One of the remaining tasters described it, said, as first-class, there was too much spirit; however, by the time she finished her portion she conceded that the vanilla-wafer crust must be the assertive flavor. C.B.

SPIRITED DAIQUIRI PIE
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup fresh lime juice
1/4 cup sugar
Dash of salt
3 large eggs, separated
1 1/2 tablespoons freshly grated lime rind
1 cup light rum, 80 proof
1 cup heavy cream
Vanilla-wafer Crust, see below
Cream Topping, see below
In a medium-size stainless steel bowl sprinkle the gelatin over the lime juice and let stand about 5 minutes to soften. Whisk in 1-1/2 cup sugar and the salt, then whisk in the un-beaten egg yolks until blended. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly with a rubber spatula around sides and bottom of pan and without boiling. Gradually stir in the four dissolved and the mixture to hot. Remove from heat; whisk in the lime rind and the rum. Chill, stirring several times, until slightly thickened about 1 hour. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar; continue beating, if necessary, until whites hold peaks that tilt over, slightly when the beater is slowly withdrawn. Without washing the beater, beat the cream until stiff. Fold whites, then cream into gelatin mixture. Turn into the Vanilla-wafer Crust. Chill until firm. Spread the Cream

Nibble On Grapes

Naturally sweet California table grapes are a great snack food—for dieters too! And with good reason. Grapes are satiating and low in calories—a whole cupful provides a moderate 100 calories.

In addition to their low calorie content, California grapes are refreshingly crisp and come bite-sized so a whole cupful can last a long time. Consider how fast a cance of chocolate or 10 potato chips can be gulped down for the same or more calories.

QUICK GRAPE DESSERTS
Slaw-salad desserts with California table grapes needn't take great amounts of planning or preparation. Superb desserts can be as simple as the following ideas:

Fruited Rice: Into cold cooked rice, fold whipped cream or whipped dessert topping, peach slices, grapes. Sweeten to taste.

Fruit and Cream: Fill pretty glass or wine glasses with frothy green seedless grapes. Spoon dollops of sour cream atop grapes; sprinkle with brown sugar and dust with cinnamon, allspice or nutmeg.

Royal Grapefruit Cup: Flavor fresh grapefruit sections with strawberries to taste. Serve in individual bowls or cups and decorate with a cluster of seedless green grapes.

Rich Foods Provide Poor Diet For All

Rich can make you poor... Little did I know when I first wrote that the little two years ago just how poor rich could make you.

For it is the rich foods that do make you poor. Beef is a rich food—and I speak not solely of price. I speak of those marbled strands of fat weaving through the red meat. It's the fat that tenderizes the beef while it fattens the humans and fattens the pocketbook.

Rich can make you poor when you see to sauce the lesser cuts of meat with butter and cream sauce, consider an au gratin, bearnaise, and, on down the line. Butter and cream cut into a dairy budget that can be made lean with non-fat skim milk powder.

Rich can make you poor when you opt for the convenience of digging into an ice cream container for dessert. It's easy, sure, but so is washing off the fruit of the season and arranging it in an attractive bowl to make an edible centerpiece.

Rich can make you poor when you squander your grocery budget thoughtlessly on rich pastries or rich-fat meaty foods. It's that moment of impulse when the hand darts toward the package that makes the market and manufacturer richer, you poorer—nutrition-
