While Vance issued a statement on the Soviet troops, he declined today to issue a position statement, saying he will be conferring with the Russians over the next few days. It had been reported this morning that while no ultimatum would be issued as in previous Cuban-Russian problems, it was expected U. S.-Russian trade fragmentary data in the light of more recently acquired information suggests that elements of a Soviet brigade may have been there since the early 1970's and possibly before that.

"The process of reanalyzing our earlier information continues. The unit appears to consist of 2,000 to 3,000 personnel and includes motorized rifle batallions, tank and artillery batallions and combat and support elements. "These figures are separate from the Soviet military advisory and technical military personnel in Cuba which we now estimate at between 1,500 and 2,000. The specific mission of the combat unit is unclear. There is no air or sea lift capability associated with the brigade which would give it an assault capability. "Nor is the presence of this unit covered by our bilateral understandings with the Soviets in 1962 or 1970. "Nonetheless the presence of a Soviet combat unit in Cuba is a matter of serious concern. "I will be pursuing this matter with the Soviets in the coming days. I will be discussing this issue with the Senate foreign relations committee this afternoon and setting forth the approach we plan to take with the Soviets. We will keep the press and the public informed to the fullest extent we can as we proceed."

Observers watch Longwood election results being printed out by computer terminal

Mitchell Defeats Goldberg

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Political leaders from all parts of Longwood, some from outside the city, plus friends and supporters, gathered at the Winsor Manor home of Bill Mitchell on Tuesday night to celebrate his election win to a city commission seat. Mitchell, in an intensive campaign, especially during the last few days prior to the election, upset two-term commissioner Larry Goldberg for the district five seat on the board Mitchell polled 432 votes to Goldberg's 292. Goldberg only two weeks ago resigned his post on the council on the orders of Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew, who had threatened the official with jail if he failed to

And Mitchell used the issue in his campaign.

In a letter to the people, Mitchell, who had supported Goldberg, said, "He (Goldberg) resigned because a judge told him that he had defied the law long enough and he must quit or go to jail. He missed his jail sentence by only seven hours. Sadly, all of the legal expenses incurred by my opponent for the various legal manipulations to delay his resignation until the last minute were paid for with your tax dollars. What a waste of your money. What a deplorable example for a so-called city father to set for our community."

Promising "honesty and hard work" on behalf of the people's interests, Mitchell had asked that the residents vote against "politics as usual" on Tuesday.

The legal controversy stemmed from Goldberg's remaining in office after he moved out of the district from which he was elected. The former city charter in effect for a decade had required a commissioner to live in the district he represented.

The new city charter, promoted by Goldberg and adopted a year ago, also requires a commissioner to live in the district he represents or face removal from office. Goldberg said he moved out of his district either just before or just after the charter election. When City

Commissioner Stephen Barton resigned the district five seat on moving out of the city, Goldberg decided to seek election to that office. He resigned his commission seat effective on election day. On the court's order he moved the effective date up two weeks.

Mitchell's widespread support was shown at his victory party Tuesday night. Celebrating with him were State Rep. and Mrs. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood; Republican state committeeman, Fred Streetman; Former Mayor Gerard Connell; Barton, City Commissioner J. Russell Grant, Police Chief Greg Manning. Aslo aiding Mitchell in his campaign were past Council Chairmen James Brown and Percy White and former Public Works Director Ralph

Fisher had attributed the loss of his job with the city a public works director to Goldberg. Also dropping in on Mitchell during the victory party was Commissioner Ray Leibensperger, long a Goldberg ally on the city commission. Only 23.4 percent of the city's electors, 725, cast ballots in the election, the first held in the county using the county's new punch card voting system. But City Clerk Linda Martin attributed the low turnout to the stormy weather in the days preceding the election and on the rainy weather on election day itself. The results were tallied by the county computer at the Seminole County courthouse Tuesday evening. Goldberg campaigned for re-election even on election day when his supporters dropped campaign literature into the mailboxes at many homes.

In delaying his resignation, Goldberg said it was his duty to remain in office while the city commission was thrashing out the 1979-1980 budget. After the judge's order and Goldberg's resignation, the city commission was unable to raise a quorum for the Aug. 27 meeting. Mitchell is to take office at next Monday night's city commission meeting. The fifth city commission seat, the budget was continued until Sept. 13, two days after the referendum. "If the referendum fails, we will have to revert to the original budget we were considering and make cuts," Piland said.

Asked for his assessment of the upcoming election on the tax increase proposal, Piland said, "If the council had made the decision in May or June and had had the opportunity to let the people know the city's needs, the referendum could have passed.

"I don't know how many people are convinced there is a need. From a logical and business point of view there is a need for the money. The council has initiated a lot of improvement projects.

"I hope the people will support the city council in this action. I don't know how widespread the word has gotten out that an election is to take place," Piland said.

City Councilman Wilfred Arnold, finance commissioner, has been spearheading the move for the tax increase. He has said the additional $118,000 which the city would receive from the property tax increase is needed for reserve funds. -

Congress Back, Must Deal

With Inflation, Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI)- Members of Congress, who tested public opinion during their August recess, are back in Washington today facing a load of "must" issues most of them spelled "e-n-e-r-g-y" or "i-n-f-l-a-t-i-o-n." The Senate, which will be preoccupied with the SALT debate in October, was scheduled to start work today on the Treasury Department and Postal Service appropriation bill, and the House was to resume debate on foreign aid.

SALT prospects were thrown into doubt by last week's revelation that the Soviets have 2,000 to 3,000 combatready troops in Cuba, and Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, canceled today's public hearing on the treaty for two secret sessions with CIA Director Stansfield Turner and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on that development.

President Carter's energy program - to impose a windfall profits tax on oil companies, to speed up regulatory agency decision-making on energy projects and to subsidize synthetic fuel development - still must be enacted.

'Hostess' Scholarships?

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)- University of Alabama officials have denied an allegation by a feminist group that Alabama gave athletic scholarships to female students to entertain high school athletes the university was trying to recruit.

Sam Bailey, associate athletic director, said the school had 20 "hostesses" who escort prospective athletes around campus and said they received a tuition break of $150 a semester, the same as cheerleaders.

He said it would be unfair to call such tuition assistance an athletic scholarship. The charge came Tuesday from the National Organization for Women.

Lunar Eclipse Due In A.M.

WASHINGTON (UPI)- The moon will move within Earth's shadow Thursday morning and the farther west you live, the better the show will be. It will be the last total lunar eclipse visible from North America until 1982. Easterners will not be able to see the moon completely in Earth's shadow because the moon will be setting and the sun rising before the end of the eclipse.

Court-Ordered Busing Begins

By United Press International

Court-ordered busing began without incident in Dayton, Ohio, for the third straight year. Officials are hoping things will be as peaceful in Cleveland and Columbus. In all, over 60,000 Ohio students are to be bused this year. Busing gets under way for the first time in Columbus on Thursday and in Cleveland on Monday. Classes for Dayton's 34,000 public school students, with about 15,000 of them to be bused, began on a staggered basis Tuesday.

Gun-Control Court Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI)- In a major victory for gun control groups, a federal judge has ruled the Pentagon must stop giving the National Rifle Association exclusive rights to buy hundreds of thousands of surplus Army guns

A lawyer for the National Coalition to Ban Handguns, which prevailed in a lawsuit Tuesday, predicted the ruling by U.S. District Judge Harold Greene will "cut down on membership" in the NRA and weaken the powerful gun

The NRA's ranks have boomed to a million members in recent years, in part because those who pay the $15 membership fee are entitled to buy rifles at cost from the Defense Department.

Commuters Are Fuming

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)- Negotiations in San Francisco's two-month-old mass transit dispute resume Thursday, but commuters forced onto clogged freeways this week by the shutdown of BART tubes are furning now at union pay demands.

The 75-mile Bay Area Rapid Transit subway system with its tube under the bay, has been shut down since last Friday in a showdown with unions over sickouts and equipment sabotage. Two BART unions have been without a contract since July 1, principally because of a dispute over cost-of-living

Plane Crash Kills 4

PINNACLE, N.C. (UPI)- Four men died Tuesday night in the crash of their single engine plane in a wooded area off U.S. 52 near Pinnacle apparently as the pilot was trying to make an emergency landing on the highway. Authorities withheld the names of the victims pending positive identification and notification of next of kin. Authorities said the Cessna Skyhawk went down in a wooded area about 100 yards off the highway near the Stokes and Surry county line. The wreckage was strewn over a 300-yard area.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) - Once-mighty Hurricane David, a 150-mph killer that claimed more than 1,000 lives and caused more than $1 billion damage in a rampage through the Caribbean and up the Atlantic Coast, lost its punch in the South Carolina midlands today and was downgraded to a tropical storm. After barreling ashore near Savannah, Ga., with 90-mph winds Tuesday, the storm weakened over land during the night and early today lost its hurricane status with 60-70 mph winds, mainly in squalls along the coast. All hurricane warnings were lowered by the National Weather Service but gale warnings were in effect along the coast from Savannah to Chincoteague, Va. At 6 a.m. EDT, David was located near latitude 34.1 north, longitude 80.5 west, or about 25 miles east northeast of Columbia. It was moving toward the north-northeast at 10 mph and was expected to continue on that course during the day. Two storm-related deaths were reported during the storm's trek up the Florida coast and into Georgia and South Carolina - a surfer drowned at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday and a youth

David Downgraded To Tropical Storm

Civil Defense officials said some 21,300 persons sought refuge in 106 shelters in the eastern half of South Carolina Tuesday night in advance of the storm. The 90-mph winds that accompanied David onto the beach at Tybee Island, 18 miles east of Savannah, hurled trees through the air like matchsticks, according to Jack Acuff of radio station

Acuff said one 30-foot tree hurtled through the air over his station, "the most fantastic thing I ever saw." Centuries-old oak trees in the city's historic section also were toppled by the winds. Fifteen-foot waves slammed into the seawall at Tybee Island and sprayed 30 feet into the air.

"We lost a lot of beach," said Tybee Island Mayor Mike Counihan. "I don't know what we'll do about that. It won't hurt business because our season's just about over."

Most of the people were gone except for two soldiers who remained at their lighthouse post, keeping the beacon flashing. Spec. 4 Ralph Berry of New Straitsville, Ohio, said he was familiar with storms in his native Midwest, but he said, "This is the worst I've ever seen."

Electric power was knocked out for much of the area, including the city of Savannah, but stranded travelers at the posh DeSoto Hilton Hotel were entertained by pianist John Engren who played waltzes on a grand piano in the lobby. At nearby Hilton Head Island, S.C., another oceanfront play-

David, first declared a hurricane on Aug. 27, was described by orecasters as one of the 10 worst this century. It struck the Dominican Republic four days later, and President Antonio Guzman said Tuesday the storm had killed "well over 1.000 persons." Government officials predicted that the final toll, which will not be known for months, would reach "at least 2,000 and probably closer to 3,000." Guzman estimated damage to government installations along

The White House Tuesday declared 10 more Puerto Rico municipalities disaster areas to speed relief, bringing the total of designated disaster towns to 15. Hurricane David left 25,000 refugees in Puerto Rico, and their ranks are expected to swell after today's rains, which forecasters said could dump up to 10 inches on some areas. Civil Defense radio communiques issued appeals urging evacuation "of all river banks and valleys."

The Weather Service said the island of St. Croix received 10 inches of rain in a 12-hour period Tuesday. The governor of the U.S. Virgin Islands, Juan Luis, mobilized the National Guard to aid rescue efforts and guard against looting during the flooding.

HAVANA (UPI)- Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito "laid down the law" to the non-aligned nations movement he helped found in 1961, telling 53 world leaders to reject Cuban attempts to tilt the group toward Moscow. Tito's speech Tuesday to the Sixth Conference of Non-Aligned Nations - a body that represents more than half of mankind - and anti-Egypt speeches by gun-toting

PLO chief Yasser Arafat and the presidents of Syria and Iraq, clearly drew the summit's battle lines. Without once mentioning Cuba or President Fidel Castro by name, Tito rejected Cuba's contention that the Soviet bloc is a natural friend of the non-aligned because it has always helped underdeveloped and oppressed

Mountbatten Funeral Held

LONDON (UPI)- Britain bade farewell to Earl Mountbatten of Burma today with a majestic funeral parade through the ancient center of London to Westminster Abbey, where a grieving Queen Elizabeth and royalty from a dozen nations paid final tribute to the warrior-statesman.

Ironically, Mountbatten, the victim of an IRA bomb, was more closely guarded in death than in life, Scotland Yard mounted an unprecedented security operation, with between 4,000 and 5,000 police and troops guarding the funeral route and the Abbey, where more royalty in London were gathered than any time since the death of King George VI in 1952.

Sadat, Begin Reach Accord

HAIFA, Israel (UPI) - Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Prime Minister Menachem Begin reached partial agreement today on several bilateral issues but failed to come to terms on the thorny problems of future

Palestinian self-governement and Jersualem. They decided to hold another summit meeting in Egypt, probably in early fall, but did not set a date or place. Begin announced agreement by Israel to withdraw two months earlier than scheduled from the Mount Sinai region in south central Sinai to enable Sadat to celebrate the second anniversary of his Jersuelem visit in ceremony on Mount Sinai.

An Ounce Of Prevention...

From the best reports available to date Central ind South Florida residents were spared a lot of eartache and pain when Hurricane David passed brough causing only minor damage in most areas ind only a few storm-related deaths.

Law enforcement officials and civil defense ersonnel reported excellent cooperation for the nost part by those who were asked to evacuate eir areas in the Keys and all along the coastal reas as David approached.

The evacuations were said to be orderly and evacuees were put up in only a few of the large number of shelters available.

When David made its first appearance its progress was tracked by the National Hurricane Center, and state officials kept a close eye on the storm's activity. And when it appeared to be an imminent danger to Florida, Gov. Graham ordered the Keys evacuated. As the storm moved closer to the Gold Coast, other areas were ordered evacuated.

Most people wisely heeded the mandate and left their homes to seek shelter. Some stayed behind and refused to do so. That decision to ignore the evacuation order could have been disastrous and could have cost many lives. Fortunately, David began to lose some of its strength, and instead of the 110-mile-an-hour or greater winds some at first feared it would carry, it maintained highest winds at about 90 miles per hour as it moved steadily up the coastline through Central Florida.

One 63-year-old Miami Beach woman was so annoyed over the trouble she had to go through to evacuate, that after she discovered the storm was not as threatening as at first reported, said the next time a hurricane is in the works and evacuation ordered, she would remain behind to face the storm. Not a wise choice at all.

It would do well for Seminole Countians or anyone else who in the future is faced with choosing between a killer hurricane and evacuation to remember an ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

Congress Deserves It

The Golden Fleece awards by Sen. William Proxmire have been offered for so many months they have become wearying - losing their punch, so to speak, by overabundance.

But the senator chose well in his latest effort. The Golden Fleece prize for August goes to his colleagues in Congress who have managed to boost the cost of their staffs 270 percent in the past 10 years.

The count of staff members for the Senate and House now totals 18,400 souls — which breaks down to 34.39 staffers for each member of Congress. Their salaries, expense accounts and other spiffs cost the taxpayers $550 million each year.

The nation's 100 senators hire 6,800 workers and the 435 members of the House of Representatives, 11,600. The numbers have doubled since

"Senators and staff are now stumbling over themselves," Proxmire commented. "Additional staff generates additional bills and additional work, much of it unneeded at a time when Congress has difficulty coping with its regular, routine and oversight functions."

Congressmen defend their hirelings by citing the complex issues they must tackle, the larger number of constituents they serve and the constant watch that must be kept on the executive branch of government. Even so. Proxmire finds the staff itude far out of bounds.

"At a time of galloping inflation," says the senator, "Congress should put its own house in

We say that's good advice. Senators and epresentatives can make a lot of points with their stituents by giving the valves on their exenditure machinery a few tightening turns.

Three lawyers talk around a table in a small room. They're successful, urbane, middle-class professionals.

They are also loving fathers. Each has a retarded child.

How important are the arts? Maybe some don't give a hoot one way or the other while others eat, sleep and breathe some form of the arts.

Personalities representing a branch of the performing arts - ballet - were important enough several days ago when an international drama of a sort relating to a Soviet ballerina merited front page newspaper headlines across the nation. Meanwhile, on the local front, two ballet companies, Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole and the Southern Ballet Theatre of the Performing Arts Co. (PAC), Fern Park, made the news after a public hearing of the Seminole County School Board. Ballet Guild representatives objected to the school board granting the PAC $8,100.

Dennis Hearn, business manager for the PAC commended the professionalism of Ballet Guild. However, he said that paid professional dancers could better lead the students in the right direction of dance during the proposed 90 minutes of lecture demonstrations annually in the elementary schools. Diane H. Falstad, a member of the PAC board of directors, also agreed that the students needed exposure to paid professional dancers.

George Koler, a dancer and teacher at the University of Central Florida, praised the school board for "giving money" to the arts. Formerly a high school English teacher in metropolitan New York, the "hub of the arts", as he called it, he said such grants from the school boards were nearly unheard of there.

An unidentified teacher opposed funds appropriated for any dancers in the elementary schools. She said these students needed the basics - reading, writing and arithmetic - and would automatically get the arts in the middle and high school curriculums.

Bill Moore, a teacher, said the school bands were in bad need of funds, and could use the money allocated to PAC.

Gail Stewart opposed the school board action. She said the elementary schools were already getting free dance programs and that the money could be used for necessary things. She further said that her elementary age children could identify with dancers they knew as Seminole County students. Jean Clontz said both of her elementary age children take dancing. "They would be unable to tell the difference between the unpaid Ballet Guild dancers and the professional dancers," she said. Peggy Deere asked how many in the room of many professional people saw a live professional ballet performance every year. Less than half raised their hands.

Mrs. Deere said, "Why then is it necessary for our students to have professional ballet every year?" She added she selfishly wanted both the arts and necessary improvements in the schools. "We already have free dance. The school board could put our money to better use."

In addressing the school board and questioning the $8,100 appropriations. Mrs. Imogene Yarborough of Geneva commended the board for "moving in the right direction" in its attempt to offer more art in the public schools.

Mrs. Yarborough asked: "Is it the policy of this board when implementing a new plan to advertise or shop around some to get a cross section of prices and what to expect for the money? If so, did you do this?

In a prepared statement from a taxpayer's point of view, David Wright asked a similar question.

Their questions were never answered.

On May 10, 1979, Nathan A. Allen of Sparrow Point, Md., was killed when a bomb exploded in his Dodge pickup just as he turned the ignition key. The initial investigation turned up no leads to the murderer. On June 18, 1979, a man was arrested in

A Quirk In The Bullpen

NEW YORK (UPI) - Sometimes when Jamie Quirk is sitting out there in the Kansas City Royals' bullpen, which is more often than not, he'll take a swipe at an annoying fly, daydream about how good a quarterback he would've been at Notre Dame and ask himself the question which has been bothering him for some time. Did he or didn't he make the right decision?

"I'm pretty sure I did," says the Royals' popular, capable utilityman after due reflection.

The main reason Quirk says he's only pretty sure instead of positive is because he'd prefer playing a lot more than he has during his five years in the big leagues, but even considering that, he still doesn't regret passing up football for baseball. After the Royals made him their first draft choice in 1972, he signed with them and turned his back on football. Quirk spent four seasons in the minors before making it up to Kansas City as an infielderoutfielder at the tail end of 1975 and after two seasons of filling in with the Royals without getting to play in more than 78 games for them, they traded him to Milwaukee in 1977. He appeared in 93 games for the Brewers that year, was sent to Spokane where he hit .292 the following season, and was reacquired by the Royals in August of last year. So far this season, Quirk has played in only 41 games, and at 24 that can leave anyone a little frustrated. "Most people don't realize how difficult it is to just sit and sit day after day," says Quirk, still not fully resigned to such inactivity. "It's mentally testing. I don't think I ever played for as long as a month steady since I've been in the big leagues. Some days I sit out there in the bullpen and say to myself I just wish some manager would let me play for 30 days at a stretch to see what I can do. I understand our situation, though. Every place I can play, we've got someone who's doing a fine job.

"Now that I've learned to catch, Darrell (Porter) is having the best year of his life. And with a guy like George (Brett) at third base, you hardly need anybody else. I think he's the best ballplayer in the American League. He's positively unbelievable. I don't know how he puts up with all the pressure on him. People expect him to get a hit every time he goes up to the plate. With me,

Quirk is earning his salary, though. He has done a little catching and played some third base for the Royals this season. He also has done some designated hitting. Mostly, he has been used as a pinch hitter and he has nothing to apologize for with his .286 batting

"You have a lot of time to think out there in the bullpen," he says. "I've come to the conclusion that in sports, you have to be in the right place at the right time."

Quirk to go behaving the place. Doct in T Omaha, he was asked to give catching a try by Jack McKeon but declined because he felt his future was in the infield. Again in 1976, Whitey Herzog suggested he learn to catch and once more he Finally, last winter, Quirk agreed to do some catching in the Instructional League and that's one of the big reasons he has a job with the Royals now. Besides Porter, the club has John Wathan, who can catch, and with Quirk around, it doesn't have to carry a third catcher.

"Right now I prefer catching," says Quirk.

All the other Kansas City players like Quirk, voted Omaha's most popular player in 1975, and frequently kid him over the fact he's never going to win an Olympic gold medal in the 100 meters. The truth is he's one of the slowest runners on the ball club.

Standing behind the batting cage in Milwaukee last week, Quirk was watching one of his buddles, Sal Bando, shorten up on the bat and go to the opposite

"You must be getting old, choking up like that and hitting everything to right field like a Punch-and-Judy hitter," the Royals' utilityman needled the Brewers' veteran third Bando had no trouble recognizing Quirk's voice. Without so much as turning his head, he answered him back behind the cage, saying: "Look who's talking; You're built like a greyhound and run most about von Schamann's performance Sunday was the missed extra point.

"That was something that should never happen. It was missed, pushed out to the right. Fortunately, we got off the hook. We could have lost, 10-9," Shula said.

Q. Why is everybody so high on John McEnroe as the next great tennis player? To me, he acts like a spoiled brat. What do you think? - Bill McGee, Alamo, Calif. I agree with the assessment of 20-year-old McEnroe as a great tennis talent. He has all the tools - speed, strength, all-around game and feisty competitive temperament. The latter has been curbed somewhat in his harangues with officials because the young lefthander has realized it affected his game. He's much better behaved now but still extroverted in showing his emotions. I feel by next year he'll be even with Bjorn Borg as the dominant figure in tennis.

Q. I have heard rumors of Ara Parseghian buying some land outside of Baton Rouge, La. Do you think he will be LSU's coach after Charlie McLendon leaves? (McLendon is retiring after this year.) - R.Y., Mobile, Ala.

If the former Notre Dame head man ever coaches again, I feel certain it will be among the pros. And time is fleeting. This will be Ara's fifth year away from the coaching ranks. Of course, Bud Wilkinson was away 15 before the St. Louis Cardinals retrieved him. I know McLendon isn't happy about having to step down in 1980. The only connection I can see between Parseghian and LSU is that Ara and the school's athletic director, Paul Dietzel, were teammated at Miami of Ohio in 1946-47. Paul was the center, Parseghian a running back. Q. What ever happened to Roy Campanella, the great catcher for the Dodgers? - Tom Sokoloski, Virginia, Minn. Campanella, the Brooklyn Dodgers star who was paralyzed in an auto accident, never played a game in Los Angeles after the club moved west in 1958. He works in community relations for the Dodgers in Southern California. He welcomed the employment because it kent him active and eased a financial worry. Q. Graig Nettles can play for 20 more years and never approach the achievements of Brooks Robinson as a third baseman. Please provide us some statistics for these two ballplayers - career in neisning percentages, number of errors, ho Gold Gloves won. Then we'll see how far Nettles must go to achieve parity with "Brooksie." - Bill Sepe, Mobile, Ala. It's a debate that was really only fueled by Nettles' brilliant fielding in the World Series. I don't need figures to assert that Robinson was the greatest third baseman of his time (the last two decades) and a more consistent hitter than Nettles, who has a message for the San Diego "I need to get back closer to about sending him to Texas but executive vice president) at the skill of the Yankee third baseman, who is playing out his option

Entertaining Foolproof In Unique Gourmet Club

By CLAIRE MASTERS Special to the Herald

He'd rather cook than prepare a brief; he'd rath-" er eat fine food than argue a case. John Convery, an b acknowledged expert in the field of tax law, is celebrating the fourth year of his brainchild. Le Campion Gournet Club. "I've always loved to cook. We'd do big dinners for friends at home and I'd organize them with check lists and carefully composed menus. I figured if 1 could turn out a perfect meal, I might share my findings with others, 1 took out ads in gourmet magazines and soon the subscriptions began pouring in."

'Le Campion Gourmet Club costs $35 a year for which a member receives a monthly packet containing everything a hostess needs to produce a perfect dinner for six. This includes a newsletter, menu suggested wine list, shopping list (divided into categories of produce, "meat-fish, and dairy products, checklist of 14 staples, preparation timetable, and a menu card to set before each guest. While the set-up is for six people, the dinner can easily be cut down for four or stretched to serve eight. All these instructions fit into an elegant personalized three-ringed binder. Members also get substantial discounts on various gourmet-quality kitchen equipment.

I recently enjoyed a dinner at Convery's home n Danville, Calif., with his wife, Susannah, "The Winemaster" Hank Rubin (wine consultant to Le Campion), and Sally Clark of San Francisco Magazine.

The dining table was set with white linen and Susannah's cobalt-blue trimmed china. The whole was dominated by a colorful flower arrangement done in the Flemish manner by Lafayette's Isabel McConnell. Dinner, which is the "March 1979 menu slection l'for Le Campion members, began with a perfectly ", made cheese souffle. "I whipped it up several nours ago and had it ready "to pop in the oven," said Convery. "Chiling holds the whipped matter in suspension and it's so much "easier for a hostess to have 'souffle was served with a bottle of Chenin Blanc by Charles Krug.

The next course, iced cherry soup, was a brilliant if unorthodox choice. Claret-colored and smooth textured, its flavor was more tart than sweet, a piquant introduction to the main course, Supreme De Volaille aux Crevettes.

This proved to be lightly sauteed chicken breast covered with prawns in a butter sauce made from their pulverized shells. It was served with fresh green beans and a rice pilaf "made of vermicelli, rice and minced walnuts. Winemaster Hank Rubin served a Beaulieu Chardonnay, vintage 1977, a perfect accompaniment.

Dessert was Oranges Josephine, deliciously flavored with Grand Marnier and topped with tidbits of posched zest. This was served with tiny cups of espresso.

The evening proved to be ecreal taste treat, the Rubin. I thought it minificant that John tion left the table during inher. "A hostess should njoy her guests and I iways map out a menu speak of 'hostess,'many of my subscribers are men who enjoy entertaining. There's no reason why a fellow can't prepare dinner to be proud of."

Le Campion has more than 3,000 members ranging from Canada, all over the United States (very popular is the Midwest) to - most exotic of all - Sri Lanka in the Far East. "We're also very big in Australia and I just recently had a letter from a member who asked to be my representative there. We have a few celebrities such as Marie Osmond of Donny and Marie and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lurie of the San Francisco Giants."

Subscriptions to Le Campion Gourmet Club are $35 a year, $60 for two years. Offices are at 1200 Mt. Diablo Blvd., Walnut Creek, Calif. 94596.

To whet your appetites here are recipes for some of the dishes featured in the March menu. ICED CHERRY

3 pounds unpitted fresh red cherries or canned pitted red cherries in water 3 16-ounce cans)

- 212 cups water 1 cup sugar
- 1 bottle white wine 6 tablespoons Kirsch

6 tablespoons sour cream Reserve 6 cherries for garnish (unless canned cherries are used). Pit the remaining cherries and crush the pits with a mallet. Chop the cherry flesh coarsely. Place the sugar and water in a deep saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil rapidly for 3 minutes. (NOTE: if using canned cherries, drain well and measure the cherry water. Subtract the measured amount from 214 cups and make up the difference with water. Add the sugar and proceed as

Now add the cherries and crushed pits. Boil all together for another 3 minutes. Rub through a fine sieve to remove skins and pits (eliminate this step if using canned cherries) and place the mixture in a blender and puree as finely as possible. Place in a metal bowl and stir in the white wine and Kirsch. Place in refrigerator to chill. Serve ice cold and garnish each serving with 1 tablespoor sour cream, topped with pitted cherry, if available.

RICE PILAF 1 cup converted rice

1 coil fine vermicelli, crushed 1 tablespoon olive oil (or butter) 21/2 cups chicken stock

(homemade or Swanson's) 1/4 cup chopped walnuts or almonds, toasted Salt

Place the butter in a saucepan and when it starts to sizzle, add the crushed vermicelli. Brown the vermicelli and stir into the rice. Add the chicken stock and salt. Stir and cover tightly and cook over low heat until all stock is absorbed (about 25 minutes). Let rice sit for 5 minutes before serving. Fluff up the rice with fork, add the nuts and serve.

SUPREMES DE VOLAILLE AUX

CREVETTES half chicken breasts (or other chicken parts sufficient to serve 6 people) Salt and pepper 5 tablespoons butter and 5 tablespoons melted butter

24 medium-sized prawns teaspoons flour 2 cups creme fraiche

Parsley (for garnish) Salt and pepper the chicken breasts or parts. Melt 5 tablespoons butter in a skillet or dutch oven. Add breasts are done (cook longer if other parts are used). While they are rooking, place 24 medium sized prawns in cold water, and bring them slowly to the boil. When the water boils, discard it, and run the shrimp under cold water to stop the cooking. Shell the prawns; remove the backs and the dark veins. Save the shells, and place them in the blender with 5 tablespoons melted butter. Run the blender until everything is pulverized and then force the butter through the very finest of strainers (such as a chinois which is a coneshaped very fine mesh strainer). When the chicken is thoroughly cooked, place it on a serving dish, and surround it with the cooked prawns. Pour off all fat from skillet or dutch oven. Add 2 tablespoons of flour to the dish in which the chicken was cooked and blend well.

Then, add the shrimp butter, and 3 cups of creme fraiche. Blend thoroughly, bring to the boil, and reduce for 5 minutes. Strain through a chinois and pour over the chicken. Garnish with parsley.

Creme fraiche: To 2 cups whipping cream, add 1 cup sour cream; whisk together and heat to 85 degrees. Let stand 6 to 8 hours and refrigerate. Keeps 1 to 2 weeks.

Firefighter David Hite is treated for smoke inhalation while building burns in background

Fire That Wrecked Home Jean Rhein. Probed As 'Suspicious' and land development offices for space elsewhere would not site was $35,000. Final Hearing Due Tonight By SHARON CARRASCO the fire investigation includes McCluan, Lt. Bill Hogan of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Ernie Wright Herald Staff Writer The fire that destroyed a home just outside the Sanford of the state fire marshal's office, and Inspector Raymond Pippin of the Seminole County Public Safety Department. City limits Wednesday has been ruled "suspicious" Seminole County fire officials. According to fire officials, several persons saw the fire Joe McCluan, chief fire inspector investigator for On Lake Mary Tax Hike

Seminole County said today an investigation team has gathered samples from the gutted structure for analysis at the State Fire College in Ocala. "When we get the lab results back from Ocala, we will know whether a flammable liquid was used," McCluan said. "It may take from two to three weeks to get those results." The Seminole County public safety department received the fire call shortly after 1 p.m. Wednesday for the home owned by Michael Jackson on State Road 46 and Old Monroe Road. No one was inside the home when the fire broke out. Firefighters David Hite and Vern Riggall suffered minor burns in battling the blaze but did not require hospital treatment, McCluan said. It took firefighters about one hour to extinguish the blaze. McCluan could not cite a dollar amount of damage but did say the home was destroyed.

A four-man investigation team that has been assigned to and promptly reported it to the public safety department. Jean Sanford and her husband, who is the assistant minister at the First United Methodist Church in Sanford. were visiting with an elderly woman next door to the Jackson home when they saw flames shooting from the living room window.

"We called the fire department but it took them about 10 to 15 minutes to get here," she said. "By the time they got here, the house is like it is now." Brette Sanford said the fire spread very quickly through the home as he stood watching firefighters shoot streams of water at the blaze. "It went extremely fast, like it was fueled," Sanford said. "It only took five minutes to spread." Mildred Jackson, the mother of the homeowner, watched the burning home from behind a hurricane fence that surrounds the property. Her eyes were filled with tears and her voice trembled as she spoke: "There isn't enough left there for nothing."
