Bus service funding hotly debated

By Christopher Patton Managing Editor

SANFORD - By avoiding the possibility of losing one of the county's seven bus routes Tuesday, Seminole County Commissioner Grant Maloy is calling for changes to the lesserused Oviedo line while some city officials are saying its time to overhaul the funding of the whole system.

County commissioners want route changes while cities demand dedicated funding source community southeast portion of the county in October of 1992, the Oviedo-based bus line primarily serves the University of Central Florida, Oviedo Marketplace mall and the neighborhood of Alafaya Introduced to the growing Woods. Seminole County commissioners considered eliminating the route this month when the city of Oviedo refused to pay nearly half of the $80,000 needed to continue the service.

Although the Oviedo City Council agreed to fund the remaining portion of the route this month, Maloy said changes are needed to increase the viability of the route that has shown only a slight increase in ridership since its inception.

"It's still one of the lowest performing routes in the whole system," Maloy said. "One of the problems is it doesn't go to where there is a high density of people.

Airport snags $1M federal grant

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD - The Sanford Airport Authority will add $1.1 million in security enhancements thanks to a federal grant.

The U.S. Department of Transportation grant was announced by Sen. Bill Nelson of Florida.

"It's always nice when we can get federal money for these types of enhancements," said Larry Dale, president and CEO of the airport authority. "It allows us to pro-office of Dr. Parviz Brauman (aka Brahman), 100 Lake Shore Drive, Altamonte Springs. The doctor is reportedly in the process of being evicted from the property for reported nonpayment of rent.

The records were discovered Thursday morning by an employee of a dental office, which shares space in the building with the doctor's office. Deputies responded, documented the case, and took the records for safekeeping.

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is now looking into whether a theft complaint, filed on May 21, has any connection to the discovery of these records. In that case, reported last Friday, Brauman alleged that somebody broke into his office and stole patient files. Further investigation revealed another employee was in possession of the records. According to the incident report, the employee said they were allegedly ordered to dispose of them by the doctor, but put them into storage instead.

The sheriff's office will be in contact with the State Attorney's Office as to appropriate criminal sanctions, if any, that apply to this case. A special line set up to handle inquiries about patient records found in the dumpster is 407-665-6663. If the line is busy, or for after hours inquires, callers will be asked to leave their contact information and a staff member will call back.

LAKE MARY — The story is the same, but it's the ending that is different.

On a cold January day in Sanford, Cally Dawber walked into her backyard pool area, with her 2-year-old son Grayson pedaling his tricycle. As Grayson pedaled on, Dawber turned away from the pool to lock the gate behind them. She then heard a splash. She whirled around.

Grayson and his tricycle had fallen into the pool.

By the time Dawber got to the edge of the pool, Grayson had swum out from under his tricycle and grabbed onto the side of the pool.

Had Grayson not been taught how to react while unaided in the water, his story probably would have ended in another tragic drowning.

Drowning deaths in Florida are the highest in the nation, according to the Florida Department of Health. In 2002, almost 2,700 children 14 years old and under were treated in emergency rooms for drowning related ind dents, according to the National SAFE KIDS Campaign.

Fortunately for Grayson and his family, the instructors at the Seminole YMCA's Safe Start program had prepared him for just this kind of emergency. The Safe

Start program teaches children ages one to four how to swim through the water, roll onto their backs into a floating position, flip themselves back over and swim to safety. The program is a 6-week course, consisting of daily 10-minute sessions, five days a week. Children are taught to survive in the water while wearing bathing suits and normal clothes, as most drowning deaths occur when children wearing are everyday clothes.

Since Safe Start began in 2001, there have been 14 reported survival stories in Central Florida from children who were Safe Start students, said April Vail, Director of Aquatics for the who use the airport." Dale said because of the nature of the security improvements, he could not detail how the funds would be spent. He did say, however, that much of the money will be spent on equipment. Seven other Florida airports also received federal funding from DOT, including the city of Kissimmee which received a $1.3 million grant to rehabilitate its runway.

The airport authority is expected to accept the grant during its regular meeting Tuesday morning. In other business, the authority will:

"It really doesn't connect easily to the rest of the system," he said.

While Link 47 does stop at an UCF campus "superstop" that connects to other Orange County lines, Commissioner Randy Morris said the Oviedo route needs to serve another educational institute in the area.

"I hope we would continue this and expand the service to Seminole Community College," he said.

While funding for the Oviedo bus route is expected to be discussed again next year, county commissioners are still facing another financial shortfall for Lynx transportation.

Oviedo is not the only city in Seminole County balking at rising public transportation costs. The cities of Longwood and Winter Springs, which neither have a bus route in the city, still have not paid their full portion of mass transportation to the county.

For the second year, cities across Seminole County were asked to help fund door-to-door van service for the elderly and disabled. The service — called Access LYNX or paratransit - helps meet federal guidelines to provide vans for the "transportation for scholarship program The Central Florida YMCA's annual schol-

The Central Florida YMCA's annual scholarship program fundraising campaign officially came to a close on April 30 after raising $1.8 million in four months of formal campaigning.

Jim Downing, president of AR Funding and a YMCA Metropolitan Board Member, led the campaign which saw a $400,000 increase over last year.

"We are very pleased with the level of support we received for the scholarship program this year," said Downing. "Although there is an ongoing need for funds to support our scholarships, we have come very close to meeting our annual goal within the formal campaign months of January through April."

Donors included over 5,500 individuals, 500 of whom are members of the Grand Club, requiring donations of $1,000, or the Chairman's Roundtable, requiring a donation of $2,500. One hundred percent of the dollars raised benefit the Central Florida YMCA's Scholarship and Discount Programs. The goal of these programs is to ensure that no one is turned away based on ability to pay.

Established in 1942, the Central Florida YMCA is one of the largest not-for-profit community service organizations in Central Florida. With its 23 Family Centers in Orange, Osceola, Seminole, Lake, Marion and Brevard counties, the YMCA gave more than $6.5 million in financial assistance and membership and program subsidies to nearly 100,000 kids, teens, adults and seniors in 2003. Committed to the Central Florida community, the YMCA maintains its mission to help build strong minds, bodies and spirits.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Sara McKee is returning home as a champion.

Sure she didn't twist a tight end to the turf or snare a spiral for a score, but she was part of the team - the Super Bowlwinning Tampa Bay Buccaneers team to be exact.

A 1997 graduate of Lake Mary High School, McKee earned her bachelor's degree in communications from North Florida University in Jacksonville before moving on to the Tampa area.

After a stint as events coordinator for Dillard's department stores, McKee landed a job in 2001 with the Central Florida professional football team by beating out 500 applicants in a three-stage interview process that included a final meeting with the club owners.

Beside rubbing elbows with the boys in pewter pants and meeting some national notables, such as Gen. Tommy Franks, McKee earned the right to a Super Bowl ring, which she wears everyday with pride.

"I worked so hard for this ring that's why I wear it everyday," she said. As an events manage

There was no breeze. The waters of Lake Geneva calmly mirrored the million stars above. In the house in which I live a baby was born. The mother is yet one of the ministering angels of Geneva. Ice formed on quiet pools and the sap beneath the bark of the citrus trees froze.

"Came the morning and the sun.

Leaves withered and tree trunks split. Gardens wilted. The distressed people looked out into the bright sunlight with heavy hearts for the wealth of their labors was gone. They were again pioneers. But the spirit of friendliness and co-operation conquered. A few protected trees supplied bud wood for the community. Within a few years we again find the names of Hart, Prevatt, Patishall, Daniels and others of the original settlers on the old waybills of the St. Johns River boats. The community had won.

"In 1915 the first whistle of a railroad engine brought modern transportation to Geneva. Shortly thereafter the St. Johns was bridged and a road connected the Geneva peninsula with Sanford. The telephone and electric light have come. A community center and modern school building evidence the progressive hopes of the people. Two churches serve their spiritual needs.

however, diminished the community spirit of Geneva. The old town hall is often filled with the laughter of young and old when fish frys or dances are held under its moss-draped rafters. The shore of Lake Geneva is frequently alight from bonfires of picnic parties. The spirit of those early settlers pervades [sic] the buildings they erected, the land they cleared and the healthy minds and bodies of the children. Truly honest work and a spirit of neighborliness the people of my hometown have found contentment and happiness. So let not "grandure hear with disdainful smile,

Remembering Day

As of you didn't already know, Monday is Memorial Day. It is a legal public holiday, which means most government facilities will be closed, as will many businesses such as banks.

Way back when, the holiday was known as Decoration Day, because of the tradition of decorating the graves of servicemen. It is supposed to be an occasion for honoring those who have died in battle through the years, although some will pay tribute to our present service personnel.

It started following the Civil War, with the first observance supposedly held in Waterloo, N.Y. on May 5, 1865 (although other cities have claimed honors for the first observance). In Florida and Georgia, there is a Confederate Memorial Day on April 26. Mississippi observes

Nick

NT/

..... Confederate Memorial Day on April 30, and South Carolina observes Confederate Memorial Day on May 10. In addition to these dates, all states including the above mentioned, now hold a national Memorial Day observances on the last Monday in May.

Ever since 1950, by Presidential Proclamation issued every year, the day is also known as "Prayer for Peace Memorial Day". It calls for the flying of flags at half mast for the morning hours, and prayers for continuing world peace.

While this may come as a surprise for some folks, the Civil War is over. No longer is it suggested that we save our Confederate money, unless, of course, we are coin collectors.

As such, there are people who object to even mentioning a Confederate Memorial Day. They believe that the Southern forces were only fighting to retain segregation, and as such, they consider anything with the word "Confederate" attached to it, as racist

But keep in mind, the original intent of the observance, nationally as well as in individual states, was to "honor those who have died in battle". Whether they fought for a cause we believe in or for a cause we cannot accept, they DIED in battle - died to protect and preserve their beliefs, no matter what they may have been. The dead in battle included those from all walks of life, all sexes, all creeds, all colors, and over a wide age-span.

As such, we should not condemn Confederate Memorial Day any more than we might object to any other holiday that doesn't exactly fit into our individual way of thinking.

There will be a number of organizations, mostly militarily connected, which will be holding special observances on Monday for Memorial Day. Traditionally, there are also those who will visit cemeteries and place an American flag on those who died in battle.

At Oaklawn Park Cemetery on West County Road 46A, Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home will be open on Memorial Day to give a free flag for any family member who wishes to identify their fallen loved ones. While they have more than 100 flags to give away, there is no record to indicate how many veterans may be in Oaklawn.

Sanford will have a Memorial Day Parade and Remembrance Ceremony Monday at 10:30 a.m. culminating at the RiverWalk flagpole on the lake front.. City Manager Al Grieshaber, retired U.S. Marine Colonel will give the address. Military units and law enforcement officers will be included in the presentation.

All Faiths, in Casselberry, will have a Boy Scout troop placing flags at gravesites of fallen service personnel, and the displays of American flags will be prominent in completions throughout Central Florida, the state and nation. Because many folks moved to Central Florida from other parts of the nation, visiting the gravesite of a friend or relative who lost their lives in military service may not be possible. The holiday howover, does give us an opportunity to reflect on these loved ones. The freedoms we have today was because of the sacrifices they made yesterday.

School Board is wasting taxpayer money on lawsuit

To the editor.

I am writing in response to an article dated May 9, 2004, in The Sanford Herald addressing the issue of the Seminole County School Board attempting to sue and usurp authority over the city of Lake Mary. As a very concerned and involved tax payer; a 35-year resident of Seminole County and former student of the Seminole County Public School system --- I feel strongly that the public needs to know more about this issue

Apparently, the Seminole County School Board feels they have the right to do whatever they please, wherever they please with no regard to the local governments. I think it is a shame that more isn't done to work together as has recently been mandated by the state with the interlocal agreements, but when another governmental body approaches another with total indignation and disrespect - not an attitude of cooperation, what is the other governmental body to do other than defend themselves? It seems so

Your Views elementary for our state government to have to tell them to "play so they could force this "school" in to this inappropriate location. They lost their first law suit for a reason. What don't they understand yet? Let's stop playing politics here and do the jobs for which they were elected to do -- help support teachers and students, build much needed schools and classrooms, hire more teachers and give teachers pay raises, and help provide schools with much needed technology and supplies to be used for the education of our kids. Stop wasting our money on frivolous law suits!

To individuals such as Max Ferraria, an 18-year-old Lake Brantley student who wants to make a difference on the School Board — you go Max! We need more individuals like Max with new, fresh ideas and a desire to do their job and do it well. Twelve years is enough! It's time for new blood!

March, the airport experienced three failures of the runway lighting system. The airport authority approved emergency expenditures in April to replace the lighting system. The electrical and control system upgrades were planned before those failures, and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and the Florida Department of Transportation will pay for 97.5 percent of the $155,145 upgrade.

· Consider updating the "Airport Rules and Regulations" regarding tenants and users of airport facilities

The first update would mandate that certain airport facility users attend monthly security meetings. The second update would allow the airport authority to impose fines and penalties for certain class-es of security and safety violations. The FAA and the Transportation Security Administration have increased the amount of fines the federal government can impose on the airport, so airport officials want to implement a similar structure. Depending on the severity of the violation, the airport authority would be able to levy fines up to $11,000 perday.

The third update would allow the airport authority to designate inspectors to enforce city, county, state and federal regulations regarding construction, maintenance or building violations. The update would also allow the authority to issue "stop work" orders when violations exist.

English, a 5-foot-11 righthander, had a no-hitter for 3-2/3 innings and finished with a four-hitter as he won his 18th straight decision over two years and 12th without a defeat this season.

The Patriots' Dobbins (10-2) nearly matched English pitch-for-pitch, allowing only six hits and only one earned run.

Cypress Bay got on the scoreboard in the third on back-to-back hit batters and a throwing error to load the bases with no one out. The next batter, Mitch Houck, then hit a two strike, no ball change-up into leftcenter for a double and two runs.

Dobbins said afterward that he put the pitch exactly where he wanted it, but the talented junior went down and got just enough metal on it.

The final run came in the fifth on a walk, another hit batter, a wild pitch and a balk.

For Lake Brantley, Ray Allen had a double, while Dobbins, Jason Bush and Ryan Kelley had one single each. Jemile Weeks, who had won the previous two games for the Patriots with late-inning hits, barely got to swing the bat as he was hit by pitched his final two at bats.

A more comprehensive recap of the game will appear in the Wednesday Sanford Heraid.

Tips to

the cost

Summer kickoff Renegades Memorial Classic set for this

With the cost of a gallon of gas continuing to reach record highs - and prices not expected to peak until late summer -Boat Owners Association of The United States (BoatU.S.) has a few tips that could significantly reduce your fuel costs.

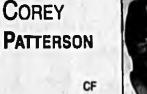

1. Leave the extra 'junk' home: Don't load the boat up with weight you don't need. Do a little spring cleaning unused equipment that has been collecting mildew in the bottom of lockers for years should be taken home. 2. Water weight: This isn't about your mother's diet. At 8.33 pounds per gallon, why keep the water in the tank topped off if you're only going out for the afternoon? 3. Tune her up: An engine with fouled plugs, dirty air filter, erratic timing, a sputtering carburetor, or weak compression will gobble up fuel and perform dismally. The bottom line: A tune-up is an excellent investment and could easily pay for itself over the summer. 4. Tune your prop: You can lose up to 5 mph of boat speed with a poorly tuned prop. If your boat goes 50 mph with a like-new prop and only 45 mph with a prop that's dinged and out of pltch, you've lost 10% of your speed but are still using the same amount of fuel. That converts to a 10% loss in fuel economy. 5. Clean the boat's bottom: A fouled bottom is like a dull knife; it takes a lot more effort - fuel - to push it through the water. Barnacles and slime slow the boat dramatically and increase fuel consumption. 6. Keep the boat in trim: Either by using trim tabs or with weight distribution. A boat that is trimmed correctly will move through the water with less effort - and less fuel. 7. Install a fuel flow meter: A fuel flow meter is like a heart monitor; when consumption starts to rise, it's an early warning that something is amiss. A fuel flow meter also allows you to select a comfortable cruising speed that optimizes the amount of fuel being consumed. If you don't want to spring for a fuel flow meter (about $300), you can calculate See Outdoors, Page 11A

UCF falls into losers bracket

By Dean Smith Sports Editor

DeLAND — A hoped for final matchup failed to materialize at the Atlantic Sun Conference Baseball Tournament on Melching Field at Conrad Park in DeLand as both No. 1 seeded UCF and No. 2 Stetson were defeated by Florida Atlantic University. Three costly UCF (44-15) errors in the top of the eighth inning led to three unearned runs for Florida Atlantic (44-15) as the Owls defeated the Golden Knights 7-4 Friday afternoon in the semifinals.

The loss snapped UCF's seven-game winning streak in A-Sun Tournament Games and was also just the second loss (17-2) for the Golden Knights in an A-Sun Tournament Game in DeLand.

With the score tied at 4-4, UCF looked to take the lead in the fourth as Lake

Mary's Drew Butera ripped a single up the middle with Kevin Richmond on second base, but FAU center fielder Mike McBryde gunned down Richmond at the plate for the first out of the inning.

The Golden Knights escaped a jam in the seventh as UCF starter Darren Newlin allowed the first two batters of the inning to reach base. UCF turned to reliever Tim Bascom to escape the inning without allowing a run.

Three UCF errors in the eighth led to three unearned runs by the Owls as FAU regained the lead at 7-4.

Florida Atlantic reliever Craig Hughes closed out the final 5.2 innings for the win. He allowed just two hits and no runs for the Owls.

Florida Atlantic had advanced to the winner's bracket semifinal with an easy 15-1 victory over Stetson in the second round Thursday night.

Florida Atlantic collected 15 hits in the game, including six doubles and two home runs. Stetson pitchers issued 10 walks and hit two batters.

"It was total domination tonight, and unfortunately we were the ones dominated," Hatter head coach Pete Dunn said. "We got behind the eight-ball early, and when you fall behind a team as good as FAU, it is tough to come back. They kept the pressure on us throughout the game."

Lake Mary native Chris Westervelt led off the bottom of the second for Stetson with a sharp double to left. The Hatter senior moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground out by Bryan Zenchyk, cutting the deficit to 3-1.

But FAU broke the game open with six runs in the fourth. Robbie Widlansky highlighted the attack with a two-out, See College, Page 11A

Mistake costs Edwards truck win at Charlotte

Special to the Herald

Carl Edwards nearly claimed his second victory of the season Friday night at Lowe's Motor Speedway, but a mysterious caution light in the closing laps cost the Sanford-based Superchips Ford a potential victory. It is a mystery that will likely never be solved, but it is certain that Edwards was not pleased with a second-place finish.

The night started off well for the No. 99 Superchips team. Edwards started on the front row after turning a qualifying lap of 177.749 mph, which was good enough for second. He jumped into the lead on the very first lap and led for 33 laps until his first pit stop. The truck was a little free so the crew made a slight air pressure adjustment and added a round of wedge in 16.2 seconds. A few trucks stayed out so Edwards was fifth on the restart.

After the restart on lap 36, it only took Edwards one lap to regain the lead. He led for another 10 laps before Nextel Cup racer Michael Waltrip took the lead. The two drivers swapped the lead many times throughout the night as Edward's truck became loose on longer runs. By the halfway point of the race, Edwards told the crew the truck was really loose. He remained in second place until he could pit for more adjustments under caution on lap 71. The team knew this would likely be their final stop of the night and the handling had to be right for the remainder of the race. The Superchips crew made another air pressure and wedge adjustment and also added spring rubbers to the left-rear spring. It was a lengthy stop, but worth it in the long run since the truck was so much better. Edwards was ninth when the green flag flew on lap 75. Within 14 laps, he took the lead again, but only for three laps before Waltrip caught him. Waltrip had a sizeable lead over the field until a caution was called for debris with 20 laps to go. The race restarted with 14 laps to go and the top-three trucks went three-wide for the lead. Waltrip won the battle, but Edwards would not give up and took the lead back with six laps to

It looked as though Edwards was on his way to victory lane until he lifted in the closing laps for what he, and many other drivers, thought was a caution. Several drivers said they saw the caution lights come on briefly, and when that happened most of the drivers slowed down. When the spotters said nothing, they realized there was no caution, and Dennis Setzer was the first to get back in the gas. He took the lead from Edwards with four laps to go and won the race. Edwards finished second followed by David Starr, Kevin Harvick and Waltrip. Edwards led the most laps and earned an extra five bonus

"That was just a fatal mistake on my part," said a disappointed Edwards after the race. "I thought there was a yellow and I started slowing down. That was the dumbest mistake that I've ever made in my life. There was a slow truck on the bottom, I waved and Dennis lifted and I thought, 'Oh, it's a yellow.' I know there are bigger things in life, but it doesn't feel like it right now. That race was ours and 1 feel bad for the guys and everyone at Superchips. Second place is good, but not when you should have won."

Edwards remains second in the NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series point standings, 37 points behind Setzer. The next race will be on Friday, June 4 at Dover International Speedway. It will be televised live on Speed Channel at 4 p.m.

Lakes.

Meier (6-3) ran out of gas in the ninth, as the first two batters reached base. The Altamonte Springs native struck out four batters and allowed three earned runs in the win.

Campbell made things interesting with four runs in the ninth to pull to within one at 6-5, but freshman reliever Brian Brooks from Oviedo nailed down his first career save to clinch the victory.

Dee Brown then finished 3for-5 with four RBI to power UCF past Gardner-Webb 10-7 on Thursday to eliminate the Bulldogs from the 2004 Atlantic Sun Championship.

Matt Fox (13-2) became just the third Golden Knight in school history to reach the 13win plateau with 6.0 innings for the victory. The junior righthander allowed three runs on six hits with seven strikeouts. Only Justin Pope (15) and Jason Arnold (14) have won more games in a season than

Fox. Both Arnold and Pope won a combined 29 games during the 2001 campaign.

The Bulldogs got three runs back in the home half of the seventh as Ryan Quirello doubled in a run and McCarson followed with a RBI-double of his own to close the gap to 9-6. Matt Bridges continued the Bulldog scoring with a single up the middle to bring GWU to within three at 9-6.

Gardner-Webb scored again the eighth to close the lead to 9-7 before Jay Bergman called for Lake Mary's Kyle Bono to enter the game from the bullpen.

Welcome mat: Yoga offers an inviting workout

By Maya Kroth Copley News Service

pen up any Us Weekly magazine and you can get the scoop on the latest celebrityfueled fitness craze. In the '80s it was aerobics and Jazzercise. The '90s had cardio kickboxing, then spinning, then yoga, then pilates, then yogalates, krav maga, cardio striptease ... and the list goes on.

Fitness fads come and go, but occasionally you'll find an exercise that stands the test of time — like yoga.

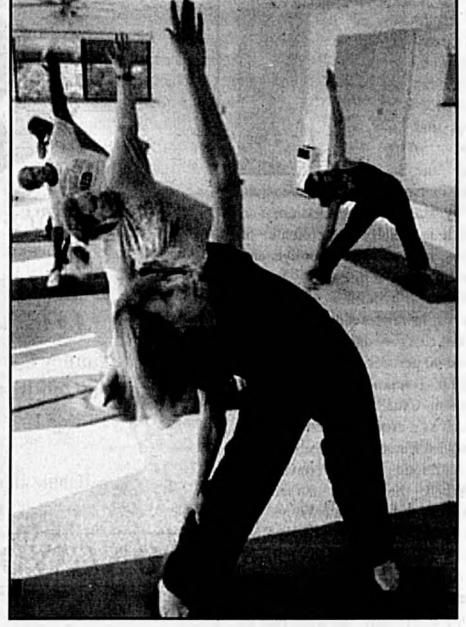

Practiced for nearly 5,000 years, yoga is a form of body conditioning that places emphasis on strengthening the body and the mind while stimulating the soul. Who practices it? Everyone from Hindu masters to Gwyneth Paltrow.

Yoga is the Sanskrit word for "yoke, join or concentrate," which explains the yogic philosophy of uniting the body, mind and soul.

The six branches of yoga recognized and practiced by Hindus are raja, karma, bhakti, jnana, tantra and hatha yoga, the last being the form with which most Americans are familiar.

With an emphasis on physical postures, or asanas, hatha yoga has many variations devised by different gurus over the years, each with its own set of guiding principles but all utilizing the same basic postures.

Of the myriad subtypes of hatha yoga, the most commonly practiced include Iyengar, Bikram, Vinyasa/Ashtanga, Kundalini and Svaroopa (gentle) yoga.

Whether you want to tone up, chill out, sharpen your mind or deepen your experience, yoga is a holistic approach to health and fitness with styles to fit the needs of all aspiring yogis and yoginis.

IYENGAR

Developed and still taught by the now 80-year-old B.K.S. Iyengar, this form of yoga focuses on proper alignment of the body. Generally Iyengar classes include fewer poses than other forms of yoga, but poses are held much longer, allowing the body to settle into the posture and find increased alignment.

Many find Iyengar yoga to be challenging because of its strict, detail-oriented nature, while others who prefer a more vigorous, sweaty workout claim Iyengar is too slow-paced. The use of props such as belts, blocks, bolsters, blankets and chairs is integral to Iyengar practice.

BIKRAM

Bikram yoga, also called "hot yoga," was brought to America by Bikram Choudhury in 1971 and consists of 26 postures repeated in the same order in a studio heated to nearly 105 degrees Fahrenheit.

This controversial form of yoga is not right for everyone. Bikram devotees claim the extreme heat does wonders for their flexibility and complexion, while other

Choosing the most effective headache medicine

By Leonard Novarro Copley News Service

scriptin, Advil, Ecotrin, Aleve, Orudis KT — it's enough to give you an Excedrin headache.

Yet, according to chief pharmacist Gordon McGuire, "there's not a whole lot to choose between. If you talk to the drug companies, they'll give you a lot of reasons a mile long why this is better than something else. The only difference is how long they stay in the body. They all work the same."

Most over-the-counter headache remedies contain as their main ingredient one of three nonsteroidal agents: ibuprofen, naproxen or ketoprofen. All attack the underlying cause of most common headaches, inflammation. The main ingredient in Tylenol, acetaminophen, attacks only the pain.

"Tylenol is something that can reduce a headache by reducing pain, but it's not treating the headache, which is why we think anti-inflammatories are better," said Dr. Andrew Charles, assistant professor of neurology at the UCLA School of Medicine and director of its neurology residency program.

Ibuprofen works better for some; naproxen, for others, according to Charles, who said headache sufferers may have to experiment to find what works best for them. But don't mix brands on any given day; an excessive dose could lead to gastrointestinal bleeding or kidney damage.

Aspirin, which is both an analgesic and an anti-inflammatory, is not as effective as other over-the-counter remedies in fighting most headaches, according to physicians. It is also not recommended for children because it has been associated with the development of Reye's syndrome, a liver and central-nervous-system disorder most often affecting patients between the ages of 4 and 15.

Tylenol and ibuprofen, and I wouldn't have any trouble using other anti-inflammatories."

headaches into three main categories: vascular, includes which migraine and cluster headaches that linked to are blood vessels in the head; muscle tension, brought on by stress and depression; and organic, which is usually symptomatic of other problems, such as a tumor, or eye, car, nose or brain infection or disease.

Sinus headaches, a buildup of pressure behind the eyes, lower forehead or cheeks, fall into the last category and affect between 30 percent and 40 percent of the population, according to Dr. Terence Davidson, a head and neck surgeon. Usually, the cause is nasal deformity, such as a crooked septum, which makes drainage difficult and causes mucus to back up. Antibiotics help to relieve most infections. Where they don't, surgery to drain the nasal canal may be necessary.

For sinus headaches triggered by pollen and animal hair, most over-the-counter antihistamines are effective. For more serious cases, nasal steroids or serums to desensitize the body to specific allergens maybe prescribed.

With or without medication, managing headaches requires attention to detail. The following are a few suggestions by doctors and the headache foundation:

- Be aware that some aspirin products contain caffeine, which is effective in fighting headaches but can also trigger headaches.

- Avoid alcohol if you're using medication on a long-term basis. Mixing can cause intestinal bleeding.

- Avoid taking anti-inflammatories For children, Charles said, "I would use before strenuous exercise. The combination causes dehydration, which could damage the kidneys.

For any remedy to work, however, it must be taken before a headache builds. "Most people wait for a headache to take hold, and then it's too late," Charles said. "If you get a feeling that a headache is building, that's the time to tackle it."

The problem is more common than most people realize. More than 45 million Americans suffer from chronic headaches, according to the National Headache Foundation.

"They are probably the most common recurrent pain problem there is," said Dr. Richard Sandler, a pain specialist. "Next to upper-respiratory infections, they're the main reason most people miss work." The headache foundation divides

- Check with your physician about the long-term side effects of any medication. - Beware of escalating dependence. Going off a long-term remedy often produces a rebound effect in which the headache returns more severely.

- Watch your diet. Avoid headache triggers such as cheeses, red wine and other foods high in tyramine.

- Keep a headache diary to determine what changes or foods trigger a headache.

- Be aware that while exercise can reduce the frequency and severity of headaches, it can also exacerbate them. For more information, contact the headache foundation at (888) NHF-5552 or www.headaches.com.

nce a devotee of potato chips and double cheeseburgers, 11-year-old Cory Gordon now munches on low-fat vegetable chips and orders a plain burger at the local fast-food joint.

He keeps a list of healthy foods on the fridge, and he walks to school and back, one mile each way, instead of getting a ride.

Cory even monitors his computer and TV time, trying to limit it to one hour a day — tough to do, as his favorite pastime is playing computer strategy games.

At 5 foot 3, Cory weighed 146 pounds. Tired of being overweight, troubled by the teasing that heavy kids endure from classmates, Cory took matters into his own hands.

The sixth-grader is bucking a trend. The number of overweight and obese children in America is on the rise, fueled by poor eating habits and a decline in physical activity.

Surfing the Net has replaced the after-school game of catch, and drive-through dinners have supplanted often-more-nutritious sit-down meals. Safety concerns keep kids from riding bikes, visiting parks and walking anywhere.

Nevertheless, Cory was determined to change his ways. Just three weeks into his new lifestyle, he lost 5 pounds, feels > better about himself and has set an example for overweight children. But he has not done it alone. His mother, Karen Gordon, got Cory to enroll in Way To Go Kids!, a family-based weight management program held in their hometown. She doesn't apologize for bribing him with Yu-Gi-Oh! Japanese trading cards.

> Once Cory was in the program, registered dietitian and group leader Jackie Cohen assessed his weight using a Body Mass Index. The calculation, based on height, weight and age, determined he was overweight.

Overweight and obesity are the result of an energy imbalance: eating too many calories and not getting enough physical activity.

But parents concerned about an overweight child should let a doctor or other professional be the judge in order to rule out medical problems that could be the cause.

According to recent findings from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, 15 percent of children and adolescents, from 6 to 19, are overweight or obese, more than double the number two decades ago.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the highest percentage of overweight in boys occurs in Mexican-Americans. Among girls, it is non-Hispanic blacks, followed by Mexican-Americans.

Surgeon General Richard Carmona addressed the issue recently at the largest-ever conference on childhood obesity. He said obesity is the fastest growing cause of illness and death in Americans.

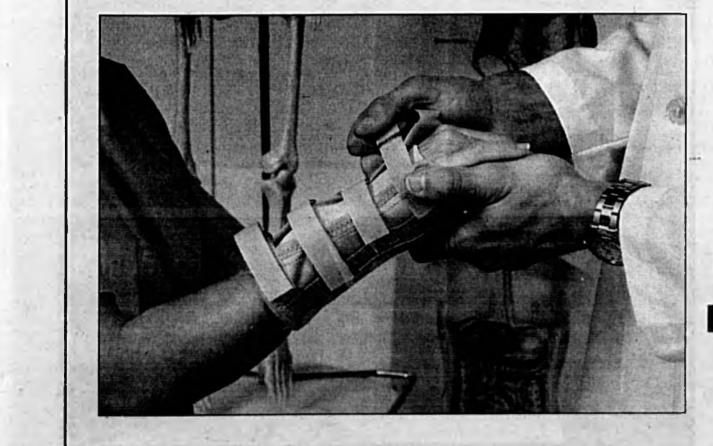

Carmona stressed that parents must lead by example. He added that President Bush, each time he sees Carmona, always asks if he's had his daily workout.

While President Bush cannot ask this of each child, parents can. But it's a mind-set. Families need to be willing to make changes to become healthy.

Cohen's goal is to have kids maintain their weight, so they can grow into it. By giving them a binder full of meal planning guides, tips and recipes, and meeting once a week for lessons and exercise sessions, Cohen shows them how to eat healthy and stay active.

OBESITY

She does not tell children they can't have certain foods.

Instead, she tells them to limit the amount of sugary and fatty foods they eat. Portion control is extremely important, Cohen said.

She also wants parents to know that eating healthy does not have to be a battle. For snack, Cohen passes around healthy food options, such as hummus and carrots or apple and orange wedges, which most children happily cat.

She urges parents to cut up vegetables and fruit and keep them in the fridge because kids often eat what is easy to grab. She also suggests limiting purchases of "junk foods," such as cookies, candy and chips.

Cory, who learned to read food labels in the program, helps choose his meals. It takes this combined family effort to get results and make permanent healthy life choices. That is why Cohen will not allow a child to come to the program without a parent.

"You can't just give a kid a diet. You have to get the parents to make the changes," Cohen said.

As for genetics, experts say that only plays a small role in children becoming overweight. More often, problems stem from parents who do not have their own eating habits under control or from underlying problems within the family, such as divorce and relocation.

In Cory's case, he'll tell you that he was at Way To Go Kids! "because my mom made me." Through the course of the program, Cory realized that weight management is not just for those who want the perfect body, but a way to stay healthy.

Today, the boy who was quiet during his first meeting of Way To Go Kids! is a proud convert. The knowledge he gained has made him a happier, healthier kid, one who is more in control of his weight.

"Without Jackie's class. I don't think I would be doing so good in life," Cory said.

VINYASA/ASHTANGA

Vinyasa, or "flow" yoga, is a vigorous form of yoga that places emphasis on a series of postures that flow into one another. There are many names for this type of yoga, each with its own nuances, including Ashtanga, power yoga and "flow series." All forms of Vinyasa are derived from Ashtanga, which was founded by K. Pattabhi Jois and uses a series of movements to stretch, strengthen and tone the entire body.

KUNDALINI

Kundalini was brought to the West in 1969 by Yogi Bhajan. This form of yoga incorporates postures, breathing, chanting and meditation into each practice. The goal of Kundalini yoga is to activate the life energy within the body and channel it through each of the seven chakras.

Svaroopa Yoga was developed by Rama

Berch. A gentler form of yoga, Svaroopa focuses on healing the body and encouraging a transcendental experience through familiar yoga postures.
