SENATE REFUSES TO GIVE CLOTURE TO BOULDER BILL

Adverse Vote This Afternoon Kills All Chances During This Session For Passage Of Dam Construction Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—The dramatic eight-day battle for enactment of the Swing-Johnson bill for erecting a dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado River ended this afternoon when the Senate refused to invoke cloture to insure its enactment.

This is the best picture of Congress ever taken. It was made by an NPA Service photographer while President Coolidge was delivering his Washington Birthday speech. The address was radioed all over the U. S. and relayed across the Atlantic for re-broadcasting in Europe. The photograph shows the president before the microphone, with the justices of the supreme court and cabinet members seated out in front. Chief Justice Taft, ex-president, is prominent among the justices, who wear their official robes. Many other notables easily can be recognized. The scene was the House of Representatives, where the House and Senate met in joint session.

Federal Reserve Board Likely To Change Its Policy On Branch Banks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—A modification of the Federal Reserve Board's strict policy relative to establishment of branch banks was indicated today. While Governor D. B. Grinnell, announced that the expansion program is contemplated, it was learned that the board will be more liberal in its action on branch bank applications, as a result of the passage of the McFadden banking bill. This act provides that the board may discontinue unfavorable branches, thus making possible opening of branches on a more or less experimental basis. Heretofore, owing to the fear that too many branches might make the Federal Reserve system top heavy, the board has placed almost unworkable obstacles in the way of system expansion.

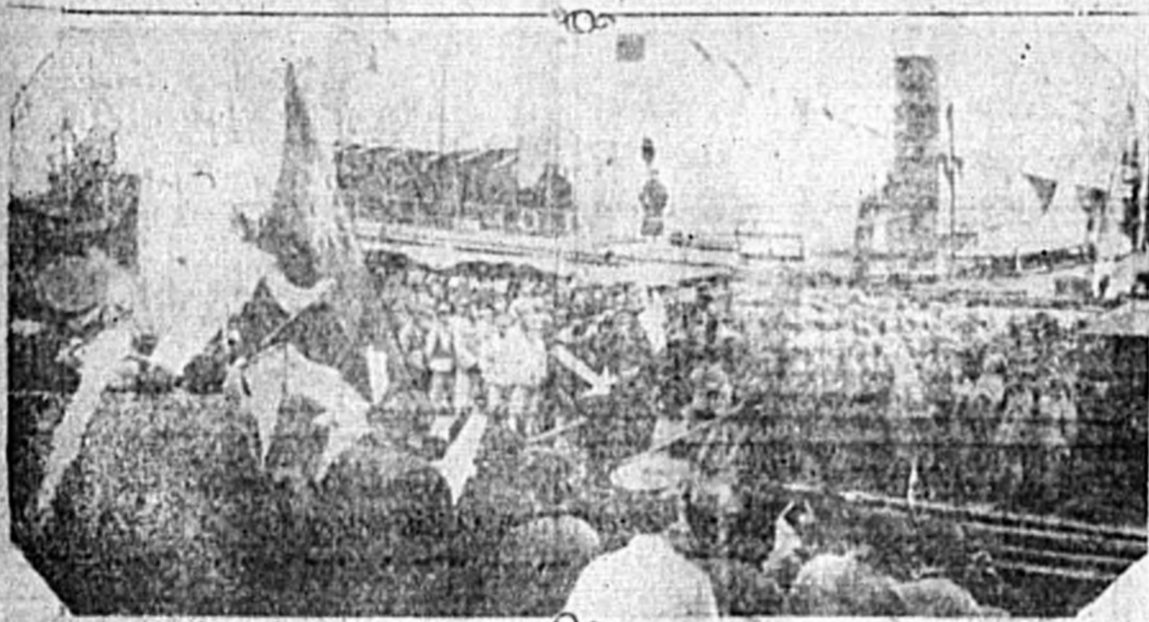

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN PICTURES

Storm's Work In East And South

The work of nature's fury on Long Island, New York, and at Pleasant Hill, La., is pictured above. The upper photo shows what was a beautiful seashore bungalow at Long Beach, Long Island, until high winds and tides demolished it during an Atlantic coast storm which cost 25 lives. The house in the lower photo was a two-story affair until Pleasant Hill was struck by a tornado. The twister took off the second story, shattered a big tree in the yard, and left the fence almost undamaged and occupants of the house uninjured. More than a dozen Pleasant Hill residents were killed at the time.

Chang, indicated above by the arrow and the circle, is the generalissimo of the Chinese Nationalists, something of a George Washington among his countrymen. Hankow is the Nationalists' capital. Note the military band in the lower photo—playing, presumably, some Chinese version of "Hail to the Chief."

When Maloney Beat Deane

This telephoto picture, taken by NFA staff photographers at Madison Square Garden, New York, shows one of the liveliest moments in the Jim Maloney-Jack Deane fight, the biggest scrap since the Sesqui-Centennial exhibition of Dempsey and Tunney. Deane, the light heavyweight champion, entered the ring 31 pounds lighter than Maloney and this concession proved too much of a handicap. The bulky Maloney, who weighed in at 205, took every round and won the fight by a decision. This picture shows Maloney (left) and Deane (right) charging at each other's head in the first round. The referee at the right is Louis Migonola. Deane's bill was not affected by the decision because of the disparity in weights.

DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 25.—Plans for the Detroit Hockey Club's Olympia Arena have been changed so that it will be the largest building in the world devoted to boxing and other athletic events, according to a petition filed with the Michigan Securities Commission. The original plans, laid before the commission in August 1925, contemplated a building that would seat 12,000 persons at a hockey game and 15,000 at boxing exhibitions. The club has contract with Tex Richard, promoter of most of the recent championship bouts, under which he agrees to hold from four to six major boxing events at Olympia Arena every year. The new plans contemplate construction of the arena on the site of the original choice, at the corner of Grand River and McGraw Avenues.

There is no Substitute for Circulation

In the days before the advent of the Audit-Bureau of Circulations many ingenious schemes were used to inflate circulation as inducements to the advertiser. This was attempted substitution.

The prevalence of such policies brought about the necessity of an authorized authority to check these unfair methods. The A. B. NEWS FOR THE MOTORIST

Failure of Pinedo to Reach Coast Of Brazil Was Due To Bad Weather

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 25. — (INR) — Commander Francisco de Pinedo, who is making a flight to four continents, arrived at Natal this afternoon from Pernambuco.

PERNAMBUCO, BRAZIL, Feb. 25. — My failure to fly from the Cape Verde Islands to Natal on the Brazilian mailboat in the first attempt was entirely due to weather conditions," declared Commander Francisco de Pinedo today in an interview with the International News Service, explaining why he failed to reach Natal in his trans-Atlantic hop.

"After I had passed Fernando I ran into fog and storm," said de Pinedo. "For more than half an hour I was unable to fix my position. Although I had gasoline enough to reach Natal and my machine was working perfectly I decided to turn back to Pernambuco when I was unable to sight land."

"When twenty miles from Fernando I sighted the cruiser Barroso I decided to descend, notwithstanding the storm. We came down near the Barroso and I signalled with a flag to the cruiser to come and protect us from the huge waves that were breaking over us."

"All that night we worked to protect our machine, but we all managed to get a little sleep, the first we had enjoyed for more than three days.

"I want to explain our delay in Fernando which has been attributed to a damaged motor. It wasn't exactly a damaged motor. What happened was this. During the night certain persons were charged with re-filling our plane and by mistake they mixed kerosene and gasoline in the tanks. The motor refused to work and we were obliged to take all the fuel from the tanks and clean the entire motor."

"It was a strenuous time, after we left Bolma di Portuguese Guinea, for we were on the job constantly without sleep. I want to congratulate my colleagues Major Del Prete and mechanic Zaccetti."

"I am pleased to say that my plane worked with the greatest precision and up to the present we have not changed even the smallest piece of apparatus."

"When we leave Pernambuco, which I expect will be today, we will make a one-day stop at Bahia and then a one day stop at Rio Janeiro. Then we go to Buenos Ayres and from there to Assumption, Corumbá, Manaus, Balem, Caracas, Havana, New Orleans, San Diego, San Francisco, Vancouver, Chicago, New York, the Azores, Lisbon and Rome."

"The trip will actually be shorter than my flight from Rome to Tokyo."

SACASA FAVORS AMERICAN HELP FOR NICARAGUA

U.S. Assistance Is Welcomed, Declares Liberal Leader In Outlining His Program

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nic., Feb. 25. — (INR) — American aid in the solution of Nicaragua's many problems will be welcomed by Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa, should he succeed in establishing himself in control of the country, he stated exclusively to International News Service today.

Dr. Sacasa asserted that, very far from wishing to isolate his country from American influence, he earnestly desired to effect a closer and more cordial contact with "Nicaragua's Big Sister."

"American inspection, criticism and assistance are desirable and would be welcomed by my administration," Dr. Sacasa declared. "We want closer trade relations and long for a better understanding. But American armed intervention, oppression or imposition is not wanted and will be resented to the extent of our weak ability."

Among the things Dr. Sacasa would have the United States do in Nicaragua are the following:

1. Supervision of the next general election. This to be done in such a manner that the fairness of the election shall be assured in advance. Dr. Sacasa does not deem it sufficient that the supervising officials should confine themselves to a statement after the event that it was not fair, and Nicaraguans told "Wait until the next election." He expresses confidence that in any honest election

2. Immediate construction of the Nicaraguan Canal. Dr. Sacasa says that, far from being opposed to its construction by the United States, he favors it, and wants it done as early as possible. He believes it would be a great benefit to Nicaragua and points to the prosperity which has come to Panama from its canal.

3. American advice in financial matters. The United States government, in Dr. Sacasa's opinion should be consulted when Nicaragua wishes to contract a loan. When an American banking firm makes a loan proposal, he thinks it should be submitted to the State Department for study and that Nicaragua should be told either: "We think this is a very fair offer with certain slight modifications," or "This is not a good offer. You can get easier conditions and a lower rate of interest elsewhere. Why not try Blank & Company?"

A strong basketball five form a reputation of sending out good athletes, is scheduled to meet the Sanford Y. M. C. A. on the court of the Seminole high school gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock in what is expected to be one of the most interesting matches on the state schedule.

Sanford quintet has shown to great advantage within the past two weeks and since its games with Rollins varsity and the freshmen from that college. Both of which were won by the "Y" team. It has become a leading contender for the state championship, to be decided in a three day tourney at Jacksonville next month.

The members of the local team are all in excellent shape for the battle. Each man came through the Rollins games without a scratch. The cage game tonight is expected to draw a good sized crowd, as the "Y" men have attracted considerable notice to play fast basketball.

lahassee on Monday and completed preparation of proposed changes in court practice last night.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Theodore F. Shuey, official reporter in the Senate, who has been reporting senatorial speeches for 60 years, sometimes has his troubles in taking down the utterances of statesmen word for word.

When Shuey has nightmares, he dreams of the late Senator James A. Clark of Arkansas.

"He was a terror," Shuey says. "He made fine speeches, but he went so fast that they lost their effect. It was mighty hard to take him down. He went over 200 words a minute and his diction wasn't clear enough to permit it."

The present champion oratorical sprinter of the Senate, Shuey says, is Peter Norbeck of South Dakota. The official reporters thank heaven that Norbeck speaks on few occasions, for he talks about 225 words a minute and is the hardest man to 'get' of the current senatorial crop.

Clark, however, remains most vividly in Shuey's long memory.

"Mr. Moses of New Hampshire has the clearest diction of them all," chuckles Shuey. "He's just delightful. He goes up to 180 words a minute, but he has that wonderful fluency that we used to hear from John T. Morgan of Alabama."

"Mr. Robinson of Arkansas is almost as clear as Mr. Moses and Mr. Borah is almost as clear as Mr. Robinson. Mr. Robinson talks about 165 words a minute and Mr. Borah goes about 150."

In honor James A. Reed of Missouri is the favorite orator of this 82-year-old man who has heard more senators more often than any man else. Borah he regards as the finest orator on the Republican side. Reed often goes down to 140 words a minute, Shuey says.

"He's very clear, and really the most delightful man in the Senate to listen to," declares Shuey.

They all talk faster—and make it harder for the reporters—when they snap at each other. "Our hardest job," one is assured, "is to get the words of the man who nobody can hold the galleria like Tom Heflin of Alabama, who orates at about 150 words a minute."

Carter Glass has very clear diction and speaks at about Borah's speed. Swanson, whether he has the gifts of oratory or not, has an effective earnestness which Shuey believes counts a great deal. Swanson hits 180 words a minute.

FLOATING PALACE IS CONSTRUCTED FOR CALIFORNIAN

Millionaire Sportsman Gives Contract To English Firm To Build Pleasure Craft Which Will Have No Equal

LONDON, Feb. 25. — Four hundred thousand dollars are being spent in building and fitting out a veritable floating palace for A. K. Macomber, the California millionaire sportsman, at Southampton. The last word in ocean-going luxury, Macomber has had her named "crusader" and she will shortly undergo her official trials.

Three hundred workmen have combined to make her as near perfect artistically as possible. She is not intended for racing, but will be used as a floating home. Perfectly appointed cabins and all manner of cunningly contrived gadgets abound. The dining-rooms is paneled in dove-gray, with silver fittings and tiled fireplaces.

Of 517 tons, the yacht is 183 feet long, and every inch of space has been utilized to give homelike living conditions for guests and her crew of twenty-two. Macomber's own stateroom is a spacious apartment furnished in mahogany.

An electrical refrigerator has been installed to provide food direct to the dining room. Miles of hidden wiring and a multitude of radio sets will bring radio concerts from all over the world.

She will be able to cruise six thousand knots at a speed of thirteen knots and hour without touching port.

Some idea of the cost of running the yacht can be gathered from the fact that the wage bill for officers and crew will be more than $25,000 a year.

Some of our "busy bees" seem to think that all bees are drones. We'd rather see the country deep spot with Coolidge than get drunk with Al Smith.

President Coolidge failed to sign the McNary-Haugen bill. It is not so crazy about a third as people seem to think he is, and then again, may be figured the majority of farmers didn't want to be subsidized.

Coolidge Vetoes

President Coolidge, who in regard to the McNary-Haugen bill, has maintained with utmost consistency his reputation for keeping silent, yesterday relieved the tension among both the pros and cons by exercising his power of veto. The consensus of opinion seems to be that by so doing he has precipitated his political downfall.

It is a well known fact that during the past two years there has been considerable dissatisfaction among the Republican farmers of the West and Middle West. Hard times always bring dissatisfaction and the farmers have not been getting as much for their corn as they would like. As to whether or not the McNary-Haugen bill was the solution to their problem, there has been much argument.

During the interim of the passage of the bill by congress and its veto by the president, newspapers throughout the whole land, political manipulators, agitators and pamphleteers have deluged the country with one reason and another why the bill should, or should not, be signed.

While we have long been of the opinion that some federal action should be taken in the interest of the farmer, we could not fail to note that the paramount reason always given by the affirmative as to why the president should sign the bill was that any other action on his part would spell his political doom. The farmers, it was said, were looking to him for help, and should he fail them, they would turn to Hoover or Dawes in 1928.

Coolidge may have sensed this and not cared. Or he may have had a keener insight into the farmer's mind than the promoters of the bill. It is just possible that the farmers themselves did not like the bill in its entirety with all its arbitrary features. In this case Coolidge may not have been as dumb as he looked.

In either case he has a year and a half to repair the injury done, if any, and a rise in the prices of wheat and corn is all it takes.

New Orleans' One Hundredth Mardi Gras

Historic New Orleans, itself two centuries old, is on the eve of its one hundredth Mardi Gras. Other cities have their festivals, but this carnival in New Orleans is richer and more splendid in tradition than anything of its kind in America. Its gorgeousness, splendor, and ancient customs savour of some Old World fete, and this is only natural as the whole fabric of Mardi Gras is French as France itself, having been handed down intact through the years from the earliest settlers in Louisiana. Americans have been going to New Orleans for this holiday since the days when the only way it could be reached was by river steamboats, coast-wise sailing vessels, or horseback.

Mardi Gras comes on Fat Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, the first day of the Lenten season. The name is derived from the Latin, Carne Vale, which means "Fare well to the Flesh." The holiday, coming as it does at the close of the gay New Orleans social season, which begins on Twelfth Night, twelve days after Christmas, and just before the beginning of the forty day fasting period of Lent, has a singularly appropriate name.

The cost of this carnival is enormous. Millions of dollars are spent annually on the numerous balls, costumes, and parades. Sometimes one hundred thousand to two hundred thousand dollars are spent on one ball, and there are twenty balls during the festival. Every ball is planned a year in advance, and special scenery and lighting effects designed. The older of the New Orleans families have their costumes made in Paris by costumers who hand down this time-honored New Orleans patronage from father to son for generations.

Every ball has its own king and queen, but all these monarchs are subjects of the King and Queen of Mardi Gras, who are also King and Queen of the Rex Ball. To have this privilege is the highest social honor that New Orleans can bestow. But it usually costs the recipient between twenty-five and fifty thousand dollars.

For several days before Mardi Gras day, there are nightly parades lighted by torches carried by white robed negroes. The floats are magnificent affairs of papier mache, dusted with gold and silver and have been in the making for a year. They portray scenes from history, mythology, and the "Arabian Nights," and costumed figures on the floats throw ornaments and necklaces to the scrambling crowd.

Mardi Gras day proper begins at eleven o'clock in the morning when Rex, the King of Mardi Gras, makes his landing after coming up the Mississippi River on his "royal yacht." Surrounded by his attendants and a cheering crowd, he proceeds to Callopie Street, and the parade starts there. It moves down St. Charles Avenue to Canal Street and south to the Boston Club, on the balcony of which the Queen of the Carnival and her maids are waiting. In this historic club, an old colonial mansion, Henry Clay, Jefferson Davis, Theodore Roosevelt, General Pershing, and the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, among others, have been guests. Under the balcony of the club, Rex drinks the health of his queen in the traditional bottle of champagne, and the parade marches on.

Canal Street, which is roped off by steel cables and on which traffic is barred, is a playground. Orchestras play and the masked and costumed revellers dance up and down the smooth pavement. That night Mardi Gras closes with the Rex ball and the Comus Parade, followed by the Comus Ball, the most gorgeous of them all.

It has been decided to hold a Celery Festival in Sanford next year. Why not begin getting ready for it?

YOUTHFUL LEADERS TAMPA TRIBUNE

Months ago, before the agitation and became general throughout the country, The Tribune turned a flashlight upon the sex magazines which had become so numerous on Tampa news-stands—those filthy, indecent, pornographic offenses which appealed to the varied tastes and necessarily had a demoralizing effect upon the youth of the city. Mayor Wall acted promptly—and, within a day or two, these vile things had been discarded by the Tampa news-dealers. They have not reappeared.

Recently the press and the authorities of the larger cities have waged successful war on these so-called magazines. The New York World led in having them banished from that city. It is true, however, that Tampa was the first city to take this action.

Illustrating the impression that a campaign of this helpful kind has upon the young, The Tribune is pleased to cite the action of a The Watchful example in a shining group of high school pupils in Wau-

Swimming Up Niagara. The Big Chinese Sword. $500,000,000 In Gifts. The League of Nations. By ARTHUR BRISBANE Copyright 1927, by Star Co.

FOR SIX consecutive "full sessions" Wall street bought and sold more than 2,000,000 shares of stock daily. Wise men will tell you that "going short" in this country, just now, is like trying to swim up Niagara Falls.

GREAT BRITAIN needs a bath-tub to protect national honor. This country offers no Monroe Doctrine since no troops are landed, and the ships are sent merely to provide a refuge for British subjects in case of need.

It is the business of this country to see that foreigners and their property are fairly treated, south of us, since we forbid Europe to use force there.

THE WORLD takes seriously the story that Russian propaganda is rampant in the United States. There is talk of a Russian army marching in to help the ultra "red" Chinese forces.

Great Britain as you know the reasons to end diplomatic relationship with Russia. Uncle Sam would do well to stay out of the mess if he can.

SHANGHAI WONDERS what would happen if Cantonese rebels should take the city, where thousands of Europeans live.

An interesting incident in this age is the gigantic Chinese executioner with his heavy sword, a dozen or more such executioners, patrolling dissatisfied Shanghai districts looking off heads of those accused of planning to strike. The simplicity of that method would appeal to some in the United States, but they won't say so.

B. C. FORBES, who knows high finance say the big Rockefeller fortune really belongs to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to whom his father has given it and says that fortune does not amount to a billion, quoting Mr. Rockefeller as authority.

Mr. Rockefeller, of course cannot know what he is worth, and holders of the Standard Oil stocks cannot know what their stocks are worth. It all depends on how much oil there is in the ground, and at what price the last few billions of barrels sell, as the supply runs short.

BY THE PURCHASE of the Pacific Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company of California acquired, and owns, under ground, wealth greater than all the Standard Oil has ever paid out.

MORE IMPORTANT than the size of Mr. Rockefeller's fortune is the use he makes of it. He has gathered in carefully and given it back liberally. Thus for his gifts science and education, including the fight against disease, amount to more than $500,000,000.

Even the good communist who believe that everything should belong to the people and be divided will admit that it is better to have one man of intelligence, gather a thousand millions and spend the money intelligently, than to have a million people who are divided in small droplets for soda water and ice cream fish nothing to show for it afterwards.

THIRTY EDITORS of the U. S. A., expenses paid by Carnegie's Foundation, will study the League of Nations "in operation." Very interesting.

Perhaps now, the Rockefeller Foundation will send 30 other editors to China and let them study the League of Nations NOT in operation.

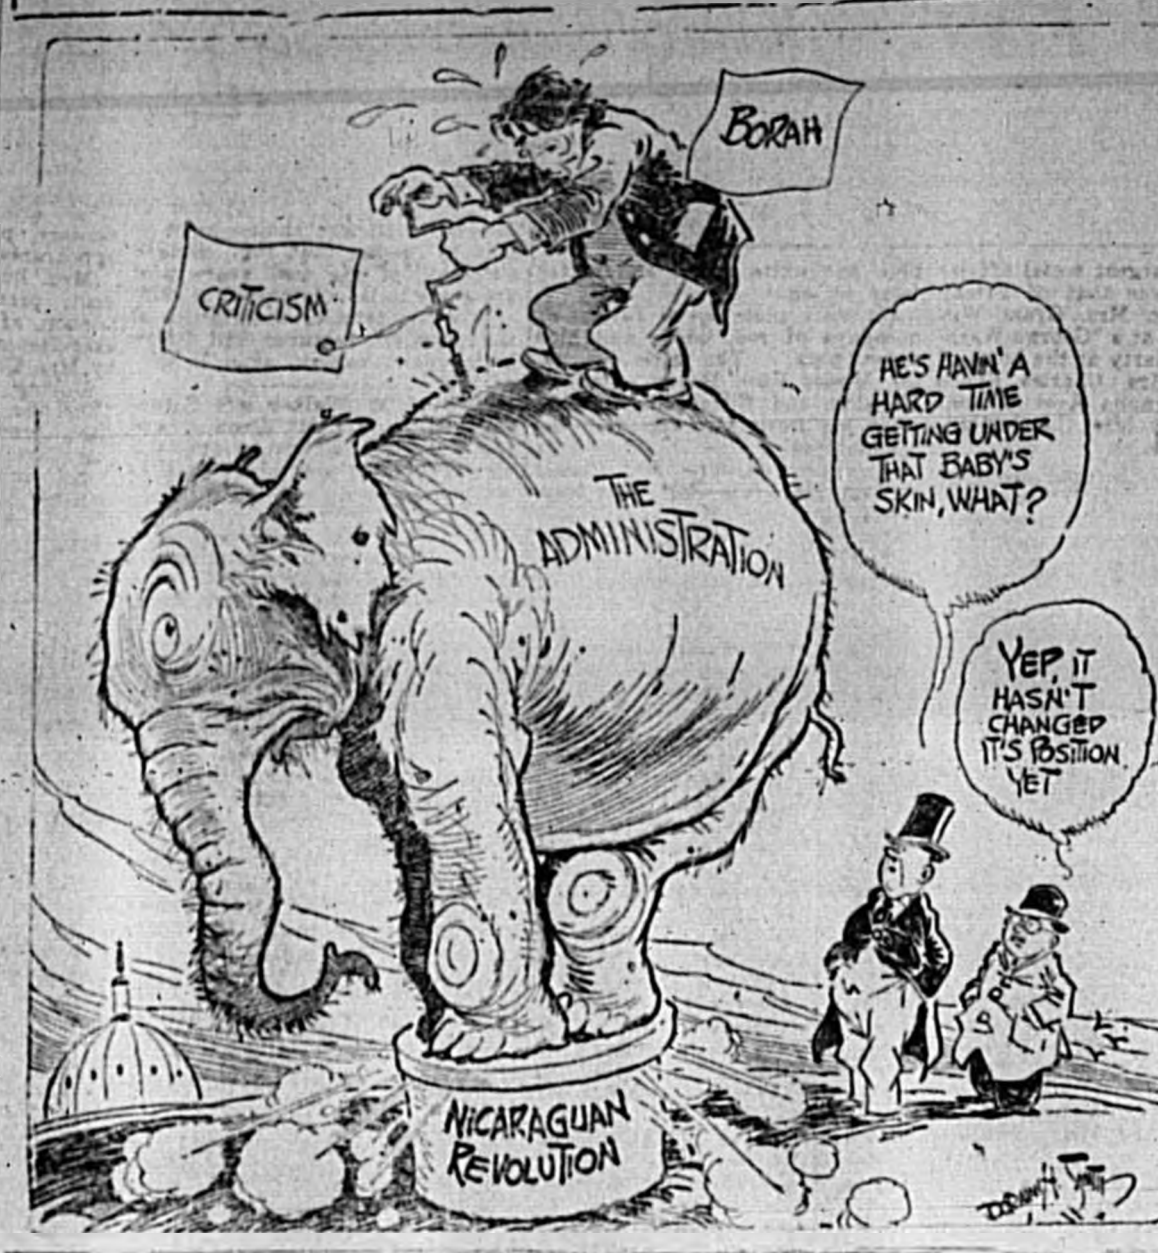

SOMETHING OUGHT to be done, or at least attempted. It is known that President Coolidge believes the McNary-Haugen bill would not do what it was planned to do. Nobody doubts that he will veto the bill, regardless of political results, if his conscience orders it. But he may decide since farmers, who are in the support of the nation, want it, and since congress has voted it, that he will not upon his individual judgement veto it.

THIS WESTERN country asks what President Coolidge will do with the McNary-Haugen bill. The train rushes through miles of rich black soil, fields covered with standing corn stalks. The corn has been taken, the stalks stand, wasted, a few cattle nibbling the softer leaves. If the government wants to help the corn grower it might begin by helping to utilize millions of tons of wasted corn stalks.

Still Borahing Away

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE MIAMI NEWS

It pays to advertise. The truth of that assertion has been celebrated for years in song and story. It furnished the title and the action for a popular stage play. In its authenticity it explained the phenomenal growth of publishing industries. It furnishes the revenue by which newspapers and magazines sustain their existence. It propels the growth of all industry. It performs an unquestioned service to the public.

Young Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., erstwhile publisher of tabloid newspapers, can testify that advertising pays—if you have it. More advertising in his newspaper columns, augmented by less deadwood on his payroll and a sharper eye on expenses, might have left him more happily off than he is today. Today he might still be Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., struggling free lance journalist.

Only lately Mr. Vanderbilt was given a demonstration again of how advertising pays, regardless of whether purchased or involuntarily acquired. He has been trying to pay off his $3,000,000 debt by writing feverishly in a small two-room apartment in New York. It will take a good many articles, deducting living expenses, to make a dent in that staggering sum. But Mr. Vanderbilt is undismayed. He keeps on plugging. There is something heroic in his effort against great odds. Probably he channeled anything that smacked of publicity, content to let his literary output speak for itself.

But some enterprising reporter saw a "view" of a story in Mr. Vanderbilt's plight. He knew he could cook the circumstances into a dish dear to the heart of the newspaper public. He gave the world the story. It told how the poor little rich boy was fighting with his back to the wall, pounding out a retribution on his typewriter for his commercial mistakes. That was a little bit of unsought advertising that did the trick for young Mr. Vanderbilt. Forthwith he was besieged with aid and offers of aid that took many shapes and originated in many quarters. Thousands of letters have poured in upon him, the telephone has been ringing, unknown friends have called in person. A kindly, well-meaning negro woman came to take care of his housework and do his cooking. A Connecticut restaurant sent a free meal ticket. Forty reputable New York dentists offered to grind and fill or pull his molars without charge. Housecleaning offers originated with many young ladies, and 35 business opportunities came Mr. Vanderbilt's way. A New Jersey editor sent him an invitation to partake of a "real, old-fashioned Sunday chicken dinner." And still they came.

Doubtless young Mr. Vanderbilt is at once pleased and annoyed. At least, there is a tip in the incident for other struggling humans. If you are poor, tell the world and prepare to forget your lean days. It only waits to rush to your aid. But don't expect attention if you are poor and drab both. Your story must be interesting, your plight compounded in drama—even a fascinating dash of romance wouldn't hurt. The world likes to be charitable, but it also likes a derelict's plight. He knew he could

Woman's Club Notes

By MRS. HENRY WIGHT

According to the by-laws of the Woman's Club, the meeting to be held on Wednesday is to be devoted to the annual election of officers, and attendance is limited to members only.

This being an odd year of calendar, the officers of first vice-president, recording secretary and treasurer will have to be filled by vote of the club. Of these three, the treasurer only is permitted under the by-laws to serve for an indefinite term.

The chairman elected by the Literature and Music Department at their February meetings will be confirmed Wednesday, but no selection returns have come in from the Social and Welfare Departments, those will be taken care of a latter date.

There will be no department meetings next week, but the Music Department under Mrs. Leah will hold its annual choral rehearsal on Monday evening for women at 7:30 o'clock. Both men and women will rehearse for "The Messiah" at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday evening. After this week rehearsal will be held at 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening until Easter.

Special attention is invited to these changes.

On Friday afternoon at 8 o'clock, there will be an special program given by the Music Department, with a very small fee for admission. The clever one act play "The Flower Shop" recently given by the Literature Department will be repeated on this occasion, directed by Mrs. Levardi, with stage settings arranged by Stewart Fleeter.

After the entertainment, there will be a sale of oranges on which the department will realize a commission. In addition to the play, there will be numbers by Mrs. Shorus, and several selections by out-of-town talent. The complete program, as well as the card of characters for the "Flower Shop" will be announced later in the week.

A review of the plans for the Redpath Chautauque to be sponsored and underwritten by the Woman's Club as it has been for two years before this, announced their date as from April 7 to April 11 inclusive. Forest Conservation Will Be Discussed In Talk By Mrs. Conway

Mrs. Edith Talafora Conway of the U. S. Department of Conservation is touring the state of Florida, lecturing in all centers on the timber situation in this state, and the importance of reforestation.

Mrs. Conway's tour is being sponsored by the Garden Clubs of Florida, but she is being dated by the Federated Women's Clubs. She will be an honored speaker at the state convention in March, and will appear before the Sanford Woman's Club on Mar. 16, through arrangements recently perfected by Mrs. Douglas.

It is interesting also to note that the Chautauque program which will begin on April 7, brings another outstanding out-of-door speaker, Edward A. Marshall, a noted landscape expert, whose subject for discussion will be "Better Homes Out-of-Doors."

This will be especially timely, following as it will the Woman's Club flower show, which will be staged in the club house for two days and nights, Mar. 30 and 31. More and more interest each year is being manifested in the fascinating topics of garden and field and stream, and the local club is quite abreast in providing material for its encouragement.

News From The Training Camps

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Manager Jack McCallister of the Indiana is so well pleased with the showing of his outfit that he isn't giving much consideration to any of the recent arrivals, at least for the present.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Several of the Giant rookies are outshining the great Hornsby in practice, but nobody has heard the Rajah express fear of losing his job. Hornsby is hitting the ball better than he is contributing more than line drivers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—The first squad of the New York Yankees will arrive here tomorrow and begin practice on Monday.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Members of the Brooklyn Robins today are enroute to training camp here from various sections of the country. A quorum will not be on hand until Monday, when the training is to begin.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Headed by Ray Schalk, newly appointed manager, the first squad of White Sox baseball players will steam out of Chicago today for Shreveport, La., where they will pitch camp for spring training.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—"Old" Walter Johnson was in uniform today. He is the twentieth year I've reported for spring practice in the "big show," said Walter. "I feel pretty good."

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—John Hawkins, former football star at the University of Southern California, is the latest member of the Giants' Home Club. Hawkins, a first baseman, parked the ball in the left field woods in his first appearance in batting practice.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Three holdouts are causing the National League to worry. "Muddy" Ruel, the Senators' veteran catcher, has yet to sign and so have Nick Chianese and Bernie. Ruel's differences with the Senators have been brought out in his salary this year as he did not accept the offer Senators and Muddy can see it.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Manager Jack McCallister of the Indiana is well pleased with the early showing of his hurrying stars. Veterans and rookies were out for a 45-minute practice yesterday, and all showed plenty of "stuff."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Today was the last day of practice for the Braves pitchers and catchers. Infielders and outfielders go to work tomorrow. A majority of the Boston Braves outfit have arrived here.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Led by Captain "Pie" Traynor, third baseman, the second contingent of Pittsburgh Pirates leaves tonight for Longwood to join the battery in spring training. Traynor's groin ailment has hampered his performance in the past. Other Pirates will join them on Monday at Longwood.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—The Braves tribe was complete today with the exception of Bob Smith, the only holdout. As the demand will not be ready for the training until Tuesday, practice is being confined to general conditioning.

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Manager Bill Carrigan and the advance guard of the Red Sox start for New Orleans today to begin spring training. Benjie Wagner will join the party at Albany and president, Red Quinn will be packed up at Columbus, Ohio.

Large Crowd Watches Outsiders Capture Two Events At Longwood Oval

Rain failed to dampen the ardor of a large crowd of greyhound racing enthusiasts at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club track, Longwood, last night, and the program was run off with as much interest being shown in the finishes and at the windows as on a night when the moon was at its best and the weather perfect.

Two outsiders crashed the wire to reward their backers with long prices. Darlene paid 21 to one in the fifth event and Blahoff raced to victory with 10 to one hanging on his lead in the seventh. Bebout served to create a spirit of "Take a chance" with the customers. With the two exceptions, bounds of public choice captured the evening program and favorites came in with a monotonous regularity.

Tonight, the big evening of the week, many of the old favorites were to be seen in action and some of the races carry so many good names that the fans are going to have to figure close in making their individual choices. It looks as though all the winners and non-winners had been chosen in the bag and brought out in classes strictly their own. Anyway, it appears to be a program that will prove interesting.
