BIRL VERSE FOR TODAY

Then, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff
they comfort me.—Psalm 23:4.

FARMERS

I watch the farmers in their fields
and marvel secretly.
They are so very calm and sure.
They have such dignity.

They know such simple things
so well.
Although their learning's small,
They find a steady, brown content
Where some find none at all.

And all their quarreling with God
Are soon made up again;
They grant forgiveness when He seems
His silver, tardy rain.

Their pleasure is so grave and full.
When gathered crops are trim,
You know they think their work
was done.

In partnership with Him,
Then, why, when there are fields
to buy,

And little fields to rent,
Dell still loves so foolishly
Wisdom and discontent!

—William Alexander Percy.

Look into the Empty Stocking Fund.

Evidently those Russian tommies are trying to sink Helsinki.

What if the Reds would declare a震撼
on newspaper news?

But some of those parachute
soldiers in the Russian army didn't know they were in the middle squad.

It looks as if it would be a White Christmas in Sanford this year. For the merchants at least, who have been afraid they'd be in the red.

One thing this trade at home campaign has done anyway. It's serving the purpose of keeping merchants' wives from trading out of town anyway.

About thirty years ago there was a postcard going the rounds with the slogan on it: "Smile, Dance You, Smile." This might be a good deal to inaugurate a similar campaign for bigger and better laughs.

Francis Whitehair, we are told, has the endorsement of A. F. of L., the Railroad Brother-hoods, the Administration forces,
state if not national, the race interests, the liquor interests, the medical association heads and practically every organized group in the state
but not until the people have been freed can be a sure election.

Joe Hendrickson, Central Florida's representative in Washington, was a welcome visitor in yesterday. Joe is quite optimistic over the possibilities of a St. Johns River endowment by the Army engineers. He also believes the miners will get some help from the national government for air fruit fly less. When asked he would be a candidate for election, Joe said he's always optimistic. And a capable one, those who have run against him will testify.

Those who six years ago
thought that by waving a magic wand of unemployment and hard times, we could establish forever
the Roosevelt administration in the country, have been disabused of that notion. The depression is every bit as bad as ever, and the Roosevelt administration is every bit as bad as ever.

Special Event Is Planned By Store

R. B. Pickett, manager of the local Piggy Wiggly store will observe his second anniversary in Sanford with a special event Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Pickett came to Sanford from Cocoa two years ago this month and also celebrated his 12 years of service for the Piggy Wiggly stores this month.

The event is planned to show my appreciation for your patronage and your cooperation which has made my sojourn here both pleasant and successful.

Special anniversary gifts are planned for the customers.

Shrine Club To Hold Christmas Tree Dance

The annual Christmas Tree Dance of the Shrine Club will be held at the Armory on the night of Dec. 14. George Weinstein, president of the club, is in charge.

At this dance all persons attending must bring some gift, or article of clothing or food, as part of the admission. These contributions will be distributed to the needy children in Seminole County in co-operation with some of the organizations which are already planning gifts for the needy families, Mr. Weinstein said.

Special anniversary gifts are planned for the customers.

Home Demonstration Notes

By REVA D. ANDREWS
Home Demonstration Agent

We are told that turkey will be cheap and plentiful on Thanksgiving, not only in Florida but over the entire United States. So even if the whole country is not in full turkey mode, it is well to be prepared.

After the Thanksgiving turkey dinner, the group may be invited to have a special Thanksgiving meal.

Miss Ruth Hand led the demonstration group, and Mrs. W. H. Smith, class president, presided. Routine business was discussed and reported from the various chairmen.

A monologue was given by Mrs. C. C. Priest, followed by group singing.

Refreshments of a chicken salad course were served to the guests.

President Seeks To Impress Views
On Next Campaign

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—
A drawing room picture of Herbert Hoover's quiet campaign for support and vindication shows how earnest the former President is in his effort to impress his own views on the next Republican campaign.

A staunch group of 20 to 40 Republicans friendly to Hoover were invited to a private dinner at which the former President appears as speaker. He discusses wide issues, naturally emphasizing his own opinions on the Roosevelt administration. What amounts to is a sort of state-of-the-nation speech.

Each guest at the dinner is expected to hold a little dinner of his own in turn to deliver his own views to an ever-widening circle, seems to be patterned after the chain letter idea.

Repairs have it that there is solid headway being made in California, and progress in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Advance agent of the plan is Ben Allen of San Francisco, a former newspaperman who has been credited with doing zip into Hoover's speeches of the past three or four years.

One guest at one of the preliminary dinners reported that he had two "Hoover" characteristics in these affairs: One that at a private dinner where his guests are amably disposed Hoover is a convincing talker, the other that the former President reveals a yearning to demonstrate once more in the White House—that is, the way was the wise way.

British and French purchasing stations already in this country create a tricky situation for J. Edgar Hoover and his anti-sabotage agencies. Following the practice of last war, the visiting agents set about buying the maximum output of a plant, and sometimes the plant itself, in order to assure a steady supply of essential materials.

We checked with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and were told that reports of sabotage in any plant whatever, British-owned or otherwise, would be investigated. With only 950 FBI agents and a smaller number of military and secret service agents at his disposal for such work, G-man Hoover can't put a man in every plant where sabotage might be suspected. However, he has invited everybody to report to the nearest FBI office any reports or rumors of sabotage or espionage. None will be neglected.

FBI agents are on any grounds available against British or French-owned plants in this country. If the Allies should require some, After all, they will be manned by American workers whose peace and security is important.

Men in the reception room of the Director of the Budget have an interesting time watching distinguished governmental potentates pass themselves in embarrassing moments.

Two doors, exactly alike in design, are along one wall. One leads out into the shady and stately corridors of the State Department building where the Budget Director now is housed. The other door leads into a tiled lavatory.

The after time governmental gurus will emerge serene and content looking after talking cylinder figures with the Budget Director. It withers them to open the wrong door and be confronted with an efficient bank of plumbing.

Here is a Christmas gift idea that will make a hit—bake fruit puddings in star-shaped moulds and let the mould along with the pudding as a present. Or let the shaped cakes sit out with roasting your holiday tables, carry out the Yuletide with decked with holly or Christmas finery.

When steaming puddings alight, have the water boiling. It should come up to at least 2 inches from the top of the mould. Pour in with holling water to prevent the pudding from falling.

High Prices Not To Be Expected, Wallace States

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Correspondence from far behind front:

"The farmers who get war frenzied over the prospect that the war will bring higher prices can't be blamed. The Department of Agriculture privately pieces of farm mail sent for general distribution doesn't warn farmers that holds nothing but misery and destruction for them. The last war brought riches for many who tilled up the plains for grain gains, say the department, been lost a thousandfold in storms, ruined farms and closed mortgages.

Secretary Wallace is himself a man peace movement. He ran for Congress before, without trying to get out a message that there is nothing in the war business.

black-upholstered chairs. In anticipation the justices file

through the curtains, three the sides (although now there is no vacancy since Justice Butler is dead).

Almamy they take places behind their chairs while the marshalls all who have business with the court to draw near.

The court is now sitting.

It isn't. There they stand, unlike Chief Justice signals them

Now the President is away from the White House, as he is the. The bickering in the secret service and police guard continues slightly abated. We have into clothes. They recognized the cut of the coat and didn't throw it out.

They weren't missing anything.

They are paid to be scared all that somebody is trying

Long Lost Poet
Found Living In
$3 A Week Room

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—
The New York World-Telegram says the 16-year mystery of the disappearance of Francis Carlin, the poet once honored by New York's literati, was solved yesterday when he was discovered
"following a golden thread" of scholarship in a $3-a-week furnished room.

Gray now and ailing, Carlin discloses that physicians had given him little time to live and that his tired heart might stop at any moment, and his task not yet done.

The long years of silence began when the poet, author of "My Ireland" and "A Cairn of Stars," dropped from sight at the zenith of his meteoric career, when he was being feted by the rich and heralded by outstanding critics.

He had been a floorwalker at Macy's department store, one of the city's unknown millions,
when his first volume of poems came out in 1918. Five years later, with fame already glowing brightly, he disappeared.

He had a few thousand dollars saved up and on this he skied out a Spartan existence,
"following a golden thread" of
studying, writing and amassing knowledge which he said would be "given out to the world through the church"—he did not know if it will live a little while.

Almost penniless now, Carlin says he hunts along the Sixth Avenue employment agencies every day for a job as a dishwasher or a watchman. If he could get a job at $10 a week,

other gift ideas are some bracelets with their own fittings, such as the last detail. There are new for men, almost as a motif, bracelets to match
the man's suit to be worn with a suit and coat.

Among gift ideas are some systems which have been created
and over which Christmas sales
and changes are anticipated. A few of them are the new systems
which are being introduced in
the stores.

Another new system is the new system of the new system which has been created
and over which Christmas sales
and changes are anticipated. A
few of them are the new systems
which are being introduced in
the stores.

He'd be able to "finish the work
I was put here to do before I fade out."

"I didn't mean to make any mystery of my disappearance,"

he added. "It was just that I had something to do and I had to do it alone."

Santa ranks third among gold producing countries.

Speaking before the Florida
beauticians convention in Tampa recently, Harold Cole, president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, urged beauticians to "talk about Florida"
while beautifying their customers.
Instead of the usual topics of gossiping conversation of the average beauty shop, Cole told the beauticians that they could be effective salesmen of Florida and it would provide a change from the over-worked subjects of the weather and the European war.

Archduke Otto Is Hoping To Regain Austrian Throne

Former Royal Family In New Living Close To Brussels

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The archduke has new hope to return to the throne of Hungary, who lives in genteel poverty at the Chateau Stoenzenberg, 12 miles from Brussels. He is the son of King Charles I and his three brothers and sisters.

In a setting like that of a medieval castle, the archduke, who has lived for 10 years, planning for the day when Otto could return to Hungary? . . . To new center of European empire and Catholic Hapsburgs?

War may bring anything,

but Otto, who is the family patriarch, still militates for peace.

Archduke Otto, 65-year-old and like him a graduate of Prague University, is the family

head of the royal descendants

in political and social sciences.

She was one of the first to return to Vienna in 1938 when she fled to Brussels, narrowly escaping the Nazi invasion.

Archduke Robert Charles (24)

and his wife, Alice Frederika, 23, was last reported in the United States in November.

The ex-empress herself lived in the U.S. to raise relatives

to win support for the cause.

The castle in exile is owned by the Archduke's son, Prince Charles B. free of rent to the family.

He is the head of the family.

Cakes Big Help In Entertaining For Christmas

Many Individual Cakes Personalize One's Hospitality

MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(P)—
Does help a lot in Christmas entertaining. A large festive cake gives a lavish air to any serving table, while a dozen individual cakes in Christmas time personalizes your hospitality. The same batter can be used either. Here's Puritan Cake, delectable, but not as rich as many.

Cream until soft 1-2 cup of shortening and 1 cup light brown sugar. Add 3 beaten eggs, 1-1/2 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon each of vanilla, salt and orange extract, 1/2 cup cinnamon and vanilla. Mix in 1-1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 cup each of flour, baking powder and sugar. Cream until soft 1-1/2 cups of chopped candied pineapples, citron and candied cherries. Add 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda and 1-1/2 cup shredded almonds. Pour into a round cake pan (without center) lined with heavy waxed paper. Bake 1-1/2 hours in a moderately slow oven—325 degrees. For individual cakes, add two muffin pans two-thirds full and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven—350 degrees.

Cover the large cake with white fondant. Sprinkle with chopped white gum drops or silver shot (glistening to give sparkle). Stick small green branch in the center. Trim the "tree" with tiny candies, cookey cutouts and feathers of popped corn, and fruit strings. Tie it with a sugar-coated candy star. Frost the small cakes and stick on figures and designs fashioned from colored gum drops, red cinnamon candies and fruit pools.

A ruler leg cake makes a clever Christmas cake. Generously spread over best baked jelly rolls with a thick filling. Frost top and sides with white or cream cheese frosting. Cover with paper bell or star shapes on the frosting with a comb. Fill in the design with chopped nuts, raisins or cocoanut or outline it with red candies, currants and sliced dates. A pile of snowballs always looks Christmasy. Cut out 1-2 inch squares of baked white cake.

Monk Costume Styles Popular In War Nations

By ALICE MAXWELL
PARIS, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Alas! said now calls for clothes patterned on monks' costumes. Hooded tops* them and heavy cords girdle them in true monastic fashion.

More than one cord ties knot around models in Lanvin's new collection. Hooded one-piece robes are shown in black, with white cords to tie the hoods and rope the waists around. One doesn't seem to suit the dark monastic trousers and a hooded blouse of green and yellow plaid belted with a thick green cord.

The mechanician one-piece suit with tight-knit trousers still has the favorite garb for possible gas encounters. New ones are being made of honey-colored flannel for better visibility, and a gold slide fastener for a bright touch.

Afternoon ensembles, which has come to mean evening, too since the days of war began barking feature chez Lanvin black and white combinations. Even in black-outs car drivers can pick out white fur fronting a black wool coat, or black and white stripes—wide ones—flung across black bolero suits.

Real evening clothes in this collection divide between short-skirted models of cocktail type, and long-skirted dresses having dinner-at-home air. While Lanvin always has been noted for her simple style and other extremely wide skirted evening frocks, in this wartime collection she shows only clinging long evening frocks of heavy crepe, mostly with covered-up necks, long sleeves, and modest motifs of nailhead or paillette embroidery.

Silver nailheads are more used lavishly on a short-skirted black dress, topped with a spangled Glaugny or overcoat belt, and accompanied by spangled sandals and purse. Another dress in heavy sapphire blue brocade is dipped in thick white frosting (boiled in fine) and then roll in coconut.

CHRISTMAS TREE CAKE
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder.

1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups granulated sugar
6 eggs, well beaten
4 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once. Measure. Add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter. Add sugar gradually, and cream together until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour, sifted with milk, a little at a time, beating smooth after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 15x9x2 inches, in moderate oven (350 F.) 85 minutes, or until done. Spread top and sides with Almond Butter-Cream Frosting. Make outline of Christmas tree with a toothpick, filling in with green tinted, nutweetened coconut. Flowers in corners are made of slivers of red maraschino cherries.

ALMOND BUTTER CREAM
FROSTING
1-1/2 cups butter washed in cold water to remove salt
6 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
1-1/2 cups toasted almonds, ground
2-1/2 cups almond extract

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually, and cream until very fluffy. Add almonds, flavoring and extract. Add milk or cream until of right consistency to spread.

designed in chintz-style, with small rever collar and large flat blouse with leg-on red silver buttons down the front.

Launay continues showing Lanvin's cocktail frocks as well as the day models have very short skirts, with hem coming to just below the knee.

Big silver buttons are conspicuous notes on the day dresses. Many of these dresses are accompanied by long capes, with plaid and plain stoles often combined. Capes and coats are often hooded. Belted coats suggest army officers', and some of the loose blouses have likewise military touches, small plumed hats are flanked at sides with fringed "spaullets."

Among the colors are grey, hyacinth-blue, dark browns, and yellow plaid belted with a thick green cord. Shaved lamb dyed vivid green makes a fitted coat, and form black, and a cape ensemble consisting of rever collar and large flat blouse with leg-on red silver buttons down the front.

For a tiny cracker to serve with soups, spread round crackers with yellow cream cheese or with a mayonnaise. These are filled with salad dressing. Sprinkle tops with chopped hard-cooked egg, minced parsley, a dash of onion and finely-chopped satins, and in black lace over flesh color.

Last Coal Burner Of Government Is Driven From Seas

Sacramento Is Made Into Naval Reserve Training Vessel

By WILLIE THORNTON
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—

Sing a dirge of the sea, mate—the last coal-burning fighting ship of the United States navy has been driven from the oceans.

When the mobile coastal gunboat Sacramento, "Galloping Ghost of the China Coast," started a few years ago for an ignominious retirement berth in the freshwater port of Michigan City Ind., she closed the book on a whole era of naval propulsion. The dominion of oil now is complete.

They're making the Sacramento into a naval reserve training ship.

They've stripped her of all but the necessities—frankly more than firing practice, too, and that's more than some of these snooty Diesel-driven packets can boast. They'll keep her from the frontier seas where she's chugged these 25 years. But they can't strip out the holes that bullets blasted through her funnels on the Yangtze. They can't chip out all of the concrete that was poured into her bow to reinforce plates torn by the ice-filled seas up Archangel way. They can't rob a lady of her reputation.

She was a lady, and proud, too, but not too proud to dress herself in the self of a Chinese junk. She'll sail along with the Orient's wind to conserve the coal in her bulkers.

Last May she started home.

First it was Vera Cruz. She had recently been commissioned in 1914 when she was sent down for the U. S. naval landing and occupation of the city. Then it was the Barbary Coast. She was the first American in that wicked land since the days of Decatur and she still had her good name when she left.

During the World War, she helped convoy 160 ships sailing more than 30,000 miles. She was named the crew of the Sacramento when it burned at sea in 1917, and of the Swan River when it sank in 1918 while the Sacramento was en route to its port.

In 1919 she was frozen in at Murmansk while serving the Bolsheviks.

Three years later, she appeared at Vladivostok in the nick of time to save foreigners caught in the middle between fighting Reds and White Guards.

She turned south for the Honduras disturbances in 1922. Then she was off for seven years around the world, mostly on the China Coast.

She relieved earthquake victims in Yochohoma in 1923, helped the Philippine Constabulary against rebels in Soroa in 1924.

In 1926-27 she helped protect the foreign colony at Canton during an uprising. By 1931 she was off Belize, Honduras, helping earthquake victims and rescuing a group of castaways on Coco Island.

She was present at the first bombing of Shanghai by the Japanese. One bomb landed 80 yards off her bow, broke in all her ports, smashed the boats, injured several of her crew. She evacuated refugees from Shanghai and Hong Kong to Manila. She was at the bombing of Batavia, too.

Yes, she was a lady, and proud, too, but not too proud to dress herself in the self of a Chinese junk. She'll sail along with the Orient's wind to conserve the coal in her bulkers.

Last May she started home.

Only 226 feet long, drawing but 14 feet, and very slow, she tooted like a chip in a typhoon. She said farewall to Straits Settlements, Singapore, Penang, Aden, Suez, Port Said and Alexandria, and steamed on into another storm in the Mediterranean. But on past Naples, Marseilles, Gibraltar, the Azores and Bermuda, she came.

She reached New York in time to serve at the scene of the Equus disaster. She stood by during the long weeks of the struggle to raise the sunken boat.

Frankly, it's no way to treat a lady.

At late as 1917, the use of bridge-building was prohibited in England.

Port Said and Alexandria, and helping to tow the workers, and helping to tow the Squalus to Portsmouth.

And how she's coming down the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes that will be her prison.

Frankly, it's no way to treat a lady.
