NATION IN BRIEF

Schlesinger Pleading On Natural Gas Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House energy adviser James R. Schlesinger is going before a congressional panel to try to salvage the Carter administration's plan for keeping some controls on natural gas prices. The administration is hoping to persuade the full House Commerce Committee to reverse its energy and power subcommittee's decision last week to deregulate the price of some natural gas. The administration contends that deregulation would send utility bills soaring for consumers who rely on natural gas.

Girl Scout Slaying Probe

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — Harsh flood lights powered by humping portable generators lit a 60-acre campground as officers searched through the night for clues in the murder of three young Girl Scouts. "We've got a maniac somewhere around," said Wayne County Sheriff Glen "Pete" Weaver Monday. "This thing is horrible, it's the work of a demented person." According to camp director Barbara Day, no one reported hearing anything unusual between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m., the time authorities believe a lone assailant beat and strangled the girls, then dragged their nude bodies in blood-soaked sleeping bags to the intersection of two dirt roads 150 yards away.

Was Mum Ray Mastermind?

BRUSHY MOUNTAIN, Tenn. (AP) — Convicted assassin James Earl Ray, back in custody but not talking, apparently was one of three inmates who spent weeks planning last Friday's break from Brushy Mountain State Prison. "As far as the escape, we feel at this time that we're looking at Doug Shelton, James Earl Ray and Earl Hill, initially," said Ward Stoney Lane. "We know it was well-planned because of the ladder."

Miners Voting On Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a bitter campaign over, some 277,000 members of the United Mine Workers are voting today to determine who will lead their strike-torn union for the next five years. The three-way race for the union leadership pits incumbent President Arnold R. Miller against Harry Patrick, his former ally and the union's secretary-treasurer, and against Lee Roy Patterson, a western Kentucky strip miner and member of the UMW executive board.

Money Blinds The Mayors

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The nation's mayors don't agree with the voters on every issue, but one problem always brings mayors and their constituents together — money. The struggles to balance city budgets and to control soaring local taxes were seen — in a survey taken by the Associated Press at the U.S. Conference of Mayors' annual meeting here — as the most important gripes shared by mayors and citizens.

Layer, Board Will Talk On Midway

(Continued From Page 1-A) "The board has therefore failed to purge the original constitutional violations established by the 1976 admission of liability," the court said. "We need not find a new constitutional violation; the acknowledged pre-1976 intentional segregation of Midway has not been remedied."

The appeals court rejected arguments by the school board saying that it was complying with the decree even though Midway was 98 per cent black. The board said the rest of the school board was integrated and nothing could be done to change the population at Midway. The appeals court disagreed, ruling that 11 of the county's 25 elementary schools were racially identifiable, with 10 virtually all-white. It said that seven of the 10 all-white schools had opened since the 1970 agreement to integrate. The court said 16 of all the 38 schools in the county were also racially negotiable.

What's With Human Rights in Russia?

MOSCOW (AP) — "It's no secret that the human rights situation in the Soviet Union is bad and that it has not improved since the Helsinki accords were signed," says a document signed by 21 of the nation's most outspoken dissidents. "The Soviet Union had no real intention of ever complying with the human rights provisions of these accords."

In contrast to the future meetings on street corners of a few openly telephone Western correspondents and invite them to well-publicized news conferences at their apartments. The document, on special letterhead paper, was presented at one such news conference recently by a group formed a year ago to monitor Soviet compliance with the 1975 Helsinki accords, which pledged the 35 signatory nations to respect the human rights of their peoples. The accords, however, are nonbinding.

The official Soviet government position is that it does indeed respect its citizens' human rights and that the dissidents are "reactionaries" who do not represent the views of the Soviet people. The Kremlin maintains that the dissidents are being used by the West to cloud the successes it claims the world Communist movement has achieved.

In response to this, the dissidents, crowded together on chairs and benches at their news conference, noted that only two of the original 11 organizing members of their group remain free and active.

Sanford Opts For Southern Bell Pact

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commissioners Monday night voted 4-1 to accept a proposal from Southern Bell to provide communications equipment within the new city hall, now under construction, despite a claim by a private firm it could save the city $29,000.

Advocates of Florida Interconnect (FITC), which had offered the communications equipment for sale to the city, argued the issue may end up in the courts.

A. C. Carlsen, of Satellite Beach, regional manager of Florida Interconnect, which appeared to have the edge in negotiations with the city for the business prior to Monday night's decision, said the city would be conferring with its attorneys today.

"We will be getting copies of the city commission minutes of the meeting, paying particular attention to the statements made by city commissioners in choosing Southern Bell and conferring with our attorneys," Carlsen said. He added that, in his opinion, the city had to have better justification than given at the meeting for accepting the utility company's proposal.

City Manager W. E. Knowles had submitted to the commissioners an analysis of the total cost of purchasing the telephone equipment from both Southern Bell and Florida Interconnect showing the costs over a five-year period of $93,115.50 and $72,585.80, respectively. He recommended commission action to the FITC bid. "It boils down to dollars and cents," he said.

Commissioner A. A. McClanahan was the first to propose against the proposal. At the conclusion of the meeting John Sabatini, communications consultant with Florida Interconnect questioned the city decision in the matter, pointing out the firm has nothing to do with the hospital equipment.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said in addition to the substantial number of Sanford personnel employed by Southern Bell consideration had to be given to the city's excellent position with the utility. He noted specifically that, although there is no franchise with the firm, a city ordinance requires it to pay a higher rate of return to city coffers than is usually found in a franchise.

Carlsen, however, characterized the city action as "based upon the nice guy in town, the good-looking man in the dark green suit, the member of the chamber of commerce."

He was referring to Tom Hunt, manager of Southern Bell's Sanford office, and president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, in the audience.

Hunt in a letter to the city manager last week told the commissioners of "the adverse effect on city revenues resulting from the loss of our telephone systems to independent equipment suppliers." He said each loss carries with it a 10 per cent utility tax, a one per cent personal property tax and a one per cent franchise tax when it is located within the city.

CYRUS VANCE
Secretary of State

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will try to clear up confusion about President Carter's human rights policy at the annual meeting of the Organization of American States opening today in St. George's, Grenada.

The others have been imprisoned or have been quickly granted permission to emigrate. Nevertheless, the group has added many new members. Some have joined the Moscow branch, and new chapters have sprung up in the Ukraine, in Latvia and in Soviet Georgia, dissident spokesmen claim. Similar groups have formed to tell Westerners about religious problems and about alleged psychiatric oppression. Dissident claims of activities outside Moscow are difficult for Western correspondents to check because of government-imposed restrictions on travel. The dissidents at the recent news conference described the following problems, which fall under the provisions of the Helsinki accords:

— "In the Soviet Union there is no free exit from the country." Even for tourist trips, they say, a citizen must receive a character evaluation from his place of work, which is controlled by the Communist party.

— "In the Soviet Union there is no free choice of place to live." The dissidents cite the system of registration which requires citizens to maintain an internal passport showing place of residence.

— "In the Soviet Union there is no free exchange of information; in particular there is no freedom of the press."

— "Denial of the right of emigration and reunification of families." The dissidents say emigration of Jews, of religious minorities such as the Pentecostals, and of the 1.8 million member Volga German community is almost severely restricted.

— "Discrimination against national minorities." They cite the difficulties of Crimean Tatars in returning to their homes in the Crimea, after their dispersion under Stalin. Jews have also been complaining that they are the subjects of a new wave of anti-Semitism.

Meanwhile, the dissidents said, those who speak out at meetings and in documents have been subject to arrests, searches and interrogations. They claimed they have been followed and their telephones have been cut off.

The Helsinki group's founder, physicist Yuri Orlov, was arrested in February and has not been heard from since. The charges against him are not known. The same thing has happened to Alexander Ginzburg, a group member and the manager of a fund to aid the families of jailed dissidents.

Another group member, Anatoly Shcharansky, was arrested in March and is said to be under investigation for treason, a charge that could bring the death penalty upon conviction.

In the Ukraine, Helsinki group members Mykola Rudenko, Oleksa Tybly, Mariyav Martynovych and Mykola Matosevich have been arrested and are being held incommunicado on unspecified charges, the dissidents say. Their relatives and friends are undergoing searches and interrogations.

In Soviet Georgia, dissidents Zviad Gamsakhurdia, Mera Kostava and Viktor Rikshidze have been arrested. In addition, the dissidents say, they are being held incommunicado on unspecified charges, the dissidents say. Their relatives and friends are undergoing searches and interrogations.

Feminine Hygiene Products Are Exempted From Tax

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida women no longer are required to pay the 6 per cent sales tax on feminine hygiene products. With no fanfare, Gov. Reubin Askew signed into law Monday a bill exempting products such as sanitary napkins from the state sales tax. The exemption is effective immediately.

Askew's signature on the bill ended a long fight for Rep. Elaine Gordon, D-Miami, who argued that it was discriminatory for the state to exempt male products, such as athletic supporters, from the sales tax and not feminine hygiene products.

MIAMI (AP) — Real-estate interests are predicting that 1977 may be a $3-billion year for investment in South Florida, hard-hit by recessionary trends of the past few years. Statistics released by Keyes Company Realtors, which boasts that it is the South's largest real-estate firm, indicate that the dollar volume for sales of $50,000 or more during the first quarter of 1977 are up 24 per cent from last year in Dade and Broward counties.

TAMPA (AP) — Despite objections from three of its members, the Board of Regents has agreed to give university presidents the power to appoint their own campus policymakers.

MIAMI (AP) — The Speaker and I realize that both sides have to give. Senate President Lew Brantley said late Monday after he and Speaker Donald Tucker held a closed-door meeting to discuss the budget stalemate.

They were optimistic that the House and tax-shy Senate could settle their differences by Friday.

Appropriations Chairman Philip Lewis said that the early negotiations make some kind of tax hike inevitable. House Appropriations Chairman Edmund Fortuna offered senators a school-funding deal on Monday that the House's urban coalition leaders later rejected.

Fortuna's proposal would mean $130 million in new taxes and put the school budget $66 million below the original House plan. The offer would have been about $31 million above the Senate's proposed budget.

"That's not acceptable," snapped Rep. Curtis Kiser, D-Dunedin, and head of the Republican-dominated Pinellas County delegation.

Dade County delegation chief Rep. Barry Kutun, D-Miami, also pledged to work the House floor against Fortuna's proposal. He also hinted that the House would be dug up and stored until construction is completed, under the plan.

In approving the site plan, the commissioners rejected an alternative, preferred by Chantry, that would have improved access to the complex from U.S. 17-92 but would have involved acquiring a 1,400-foot right-of-way from a property owner in the area.

The alternative allows all trees on the site to be preserved, Chantry said. Some trees would be cut up and stored until construction is completed, under the plan.

SCC officials at the meeting said all parcels of land on SCC property suitable for the "plaza" range "are already committed for future projects."

Commission Chairman Dick Williams asked for more information from SCC officials on why a plaza range could not be located on SCC's campus.

Is Carter Liberal? You Make Decision

We don't know if he's ready to join the growing movement of "neo-conservatives" or reborn libertarians or what, but erst-while David Brinkley summed up the failures of modern liberalism about as succinctly as can be done, sparing not even Jimmy Carter. His remarks were broadcast recently over NBC Radio Network, and they bear repeating. Mr. Brinkley...

"Everyone has his own definition of what is a liberal and what is not, and his own opinion of whether or not it fits Mr. Carter. My definition of a liberal is one who believes that the way to solve social problems is for government to collect more and more in taxes, and then spend the money on social programs trying to solve the problems.

"In the view of others, a liberal is one who still believes all that... after 30 to 40 years of failures of liberal programs. After 40 years of spending money on housing, we have more slums than ever. More crime than ever... more schools turning out functional illiterates... at the same time we have enormous taxes, and a tremendous bureaucracy that was supposed to use the money to solve all these problems, and has, in fact, solved none of them, showing that the prime beneficiaries of government social programs are the Washington bureaucrats. That, essentially, is the argument President Carter now finds himself in the middle of.

"Again, I don't know if he's a liberal or not. He talks of national health insurance, which would be the ultimate and ultimately expensive social program... but at the same time he talks of a balanced budget, an idea liberals regard with contempt. There is no way he can have both.

"Congress likes to spend money to reelect itself and has been doing so for a generation and will not allow Mr. Carter to change it. It's too happy with things the way they are.

Short of some kind of public revolt, whether Mr. Carter is liberal or not is irrelevant, because Congress will continue to tax and to spend and the result they want in return for the money is reelection."

When Rape Normal?

A Wisconsin judge has decreed that a 15-year-old delinquent boy was only reacting normally to sexual pervasiveness in our society when he raped a 16-year-old girl in a high school stairwell.

The jurist, Judge Archie Simonson, thereupon permitted the boy to stay at home under court supervision for one year, rather than sending him to an institution.

In his ruling, the judge mentioned newspaper advertisements, prostitution arrests, sex stories, bars with nude dancing and young women who wear revealing clothing in public.

Granted, we live in a society saturated with sexual suggestion. But that is not now and never has been any excuse for violent crime, and rape is a violent crime.

"We don't know all the details of the Wisconsin incident but for any judge to excuse violent rape, as Judge Simonson did, by blaming society, is wrong-headed.

ANGLE-WALTERS New Group Stresses Good Name

WASHINGTON — A fledgling public interest organization called New Directions could soon become an influential force in the public debate on a host of global issues — if it abandons its apparent misinterpretation of the biblical proclamation that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

New Directions is not transfixed by "good names" that it has collected scores of politicians, businessmen, financiers, lawyers, union officials, academics, civic leaders, political activists and assorted do-gooders to adorn its letterhead.

No self-respecting Washington organization lacks a healthy list of "sponsors" or "advisors" to display on its stationery as a means of establishing its credentials and certifying its respectability — but New Directions has carried the practice beyond any logical limit.

The group's first mass mailing seeking new members was enticed in a large envelope, one side of which was totally covered with the titles of its big-name backers. The result was a typographical melange neither attractive nor decipherable.

The enclosures in that and several successive mailings contained the names of so many officers and members of the organization's "governing board" and "council" that a special flap had to be added to the stationery to list all the sponsors.

New Directions' most recent mail appeal for members still includes the names and titles of no fewer than 123 such supporters, but they now are listed in smaller type and confined to the back page of a letter which identifies the organization's goals.

The group's decision to emphasize issues instead of celebrities is a welcome change because New Directions is an organization which deserves a chance to gain the stature and support necessary to make it a contribution to the national dialogue on a series of crucial issues.

Washington already has more than its share of citizen groups concentrating on virtually every imaginable domestic issue, as well as a handful of elite organizations working in the foreign policy-national security sphere. But there is no broad-based institution whose concerns are focused on the international arena.

That is the specialty New Directions has chosen for itself, with initial emphasis on the issues of worldwide energy conservation, nuclear proliferation, reduction of indiscriminate arms sales, reduction of production and expansion of low-cost delivery systems for health, education and family planning.

"When you look ahead now, it's frightening," says Russell W. Peterson, New Directions' president. "All the unresolved problems about energy resources and nuclear development, the population bomb, the arms race, the confrontation between the have and have-not nations."

By contrast the warheads on an SS-18, which the Russians are beginning to deploy (the Pentagon reckons between 50 and 60) are in place, has less than a three in five chance of destroying an American missile site.

Technicalities aside, the effect on the strategic balance would be disturbing, just as would similar developments on the Russian side. A sound strategic maxim is never to allow one side to believe it can destroy the weapons on the other side needs to be realistic. In the heated American debate over Soviet military intentions defense-minded parties in the argument warned that threatened America's land-based missiles in just this way.

The SS-18, less dependable and less accurate than the to-be-improved Minuteman, could carry more warheads. All the same little was heard about American efforts to do much the same from their side. Moreover, a higher proportion of Russian rockets are land-based (about three-quarters of the warheads) and therefore vulnerable to the proposed "silo-busters." About three-fifths of American warheads are carried on submarines, where they are rather harder to destroy.

Aware of the dangers of either side's fully developing these refitted missiles, President Carter suggested, as part of the "comprehensive" proposal the Russians rejected in Moscow, limits on such "upgrading." The MX-12A is certainly as dangerous as the mobile MX or the B-1 bomber — the two weapons Mr. Carter said he did not want to go ahead with, but would in the absence of an adequate SALT agreement.

Broken by mistreatment, the jailed Marjorie obediently dressed in his formal cassock and donned the vestments. Then he was hustled from prison to participate in the votive offering. The embassy was cautioned to treat the plot "in a very top secret fashion."

Coded messages were flashed from Belgrade to Yugoslav diplomatic posts throughout the United States to "get Dionisije." According to the intercepted cables, they were instructed to seek blackmail information, particularly about his love life. They were even encouraged to make off with a lawyer's files "to obtain the archives... to discredit Dionisije." The bishop's household staff was also supposed to be investigated.

Back came the responses. The Chicago consulate mistakenly reported that an emissary

THE LONDON ECONOMIST All Systems Are Go

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon's strategic planners may be about to take a dangerous new step in the arms race. Unless prevented by a new SALT agreement, they aim to introduce a nuclear warhead known as the Mk-12A, "a silo-buster" that should radically improve the accuracy and destructiveness of the Minuteman III missile.

The Minuteman is the heart of the United States' land-based missile force. The "upgrading" of the 500 Minuteman missiles each with three warheads would proceed in two stages. In October this year a better system (the NS-20) for guiding warheads to their targets is to be installed, improving accuracy by a half. Fitted with this new device, a Minuteman warhead could be relied on to land within 600 feet of any target, instead of 1200 feet now.

The Russians' heavy missile, the SS-18, is less accurate even than that. The second improvement, to be made in 1979, would be to increase the number of warheads a Minuteman could carry to six. Taken together, defense experts believe, these two additions would increase the chance of destroying a "hardened" steel and concrete Russian missile silo from about one in five now to four in five.

By contrast the warheads on an SS-18, which the Russians are beginning to deploy (the Pentagon reckons between 50 and 60) are in place, has less than a three in five chance of

JOHN D. LOFTON, JR. He Gives Hypocrisy Bad Name

WASHINGTON — Donning sack cloth and ashes, mounting his trusty hobbyhorse, and writing, in of all places, "Free Enterprise" magazine, ex-White House press secretary, Gerald terHorst, has viciously assailed his former boss, President Gerald Ford, for committing free enterprise.

Upset that his former employer "clearly senses no indignity or impropriety" in reaping the "fat rewards" that will come his way by virtue of having been president, Mr. terHorst, the ex-30-day wonder who resigned his press job in protest over the Nixon pardon, accuses Mr. Ford of "backstabbing," "hustling" and "merchandising," and of presenting a "money-grabbing" appearance.

Mr. terHorst specifically criticizes Mr. Ford for having signed a contract with NBC, for having signed a contract to write a book, and for having signed on as a distinguished fellow with the American Enterprise Institute, a respected, Washington-based conservative think-tank.

Mr. terHorst writes: "One expects the Nisons, the Deans, the Colsons and others to look upon their years as public servants as a lode ready for mining. We may even chuck our tongues while rushing to the book stores to buy the latest works of those who turn government memoranda into private mementos for handsome profits. On the other hand, many of us expected honest, decent Jerry Ford to set a higher standard for ex-presidents than has been the case in the past."

Well, now. For a guy who lives in a glass house, Gerald terHorst is throwing some mighty big boulders around. Because the fact is that, although he has done it on a smaller scale, to be sure, Mr. terHorst has done the same kinds of things he is now denouncing Mr. Ford for having done.

Example No. 1: Two days after he resigned his high White House job, Mr. terHorst began writing a nationally syndicated newspaper column for Universal Press Syndicate. This new arrangement, terHorst tells me, is "more lucrative" than his previous arrangement with the North American Newspaper Alliance, for whom he also wrote a nationally syndicated column.

In an interview, Universal Press' managing editor, Lee Salem, tells me that the promotional material used to sell the terHorst column lists dozens of reprints of articles from publications like Time and Newsweek, who reported on the terHorst resignation.

Mr. Salem says: "The two things Jerry had going for him were that he was in the Ford administration, and the way in which he resigned."

Example No. 2: Shortly after resigning as presidential news secretary, Mr. terHorst signed a speaking contract with W. Colton Leigh, a New York-based book agent. Bill Leigh, the president of this outfit, tells me that terHorst's White House service was "obviously relevant" to his being asked to sign a contract, that "obviously had a high publicity value."

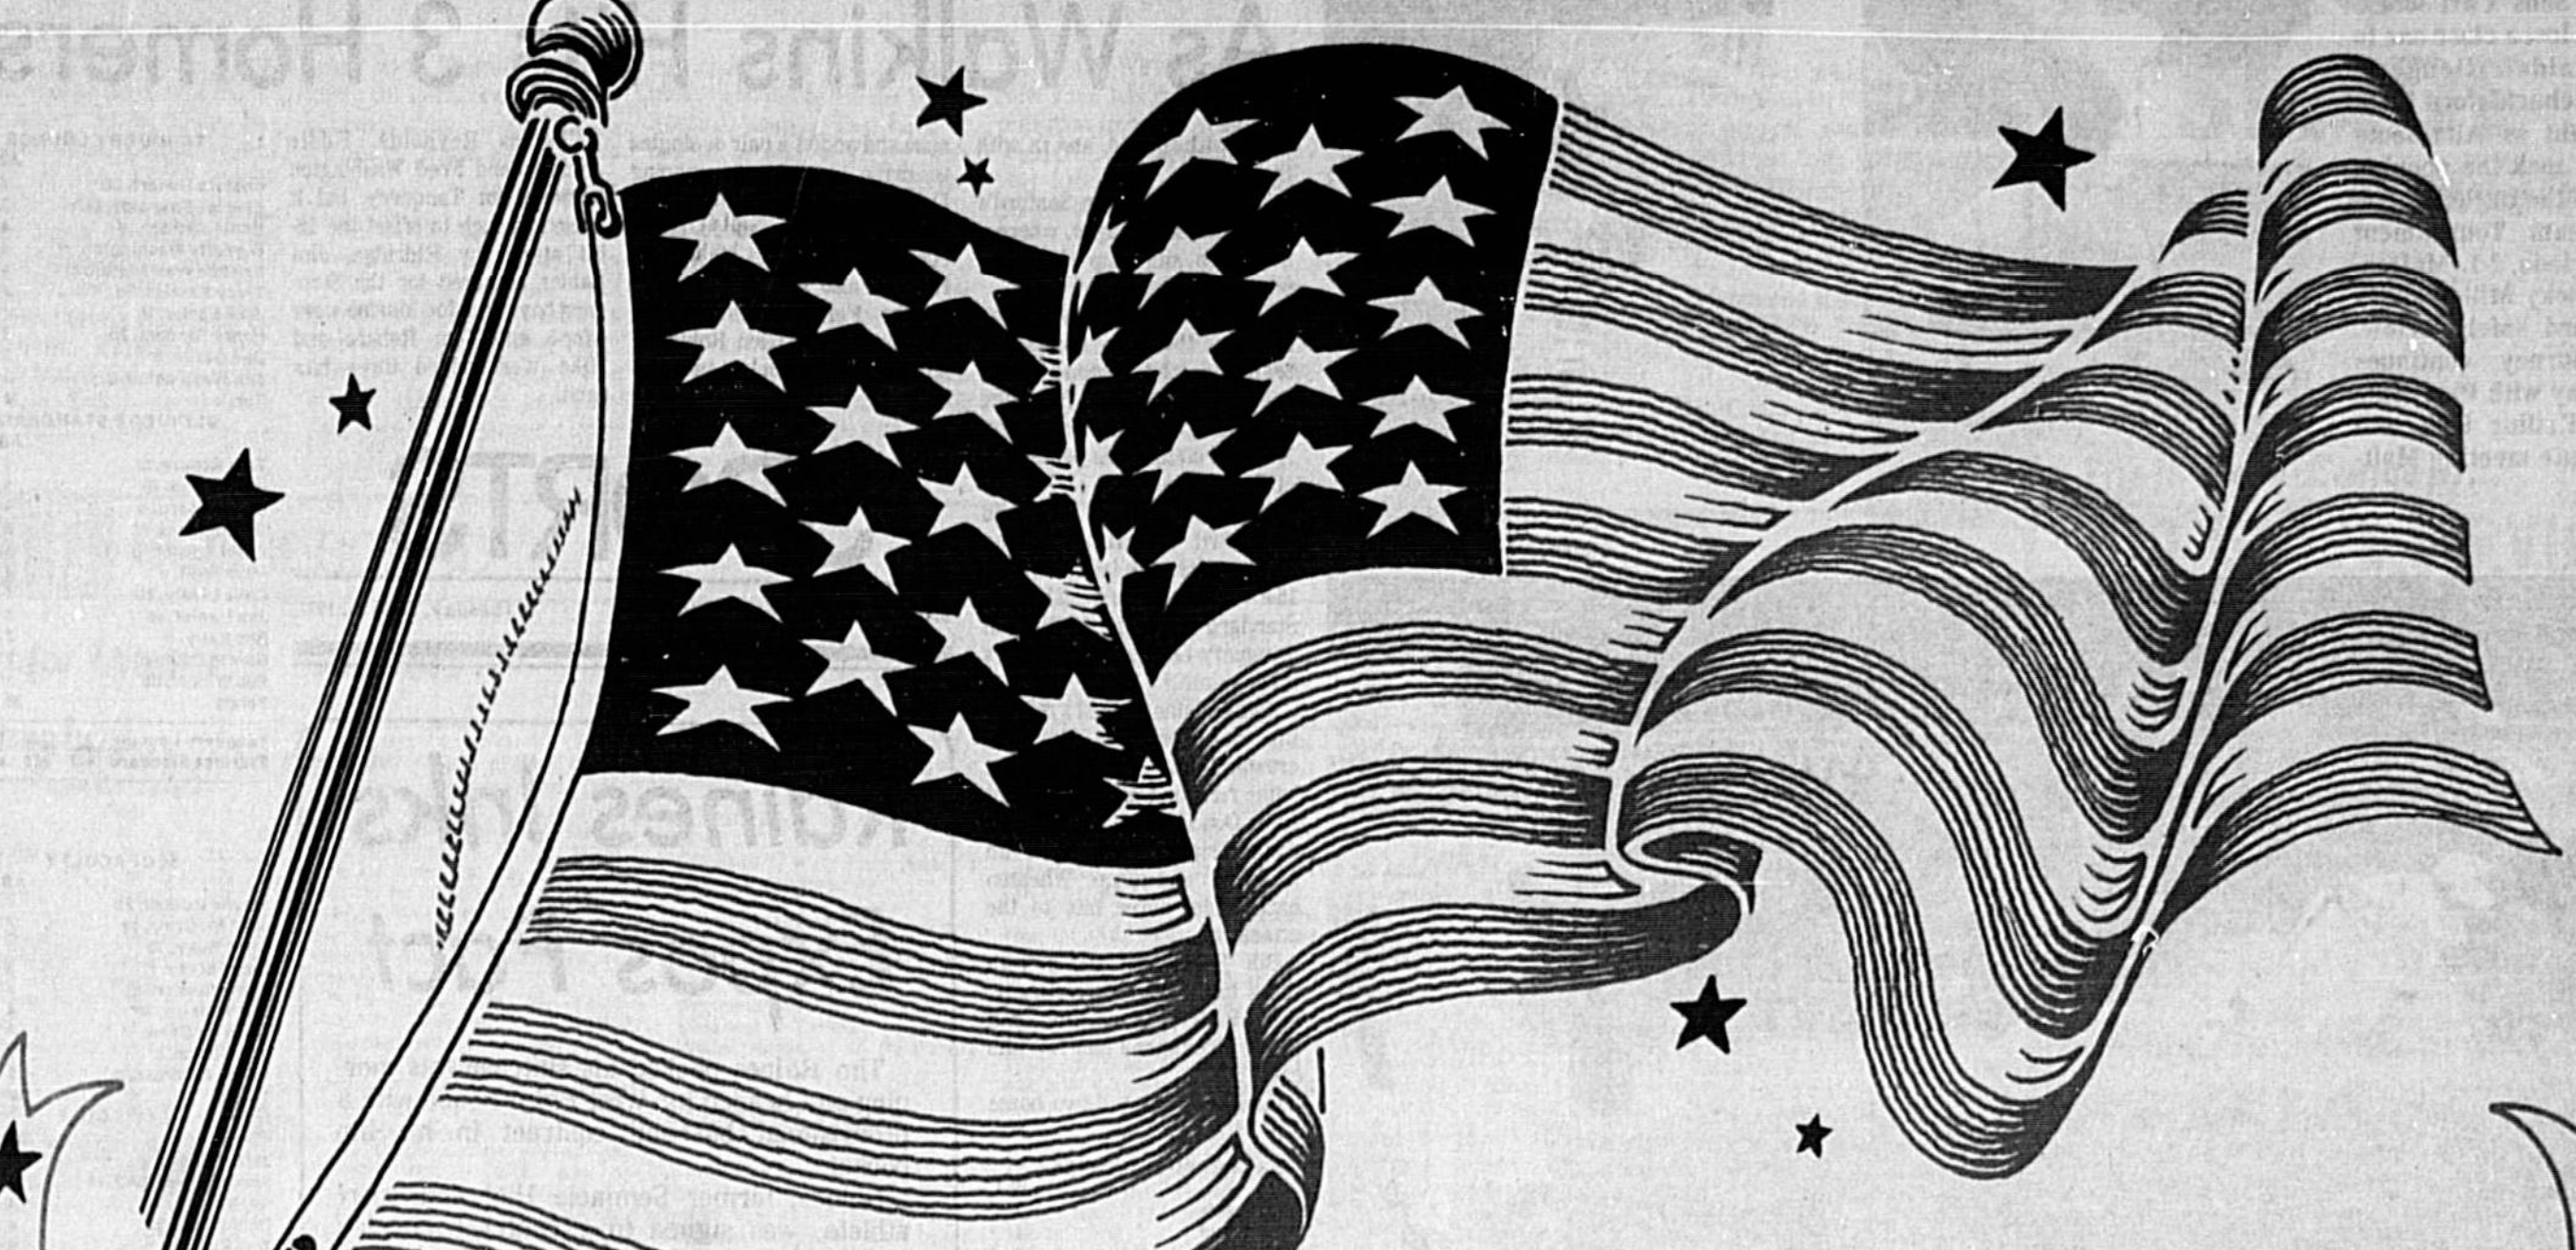

Another FBI report revealed that the Belgrade church had also dispatched "three bishops to the United States... to gather evidence against Bishop Dionisije."

The defamatory campaign succeeded in souring many loyal Americans against the anti-Communist bishop who, apparently, was vulnerable to some minor charges. In the end, the Belgrade church defrocked Dionisije and is sending over priests approved by the UDB to serve in the U.S. parishes. The Supreme Court resolved the ensuing court battle in favor of the Communist-backed church.

Footnote: In 1970, then U.S. Ambassador William Leonard reported from Belgrade that he had visited the patriarchate office. He said that German had pooh-poohed talk of any attempt to take over church property in the United States, had secretly denounced Dionisije and had called the charges of Communist control "a red herring."

Yugoslav spokesmen also deny that the Serbian church is under government control, much less the secret police. When told of this, U.S. intelligence sources simply chuckled.

FLAG DAY -- OLD GLORY'S 200th BIRTHDAY. 1777-1977

... "Resolved that the flag of the U.S. will be made of thirteen stripes, red & white, that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." For 200 years, we've been updating this version, adding a new star for each new state. We're as proud of "Old Glory" as we are the ideals for which it stands. Today, marking the 200th anniversary of the Stars & Stripes, let's show our colors proudly — display the flag!

SCC Faculty Leads Metro As Walkins Hits 3 Homers

Out with the old, and in with the new. That's the story in Sanford's Metro Softball League, where a new face sits atop the slow-pitch standings. Seminole Community College Faculty, the only undefeated team in the second half, knocked Lay's Golf from the unbeaten ranks Monday night, 15-4, and claims sole possession of first place.

Dekle's Gulf knocked Seaboard Coastline a peg farther down the ladder with a 15-4 triumph, and Eldridge Standard put a 17-4 hurting on Tanqueroy Lounge in the night's other game.

Jeff Walkins carried a mighty big bat for SCC Faculty, crashing out three straight home runs and driving in eight runs. Don Harvey also added a round-tripper while John McGraw and Tom Wheaton each added three hits to the attack.

Bill Berlin led Lay's with three hits while Nicky Brady, Wes Rich, Randy Hill and Bruce Drummond had two hits each.

Carl Lee smashed two home runs and added a pair of singles to drive in six runs, pacing Dekle's. Larry Helman and Donnie Anderson added home runs to the Dekle's attack. Helman also had two singles. Mike Ferrell homered for Seaboard while Glen Robinson and John Emerson had two hits apiece.

Raines Inks Expos Pact

Tim Raines packed his suitcase this morning and headed for West Palm Beach with a professional baseball contract in his hip pocket.

Raines, former Seminole High four-sport athlete, was signed to a contract Monday night. Terms were not announced.

The Montreal Expos, who selected Raines in the fifth round of last week's free agent draft, assigned him to their West Palm Beach affiliate of the Florida State League, a Class A loop.

Ray Robinson Has No-Hitter

Ray Robinson pitched a no-hitter Monday in Sanford's Florida Little League game, pitching Atlantic National Bank past Seminole Petroleum, 17-3.

Lee Charron outdudded Mike Baker in the day's other American Division contest as Flagship Bank of Seminole defeated Georgia's, 4-3.

Tim Hall led Atlantic at the plate with 3-for-4 while Elvis Brown and Scott Murphy had two hits apiece. Walks and errors accounted for Petroleum's runs.

Charron gave up five hits and fanned 11 and worked his way out of last-inning jam which found Georgia's putting the tying and winning runs in scoring position. Baker, who had two hits and fanned 10, pitched a no-hitter.

Fisk Delivers Winning Hit As Sox Roll, 5-4

Carlton Fisk knows when the odds are in his favor. "There was a good chance for a hit," the Boston catcher said after his long single in the bottom of the 10th inning scored Rick Burleson from third and gave the Sox a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Monday night.

The victory moved Boston into first place in the American League East Division, one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees.

Fisk was batting with the bases loaded and one out. "Their infield and outfield were playing in and their pitcher (Larry Anderson) had to give me something good to hit," Fisk said. "I was just trying to hit the ball hard."

Fisk lined the ball over the head of Chicago centerfielder Dick Lemon.

In other AL games Monday night, Texas blanked Cleveland 3-0 and Kansas City defeated the Yankees 5-1. In the National League, the New York Mets edged Atlanta 7-1, Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 5-4, and Montreal nipped Houston 3-2.

It was Boston's fifth straight victory and eighth in the last nine games.

Relief specialist Bill Campbell, Boston's fourth pitcher, picked up the victory by retiring the last six Chicago batters.

Rangers 1, Indians 0
Burt Blyleven's four-hit shut-out was backed by home runs by Juan Beniquez and Burt Campaneris as Texas edged Cleveland 3-1.

Only John Lovensein was able to batter Blyleven's 67, getting two of the Indians' hits and also walking one.

Banqueir, who also doubled, gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead the fourth with his homer into the left field stands. It was the first hit off Dennis Eckersley, 65. Campaneris led off the sixth with his second homer.

Royals 5, Yankees 3
George Brett scored from first base on a bloop single in the first inning, then slammed a two-run homer, powering Kansas City over New York and knocking the Yankees out of first place in the AL East.

Winner Paul Splittorff, 5-4, needed help from Doug Bird and Steve Mingori. Mike Torrez, 7-5, took the loss.

Mets 7, Braves 1
Pitcher Jerry Kosman backed his four-hit shutout with two runs in lead, leading the Mets over Atlanta.

Obenland Dodges 'Gators, Bears On Cypress Hunt

CYPRESS PLANTERS ARE AMONG THE OBENLAND COLLECTION

Gene Obenland spends about four days a week in the Florida swamps. His wife, Rosemary, can often be found on those same days running around their shop with a chain saw in her hands. The Obenlands took the step that many people think about but few actually accomplish: they quit their jobs and went into business for themselves. Their one-time hobby, creating decorative items from cross-sections of cypress wood, has become their fulltime business.

"I always liked working with wood," says Gene, "even when I was a kid. . . from the time I was that high," he says, holding his palm about two feet off the floor. "When we cut a tree we use about 95 per cent of it," adds Rosemary. The huge stumps are used in their natural condition as oversized planters. The larger limbs can be cut and used as plaques, clock bases or other smaller decorative items. The smaller branches are used in the macramé which also fills the shop. "We have also begun using the tops of the trees with the bark still on as small fence posts," says Rosemary. "Even the sawdust does not go to waste. We use it as mulch in our vegetable garden at home," explains Rosemary. It is also used in the shop as part of the peeling oil which goes into the planters, along with growing things from the Obenlands' own nursery.

Gene has some firm words for the companies which get into cypress product creation, discover how complicated it is and leave people "out on a limb" without their products. "It's hard work," he says. "People who think it's easy just don't last. We don't buy the cypress with which we work. We own or lease timber rights and land all over this state," says Gene, explaining why he spends four days a week in the swamp. "Right now the water is down. It isn't too bad. When it's up and you are in the water to your waist—that's when you find the snakes. The gators usually run, but the snakes are a different story."

The wildlife outside the water is almost as bad, as Gene found out a few months ago. "I glanced over my shoulder while I was cutting down a tree," he recalls, "and saw what I figured was a Black Angus cow, because the area where I was working had a lot of them."

When the "Black Angus" stood up on his hind legs and roared, Gene took a second look. Discovering that his companion was a Florida brown bear, Gene—with astounding presence of mind—gathered up his saw and ran for the hills. "He moved to a place about a mile away and went right on gathering cypress," laughs Rosemary. Gene has encountered a lot of Florida wildlife while harvesting the big trees, including a lot of deer, some wild boar and turkeys. "It's so beautiful, so still and quiet out there," says Rosemary.

Although the Obenlands have had their firm, Cypress Creations, for only three years, they have been making the wooden clocks, planters, plaques and other items for a good bit longer. "Our neighbors encouraged us to go into business," says Rosemary. "They even loaned us the vacant lot between our house and theirs, which they owned, to store our cypress until we could get going."

Getting the company going was no less difficult for the Obenlands than it is for most people. "There were times when we were ready to lock the doors and say 'that's it,'" recalls Rosemary. "With a wave of the hand she indicates the many products sitting, standing, leaning and hanging around the room. "We even guarantee that no two pieces are alike," she smiles.

Right now Gene is working on the base for a dining room table. "It is shaped like a goblet, six feet across," says Gene, "and the top of the table will be glass." Many of the giant stumps such as that from which the goblet is made end up as planters. "You don't have to water plants nearly as much when they are in cypress," says Gene. "The wood absorbs the water and the plants live off the wood. And plants never get root bound in cypress," adds Rosemary.

A CLOCK? A LAMP BASE? GENE OBENLAND STUDIES RAW CYPRESS FOR INSPIRATION

When the "Black Angus" stood up on his hind legs and roared, Gene took a second look. Discovering that his companion was a Florida brown bear, Gene—with astounding presence of mind—gathered up his saw and ran for the hills. "He moved to a place about a mile away and went right on gathering cypress," laughs Rosemary. Gene has encountered a lot of Florida wildlife while harvesting the big trees, including a lot of deer, some wild boar and turkeys. "It's so beautiful, so still and quiet out there," says Rosemary.

Although the Obenlands have had their firm, Cypress Creations, for only three years, they have been making the wooden clocks, planters, plaques and other items for a good bit longer. "Our neighbors encouraged us to go into business," says Rosemary. "They even loaned us the vacant lot between our house and theirs, which they owned, to store our cypress until we could get going."

Getting the company going was no less difficult for the Obenlands than it is for most people. "There were times when we were ready to lock the doors and say 'that's it,'" recalls Rosemary. "With a wave of the hand she indicates the many products sitting, standing, leaning and hanging around the room. "We even guarantee that no two pieces are alike," she smiles.

Right now Gene is working on the base for a dining room table. "It is shaped like a goblet, six feet across," says Gene, "and the top of the table will be glass." Many of the giant stumps such as that from which the goblet is made end up as planters. "You don't have to water plants nearly as much when they are in cypress," says Gene. "The wood absorbs the water and the plants live off the wood. And plants never get root bound in cypress," adds Rosemary.

When the "Black Angus" stood up on his hind legs and roared, Gene took a second look. So Much For Mother's Day...

DEAR READERS: Immediately following Mother's Day, and for several weeks thereafter, I received numerous letters concerning that special day we set aside to "honor" Mother. Some excerpts:

CHICAGO MOM
 "...I had only one child, and I regret to say that it was a boy. He is married now, so every holiday he spends with HER mother. Whoever said: 'A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all her life' sure said a mouthful."

MILWAUKEE MOM
 "...My husband gave me a card for Mother's Day, and I told him I wasn't his mother, so we got into a fight over it. I happen to be six years older than him, but I am not old enough to be his mother. Was I wrong to get steamed?"

NOT HIS MOTHER
 "I told her she was indeed wrong—that she was probably overly sensitive to the age difference, and that provoked her anger."

"When my only daughter sent me a check for $25 with a note telling me to buy myself something for Mother's Day, I felt so bad I cried all day. If she's too busy, or lazy, or lacking in imagination to pick out a present, I certainly don't need her charity."

HURT IN WALPOLE, N.H.
 "...My son who lives in another city forgot me again on Mother's Day, but he called me the next day and fell all over himself apologizing. The damage had already been done, and my Mother's Day was ruined. This is the third year he's done that. Next year I'm taking my phone off the hook."

EVERETT, WASH.
 "...What do you do with a mother who sends back the Mother's Day gifts her children give her? She says, 'I don't need anything and I don't want anything, so please take it back!'"

D. and S.
 "...I wish my children would get together and buy me ONE useful gift. Every Mother's Day I get nine gifts I have no use for."

Dear Abby

CLEVELAND MOTHER
 "...How many times should a mother have to tell her children she's allergic to flowers? For Mother's Day I got five bouquets again! I told the delivery man to leave them on the porch, then I gave them to my neighbors."

PHOENIX
 "For Mother's Day I always get a useless gift like a fancy nightgown I'll never wear, cologne I don't care for, or some little brooch or bracelet I'll never take out of the box. With prices so high these days, I wish they would give me the money instead."

PHILA. WIDOW
 "...I am a retired school teacher who never married, but I've always loved children. The young boy who delivers my newspaper knows that, so on Mother's Day he left me a sack of jellybeans and a lovely Mother's Day card, on which he wrote, 'You would have made a wonderful mother. Wasn't that dear?'"

TOUCHED IN TULSA
 "...So once a year my children buy me a corsage and take me out to a crowded, noisy restaurant. Big deal! Where are they when I need my lawn mowed, my leaves raked and my screens put up? Little favors during the year would mean so much to me."

ANONYMOUS MOTHER
 "...Mother's Day is just another getting-glimmer. I dislike getting gifts and flowers on Mother's Day. It seems so forced to me. If my children would show a little appreciation at any other time—because they really wanted to—I would feel better about it."

WINCHESTER, VA.
 "...The Best present I received on Mother's Day cost only 13 cents. It was a letter from my son telling me how much I mean to him. The most expensive present bought in a store could not have matched the pleasure his letter gave me."

DORAVILLE, GA.
 Awards were presented in areas of scholarship, citizenship, perfect attendance and athletic ability. Certificates and

Mr. Muffler: 'We Can Fit Any Car'

When Carl Vorphal took over the Mr. Muffler Shop in 1974 on French Ave. in Sanford, he had behind him many years in the automotive business. He knew how important reliable, economical maintenance and repair are to every car owner.

As an independent businessman, he set out to offer a product - Muffler Man exhaust systems - installed by trained specialists backed by a lifetime warranty. Today, Mr. Vorphal is justly proud of having the oldest specialized muffler shop with the largest inventory in Seminole County.

Mr. Muffler's three lifts and automatic installers mean that 30 minutes to an hour is the average time for each job. But any Sanford area resident can just leave the car and be driven
