BUDGET OF OPINION: "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH, "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Dropping into a shoe shop the other day to have some work done I noticed that the shoemaker in taking down some heels was working in some very soft material and asking him what it was found out that it was pure paper pulp. Instead of leather the heels were made of paper for fillers and what seemed to be a real thing was a mere sham. Now maybe this is the best kind of material for the making of heels and soles of shoes. Maybe paper is cheaper and better and the manufacturers of shoes trying to give the public good service recognize the fact that paper is better and instead of giving us common leather give us real nice paper. Bill Mapoles was not far from wrong when he tried to pass a Pure Shoe Bill in the Florida legislature. In olden times we wore shoes and boots made of pure leather and there were not as many cattle killed then as now. Why should we pay for leather and receive paper and why should not the legislature pass a pure shoe bill as well as a pure food bill. I for one do not believe the tammyrot about leather, but I believe that paper must be used in the manufacture of shoes, or the manufacture of anything else where we pay for the real article and receive a substitute in place of the real thing. No substitute should be used in the manufacture of any article when the purchaser is paying for something supposed to be real and if I pay $4 or $5 for a pair of shoes I certainly want real leather and I believe I am entitled to real leather. I hope the Hon. Bill Mapoles will bring up his pure shoe bill again and that it will pass but the shoe manufacturers will probably knock it out again with their well paid lobby as they did last time. The common people hardly ever get by with a bill of this kind. And all of us will go on using paper shoes at $4 per pair.

What's in a name? Well, in this instance there is a pound of coffee in it and good coffee at that. Last week I jokingly made allusion to the names of the two men who were in the coffee business in Orlando, Ohse and Awde, and what did these gentlemen do but come right back with a pound of the famous Eola brand of fresh roasted coffee—sent it to the editor of The Herald who in turn handed it to me and I want to thank Ohse and Awde for the same. Oh-Say Ow Awd, don't-cher-know.

Nearly every man professes a fondness for fishing and fellows who never wet a line nor heard of Isaac Walton will discuss the subject with all the aplomb of a debutante at a bride's shower. Some do get real enjoyment from dangling a hook in the water and waiting for a bite, which more times than not is inflicted about eight inches north of the third button on ones oxford by a chigger with jaws like a pair of tinners' shears. If you escape the chigger you are certain to fall a victim of the attacks of a water bug, a scud, who has dropped his bayonet in a brook of vegetation and has a temper like a Florida pirate.

There is a class of glacialist picked the membership of which is large, who get most of their pleasure from sitting in the steady draft of a whirling fan arguing the merits of various kinds of tackle and bait. Taking their own word for it their favorite rendezvous is about five miles up or down the river where they always catch the big ones. But if you do not find these advocates enjoying the soothing comfort of a fan and something with a straw in it they are nearby regaling some other chap with the tale of their latest catch.

If you will seek any cool, restful spot within four blocks of the court house these days and keep perfectly quiet for a time you will hear much learned discussion of the superiority of bull heads as compared with Skinner bait or Dowagac as a lure. You will catch the confidential details of the story of a pool where the big bass lurk and no one has been able to land them. "You can see 'em in there and one of these mornings when I can get away I am going out and get 'em, believe me." The earnestness of the recital almost arouses in your breast a determination to have a try at it yourself until you remember with regret that you loaned your tackle two years ago.

Somehow I cannot rid my system of a sincere regret that Moran was unable to mop the map with Johnson in their bout a few days ago. Of course I didn't really expect him to do it, but there was a tiny ember of hope that flamed fitfully during the first few rounds and then died to ashes.

Moran is a good name, like Kelly and Burke and Shea, and I wished him well. Under the pocket where I always carry the cigar I'm not smoking there was a warm spot for the boy from Pittsburg and I crowded up close to the bulletin board so as not to lose a word. I wanted to be among the first to read that Moran was one white hope who was not hopeless. I wanted to read the story of how he had mused up that mud colored molecule with the macerating mitt and the mildewed morals.

But what is the use of remembering something one ought to forget? You have to hand it to Johnson and it looks as though he wasn't due for the count until he gets it from sipping the enticing green beverage from a chilled glass.

There is state prohibition and there is state prohibition—several brands of it and William Allen White, the great Kansas editor sums up the situation admirably in the Saturday Evening Post. The first paragraph of his fine article is as follows:

Prohibition, of course, does not prohibit. Nothing has hurt the cause of temperance in this country so seriously as the delusion that a law on the statute book will prohibit the sale of liquor in a city, a county or a state. A prohibitory law in a community, whether the unit of population be large or small, is, after all, only a good regulation, and like a good regulation it has to be kept or there is not much to it. A state or a county or a city, sobering up, getting the alcohol out of its system, goes through much the same process under the prohibitory law that a man goes through with when he swears off with a mighty oath. When the man quits, after a high resolve and with more or less emotion connected with the performance, whether he lapses or not depends largely on that man, somewhat on the attendant circumstances of his renunciation and a little—but very little—on the pharmacology of his swearing off pledge.

The case of prohibition is a close parallel. The state or the county or the town—take any group—sees the error of its ways. Perhaps the economic waste of liquor appeals to the judgment of the electorate, perhaps the moral obliquity of countenancing by law an institution, the chief business of which is to make fools and criminals of men, strikes the people as civic folly; or perhaps all the good people unite against those whom they deem the bad people in a highly moral yearning to hasten the millennium, and a law prohibiting the sale of liquor is passed either by constitutional amendment or by legislative act.

"Fine business!" declare all the good people and all the wise people and all the people desiring to strike out the economic waste. "Thank heaven, that job is done!" Whereupon the Rum Fiend laughs a low, hoarse, second-act laugh, and the devil is still to pay—for the cigars are on the highly moral yearners and their aids and abettors. The truth is, the job has only begun. It takes from one to five years to get a prohibitory law passed in a state. In Kansas, the only place where the law really amounts to much, it has taken a quarter of a century to enact it. It is possible—even probable—just the common sense of the American people and their common moral sense have so developed during the past generation that the time required to get a state thoroughly under a prohibitory law will be less now than that required thirty or forty years ago. Nevertheless, until a state has enough public will power to keep up the fight for at least a decade, and keep it up "through many a conflict, many a doubt," winning here and losing there—this state should try tapering off on local option rather than to try swearing off on prohibition.

SIRES AND SONS.

Daniel Coffee of Cleveland fought in the Mexican war of 1846-8. He is eighty-six.

Philadelphia has three living veterans of the former Mexican war. J. B. Wilson, ninety; I. Williams, eighty-eight and G. Manypenny, ninety.

J. C. Chatterj, one of India's most distinguished scientists, will shortly visit Japan to carry out research work in the interests of Shintolism and Buddhism.

Myron F. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, has been given a gold medal by the French Natural History association for "international service in the protection of wild life."

Sir Charles Wyndham, the veteran actor-manager, who is seventy-seven, is still hale and hearty, and has no intention of retiring yet. He is now preparing to bring out a new play. Before going on the stage he served as a captain surgeon.

Captain Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., who will have charge of all the details of putting shipping through the Panama canal, graduated from Annapolis in 1890, and with the exception of six years has been at sea ever since. He has been around the world five times and has commanded ships in nearly every big port.

Forest Notes.

Results from western white pine plantations three seasons or more old show an average of 97 per cent success. Of average white pine soil planting can be conducted for from $5 to $8 per acre.

Western yellow pine cones to the amount of 6,377 bushels, obtained on the Bitter Root national forest, Montana, yielded 0.482 pounds of seed. The average cost of the extracted seed was 41 cents per pound.

Forest biologists recognize only one cypress in the United States. Its range extends from Delaware southward nearly to Texas and up the Mississippi valley to Illinois and Indiana. It is one of the few cone bearing trees which drop their leaves in winter. The heart wood is noted for its decay resistant properties.

Aviation Notes.

Provided its outfit accepts certain conditions, the British war office will put any aeroplanes through the military acceptance test.

One of the French manufacturers has produced a hydroaeroplane so powerful that it is in reality little less than a flying tugboat.

The English aviator Gustave Hamel made a record recently by looping the loop successively twenty-one times atournemouth at a height of 2,500 feet.

When the latest Zeppelin stricken crashed over Berlin it made hardly any noise. In the past the airships of this type have been conspicuous for the disturbance they created.

Whale's Thick Hide.

The whale has the thickest hide of any living creature. Its hide in places attains a thickness of fully two feet.

KILLED MOUNTAIN LION

HORSE MORE THAN A MATCH FOR Foe IN FAIR FIGHT.

Had Opportunity to Run, But Bravely Stood His Ground and Crushed the Skull of His Enemy in the Last Round.

The following, among hundreds of similar incidents, seems to be well authenticated:

Some years ago a hunter in Wyoming territory was camping under the Wind flies, well up in the mountains. He had a horse of fine breed, and had selected a small bunch of cottonwood trees for his camp, while, at a little distance, under an unusually large tree of the same kind, and apart from all the others, he stabled his stallion.

It could hardly be called stabling—for the horse was picketed, and the tree formed his shelter.

One night the hunter was aroused from a sound sleep by a neigh from his horse, which sounded rather like rage than alarm. American horses are often quick to detect the approach of Indians, as well as beasts of prey, and the hunter was soon upon his feet, and looking in the direction of his horse.

The animal was standing in the full light of a bright moon, and seemed to be staring at an object in the branches of the tree. As the hunter looked the branches were violently agitated, a dreadful yelling scream was heard, and a dark object, which was a mountain lion, landed on the back of the horse. The latter sprang into the air, with a mad scream, little inferior in shrillness and rage to that of his enemy.

He returned to the ground with a great concussion, but failed to shake off the mountain lion, so closely did the latter cling to his prey. Blood began to appear on the horse's neck and shoulders, and the lion was tearing his way to his jugular, to let out the gallant beast's life.

Apparently realizing his full danger, before his master could do anything, the horse snapped the picket rope and sprang into a dense tangle of boughs, and the mountain lion was torn from his seat and hurled back with great violence. The stallion passed through the thicket and then turned to confront his enemy in the open space, never offering to run away.

The lion, quickly recovering himself, and mad with the taste of blood, sprang once more into the branches of the big tree and made another leap toward the horse, but missed his aim.

Then he began a series of circles around the horse, getting nearer and nearer each time, and at last made another leap.

But the brave horse was ready for him, and with the rapidity of thought changed front and his hind feet struck the lion full in the breast.

The animal rolled over and over, with yells of pain and rage, but then came to again.

This time he came to his death, for the horse's heels struck him fairly between the eyes, and crushed his skull clean across. He gave a few convulsive struggles and then stiffened in death, while the triumphant stallion stood neighing and pawing the ground in token of victory.

Headgear Causes of Baldness.

Antarctic baldness is the result of wearing close woolen caps, says Percival Gray, navigating officer of the Aurora, which relieved Dr. Mason and his companions in the Antarctic. "I had not seen Dr. Mason for two years previously," he told a newspaper representative, "and was surprised to find him so fit after the experiences he had undergone. Since we last saw them the party had become almost bald, doubtless owing to the fact that for two years they had been wearing close woolen headgear. One addition to the base camp appeared to all of us. It was a large cross, visible far out at sea, which had been erected to the memory of Lieutenant Ninnis and Dr. Mars (who perished while on a journey with Dr. Mason). The party received a never-to-be-forgotten welcome from the crew of our ship." Describing the dredging work Mr. Gray said: "We obtained some extraordinary creatures from the depths of the sea, including fish with luminous eyes, characteristic of the life in those great depths where there is no light."

The Infinite Procession.

We look through the microscope; physicists, chemists, biologists, pry into the inner recesses of matter, only to find energy—energy heating, tossing, turbulent, imprisoned, perhaps, or bound to other energy, but every-where in the sea in operations, in the minute particles of matter, animal, vegetable or inorganic, restless energy, eternal effort. If we turn to the history of plant life upon our globe, what do we find but records of energy, whether physical, chemical, or of that seemingly peculiar form which marks living organisms, everywhere energy leaving its trace in innumerable forms. In this history of life, according to our human standards, there has been a long procession, in which the principles of organic life, from the earliest period of vegetable existence, has advanced through manifold forms, upward, upward, in the depths of the sea, in the air, on land, by devious routes and strange passages, up to the fish, to the bird, in four-footed beasts, and finally to man—Henry D. Sedgwick, the Atlantic.

EMPEROR'S BITTER

INCIDENTS THAT PRECEDED NAPOLEON'S EXILE TO ELBA.

Conqueror Would Have Resisted to the Last, But His Generals Deserted Him—Insisted on Former Leader's Abdication.

A hundred years ago one of the events of all history occurred. It was the abdication of Napoleon as Emperor of France and the signing away of the rights of his family to the throne of that fair land. The Bourbon family was to be returned to power, the Allies having entered Paris.

Napoleon, bent on every hand on the downward slide from the crest of power, had returned to Fontainebleau at the beginning of April, too late, although he would not recognize defeat. He was still bent on doing something. On the night of April 2, Caulaincourt returned from Paris with the news that the senate had deposed the former master. His reception of the news was dramatic.

The following day was a busy one. His officers were called.

"I have offered to the Emperor Alexander," said he, "a peace at the price of great sacrifices. France with her former frontiers. He has refused; he allows the troops to wear the white cockade. I will attack Paris. I count on you. Am I right?"

The appeal to their attachment was great. The resourceful conqueror stood before them.

"Vive l'Empereur! To Paris!" was the shout of assent that thundered gratefully in his ears.

"Tell your soldiers," he said briefly.

The generals, however, stood aloof. Ney was their leader. To them the situation was not one that could be cured by the imagination alone. Real power was needed. He, Lefebvre and Monecy entered Napoleon's study without awaiting his will.

"Sire," said Ney, "it is time to end this. Your situation is desperate. You must make up your mind and abdicate for the King of Rome."

Napoleon began to discuss the situation.

"It is impossible!" Ney exclaimed, breaking in impatiently. "The army will not follow you. You have lost its confidence."

"The army has still obedience enough to punish your rebellion," responded Napoleon, still the master as their eyes met. Ney quailed before that glance.

Breakfast was served late the following day, the hour being 11 o'clock. The Emperor came to the meal with a number of his generals, including Ney. They ate heartily and then retired to an adjoining room. Napoleon stalked up and down for some minutes, his eyes fixed upon the floor. Suddenly he stopped before Caulaincourt and said:

"I will abdicate."

"Sire," said Monecy, "you are saving France."

After some discussion, Napoleon added: "I have desired the glory and happiness of France. I have not succeeded. I abdicate and retire."

On April 11 the formal act of abdication was delivered to the Allies and the treaty, generally known as the Treaty of Fontainebleau, was signed. By this document Napoleon was made monarch of the island of Elba and the title of emperor was continued. He renounced all the rights of his family to the sovereignty of the French Empire, the Kingdom of Italy and all other countries.

Why Explorers Cannot Rest.

Sir Ernest Shackleton was asked the other day, why he was protecting his great expedition right across the Antarctic continent. "Why we go I cannot say," he replied. "What the impelling force is that makes explorers I cannot describe. It is one of the sort of things of which, if you could describe it in so many words, half the charm and half the interest would be lost."

"When you are in the Antarctic you have an uncomfortable time, frozen one minute and roasted the next, but when you come back to civilization and sit down to dinners, before you have been home six months you want to get out on to the lone trail again."

"Each step taken into the unknown unfolds a page of mystery, and as long as there is any mystery on this globe it is not only man's right but also his duty to try to unravel it, so that in future ages we shall not be pointed at as the men who lived in the dark ages of the twentieth century."

The Concealing Adornment.

An eastern authority says men wear mustaches to hide and modify their atrocious homeliness. He says he knows his own upper lip in this way because it looks like the upper lip of a man who would ask you to be an orphan and dance in the sabbath-Norfolk upper lip, as it were.

This is a somewhat broad charge, as all mustache wearers will duly aver. There are mustaches far uglier than the ugliest of upper lips. There are mustaches in tint that would frighten a blind man. There are fringed mustaches, and some suggest the snags of yesterday.

But they can't be done away with by sneers, or jeers, or even tears. You can't do away with an adornment that in its universal pull begins with an emperor and ends with a Tartar.

Cat of Ancient Mexico. The Mexican Humboldt firmly believes in the nine stages of heaven and hell, and the curious cat of the Aztecs began existence with its full quota of nine lives. This feline of ancient Mexico today almost extinct, was a peculiar, even repulsive creature, being absolutely black save for the few sparse hairs which appeared along the ridge of its tail and back at the beginning of winter.

Rankin on Traveling. To any person who has all his senses about him, a quiet walk, over not more than ten or twelve miles of road a day, is the most charming of all traveling; and all traveling becomes dull in exact proportion to its rapidity. Going by railroad I do not consider as traveling at all; it is merely "being sent" to a place, and very little different from becoming a parcel—Rankin.

BULL MOOSE MOVE TO BREAK BRYAN LAW

MEANING THAT ANDERSON WILL FIGHT FLETCHER.

IF LAW STANDS BULL MOOSE FALLS

NICE LITTLE SCHEME TO PLACE CANDIDATE IN FIELD AGAINST DEMOCRATS.

Herbert L. Anderson, Bull Moose leader in Florida, will attempt to prove the Bryan primary law unconstitutional, and behind the scheme is said to be the Progressive party candidacy of John S. Maxwell of Jacksonville, for the United States Senate, in opposition to the regular Democratic nominee, Duncan U. Fletcher.

A bill of complaint and an application for a temporary injunction restraining the Secretary of State, H. Clay Crawford, from complying with the Bryan act by certifying the nominations for state and national offices to the various counties of the state for the purpose of making up lists of Democratic nominees for the general election in November, were filed in the circuit court for Leon county at Tallahassee this morning. The application for injunction will be returnable before Judge James T. Willis, of the Eighth judicial circuit of Gainesville next Monday. Mr. Maxwell is counsel for the complainant.

The bill of complaint filed at Tallahassee is said to be a lengthy affair. It is understood that the complainant cites many reasons why he believes the Bryan act is unconstitutional, among the principal objections being that the Bryan act provides that a man has to be a qualified elector in May, when the general election laws provide that a man shall be a qualified elector in November.

The complainant, Mr. Anderson was formerly a leader of the Republicans in Florida. He has been a great admirer of Theodore Roosevelt. When the Republican party split, Mr. Anderson remained a Roosevelt man.

In connection with the attempt to prove the Bryan primary law unconstitutional it was reported on the streets today that John S. Maxwell would be a candidate on the Progressive party ticket for the United States Senate, in opposition to the Democratic nominee, Mr. Fletcher. Mr. Maxwell is remaining rather quiet on the subject, but it is believed he will make a definite announcement regarding the matter in a few days.

The outcome of the injunction case is awaited with interest.

To Move Farm Produce

Lake Charles, La., July 17.—To strengthen the farmer and truck grower in the weakest points in his organization, the selling end, the Lake Charles Business Men's Association has been organized on original lines. The merchants of the city have incorporated a mutual company, hired a manager and have announced that in the future they will accept and pay cash down at the best New Orleans prices for all truck and produce brought to the association's warehouse.

"The trouble with our farmers," declared John Marshall, publisher of the Lake Charles Times, and a leader in the movement, "was that they had no selling end to their business. They had good land, were well trained farmers and raised good stuff but from the minute they took it off their place and put it in their wagons they were helpless. There were hundreds of consumers who wanted their stuff and were willing to pay for it, and there were hundreds of farmers about here who wanted to sell. But they couldn't get together. Our organization will see to this. We pay the farmer cash for his stuff. That's what he needs worse than anything else. Then our agents in New Orleans get it on the big southern and eastern markets for us and we get our money back. We can afford to wait for our returns but lots of times the farmer cannot and as a result, takes any old price or dumps his stuff on the local market at a big loss. So far the work of the association has been remarkably successful."

DEATH OF W. H. UNDERWOOD

Well Known Manufacturer of This City Dies After Month's Illness

After an illness of several weeks' duration W. H. Underwood of this city succumbed to the insidious approaches of cancer yesterday afternoon. He had an operation for cancer under his arm about one month ago and it was thought at the time that the disease would be confined there. Mr. Underwood became so much better that he was enabled to get about the streets but the disease was in other parts of his body and a few weeks ago he was obliged to take to his bed and has never been able to leave it. His many friends here hoped against hope, skilled physicians aided by nurses, his faithful wife and friends did all in their power but the disease overcame their efforts and the end came Thursday afternoon about six o'clock.

The funeral services will take place at the Baptist church this afternoon at 4 o'clock, in charge of the Elks and Odd Fellows, Rev. Hyman officiating. Interment will be made at the family burial ground at Marshallville, Georgia.

W. H. Underwood was born in Georgia near Montezuma in 1865 and spent his early boyhood in that part of the state. He early in life learned the trade of blacksmith and worked at that for years in his native state. He also learned locomotive engineering and at one time was with the Central of Georgia Railway. On account of the ill health of his wife he decided to move to Florida and for several years was travelling salesman for the John G. Christopher Co. of Jacksonville and afterward making Gainesville his home travelled for the S. J. Thomas Co. out of that city. About six years ago he removed to this section and lived near Wagner, being engaged in the shingle business afterward coming to Sanford and engaging in the wagon manufacturing business in the Vaughn building on Palmetto avenue and was there when the laundry fire consumed the entire building and contents. He then purchased the present location on Oak avenue and erected a fine brick building, being especially equipped for the manufacture of Underwood wagons and buggies and for general repair and wood-working business, harness, etc. Mr. Underwood was an indefatigable worker and had built up a fine business in this section and had made plans for the incorporation of his business into a larger company for the manufacture of Underwood wagons upon a large scale when death stalked in and cut short his useful life.

Although a very busy man in his own business Mr. Underwood always took an active interest in city affairs and served two terms as alderman of Sanford and was also a candidate for the position of mayor of the city. He served most faithfully as chief of the fire department and while a member of the council gave much time and attention to the fire department and such of the efficiency of the Sanford fire department is due to his efforts.

W. H. Underwood was a man of most benevolent disposition and his big heartedness and kindly impulses were proverbial. His home was the mecca of his friends and he was never so happy as when the rooms were filled with visitors or his table with guests and partakers of his hospitality.

Kind and cheerful, most optimistic, big hearted, a town builder Harry Underwood will be missed from his large circle of friends and business acquaintances and in his death Sanford loses a most consistent and optimistic advocate.

He leaves a loving wife, daughter and father to mourn his loss and in their hour of affliction the entire city gives sympathy and comfort.

Elks Snowballed

Denver, July 17.—The Golden Jubilee Reunion of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was brought to a close today, and the delegates tomorrow will begin to disperse to their homes. Several thousand visitors today took advantage of arrangements made by the local lodge and went on an excursion to Corona—the Top of the World, it is called here.

Corona on the Mogul road is the highest point reached by a standard gauge railroad and is a region of perpetual snow. Before the day is over the Elks expect to stage a real snow ball fight on the mountain tops. The Grand Lodge officers held an informal session today and completed their work.

HEURTA ABDICATES CARBAJAL SUCCEEDS

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY MEXICAN CONGRESS

NEW OFFICIAL ACT WILL NOT STOP WAR

OTHER NEWS OF FLORIDA GARNERED IN SHEAF FOR BUSY READERS

Mexico City, July 16.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta resigned from the provisional presidency of the Mexican republic last night and his resignation was accepted by the senate and chamber of deputies by a vote of 121 to 17.

Francisco Carbajal then was appointed president and too, the oath of office at the joint session of the deputies and senators.

Huerta's resignation was submitted through the department of foreign relations, it was read in the house and was greeted with cries of "Viva Huerta." It then was referred to the joint committee of government. After brief consideration the committee reported, accepting the resignation in the following terms:

"Article 1—We accept the resignation presented by Gen. Victoriano Huerta as president of the Mexican United States.

"Article 2—We call licentiate Francisco Carbajal, minister of foreign relations to assume the presidency."

A ballot was taken and the joint session approved the report.

President Carbajal proceeded to the national palace under an escort of presidential guards, and all along the way was greeted with tumultuous cheering.

London, July 16.—Half a dozen policemen were required today to remove from the Marlborough street police court two kicking, clawing, screaming suffragettes, who earlier in the day had attempted to horse-whip Right Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood, secretary of state of Scotland. But for the intervention of his butler it is probable the secretary would have been soundly thrashed.

Washington, July 16.—Secretary Bryan today announced he would sign a peace commission treaty with Minister De Pons of Uruguay, Monday and that on another day next week he would sign similar pacts with Argentine, Brazil and Chile. Before the end of the week Mr. Bryan will send about twenty of these treaties to the senate for ratification.

Similar conventions with France and Great Britain will not be signed until all of Great Britain's self-governing colonies have accepted their provisions. Secretary Bryan considers their acceptance a foregone conclusion and he plans to sign the French and British pacts the same day. All these treaties provide that differences which cannot be settled diplomatically shall be submitted to an international commission.

Pittsburg, July 16.—After a six months' legal battle, Harry K. Thaw in a court decision today was awarded the income from his father's estate, denied him by the trustees since he was adjudged insane for slaying Stanford White. By the decision, Thaw gets $160,778.

No More Sabbath Movies

Niles, O., July 17.—Do moving pictures threaten desecrate the Sabbath?

This question, a momentous one and this little city is today the center of a campaign that will find its climax in the November elections. The people will vote on the question. Church folk, headed by Congressman Shinn, are behind the move to close the Sabbath movies. The glass workers' union, backed by working people, want to remain what they say is their only Sunday recreation. Thomas Finan, leader of the "pro-movie" element said today:

"The picture show is the poor folk's recreation. It keeps young people away from bad streets and packs at night. The Sabbath movie is just as moral as sitting and Niles theater show decent movies."

"The moving pictures help to destroy the Sabbath," said Alderman Brobst, "and we are going to oust them if it costs me my job."

NEW DISTRICT SEEMS DOOMED

SEEMS THAT FLORIDA WILL HAVE BUT ONE

SENATOR BRYAN FOR JACKSONVILLE

OTHER NEWS OF FLORIDA GARNERED IN SHEAF FOR BUSY READERS

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The Senate amendment to the sundry civil bill dividing Florida into two customs districts is doomed. It is learned that the Senate conferees are ready to back down on this amendment.

In fact, its insertion in the Senate was agreed to merely as a means of smoothing out opposition to the passage of the sundry civil bill and with the reservation that the provision would be dropped in conference.

The bill which passed the House as a separate measure transferring Florida customs headquarters from Jacksonville to Tampa is now pending before the Senate committee. Senator Bryan will try to have it amended so as to create a new district for Tampa and preserve the present headquarters at Jacksonville.

It is not clear, however, that it could be put through the House as so amended, as Representative Underwood and other leaders would fight it to the finish.

Traded Dog for Baby

Jacksonville, Fla., July 17.—A bulldog for a baby! This is the novel trade offer which Supt. Marcus C. Fagg, of the Children's Home Society received a few days ago and the deal has been consummated. It happened because baby Hazel Williamson, two years old, curly haired and brown eyed, happened to be on the front porch of the receiving home when a well-dressed man and woman drove by in a machine.

On the seat beside the young woman was an expensive bulldog, whose cost had been $200 just a few days before, according to the man. His eye just then caught sight of the lot, and he pressed both pedals of the machine hard. "Let's go in and see the babies," he said to his wife.

As they came up the steps baby Hazel ran forward with outstretched arms, and said the one magic word, "Daddy." Her own real daddy had died, and her mother, dying herself, had left the little one in charge of the society but a few days before, her last desperate chance of getting to the care of friends and securing medical attention.

The man and woman called on Mr. Fagg very early the next day. The dog, handsomely groomed was with them, and pointing to the animal, the man said:

"I thought it was what you wanted. It isn't. How soon can you fix up the papers so we can take Hazel home?"

"I'll make you a present of him if you wish, or sell him myself, but a real live baby is what we want and it took little Hazel to find it out."

Entomiser Elected

Lake City, July 16.—Louis E. Entomiser, Fort Worth, Tex., has just been elected Sunday school and E. X. P. U. secretary of Florida, to succeed George Hyman, now pastor at Sanford. The Florida Baptist encampment is enthusiastic over his election. Mr. Entomiser is considered one of the best Sunday school men in America.

Presbyterian Church

The Presbyterian Sunday school and preaching service Sunday will be in the church. All are invited to these services at 9:45 and 11 a. m.

Dr. W. A. Munsell, assistant state veterinarian of Green Cove Springs was in the city on Wednesday, having been called here to investigate a case of glanders in a mule belonging to Mr. Leonard. The mule was killed by Dr. Munsell and the owners of live stock here should be careful that the disease is not communicated. The mule was one that had been traded for and came from a distance, and owners of stock should be careful of foreign shipments right now, these being some indications of glanders in stock in other states.

COMPTROLLER KNOTT HERE

Popular State Official Will Make The Race For Governor

Hon. W. V. Knott of Tallahassee was in the city on Wednesday calling on his many Sanford friends. His duties as state comptroller have been very arduous and he is refreshing his mind and body by a few days' vacation. There have been some questions about his assessment of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway agitated in the Reporter-Star. Mr. Knott took occasion to stop off in Orlando for a day and explain satisfactorily the situation. As given elsewhere in this issue the taxes that formerly accrued to Orange county from the A. C. L. shops and were distributed equally in the various school districts in the county have now been curtailed on account of the formation of Seminole county and this sum now goes to Seminole county. The tax books of Orange showed the deficiency and the Reporter-Star promptly called attention to what seemed a lower assessment for the A. C. L. Mr. Knott has been a public official for many years and has always served the state honestly and well and his numerous friends over Florida are promising him their support in his candidacy for the highest position in the state.

Asked as to whether the reports that he would be a candidate for Governor were true Mr. Knott replied that he would certainly be a candidate and had already launched the gubernatorial boom.

While it is early to think about the next Governor of Florida Mr. Knott goes on the axiom that the early bird will get the worm and he wants his friends to know that he will be in the race when it starts.

De Land Wins Game

DeLand won from Sanford yesterday afternoon in a hard fought game by the score of 5 to 2.

It was one of the most interesting games that had been played here this season, as both teams played high class ball.

Hodgden pitched excellent ball for DeLand allowing the Sanford boys only three hits. Crosby, Sanford's star pitcher delivered a fine article of ball striking out fourteen of DeLand's best batters. Hodgins did the receiving for Sanford and worked hard all during the game.

All of Sanford infield played good ball and with a little more practice they will be able to give the people of Sanford just as good ball as they would want to see anywhere. DuBoise made a sensational catch back of second base during the last part of the game.

The real feature of the game was Kanner stealing home in the fifth inning and scoring the first run for Sanford.

Keown, DeLand's left fielder received three hits out of four times up. Two costly errors caused Sanford to lose the game.

Batteries—Sanford, Crosby and Hodgins; DeLand, Hodgden and Allen.

Sanford—0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0—R2—H3—E3.

DeLand—0 1 0 0 2 0 0 2 0—R5—H7—E4.

Cold in New York

New York experienced yesterday the coldest July day in forty-one years. There is no great rise in temperature expected, according to Forecaster Searr. It may be warm but there is no real July weather in sight.

The total rainfall for the week was 2.76 inches. This is the second rainiest week in forty-four years. The record week was the first week in July, 1901, when 8.32 inches of rain fell.

The immediate weather prospect is for local showers and partly cloudy.

At The Baptist Church

Sunday school next Sunday at 9:45. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. Geo. Hyman at 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Everybody invited. Strangers especially urged to attend these services.

FOUR WILL MAKE RACE FOR THE GOVERNOR'S SEAT

LATEST BRINGS OUT CONGRESSMAN FRANK CLARK

FROM WASHINGTON COMES THE REPORT

MAYS, HUDSON, KNOTT AND CLARK SEEM TO BE THE PRESENT LINEUP

A good deal of gossip is breaking out in Florida circles at Washington and especially among members of the congressional delegation, in regard to the next gubernatorial nomination. Congressman Frank Clark is already being hailed as "Governor" by members of Congress from other States, and he replies smilingly to this pleasant salutation, but is not ready to make any announcement on this subject. As seen here the pre-nomination race is likely to develop into a spirited four cornered contest between F. L. Mays, editor of the Pensacola Journal; C. L. Wilson, of Marianna; F. M. Hudson, of Miami and Representative Clark. The forecasters are not yet making any predictions, because the nomination is so far away that prophecies would be hazardous, but it is evident that the contest is going to attract lively interest here because of the mention of Mr. Clark's name in connection therewith.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION

Coast Line Employees Killed South of Lakeland

A federal inspector has been sent for to inspect the boiler which exploded at Holder on the Atlantic Coast line early Tuesday morning.

Only two members of the crew survived. One of these, Flagman Morton Thogson of Lakeland tells the following story:

"We had just pulled out of Holder and were under heavy headway good when suddenly the train stopped and I was thrown out of the door on the platform of the caboose. The train carried 45 cars and it took me a few minutes to run its length but I was soon there and found a night that words cannot describe. Engine was completely demolished and right below the fire box the explosion had torn a hole eight feet deep into the earth. At the bottom of this I found Varn, after hard digging. He was badly mangled, one shoulder having been mashed off and the bones protruding through, besides other wounds and bruises. The men were all dead, but in the hope that I might be able to save their lives if I could get a doctor, I ran back a mile and a half to Holder and woke up a doctor who rushed to the scene at once, but it was too late to do any good."

The accident occurred at 2:15 in the morning and a wire to Lakeland brought the wrecker to the scene and the road was cleared, Sunny Jim, the passenger southbound, being only an hour late.

Conductor Varn lived in Lakeland and was highly respected. He was thirty years of age and unmarried. His remains will be taken to his old home at Ft. Meade, where interment will be made, the funeral at the grave being in charge of Lakeland Lodge No. 1231 D. P. O. E. of which he was a beloved member.

Engineer Carson was also highly respected. He had lived in Lakeland for some years and had many warm friends who are pained at his death. His wife and two daughters are at present at Aucilla, in the western part of Florida.

Union Services

Last Sunday evening a good audience assembled at the State Theater for the second of the union services. Rev. Smith Hardin, presiding elder of the M. E. Church will preach the sermon. All are cordially welcomed.

Mrs. J. B. Stalling left yesterday for Chattanooga, New York where she will join her daughter, Charis, and spend the summer. Charis has been touring the west with her aunt and uncle and the entire party will make many trips over the New England route by automobile ere returning home.

LETTER FROM COL. THRASHER

IN REMNISCENT MOOD HE TELLS ABOUT SANFORD'S PAST AND FUTURE—HIS FOURTH OF JULY ORATION DELIVERED IN 1908

Baltimore, Md., July 9, 1914
Dear Sir—Enroute to New York, from which city I sail for Europe on the 11th, I am stopping here for a rest and while resting I am thinking—ruminating and reminiscent.

I am thinking of dear old Sanford, of the Herald, and of the women and men of Sanford, many of whom I have known ever since I became a citizen of Sanford thirty-six years ago. Listen, on last Saturday I happened to discover, in an old copy of the Sanford Chronicle the brief address I had the honor to deliver on the occasion of a grand July 4th celebration, on July 4th, 1908. I cut it out and now send it to you, for I wish you to see and know what I thought of Sanford six years ago:

All through from 1878 I had faith and hoped for the future prosperity of Sanford. In 1908 it was still faith, and buoyant hope, and I wish to say that the only change in my opinion about Sanford is that hope has become absolute confidence, and absolute assurance of Sanford's future growth and unparalleled prosperity and I wish you to know just how I feel about that dearest spot on earth to me.

Sanford has been my home for thirty-six years. Sanford has honored me in electing me her mayor for three consecutive years; many years city attorney, bond trustee and member of Sanford school board. Why should I not love Sanford, where I expect to live, where I expect to die, where I expect the soft white sand of her cemetery to cover my bones after a while, and where heaven's soft winds drifting from matchless Lake Monroe over the church spire of old Sanford, shall sing my requiem.

And I wish to say that nowhere between the storm lashed shores of the Atlantic to the faraway Pacific, or from the Gulf to the Great Lakes of the north have I found or seen any place, any spot equal to Seminole county and Sanford.

And emphatically I assert that I have seen no place, in all Europe, in Asia or Africa, equal to Sanford. No place so desirable as a home, and few places with greater possibilities staring them in the face. I sometimes fear that my friends, the people of Sanford fail to realize what a great, what a rich heritage they possess; and I beg you, Mr. Holly, you, one of the best, if not the best friend Sanford ever had to continue, as in the past, that brave fight for Sanford's growth and Sanford's prosperity.

Urge and insist that in union there is strength, and that right now "a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together" will advance Sanford onward and upward to a place and a place far beyond the wildest dreams of her most hopeful and enthusiastic citizen.

And now I beg pardon for imposing upon you this hasty scrawl. If you think it will interest or will give pleasure to the Herald's readers, or if you think it will give a gain of comfort or encouragement to some others who have not known San-old Sanford as long as you and I have then I give you permission to publish it. Should you decide to publish send two extra copies to my address beyond the deep blue sea.

Do not fail to send the Herald. It keeps me in touch with the surging current of passing events and I shall want to know when that bulkheading of the lake front is finished, and when the "corner stone" of the "New Hotel" shall have been laid.

If in your discretion this deserves the bottom place in your waste basket put it there and don't refer to it afterwards. With good wishes for Bob Holly, the Herald and for Sanford I remain,

Yours truly,
A. M. THRASHER.

Following is the speech delivered at the Fourth of July celebration in 1908:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Citizens of Florida:

In the name and in behalf of the mayor and aldermen of Sanford—and in behalf of every man, woman and child I extend greetings and a most cordial welcome into our city gates.

The latch string hangs on the outside.

We welcome you and all of you, and beg that you join us in the festivities, glorification and celebration of this, the most memorable day in our nation's history—the natal day of the grandest government on the face of the earth.

We wish you to enjoy the courtesies and hospitalities of the Gate

City of South Florida. We wish you to meet and to know her live, active, progressive business man, her lovely women, her fair maidens and girls—the prettiest and the sweetest to be found anywhere in this grand old state of ours.

We wish you to see Sanford, mirrored in you matchless lake—her shaded streets, avenues and parks, her ever-flowing fountains of pure living water, her city hall and her high school building, of which we are so justly proud; her churches—temples dedicated to the living God whose sacred spires pierce the ethereal blue and catch the first sweet kiss of each rising sun; her railroad car shops, her factories, our fertile fields and rich celery farms, whose annual yields are so abundant and phenomenal that the veracity of the best man or woman is often questioned, when he, or she ventures to name the quantity or gives the facts and figures.

Yes, we welcome you on this historic day to view our city just as she is, like a crowned queen enthroned upon the banks of the majestic St. Johns, listening to its glad, sweet song as it rolls on and on in silent grandeur to the sea.

Thrice welcome, my friends, our hearts, our hands, our homes are yours.

Enjoy this hour and this glad day—and when you return to your own happy homes we trust you may carry with you many sweet recollections of one July the 4th spent in the proud little city of Sanford."

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.

I wish every suffering woman would give

THE TAX QUESTION

The question of taxes have agitated the public mind ever since the world began and just as it was in ancient times there has always been trouble in the gathering of the city tithes. Many good men and true will dodge taxes and save their conscience with the thought that they are fooling the great commonwealth by giving in small returns because the said commonwealth does not need it. A county commissioner or a city councilman will lower his taxes if possible and the average citizen will refuse to give in his personal property with a good grace knowing that he has flimflammed the city or the county by so doing and yet he thinks he has done nothing wrong in the matter. Tax Assessor Bates has added many thousands of dollars to the county tax list this year in the matter of personal taxes. He has added many thousands to the roll of the county in real estate values. The county commissioners will meet in August to equalize the taxes and it behooves every citizen to get right not only about his own taxes but his neighbors. Some people have been paying all the taxes and some people have been dodging taxes. The editor of The Herald is assessed as much on his home in Sanford Heights as scores of people who own fine homes in the heart of the city of Sanford. He has never dodged a tax either personal or real. The Sanford Herald has never dodged a tax and as new machinery is added the taxes are added as the assessor sees fit. Therefore the Sanford Herald is greatly interested in the tax question in Seminole county and the city of Sanford and we expect to stand back of the county assessor and the city assessor and any move to dodge taxes by the artful dodgers who have been side stepping will receive the publicity that it deserves.

The commissioners of the city of Orlando will publish the taxes of every citizen of Orlando. This should be done in Sanford and the county taxes should also be published showing to each and every citizen his ratio of taxes as compared with his neighbor. This would do more to equalize taxes and arrive at some just valuation than any other movement and would also show up the people who have dodged taxes for years and are still at the same old game.

There should also be a zone system in vogue in the city of Sanford. The people who live in the heart of the city and receive all the benefits of the city should pay more taxes than the man who lives in the suburbs and has nothing in the way of improvements or fire protection. There should be a provision made for the man who is ruthlessly dragged into the city limits and then forced to pay the same proportion of taxes that the man pays who resides in the heart of the city. There is much to be done in the way of equalizing county taxes. There are vast timber lands and wild lands of all kinds that are being held for speculation. They are assessed at a very low rate and the people in and around Sanford who have improved their farms are helping to pay taxes on the timber and turpentine lands and the lands of the speculator.

These lands have been assessed at their true values and should be kept there not only year by year but in the years to come. Seminole county needs the money and the people in and around Sanford have been paying for these lands for years. All lands have advanced in value and the proof of this is in the advanced prices asked for these same wild lands. Therefore, let the speculator and the holder of vast acreage pay the actual worth of the lands or tell them to the man who will pay the tax or improve them.

There is also a law about taxing stock, bonds and mortgages and other investments that are yielding big returns and bringing nothing to the county or the city. If the law states that all stocks and bonds and mortgages should be taxed then they should certainly pay up.

Let us uphold the assessor's hands!

PUBLICITY ORGANIZATION

With the waning and winking of each successive season bringing an indiscriminate congregation upon one's desk of haphazard and personally conducted publicity schemes the individual who views the heap cannot help but be impressed that there should be some duly organized publicity bureau in Florida for the dissemination of authoritative information concerning the state.

Now and again spasmodic efforts are made by well meaning and energetic persons to start something of the kind. A meeting is held and a few choice spirits are invited to join and share in the talk, the liquid refreshments and the incineration of rolled tobacco leaf; the newspapers print extended accounts of the event, and it is predicted that at last a movement has been launched which will fill the long felt need. But all such voluntary efforts have so far amounted to little. Without surveying at length and in detail the various attempts in this direction we may with justice put them all in one class as ineffectual and lacking the essentials of sound organization and the ready wherewithal to sustain them. A few men have done good work and deserve much credit for doing it without compensation or hope of reward other than that which was calculated to accrue in the general good and public welfare, but such patriots are few. Usually when a scheme is put forward there is a personal or selfish object to be gained, and it is because of the lurking shadow in the background that the people generally have been slow to lend substantial encouragement to them.

Because of the sporadic and widely differing character and purpose of the various projects proposed and because of the suspicion attaching to many if not most of them; and for the further reason that it is primarily a matter of state wide importance, that there should be an information bureau established by authority of legislative enactment and supplied with sufficient funds to publish from time to time and distribute to the best advantage real information relating to various sections and about the several industries which are desirable to be brought to the attention of the investing public.

The origin of a measure of this character should be guarded for the simple reason that the genesis of a bill often has a decided bearing on its fate before the legislature. An immigration bureau was once proposed and the house voted for it, but the bill died. It became noised about that the real object of the bill was to supply cheap labor for the turpentine interests rather than for the settlement of the vacant lands and the development of the state as a whole. In view of the fact that a lobbyist appeared to push the passage of the measure this report seemed well founded, and so the bill failed to pass.

Past experience of this kind should be a warning, but it should not deter those who are earnestly interested in the development of Florida to refrain from making an effort to secure the establishment of such a bureau as has been outlined in this article.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

BLAME THE BABY

In a late issue of the Reporter-Star Joe Reese asked some pertinent questions of the state comptroller about the lowering of the assessment of taxes on the Atlantic Coast Line in Orange county and wanted to know why the decreased rate when other roads were paying the same or more. It seems that the baby county of Seminole county is to blame as usual and Comptroller Knott explains the deficiency as follows:

"It would appear without an understanding of the situation that the valuation of the main stem of the A. C. L. in Orange county had been reduced when as a matter of fact the value has been increased. The facts are as follows:

"For several years previous to 1914 the main stem of the A. C. L. from Jacksonville to Port Tampa was $7,000 per mile except in certain counties along the line where additional values were added on account of terminals.

"For many years the value of the terminals has been distributed on the mileage within the respective counties wherein the terminals existed. For the year 1913 the value of the A. C. L. through Orange county was placed at $7,500 per mile, $500 per mile of this was on account of shops and other terminals at Sanford. The same having been distributed on the mileage throughout the county as then existing.

"For 1914 Seminole county gets all the Sanford terminals distributed on mileage within Seminole county, part of it being on main stem but mostly on the side tracks at Sanford. So this $500 per mile is necessarily taken from the valuation in Orange as now constituted, it being added to the values in Sanford within Seminole county, if being on account of Sanford properties as before stated the main stem mileage was increased in 1914 over 1913, $200 per mile, making the value $7,700 whereas otherwise the figures would have been only $7,000."

We note much of late in the Florida papers concerning the possibilities of small panning outfits, but while these are to be highly commended to the rural population for the preserving of surplus fruits and vegetables for home use, we believe the experience of many has demonstrated that from a commercial standpoint the small-canning outfit is not such a gold mine as is claimed for it by many of its advocates. The reason for this is that the retail grocery trade is now so completely in the clutches of the grocery trust, which controls the market, that the small canner can get no recognition or acceptance of his goods either by the wholesalers or retail dealers. He is thus forced to dispose of his product direct to the consumer, which, without an ample fund devoted to advertising purposes, is a very restricted field indeed. Time was when the small cannery was a splendid business proposition, but with the rapidly accelerating concentration of business in the hands of the few, its chief value now seems to be confined almost entirely to the field of home economics.—Estero Eagle.

Among the special summer editions of the Florida papers that of the Pensacola Daily News deserves special mention. It was compiled by Joe Roberts and shows the careful work of that bright young man and that of Herbert Felkel and Sam Sanborn. The Pensacola News is getting better and better since Felkel bought the plant several months ago and is doing a great work in the upbuilding of West Florida and the state in general. Congratulations to our old friends. Those blue eyed belles of Pensacola seem to be an inspiration to Felkel and Sanborn.

There is no better and can be no better climate than Florida. People expect a fine winter climate in Florida but few of the winter visitors know of our incomparable summer climate. This summer has been especially fine, the nights being remarkably cool and the days delightful in the shady spots where the cooling breezes from gulf and ocean vie with each other in making the lot of the Floridian the most comfortable on earth. Our climate, both winter and summer could not be any better if it were hand made by the weather bureau.

People do not leave Florida to get cooler weather, but only for a change of climate and scenery. Half of the people who rush to the big cities of the north to cool off find the weather much warmer and more uncomfortable than they could possibly have it in Florida. The discontented American public demands a change every summer and this accounts in part for the exodus of Florida people to points in the north. Any change is good and the vacationist who takes a trip north by easy stages will be benefited by the change of scenes and all of them are more contented to return to Florida where life is really worth the living.

Notice of Election

Notice is hereby given that the bi-ennial election as per the law is hereby called for the purpose of electing trustees for the next succeeding two years and also for the purpose of determining the number of mills of district school tax to be levied for each of said years; said election to be held Tuesday, August 4th in Sanford, District No. 1; Longwood, District No. 2; Oviedo, District No. 3; Chuluota, District No. 4; and Geneva, District No. 5. Further: said election shall be held under the same rules and regulations, and qualifications of election shall be the same as prescribed for those voting in the original election creating a special tax school district.

NOT WISE TO TAKE CALOMEL

Dodson's Liver Tonic is just as sure in results and always safe, pleasant in taste and has no bad after-effects. As a remedy for a torpid liver calomel has more than met its match in Dodson's Liver Tonic. This medicine does not roughly force the liver on to perform its work. It acts gently but surely.

Calomel depends for its power upon exciting the liver to do more work, and often the liver is too weak to stand such treatment, and after taking calomel you are as a result sometimes worse off than before.

Dodson's Liver Tonic cannot cause any of the dangerous effects that often follow the use of calomel. It is entirely vegetable and pleasant to the taste, and is suitable for children and grown people.

Get a large bottle for fifty cents at L. R. Phillips & Co., under the guarantee that if it doesn't satisfy you that it perfectly takes the place of calomel you will be given your money back with a smile right at the store where you bought Dodson's medicine.

THE SOUTH A NATIONAL ASSET

THE PENDULUM OF IMMIGRATION RAPIDLY SWINGING TO THE SOUTHERN STATES

FROM THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Solidity and prosperity are based upon the strength of the nation's unity or the unity of its strength. This is a truism, but it is best to resort to simple axiomatic truths for sake of argument. In geometry we frequently reason from a negative hypothesis to reach a positive conclusion, wherefore, we might construct a reverse platitude and begin thus: In division there is weakness and peril. Bitter section prejudices are destructive; we cannot build solidly until we develop the nationwide get-together spirit. Let us hope we have arrived at that stage of national progress where it is possible to assume that we are pulling together for mutual economic advantages—material, social and educational.

The Country Gentleman pleads guilty to this sanguine assumption and rejoices in the greatness and growth and wealth of opportunity in the east, the west, the north and the south. In calling attention in this issue and in future issues to the great natural advantages for the advance of agriculture in the south we merely attest the breadth of our optimism. The future greatness of the south is as much an asset of the people of the north, the east and the west as it is of the people of the south. The portals of opportunity are wide open; "Welcome" is on the mat at every threshold of development.

Much of the best brawn and brains of the south flowed west during the golden age of early settlement in the prairie and mountain states. Southerners have invested a vast aggregate of capital in the up-building of the north and east. Iowa corn and Iowa pork have been big factors in producing the exclusive product of the south—cotton.

We might enumerate countless commercial exchanges, each one a strand in the structure of the whole fabric. Close examination of the texture would reveal that our national divisions are scarcely visible barriers. Politicians of the meaner stripe still resort to mere geographical boundaries to build up walls of prejudice and to create sectional feeling. Year by year their spacious masonry has crumbled. We have gained in education more rapidly than any other race, and as ignorance has diminished the patriotism of all our people has broadened. Nowhere is this more notably so today than in the south. We have it on the unimpeachable authority of careful federal statisticians.

Reasoning along all these lines we urge all fair-minded Northerners, easterners and westerners to study progress, development an opportunity in the south as a national, not a sectional asset. If parallels and comparisons are made they should be regarded as purely descriptive formulas. There is no question of the country that cannot enumerate its individual advantages over other sections and employ its own parallels for the sake of cleanness and emphasis. Only by broadening the horizon of our observations may we assay the true values of such comparisons.

From generation to generation we explored and pioneered, until it seemed to many, who merely scanned the surface and judged the obvious by a narrow range of vision, that we had finished the job so far as the kindly face of Nature was concerned—there was nothing left save Alaskan glaciers and Labrador barrens. The fresh glimpses we offer of the south and the glimpses we have offered and shall continue to offer of the west, the east and the north, should completely reverse such unhappy misconceptions. In many phases of our national growth, agriculturally, industrially and otherwise, our exploration and pioneering have scarcely begun.

If today we enthusiastically proclaim that the economic cut-off is straight-away south it must not be construed that future developments may not swing the lines of least resistance to the opportunity seeker clear round the circle. The majority of us may have arrived back home and may be content to remain there. All the more reason for youth and enterprise to get out and hustle until it has found itself.

Easiest Way to Make Fancy Waist

If there is one article of clothing upon which the manufacturer may depend for a long, long profit, more than upon any other, it is the fancy waist made of lace, chiffon, net, silk, embroidery or any other of the pretty things which are so alluring and so fragile. The materials required are not in themselves very expensive, but the finished product, as in the case of millinery, is so much a matter of translating fabrics into little poems of apparel that it is the idea and its working out that commands the price. And the price is usually something to cause a gasp like that following a plunge into cold water. The unfeeling owner of an exclusive Fifth avenue shop mentions anywhere from $15 to $30 in the most casual and off-hand way, when one begins inquiring as to the value of three yards of chiffon and a few bits of other materials sewed together.

Correct neck and waist measure, and as like yourself in shape as possible. Simple waists of plain net or of lace are to be had in the department stores at a very reasonable price, that is in the neighborhood of two or three dollars. Or a foundation waist may be made a very little cheaper at home. But those to be had in the shops are cut on good and up-to-date lines. These waists make the best of foundations on which to drape the chiffon or net or lace or other fabrics which enter into the composition of fancy waists. Chiffon veils, in pretty colors and with hem-stitched edges, are easily used to make drapery for these waists. Plain chiffons, embroidered volles, and nets, answer the same purpose. In the waist pictured here voile is draped over a foundation waist of lace with fine effect. In attempting a fancy waist, it is much the easiest way to select a waist, or the picture of one, and follow out its details.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS

BEING A RESUME OF SANFORD HAPPENINGS UP-TO-DATE

Children's Party
Miss Rebecca Stevens, the charming little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stevens, celebrated her fifth birthday Wednesday afternoon with a beautiful party to a number of her little friends.

Among the prominent young people of Sanford and those who formerly resided here who expect to become October brides are the Misses Charloise Keeler of New York and Irene Brady of New York, both of them well known in Sanford's social circles.

There were many gifts for the little bride, just the kind that five year old ladies love to receive. Rebecca's guests were Jack Maxwell, Margaret Peters, Bettie Houlder, Mary Elizabeth and Camilla Puleston, Helen Kennedy, Elizabeth Whitner, Clifford Louise Shinnaker, Theodore Miller, Harriet Rosseter, Beatrice Howard, Beryl Steinmeyer, LeClare Jones, Sarah Evelyn Williams, Mildred and May Holly and Irene McGahan.

Another half wedding of popular young people of Sanford will be that of Miss Linda Leffer and Mr. Braxton Perkins which is scheduled to take place in October. Both Miss Leffer and Mr. Perkins are very popular in Sanford's social circle.

Plant Party
A jolly party of thirty guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Douglas went up to Lemon Bluff Wednesday on the Mary D. and report a good time, albeit all kinds of troubles one expects to happen on motor boats.

FREE BOOK ON STOMACH ILLS
Geo. H. Mayr of 154 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., a prominent druggist, has published a guide to health, in which he shows how to bring relief to thousands of other sufferers from constipation, biliousness, indigestion and intestinal troubles by the use of French healing oils.

Mr. and Mrs. William White and their attractive little son, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Nelson returned to their home in Jacksonville today.

Mr. D. A. Caldwell is said to have come after a three weeks' visit to Chicago and other markets in the interest of the fall trade.

Mrs. W. D. Collier will leave Monday for Valdosta, Quitman and several Georgia towns after a most delightful visit to her daughter, Mrs. Puleston.

Mrs. C. E. Walker is spending several days at Maitland, the guest of Miss Waterhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peters and their children, Margaret and Jack will leave Monday for Massachusetts to be away for two months.

Mrs. Anna Walker is having a delightful visit among old friends in Longwood.

Mr. Horace W. Way, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Terberg will return to his home in Savannah on the morning train Monday.

The Track Seekers, Mrs. Steinmeyer's team at the Methodist Sunday school held their business meeting in the park Wednesday afternoon. After business was disposed of a social hour was enjoyed by Mrs. Steinmeyer and the girls.
