Caffeine is a stimulant to the central nervous system. A person who drinks as much coffee as you describe in this ase could very well be extremely nervous on the basis of an excess consumption of caffeine alone. In fact, to put it bluntly, I would think most of the country would be a lot more tranguil if they would slow down on the amount of coffee they drink each day. The caffeine in the coffee and tea has exactly the opposite effect of the tranquilizers your niece is taking to calm her nerves. She might not need so much medicine if she would liminate coffee and tea entirely. Cigarettes are such a ell-known health hazard that I don't think I need to mention those again this time.

MILTON KAST

Finance Boss Asked About Double-Billing

By DONNA ESTES lerald Staff Writes

Casselberry's finance director has been reprimanded for transferring funds within the utility department without first obtaining council approval - and today he is being investigated to determine if he improperly billed the city for mileage while collecting a separate monthly auto allowance. Mayor Bill Grier said today that if he finds Finance Director Milton Kast collected expense money twice for his personal vehicle last October and November he will have the sum deducted from Kast's September, 1978 allowance.

Kast has asked for a transfer of $2,500 from emergency contingency funds in the utility department to various line items including a dues and subscriptions account and a vehicle expense allowance account.

However, Councilman Frank Schutte, while looking into the need for transferring some $150 to an account for Kast's monthly auto allowance, said he found that Kast has been transferring money designated for one purpose in the budget to use for other purposes without council approval, as required by the city

City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh represted three times Monday the opinion that a city charter amendment adopted by the Legislature in 1969 forbids line item transfers unless the action is recommended by the mayor and approved by the council. To Kast's insistence that following such a procedure would cost the city money by losing discounts, McIntosh said the law had to be obeyed and the transfer could be handled both legally and

Schutte said while looking at ledgers and other bookkeeping documents he found that not only has Kast been transferring sums without prior approval, but also billed and received from the city over a two-month period mileage for his vehicle at the rate of 15 cents per mile while being paid a flat $700 monthly car

"There was already $1,200 budgeted in the special account for Kast's $100 monthly auto allowance and he was asking for transfer of $150 more into that fund. Since I could not understand the need for the additional money, I looked into it," he said, adding he found that Kast received the double payment last October and Kast didn't explain the double payment. Instead he said Schutte had "surreptitiously" received the information and that he had not yet billed the city for his expenses in taking a trip for the city on the recent bond issue sale.

Councilman Carl Robertson Jr. said that councilmen with questions should take those questions to the mayor and that a

Italian Jail Guard Slain:

6 Held In Moro Killing

ROME (UPI) - A young man and woman shot and killed a jail guard today outside his home in Udine one day after six suspects were charged with planning and carrying out the abduction and assassination of former Premier Aldo Moro.

Antonio Santoro, 52, was cut down by repeated blasts from large-caliber pistols as he walked from his home to work at the prison, in the northeastern town, police said. Shortly after the attack, two anonymous telephone callers told news organizations the attack was carried out by the Red Brigades or the "Armed Proletarian for Communism."

Carter: Talk On Tensions

deficiencies. The solution is the start of a new summer program designed to give special instruction to 350 students who will be entering kindergarten and first grade in the 1978-79 school year. The program will be funded with about $51,000 in contingency fund money from the Title I program. Title I was passed by the federal government in 1965 and implemented in the county in 1969. According to Title literature the purpose of the program is to "provide funds for supplementary educational rvices over and above the basic education programs for educationally disadvantaged children in low-income areas, migrant and institutionalized children."

Although the government does not specify where the money should be used, Seminole County has always used the funds at the elementary school level, according to May Ostrow, consultant coordinator of compensatory and migrant education for Seminole County Schools.

According to Mrs. Ostrow, the siz-week program which begins June 19 was selected at the urging of elementary school principals. "The principals deplored the fact that many undergarten and first-graders coming into the schools were

The Ugly

Russian

The Russians have been putting on their uglier face lately in Africa and in Moscow.

But that musn't keep us from realizing that the main foreign policy problem of our time is how to keep the two great nuclear superpowers - ourselves and the Russians - from blowing up the world.

In Africa the Russians and their Cuban allies evidently encouraged the disaffected Katangese gendarmes to invade their former homeland (now called Shaba province) and attempt to wrest it from Zairean control.

The invasion failed, courtesy of the French Foreign Legion and the Belgian army, with some logistic help from Uncle Sam.

But the point is that the Katangese would probably have invaded whether they had Russian and Cuban help or not. Africa is a continent in turbulence. Detente never meant that the Russians, with their revolutionary mystique and their tradition of fishing in troubled waters, would not seek to evangelize the Third World. But the Russians are not going to make themselves popular in Africa by gunrunning and helping Africans kill other Africans.

And, given the Russian clumsiness, what they do in Africa to counter them is not likely to make much difference in the end.

In Moscow, the Russians imposed a hard sentence on Yuri Orlov, the dissident physicist, whose crime was criticizing the government.

It was the kind of sentence for the kind of crime that would have been handled in exactly the same way by the czars.

We must continue to protest violations of human rights in Moscow and elsewhere, but without much realistic hope of changing matters for the better in the Soviet Union in the near future.

Meanwhile, SALT, the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, must continue. We must strive for a treaty, not as a reward to the Russians for. good behavior, but because it is in our interest, their interest and the world's interest.

Phony Sheepskin

"I'm a Yale man, myself," boasts the man at the end of the bar. And these days he probably can buy some sort of LO prove R. Certainly it's easy enough to purchase phony documents to "prove" graduation from trade schools, colleges and even law

The practice is a major problem on the nation's campuses. Phony diplomas are especially troublesome among prestige schools because chesters figure they might as well shoot the Yale University, for instance, has on file more than 7,000 persons who claim to be alumni. The main reason for the brisk trade in fake documents is the intense competition among students seeking to enter graduate

Others fabricate academic records to borrow money, boost egos, get jobs, lure investors or to impress friends.

Despite double-checking of records and even resorting to the use of fingerprints in some cases, colleges and universities cannot seem to stem the tide. Perhaps the best way in the end is to judge a person by his abilities and not his sheepskin.

He was probably laughed at in school and made fun of at spelling bees when, for no logical reason, he added a silent "gh" to the. To spell 'o-f" must have put his classmates in stitches. Children can be cruel and the lafter and taunting young Webster went threw must have been terribull. But to write an entire dictionary filled with incorrect spellings is a harsh overreaction. The sad part is that Webster's dictionary was forced on the market, because there was no other dictionary available at the time. Before Webster crammed his incorrect spellings down the throat of an entire nation; people spelled words the way they Those were the good old daze!

Move To Save Squaw Fish

By RALPH WAKLEY OURAY, Utah (UPI) - Government biologists have completed the first part of a plan to help save the Colorado River Squawfish, a giant minnow once so plentiful that farmers used to pear them from irrigation ditches for fertilizer.

The squawfish once roamed the larger waters n the entire Colorado River Basin. It is extinct now in Arizona and New Mexico and is found in limited numbers only in parts of the upper basin, in Colorado and Utah. Several factors have contributed to the decline of the squawfish, including the construction of dams on the Colorado River and its major tributaries, and the introduction of non-native lish to the drainage system.

The Fish and Wildlife Service hopes to support a some which comeback by raising large numbers in captivity and then restocking streams and rivers. The effort started this spring with the capture of 11 of the giant minnows from the Green River between Oursy and Vernal, and 11 more from the Celerado River near Grand Junction, Colo.

Other patients are "chemically restrained," that is, they are given large doses of the dreaded drug Therazine. This leaves them sleepy, falces, still.

The conscientious workers, who showed our reporter around, were outraged over the way apleas patients are treated. It is easy to upderstand their frustration, their quist rage. opular item within the business community. But too often ignored are the corporate excesses that require government control in the public One current case in point involves the Mor santo Co., a St. Louis-based firm that has em-barked upon a multimillion-dollar propaganda campaign to counter "an irrational, antichemical mood (that) seems to be sweeping the Monsanto has good reason to be concerned about that purported threat because it is one of the nation's largest producers of industrial chemicals. "Our industry, our company, our jobs are at stake," the company says in a slick "The public is being fed a daily diet of bed chemical news. In newspapers and magazines. On radio and television," claims that booklet. "The message comes through loud and clear:

While "not opposed to government regulation," Monsanto warns: "Banning possibly harmful chemicals is only one way the government can cripple our industry. Over-regulation is just as serious a threat." In an effort to influence public opinior ionsanto has launched a "Chemical Facts of Life" program with a budget of $1.2 million last year and $4.5 million this year.

That money will pay for television commercials with "emotional impact," magazine SCIENCE WORLD movie, traveling exhibits and "a huge cadre of Monsento employees giving speeches at every

But the publicity blits has barely mentioned polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) — a highly toxic, extremely persistent family of industrial chemicals producted in this country for many years exclusively by Monsanto. Back in 1970, the late Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., citing early scientific warnings about PCB dangers to humans, called for strict federal controls. The indignant company assured him that (PCBs) present the minimum possible threat.'

By mid-1971, however, PCB leaks had produced one of the major chemical disasters of the past decade. Food products seized, confiscated, destroyed or banned by federal officials because of PCB contamination in 1970 and 1971 included

More than 400,000 eggs in Virginia and North Carolina, 250,000 pounds of turkey roll in South Carolina, 50,000 turkeys in Minnesota, and 350,000 chickens in Maine, New York and North

Even after the widespread damage became known, Monsanto claimed it was being victimized by "scare tactics, political charges and sensational headlines." Last autumn, however, the company finally halted all PCB production and distribution.

Many of the cases in the early 1970s resulted dramatic scopage into the feed chain makes PCBs a continuing threat to public health.

Carter: Compete With 'Restraints'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) - President Carter today declared the United States seeks detente and peaceful cooperation with the Soviet Union but is adequately prepared if the Soviets choose onfrontation instead.

In an address to the graduating class of the U.S. Naval cademy, Carter said "detente between our two countries is entral to world peace" but must be "truly reciprocal." "Both nations must exercise restraint in troubled areas and in roubled times," he said. "Both must honor meticulously those agreements, which have already been reached, to widen cooperation, mutually limit nuclear arms production, permit the free movement of people and the expression of ideas, and to protect human rights. Aides described the address as an "olive branch" to the Soviets, but also a "very clear expression" of Carter's growing concern that the Russian military buildup in Europe, increasing in-volvement in Africa and denial of human rights in its own country ould damage detente and erode public support for it. The tone of the speech was moderate but the message ugh, against a backdrop of rising international tensions. "The Soviet Union can choose either confrontation or cooperation," Carter said. "The United States is adequately prepared to meet either choice.

"We would prefer cooperation through a detente that increas-ingly involves similar restraint for both sides, similar readiness to resolve disputes by negotiation and not violence, similar willingness to compete peacefully and not militarily," he said.

But the president added that competition "without restraint a without shared rules" will escalate to graver tensions and the relationship will suffer.

"I do not wish this to happen - I do not believe Mr. (Leonid) Brezhnev desires it either - and this is why it is time for us to speak frankly and to face the problem squarely," he said. As Carter spoke, diplomatic observers were saying the United States was giving conflicting signals in the international arena. He appeared to be trying to dispel any impression the United States is wavering in its resources or resolve.

"Let there be no doubt about our present and future strength," he told the graduates of the academy from which he graduated. He also said there is "certainly no cause for alarm ... the healthy self-criticism and free debate which are essential in a democracy should never be confused with weakness, despair or lack o purpo

"Our long-term objective must be to convince the Soviet Union of the advantages of cooperation and of the costs of disruptive behavior." he said.

Citing Africa as a point of tension, Carter said "the persistent and increasing military involvement of the Soviet Union and Cuba in Africa" could deny the vision of Africa as a continent free of dominance by outside powers.

He urged Russia instead to join with the United States in speeding the transition to majority rule in Rhodesia and Namibia and peacefully resolving the conflicts in Eritrea and Angola.

Harrell 'Does Job' Filling In For The Absent Sheriff

By DENNIS FEOLA Norald Stall Writer

"That's my job, I fill in for him," Chief Deputy Duane Harrell stated matter of factly. My job is to act as chief deputy still, it's the same job anyway. With little fanfare Harrell took the reins this week at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department while three-time elected Sheriff John Polk recovers from open-heart
