Commissioners Dig In To Start First Of Four New Fire Stations

Seminole County commissioners were on hand to help break ground for the first of four new county fire stations designed to improve fire protection in the south end of the county and to save about $1 million.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Wednesday on a new station on State Road 419 in Chuluota. Groundbreakings will be held for the new Altamonte Springs station at 10 a.m. Friday, the Longwood station on Wekiwa Springs Road 10:30 a.m. Wednesday and the Fern Park station on U.S. Highway 17-92 August 23 at 10:30.

The new stations are an extension of the "first response" agreement between the county and Altamonte Springs in which the department with a unit closest to a fire call responds regardless of whether the call is in the county or city.

The savings comes because the jurisdictions do not have to duplicate services. County Public Service Director Gary Kaiser said the county will pay $762,300 for its three stations and Altamonte Springs will pay $455,600 for its new station. D. Coleman Inc. of Jacksonville will receive $1,215,000 for construction of the four stations.

The agreement calls for the county to renovate its Forest City station and turn it over for use by Altamonte Springs. The city will staff the station and will abandon its Montgomery Road station when the Douglas Road station is completed.

But those changes allow Seminole County to construct the new stations in Fern Park, Sabal Point and Chuluota and close existing stations in Fern Park, Sanlando and Chuluota.

No new fire fighters are expected to be hired yet the response time will be faster, Kaiser said. He added that the county and city will each save about $500,000 in the deal. The new stations are expected to be completed in the spring of 1984.

Kaiser said the agreement "is the most significant thing local government has done for the people of Seminole County."

Gas Tax Cities Tickled With Their Slice Of Pie

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Officials of five Seminole cities said today they are extremely pleased that they will be getting a bigger chunk of the county-imposed gas tax than earlier thought.

But Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said today city officials can't afford to take their gas tax money and run, but need to cooperate with the county. He was responding to Wednesday's expression of disappointment on the part of county commissioners that their share would be less than they envisioned.

The commissioners were told by their staff Tuesday that seven cities will receive 35 percent of revenues from the 4-cent county gas tax, based on a required state formula. They expected the cities would receive only about 15 percent.

The cities will split about $1.2 million with Sanford getting the biggest portion, about $316,000. "All the cities would do well to work with the county on the main arterial system, not waste their money on piddling projects," Knowles said.

He said city officials should not just look within their boundaries for projects which will benefit the cities. He cited the improvement of Lake Mary Boulevard as a vital project for Sanford, even though the road only passes through Sanford for a few hundred feet. Lake Mary Boulevard will eventually be part of a bypass system around the city.

County officials said Tuesday that preliminary calculations show the seven cities in Seminole County will receive 35 percent of the estimated $3.4 million annual revenue from the 4-cent gas tax. The county will receive the other 65 percent. The state will keep five percent of the tax revenue for administrative costs.

In Altamonte Springs, City Manager Phil Penland said he's pleased that the city will be receiving about $270,000 from the gas tax.

Although when people think of severe highway problems, Altamonte Springs comes to mind because of State Road 436, Palm Springs Drive, Center Street, Montgomery and Douglas Roads, Penland said those highways are all the responsibility of either the state or the county.

"Most of the well travelled streets are either state or county roads," he said.

Penland said the majority of the streets which are the city's responsibility are in residential areas and are in pretty good shape because the city has had a good road maintenance program over the years.

The gas tax funds will help, he said. "But the amounts aren't so substantial that we're going to do too much with it."

Casselberry Mayor Charles Glasscock said that city's share of the revenues, probably around $250,000, "sounds pretty good to me."

Longwood will receive about $150,000 from the gas tax.

"I welcome the money we can use it," said City Manager David Chace.

He said the money is not enough to have much of an impact by itself but will supplement the city's regular road improvement expenditures. "It may not be too much but if you're sitting in the city manager's chair trying to pave roads, every little bit helps."

Chace said the city spent $75,000 this year to pave Georgia Avenue.

Lake Mary Mayor Walt Sorenson is "tickled to death" over that city's 1 percent share of the gas tax revenues. The city should receive about $30,000 from the tax.

"It's more than we would have gotten under the (3 to 1) formula the county was proposing," Sorenson said. He said the money won't finance any major road projects but will help pay for fixing a lot of roads.

Doc Loses Battle In License Fight

A Lake Mary doctor who lost his license to practice in Florida for alleged drug and alcohol-related problems has lost his latest battle to have his license restored.

The First District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee Wednesday affirmed the State Board of Medical Examiners' ruling to pull the medical doctor's license of Robert L. Bevier.

The three-judge panel in Tallahassee affirmed the ruling unanimously and without issuing a written opinion. Bevier has 15 days from Wednesday to file for a rehearing.

"I don't know...I just don't know what I'll do," Bevier said today when asked if he would request a rehearing before the appeal court.

Bever's license was pulled by the medical examiners' board Dec. 4, 1982 after a hearing in Kissimmee brought about by the Department of Professional Regulation. The DPR had pulled Bevier's license under an emergency order on Sept. 11, 1982, "based upon administrative complaints" that Bevier had been injecting cocaine intravenously since August, 1981, drinking heavily and using tranquilizers...and could not account for six vials of cocaine flakes which had been ordered by him for use in treating patients.

Bever had admitted to having a drinking problem, but pointed out he went through a rehabilitation program for impaired physicians in Miami and subsequently returned to Lake Mary to practice. But he has vehemently denied all along that he used drugs. The DPR held a hearing before the medical examiners' board and it was at the DPR hearing that Bevier agreed to a one-year suspension in return for not fighting the charges. However, when the medical examiners' board held its hearing, the DPR introduced various statements and evidence it had earlier, according to Bevier, agreed not to introduce. Bevier appealed to the courts claiming his constitutional rights were violated, and asked the court to require the DPR and the medical examiners' board to stick to the agreement made at the first hearing and to order his license suspended for one year only. If not that, Bevier said the court should set aside the suspension and restore his license. The court apparently disagreed and upheld the ruling of the medical examiners' board. — Tom Giordano

Hitting The Campaign Trail

Her hometown of Sanford was the first stop for Donna Lou Askew, former first lady of Florida, as she hit the campaign trail for her husband, Reubin, in his bid for the presidency in 1984.

A reception attended by close friends was held at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce Building Wednesday afternoon to welcome her back to town.

While she has campaigned with the former governor in New Hampshire, Iowa and hosted a party in Texas for Bob Strauss, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, she is now planning activities on her own. In Florida she is visiting and talking with local Democratic Executive Committees.

Citing the importance of Sanford to her, Mrs. Askew said that one's hometown always remains in the heart. She said she enjoys seeing her old friends again and that's she and her husband have always been grateful for their support.

Acknowledging that former Governor Askew is a dark horse in the presidential race, Mrs. Askew said her husband is formulating his campaign plans slowly but firmly.

Mrs. Askew emphasized that she is not discussing issues. Smiling, she said, "I feel the governor handles the issues well."

Mrs. Askew assured she will be back to Sanford and Seminole County soon. — Donna Estes

Women In Seminole Politics

Roadblocks Down, Some Still Reluctant To Run

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer
Last of two parts

The major battles by women to win and hold public office in Seminole have been won, just as the pioneers who fought for women's equality envisioned more than a century ago.

It was 63 years ago this month that the 19th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, granting women the right to vote was ratified. When the amendment was ratified, women were automatically given the right to hold public office.

But fewer women today appear willing to put their names out front locally for elective office today and there is no clear consensus from women who have successfully entered the political arena on why.

Each has her own theory and at least one believes it is caused by men, telling women that they could not possibly do a good job in public service, especially since they would have to win approval of the public first.

Jane Dees, chairman of the Oviedo City Council, won election unopposed a year ago. She with Pamela Pellarin and Janis Fensch for the past year have held the majority vote on the city council.

"The one woman I know who is not running for re-election here works full time and has the majority of the responsibility in her household for caring for the children. Put that on top of being conscientious as a council member and she doesn't really have time to do it all," said Mrs. Dees.

"There are men who work and serve in public office but they do not have the responsibility of the home. Those of us who have good cooperative relationships with our spouses and do not work full time have the time to do it," she said.

To a great degree Mrs. Dees blames the lack of women in the political arena locally to lack of support from their communities, "particularly from men who tell them they can't do it."

"If men can't see that women's organizations are run much more efficiently than men's they have missed the whole boat," Mrs. Dees said.

"I have agonized over why we couldn't find any women to run for council in Oviedo. Those with time, don't do it," she said, noting, however, that Judith Stout, a homemaker whose husband works at the University of Central Florida, is running for mayor in Oviedo's Sept. 6 city election.

"She's been active in the community and she is a very capable woman," she said.

"Many people in Oviedo didn't think they would survive a female majority on the council, but it has been a most productive year and a much more agreeable year in city government here than in a long time," Mrs. Dees said. She said that generally women public officials are more conscientious because "they know they must learn while men think all they need is that almighty business sense."

Neither Mrs. Pellarin nor Mrs. Fensch is running for re-election in Oviedo's Sept. 6 city election.

June Lormann, mayor of Longwood, who is completing her 10th year on the Longwood City Commission and who is up for election again this year, is puzzled why women don't offer their time to the public in greater numbers.

"I don't know whether it's because they are not interested in politics or that it's too time consuming. But I like it," Mrs. Lormann said.

Jean Bryant, one of the three women who comprise the majority on the School Board, was the first woman to win election to that body in 1966. She served two consecutive terms, retired from the political arena for two terms and then came back to win re-election.

Mrs. Bryant agrees more women are needed in public office. "A woman's viewpoint is often different from a man's," she said. At the same time, she noted that the women on the school board—she, Pat Telson and Nancy Warren—each has her own ideas.

"We do not vote as a block by any means," she said.

The biggest difference Mrs. Bryant sees in the public school system since she left office eight years ago is the size of the system.

"The problems are much the same," she said, adding the problems still include items like a dress code. "At state meetings I still hear the same questions."

Sandra Glenn, who in 1978 was the first woman elected to the county commission, thinks she may know the reason why more women aren't running for public office.

"Women seem to play the role of fact-finder in many homeowner groups and it is not unusual for those groups to have a man president with women doing the background work," Mrs. Glenn said, adding this seems apparent when people appear before the county commission on planning and zoning items.

"Often we hear a man president giving credit to a group of women in the community for researching an issue," she said. "In the campaign organizations of most male candidates are some very hard working women as organizers."

"When one gets into a countywide level or above campaign, one of the key factors of a successful campaign is raising money and women have a problem raising money," Mrs. Glenn said.

"They have trouble having doors opened to get to money. They have no trouble putting their own money into a campaign," she said.

Noting that the campaign of one male candidate in a countywide race a year ago cost $30,000, Mrs. Glenn said to raise the money necessary a candidate must have some connection to the business community. Unless a woman is already in public office, has a name that is recognized, is active in the business community or active in a chamber of commerce, she is going to have a tough time raising the kind of money she will need.

"She's going to have a tough time even getting through the door into the business community to raise dollars," Mrs. Glenn said.

Nerve Gas Ban Imperils Military Spending Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key congressman adamantly opposes language to allow production of lethal nerve gas, making prospects bleak today for final congressional passage of a military spending bill before the August recess.

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the powerful House Foreign Affairs Committee, announced Wednesday he will object to any request to suspend House rules and consider the completed bill before the August recess.

Zablocki also said that he would vote against the defense spending bill for the first time in his 34 years in Congress if the compromise measure contains the nerve gas language.

Senate and House conferees have worked all week to iron out differences between the two versions of the nearly $200 billion 1984 spending plan and met into the night Wednesday. Two more meetings were scheduled today in an effort to complete work and return the compromise bill to both chambers before they recess.

The negotiators Wednesday reaffirmed an earlier decision to resume production of nerve gas shells for the first time since 1969 and to construct facilities for making nerve gas bombs, prompting the threat by Zablocki.

Car Sales Up 31.8 Percent

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite complaints by dealers that they are running out of cars, domestic and foreign automakers are reporting a 31.8 percent increase in total sales for July.

U.S. firms alone reported a July increase of 37.5 percent Wednesday while foreign companies had a 14.9 percent increase.

The companies had one less day in the 10-day period, the month and the year in which to sell cars compared to 1982. This accounts for an apparent disparity in some figures.

Total sales in July were 791,864, up 31.8 percent from 624,591 last year. This translates to an annual selling rate for the industry of 10.4 million cars.

In June, automakers reported a 10 million annual rate. It is the first time since February and March of 1980 that the firms have seen two consecutive months with a 10 million rate.

NATIONAL REPORT: More than 600 lightning strikes sparked rangeland fires in the central Idaho mountains and 10-inch floods forced scores of Louisiana residents out of their homes for a second day today. The Summer of '83 heat wave stalled over the Plains, baking residents from Montana to Texas. Showers and thunderstorms were forecast today throughout the South from the Carolinas to the Gulf Coast and west to Arizona and across the Midwest. But forecasters said 100-degree temperatures would last into the start of the weekend as the heat wave, blamed for nearly 200 deaths since it began last month, settled in over the central third of the nation. "The heat wave is still on," said forecaster Harry Gordon of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center. "The heat wave is there (in the Plains) and that's the place that it doesn't look like they'll have much chance for any rain." Three-foot floodwaters that coursed through south-central Louisiana streets subsided Wednesday but about 20 families spent the second night away from their Mamou homes, where water stood 10 inches deep. Oakdale Mayor George Mowad said this week's flooding caused more than $1 million damage. Elsewhere, showers and thunderstorms only briefly cooled the nation's sweltering midsection. Showers and thunderstorms dotted the nation from the Rockies to the Mississippi Valley and from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes. More than 600 lightning strikes ignited at least a half dozen fires in central Idaho rangelands. Bureau of Land Management dispatchers in the Salmon area said they were "up to their elbows" responding to seven fires in the Salmon National Forest touched off by the two-hour lightning storm Wednesday. The blazes were caused by 646 lightning strikes, authorities said. Oregon fires that charred more than 180,000 acres were contained.

Khadafy Threatens To Sink U.S. Carrier

United Press International

The United States shrugged off a threat by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to sink the aircraft carrier Eisenhower if it strays into waters Libya claims as its own and warned tersely the ship would recognize only a 12-mile limit.

The Eisenhower's presence off Libya was apparently a signal to Khadafy to halt his intervention in Chad. The Libyan warning came Wednesday as U.S. anti-aircraft missiles and three advisers arrived in Chad to help President Hissene Habre repel Libyan-backed rebel forces.

Quoting a Libyan Foreign Ministry spokesman, the Libyan news agency JANA threatened air attacks against the Eisenhower if it enters the Gulf of Sidra.

the Mediterranean body of water Libya claims as part of its territory.

"The Gulf of Sidra is part of the Libyan territorial waters and the Arab Libyan air force has orders to destroy any target that tries to enter the Gulf of Sidra," JANA said.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said the United States had "no response except to say that we recognize a 12-mile territorial limit and we retain our right to operate in international waters."

The Gulf of Sidra extends more than 100 miles into the Mediterranean Sea. Libya's claim to the gulf is rejected by Washington and most other governments.

Libya's threat was issued a day after two U.S. navy fighter jets chased off two Libyan MIG-23s approaching the nuclear-powered carrier Eisenhower off Libya in the Mediterranean.

There was no exchange of fire in the encounter Tuesday, which took place 90 miles from shore, U.S. officials said.

The U.S. planes were sent to intercept and chase away the Libyan aircraft after they were detected by the ship's radar. The Defense Department said the Libyan planes might have been trying to locate the Eisenhower.

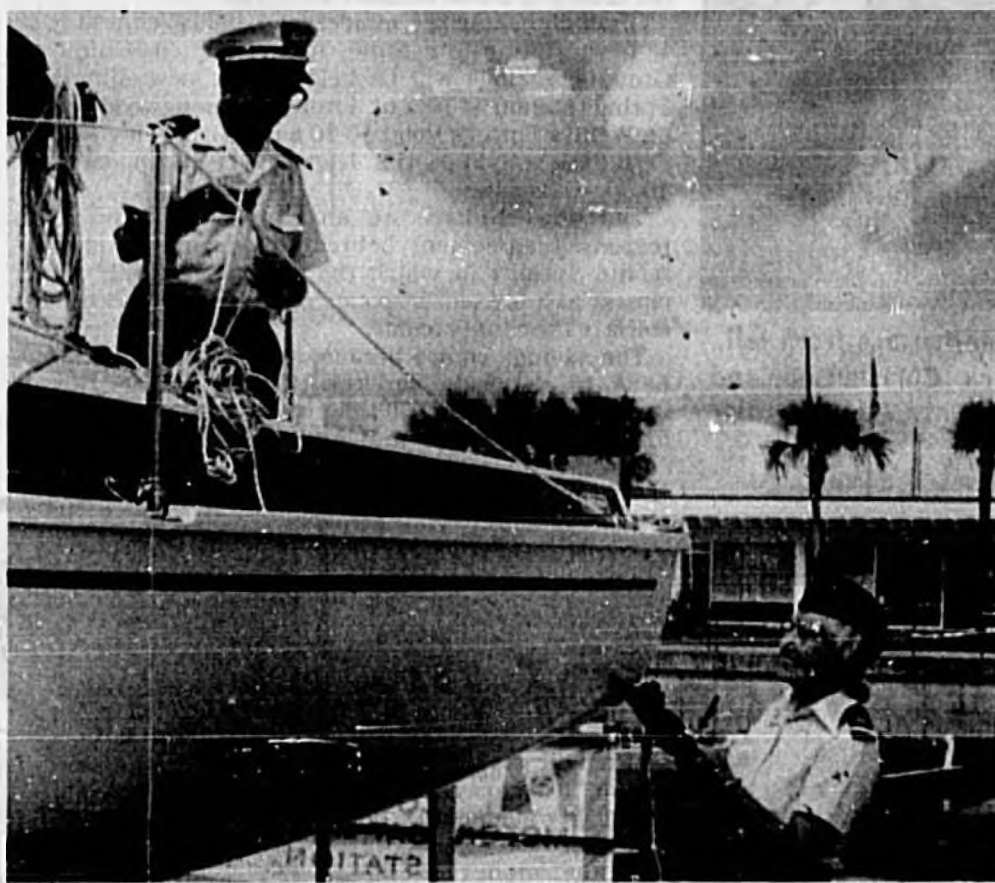

At the U.N. Security Council, Libya blamed U.S. and French military intervention for Chad's crisis, dismissing as fabrications charges that its warplanes repeatedly bombed the northern oasis town of Faya-Largeau.

Moammar Khadafy
...U.S. ignores his threat; vows to continue operation in Gulf of Sidra

Chad Ambassador Ramadan Barma called on the council to condemn the Libyan bombing raids that he said had caused "enormous losses of human life."

U.S. Coast Guard auxiliary members Ed and Mary Bartl check out a boat at the Lake Monroe Harbour marina in Sanford to make sure the craft is seaworthy. Inspectors are on duty Saturday mornings at the marina to conduct boat checks free of charge. If a boat meets federal and auxiliary safety requirements, it is awarded a safety sticker. If not, the owners are given a check list so that they may make the necessary improvements. Inspectors also answer any questions boaters may have.

Road Tax, Manager's Job Tops Agenda For Lake Mary Commission

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission is scheduled tonight to consider a narrowed list of applications for the vacant city manager's post.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m., following a 7:30 p.m. workshop at city hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

During the past two weeks, commissioners have been sifting through the 41 applications for the post and choosing what they consider to be the top candidates.

The commission earlier agreed that some of the candidates may be interviewed via conference call by city officials before the list is narrowed further to three to five candidates who will be invited to city hall for personal interviews.

Commissioner Burt Perinchief has said it will probably be Oct. 1 before the office is filled. City Clerk Connie Major, who is serving as acting city manager, has said she does not want the job.

The city's first manager, Phil Kulbes, resigned June 30.

Salary range set for the post is $18,000 to $22,000 annually.

In other business at tonight, meeting, the commission is expected to adopt an ordinance authorizing the purchase of the parking lot adjacent to city hall. The city has been leasing the property for parking for the past two years since it purchased the 1920s vintage city hall on Country Club Road.

The parking lot is owned by Otis Sjoblom, from whom the city hall was bought.

The $23,500 price of the parking lot was set after the city commissioned an appraisal of the property.

The commission is also expected to adopt an ordinance calling for a referendum during the city's Sept. 6 election on a proposed $1.50 per $1,000 assessed value proper tax with the revenues designated specifically for road paving and repair.

It has been estimated that such a tax would bring the city about $100,000 annually.

If the voters approve the measure, the tax would not be levied until the 1984-85 fiscal year and would be in effect for two years.

The tax cannot be levied in the 1983-84 fiscal year because tax notices for this year will be mailed to property owners prior to the Sept. 6 election.

Also tonight, a public hearing is scheduled on the proposed use of the $6,000 the city has left in federal revenue sharing money from the current fiscal year. An election canvassing board and an election board are to be appointed and the city hall designated as the polling place for the Sept. 6 city election. In addition, appointments to one vacancy each on the planning and zoning commission and the board of adjustment are to be announced.

The board will also consider changes of zoning from: agriculture to commercial on Lake Mary Boulevard west of the veterinary clinic as requested by Patrick Dellore; agriculture to commercial at the southeast corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Fifth Street as requested by Ardell Willis, and from residential to office commercial as requested by Margaret Cammack for a parcel on Rinehart Road and Anderson Lane.

The commission is also expected to consider an amendment to its residential zoning classification to permit retirement homes as a special exception and an ordinance setting engineering requirements for water line projects for additions in subdivisions.

Sex Bias Stand Draws Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Not only women's rights groups — but also more than half the members of the House of Representatives — are at odds with the Reagan administration's proposed stand on a key sex discrimination issue.

In a draft of a document to be filed at the Supreme Court Monday, the Justice Department says a law banning sexual bias in schools and other federally funded institutions applies only to the programs being funded, not the entire school.

The court brief has not been officially released, but it already is stirring opposition.

The House Education and Labor Committee hurriedly scheduled a vote today on a resolution sponsored by Rep. Claudine Schneider, R-R.I., and 225 other House members to clarify that Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which prohibits sex bias in federally funded schools, should be given broad meaning.

Environmentalists Say They'll Sue To Stop Deer Hunt

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Environmental activists say they will sue the Interior Department if an already-approved deer hunt is held in the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service earlier this year decided to open the refuge, located in the northern Everglades in Palm Beach County, to deer hunters for the first time in 32 years.

The decision was made over the objections of Loxahatchee Refuge Manager Burkett Neely and former Assistant Area Supervisor John Oberheu, who had recommended to federal officials that the hunting ban remain in effect.

Neely and Oberheu said deer hunting was contrary to the objectives of the refuge. The Loxahatchee refuge was established under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act and has been managed as a protected habitat for migratory birds, including the endangered Everglades kite, they said.

They also said it was questionable whether there was a surplus of game in the area. Federal policy prohibits hunting on national wildlife refuges when there is not enough game and it is incompatible with refuge objectives.

But this year a favorable environmental assessment made by the wildlife service allowed the hunt proposal to reach higher levels, eventually being approved by the U.S. Department of Interior. The decision to open the area to hunters was announced in May.

Environmental groups immediately protested, saying the environmental assessment had been based on incorrect and incomplete data. At least one group, the Defenders of Wildlife, has threatened to sue the Interior Department if a hunt is held.

Neely and Oberheu have been instructed by Interior officials not to discuss the hunting proposal.

Nevertheless, all that remains to finalize the deer hunt decision is publication of proposed hunt rules — expected to be printed in Wednesday's Federal Register — and then publication of final hunt rules.

In addition, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission must approve the rules. Commissioners have indicated they support a hunt and will approve the plans.

No date for the hunt has been released.

A proposal to open the refuge to hunting has been in the works for several years, but never became reality before because official environmental assessments were negative.

Appeal Planned In Restaurant Armed Robbery Case

The defense lawyer for a Sanford man facing life imprisonment after being convicted of armed robbery says he "expects" to file an appeal challenging the conviction.

A Tuesday found Willie James Miller, 24, guilty Tuesday of armed robbery of a Sanford fast-food restaurant in 1982.

Assistant Public Defender James Earl Figgatt, who represented Miller during the two-day trial, today said, "I expect there will be an appeal" after Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. sentences Miller Sept. 7.

Figgatt declined to comment on what grounds he may base the appeal.

Davis is scheduled to sentence Miller, of 1822 Coolidge Ave., after a presentence investigation is completed. Miller is being held in the Seminole County jail.

During the trial, a six-member jury heard a taped confession in which Miller confessed to detectives that he and another Sanford man robbed the Church's Fried Chicken restaurant at 2561 S. French Ave. at about 10 p.m. Dec. 18.

The two men jumped over the counter and one of them placed a gun to a female employee's head, according to the tape. After taking about $700, the pair ran out the back door and ran about two blocks to their car and drove off.

The prosecution charged Miller with carrying a weapon, but Miller said his partner, identified as Steve Whitted, 20, of 1214 W. 16th St. in Sanford, had the gun.

Figgatt emphasized the testimony of a female employee of the restaurant who said that Miller was not the man with the gun.

The jury apparently believed Miller's version of the robbery. If Miller had been found guilty of carrying a gun, he would have faced a mandatory sentence of three years in state prison. He now faces no minimum sentence but a maximum of life in prison.

Whitted, who is in custody in Volusia County, will be returned to Sanford for trial at an undetermined later date.

BATTERY CHARGED

The wife of a Sanford businessman prominent in civic affairs has filed a complaint with the Seminole State Attorney's Office accusing him of battery.

Larry D. Blair, a member of the Seminole County Housing Authority and the Seminole County Board of Adjustment, is scheduled to be arraigned in county court Friday, according to Assistant State Attorney Kathy Simcoe.

The information filed by Ms. Simcoe alleges that on June 26 Blair committed battery against his wife, Mary L. Blair, 2012 Holly Ave., Sanford, by "striking (her) about the arms or shoulders with his hands or pushing (her) on the shoulders with his hands."

Blair, a former candidate for the Sanford City Commission, is the owner of Care-O-Sell Pet Palace, a pet shop located at 1915 S. French Ave.

OVERKILL

Someone went to a lot of trouble to put out a security light in the backyard of a Sanford man's home between 2 and 4:30 a.m. Friday.

Sanford police said the light apparently was shot out with a firearm of unknown caliber and they found six bullet holes in the light's metal frame.

George Benton, 53, of 105 E. Jenkins Circle, was the victim.

Nets, Fencing OK'd For Jail Security

Seminole County commissioners will spend $8,217 for nets and razor ribbon for better security of three exercise yards at the county jail.

Commissioners agreed to fund the improvements at the jail but refused to pay an additional $11,000 to put concrete flooring in the yards.

Last week, jail administrator James Shoults told commissioners the nets and razor ribbon are needed to keep prisoners and volleyballs in the exercise areas. He said the net is needed to keep the balls in the yard. The razor ribbon, sharp-edged fencing, would keep prisoners in.

He also asked for concrete floors to keep prisoners from tunneling under the fence.

But commissioners decided Tuesday not to put a floor in the exercise yards, citing the heat which would be generated and the cost.

Schoults said the approved work would go a long way toward solving security problems at the jail. "I've never seen an escape-proof jail and I've been at this a long time."

The items will be presented to commissioners for formal approval at Tuesday's 9:30 a.m. meeting and construction is expected to begin by Oct. 1, Shoults said.

Doctor With AIDS Prompts Mandatory Reporting Rule

By United Press International

Florida physicians will soon be required to report patients suffering from the deadly AIDS disease to the federal Centers for Disease Control, state health officials said.

The mandatory reporting requirement follows the recent revelation that a staff surgeon at Miami's Baptist Hospital continued to treat patients for nearly a year after contracting the deadly disease.

Hospital officials did not formally report to county health officials their suspicion that Dr. Dixon Yeste was suffering from Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, known by its acronym AIDS, until six days before the surgeon's death on July 12.

"We have been looking at making AIDS a reportable disease for some time," said Dr. Jeffrey Sacks, acting state epidemiologist.

"The reporting is very good now. There's been a lot of cooperation on the part of physicians and hospitals. Making it legally reportable is like putting icing on the cake," Sacks said.

Crew Readies For Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The flight crew for the third mission of the shuttle Challenger, including the first black to fly in space, were at the Kennedy Space Center today for a launch dress rehearsal.

The five crew members — mission commander Richard Truly, co-pilot Daniel Brandenstein and engineer-scientists Dale Gardner, Dr. William Thornton and Lt. Col. Guion Bluford — planned to climb aboard the spaceplane for the final 2½ hours of today's 16-hour rehearsal.

Bluford will be the first black to fly in space. Challenger is to blast off Aug. 30 from Kennedy Space Center at 2:15 a.m. in the first night launch of the shuttle program. The winged space freighter also is to return at night, landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., at 3:45 a.m. EDT on Sept. 4.

Spankings Investigated

PALM SHORES (UPI) — The director of a foster home, who admittedly spanks misbehaving youngsters at the center, was "devastated" when Florida welfare caseworkers began removing boys from the home because of the punishment.

"It's sad and it hurts terribly," said Mary Harris, operator of the Happy Landing Boys Ranch after a representative of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services took one boy from the home Wednesday.

The other five boys at the home were to be removed today and transferred to a group shelter home.

To Ask Help In Stemming Narcotics Traffic

Congressmen Going To The Drug Source

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eleven members of the House plan a 16-day trip to five Latin American and Caribbean countries that produce illegal drugs to try to persuade their governments to cooperate in the fight against narcotics trafficking.

The members of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control will visit Mexico, Peru, Bolivia, Colombia and Jamaica.

"Latin America is responsible for 32 percent of the heroin problem in the United States. 100 percent of our cocaine problem and at least 91 percent of our marijuana problem," said Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla.

"This will be a very worthwhile trip in terms of seeing firsthand the problems our agents in the field and officials of these countries are up against," he said.

Committee chairman Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., will be accompanied by Lewis, Reps. William Hughes, D-N.J., Frank Guarini, D-N.J., Julian Dixon, D-Calif., Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., Harold Sawyer, R-Mich., Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, and Cardiss Collins, D-Ill., Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., and Edolphus Towns, D-N.Y., spokesmen said.

The committee's chief of staff, John T. Cusack, said similar congressional trips to Turkey, France, Southeast Asia and Mexico have "done a lot of good" in initiating discussions to curb illegal drug traffic.

"They reached out to the government officials, got out into the field, and saw the problems that existed," he said. "They brought home the problems we enforcement agents) were facing."

The congressmen will carry the message that not all of the problems are created in Latin America, Cusack said.

"We're not excusing our bad guys," he said of American drug traffickers. "It takes two to do this."

The visit, which will begin Aug. 6, the first day of the House's August break, will include briefings by officials of the five U.S. embassies, the Drug Enforcement Administration and "highest level" officials in each country.

"It is imperative we get the complete cooperation of the law enforcement and government officials in all of these countries if we are to have an effective, working drug interdiction program," said Lewis.

Nude Sunbathing Ban Faces Challenge

KEY WEST (UPI) — Sun bathers in search of a total tan may be faced with a dilemma.

A new Key West ordinance now bans sunbathing in the buff except on private property where warning signs and a six-foot high fence will be required. The catch is that a separate zoning ordinance bans fences over four feet.

But no one seems to know what to do about the conflict.

That's one of the reasons Commissioner Richard Heyman, a candidate for mayor, was the only commissioner to vote against the law when it was passed earlier this week.

"There are simply too many loopholes," he said.

Attorney Fred Butner, representing the American Civil Liberties Union, called the ordinance "an attempt to establish yet another victimless crime" and vowed to challenge the statute in court. "Police should work on busting burglars instead of breasts and buttocks," he said.

The proposal, which carries maximum punishment of 60 days in jail and a $400 fine, was initiated in June when Police Chief Larry Rodriguez complained the island suffered from "an epidemic" of bare-breasted women.

Before this week's vote, religious leaders, angry citizens and civil libertarians all had their say.

The Rev. John Day, an anti-topless activist, called for a referendum on the issue.

In July, he presented commissioners with petitions signed by 1,393 Key Westers who support the nudity ban.

Commissioner Joe Balbontine, the ordinance's sponsor, once again blasted the ACLU as "a bunch of communists and socialists out to destroy our constitution."

The law as it now stands, effective immediately, requires females over the age of 9 to cover their breasts in public, and prohibits nude sunbathing by both sexes.

Early Jaffe Release Resisted

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Attorney General Jim Smith says he will resist an early release from prison for convicted Canadian land developer Sidney Jaffe, despite pressure from the U.S. and Canadian governments.

"We have great difficulty understanding why the Canadian government has such an interest in a case like this ... Frankly, we feel like we're the situation reversed we would be applauding Canadian law enforcement for prosecuting somebody like Mr. Jaffe," Smith said.

Smith and State Attorney Stephen Boyles, who prosecuted Jaffe, said they had discussed the case at length and decided Jaffe should not be released until he made "substantial restitution" to his victims.

They would not specify a dollar amount, but Boyles said new information shows Jaffe defrauded investors out of more than $2.2 million in connection with a subdivision development in Putnam County.

They also said the restitution would have to be made to all 764 people they said Jaffe victimized, not just the 27 victims for which he was prosecuted and convicted in November 1981.

U.S. Attorney General William French Smith and Secretary of State George Schultz asked the Parole and Probation Commission last week to release Jaffe because of the "severe strain" his case has put on U.S.-Canadian relations.

Jaffe, 58, who became a Canadian citizen in June 1981 while charges were pending against him in Florida, is serving a 35-year sentence after being convicted of 27 land sales violations. He was also convicted of failing to appear in court for his trial.

The case was complicated when Jaffe was captured by two bounty hunters while jogging near his Toronto condominium and returned to Florida to stand trial. The two bounty hunters are awaiting trial on Canadian kidnapping charges.

Fewer Job Prospects For '83 Grads

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI) — Job offers for the college class of 1983 are down 34 percent from last year despite an improved economic outlook, but some starting salaries — particularly for the low-paid humanities field — are up.

The College Placement Council, using statistics obtained from placement offices at 160 colleges and universities for its July "Salary Survey" report, said for the period beginning Sept. 1, 1982, and ending June 10, 1983, 33,604 offers were reported for bachelor's degree candidates compared with 51,290 a year ago.

But the council said the number of offers listed may have been lessened because students accepted offers earlier and more quickly, allowing employers to make fewer offers to fill available positions.

The council said the economic uncertainty present at the start of the year hurt the employment situation for the class of 1983.

While signs of a more stable economy were present around the time of graduation, they "arrived too late to appreciably improve the employment situation" for the graduates, the council said.

As for average starting salaries, the council said graduates in the humanities field, though at the lower end of the salary scale, reported the largest increase — 7.6 percent — to $16,560 a year.

The council said salaries were also higher for some business graduates.

Petroleum engineers ($30,816) and chemical engineers ($28,736) held the two top salary spots. But the council said offers to petroleum engineers dropped drastically and the salary for chemical engineers actually was 1.2 percent below the 1982 figure.

The council also reported the average salary offered to women in the economics field ($19,116) was higher than that offered men. But the average salary offered women was lower in business, science, humanities and social sciences.

Anti-Porno Cable TV Law Struck Down

MIAMI (UPI) — In a major precedent that may affect communities nationwide, a federal judge has struck down an unconstitutional pornography ordinance that gave city officials the power to censor obscenity on cable television.

The ordinance, passed in January, gave the city manager the right to ban any programming deemed either too obscene or indecent for viewing on private television sets within the city limits.

U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler ruled the ordinance violated the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution, which protect free speech and give equal protection under the law.

Hoeveler agreed with attorneys opposing the ordinance that it gave excessively broad censorship powers to the city and unfairly censored cable programming available to the public through alternative means, such as movies and video cassettes.

Ellis Rubin, the Miami attorney who represented cable subscriber Ruben Cruz in the initial suit filed in February, called Wednesday's decision one that "should set the tone of free speech on cable TV for some time to come."

"I didn't want the Miami city manager — or any other government official — coming into my bedroom, turning the TV set on and off," Rubin said. "I don't want him imposing his version of my First Amendment rights."

Rubin was not the only participant pleased with the decision.

Attorneys for New York-based Home Box Office, which joined the suit against the city in March, called the ruling a "nationally significant decision."

"Communities all around the country have been waiting for this ruling to be decided before they enacted their own ordinances," said attorney Terry Blenslock. "This is a hot issue."

John Redpath, an HBO senior vice president in New York, said his company was "gratified to see the federal court uphold our position."

"As we noted in our legal argument, popular movies such as Network, Private Benjamin, Saturday Night Fever, The Way We Were and Days of Heaven — some of which have received PG ratings — would likely be forbidden under the Miami ordinance," said Redpath.

"We feel the choice of what programming to watch on cable television should be made by the individual cable subscribers, and not the government or special interest groups," he said.

The ordinance passed by the city prohibited the showing of "indecent programming" on cable television in the city of Miami. Indecent programming was defined as "material which is a representation or depiction of a human sexual or excretory organ or function which the average person, applying contemporary community standards, would find to be patently offensive."

Not everyone was pleased by the ruling.

"I am disappointed that the court felt that the precedent of the Supreme Court which permits this kind of regulation in broadcasting does not apply to cablecasting. I do not believe there should be any difference between the two," said Jose Garcia-Pedrosa, Miami city attorney.

"However, I am gratified by the judge's remarks that he found the city commission's intention was a proper concern," Garcia-Pedrosa said.

City officials can either redraft the ordinance, file for appeal or let the ruling stand.

A revised ordinance probably would cover only certain hours when children were likely to be watching, although that option is not being considered seriously at this time, Garcia-Pedrosa said.

He said he would study the 24-page opinion closely before deciding a course of action.

Health Care For Jobless Bill Heads For Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $4 billion House bill to provide health care for jobless workers is headed for the Senate, which is considering a more modest plan to help unemployed Americans without medical insurance.

The House voted 252-174 Wednesday to approve a measure that includes grants to states, money for hospitals that treat the poor and a requirement that private employers continue insurance for laid-off workers for 90 days.

It does not include any financing — a point that has prompted administration officials to threaten a presidential veto.

The Senate is considering its Finance Committee's bill for a $1.8 billion program financed by cuts in Medicare, but a vote was not planned before Congress' scheduled month-long summer vacation beginning today.

Supporters, mainly Democrats, said the bill is needed to help people caught in an emergency situation during these bad economic times.

But opponents, mainly Republicans, said the bill is too expensive and creates a new welfare program for the middle class.

Don't buy into "The Energy Loser Blues."

Finding a home with the right number of bedrooms and baths is fairly easy. But finding one with the right energy-saving features can be more difficult. And if you're not careful, you'll buy right into "The Energy Loser Blues."

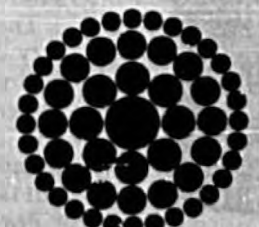

So how do you make sure your new home, condo or manufactured home is an energy winner? The easiest way is to make certain it qualifies for our Energy Saver Award.

To win the Award, a home must top state code standards for energy-efficient heating, cooling and water heating. This means you start saving energy and money from the day you move in.

So don't settle for less. Insist that your new home be an Energy Saver Award winner. And those "Energy Loser Blues" won't come following you.

Ask your builder if your new home will qualify for Florida Power's Energy Saver Award.

Surgery For Miss Liberty

At 97, Miss Liberty is not too old to have a face-lift. But America's beloved 151-foot-tall guardian of New York Harbor will need more than a cosmetic operation if she is to be in perfect health for her centennial bash on July 4, 1986.

An estimated $25 million to $30 million repair project is scheduled to begin this fall on the Frederic Aguste Bartholdi-designed gift from the French people. Since cost overruns are as American as, well, Miss Liberty, that will probably make her at least a 40-million-dollar woman.

Miss Liberty's iron ribs which support her now-spotty copper skin have corroded so much they will be replaced by a stronger copper-based metal framework. Her upraised arm and torch also have deteriorated so badly that they may have to be removed and rebuilt on the ground.

Other operations for Miss Liberty include a new stairwell or elevator to better accommodate the more than 1.5 million people who visit her annually.

The French-American Committee for the Restoration of the Statue of Liberty has donated $5 million to cover the architectural and engineering costs of her rebuilding. The rest is to be raised by the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, headed by super salesman Lee Iacocca.

If every American were to contribute just one dime, or the price of a get-well card for that matter, Miss Liberty would be ready to stand guard for freedom for another 100 years.

Perhaps a more fitting way to pay for the restoration would be in the form of fund-raising projects from the nation's school children. After all, French school children originally paid for most of Miss Liberty as a symbol of friendship and out of admiration for our form of government. It would not be too much of a sacrifice if every student were to forego just one video arcade game a week for Miss Liberty's sake.

That's something for teachers, students, parents and former students to think about during the second half of the summer. If they don't want to wait until the fall, any contributions can be sent to Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box 1986, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Summer Sensation

Is it just coincidental that videotapes purportedly revealing sexual indiscretions of two top level Reagan administration appointees were reported stolen soon after Los Angeles attorney Robert K. Steinberg was threatened with a subpoena to produce them?

Is it just coincidental that Steinberg can't identify the mystery woman who supposedly showed up at his door to give him three tapes from a "Guicci-type" handbag?

Is it just coincidental that Steinberg won't identify his two friends who supposedly viewed the tapes with him and saw the administration officials, a congressman, the late millionaire Alfred Bloomingdale, his slain mistress Vicki Morgan, and several other women cavorting at a sex party?

It may be merely coincidental. But don't bet the mortgage on it. Steinberg's tale is riddled with doubt and contradiction.

Indeed, this summer's lurid sex-tapes affair appears headed the way of last summer's saga of the Marilyn Monroe diary. That mystery material supposedly proved she was murdered to prevent exposure of explosive CIA secrets. The Monroe diary, of course, was a hoax.

Why has Steinberg's tale received such extensive attention when its credibility was strained from the beginning? Was it Steinberg's claim that the mystery woman had told him the tape might help defend a man who has been charged with the murder of Vicki Morgan? Perhaps. But it is doubtful that the tapes would have received much attention had it not been for media fascination with the alleged peccadilloes of important officials in Washington.

Steinberg may be guilty of self-aggrandizing attempts to manipulate the media. But unfortunately, the media has demonstrated that it is all too willing to be manipulated. The purported sex tapes have provided a summer sensation. But so far, this sordid affair has lacked any substantiation whatsoever.

"Hurricane Seminole," the drill designed to test Seminole County's emergency operations plan was a qualified success, according to county officials but it left them with nearly as many questions as answers.

The exercise simulating a hurricane striking the area tested the policy-making and decision-making capabilities of county personnel who would take charge in emergency situations.

And exercise they did, going through 93 situations covering the gamut of crises which could be expected in a hurricane.

According to outside evaluators from Altamonte Springs and Alachua County, Seminole County's plans, policies and procedures are in place "to provide timely and effective delivery of public services under hurricane or disaster conditions."

But there remain some areas of uncertainty, county officials said.

A chain of command needs to be established for authority beyond the chairman and vice chairman of the county commission. Commissioners, the director of public safety and county administrator all could lay claim to being the highest authority in an emergency unless the county adopts an ordinance spelling out the chain of command. Unless the authority question is resolved lawsuits could result in the event of an actual emergency.

The Operations Group, comprised of officials from the Public Works, Public Safety, Central Services, Health and Human Services departments along with a representative from the Red Cross, complained of the need for a large map which would be used to track the storm and the location of emergency and rescue crews.

The critique of the exercise also dealt with communications. Members of the Operational Group want to be able to talk with their units in the field and to have communications with the various shelters around the county and with drivers of buses who would be taking evacuees to the shelters.

But the biggest problem, according to County Administrator T. Duncan Rose, is how to keep county crews from leaving work in the face of an impending disaster. "There comes a point when, short of gunpoint, there's no way to keep them from leaving."

Workers Sue For Benefits

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Both past and present federal employees recently filed suit against Uncle Sam, seeking money they claim has been illegally denied them.

The suits are separate and unrelated, except for the fact that both groups claim to have been shortchanged by the Reagan administration. If either group wins, it will cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

The first of the two suits — filed by the National Association of Retired Federal Employees against the Office of Personnel Management — seeks to reverse cutbacks the Reagan administration has made in federal retirement benefits.

The suit alleges that three actions which the administration pushed through Congress violated the Fifth Amendment by taking away federal employees' property rights without due process of law. The actions that the suit wants declared unconstitutional are:

— The repeal of the traditional twice-yearly cost-of-living adjustments for federal retirees. These were replaced by an annual adjustment, eliminating one COLA.

— The reduction in the COLAs of retirees who are under age 62.

— Changes both in computing certain annuities and in determining COLAs for new retirees.

NARFE contends that these decisions have cost retirees benefits that they were promised while they worked for the federal government. It claims that retirement benefits are part of a contract between the government and its former workers and cannot be changed.

The retired federal workers may have a hard time making their case. In similar lawsuits, the government has claimed that there is no retirement benefits contract between government agencies and employees, since, under Civil Service Retirement System laws, benefit levels are set by Congress and can be raised or lowered. The Supreme Court has upheld this government position twice.

But lawyers for NARFE believe their suit differs significantly from previous ones and that they can win. If they do, Uncle Sam would have to pay what has been cut from COLAs — and that amounts to several hundred million dollars.

In the second suit, current federal employees say that the government owes them not millions, but several billions. The American Federation of Government Employees claims that white-collar government workers are underpaid by as much as 22 percent — and they want that money now.

To be fair, this suit seeks to overturn decisions made by Jimmy Carter as well as by Reagan, since it concerns a problem that began during the Carter administration and has since accelerated.

U.S. Can't Afford Super-Fleet: GAO

WASHINGTON — There's grim talk in Washington about a naval blockade of Nicaragua — the kind of discussion that hasn't been heard since the Cuban missile crisis 21 years ago.

The unpleasant truth, though, is that our Navy is smaller and more antiquated than it was in 1982. The communist bloc, in turn, has far more warships available for a confrontation at sea. There's serious doubt that the U.S. Navy can enforce the blockade or "quarantine," that President Reagan has brought up in the secrecy of his policy councils.

The Central American crisis should focus congressional attention on the size of the fleet the United States needs to handle its worldwide commitments — and the kind of ships the Navy should buy.

The chief antagonists are Navy Secretary John F. Lehman Jr., who wants a 600-ship fleet, and Richard DeLauer, undersecretary of defense for research and engineering, who thinks the proposed ships are not only too expensive but too vulnerable to enemy attack.

For budgetary reasons, the controversy must be decided soon — probably this summer, at the very time the Navy is engaged in its war games in the Caribbean.

At the heart of the debate is the DDG-51, a guided-missile destroyer that

JEFFREY HART

Victoria Has Returned

With all of the talk of a sexual revolution, cocaine, variant "lifestyles," and families headed by single parents, it may sound absurd to say that we're entering a new Victorian era — but it's true.

The old Victorian era was strait-laced, high-minded and reformist. Its rules were iron, and its dominant attitudes were determined by women.

Item. Consider the use of the word "offensive." During the Victorian era, much traditional art was considered "offensive" because of feminine cultural authority. Chaucer and even Shakespeare could not be read aloud before the whole family. The Reverend Thomas Bowdler obligingly removed the "offending" passages from the classics. Contemporary art and literature conformed to the prevailing taste.

The same sort of thing is happening today. Stanford and Dartmouth have both tried to remove their traditional Indian symbols as offensive to minorities. On these and other campuses, songs and paintings have been censored as offensive — to minorities, to women — or as encouraging alcohol consumption.

The Victorian era, and our own, are unique in giving to social "offensiveness" any sort of aesthetic standing. H.L. Mencken, Hemingway, and Picasso fully intended to be offensive — and became heroes in the fight against the blue-nose Victorians.

Item. The Victorians referred to "limbs" as more delicate than the direct "legs." You could, after all, think of a tree-limb. Some covered the "limbs" of the family piano with linen pantaloons to remove any taint of suggestiveness.

We ourselves, with comparable moralism, talk about "chairpersons" or even "the Chair," and both the language with "Ms." As Bob Hope has remarked, when he broke into comedy all the jokes were about race, while you couldn't mention sex. Now, he said, exactly the reverse is true. Censorship by any other name... But of course, just as pornography flourished under Victoria, we have developed a rich pornography of ethnic jokes.

Item. The Victorians had a cult of health, the result, some historians believe, of cholera, diphtheria, typhus and T.B. epidemics between 1820 and 1840. This led to outdoor pursuits and the rise of organized team sports.

We have our cult of health, with even non-players carrying tennis racquet to work, and joggers on every lane. Like the Victorians, we have an acute fear of death, with only the diseases different. Cancer is Big C, with hypertension and, this year, AIDS, coming up fast in the outer lane.

Item. We endure our own countless "sermons" on the poor, the Third World, the Bomb, El Salvador, and all the rest of it. (Where's Mencken?)

Item. The recent neo-conservative movement among intellectuals, valuable though it has been, is terribly solemn and "socially responsible." It reeks of Benthamism and the London School of economics, and there isn't a laugh in the whole barrel.

Similarly, the old Victorian era came in with reform and high-mindedness, with William Wilberforce and the Society for the Reformation of Manners.

Now, as in 1820, much of the new puritanism has to do with women. I know female academics who will not teach D.H. Lawrence, Ernest Hemingway, or James Joyce because their sexual attitudes are "Incorrect" and therefore "offensive."

Of course, there has always been a puritan lurking in the shadows, forever suspicious that somewhere, somehow, someone may be having a good time. But I suspect that now, as in 1820, the new Victorianism has something to do with the movement of large numbers of women into positions of cultural authority.

Reagan Has It Both Ways

By Helen Thomas

UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the saying goes, "Foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds." The White House cannot be accused of that.

In fact, it is the mind-boggling contradictions that defy all logic, and makes one realize that it is an administration where the words "watch what we do, not what we say" may apply.

President Reagan has no problem in bridging the gap. He told the National Council of Negro Women last week that nothing frustrates him more than the "false image" that has been created "that I am prejudiced if not an outright bigot."

"I've lived a long time and I can't remember a time when I didn't believe that prejudice and bigotry were the worst of sins in the sight of man and God," he said.

On the same day, Reagan accepted with "regret" the withdrawal of the nomination of Thomas F. Ellis to the Board for International Broadcasting.

Ellis asked that his name be withdrawn after disclosures in a Senate confirmation hearing that he had been executive secretary of a foundation that studied whether whites were genetically superior to blacks.

On another score, Reagan has sought to play down as nothing out of the ordinary the dispatch of two naval battleship groups, along with other surface ships for naval maneuvers in Central American waters and 4,000 combat troops for joint training exercises in Honduras. He told reporters "entirely too much attention" is being paid to the show of strength and not enough to the U.S. peace efforts.

The military muscle flexing, administration officials, said was to bring about a negotiated political settlement of the civil strife in El Salvador and to curb the Marxist government in Nicaragua.

Reagan has repeatedly condemned Cuba and Nicaragua for aiding the insurgents in El Salvador against the government in power. But the United States is covertly funding 10,000 Nicaraguan rebels bent on overthrowing the Sandinista government in Nicaragua, claiming the Sandinistas "stole the revolution."

The contradiction between Reagan's rhetoric when discussing the Soviets and his actions also speak louder than words.

In a speech in Orlando Reagan described the Soviet Union as the "focus of evil in the modern world." But last week, he approved a long-term grain sale agreement with the Kremlin, which will make farmers happy. Some critics of the deal said he was feeding the Russian army.

described MDP with brutal candor to my reporter Kathy McDonald: "Garbage, stuff that was thrown away before the industry had the technology to process it."

Unlike their competitors in the red-meat industry, poultry processors have been virtually unregulated by the federal government. The only requirement is a limit of 1 percent on the amount of bone residue in the processed product. The finished product can be partly or wholly MDP — without giving a clue on the label.

In May, a GAO report urged the Agriculture Department to issue regulations governing MDP products, and on July 19, Secretary John R. Block said the rules will be published this year.

But Donald Houston, administrator of the Food Safety and Inspection Service, said the mandatory public hearings and budgetary process will delay implementation of any new rules for about a year.

Why the concern? The GAO checked four poultry processing plants. Three of them made 100 percent MDP products. MDP is higher in fluoride and calcium than hand-deboned poultry, and is nearly twice as high in cholesterol.

An excess of fluoride can cause permanent mottling of infants' tooth enamel — and much processed poultry goes into baby foods.

Busch's Proposal Signals The End Of Kuhn's Reign

BOSTON (UPI) — Enough is enough. Bowle Kuhn had no taste for being reduced to a mere rubber stamp. He had gone as far as he could go without totally giving up his self respect. His supporters felt the same way. Particularly after the final "insult".

From the time six National League owners voted to unseat him in Chicago last Nov. 1, several of Kuhn's advocates among the major league owners had worked unstintingly trying to come up with some type of compromise that would keep him on as commissioner past the expiration of his contract on Aug. 12. As recently as 10 days ago, they tried to strike a deal in the St. Louis airport.

What they sought to do was convince August Busch III, chief executive officer of the Cardinals, to speak with his father, Gusie Busch Jr., who actually has the last word in the organization, and persuade him to change his vote against Kuhn.

If that could be done, possibly the Reds and Cubs might switch as well and that would enable Kuhn to continue.

Peter O'Malley of the Dodgers, Dan Galbreath of the Pirates, Bob Lurie of the Giants and Ballard Smith of the Padres, all members of the National League's executive council, baseball's most influential body, made a special trip to St. Louis along with Charles Bronfman of the Expos to meet with the younger Busch. It was an amicable get-together at which Busch's five visitors outlined the concessions they were prepared to make so that Kuhn could stay on.

The elder Busch, along with the other anti-Kuhn owners, would consider keeping him in the Commissioner's office as "administrator", providing all members of the league's executive council resign immediately and be replaced by four of the owners who voted against Kuhn.

The five pro-Kuhn owners who had made the trip to St. Louis couldn't believe Busch's counter proposal. One of them called it "a downright insult." Another said it was "outrageous, unthinkable."

When Kuhn heard it, he knew it was the end of the road for him.

Time and time again, he had said he would never resign, never concede as long as there was any support for him by the executive council. But now their members told him it was useless to keep fighting anymore and he came to the reluctant conclusion that he had no other choice but to throw in the towel.

Still, he kept hoping for some miracle, maintaining what he called "a stiff upper lip," but in his heart he knew there would be no such miracle before Wednesday's annual summer meeting and that his only recourse was to resign. So that's what he did, although he will remain in office until the search committee, headed by Allan "Bud" Selig of the Brewers, can come up with a replacement who will satisfy the other owners.

Selig has worked like Hercules trying to find a successor. He has cut short his duties with the Brewers to make numerous trips around the country. He has conducted comprehensive interviews with no less than five men — none of whose names have been disclosed — for the job and he promised the owners Wednesday that he would have a candidate or candidates for them to vote on within the next 60 or 90 days. Actually, the owners probably will be asked to vote inside the next two months.

From the outset, the Cardinals were the first club to make known they were against Kuhn's reelection. They were joined shortly thereafter by the Astros and Mets and later by the Braves, Reds and Cubs. Four negative National League votes would have been enough to defeat Kuhn. With six in their pockets, his opponents believed his departure after 14 1/2 years as commissioner was "etched in stone" after the summer meetings in San Diego a year ago.

Kuhn said he had made up his mind to quit late Tuesday afternoon and had made his decision known to the National League's executive council. For once, baseball people kept a secret and kept a lid on Kuhn's decision overnight.

After Kuhn's aide, Sandy Haddon, called the roll Wednesday to start Wednesday's meeting of the owners, Kuhn got up, took over the microphone and said: "We have a number of important items on the agenda but before we get into them, I have some remarks." He paused only a second and then read from a four paragraph statement he had prepared himself.

Kuhn told Selig, "I am withdrawing my name from any further consideration by the search committee. This decision is final, irrevocable and emphatic. I will not review it or reconsider it now or at any time in the future."

He continued, saying he felt baseball "painfully needs a period of harmony and good will free of the acrimony which has marred our affairs since December, 1981. He concluded by saying "my love and affection for you will never change."

When he finished, there wasn't a sound to be heard in the entire room. All the owners' faces were frozen.

Kuhn turned to Selig and said to him, "That's it."

Selig then made a motion that Kuhn be permitted to remain in office until Dec. 31 if necessary and it was passed unanimously. Later, Kuhn laughingly said that was the first unanimous vote he had gotten since he first took office in 1969.

Altamonte's Mall Lange (left) is best known for his bunt and run which he has used effectively in the postseason tournament for the Junior League All-Stars. Wednesday against Tampa Wellswood, though, Lange was swinging away and he responded with three singles and three stolen bases (above) as the Juniors nipped Wellswood, 7-6.

Juniors Hold Off Tampa, 7-6

WINTER GARDEN — Taking a page from "Father Knows Best," Altamonte Junior League All-Star coach Terry Hagen summed up his son's pitching performance with, "When Jeff pitches, it's always interesting."

Almost too interesting for the Altamonte faithful Wednesday night at the Little League Junior State Baseball Tournament.

Hagen wiggled out of two early jams, survived some uncharacteristic shoddy fielding by his teammates and then survived a three-run seventh inning rally to pitch the Juniors to a 7-6 victory over Tampa Wellswood.

Altamonte needs one victory Friday at 7:30 p.m. for the title. The Juniors will play the winner of tonight's 7:30 game between Wellswood and North County, a 3-2 winner over Fort Myers. A win will conclude the tournament and send Altamonte to the Southern Regional at Eustis beginning Monday. A loss forces a second game on Saturday.

But this one wasn't over until it was over. Leading, 7-3, going into the final frame, Hagen gave up a single to diminutive ninth-place hitter Eddie George, but then retired Ronnie Brown and Vince Amorelli to move without one out of victory.

A walk to Pete Castenedo brought up cleanup hitter Paul Russo and the husky 13-year-old powered one of Hagen's fastballs into right center to chase home George. Center fielder Chris Brock did a good job at getting to the ball to cut off another run, but his throw to third allowed Russo to move into second.

David Dubar then rifled a liner inside the bag at third to plate two more and pull the spunky Tampa crew within 7-6. Bryan Kistner was next up and Hagen fittingly ran the count to 3-2 before left fielder Zac Maddox drifted back and made a snowcone catch of Kistner's medium-deep fly ball for the third out.

"I felt like the owner of Baskin-Robbins," said assistant coach Greg Ebbert about the game-ending grab.

"That's the first time my heart was pounding," added manager Frank Messina. "I don't like close games."

It didn't have any earmarks of a heart-pounding in the first inning. Altamonte jumped on Tampa starter George for three hits and a walk before Wellswood summoned its ace Russo to put out the fire.

Mall Lange ripped a single to left center and stole second. Brock hammered a double to deep left center to score Lange. Eric Martinez walked and both runners moved up on a balk. Catcher Randy Green followed with a scorcher down the left-field line to make the count 3-0 before Tampa could get Russo to the mound.

"Tampa started their third pitcher, and in retrospect, that was their mistake," said Messina. "We like to bat first and get an early lead to intimidate other teams. The first inning has been the key for us all tournament. We always seem to come up with some runs and get ahead."

Russo induced Ernest Martinez to pop out, but Scott Stiles then roped a single to move Green to third. With Matt Messina at the plate, however, Russo tried to pick Green off third and threw the ball away allowing Green to motor home for a 4-0 lead. Russo fanned Messina and after walking Cory Prom, gunned him down when Prom tried to steal second on the pitcher.

Tampa had runners as far as third in the first two innings, but didn't score until the third when an Altamonte gamble backfired. With one out, Hagen, who struck out four, walked Brown and hit Amorelli with a pitch. Altamonte was thinking sacrifice despite the 4-0 advantage and one out, so it charged third baseman Ernest Martinez and brought shortstop Messina to third base to cover.

Castenedo promptly slapped a ground ball right through Messina's vacated area to score Brown, and one batter later, Dubar singled in another run to trim the lead to 4-2.

Altamonte's main man in the pinch — Eric Birle — came to the rescue in the fifth. Eric Martinez reached on an error to open the inning and brother Ernest got aboard on an infield single. Stiles walked to load the bases, but Messina popped out on an infield fly ruling for the second out.

Birle, who delivered a two-run single in Tuesday's win over North County, rapped an inside fastball over the third baseman's head to plate the Martinez twins for a 6-2 advantage.

Wellswood came back in the bottom of the inning with an unearned run on errors by Ernest Martinez and Hagen, but Brock turned in a fine running catch on Russo's liner and sub shortstop Jimmy Waring made a nice play on a slow ground ball to close off the outburst.

Altamonte seemingly put the game out of reach with another run in the sixth. Lange, who had two sharp singles to his credit already, beat out an infield dribbler and stole second. A balk sent him to third and when Brock smashed a ground ball through the third baseman's legs for an error, Lange's run made it 7-3.

Altamonte also had second and third in the seventh, but Russo whiffed Waring and Birle and got Hagen on a liner to second.

Wellswood followed with its dramatic rally which fell a cone or two short of tying the game.

Messina, meanwhile, doesn't have a preference of whom Altamonte plays Friday. "Neither team is going to be easy," he said. "If North County wins, we'll probably see the same pitcher (Jerry Matavazzo) we did before. If Tampa wins, we'll probably see Russo again. "We can hit either one of them."

Messina said he would go with lefty Greg Ebbert in Friday's final.

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS — Matavazzo, North County's fine shortstop and pitcher, hammered a home run in Wednesday's first game victory over Fort Myers. It was his second homer in two days, but the first one that counted. Against Altamonte, he powered one over the left-field fence off Prom, but the umpires ruled it a ground rule double, saying it bounced over the fence.

"That ball was over by 20 feet," said one tournament official who had a good view. "That fence is six feet high. Balls don't bounce over it, especially as much as its been raining."

Lange, Altamonte's speedy leadoff batter, continues to have an excellent tournament. He had three hits and three more stolen bases Wednesday. He hasn't been thrown out stealing all year. Counting the sectional, Lange has 11 hits in 19 at bats for a .579 average with 12 steals and three RBI.

Brock, the Juniors' flashy center fielder, seems to come up with two great plays a game. Brock has eight hits in 19 tries with two doubles, three stolen bases and four RBI for a .474 clip.

Green, who has two RBI in each of the last three games, is 6 for 15 with four stolen bases for a .400 average. Ernest Martinez is 7-for-16 with three steals and three RBI and a .438 average. Eric Martinez is 7-for-21 with four RBI and four steals for a .350 average.

Apopka Gets To Livernois — Drops Altamonte, 5-1

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

No matter how many times you've faced a pitcher before, if he's on, he can beat you. During the 1983 high school baseball season, many of the players on the Altamonte Legion Post 183 team, who were playing for Lyman High, went up against Apopka's Steve Thomason. And the same went for the Apopka High team, against Altamonte's Derek Livernois.

On Wednesday night at Lyman High, it was Thomason who was on and Livernois who wasn't. Thomason hurled a five-hitter and Apopka got to Livernois for four runs in the first three innings as Apopka pulled out a 5-1 victory in American Legion District baseball action.

Tonight at 7, Altamonte goes up against Boone with the winner advancing to the finals against Apopka and its lefthanded ace Rodney Brewer on Friday night at 7. Altamonte will have either Livernois or Paul Alegre starting on the mound tonight.

"He (Thomason) pitched better than we hit," Altamonte manager Bob McCullough said. "You can expect to win a ballgame when you only score one run."

The Apopka hitters, who knew Livernois was a hard thrower from the high school season, looked for the fastball from the start of the game. Trey Brasseur led off the game for Apopka by reaching on an infield single and Billy Johnson followed by drilling a Livernois fastball into right field for a single, sending Brasseur to third. Brewer hit into a force play and Brasseur scored to give Apopka an early 1-0 lead. Livernois came back to strike out the next two hitters to end the inning.

Altamonte came up with a scoring threat of its own in the bottom of the first, but came up empty, stranding two runners in scoring position. With one out, Tom Gibbons reached on an Apopka error and Mike "Duck" Sawyer followed with an infield single to put runners on first and second. A wild pitch moved the runners to second and third, but Thomason fanned cleanup hitter Tom Perkins and got Alegre to ground out to get out of the jam.

Livernois went to his curveball in the second inning and he wound up striking out the side. Livernois also struck out the first Apopka hitter in the top of the third, giving him six straight strike outs. With two outs in the third, however, Apopka rallied for three runs to take a 4-1 lead and knock Livernois out of the game.

Johnson started the rally with a single to center and he then stole second. Brewer then drew a walk and Mike Hinde reached on an infield single to load the bases. Sidney Lowman then delivered a clutch two-run single up the middle, chasing home both Johnson and Brewer. Darren Bruchl followed with a RBI single up the middle to drive Hinde home and up Apopka's lead to 4-0. McCullough then lifted Livernois and came with Jeff Barefoot, the winner of Tuesday's game, in relief.

Altamonte got on the board with its only run in the bottom of the fourth to cut Apopka's lead to 4-1. Perkins led off with a single to right center and both Alegre and Barefoot walked to load the bases with one out. Greg Lorenz then hit into a force play to chase home Perkins and put runners on first and third. Thomason then coaxed Robbie Robinson to pop up to second to end the inning. Altamonte didn't threaten again until the bottom of the eighth.

While Thomason was shutting down Altamonte's offense, Barefoot kept Apopka's bats quiet. After three innings of scoreless relief, Hinde ripped a two-out solo home run over the left center field fence to give Apopka a 5-1 lead.

In the bottom of the eighth, with one out, Sawyer singled to center and went to second on an outfield error. With two outs, Alegre drilled a single to right and McCullough sent Sawyer home. A perfect throw from right fielder Hinde to catcher Bruchl, nailed Sawyer at the plate as Apopka kept its 5-1 lead.

Seniors Try Again Today

Rain showers of monstrous proportion have caused Little League Senior State Baseball Tournament officials to move today's game to Riverview, a small town south of Tampa on State Road 301.

Altamonte nipped Boynton Beach Tuesday, 4-3, and East Tampa Bay hammered Fort Myers, 13-4. Wednesday in a game which was suspended by rain on Tuesday, today at 11, Altamonte sends Kenny Chapdelaine against East Tampa Bay while Boynton Beach and Fort Myers also play in the loser's bracket at 11.

The Altamonte-East Tampa Bay winner then plays Friday for the title against the survivor of today's loser's bracket game. An Altamonte loss would send it against the winner of the Boynton Beach-Fort Myers game, probably at 2 p.m. today, according to tournament officials.

Bowie Kuhn — Accepted And Rejected For Same Reasons

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is fair to say that Bowie Kuhn was accepted and rejected as commissioner of baseball for the same reasons. He was a knowledgeable fan and capable executive steeped in the lore and traditions of "America's National Pastime."

The trouble was that over a period of 14 years, the executives who chose him and the society in which they thrived changed and Bowie Kuhn didn't.

Back in 1969 when Kuhn was elevated to the first of his two consecutive 7-year terms, the clubowners still wanted a man of unquestioned integrity and a sound knowledge of the internal affairs of baseball to serve as their front man. Kuhn fit that description in 1969 and still does in 1983.

Kuhn's problem is that the current owners think they want another kind of man — although they don't really know the kind for which they are searching. In order to facilitate their search, Kuhn resigned Wednesday at an owners meeting in Boston.

Kuhn was virtually unknown to the general public in 1969 when he was elected commissioner for the following reasons:

— As an attorney who had done legal work for the National League, he had 19 years worth of intimate knowledge of baseball's affairs.

— He had the confidence of the owners.

— His law training was highly pertinent to the details of the internal work that was to come.

— He knew first-hand the personalities of the game and the men with whom he would deal and they knew him.

Baseball

Fourteen years later, Kuhn can be evaluated as a commissioner who has done legal work for the Major League Baseball and has 33 years worth of intimate knowledge of baseball's affairs. He has the confidence of 20 of the 26 owners. His law training is highly pertinent to the details of the internal work that is to come. He knows first-hand the personalities of the game and the men with whom he will deal and they know him.

So what happened?

Kuhn hurt his personal image by making himself a laughing stock and, indirectly bringing ridicule on baseball, with his "thermal underwear stunts." These consisted of sitting in nothing more than a three-piece suit during World Series games played in temperatures not favorable to baseball. He gave it the stiff upper lip (with the aid of the thermal underwear) to make himself look foolish. The reason for the whole act, of course, was that World Series games were played at night in October because television was willing to pay more to baseball during prime time than during the afternoon hours.

In other words, Kuhn put baseball ahead of common sense. This is not necessarily considered a mortal sin with those who think baseball should be the 51st star in the American flag.

And then there was free agency and the strike of 1981. No legal brain in the world could have prevented the former and only a man named Marvin Miller could have stopped the latter.

Because of a Supreme Court decision made in 1919, organized baseball in 1969 had been operating for 50 years as a "sport." Instead of a business. The obvious absurdity was corrected in landmark decisions involving Curt Flood and Jim Hunter, eroding the commissioner's position as an unbiased arbiter of problems between clubowners and players. The commissioner, it became clear, was an employee of the owners — one whose salary increased from $100,000 to $250,000 during his term of office.

The nature of Kuhn's position tends to make him appear pompous but he isn't. He likes to recall that he was a boyhood fan of baseball who operated the scoreboard at old Griffith Stadium in Washington, D.C., and would like to be thought of as "one of the boys."

More than that, though, he would like to be remembered for integrity.

"I would like to be thought of as a commissioner who wrestled fearlessly with the problems of the game and in the final analysis protected its integrity," he says.

"The public conception of the powers of the commissioner are mistaken. They see him as a super umpire with unlimited powers. He isn't. The commissioner has considerable powers but he cannot tell the head of a labor union that he can't strike."

Even so, many of Kuhn's major decisions smacked of the autocratic rule of the first commissioner, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

— This year worked out the new 6-year $1.125-billion contracts with the NBC and ABC television networks for televising of in-season, playoff and World Series games.

— In 1974, he suspended New York Yankee principal owner George Steinbrenner for two years because Steinbrenner pleaded guilty to making illegal contributions to the committee for the reelection of President Nixon.

— He warned at the outset that free agency would upset the balance of competition in the two leagues by enabling two or three clubs to "buy" the best players. This did not happen. Since free agency began, 14 of the game's 26 teams have been involved in playoffs.

— He fined Ray Kroc, owner of the San Diego Padres, $100,000 for remarks construed as tampering with Graig Nettles and Joe Morgan.

— During the second term of his reign, he ordered Hall of Famers Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle to sever their official connections with baseball because they were acting as public relations representatives for gambling casinos.

— In 1976, he cancelled deals by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley which would have sent pitcher Vida Blue to the Yankees and outfielder Joe Rudi and pitcher Rolfe Fingers to the Boston Red Sox.

— He overcame opposition by owners and baseball traditionalists to playing World Series games at night. His decision reaped huge financial benefits but invited criticism for playing baseball in unseasonable weather.

— He fined the New York Mets $5,000 for advertising created by a Madison Avenue pitch man which the commissioner thought in bad taste.

Raines Steals 2, But Wilson's Dash Home From Second Steals The Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tim Raines stole two bases but Mookie Wilson stole the ballgame.

Raines, the Montreal outfielder, swiped his 45th and 46th bases of the season but it was Wilson, scoring from second on an infield out for the second time in four days, that gave the New York Mets their fourth straight victory, a 2-1 decision over the Expos Wednesday night.

Wilson led off the ninth against Montreal reliever Jeff Reardon, 5-5, with a single. He was sacrificed to second by Hubie Brooks. Reardon then intentionally walked Keith Hernandez.

George Foster grounded to shortstop Bryan Little, who forced Hernandez. Second baseman Doug Flynn relayed to first baseman Al Oliver trying for the double play. Foster beat the throw to first, and Wilson never stopped running, going around third and sliding home before the throw from Oliver to catcher Gary Carter.

"If Flynn throws a home I'm out," said Wilson.

Wilson had scored from second on a similar infield out to win a game against Pittsburgh on Sunday, also on a grounder by Foster.

"We were aware of it," said Montreal Manager Bill Virdon. "There's no question we were aware of it. It's one of those things, it's do-or-die and if you get away with it you have to look good."

"We were totally aware of it," added Oliver. "We had mentioned it a little bit but it's something that just happens instantaneously."

Wilson and third base coach Bobby Valentine had exchanged signals right before the play.

"He looked at me and I gave him the thumbs up and he smiled," said Valentine. "I was sending him all the way no matter what. It's worth it. This play has worked twice in a week. People do not realize that earlier this year the other guys twice made the double play and no one noticed the runner nearing the plate."

"When he put thumbs up I smiled and I had nothing but tunnel vision of home from there on," said Wilson, whose run marked Foster's 1,000th career RBI.

"There was no play at the plate," said Oliver. "No first baseman could have made a play at the plate. The decision to throw to first for the double play had to be made at second so I don't know about it."

"I saw Wilson come around third out of the corner of my eye and I have seen no one since Mickey Rivers at his peak move like that."

Jesse Orosco, 8-5, was the winner, pitching the ninth in relief. Tom Seaver started for New York and lasted eight innings, giving up five hits, one earned run, walking none and striking out four.

Montreal scored a run in the sixth. Raines led off with a walk, stole second, advanced to third on an infield out and scored on a sacrifice fly by Andre Dawson. Raines had three singles in four at bats.

New York tied the score against starter Ray Burris in the bottom of the seventh when Darryl Strawberry hit his 14th homer of the season, into the right-field bullpen.

Astros 1, Padres 0

Nolan Ryan can still open some eyes when he shuts down the hitters.

"He's something, that son off a gun," San Diego Manager Dick Williams said Wednesday night after Ryan allowed one hit — a one-out single by Tim Flannery in the third inning — to lead the Houston Astros to a 1-0 victory over the Padres.

"In the first half of the game I know he was around 93 or 94 miles an hour," said Williams. "When he's getting his curve and change over like he was tonight he's unbeatable."

In pitching his 52nd career shutout and ninth one-hitter, Ryan, 10-5, broke a personal four-game losing streak with his 215th lifetime triumph. The 36-year-old right-hander struck out 10 to raise his career total to 3,606, second to Steve Carlton's 3,609 on the all-time list. The win was Ryan's first since July 13.

"I think I made better pitches and had better command of my curve than I've had in the last few outings," said Ryan. "Near the end I overthrew a couple of fastballs and tried to step back to regain my rhythm but I couldn't. That ninth inning was the only inning where I felt I wasn't in command."

In the ninth, Ryan walked two. One runner thrown out stealing but Alan Wiggins stole second and would have scored if defensive replacement Tony Scott had not caught Garry Templeton's bloop in center.

"It's never easy," said Ryan. "That last inning I could have done without."

A.L./N.L. Baseball

It was the 149th time in his career he has struck out 10 or more in a game.

The loser was Tim Lollar, 4-10, whose personal winless streak was extended to four.

Flannery singled cleanly to right.

"I didn't make the pitch I wanted to," said Ryan. "He didn't hit it all that well but he placed it. I threw some changes tonight as well as I've ever thrown. It's as good a game as I've thrown in quite a while."

He advanced to second base on a wild pitch and stayed there as Ryan fanned Lollar and Bobby Brown. In the fourth inning, Wiggins opened with one of six walks issued by Nolan and advanced to second on Templeton's groundout. Ryan then struck out Terry Kennedy and retired Ruppert Jones on a popup to end the inning.

In the first, Terry Puhl legged out a slow roller toward third for an infield single and scored on Dickie Thon's triple into the right-field bullpen.

Braves 6, Giants 4

At San Francisco, an RBI single by Rafael Ramirez and a solo home run by Jerry Royster snapped a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning to lift Braves pitcher Steve Bedrosian to his seventh victory in 11 decisions. The loser was Jim Barr, who fell to 3-3.

Pirates 7, Phillies 2

At Pittsburgh, Tony Pena went 3-for-4 and drove in two runs and Bill Madlock also had two RBIs to lead the Pirates. John Candelaria, 11-6, held the Phillies to one run on three hits and one walk over five innings. Kent Tekulve got the last five outs for his 12th save. Marty Bystrom, 3-7, took the loss.

Cubs 4, Cardinals 0

At St. Louis, Jay Johnstone and Thad Bosley homered and four Chicago pitchers, helped by four double plays, scattered 12 hits. Chuck Rainey, 11-8, allowed 10 hits through five innings. Bob Forsch, 7-9, took the loss. Bill Campbell worked the final three innings for his seventh save.

Dodgers 7, Reds 4

At Los Angeles, Mike Marshall ignited a live-run first with a two-run homer and added a solo homer in the fifth for the Dodgers. The win went to Pat Zachry, 3-0, and Tom Niedenfuer collected his fifth save. Rich Gale, 3-5, forced to start when Joe Price developed a stiff shoulder, took the loss.

Blue Jays 6, Yankees 2

Toronto rang the Bell on Yankees Manager Billy Martin again.

The resounding clang of George Bell ringing out his 4-for-4 work at bat offered little comfort to the volatile Yankees manager, who accepted Wednesday night's 6-2 loss to the Blue Jays in his usual graceful style.

Bell, a rookie outfielder, drove in two runs and Jesse Barfield belted a two-run homer to seal Toronto's third straight win over the Yankees and New York's sixth straight defeat overall.

"I got the chance to play and I didn't know when I would play again so I wanted to do well," said Bell, called up July 11 from Toronto's Triple-A farm club in Syracuse.

"I am really happy. I have never gone 4-for-4 before but I don't want to say too much. I might do badly tomorrow," he added.

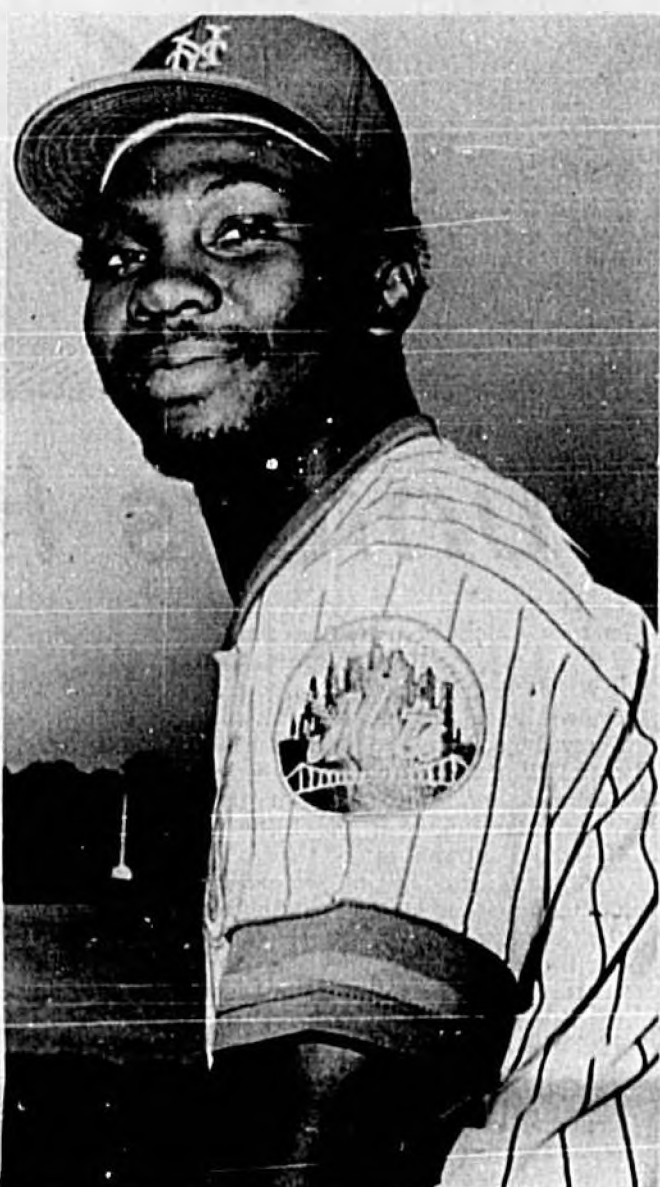

Jim Clancy allowed nine hits, struck out one and walked none to record his fourth straight win, raising his record to 12-6. New York's Ron Guidry was raked for a career-high 14 hits in dropping to 12-7.

"They were not hitting him (Guidry) that hard," said Martin. "I was not going to take him out and burn up my bullpen when they were just hitting bloopers and topers."

Martin said the Blue Jays' scrappy play is tailored for the artificial carpet at Exhibition Stadium.

The Yankees took a 1-0 lead on Don Mattingly's solo homer on the first inning but the Blue Jays rebounded in the second. Cliff Johnson singled and Barfield slammed his 14th homer of the season.

Bell led off the fourth with a triple and came home on Alfredo Griffin's single, giving the Blue Jays a 3-1 lead. He extended the lead to 5-1 in the fifth, smacking a double after Garth Iorg and Barry Bonnell opened the inning with back-to-back singles.

Mookie Wilson dashed home from second base on an infield out Wednesday to lead the New York Mets past Montreal, 2-1.

Toronto added a run in the sixth on a fielder's choice RBI by Iorg.

Steve Kemp singled home a run in the New York ninth.

Orioles 8, Indians 2

At Cleveland, Rich Dauer drove in three runs and Eddie Murray belted his 22nd homer of the season to help the Orioles snap Cleveland's four-game winning streak. Baltimore's Storm Davis, 10-4, went the first five innings. Cleveland starter Rick Sutcliffe, 12-7, lost his third straight decision.

Angels 7, Twins 5

At Minneapolis, Rob Wilfong's two-run double with one out in the 10th inning lifted the Angels. Winner Bruce Kison, 10-5, worked the last three innings. Mike Walters lost despite pitching 5 2-3 hitless innings of relief.

Royals 8, Brewers 5

At Milwaukee, Willie Aikens and Don Slaught drove in two runs each and Keith Creel earned his first victory in five decisions this season. Creel allowed one run and eight hits in six innings. Mike Armstrong finished for his third save. Milwaukee starter Bob McClure, 8-8, lasted on 12-3 innings.

Tigers 6, White Sox 3

At Chicago, Larry Herndon drove in three runs with a double and home run and Jack Morris, 12-8, pitched a six-hitter in going the distance for the Tigers. Morris struck out nine and walked one. Jerry Koosman, seeking his 200th career victory, fell to 8-3.

Red Sox 5, Rangers 4

At Arlington, Dwight Evans' two-out double in the 10th inning delivered Jim Rice from second base, helping the Red Sox and Luis Aponte, 5-3, hand Texas its eighth straight loss and 10th in its last 11 outings. Mark Clear earned his third save and Victor Cruz, 0-1, took the loss.

A's 6, Mariners 1

At Seattle, Mike Davis capped a six-run eighth inning with a three-run homer and Tim Conroy tossed a four-hitter to lead the A's. Conroy, 4-4, allowed just one walk and two hits in the final five innings. Mariners starter Jim Beattie, 8-7, had a perfect game through six innings before giving up a single to Rickey Henderson leading off the seventh.

Sanford Soccer Registers Again; FACA Salutes Lyman's Program

The Sanford Soccer Club will hold another registration for fall and spring players this Saturday at Pinecrest Elementary School in Sanford from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The final registration will be Saturday, Aug. 13 at Pinecrest, also at the same time.

Returning players need to bring two recent photographs and $25 registration fee for both leagues, if they have a traveling jersey from last year. New players need to bring a birth certificate, two recent photos and $35 registration fee.

Soccer spokesperson Suzy Reno said coaches and assistant coaches are also needed. Call Reno at 323-9087 for information.

In prep news, Lyman High School was named the Florida Athletic Coaches Association (FACA) athletic program of the year for the 1982-83 sports season. Lyman edged Brandon, Winter Park and Miami Columbus for the honor, based on a special point system for conference, district, region and state competition devised by the FACA, said Lyman track coach Joe Laughlin.

Laughlin also announced the Pre-season Cross Country Jamboree will take place at Seminole Community College on Saturday, Aug. 27. Entry fee is $2 per person. Registration is between 4 and 5 p.m. on the day of the meet.

Sports Roundup

Running begins at 5:30 p.m. with the 10 and under mile run. At 6 p.m., the open three mile will be held for contestants 19 and up. The two mile for girls will be held at 6:30 p.m. for ages 11 to 18. The three mile for boys ages 11 to 18 gets underway at 7 p.m.

Top runners of county schools and Central Florida will compete in the season opener.

Trinity Prep swimmer Craig Harris has received an All-American award. Harris, 16, was recognized as the number one swimmer nationally in the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard backstroke by Swimming World magazine.

Teammates Susan Suwalski (50-, 100-, 200-yard freestyle) and Jenny Pence (50- and 100-yard butterfly) were accorded honorable mention status.

Moving up to the junior college level, Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne is in need of some "decent" furniture for some of his players. Call Payne at school (323-1450) or home (327-0894) if you can donate some beds, tables or chairs.

Randy Stegall fires for the Seminole Pintos.

Daring Baserunner Lifts Mexico City Past Pintos

A daring baserunning move by Jorge Rodriguez lifted Mexico City Liga Omolomeca to a 12-11 victory over the Forest City All Stars Tuesday in the third game of a "Good Will" series at Altamonte's Eastmonte recreation center.

With Mexico City trailing, 11-10 in the bottom of the fifth inning, Antonio Naim singled to right and, one out later, Rodriguez drew a walk. A wild pitch moved the runners up and Eugenio Gonzalez then grounded out to drive in Naim with the tying run. On the same play, however, Rodriguez dashed for home while Forest City's first baseman still had the ball and Rodriguez made it safely to give Mexico City the go-ahead run. Forest City could not come up with the tying run in the top of the sixth as Mexico City claimed the win.

The Mexico City team is a tourist group that came to Central Florida to both see the sights and play some baseball. In the first game of the series, Mexico City pulled out a 3-2 victory while Forest City's All-Stars, composed of players from Forest City V and Forest City VI teams from the Pinto Division of Seminole Pony Baseball, came back for a 7-2 victory in the second game.

Baseball

Forest City got on the board first with a pair of runs in the top of the first inning. Jake Widger drew a walk with one out and went to second on a wild pitch. Randy Stegall then drew a walk to put runners on first and second. Both Widger and Stegall moved up on a wild pitch and, with two outs, Widger and Stegall both scored on the same wild pitch.

With Mexico City holding a 10-5 lead after four innings, Forest City exploded for six runs in the top of the fifth to take a 11-10 lead. Stegall's RBI single was the only hit of the inning and Forest City took advantage of seven walks. Ryan Fendley, Mike Speranza, David Mauro, Brant Buffum and Brett Black all picked up RBI on walks.

Davila was the winning pitcher for Mexico City while Black took the loss.

The Forest City team has been invited to travel to Mexico City for a rematch in December.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Italy Gets Its First Socialist-Led Government

ROME (UPI) — Prime Minister-designate Bettino Craxi ended one of Italy's longest political crises by forming a new government, the 44th since World War II and the first led by Socialists.

Craxi, 49, was expected to present the country's new government to President Sandro Pertini at the presidential Quirinal palace today. The Cabinet was scheduled to be sworn in later in the day.

The Socialist leader, who forced the four-party coalition of Christian Democratic Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani to collapse April 29 and demanded early elections in June, reached agreement Wednesday with the other four members of his five-party, center-left coalition.

The new government, Italy's first to be led by the Socialists and its 44th since World War II, will face the same major task of its predecessors — dealing with an array of economic problems including a 16 percent inflation rate, 10 percent unemployment and a growing budget deficit.

Begin, McFarlane Meet

United Press International

U.S. envoy Robert McFarlane met today with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and emerged saying he was encouraged that progress might be near on the "urgent priority" of arranging the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon.

McFarlane, on the second leg of his first shuttle as President Reagan's special Middle East representative, held a 90-minute discussion with Begin and then began a second round of talks with Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

Neither side disclosed the substance of the talks, but McFarlane is working to revive the troop withdrawal effort and gain assurances the Israeli plan to redeploy troops in southern Lebanon will not mean a permanent Israeli presence in the country.

Kidnapper Upset By Unemployment

CHICAGO (UPI) — An FBI SWAT team rushed a former state employee — upset over minority unemployment — who had held three women lawyers hostage in the barricaded chambers of a federal judge, ending a nine-hour standoff. Officials said today the man was unarmed.

The jobless man, tentatively identified as Keith Garth, 23, of East St. Louis, Ill., released the hostages unharmed one by one Wednesday night. Garth entered the Dirksen Federal Building carrying an attaché case he claimed would explode if he unzipped it.

"We did not know until we arrested him and stripped searched him that he had no weapon," said Ed Hegarty, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office.

Hegarty said Garth, who is black, "continuously made references to unemployment" in the Chicago area. He was "articulate" and "determined" throughout the ordeal, Hegarty said, describing Garth's demands as "editorial comment."

He also said Garth was upset by the power struggle between Mayor Harold Washington and Alderman Edward Vrdolyak.

U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb said Garth would be charged today under a statute controlling offenses in a federal court. He said he would meet with Cook County State's Attorney Richard M. Daley to discuss state charges, possibly including kidnapping.

Garth was housed in the Metropolitan Correctional Center.

The drama began at about 2:35 p.m. CDT, when Garth got by an office secretary on the 21st floor of the Dirksen Federal Building, saying "I know where I'm going." He locked the women in the judge's chambers, authorities said.

FBI agents began telephone negotiations with Garth at 2:40 p.m.

...Women Still Reluctant To Seek Office

Mrs. Glenn ran two successful campaigns for the Altamonte Springs City Commission before she was elected to the county commission. In her campaigns for the city commission seat, she defeated a male incumbent male and a male attorney.

When she ran for the county commission, she beat a man in the GOP primary and a male Democrat in the general election.

State Sen. Toni Jennings, whose district includes part of Seminole County, was only 27 years old when she first ran for a seat in the Florida House of Representatives. After serving four years there, she ran for a Senate seat in 1980 and won election. She was re-elected in 1982.

Her father, Jack, is a former member of the Orange County School Board. He was a Democrat during those years. She was the only Republican in her family when she sought a Florida House seat, but convinced members of her family to change party so she could at least count on their votes.

Ms. Jennings' great-grandfather, Charles H. Jennings, was a member of the Virginia Legislature and her grandfather on her mother's side of the family, General Edward Martin was a governor of Pennsylvania.

"We have seen a reawakening of women to politics," she said in reference to Evelyn Gandy Tuesday winning a spot on the Aug 23 Democratic runoff primary in her bid for the governor's office in Mississippi.

Sen. Jennings reminded that Mrs. Gandy was Mississippi's first woman lieutenant governor, state treasurer and insurance commissioner.

And, she said, Mrs. Gandy specifically made the fact that she is a woman an issue in the campaign — battling those who say a woman can't do the job.

Why aren't more women running for office?

"It's probably a combination of the time commitment required and the pressure she has to take," Ms. Jennings said. "You know women still believe they must do the job twice as well as men."

"Women are becoming more politically active and making that time commitment. I marvel at women who hold down political office, have family responsibilities to fulfill and full time jobs too. Yet there are women who do that and do it well," she said.

"Politics takes a lot of time, it's not the 8 to 5 type of job. It's a commitment not only for the woman, but also for her family," Ms. Jennings said.

Toni Jennings' advice to women who would like to run for public office is "do it."

"A lot of women are stymied into thinking a woman running for office has to overcome a great obstacle, but if they don't try they will never succeed. There is such a learning process in involvement. She will learn tremendously about people and the political process. There are a lot of people out there who think politicians are crooked. Some are, but most are not," she said.

Miss Jennings said she is amazed at the ignorance of many about the political process. So many do not have even a basic understanding of the system.

"Like anything else one has to take the first step. If a woman has an interest and desire, she should take that first step. People from different backgrounds succeed. If she wants to do something for her community, she should give it her best," Senator Jennings said.

She advises women interested in running for office to get involved in her political party's structure. "It's important to understand the inner politics of politics. The inner politics will drive you crazy, but if you want to run for office, it's important to know what it's about," she said. Sometimes, she added, when a person gets involved in the party structure, she finds that the political party she has always believed in really does not reflect her political views.

"You will be hung with the mantle of your party from president down and you must be able to articulate the differences or similarities of your party," she said.

Women have made great strides all over the nation in the political offices they now hold.

An example is Sandra Day O'Connor, the first female justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Paula Hawkins of Winter Park became the first woman in Florida history to be elected to the U.S. Senate.

Locally, the sex barriers on the Seminole County Commission, the Seminole County School Board, on the Oviedo City Council, on the Longwood City Commission have fallen by the wayside.

And women comprise the majority of Seminole County's registered voters. Of the county's 78,456 eligible voters, 54 percent, 42,085, are women.

But, the list of offices that women haven't even made a stab at in Seminole County has grown long.

These include:

—The three county judgeships currently held by Wallace Hall, Harold Johnson and Alan Dickey.

—The constitutional offices of clerk of the circuit court, tax collector, sheriff. And not since Mary Earle Walker served as the county's property appraiser from 1956 to 1968 has another woman sought that office.

—Circuit judgeships. While there are 14 judgeships in the circuit, a woman has gone after only one. That was Frances Ann "Fran" Jamieson of Brevard County four years ago. She won support not only in Brevard, where she sits on the bench, but also from Seminole County voters.

There are 52 offices whose occupants, city and county officials, are elected solely within Seminole County, yet women hold only 13 or 25 percent of them.

Iran-Iraq War Could Lower Oil Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — The conflict between OPEC members Iraq and Iran could further reduce world oil prices by forcing Arab producers to pump more oil to finance Iraq's war effort, an Israeli economist says.

"The Iraq-Iran war is a time bomb for world oil markets," Dr. Eliyahu Kanovsky, chairman of the economics department at Bar-Ilan University told a luncheon meeting sponsored by the American Jewish Committee. The Iraq-Iran war erupted on Sept. 22, 1980.

Kanovsky said Saudi Arabia, OPEC's largest producer and Iran's ideological foe, had given about $30 billion in war aid to Iraq by the end of 1982. Kuwait, another OPEC nation, had earmarked some $15 billion for the Iraqi war chest.

"Iraq's financial situation is deteriorating rapidly and the continuing war has added to the financial drain on the Saudi and Kuwaiti treasuries" following the $5-a-barrel drop in OPEC's prices in March, Kanovsky said.

"Their fear of revolutionary Iran prevents them from curtailing aid to Iraq," he said.

Kanovsky cited growing financial pressure on Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to increase their oil production, which would undermine prices.

Sexual Abuse Of Kids Can Occur in 'Fine' Families

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the teen-age brother and sister who gave each other nicknames and did a lot of "playful" wrestling on the bed opened a lot of ugly wounds for me.

When I was 8, my 14-year-old brother started playing games with me like, "I bet I can pin you down on the bed," while he sexually relieved himself. Can you imagine my horror at finding my clothes stained? It was the beginning of a four-year nightmare that included two more brothers, and left me feeling used, bewildered, dirty, guilty and somehow responsible.

It took me many years to overcome my anger, restore my self-esteem and reconcile myself with not only the sexual abuse, but the physical and emotional abuse I also suffered.

My father caught my sister and two brothers together once, and he nearly killed them all. He went crazy, choking and beating them! I notice that several times in the past you have warned parents and children about sexual abuse and how to prevent it.

Please continue to do so, Abby. We were not a trashy or low-down family. We were considered "nice" people, and if this could have happened in our family, it can happen in any family.

NO NAMES OR LOCATION, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAMES: Thank you for giving me another opportu-

ty to repeat this advice: Teach your children that their bodies are "private" — and if anyone tries to entice them into any kind of "play" involving their bodies, to report it to Mama and/or Papa at once.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please advise me on a delicate situation? I am pregnant and have asked my sister to be the god mother of her first niece/nephew. Of course, she's ecstatic.

Yesterday I received a letter from an aunt whom I love dearly asking for the "honor and privilege" of being my child's god-mother.

Is there any way I can handle this without hurting either party?

TORN
DEAR TORN: Probably not. Obviously your first choice was your sister, so having asked her, you must now tell your aunt that you have already asked your sister to be your child's god-mother. In the meantime, pray for twins.

DEAR ABBY: My mom and I did a little role-playing with a letter in your column from "D..." who wrote: "If they gave a prize for the most insensitive mother-in-law in the world, mine would win — hands down! When Harold (her son) introduced me to her, she said, 'How do you do? Is your complexion always that bad, or is it a temporary condition?'"

Mom and I tried to think of how we would have answered that woman on the spot (not four hours later), and we came up with this: "Are you always that rude, or is it a temporary condition?"

Child Safety Program Launched By Burdines

Burdines will be participating in a special child safety program, sponsored by Sasson, during August, in cooperation with the Adam Walsh Child Resource Center, dedicated to the reunion of missing children with their parents.

Parents are encouraged to bring their youngsters to any of the 23 Burdines stores statewide, Wednesdays and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m., starting August 3 and ending August 27. At that time a free child safety I.D. card will be made for the parents' safe-keeping. Youngsters will be fingerprinted in a new, inkless, non-messy way, by members of Burdines Youth Advisory Boards who have been trained and supervised by Burdines security department. (Local police departments have been invited to participate.) The fingerprinting will take place in the Children's Department, and the parents will receive the only set of prints.

Also at all Burdines during the month of August: a Safety Quiz for both parents and children, using Touchcom, a computer by Digital Techniques, Inc. By using this touch activated computer, information is gained quickly by touching a screen, and will give the child scores on answers to such questions as name, address, phone numbers, how to ask for help, etc. Parents will also participate in the Safety Quiz which will familiarize them with good safety practices. The Safety Quiz, also located in the Children's Department, may be taken from store opening to closing.

Kidney Benefit Set At Flea World

The Central Florida Chapter of the National Kidney Foundation will be holding "Grab Bag Days" at Flea World, Hwy 17-92 between 434 & Lake Mary Blvd. on Friday, Sat. & Sun., August 5-6-7, 1983.

Gifts from Central Florida Merchants have been donated to the Kidney Foundation to use in the Grab Bag drawing. Persons wishing to participate may purchase a Grab Bag for $5.00 and win gifts with an average retail value of $20.00. Some of the gifts include watches, appliances, jewelry, clothing, auto accessories, sporting goods items, dinner passes, tourist attraction passes and gift certificates.

Personnel and volunteers from the Kidney Foundation will be on hand all 3 days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., rain or shine. They will answer any questions you might have regarding their organ donor program, drug bank & patient service programs. Funds raised from this effort will go to help find a cure for kidney disease and support of all their other programs.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
AUGUST 5, 1983

Projects in which you've already invested considerable time will yield returns this coming year. Skim the cream off the top before engaging in new enterprises.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may have a chance today to put to practical use ideas suggested by a friend. What worked for him should work for you.

Leo predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. They reveal romantic compatibilities for all signs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be reluctant to bargain for better terms in career or financial matters today. Even small benefits could prove to be profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Although it may cause you some inconvenience, make every effort to honor your promises today. This will win you the respect of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) If the roles were reversed, you'd probably be more generous than one doing a favor for you today. However, he's being as kind as conditions permit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A joint venture looks promising today, but it will take more than a handshake to make it work. Each party might have to make small sacrifices.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't try to sidestep difficult decisions today. Base your judgments upon what's best for all, then stand by your guns if you believe you're right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Shoptalk with persons you know socially could lead to being able to help one another careerwise. Make known what you have to offer.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 19) Difficult situations will have a way of resolving themselves in surprisingly simple ways today. Don't allow yourself to be intimidated by paper dragons.

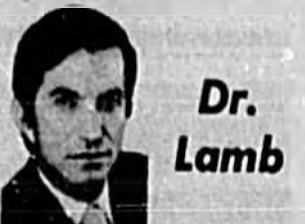

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a knack today for spotting advantageous propositions, especially if they benefit those you care for as well as yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Two opportunities to add to your resources may develop today. One will be through a usual channel; the other will be new.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have a good rapport with cliques from every strata today. Be it a young group or an older one, you'll still fit in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The ladder to success is mounted one rung at a time today, so don't be dismayed if rewards for your efforts come in small portions.

Heavy Drinker Not Willing To Abstain

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been diagnosed as an alcoholic neuropathy victim. I drink some alcohol each day and for the past year my extremities have been numb and tingle periodically.

My doctor told me to quit drinking. I'm willing to cut down but not quit. If I do have this condition and continue to drink, what will happen? Will I become paralyzed? I've been prescribing myself massive doses of B-1, B-6 and B-12. I also take stress tabs and a B-complex vitamin and I think the B's have helped me. But I don't want to delude myself too much.

I'm a 45-year-old male and have been drinking steadily since I turned 15.

What do you think?
DEAR READER — I think you are playing with fire. You need some help to stop your alcohol habit.

A large portion of the defects in your nerve fibers that cause alcoholic neuropathy are usually caused by nutritional deficiencies. And the B vitamins in large amounts do help to correct these deficiencies.

But not everyone has a complete recovery from the neuropathy even if they have adequate large doses of B vitamins and stop drinking alcohol.

Unless the problem is checked you can have muscle wasting and further loss in sensation. You can have burning and pain which may be difficult to relieve for you.

Beyond that, anyone who has drunk enough alcohol to cause alcoholic neuropathy and continues to drink most likely has or will develop serious liver disease and may develop damage to the heart muscle. Almost every bodily system can be adversely affected. Please quit for your own sake.

I am sending you The Health Letter 14-6.

Alcohol Can Be Dangerous to Your Health, which will give you a better appreciation of its effects. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You and other men might be interested to know that alcohol is a feminizing drug. It does affect male hormone levels and male hormone production.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been taking Procardia for about a year for my heart. I have been on a low-fat diet to control my cholesterol. My cholesterol is normal and I have had two electrocardiograms that are normal.

I take three Procardia tablets a day. Should I continue to take this medication even though my tests are normal when I stay on this diet to control my cholesterol?

DEAR READER — The wisest course of action in most instances is to never stop the medicines your doctor has given you without discussing it with him. You can make a big mistake otherwise.

Procardia is what doctors call a calcium channel blocker. That means it prevents calcium from entering the smooth muscles in the walls of your arteries, which, in turn, prevents arterial contractions or spasms. In this way it prevents heart pain called angina pectoris and may increase the arterial blood flow to your heart muscle. Its action is different from that of your diet. Don't stop without your doctor's agreement.

fore continuing diamonds. East won the fourth diamond, and now we see the wisdom of South's play in cashing one high club. Poor East was caught in an end play. He had to lead away from the heart or spade queen to give South his twelfth trick.

Suppose South had failed to cash that second club. East would have been able to get out with a club.

South would still be able to make his twelfth trick by a squeeze against East in hearts and spades, but he might well have gone wrong. In any event, he would have fretted and fumed for a long time.

Why didn't South cash three clubs to guard against East's having three cards in that suit? Because if West held four cards in each minor suit or held five clubs and four diamonds, South would have lost the minor-suit timing. After all, there were only 10 top tricks. South needed to set up a long club or diamond before going after an extra major-suit trick.

ABC Takes Inside-Out Look At Tinsel Town

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC's "Eye on Hollywood" premieres tonight (on channel 9) with an entertaining look at the wackier side of life in Southern California, from the muscle men of Venice Beach to the "low riders" of Hollywood Boulevard.

More fun than just the usual star interviews, the half-hour summer series hosted by Chuck Henry, Tawny Schneider and Johnny Mountain, gives viewers a glimpse of some of the West Coast's real people.

This week's show opens at 8 p.m. with a segment on trying to make it in Hollywood, which shows there are all sorts of ways it can — and usually doesn't — happen.

First, it's off to a "cattle call," one of those mass auditions where hundreds of dancers, singers and actors turn up every day to audition for the bit part that might be their break.

Miss Schneider notes that 85 percent of Hollywood's 53,000 unionized actors are unemployed on any given day, but that doesn't mean the days of the overnight star are over entirely.

Pia Zadora admits in an interview that she had a lot of help from her wealthy husband, but she defends her commute by limousine lifestyle saying, "I work twice as hard as the next guy to prove I'm serious."

Tess Harper's sudden success in "Tender Mercies" and Jennifer Beal's coup with "Flashdance" also are featured in the show.

Film alone does not Southern California make. There are cars and freeways.

"They all have homes with no furniture but they drive cars they can't afford," comments one man the street in the Rolls Royces capital of the world.

"You are what you drive," another passerby sums it up.

But those Rolls and Ferraris and "chintzy" Mercedes aren't the only vessels that rule the ways in Southern California.

On Hollywood Boulevard it's the "low riders" in their rebuilt classic model cars and along the freeways there are the "Bonzai Runners" — guys "who spend $100,000 so they can laugh at the speed limit."

As one Bonzai Runner puts it, sometimes he's afraid of running into something — not because he might get hurt, but because his car might get hurt.

"Eye on Hollywood" also has a segment on the attraction even today of Rod Serling's television classic "Twilight Zone," and a trip to Sea World in San Diego where Mountain parties with the penguins.

Finally there's Venice Beach, L.A.'s tangled jungle of roller skaters, body builders and — just like those commercials on TV — California girls.

ABC fills an hour and a half of prime time Friday with two rejected pilots, a situation comedy about life at a girls' prep school that goes coed, and a detective story that's so dull even star Nick Mancuso sounds bored.

"Too Good to Be True" airing from 8:30-9 p.m. involves the madcap adventures of eight teenage boys enrolled in the first co-ed class of an all-girls prep school.

As in "Porky's," the popular peek show of the big screen, there's lots of time spent by the boys plotting a way to catch a glimpse of the girls in the shower.

The pilot's plot revolves around a race for the student council presidency and the boys decide that despite being outnumbered 400-8, they're going to win — using dirty tricks, including a break in.

So much for preppy politics. So much for role models. From 9-10 p.m., Mancuso and Lisa Eichhorn star in "Feel the Heat" as an ex-cop and a state's attorney who try to find the killer of a Florida Keys drug dealer.

The story opens with a Mancuso voice over giving a brief history of his island, Key Blanco — shades of the Humphrey Bogart film "Key Largo." And like another Bogie classic, "Casablanca," the characters drink at a joint called "Rick's."

For a detective "thriller" there's nothing to keep you on the edge of your seat — except the urge to get up and turn the dial.

FAA Official Warns

'We Don't Need John Waynes In The Cabins' Of Aircraft

MIAMI (UPI) — Although two recent hijackings have been foiled by passengers who overpowered air pirates, a Federal Aviation Administration official says there's no place on airplanes for John Wayne-type heroes.

"That's something we don't like to see. We don't need...we're not looking to have John Waynes in the cabins," said Jack Barker, FAA spokesman.

In the past two weeks, two would-be hijackers who attempted to divert flights to Havana were foiled by angry passengers who subdued them.

Speaking to Miami's political Tiger Bay Club Wednesday, Barker described an incident that occurred in the late 1970s when a hijacker had doused an airplane lavatory with gasoline, and flight attendants had to physically restrain angry passengers who wanted to break down the door and attack the hijacker.

"If they had done that, the hijacker would have flipped his cigarette lighter and the whole thing would have been a disaster," Barker said. "Passengers are better off if they just stay in their seats and follow the instructions of the flight attendants and the crew," he added.

In the latest incident, Tuesday, an unnamed hijacker was overpowered by a former airline employee and his teenage son during a Pan Am flight from Miami to Houston.

Barker conceded the passengers had foiled the hijackings without injuring anyone and without damaging the aircraft, but said things could have been different if the would-be hijackers had carried volatile weapons.

Barker said the FAA's view of the incidents was, "all's well that ends well," but said the agency can not encourage or condone airplane vigilantes.

Two weeks ago, a would-be hijacker who held a 2-inch folding knife against a stewardess' stomach was foiled when two Miami businessmen on the Northwest Orient flight grabbed the knife and wrestled the hijacker to the floor.

"They didn't have guns that could have shot holes in the cabin or explosives that could have gone off," Barker said.

GM Vows To Fight Recall Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Motors Corp., denying it tried to conceal a brake defect in its 1980 X-cars, vows to fight a government suit calling for a recall of 1.1 million automobiles and a $4 million fine.

The government filed a complaint Wednesday asking a U.S. District Court in Washington to recall all 1980 model X-cars for brake repairs and to impose the unprecedented $4 million fine on GM for trying to cover up the problem.

The No. 1 auto maker immediately vowed to contest the suit.

"We categorically deny the government's assertion of misrepresentation," GM's assistant general counsel, William Weber Jr., said from Detroit.

The suit was unexpected, Weber said, and "it is especially unwarranted in view of the fact that GM has cooperated fully with (the government) to develop the facts which will show clearly that no further recall or other corrective action is appropriate."

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole called the complaint "one of the most serious ever filed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration" and said it "reflects the priority this department has for automobile safety."

The suit, filed by the Justice Department for the traffic safety agency, claims GM knew before it began producing its front-wheel-drive 1980 X-cars — the Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Buick Skylark and Oldsmobile Omega — that the rear wheels had a tendency to lock prematurely.

At least 1,740 owners have complained of rear wheel lock-ups causing skidding or loss of control, resulting in numerous accidents and at least 71 injuries and 15 deaths.

The suit asks that GM be fined and ordered to recall and repair all 1980 model X-cars "without charge to the owners."

The lawsuit accused GM of going ahead with production, even though its own tests had spotted the problem, and of failing to notify owners or government highway safety officials of the defect.

Although GM recalled 47,000 of the cars in 1981 and 240,000 more in 1983 to repair the brake problems, the suit said, the recalls were inadequate. The repairs did not completely correct the defect and the recalls did not cover all the 1.1 million X-cars manufactured between January 1979 and August 1980, the government alleged.

The suit also charged GM gave at least 25 "false and misleading" responses in the course of the government's investigation into the brake defects, both before and after the agency publicly announced in January 1983 that there was a brake problem with the cars.

For example, GM allegedly understated the number of complaints it had received from owners, misstated the source of the braking problem, failed to turn over all the documents requested by the government and downplayed the safety risk of the defect, according to court papers.

Assistant Attorney General J. Paul McGrath said it is the first time the government has used its powers under the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act to seek a fine against an automaker for making false statements during a safety investigation.

GM changed its brake design beginning in its 1981 models.

Credit Aid To Third World Squeaks By

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House narrowly approved, by a 217-211 vote, an increase in U.S. credit through the International Monetary Fund to cash-short economies from South America to Eastern Europe.

The slim majority tallied late Wednesday, guaranteeing the IMF up to $8.4 billion if needed, revealed a new reluctance by legislators to support international monetary rescue efforts.

A variety of conservative groups joined late in the debate to lobby for rejection, reinforcing an already strong reluctance by congressmen to vote for international lending authority when unemployment was high back home.

The margin of approval was as small as three votes just before some legislators changed their minds as the vote ended.

President Reagan says he is anxious to sign the measure following a routine consolidation of the House version with a nearly identical IMF measure already passed by the Senate.

The administration earlier promised the increase in the IMF credit guarantees to other wealthy industrialized nations, which together with the United States set contribution quotas. Not to fulfill that promise would be a "wicked embarrassment," Reagan told reluctant Republicans at one point.

Opponents of the legislation, saying it benefitted foolish banks more than needy countries, hoped the long debate and near defeat would serve as a clear warning to the IMF and large private lenders that further U.S. help could not be taken for granted.

Managers of the bill had to withdraw it last week when they could not count on enough support as some opponents said they were ready to force debtor nations into bankruptcy.

Many congressmen, some of them supporters of the legislation, used the opportunity to criticize private banks for both their lending policies to countries like Brazil and Mexico and the highly profitable fees to refinance the past-due debt.

IMF loans are usually followed by much larger bank loans, but at much higher rates and for briefer periods of time.

Because of debt crises through much of South America, Mexico and even some Eastern European economies, the IMF has been lending money at about double the rate of last year — equivalent to $7.3 billion through June — and has promised even more funds at about three times last year's commitment pace.

The IMF's stiff conditions for the borrowing are forcing wrenching economic adjustments in Brazil, which has just imposed severe currency restrictions.

Women Awarded $18,000 In Sex Harassment Suit

BOSTON (UPI) — Two women were awarded more than $18,000 because a state agency ruled they were illegally forced to quit their jobs at a convenience store for refusing to wear short-skirts or mini-skirts.

"Forcing the complainants to wear short-skirts or short skirts in their work environment... constituted sexual harassment," Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination Commissioner Margot P. Kosberg ruled Wednesday.

The complaints were filed by the two women in 1974, who worked at Harney's Superstore in the Cape Cod town of Dennis.

Among Ms. Kosberg's findings was the allegation that Fred Harney, the then-owner of the convenience store, was handicapped and once used his crutch to lift the skirt of Gail Engel, one of the stock workers, then laughed. Ms. Engel said she had asked Harney to excuse her from the dress requirement because of varicose veins.

"On other occasions, Fred Harney would prod and poke the female employees with his crutch," the commission found.

Ms. Engel, who was paid $2.65 per hour for a 30-hour week, was awarded $10,538.62 in back pay and emotional damages. Janet Cassell Brodeur, who worked 35 hours a week at $2.40 an hour, was awarded $8,030.21. The ages of the women were not given and Harney was unavailable for comment.

Ms. Engel's lost wages during that time totaled $4,134 and Ms. Brodeur's $2,912.

Ms. Fosberg said the work of the two women entailed "general stooping, bending and reaching" and "walking up and down open risers with men working around the area."

She said "these dress requirements were designed solely to display complainants' bodies because of their sex" and "the only purpose served by exposing women in this fashion was the sexual titillation of Fred Harney, respondent's male employees or its customers."

Harney did not appear at the June 22, 1982 hearing that led to the decision. He informed the commission he went bankrupt in 1976 and moved to Florida.

According to the commission's findings, Ms. Engel suffered emotional distress at the loss of her employment and, felt "rejected, angry, humiliated and depressed and lost confidence in herself."

County Salary Turns-Off Applicants

Hiring Asst. Engineer Slices More From Pay Pie

Seminole County commissioners discovered this week they can't hire an assistant county engineer for $22,298 — their designated starting salary for the post.

So they voted unanimously to pay $28,000 to snare Larry Sellers, a state Department of Transportation planning engineer.

Sellers, who has worked for 10 years with the DOT and came highly recommended by County Engineer Bill Bush, said he wouldn't take less than $28,000. And the only other two applicants said they wouldn't consider the job for less than $31,000 and $27,000 respectively.

The hiring comes as the county gears up to meet increased transportation needs. They also approved a plan to hire a deputy executive director for the Seminole County Expressway Authority at a $26,966 annual salary. Applications are now being taken for the post.

Bush said Sellers' experience with DOT would prove invaluable in dealing with Seminole County's transportation needs.

He is a graduate of Seminole Community College and "has first hand knowledge of the complexities of state and federal transportation funding, gas tax, grant and other funding sources," Bush said.

Sellers also would be qualified to succeed Bush when he retires in two years.

Special board action was needed to hire Sellers because of his salary. The job had been advertised three times.

The expressway authority deputy director will be responsible for carrying out the projects of the authority, a group formed to plan for construction of toll roads in the county, and will answer to Public Works Director Jack Schuder, who is executive director of the expressway authority.

Funding for the post will come from a $109,000 loan the county received from the state to get its expressway authority started. Funding for Sellers' job comes from county taxes.—Michael Beha

Senator John Vogt

Vogt Takes Prize For Environment Vote Record

Only State Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, of the seven member Seminole County Legislative delegation, received a good report card for his votes on conservation issues during the 1983 sessions of the Florida Legislature.

Former state Rep. Dick Batchelor, representing the Florida League of Conservation Voters, announced that organization's report cards for legislators at a press conference in Orlando, Thursday.

Batchelor said scores were given to the 40 state senators and 120 state representatives based on their votes on key conservation legislation. In the case of House members their votes were tallied on the basis of their voting records on eight pieces of legislation while senate members were judged on the basis of their votes on six proposed bills.

The senate floor votes concerned bills:

—Adding North Peninsula Barrier Island in Volusia County to the eminent domain bill allowing the Department of Natural Resources to use eminent domain power for the purchase of this land.

—Adding Big Talbot Island in Duval County to the eminent domain bill.

—Requiring an additional 50-cent motor vehicle license registration fee to be placed in the Department of Environmental Regulation Air Pollution Control Trust Fund.

—Lowering standards for obtaining a water pollution operation permit. "A correct vote is a no vote," said the Florida League of Conservation Voters.

—Creating a Choctawhatchee Bay Causeway-Bridge Authority for the purpose of constructing a causeway-bridge traversing Choctawhatchee Bay. The governor later vetoed the bill. Again the Florida League of Conservation voters said the correct vote is a no vote.

—Deleting language changing boundaries of the St. Johns River Water Management District which "would have had a negative impact on its funding," said the organization.

With these issues as the basis for the report card, the League of Conservative Voters rated the votes of Sen. Toni Jennings, R-Orlando, zero; Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, zero, and Vogt, 66 percent.

Meanwhile, House members were judged on their votes on the following eight proposed bills:

—Authorizing the state Department of Natural Resources to acquire certain parcels of land for conservation purposes by the use of eminent domain.

—Requiring an additional 50-cent motor vehicle license registration fee to be placed in the Department of Environmental Regulation Air Pollution Trust Fund.

Tax Use

County Has A 'Hammer' To Keep Cities In Line

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

County Administrator T. Duncan Rose put Seminole County's seven cities on notice that they had better not "piddle away" their share of revenues from the recently imposed 4-cent gasoline tax because the county commission will be watching.

"If we hear complaints about how the money is being used, we will look at changing the distribution formula," Rose said, adding "this is the county's big hammer."

"The soft voice is that we don't expect to get into that situation," the administrator said. "We expect that the city officials are politicians and will use the money wisely. The board of county commissioners levied the tax and it is accountable for how the tax money is spent. That is the bottom line," Rose said.

Rose, in response to a question asked at a meeting in July, reported to the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County this week that the state law authorizing counties to impose up to a 4-cents per gallon gasoline tax for up to 10 years is "silent" about how that money will be shared with the cities after the first year.

Rose said it is clear that the county had to use a formula suggested by the state for distribution of the tax revenues the first year. The formula calls for computing all the money spent on transportation needs for the previous five years by the cities and the county and then computing the a percentage of the total spent by each governing unit. Each unit then gets the same percentage of the gas tax revenue.

The formula showed that the cities combined should receive 35 percent of the revenue and the county 65 percent. Of the $3.4 million anticipated during the 1983-84 fiscal year, the cities will share about $1.2 million and the county about $2.2 million.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said that Rose, in saying the law is silent about distribution after the first year, was relaying her legal opinion given to the county commission during a work session.

However, Larry Churchill, legislative analyst for the Florida House of Representatives minority (Republican) office disagreed with Miss Clayton's interpretation today.

He said the law is clear that the method set forth in an ordinance in the various counties of the state for sharing the local gas tax revenues with the cities must be adhered to throughout the period of the tax cited in the ordinance.

In Seminole County's case the ordinance says the gas tax will be levied for a period of 10 years.

Churchill says in that case the distribution formula cannot be changed and the period of time (the five years prior to first setting the tax) used to set the distribution percentages also cannot be changed.

It is Churchill's job to interpret legislation for the Republican members of the Florida House.

Miss Clayton responded that law can be interpreted in a good many different ways. "The law does not specifically address years 2, 3, and 4 and so on with a distribution formula. It is silent and there is no prohibition against negotiation subsequently so that would lead one to conclude that a formula for distribution can change," the county attorney said.

"This indicates a failure by the Legislature to anticipate all the questions which might arise out of litigation," Miss Clayton.

"I don't disagree with his (Churchill's) interpretation. Part of what makes the world go round is differences. Just as he has his opinion, I have mine," she said.

Rose added that the law can be interpreted in a good many different ways. "The only appropriate place to resolve it would be in the courts," he said.

Rose reported to the Council of Local Governments that the cities' share of the revenues from the 4 cent tax, will total 1.4 cents or $1.19 million the first year.

That allocation will see the cities receiving the following percentages and amounts: Sanford 9.7 percent, $316,778; Altamonte Springs, 8.4 percent, $276,165; Casselberry, 7.6 percent, $243,675; Longwood, 4.6 percent, $146,205; Winter Springs, 2.9 percent, $97,407; Lake Mary, 1 percent, $32,490, and Oviedo .8 percent, $24,367.

"These numbers demonstrate the necessity of recognizing road needs while ignoring city and county boundaries. Problems occur based on need rather than boundaries," Rose said, adding that the amounts of money which will go to the cities surprised the county staff.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, the county delegate to the council, said that the distribution method suggested in the state law is "probably the fairest way to divvy up the money."

"If this formula doesn't work out to the benefit of all the citizens, we may look at it again," Kirchhoff said.

A Shocking Spill

Seminole County Fire fighter Bob Kelley checks out a spill of auto batteries scattered along the east bound lane of Interstate-4 near the Sanford exit at Lake Monroe about 3 p.m. Thursday. A truck carrying them blew a tire and flipped over blocking the highway. The truck's driver, William J. Collins, 21, of Palatka, and passenger, Steven D. Mesimer, 34, of Orlando received minor cuts and scrapes. Florida Highway Trooper Bob Lovering, investigating officer, said no charges would be filed.

District's Students Gobbling More Hot Lunches

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Eleven percent more Seminole County students bought school lunches during 1982-83 than in the previous year, a sign that efforts to increase student participation are working, according to a school official.

D.K. Kirkpatrick, assistant food service director, said 2,843,387 lunches — an average of about 15,800 per day — were served last year, compared to 2,563,198 — about 14,240 per day — served the previous year. The district has more than 36,000 students.

Kirkpatrick said the increase in participation will make it possible for the district to keep lunch prices at their current level — 90 cents for elementary students and $1 for secondary students — and still reduce the district subsidy provided to the food service budget.

Last year, the district took $196,000 from its general fund to subsidize the food service budget. School lunches are funded by federal subsidies and the students and teachers who eat them. If the program does not make enough to pay its bills the district must pay the difference. This year, he said, $163,500 is being sought for food service, including $46,200 for installation of finishing kitchens at several schools, a move which should increase lunch participation further.

Kirkpatrick said he'll recommend that the school board accept those plans at a school board meeting Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Better menus, more popular food items, salad bars and a positive attitude are the prime reasons for the increase in participation, he said.

School managers are allowed to choose their own menu five times each month, he said, allowing them to serve the foods which are most popular at their schools. Additionally, menus are posted a day in advance to let students know when their favorites will be served.

Salad bars were placed in the middle schools this year and the enthusiastic response was greater than anticipated. Kirkpatrick said. At Teague Middle school more than 200 students eat salads every day.

"The big thing is we've had a lot of support from the school board, the administration and the schools," Kirkpatrick said.

That support has not always been there.

Throughout the 1970s school lunch participation declined steadily. A district study released last year placed the blame on the district's satellite lunch program, begun in the early 1970s to conserve space.

That program converted kitchens and dining rooms at some schools into classrooms to cope with growing enrollment. A few kitchens were kept open and food was prepared there, then transported to the schools.

But the food was often not very good, cold or both, the study revealed and many students brown-bagged it instead.

As a result of the report, school board members voted to restore the kitchen and dining areas which had been closed and to include those facilities in all new schools.

Last year finishing kitchens, where school meals are either cooked or warmed, were installed at Eastbrook Elementary School and Jackson Heights Middle School. Kirkpatrick said the impact of those kitchens has not been felt yet. But already plans exist for installing finishing kitchens at Rock Lake and Milwee middle schools and Lawton, Woodlands and Wekiva elementary schools. District officials plan to install either a finishing kitchen or a full kitchen at Rosenwald Exceptional Child Care Center.

Pizza and tacos were served more often at the schools in 1982-83. Kirkpatrick said and he expects those items will be popular again this year. But new items like burritos and chicken filets will be added in hopes of further increasing.

"The feeling is positive and we want to keep building on it," he said.

Search Is On For 'Donated' Jewelry

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

A Goodwill executive says a thorough search by his staff has turned up no trace of the nearly $8,000 worth of jewelry that a Longwood woman says her 7-year-old son inadvertently 'donated' to a Goodwill store in Sanford earlier this week.

The Rev. Thomas Jackson, executive director of Goodwill Industries Inc. in Orlando, today said that Goodwill employees opened the puzzle box which reportedly contained the jewels but found only costume jewelry.

Katherine Delk said Thursday that she had hidden the jewels in a puzzle box last month and that her son donated the box to Goodwill, not knowing that it contained the jewelry.

Jackson said the box and some other items donated by the Delks was dropped off at the Sanford Goodwill store at 300 E. First St. Monday by Mrs. Delk. He said the items were not opened or examined by Sanford Goodwill employees. He said the items were routinely picked up by a Goodwill truck Tuesday and brought to the main Goodwill plant at 6400 S. Orange Ave. in Orlando for sorting and distribution, to the 10 Goodwill stores in Central Florida.

Jackson said all boxes and packages donated to Goodwill are opened and their contents examined. He said that, contrary to one report, no box is ever discarded without being opened.

Jackson said the costume jewelry was routinely transported to one of the Goodwill stores in Central Florida. He said he wasn't sure which store it was sent to but employees in all the stores had been asked to check the costume jewelry in their stores to make sure that no real jewelry had been inadvertently mixed with it.

Mrs. Delk said she hid the jewels in the puzzle box to prevent them from being stolen while she was out of town last month.

She said the lost items included a $1,200 gold bracelet, a 32-inch pearl necklace worth $1,500 and jewelry that she wore on her wedding day and an 1899 solid gold $20 Liberty coin, worth about $1,300.

Back To Work

For the first time in a year, the nation's unemployment rate has fallen below the double-digit level, dropping to 9.5 percent in July. The new figure was a half percentage point below June's 10 percent.

Congress Starts Vacation With Much Left Undone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress concentrated on measures that could be passed with a minimum of controversy on the last legislative day before starting a five-week vacation today.

Among the items waiting for Congressmen when they return to work Sept. 12 will be:

—The dairy legislation, which would provide cash incentives for farmers who reduced their milk output and would put into effect a series of reductions in the milk support price.

—A House-passed measure limiting the president's power to fire members of the Civil Rights Commission and renewing the commission for five years. Senate action is pending.

—A $268.6 billion military spending bill that would allow the government to resume production of lethal nerve gas.

—A compromise that would increase the U.S. contribution to the International Monetary Fund by $8.4 billion.

Lavelle Indicted For Perjury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rita Lavelle, whose firing triggered a major controversy at the Environmental Protection Agency, apparently will be the only EPA official to face criminal charges as a result of a sweeping FBI investigation.

The charges against Ms. Lavelle, who headed EPA's $1.6 billion Superfund toxic waste cleanup program, were leveled just two weeks after she was acquitted of a lesser contempt of Congress charge for refusing to appear before a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee.

The new indictment charges Ms. Lavelle perjured herself when she denied manipulating Superfund cleanup funds to assist Republican congressional candidates, and participated in a case affecting her former employer, Aerojet-General Corp.

Selph Honored By Lawmen

State Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, has been named co-recipient of the Florida Sheriff Association's "Most Effective Freshman Representative for Law Enforcement" award.

The award was presented to Selph by Seminole County Sheriff John Polk and Sheriff's Association Executive Director Jim York at a recent meeting of the Central Florida law enforcement agencies.

Polk and York praised Selph's hard work on behalf of law enforcement during the recent legislative sessions, specifically his sponsorship of a bill which places primary responsibility for an arrested person's medical expenses upon the arrested person.

State Rep. Alzo Reddick, D-Orlando, was the other recipient of the award.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: The Plains cooked under the pressure of the dog days of summer, with temperatures soaring past 100 as far north as Canada and thousands of acres of crops withering by the day. Hundreds of lightning bolts sparked fires in tinder-dry Idaho. Forecasters said the hot weather would linger at least through today. A 77-year-old St. Louis woman found unconscious in her home, which was not air-conditioned, became the 51st heat victim in a month in the hard-hit city. Nearly 200 deaths nationwide have been blamed on the heat. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered from the Atlantic Coast through east Texas Thursday and several waterspouts and funnel clouds were sighted near Baytown, Texas on Galveston Bay. Forecaster Hugh Crowther at the National Severe Storms Forecast Center said showers and thunderstorms would cool the East and Southeast. In Louisiana, water stood 18 inches deep in about 40 Mamou houses, leaving up to 140 people homeless for another night. Many of them stayed with relatives and friends and about 50 people stayed at a Baptist church in the south central Louisiana town.

Unemployment Rate Falls To 9.5 Percent

More Americans Heading Back To Work

By Drew Von Bergen
UPI Labor Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate plunged to 9.5 percent in July, the lowest in over a year, as nearly 500,000 Americans found jobs, the Labor Department reported today.

It was the first time since last August that the civilian jobless rate has fallen below the double-digit level and added fuel to Reagan administration projections that the economy is turning around.

The 9.5 percent seasonally adjusted level was a dramatic decline of a half percentage point from June's 10 percent level and is 1.3 percentage points below the recession high of 10.8 percent last December.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said 10.6 million workers were still unemployed, 556,000 below June's level, as the size of the civilian labor force remained unchanged.

Total employment rose by 499,000 over the month to 101.3 million.

A separate jobless rate, which includes 1.7 million military workers as part of the work force dropped from June's 9.8 percent level to 9.3 percent.

The 9.5 percent rate for the civilian work force was the lowest since June 1982, when it was the same 9.5 percent.

The bureau said the July decline in joblessness occurred primarily among adult women, whose rate fell 0.7 percentage points to 7.9 percent. The rate for adult men declined slightly from 9 percent to 8.8 percent.

Teenage unemployment remained high, however, at 22.8 percent, although down 0.8 percentage points from June, while the rate for black teenagers dropped from 50.6 percent to 48.1 percent.

For all black workers, the rate reflected a substantial over-the-month decline, dropping from 20.6 percent to 19.5 percent. Hispanic workers also saw a decline from 14 percent to 12.3 percent during July.

Labor Statistics Commissioner Janet Norwood said the labor market has "improved substantially" in testimony prepared for delivery to a congressional Joint Economic Committee hearing.

"The improvement in the labor market was especially strong in July," she said. "Employment growth continued to be substantial, and the unemployment rate declined a half percentage point to the lowest level in more than a year."

She said a separate survey of businesses showed widespread jobs gains, with particular strength in services, construction, and durable goods manufacturing.

She added that the manufacturing work week continued to edge up, reaching 40.3 percent in July, an hour and a half above the recession low last September.

State Rep. Thomas Drage, R-Orlando, received the highest rating of Seminole County's House members at 43 percent.

Meanwhile Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, was given a rating of 13 percent, while state Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, received an identical 13 percent and state Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, was given a rating of 25 percent.

Batchelor said the LCV is a very active political action committee that has representatives from almost every environmental group in the nation active among its membership.

"They lobby the Congress and the Legislatures, issue voting record reports on key environmental issues, organize political efforts on behalf of candidates, raise campaign funds and are very active in many campaigns," Batchelor said.

The former state legislator said he will be assisting in organizing a local political action committee to raise money and assist candidates who are supportive of environmental measures.

George Shelton, another former legislator and state president of the league, said, "This report card on the Legislature is an effort to hold public officials accountable for the votes they cast concerning conservation in this state and is an indication that conservationists throughout Florida are prepared to become politically active."

Candidate Predicts Voters Will Turn Down Road Tax

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A candidate in Lake Mary's Sept. 6 election predicts the city's voters will turn down a proposal to impose a special property tax for road paving and road repair.

Martin Bacon Sr., a former councilman and a candidate again this year, said the "people are talking" about the issue. "I don't think the tax will go through."

Bacon criticized the city's commission Thursday night for failing to explain their intentions for using the money—estimated at $125,000 annually—generated from the proposed property tax of $1.50 per $1,000 assessed value.

Saying building a water supply system should be the city's first priority, Bacon advised the commission to float a bond issue for funding construction of such a system.

Currently, Lake Mary gets its water from Sanford and city officials have said it's time for Lake Mary to prepare to take over that function itself.

Lake Mary Commissioner Ray Fox, who came up with the idea for a property tax referendum, explained to Bacon that the tax for the road paving and repair is not intended to substitute or replace the city's initiatives toward acquiring its own water supply.

He said the resulting revenues from the special tax, which would expire in two years and be collected beginning with the 1984-85 fiscal year, would be used by the city to pay the costs of such things as paving streets, intersections and drainage. Fox said the city would assess property owners for the cost of the portion of paving in front of their homes.

And Mayor Walter Sorenson said certainly no one believes that the city could possibly pave all its streets with the $250,000 in revenues it would receive from the special tax for the two years.

The commission unanimously adopted an ordinance Thursday night authorizing the paving referendum to be placed on the Sept. 6 municipal election ballot.

In other election matters, the commission confirmed Sorenson's appointments of Pat Thompson, Millie Murray, Alice Moughton, Virginia Nelson and Gwen Butler to the election board.

BICYCLE STOLEN

Someone removed a red Columbia 12-speed 26-inch bicycle from an open garage of a Sanford home between 6:45 and 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Oswald B. Adams Jr., 30, of 705 E. 14th St., reported the loss.

LAWN MOWER LIFTED

A lawn mower and a power edger, worth a total of $860, were taken from the backyard of a Sanford home between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Adrian Hodges, 64, of 2512 Clairmont Ave., said the equipment had been secured to a shed by a lock and chain.

BAT CRAZY

A Casselberry motorist says another driver hit his windshield with a baseball bat as the two cars passed at 6:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Mark Edmond Letcher, 30, of 211 Brighton Way, told Seminole deputies he was driving on State Road 436 near Howell Branch Road when the driver of a passing car held a baseball bat out of his window, struck Letcher's windshield and broke it.

GATE STOLEN

Someone removed a barbed wire gate and two wooden gate posts from a cattle ranch located west of Missouri Road and off Orange Boulevard near Sanford between 3 p.m. Friday and 5:16 p.m. Wednesday.

The owner of the cattle, Henry A. Tanner, 65, said the thieves cut a combination lock and a chain and took those items also. He gave no estimate of the value of the stolen property.

GROCERY BURGLARIZED

Responding to an anonymous tip, a Seminole deputy sheriff drove to a Sanford area grocery store at 2:38 a.m. today where he found the front door of the store open with glass on the ground near the door. Across the street, he found a large quantity of wine, beer and sunglasses which apparently had been taken from the store lying on the ground.

The owner of the Midway Grocery Store, 2415 Sipes Ave., was notified of the incident. He had not checked his store for possible missing merchandise at the time the deputy's report was filed.

DIRT BIKE TAKEN

A yellow Suzuki dirt motorcycle, valued at $800, was stolen from a Sanford youth's home between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Sammuel George Hastings, 14, of 102 S. Sunland Drive, said the thief cut a window screen to enter the patio where the bike was parked.

MX, Nerve Gas Given Tentative OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators approved a $268.6 billion military spending bill Thursday night that includes authorization to build the first MX missiles and a controversial provision to resume nerve gas production for the first time since 1969.

The conferees completed action a few hours after the full House and Senate had adjourned for a five-week vacation, having worked in closed session for five days to resolve differences between House and Senate versions of the defense authorization bill.

If approved by both chambers upon their return Sept. 12, the compromise legislation would go to President Reagan.

After resolving the MX and nerve gas issues earlier in the week, the conferees dealt with several sticky issues in the final hours. The compromise bill:

- Increases U.S. troop strength, now at 2.1 million, by about 10,000, less than a third of what Reagan wanted. It also includes provisions strengthening the reserves and the National Guard.

- Requires the president to certify that development of anti-satellite weapons is in the national interest, and that he is negotiating in good faith a ban on weapons in outer space with the Soviet Union. "We fought hard to keep it and we did keep it," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich.
- Requires the Pentagon to adopt regulations setting limits on cost growth of spare parts, a reaction to recent revelations of huge cost increases in the past few years.
- Establishes an independent weapons testing office in the Pentagon.
- Eliminates Senate-passed language imposing restrictions on public release of information on military aircraft accidents.

Jack Landau of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, said the action "shows that the Congress realizes the importance of public accountability of the military when air disasters occur."

The conferees refused to accept House language authored by Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., urging that U.S. troops not be used to overthrow the government of Nicaragua.

Conferees earlier agreed to authorize actual production of 21 MX missiles in 1984, rather than the 27 called for by the administration and contained in the Senate version. They also agreed to tie deployment of the missile to progress in development of a smaller, less threatening missile dubbed "Midgetman."

There was strong opposition by several House members to the negotiators' decision to resume nerve gas production, which has been banned for 14 years.

New Mental Health Director Named

A New York man has been named to head the Seminole County Mental Health Center.

James P. Berko, 40, head of a Wingdale, N.Y. psychiatric center was unanimously selected by the center's board of directors Thursday night to replace Dr. George Lindendorf.

Lindendorf was forced to resign in February amidst a controversy about his management practices at the center.

A. Brooks Cagle has been working as interim director. He will remain in that position until Berko takes over on Aug. 17.

Berko, who has been director of community services at Harlem Valley Psychiatric Center for the past three years, will be paid $38,500 annually.

He is a graduate of Albright College in Reading, Pa., and has a master's degree in social psychiatry group work from Rutgers University.

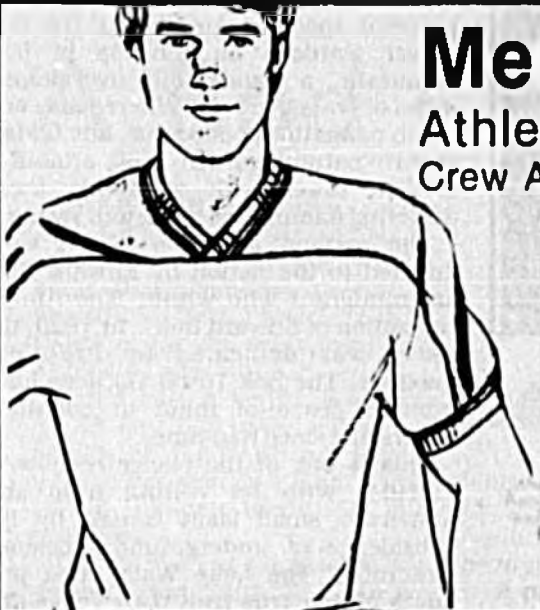

Prior to taking over as head of the New York center, Berko was executive director of the Community Health Center of Passaic, N.J.

Lindendorf was forced to resign after a state advisory board reviewing operations at the center expressed concern about employee morale.

Several center supervisors quit in the months prior to Lindendorf's departure, citing management differences with the director.

...Federal Red Inking

Federal deficits should be smaller. You agree? Naturally. But, there may be as much to fear from the fear of deficits as from the deficits themselves. For one thing, those looming deficits, as William Safire put it recently, aren't looming anymore. They're here. And they have not yet crushed the economy.

For another, they're now expected not to loom, but to shrink, thanks to the robust Reagan recovery. Indeed, the deficit will fall from $210 billion this year to $129 billion by 1986 and $82 billion in 1988. OMB says — provided Congress and the Federal Reserve do nothing to botch up the supply-side boom. Still, it would be nice to bring those totals even lower, and there are two classic options: spend less money, and collect more taxes.

Spending less on defense has been ruled out by Ronald Reagan, and spending less on the poor meets a veto from Tip O'Neill Inc. The consensus is that, with those two items ruled out, nothing significant can be cut from the budget. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Actually, a significant share of the federal budget goes not to tanks and starving infants, but to everything from overpaid bureaucrats to Ralph Nader to Exxon Corp. Last year, the Heritage Foundation, a private research group, drew up $110 billion worth of savings that could be achieved without reducing the money actually spent on the poor, or national security, by a penny.

Democrats and Republicans in Congress have rejected a proposed $8.4 billion to bail out foreign debtors and U.S. banks via the International Monetary Fund. De-funding big business and big lobbyists is not only wise, but politically popular. Yet, inexplicably, White House plans to go after these attractive targets were dropped in 1982 and gather dust on the shelf.

The more traditional balancer, of course, is the tax increase. Oddly, even as the deficits decline on their own, the call for new taxes resumes.

The argument, and we're not entirely knocking it, is that Uncle Sam can only borrow so much without crowding all other borrowers out of the market. With so much credit going to government, there's too little left over for people to buy a car, start a business or expand a factory. An equally compelling theory, however, is that America remains overtaxed. Thus, a tax hike now would at best collect scant revenues — and might even widen the deficit by snatching capital and incentives from businesses, workers and entrepreneurs.

The question is, which one better explains the real-world economy of 1983? In this case, it's the anti-tax model. Despite tax cuts, taxes overall have not declined dramatically under Ronald Reagan, remaining close to their all-time highs of the late 1970s. And the last effort to cut the deficit by raising taxes — remember last August? — produced only widening deficit projections throughout the fall.

Even a well-designed tax hike is simply a different way of financing a given amount of federal spending. The difference is that government borrowing crowds out only the least efficient (who cannot afford the higher costs of borrowing) while taxation falls on the most efficient.

The deficits now envisioned will leave plenty of capital aside for economic expansion. As a share of private savings and of business profits — roughly, the savings pool available for economic growth — crowding out has already peaked, with government borrowing $200 billion and the economy generating $400 billion in fresh savings during 1983. It will recede to $120 billion in borrowing by 1985, the Wharton Economic School forecasts.

Accordingly, deficit strategies that will work are economic growth and spending cuts. A plan that won't work, and work in reverse, is strategy three, a tax hike. Left to its own resources, congress will probably opt for strategy four, doing nothing. It's not the best approach, but it could be worse.

BERRY'S WORLD

"We weren't going to do it, then we thought — what the heck — why NOT keep up with the Joneses!"

By Diane Petryk

My father was left-handed and I remember him telling me about being forced by his parents and teachers to write with his right hand. They evidently thought there was something wrong about left-handedness. Their efforts to get my father to switch made him somewhat ambidextrous — he always wrote with his right hand but did everything else left-handed.

Forcing a child to go against a natural tendency to use one hand over the other seems almost barbaric, and it's hard to imagine anyone today doing such a thing, but left-handed people still face considerable discrimination in our righthanded world.

If you righthanders don't believe it, walk up to the nearest drinking fountain. The push-button or lever will be on the right. Imagine the cross-over a left-handed person has to undertake to quench his thirst. Or next time you meet someone, try extending your left hand to shake.

There are dozens of other examples of devices designed for the righthanded, and no doubt they'll all be brought out on Left-handers Day, August 13.

It will be the seventh annual special day for lefties sponsored by Left-handers International, based in Topeka, Kansas. The day is expected to be celebrated by 8,000 left-handers worldwide according to LHI chairman Dean R. Campbell.

Campbell is urging lefties, also known as southpaws, to celebrate Left-handers Day by using their left hands in everything they do and reminding righthanders of the needs and frustrations facing the 34 million left-handers in the United States.

Simple objects like scissors, can openers, school desks, spiral notebooks, golf clubs, cameras, fishing reels, rulers and wristwatches can be irritating nuisances for left-handers. Few of these items are constructed to be used by the left-handed, Campbell said.

But there's hope. Left-handers International is pushing for development of products for southpaws.

The organization publishes a bi-monthly magazine, Lefty, which contains how-to articles, celebrity and human interest features and articles focusing on the left-handed consumer and left-handed children. Persons may join the group for $18 per year which entitles them to a "Lefty Gift", an information directory and an International Left-handers Day sticker. Campbell said. To get the package write them at 3601 SW 29th St., Topeka, Kansas 66614. Send $1 for postage and handling.

The group also keeps up-to-date information on research relating to left-handedness. For instance, research shows that left-handers — 10 to 15 percent of the world's population — have unusually great aptitudes for art, music and athletics.

Whether this is because lefties strive harder to overcome their obstacles or whether there is something inherently different about being a left-handed person has not yet been shown.

Researchers are also striving to find out how gender affects handedness. There are nearly twice as many left-handed males as females. Some of them you may have heard of: Michael Landon, Ryan O'Neal, Dick Van Dyke, George Bush, Gerald Ford, Robert Dole, Gale Sayers. On the female side, there's Goldie Hawn.

As left-handers begin to assert themselves, there's bound to be some demands for "Lefties' Rights." But what I'd like to know is, why can't the drinking fountain button be in the middle?

ROBERT WALTERS Airline Withholds Statistics

CHICAGO (NEA) — "We consider that proprietary information," says a defensive Joe Hopkins, a spokesman for United Airlines at the company's corporate headquarters here, "We do not share it with the public."

What Hopkins is unwilling to reveal is data about the amount of time United's planes spend in nearby O'Hare Airport's "penalty box," a holding area for incoming flights which have landed on time or even ahead of schedule but cannot unload their passengers because of inadequate gate facilities.

United presumably is sensitive about disclosure of those statistics because its planes are spending an extraordinary amount of time in the O'Hare "penalty box," a ramp area located between the airport's runways and its sprawling terminal building, while waiting for gate positions to become available.

Indeed, that practice is becoming increasingly common among other airlines and at other major airports throughout the country — and the delays can be traced to a pair of unrelated actions taken by the federal government in recent years.

As recently as the late 1970s, airlines wishing to change their route structures by adding new cities or abandoning old ones were required by federal law to engage in an expensive and lengthy process of petitioning the Civil Aeronautics Board for approval of the new routes.

That process now has been deregulated, however, and route structure modifications no longer require CAB authorization. Virtually all of the nation's major airlines have taken advantage of that new freedom by establishing "hub-and-spoke" operations.

That involves designating one or more major airports as a "hub" into which scores — and sometimes hundreds — of each airline's planes fly daily to and from numerous "spoke" fields in smaller cities.

Delta embraced the concept earlier than most airlines, leading to a standing joke in the region it serves: "When you die in the South, it doesn't matter whether you're destined for heaven or hell; you have to change planes at Atlanta first."

United has established "hubs" in Chicago, Denver and San Francisco; American's are in Chicago and Dallas-Forth Worth; and TWA's are in St. Louis and New York.

In the process, they have unnecessarily overloaded the inadequate ground facilities at older airports. Although Hopkins doesn't like to talk about the subject, another official at United's headquarters here admits that the airline's ramp and gate facilities are "not at all" adequate at O'Hare, the country's busiest commercial airport.

"We need more gate facilities. There's no two ways about it," says a United supervisor at the airport who recently was forced to spend 45 unhappy minutes in the "penalty box."

WILLIAM RUSHER

The Effects Of Welfare

NEW YORK (NEA) — Perhaps the most difficult single problem for conservatives, in the ongoing national dialogue over social policy, is to convince their liberal opponents that conservatives are not just a teensy-bit coldblooded about the plight of the poor. The liberal knows very well that he himself cares deeply; if a conservative disagrees with his proposals for assistance, therefore, doesn't it follow as the night the day that the conservative doesn't care — at least, not so deeply?

No, it doesn't. There is at least one other possibility: The conservative may sincerely believe that the liberal's plans for aiding the poor will actually make the plight of the poor substantially worse, rather than better. An illustration of this, so dramatic as to be downright shattering, has just come to hand.

The Center for the Study of Social Policy, in Washington, has published a non-partisan, private study entitled "A Dream Deferred: The Economic Status of Black Americans." It contains some astonishing figures. Let us remember that improving the economic status of America's black citizens has had a high priority among our national goals for many years, and that with Lyndon Johnson (under the name of the War on Poverty) it became our No. 1 priority. During and after the Johnson administration, welfare expenditures of all sorts replaced defense as the largest single item in the federal budget. To be sure, the focus was on poverty wherever it occurred; but poverty was proportionately far commoner among blacks than whites, and welfare assistance became an important factor in the budgets of millions of black families.

And what, 20 years on, is the result? How are America's blacks doing? How far have all the aid programs of the past two decades succeeded in compensating for their disadvantages?

Is your seat belt fastened? In 1960, the median income of American blacks was only 55 percent that of American whites. In 1981, it was — 56 percent. Or, in other words, for all practical purposes, unchanged.

Well (I can hear the liberals now), at least we tried, didn't we? Give us an A for effort. We can sleep with a clear conscience tonight.

Ah, but don't go away yet. What kind of life have these welfare programs created for America's blacks? The center's study isn't all bad news: Black families in which both parents worked had a median income that was 73 percent that of whites in 1968, but a husky 84 percent just 13 years later — an impressive gain.

But if so, what dragged down the black average income, leaving it virtually unchanged in relation to whites, between 1960 and 1981? Unfortunately, the answer is all too clear: It is the huge increase in the percentage of black families headed by a single woman, with no man in sight. That luckless category rose from 8 percent of black families in 1950 to 21 percent in 1960 and an almost unbelievable 47 percent in 1981 (vs. only 14 percent among whites).

How did such a thing happen, and what does it mean? George Gilder was one of the first to pinpoint liberal welfare policies as the culprit. Writing in National Review nearly five years ago, he argued that "Poverty is a state of mind, not of income. The key ways of overcoming this state of mind are marriage and work, which are precisely the activities that welfare virtually prohibits."

As Gilder went on to argue, such welfare programs as Aid to Families with Dependent Children make the black husband not only irrelevant but a downright handicap. National Review summed it up last week as follows: "Social planners traded in incentive, self-discipline and, ultimately, the family structure that rests on them, for material security — and left poor blacks less well off, even materially, than before."

Isn't hardheartedness that fuels conservative resistance to liberal welfare programs: It is the knowledge, at first intuitive but now thoroughly confirmed, that too much such "help" eventually cripples its object.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Lake Wales Image

LAKE WALES. — One of the most peaceful spots in America is the Bok Tower Gardens on the top of Iron Mountain, a sandy hill overlooking miles of orange groves. Where pines and scrub palmettos once grew, one finds a superb natural garden built around a carillon tower with a marble frieze depicting flamingoes, geese and swans.

The carillon and the garden were donated to the nation by Edward Bok, an immigrant who wrote "The Americanization of Edward Bok." In 1929, the tower was dedicated by President Coolidge. The Bok Tower Gardens have brought peace of mind to countless Americans since that time.

This is one of the choice regions of Florida, with its rolling hills and numerous small lakes caused by the subsidence of underground limestone structures. The Lake Wales area produces more citrus fruit than Texas and almost as much as California. It is a quiet, productive and unspoiled region well off the route taken by armies of tourists.

In a country characterized by driving energy, it is pleasant and necessary to find locations that provide appropriate settings for reflection. Mr. Bok thought of the gardens as a sanctuary from a hectic world, and, happily, they have remained that way. The area has not been caught up in the super-organized, busy world of the 1980s.

The surrounding lands are rich, of course, but they offer a quiet productivity that is characteristic of the agricultural regions of the United States. Indeed Americans often forget that much of America's wealth is in grain, beef, sugar, dairy products, tobacco, peanuts, mushrooms, oranges and other products of field, vine, bush and tree. These products have become even more important to the economic health of the United States than they were 50 years ago. The United States is the dominant agricultural exporter in the world. Our oranges, for example, are exported to such faraway place as Japan.

With the world becoming an ever more crowded and, insofar as the Third World is concerned, a more hungry place, the need for America's agricultural abundance will increase in the decades ahead. How the poorer countries will manage to pay for our agricultural products is the question. Michel Fribourg, president of the Continental Grain Co., believes "We must learn better to barter our agricultural products in exchange for their metals." However, some very complicated economic arrangements must be made in future if this type of trade is to come to pass.

The Bok Tower Gardens are a good place to think about the future. In the hustle and bustle of the contemporary world, it's difficult to think in long-range terms about the nature of our society and economic system.

JACK ANDERSON

Squabbling Rife Among Guerrillas

WASHINGTON — For the first time I can reveal the internal squabbling that threatens to shatter the CIA-backed guerrilla movement inside Nicaragua. My associate Jon Lee Anderson is the first reporter to have reached the Miskito Indian rebels fighting on the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua.

The situation is so bad, he reports, that the Miskito leaders are seriously thinking of pulling their 2,000 guerrillas out of action. They complain bitterly of mistreatment by their nominal allies, the Nicaraguan Democratic Force (FDN). Here is my associate's report:

The Indian guerrilla group, called Misura, is fighting to win regional autonomy for their primitive, swampy homeland in eastern Nicaragua. Their leader is Steadman Fagoth, a former Sandinista who is now a bitter foe of the Managua regime.

Like the 13,000-man FDN, the Miskitos get all their arms and supplies from the CIA, but there's a big hitch:

The Miskitos get their supplies through the FDN — and they complain about being shortchanged in the process.

Promised 2,000 M-16 automatic rifles, the Miskitos got American carbines of World War II vintage. "There's a black market going on between the FDN and the Honduran armed forces," one rebel leader charged. "Some of our carbines were stamped with the initials of one or another of the Honduran police or military forces, and we began seeing Honduran soldiers walking around with brand-new M-16s — ours."

The Miskitos claim they have been forced to accept second-class status by Gen. Gustavo Alvarez, Honduran armed forces chief, who helps direct guerrilla activities for the CIA. For example, Miskito leaders are refused travel documents by the Honduran authorities when they try to go abroad and plead their case as an independent rebel group.

Of the original $80,000 supposed to have been given them by the CIA, Miskito leaders say they didn't get a dime — the FDN got it all. The FDN, they complained, "treats us like a regional wing of their own force. They use us. They even claim our battles as theirs."

The Miskitos are in desperate need of boats and outboard motors to continue fighting in their land of swamps, bayous and rivers along the coast. The FDN has plenty, they said, but won't give them up.

"They have five helicopters, four small planes and five powerful speedboats," a Miskito leader said. "We can't get one (helicopter) to reposition our isolated combat units or take out our wounded."

"We have men in the field going hungry, while the top honchos in the FDN get $3,500 monthly salaries and houses and food provided by the Americans. We don't even have a doctor — not one — for 2,000 men."

For the first time, the guerrilla leaders gave specific figures on the amount of CIA aid they get. "The gringos have cut us back 25 percent," said one Miskito officer. "Now we only get $35,000 instead of $50,000 a month for food, transport — everything we have to buy apart from weapons and ammo, which we get separately."

Assuming the much larger FDN is paid on at least the same scale, this means the CIA's Nicaraguan enterprise costs more than a quarter-million dollars a month, exclusive of arms and ammunition.

The Miskito leaders expressed concern over "left-wing U.S. politicians" who are trying to force the CIA to give up or cut back its support of the anti-Sandinista rebels. "I hope this isn't going to be another Bay of Pigs," said one Indian leader.

Grasses: Lug 'Em Or Leaf 'Em

Should I remove the lawngrass clippings or is this a waste of time and effort? This question crops up quite frequently and the answer can be rather controversial. The best answer seems to be a qualified "leave them on."

The practice of returning grass clippings to a lawn can improve the quality of turfgrass, particularly in our light sandy soils. According to Dr. Charles Peacock, Extension Turfgrass Specialist at the University of Florida, the arguments for recycling clippings are stronger than those supporting clipping removal. He believes that turfgrass clippings need not be collected and removed if not more than 30-40% of the leaf tissue is removed at each mowing.

Frank J. Jasa
County Extension Director
323-2500
Ext. 182

Excessive clipping deposits can also be avoided by not mowing wet grass which tends to clump on the turf surface. Under proper mowing conditions, clippings are rapidly decomposed by soil microorganisms and do not contribute to formation of thatch.

Peacock also disputes the argument that clippings increase the incidence of disease. He feels the association between returning clippings and disease severity may have been exaggerated in the past.

Allowing clippings to fall on the soil surface reduces fertilization requirements of a turfgrass. Turfgrass clippings are 80% water and 20% dry matter. Microbial decomposition of this dry matter releases significant amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium for turfgrass use. Research in Texas has shown that recycling of turfgrass clippings can save as much as two pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year.

Recycling grass clippings can reduce maintenance requirements and labor costs by eliminating the time required to collect clippings as well as cost for bags and trash disposal.

During the summer months, many garbage bags contain grass clippings. Translated into weight and loads, a large portion of your sanitation fee money is used in useless hauling and disposing of grass clippings.

It is important to remember that over-fertilization and over-watering will create an excessive amount of clippings. Waiting too long between mowings will result in the same problem. If insects or disease should become a problem, sprays will be more effective if the clippings are removed.

The amount of energy spent in home lawn maintenance can be reduced through better management practices. Doing things right in the first place can result in less work.

Abby Inspires Family With A Bad Case Of Puppy Love

DEAR ABBY: We don't have any problems for you to solve right now, we just wanted you to know that today we bought a beautiful, fawn-colored Great Dane puppy and we named her "Abby" — after you.

If we had a bigger farm we would buy her sister and name her "Ann," but we already have a dachshund named "Ada," and we all wouldn't fit on this one little acre.

Our "Abby" is going to be our beautiful watchdog on whom we will depend to keep us safe from harm, as you keep others safe with your advice.

We love you, but now we have another Dear Abby to love.

THE GARY CRAWFORDS, MILFORD, OHIO

DEAR CRAWFORDS: I've been called a "great dame," but never a "Great Dane." Thank you, I'm flattered.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "Red and Fuming," the movie-

Dear Abby

house employee who, after being hired, dyed his hair red, has me fuming, too. (His boss objected to his dyed red hair, and you sided with the employee.)

Apparently this young man's dyed red hair has made a significant change in his appearance and he no longer presents the image of the person the boss hired. A boss should have the right to require his employees to look the way he wants them to look.

The rights of employers in this country are being reduced. Abetted by opportunistic lawyers seeking contingency fees for punitive damages, disgruntled employees are turning their petty grievances into court decisions, establishing unprecedented "rights." This forces companies of all sizes to eliminate positions and raise prices to cover the cost of maintaining substandard, unproductive employees.

The old rule "is still the best one, Abby: If you don't like your job, give your notice and quit. It may not be easy to find other work, but you accepted the job on your boss's terms, so live up to those terms or look elsewhere."

HASLED BUSINESSMAN IN W.VA.

DEAR HASLED: The "rights" of employees and employers are not always black or white (or "red," where hair is concerned), and it's important for employees who are obviously at a disadvantage to have their rights protected.

I would defend the right of anyone to dye his (or her) hair red, since red hair is natural to some. However, if an employee showed up with green or purple hair, I'd vote with you.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been bugging me for many years. When a single person is invited to a wedding and reception, is it proper to add on the RSVP card, "I am bringing a friend" — then add that person's name?

I have done this several times because as a single person I feel very uncomfortable attending a wedding alone. I am sure this could apply to other singles — widowed or divorced.

I have been criticized (behind my back) for doing this, and want to know if it is improper.

SINGLE IN VIRGINIA

DEAR SINGLE: It is never proper to tell a host or hostess that you are bringing another person. Feeling as you do, ask if it would be an inconvenience to bring a partner along. And since your partner is actually your guest, graciously offer to pay for him or her.

In And Around Geneva

Retired Geneva Teacher Will Be Missed

A lot of folks in and around Geneva will be surprised to learn that Virginia Greer retired at the end of June. Mrs. Greer who started teaching at the Geneva Elementary School in 1975, is well loved by students and staff, and will be greatly missed.

Prior to 1975, Mrs. Greer taught in Okaloosa County for 18 years, and in West Virginia for seven years. Her years of teaching devotion total 33.

Mrs. Nancy McNamara, principal of Geneva Elementary, sends out a friendly reminder to all parents of kindergarten students, or students who are enrolling as transfer students from another state, that you must preent proof of your child's immunizations and they must have a physical examination before entering Florida schools.

There will be an open house for kindergarten students and their parents Friday afternoon, Aug. 26 at 1 p.m.

Other news at the elementary school over the summer includes the hiring of Belinda Henson's father, Johnny Bays, as the new custodian. Mr. and Mrs. Bays moved to Chuluota from West Virginia this month.

Oviedo High School students, attention. Mrs. Lannier respectfully requests you come by the school office beginning August 10 from 8 to 3 to get your new schedules. Of course, the new hours will include the extra class added to fulfill the new graduation requirements passed by the Florida State Legislature this summer in the RAISE Bill (Raise Achievements In Secondary Education).

Most high school students received a letter from the school board this past week informing them of the class that had been selected for them to help them meet the new requirements.

Graduation requirements for the class of 1985 and 1986 will be 22 credits broken down as nine electives, three science, three math, three English, two social studies, and two physical education.

By coming to the school for the new schedules on the week of August 10-15,

Mrs. Lannier stresses that a lot of confusion and congestion in the office opening day will be eliminated. Everyone is asked to cooperate.

Engagement

Lynd—Sorenson

Miss Jean Lynd

Mr. and Mrs. Olin E. Lynd of Apopka announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Robert L. Sorenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sorenson of Sanford.

The bride-to-be's maternal grandmother is Mrs. Alice Stewart of Forest City. The bridegroom-to-be is the grandson of Mrs. George Lewis of Baldwin N.Y. and Mrs. Matilda Sorenson of Allamonte Springs.

A native of Franklin, Tenn., Miss Lynd graduated from Seminole Adult High School in 1977 and attended Southern Missionary College, Collegedale, Tenn. She is a computer programmer.

Mr. Sorenson was born in Rockville Center, N.Y., and graduated in 1977 from Seminole High School, Sanford, where he played football. He graduated in 1981 from Seminole Community College, Sanford. He is employed as a firefighter-paramedic with the city of Orlando.

The wedding will be an event of Oct. 9, 1983, at Forest Lake Seventh-day Adventist Church, Forest City.

Senior Bats Go Soft; Drop 2 To Finish 3rd

Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA — When the history for the Little League Senior Baseball Tournament is duly recorded, Thursday, Aug. 4 will be penned as the day the rain stopped — and the day Altamonte's bats stopped raining hits.

This lusty hitting crew of 14- and 15-year-olds had terrorized the opposition with their offensive outbursts throughout the district and sectional tournaments. Thursday, however, the Seniors went quietly on a measly collection of nine hits in two games.

Altamonte finished third. In the morning contest at Riverview, Altamonte blew a 3-2 sixth-inning edge and lost to a slick Tampa Bay crew, 4-3, on a bases-loaded walk in the bottom of the seventh inning. Winning pitcher Bob Undore was in top form, allowing just three singles.

In the afternoon ouster at West Tampa Field, a spunky Fort Myers club pushed across a run in the top of the ninth inning to earn a 5-4 win and spoil a gutty pitching performance by righthanders Kevin Bass and Chris Waxler. Waxler pitched out of a base-loaded, one-out jam in the eighth inning to keep Altamonte alive.

"No bats," said manager Clayton Garrison after the first loss. "He (Undore) shut us down completely. He mixed his pitches well enough to keep us off-balance the whole game."

Altamonte jumped to a 3-0 lead in the second inning when Andy Dunn singled and Mike "Pooh Bear" Pinckes walked with two out. Bruce Carlson followed with a ground ball to shortstop, but Pinckes beat the throw to second to load the bases. Pitcher Kenny Chapdelaine then ripped a single to left to score two runs. Carlson later scored when Chapdelaine got hung up in a rundown and the pitcher threw the ball away.

Altamonte never seriously threatened again. No runner reached third base as Undore retired 15 of the final 19 hitters he faced. At one stretch he set down nine in a row.

Tampa Bay, which played Fort Myers for the title today at 10, pushed across two runs in the second on a single by J.C. Dominguez and another base hit by Chris Myers.

Little League

Tampa pulled even in the sixth when with one out and a runner at first, second baseman Dunn picked up a hard grounder but tossed the ball over Scaletta's head at second trying to start an inning-ending double play. Ron Butler followed with a single to tie the game. The go-ahead run was choked off when Bass made a great scoop and tag on Myers at the plate.

The game-winner came in the seventh. Jeff Moore drew the fifth walk off Chapdelaine, but Ricky Ware forced him at second. Undore followed with a single, sending Ware to third. Undore stole second.

When the count went to 2-0 on Fred Turpin, Garrison called for lefty Tim Smith. Smith completed the walk to Turpin and then tossed four straight balls to Dominguez to force home the winning run.

In game two, three straight Altamonte errors in the third inning handed Fort Myers two runs and a 4-1 lead. With one out and a runner at first, Pinckes kicked a ground ball at third and Bass misplayed a ball back to the mound. Shortstop Scaletta then bounced a throw into home trying to force the runner and Gary Vansciver was safe on a fielder's choice to score another tally.

John Bane had singled home a second-inning run for Altamonte. Bass ignited the Seniors' three-run fourth inning in a big way when he hammered a 340-foot homer onto the batting cage behind the left-field fence. It was the first home run of the tournament. Mark Coffey then coaxed a walk and stole second. Dunn then ripped a double to left center to score Coffey. After Pinckes flew out, Harris singled home Coffey. The rally ended when Harris was picked off third.

Altamonte lost a chance to win the game in the seventh when Bane was ruled out for leaving second too soon as he tagged and moved to third on Coffey's deep fly. Bane bunted a base hit and reached second when the throw was wild to first. Ryan Lisle failed to get a sacrifice bunt down on two attempts, then struck

Legion Needs 2 Wins For Berth

It'll take two wins in the next two days over Apopka for the defending district champion Altamonte Springs Legion Post 183 to earn a berth at the State Legion Baseball Tournament at West Palm Beach next week.

Tonight at 7, manager Bob McCullough will send righthander Jeff Barefoot against Apopka, which will counter with its ace, Rodney Brewer. An Altamonte win will set up the championship game Saturday at 1 p.m.

Thursday night, Altamonte hammered Boone, 12-2, as Paul Alegre and Livernols combined to pitch a three-hitter. Alegre went the first three innings and Livernols hurled the final five to pick up the win as the game was halted after eight innings due to the 10-run rule.

Altamonte jumped on starter and loser Pete Ballard for seven runs in the second, driving him from the game. Alegre walked to lead off, moved to second on a ground out and scored on Greg Lorenz' single. Robbie Robinson drew a walk to push Lorenz to second and when Clint Baker dropped a bunt down the line, the third baseman threw it past first allowing both runners to score. John Drinkwater followed with a double to score Baker for a 4-0 lead. Tom Gibbons then singled home Drinkwater and Mike "Duck" Sawyer walked. The runners moved up on a wild pitch and Tom Perkins promptly doubled home two more for a 7-0 lead.

Altamonte added three more in the seventh on two walks, a hit batsman, an error and a delayed steal. Baker doubled home the final two runs in the bottom of the eighth to end the rout.

Juniors Seek Title

WINTER GARDEN — Altamonte's Junior League All-Star can secure a spot in the Southern Regional tonight at 7:30 with a victory over North County.

North County stayed alive in the double elimination tournament Thursday night as John Gallatin and Tom Balnchi combined to hurl the Juno club past Tampa Wellswood, 5-1.

Tonight's battle will be a rematch of Altamonte lefty Greg Ebbert and NC hurler Jerry Matavazzo. Altamonte erupted for 10 runs in the second inning Tuesday night to hand North County a 13-8 setback. A North County win tonight would force a winner-take-all game Saturday.

"Greg was a little tired last Tuesday and wasn't at his best," said manager Frank Messina. "You'll see a different Greg Ebbert tonight." The last time Ebbert pitched in a championship game he tossed a no-hitter at Jacksonville Highlands for the section title.

Falcons Open National Tournament Play Tonight

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

With an abundance of talent from throughout Seminole County, and beyond, the Seminole Falcons have their eyes set on the National Girls 18 and Under Softball title. The national tournament gets under way Friday night in Satellite Beach. The draw for the 32-team tournament is set for noon Friday.

The Falcons already proved they can play with anybody as they dropped a narrow 5-4 loss to the Jacksonville Sunshiners, the defending national champions. "We played Jacksonville to a 5-4 loss, beat the Satellite Beach Comets (another of the nation's best) and yet have lost some games we shouldn't have," said Falcons' manager Mike Averill. "We need more consistency offensively and stay away from the big inning defensively."

Averill is assisted by Rod Metz.

The Falcons have some of the best high school softball players from around Seminole County and perhaps the best player from Osceola County. Seminole's probable starting lineup has Sandy Gillies, Lake Howell High, in leadoff spot and playing second base with Lake Howell teammate Mary Johnson hitting second and playing left center field, Eileen Thiebauth, also from Lake Howell, hitting third and playing right center with Kim King, St. Cloud (Osceola County) High hitting fourth and playing shortstop.

Lyman High's Michelle Kurht will play first base and hit fifth followed by Lake Brantley's Michelle Brown in the sixth spot and playing catcher, Lake Mary High's Kim Averill hitting seventh and playing third base, Lyman's Kim Gilliam hitting eighth and playing left field, Lake Mary's Andrea Fenning hitting ninth and playing right field and either Kathy Richardson, Lyman, or Barb Heim, Lake Howell, pitching and hitting tenth.

Gillies is perhaps the best all around player in Seminole County. A standout at Lake Howell, Gillies led the Falcons in tournament play with a .497 batting average including one homer run and seven RBI. "Sandy is the fundamentally soundest player in Seminole County," Averill said.

Girls' Softball

Although in a slump, Johnson is a fine hitter who also can hit for power. Johnson carries a .228 average into the national tourney and she has 10 RBI.

Thiebauth has been a very productive hitter for the Falcons as she has a .326 average with two homers and 15 RBI. "She has a strong bat and has good speed. Eileen is the ideal number three hitter."

King and Kurht are the big power hitters for Seminole and will be looked to to drive in a lot of runs in the nationals. In limited play, King has six hits in 14 trips to the plate for a

.428 average. Kurht leads the Falcons in hits with 24 and is tied with Thiebauth for the lead in homers with two and RBI with 15. Kurht is hitting at a .471 clip.

Brown is also slumping a bit, but she has been excellent behind the plate for the Falcons. Brown is hitting .235 and she has five RBI.

After an off year for Lake Mary High, Kim Averill is coming around with both her bat and her glove. She is hitting at a .325 clip and has six RBI. Once she gets her glove on the ball, Averill has an exceptional arm and can play either third base, shortstop or second base.

Although she is hitting only .263, Gilliam has been productive for the Falcons as she has one homer and seven RBI.

After a fine sophomore season at Lake Mary High, Fenning has fallen into a slump for the Falcons. She is hitting a meager .192 but has picked up six RBI and has an excellent arm in right field.

Of the two pitchers, Richardson has a better batting average but she has been hampered by a sprained ankle. Richardson has a .467 average while Heim is hitting .200. Both Richardson and Heim are fine pitchers with excellent control, according to Averill.

Bench strength for the Falcons comes from Mona Benton and Maxine Campbell of Seminole High and Liz Stone and Stacy Adams of Lake Mary. Benton is a long ball hitter who is used mostly as a designated hitter or pinch hitter. Benton has five hits in 11 at bats for a .444 average. Campbell has not yet batted in her limited time with the Falcons but she can also hit for power as she showed for Seminole High and in the Sanford Women's Softball League. Stone is a fine outfielder with good speed in both the field and on the basepaths. Adams is also a strong outfielder and she has a 1.000 batting average with two hits in two trips to the plate.

Winfield Drops Birds With 1 Throw, 2 Hits

TORONTO (UPI) — New York Yankees slugger Dave Winfield collected three hits. Two of them are on the scoreboard and one is in the morgue.

Winfield was arrested by Metropolitan Toronto Police Thursday night and charged with cruelty to animals after killing a sea gull during a game against the Toronto Blue Jays. The beaming dished the Yankees and left many animal lovers outraged.

The incident took place in the fifth inning at Exhibition Stadium as the Yankee outfielders completed their mid-inning warmup. Winfield fired the warmup ball from center field, striking a sea gull which was walking on the field.

The bird toppled over and was covered with a cloth by a Blue Jays' ballboy and carried off the field as some fans began throwing rubber balls at Winfield.

After the game, as fellow Yankees joked about the incident and called Winfield "murderer," police walked into the dressing room and escorted the outfielder to headquarters.

"I didn't mean to kill the little thing. It was an accident," said Winfield whose throw struck the bird on a line.

Staff Sgt. G. Dawkins said Winfield was released shortly after midnight after posting $500 bail. A court date was set for Aug. 12 in Toronto. The Yankees are not scheduled to return to Canada again this season.

The spokesman said Winfield was charged with "causing unnecessary suffering to a bird" under Section 402.1A of the Criminal Code. If convicted he could face a maximum penalty of six months in jail and or a $500 fine.

"They really hate us up here," said Yankees reliever Rich Gossage.

Yankees Manager Billy Martin was outraged by the charges but later saw a humorous side. "That is the first time this year he has hit the cutoff man. If he threw like that all the time we would be in first place now," Martin said.

"All I can tell you is that Canada's national bird or fowl or something is no longer with us," said Winfield, who also did some Blue Jay bashing, hitting a double and a single to drive in two runs in the Yankees' 3-1 victory.

"We were just playing catch in the outfield and I turned and whipped the ball to the batboy and I hit the bird. But it wasn't intentional," insisted Winfield. "It was an accident."

The police and many fans did not view the incident as comic relief.

"It is my understanding that a lot of people took this incident very seriously," said Sgt. Dawkins, noting the game was carried on local radio stations. "There were phone calls to radio stations and television stations and other media. A lot of people thought it was a serious thing."

Rangers 6, Red Sox 1
At Arlington, Texas, Jim Sundberg drove in three runs and George Wright hit his 12th homer to help the Rangers break an eight-game losing streak. Rick Honeycutt, 14-6, survived a shaky start and scattered 11 hits over eight innings. John Tudor, 9-7, took the loss.

Orioles 4, Indians 3
At Cleveland, Eddie Murray doubled home Dan Ford with one out in the 10th inning to lead the Orioles. Scott McGregor, 14-4, notched his sixth straight victory and his 10th in his last 11 decisions. Tippy Martinez finished for his 11th save. Bud Anderson, 0-3, took the loss.

Royals 6, Brewers 2
At Milwaukee, Willie Aikens' RBI double keyed a four-run first inning and Bud Black pitched a five-hitter to lead the Royals. Black, 5-4, struck out four and walked one in hurling his first complete game of the year. Milwaukee starter Don Sutton yielded nine hits in eight innings to drop to 7-8.

White Sox 4, Tigers 2
At Chicago, Scott Fletcher and Julio Cruz lined back-to-back doubles to ignite a four-run sixth inning and Richard Dotson allowed six hits over eight innings to lead the White Sox. Dotson, 12-6, struck out five and walked two in earning his fourth straight victory and eighth in his last nine decisions.

Twins 4, A's 3
At Minneapolis, pinch hitter Ron Washington slapped a single with two outs in the eighth inning to score Gary Gaetti and lift the Twins. Len Whitehouse, 6-1, gave up three hits over two innings to get the victory. Tom Burgmeier, 6-7, took the loss.

Mariners 11, Angels 5
At Seattle, Tony Bernazard belted a two-run homer and the Mariners took advantage of three errors to score seven runs in the sixth inning. Bryan Clark, 5-3, picked up the victory with two innings of relief. Ed Vande Berg notched his third save. John Curtis, 1-1, took the loss.

Cubs 9, Cardinals 6
The Chicago Cubs knew they had the ingredients to cook up a winner. What they were missing was someone to convince them they were gourmet rather than just the same old bland meal.

Ron Cey has been the perfect chef.

Dave Winfield

Ron Cey

The former third baseman of the Los Angeles Dodgers, acquired last winter in a trade, not only has added punch, but a series sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals. Afterward, he expressed confidence that the team could make some trouble for the rest of the National League before the season was over.

Cey drove in three runs with a triple and his 17th homer Thursday night to help the Cubs complete a three-game series sweep with a 9-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Expos 2, Mets 1
At New York, Charlie Lea and Jeff Reardon combined on a five-hitter to help the Expos snap the Mets' four-game winning streak. Lea, 8-8, scattered four hits over eight innings, allowing New York's only run on a sixth-inning pinch hit homer by Danny Heep. Reardon pitched the ninth and gave up one hit to earn his 18th save. Tim Lincecum had one single in three at bats.

Padres 4, Astros 2
At San Diego, Luis Salazar hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning and Dave Dravecky picked up his first victory in more than five weeks to lead the Padres to victory. It was the first victory for Dravecky, 12-8, since July 3. Gary Lucas went the last 1 2-3 innings to notch his 11th save. Dickie Thon and Phil Garner homered for Houston.

Phillies 5, Pirates 1
At Pittsburgh, Joe Morgan smashed a three-run homer and Joe Lefebvre, who went 3-for-4, and Ozzie Virgil each hit solo shots to lead the Phillies to victory. The triumph went to starter Charlie Hudson, 6-3, who scattered nine hits and the run over 6 2-3 innings. Al Holland finished the game and picked up his 12th save.

Braves 8, Giants 1
At San Francisco, Phil Niekro scattered eight hits over seven innings and Dale Murphy clubbed his 23rd homer of the season to lead the Braves to victory. Niekro allowed only an RBI single by Bob Brenly in the sixth in besting Fred Breining, 6-9, who lost his fifth straight.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3
At Los Angeles, Ron Oester led off the 11th inning with a home run to give the Reds their victory and drop the Dodgers 6 1/2 games behind the first place Braves in the NL West. The tie-breaking hit came off the third Dodger pitcher, Tom Nidenfuer, 5-1, who entered the game in the 10th.

Chargers Swipe Bandit Anderson

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A federal judge has granted running back Gary Anderson's request for a temporary restraining order suspending his USFL contract and clearing the way for a possible NFL stint with the San Diego Chargers.

The Chargers Thursday announced the signing of the Tampa Bay Bandits' running back, who filed suit in Houston Wednesday to get out of his USFL contract.

San Diego owner Gene Klein said Anderson signed a series of contracts with the Chargers Wednesday night, but disclosed no details. Anderson started working out with the Chargers Thursday morning.

The player sued his former agent, Jerry Argovitz, who advised him to sign with Tampa Bay, on grounds Argovitz conspired to deliver him to the Bandits as a condition for the USFL's granting a Houston franchise to Argovitz.

Anderson, a former University of Arkansas running back, filed suit in federal court in Houston Wednesday. He had been selected by the Chargers as a first-round choice in the NFL draft, but the New Jersey Generals picked Anderson as their No. 1 draft choice in the USFL. The Bandits acquired the Generals' rights to him.

"We were contacted by Anderson's (new) agent who said Gary had invalidated his contract with Tampa Bay and hired Houston counsel who gave him the legal opinion that he was free to play with the team of his choice," Klein said. "It's our understanding that a judge in Houston issued a 10-day temporary restraining order to prohibit Tampa Bay from interfering."

Anderson said Argovitz misrepresented offers made to him. He was told San Diego offered to pay him $975,000 over three years, but Anderson said he later was told by Chargers' officials that the offer made through Argovitz was higher than the Tampa offer.

Mark Herrmann's passing Thursday night handed the Baltimore Colts yet one more problem to resolve. In this case, however, it's a headache they can live with.

Herrmann, playing in his first game for Baltimore since being traded from Denver for John Elway, passed for 144 yards in the second half and directed the offense to 10 late points that sealed the Colts' 15-0 exhibition victory over the Houston Oilers.

Herrmann, playing in only the second half, may have emerged as this season's starting quarterback although 1982 regular Mike Pagel did not disgrace himself.

Sutton Takes Lead, Forgets Collapse

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (UPI) — The last time Hal Sutton found himself leading a golf tournament, he fell apart faster than a $59 sofa.

And that tournament two weeks ago had only the name of a beer as a sponsor and a $350,000 purse to provide the pressure. The tournament Sutton found himself leading today carries a much bigger name and a much bigger purse.

Sutton fired a 6-under-par 65 Thursday to grab a one-stroke lead in the opening round of the 65th PGA Championship, which carries a whopping $600,000 purse, $100,000 of it to the winner.

In close pursuit in the PGA's fourth and final major tournament after shooting 66s were erratic Scott Simpson and unknown club pro Buddy Whitlen, a former Vietnam War combat medic who has one of his mother's sewing needles lodged in a bone in his foot.

Sutton led the tournament two weeks ago at Kingsmill by six strokes entering the final round. He promptly collapsed, shooting a 77 and falling well out of contention. He hadn't played another competitive round since, skipping last week's Canadian Open to try to put the pieces back together.

He apparently succeeded. At least for the first round.

"I'm just trying to chalk the collapse up to experience," Sutton said after carding seven birdies and a lone bogey over the par-71, 6,946-yard Riviera Country Club layout.

The tall blond from Shreveport, La., won the Tournament Players Championship this year and is the leading money winner on the Tour in 1983 with almost $300,000.

Pro Golf

Sutton called Riviera a driving course — "Maybe the best we see on the Tour all year" — and driving was Sutton's game Thursday, although he didn't hit his irons all that bad, either. Of his seven birdies, he had only one putt over 12 feet and that was on the 11th when he came out of the rough and canned a 20-footer.

"I have to be pleased with the way I played today," Sutton said. "After Kingsmill I took time off from the tour, so I felt ready coming here."

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Joanne Carner, the "big Momma" of the LPGA tour, isn't entered in the Boston Five Classic this week at the Ferncroft Country Club.

But Carner's example helped first round leader Patty Rizzo to a record-tying 6-under-par 66 Thursday in the first round of the $175,000 tournament.

Rizzo, a Fort Pierce Fla. native in her second year on the tour, had been talking about quitting three weeks earlier after a five-week dry spell when she didn't earn a paycheck.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Rebel Leader Calls For Peasants To Join Struggle

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Anti-Sandinista rebel leader Eden Pastora called on peasants to join the fight to topple the Nicaraguan government, urging the use of poisonous snakes and hidden nails in an "ambush war."

Speaking Thursday on the Voz de Sandino, the clandestine radio of his Democratic Republican Alliance, Pastora said a conventional war was impossible because the Sandinista government has a Soviet-supplied military arsenal.

Instead, he urged Nicaraguans to launch an "ambush war against the Sandinista army."

Pastora advocated planting booby traps for the soldiers, including the use of concealed poisonous snakes or hidden boards covered with nails dipped in animal excrement that can cause serious infection.

Peace Hopes Clouded

United Press International

A clandestine radio broadcast by rebels from El Salvador assailed U.S. special envoy Richard Stone as "another soldier of intervention," clouding hopes that his meeting last week with a rebel leader would lead to peace.

The criticism of Stone came in a broadcast Thursday by Radio Venceremos, the radio of the Salvadoran rebels. Broadcasts generally reflect the viewpoint of the military wing of the Salvadoran left.

Venceremos called Stone "another soldier of intervention, a fact that can be seen so clearly, you don't need glasses."

Stone met last weekend in Colombia with the leader of the guerrilla movement's political wing, Ruben Zamora, sparking new hope a negotiated settlement could end the four-year civil war that has cost 43,000 lives.

But the Venceremos condemnation could signal an internal split between the military and political wings of the Salvadoran left — calling into doubt the prospect that Stone's peace efforts could reach the entire rebel movement.

Hijacked Jet Back In U.S.

MIAMI (UPI) — A hijacked Capitol Air jet and a rescue plane landed in the United States today, each carrying half of the 252 passengers terrorized by a Spanish-speaking man who splashed gasoline in the cabin and ordered the jet to Cuba. It was the ninth hijacking since May.

Flight 236 — alone the target of three hijackings to Cuba in less than four months — arrived at Miami International airport at 5:30 a.m., 12 minutes after another plane that had flown to Cuba to bring tires to replace two blown out on the passenger plane.

The DC-8, going from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami, was commandeered Thursday night by a Cuban who claimed he wanted to visit his six children in Havana. The plane had arrived in Havana at 8:42 p.m. After remaining on the ground at Havana for about eight hours to replace the tires and clean up the gasoline, it left for Miami shortly before 5 a.m.

One of the plane's rear tires was flat and another in the same set also was replaced as a precaution, officials said.

The Capitol DC8 left Havana shortly after a Charter 707, which had flown to Cuba to bring replacement tires for the hijacked jet. Each plane was carrying about half the 252 passengers.

Capitol spokesman Jack Selby said the man splashed gasoline in the rear of the passenger compartment after sending a note to the flight deck at 7:05 p.m.

"There was quite a bit of it (gasoline) — probably two or three cups,"

The aircraft, carrying 252 people, landed at Jose Marti Airport in Havana at 8:42 p.m., apparently blowing out two tires. There were no reports of injuries.

The damaged tires and the need to clean up the gasoline spilled on the seats and in the aisle forced the passengers and crew to delay their return. Because there were no replacement tires available in Cuba, a chartered Boeing 707 had to fly them in from Miami.

Jack Barker of the Federal Aviation Administration said the return to Florida already was being delayed before the tire problem was discovered because of the gasoline.

"The gasoline was spilled in the cabin and they're going to have to clean up to get the fumes out, so it probably will be longer than usual before it returns," Barker said.

Selby said the crew also "felt" the hijacker had a gun although Capt. R. Cherry, the pilot, told Capitol officials in a call from Havana that he did not see one.

Retail Sales Slowed In July

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's leading retailers Thursday reported sales in July moderated from the exceptionally strong pace of June, although cash register receipts were still about 10 percent ahead of year-ago levels.

Analysts said the July sales gain was below the average 13 percent increase posted in June by the largest retailers because consumers rushed out earlier this summer to buy air conditioners and other seasonal merchandise to cope with the unusually hot weather.

Air conditioners and summer apparel sold extremely well in June. Even the final 10 percent cut in personal income tax rates, which took effect July 1, failed to stimulate consumer spending enough to outpace the June gains.

Jeffrey Feiner, retail analyst at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, said the July sales reports are still "quite favorable."

"The July results reflect favorable trends in inflation, unemployment and income gains, while the recent rise in interest rates has placed some pressure on consumer attitudes," Feiner said. "We nonetheless believe the retailing environment will remain favorable throughout the remainder of 1983."

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, said its July sales were up 9.8 percent from a year earlier to $1.65 billion, a record for July.

Sears Chairman Edward R. Telling said all sections of country posted sales increases for the sixth time this year. The largest increase came in the Midwest, reflecting the strengthening economy and the hottest temperatures in 10 years.

Strong sales gains were registered in major appliances for the 10th successive month. Telling said. Other strong sales gains were in men's apparel, hardware, automotive, recreation and home fashions.

For the 26-week period ending July 30, Sears sales were up 7.5 percent.

No. 2-ranked K mart, based in Troy, Mich., reported an 11.8 percent rise in July sales to $1.37 billion. Sales for the first half of the fiscal year are running 11.1 percent ahead of last year.

But J.C. Penney Co., the third largest retail group, reported a 0.7 percent decline in July sales to $675 million. At the half-way mark in the fiscal year, Penney's sales were up 2.8 percent.

Sales for Cincinnati-based Federated Department Stores, ranked fourth, jumped 14.8 percent in July to $535.6 million. For the first six months, sales were up 15.3 percent.

McCollum Delivers Load Of Medical Supplies To War-Torn El Salvador

ORLANDO (UPI) — Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, is in El Salvador delivering a plane-load of medical supplies for people displaced by the current unrest in the Central American country.

McCollum flew to San Salvador Thursday aboard a C-47 cargo plane carrying 5,000 pounds of anti-biotics and other pharmaceuticals valued at $202,000.

Interviewed by telephone from Orlando, the second-term Republican said the appreciation of both the people and from doctors staffing clinics in the San Salvador area was heart warming.

McCollum said he got the idea for the mission when he toured the country three weeks ago. He said the cost was underwritten by contributions from Orlando area residents and businesses.

The medication will go mostly to children suffering from such ailments as worms and upper respiratory problems, McCollum said.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 6, 1983

Channels will open this coming year to make it possible for you to fulfill a secret ambition. It will be of a pleasurable, rather than of a business nature.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Normally, in business situations it is every man for himself. Today, if you display charitable traits your counterpart will do so as well. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveal romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Leo Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You'll have an opportunity to put your true-blue qualities into play today when you're asked to stand by a friend who needs your support.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Today you will be more concerned with boosting someone you like rather than in furthering your self-interests. No wonder your popularity is ascending!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

When dealing with friends today, use gentle measures. Kind words strengthens relationships, harsh words sever them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Conditions which seemed to work against you yesterday will turn about and function for your benefit today. You can change losses into gains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Harmony follows in your footsteps today. You'll know how to put at ease persons you encounter. Benefits and pleasant memories will result.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

This can be an enormously productive day, provided your heart is really in your work. Take pride in each task you perform.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Sometimes it is unwise to let your heart rule your head, but today is an exception. Give compassion and concern precedence over practicality.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Much personal satisfaction can be derived today from some form of domestic artistic expression, such as cooking, entertaining, gardening or decorating.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Let the one you love know how much you really care. Do something special today, whether it be a thoughtful gesture, flowers or an evening on the town.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Someone with whom you have strong emotional bonds may play a key role today in helping you get something you've strongly desired.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Charm, wit and tact are your greatest assets today. You'll know how to use them skillfully to sway others to your way of doing things.

Woman Gives 'Cure' For Perspiration

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the person inquiring about surgery for underarm perspiration. A friend of mine and I had the same problem a few years ago. Her dresses would have a wet ring about four inches in diameter. A doctor gave her this routine which worked for us.

Shave under the arms before retiring at night. Apply aluminum chloride 25 percent which can be purchased at a drug store. It will feel licky. The next night wash under your arms and apply the chloride (no need to shave again). Do this three or four nights, that's all.

Thereafter just wash as usual during the day and apply the chloride like you would any underarm deodorant. It's worth trying.

DEAR READER — That approach will help some people. The aluminum chloride or aluminum chlorohydrate is an astringent. It is the main ingredient in most available antiperspirants. These aluminum salts act by damaging the surface area of the skin where the sweat glands drain. The little sweat glands literally become clogged.

For a localized area such as under the arms that is acceptable but, of course, you wouldn't want all your sweat glands clogged. And these products, particularly aluminum chloride, are very hard on clothing. Aluminum chloride reacts with sweat to release hydrochloric acid which softens and finally destroys the fabric. Protective pads help protect clothing.

Excessive perspiration can involve the hands or even the whole body. When simple underarm antiperspirants don't work, there are some other measures, including medicines, that block nerve fibers to the sweat glands. These may help in some cases.

ones, but South ran off all his trumps. When he led the last one, it was impossible for West to protect both black suits. West had to chuck one of his clubs, and the last five tricks went to dummy's spade ace and A-K-Q-4 of clubs.

West was philosophical about the whole thing. He remarked, "Once you had reached the diamond slam, I was close to bottom. The overtrick, which is my fault, probably cost me a half a match point if it cost me anything."

He was right. Only one other pair had reached six diamonds. The others had played at five diamonds making six or seven, or at 'three no-trump down two.

Let's look at the bidding. South had a sound preempt, considering the vulnerability. North's four-club bid showed strength and was a forcing bid. After South had merely rebid four diamonds, North felt that he could not bid beyond game, but South looked at his second-round controls in both major suits, took the bull by the horns and bid the slam.

Excited owners prepare to grab their pets as they race across the finish line in Seminole County Humane Society's Mutt Dog Derby.

Mutts Have Their Day

So Who Said Only Greyhounds Can Race?

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Super Seminole Greyhound Park, Casselberry, is usually the exclusive domain of those fast and lean aristocrats of dogdom — the greyhounds — but every dog has his day and last Sunday was it for 100 canines of other breeds.

The Mutt Dog Derby, sponsored by the Altamonte-South Seminole Jaycees and Women Jaycees to benefit the Seminole County Humane Society, attracted dogs of all shapes and sizes. Some were obviously well bred, while others reflected a combination of genes that were arrived at by generations of doing what comes naturally.

The dogs competed in three weight categories: 25 pounds and under; 25-50 pounds; and 50 pounds and over. First, second and third place winners in the various heats competed in the finals for trophies and $50 savings bonds.

There were St. Bernards, Afghans, Great Danes, basset hounds, poodles, spaniels, setters, shepherds, dobermans, sheep dogs and bulldogs — to name a few. Some stood out from the pack, their sartorial penache displayed in the stylish bandanas in blue, red or lavender around their necks.

Some were obviously in peak physical condition, hard muscles rippling under shiny coats, while others looked as if their only exercise was getting off the couch and waddling into the kitchen to gobble down their favorite doggie delight.

Take Ziggy, a small 4-year-old mixed breed making his track debut. His owner, Mike Whitaker of Soldiers Square, Casselberry, said his racer had trained by chasing cats and hamsters.

Sugar, a 5-year-old part wire-haired terrier, owned by David Stroh, 16, of Orlando, shaped up by playing hide-and-seek and jumping for a sock and biscuits. Mutt Dog Derbies were nothing new for Sugar, who came in first, second, and third in various derby races at Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club last year.

Piggie, a St. Bernard entered by Sally Mairs, 18, of Longwood, tipped the scale at 180 lbs. She may actually have weighed more. She sprawled off all sides of the scale during the weigh-in. The race was a first for Piggie. "It sounded like fun," said Sally.

And fun it was for the dogs and their owners in spite of intermittent rains that failed to dampen their enthusiasm.

Eric McAllister, 13, of 227 Twelve League Circle, Casselberry, entered Duchess, a 3-year-old Great Dane, which weighed in at 110 lbs. Duchess had appeared in area pet fairs, but this was her first effort at racing.

"She runs in our fenced-in backyard," said Eric. "She's fast, but I don't know if she'll run here."

Bilko, a 60-pound basset hound from Indiana, representing radio station WHOO as a celebrity entry, had been dieting for a few weeks to get in shape. The 7-year-old is a little on the lazy side, her owner, Bucks Braun, admitted.

Three-year-old Patxi Gandiaga of Fern Park said his five-month-old Sheltie, "Scooby" had been "chasing lawn mowers and other dogs" to get ready for the big race. Plans went awry, however and the 8½-pound pup wandered off the track as he was nearing the finish line. Asked what happened, Patxi replied, "He got lost and he wouldn't come to me."

Little wonder some of the dogs got confused with one set of handlers to urge them along at the starting line and another set whistling, yelling and jumping up and down trying to lure them to the finish line. Some of the canine contestants were apparently more interested in winning the congeniality award than the race as they stopped to make friends and romp around on the way.

Two bull dogs were not so congenial as they got into a fight in the middle of the track during one race.

Flintlock, a 2-year-old Brittany spaniel owned by Roy Sampley Jr. of Casselberry, has won several ribbons in field trials in Florida, Virginia, and North Carolina. He won one Sunday in his first race, but was shut out in the final run-off.

The smallest entry was Lipton, a five-month-old Teacup Yorkshire Terrier, who weighed only three pounds soaking wet. His owner, Jessie Gouchenour, said he chases a parrot squeaky toy down the hall for exercise. Lipton may be small, but he was not short on speed and courage. He came in first in his first race in the 25-lb.-and-under class. But he was nearly trampled in the finals while competing with larger winners of the other heats and thoughtless handlers who didn't wait for all the dogs to get away before running down the track, too.

For at least two of the dogs, the race course, confined to the home stretch, was evidently not challenging enough so they evaded both their owners and the orange curtain stretched across the track to continue around the oval. When handlers tried to grab them as they came around again they promptly reversed their direction. When both of the dogs took time out for a pit stop in the shrubbery on the back turn, it brought a roar from the crowd. The two mixed breed dogs were eventually corraled.

Win or lose, the dogs and their proud owners had a good time while helping a good cause and that's what the derby was all about.

What Does It Cost To Make A Movie?

DEAR DICK: Could you please furnish me with information as to the cost of making movies? From the original purchase of a novel or story, the hiring of directors, stars, sets, etc. — D.V.T., Oak Lawn, Ill.

That's a big question. The costs vary wildly, depending on many factors, but let's take an average $10 million movie. The script will be somewhere around $250,000 — that includes buying the novel or the original idea, and having the script written. The cast may be some $2 million — if there are several big stars, it could be higher, or if the cast is largely unknown, it would be lower. The director gets between $250,000 and $1 million, depending on his reputation. It probably will cost around $3 million to $4 million to actually film it, again depending on how lavish a production it is. Crowd scenes, musical numbers and special effects are all costly. Post-production — the editing and adding sound effects and all that — is another $1 million or so. The insurance company will want $1 million for the completion bond. (They guarantee that if the picture isn't finished, for any reason, they pay off.) Then there will be somewhere around $2 million to make prints of the final movie and buy ads for newspapers, magazines and TV. It all adds up, and it adds up to a lot of money.

DEAR DICK: Did Elvis write all of his songs? Which of the songs he wrote became hits? — P.T., Reeds Spring, Mo.

By Elvis, I assume you are talking about Presley, not Costello. Presley's songwriting has long been a bone of contention among his associates. His name was put on several songs he did not write, according to people who are close to the situation. Of his songs, "Love Me Tender" (he was a co-writer, according to the credits) was his biggest hit. But he would always fiddle around with songs while recording them, and often made major changes.

DEAR DICK: I'm 12 years old, and is it possible for you to give me the addresses of the TV networks? — C.A., Grove Hill, Ala.

Sure, I'll give you the addresses no matter how old you are. ABC is 2040 Ave. of the Stars, Los Angeles, CA 90067; CBS is at 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036; and NBC has a place at 3000 West Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

DEAR DICK: A teacher told me that Mister Rogers died. Is this true, or is he pulling my leg? — A.J., Vancouver, Wash.

Fred Rogers is still alive, back there is his neighborhood.

DEAR DICK: My girlfriend and I have a bet on who played Freddie Prinze in "Can You Hear the Laughter?" She thinks it was Tony Orlando. I know it was Ira Angustain of "The White Shadow." Please prove her wrong. — J.B., Santa Maria, Calif.

You win this time. It was Angustain.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me if Erin Gray of "Silver Spoons" and Linda Gray of "Dallas" are related. — D.L.S., Hollywood, Fla.

DEAR DICK: Is Anthony Andrews, from "Brideshead Revisited," related to the British actor Harry Andrews? — A.M.W., East Windsor, N.J.

None of those folks are related to any of those folks.

Alley Oop Celebrates 50 Years Of Prehistory

NEW YORK (NEA) — To your average caveman, 50 years is a drop in the bucket. After all, a caveman has been around for a few million years, give or take a decade. But Alley Oop is different, and to him his 50th birthday, on Aug. 7, 1983, is cause for celebration.

When he was created by Vincent T. Hamlin back in 1933, Oop was just another newspaper comic strip character. Today he is probably the most famous caveman in the world.

Furthermore, the future looks bright for Alley Oop and his friends and enemies in the Kingdom of Moo, where dinosaurs (particularly Oop's pal, Dinny) still roam free. There may be a movie in their future.

Columbia Pictures took an option on the property in 1979 and now appears about ready to begin production. The studio says it has assigned W.D. Richter to write a screenplay.

"We expect it to go into production," says a Columbia studio spokesman, "before the end of the year."

It was Hamlin's avocation — paleontology — which sparked the creation of a caveman cartoon hero. The Iowa-born cartoonist had had a spotty career as a newspaper artist when he decided he could make more money doing mapping work in the Texas oil fields.

It was there, in 1933, that he used his spare time and long-standing interest in dinosaurs to dream up Alley Oop.

"He just had a hunch that a strip with a caveman hero would work," says Dave Graue, Hamlin's long-time assistant who has drawn the strip since the creator's retirement in '73.

And his hunch was right. But Graue believes Alley Oop might have died and become as extinct as a dinosaur except for a brain-storm Hamlin had a few years after the strip began.

"In '39," Graue says, "Hamlin dried out. He just ran out of ideas for the prehistoric period. But he came up with the notion of the time machine. I think that saved Alley Oop and gave the strip a broad base to work from."

Oop now flits back and forth in time, from his prehistoric base to many periods in history. That gives the strip a chance to look at a number of things and provides it with a continuing fresh look.

Dave Graue, who lives and works in Brevard, N.C., has been associated with Oop since 1950. He went to high school in Florida with Hamlin's daughter, and through that association, started to do a little work for Hamlin after graduating.

Later he went to Pittsburgh where he studied art and worked for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Graue says he wanted to go back to Florida because of the state's warm weather, and so returned to Hamlin's studio and worked with the veteran cartoonist for more than 20 years.

For several years, before Hamlin retired in 1973, the strip carried a dual byline.

Over the years, Alley Oop and its artists have won many awards. There have been countless Alley Oop comic books and, in 1960, a very popular rock-and-roll song called "Alley Oop" was heard all over the world.

Currently, there are 475 papers, with an estimated circulation of 7 million, which carry the strip every day.

"I think I'm going to send Oop into the future soon," says Dave Graue. "He's never been in the future, in all his time machine travels. And I also think we may have more adventures with Oop in various periods of American history. It seems that the public likes those."

So it's time to wish Alley Oop a happy birthday. He's been with us in newspapers for 50 years now — not bad for a guy whose been around for a few million years.

It took Da Vinci ten years to complete the Mona Lisa

'Fame': Is It Going To Live Forever?

By Peter Meade

"NBC canceled 'Fame,' but we're not ready to cancel 'Fame,'" says Larry Gershman, president of MGM/UA Television Distribution while standing in front of the series' giant logo. Underneath it has been printed "We're gonna live forever!" "Fame" now hopes to become part of television history instead of being added to the annals of canceled shows.

When NBC announced two months ago that the series would not be renewed for a third year, the people at MGM/UA were left with a hefty decision to make. Although the show never became a big hit ratings-wise, it has a large cult-type following, is the No. 1 foreign show in England and is extremely popular throughout Europe.

"Fame" is one of the three most successful shows in the world," says Gershman, and that coupled with the enthusiastic response he received from the Metromedia Network, Lexington Broadcast Services, advertisers and international licensees led to MGM/UA's decision that

"Fame" will live on in syndication.

Within a month the plan to syndicate new episodes of the series was OKed by stations covering 72 percent of the country. Gershman added that he believes "Fame" will have at least 80 percent clearance by the time the first show airs in October.

The new shows, which will total between 22 and 24, will be shot in 35mm at a cost of approximately $700,000 an episode. Executive producer William Blinn will return as will cast members Debbie Allen, Valerie Landsburg, Gene Anthony Ray, Erica Gimpel, Carlo Imperato, Lee Curreri, Albert Hague and Carol Mayo Jenkins. Lori Singer, who played the aspiring celloist Julie, has decided to pursue a career in movies instead. And Morgan Stevens, as Reardon, the drama teacher, will only make limited appearances.

"This show is a first," says Miss Allen. "We cast the mold and redefined song and dance on film when we did 'Fame' the movie. It was a major challenge to continue on TV."

Second Generation Carrying Out Family Tradition At Carlo's Restaurant (Pizzaria)

Entering Carlo's Restaurant is like stepping back into tradition. Paul Baio is a second generation owner-operator of this Italian restaurant located eight years at its 1008 South French Avenue, Sanford, address.

Although steeped in his family's tradition of fine Italian cooking, Paul has picked up a few "trade secrets" as a chef in New York City. His special touches are notable in the many dishes all of which are begun with quality imported foods, oils and seasonings.

The delicacy of the recipes is detectable to the diner's nose as he awaits arrival of his order in the cozy, red-checked atmosphere of the restaurant.

For a 52-seat restaurant, Carlo's menu is lengthy. If your taste runs to veal, whether it be scallopini or parmigiana, you can count on a fresh, select cut of meat properly prepared in a special breading and served with tender cooked peppers and mushrooms. Imported wines bring truth to the flavors.

A blend of three cheeses produces the creamy sauce Alfredo for fettuccini, which, with salad and garlic bread calls for a $7.50 tab.

Carlo's New York style pizza has a thin, crisp crust that is moist. The special sauce is topped with whole milk mozzarella and a choice of garnishes. The restaurant offers both round and the square Sicilian pizzas.

Paul's wife, Debbie, will greet you at the door Monday through Friday beginning at 11 with a choice from six lunch specials and in the evening until 10 through the week and 11 on Fridays. Dinners start at $3.65.
