Italy Overrules Family, Sets Moro State Funeral

ROME (UPI) — The Christian Democratic Party, apparently overruling the expressed wishes of the family, announced today a state funeral would be held Saturday for ex-premier Aldo Moro, murdered by his Red Brigades kidnappers. Officials also announced the government's emergency "Plan 3" was put into effect at dawn today with police reinforcements rushed to guard all major political figures, party headquarters, ministries, public buildings and embassies against any new strike by the terrorists. The announcement came as Moro's old friend, Pope Paul VI, his voice quavering with emotion, called the former premier's murder "a stain of blood that dishonors our country."

No Oxygen For Climbers

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Two Austrians have become the first climbers to reach the 29,028-foot summit of the world's highest peak without using auxiliary oxygen, the Nepalese Tourism Ministry reported Tuesday. Peter Habeler, a ski instructor from Mayerhofen, and Reinhold Messner, a mountaineer of Suhlroif, set the new alpinist record Monday after an aborted attempt on Mount Everest April 24.

Where Is Fugitive Vesco? NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — The wife and child of Robert Vesco were back home in their Nassau mansion today, but the whereabouts of the fugitive financier was a mystery. The U.S. has been trying since Vesco left the Bahamas for Costa Rica five years ago to extradite him on charges of violating U.S. securities laws, conspiracy and wire fraud for allegedly stripping his mutual fund, Investors Overseas Services, of $224 million.

What we didn't learn.

Maybe we're successful as funeral directors because of the things we didn't learn from books. Such as thoughtfulness. And understanding. And compassion. And respect. These are the qualities you can't get out of a book or a classroom — but they mean more to us (and to the families we serve!) than anything we've ever been taught.

Longwood Man Hit, Killed By Car Near Zoo Entrance

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

A 48-year-old Longwood man was killed Tuesday night after he was hit by a car near the entrance of the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford. According to a Florida Highway Patrol spokesman, the accident occurred at 10:30 p.m. on State Road 600, half mile east of State Road 600. The victim, William O. Zinch, who was reportedly living with a sister at the Mobile Manor Trailer Park in Longwood, was dead at the scene, according to records. He was standing in the eastbound lane holding up his mood when he was hit by a car driven by Alvin Garman Becker, 72, of 65 Maria Road, DeBary, according to police.

Action Reports

★ Courts ★ Police ★ Fire
No charges were filed in the incident, police said. Damage to the car was estimated at $300. Zinch was originally from Pennsylvania, according to neighbors, who said he had been in the Central Florida area about eight years and lived in Lake Mary and Sanford. He is survived by four children, neighbors said.

Piland Submits Candidates For City Attorney's Slot

Mayor Troy Piland has submitted his resignation to Piland the same day. Since that time, Maasey has continued attending meetings as acting city attorney at Piland's request. The majority of city council at a workshop Tuesday night turned down for the third time the recommendation of Piland that City Planner Dick Rozanski, whose $10,000 annual salary is being funded through the federal government's Comprehensive Training Employment and Assistance Act (CETA) program, also serve as city administrator. Piland and Councilman John Santini said again that a full-time administrator is needed in city hall. Councilman Laurent Pellerin said he isn't sure that a city planner is needed at all after the funding for the position expires later this year, adding the planner was hired originally to prepare the city's comprehensive land use plan.

Councilman Bart Logan said a compromise situation might be considered whereby an administrative-type person would be retained part time. The council delayed a decision on whether to approve a CETA project whereby a current city CETA labor crew including six laborers and a foreman would be retained to clean out three areas drainage creeks. Councilman John Daniels suggested the project be discussed at a workshop again and Piland said he will place the item for decision on next week's agenda. Piland said the city also has applied for four CETA high school jobs for a summer recreation program for the youth of the community. He said $3,000 in city funds is available for the program to pay salaries of teachers to administer the program and provide necessary equipment and other expenses. The council heard a presentation by fiscal agent M. Stewart Hartman of the Orlando investment bankers firm of Loeby, Wheeler and Alteman Inc. Hartman explained methods of acquiring and financing the proposed purchase by the city of water and sewer utility companies. He said if the city acquires the water and sewer utility systems operating in the community that rates to citizens could not be reduced and that the acquisition could be financed through revenues of the system — DONNA ESTES

Solemn Rites In Israel For War Dead

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel today honored 9,000 war dead in a solemn preamble to joyous festivities marking Israel's 30th anniversary. Sirens throughout the country wailed a steady two-minute wail, bringing the nation's 3.1 million Jews to a standstill and signaling the start of memorial services at scores of cemeteries honoring the dead from four wars against the Arabs. Automobiles stopped and drivers and passengers got out to stand at attention. Pedestrians halted. Workers put down their tools and stood erect. Blue and white national flags fluttered at half staff in a cool breeze under sunny skies. More than 30,000 troops, green-bereted border police, police and civil defense volunteers maintained tight security precautions to guard against a possible Palestinian guerrilla strike. Cabinet members fanned out to the nation's cemeteries to attend memorial services. Prime Minister Menachem Begin went to Safed, a northern hilltop town sacred to Jews since the Middle Ages as a center of learning. The town holds special memories for Begin as commander of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, the underground Jewish organization that fought the British in Palestine. The British hanged several Irgun members in Safed and Begin has gone there every memorial day since 1948. Honoring the dead, Begin said in a three-minute address he hoped "their blood will guarantee for the future peace of the country no more deaths and no more bereavement in the House of Israel so we can work our land and ensure the progress of our people under peaceful and secure conditions because for this, too, our boys gave their lives."

Jet Sale Vote On Thursday?
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress and the administration are headed for a showdown — likely to come Thursday — over the proposal to sell $4.4 billion of advanced jet fighters to Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Israel. Administration officials say they are confident the sale will go through, giving President Carter a second substantial foreign policy victory on the heels of ratification of the Panama Canal treaties. The Washington Post reported today the administration was prepared to sell Israel an additional 30 F-16s in the mid 1980s in an effort to sweeten the three-way package for balking legislators.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Landowners Get Rebate For U.S. Condemned Land
JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Government checks totaling $773,475 were mailed Tuesday to the seven owners of 989.72 acres of Putnam County land condemned in 1970 as recreational sites along the CrossFlorida Barge Canal.

'Hard Time' Resolution
TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Sen. Jim Glisson, who wants to be lieutenant governor on a ticket headed by Attorney General Robert Shevlin, had a hard time Tuesday with a resolution opposing gun controls. But Glisson and other senators apparently will get a chance to change their vote or reiterate it. The bill passed 29-4, but Sen. Ed Dunn, D-Daytona Beach, moved for reconsideration so it comes up again today. Glisson managed to be out of the chamber when the bill was debated and passed Tuesday.

Insurance Rates At Issue
TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Forbidding companies from using age as a factor for setting auto insurance rates would raise policies for about 80 percent of the drivers in Florida, legislators say. The House defeated a move Tuesday to forbid insurance companies from using age, sex and marital status as factors for determining costs of coverage. But the lawmakers, in a 61-45 vote, adopted an amendment by Rep. Dorothy Sample, R-St. Petersburg, who moved to prohibit statewide rate structures. Gunter could change the structures through rule making powers of his office.

OSOTA Buses Rolling Again
ORLANDO (UPI) — Thumb tacks were scattered in front of the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority terminal Tuesday, but the paths of buses were otherwise unobstructed on the first day of service since drivers went on strike April 8. The strike began when negotiations broke down between Amalgamated Transit Union Local 1326 and the Transportation Authority over an increase in the drivers' $5.14 hourly wage, already among the highest in the state, according to officials. Buses traveling nine of 23 routes were nearly empty, but authority officials said that was because regular riders did not realize they were rolling, not because they agreed with the strike.

New State Charter: '7 Of 8 In '78?'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — "It's in the hands of the voters now," members of the Constitution Revision Commission said as they handed a proposed new charter to Secretary of State Bruce Smathers and told him to put it on the November ballot. Smathers took it half-heartedly, noting he had no option but to do it. He said he will withhold his statements on the document until he starts campaigning in earnest for governor later this year. His opposition to one proposal — abolishing the elected governor for four years — is well-known. Chairman Talbot D'Alemberte, Miami, pinpointed the cabinet, a little ERA proposal and a new tax article giving major tax breaks to big business, as the most controversial items of the eight-amendment package. Not one of the six commissioners, including D'Alemberte, is going to vote for all eight. But most indicated they will vote for seven of the eight, hitting on a possible campaign slogan of "seven of eight in '78."

Nat Polak, Tallahassee insurance executive and self-appointed representative of the little man, said he will vote for only two of the eight — ERA and single-member districts for legislators. He predicts the people do not want to vote away their right to elect their public officials and will reject proposals to abolish the cabinet, end contested elections of over 400 county and circuit judges and make the Public Service Commission appointed instead of elected. Commissioner Ben Overton — who is chief justice of the Supreme Court — came up with a surprise disclosure Tuesday that may take some of the heat out of the campaign to abolish the cabinet. If the people adopt it, he said, the legislature can create an elected mini-cabinet to keep the governor from running a one-man show in the areas of investment of state funds, sales of state lands and issuance of state bonds.

Flynt: 'I'm Going To Walk Again...'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Larry Flynt grabbed the bar above his hospital bed, pulled himself up slightly and said, "I'm going to walk again. They're giving me a 50-50 chance, but I'm going to walk again."

"They gave me a 2 percent chance to live when I was shot," the Hustler magazine owner said Tuesday. "I could walk out of here tomorrow, if it wasn't for my legs."

He said he was shot because of articles he has published on the Kennedy assassination. The shooting occurred during a recess in an obscenity trial and left Flynt paralyzed from the mid-thighs down.

Cleaver: Lost Friends

Eldridge Cleaver — A Black Panther Party founder who did some time on the FBI's most wanted list — says he's lost friends because of his conversion to Christianity and his new belief in democracy. Some old associates "call me a right-winger and an FBI and CIA agent," he told the Evangelical Press Association convention in San Bernardino, Calif., recently. But his new beliefs convince him of the need for racial harmony to preserve "the democratic principles of our heritage."

The American challenge is not to undergo a forced mixing of people to make a bouquet, but to sincerely make applications of the principles of Jesus Christ.

Robertson: 'Ripped Off'

Even Hollywood people who get regular work need protection from the sticky fingers of some film studios. So says Cliff Robertson, who claims he and other actors were "ripped off" to the tune of $40,000 by David Begelman, former president of Columbia Pictures. It was Robertson's charge that led to the indictment of Begelman for grand theft and forgery, and on Tuesday he told the New York chapter of the Screen Actors Guild that what's needed is a panel to police movie contracts. Says Robertson, "The dirty criminal hands, well manicured and slick — the masters of the hip and hype — try to make deals with actors, directors and writers and they squeeze us."

Sayre: Our Man in Brazil

It wasn't easy, but career diplomat Robert Sayre, 55, is now — officially — the U.S. ambassador to Brazil. His confirmation was held up while the Senate made sure he did nothing untoward while he was ambassador to Panama. At the time, Sayre told Panamanian strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos that Torrijos' brother, Moises, was being investigated by U.S. agents for alleged drug trafficking. The senators wanted to know if that constitutes an illegal tipoff. Evidently it didn't and Sayre was sworn in Tuesday in Washington to a job Secretary of State Cyrus Vance called "one of the most important posts in our diplomatic corps."

South Sanford Traffic Review

By LEONARD KRANENBURY
Herald Staff Writer

The State Department of Transportation (DOT) will soon begin a review of traffic on U.S. 17-82 in the south end of Sanford.

The survey is expected to begin in about two weeks and will last for about a month, according to DOT District Engineer Bill Benedict.

The review was made by Sanford City Manager Warren Kowles about two weeks ago. The area to be studied will begin at the intersection of Park Drive and French Avenue south to Airport Boulevard and then south of Airport Boulevard to Lake Mary Boulevard.

Kowles has stated his concerns centers on changing the design of the area. From a review of the traffic review (finds any major problems there could be some shifting in the work program priorities.

Benedict noted that the type of things that will be studied include reviewing the road, and studying the turning radius cars have to make when getting on and off 17-82. "We may find that the problem could be minor and thus may not need that much money or time to fix," he said.

In other Commission action: A unanimous rejection was given to an appeal by R.G. Kondrachi to override the rejection of the planning and zoning commission of a building permit. Kondrachi, who owns a used car lot at 2711 Orlando Drive, was told to first present a site plan to the Commission before a would grant approval to a building permit for Kondrachi to construct an addition to his business.

Unanimous approval was given to granting a 13-month delay in the paving of a parking lot by Ambassador of Christ Church at 750 West Meach II.

Unanimously approved the recommendation to have Mrs. Carl (Doris) Dietrich serve as a trustee on the Sanford Museum and Library Board.

FITTING INTO THEIR PLANS — A key to the city of Altamonte Springs is presented by Mayor Norman Floyd to Cathy Cinnamon, treasurer and color guard captain of the Lake Brantley High School Marching Band, (center) and Beth Hatchford, band vice president, for presentation to the mayor of Mexico City. The two girls will be among the 124 members of the band and 30 parents who will be in Mexico City from May 25-29. While in Mexico, the band will perform several concerts and make the key presentation at the Conservatory of Music there.

Altamonte Delays Play Center Opening

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The opening of the Spring Oaks Recreation Center as a city of Altamonte Springs-operated facility was supposed to have been today.

But the city commission Tuesday evening delayed authorizing signature on a purchase agreement for the center until details and assurances are worked out.

The city commission weeks ago agreed to purchase the center with its outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts and ballfields from Bel-Air Homes for $600,000.

The exchange of money and deed has been held up on City Attorney Joe Davis' advice pending approval by the court of the dissolution of the association representing member-citizens of Spring Oaks and the association's approval of the sale.

An agreement was worked between the owners of the facility, Bel-Air Homes, and Mayor Norman Floyd last Friday, whereby the city could have taken possession and operated the facility under a free lease arrangement pending exchange of cash and an appropriate deed.

Davis reported on the status of the lawsuit filed several years ago against the city by Mrs. Jean Bechtold after the city ordered her to cease operating a baby sitting service at her Spring Oaks home.

The city said at the time the baby-sitting operation violated the city's zoning ordinance.

Davis said the combined results of the civil suit and prosecution for violating the city ordinance was that the city's zoning ordinance was upheld and a permanent injunction forbidding Mrs. Bechtold to operate her business in a residential area was issued.

He said the courts found unconstitutional a state law under which Mrs. Bechtold was denied a jury trial in county court.

He recommended the city not appeal the decision on the constitutionality of the state law and the commission concurred unanimously.

He Spiked OJ, Faces Charges

CHICAGO (UPI) — Will County officials are considering criminal charges against a Stateville prison guard who put detergent in the orange juice of inmates to discourage them from converting the juice to alcohol.

Ernest Morris, the warden of the penitentiary near Joliet, signed an order Monday to fire the guard, Daniel Stalder, 38, on the recommendation of the prison's attorney review board.

Assistant Warden Nicholas Melias said Tuesday the records from an investigation by the Corrections Department were sent to the state's attorney's office for possible prosecution.

More than 10 inmates suffered nausea and other symptoms of poisoning and were examined at a nearby hospital.

Stalder later told investigators he poured in the preservative disinfectant to discourage the inmates from fermenting the orange juice into alcohol.

Little Changed In Israel

30 Years Later: Hey-Day Image Gone...

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — After 30 embattled years, Israel is emerging on its fourth decade still searching for peace.

Most of the world says this is Israel's first government. Israel's refusal to cede Arab territory conquered in the war of 1967 has earned it the epithets "arrogant" and "intransigent" from the Communist Arab and Western worlds alike.

Its unwillingness to accept only a piece of paper labeled "Peace Agreement" from the Arabs has cost it friends and provoked anger among its few allies. But Israel today trusts to one and wants irrevocable guarantees of peace.

It wasn't always that way.

A world horrified by the Nazi extermination of 6 million European Jews before and during World War II gave the survivors the homeland they had been seeking for half a century when the United Nations divided British-mandated Palestine in 1947, giving most of it to the Arabs.

Attached by Arab armies, the outnumbered Jews fought back with superior rifles, improvised cannons, homemade mortars and leftover German Messerschmitt 109E warplanes from Czechoslovakia.

On May 14, 1948 this narrow slice of the eastern Mediterranean seaboard became the new state of Israel and what the Jews call their war of independence ended in 1949 with an inconclusive armistice agreement signed on the Greek island of Rhodes.

In the meantime thousands of Arabs had fled or been expelled. And so was born the Palestinian problem.

Few noticed.

The Jews were busy building their country. Hundreds of thousands of Jews arrived from the Arab countries, peoples who culturally were more like the Arabs than their European brethren.

Israel called the influx "Operation Magic Carpet" and so planted the seed for two societies — one dark-skinned and poor, the other white and wealthier, the poverness and the powerful.

The world looked on in admiration in those early years as the fledgling state under Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion created gardens from wastelands and fought off Arab guerrilla attacks at the same time. But now those heyday images are gone. Israel today is condemned for cultivating the rocky hills of the West Bank of the Jordan River and trying to make the desert bloom in Sinai. For these areas were captured in 1967 from Jordan and Egypt and the world doesn't see them as lands for Jewish settlement.

Israel embarked on its first adventure in 1956, joining with the British and France to launch an assault against the Egyptians in Sinai that took Israeli troops all the way to the Suez Canal. The European powers tried to use Israel to ensure control of the canal — which was nationalized by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser — and Israel used the Europeans to rid the area of guerrillas.

The Israelis did the same thing 22 years later in Lebanon, but acting alone against the Palestinians and receiving little acclaim except at home and from their Christian Lebanese allies.

The message from the Americans then as now was the same: Get out.

Little, it seems, has changed.

Israel's position in 1978, some say, has had a viable alternative other than to live in Washington. Its very economic dilemma is due to the extent of American loans and its entire war machine is built on U.S. supplied weapons.

And most of it is paid for by American Jews, 3 million people without whom Israel probably never could have lasted for 30 years. The Israelis know it and are grateful for what is almost a "family relationship."

The United States government knows it, too, and with kind words does not want Israel to forget it.

Said U.S. Ambassador Samuel W. Lewis recently about U.S.-Israeli relations:

"There's a unique quality of intimacy, friendship, shared values, problem solving and problems not yet solved and the kind of family relationship which permits one to love and disagree at the same time."

'A unique quality of intimacy, friendship, shared values...'

If ever disagreements between the West and Israel were set aside it was in June 1967. Israel destroyed the air forces of Egypt and Syria in hours and overran Egyptian, Syrian and Jordanian territory in six days to win a war against insuperable odds.

The world looked upon an Israel full of pride, the triumphant underdog, and scarcely noticed in the euphoric aftermath of the war that it had annexed 30 square miles of Arab East Jerusalem and its environs.

Israel prepared as never before in the years immediately after the 1967 war. Foreign investors poured by Israel's new military prowess that their money would be safe, spent millions in the country.

But a nagging war of attrition along the Suez Canal between Egypt and Israel forced the United States to involve itself in the Middle East. It achieved its first success with a ceasefire in August 1974 that led Menachem Begin to walk out of Golda Meir's government.

Israel consolidated its hold on the captured territories, building as many settlements as it could to defend frontline positions in the Golan Heights of Syria and along the Jordan River.

The Golan settlements did nothing to prevent the massive Syrian tank assault at the outbreak of the 1973 "October war", launched on the eve of Yom Kippur with such stunning surprise by Egypt and Syria that it forced Israel to reevaluate its assessment of the Arabs.

Israel eventually won the war on the battlefield, knocking out the Soviet-supplied missile umbrella on both fronts before striking in depth with its superior air force. But more than 2,600 of its men were killed and Israel views the 18-day conflict as a loss because of the Arab political victory that was achieved in part by the oil embargo.

Israeli forces subsequently pulled out of enclaves they captured in Egypt and Syria and in later agreements mediated by then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger even gave up more of the Sinai and the Golan than it had seized in the war.

The embargo almost quadrupled the price of oil and served as a warning to the industrialized West that it could be used as a weapon in the future to get what the Arabs want from Israel.

But nearly 5 years after the war Israel almost lost the Middle East barely in closer to an overall peace agreement despite a change in governments in Israel and the startling visit to Israel in November 1977 by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The euphoria of Sadat's visit long since has evaporated on both sides of the Suez Canal and the routine backroom diplomacy Sadat wanted so much to avoid is now commonplace. The diplomatic shuttle on the Washington-Cairo-Jerusalem axis is in full swing.

All that has emerged since the heady days of November is a public pledge by Sadat and Begin, reiterated at the Christmas summit in Jerusalem: "No more war, no more bloodshed." But it is written nowhere but in newspapers.

What is holding up an agreement is Israel's fear that its security needs will not be met in a settlement with Egypt, who has expressed a willingness to guarantee whatever the Israelis want in exchange for the occupied territories.

The Israelis privately think an agreement with Egypt will last only so long as Sadat remains in power — that what will be acceptable to him will not be good enough for his successor.

Giving up the West Bank with its 600,000 Palestinians, for example, means returning to a frontier that will be only 9 miles from the Mediterranean at Israel's wavy waist at coastal Netanya. Unthinkable, say the Israelis, because Israel will run the risk of being cut in two by ground forces in a future war.

Now that we're running out of oil and gas, is nuclear energy the answer to our future?

In the past, natural gas and oil have been called "easy energy." Because they seemed easily accessible, and their supply endless.

But these two fossil fuels don't come easily anymore. In fact, we are running out of them.

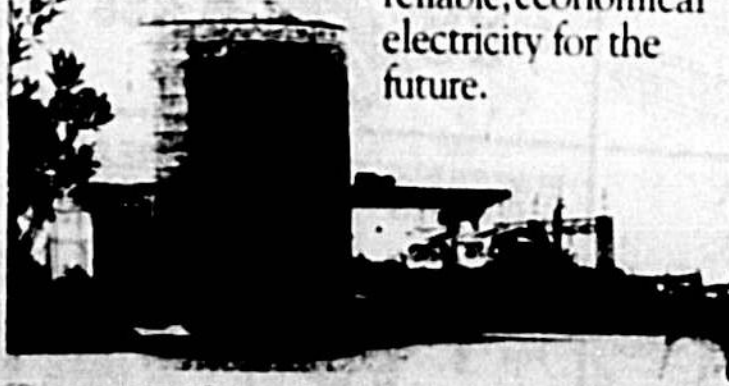

So we need alternatives to help meet Florida's need for energy. Nuclear energy is one of these. Today, it's our cleanest way of producing electricity. Its safety record is unequalled in industry. And it has proved to be economical.

FPL's three nuclear power plants already have demonstrated the viability of nuclear power. Last year alone, they generated one-third of our electricity and saved our customers $250 million in imported oil costs.

But no one source of energy is the "easy" answer.

So FPL, with other power companies, continues to search for new energy technologies—while it works with a careful balance of today's proven sources. To assure you reliable, economical electricity for the future.

FPL's nuclear unit at St. Lucie. We have two others at Turkey Point.

Working on tomorrow's energy...for you.

... From Egypt To Israelis: Happy Birthday, Welcome As Neighbor

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat has extended to Israel what the Jewish state has been yearning for since its establishment 30 years ago — acceptance. Not just recognition of its existence as a fact of life, which the Egyptians say was implicit in the conclusion of the 1949 armistice agreement at Rhodes following the first of four Arab-Israeli wars.

"We did not sign the armistice with a ghost," was the way a top Egyptian diplomat once put it.

And not just acknowledgment of Israel's right to live within secure and recognized boundaries, which Egypt extended when it accepted U.N. Security Council resolution 242 of Nov. 22, 1947, the peace blueprint which remains the sole basic document serving as terms of reference for a negotiated settlement.

Sadat has gone much further. He has accepted Israel as a neighbor with whom he would have friendly relations — diplomatic, economic, cultural and otherwise — the moment a final settlement is achieved.

His first outspoken acceptance pledge came on a historic occasion — his speech to the Israeli parliament Knesset, which climaxed his visit to Jerusalem last November to break down what he described as the "formidable psychological barrier" of mistrust and hatred and open the door to direct negotiations.

"You want to live with us in this part of the world," Sadat told the deputies. "And I tell you in all sincerity that we welcome you in our midst, in safety and security... we used to reject you and we had our own reasons for this... but today I tell you and declare to the whole world that we accept to live with you in permanent and just peace."

Sadat initially held out for an immediate peace agreement, with normal relations to be taken up by "future generations." Later he suggested such relations can come five years after an agreement is signed. Now he agrees to have relations simultaneously with the conclusion of a settlement.

"When we say that we are ready to establish relations of good neighborliness in the full sense of the word, we are ready to do so tomorrow, provided one does not violate the territory or property of one's neighbor," the president told a group of visiting American university professors March 26.

But his condition, rejected by Israel so far, is a settlement based on total Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands and recognition of the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination in the Jordan West Bank and the Gaza sector.

Until Egypt's humiliating defeat at Israel's hands in the six-day war of June 1967, when the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser was in power, the prevalent attitude was that the Jewish state should be destroyed. "Throw Israel into the sea" was a slogan frequently heard on Cairo's radio service.

Nasser sobered up after the defeat and accepted resolution 242. A war of attrition across the Suez Canal was waged from late 1964 to the middle of 1969 after initial peace efforts failed. Nasser accepted a cease-fire in July 1970 and Sadat maintained it after he took over in September of that year.

Only In Israel For Them

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Yael Eilat, 30-year-old granddaughter of Israel's second president, Yitzhak Ben-Zvi is critical of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's policies and has signed a protest letter circulated by the new peace movement. But she says she can't imagine herself living anywhere but in Israel.

Eilat, who was born 30 years ago on the very day the Jewish state came into existence. He works in his father's garage, is better than he and his young family don't have their own apartment, but feels Israel is his only home and the place he wants to rear his children.

Eilat Harat is of Yemenite origin and wears a long drooping mustache. He is the first generation of his family born in Israel and is named for his late uncle, who used the nickname Eilat in the private and official movements commended by Begin.

He sees virtually no prospects for a Middle East peace, says Israelis have lost their pioneering spirit but adds he will never leave the country and especially its capital, Jerusalem.

For all these young Israelis, their country is a special place, though they agreed that the 30th anniversary of its founding which coincides with their own birthdays was simply another independence day.

"I don't really feel anything special," said Eilat, recalling that in previous years he and others born on May 14, 1948, had been invited to a ceremony at the president's house.

"It's just a round number, but the independence day is like the 30th or 50th," said Harat who works as a draftsman in Jerusalem. He served 143 days in the army reserves during and after the 1973 Yom Kippur war on the Sinai front and today is convinced that peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors is practically impossible.

OVIEDO RUNS THROUGH FOOTBALL PACES UNDER WATCHFUL EYE OF COACHES

Haynes Hunches
By JIM HAYNES
Herald Sports Editor

Win One For The Limper

One of the fondest memories of my childhood was the game I played with my favorite aunt. "Jimmy," she would say, "what do you want to be when you grow up?" "I would tell her I wanted to be a garbage collector. And, after she recovered from the shock, I'd admit I didn't have anything in mind, but that I would know it when I saw it."

Years later, I saw it. Nope, not the sports section of a newspaper. It was an honest-to-goodness coach — complete with baseball cap, whistle and ripple-sole shoes. He was my hero, and for a long while I couldn't envision myself growing up as anything else.

That was way back... even before I discovered girls. Somewhere along the way, coaching lost some of its appeal. Aided by an early marriage, I entered a field that required a writing pad and pencil rather than a whistle.

That's why Joe Montgomery didn't have to twist my arm to talk me into being a guest coach in the Oviedo High spring game a week from this Friday night.

"You call the plays... the works," said Montgomery, who is dividing his team in half, giving Oviedo Outlook sports writer Myron Caidon one squad, me the other.

Over the last 15 years I have watched coaches implement a varying number of philosophies. All the way from drill sergeant to buddy-buddy.

I'm considering showing up for practice with old copies of Playboy and Penthouse and pass them off as playbooks. Of course, practice will be in the shade of an inviting tree, and refreshments served every 15 minutes by distracting young ladies.

You ask how one expects to win the game with this routine? "Simple! I advocate the game is never won on a practice field. They only give points on gamenight. My practice talk will consist mostly of introducing a youngster in a wheel chair who says he always wanted to play for the Lions, but being crippled, he will settle for the guys to "win one for the limper."

That'll do for two quarters, and I'll think of something else for the halftime psyche.

Insiders claim the game will boil down to which side has star halfback Marvin McClennon. South Seminole folk hold it has that Marvin was raised in the high brush by jackrabbits. At least he runs that way. Montgomery has clocked him at 4.4 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

"That's fast... and if you want to know how fast, consider that Tony Dorsett does it in 4.3," adds Montgomery.

My squad won't be concerned if McClennon is on the other team. After all, Montgomery promised to divide the teams evenly.

And that means we will have the best looking cheerleaders, first crack at the clean towels, the biggest ice chest and possession of the ball first, so we can't say we never had a chance.

Pamar Whips Griffin, 16-13

Mike Buckmaster blasted a home run and Mark Hibbard and Jim Smith scattered some hits as Pamar Inc. defeated Griffin Construction Tuesday in the Pasco Little League League, 16-13.

Eddie Behrens had three hits for the losers while J.R. Griffin had a double and triple. Jack-in-the-Box's "Small Fries" had a triple play and a grand slam homer by Jon Shrine Game.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 1978 Shrine East-West football game will not be played at Stanford Stadium because of a conflict over dates.

Although the game has not been decided, the date, which is played in huge crowds at Stanford over the last three years, probably will wind up in Candlestick Park.

Thiebauth Loses No-Hitter But Lake Howell Advances

EAU GALIE — Tom Thiebauth came within one pitch of throwing a no-hitter against Eau Gallie Tuesday night, but he was quite content with the 5-4 victory by Lake Howell in a sub-regional game which put the Hawks' Cl-della team one victory away from a berth in the Class AAAA state playoffs.

Thiebauth tossed Eau Gallie on his until there were two outs in the seventh inning and he had a 3-and-2 count on Commodores centerfielder Ed

Hall, who broke the ice with a single. Thiebauth bounced back into form, however, and got the best batter for the final out. "It was a great effort. I'm real proud of Tom's effort. Everyone played well under pressure," said Howell coach Burt Benjamin. Bob Parker scored on an error in the first inning for the Hawks, and the score stayed 1-0 going into the seventh inning. That's when Bob Luby delivered a two-run triple and David Hancock came up with a run-scoring double to help put four runs on the scoreboard and give Thiebauth some breathing room.

The victory brought Lake Howell's record to 13-15, and marked the Hawks' fourth straight tournament victory. They closed the regular season with three straight losses.

Chris Dapore pitched his second no-hitter of the Seminole Pony Baseball League season Tuesday, sparking Sobak's Subs to a 19-3 Mustang victory over Maronda Homes.

Also in Mustang action Tuesday, Heller Chevrolet edged Miles Tunep, 11-10, as John Euliano went 4-for-4.

In Pony division games, Christian Kitchens used a pair of seven-run innings to pin a 1-0 loss on Jack Proser Ford's home as Billy Martin pitched a five-hitter, and Don Reed Ford tripped Don's Pizza, 6-1.

Jody Foster hit a three-run homer to lead Burtupperware, 13-4, in Bronze play, and American Wood Products trounced North Orlando Foods, 3-0, on a combined three-batter by Mike Huff, Paul Angre and John Cupt.

In Pony action, Jim Smith Insurance stopped Squid Fishing, 5-4.

Win One For The Limper

One of the fondest memories of my childhood was the game I played with my favorite aunt. "Jimmy," she would say, "what do you want to be when you grow up?" "I would tell her I wanted to be a garbage collector. And, after she recovered from the shock, I'd admit I didn't have anything in mind, but that I would know it when I saw it."

Years later, I saw it. Nope, not the sports section of a newspaper. It was an honest-to-goodness coach — complete with baseball cap, whistle and ripple-sole shoes. He was my hero, and for a long while I couldn't envision myself growing up as anything else.

That was way back... even before I discovered girls. Somewhere along the way, coaching lost some of its appeal. Aided by an early marriage, I entered a field that required a writing pad and pencil rather than a whistle.

That's why Joe Montgomery didn't have to twist my arm to talk me into being a guest coach in the Oviedo High spring game a week from this Friday night.

"You call the plays... the works," said Montgomery, who is dividing his team in half, giving Oviedo Outlook sports writer Myron Caidon one squad, me the other.

Over the last 15 years I have watched coaches implement a varying number of philosophies. All the way from drill sergeant to buddy-buddy.

I'm considering showing up for practice with old copies of Playboy and Penthouse and pass them off as playbooks. Of course, practice will be in the shade of an inviting tree, and refreshments served every 15 minutes by distracting young ladies.

You ask how one expects to win the game with this routine? "Simple! I advocate the game is never won on a practice field. They only give points on gamenight. My practice talk will consist mostly of introducing a youngster in a wheel chair who says he always wanted to play for the Lions, but being crippled, he will settle for the guys to "win one for the limper."

That'll do for two quarters, and I'll think of something else for the halftime psyche.

Insiders claim the game will boil down to which side has star halfback Marvin McClennon. South Seminole folk hold it has that Marvin was raised in the high brush by jackrabbits. At least he runs that way. Montgomery has clocked him at 4.4 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

"That's fast... and if you want to know how fast, consider that Tony Dorsett does it in 4.3," adds Montgomery.

My squad won't be concerned if McClennon is on the other team. After all, Montgomery promised to divide the teams evenly.

And that means we will have the best looking cheerleaders, first crack at the clean towels, the biggest ice chest and possession of the ball first, so we can't say we never had a chance.

Pamar Whips Griffin, 16-13

Mike Buckmaster blasted a home run and Mark Hibbard and Jim Smith scattered some hits as Pamar Inc. defeated Griffin Construction Tuesday in the Pasco Little League League, 16-13.

Eddie Behrens had three hits for the losers while J.R. Griffin had a double and triple. Jack-in-the-Box's "Small Fries" had a triple play and a grand slam homer by Jon Shrine Game.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 1978 Shrine East-West football game will not be played at Stanford Stadium because of a conflict over dates.

Although the game has not been decided, the date, which is played in huge crowds at Stanford over the last three years, probably will wind up in Candlestick Park.

Chris Dapore pitched his second no-hitter of the Seminole Pony Baseball League season Tuesday, sparking Sobak's Subs to a 19-3 Mustang victory over Maronda Homes.

Also in Mustang action Tuesday, Heller Chevrolet edged Miles Tunep, 11-10, as John Euliano went 4-for-4.

In Pony division games, Christian Kitchens used a pair of seven-run innings to pin a 1-0 loss on Jack Proser Ford's home as Billy Martin pitched a five-hitter, and Don Reed Ford tripped Don's Pizza, 6-1.

Jody Foster hit a three-run homer to lead Burtupperware, 13-4, in Bronze play, and American Wood Products trounced North Orlando Foods, 3-0, on a combined three-batter by Mike Huff, Paul Angre and John Cupt.

In Pony action, Jim Smith Insurance stopped Squid Fishing, 5-4.

Boy Facing Trial In Mom's Slaying

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Scott Michael Striegel, 17, of Winter Springs, goes on trial June 5 for the murder of his mother.

The date was set in circuit court at the Seminole County Courthouse with Judge David Strawn presiding.

Striegel will go to trial as an adult. At Monday's hearing, Strawn denied three motions by Striegel's attorney to have the charges dismissed on technicalities.

Striegel is charged in the Feb. 18 slaying of Dorothy Striegel, 32, of 251 Buttonwood Ave. Mrs. Striegel, a part-time saleswoman at a clothing store in Seminole Plaza, was shot once in the temple and her body wrapped in a blanket and left in a closet.

The body was discovered by the woman's daughter and police charged the youth the following day with murder. It was the first murder in the 19-year history of Winter Springs.

TRIALS DELAYED

Two more murder trials were continued until a later date.

Robert Anthony Preston Jr., 20, of Apopka is charged with first degree murder, robbery, kidnapping and sexual assault. He is alleged to have abducted 44-year-old Earlene Walker from an Altamonte Springs convenience store, leaving her body in a field with high grass in an unincorporated area of Seminole County.

The second man charged with murder and granted a continuance was Irvin Boyd Childs, 25, of Fredricksburg, Va. Childs is alleged to have stabbed a 21-year-old Altamonte Springs man March 8, after the pair had a dispute, according to records. Both men face hearings June 5.

PROBATION HEARING

A 24-year-old Sanford man faced a violation of probation hearing after he was arrested for repeatedly driving his car through the plate glass entrance of Citrus Country Toyota on April 5.

Judge David Strawn emphasized it was a probation hearing and not a trial. At its conclusion, the judge found evidence to indicate the man, Donald Edward Hampton of 2818 Magnolia Ave., had intentionally driven into the window, he said.

The judge did however, find that Hampton had violated his probation when he kicked one of the arresting officers and smashed the window of a police car.

William Bishop, general manager of the dealership at 185 Airport Blvd., testified it cost more than $5,000 to replace three panels of the plate glass and a door.

Also testifying were Hampton and arresting officer Ron Nance of the Sanford Police Department.

Nance testified he arrived at the scene and was directed by witnesses to a car stopped on the road's shoulder about 100 yards from the dealership.

He also said Hampton got out of the car, showed him his driver's license which Nance said had expired and then refused to place his hands on the patrol car for a search.

Nance said, under cross-examination, that Hampton was forcibly handcuffed and placed in the back seat of the patrol car when he started kicking, hitting the officer in the face and side and smashing the window.

Nance also conceded, under cross-examination, that he didn't tell Hampton he was under arrest until after he was in the patrol car and Hampton was advised of the charges against him after he arrived at the jail.

Hampton testified he had borrowed the car which

Cook Of The Week

She's Happiest When In The Kitchen

By ELDAN NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Flo Pemberton of Sanford, said, "I'm happiest when I'm in my kitchen!"

Actually, Flo has two kitchens — one in her own home and the one called Flo's Kitchen, at the Airport Inn, Sanford. Flo has friends in Sanford, Deltona and all of Seminole County who call her for assistance at parties, banquets and special events. Her catering ability is superb and well-known in the area.

"Coming from an Italian background, cooking just comes natural to me. My Mother always enjoyed cooking and it became a hobby of mine. I guess you could say I cook from the heart," she said.

Her three attractive daughters have all received help in learning to cook from Flo. Karen is a criminal justice planner for the Aurora Police Department, in Colorado; Debra is a dispatcher for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department; and Lynne is a toll operator for the Winter Park Telephone Company and also models.

Flo's own kitchen at home is kept busy cooking for family and company, especially on holidays. "Last Christmas I was up until 3 or 4 a.m., and still came to work that morning. I make Italian dishes for the holidays. Italian cooking takes longer, mostly in the food preparation. The recipes I'm giving you for the paper can be whipped up in a hurry though, and are easy to make," she explained.

An interesting cooking tip from Flo is this: When cooking vegetables, put some lemon in the water and that helps keep them white or green.

CHICKEN DRUMETTE

5 lb. chicken drumettes
salt and pepper
2 - No. 2 cans plum tomatoes
4 large bell peppers
1/4 cup dry white wine
1/4 to 1/2 cup oil
garlic powder
flour

Wash chicken and roll lightly in flour that has been seasoned with salt, pepper and garlic powder. Heat oil in skillet and fry chicken over low heat until golden brown. Set chicken aside, and drain off most of the oil. Cut peppers in strips lengthwise, and saute in remaining oil.

Flo Pemberton checks daily "do" list.

Return chicken to skillet with peppers. Add tomatoes and more salt, pepper and garlic powder to taste. Simmer 10 min. Add white wine and bring to a boil. Remove from fire, transfer to chaffing dish, and guests will enjoy a treat they'll never forget.

BARBEQUE MEATBALLS

2 lb. ground chuck punch salt punch pepper
3 eggs
ketchup, 48 oz. size
1 can beer
In bowl, mix ground chuck, salt, pepper and eggs. Roll into tiny meatballs. Place on sheet pan and cool in refrigerator. In saucepan, combine ketchup and beer. Heat slowly. Add chilled meatballs and simmer about 10 min. Transfer to chaffing dish. Serves 20 to 30.

PEMBERTON PIZZA

1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 large onion, chopped very fine
1 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 loaf brown bread

Slice bread, cut slices in quarters. In bowl, mix mayonnaise and onion. Add cheese and stir. Mixture should be a thick batter; if not, add more cheese. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Spread butter on bread and sprinkle batter a little extra cheese on top. Place on cookie sheet and bake until golden brown. Serve hot and watch your guests go wild! Serves 20 to 25.

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

2 doz. small artichoke hearts, canned
1/2 lemon
4 cloves garlic, chopped very fine
pinch of salt and pepper
1/4 cup oil
12-15 sprigs fresh parsley, minced
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup grated romano cheese
black olives to garnish
Drain and cut artichoke hearts in halves or quarters, depending on size you prefer. Sprinkle lemon juice and chopped garlic, salt and pepper, oil and minced parsley over artichokes. Add cheese and stir gently. Let stand a few hours in refrigerator. Arrange on attractive serving dish and garnish with black olives. Serves 12.

BAKED STUFFED MUSHROOMS

3 lbs. fresh mushrooms
salt and pepper to taste
1 cup romano cheese
1/4 cup parmesan cheese
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley

2 cups plain bread crumbs
garlic powder to taste
1-No. 3 can size plum tomatoes, chopped
1/2 cup oil

Wash mushrooms, drain and dry lightly with paper towels. Let stand on towels. For stuffing, carefully remove stems and chop fine. In bowl, mix chopped stems, salt, pepper, garlic, parsley and cheese. In another bowl, mix tomatoes and oil. Spray cookie sheet to prevent sticking. Place mushrooms in rows on sheet. Add one teaspoon tomato mixture to each mushroom. Sprinkle mushrooms with stuffing mixture and bread crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees until bread crumbs are golden brown. Serve hot and wait for the compliments to fly. Serves 25.

Miner Wins Major Wager

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired coal miner, now disabled. It or not, I can still read without eyeglasses. I don't remember when I first started to read DEAR ABBY, but it has now become a very important part of my life.

Will you please do me a favor and settle a lengthy and heated disagreement I have been having with a good friend of mine named Curly. Curly says that you do not personally write your own column or answer your mail. He claims you have assistants and secretaries do it for you. I say that you do all your own writing. Anyway, we have a $100 wager, so please let me know who is right.

GARY AURITT,
STONINGTON, CONN.

DEAR GARY: You are, I have a staff of devoted secretaries who are expert typists (I'm not). They do the research and handle referrals, but every line published under my name is written by me!

Collect the $10 from Curly, but be careful how you spend it, Gary, because I don't want to be responsible for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

DEAR ABBY: When my son was married 12 years ago, I have him my wedding ring to give his bride. She wore it for 10 years, then she put it away because my son gave her a beautiful set of rings with diamonds for her 10th wedding anniversary.

Three months ago, my son and his wife started divorce proceedings, and I asked my son to get my wedding ring back. He told me he had already asked his wife for it but she wouldn't give it up. She said it was HER'S — regardless of where it came from. Finally I called and told her there was a lot of sentiment attached to that ring and I wanted it back.

She then had the nerve to say that she also attached a lot of sentiment to the ring and refused to part with it.

How can I get it back and what should I do now?

BOILING POINT
DEAR BOILING: You can give the wedding ring to her, she'll be happy. And I see no way for you to get it back if she doesn't want to part with it. The word from here is, stand down and give up.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to REALIST who's tired of hearing women gripe about unpleasant surprises after marriage. She wonders why these things aren't noticed before marriage.

How on earth is a woman supposed to know how many showers a guy takes before she marries him? It's not your everyday topic of conversation while going together.

No way could I know what the guy I married would throw trash around and grind his teeth in his sleep, or that his beer intake would triple and his cigarette smoking double.

How could I know beforehand what kind of father he'd make and for that matter, how could I know a lot of things about ME before we got married?

When we were going together he was into sports. Now he finds them "too strenuous." He used to love the beach. Now it's "too crowded." He used to like to dance. Now it's "silly." And socializing is "too boring." I

Getting A Few Facts On Fasts

DEAR DR. LAMB — Periodically I fast to lose weight — for instance from supper time to the same time the next night and sometimes a bit longer but never more than two days. Recently I watched a weekly story about a Hollywood actor who fasted to the extent that he died young. Something about heart strain. Am I doing a good thing or shall I check my insurance policy? I am 5-foot-10 and weigh 200 — down from 280 — and feel fine except for occasional chest ache and a pain in the left side which my doctor isn't concerned about. DEAR READER — I prefer for people to learn to eat right and the overweight problem will take care of itself on a permanent basis. I am sending you The Health Letter number 47, Weight Losing Diet, to help you. If you follow that plan you can lose weight and learn what you should eat to stay slim. A single day's fast is not likely to harm healthy people. You will lose water and salt but it will be replenished the next day. If you fast very long though you could lose potassium with the water and salt. That is one problem that has surfaced with the high protein diets that have been implicated in a number of recent heart deaths. The day you fast you lose both protein and fat. You want to lose just fat. There is no record of anyone who was healthy to begin with ever dying from fasting one day. And I might add that fasting routines have worked rather well under medical supervision but it is definitely not a do-it-yourself project. You have a long way to go at your weight and you will need to exercise a lot of will power, learn to eat right and increase your daily exercise within your level of tolerance. Don't try to lose more than two pounds a week: one pound a

Easy Blackwood, George Hape and Waldemar von Zedlitz. The diagrammed hand, played many years ago by the late Harry Fishbein — a tribute to his aggressive bidding style and — Fishy, sitting South at a high-stakes rubber bridge game, won the heart lead with his singleton ace. Fishbein immediately saw that the problem was his trump suit. If Fishbein could afford to lose no trump tricks, his proper play in the trump suit would be the ace. This picks up a singleton king in either the East or West hand. If, however, Fishbein could afford to lose a trump trick, there was an absolutely safe way to make the contract. First Harry had to discover whether he had any losers outside the trump suit. He crossed to dummy's ace of diamonds and took a club finesse which won. The contract was now safe. Fishbein led a low spade from dummy and covered East's three with the four. It had not won. Harry's ace of spades would have drawn the remaining trump. Along Came Smith--Alexis Smith

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood is the place, as everybody knows, where marriages don't last more than 35 seconds and where the girls live it up so wildly that by the time they are in their mid-30s they all look worn and haggard. Right? Well, along came Smith, Alexis Smith. She and Craig Stevens have been married so long they won't say how long. When anybody asks me how long, Alexis says, "I just say forever." When anybody asks Craig, he says "12 years." He says that sounds long enough as the questioner is happy, but not so long that they want to give you a plaque. Actually, they were married in 1944, so this year they will celebrate their 34th anniversary. As for that other cliché, that Hollywood girls come out and slyly by their mid-30s, we

County Options Eyed For Jail; Bids Too High

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners today are reviewing options for construction of a new jail at the county's Five-Points complex in light of bids on the facility that exceeded projections by $1.4 million.

The county has $1 million in federal funds from the Economic Development Administration (EDA) to construct the jail. The low bid for the project was $4,396,000 by Standard Construction of Maitland. The two other bids were: Stratton Construction, Tampa, $4,787,781 and Norfolk Construction, Orlando, $4,876,000.

A jail construction committee reviewed the bids this morning, according to County Planner John Percy. Percy serves as project coordinator for the EDA grant.

"We basically came up with two options," said Percy. "We can accept the bids as they are, or we can re-bid them."

If the project is re-bid, approval will have to be gained from EDA. That agency had placed a June 9 deadline for the beginning of construction on the jail. The deadline would have to be extended to allow time to re-bid, according to Percy.

"We have already talked to people at the EDA and they said we probably could re-bid, but one person does not speak for the EDA. We'd have to make the application to extend the deadline and see what they do, if we decide to re-bid."

Percy said he hopes to bring the problem to the commission at its meeting next Tuesday. "I really don't know what we're going to do," Commissioner Harry Katsilovskit said today. "One thing is for sure, we don't have the $1.4 million."

Commission Chairman Dick Williams agreed the money is not available in this year's budget.

"We might be able to have some sort of phased construction over an extended period of time," said Williams. "We might be able to build so much this year and so much next

Transmission Line Legislation: Casselberry's War On Two Fronts

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry officials, caught between the orders of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the possibility that special legislation will not pass which would allow the community to proceed with obeying the federal agency, were fighting on two fronts today.

Mayor Bill B. Grier is leading both fights. He is Tallahassee today, as he has been since Monday, encouraging legislators to push through a special bill to create a North Orange - South Seminole Water Transmission Authority to own and operate the 26-mile line which would link the cities of Casselberry, Winter Springs, Maitland and Winter Park and sections of territory under the jurisdiction of the Seminole County Commission, may be in jeopardy.

"I'm afraid if we get into a big hassle we're going to get nothing," said State Rep. Robert Hattaway of Altamonte Springs from his Tallahassee office today.

Hattaway said the attorney before the EPA attempting to assure that the city is moving as expeditiously as possible and pleading that it not be fined $10,000 daily. Meanwhile, the legislation passed upon by the county commission representative at a meeting with the city representatives Tuesday afternoon in Maitland. The amendments would permit the county to delay connection of its sewer plants to the transmission line. That right has already been granted to the city of Winter Springs which doesn't own the sewer systems serving the people of that city.

The major amendment, however, according to Casselberry and Winter Springs consulting engineer, B. C. Conklin, would change the method of voting on facilities plans by the authority.

The original legislation calls for voting on the facility plan, which includes the amount of sewer flow each governmental unit would be permitted, from a weighted vote system to a majority vote of governmental entities.

Theoretically, the weighted vote would have permitted Casselberry and Winter Park to

I don't see how we can cut the project down. I'm not going to say they can't cut the project. They could cut it altogether, but they would have to return the money and I can't see them doing that.

Say He Hit Officer Top Harness Judge Nabbed By Police

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

John Thomas Rippey, presiding judge at the Seminole Harness Raceway in Casselberry, has been arrested by sheriff's deputies and charged with driving under the influence and resisting arrest with violence, a felony.

Rippey, 44, of 381 Birch Terrace, Winter Springs, is free on $5,000 bond. He was arrested Tuesday at 1:00 a.m. in Altamonte Springs at Lyman and Plummer Avenues.

According to a spokesman for the state attorney's office, Rippey faces a maximum five years in jail and a $5,000 fine if convicted on the third-degree felony. Driving under the influence is a criminal traffic violation and carries a maximum penalty for first offenders of six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Rippey was stopped by Deputy Glenn L. Trombly for careless driving, according to sheriff's department records. The deputy said Rippey appeared intoxicated, he was advised of his rights and given a roadside sobriety test and placed under arrest.

The deputy said Rippey resisted being handcuffed and attempted to punch Trombly with a closed fist.

The report indicated the pair scuffled and went to the ground where, the deputy said, Rippey tore his shirt and bent the frame of his glasses beyond repair.

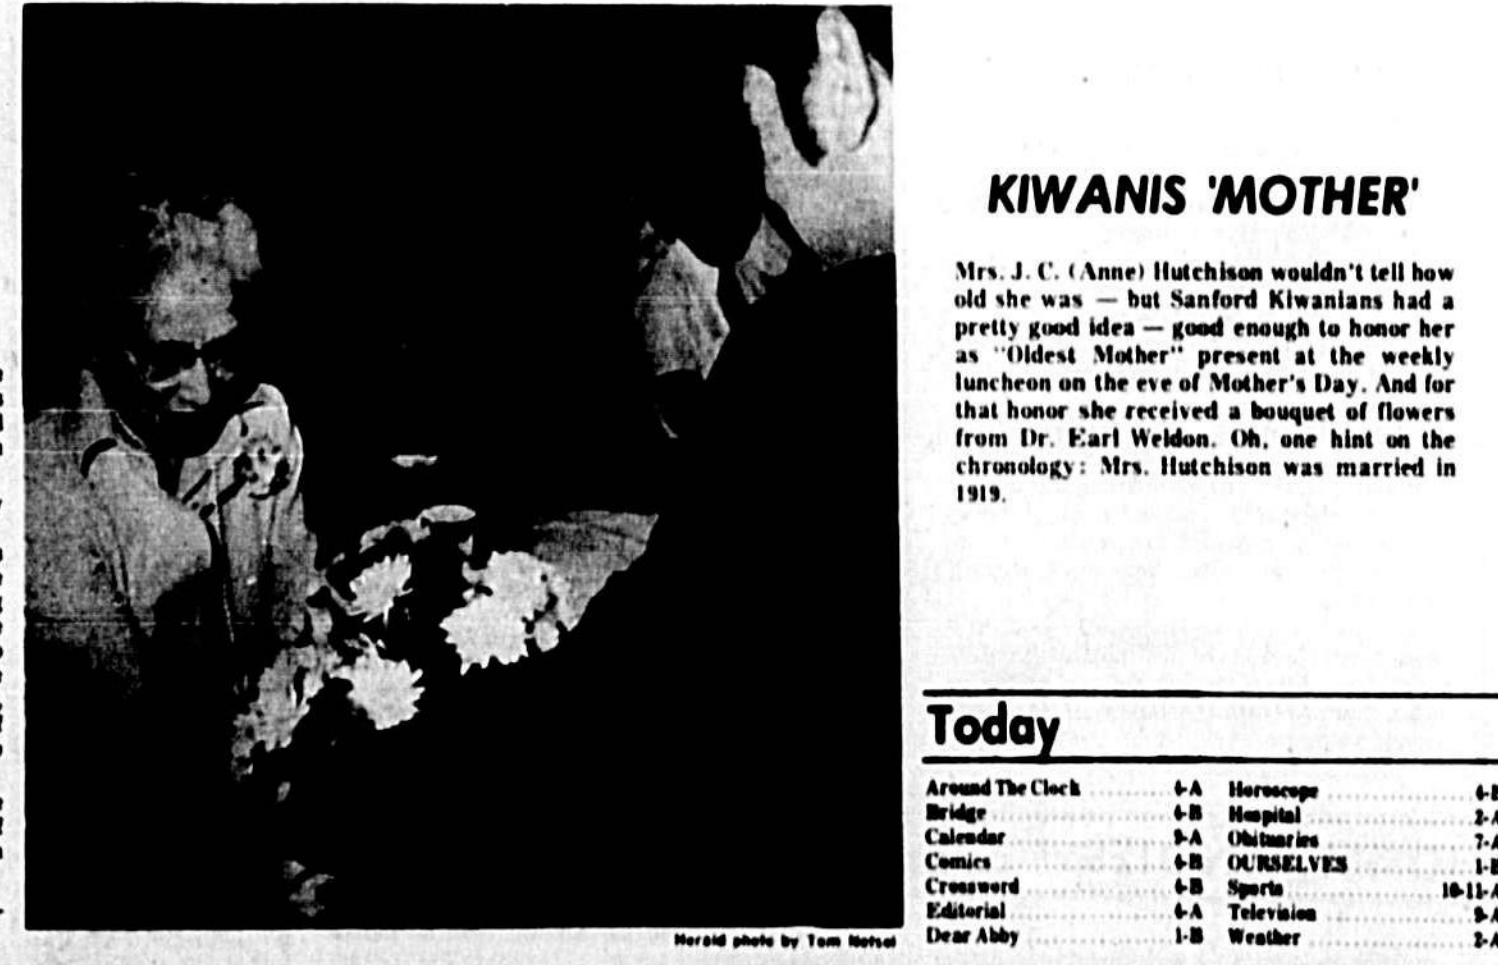

Trombly said the struggle continued for about 5 minutes until two other deputies arrived and forcibly placed Rippey in the patrol car.

Rippey faces a preliminary hearing Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Rippey is in his third year as presiding judge at the Casselberry harness racing track. His job is to head the group of associate judges, who oversee the races and make certain the rules are abided by, conduct hearings in cases of infractions or disputes and to levy fines and suspensions.

He has 21 years of experience in the administrative field of harness racing at eight Eastern tracks.

Rippey is a native of Pennsylvania.

Moro's Last Message: 'Stay Away From My Funeral'

ROME (UPI) — Aldo Moro's widow fulfilled her husband's last, embittered wish — that politicians who "raided my death sentence — stay away from my funeral" — and buried him in a private service.

Eleanora Moro's wish to government plans for a state funeral coincided with the sudden resignation of Italy's interior minister in the face of deepening controversy over the handling of the Moro affair.

It also came as police activated emergency "Plan 3," sending hundreds of reinforcements to guard politicians against an anticipated "sensational terrorist" follow-up to the Moro assassination by the Red Brigades.

Yet despite the stepped-up security, terrorists demonstrated their impunity and struck again in Milan, shooting a prominent politician in the leg.

Four bullets were pumped into the leg of Marco Antonicelli, director of the Milan branch of the U.S. Chemical Bank, shooting him three times in the left leg and once in the right as he walked to work.

While all this was going on, Italy's Chamber of Deputies sought to pass a tough antiterrorist law but were forced to debate through the night because of parliamentary delays by the splinter Radical and Proletarian Democratic parties.

The bitter feud between the Moro family and the government worsened with the disclosure by Communist Party sources that a final call from the kidnappers to the family said they would free Moro if the government released just one of the 13 terrorists jailed in Turin.

The government refused despite highly emotional appeals from Moro's wife.

In one letter from captivity, Moro accused the government of "raiding my death sentence" by refusing to negotiate with the terrorists. He ordered all party and government officials to "stay away from my funeral (because) I want only those who truly loved me."

So when the government announced its plans for a state funeral Saturday, Mrs. Moro, her son and three daughters claimed the dead statesman's body at the city morgue.

It was placed in a white oak casket and driven to Torretta Tiburina 20 miles from Rome where the Moros kept a summer home.

As a steady rain fell on the thousand villagers attending the ceremony, the body was placed in a vault of a family friend. Family sources said a chapel and burial plot for Moro would be prepared in the cemetery and the body would be moved to the new site when it was completed.

The government said it was going ahead with a symbolic state funeral, even though Moro's body and his family would not be there.

At the same hour of Moro's burial, Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga, Italy's top police and anti-terrorist official, resigned as Parliament could freely review his actions in the case.

"I thereby intend to assume full political responsibility for the work of my ministry, of the police forces who worked under my direction and of the intelligence and security services of which I made use," he said in his letter of resignation.

Hundreds of thousands of workers and students jammed St. John Lateran Square in a driving rain to condemn the

Mrs. J. C. (Anne) Hutchison wouldn't tell how old she was — but Sanford Kiwanians had a pretty good idea — good enough to honor her "Oldest Mother" present at the weekly luncheon on the eve of Mother's Day. And for that honor she received a bouquet of flowers from Dr. Earl Weldon. Oh, one hint on the chronology: Mrs. Hutchison was married in 1919.
