Bronx. It is a two-story and attic stucco building on the northwest corner of Needham Avenue.

In some respects the district resembles the country from which the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped. It is heavily wooded and Needham Avenue is like a country road, unimproved and heavily rutted.

A woman was on the side lawn caring for two young children yesterday afternoon. At the back of the building on the east side of Needham Avenue is a wooden garage 12 feet by eight feet.

Four automobiles, two of them equipped with New Jersey license plates, were parked outside the garage and according to neighbors had been there for nearly two days. It was understood that some at least were police cars.

The doors of the garage were open, and a tiny lawn in front strewn with barrels and the garage flooring which had been torn up. A hole two feet deep had been dug in the rear. A pitchfork was imbedded in the hole.

Inside the garage was a steamer trunk, with an S. S. Bremen label pasted on it bearing the name "Hauptmann" and the date 1932.

The following facts were volunteered by neighbors: That Hauptmann had lived in the house for about five years that he had one child, a boy about 10 months old, that he told people he was a cabinet worker out of a job for two years, and that he went down to a Wall Street brokerage office every day to play the market.

His wife was described as a woman of from 25 to 30, with light hair and blue eyes, of medium height and build.

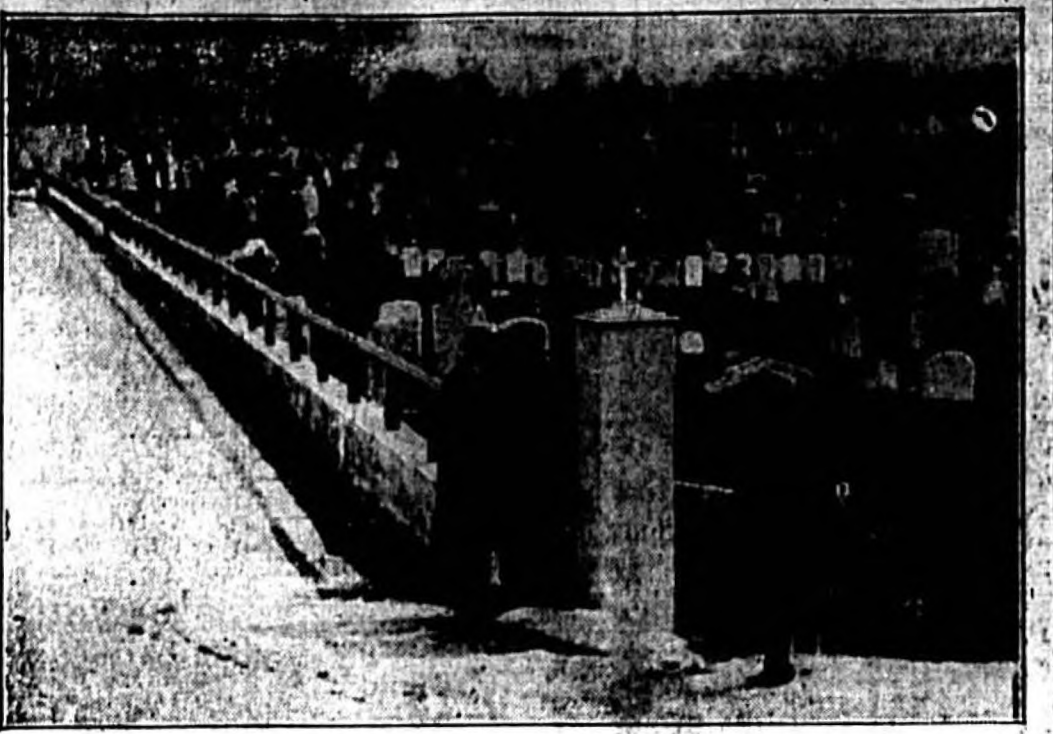

Hauptmann was said to have spent a great deal of time drinking beer at Hans' Bavarian garden, a cafe across a wooded lot from the back of his house.

Wednesday afternoon a crowd of the curious milled around the yard, staring at the baby's crib and toys scattered on the grass.

Two little girls living in the neighborhood told newspapermen that children had always feared to approach the garage.

WHERE 'JAFSIE' PAID LINDBERGH KIDNAPING RANSOM

The arrest of Bernard Richard Hauptmann, an alien of the Bronx, New York, as receiver of the $50,000 ransom paid in vain for the recovery of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, serves to recall the gloomy night John F. (Jafsie) Condon hurled the money over a cemetery fence to a man dimly visible in the darkness. This picture shows the cemetery in the Bronx. Two men are standing on the spot where Dr. Condon stood when he passed over the money. (As associated Press Photo) following his arrest last Tuesday morning, was taken from the Bronx county court house to police headquarters.

The more sinister angle of the Lindbergh case—the worlds most horrifying crime it has been called—appeared today to be unraveled.

That is the actual kidnaping of baby Charles Augustus Lindbergh from his crib in his Hopewell, N. J., home the night of Mar. 1, 1932.

Whether authorities believe that the ransom payment and the kidnap-murder were the work of separate groups was not disclosed.

The fact that Hauptmann, 35, was turned over to Bronx county authorities after being held at New York headquarters many hours was seen by some as an indication that authorities have not been able to connect him with the original crime.

If there was sufficient evidence to hold him for kidnaping and murder he most likely would have been turned over to New Jersey authorities.

The only crime in connection with the Lindbergh case that concerns the Bronx is one involving the payment by Colonel Lindbergh's intermediary, Dr. John E. Condon, of the $50,000 ransom to the person now named as Hauptmann.

ALL NATIONS PREPARED TO WAR WITH GAS

ington in 1932.

"You can't prove that statement," said H. C. Goss, president of the Lake Erie Chemical Co., tear gas manufacturers.

It was recalled that two babies died here after the bonus army was evicted, but medical authorities were divided on whether tear gas was responsible.

Letters exchanged by the Young brothers showed that Paul, while working among Ecuadorean Indians, demonstrated gas bombs to officials of Ecuador. John Young said his brother was a member of the "Christian Missionary Alliance."

"Are we to understand," asked Senator Homer T. Bone (D-Wash.), "that the old hymn 'Onward Christian Soldiers' is to be given a new meaning in 'Marching As To War'?"

Paul Young wrote to his brother on Apr. 31, 1932:

"Six or eight Indians showed a desire to follow the Lord and I prayed with them."

"Yesterday I saw the Minister of War again and made arrangements to demonstrate today."

"The minister, two generals, the head of the police of Quito and a number of officers and soldiers were present. I used the 'Billy' (presumably a type of bomb) first, but I am sorry to say it did not prove a success. I shot it at two soldiers, but they were able to stand the gas and get me."

"Then I shot the grenade into a room and poked the men to go in. This was a real success and helped

The picture at the left shows Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon about the time he was conducting secret negotiations that led to him paying $50,000 of Col. Charles A. to gain what I had lost through the failure of the 'Billy'. The War Minister asked me to quote prices on 100 Hillies and 200 grenades.

"Some of the Indians had made previous beginnings, but had been pulled down by sin. Indian work needs a great deal of prayer."

"Was the munitions work a sideline with your brother," asked Senator Gerald P. Nye, committee chairman, "or was the missionary work a sideline?"

Young said he thought conditions in Ecuador "needed introduction of humane weapons such as tear gas for police use," and added:

"My brother has helped me on numerous occasions."

"What would the Missionary Alliance think," asked Bone, "of the picture of your brother with a tambourine in one hand and a gas bomb in the other?"

"That is not a complete picture," Young protested.

The matter of a pure water supply has been one of the problems of the human race, since the origin of society. As first people drank surface and spring water, but with the dawn of science it was discovered that this caused much sickness. Constant stirring is required to make smooth ice cream. The old fashioned hand-operated freezer made good ice cream only because the "pusher" was turned steadily until the cream was frozen solid.

Attempting to make ice cream in mechanical refrigerators have in many cases not been altogether successful because longer and steadier stirring is required than most housewives have the time or patience to devote to such a job.

MANY of Florida's leading growers attribute a large share of their success to the use of Armour's BIG CROP Fertilizers. They affirm our statement "Make Every Acre Do Its Best" by declaring that crop results prove they are the most economical fertilizers they can buy.

Obviously only high grade fertilizers, made only from the finest materials balanced in accordance with carefully tested formulas, could ever expect to produce such results. That's why Armour's BIG CROP Fertilizers are today so popular... that's why so many growers recommend them.

Make every dollar you invest in fertilizer this year pay a higher profit in larger yields and better quality crops and truck crops. Be guided by the experience of your neighbors! You'll never know the difference that quality fertilizer has on producing quality crops until you use Armour's BIG CROP Fertilizers.

Hauptmann Signed Note 2 Years Ago Planning Kidnaping

Ohio Prison Warden Says Unidentified Prisoner Received Code Letter In Jail

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — (AP) — The dramatic story of a note in code, allegedly sent by Bruno Richard Hauptmann to an unidentified prisoner in Ohio penitentiary and stating "Will kidnap Lindbergh baby," was injected into the case against Hauptmann today.

Warden Preston Thomas of the Ohio penitentiary disclosed the story in the Lindbergh case immediately prior to a sensational attempted break from prison by two convicts.

The warden had summoned newspapermen to his office and reported they were just called when the alarm bell rang.

The two prisoners, sentenced to the electric chair, attempted the break with the aid of an imitation pistol made of soap. Charles Makley was killed, and the other Harry Pierpont, was seriously wounded. Both are members of the Dillinger gang.

The note was sent to the unidentified prisoner late in 1931 or early 1932. The warden said it was signed by Bruno Hauptmann.

Meanwhile, the mysterious figure who made the escape from the Ohio penitentiary, was identified as Harry Pierpont, a member of the Dillinger gang.

The note was sent to the unidentified prisoner late in 1931 or early 1932. The warden said it was signed by Bruno Hauptmann.

Condensed Statement In Which German Denies That He Kidnaped Lindy's Boy

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — A condensation of the statement made in police lineup yesterday by Bruno Hauptmann, suspect Lindbergh kidnaper, follows:

came into possession of the ransom money now in the hands of the police are true and correct.

"I have been in this country 13 years. I came here as a stowaway on the steamer Fortia. I sailed from Bremerhaven, Germany, and when I arrived in New York I jumped ship.

"I did not know anybody in New York. I went to live in Amsterdam Avenue between 97th and 98th Streets (in upper Manhattan Island.) I stayed there until I got married. That was in 1925. I then moved to Park Avenue, where my wife and I started housekeeping. I stayed there about a year. Then I moved to the Bronx. I lived on Needham Avenue, until I moved to the address where I now live in East 222nd Street, Wakefield section, Bronx.

"I was a carpenter in Germany and I have been a carpenter since I came to the United States.

"I have worked in New Jersey (where the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped) but I did not work on big houses (such as the Lindbergh mansion near Hopewell.) I worked on small houses. I did not make windows (such as the one through which Baby Lindbergh was kidnaped.) I worked near Lakewood, N. J., and later near Freehold. I worked for a friend (Continued on Page Three)

ONE MORE 'DILLINGER' AIDE SLAIN

Makley, Pierpont Try Fake Pistol Trick On Guard In Death Cell, But Then Fail

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — (AP) — Another Dillinger gangster beat the law today but he lost his life in the attempt.

Charles Makley was shot and fatally wounded by Ohio penitentiary prison guards who nipped an attempt by Makley and Harry Pierpont to flee from the death cell at the prison.

Pierpont was said to be in a serious condition and an operation was performed to save his life.

Both men were awaiting the outcome of their appeals to the supreme court from their death sentences for slaying Sheriff Jess Barber of Allen county last October.

When the death house guard went into the cell block the two desperadoes jumped out of their cells and immediately covered him with a fake pistol, but the guard promptly sounded the alarm. It was not determined how they got out of their cells.

MISSING GIRL'S FATHER PLEADS FOR HER RETURN

Nashville Man Thinks 6-Year-Old Child Is Held By Enemies

NASHVILLE, Sept. 22. — (AP) — For the first time since she mysteriously vanished Wednesday afternoon, little Dorothy Ann Distelhorst was sought today as the victim of a sinister kidnaping plot.

A. E. Distelhorst, Sr., her father, who declared early today that he was certain the six-year-old girl had been abducted, saw in the act either vengeance against him or an attempt to obtain ransom.

After discussing this angle with police and United States Department of Justice agents he gave the Associated Press his first definite announcement of his belief that the child was kidnaped, and he made his first direct effort to communicate with one or more men he thinks are holding her by issuing the following appeal.

"To whoever has my daughter: Please contact me in any manner you choose. The way is open. A. E. Distelhorst, Sr."

The theory that the child whose disappearance brought forth hundreds of citizens to aid in the search had been kidnaped, attacked and slain, and her body hidden, formed the principal basis for the police investigations late yesterday.

The whereabouts of Alfred E. Distelhorst, Jr., 17-year-old half-brother of the girl, also drew investigation, when the family asked the Associated Press to include in its report an appeal to the boy to return home. The boy left home last fall, and his step-mother, Mrs. Distelhorst, said the family had received no word from him since a letter last May from Tampa.

LINDBERGH KIDNAP SUSPECT

Sullen and unresponsive, Bernard Richard Hauptmann, an alien illegally in this country, is shown after he had been arrested in New York City as a suspect in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. A tireless search led by Department of Justice officials, the New Jersey State and New York City police led to Hauptmann's arrest and the report that $20,000 of the $50,000 ransom paid had been recovered. Greatest Walkout In Industry's History Has Cost Employees 5 Millions In Pay

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — (AP) — The United Textile Workers today ordered an end to the most serious strike in the history of the textile industry, and instructed all workers to return to their mills on Monday.

In the presence of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and other high ranking union officials, Francis Gorman, chairman of the Strike Committee announced.

"We have now gained every substantial thing that we can gain in this strike. Our strike has torn apart the whole unjust structure of NRA, lifting a load from all labor as well as from ourselves."

By telegraph, the strike committee sent the following to all local unions: "By the unanimous vote of the executive council your heroic strike ends in a complete victory as of tonight. A full report will be mailed at once to all local unions. Our triumph is one of the greatest in all labor history and your officers salute you."

"Report to work Monday morning as ordered as you walked out, conscious of having won your rights, and determined to maintain the same fine discipline in the same way it was displayed in battle. Now bend all efforts everywhere to complete organization of every worker in the industry."

"Washington headquarters will be maintained permanently and from here we shall at once begin work to see that the Winant Board recommendations are fulfilled completely. Organization campaigns will be directed from this office and you will receive instruction number one, new series, soon. All strike instructions are hereby cancelled, and the strike is declared (Continued On Page Four)

English Fliers Die As Plane Crashes

WALSLEY, Buckinghamshire, England, Sept. 22. — (AP) — Two English fliers were killed when their plane crashed near London today.

The plane, a biplane, was on a flight to India when it crashed on the main London highway near here today.

C. H. Hensbridge, a former Royal Air Force pilot, and three mechanics were killed.

The plane which crashed had landed briefly at a nearby airport after successfully refueling. Cobham's plane to allow a press association reporter to disembark. The crash occurred while the ship was returning from there to London.

EUGENE BLACK IN OPTIMISTIC MOOD OVER CONDITIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — (AP) — A bright picture of business conditions was placed yesterday alongside an assertion that "uncertainty" is retarding recovery.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal reserve bank and liaison man between the Administration and bankers, told reporters that things are looking better than they have in three years.

Just back from conferences with businessmen and bankers in St. Louis, New Orleans, Birmingham and Nashville, he said that not only was business improvement apparent but that agriculture in the section he visited was in "fine condition."

In fact, he asserted, business was better off "than could possibly be expected." He excepted the textile industry.

The opposing view was phrased by directors of the chamber of commerce of the United States, who said the "manifest uncertainty" would not end until President Roosevelt made clear his intention to balance the budget.

They added:

"Uncertainties concerning the fiscal situation likely to result from the government's borrowing and spending activities, with (Continued on Page Three)

1661 SAID DEAD, 5500 INJURED IN JAPANESE STORM

TOKYO, Sept. 22. — (AP) — The dead in the typhoon which roared across western and central Japan yesterday was placed by the War Ministry today at 1661, the injured at about 5500, buildings washed away and destroyed, 27,000.

It was the second greatest catastrophe of modern Japan, and the nation's manufacturing area was laid in ruins.

Center of the typhoon turned eastward, so that Tokyo did not receive the full force of the hurricane.

The stock exchanges at Osaka and Kyoto suspended their sessions shortly after noon because of the typhoon.

All wire communications west of Osaka were disrupted. Radio stations operated only under the greatest difficulties.

At Osaka the famous five-story Tennoji Pagoda, a showplace of the Orient, was wrecked. The municipal office in Kamikyo ward collapsed.

Hope Given Up For 100 Welsh Miners Caught In Cave-In WREXHAM, Wales, Sept. 22. — (AP) — Hope was abandoned at dusk today for 100 coal miners caught in an explosion and fire in the Gresford Colliery.

Rescuers worked all day to enter the mine but were unable to reach the lost miners.

They were trapped nearly two miles from the mouth of the pit in which they were working.

Rescuers were unable to penetrate a wall of flame and the floods of poisonous gases which barred their path.

Two men in the rescue party were carried out unconscious and they died at the surface. Sixteen bodies were recovered.

Nearly three-quarters of the 400 men working below the surface at the time of the explosion escaped.

At the pit mouth stood the miner's women. It was pouring rain, but they paid no attention. Now and then one was seen to faint, collapsing into pools of water in which they stood.

Farley Says He Will Balance His Budget

ST. PAUL, Sept. 22. — (AP) — Postmaster General Farley yesterday said he would make every effort to operate the postal department without profit or loss but on a balanced budget.

"I do not want to make the postal establishment a profit-making institution," he said in dedicating St. Paul's $2,700,000 new post office. "On the other hand, I do not want it to be a burden on the taxpayers."

"Every cent over and above what we pay for necessary expenses should be used to improve service and to better working conditions of the personnel."

O'Ryan's resignation, dated Sept. 13, was made public earlier in the day. Harold Fowler and Harold I. Allen, the first and second deputy commissioners, resigned with him.

Mayor LaGuardia said he "didn't think the general's resignation would be a shock to the police department."

Girl Plays With Toys While Throat Is Cut

MT. VERNON, Ill., Sept. 22. — (AP) — Two-year-old Patsy Ann Holstein played with her toys on her hospital bed yesterday, seemingly unmindful of the fact her throat was cut and unaware that her little life hung by a tenuous thread.

She appeared happy as physicians moved about in continuing their weeks-long efforts to save her. She never cries. She can't because her voice is almost gone. She is suffering from papilloma of the larynx, a rare disease. Surgeons have slit her slender throat and have inserted a tube in her wind pipe to enable her to breathe.

THE LAW A DELIGHT— I delight to do thy will, O my God; thy law is within my heart— Psalm 40:4.

See where Key West is planning to celebrate Kite Year. Wonder if she is any relation to Greta Garbo?

Will Rogers says he is coming back to America to do some "brain trusting" for the cowboys on the western pale horse.

Perhaps after all it is better for Mussolini to raise his boys to be soldiers than to let them grow up unprepared for the awfulness of war, and then have to fight anyway.

Postmaster General Farley takes off his hat to George W. Norris, Nebraska's Republican senator. Ed Farley, in a speech in Omaha, "I only wish he were a Democrat in name as well as in principle." Why hat to off to Senator Norris who had the courage of his convictions?

Sanford's city commission has gone on record against the ratification of the Homestead Exemption Amendment in the poll conducted by the Florida League of Municipalities, the Sanford Herald reports. Officials in many other cities have hesitated in taking a stand on this issue, fearing they might offend some voters who support their would-be.

Miami News: Sanford does not want to open up new sources of tax revenue until it has effected a settlement of its excessive indebtedness.

According to the DeLand Sun News, 20 percent of the total population of DeLand are on the federal relief rolls. In other words, about every third man you pass on the streets over there is dependent on the New Deal government for support. The Sun News rightly wonders where it is all leading to. Over here there are about two thousand receiving government relief of one kind or another, or about one out of six. Evidently we're not doing so bad.

Testimony before the Senate committee on the effect that the French government itself has compiled with private interests in the sale of armaments to South American countries would seem to indicate that if governments are going to take over munitions factories in order to prevent the DuPonts, Parabells and others from selling guns and ammunition, it might also be necessary to check some kind of an international law preventing the governments themselves from doing the same thing.

A United States district court at Maryland has decided a case which may be of interest to local citizens if any were planning to avail themselves of the privilege allowed under the Rutherford-Lane farm mortgage instrument out of last spring. The court held that the law requiring a mortgagee to foreclose on a farm for a period of five years violates the contract clause of the Constitution, holding by opinion that the statute is in effect a contract to save the farm of the debtor. The Supreme Court has not yet acted on this law.

We see the National Twenty Years Ago that Mr. Kane Lohmann, secretary of the United States College, was then secretary of the Orange County chapter of the United States College.

Caught At Last

It was more than two and a half years ago that the nation was shocked to learn of the kidnaping of the Baby Lindbergh. Though the greatest nationwide man-hunt this country had ever seen was promptly initiated, the abductor succeeded in eluding the nation's best investigating agencies. The trail grew cold. The public thought this would be another of those unsolved mysteries. Suddenly last week some of the ransom money began to show up. As a large part of it was in gold certificates which have since been banned, suspicion was invariably aroused by their presentation. Finally a filling station operator took down the license number of the car in which the man who had given him one of these certificates drove away. From then on the trail was hot. While it is premature to condemn a man before he has been given a fair trial, it seems a fair assumption on the part of the authorities that they have got the right man. Early evidence would indicate, not only that he collected the ransom by means of extortion, but also that he kidnaped the child and was responsible for its death. It now remains only for the courts to do their duty.

One of the strangest things about this case is that Hauptmann has a child of his own. One might have expected him to be a hardened criminal with no home life whatever. A daughter of the "Red" Diamond type, known only to gangsters, molls, or a moron whose perceptions had deprived him of a normal life. But this man is the father of a child himself, one now ten months old to whom, neighbors testify, he is devoted. But there is no accounting for human actions. Evidently he was a man who sought an easy way of living. He would rather steal than work. He did not care what suffering he might cause others so long as he got what he wanted. His planning and execution of the kidnaping was the work of a fiend. The whole country rejoices that he is not going to get away with it. Though he escaped capture for two and a half years, he lived easily during that time on his ill gotten money, he is going to serve as another example that crime doesn't pay.

Our Poor Uncle

When the government should cancel all debts. But the person who makes that statement has reference only to the debts which he owes. He does not mean that the bank in which he has his small deposit should cancel the debt to him, or that the life insurance company which has issued a small policy on his life should cancel its debt. Nor does the veteran who draws a meager pension mean that the government should cancel its debt to him.

When we say that the government should eliminate poverty, that it should in fact make us all comfortably independent, on a guaranteed annual income of say approximately $18,000 a year, we know, of course, that no government on earth could do this, for to do so would require an annual expenditure of $1,800,000,000,000 or more than 36 times all the money and bank deposits in the United States, but what we really mean is that we wish the government would do that for us.

So we should not be too critical of our Uncle Samuel if he does not satisfy all our whims and desires. He has a pretty large family to look after.

SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Fla. Sept. 22, 1934. Mr. Editor: Although I am in complete agreement with you as to most subjects, never-the-less I have to take issue with you on your editorial concerning the Homestead Exemption Amendment. The first objection I have to the aforesaid editorial, and this is a minor objection, is that you make my old friend, Will, Shakespeare say: "The better to bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of." Well, that is not what Will said. What he did say was: "And will he not bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of?" Thus, Shakespeare said "make swords of us all!" Shakespeare, Hamlet, Act III, Sc. 4. He does not say it is better to bear those ills we have, but that we bear them because we have not the courage to try anything else. Now, as to the major objection, I have given a good deal of thought to the proposed Homestead Exemption Amendment, and I am convinced that its adoption would be of vast benefit to the people of Florida. Briefly stated the premises and conclusion are as follows: Any law that will increase the number of home owners will be of great benefit to the State. The Homestead Exemption Amendment, if adopted, will increase very greatly the number of home owners. Therefore, The Homestead Exemption Amendment will be of great benefit to the State.

was a mere social reformer. "I resent having to pay for that stuff for my children," the minister declared.

The presbytery also instructed its committee to propose some action in regard to church literature published by the committee of the Presbyterian Church at Richmond, Va.

Dr. A. B. Johnson, pastor of Charlotte's First Presbyterian Church, the oldest of this denomination in the city, said his church had discarded the committee's literature, which, it was charged, teaches "antichristianism."

FORDA'S TAIL SALES LAST YEAR FAR BELOW 1929

All Types Of Business Included In 42 Percent Drop In 4 1/2 Years

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 22.—The Department of Commerce reported today that retail sales in Florida in 1933 totaled $286,804,000 as compared to sales of $504,523,000 in 1929, a decrease of 42.5 percent.

The figures represented the Department of Commerce's final tabulation on 1933 sales in Florida, and varied only slightly from previously announced preliminary tabulations.

Food stores, restaurants, general merchandise stores and gasoline service stations increased in their proportion of the total 1933 sales. The food group, which in 1929 accounted for 22.4 percent of the total sales of $112,528,000 advanced to 27.4 percent in relative importance with 1933 sales of $79,026,000.

The restaurant group had 5.2 percent of the 1933 total compared to 4.5 percent in 1929; the general merchandise group had 11.5 percent against 10.5; while filling stations had 9.7 percent as compared to 5.9.

Total sales in 1933 and in 1929 were divided as follows: Food group $14,902,000 and $22,892,000; restaurant group $14,902,000 and $22,892,000; farmers supplies and country general stores $22,892,000 and $22,892,000; general merchandise $22,892,000 and $22,892,000; automotive group $22,892,000 and $22,892,000; furniture and household stores $22,892,000 and $22,892,000; lumber, building and hardware stores $22,892,000 and $22,892,000; and all other types of stores $22,892,000 and $22,892,000.

Average full-time employment in these business groups for 1933 was 23,494 persons, a decrease of 28.6 percent from the 1929 total of 32,812.

A Brand New SEASON

SEPTEMBER marks the opening of a brand-new season in this business of running one's life. Back home—back to work—back to school. Time to take stock of most everything. Isn't it? What's needed for the house, for the children, for yourself? . . . At least a dozen spending decisions to be made very soon.

How about choosing a school for the youngsters? (It's not too late even now.) And school equipment, too—pen and pencil set, typewriter? Then don't forget new linens and towels for the house—and bathroom supplies, of course. Perhaps the pantry wants restocking. And you are going to redecorate at least one room, aren't you?

Whatever your needs, the advertising pages of this newspaper will help you decide what and spend wisely. You can depend on advertised goods and services . . . for if they didn't represent pretty worthwhile values, the advertisers wouldn't have so advertised. This is the way to get the most out of your money.

1934 INTERNAL REVENUES SHOW GAIN OF BILLION

Liquor Account For 215 Million; Income Tax Goes Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A report on internal revenue collections for the fiscal year 1934 ended June 30 last, which totaled $1,851,899,970 more revenue than in the preceding year, was made recently by Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Mr. Helvering declared that the $1,851,899,970 raised in 1934, as compared with the $1,619,899,234 raised the preceding year reflected increases in underlying business conditions, but also changes made in the tax system by a dozen different statutes involving revenues.

For the fiscal year 1934, the revenues consisted of $617,025,889 produced by income taxes, $1,483,800 from miscellaneous internal revenue and $271,428,882 from agricultural adjustment taxes.

For the approximately six months in which the sale of liquor has been legal in the fiscal year 1934, the taxes yielded $29,951,477. Beer, the sale of which is a percent form was legal from the beginning of the 1934 fiscal year, yielded $108,959,886 in tax.

1933-34 Internal Revenue Receipts by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The following table gives a comparison of the internal revenue receipts for the fiscal years 1933 and 1934 by states:

Table with columns for State, Total Internal Revenue 1933, and Total Internal Revenue 1934. Lists states from Alabama to Wyoming with their respective revenue figures.

Total 1933 $1,619,899,234 1934 $1,851,899,970

NOTE.—Internal revenue collection districts follow state boundaries, except that the Maryland district includes the District of Columbia (also Puerto Rico for agricultural adjustment tax collections), and the Washington district includes the Territory of Alaska. The above figures include amounts covered into the Treasury from documentary stamp sales by postmaster as well as excise collections on imported distilled spirits by collectors of customs.

most, $144,707,232. What was next with $117,621,174. Mr. Helvering reported that the cost of administration of the tax laws was $1.17 for each $100 collected. In the case of the A. A. taxes, the cost of collection was 89 cents for each $100 collected.

New York State as usual yielded by far the most revenue in income and allied taxes of all states in the country. In individual and corporation income taxes, it produced $280,844,250. It gave $43,803,478 in excess profits, capital stock and dividend taxes. It yielded $33,934,222 in the estate tax and $5,516,411 in gift tax. In income taxes Pennsylvania was second, with around $60,000,000; Illinois third, with around $63,000,000, and California fourth, with about $57,000,000.

In domestic excise taxes on hard liquor, Pennsylvania produced $10,051,906, while Illinois was second with $9,573,488. California yielded the most taxes for wholesale liquor dealer licenses, with Illinois second and New York third. In excise taxes on beer, New York yielded the most, $72,855,005.

North Carolina as usual was a large source of revenue to the federal government, giving $213,548,212 in tobacco taxes.

Ohio Prison Warden Says Unidentified Prisoner Received Code Letter in Jail

Assistant Chief Inspector John Sullivan, holding steadfastly that Hauptmann didn't play a lone hand in his alleged part in the kidnaping case, recalled that footprints of a woman were found beneath the window of the Lindbergh home the night of the kidnaping. Footprints of a man also were found at the scene.

Dr. John P. Condon, who acted as Lindbergh's intermediary, pressed the belief today that Hauptmann was involved, and that he was not alone.

Fresh links from the Lindbergh kidnaping ladder were clamped about Bruno Richard Hauptmann by police last night in their drive to trace his hoard of ransom money to the mystifying abduction and killing of the aviator's first son.

Moughtons Say Our Exhibit At Fair Is 'Splendid Display'

"These comments were optimistically compelling," she stated. "The visitors to the Court of Florida were thinking; viewing their own future in Florida. They were plotting and planning while yet merely sight-seeing."

The Moughtons left Sanford Sept. 1 primarily to visit relatives in St. Paul, Minn. They made their plans, however, to include side trips to the Minnesota State Fair, the Century of Progress, a visit with relatives in Cleveland, and a return home via the national capital.

Both noted the improvement in inland travel as compared with conditions some years ago. "Air conditioned trains have replaced the crime and heat with cleanliness and cooling, even temperature regardless of the time of the day."

CODE CONFUSION BLAME IS LAID TO BUSINESS GROUPS

NRA Red Tape Credited By Rieberg To Those Making Facts

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Donald R. Rieberg, general counsel of the National Recovery Administration, yesterday held business men, rather than the government, responsible for the complicated nature of their codes.

Rieberg suggested that criticism of code administration as "being enmeshed in red tape and establishing bureaucracies" be directed at "the business men who wrote the codes and set up bureaucracies for their administration."

He addressed members of the advertising club and other Baltimore organizations. "The national government offered to industry an opportunity for self-government and if the experiment needs revision, the principal difficulty does not lie in persuading the government to do the job, but in persuading the businessmen of the country to simplify those complicated mechanisms which they themselves have devised," Rieberg said.

"For a year we have been watching the leaders of American trade and industry pour into Washington, accompanied by high-priced lawyers, economists and statisticians. We have seen them write their own codes of fair competition and set up enforcing authorities for self discipline, restrained all too little for their own good by government supervision."

"And now we hear rising a strange discord of criticism—from the one hand, the cry that big business is controlling the codes and on the other the cry that the government is strangling business with red tape and bureaucratic regulations."

"If this clamor were not so vicious, it would be ridiculous." Mrs. Moughton noted. Vivid scenes of the drought damage were brought to their attention as they passed through Illinois, Wisconsin into Minnesota. They saw places where lakes and rivers had become completely desiccated, the dry plains remaining barren for thousands of miles.

"Wonderfully cool weather" was their lot during their stay in Minnesota, a stay which included two busy days at the Minnesota State Fair, largest of its kind in the Northwest and fine zoo in St. Paul also attracted their interest.

Of the Century of Progress itself the Moughtons said that "it is so vast in its contribution to world knowledge that it would take months instead of a few days to see the many varied and worthwhile exhibits on display."

Events were moving rapidly toward conclusion of the dispute when the clash occurred. Members of the union's executive committee raced into the capital from the embattled mill areas and went into conference.

President Roosevelt appealed to strikers to return to work and to management to reinstate the men without discrimination. The silk institute accepted the strike settlement plan.

It was placed before members of the cotton textile institute. Later, George A. Sloan, head of the institute, issued a statement which brought angry reaction from strike headquarters.

The institute had promised that the industry would give "serious consideration" to any program proposed by Roosevelt. His statement contained no outright acceptance of the board's report. It did not pledge industry to re-employ strikers without discrimination.

Sloan irritated the strike leaders further by declaring "I am recommending the closed mill open as soon as possible." The union chiefs retorted angrily that it was not within Sloan's province to order the strikers back to work. They charged that Sloan had displayed a spirit of non-cooperation with federal agencies seeking to mediate the dispute and urged President Roosevelt to force the industry to co-operate in ending the strike.

"Mr. Sloan has attempted to say too much," Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader. "We closed the mills—we'll open them." He demanded a more definite promise from Sloan that industry would not employ discrimination against strikers. Six members of the executive council in conference with the Sloan statement was made public expressed open resentment.

Gorman went over the mediation report yesterday with the board. He promised it would be given "earnest consideration" by the executive council.

Only Few Mills Fail To Open As 3-Week Textile Strike Ends

Carolina Group Takes Court House When Told Their Jobs Are Already Filled

By the Associated Press

Thousands of textile workers returned to their post today but other thousands were still out.

As the mills reopened after the three-week textile strike, it appeared that re-employment in many centers would be gradual.

A few mills failed to open.

Some centers were returned to normal.

A few disorders marked the far-flung parade back to work.

Approximately 200 members of a United Textile Workers Union occupied the courthouse at Concord, N. C. They said they had sought to return to work in the Concord Mills but were told their jobs were filled. They threatened to stay in the court house until their jobs were "given back."

Mills whistles from the South to New England called textile workers back to their jobs today and simultaneously one of the greatest battles between union leaders and manufacturers ever known in American industry had ended.

Fred J. Gorman, national strike leader, warned industry that organized labor would attempt to "Continued On Page 4"

BARUCH FLAYS LLOYD GEORGE FOR WAR TALK

U.S. Entered Fraz With Whole Heart Claims Financier In Reply To Recent Attacks

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 24.—(AP)—A scathing denunciation of the recent attack by Lloyd George, ex-prime minister of Great Britain, on the action of America in the World War, was unleashed here last night by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board in that war.

"He knows full well," said Baruch, "that America went into the war wholeheartedly."

"First of all the Allies wanted materials and money with which to engage the war and which engineered us into our present troubles."

"Nothing was asked that we didn't do. When the war closed there were as many American ships as there were on the line as there were Englishmen."

"Shipping was not furnished for the Allies."

Baruch's denunciation of Lloyd George's attack on America's role in the World War was the first of its kind since the war ended.

Baruch said that he had just received an order opening Lakes Harney and Monroe to seining of All But Black Bass.

New Jersey Will Charge Hauptmann As Kidnaper, Murderer Upon Extradition

DILLINGER PALS FAIL IN 'DUMMY PISTOL' JAIL BREAK

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey State Police, said that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, when extradited to New Jersey would be charged with "kidnaping and murder."

Meanwhile at New York the charge that Hauptmann, 35, unemployed German carpenter, had received the $20,000 ransom Charles Lindbergh paid in a futile attempt to ransom his kidnapped son two and one-half years ago was placed before the Bronx County Grand Jury today.

Supreme Court Justice Charles H. McLaughlin swore in a grand jury of 23 men but in instructing them he made no direct reference to the Lindbergh case.

Colonel Lindbergh is expected to appear before the grand jury Wednesday, and one of the witnesses expected to be heard today is Colonel Henry Breckert, counsel to Lindbergh, who took an active part in the search for the kidnaped baby.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh left Winslow, Arizona today, resting their flight from the west coast. They had slipped quietly out of Saugus, Calif., yesterday.

The jury recessed for luncheon after the first witness, Gregory W. Coleman, Bronx newspaperman, had testified that he had seen the Bronx County District Attorney's office which said it was not possible to take the defendant before the grand jury, added that

PAULIN'S STORY INDUSTRY MAPS OF LINDY CASE OUT PLANS TO IS SUPPRESSED REVISE NEW DEAL

Tight-Lipped Secy Shields Many Disclosures Of Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—New steps assure an overhaul of New Deal laws which find objections were mapped yesterday by industry through two of its biggest organizations—the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Association of Manufacturers.

In a report to the chamber, one of its special committees held that with the exception of black head stipends, emergency agencies with stupendous spending power operate without proper financial supervision. With "reasonable limitations," the committee suggested "definite and adequate power to control expenditures should be given to the President."

At the same time, the National Association of Manufacturers instituted a poll of all Congressional candidates on a number of things.

Harney and Monroe Open To Seining Of All But Black Bass

Of real importance to the more than 200 fishermen operating in this section is the announcement, issued today by County Clerk V. E. Douglas, that he has just received an order opening Lakes Harney and Monroe to seining of All But Black Bass.

The order was signed by George W. Davis, supervisor of the State Board of Conservation, and it is addressed to Mr. Douglas, county clerk for the Board of County Commissioners.

"By request of the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, permission is hereby granted to persons in possession of the necessary permits from the State Department of Conservation to seine Lakes Harney and Lake Monroe for such species of fish as may be designated by the said Board of County Commissioners."

The order does not allow the use of seines or nets of less than two inch bar or four inch stretch, or more than 400 yards in length. The order, dated Sept. 17, 1934, is valid until revoked.

The Department once held all applicants for permits should be made to District Game Commissioner Jim Black at Pineville. He has authority to issue a written permit.

EVANS HOLDS TO OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF U. S. BUSINESS

Prominent Local Man Predicts Unusually Good Tourist Season

Frank Evans, well known citizen of Sanford and Lake Mary, and prominent Boston dye manufacturer, returned to this city last week from a summer spent in Massachusetts, with optimistic reports of business activity in the North despite the interference and discord occasioned by the nation wide textile strike.

Mr. Evans, whose business is not directly connected with the textile industry but which debites its activities primarily to selling dyes and other chemicals to the textile factories, reports that his business has been practically a standstill for three weeks, but anticipates an increasing rush of orders now that the strike is over and the factories are resuming their normal operations.

Witnessing some of the disorders in Woonsocket, R. I. Mr. Evans said that he believed that for a half mile below the surface, underlying ground on which many of their cottages stand. Recus efforts, carried on since the original explosion Saturday, were abandoned yesterday when a series of new explosions, fire, and deadly fumes endangered workers.

The bodies of the victims, all except the 16 that were recovered, lie a half mile below the surface under ground on which many of their cottages stand. Recus efforts, carried on since the original explosion Saturday, were abandoned yesterday when a series of new explosions, fire, and deadly fumes endangered workers.

Tallahassee Seeks Murderer Of Grocer

Tallahassee, Sept. 24.—(AP)—W. C. Tally, 44, filling station and grocery store operator and father of eight children, was shot and killed late Saturday night by unidentified assassin who apparently was attempting to rob him.

County Sheriff Joe Campbell said he had received information which caused him to believe three suspects were responsible for the slaying.

The state's Capital City was swarmed almost entirely and completely a general man-hunt was under way. Bloodhounds were brought from Quincy and others were ordered out from Georgia.

Japan Increases Its Scrap Metal Purchase

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Japan is increasing its purchases of scrap metal in Florida.

Records of the municipal docks and terminals bureau here show 15 ships carrying 42,736 tons of scrap metal sailed from this port for Japan during the first eight months of this year.

The movement in the corresponding period of 1933 was 5,364 tons.

"It may extend or curtail national, strengthen or destroy democracy and bring peace or war," he said in his annual report to President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbus university.

Higher Priced Gas Hinted In Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A hint that the nation's motorists must be prepared to pay higher prices for gasoline emerged yesterday from testimony before the House committee which is conducting possible oil regulatory legislation.

John E. Shattoff, an independent refiner and member of the national petroleum trade authority, testified that the gasoline surplus was being reduced by application of refinery control system.

History Of Baptist Church In Sanford Given By Rev. W. P. Brooks, Jr., Pastor

Nearly 900 men, women, and children, members of the First Baptist Church of this city, one of the largest religious bodies in Sanford, are this year participating in various observances of the 50th anniversary of the organization of the church.

This is recorded in a factual history of the organization, issued today by Rev. W. P. Brooks, Jr., pastor of the church who has just gathered a mass of data relating to early life of the church in Sanford.

Nineteen persons accepted membership as charter members of the organization from 1884 to 1885.
