TREASURY OFFICIALS CHECK LIQUOR SHIP SUPPLY SEALED STORES BROKEN OPEN

GOVERNMENT WILL EN-FORCE 3-MILE LIMIT TO THE LETTER

Is Given on Attitude Taken by Lord Curzon Last Saturday in Parliament

NEW YORK, July 2—Handicapped by the hordes of immigrants aboard the ocean liners which reached quarantine, officials of the treasury department were working overtime last aboard the ships.

Three vessels were known to have quantities of liquor aboard under seal as "medicinal supplies."

The liner Paris brought the largest supply, part of which only was under French seal.

All beverage liquors were consummed on the Stockholm before she reached the three mile limit, but some was under seal for the eastward voyage.

The sealed stores aboard the Aquitania were broken into several days ago when all the beverages at the ship har were consumed and the reserve supply was called out. The liner, however, saved quite an assortment for the eastward trip.

Government officials, it was said, bur exceeding the prescribed medi-

WASHINGTON, July 2.- Taking issue with Lord Curzon in the latter's statement that with references COTTON CROP to the enforcement of the United States prohibition laws, Great Britain will never consent to an extenaion of the three mile limit, Senator Fletcher yesterday said: "There is no need for any extra session of congress. We must stand by the constitution, by the law, which is held valid and by its meaning as declared by our highest judicial authority."

Senator Fletcher said that "in doing so we are within our rights and we violate no international law or International comity."

Continuing, Senator Fletcher said: "The proposal of our government to have the British government afford some measure of co-operation in the matter of checking the evils of rum running, I hoped would bring good results.

The Herald office takes two days in the year for vacations -Christmas and the Fourth of July. We take these days because almost every other business house in the city takes them and there is no need to keep open or get out a paper. Another reason is that we think our force needs two days in the year for a day off. Therefore there will be no Dally Herald issued on Wednesday of this week and all subscribers and advertisers will be governed accordingly. This will probably be the last time the Fourth is taken as a holiday for the next year Sanford will have a big celebration and bring all the people here.

PECIAL STUFF AND SONGS AND GOOD THINGS FOR SANFORD WERE ORDER OF THE DAY

The Sanford Rotary Club held most interesting meeting at the Hotel Valdez today and while several were absent taking their vacations and attending to business out of town there was a goodly attendance and with songs and stunts the hour passed all too quickly. President Knight called upon Will Carpenter to invoke the divine blessing and after several songs read an excellent article in the Rotary Bulletin in regard to "What Rotary is and Is Not" and it brought out some most excellent points on what the individual Rotarian owed to his city and his country and his club.

Chairman Holly then called upon each member to state one thing that in his estimation would help to build up Sanford and the Rotarians responded to a man giving the following very good suggestions that would benefit our city and make it bigger and better:

WILLIAMS ADDS TO HOMER STRINGS RUTH MARKS TIME

CHICAGO, July 2 .-- Cy Williams, of Philadelphia, leading home run hitter of the National League, increased his lead over Babe Ruth, of New York, topping the list of American League circuit clouters, to seven last week week when he knocked his twentyfirst home run on Saturday. Ruth did not add to his string of home runs during the week.

Kenneth Williams, of the St. Louis Americans, also added to the home run fame of the tribe of Williams during the week by clouding two circuit drives, bringing his total to eleven, three behind Ruth.

Home run litters of both leagues with six or more circuit drives to games, follows:

American League: Ruth, New York, 14; Williams, St. Louis, 11; Mauser, Philadelphia, 9; Heilmann, Detroit, 9; Miller, Philadelphia, 6; Fingstead, Boston, 6.

National Longue: Williams, Philadelphia, 21; Miller, Chicago, D. Mokan, Philadelphia, 9; Tierney, Philadelphia, 8; O'Farrell, Chicago, 7;

Things We Have Always Known

The recent business condition has brought to the forefront of thought many fundamental considerations that have always been known but have been damned with faint praise.

Human nature in the mass is very much like human nature in the individual. One of its dominant characteristics has been summed up in the observation, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry." We never appreciate fundamental things until we have occasion to do without them.

This observation has a special appliention to the demand of the public for the products of industry. While the demand was at high tide and everybody was busy trying to supply that demand at a profit no one, seemingly, gave a tho't to where the demand came from, how long it might last, or what would happen if it should fail. We merely assumed the permanent existence of the demand, just as we assume the presence of water, air and fire.

But a day came when demand began to subside, and in many industries it came almost to a full stop. And then we missed it, and realized, as never before, what an important thing it was. And we began to inquire where it came from in the first place, and how it might be restored.

We always knew-everybody knewthat desire for things made a demand for them in the market. That people desired things we accepted as an elemental fact. But when we discovered that desire fluctuated we began to appreciate that desire, as we know it, is a thing created by the art of man. It is a highly specialized form of an elemental need—just as a Louis XVI chair is made out of a tree.

This discovery led to another equally important discovery that the means of refining and specializing that desire was advertising. The gigantic work that has been accomplished by modern advertising now stands out in bold relief. It has been the means by which the refinements of civilization have been niade known and made desirable, and this desire has been made into demand. It is a simple fact that a million profitable forms of industrial activity owe their very existence to the fact that Advertising upheld the standards of living which in turn provided the demand for their products.
