

Osteen Youngsters Put On First Class Production Of Pinocchio

Capacity Crowd Watches Show; Children Made Sets

The children of the first, second and third grades of the Osteen School presented the play, "Pinocchio" Tuesday night before a capacity crowd at the school auditorium.

The production was under the supervision of their teacher, Mrs. Margaret Harris.

All stage settings and scenery were made and painted by the children. One mural depicted Geppeto's workshop with snow capped mountains in the background and another was Paradise Island.

A stage coach drawn by a hobby horse and lollipop, ice cream, cigar and peppermint stick trees, were also made by the children.

The cast included Susan Seitz as the narrator; Mary Gary as Geppeto; Loren Jones as Pinocchio; Linda Whiddon as Cleo the gold fish; Douglas Jones as Jimmy Cricket; Mike Shiner as the stage coach driver and Ronnie Riggs and Louis Sutton as the bad boys.

Others in the cast were Neal Caldwell, Ash Pell, Dell Rutherford, Chester Carpenter, Karen Osteen, Brenda Palmer, Beck Gowan, Charles Sutton, Curtis Vincent, Robert Workman, Melissa German and George Fraser.

Fund Approved For Tomb Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to let the United States spend foreign aid funds to help save tombs and temples dating from the dawn on history.

The committee tentatively agreed Wednesday to let the United States participate in a major international program to preserve ancient historical treasures along the Nile River in Egypt and the Sudan.

The tombs and temples will be covered by a lake 300 miles long when the Aswan High Dam is completed in about five years. Egypt and the Sudan have asked scientists the world over to help unearth the treasures of antiquity before it is too late.

The committee approved an amendment to the foreign aid bill which would permit the U. S. government to contribute up to one-third of the cost of the big international program.

It has been estimated that the proposed explorations and excavations might cost up to 90 million dollars. Other nations are being asked to help also.

Florida Agricultural Growers Plan To Combat Cuban Tomato Imports

HOMESTEAD — Some Florida agricultural growers and shippers are ready to declare war on Fidel Castro -- if necessary -- to curtail Cuba's wholesale invasion of their U. S. markets.

A group of growers here reports that Castro, not satisfied with the recent nationalization of Cuba's substantial tomato industry which ruined a number of American growers in that country, is determined to undermine Florida's own tomato and vegetable industry.

According to these growers, Cuban tomatoes are being "dumped" on American markets, uncommitted and unconsented, at artificially depressing prices at a time when south Florida's crop is ready for sale.

They maintain that this practice has already ruined some Florida agricultural producers and is destined to create further damage.

Unable to combat Cuba's tactics in any other way, these producers, organized as the Southmost Vegetable Cooperative here, have been forced to turn to the out mechanization to reduce costs, hoping in this way to compete with Cuba's "state subsidized" tomatoes.

Charles C. Carpenter, president of the cooperative and prominent in Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association activities, explains that Cuba's tomato crop requires little spraying or fertilizing, is harvested by labor paid the equivalent of $1.25 a day, and is packed for only 30 to 40 cents per hour.

"In contrast," he says, "we protect our crop from disease by using costly chemical sprays and further invest in soil-enriching fertilizers."

"People in our harvesting crews earn up to $17 a day, and we pay our packing house workers $1.50 per hour. Our fixed costs are much higher because of taxes, insurance, and the necessity of complying with many questionable but costly federal state and local regulations."

Irvin Barnett, another member of the Southmost Cooperative, points out that Dade County has cut its tomato crop from 31,000 to 12,000 acres, largely due to Cuban competition.

"But," he adds, "our cooperative has again planted 2,500 acres in tomatoes, and where last season we needed 140 to 150 people in our packing house to handle the 1,500 cartloads a season we ship to all parts of the U. S. and Canada, this year we are packing the same volume with 90 to 100 people and doing a better job."

The federal government spends more in a year on the purchase of paper towels than it did on the whole annual federal budget in George Washington's day.

Finsterwald, Nieporte Favorites

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta and Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N. Y., were the early favorites in a field of 180 pros and amateurs opening play today in the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Finsterwald, the 1959 winner, copped the Los Angeles Open and has placed third in his last three tournaments. Nieporte took the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N. C., two weeks ago.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, the millionaire golfer from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., will be looking for his seventh win here. The gallery favorite finished in the money in last year's tournament on the par 71 Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Eighteen holes will be played daily through Sunday with the big cut coming after the second day. Absent was Masters champion Arnold Palmer who has played here twice, the last time in 1957. Doug Ford, 1954 winner, notified tournament officials he would be unable to play because he is undergoing dental treatment in New York this week.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taxpayers who haven't settled up yet with Uncle Sam won't have to burn the midnight oil to mail in their returns by the usual April 15 deadline Friday.

Because the deadline is Good Friday, the Internal Revenue Service has extended the deadline to next Monday—for this year only. This gives taxpayers all weekend to complete their 1959 returns.

Tax Commissioner Dana Latham granted the three-day grace period Wednesday to give all taxpayers "equal treatment."

Under the law, taxpayers in 13 states and three U. S. possessions where Good Friday is a legal holiday had until midnight, Monday—the first working day after the 15th—to file their returns.

Rather than have two different deadlines, Latham told all 60 million taxpayers their returns need not be postmarked before April 18.

Kennedy Camp Anxious To Downgrade Primary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There were signs today that the Kennedy camp would like to downgrade the West Virginia primary test it so overrated as a factor in settling the Democratic presidential nomination.

Forecasts have come since the Wisconsin primary that Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) could just about clinch the nomination by winning the May 10 West Virginia primary from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), the loser in Wisconsin.

A defeat for Kennedy in West Virginia would forestall any bandwagon scramble by uncommitted national convention delegates to throw their support to him two months ahead of the convention.

While Kennedy is outwardly confident about West Virginia, his supporters are citing reasons for worry about the outcome.

They are voicing fear that backers of all other Democratic candidates will rally behind Humphrey in a "stop Kennedy" movement. They also see Humphrey as the chief beneficiary of support from the United Mine Workers Union, a potent force in West Virginia.

Still another unknown factor is the impact of the religious issue. Kennedy, a Catholic, appeared to have benefitted more in Wisconsin than he was hurt by anti-Catholic votes.

Unlike Wisconsin, where 30 percent of the people are Catholics, West Virginia's population is less than 5 per cent Catholic. West Virginia could provide a better clue as to whether there still is an anti-Catholic vote like that which contributed to the 1928 defeat of Democratic candidate Alfred E. Smith.

Auto Ends Up In Tree Tops

BEDFORD, Pa. (UPI) — An automobile driven by a New Jersey woman spun out of control on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Wednesday and soared a measured 175 feet into the tops of two trees.

Mrs. Francis Caniff, Millburn, N. J., was thrown from the car as it left an embankment along the turnpike four miles west of the Bedford interchange.

The 66-year-old woman suffered a badly bruised eye and lacerated eyelid. Attendants at Bedford County Memorial Hospital said it would be several days before the full extent of the eye injury could be learned.

In November, 1954, more than 1,000 Misourians invaded Kansas and helped elect a pro-slavery delegate to Congress.

Elect

Harvie J. Belser

GOVERNOR

To the Voters of Florida:

The following is a reprint of an article appearing in the Florida Times Union, Sunday, April 2, 1960:

"Clearwater — State Senator Harvie Belser of Bonifay told groups that one of his primary aims in entering the race for Governor was to give the people a chance to vote for a strong segregationist.

"He said he thought the voters should have a 'clear-cut choice of voting for a staunch segregationist and believer in states' rights and constitutional government, or of voting otherwise."

"The returns on May 3 will indicate conclusively in which direction the people of Florida desire to go for the next four years," he said.

Belser said he'd spent about $10,000.00 on his campaign so far and that it all has been contributed in amounts of $50 or less from persons of average or below means."

Would you vote for a man who has a 100% pro legislative record against RACE MIXING?

Would you vote for a man who in the Florida Senate in 1957 told Governor Collins that he didn't have sufficient support to fight RACE MIXING and stood up for the RIGHTS, CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS of the SOUTH?

Would you compare BELSER'S record on segregation legislation with the record of the other gubernatorial candidates?

Would you vote for a man who is not obligated to the politicians or vested interests in the state but who is free and will be free to make the people of Florida a real Governor?

Would you vote for a man 42 years of age, married, three children, with the following record of governmental experience:

Member Florida State Senate, former member Florida House of Representatives; former County Attorney, former Prosecuting Attorney, former school board attorney, Veterans World War II, domestic and press service, officer and confidant man, Member Florida, District of Columbia and American Bar Associations?

This is your right. Belser is spearheading it for you. Vote him, help him, and ask your friends and relatives to do likewise.

her years as an instructor made good swimmers out of many, many Sanford people. During the time she received an impressive amount of Red Cross awards and emblems.

She came to Sanford from Tampa in 1940 to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Morrison, and to be the city's first full-time recreational director. In Tampa she had been supervisor of playgrounds for four years and previous to that had made an outstanding record as an athlete at Southern College in Lakeland.

Her prowess there wasn't all in swimming, either, as she held first place on the tennis team and was captain of the girl's basketball team. Naturally, her knowledge of these activities led her to being sports editor of the college paper.

Although it was baseball that brought the McRaneys together (he was a professional baseball player) they both share an enthusiasm for swimming and when it's possible they spend every minute around their pool.

Taking Liberties
LYNDONVILLE, Vt. (UPI)—Clifton Witzler, 34, was charged with stealing three pounds of hamburger from one store and then going to a store across the street and asking a clerk to wrap the meat. And then with stealing three more pounds of hamburger from the generous clerk.

Kansas has ranked among the 10 leading mineral producing states since 1952.

House Judiciary Group Plans Gambling Crackdown

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Judiciary Committee today prepared legislation designed to cripple gambling crime syndicates by snipping their lines of communications.

The bill would make it a federal offense to use telephone or telegraph wires to transmit gambling information across state lines. It would set up the legal machinery for denying such communications to convicted gambling operators.

The FBI and Justice Department are helping to write the legislation, said he hoped a bill would be ready for introduction in the House "in the near future." House members from Florida and Ohio are pushing the measures.

U. S., Allies May Put Polaris Missiles Across West Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and its NATO allies may station hundreds of Polaris missiles across Western Europe in a revolutionary new multi-million dollar defense system designed to strike back after any Russian attack.

State Department confirmation that such a system was under consideration was underlined by the first successful underwater launching of a Polaris Thursday.

The missile, originally intended to be fired by submerged nuclear submarines, was launched from an underwater tube off San Clemente Island, Calif. The Navy said "all objectives" were met and described the test as an important step in mating the missile to A-sub.

The proposal to dot Western Europe with ballistic missiles arose from fears that the continent's defenses, as presently planned, would be obsolete in a few years.

Some military planners were aiming at 1963 as the date for wide placement of ballistic missiles throughout Europe. That year is regarded as critical because of Russia's intercontinental rocket advantage.

Advisers of NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad consider it urgent for Europe to be equipped with missiles that could be placed in underground bunkers, on mobile platforms and on barges on the continent's many waterways.

Minnesota Students To Join Racial Demonstration

By United Press International

A motoreade of students from the University of Minnesota plans to arrive in Nashville, Tenn., Easter Sunday for an anti-segregation demonstration.

City and state officials received letters from Minnesota students which said the purpose of the motoreade was to "provide encouragement for the American citizens who are peacefully demanding their constitutional right to equality."

City Atty. Robert Jennings said the students "will be treated with the same courtesy and consideration extended to any other such group entering the city."

But he warned that "appropriate arrests" will be made if any city ordinances are violated.

Also in Nashville, three Negro teenagers faced state charges today for allegedly cutting the pants of a white youth and clubbing him with a rubber hose.

Police said James Emmett Howard, Bruce Howard, and Roy

Samuel Cowan, all 18, attacked Jerry Reed, 20, Wednesday night. They were charged with "conspiracy with two or more persons to take a human life or to engage in an act capable of taking a human life."

In Georgia, a Negro soldier stationed at Ft. Gordon was convicted in Augusta under the state's new trespassing law for refusing to leave a segregated cafeteria. White buddies of Pvt. George Johnson, 22, of Harrisburg, Pa., paid his $55 fine.

In North Carolina, a 17-year-old white youth was fined $50 for throwing "stink bombs" at two Negroes who were taking part in a sitdown demonstration against segregated eating facilities in Greensboro April 2.

In South Carolina, Rock Hill Recorder Billy D. Haysa found five Negro college students guilty of breach of the peace and fined each of them $35 or 30 days in jail.

In Alabama, two Negro employees of Brookley Air Force Base applied for admission to the white-only state vocational school in Mobile.

In Mississippi, the state Senate adopted a House resolution commending the government of South Africa for its "firm segregation stand."

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY MAY 3, 1960
Paid Postcard Adv. by Campaign Treasurer

Nixon Apparently Suffering Slump In Current Political Polls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's present batting slump, as recorded by public opinion polls and primary votes, comes six months later than was expected by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

It was known that the New York governor had expected Nixon's standing in the public opinion polls to slip last fall from the peak the vice president reached after his 1959 trip to Russia.

If that judgment had stood up, Rockefeller probably would have made an open bid for the Republican presidential nomination. Instead, he announced immediately after Christmas that he would not be a candidate. His action left Nixon virtually without competition.

There have been recent signs of restlessness among Republicans as public opinion polls have shown Nixon falling behind Sen. John F. Kennedy, leading contender for the Democratic nomination.

While the meaning of comparative votes in party primaries can be questioned, Nixon did not make an impressive showing in the Wisconsin and Illinois balloting if his vote is compared with that received by Democrats.

One manifestation of GOP restiveness has come in pressure on Nixon to be more active and compete with Democratic presidential hopefuls in the headlines.

Nixon has resisted this pressure, largely on grounds that proper timing calls for improving his standing in the polls, not now, but during the autumn election campaign.

If the present trend continues, however, Rockefeller is likely to get increased attention as a presidential candidate who could have greater appeal to independent voters.

Humphrey Funds Running 'Low'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Aides to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) reported today that he has cut his presidential campaign staff almost in half because funds are running low.

The situation is so bad a spokesman said that preliminary phases of Humphrey's campaign for the May 10 West Virginia primary are being financed with about $2,000 in borrowed cash.

"We're raising money through every available and proper means," he said.

The spokesman said Humphrey's organization was about $10,000 in the red following the Wisconsin primary, in which the Minnesotan lost to Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Four members of the staff have been dropped, the aide said, leaving seven full-time and two part-time aides.

Circle Theater

Drama Not A Winner

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Exposures of America's billion-dollar numbers racket have earned many awards for reporters through the years. Wednesday night, CBS-TV's "Armstrong Circle Theater" picked out some of the well-known aspects of those exposures to fill an hour titled, "The numbers racket." It won't win any awards. The production, one of this series' least illuminating, least satisfying hours, deserves only a laugh.

Written by Irve Tunick, the story purported to show how a big-city policy operator invaded a small city, set up his operation on a modest scale, instituted a "well-run, modern" bank and then started to pull some strong-arm stunts in order to expand his business. The police, alternately in and out of his pocket, waited until he spread himself into the narcotics trade before grabbing him. That way, you see, the sentence would be stiffer.

If I read Tunick correctly, we should all run out and start playing the numbers in order to make the neighborhood banker so rich that he'll get into the deadlier game of narcotics. And that's how he'll get caught. This is nonsense, of course.

We've all read enough about the numbers racket to know it's not that simple. The more prosperous a banker gets, the more diversified he becomes. And the more influential he grows, he becomes mighty hard to stop after a while. Judge John M. Muriagh, chief justice of the Court of Special Sessions in New York City, appeared in the play's closing minutes and mentioned how police are invariably corrupted and the judiciary is discredited by a flourishing numbers racket. His remarks did more to pinpoint the problem and give us something to think about than all the pussy-footing and B-picture histrionics that preceded him.

William Redfield, portraying a policy boss, lacked the voice, manner or look of a hardened criminal and yet insisted on playing it in all-out style. Leonardo Cimino as the dope peddler, was effectively slimy. He's making the role his TV specialty, it seems. The inconsistent production might have done more good by focusing on the steady players of policy and showing how they are debauched and turned into grubby, greedy, ineffective citizens and workers.

Dialling and filling: "Perry Como's Music Hall" had a listless, awkward pace Wednesday night. It also was educational. I learned, for example, that a biography of the singing Lennon sisters is now on sale. Next — Jay North's biography.

I also learned that guest Dorothy Collins has overcome her bad feelings about rock 'n' roll. She sang one of "those songs."

In a non-entertainment segment, Como chatted with golfer Arnold Palmer and referred to Arnold's victory in the Master's golf tournament as "courageous." I suppose "courageous" is replacing "fabulous" as a show business adjective.

On ABC-TV, "Ozzie and Harriet" served up an amusing buildup to a story about Ozzie's failure to be in the right place at the right time. It wasn't until after the show that I realized what it was that made it so entertaining. Ricky and David had the night off.

JANET LEIGH, Dean Martin and Tony Curtis in a scene from "Who Was That Lady?" now playing at the Ritz Theatre.

Farcical Comedy Playing At Ritz

"Who Was That Lady?", the comedy starring Tony Curtis, Dean Martin and Janet Leigh, is now playing at the Ritz Theatre. Tony Curtis, so superb a comedian in "Some Like It Hot" and "Operation Petticoat," again steps out in a farcical part as the handsome chemistry prof whose romantic misstep is the reason TV writer Martin dreams up a wildly imaginative explanation. Martin's fancy alibi has it that he and Curtis really are FBI agents. As a result of Martin's coverup antics, the two tangle with real agents, and a couple of blond bombshells. Others in the cast are James Whitmore, John McIntire and Barbara Nichols.

JANE FONDA and Anthony Perkins in a scene from "Tall Story" coming to the Movieland Drive-In Sunday.

'Tall Story' At Movieland Sunday

"Tall Story," a gay comedy combining laughs with romance, and starring Anthony Perkins and Jane Fonda, opens at the Movieland Drive-In Sunday. The comedy is about a series of crises at a West Coast college when a matrimonially-minded girl enrolls there. Being a tall girl, she selects a college, noted for its outstanding basketball teams, as the logical place to snare a tall husband. There are amusing complications when she wages a persistent campaign to entrap the studious star of the team, even using the unwitting aid of two professors. The other feature on the program is "The Hanging Tree." Both features will continue through Wednesday.

On Thursday and Friday, "Albert Schweitzer," the biographical true story of the Nobel Peace Prize winner. The film will be narrated by Frederick March. The other feature on the program is "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain." On Saturday three features will play. They are "Satellite in the Sky," "The Forbidden Planet" and "Invisible Invaders."

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

Lucy's husband may feel that she is unduly frigid but that is partly due to his fault listed below. Lucy is like millions of other good wives and mothers, so study her complaint carefully. You husbands should follow her suggestions, for wives become more congenial and affectionate when you remove the indirect cause for their frigidity.

CASE E - 429: Lucy E., aged 29, is the mother of three youngsters.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I guess I am an introvert, for I worry a lot about money matters."

"My husband is an easy going extrovert who never frets about the future even when we have unpaid bills staring us in the face. He is sociable and popular with everybody but can't save a penny. So what would become of us if he should be killed in an auto accident, for our three children aren't yet of school age?"

"I get so anxious on this point that I often scold him and am not as affectionate as he'd like, but don't I have justification for my frigidity?"

Yes, Lucy has some justification and her case shows one of the great benefits of adequate life insurance, namely, a more tranquil, affectionate wife!

Husbands, please take note! Your Social Security will not permit your wife to live at home and rear your brood of toddlers comfortably unless you meanwhile carry additional insurance.

And one of the most efficient types is the "Family Income" policy.

It is almost as cheap as straight life insurance, yet it banishes anxiety far more in cases like Lucy's.

For example, when I first married, I took out a $10,000 "Family Income" policy.

If I had been killed shortly thereafter, Mrs. Crane would have received one percent of the face value of the policy each month ($100 monthly) for 20 years.

And then she'd also have received the full $10,000, besides!

Since our family ultimately involved five youngsters, I also took out two more of those $10,000 policies, thus guaranteeing my wife a total of $300 per month, plus the full $30,000 at the end of the 20 year period.

If your bridegrooms wish to show your thoughtfulness in a most helpful manner, just present your wife with a "Family Income" policy on your wedding day.

And certainly do so by the time you have a youngster on the way. Most workers nowadays can afford at least a $10,000 policy.

And it will add far more peace of mind to your wife, who often wishes you would protect the children's future but hesitates to tell you so lest you mistake her anxiety for mercenary greed.

Smart husbands don't try to splurge with a new auto when they could get a used car at a bargain and apply the difference on an adequate insurance policy.

Wives then are more affectionate, too, when you don't fret so much about what might happen if your family increased in size.

Insurance policies are also a cushion in case you need a loan, for they soon have a definite cash value, against which you can borrow.

Indeed, for the average young husband who is starting a family, the insurance premiums are about the only savings he can lay aside.

The medical and hospital expenses when your babies arrive are capital investments that are very wise and necessary.

Protect your family's future by guaranteeing that your wife can stay by those children till they are at least through high school.

Send for the "Family Budget Chart" enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20¢ (non-profit). Place a firm financial foundation under your home, for solvent, insured families are usually happiest.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long te stamped, addressed envelope and 20¢ in coin, typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Natural objects themselves, even when they make no claim to beauty, excite the feelings, and occupy the imagination.

OVERDUE LANDING SIGNAL

WASHINGTON CALLING by Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The so-called defense issue has largely vanished from sight if only because the military hero in the White House has said repeatedly that he knows more than anyone else in this nuclear-electronic age about America's security and how to achieve it.

But there is just a chance that it may be revived in connection with a decision out of the Pentagon

ASSIGNMENT WASHINGTON

by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON — The secrets of the Secret Service are often permanent, but the one about the disappearing draft lottery capsules back in 1942 can now be told.

At that, there is still involved in this case a mystery that may never be solved.

When the Selective Service decided to call up men aged 20 to 44, a draft drawing was set for March 17, 1942. The numbers would be drawn from the famous "goldfish bowl" containing 7,000 capsules.

Five days before the scheduled drawing, two Army officers brought the sealed bowl and capsules to the Treasury building. The bowl, under guard, was locked in an underground vault.

But three days before the drawing, the Secret Service received a phone call from one of the Army officers. The man said he had just received, anonymously in the mail, capsules T-598 and T-6430.

How had they gotten out of the sealed container? Suspecting a prank, a squad of agents nevertheless descended into the vault, broke the seal on the bowl and dumped the capsules on a carpeted floor. They counted the little tubes one by one.

There were, indeed, only 6,006. The story of the theft of the two goldfish bowl capsules - an incident that could well have altered the lives of hundreds of upcoming draftees - has remained under wraps all these years.

The story was finally disclosed in a book, "The United States Secret Service," just published by two former Secret Service men, Walter S. Bowen and Harry E. Neal.

To this day neither man knows how the capsules managed to disappear or who subsequently returned them. "I'd give anything to know the answer," Neal told me over the phone.

Because the Secret Service is usually so close-mouthed about its undercover work, the hundreds of anecdotes revealed in the book make entertaining reading.

However, the writers skipped around one of the most-guarded activities of the Service - the investigation of letters that come to the White House threatening the life of the President.

I learned, however, that last year alone, 19,000 letters were referred to the Secret Service's "Protective Research Section." Of these, 640 were serious enough to be referred to agents in the field for direct investigation.

Authors Bowen and Neal tell one fascinating account about how agents tracked down a dangerous-sounding letter threatening the life of Harry Truman.

The letter, postmarked New York City, was typed on business stationery with the letterhead cut off. Agents got a list of all companies that bought this type of paper, and finally narrowed the suspects to one of the country's biggest steamship lines.

One agent posed as a typewriter repairman and tested every machine in the building. Back at the laboratory, the specimens were checked and agents found one that matched the character of the threatener's letter.

The employe confessed he was sent to a mental hospital.

WASHINGTON SEE-SAW

by Win Pendleton

What about that diet? Or would you be more interested in a recipe for "Peanut-Butter Peppers" or "Baked Lima Beans in Sour Cream"? Or would you like to know how to identify a fresh egg in the shell or find out what is jellibub?

All of this—and more—is packed between the covers of the Department of Agriculture's new 725-page yearbook titled, "Food." The yearbook is in its 11th year of publication and may be purchased from the Government Printing Office for $2.25. But, we never have known anybody to buy a copy. Each member of Congress is given 400 copies for free distribution. So, if you haven't written for your copy—you'd better hurry before they are all gone.

The book itself is fascinating. It is full of all sorts of facts, figures and advice about what we eat. There is something in it for every member of the family. The man of the house is supposed to read such chapters as: "Nutritional Needs After 25," "Don't Be Fooled By Fads," or "Calories and Body Weight."

Especially for the housewife are chapters titled: "A Guide to Eating," "Planning Meals for the Family," "Habits—And More." If a student must write a high school theme he can find his material under: "Youth Learns A B C U Food," "Adolescents and Young Adults," and on and on and on. There are chapters for teachers, farmers and economists. For those who want to reduce—and those who want to gain weight.

And the chapter on questions and answers! Try a few of these: "Is fat essential to my diet? Is it safe to cook acid foods in aluminum? How is milk homogenized? How do you tell a ripe melon? (Tell it what!) Does rhubarb have any nutritive value?" We can't imagine who would want to know, but they even answer this one: "What are some ways of cooking and using dried eggs?"

And all about fish. Did you know that 23 percent of the total catch of fish in this country was intended (stink-shad we called them when we were kids). They catch tons and tons of them off May Port and use them for fertilizer. Or another thing—that most of our canned salmon is eaten by folks between 55 and 59 years of age and that the younger generation—between 15 and 24—eat the canned tuna fish? And that folks eat fish every day of the week and "Only in New England does the preference for Friday still prevail."

Of course, many think that no book today is worth reading unless at least one chapter is either sexy or a "shocker." The writers of this one apparently were unable to make food sound sexy, but they did succeed in slipping in that "shock" chapter. Almost hidden in the back—Page 671—they bring up the problem of how we are going to feed the 6,290 million people who will be living in the world in the year 2,000 A. D. Yes, the chapter on calories will scare you because you get the impression that Americans are over-eating themselves to death. But, when you get to that "shock" chapter, you can see the human race (our great grandchildren) starving to death—unless we invent new ways to feed the "exploded" population.

Here's Happy Thought; How About Income Tax Day On Election Day

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Somebody should pass a happy miracle postponing income tax day until Nov. 8, which is election day. This is income tax time. To combine income tax day with election day might prod the chumps among the voter-taxpayers to think before they vote.

If the chumps are able to think at all, they should think on election day about the free ride the politicians promise them in the campaign which leads up to election day. This free ride is not free, of course.

There aren't any free rides for the voter-taxpayers, including the chumps. The chumps are happy in their madness, however. They accept without thought or analysis the promises of the politicians that the rides are free. The politicians give the chumps some credit for gumption, of course. Probably too much.

However, that may be, the politicians do not attempt to persuade the chumps that free rides are really free—that no one pays for them. The politicians fear that even the chumps among the voter-taxpayers are too smart to swallow that.

What the politicians tell the chumps and expect them to believe, is this: That the free rides are free to the chumps because somebody else will pay for them. Sometimes the politicians become real frank and honest and explain to the chumps that the rides are free because they are paid for by Uncle Sam.

The chumps believe this and happily vote for free rides for themselves on the foolish belief that Uncle Sam is somebody else. Uncle Sam is all of the chumps among the voter-taxpayers and all the smart ones rolled together.

Uncle Sam is us, you, me and everyone else. Whatever the promising politician promises to give to you or to me or to anyone else for free will be paid for by us. There is no such thing as a free ride just as there never was such a thing as free lunch.

There are some citizens who live moderately well by getting something for nothing. Citizens, for example, such as bank robbers, embezzlers, pan-handlers and the like.

But these citizens are looked down upon because they transgress the laws of the land and impose gross and undue hardships on their victims. The promising politician is a villain of a lower order. If the truth were told, the promising politician imposes gross and undue hardship on multi-millions.

There should be, of course, a law against such disgraceful and anti-social conduct as that in which the promising politician indulges to gull the chumps and booby who vote the politician into office.

No such law is likely, however, because the congressional politicians would have to pass it. They've got a good thing and they won't let go until the chumps get on to them. May it be soon.

Taxpayer Had It Real Easy Making Out Forms Years Ago

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nostalgia is not what I ordinarily feel when I sit down to prepare Form 1040. The feeling I have is more closely akin to nausea.

Nevertheless, I have been rummaging around in the good old days of tax paying in hopes it might help me face the 1960 moment of truth.

For the first few minutes that I spent immersed in the archives of the Internal Revenue Service, I did manage to lose contact with reality. But that familiar panicky sensation began to return along about the year 1912.

It was in 1962 that the government first hit upon the idea of using the income tax to separate a citizen from his earthly treasures. It had not then, however, figured out a way to separate him from his sanity at the same time.

The oldest tax return that the revenue service has preserved was filed in 1865 by a certain W. J. Dean of Breckinridge County, Ky., who was a lucky man. Dean simply listed his earnings ($2,000) and his tax ($100) and went merrily on his way, his head uncluttered by visions of Alcatraz.

In 1895, the U.S. Supreme Court, in one of those blinding flashes of reason that are all too rare in American jurisprudence, ruled that even this relatively painless form of extraction was unconstitutional.

Almost overnight, the grass turned green, the birds began to sing again and...but why continue? It didn't last. Eighteen years later, in a strange outcropping of masochism, the nation adopted the 16th Amendment and we've been in for it ever since.

I have closely examined the first Form 1040, issued as soon as the income tax was legalized in 1913, and it was easy to see how we got off on the high road to bewilderment.

The form ran to four pages, including one page of single-spaced instructions in which this milestone was firmly planted:

"The normal tax of 1 per cent shall be assessed on the total net income less the specific exemption of $3,000 or $4,000 as the case may be. (For the year 1913, the specific exemption allowable is $2,500 or $3,333.33, as the case may be.) If, however, the normal tax has been deducted and withheld on any part of the income at the source, or if any part of the income is received as dividends upon the stock or from the net earnings of any corporations, etc., which is taxable upon its net income for the purpose of calculating the amount of income on which the individual is liable for the normal tax of 1 per cent by virtue of this return (see page 1, line 7.)"

From this point, it was only a short drive into the verbal morass of Form 1040 as we know it today.

Evaporator System Makes Cheap Fresh Water From Sea

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Chemical engineers have designed a simple evaporating system that will make drinking water from the sea for less money than any plant now in operation.

Disclosure of the new system was made today by F. C. Standford Jr., of W. L. Badger Associates, Inc., Ann Arbor, Mich. Standford told the American Chemical Society convention that a million gallon-a-day plant based on the process is soon to be built at Freeport, Tex. Fresh water should be produced from the Gulf of Mexico for about $1 a thousand gallons said Stand-ford. He indicated that by using the same design in a plant 10 times larger, water could be produced at 35 cents a thousand gallons, considered an economical price.

The Sanford Wraith Page 14—Fri. April 15, 1960
