Blindfold Practice Necessary For Nighttime Apollo Launch

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The nighttime launch of Apollo 17 on Wednesday has meant "blindfold practice" for the specially trained Air Force crews assigned the job of rescuing the astronauts if the moon mission is aborted.

An hour before the 9:53 p.m. EST liftoff, the "beach boss" — Lt. Col. Raymond A. Boyd — will be in the air aboard one of four helicopters hovering in stacked formation about five miles north of the launch complex.

Three HH53 choppers, known as Jolly Green Giants, will be poised to dispatch crews of doctors, firefighters, frogman and hatch opening specialists to find the command module on land, in a swamp or in the Atlantic Ocean.

"Our response time is 30 minutes," said Boyd, 51, A Vietnam veteran.

Within a half-hour from the time the mission is aborted, Boyd said, the helicopter teams can find the capsule, drop the pararescue team and retrieve the astronauts.

"Our biggest problem at night, of course, is visibility," Boyd said. "We have had very extensive training for night sea recovery not only for Apollo 17 but for Skylab."

Rescue at sea is the most probable, extracting the astronauts from an overturned command module in marshes near the Cape is the most difficult, Boyd said.

To compensate for a lack of visibility Boyd has added two Army UL1 helicopters with powerful xenon search lights that illuminate 1,000 square feet of ground.

At sea, new procedures and an extra copter have been added for the first nighttime launch of a U.S. manned space flight.

"In the daytime the pararescue men can jump out of the helicopter but at night the pilots have no depth perception — they can't tell if they're five feet or 30 feet above the water," Boyd said.

So, the three-man teams trained as frogmen will be lowered in nylon mesh webs.

Astronauts Wives Most Popular

By ANN HELLMUTH
Associated Press Writer

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Barbara Cernan and Jan Evans are the two most popular women in town.

Every hostess worth her salt is trying to get the wives of the two married Apollo 17 astronauts to attend her party.

And for the last Apollo flight, just like the ones that went before, there are parties and parties. On land, sea and air the hostesses are hard at work making sure Apollo 17 gets a send off worthy of the last scheduled U.S. manned moon mission.

The most elaborate and expensive party is being given Tuesday night by Time-Life. More than 500 people, including Mrs. Cernan and Mrs. Evans, have been invited to a luau in a circus tent, pitched in the parking lot of a Cocoa Beach hotel.

Journalist Mary Bubb, who organized the party, said Monday she had ordered 200 pounds of pork, 200 pounds of beef, 200 pounds of shrimp and more than $81,000 worth of liquor.

Commission Reverses Decision

County alters last week's stand and votes to issue zoning permits to developers.

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

"A few years ago, the legislature cut the time between the election of officials and the seating of these officials. The actions here are a good example of why this legislative action was taken," stated new commissioner Mike Hattaway Tuesday night.

"I feel that the zoning passed on both areas was improper," he continued, "The total southwest Seminole County is an overcrowded tanglement of people, which will mean congestion and traffic conditions, overcrowded schools and inadequate fire and police protection."

Hattaway was prefacing his action which would again reverse the decision of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners. Last week, he stood in agreement with Commissioner John Kimbrough and Dick Williams when Kimbrough made a motion to send back to the planning and zoning commission for further review, the matters of zoning for Wingfield Reserve PUD development and Lake Brantley Arms, a multifamily development.

The original zoning request from Shaker Vale Company and Jim Meffaffey, developers of Wingfield and Lake Brantley Arms respectively, was granted on November 7, election night.

Amid charges of rammrodding for political reasons' by Kimbrough and veiled innuendos of curtailed financing in Seminole County by mortgage firm representatives and local financial institutions, and counter declarations of value to the county by supporting Commissioner Sid Vihlen and E. Pope (Sandy) Bassett, attorney for both developments, it became clear to new Commissioner Mike Hattaway that a change in direction was necessary.

"Last week, I voted my conscience in an attempt to provide for the best interests of all the people. Since last week, I have had reservations. I feel now, it is best for all the citizens of Seminole County to stick with the decision of the former board. We are being discriminatory in singling out these two developments — even though I do feel that the zoning is wrong."

"My own personal feeling (and I want to put all developers on notice) is that I don't want improperly planned developments without provisions for taking care of problems created by developers. I feel this will be a futile effort on the part of the County, even though I do feel the motion is correct. "I feel the former Board was grossly wrong, but there is nothing I can do about it now."

Commissioner John Kimbrough commented that "I feel now as I did then, — that we are seeing the effect of the special interest groups in Seminole County. The greatest service

Lunar Explorations Over

'Last Voyage To The Moon Tonight'

Ronald E. Evans

Harrison H. Schmitt

Eugene A. Cernan

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Seventeen, the last of America's proud Apollo flights to the moon, lifts into the dark on a column of fire tonight — a dazzling windup to an epoch of lunar exploration.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt were pictured as "all charged and ready" for the 13-day journey that may be man's final visit in this century to his celestial neighbor.

The blastoff is scheduled for 9:53 p.m. EST. Despite the few ever-present hitches, launch officials called the countdown of Apollo 17 one of the most trouble-free in the 11-flight Apollo series.

The skyscraper-tall Saturn 5 rocket and its cargo of men, scientific equipment and sacrificial mice will rise with a hellish roar on a 2,200-foot tail of flame that may be visible 500 miles away.

For the half million or more people expected in the area, weather conditions were not perfect. The forecast called for considerable cloudiness at 12,000 feet — the altitude the rocket reaches in less than a minute.

Weather posed less problems for space officials. Launch director Walter Kapryan said there would be a threat to ontime liftoff only if upper-level clouds contain ice particles that might create lightning strikes as the rocket slices through. He discounted the possibility.

The wives and children of Cernan and Evans said goodby to the astronauts across a glass barrier Tuesday night. Schmitt, a geologist and the first scientist to go to the moon, is a bachelor.

Most of the Apollo astronauts, including many of the 10 men who have walked the moon, are at the cape to watch the historic last.

"There's a lot of good natured kidding between the veterans and the youngsters," said Adm. Alan Shepard, chief of the astronaut office and the first man in space.

"They're anxious to go," he said of Cernan, a two-flight veteran, and space rookies Evans and Schmitt. "They all seem to be feeling confident. They are all charged and ready for their part of the countdown."

The Apollo 17 astronauts have been sleeping later each day to adjust their biological timeclocks for an early afternoon wakeup. Their schedule calls for a light snack on arising, a medical examination in early evening and dinner 3½ hours before launch.

Although this is the last moon flight, it is not the end of space exploration. Three crews of three men each plan to man an earth-orbiting laboratory for periods of one and two months next year, and the space shuttle is in prospect for the late 1970s.

Cernan and Schmitt will land on the moon at 2:54 p.m. next Monday near the Taurus mountains and the Littrow crater in the northeast section of the moon. That area is scientifically interesting because it is expected to have the newest, as well as some of the oldest, rocks in the moon's 4.6 billion years of existence.

During their record 75 hours on the lunar surface, the astronauts will explore, collect samples and place experiments — leaving the lunar lander they call Challenger three times for seven-hour periods.

They plan to drive their moon car a total of 23 miles in quest of material that Schmitt said would "fill in missing chapters in the evolution of the moon — the first and the last."

He explained rocks returned by five previous moon-landing crews ranged in age from about 3 billion to 4.2 billion years old.

Evans, in the command ship named America, will conduct experiments from 60 miles over the surface in his 75 revolutions of the moon. By splashdown in the Pacific on Dec. 19, the command pilot will have flown 1.4 million miles.

At A Glance

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are the facts and figures on the Apollo 17 mission: Launch time: 9:53 p.m. EST Wednesday.

Astronauts: Navy Capt. Eugene A. Cernan, 38; Dr. Garrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, a geologist, 37; Navy Cmdr. Ronald E. Evans, 39.

Purpose: Man's sixth landing on the moon. Cernan and Schmitt are to land at an area named Taurus-Littrow and, during three driving expeditions, are to search for some of the oldest and some of the youngest rocks on the moon.

Time on the moon: A record 75 hours, including 21 hours outside the landing craft. During that time, Evans conducts extensive scientific and photographic tasks in lunar orbit.

Spacecraft names: The command ship is America, the lunar module is Challenger.

Flight durations: 12 days, 16 hours, 31 minutes.

Mission cost: $450 million.

World Will Be Watching

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The world again will be watching as the Apollo 17 astronauts make man's last scheduled journey to the moon, but it will see less on television than during past lunar expeditions.

Citing decreased public interest, the three major television networks have trimmed special coverage of the sixth voyage to the moon, which begins tonight with liftoff from Cape Kennedy.

CBS, for example, has scheduled about five hours of special coverage through the 14-day flight of Apollo 17. Last April, the network provided 13 hours and 13 minutes of live and taped special reports on Apollo 16.

College Trustees Decline Sanford Annexation Invite

By BILL SCOTT

Seminole Junior College trustees Tuesday night declined an invitation to become a part of Sanford on a (two-two) tie vote, but according to a Sanford City Commissioner, there are enough annexation petitions from property owners adjacent to the college to bring SJC within the city limits.

The four of five trustees attending the regular session split on a motion by trustee Vernon Mize to ask the City of Sanford to annex the college.

Seconding Mize's motion was Mrs. Herbert Stenstrom, trustee, but upon voting, Thelma Clonts, trustee chairman, sided with William Schafner, trustee, and Mize's proposal failed to pass.

A delegation of Lake Mary citizens working to incorporate the west county community and headed by spokesman Sam Pratt appeared before the trustees and asked the panel to delay any annexation to Sanford for the present, pending incorporation of Lake Mary.

The Lake Mary group advised they were working with the legislature to have a bill introduced to incorporate the city.

"We would like to have Seminole Junior College become a part of Lake Mary; wait and see what we have to offer," Pratt asked.

W. E. Knowles, Sanford city manager, spoke to the trustees on behalf of Sanford and explained the benefits that would accrue to the college by becoming a part of Sanford. Knowles pointed out police and fire protection would increase and stressed that a 25 per cent savings on utility services furnished the college would also be realized.

"Lake Mary is just an embryo, while on the other hand, you have a city with available services," Knowles added.

Trustee Schaffner said he could not see "jumping into annexation" and added "I'm reluctant to vote either way now." He added, "we are as close to Longwood as Sanford."

Schaffner moved to table for six months any decision on annexation, but his motion died for lack of a second.

Next came Mize's motion to annex to Sanford, which failed to pass. (John Daniels, the fifth trustee was absent because of illness, it was reported).

Later Tuesday night, newly elected Sanford commissioner Gordon Meyer, when advised of the action, commented the city had enough annexation petitions from surrounding property owners to annex the college and thought the matter might come before the city commission at Monday's 7 p. m. session.

Mayor Defeated In Fort Pierce

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP)— Mayor Dennis Summerlin was defeated Tuesday in a bid for a third two-year term by the nephew of Florida Supreme Court Justice David McCain.

City commissioner Charles Padrick Jr., defeated Summerlin and a third contestant by receiving 2,973 votes. Summerlin tallied 1,290 votes and Charles Frank Matthews received 1,349.

Police in nearby Vero Beach reported finding less than five grams of marijuana in Summerlin's car Nov. 25 after the vehicle was stopped. However, Summerlin was not in the car at the time.

"The car merely belonged to me. It was being driven by another individual. I was not in it," said Summerlin.

A pipe and the marijuana were taken into custody along with a 20-year-old girl who police said was "incoherent." However, no arrests were made pending completion of an investigation by Asst. State Atty. Robert Stone.

Low Bid Accepted

Area Detention Home Let

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

Seminole County Board of County Commissioners Tuesday authorized Reginald Williams Construction Company of Winter Park to construct the county juvenile detention home.

Work is expected to begin around Jan. 15, to allow time for redrafting blue prints and acquiring building permits. Construction is expected to be completed within 220 days.

"The bid submitted this time is lower than the amount of money on hand, therefore it will not be illegal to let the bid," advised County Attorney Howard Marsee.

Williams has been the consistant low bidder on the construction of the Juvenile Detention Facility which is to be built on a five-and-one-half acre site in the northeast corner of County-owned property near the county road department, off highway 17-92.

This bid figure of $246,682.15 the third bid offered by the Williams Company.Two other companies failed to offer a bid on the third request, leaving the Williams Company the lone bidder.

In 1970, voters in Seminole County approved a bond issue for the Juvenile Detention Center in the amount of $262,000. First bids offered were over $300,000 and were therefore not accepted by the Board of Commissioners. Following a series of modifications designed to reduce the cost of the construction, but still meet the stringent State requirements for the facility, the final bid was offered in the amount of $246,682.

The existing construction budget remaining after payment of architectural and other preliminary costs is $248,960. This means that there is a credit toward construction costs of $2,278. T. J. Pon, architect reported that fees for that work, still outstanding amount to $5,060 and that a built-in estimate of $12,394 should be included for approximately 5 change orders. This may not be needed in its entirety, but should be in the plans.

According to Ashby Jones, the architects fees and the costs of the change orders all totaling $15,116 can possibly be taken from contingency or other county funds.

Architects Study Additions To Jail

Addition to the County Jail building will be under study by architects because of action taken by the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday. Architects Charles Hendrick and Dick Matz appeared before the board with recommendations and cost estimates.

Hendrick said that if this addition is to be constructed as first issued in May, 1970, 16 drawings wiould have to be checked and resubmitted to the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative services. Specifications and contract conditions should be rewritten since the first ones were integrated with the courthouse specifications.

The most equitable method of compensation for professional services would be on a basis of a multiple of direct technical expense, according to Hendrick. "We estimate that, if modifications are kept to a minimum, the compensation would not exceed $10,000."

Architect's fees for administration of the contract during the construction phase would be 1.6 percent of the construction costs. Based on a contract amount of $600,000 this would be $9,600.

Commissioner Vihlen said that this was a lower than average percentage fee which the architects were asking for this addition to the jail.

Hendrick told commissioners that there had been three sheriffs since the plans were first submitted and then deleted from the courthouse plans. Several trips to Tallahassee to meet with officials there will be required in order to update the plans to meet with present-day standards and requirements.

City Employes Get Insurance

By MARION BETHEA

WINTER SPRINGS — After many weeks of discussion and perusal by a committee, the city has accepted an insurance proposal for hospitalization for municipal employes.

Three proposals were presented, and Councilman Victor Miller recommended that the proposal of Southeast Group Trust plan, group two be accepted by the city.

Councilman Troy Piland voiced the only dissenting opinion, contending the city should deal with an insurance company rather than through a trust company. "I'd", Piland said, "rather buy from someone who handles insurance, who is in the insurance business."

Councilman Herbert Fox maintained the plan is the same as if the city bought stocks and bonds in that the company is in the same category as a brokerage firm.

Piland rebutted "It's not a question of handling money; it's a question of handling people." Nevertheless, the proposal for the insurance as recommended by Miller passed by a 4-1 vote.

In other action, council approved on first reading an ordinance annexing a small tract of land bordering SR 434 and lying north of Wagner Road into the city.

Petitioned by Warren Williams of Development Enterprises, the tract is adjacent to a PUD area by the golf course on SR 434. Annexation of the land was requested in order to utilize a present home on the property as a sales office for the development company. C-1 zoning was requested and granted.

County Commission Reverse Zoning Plans

that the minority on the Board can take is to see that the public is put on notice that the doors are wide open to this type of zoning."

Williams said that in his humble opinion, this second reversal action meant that the single family way of life has been destroyed.

While County Attorney Howard Marsee said that the action taken last week in adopting a resolution directing the planning and zoning commission to review the zoning of the two developments, was quite legal, there was a possibility though remote, that judgements could be found against the county.

The Board instructed Marsee to draw up another resolution this week rescinding the resolution of last week. This means that the zoning which was granted by the Board on November 7, will stand and will not go back before the planning and zoning commission because of county board actions. The freeze on building permits will be lifted on order of the board as well.

The matter is not closed however because as Commission Chairman Greg Drummond has reiterated a number of times, if citizens of Seminole wish to object to an action of the Board such as this case of granting zoning which residents find objectionable, their proper recourse is through the circuit court. A group of Lake Brantley residents has employed the firm of Cleveland and Berry to represent them in such a court presentation of complaint against the County.

According to Marsee, this litigation, even if the court finds against the county, will not mean a financial judgment, but will mean instead a reversal of action. So — it remains to be seen whether the Lake Brantley Arms developers are clear to proceed in their plans.

Oviedo Council Actions

By LIZ MATHIEUX

Purchase School Land

Interest of the city in purchasing a parcel of land owned by the School Board and identified only as located in the "south part of town" has been ordered relayed to the Seminole County School Board.

Appraisal price revealed at the Monday night meeting of the City Council is $25,000. Council has agreed if the purchase is approved by school officials that $15,000 will be paid from funds on hand with the balance to be financed over a period of 10 years. The board did not make known the contemplated use of the land.

Also at the meeting, the city was offered for purchase a piece of land behind the postoffice which is owned by the Citizens Bank of Oviedo. The lot is 88 by 135 feet and is currently unimproved: Sale price is $12,500.

Downtown Parking

Although the Council discussed the fact property for a parking facility is needed in the downtown section, the majority of the board determined the price is too high at this time.

At a previous meeting, Council considered, seeking purchase of another bank-owned lot to the south of the fire hall which is currently being used for parking by city employes. However, bank officials told The Herald this parcel is not for sale.

Zoning Changes

Delayed until the Dec. 18 meeting by the Council was the request of W. B West for a change of zoning from residential and agricultural to apartment use on a parcel on Central Avenue.

In another zoning matter, Dr. Hugh A. Gregory requested a change in zoning from residential to commercial on Broadway to enlarge his office. The rezoning was approved following public hearing.

Bids Too High

An alternative to accomplishing the comprehensive paving, repaving and sidewalk construction program since bids came in $125,000 over the $400,000 estimate last month was suggested by city engineers and gained Council approval.

Robert Sprecher of the consulting engineering firm of Driver and Spooner recommended the Council separate the bidding into three phases with materials and labor to be bid in each instance. Council Chairman James Pearson said this method will allow small contractors to participate in bidding.

Bids last month by Hubbard Construction Company (low bidder) and others were rejected on the basis of their exceeding estimated costs.

Nancy Cox, city clerk, explained to The Herald the phases will include separate bidding for sidewalks only,, resurfacing only and new construction only.

Group To Develop Lakefront

By BOB LLOYD

A group of Sanford investors interested in buying property fronting on Seminole Boulevard between Myrtle and French Avenues has agreed to form a corporation for purchasing 12.6 acres and developing it.

The group met following a meeting Tuesday at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce with the chamber "Banker's Committee" which started planning over 18 months ago for an overall compatible lakefront development concept.

Banker's Committee chairman Howard Hodges said his committee's Tuesday meeting was to "get together individuals and groups interested in lakefront development" in hopes cooperation could be gained toward the "total concept" of "recycling" the lakefront section now site of several petroleum "tank farms."

Chamber manager John Krider said he has heard condominiums and office Buildings proposed for the area so far.

Hodges said these are compatible with the committee's overall concept.

"Chamber manager John Krider said he has heard condominiums and office buildings are proposed for the area."

After real estate man William L. Kirk and developer J. W. Hickman offered to cooperate with the concept in any development they may do on the lakefront banker Howard McNulty suggested interested individuals and groups form a corporation to buy the lakefront property and develop it.

Hodges said the chamber committee will no longer be a part of the proposed project if the investors will adopt its overall compatible concept of development.

In the meeting following the chamber committee meeting McNulty, Jim Dyson, Dr. W. Vincent Roberts, Dr. John Johnson, Dr. Charles Dexter, Hickman and others agreed to use Lake Monroe Corporation, in which Dyson has a major interest, or a new corporation which could be formed, as the entity that will attempt to buy the lakefront property from six different owners and develop it as "a civic improvement."

McNulty said if Lake Monroe Corporation can't be used a new corporation will be formed as soon as possible for the lakefront development.

Sources indicated market prices of the area discussed total $600,000 or less.

McNulty said the new group should have no trouble getting financing for the lakefront project.

Stocks Expected To Keep Soaring

WASHINGTON — There was no crash and rumble of falling stones and debris when one of the greatest of man-made barriers came tumbling down.

That was the day in mid-November the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above the 1,000 mark for the first time in its 76-year history.

Yet the rolling impact of that collapse was felt as strongly throughout the nation and the world as if the barrier had been physical rather than psychological.

For it meant the 30 million investors of the world's most powerful inudstrial nation were anticipating a greater performance from the American economy in the months ahead than it had ever achieved before.

More production. More profits. More dividends. Rising stock prices.

A chance to invest now and harvest increased returns later.

The irregularly upward course of the DJIA since the breakthrough attests to that anticipation. But it also poses the more fundamental question: Where does the American economy stand now in its climb back from the recession of 1969-70 and early 1971? What are its prospects and how sound is the expansion that the market is signaling?

There are ample economic indicators to support the current optimism. But there are others not so favorable and some that reflect very complex and difficult problems.

President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers has provided the basic measurements of the growth now being achieved.

At the beginning of the year the CEA forecast a 6 per cent real growth rate and inflation of about 3 and one-quarter per cent.

It appears now it will better both marks.

In the July-September third quarter of 1972 alone the gross national product — the value of the nation's production of goods and services — gained $24.6 billion while inflation was down to 2.9 per cent.

After discounting the inflationary impact this represented real growth rate of 6.3 per cent, and followed a real growth rate of 9.4 per cent achieved in the second quarter of the year — a rate too high to sustain without risking a renewed surge of inflation.

The significance of the 1972 GNP performance is most clearly seen when compared with the 4.3 per cent long-term economic growth rate of the last five to eight years, and when set alongside the poor performances of 1969-1971.

In 1969 GNP grew only 2.7 per cent, in 1970 it actually dropped one-half per cent, and in 1971 struggled back to only 2.7 per cent.

This means that 1972 was far better than the three previous years and substantially exceeded the long-term economic growth rate of the nation.

When the recovering economies of other industrial nations begin to speed up in the months ahead, and the U.S. economy slows down after 1973, the trend should reverse.

It is the expectation that all this will work out favorably that has caused U.S. investors to push the Dow Jones Industrial Average through the mythical and mystical 1,000 mark barrier.

The barrier had been penetrated six times before — four times in 1966 and again on Nov. 10 and 13 — but not until Nov. 14 did it ever close above 1,000.

Now it may be some time before it sinks below that level again. Ralph Acompuro of Harris, Upham and Co. of New York has predicted the average will go to 1,050 or higher.

If it does, it will be the expectation that the United States is finally on its way toward full employment, relative prosperity and peace, that will be the main driving force.

100 Yard Gulp

The 2.5 million visitors who flocked to Munich for the 1972 summer Olympics attest to the world-wide popularity of sports, but officials of that German city now report that twice as many turned up for their annual Oktoberfest.

They were sports-minded, too, of course. In their game, players grasp the handle of a cylinder, flex their elbow to raise it toward their face, tilt it, and set it back down. The object is to see how long one can keep this up as the cylinder is refilled with a frothy Munich beverage.

Why this should be more popular than pole-vaulting, high-diving and other Olympic events is not clear. Even if it tones up the elbow muscles, it can leave you with an awful pain in the head.

Pause, Take Stock Of Yourself

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You can't fall down as long as you are going up.

So it's the better part of wisdom now and then to pause and take stock of yourself and your career. One of the best ways to do this is to check your prestige, that mystical and somewhat mythical gauge by which Americans judge each other.

Of course, you could hire a team of efficiency and psychological experts to go over you and make an estimate. But that would take weeks of time and thousands of dollars. But you can make your own judgement of your prestige by taking a small inventory of your recent achievements and failures.

How? Well, here are a few suggestions.

You are undoubtely winning friends, doing well on your job and creating a good community impression if —

Real estate values go up when you move into a new neighborhood.

Your old frinds loyally say you're the only man they know whose success hasn't gone to his head — but they secretly hate your guts anyway. Because true-blue frinds can forgive each other anything except success.

Your wife keeps a candle burning night and day at each side of the framed photograph of you she has hung in her bedroom.

Your mistress does the same thing in her love nest, except that in her photograph you are wearing a dashing bowtie, and she has written across it "I love you, hero" in red lipstick.

Your page-long biography in "Who's Who in America" is printed in capital letters

If you aren't yet the boss of your firm, you already have designed the kind of personalized office stationery you want when you do take over the helm.

That's the bright side of the status picture. How about the dismal side?

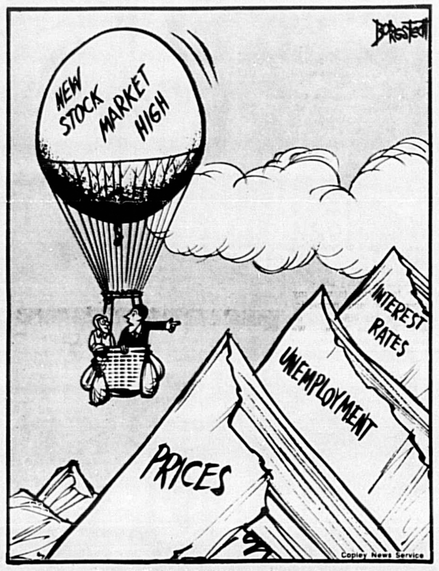
Well, you can be pretty sure your prestige has slipped to the zero point if —

You are still so disliked in the penitentiary you served time in that the inmates won't let you belong to its alumni association.

Your wife keeps a photo of her high school sweetheart on her bedside night table.

The pretty waitress at the beanery where you have lunch always tries to get the homely waitress to serve you.

Man, you just don't need help — you need rescue.



'Sure, it's nice—but how about them ?'

Female Equality In Newspapers

By SAM STEWART
Copley News Service

Women get themselves into the news a lot these days, demanding or demonstrating that their femininity is no handicap to earning an honest living.

The newspaper business has recognized the value of having the gals around for a long time.

But the field of journalism was opened up to women rather spectacularly by a girl named Nellie Bly.

Back in the last century a fellow named Jules Verne wrote a book entitled "Around the World in Eighty Days," and he managed to have his hero, one Phineas Fogg, make the global circumnavigation in just that time. But Fogg was a fictional character, often confused with David Niven, and Jules Verne was an imaginative cuss. Nobody had ever done it—gone around the world in 80 days, that is.

There was a newspaper publisher named Joseph Pulitzer, who was the head man at the New York World. He had a notion about sending a reporter around the world to see if it was possible to beat Fogg's mark, but more or less gave it up.

He reckoned without the persistence of a gal on the New York World staff, who wrote under the name of Nellie Bly. (Actually, her name was Elizabeth Cochrane, but she took the pseudonym of Nellie Bly to avoid disgracing the good name of Cochrane by revealing that a member of the clan toiled for the Fourth Estate.) Nellie persuaded Pulitzer to let her have a go at it.

So on the morning of Nov. 14, 1889, Nellie ascended the gangplank of the Atlantic steamer Augusta Victoria.

Nellie had her troubles, some of them even rivaling those which had beset her fictional predecessor, but she also had some amazing good luck here and there. She also had the complete cooperation of steamship captains and railroad engineers who were willing to cash in on the publicity by getting Miss Bly to any given point ahead of schedule, if things were going right.

To make a long story short, as the saying goes, Nellie made it in 72 days, 6 hours, and 11 minutes. Fact had become if not stranger, at least faster than fiction.

Nellie became a national heroine, but none of her later journalistic exploits matched her trip around the world. But more important than her amazing global voyage was the barrier she broke. Since Nellie, mighty few editors have been able to shrug off a woman as inadequate or incompetent.

Nellie proved that women can be darned good newspapermen.

World's Week

Nixon Changing Cabinet For Term

Copley News Service

President Richard M. Nixon this week took a personal hand in Vietnam peace moves and with the other began to rejuggle his Cabinet for a second administration.

In Washington, the President launched the Cabinet shakeup he had promised a week earlier and sprung two mild surprises. He named New York labor leader Peter J. Brennan to replace James D. Hodgson as secretary of labor and shifted Elliot L. Richardson from secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department to head up the Department of Defense, replacing the resigning Melvin Laird.

Nixon selected Caspar Weinberger, director of the Office of Management and Budget, to succeed Richardson at HEW and industrialist Roy L. Ash to take Weinberger's old job.

Hodgson has been offered a diplomatic post.

The President announced William P. Rogers will stay on as Secretary of State in his second-term administration but that Nixon's onetime law professor, Kenneth H. Rush, would become the No. 2 man in the State Department. Rush, who previously served the administration as ambassador to West Germany, currently is deputy defense secretary and had been mentioned as a possible successor to Laird.

Rush will succeed John L. Irwin as deputy secretary of state.

The President ruled out a new federal job for his former Treasury secretary, Democrat John B. Connally, who had said he didn't want to return to government at this time.

Republicans Still Weak in Politics

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

The thinned-down posse of Republican governors gathering at Phoenix predictably will be griping that President Nixon didn't lend a real hand this fall to some of their campaigning brethren and other candidates. But their party problem is bigger than that.

Put aside for the moment all the stuff about how both parties are weakening, how the ties of allegiance to them have grown fragile, etc. They still do exist, they still are used as vehicles for electing people to major office, and they must be measured by certain standards of performance.

The thing to say about the Republicans is that they are poor party-builders and have been for a long time.

When they were plunged into minority status by Franklin Roosevelt's ascendancy, the GOP took a long time to wake up to what had happened to them. For a while thereafter, the only times they won anything big were when voters got mad at the Democrats and reacted at the polls, as in the GOP resurgence in 1938 and its 1946 victories reflecting accumulated irritation and weariness after World War II.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's personal popularity brought the party, in 1952 and 1956, its first real chance to come back, to regain majority status. The Republicans blew it.

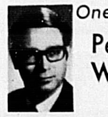
Who would believe that a party whose candidate won the presidency by 9.5 million votes in 1956 could drop to a pathetic total of 14 governors, 154 of 435 U.S. House members and a third of the Senate seats in 1958?

Some very skillful men had been involved in getting Eisenhower nominated and elected the first time. If they did not exactly vanish into the woodwork, they evidently were distracted by other tasks thereafter, and certainly their numbers did not increase.

Since that period, they've relied mostly upon divisions within the tangled Democratic party to bring them what successes they've had. They did get back into heavy dominance of the governors' ranks, not long ago possessing the governors' chairs in all the big northern states down to the population level of Missouri. Their edge was 31 to 19. But here we are in 1972 and it's the Democrats 31 to 19.

Moreover, the Republicans are in a spell where they're going to have the presidency once again for at least eight years, and once more they're showing virtually no talent for party-building.

One Man's Opinion



Peace Is Subject, Words All Around

By DON GRAFF

It's almost more than a citizen, if he has any interest at all, should be expected to follow without a scorecard.

We're talking about the rash of international conferring now breaking out. And there is good reason for interest since the outcome should considerably influence the structure of our world for some time to come.

In Helsinki, representatives of 32 European governments plus the United States and Canada have gathered with moderate fanfare for what actually are talks about talks, preparing the ground for a foreign ministers conference on European Security to come in mid-1973.

In Geneva, meanwhile, the United States and Soviet Union have quietly begun SALT II, the second phase of their marathon talks on strategic—i.e., nuclear arms limitations.

And in January, the two superpowers plus major NATO and Warsaw Pact allies turn to another East-West front, opening exploratory talks on reduction of military forces in Central Europe.

There are obvious similarities in the three events—they share the general goal of securing peace and they bring the powers that count most to that end, the United States and Soviet Union, to the conference tables.

But there also are significant differences, particularly in approaches to that goal.

In Geneva, the two superpowers are alone together, confronting each other and the danger to the entire world posed by their nuclear arsenals. SALT's first phase took 30 months to produce agreement on limiting antiballistic missile systems, the prohibitively expensive defenses against nuclear attack which both nations have begun to deploy. Phase two with a tougher problem—limiting offensive weapons—is expected to run much longer, possibly four years.

Geneva is the ultimate in great power diplomacy, the dialogue between Washington and Moscow that has replaced their Cold War confrontation. And as such it is viewed uneasily by other nations, feeling shut out of deliberations vitally affecting their security.

The coming Central Europe talks on the other hand, might be called the son of Cold War. They involve the two alliances that were major products of postwar tensions. The issues are superficially military, limiting the forces of conventional warfare, but basically political. Success to any degree should reinforce the east-west bridge-building already well advanced by West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's conciliatory Ost Politik.

In Helsinki, multilateral diplomacy is at work. Theoretically, alliances have been left at the door. Instead of choosing up sides, the nations are to speak for themselves on a common interest—the peace and security of the European continent.

Three approaches to securing peace: In Geneva, an exclusive dialogue of the two superpowers. In Central Europe, an accommodation between two military alliances. In Helsinki, a congress of nations.

What is to be expected, and from which approach? Expectations at this early point probably depend primarily on attitude.

Results Of Altamonte Sewer Plant Could Be Disaster

Editor, Herald:

This letter could be titled, "How an empire was built with a sewer."

The city of Altamonte Springs has applied for, and received, H.U.D. money to construct a sewerage plant, (Project PFLA-128); the results to the residents of the county on its completion have been disastrous. A sewerage plant is the only way to achieve HIGH DENSITY construction, and even though the county's master plan calls for RIAAA zoning in the surrounding areas, and we bought and built assuming this promise would be kept. The sewer was the incentive to break the zoning and go after the rich rewards. We were progressing with orderly growth. Lovely single family homes were being built conforming to zoning requirements and being SOLD BEFORE COMPLETION. The sewer allowed the developers to circumvent the county requirements, by going to the city and making the proposal of being annexed if they could tie into the sewer. These deals are obviously made before being presented to the city council which gives a quick rubber stamp approval.

Other opportunists immediately saw the benefits of tying into the City of Altamonte Springs' sewer. After being TURNED DOWN by the county because of the TREMENDOUS OPPOSITION, they would make a deal with Altamonte Springs to be annexed to the city, which in turn would accept the rejected zoning. After annexation each new area is immediately attached to the sewer system, which seems strange, because poor black areas adjacent to City Hall haven't been connected and streets remain unpaved. It seems that HUD funds are being used to further expand the city limits at the expense of county residents, rather than to service all the citizens of Altamonte Springs.

The tremendous surge of high density building has been RUINOUS. It has thrown unbearable loads on our already overcrowded roads and schools. It has made two brand new schools obsolete. (Teague and Forest City"), and required them to change from single to double session in the middle of the first term.

Our children have to get up at 5:30 a.m. and stand in dark out of the way corners waiting for school buses. Like wolves smelling the kill, these money hawks are rushing for the bait. We've had three other applications for large areas to be rezoned from single to multiple dwelling via the annexation route, their sole motivation being money. Unfortunately, this is like a large algebraic equation. For these tremendous profits, we must pay on our end with inferior schooling, overcrowded roads, and destruction of our trees, streams and beautiful lakes.

We, the people of the county, need help on a higher governmental level, as none has come locally. Great pressure can be brought to bear on any official trying to buck this combine. We've had a tremendous turnout each time the rezoning hearings were held while still at the county level. There are thousands of county residents pleading for help, but each subdivision is being picked off individually.

Name withheld by request

P.S. Please let us know how we may obtain Altamonte Springs original proposal as to the areas to be served by this sewerage plant.

Traveling Salesmen

Editor, Herald:

Nov. 2 you had a consumer problems report. These men stay in their place of business and you go to them, but we have the call by phone companies call up and tell you you won a case of Pepsie or Coke or a wig. Now they tell you that they will deliver so one man comes to the door with the wig or Coke — the other with a vacumn cleaner.

If they get in, it is almost impossible to get them out. The price of machine is very high so they will give "Free" hair dryer or a polisher, a shampoo outfit, sewing machine and vaporizer.

Now they take off the bag from the upright so the exhaust is free and they have twice as much power without the bag and your cleaner is full of dirt. And they show they have more power than your machine.

A week or two cleaning with their machine you find that it will blow dust through four test cloths beside the bags so you have a Dust Bowl in your home and don't know where all the dust came from. Because the salesman shows many demo tricks that he made you believe so you still think that you have a better cleaner than your old one.

Now comes a bad smell in your room. Now you use the vaporizer with moth crystals to purify the air. These crystals kill silver fish, moths, rug beetles, etc. and "purify the air" (?) with poison.

The deal you get is $200 too high, as the motor had too much power for the bag and it is hard to change over to clean other stuff beside the rugs. These things that you paid the extra $200 they gave to you free so you go out and buy a canister or tank cleaner to clean the furniture, mattress, etc., but the tank or canister is better than the high priced machine.

These salesmen steal from customers and boss.

'Great' Local Doctor

Editor, Herald:

What is a doctor? To my way of thinking, he is a person, who has a fine personality, who comes to you any time day or night when called, if needed, in his office or hospital.

He has a fine wife who works in hospital, takes him food, when he works long hours and doesn't have time to have a lunch or dinner break.

He is a man who raises his daugher to assist him in his office when he needs help. Many times I have been there and seen his wife, daughter, sister and brother-in-law waiting for him to care for his patients with big smiles on their faces, speaking to everyone, coming and going.

The times I have been to him go back as far as 16 years ago. I came to Florida to visit my father-in-law and mother-in-law when his office was on South Palmetto Avenue. We moved to Florida in 1958 and asked Dr. Edwin Epstein to be our doctor, too.

We moved to Sunland Estates making Burger King Drive-In in Sanford our bread and butter, as an old Virginia girl would say.

I brought my mother to Lakeview Nursing Center and he is her doctor. She thinks he is great. To make a long story short, anytime I have called him for myself or my family, if he cannot do anything for me he finds the best of doctors in Orlando or Sanford for my girls, my husband or myself.

To me Dr. Edwin Epstein should be "Doctor of the Year" and a special honor given to him in Sanford and Seminole Memorial Hospital in the form of a medal.

Last Aug. 16 he brought my first grandson into the world — a baby boy, Jeffrey Warren Smith.

Dr. Epstein and his family will always have a special place in my family. May God bless him in all he does and wherever he goes.

Beautification

Editor, Herald:

I appreciate the good coverage of the Sanford Herald.

With the growth and interest in the appearance of our friendly community, I have a suggestion to make to you. I would like to see a program of recognition for businessmen and possibly homes and public buildings for their efforts in beautifying our city through landscaping and care of their property. I have noticed that some businesses do take real pride in the appearance of their land. If these could be honored, perhaps more of us would make the effort and it would give all of us more civic pride. I believe Winter Park has a program of this type, but we could devise one of our own design. What do you think aobut it?

Sincerely,

Water Bill

Editor, Herald:

Recently, I have heard lots of people complain about their water bill.

I wonder how many people know, the more water they use, the higher their sewer rate goes?

If a person uses 4,000 gallons of water the sewer charge is $4.56 then if you use 1,000 gals. of water on your lawn and garden your sewer rate is $4.64, and if you use over 10,000 gals of water, your sewer rate is $5.75 maximum.

Many people are unaware of these facts and they should be published in your newspaper.

Rate sheets can be obtained at the water department.

I think that each customer should be mailed a rate sheet. They maybe a lot of people would not waste water on lawns and unnecessary things.

Really water only went up from 0-4,000 gals. at 68 cents cost per 1,000 gals, to 0-4,000 gals at 74 cents cost per 1,000 gals. for a total of 24 cents more for the first 4,000 gals.

That is not really very much, but sewer rates went up $1.74 min. and refuse went up about 85 cents at Christmas time.

Wordy Letter

Editor, Herald:

I think I might have been interested in Mr. Hall's letter (Herald Nov. 15) if I could have understood the self-consciously convoluted wordiness of it.

I understood the last sentence perfectly, but not how he got that way.

I really don't know how to say "Thank You" for the nice article about my family and myself published in the November 19th issue of the Sanford Herald.

Many of my friends, as well as Bank customers, have commented on the pictures and the wonderful article written by Fannette. She certainly is quite a woman and it has been a pleasure to make her acquaintance.

The entire Healey family wishes to express their gratitude and thanks for your thoughtfulness.

I would like to take this opportunity to wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas and Joyous New Year.

Kunkler Jails Five In Two Area Thefts

By GARY TAYLOR

Det. Robert Kunkler of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department jailed five people Tuesday, four juveniles, in connection with thefts in Forest City and Fern Park.

Kunkler arrested three Forest City youths, 14, 15 and 16 years of age, on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor. They were arrested after they had allegedly taken $60 from the residence of Mrs. Gene Brennan, 1206 Gale Street, Forest City, and then returned the money.

Deborah Ann Gross, 20, of Jackson Street, Altamonte Springs, and a 16-year-old juvenile, were both charged with breaking and entering to commit a felony. Thirty eight-track tapes and $160.32, taken from the residence of John Aire, 220 Tangelo, Fern Park, were recovered by Kunkler.

A car stolen from Cocoa Beach was recovered by Deputy Perry Thomas on Seagrape Avenue, Eastbrook, after several area residents complained that their mailboxes were knocked down by the car. The car was found abandoned by the deputy, and a check of the registration revealed that it was stolen.

Kim Cash, lot 36, Oliver G. Brounell, lot 33 and Linda Howard, lot 34, Seventh Street, Sherwood Forest all reported their trailers were entered. Items taken were food from lot 36, a checkbook from lot 33 and $23 cash from lot 34.

J. Smith of the J. Smith Fruit Company in Oviedo reported the theft of radio parts and a spare tire, total value $240, from his 1965 El Camino. Deputy Jay Leman is investigating.

Parker 'Power' Too Much For Sanford Quint, 90-68

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — For a few minutes last night, it looked as if the Fighting Seminoles might surprise the Winter Park Wildcats. The lead changed hands six times in just over four minutes. But then the Wildcats scored 14 consecutive points and went on to win 90-68. The loss left Sanford 1-3 on the season.

After that big scoring spurt, the Parkers went on to lead 25-14 at the end of the first quarter. Sanford was out-scored 20-11 in the second quarter and went to the dressing room trailing 45-25 at the half.

The third quarter was much closer, but the Seminoles were still outscored 25-22, and trailed 70-47 at the end of the third frame.

Sanford managed to outscore the Wildcats by one point in the fourth quarter, 21-20.

The Seminoles had a poor night shooting, and they were out-rebounded 39 to 24 by the Wildcats, top-ranked in the Metro Conference.

Steve Ferrell and Frank Sloan had eight points apiece for the Tribe, while John Corso ended with six points.

Stan Pietliewicz had a hot hand for the Wildcats, hitting on nine field goals and six of seven free throws for 24 points.

Ben Sanford, with eight field goals, was second in the scoring column for Winter Park with 17 points. Jesse Cleveland had 16 points and Gary Parson scored 15 points before fouling out in the final frame.

Winter Park held an advantage in height, depth and experience over the Seminoles. Sanford was playing without one of their starting guards, Tommy Wheaton, who is out with an ankle injury.

So far, the Seminoles have met only Metro Conference teams. Two more battles against Metro teams are slated weekend.

This Friday night the Seminoles are on the road again as they trek to Orlando for a game with the Colonial Grenadiers.

They return home Saturday night for a battle with the Boone Braves in the second game of a triple-header slated for Seminole High gym Saturday night.

In the 6:30 p.m. game, the Baby Seminoles battle the Boone junior varisty. At 8 p.m., the two varsity teams square off. Following that, the Seminole Junior College Raiders meet St. Johns River Junior College in a crucial Division II tilt.

Oviedo Lions Score Easy, 77-29 Triumph

It was not totally expected but well accepted. That's the way the Oviedo Lions felt last night after they soundly thrashed the Eustis Panthers, 77-29 in their cage season lidlifter.

The Lions outscored the Panthers in every period to post the easy victory. And so tough were the Lions on defense that the Eustis quintet could not hit double figures until the final period.

In the opening period the Lions rolled up a nine point advantage on the scoring of Clennie Patterson, Doug Allen and Leon Cobb. The same trio was hot in the second stanza when the Lions continued to build their lead. At the intermission it was the Lions on top of a 29-13 score.

While the Lions were relatively hot in the first half the second half found them coming at the Panthers with even a greater confidence and the gap continued to widen.

The Lions breezed to a 53-19 margin after three quarters and while they might have been able to waltz to victory they continued to play a tough brand of basketball in the final eight minutes to win going away.

Allen, one of the few members of last year's team which made it to the district playoffs, was the high point man for the Lions as he dumped in eight doubledeckers and four of six from the foul line to amass 19 points.

Patterson, one of the stars of the Lions grid team, came up with 13 points while Cobb added 14. Also hitting double figures for the Lions was Carlton Brundidge with 11.

Oviedo's Junior Varsity made it a clean sweep for the night when they whipped the Eustis JV by a 68-39 count.

Raiders Rout Rollins JV

Joe Sterling's Seminole Junior College Raiders had a "tune up" for their Division II meeting with St. John's this weekend and took full advantage of it, rolling to a 116-74 victory over the Rollins JV at the loser gym.

The Raiders rode some red hot shooting from the floor to capture the easy win after the Baby Tars made a game of it for about the first 10 minutes.

Sterling's crew connected on 52 of 86 shots from the floor for a nifty 60 per cent. The Baby Tars could hit on only 34 of 79 for 43 per cent.

Pacing the Raider field goal shooting was the deadly eye of Benny Shaw who did not miss on any of his nine attempts from the floor. Shaw finished with "Just" 18 points for the night.

Willie Paulk was the high point man for the Raiders with 21. Paulk was not "as effective" as his running mate Shaw, missing twice in 11 shots from the floor. But he added three of three from the foul line to lead the Raider scoring.

Another with a hot night shooting wise was Bob Hurst who hit five of eight and finished with 10 points. Robbie Clifton did not shoot for a high percentage but did connect on eight of his attempts and finished with 17 points while "Chip" Crawford had 14 markers. Crawford hit four of four from the foul line and has missed only once all season, hitting 17 of 18.

Rebounding leaders for the Raiders were Hurst and Shaw who hauled down nine missed shots apiece. Willie Rutherford and former Oviedo stars Ed Whipper and David Tossie all had seven rebounds credited to them.

And Hurst was the leader in assists, feeding off for seven hoops during the rout.

High point man for the Baby Tars was Dave Erickson who equalled Paulk's total of 21 points.

Saturday night the Raiders will be meeting St. Johns in the third game of a triple header at the Sanford Gym. In the first game the Sanford JV will play with a 6:30 starting time. Sanford will pla y at 7:30 p.m. and the Raiders "get the floor" at 9 p.m.

Middies 'Dunked' By Highland Prep

Sanford Naval Academy was "leveled" last night in their meeting with the Highlanders from Lake Highland Prep, 103-38 in a game played on the victors home court.

An amazing second half scoring effort by the Highlanders produced the wide margin of victory after the teams had been fairly close in the first two sessions.

When Lake Highland poured 33 points through the nets in the third period the home folks must have been wondering what could done for an encore. They were to find out very quickly.

In the fourth period the Highlanders, despite several substitutions dumped in 41 points to break the game even further apart.

The Middies were stone cold in the first period and could manage only three points. But the Highlanders were not particularly hot themselves and it stood 11-3 at the end of the initial period.

The tempo picked up for both teams in the second stanza with the Highlanders again getting the better of it. They outscored the Middies by an 18-14 count and had a comfortable 29-17 lead at the half. But it was to get even more comfortable after the intermission.

Bill LeBruno was the big gun for the Highlanders as he ripped the nets for 34 points to nearly outscore the invaders himself. He might have done so if he would have played the entire game.

Also providing a big scoring punch for the victors was Leon Weathers who pumped in 21 points. All told the Highlanders had five players in the double figures.

High man for the Middies was Dave Crismond who totaled 12 points on the night.

The loss dropped the Middies record to 1-1 for the season. They had opened with a 29-25 victory over the Patriots of Lake Brantley.

Angered Anglers To Meet

By BOB ORRELL

Surf fishermen from the Central Florida area, angered by the closing of SR A1A south of New Smyrna Beach, will hold a meeting Thursday at 7:30 in the city court room behind Sanford City Hall to discuss ways and means of getting this stretch of dirt road reopened.

This discussion has been set up by local sportsmen who are planning to attend the meeting Friday, Dec. 8 at the Merritt Island Wildlife headquarters building in Titusville. The time set for this meeting is 8 p.m.

The Titusville conference has been arranged through the efforts of U.S. Sen. Ed Gurney and will be hosted by Bob Yoder, manager of the Wildlife Refuge.

Reasons advanced for closing the road were that dune buggies had been racing through the under brush, destroying foliage and thereby creating an erosion proulem.

Fishermen contradict this, stating that their only reason for driving the bad stretch of sand is to do their fishing away from crowded conditions caused by construction of apartment buildings further north.

All they (fishermen) are asking is a place to park their vehicles above the high tide mark and not risk getting trapped by the incoming tide or getting stuck in the soft beach sand.

All interested anglers are invited to attend both meetings and give their viewpoints on the situation.

Indications are that Seminole County will be well represented at the Friday night Titusville hearing.

COLLEGIAN AT 40 — Earl Webb is 40, long past normal playing age for college football. But Webb returned to Peru, Neb., State College after 20 years, rejoined team.

Seminole JV Loses First To Parkers

The Seminole High junior varsity basketball team suffered its first loss of the season last night, falling to the Baby Wildcats of Winter Park, 52-48.

Sanford jumped out to a 12-9 first period lead, but the Winter Park quint caught up before the end of the first half and the two teams went to the dressing rooms deadlocked 23-23.

The third period proved disastrous for the Baby Seminoles as they were outscored 15-4 and trailed 38-27 going into the final eight-minute period of play.

Sanford out-scored the Parkers 21-14 in the final period, but it wasn't enough to overcome the deficit.

Randy Brown was the leading scorer for the young Tribe, hitting for 15 points, including seven field goals. Charles Gelgen and Phil Spake were right behind him with 14 points apiece.

Joe Sterling, son of Seminole Junior College basketball coach Joe Sterling, was the top scorer for the Winter Park JVs. He hit for eight field goals and had 20 points for his night's work. Chris Tooley was second in the scoring column with 12 points.

BATTLE FOR rebound after missed shot is waged by Sanford's Pat Crimmins (13) and Winter Park's Ben Sanford (32). Parkers won game 90-68.

Falter In Second Half

Knights Respectable In Loss To JU

JACKSONVILLE — Florida Tech University's Knights' intrusion into the "big time" might best be described as a adventure in futility. They traveled to Jacksonville last night and after playing a solid first half, fell prey to the taller Dolphins, 70-50.

Gene "Torchy" Clark played a control type game against the charges of Tom Wasdin who enjoyed a big advantage under the boards as well as a few other "spots."

A well disciplined effort during the first 20 minutes of the game kept the Black and Gold close to the highly touted Dolphins who went into the game as a 36 point favorite by the "rating charts."

Mike Clark, the all-time FTU scoring leader, sparked the Knights during the first 20 minutes. The slow-down play saw the Knights patiently wait for the good shot and it was Clark who was getting free the most. And the 6-0 senior canned seven doubledeckers in the first half.

Thanks to Clark's hot shooting eye the Knights were able to stay within three points of the Dolphins at the intermission, 33-30. FTU hit 60 per cent in the first half from the floor. The fact that they were not getting anything from the charity line played a big part in FTU being on the short end of the halftime score. They did not even attempt a free throw in the first 20 minutes.

The free throw situation did not improve for the Knights in the second half. They were afforded but one opportunity and failed to convert it.

Jacksonville forced the game's tempo to speed up a little and the Knights complied, allowing themselves to shoot a little sooner than they had done in the first half. And with the Dolphins in complete control of the boards they were able to quickly convert the FTU errors into field goals.

FTU kept close until the final seven minutes of the second half before the Dolphins broke from a 55-48 lead and left the Knights far back.

Abe Steward, a 6-6 senior wingman from Toledo, Ohio was The big gun for the Dolphins, dumping in 10 fielders and four of four from the free throw line.

Henry Williams, the Dolphins' super sophomore managed only six hoops against the Knights. FTU's defense forced Williams outside where he couldn't get the good shot.

Clark was halted by the Dolphins in the second half, hitting only two shots but finished with 18 to lead the Knights. John Smith and Arnett Hall had 10 each for the FTU.

Butch Taylor, 6-11 giant center of the Dolphins, led all rebounders with 11 while Smith led FTU with eight.

Next action for the Black and Gold comes Monday night when they meet South Florida in their home opener at Lake Highland Prep Gym in Orlando.

Rodgers Is Heisman Winner

By HERBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK— Johnny Rodgers, Nebraska's sensational all-purpose back, was awarded the Heisman Trophy Tuesday as the most outstanding collegiate football player of 1972.

Rodgers received 1,310 points from electors and Oklahoma running back Greg Pruitt was second with 966, followed by Rodgers' Nebraska teammate, middle guard Rich Glover, who garned 652 points.

Rodgers, a 21-year-old English major from Omaha, Neb., overcame sporadic adversity dealing with whether his youthful brushes with the law should affect his consideration as a Heisman Trophy candidate.

The brilliant runner-receiverkick returner received 301 firstplace votes to Pruitt's 117. Glover got 99.

The announcement was made by Neill A. McAllister, president of the Downtown Athletic Club of New York which sponsored the 38th annual award.

Louisiana State quarterback Bert Jones finished fourth with 351 points and 61 first-place nominations, Alabama quarterback Terry Davis was next with 338 and 62 firsts and quarterback John Hufnagel of Penn State was sixth with 292 points and 62 votes for first.

Earlier, two former Heisman winners agreed that the award should be given on the basis of performance on the fied with no regard for what a man might do off it.

Pruitt attended the ceremony.

"I hoped to have the kind of season where the Heisman vote wouldn't have even been close," said the Sooner star. "I'm happy for Johnny, he's a good friend of mine. But, I can't say I'm not disappointed."

Rodgers was the top vote-getter in all sections of the nation. Pruitt was runnerup in the East, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Davis was No. 2 in the South with Pruitt third.

Other high finishers in the election of a successor to Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan as the recipient of the Heisman Trophy were George Amudsen of Iowa State in seventh place with 219 points, Otis Armstrong of Purdue, 208; Don Strock, Virginia Tech, 144; Gary Huff, Florida State, 138; John Hannah Alabama, 75; Tony Adams, Utah State, 73; Brad Van Pelt, Michigan State, 71, and Howard Stevens, Louisville, 66.

Rodgers led the Cornhuskers to national championships in 1970 and 1971 and an 8-2 record this year that was good enough to put ninth-ranked Nebraska into the Orange Bowl against Notre Dame.

Rodgers, a dazzling performer at 175 pounds, broke open many Nebraska victories with his kick returning and was among the nation's leaders in pass receiving and total offense.

His most amazing statistic was averaging 13.8 yards every time he touched the ball as a runner or kick returner.

Golden Eagles, Girls Capture Flag Victories

Brett Thompson's Sanford Christian School Golden Eagle Flag football team is really in high gear, rolling up two victories over the weekend.

In their first undertaking last week the Golden Eagles posting an easy 30-0 victory over Vanguard of Lake Wales with Dan Gracey coming up with a super effort.

Gracey scored four of the five touchdowns and passed for the other. His two first half scores gave Sanford Christian a 12-0 halftime lead. In the second half Gracey added another six pointer via a run before teaming up with Doug Packard on a 40 yard pass-run play to up the score to 24-0. Gracey's fourth run to paydirt closed out the scoring at 30-0.

The Eagles were particularly effective with their running game as the run for 109 yards in the first half and added another 24 in the second half for 133 yards total. They also added 32 yards via the airlanes.

So tough was the Golden Eagle defense that Lake Weir was only able to register a total offense of 94 yards.

In their game on Saturday the Golden Eagles had a tougher time of it but still came out ahead, edging past the Aloma Blue Angels, 12-6.

Once again it was Gracey who was the big star, rushing for one TD and passing for the other. Gracey's short run for a TD tied the score at 6-6 then the Eagle ace passed to Clyde Smith for a 35 yard touchdown to win it.

John Consider scored the only touchdown for the Aloma crew.

The Sanford Christian Girls Flag team also came up with a victory in their last outing, downing Aloma by a 19-0 score.

Marintha Tillis raced for a touchdown on the opening play of the game to put the locals into an early lead. She also raced for another score in the first half. The other TD by the Golden Eagle girls was tallied by Sandra Walker, who also ran over the lone conversion.

Longwood Discards Absentees

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD— All eight absentee ballots cast in yesterday's municipal election in this city were discarded without being counted this morning by a canvassing board composed of Mayor Kenneth Brown, Council Chairman Eugene Jaques and Election Clerk, Mrs. Jonnie Gray.

Jaques, who won in his bid for election to the chief executive's post, according to City Clerk Onnie Shomate, insisted the ballots were invalid because the envelopes in which they were contained did not bear a postmark. Mayor Brown, at the same time, said, according to the clerk, the ballots were being thrown out on advice of legal counsel.

City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr. was not available for comment this morning. Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce when contacted by The Herald, however, said that according to state law ballots may be hande-delivered and need not carry a postoffice mark. The election was canvassed at the city park building rather than at city hall as has been done in the past.

The ballots even if counted could not have changed the results of the election announced Tuesday night within 15 minutes of the polls closing.

Of the 584 votes cast, Jaques with 208 won the mayor's office to succeed Brown. Mrs. Sandra Thompson polled 193 and Donald Schreiner 183. Jaques has served on the city council a total of six years. Longwood's charter does not provide for run-offs.

In the contest for the district 3 seat on the city Council, B.H. Ferrell, former councilman and currently zoning board chairman, soundly defeated fireman, Kenneth Dewitz by 415 to 120 respectively.

B.L. Helms, who had served on the Council for seven years previously, polled more votes at 317 than his two opponents, Norman Jean Hennigan and Percy White, combined. Mrs. Hennigan received 60 to 187 for White.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Shomate running unopposed for her eight consecutive term as city clerk, received a remarkable vote of confidence with 463 votes, fully 80 per cent of the votes cast.

The new officials will assume the duties of their office apparently at the Council meeting on January 11.

Moore Reelected Sanford's Mayor

By BOB LLOYD

Less than 20 percent of Sanford's 7,556 registered voters turned out Tuesday to approve a new city charter and return Mayor Lee P. Moore and city commissioner Gordon Meyer to office for four year terms.

The vote ratifying the revised charter was 654 to 462. The charter lengthens terms of office for the mayor and commissioners from three to four years and provides a procedure for removing a city manager.

Moore said he "is appreciative" of his 1,177 to 266 margin of victory over challenger Harry Skop but "dissappointed with the voter turnout."

When asked what his immediate plans for the city are Moore said, "I think we ought to take a long look at using revenue sharing funds for street paving and drainage."

Skop told the Herald his only reason for running against Moore was "I couldn't see any public office going unopposed." Skop polled less votes Tuesday than he did three years ago when he also unsuccessfully opposed Moore for the mayor's seat.

Meyer said he was "really happy" with his 916 to 533 victory over Mrs. Woodhouse and complimented her on "running a good race."

Mrs. Woodhouse congratulated Meyer on his victory and said, "I feel with the limited time and funds available I made an excellent showing. The experience I have gained in this first attempt for public office will benefit me in future campaigns."

She told the Herald she plans to run for a city commission seat again next year. Her husband John quickly qualified the statement with a "maybe."

The lakefront civic center, Sanford's lone polling place, was equipped with five voting machines but officials reported no long lines of voters. City clerk Henry Tamm had predicted 2,000 voters would turn out but only 1,472 voted according to unofficial tabulations.

City commissioners were scheduled to canvass the five absentee ballots at noon today. The absentees won't affect results of the balloting.

Meeting Required To Install Mayor

By DONNA ESTES

CASSELBERRY — Plans were incomplete this morning as to when Bill Grier will take over the reins of the mayor's office which he won in Tuesday's election.

According to the city charter, the election must be certified before Grier can take his place and the election cannot be certified until the Council meets. Tentative plans this morning were to proceed on schedule with no special meeting. The regular one is scheduled for next Monday night.

At this moment, the government of this city is hamstrung with only two official voting members of the City Council in addition to Council Chairman Edith Duerr who has been serving as acting mayor since the resignation of Curtis Blow, some weeks ago, and thus denie her right of Council vote.

Councilman Thomas Napier resigned some weeks ago and the resignation of Councilman Harry Sambrook, who quit to seek the mayor's office unsuccessfully, became effective at midnight last night.

Presumably, according to policy of the past, Councilmen-elect Thomas Embree and Richard Wirz will be appointed to fill the few remaining days of the unexpired terms of Napier and Sambrook to give the city a full Council again. In any event, both men will take office in Jan. 8 anyway.

With 4,239 registered voters, only 1,291 turned out at the polls here yesterday for a "dreadful" percentage of 31 per cent, according to the City Clerk Mary Hawthorne.

In a three-man field, Grier, formerly a two-term councilman, edged out Sambrook and Cecil Harman for a split one-year term in the mayor's office. Grier received 586 votes to 550 for Sambrook and 150 for Harman.

In a nine candidate Council race for three seats on the board, political newcomer, Thomas Embree polled the highest tally at 656 votes with incumbent John Leighty receiving 552 and Wirz 532.

The losing six, Margaret R. Driggers received 342; Louis F. Kirby 478; Richard A. Leigh 333; James Miller 200; Joseph Sumara 346 and John Yamnitz 230.

TITULAR ARCHBISHOP of Newport, The Most Reverend Fulton J. Sheen, D. D., in stance familiar to television audiences, addresses the large crowd filling First Baptist Church of Orlando last night in behalf of the Christian Service Center for Orange County following a benefit banquet at First Presbyterian Church. Altamonte Springs Has 'Worst' Voter Turnout

By DONNA ESTES

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Worst turnout in Seminole County, which saw municipal elections in five of the six municipalities, was registered in this growing city Tuesday. With 2,731 persons eligible to cast ballots, only 493 did so for an 18 per cent turnout.

City Clerk Jane Richards on Monday told The Herald she expected only 400 to show up at the polls at the Community House and the city fire station.

Elected were Dan Dorfman, in district 4 to his second consecutive term and Donald Meyers to the district 3 seat.

Dorfman's opponent, Sandra Glenn, a newcomer to politics, received 201 tallies to 288 for the incumbent.

At the same time, Meyers, appointed to the Council in September to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Radloff, who resigned to unsuccessfully seek a County Commission seat, was the high vote-getter with 296 ballots to 190 for his challenger, Leo Ware.

Both men, with their spouses at the fire hall following announcement of the results, expressed happiness at their wins.

An anti- (Mayor Lawrence) Swofford movement talked up in the city in the waning days of the campaign did not materialize.

Tuesday's election was the first in three years in this city to be a contested one. Dorfman, two years ago, won his post unopposed.

Area Deaths

Mrs. Stella Leibensperger

Mrs. Stella R. Leibensperger, 84, of 1412 Valencia Ct. Sanford died Tuesday. She came to Sanford a year ago from Emmaus, Pa. and was born in Allentown, Pa. She was a member of Grace United Church of Christ, Allentown.

She is survived by a son, Raywood Leibensperger, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services and burial will be in Allentown. Gramkow Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

WINTER SPRINGS — All ready for a new year of work are the newly elected officials selected by the voters here yesterday. Re-elected was Granville Brown (left) as mayor. He is joined in the city government by (l to r) Victor Miller, who won re-election; John Booth, Troy Piland given the nod for his second term; Clifford Jordan and Vicki Baker, the city's second elected woman official, all on the Council.

County's Largest Turnout

By DONNA ESTES

WINTER SPRINGS — A big turnout was expected and a big turnout was seen here Tuesday as 293 of the city's 584 registered voters went to the polls to elect a mayor and all five members of the City Council. The turnout was slightly better than 50 per cent, largest in the county.

It was eight minutes before 10 p.m. last night before the election results were known after poll workers had laboriously counted paper ballots.

Mayor Graville Brown was re-elected to the office of mayor with 162 votes over opponents, E. A. Miller with 42 tallies and Mrs. Irene Van Eepoel with 87.

For a two-year term in the group 1 seat on the City Council incumbent Victor Miller edged out Howard F. Allard by 168 to 116 respectively.

Vicki Baker, in her first bid for public office, won a one year term in the group 2 seat with 190 votes, narrowly defeating incumbent Charles Rowell, a veteran of seven years' service on the board. Rowell polled 90 votes. Others in this race, Betty J. Palmer carried 50 and Mildred Colburn 49.

John Booth, another newcomer to politics, soundly beat Mrs. Zerita LeBlanc by 193 to 85 for the group 3 seat with a two year term.

With four candidates running for the group 4 seat with one year term, former mayor Clifford Jordan pushed through to a win with 95 votes. Others, Roy E. McClain took 88; Charles C. Brooks, 66, and Marvin M. Meeks, 37.

Troy Piland, incumbent wiht almost two year's service on the board, and running unopposed, received 236 votes.

Winter Springs' new charter which called for the election of all officials this year does not require a run-off.

New officials will take office on Jan. 8.

CASSELBERRY — Bill Grier, (center) new mayor by will of the voters Tuesday, receives congratulations from City Manager Ron Bergman (left) and Councilman John Zacco. Grier was the top vote-getter in a three man field of candidates to fill the one-year remaining of the unexpired term of Curtis Blow, resigned.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Smiles were all around in the city fire station immediately following announcement of the results of the election last night. Incumbents, Donald Meyers (left) and Dan Dorfman (right) won re-election to the City Council. With the two men are their wives.

Sharing shoes can lead to a beautiful friendship

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the amputee who voiced complaint over the necessity of purchasing two shoes when only one was needed: She [or he] should have mentioned her shoe size and which appendage had been pruned—and the chances are that several shoe-mates might have responded.

I'm an amputee myself, and I'm always on the prowl for a female, minus her left leg, who wears a size 6-B. Sharing shoes can be the basis for a beautiful friendship. Her left for my right is a profitable swap. Since the demise of the shoe exchange—originally in St. Louis and then Santa Monica—amputees are pretty much on their own. Of course, an amputee can have a custom-designed shoe made, but this is usually more costly than purchasing a pair and discarding one.

I'm an old hand—or I guess I should say an "old foot" —at this business. I've used crutches for almost 55 years.

LOUISE

DEAR LOUISE: I have some wonderful news for you. If you want to know where in your area you can buy one shoe, write to me. One shoe in my column asking readers if they knew of such a place brought hundreds of responses. Unipeds of the world—unite. It's a shoe-in!

DEAR ABBY: Let "AFRAID OF DOGS" try this: If a dog approaches in a menacing manner, say, "Shalom" in a firm but cordial way. Keep repeating it until the dog retreats and stops barking.

I tried this once, by accident, and it worked, so now I do it every time a dog looks like it is going to attack me. As many as three barking dogs have come toward me at once, and I kept repeating, "Shalom, Shalom," and, thank goodness, it's always worked. SHALOM IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR SHALOM: Those dogs must have boned up on their Hebrew!

DEAR ABBY: If your recent column on fire safety saves even one life, its worth becomes priceless. May I add to it?

The day I arrived home from the hospital, virtually helpless in a heavy cast, the fire chief paid me a visit. He noted the nature of my disability, and pointed out alternate escape routes. He then placed a large red fluorescent sticker on my front door to notify the first responding fire fighter that there was an invalid in the house.

When I could walk again, I notified the fire department. They came and removed the sticker to prevent firemen from risking their lives and wasting precious time on a needless search.

Thank heavens, nothing happened in the interim, but it was most reassuring to know that somebody cared and was prepared. W. K., ALAMEDA, CAL.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Readers Come Through With Sink Chip Tips

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. R. J. who wants to repair the chips in her kitchen sink. There is an epoxy enamel made for such conditions that is available in several colors. After it is applied one must allow a week for the finish to set well before using the sink.—MRS. A. P.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—There are water spots on the inside of my beautiful etched glass cologne bottle with a glass stopper. I would really appreciate it if someone could tell me how to remove these spots—ELEANOR

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is directed to the cosmetics industry. Every time I buy a compact, eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, etc., the container is plastic. The first time an article is dropped the plastic hinges break and the container cannot be closed without using a rubber band. It seems they could come up with something better than those brittle hinges.—CHRISTINE

DEAR POLLY—After using various bleaches in vain while trying to remove hair dye from my white uniform I tried a scouring powder on the theory that it removed rust stains from a wash basin. After rubbing the dampened cleanser on the spots several times they all disappeared — MURIEL

DEAR POLLY—I wanted a pair of earrings to match a new dress I had made so my husband ground the shank off two buttons that matched those of my dress. I glued the button tops to a pair of earring backs I bought at a hobby shop and now have a pair of inexpensive earrings that go better with my dress than any I could buy. —MRS. H. W.

Opening lead—♠2

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Six spades is a pretty good contract. It would be a cinch against a heart or diamond lead, but when we saw the hand played West opened a trump.

Byron Greenberg of Tulsa, who was declarer, planned his play before winning the first trick. He saw no reason not to draw trumps and so he played a second round of the trump suit.

Then he led a heart to dummy's queen and really went into a huddle when the queen held.

Some players huddle for no apparent reason but eventually Byron found a play that was sure to bring home the slam if West held the ace of hearts. Let's see if you readers can find this sure-thing play.

Byron simply cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led the four of hearts to his 10-spot. West took his jack and found himself caught in the toils of an early end-play.

It didn't matter what he led; Byron was sure to take the rest of the tricks.

The ace of hearts lead would set up Byron's king. Byron would ruff in dummy; get to discard one of dummy's diamonds on the good heart and trump his third diamond with dummy's last trump. A low heart would allow the diamond discard immediately.

A diamond lead would take care of the diamond loser and Byron could ruff both his hearts with dummy's trumps.

A low club lead would give dummy a club trick and allow Byron to discard one of his diamonds while the king of clubs lead would be suicide for the defense.

Double Ring Nuptials Unite Margaret Collins, R.A. Combs

Miss Margaret Ann Collins and Robert Allen Combs were united in Holy Matrimony Saturday, Nov. 18, 1972, in the Church of the Nativity, Lake Mary.

Rev. William Neidert was officiating clergyman at the double ring nuptial mass. Walter Krohne, organist, presented appropriate nuptial selections and accompanied soloists, Mrs. Ann Default and Lisa Flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Collins, Route 1 Box 97-H, Longwood and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Combs, 1078 Crystal Bowl Circle, Casselberry.

Church decorations included two large basket arrangements of mums, gladioli, lilies-of-the-valley and greenery and two candelabra with white tapers. A long white aisle runner was used.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal-length gown of candlelight satin with lace trim, embossed with sequins and pearls. It featured long sleeves and the full circle skirt ended in a full length train.

Her three tiered veil of silk illusion which extended into the train was attached to a Juliet style headpiece covered with candlelight satin and covered with lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white rose buds and natural foliage.

Mrs. Patricia Lay, matron of honor, wore a formal length gown of burgundy velvet and pink chiffon. The empress style bodice of burgundy velvet featured long puffy sleeves of pink chiffon to match the long full chiffon skirt. She wore a Juliet style burgundy velvet hat and carried a nosegay of daisies.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Cynthia Collins, Laurie and Denise MacDonald and Anna Earlinski. Their gowns and flowers were identical to those of the honor attendant.

Best man was Charles Simpson and usher-groomsmen were Tom Combs, Garland Dover, Bob Goates, Bill Combs and Greg McDavitt.

Ring bearer was Master Alan Mortimer.

Shower Compliments Jennifer Milis

Miss Jennifer Milis, Dec. 23 bride-elect of Daniel Wallace of Atlanta, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Lynette Marcel and her mother, Mrs. E. W. Marcel, Nov. 24, at their Park Avenue home.

The honoree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Milis, was attractively attired in a soft white sweater-knit jumper and navy turtle-neck blouse, accented by a white carnation and lily-of-the-valley corsage presented to her by the hostesses.

Mrs. Milis was also given a carnation corsage. The groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Frank McFry, lives in Powder Springs, Ga., and was unable to attend.

Games were played by the guests and prizes won by Mrs. Ashby Jones and Mrs. Leonard Paulson.

"Mr. Broom" and "Miss Mop", in their very practical garb of "little useful items for the house" and a very thoughtful gift of one of the guests, presided over the gift table which overflowed with many beautiful packages.

The crystal chandelier in the dining room cast a soft glow on the lovely refreshment table which was covered with an imported cut-work cloth. A cut glass cylindrical vase held two white carnations to symbolize the bride and groom.

Grape sherbet punch was served from a pink bob-nail punch bowl and mint snow peaks, mixed nuts, flower mints, petit fours, parisiens and chocolate dipped fruit were served from sparkling cut glass and pink depression glass.

The hostesses presented Jenny with the tall square candle which had been used on the refreshment table as a memento of the evening. It was especially made for her of pale pink wax over deeper pink flowers. They also gave her a place setting her chosen silver pattern.

Among others present were the honoree's sister, Miss Sally Milis, and Mmes. S. B. Hill, Jr., W. B. Sawyer, Garland Harden, David Cochran, W. A. Sullivan, Tom Deppen, Douglas Snyder, Glen Burgess, Ashby Jones and Leonard Paulson.

Jacket Solution

The little blouson jacket solves the problem of what length coat to wear with floor-length skirts. Whether you boldly contrast plaids and patterns or subtlely complement the skirt color, tiny battle jackets accent the long lean skirt.

Whirl of Color

An old favorite, silk georgette, is back in a whirl of color. For evening gowns, the fabric is used in a full skirt reaching just above the knee.

Republicans Need Blacks

By CARL LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The new chairman of the Republican Governors Association said today his colleagues must take the lead to broaden the base of the GOP by bringing in more blacks so that it becomes "the party of the open door."

"Ours cannot be a for-whites-only party," Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia told the final session of the Republican Governors Conference.

"As a Southerner, I am particularly conscious of the need to bring more black representation into the Republican ranks," he said.

"Ours cannot be a for-the-un-young and for-the-unpoor party. I reiterate, ours must be the party of the open door, open to all segments of American life."

Holton's prepared speech came a day after the GOP governors decided to seek an early meeting with President Nixon to press their case for a larger say in party affairs, a move reflecting their dissatisfaction with the amount of attention their views have been accorded in the past.

Although this has been a familiar theme at governor's conferences of both parties, the governors at this meeting seem more determined to use their position as leaders of their state parties to gain greater influence within the national Republican party.

More Than 50 Rockets

Viet Cong Blast Saigon Air Base

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners blasted more than 50 rockets into Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base and adjoining areas today in the heaviest attack on the South Vietnamese capital since the 1968 Communist Tet offensive.

The shelling was followed by ground fighting only seven miles from the center of the city. Initial reports indicated the fighting was one of the biggest infantry actions that close to Saigon since the Tet battles.

Military sources said 200 to 300 North Vietnamese sappers invaded Tan Binh Village Tuesday night. South Vietnamese infantrymen and militiamen drove toward the village today in a pincer movement from the northwest and southeast. They were supported by armored vehicles, helicopter gunships and fighter-bomber strikes. About 1,500 government troops were believed involved.

Despite the large number of men involved, only three government troops were reported killed and four wounded before the ground fighting broke off in midafternoon. But air strikes continued until early evening.

There was no report of North Vietnamese casualties.

Nine persons were killed and 54 were wounded in the rocket attack on Tan Son Nhut. One American was among the dead, and two were wounded, while more than half the Vietnamese casualties were civilians.

The Communist gunners penetrated to within four miles of the city to set up their rocket launchers during the night, then opened up at 7:45 a.m. when the streets were crowded with people on their way to work.

U.S. helicopter gunships and South Vietnamese bombers attacked the launching sites while the hour-long rocket attack was still going on, but there was no report of the results.

A U.S. spokesman said an American rescue helicopter was damaged heavily and a second damaged lightly by the rocket fire. Two South Vietnamese helicopters also were damaged.

A Vietnamese fuel dump was set ablaze.

Other rockets fell short of the base and slammed into a South Vietnamese army installation, a school and crowded streets. A dozen homes were demolished in the suburban hamlet of Thong Tay Hoi, a mile from the base.

Three mortar shells hit a primary school, killing two young boys and wounding eight.

The attack came in the midst of a new round of cease-fire talks in Paris. U.S. sources speculated that the Communists might be trying to exert pressure on the United States to sign the draft agreement by emphasizing their presence so close to the capital.

Vietnam Peace Talks

By HARVEY HUDSON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger met with North Vietnamese negotiators today for the third time during their current series of talks on a cease-fire in Vietnam.

President Nixon's top foreign affairs adviser was the first to arrive at a house in suburban Neuilly which the Americans selected as the day's meeting place.

Kissinger met twice on Monday with Le Duc Tho of the Hanoi Politburo and Xuan Thuy, chief of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks. North Vietnamese sources said the meeting that had been scheduled for Tuesday was cancelled at Kissinger's request.

The Neuilly meeting place was the third location that Kissinger and Tho have used this week. The house being used today is owned by a Paris jeweler.

The meeting began at 10:30 a.m.

White House press secretary Ron Zeigler said there had been heavy cable traffic Tuesday between Paris and the White House during the pause in the negotiations. He said that President Nixon had sent new instructions to Kissinger.

South Vietnamese sources said that Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, chief of the South Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, did not meet with Kissinger Tuesday. The last conference between the two men was Monday night, after Kissinger had met twice during the day with the North Vietnamese.

The trail leads Keyes to Norway, the Caribbean, Portugal and South America.

8:30-9:30 (ABC)-THE JULIE ANDREWS HOUR Time change due to the Apollo 17 launching finds Julie with guests Tom and Dick Smothers and Jack Cassidy. LAKE GETS A FUNERAL

BABYLON, N.Y. (AP) — Mourning what is claimed will be the fate of many lakes and streams in Suffolk County, the Committee for Water Preservation held a mock funeral service for Argyle Lake.

The committee said the funeral was held to call attention to the "no-recharge" operation of the Southwest Sewer District, now being built. The effluent from the treatment plant will be pumped to the ocean instead of recharged to the ground. The "no recharge," it is claimed, will lower the ground water table enough to dry up the lakes and streams of the area.

Computor Group Improves Image

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A society of computer specialists, worried that the electronic brain is getting a bad name, is trying to smooth the often strained relationship between computer and consumer.

Attempting to upgrade the computer's image, the New York based group called the Association for Computing Machinery has set up an ombudsman program in several cities to help investigate computer related complaints.

The ombudsmen already have acted on such cases as:

—An Ann Arbor, Mich., man who continued to receive bills from a Chicago insurance company despite his repeated requests for cancellation of his policy.

—A Denver woman who thrice paid a magazine subscription fee but never got the magazines.

—A Chicago dating service which claimed it had a computer and was under investigation for duping the public.

In two long distance phone calls to the insurance company, Ann Arbor ombudsman Kurt Lauckner said he found the false billing resulted from an improperly designed computer program. The man who complained said the company apologized and sent him a refund on his old policy.

After several phone calls and letters to the publisher of the magazine by ombudsman Sholom Kurtz, the Denver woman received both an apology and her magazines.

Chicago ombudsman Ray Dash said ACM members participated with the Cook County district attorney's office in the investigation of the dating service, which did not have a computer. The firm was prosecuted.

In all three cases, the computer was wrongly criticized said Gordon Smith, executive director of ACM, which has 30,000 members.

There is a "tendency to unfairly blame the computer for a whole series of social and technical ills which face society today," Smith said.

"If there's a mistake on one of your monthly bills, for example, the company may tell you: 'There's nothing we can do. The computer made the mistake.'

"Of course, that's not true. It's the person who running the computer who erred. We want to use our expertise with computers to help clear up problems and counter 'blame the computer' syndrome."

Most of AMC's members are academicians, research scientists and commercial users of computers, such as programmers Smith said.

Twenty-three of the 100 ACM chapters in the country have set up ombudsman programs, since 1971 Smigh said. In each city one member has taken on the role of ombudsman.

The program is voluntary and receives no association funds, Smith said.

He said the ombudsmen will offer advice or investigate problems only when requested by public agencies and consumer groups, such as the Better Business Bureaus, local district attorneys, state attorneys general and newspaper "Action Line" columns.

Smith says he does not know how many problems the program has handled, but he estimates that thus far, the number is small.

"We're not a crusading group. We only work behind the scenes," he said. "As a result, we're just getting to be known now."

Consumer groups and officials who were asked about the ACM's ombudsman program were enthusiastic about the concept but many said they had not yet come across computer problems which they could refer to the ombudsmen.

Arthur Startz, vice president of national services for the Council of Better Business Bureaus, said he has encouraged local Better Business Bureaus to work with the ombudsman programs whenever they have computer problems.

Ray A. Daring, executive vice president of the Central Indiana Better Business Bureau in Indianapolis, said ACM members presented a series of demonstrations to the BBB staff to enable them to better understand computer language.

"We really needed the background in our handling of one of the biggest consumer complaints — mail-order billings," Dearing said.

'Nowhere' Railroad Sells Out

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — "It goes no place to nowhere, but it sure has been a lot of fun," says the owner of the tiny Possum Trot Line in announcing he's selling out.

One of the last operating steam-run railroads in the nation, the Possum Trot Line chugs through only 23 miles of rural Arkansas, with stops at such points as Goose Ankle and Terrapin Neck.

The Possom Trot boasts rolling stock that includes three gleaming steam engines, one of them 52 years old, and it's a genuine Interstate Commerce Commission-sanctioned railroad.

But owner T.W.M. Long of Shreveport, La., said Tuesday he's quitting the rail business because the Possum Trot doesn't make any money. He is asking $500,000 for the whole shebang.

The train has been swaying along through the piney woods of south Arkansas since 1925, from Reader to Waterloo.

Long says he bought the line in 1956 as a "normal American investment. I wanted to make a little money."

He hasn't.

"The straw that broke the camel's back came with the closing of Berry Petroleum Company's refinery at Waterloo since about 95 per cent of the freight revenue came from this source," Long says.

Somewhere, he feels there is a buyer.

The train made its final scheduled run last week.

WORRY CLINIC
By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Don and his wife are college graduates, active in church and scouting. But the local agencies vetoed their adopting children, saying they were too old! So Don asked the aid of a physician. Note the results. Vote on this!

CASE V-563: Don J., aged 36, is a dental surgeon.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my wife and I had no children during our first 10 years of marriage.

"So we decided to follow your advice and adopt a youngster.

"An obstetrician friend of mine promised he'd soon have a baby for us, for he said he delivers infants of unwed mothers regularly.

"Sure enough, within 2 hours after its birth, we got a baby boy.

"And 18 months later, we asked him for another.

"Within 6 hours after its birth, we thus obtained a cute baby girl.

"But before the year was over, my wife then got pregnant, so now we have 2 adopted kiddies and a baby girl by natural conception.

"Before we located our little boy, however, we had contacted the appropriate welfare agencies, who vetoed us as 'too old.'

"So I presume they must believe we are also 'too old' to have children by natural conception!"

"In our state, the legislature is being pressured to pass a law that all babies for adoption must be obtained ONLY from local bureaucratic officials.

"But I disagree with that viewpoint, since it is merely bringing Big Brother into our private homes long before his predicted regimentation of us private citizens in 1984.

"The local physicians know the background of these unwed mothers and can place the babies within a few hours, without meddling and dictatorial red tape.

"Besides, why should taxpayers support another bureaucratic office when local physicians can do a much better job AND FOR FREE?

"We need less regimentation by tax supported bureaucrats instead of more!

"Ask your millions of readers if they don't agree!"

VOTE ON ADOPTIONS

The bureaucrats that Don dislikes, will say that they can investigate the ancestry of the unwed parents better than can the physician.

Don would argue that in most communities, the physician has access to all such relevant genealogical data, and at no expense to taxpayers!

The bureaucrats say maybe a baby might later turn out to be mentally deficient.

Don would say: "So what!"

Even if so, its adopted parents can protect it better and place it in a private local school for the handicapped, or finally send it to a state institution where the bureaucrats would have to put it, anyway.

Meanwhile, the taxpayers would have been saved a lot of money.

The bureaucrats say they know more about child psychology and thus vetoed any adoptions by Don and his cultured, college graduate wife, because they were too old to be good parents.

Don counters by saying a lot of our best families produce children via natural pregnancies when they are past 30 or even after the age of 40.

Don also challenges the bureaucrats with slowing down the adoption of eligible babies by such subterfuges, to keep the orphanages filled so more bureaucrats will retain jobs — always at taxpayer's expense!

Our American Constitution provided that the government should NEVER try to compete with private, tax-paying citizens if the latter could handle their own problems.

Yet over 700 tax-exempt government corporations are now competing with private firms, which must pay taxes and fill out tedious red tape forms.

Do you readers vote to let physicians place babies for adoption or to give such a monopoly to Big Brother?

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

People go to fortune tellers to find out their future. Right? Now ask yourself — who do people call to sell those idle useless items taking up space around the house. Figured it out yet? The classified ad department of The Sanford Herald. That's who. Take for instance, Mrs. Bill Guyer, 2481 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, she called us to run the following ad for her a little while ago.

45 lb. bow and equipment, $25. 2 speed Whirlpool dryer, $30. Small crib chair, stroller and high chair, $30. Call anytime, 000-0000.

She received many many phone calls the first day (!), ran and sold everything and got a pretty good doesn't it. In the future instead of going to a fortune teller, call a sure thing and get results. Call us, 322-2611 or 831-9993.

U.S. Accepts Cuban Plan For Handling Hijackers

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has accepted a major portion of a Cuban plan to deal with hijacking, including an indirect American pledge to keep anti-Castro refugees from harassing the island.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers incorporated this idea into a draft proposal he sent to Cuba Tuesday by way of Silvio Masnata, the Swiss ambassador to Havana who represents the United States in the absence of formal diplomatic relations.

According to State Department sources, the American draft agreement also accepts the Cuban language including ships as well as aircraft. An American-originated concept is a clause calling for the extradition of hijackers as an alternative to prosecution.

While the State Department declined to publicly discuss the substance of the negotiations, officials privately provided the outlines of the proposals made by both sides and offered an insight into the thinking behind them.

State Department sources said the original antihijacking plan offered a week and a half ago by the Fidel Castro government through the Swiss was brief and clear, no more than two pages of double-spaced copy.

Topless, Bottomless Court Decision Hit

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's topless-bottomless entertainment industry is girding for a battle over an antinudity ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court's decision gives state liquor authorities the power to begin enforcing regulations against topless waitresses and topless-bottomless entertainers.

Peter Sexton, deputy director of the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said topless-only dancers still are allowed if the entertainer stays at least six feet away from the nearest customer on a stage at least 18 inches high. Topless waitresses, said Sexton, are out.

"Nude entertainment per se is on its way out," Sexton added.

The 6-3 Supreme Court ruling said that states can shut down bars that feature nude dancers and other "bacchanalian revelries on grounds that First Amendment freedom does not go beyond books and movies to 'gross sexuality' in public."

Nudie-bar owner Tammy Heath said there is going to be a struggle if Kirby's department starts moving to revoke liquor licenses on the basis of the type of entertainment offered.

Carol Doda, the statuesque blonde who pioneered topless dancing in San Francisco's North Beach area in 1964, said nudie bars may quit serving alcoholic beverages to avoid coming under jurisdiction of the state's liquor licensing agency.

"I think the whole thing's ridiculous," Miss Doda said. If the nudie night clubs lose their liquor licenses, she added, "we'll serve fruit juice and nuts."

Called 'Holdup'

Payment To Indians

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the House Indian affairs subcommittee says a $66,650 payment to send home protesters who occupied the Bureau of Indian Affairs last month was "the greatest holdup in American history."

Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., made the comment Tuesday despite testimony of two government officials that the payment not only averted possible violence but also kept the federal government from providing court-ordered housing for the protesters.

Frank Carlucci, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, told the subcommittee the government paid $66,650 to the Indians to help them meet travel expenses to their homes. The payment, in cash, was made to Indian leaders on the condition they evacuate the BIA building which they had held for one week.

The funds came from the Office of Economic Opportunity after lawyers for that agency determined it had legal authority to make such a grant, Carlucci testified.

Bert Gallegos, an OEO attorney, testified he believed the payment, made under an emergency food provision, did not violate congressional intent.

"Then I must conclude you believe it was the intent of Congress to pay the way home of every group of people who come up here and occupy a federal building," Saylor said. He said he believed the payment was "the greatest holdup in American history."

Rep. James Arbourezk, D-S.D., countered Saylor by saying "I believe my colleague's disgust is based on the fact that the Indian people are not as subtle (at getting federal funds) as other groups that come to Washington. They'll have to refine their techniques a little more."

Also testifying Tuesday was William E. Casselman II, general counsel of the General Services Administration. He said the GSA estimates the occupation cost the federal government $2,139,000, including damage to the building, clean-up, the cost of police salaries and the cost of administrative leave for BIA employes, he said.

Committee On Capital Offenses

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — State attorneys general soon may ask their legislatures to draft bills imposing a mandatory death sentence for specified crimes.

"Each state would determine what the offenses would be," said Oklahoma Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, chairman of a volunteer committee of 11 states' attorneys that planned to present its recommendation to the National Association of Attorneys General today.

"The committee was unanimous that legislative action was necessary to reinstate the death penalty," Derryberry said in an interview Tuesday.

"We determined that the alternative for reinstating the death penalty most likely to be favorable considered by the U.S. Supreme Court is one that would impose a mandatory death sentence for specified offenses."

He said the committee discussed offenses for which the death penalty might be made mandatory. "Murder during the commission of certain felonies — armed robbery, rape, burglary, arson, kidnaping and perhaps other felonies; murder of a police officer or of a public figure; murder by explosive devices; multiple slayings; contract killings; killings for pecuniary gain.

"We did not go outside of premeditated murder cases," he added. "But the states might decide that other cases would come under the death penalty."

Derryberry said the committee discussed but did not recommend introduction of a federal constitutional amendment overturning a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing the death penalty in its present form. The court ruled that capital punishment as currently administered in most instances violates constitutional safeguards against cruel or unusual punishment.

The president of the association, Atty. Gen. Gary K. Nelson of Arizona, said the attorneys general, with a few exceptions, favored reinstatement of capital punishment.

"The vast majority of the public, even higher than public-opinion polls say, favor the death penalty in certain kinds of cases," he added.

County Board Actions

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

On motion of Commissioner Sid Vihlen, the Sands Foods Service company will provide snack service in the Employees Lounge in the new Court house when it is occupied. The same company services the hospital, the Naval Academy, General Dynamics and Florida Hospital North. Services will include, sandwiches, soups, coffee, cold drinks, a microwave oven, money changer, cigarettes, pastry, condiment counter, napkins and utensils. The company was awarded a one year contract.

Fees For Home Health

Seminole County Health Department requested that the Commissioners adopt an appropriate resolution authorizing collection of fees for the Home Health Services on a cost basis according to the most recent cost study broken down into cost per home visit; and they also requested approval to collect fees for physiotherapists utilized in the Home Nursing program. The Board authorized these collections.

Furniture Bid Error

On advice of County Attorney Howard Marsee, the Board is not liable and will not remit for the difference in bid amounts for furnishings for the courthouse as submitted by George Stuart, Inc., due to a clerical error in the way the bid was submitted.

Stuart said that the total bid should have been increased in the amount of $5,022. He requested relief for the increase in the amount of $2,500. His total bid was $25,745.20. With the additional $2,500, the total would be $28,245.20.

Marsee said that it could be considered illegal for the Board to pay for something for which it is not liable.

Port Utility Lines

According to a report by Commissioner Sidney Vihlen, the Port of Sanford is having some difficulty in receiving utility lines. Property owner, Robert Mann, who is using a county right-of-way where he has a cabbage patch, has refused to allow the Lake Monroe Utility Company to install the utility line. Mann has said that he will physically harm with a shot gun whoever crosses his land, according to Vihlen's report.

County Attorney Howard Marsee was directed by the Board to confer with Mann's attorney, Gordon Frederick and to authorize the utility company to proceed. Vihlen recommended that the Sheriff assist in the problem.

Sheriff's Salary Incentive

A request for salary incentive funds for the Sheriff's department was approved at Tuesday's meeting. Incentive funds which the Sheriff must pay law enforcement officers based upon completion of certain educational criteria according to state requirements. The County was advised by Warren Hedlor, administrator for Career Division of Department of Revenue that through September 30, Seminole County has received of the $109,329 Revenue Sharing funds. A total of $2,900 is actually salary incentive funds and must be paid to the appropriate employes or all of the revenue sharing funds will be withdrawn.

Condition Of Truman Only Fair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, who turned 88 May 8, has been hospitalized for the third time this year.

He was admitted Tuesday evening to Research Medical Center for what a hospital spokesman described as pulmonary congestion — congestion of the lungs. His condition was described as fair.

The hospital said "fair" indicates "vital signs are stable and within normal limits. Patient is conscious. He is not comfortable or may have complications. His recovery is anticipated."

A hospital spokesman said "no tests or treatment other than continued antibiotics are planned for tonight." Truman is attended by Dr. Wallace Graham, his personal physician.

Truman was taken to the hospital June 26 after a fall at his home. X-rays proved negative, and he was returned home 50 minutes later.

On July 2, he entered the hospital for what Dr. Graham described as a routine examination for a "lower gastrointestinal problem." He was released July 17.

Special Recipe For Him

Friend, husband or lover — what makes this stroganoff special is him.

While a generation or two ago, the only man to be found in the kitchen was likely to be a French chef, today's life-style frequently finds the man of the house taking over the culinary arts and, what's more, discovering he loves it!

He's particularly fond of hearty cooking, one-dish meals and foods that allow him to improvise, and if the result is sometimes too garlic-y for your taste, it's not important.

Not too surprising, he also likes equipment that makes cooking and clean-up easier. Now, with General Electric's dutch skillet he has an appliance that combines versatility — it will bake, roast, stew, simmer and deep fry — and then go to the table for serving, with easy clean-up.

The double non-stick coating minimizes food sticking and contributes to easier cleaning, even going into the dishwasher.

Most often, the man who likes to cook also likes to share his skills, so here's "his" recipe for stroganoff.

"HIS" SPECIAL STROGANOFF

¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ pounds ½-inch beef tenderloin or sirloin cubes (round steak cubes sprinkled with tenderizer may be used)
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onions
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 10½-ounce can beef consommé, undiluted
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup commercial sour cream

Combine flour, salt and pepper; toss meat in mixture until coated. Preheat skillet to 330 degrees. Melt 4 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add meat, browning on all sides. Push meat to one side of skillet. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add onions and mushrooms, sauté several minutes, stirring frequently. Add seasonings and consommé, then rapidly stir in 1 tablespoon flour. Reduce temperature to simmer, cover with vent open, and cook 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 160 degrees, add sour cream to meat mixture. Serve over wild rice or noodles. Serves 4 to 5.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Beef Rib Eye Roast (also called Delmonico Roast).
Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?
A. It comes from the tender muscle that lies along the back bone of the beef rib. It is the meaty center of the standing rib with all bones (feather, back and chine), outer muscle and fat covering removed. A whole rib eye weighs usually from seven to 10 pounds. Frequently it is cut into smaller roasts or into steaks.
Q. How is it prepared?
A. By roasting. Place rib eye, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb reaches the center of the thickest part, being sure it does not rest in fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast at 350°F. oven temperature to desired degree of doneness—140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium. Allow 1¼ to 2½ hours depending upon size of roast and degree of doneness desired.

This Christmas Fruitcake Has A Storied Past

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Some of the most elegant food in this country is served in the dining rooms of our great hotels. We were reminded of this when the recently published "The Plaza Cookbook" by Eve Brown (Prentice-Hall) came to our desk. From 1907, when New York City's Plaza Hotel opened, to the present day this famous hostelry has offered discriminating cuisine perfected by knowing chefs and The Plaza Cookbook presents some of their best recipes.

The first five chapters are devoted to some interesting lore surrounding The Plaza and grande cuisine; the remaining chapters offer over 350 recipes from hors d'oeuvre to desserts.

We were especially attracted by The Plaza Cookbook's Christmas Fruitcake and when we tasted it, we weren't disappointed. Baking the cake takes a bit of doing, but as the author of The Plaza Cookbook notes, "This delicious cake is well worth the trouble!" There's just one note we would add: If you bake our adaptation of this light-color fruitcake with its old-fashioned compact texture and almond flavor, sprinkle it with brandy occasionally during storage.

CHRISTMAS FRUITCAKE

Whole blanched almonds
1/2 cup mixed diced candied fruit
1/2 cup diced candied orange peel
1/2 cup raisins
1/4 cup chopped candied cherries
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/3 cup brandy
1 cup unsifted flour
1/2 cup cornstarch
5 eggs
1/3 cup sugar
2/3 cup butter
1/2 cup almond paste

Grease and flour a 9-inch fluted tube pan. Arrange almonds in bottom, putting 1 or 2 in each large flute.

In a small mixing bowl stir together the mixed candied fruit, orange peel, raisins, cherries, lemon rind and brandy. Let stand 1/2 hour; drain.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour and cornstarch.

In large bowl of electric mixer lightly stir together 4 of the eggs and the sugar; place over a pan of hot water over low heat and stir occasionally until the mixture is slightly warmer than lukewarm. Watch to prevent overheating and curdling. Remove bowl from hot water and beat at high speed until very thick and entirely cool.

In a medium mixing bowl, without washing beater, beat together the butter and almond paste until blended; beat in remaining whole egg; fold in about 1/4 of beaten egg mixture, then the drained fruit.

Fold this fruit mixture into remaining beaten egg mixture in large bowl; add the flour-cornstarch mixture, sprinkling it over the top and gently folding it in. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until top of cake is golden-brown and pulls away from sides of pan — about 1 hour. Cool cake in pan on wire rack for 15 minutes. With a small metal spatula loosen cake from sides of pan and around tube; turn out on wire rack and cool completely. Store in tightly covered container.

Cork Is The Best Stopper

Have you ever been inquisitive enough to wonder why some wine bottles have corks and some screw caps? If you have given the matter even a fleeting thought, did your reasoning conclude caps meant a cheap wine?

Well, it isn't necessarily so — as witness most of the lowest quality, besides price, imported wines now flooding the liquor stores and supermarkets contain corks.

A natural cork is wood and comes from the bark of a cork tree. It is still the finest method for insuring that the wine can continue "breathing." (Naturally fermented, non-pasteurized wine is a living organism and must continue breathing if it is to have a proper lifespan.)

A cork is the best available stopper for any wine worthwhile keeping for any length of time. An unopened wine bottle that is corked should always be kept lying on its side (or, upside down in a case) so that the cork will not dry out. Should dryness persist, the cork will shrink and an air pocket will form in the bottle causing oxidation and eventually vinegar.

Good corks cost money and they are getting more expensive because of the surging worldwide demand for fine wines and the length of time a cork tree insists on taking to grow before its bark can be stripped.

Remember that fine table wines always have corks even though corks are sometimes also used for wines better left unbottled. Screw caps usually found on inexpensive wines that have been pasteurized (all the organisms killed) and therefore will not continue to change in character either for better or worse. Frankly, for everyday drinking wine there is no need for the luxury of a cork.

And, there are times when I have been greatful for the screw cap, like when there is no available corkscrew and you don't care to emulate the Wild West's cowboy habit of whacking the neck of the bottle on a bar or cabinet. I've wondered, did they strain the juice through cheesecloth or drain glass fragments and all?

Heart Line: Watch Calorie Count In Holiday Menus

This time of the year is party time. Today's recipes will be fine for holiday dinner parties, still take care of the cook's time and budget, and the guests' calories and cholesterol levels.

CHICKEN WITH WINE-TOMATO SAUCE

3 pound broiler-fryer, cut-up
3 tablespoons polyunsaturated margarine
1 tablespoon instant onion
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
½ of a 6-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon basil
½ teaspoon celery seed
1 bay leaf
¼ cup dry white wine

Heat oil in a large skillet. Brown chicken on both sides, sprinkling with onion and garlic powder. Mix together all the remaining ingredients except the wine; pour over chicken; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Stir in wine; remove cover and cook gently, turning several times, 15 minutes longer. Remove bay leaf; skim off excess fat. Place chicken in deep serving dish and ladle sauce over it. Makes 6 servings.

CANDIED YAMS

2 cans yams (16 oz. each)
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons polyunsaturated margarine
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon ginger

Place drained yams in oiled 1½ quart baking dish. Make syrup by combining sugar, salt, margarine, rind and ginger in a 1-quart saucepan and boiling a few minutes. Pour syrup over yams. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour, basting occasionally. Makes 6 servings.

JELLIED APPLE SAUCE SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
¾ cup boiling water
2 cups canned apple sauce
1½ cups diced celery
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
One-third cup prepared horseradish
Red vegetable coloring
Mayonnaise
6 maraschino cherries

Salad greens

Soften gelatine in cold water; add boiling water; stir until dissolved. Add apple sauce, celery, lemon juice, salt, sugar and horseradish; mix well. Tint mixture an attractive red color using a few drops of red vegetable coloring. Pour mixture into individual molds, which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on plate. Top each with a dab of mayonnaise and a maraschino cherry. Garnish plate with watercress or chicory. Makes six molds.

BROILED PEACHES

This is a quick, delicious, as well as a low-saturated-fat dessert.

Broil drained canned peaches cavity side up, in a shallow pan; place 1 teaspoon of brown sugar and ½ teaspoon polyunsaturated soft tub margarine in each cavity. Broil until heated through.

PEAR SNOW

Here is a dish especially for the fresh pear season. It's full of flavor and has a low-calorie count — just 78 per serving:

2 cups grated pared raw pears (about 3 medium)
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites

Mix pears, lemon juice, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Beat whites until foamy. Gradually beat in remaining 4 tablespoons sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold in pear mixture. Spoon into 3 chilled dishes. Chill or serve immediately. Makes 3 servings.

Swiss Fondue
Sliced Cold Meats with Salad and Hot Garlic Bread
Fruit Sherbet
Swiss Almond Bars

SWISS ALMOND BARS

We tested this recipe with the blanched ground almonds (sometimes called almond meal) that come in convenient packages.

2 egg whites
1 1/3 cups sugar
1 envelope (1 ounce) chocolate-flavor ingredient
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 1/2 cups (about) blanched ground almonds

Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in 1 cup sugar and continue to beat until stiff peaks form. Beat in chocolate, cinnamon and enough almonds to make a dough that is stiff and only barely sticky to the touch. Sprinkle remaining 1/3 cup sugar on a pastry cloth; turn dough onto it and knead until well mixed. Roll or pat into a 12 by 8 inch rectangle. With edge of plastic or steel ruler or a knife, cut dough into 48 (2 by 1 inch) bars. Slide a greased cookie sheet under and separate bars evenly over sheet. Let sit uncovered 1 hour or until surface seems dry and a bit crusty. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 8 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Centers of bars should be soft, outside crusty. Store in a tightly covered container with a piece of fresh apple. Makes 4 dozen.

City Mayors Confer CALNO Problems

By DONNA ESTES

WINTER SPRINGS — Acting Mayor Edith Duerr of Casselberry was accorded guest of honor courtesies by the three mayors of the CALNO Council of Local Governments last night. But the trio of chief exeecutives did not back down on a single point that resulted in a rift and withdrawal of Casselberry from the organization some months ago. (Related photo on page 4A)

Dr. Duerr on behalf of her city questioned the points that concerned the city — amount of dues expected, whether cities outside Seminole would be included and solicited for membership, and the authority of the group as an autonomous unit on projects without prior city government approval.

Winter Springs Mayor Granville Brown insisted Casselberry would be required to pay a $250 entrance fee plus dues of 35 cents per capita (about $3,000)— as agreed by the other three cities against Casselberry's wishes earlier this year.

As far as prior city governmental approval of all actions, Altamonte Springs Mayor Lawrence Swofford maintained that the city governments have a large measure of control in any event because they hold the purse strings. At the same time, prior approval of all actions would cripple the organization and render it useless, Swofford indicated. It was also pointed out that with the various city councils controlling the purse strings, by necessity they would give prior approval to many activities of the group.

Dr. Duerr, pointedly questioned the possibility that CALNO might adopt something binding on the cities without approval of the cities.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolski

You talk about suspense....we had it last night...and early this morning, right?

Don't know 'bout you, but I actually gave up after the second 20 minute hold and went to bed.

Only I couldn't sleep...for fear that I had already wasted all that time and I wasn't going to have someone come up to me and say, "You mean to tell me that you didn't stay up and see history being written?"

Because misery loves company.....I got the rest of the family up from their sleep...and we all were wide-eyed and impressed.

Tomorrow I'll devote some space to the reasons "why" this trip is necessary, according to the space experts.

I'm not that certain we're getting all of our dollar's worth.....$450 million for this Apollo 17 flight.

However, I'd much rather spend it this way as opposed to continuing to "blow it" on things like 'Nam, etc.

By the way, there'll be no more special telecasts of the flight by any of the three major networks until Monday when the astronauts land on the moon and begin the first of three explorations.

Getting to like and respect our Governor Askew more and more every day. Take his actions of today, commemorating Pearl Harbor Day.

The Governor has declared Friday, Saturday and Sunday days of prayer "for an immediate end to the Vietnam War and the safe and speedy return of our men held captive."

He has urged all ministers, priests and rabbis "to remember in their religious services and prayers those who are in positions of authority and are negotiating this peace" and asked all Floridians to remember the negotiations and prisoners in periods of prayer.

The Sanford City Commission decided Wednesday not to take any chances with the mail, particularly after City Attorney William Hutchison reported that it took nine days for a letter from Winter Park to reach him in Sanford. The city's new charter, passed by the people Tuesday, rather than being mailed to Tallahassee for recording in the Secretary of State's office, will be hand-carried there by Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles and City Commissioner A. A. McClanahan.

Pearl Harbor Memorial Service

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — It was 31 years ago today when planes from a Japanese carrier armada crippled the U.S. Pacific Fleet here, but the anniversary of the attack is being observed quietly.

One scheduled event to mark the day was the lowering of colors at sunset and a wreath laying aboard the USS Arizona memorial by 20 members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association. No speeches were planned.

The Navy, which planned no ceremonies for this year, said the normal one-hour weekday boat tours of the harbor and the shuttle boats to the memorial will be conducted as usual.

Veterans organizations and private citizens were invited by the Navy, however, to present wreaths at the memorial during the day.

The site of the attack, which shocked Americans on Dec. 7, 1941, and brought the United States into World War II, today is a point of interest to the thousands of Japanese tourists who visit the islands in greater numbers each year.

Liftoff Lightshow

Apollo 17 'Moonbound'

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The men of Apollo 17 streaked toward the moon today, leaving behind the cares of a cranky computer that delayed their journey for nearly three hours. They left on man's last planned 20th century lunar voyage with a liftoff lightshow which turned earth's night to noon.

"Good show, babe! Little late, but good show!" cried a relieved and elated commander Eugene A. Cernan as he and crewmates Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans rocketed away from Cape Kennedy.

"We had to work at it," said Mission Control. "Glad we made it."

"Guess who else is," said a happy Jack Schmitt, a Harvard-trained geologist who became the first American scientist in space.

After the launch, the first ever in darkness, the astronauts orbited earth twice and then were propelled on a path toward the moon, where they hope to find the missing links in man's knowledge of lunar evolution.

The smooth flight was blemished by only two small, nagging, but not serious problems. An alarm system in the cabin of the spacecraft was sounding without reason whenever the astronauts threw certain switches. Cernan also reported for a time that not all the latches which lock the command module and the lunar module together had operated.

Mission Control said the alarm system problem was not serious enough to affect the mission and the uncooperative latch later took hold.

It was a more serious problem earlier, however, that delayed Apollo 17's launch. Officials on the ground said the lost time would be recovered by a speeded up voyage to lunar orbit and Monday's moon landing would occur at the originally scheduled time.

A computer which refused to acknowledge a manual signal from launch control technicians caused the Apollo 17 countdown to stop less than a half minute before the huge Saturn 5 rockets were to ignite.

Battling against time, engineers at Cape Kennedy and at the Marshall Spaceflight Center at Huntsville, Ala., quickly developed and tested a plan to outwit the confused computer. The new system worked and Apollo 17 blazed into space at 12:33 a.m. EST, less than an hour before the ever-changing position of sun, earth and moon would have forced a 24-hour postponement.

Despite the countdown, the launch was smooth and spectacular.

While hundreds of thousands of persons watched from Cape Kennedy viewing areas, the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket lifted slowly, majestically from its nest of concrete and steel, climbing into a nearly clear, black Florida sky.

For more than six minutes, the rocket's 2,200-foot tail of flame burned away the darkness and lighted the sand flats and Atlantic beaches where the awed crowds watched.

After orbiting earth for nearly three hours, the astronauts re-ignited the third stage of their Saturday 5 rocket. The powerful thrust sent them hurtling out of earth's gravity grasp and put them firmly on their way to the moon.

About an hour later, at 5:29 a.m. EST, the astronauts freed their command ship from the third-stage rocket, which is called the S4B. The spacemen turned their cone-shaped craft and linked its pointed nose with the lunar module, which still nested in the S4B.

"Oh, boy," said Evans happily. "Here we go. It came right out of there."

APOLLO XVII-Off In A Blaze Of Glory!

A LONG WAIT and some Seminole County birdwatchers did not get back home till 5 a.m., but noone was disappointed when lift-off finally came for Apollo's last journey to the moon. Herald Photographer Mike McDonel took this shot of the traffic jam near U.S. 1 as well as the spectacular time exposure of the fiery launch taken outside of Cocoa. The light from the powerful Saturn rocket turned night into day.

'Can Survive 10 Weeks'

Housing Authority 'Broke'

Director Thomas Wilson Says I'm Trying To Get Federal Subsidy Funds Released, But Must Raise Rents To "Break Even."

By BOB LLOYD

Sanford Housing Authority executive director Thomas Wilson says the authority can survive another 10 weeks marginal operation before it goes broke.

"But we can't wait until then to start planning," he said.

Wilson, meeting deadends in this pressing effort to get federal subsidy operating funds released, is trying to devise a plan of raising rents on the 480 low rent public housing units $5 a month so operation of the authority can continue on a "break even" basis.

If this plan doesn't materialize, Wilson is expected next Thursday to ask Authority board members to authorize "un-implementation" of the Brooke Amendment which puts a ceiling on rent rates at not more than 25 per cent of a tenant's income.

Earlier this week Wilson said the Brooke Amendment plan would be dropped. Wednesday he said after a talking with tenants he was trying to work out a plan for an overall small rent raise.

If the Brooke Amendment isn't adhered to some tenants could find their rent doubling under rate schedules previously used by the Authority.

Wilson said the Authority has $41,345 in banks that can be used for operations of the city's four low rent housing projects. The Authority's weekly expenses average $4,700. Thus, he figures only another 10 weeks can go by until 480 families are "put out on the streets."

Congress has approved $154 million in subsidy operation funds for local housing authorities across the nation but the Nixon administration

Marcos' Wife Is Slashed

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.
Associated Press Writer

MANILA (AP) — A dark-suited man slashed President Ferdinand E. Marcos' wife, Imelda, today with a foot-long bolo knife as she was congratulating winners of a beautification contest.

A helicopter took Mrs. Marcos to the Makati Medical Center where she was reported "safe ... out of danger." The hospital said the 42-year-old first lady of the Philippines was slashed on her arms and hands and lost a lot of blood.

Guards shot and killed the assailant, who was not immediately identified.

Dr. Constantino Manahan, director of the medical center, said: "The first lady suffered several slashing and penetrating wounds in the left and right arms. None of them are very serious. She is definitely out of danger."

The attack occurred at an amusement park in Pasay City, adjoining Manila.

Mrs. Marcos was congratulating the winners of the contest, who were lined up to shake hands with her. The attacker, wearing a dark suit, was in the line.

Mrs. Marcos had just shaken several hands when the man suddenly pulled a knife from his belt, charged at her and appeared to shove the knife into her breast.

As onlookers shrieked in horror, Mrs. Marcos fell to the ground, and the man appeared to follow her down.

Guards pulled him away and then killed him.

The award ceremony was being televised live, and the attack was seen by the Manila TV.

A statuesque beauty who takes an active part in her husband's political career, Mrs. Marcos has shared in the controversy generated by her husband's maneuvers to remain in power.

Marcos, a war hero, was elected president in 1965 and re-elected in 1969, but the constitution barred him from a third term. For a time there was speculation that his wife would be a candidate to succeed him, but instead a constitutional convention wrote a new constitution replacing the presidential system of government with a parliamentary system of the British type.

Goodyear Store Raided

Patrolman Robert Bernosky of the Sanford Police Department discovered a break-in at the Goodyear Service Store, 555 West First Street, Sanford, about 5:25 a.m. this morning.

Entry was gained when someone filled a paint can with sand and threw it through the glass door of the building.

According to Bernosky's report, the thief made off with six television sets and a speaker. Reported missing are two color sets worth $190 each, three black and white sets worth $60 each and one black and white television worth $70. The missing speaker is worth $20.

The investigation has been turned over to the detective division, according to Det. Lt. William Lykens.
