STRIKE SITUATION NEWS FROM STORM CENTER GIVEN BY WM. VORHEES

Member of Transportation Com. In Fruits and Vegetables

SITUATION IS GRAVE

BUT LOOKING FOR RELIEF WHEN LAWLESS ELEMENT IS CHECKED UP AND STOPPED.

The following letter from William Vorhees of the well known commission firm of that name of New York to G. I. Loucks of this city will give a line of information on the conditions of the markets and transportation as it exists at the center of the trade:

New York April 13th, 1920.
G. I. Loucks,

Dear Sir:

I have just wired you, giving you in a vague way, the general conditions here and in confirming it will say that on the data I have obtained that there were possibly around 70 cars unloaded between Jersey City and New York for to-day's market, that is including cars that came over late yesterday on the Penn. dock and what they got over last night and up to the time for market this morning, and what they could put on their tracks in the Jersey yards. The situation is very grave, for the reason that no one seems to know who to get at. It is the radical element working propaganda and men going out when they really do not know what they are going out for. The railroad reports the conditions really worse this morning than yesterday. The railroads however are doing good work, the crippled condition they are in, and are working out gradually on the cars that are now in transit, moving up trains just as fast as they can and doing all they can under the circumstances. I feel if things do not change for the worse and they can continue to move up their trains the way they have been doing, that by the end of the week, they should be pretty well up with what cars they have in transit. Up to the present time I have not had any report as to any car numbers of what we have in transit, but however being on the Transportation Committee of the Fruit and Produce Trade, I am pretty well in touch with the situation and there are two trains now moving, one from Edgemore and one from Potomac Yards that the railroad have not been able to give us car numbers on yet. As soon as the committee gets them, I will know if any of our cars are on those two trains (this information the Committee gives out to the trade). I feel that we will be able to get rid of all cars now in transit, with what working force the railroad still have, provided the truck drivers do not go out on us here.

Of course, I could write at length, but then after all, one does not know from hour to hour how the matter will go. Its just like a pack of fire crackers, one popping here and one popping there, and just as soon as we get word of the cars we have in transit, our best efforts will be made to get rid of them to best advantage.

I was appointed from the ass'n to meet Dr. Copeland, the Board of Health Commissioner here, at a meeting held at his office yesterday, with all the interests, highly perishable, butter and eggs, meats and poultry, for him to get an idea as to what there was in the way of food to feed the people, he looking after the health of the city, and with out going into details, the report from all branches of industry in food commodities, was that the situation is grave.

Yours truly,
W. V.

DOGS ATTACKED HORSE

And Horse Threw May Thrasher Who Suffered Injured Foot and Fright

This business of keeping vicious dogs in the city limits will have to cease and especially bull dogs that attack man or beast without any warning. An instance of this kind happened yesterday at the packing house of Chase & Co., when Miss May Thrasher was riding her pony on Third Street. Two bull dogs that are said to be owned by Randall Chase and Benjamin Whitner attacked the pony without any warning biting at his heels and Miss Thrasher had to draw her feet up on the pony's back to keep the dogs from biting her. Meantime the pony started kicking at the dogs to save himself and as May started to get off he kicked and she fell under his feet the horse stepping on one of her feet and making a bad bruise. The dogs bit the pony badly and the extent of the damage done to the pony is not known yet as dog bites at this season of the year are uncertain. Benjamin Whitner and several others near did all they could to beat the dogs off and rescue May from the dogs and finally saved her life by dragging her out from the hoofs of the pony and the fighting dogs.

The city is no place for dogs and especially dogs that would attack a person as these dogs did yesterday and not only should they be taken to the country but other dogs should be kept off the streets. Several mad dogs are abroad in the county as stated in this paper yesterday and regardless of what the owners of dogs think about it common decency and protection to the public should be sufficient to warrant the keeping of all dogs at home where they belong.

Burned A Newsboy

Lancaster Ohio April 15 (By Associated Press) The police of this city are searching for five boys who tied a little newsboy to a stake, then piled kindling and papers and set fire to them and left the boy. He was rescued by a woman after being badly burned.

Death of Jos. S. Knight

Joseph S. Knight died at his home 1020 East Second Street yesterday at 2 p. m., death being due to paralysis.

The deceased has lived in Sanford about two years, coming here from New Jersey and followed the trade of painter and paper hanger until recently. He leaves a daughter, Miss Ida Knight of this city and Ellsworth Knight of Newark, N. J. both of whom were here at the time of his death, the latter being called here a few days ago by wire.

The funeral services were held this morning at 10:30 and interment made in Lake View Cemetery.

Polar Ice.

In the region around the south pole, Sir Ernest Shackleton found various kinds of ice to which he gives interesting names in his new book, "South." Thus one kind he pictures as "young ice," another as "light pack," another as "stiff ice." Heavy hummocked pack and close pack are the roughest in appearance, with jagged little crags covering all the surface.

To Preserve Ferns.

There are at least two very satisfactory ways to preserve maiden-hair ferns. One is to dip the ferns as soon as gathered in perfectly limpid gum water. This should be done very carefully. After allowing them to drain for two or three minutes, arrange in a case to dry. Another very good way is to put the ferns, when first gathered, between two clean sheets of blotting paper. Lay between boards and press for a week or so.

REED FOUND IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Communist Long Sought on Charge of Conspiring Against United States.

MAKES ESCAPE VIA NORWAY

Lenine Welcomes Him as Envoy From United States Communist Party—Lived in Kremlin as Guest of Authorities.

Washington.—John Reed, close friend of Lenine and Trotsky, who is under indictment in Chicago for alleged conspiracy to overthrow the United States government, arrived in Soviet Russia by way of Finland last December, it is learned. Since his indictment recently federal and Illinois state agents have been searching for Reed all over the United States.

On being told of Reed's presence in Russia—it is not known yet whether he has left there—the state department was interested to learn the channel through which he obtained a passport. The department is informed that he shipped as a sailor from an American port to Norway. From there he traveled on foot to Stockholm. There he stowed himself away, or was stowed away, on a vessel about to sail for Helmsingfors.

The adventurous Mr. Reed narrowly escaped arrest in Helmsingfors, but, disguising himself as a Russian peasant, he crossed the frontier into Russia. He was received in Moscow as the official envoy of the American Communist party, and as such attended the meetings of the third international, and made a speech at the All-Russian Soviet convention in the middle of December.

Lived at the Kremlin.

In Moscow Mr. Reed lived at the Kremlin as the guest of the people's commissars.

He was in constant communication with Lenine and Trotsky, it is stated, and visited the Red army at the front. Mr. Reed was in Moscow until the middle of January. Of that the state department is quite certain. His reception in Russia was the warmer because two years ago Trotsky appointed him bolshevist consul general at New York. Mr. Reed never assumed that office, for, as it turned out, the appointment was made to facilitate his return to the United States.

It would seem that Reed anticipated that he would be indicted and so sought more hospitable shores. In the course of the widespread search for him as a fugitive from justice a man suspected of being Reed was arrested near Poughkeepsie, N. Y. This man proved that he was Harrison B. Ellis, that he had not been in Chicago for 15 years and had never uttered or written unpatriotic opinions.

Eighty-Five Indicted.

Eighty-five big and little leaders of the Communist party in America were indicted in Chicago on the same charge as Reed on January 23 last. Among them were Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes of New York City, a member of the executive committee of the Communist party; Nicholas J. Hourwitz

SAYS U. S. MUST LEARN SHIPPING

America Is Not Ready for Great Merchant Marine, Asserts Payne.

URGES EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN

Shipping Board Head Insists That People of This Country Must Be Taught to Think and Act in Terms of Sea.

New York.—The tales of the sea must become the gospel of the nursery and of the fireside if the United States hopes to develop a great, successful merchant marine and become a nation of shipping, in the opinion of John Barton Payne, chairman of the United States shipping board, who, in a message to the members of the Old Colony club, urges that a great public campaign be inaugurated to teach the people of America to "think and act in the language of shipping."

"The war has given us ships," says Mr. Payne. "We now have 1,300 shipping board ships, operating 41 trade routes, carrying our products under our own flag into the important world ports. By the end of 1920 this number will be increased to some 2,250. Sales of ships to Americans are being made but the sales do not keep pace with the new launchings."

Is Pressing Problem.

The problem of establishing a permanent marine press for solution, Mr. Payne emphasizes. He contends that no question of government ownership is involved. The question, he says, is not between public and private ownership, but between American and foreign ownership.

"We want an established American merchant marine; how it shall be owned is less important," he says. "We desire that every ship now government owned shall be sold to and be privately owned and operated by Americans for Americans, but that will come later. The chief thing in hand is to create a merchant marine."

Ships alone will not create a merchant marine, Mr. Payne reminds the Old Colony club members. "Indeed," he warns, "unless we have men, money and brains in the shipping business, ships may become a liability rather than an asset. How, then, may a merchant marine be established? It cannot be done in a day. It cannot be of New York city, publisher of Navy Mr., the most prominent Russian newspaper in the United States, who formerly employed Leon Trotsky; Isaac E. Ferguson, chief counsel for the party, and Louis E. C. Fraine, editor in chief of all Communist propaganda in this country, who is in Mexico, it is believed.

The authorities here regard Reed, although he was graduated from Harvard, as one of the most earnest young Communists in America. Before the indictment which hangs over him was found, federal and state courts had indicted Reed for alleged seditious utterances and writings. But the indictments were quashed, or, on being tried, he was acquitted.

done by legislation. It requires time, habit, growth and individual capacity, initiative and enterprise.

"Many seem to think the shipping board can do this by reducing prices of ships, and instantly shipping men will spring up and all our ships will be bought by private owners, and presto! a merchant marine is a fact. This is a serious error. A substantial reduction in price would undoubtedly sell some 300 ships, but this would not touch the problem. Ships cannot be sold in large numbers until the country is prepared to buy them. It is not now prepared.

Must Acquire Ship Habit.

"We have not acquired the ship habit. Who loans money on ships? Whom of your acquaintanceship would buy a ship mortgage? Are your neighbors sending their boys to sea? These things must come to pass before we are a maritime nation, prepared to buy over 2,000 ships.

"My conclusion is it is not possible to have a successful merchant marine until the country grows into the ship habit. The American newspapers and magazines must arouse the thinking men among manufacturers, investment bankers, farmers and labor to the necessity for a merchant marine; teach the people to think and act in the language of shipping. They must first understand, then they will act.

"Already great strides are being made. Even now we have 300 firms or companies operating shipping board ships. They employ on land and sea nearly 60,000 men in the service. We maintain a recruiting service and school to teach officers, engineers and sailors how to do the work and fit them for the sea.

"American insurance is essential. Companies must be encouraged and new ones established, that we be not dependent on foreign companies for our ship insurance. The American bureau of shipping must be developed and strengthened to the end that in all technical matters affecting shipping we may be independent of any foreign institutions. To accomplish this task, all Americans must pull together. The tales of the sea must become the gospel of the nursery and of the fireside."

DRESS SIMPLIFIED BY QUEEN

Low Necks Permitted at British State Functions, But No Feathers or Veils.

London.—Peersesses who attended the state opening of parliament wore dresses with low necks, "but without feathers and veils."

This was by order of the lord chamberlain, who has charge of all state functions.

It is understood that this new rule was due to Queen Mary's determination that in future the dresses for women attending state functions should be of a simpler character than heretofore. Formerly the gorgeous dresses of women at these functions drew crowds of sightseers, and "court photographers" did a big business.

Use Stones as Money, Says This U. S. Marine

San Francisco.—Stones, flat smooth ones, with holes drilled in the center, constitute the form of money the Yaps use, according to Marine Corps Sergt. Albertos Breenahan, who just returned from the Orient and who was a visitor recently at the Island of Yap, a tropical isle in the Pacific, used as a trans-Pacific cable station.

"A Yap dollar stone weighs two pounds," adds the marine. "When the natives get on top of a mountain and pitch pennies it reminds one of a landslide."

The applicant, John Kornahrens, suggested that as household help is lacking the "members of a noble old profession might come to the rescue."

Tastes and Odors of Wood.

Though most native American woods are without pronounced odor or taste American Forestry notes that woods of the laurel family, such as sassafras and California laurel or myrtle, have a distinct spicy odor and taste. Port Oxford cedar has a very spicy, resinous odor; other cedars, especially pencil cedar or Juniper, a more aromatic odor. Hemlock has a slightly sour odor, while cypress is somewhat rancid.

FIRST USED IN CIVIL WAR

Idea of Divisional Insignia Is Credited to General Joseph Hooker—Were Worn as Cap Ornaments.

"The divisional insignia, which was hailed as something of a novelty when it was introduced in the A. E. F., did not stand for an entirely new idea in uniform decorations for an American army," says the Home Sector, the ex-soldiers' weekly.

Gen. Joseph Hooker—'Fighting Joe'—whose record in another American war fought sixty years ago has not been entirely submerged in the vast history that grew out of that war, had conceived the same insignia idea, and the men of the regiments fighting under him in the Civil war put on a distinctive emblem and thereby established a fashion that was adopted by all the Union forces. The idea did not die with the Civil war, for in the Spanish-American war also American soldiers wore distinctive emblems to show what organization they belonged to.

"The divisional insignia as worn by the A. E. F. was new, however, in the details of its wearing, for the soldiers of the Civil war and of the Spanish-American war did not wear cloth patches on the left shoulder. The fighting men of the Civil war wore their emblems—made of metal, with cloth centers—as cap ornaments. The soldiers of the Spanish-American war displayed their own organization marks—of enameled metal with a clasp backing—pinned to their left breast just above the pocket flap."

FINE POINT IN DRAW POKER

Would a Gentleman Take a Pot on a Hand That Was Not Dealt to Him?

Coats off, shirtsleeves rolled up, and sopping handkerchiefs bound tightly round their brows, Bloodthirsty Bill, Cheater Charlie, Daredevil Dick, the dealer, and Slasher Sam sat in solemn conclave round the table, playing a furious game of poker.

Stakes and excitement ran high. Each man seemed to hold a tiptop hand, and none would relinquish the betting. At last time came for the hands to be exposed.

"Four twos!" shrieked Bloodthirsty Bill.

"Four threes!" shouted Cheater Charlie.

"Straight flush!" roared Daredevil Dick, the dealer.

"Royal flush!" screeched Slasher Sam.

Daredevil Dick, the dealer, was staggered.

"Take it, Sam, if you've got the nerve," he muttered; "but you know it's not the hand I dealt you."—London Tit-Bits.

GET PUBLICITY ON CALENDAR

That Form of Advertising Is the Most Popular With the Merchants of China.

It has been known for a long time what a relative task it was to go visiting in China—that is, if you happened to be a lofty dignitary and must therefore carry along a card of uncomfortable dimensions. Advertising, it seems, shows a corresponding divergence not only from occidental methods, but from those of nearby Japan. There are thousands upon thousands of newspapers in China, but they are not very firmly established, and when they do not soon disappear altogether, they are almost sure to change name frequently, as has been known to happen with certain American products. Newspapers of the republic have an average daily circulation of 3,000, which is larger than it looks, since the papers are carefully passed from hand to hand. There is, then, to be sure, newspaper advertising as well as posters. But the most popular form of publicity for merchants is—the calendar! Nowhere is that humble domestic article more important than in China. Advertisements here placed are looked upon every day. And after all, when you look at the calendars that begin to arrive about this time of the year, isn't it possible to imagine that China is not so far from the West as it might be?—Christian Science Monitor.

TO OPERATE AIRSHIP FLEET

Ambitious Plans Credited to English Company Well Within the Realm of Possibility.

A company has been formed in England for the purpose of operating a fleet of airships to various parts of the world. The syndicate desires to acquire ground near Southampton, where it proposes to erect a tower 120 to 150 feet high to which airships may be moored, and an elevator will take the passengers up the tower and into the gondolas of the ships. The syndicate intends to have a fleet of non-rigid airships in commission next spring; the smaller will carry 32 passengers and crew and the larger 40 passengers and crew. The company also anticipates running some of the larger rigid airships now in course of construction. These will have a carrying capacity of 150 passengers and be able to travel to any part of the globe. It is proposed to use the smaller non-rigid airships to feed the larger ones and meet them at the principal centers. The cost per mile is put at about half the cost of a taxicab fare today, approximately about 18 cents per mile.—Scientific American.

Reasons for Feeding Birds.

By feeding the birds in cold weather one provides ammunition against the mosquitoes of June, explains a member of the Animal Protective league. It seems that birds feed their young on mosquitoes, thus destroying great numbers of the pests. Little natural food is available for birds in the winter except in the extreme South, and even there less can be found by them at this season than in the summer. So when the table or pantry shelf is cleared of crumbs if the contents of the crumb tray are scattered outdoors instead of being put in the garbage can, the birds will be thankful, and will show their gratitude by saving the food-giver many a mosquito bite next summer.

Mosquitoes are only one of the many excellent reasons why birds should be fed during the winter. The others are all the other insects which hamper the production of the garden, and all pleasures of song and plumage.—St. Joseph Gazette.

North Dakota's Lignite.

A government report says "the fuel problem has been forever solved in North Dakota." The western half of the state is underlain with lignite, the beds estimated to contain 600,000,000,000 tons. Over thousands of square miles this soft coal lies so close to the surface that farmers merely dig a hole in their own fields and take out the coal as they require it. During 1918 1,000,000,000 tons were mined. If the farmer is too busy with his farm work to help himself, he can buy it for $1.50 or $2 per ton. Many of the large grain elevators are operated by power furnished by coal that is mined on the spot, and this general economy in fuel has aided materially in increasing the per capita wealth.

Captain of Industry at Three.

Little Edward is just 3 years old, but "going on 4." He is very fond of his grandmother's home and often is a young visitor. His last call was last Sunday afternoon. Grandmother, who had been taking a nap, was a bit late coming downstairs to greet her favorite guest. She found him-cuddled up in the big easy chair in front of the fireplace. Edward smiled as she stooped to kiss him, but, boylike, that was about the only sign of affection from him.

"Get up, dear," urged Edward's mother, "that's grandmother's chair."

"No, it isn't," asserted the young man, "I beat her to it."

Possible Restraint.

"There is a great deal of danger in all this socialistic literature."

"I suppose so," replied the man who is exasperatingly tranquil. "And yet if a man would take the trouble to read and understand all that has been written about socialism before embarking in business as a 'red,' he'd be entirely too old to participate in any active demonstrations."

LAKE FOR CONGRESS

When a man has lived the greater part of his life in one particular section, has been active in every business enterprise, has been mayor of the city, has been a member of the legislature for three terms and has been an upstanding, straight from the shoulder citizen who never dodged an issue and yet has the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens he may have some enemies. Every real man has them. But when that man offers himself for Congress from his district and has his home people solid behind him it means that he can carry his district for he goes into the fray with the feeling that his own people are with him and he can assure those who do not know him that where he is known they respect him for what he has done for his city, county and state and it goes a long way for any candidate to have his neighbors rally to his standard when he is seeking a position public trust. Forest Lake of this city, candidate for Congress, has his home county solid behind him and it gives him confidence in the result. His home people are giving him the loyal support that will land him in the position of Member of Congress from the Fourth Congressional District.

WELL SAID ABOUT OVERALL CLUB

We note from several of our exchanges that the "Overall Club" is getting to be quite the proper thing. There can be no objection to a man, togging himself up in overalls and attending church if he prefers to do so. This is a free country where a man can dress, act and speak as he pleases, provided he does not transgress the rights of his neighbor. When it comes to making the claim that such things are necessary however, the contention is certainly ridiculous in the extreme. Just to satisfy ourself what it would cost a man to get a respectable outfit for this summer, we approached our friend Henry Levy and asked him what he would take to furnish us with the following: A good genuine Palm Beach suit, straw hat, good leather soled pair of canvas shoes, two Union suits of-underwaer, two pair of socks, two shirts and a tie. Out came his pencil and he answered $25, and glad to do it. Probably any other of the merchants here would duplicate these prices. Twenty-five dollars. An average man who is willing to do a day's work can get $3.75 for an honest day's work and he will not have to hunt long for a job. Less than seven days work to provide your summer's outfit. Do you need to wear overalls or is it simply a grand-stand play. Bosh, The trouble is we are all running in high gear. We do not wish the ordinary. We want the best the market affords because we have the money to pay for it. Come easy go easy. If wages were low, work scarce and soup-houses a necessity then we would have reason to find fault. If we expect to ride in gas buggies and hit the high places and throw our dollars at Mocking birds we must expect others to have their profits. The Government can preach economy and spend like a drunken sailor on shore leave. Overall clubs can organize and disband, but the American people are going right on until they get a lesson. Mark this. If everyone would sober down and strike an ordinary pace things would work back to normal but they are not going to do to without a lesson. It is not the high cost of living that is hurting but the cost of living high.—Winter Haven Chief.

And in discussing prices with Chas. Britt of Perkins & Britt of this city we find that they will duplicate the price above and throw in a belt, two collars, several handkerchiefs and a suit case in which to carry the clothes all for $25. And other Sanford merchants will do equally as well all of which goes to show that the American public is to blame as much as anybody for the high prices. You can still get reasonably priced stuff but the average customer nowadays wants to make the sky the limit and the merchants are stocking with the kind of goods that are demanded. But why wear overalls? Better to wear your old clothes.

SERIOUS LOSSES TO FLORIDA FOLLOW THE STRIKE

It is practically impossible to estimate the pecuniary damage that will result to the state of Florida if the strike originated, and carried on by an irresponsible, illegal and unauthorized mob, to characterize them as their fellow workmen do, is permitted to run its course unchecked. There are thousands of hard working truckers in the state who have put months of honest toil, and many dollars of good money into the production of food crops, for which they knew from past experience, there would be a good demand in the cities of the north. They did this believing that when their crops were ready to go to market, the railroads running to those cities would be only too glad to carry them to the buyers. The crops are ready, the people in the northern cities are anxious to get them at good prices, but an aggregation of individuals, with no better authority than that of the highwayman who holds a pistol to the head of the unlucky traveler, says the trains shall not run to take the truckers' crops to market, until the owners of the roads accede to their unauthorized demands. The crops may rot in the fields or on the docks, the growers may be ruined, and the inhabitants of the cities may perish with hunger for all they care, so they carry their point. It is an intolerable situation and a disgrace to our civilization.

Government is supposed to be conducted for the greatest good of the greatest number of people, and yet we permit a comparatively little band of "outlaws"—so called by their fellows—to hold up many times their number to bring multitudes of innocent people to the verge of ruin and starvation. We can conceive of such a thing happening in Turkey or even in Russia, but we claim to be a civilized and Christian people and such barbarism is repulsive to our very souls. It is a reproach to our boasted intelligence and altruism that we still adhere to the old middle age method of settling disputes by the mailed fist, for the modern strike is nothing else.

They tell us the present strike is "illegal" but will somebody inform us wherein it differs from a legal strike if there be such a thing either in methods or results. The strike is an archaic, outworn method of settling industrial disputes. Until we devise something better we must put up with industrial chaos and anarchy with all its losses and inconveniences.—Tampa Times.

THE FAIRIES' HOLIDAY.

ONE morning when Elsie got up she found it was raining very hard and that of course put an end to all that Elsie had planned for the day. She was to take her lunch with some other girls and their mothers and go to the park for a picnic. Elsie did not want any breakfast. She did not want to say good morning even. She was cross at everybody because it rained.

"I just think it is too mean for anything, this old rain to come and spoil our fun," she said.

"But, my dear, the park will be much sweeter and cleaner after the rain," said her mother. "Be a good, cheerful little daughter and smile."

But Elsie would not smile. She pouted and even cried, and when breakfast was over she went sulkily upstairs to the playroom and looked out of the window.

"Horrid old raindrops!" Elsie said. "I just hate raindrops."

"Oh, I am sorry," said a voice beside her; "for those are my sisters out there on the window pane."

On the arm of the big chair in which she was sitting, Elsie saw a pretty little creature all in silver, which sparkled like a diamond, and she knew that her visitor was a fairy, because she carried a wand.

"I am sorry you hate the raindrops," said the fairy again. "I am sure you won't when you know who they are."

"They have spoiled my picnic in the park," said Elsie, "and I am sure I shall never like raindrops again."

"But wait until I tell you about them!" said the fairy. "Those are my sister fairies, and the only time we ever have a holiday is when we can disguise ourselves as raindrops and have a day off."

"A day off?" questioned Elsie. "What do you mean by that?"

"Oh, dear! Didn't you know that a fairy is just as busy as can be, running about and whispering good things into the ears of children who think wrong things?"

"No; I didn't," said Elsie. "I never heard you whispering to me!"

"Oh, yes, you have—many times," replied the Fairy. "Only, of course, you did not know it was a fairy who made you do right."

"But why are you not having a holiday, too?" asked Elsie.

"I was until you said such things about us, and then I had to change my dress and come to tell you who the raindrops are. We work so hard all the time that I am sure now you will not be cross with us for having a holiday, and when you see how bright and green everything is tomorrow in the park I am sure you will forgive us for playing today."

When Elsie opened her eyes, for, of course, she had been asleep, the Fairy had gone. But outside were all the little raindrops chasing each other down the window pane, and as Elsie watched them with great interest now one drop, larger than the others, stopped until it was pushed on by the others.

"That drop must have been my Fairy," thought Elsie. "Oh, you cunning little raindrops! I don't hate you at all—I love you, and I am glad you have a good time," she said. "and I'll never be cross and cry again when it rains, for I shall know it is a fairy holiday, and I do hope I did not spoil the day for the little Fairy who told me about it by being cross." POOR GIRL!

She had been an unconscionable flirt. Now she sat on the knee of her fiance, and was pensive.

"What is it, sweetheart?" cooed the lover.

"Oh nothing!" she sighed. "Yes, but something is troubling my precious."

"Only that my girlhood is disappearing, and it has been a glorious time."

"But you mustn't let it."

"I can't help it. You see I'm on my last lap right now."

THE TEETH.

ONCE every six months the woman who values her good looks will go to a dentist and have her teeth looked after. During this time, very little decay can take place, and such tiny cavities as appear can be fixed with small expense and trouble. The longer the time between visits, the greater the damage to the teeth and the more painful the fixing.

At this half-yearly visit, the teeth should be cleaned by the dentist. All the tiny lime deposits that collect and yellow the teeth are removed by a small knife like instrument, the teeth are then cleaned with powdered pumice on a small whirling brush, and then cleaned again with chalk. They look beautifully white.

To keep them white—though milk white teeth are no longer considered so beautiful—a little peroxide may be used once a week. This foams inside the mouth and is one of the best antiseptics that could be used. But daily use would injure the gums. The woman should find out from her dentist whether she is subject to acid mouth or not, and which dentifrice would suit her best.

The teeth should be brushed twice a day, night and morning. Many recommend three times daily, but this is almost needless cleanliness. The brush should be used up and down, not crosswise, so the bristles can penetrate between the teeth. This saves much decay and disfigurement. (Copyright.)

CONFIDENCE--- THE FOUNDATION OF BANKING

U. S. IS QUICKER SHIPBUILDER

Great Britain, However, Has More Tonnage Under Construction in Its Yards.

London.—An analysis of Lloyd's register returns for the quarter that ended December 31, made by the American Chamber of Commerce in London, indicate that, for the first time since the United States became a shipbuilder on a large scale, British shipyards show signs of regaining their former supremacy.

The tonnage now building in the United Kingdom, says the American chamber, exceeds by 27,732 tons that under present construction in the United States, where the decrease in the building of new tonnage amounts to 504,000 tons, as compared with the figures for September last.

The American chamber remarks that the tonnage under construction may not be so good a basis for judgment as the amount of tonnage actually launched, and that the United States is putting ships on the water more rapidly than Great Britain.

REFUSE $5,000,000 FOR ART

German Government Cannot Sell Altar Piece to America—Belongs to Belgium.

Berlin.—An offer of $5,000,000 has been made by an American to the German government for sections of the famous altar piece painted by Jan and Hubert Van Eyck, formerly in the Cathedral of St. Bavo, Ghent, and now in the Berlin museum, says the Tageblatt.

It is said the government cannot accept the offer, as the treasure must be returned to Belgium, under the terms of the Versailles treaty.

Germany, however, must pay the Hohenzollern family for this work of art as a part of the settlement for the taking over of royal holdings, the newspaper says.

CHARMS FAIL INDIAN

Did Not Protect Him When He Blew Out Gas.

Kayuse Chief on His Way to Washington Dies in Chicago Hotel.

Chicago.—The tribe of Kayuse Indians on the reservation in Umatilla county, near Pendleton, Ore., are awaiting assurance from their chief, U. M. Sum Kim, that their lands will not be taken from them. They will learn that he died in a hotel at 803 South Wells street, asphyxiated by gas. It is believed that he blew out the flame. His charm of four snake heads failed to protect him.

Chief Sum Kim was on his way to Washington to appear before the Indian board of commissioners to plead that his people be protected from a firm that is attempting to take parts of their land away through court proceedings for failure to pay an alleged debt. It is said.

Adam Bird, owner of the hotel, detecting the odor of gas, traced it to the Indian's room. The South Clark street police were summoned, but it was found he was dead. Tied to a string around his neck were four small charms. Within them were the dried heads of four snakes.

He had worn a sombrero, boots, yellow duck trousers and a black shirt. He carried four blankets. The body was taken to the Central undertaking rooms at 318 Federal street.

Among the papers found were those of a law firm demanding that the chief appear before them and straighten out a money matter, threatening court procedure if he failed to do so. The chief carried affidavits proving his side and a map and blue prints showing the land owned by the tribe. Traveling orders and appearance papers for a hearing before the commissioners were also found.

Father May Swear When Hanging Paper

Moorhead, Minn.—When father lays the carpet on the stairs has long been conceded as a time to throw the mantle of charity about certain sayings and doling of paternalism that normally would be beneath his dignity.

Now comes a Moorhead Judge who says that the law extends this leniency to such occasions as when father hangs the paper on the wall. So Mrs. Henry Buchholz of Snuk Center, Minn., was denied her bill for divorce. Judge Nye ruling that whatever Henry might do when exhausted from matching wallpaper patterns and when covered with paste and perspiration does not constitute "cruel and inhuman treatment," especially when records prove him at all other times meek, faithful and provident.

Playing Safe.

Mr. Hardiface—No, dear; I can't kiss you here; it's too light. Miss Manchester—But you kissed me on this very spot last night, under the electric light.

Mr. Hardiface—True; but this is daylight, and some one might get a snap shot of me with a concealed camera.

DROPS. THREE MILES

Aviator Has Thrilling Experience Trying for Record.

Oxygen Tank Begins to Fall and Flyer Almost Loses Consciousness.

Dayton, O.—Dropping 14,000 feet while six miles in the air and still alive today was an experience through which Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chief test pilot at McCook field and champion altitude flyer of the secret service, passed recently.

Major Schroeder formerly lived on Washington boulevard, Chicago. He made his first flight over the stock yards here ten days ago.

While making a maximum test flight in a Le Pere ship, in which he has been flying for altitudes, Schroeder noticed the thermometer of the ship. It registered 52 degrees below zero.

In this extreme cold the oxygen tank began to fall.

He had nearly lost consciousness when he suddenly realized that he was losing his sense of direction and control. He reached for the throttle of his ship and missed. He then tried the switches.

Suddenly the ship dropped. At 18,000 feet Major Schroeder partly regained consciousness and found that his ship was turning a spiral. In a desperate effort he righted the Le Pere, which began diving safely into McCook field.

As a result of the ordeal Schroeder's sense of hearing is dulled.

He was at the hangars next day preparing to make another flight. Nerves shaken? No!

ARTISTS DON'T WANT CARD

Vote Shows Them Opposed to Plan to Unionize Profession, Says Announcement.

New York.—American artists are not in favor of a union, according to the Society of Independent Artists, which made public the result of a questionnaire among its 550 members on the subject. The artists were asked to register their approval or disapproval of a union similar to the recently organized union of French graphic and plastic artists in Paris.

The detailed vote was not announced, but the attitude of those opposed to the proposition was stated by Walter Wesley Dow of Columbia university, who said:

"We have more societies than we know what to do with. It simply makes additional trouble and takes time that artists would prefer to give to their work."

PIERCES STEEL 13 INCHES

Test Showing of 16-Inch Explosive Is Thought to Establish a Record.

Washington.—Boring its way through more than 13 inches of armor belt steel, a 16-inch projectile produced at the new naval ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., the third shell fired out of a test group of five, met every requirement in a test at the Indian Head (Md.) proving grounds, and established what naval officers believe to be a record in big shell production.

The 16-inch projectile, which weighs 2,100 pounds, against the 1,400 pounds of the 14-inch shell, will be turned out in quantities for the guns of the dreadnaughts.

Hard to Combat.

A scientist said in a discussion of an anti-tuberculosis campaign: "Ignorance—ignorance of hygiene—is our worst foe, and ignorance is very hard to combat."

"I am reminded of a story about a scientist who once came upon an old flint-cutter digging flints from chalk. The scientist, remembering a superstition prevalent among flint-cutters said:

"Do you think flints grow?"

"I don't think nothing about it, sir, said the old man. 'I know they grow!'"

"Well," said the scientist, "take a flint home, put it on your mantelpiece and see how much it grows in a year."

"All right, sir," said the flint-cutter, "and you do the same with a potato, and see how much it grows."

Service.

The man wished to spit, but it was a pay-as-you-enter car and he was out of luck. He rang the bell, got up and went to the door of the car. At the next corner the car stopped. The motorman opened the door for the man to get off, but he just spit and returned to his seat.

All the passengers heard the motor man say: "And still some people have got the nerve to kick on the kind of service we put out."—Indianapolis Star.

Merchants in the Philippines.

That a merchant does not need to have or retain a capital investment in an established business before he can be admitted to the Philippine islands is the gist of a decision handed down in the case of a Japanese merchant who sold his business and came to Manila for the purpose of engaging in business in the islands. He was denied admission by the customs authorities on the ground that he did not belong to the class of merchants exempted in the immigration laws.

Rewarded Peary's Discovery.
