Seminole Students Hear Inauguration Speech By Holland

The radio system of the Seminole High School is so constructed that important speeches and events may be heard by the teachers and students in their classrooms.

For the first of these programs the members of the U. S. listened to the inaugural address of Spessard L. Holland, the new Governor of Florida.

This first program set an inspiration for more of the same type. Mr. McKay contacted the faculty about the matter of obtaining a radio and victrola up with the County School Board. The reply was "insufficient funds".

Therefore Mr. McKay contacted the faculty about the plan.

The faculty agreed that this equipment would be vital to the school. The question of the money proposition was put to the student body. If each student donated toward the fund, the results would be enough to purchase a turntable and some of the other necessities.

The main purpose of this plan is to let the students hear the best of programs that point out high qualities of education, and to learn the present happenings of the world day by day.

Comments From Commercial School

This gray week has surely been a poor way to start the new year, but just because the weather has been poor is no indication that the spirits of the Vocational School students are—But it's no indication that they aren't, because after all, who is glad to settle down to work after over two weeks of fun?

Monday afternoon Mrs. Maxwell borrowed a radio and we all listened to the President's address to Congress. Lillian Adams, Mary Bealin and Selma Levy tried to take the speech down in shorthand, but Mrs. Roosevelt talked just a little too fast. The girls couldn't read back all of their notes. Better luck next time, we hope.

Flash! William Hodges has finally finished the second chapter in his bookkeeping. We are also glad to announce that Mary Bealin has finally finished—half of Mr. Good. For the benefit of the uninitiated Mr. Good is the president of the school in first year bookkeeping.

The postponing of school tonight with its new pupils, Mrs. J. A. Martin, Perry Lee Bell, and Mrs. Mamie Hodgkin.

Mary Young has a temporary position at Lecher's during the absence of Mr. Lecher's secretary.

The spelling lesson went along smoothly Tuesday it was almost unreal. Wonder why? Could be that Dick Myers wasn't here. Ummm. Could be!

A literature teacher asked tonight what his examples of book stories, or legends dealing with the following parts of the body: nose, hand, hair, heel.

For these, Johnny named "Pinocchio," "The Boy Who Cried Wolf," "Hansel and Gretel" and (here Johnny paused). "Oh yes, I know—" "Moin Kampf" is a book about a heel.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

NOT HOW GOOD ARE YOU,
BUT WHAT ARE YOU GOOD
FOR? Herein, is my father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, ye shall be my disciples.—
John 15:8

THE SUN IS IN MY HOUSE

(From Yankee)
The sun is in my house; the days slide over smoothly, day on day. Only the sound of timbers shifting under the push of wind, and cold that draws the clapboard nails with frost, marks the return of winter to the hills.
The hours of dark come soon, and rest comes soon
Our lamps put out their welcome mists of light like lanterns of warmth on the domain of snow.
Peace is in my house and my senses can see the slopes of winter where fur and forest rest,
the flags of smoke from fires my neighbors' houses on roads that run to mine.
Onion walks the sky and the dipper swings high, long, year long, over the silvered roof of home. The spring sings come again;
the crows call in the sky; the sun is full in my neighbors' house, and in my sun and evening warmth and quiet sleep.

The Lease-Lend Bill

President Roosevelt's lease-lead bill for aid to Britain advanced a step nearer its final enactment yesterday with its approval by Wendell Willkie, recent Republican candidate for President, who said that "in dire circumstances such as the present) extraordinary powers must be granted to the elected executive."

Mr. Willkie's support of the Roosevelt bill gives to the nation a degree of unity which it has not enjoyed for many years and which is extremely urgent at this time, and demonstrates conclusively what was often said during the recent campaign that in foreign policies there was no essential difference between the Democratic leader and the Republican standard bearer.

To be sure, there are certain other Republican leaders who have been critical of this particular bill and even some who have denounced the President's program of aid to British from beginning to end. But there are also some members of Mr. Roosevelt's own party, who command important positions of leadership, who have been similarly unenthusiastic about it.

The most vigorous isolationists, we believe, are in fact in the Democratic party. Among them we might name Senator Wheeler of Montana and Senator Clark of Missouri. These two men are in a class with Senator Taft of Ohio, while Republicans Herbert Hoover and Alf Landon, though opposing this particular bill, have in general supported the policy of aid to Britain.

But all of these isolationists and those who would aid Britain but not enough to do any good represent an extremely small faction in both parties, just as they represent an extremely small part of American public opinion. Most Democratic and Republican leaders, like most Americans in the rank and file, believe that it is vital to American interests for Britain to win the war, and that whatever aid we render her should be sufficient to see her through.

The lease-lead plan may be a subterfuge for outright gifts to England, as Mr. Landon says, and it may embrace too sweeping and too many dictatorial powers as even Mr. Willkie pointed out, and it may be that some modifications in it are advisable, but in general it would accomplish the purpose of getting help to the British while there is yet time to do some good; and after all, that at the moment is what is most important.

Only The Best

and was offered something "that wasn't fit for buzzards to eat," she probably wouldn't buy it and she probably wouldn't go near the grocery store again. Florida growers who put fruit on the market which "isn't fit for buzzards" certainly aren't helping their cause along either.

Mrs. Matilda Dennis, New York representative of the Waverly Growers Co-operative, says she is often asked "if Florida growers think the consumers in the North are buzzards, willing to eat any old thing they can get from Florida." She says she has always contended that growers should let their own taste tell them what to ship. "If the grower would not eat it every morning and would not serve it to his own family and friends, how in the world can he expect the consumer in the North to eat it?"

Not many Florida growers are quite so inconsiderate of the Northern consumer. By far the larger part of them not only raise first class citrus but are particular not to let any fruit of inferior quality slip into their shipments.
However, the careful zealous efforts of the majority are often nullified by the careless, if not downright criminal, attempts of the few to sell anything that comes from their trees.

A comparatively small number of growers peppering the market with green fruit, or with fruit that is bitter, pithy or otherwise unfit for human consumption, can spoil a whole season for the rest of the growers. Once a housewife has been burned on Florida citrus, she's apt to steer clear of it for the rest of the season. She just concludes that this must be a bad year in Florida and the rest of the time asks for California oranges or Texas grapefruit.

What is said here of citrus is of course true of celery and other Florida vegetables. During the last few years we have had what amounts to an over-production of the celery crop, and yet throughout all these years no comprehensive attempt has been made to eliminate from shipments the poorer quality of celery and put only the best on the market, thus building up a reputation for quality merchandise.

Certainly as long as we are raising more fruit and vegetables than can be sold anyway, we should exert every possible means of placing only the best on the market.
There is no excuse for trying to sell poor stuff when some of the best has to be plowed under. The grower who ships citrus or celery he wouldn't eat himself is cutting his own throat and those of the other growers as well.

Campaign Starts Raising Funds In Paralysis Fight of the two contests are to be announced at the Birthday Party on Jan. 30.

The "Mike O'Dimer" Drive is to be carried on with a coin board similar to the one used by the Salvian Army in the Christmas drive. Aim of the group will be to fill the board with drives and create a mile of smiles. An extra mile is to be held at the final dis-track on this card of Jan. 25 and proceeds of this race will go to the infantile paralysis fund.

The campaign will end with a special "President's" Birthday Party on Jan. 30. Plans for this party have not been completed but will be announced as soon as they are finished, Mr. Boyd said.

Mr. Pepper stated that the whole state is putting on an extensive campaign. He is now engaged in organizing every one of the 67 counties. "Every effort" is being made by the organization to make this a banner year," he said. "All the state is now being organized by the organization."

CITRUS MARMALADE

Florida folks are lucky in having access to an abundance of wonderful citrus fruits at this time—tangerines, grapefruit, lemons, tangelos, kumquats, clementines and tangerines. Any one of these fruits or a combination of them may be used for delicious, whole-some spreads or marmalades. The marmalade will serve for hot biscuits, toast, muffins, and other breads, but for many other purposes.

Have you ever used marmalade in tea, for instance, California marmalade, preferably? If not try a spoonful for a most refreshing change from the time honored slice of lemon plus sugar. The marmalade will sweeten and flavor at the same time. I gave you a very simple but delicious recipe for calamondin marmalade last week. Remember that the marmalade must not be too stiff but should be just barely jellied so that it dissolves easily in the hot tea.

Did you ever substitute it for sugar on your breakfast cereal or have you used it as a filling for those little left over pie crusts or as a sandwich spread with cream cheese or peanut butter? It is equally good for party sandwiches or for the school lunch box. Have you ever steeped a tablespoonful of marmalade in ice cream to make a delectable amuse-bouche or have you slipped a half cup into your

Dinner In Honor Of Lehman's Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brumley entertained at dinner on Sunday in honor of the birthday anniversaries of H. J. Lehman and Mrs. Rodman Lehman.

Present were Mrs. Lola Howell of Everett, Ill., Mrs. A. W. Lewis and Miss Helen Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Lehman of Winter Park, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. Brumley and the four Brumley boys.

Have you used it in the place of jelly toll?

Marmalade mixed with an equal quantity of chopped pecans makes a marvelous filling for layer cakes. The cake will be especially nice if it is finished off with even-minute orange icing. You have had the recipe for the marmalade; here is the recipe for the icing:

Ingredients: 2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, few grains of salt, 1/2 marshmallows, and 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Combine unbeaten egg whites, sugar, orange juice, cream of tartar, and salt in top of double boiler. Cook over boiling water, heating constantly with a starbeater until light and fluffy (about 7 minutes). Cut marshmallows in quarters, add to frosting mixture, and fold in until partially dissolved. Add orange rind. Make enough frosting to cover loaf cake 11 x 7 x 1 inches in size.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13 (Special)—The United States Coast Guard has been determined upon, according to Senator Charles Pepper, the senator expressed the hope that Florida boat firms may share in at least a part of this work.

Although the construction of 300 housing units at Morrison Field, West Palm Beach, was contemplated by the War Department, it has been decided, according to Senator Pepper, that construction will begin shortly on only 150 such units. The cost will be in excess of $400,000.

Morrison Field is one of the sub-bases at the Southeastern Army Air Base at Tampa, which is known as MacDill Field. Senator Pepper expressed the belief that before completion of the 150 units now to be built, the Army would authorize the construction of the additional 150 housing units to complete the 300 originally contemplated.

Drewn and Company of Pensacola, has been awarded a contract for the construction of 100 housing units at the Tallahassee Municipal Airport, which is another of the sub-bases to the Army's MacDill Field. The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000 and is to be completed in 120 calendar days. The units to be constructed will be completed by married enlisted personnel stationed at the Tallahassee sub-base.

Senator Pepper also announced that during the next week or ten days a contract will be let for the construction of 100 housing units, outside of the reservation at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, for enlisted and other personnel stationed at Pensacola. This contract will be under the Defense Housing Corporation, employing funds of the Federal Housing Administration and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Recent Florida contracts awarded by the War Department in Florida include a project for the construction of temporary housing at Drew Field, which is an auxiliary field to the Southeastern Army Air Base, Tampa. This contract provides for the expenditure of $14,500. A. J. Honeycutt Company, Inc., of Birmingham, Ala., was awarded the contract in the amount of $80,221 for the construction of a temporary hangar at Drew Field.

The P. L. E. Construction Company of Oklahoma City was awarded a contract for the construction of a building at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola at a cost of $37,748.

Senator Pepper stated that a contract amounting to $1,254,800 has been awarded to Hillman & Levin of Jacksonville, Fla., for the construction of housing for married enlisted personnel in Pensacola. Three hundred units are to be constructed at Agardville, 119 at San Juan, and 50 units at Gayry.

Senator Pepper stated that in excess of $1,000 enlisted men and officers will be stationed at the Army and Navy establishments being constructed already in operation as a part of the Defense Program in Florida at the following camps or bases:

Purse Of $4,000 For Winners Of Game Cock Bouts

ORLANDO, Jan. 13.—Triumphant crowds of fighting cocks, including more than 200 of the nation's greatest of this species characterized by game, tenacity and love of battle to the death, will take daylong over the Orlando club's pit in the International Tournament Feb. 23-25.

From 9:00 A. M. until 5:00 P. M. during the four days, two cocks of equal weight—in one tournament match after match—will throw metal-tipped spurs and angry beaks at each other until one falls mortally wounded or runs from the battle. The handler will dispatch the rare game cock that runs because he is not worth to fight again.

The International is sponsored by the Orlando Game Club, which built a new pit on a 10-acre tract five miles west of here for this year's tournament, and is advanced as the "Kentucky Derby" for fighting cocks.

There are 15 entries for the tournament, and all have been filed, along with the fee of $500 each. Each entry comprises 15 cocks of different weights ranging from four pounds, 12 ounces, to six pounds, two ounces. Fighters for the tournament matches will be pitted by weight and a drawing.

The winning entry will be that whose cocks triumph in the greatest number of matches and will get a purse of $4,000; half the entrance fee money. The entries finishing second and third will divide the remaining $4,000 of the entrance fees.

The entries are from Florida, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina, West Virginia, New York and Texas. More than 1000 enthusiasts of the sport are expected to attend the tournament, held from as far as California.

Some of the entries are partnership affairs, although listed in the name of an individual or firm. Several breeders and trainers of game cocks combine their keep out all but the certified members of the cock-fighting gentry.

Followers of cock fighting keep their sport a closed affair because it is illegal in most states because they do not want any "reveling" on their gentlemen bet and because they do not believe the uninitiated can appreciate a match between two game fowls. A game cock fan says a match to a neophyte spectator is little more than the flurry of two balls of feathers pounding each other in mid-air, that the slash of the birds' rafter-filled spurs is not for the untrained eye to follow.

Side matches—mains and backs—will begin at the club's pit the day before the tournament and continue until the tournament's end as sidehows.

Six-Day Week A "Must," Says Manufacturer

Substitute For Loan Bill Drawn

Drafter Of Measure Says He Discussed It With Willkie

DETROIT, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Federal Labor Conciliator James F. Dewey today announced that as a "defense measure" he insists that all plants of the Eaton Manufacturing Company, suppliers of airplane engine parts, be reported and that all striking employees be sent back to work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Glenn L. Martin, airplane manufacturer, testified before the House Naval Committee today that the government must have power to draft both labor and industry for defense production.

He also asserted that a six-day week for "all means necessary" in defense industries is a "must" for making any progress.

A substitute for the Administration's bill to increase the number of national and federal judges was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Simpson, Republican, New York.

Under his measure, a concurrent resolution would have to be approved by Congress before the President could supply war materials to China, Greece or other nations resisting the Axis powers.
