

Shot 4 Times, Suspect Taken In Wild Chase

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

An armed robbery suspect shot by sheriff's deputies Sunday after a foot chase through a swamp at Midway, east of Sanford, was listed in "good" condition today at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford.

Lamar Mills, 21, Brisson Ave., Midway, underwent surgery Sunday afternoon for gunshot wounds in the stomach, shoulder, jaw and hand. Sheriff John Polk said the deputies fired five shots, the first a warning shot. The two deputies involved in the shooting, Sgt. Charles Coffee and deputy Donald McCormick, were suspended with pay by Sheriff Polk pending completion of an investigation into the wounding of Mills.

Mills was under police guard today at the hospital and charged by Sanford police with armed robbery of a service station and by deputies with resisting arrest with violence. A second suspect in the robbery, Harold Earl Moore, 22, also of Midway, had turned himself in at police headquarters for questioning in the robbery when officers went to Mills' residence to arrest him. Moore is being held in county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on an armed robbery charge.

Sgt. Coffee and deputy McCormick were taken to residence with Sheriff's police detective Sgt. William Duke. Officers said as they approached the house Mills ran into a swampy area to the rear of several houses.

After a two-block foot chase, in which Sgt. Coffee was bitten on the leg by a dog, the officers confronted Mills in the swamp area with knee-deep mud.

Officers said the suspect ignored their shouts of "freeze" and was drawing his right hand from his pants pocket and lunging at Coffee and McCormick when both officers fired their service revolvers. Investigators said a knife and a quantity of money was recovered at the shooting.

314,000 Expected By 2000

Seminole Growth: It's Time For Decision

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

One of the big decisions facing county government is where to spend the dollars to accommodate the more than 314,000 residents expected in Seminole County by the year 2000.

On Jan. 4, 1977, the Seminole County Commission is scheduled to make that decision. Commissioners will decide where to locate facilities, a decision which in turn will decide where most future private facilities will locate.

Two theories of growth are under consideration. One is the "sprawl plan," and the second is a tighter plan in which government spends money to insure orderly growth in certain areas of Seminole.

"Once the growth pattern is decided," Commission Chairman Dick Williams said today, "then you begin to develop a capital improvements program that will fit it."

In the sprawl plan, public facilities will be spread over a wide area. The second plan envisions government spending money for public facilities in specified geographic areas.

Williams said county planners have predicted 314,000 residents by the year 2000. At present, some 140,000 citizens call Seminole County home.

Williams said it "might take 10 years, it might take 30," but the population predictions should hold.

After commissioners decide which plan to adopt, public hearings will be held all over the county to receive input from the citizenry. Then all that remains is to commit the dollars for capital improvements.

The capital improvement program, in turn, fits in with the county's comprehensive plan — which must be adopted by October of next year. After two years of study, county planners have completed the first draft of the comprehensive plan. The plan must be approved by county commissioners.

It addresses itself to the following areas:

— The county's economic future.

— A study of county and city revenue sources.

— An inventory of existing land and a study of zoning.

— A study on conservation.

— Water and sewer plans for the future.

— An analysis of transportation for the future.

— Four working papers on methods of combating drainage problems.

— Recommendations on solid waste disposal.

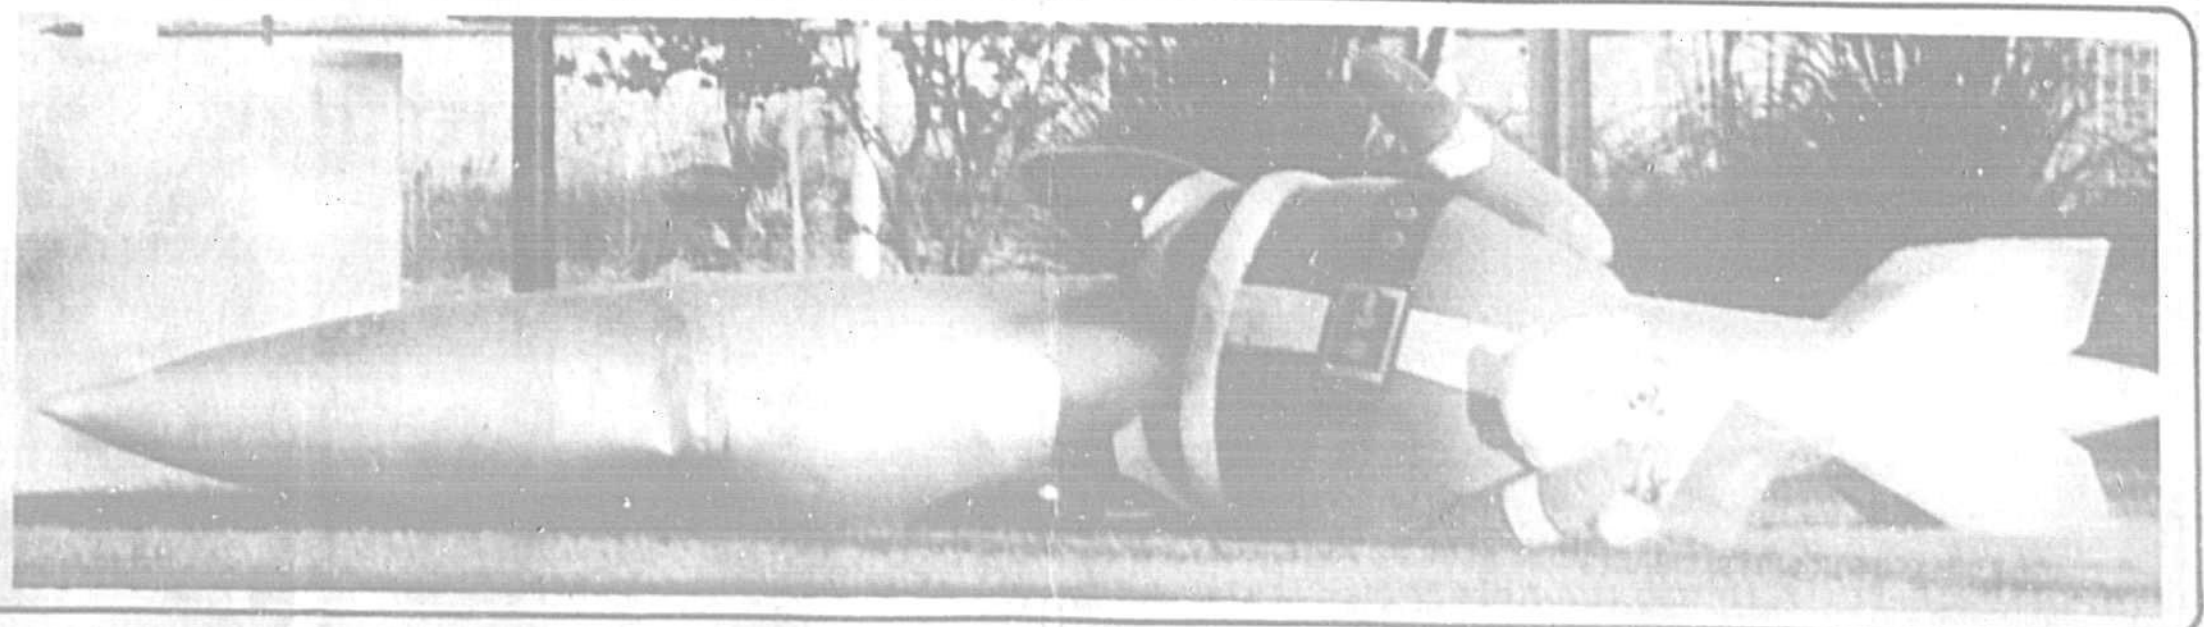

— Housing. In this area, the recommendation of the ad-hoc committee on impact fees will be taken into consideration. The proposal was to abolish the fees system which has about $4.5-million on the books for future collections from area developers.

HELP FOR HOMEOWNERS

FILE THIS ONE!

DEAR HELOISE: My daughter was married a year ago and one of my gifts to her was a set of china. She has the many, many blue I had saved from your column. I had it as a Christmas present for her. I have been handed many times by her and was even given as a shower gift for one of her girlfriends, which, of course, I was delighted to do. "Everybody gets a gift," said Condition from Heloise. "Very true," Mrs. June Jordan.

STICK TO IT!

DEAR HELOISE: To dust cloth lamp shades, use one of the handy, sticky cleaning rollers, which most stores carry. They are a clean link off dirt cobwebs. Mrs. John Krom.

A SHIRT FOR YOU!

DEAR HELOISE: I never know any worn shirts. I have a few for ordinary washed-the-will-forgo. They are the best for polo, etc. After they become worn, they are just-free and soft enough to on a perfect job. M. E. Nelson

hints from Heloise

DEAR POLKS: Do you have a soap-filled pad because it ruins once you have used it? Get an empty plastic bottle to use an extra sugar bowl because it looks nice on my drainboard and put a soap-filled pad in it. Fill the jar at least halfway with hot water. Take about a quarter of the pad UNDER the water. Cap the jar. If you are using a regular bowl, put the lid down. If you are using a drainboard, leave the lid down. If you use the pad in a sink, leave it in the sink. If you use it in a tub, leave it in the tub. If you use it in a shower, leave it in the shower. If you use it in a bathtub, leave it in the bathtub. If you use it in a sink, leave it in the sink. If you use it in a tub, leave it in the tub. If you use it in a shower, leave it in the shower. If you use it in a bathtub, leave it in the bathtub.

20 Known Dead, Ruins Of Nurse Home Combed

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) — Police were to search the ruins of a nursing home again today for the bodies of more victims in a fire that killed at least 20 persons, including a 105-year-old woman and a 16-year-old boy. ## 95 Missing In Ship Fire

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Passengers from an Egyptian ship that caught fire and sank in the Red Sea blame leaky lifeboats and faulty firefighting equipment for causing many deaths in the sinking. But the ship's captain told reporters Sunday that his crew had to chase passengers with axes to get them to abandon the ship without their belongings. Egypt's semi-official newspaper, Al Ahram, reported today that 95 persons were still missing. Cairo's Middle East News Agency said the cargo passenger ship Patra had been carrying 94 crew members and 387 passengers before it went down Friday.

Vandalism, Thefts Mar Area's Holiday

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sheriff's deputies today were investigating a number of weekend thefts and vandalism incidents. Deputy P. J. Higgins reported that vandals fired nine gunshots into a 7-Eleven store on SR-434 at Raymond Avenue, west of Longwood, causing an estimated $500 damage. No injuries were reported in the early Sunday incident. Officers said one bullet, believed to have been fired from a medium-caliber handgun, struck a door frame and the other eight smashed through three plate glass windows before ending up in the ceiling of the store.

Shot Fired
Deputy F.M. Stewart reported one shot was fired through a window at Leisure Pool Service, 754 East SR-436, Altamonte Springs. Officers said they have no suspects in the vandalism incidents. Sanford police reported today that vandals set fire to a public telephone booth at Park Avenue, and 18th Street, causing approximately $275 damage. Patrolman Mitch Tindell reported the telephone receiver had been cut from the phone and melted when the telephone directory in the booth was set afire. A glass was also shattered in the booth, officers said.

Indianan Jailed
Altamonte Springs police jailed Grant Louis Doran, 21, of Bloomington, Ind., in lieu of $20,000 bond on charges of possession of burglary tools, possession of controlled substance and two counts of burglary.

Lawmen Suspended
Sanford police said two men in a dark-colored station wagon robbed Dekle's Gulf Service Station, 2518 French Ave., Sanford, about 3 a.m. Sunday. While customers were reportedly nearby, the men held a knife in the station attendant's back, scooped $96 from the station's cash register and then forced the attendant to hand over $108 from his wallet, police said.

Then the two men forced the attendant to put $3.50 in gasoline into the station wagon before they fled, officers said. At the shooting scene Sunday afternoon Polk assured a group of citizens protesting the shooting that the men will be a full investigation of the incident and that they will be told of the results of the investigation. Fellow officers had already relieved Coffee and McCormick of their revolvers when Polk told the citizens that he had suspended the two officers. Sheriff's investigators took sworn statements from several residents in the predominantly black community who reportedly witnessed parts of the incident. Mills and Moore were arrested in July in connection with an incident at the same service station in Sanford in which Deputy J. F. Bennett was assaulted by two men during a shoplifting investigation. Mills was found guilty by a circuit court jury on Sept. 17 of the lesser and included offense of resisting an officer without violence and adjudicated guilty by Circuit Judge A. J. Hosemann Jr. Hosemann ordered a pre-sentence investigation and on Dec. 3 sentenced Mills to 180 days in county jail with credit for time already served. Jail records indicate Mills was released from jail last Tuesday.

It was not clear today just why Moore was released from county jail on Oct. 27. In his Sept. 27 circuit court trial a jury found Moore innocent of battery on a police officer. But the jury convicted him of resisting an officer without violence and resisting an officer with violence. Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor, now reported vacationing in Michigan, ordered Moore held in jail during a pre-sentence investigation and pending sentencing.

Sentencing for Moore was set for Dec. 18 but court files show no action on that date and employees of the circuit clerk's office said defense attorney Carroll Burke was out of state at the time and McGregor continued the sentencing. A secretary in the judge's office said today no new date has been set for Moore's sentencing. Court records show the court entered a judgement of acquittal for Moore on the battery and custody on the counts on which the jury returned guilty verdicts. County jail records list Moore as released from jail Oct. 27 when the acquittal paperwork was received from the court.

$ Race: U.S. Now Sixth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans slipped another notch on the list of the world's wealthiest people in 1974, and there are now five countries where per capita income is higher, the World Bank says. The World Bank also said there has been a virtual stagnation of growth among industrialized nations since 1973 and continuing increases in population among developing nations.

The United States' per capita income of $7,069 was exceeded last year by Kuwait, $11,510; United Arab Emirates, $10,480; Qatar, $9,320; Switzerland, $8,650; and Sweden, $7,880, the World Bank said in a report released Sunday.

Per capita income is figured by dividing a nation's gross national product, or total production of goods and services, by its population. Qatar, an oil-producing nation, was a new addition to the World Bank list in 1973. The other nations listed above the United States all had higher incomes than the United States in 1974 as well.

Other nations with incomes near the United States were Denmark, $6,920; Canada, $6,650; Germany, $6,610; and Norway, $6,540. Denmark and Norway made substantial gains and could surpass the United States in the 1976 list, if the trend continues. The World Bank cautioned, however, that its figures for 1975 were preliminary and based on tentative information in some cases.

The United States per capita income was up from $6,670 the year before, the bank said. However, the increase was not adjusted for the impact of inflation, which would make the gain somewhat less. The bank said there were 19 nations with per capita incomes exceeding $5,000 in 1974 with combined total populations of 412 million. By contrast, there were 75 nations with populations totaling 2.3 billion where income was less than $500. There were 33 nations with populations of more than 1.2 billion where income was less than $200. The bank said significant changes in the relative value of currencies in recent years has caused the shift in income ranking among developed nations. For example, the German mark and Swiss franc have increased in value, while the French franc and British pound have decreased. The U.S. dollar has remained relatively stable for the past year, although it has lost ground against German and Swiss currencies. While economies in much of the industrialized world expanded in dollar terms, there actually was a shrinking of over-all incomes in terms of real buying power, the bank said.

In 1974, the bank said, the U.S. per capita income in so-called real terms was down $170 from the year before, while income in Switzerland increased in real terms by $130 and in Sweden by $70. Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, had the largest real increase in income of any nation in 1974, up $560 to $2,830.

No Study Needed On Voluntarism

It will be of some surprise to the altruistic that the government has placed a dollar value on the services of volunteers in the United States from May, 1973, to April, 1974. Volunteers, according to ACTION, the federal agency with its fingers in volunteer service, contributed more than $33.9 billion in services to the nation's economy, about 2 per cent of the gross national product.

ACTION retained Harold Wolozin, a professor of political economy at the University of Massachusetts, to gather the study. You may be sure that you did not volunteer the money to pay for the study; you were taxed for it.

Professor Wolozin computed the monetary value of volunteer service by using a uniform wage rate of $4.76 per hour. If you would like to question his methodology, you can send for a copy of the 16-page study care of the Office of Policy and Planning, ACTION, Washington, D.C.

This information is not without its caveats. "Although volunteer services, given freely and from the heart, cannot truly be measured in dollars, this figure gives us a fairly reliable indicator of the significance of the volunteers' role in the economy." Thus commented Mike Balzano, director of ACTION. He might have told it to Tocqueville.

Alexis de Tocqueville. He was the Frenchman who traveled this country in the 1830s and who authored the first sociology of the Americans. Tocqueville located the source of America's greatness in its great good heart, in its practice of giving. Such massive charity obliterated, he thought, government assistance programs.

Today taxation has pretty well taken the cheerfulness out of giving. As long as the government (read: the taxpayers) does it, the specious reasoning goes, we don't need charity. The unfortunate? Out of sight, out of mind.

It is reassuring to know voluntarism is still strong in this country. But we didn't need a federal study to tell us. Where government welfare fails, and Lord knows it fails, those personal actions of the heart supply the molecules of our society.

What is intriguing is the attempt to assign a dollar value to something so incalculable. These are the days when politicians and bureaucrats rationalize their costly programs on the questionable ground that they are "invaluable." How many times, for instance, have we heard such fatuities as this: "If the police helicopter saved one life it will be worth any amount of tax dollars we spend on it?"

The trouble with that is, you give the politicians a blank check to charge any old outrageous amount — from $150,000 to $150,000,000 — if they sense they can get away with it.

An alarming reversal of thinking here: the costliest government programs are justified because they are putatively "invaluable" while the truly invaluable energies in our society are assayed and assessed and the subject of tax-granted professors' studies.

Arms Cache

The discovery of huge arms caches and a barrel of deadly cyanide at Lancaster, Ontario and Wrightwood, Calif., is sobering to say the least.

It was only by accident that enough munitions to equip an army of 200 were discovered in the desert. Apparently the arms were slipped out of military depots and the intelligence agencies failed to follow through.

We aren't frightened at the prospect of an army of 200 taking over the United States. But 200 guerrillas could wreak havoc with civil authority and terrorize people and institutions.

If the past offers clues, there will be pressure to prohibit citizens from owning any arms. However, the fact is that all of the arms found by authorities at Ontario, Lancaster and Wrightwood already are illegal for citizens to own. They were accumulated because the existing laws could not be enforced, even against possession of such heavy weapons as machine guns and handbombs, which are not easy to conceal.

We have no doubt that authorities will get to the bottom of the Antelope Valley mystery, but that alone is not enough. Unless security at military depots is tightened, the next arms story to appear in the press might chronicle a disaster instead of a bizarre mystery. That must not happen.

The Clock

By ED PRICKETT

Progress has to be. I know that, but it was a real shock to return to Alabama over the Christmas holidays and find the county, or the state, I don't know which, has paved Kelly Creek Road.

A winding, rock spotted road, over the woods and hills, Kelly Creek Road was one of those dirt roads that live forever in the minds of young boys.

As boys, Booty O'Barr and myself used to get off the school bus on Fridays, walk five miles up Kelly Creek Road to his daddy's house, walk five miles back and then hitchhike into Leeds, a small town near Birmingham, for a night of shooting pool.

It was a beautiful, rocky road which carried you past pastoral scenery the likes of which you're lucky to see even if you should be lucky enough to live two lifetimes — in place of the one that's allotted most of us.

On hot days, we used to take turns riding piggyback up that road. That way, you'd get to ride a bit, then you'd have to carry your partner a bit. That didn't make a lot of sense to grownups, but to young and tired barefoot boys it seemed to help out.

Young boys, growing up now, though, won't be walking barefoot down that road. That's because, like I told you earlier, the state, the county or somebody else and paved it. The contours of the old dirt road are still there, but instead of gravel, a ribbon of concrete stretches out in front of your eyes. And that concrete is hard looking, not pliable like good gravel from earth.

I'm glad I wasn't there when the smelly machines dumped all that concrete on Kelly Creek Road. Oh, I know, it's progress, and all that. But I wouldn't have liked it because Kelly Creek Road wasn't just a dirt road, it was a young boy's dream.

It led from "up yonder" down to Highway 78 which led to the city of Leeds and some good pool shooting.

And after all your lunch money was lost to the city boys who hung out in the pool room all the time, you could get back up Kelly Creek Road to Raymond O'Barr's house and to safety. Yessir, Safety. Now, Raymond, who was Booty's daddy, was about the cunningest man you ever saw. But if you was a "Good Ole Boy," he knew it and he'd take care of you, at least he'd do that the best he could — allowing as how he was sick sometime himself.

Yep, Old Raymond O'Barr who lived almost at the end of Kelly Creek Road never lived to see the road paved. And, I have a feeling, kind of, that he wouldn't have liked it. Oh, he'd have liked the fact that mud wouldn't get on his cars he drove along Kelly Creek, but I think Raymond, like me, would have missed the solitude a quiet walk along five miles of dirt road brought a young boy. You pay for progress and paved roads, and people along Kelly Creek Road have paid. I hate to say it, but they got the worst end of the bargain.

Big Firms Show Lack Of Bravery

WASHINGTON — The other day a number of us listened to the pleading of a long-time top spokesman of the aerospace industry, a kingpin in the economy with nearly $20 billion in sales this year.

He pulled out all the stops. Waved the flag, stressed the importance of the industry to national defense. Pointed to the declining sales in real dollars. Stressed repeatedly that President Carter most assuredly should do something when he moves into the White House. He should have looked in more detail at the pessimistic statistics he presented at the meeting.

The way out for the aerospace industry was buried in his own numbers, for all to see who were willing to look. But it was not, apparently, at all clear to those businessmen whose solution to all things is federal help.

The good news was that while aerospace sales had been hitting rough times in constant dollars, sales by some of these same companies of new products and services outside the narrow aerospace field had been doing very well. Exceedingly well, in fact, in any kind of dollars figures, actual or constant.

These non aerospace items had grown in 10 years from less than 10 per cent of total aerospace sales to a 1973-74 estimate of almost 25 per cent. The largest growth here, percentage-wise, was in nongovernment purchases.

Men in the business, when cornered, will admit that the opportunities are there, and the know-how. The new sales use the unique expertise the industry has developed in years of building planes, missiles and other standard aerospace items. But full-scale exploration and exploitation of the opportunities has thus far been hit-or-miss, piecemeal, in the main by a handful of firms. Much of the industry has stood by, wringing hands, using all its political know-how to wrest government contracts, U.S. and foreign. A business so dependent on the state and who down to and who can get close to whom that almost everyone involved ends up with the shakes.

The first reaction a reporter gets when he talks about the new markets to men in the industry is a series of excuses: We don't have the money to make the investments. We're unsure on how to market. We don't know what the potential sales will be. It's too risky. We're used to dealing with the government. We don't know our way around in the civilian mass consumer market.

When pinned down, these same insiders admit they've not given the thought to the problem and to the opportunities they should have. They've not generally gathered the statistics, done the market research, or otherwise studied the opportunities in transferring their magnificent high-technology know-how to the mass-market consumer field. At least not in the detail necessary to insure profitability.

Now it is true that the industry leaders, taken as a group, have had a most difficult time in raising the large amounts of capital needed for major expansion. This, in considerable measure, however, has been a result of their depending so heavily on uncertain markets such as the federal government, where it's boom today and bust.

New Data Found In King Assassination

WASHINGTON — House investigators have uncovered dramatic new evidence that the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. may not have acted alone.

The murder was pinned on James Earl Ray, an escaped convict, who used phony passports to slip out of the country. According to the investigators, he got as far as Portugal, where he received "further instructions" from a secret conspirator.

Ray finally was tracked down in London and extradited to the United States for trial. His activities in Portugal, meanwhile, have been concealed from the authorities for eight years.

Not until a few weeks ago did the House investigators learn about Ray's Portugal connection from a witness who had never previously been interviewed by any investigative agency.

The investigators reported this startling development confidentially to the Select Committee on Assassinations. "Ray contacted another person from whom he received further instructions," they disclosed cautiously in a preliminary report.

They didn't mention in the report where the

Hard Facts For Transit Proponents

You can lead a commuter to public transportation, but you can't make him use it. The experience of one of the nation's most populous counties is a case in point.

Cuyahoga County, Ohio, of which Cleveland is the seat, has in at least one respect one of the best systems of public transportation in the country. Cleveland is, in fact, the only city in the world with a direct rapid transit connection between its airport and downtown.

A couple of years ago, county voters approved the establishment of a Regional Transit Authority (RTA) and an increase in the local sales tax which enabled bus and rapid transit fares to be cut to a maximum of 35 cents, including the airport run.

Yet a recent survey by researchers at Case Western Reserve University found that "despite an extensive, inexpensive and well-managed transit operation in Cuyahoga County, only a small percentage of travel is handled by RTA." Commuter traffic continues to be dominated by the private automobile.

The figures are 13 per cent of the county's working population using public transportation vs. 87 per cent using private transportation.

One of the questions the researchers sought to answer was, under what conditions would people who now use private transportation switch to RTA?

Of those interviewed, 22 per cent said they would never use RTA, 40 per cent said they would use it only if their present mode of transportation was not available and another 6 per cent said they would use it if the cost of their present mode of travel rose much higher.

In other words, fully two-thirds of the commuters in the county indicated that it would take something other than a dynamic tax cut, out of their automobiles. Similar sentiments can probably be found in every large metropolitan area.

This is the hard fact which those who champion public transportation in the interests of energy conservation decreased pollution and congestion run up against. Saving automobile prices and a 10 per cent or even 25 per cent increase in foreign oil are not likely to change this fact appreciably in the near future.

Early in January, Uncle Sam will begin mailing his annual post-Christmas gift to his nephews and nieces — the 1975 income tax return forms. Tax experts have been warning for weeks that, if anything, "reforms" in the tax law voted by Congress last fall have further complicated what is already a dreaded annual yearly chore for millions of Americans.

It could be a "disaster," asserts the Kiplinger Tax Letter. All the elements are there. New forms . . . revised old forms . . . forms mailed later than usual . . . changes that apply retroactively . . . instructions written before regulations under the new law are out . . .

The IRS expects to be swamped by requests for help, but won't be able to give the same level of assistance as before because Congress did not increase its budget.

A lot of taxpayers are in for a rude shock. Sick pay recipients, for example. They spent their sick pay in 1974 thinking it was tax free — which it was, until Oct. 4, when Congress altered the law retroactively to Jan. 1.

Air Force Ever So Careful

WASHINGTON — While most interest groups in Washington are struggling for the attention of President-elect Jimmy Carter, one of them, the Air Force, is trying hard to keep out of his way.

The decision on whether to go ahead with the production of the B-1 bomber, one of the most expensive defense programs ever planned, may, the Air Force fears, be one of the first he makes.

Carter has said the B-1 is too expensive and has implied it ought to be cancelled. The Air Force, still hoping to change his mind, realizes that an early decision would probably be negative.

Earlier this year Congress, anxious to delay a decision on the B-1 production until the next administration, limited spending to $87 million a month until Feb. 1. Since the Defense Department had not planned to spend any faster, the action has had little effect. But it made the Air Force nervous.

Almost no production money has yet been spent. Some $90 million appropriated last year has been used to buy some items on which there is a long lead-time, but almost all the money going into the B-1 is for development of the four prototypes, three of which are now flying.

Under the new financial system introduced last year, the budget must be acted on earlier than before: Congress wants to have any proposals for change in hand in March.

None of this maneuvering, however, touches the basic issue; does the United States need the B-1? This is the fastest bomber and the most expensive airplane ever built. Although large, it is designed to get head-on the Russian jet defenses by flying very low — under effective radar coverage — at supersonic speeds.

Meanwhile, the committee staff is anxiously awaiting congressional approval of their request for a record $5.5 million to investigate the assassinations. Behind closed doors, Richard Sprague, the panel's brilliant staff director from Philadelphia, dramatically laid out his plans, and persuaded even the most stubborn members of the committee that the money was necessary.

Sprague pointed out that compared to other investigations, the money he wanted was not an unreasonable sum. For example, he noted that for the first three-month period of the search for Patty Hearst, the FBI spent $2.5 million.

In addition, Sprague explained, the New York State investigation of abuse in the Medicaid program has a budget of $6 million for its second year.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., the incoming chairman of the assassination committee, told he is convinced that Sprague is right.

CONFLICT CURBS: President-elect Jimmy Carter, armed with an unpublished survey showing that employees are abysmally ignorant of conflict-of-interest laws, plans to make an executive order on the program one of his first orders of business.

According to the survey, prepared by Ralph Nader's Center for Law and Social Policy, the conflict laws are so complex that employees can't understand them.

In fact, the employees told the Nader interviewers, the legal terminology is "so boring and burdensome" that they sign federal job agreements without even reading the regulations.

Some agencies, states the report, don't even bother to provide workers with the written laws. Instead, the employees receive quick oral briefings.

Jimmy's Jody: Not Just A Mouthpiece

By TOM TIEDE
Herald News Services

WASHINGTON — The way Jody Powell explains it is that he was walking through a Georgia shopping center, minding his own business, when a man grabbed his hand, smiled, and said: "Hi, I'm Jimmy Carter and I'm running for governor."

That was a decade ago. The incident changed the face of American politics. Powell is now the 33-year-old press secretary to the president-elect. But more than that he is the loyal companion and baggage bearer without whom next month's inaugural would be substantially different. If Jody Powell has arrived where he is because of Jimmy Carter, the reverse of this proposition is equally true and obvious.

Carter has said it himself, remembering how it was to get started in national politics. At first it was only "Jody and I." Family members were added. Then others. But in the end, the era of "Jimmy Who?" Powell was Carter's principal courier; if he hadn't existed, he'd have had to be invented — if he could have been.

So when the new chief takes office he will have as his spokesman a devoted servant, a surrogate son, and to a very real degree a partner in power. The two are as close as brothers on a January roof, as they say in Plains. It's expected that Jody will know whatever Jimmy knows. The relationship has few White House precedents.

Presumably, there is much to be said for the setup. For the first time in years, perhaps the first time ever, the Harding who speaks to the nation for the president will know absolutely what he's talking about. Besides this he will himself be part of the administration's decision-making process. What he says will have weight.

And the prospect is not altogether bright. The idea of Jody Powell controlling White House news for the next four years is, quite frankly, most disturbing. Powell is

So, here is the insurmountable weakness of Jody Powell as he is in the White House spokesman: his own stake in the regime's success is too high. He will not only be the mouthpiece but the architect of the administration. Doubts about it will therefore be doubts about him. As no other press secretary in history, then, he will have enormous personal and emotional reasons for coloring the news flow.

It is true that all presidential press secretaries are fond of their employers. Ron Ziegler was so loyal to Richard Nixon he chose disgrace rather than morality as his guide. Ron Nessen, too, has been embraced by brainless devotion, growing contemptuous of any who would question Jerry Ford. Given human nature, it is probably too much to expect more dispassion and detachment in the world.

But Powell's fidelity to his champion is a singular kind. When Jimmy is wounded, Jody feels the pain. During the campaign his periodic raging at critical press coverage took the character of personal bitterness. Conversely, when Powell liked coverage, he rewarded the reporter with special treatment. Without question he did these things because of his own stake in the campaign's future.

So, here is the insurmountable weakness of Jody Powell as he is in the White House spokesman: his own stake in the regime's success is too high. He will not only be the mouthpiece but the architect of the administration. Doubts about it will therefore be doubts about him. As no other press secretary in history, then, he will have enormous personal and emotional reasons for coloring the news flow.

Here Are The Top Stories Of 1976 As Selected...

By RANDI ROSENBLUM
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In November James Earl Carter narrowly defeated President Gerald R. Ford to become the first president elected from the Deep South since before the Civil War. The story of his election and the campaign preceding it was voted the top news story of 1976 by the editors and news directors of Associated Press member newspapers, radio and TV stations.

The other top stories in order were: (2) the deaths of Mao and Chou and the changes in China that followed; (3) the Bicentennial celebrations; (4) the U.S. economy; (5) the Legionnaires' Disease; (6) the Mars landing; (7) the Washington sex scandals; (8) the Patty Hearst trial; (9) the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport; (10) the California school bus kidnapping.

1. After a 22-month-long campaign, Jimmy Carter was elected the 39th president of the United States. Just two years ago, the ex-governor of Georgia was all but unknown outside his home state, but with grim determination and a campaign strategy mapped out by young aide Hamilton Jordan, he won the Democratic party nomination. It had been the longest primary contest in the nation's history.

After the Democratic convention in July, his popularity reached a high of 62 per cent, according to the Gallup Poll, against President Ford's 29 per cent. Many people felt that his 33 point lead meant an easy victory.

But with the hopes of the conventions and the divisive challenge from Ronald Reagan past, Ford's popularity began to climb, and some saw him staging a Truman-like comeback. It was not to be.

Many of Ford's problems were not of his own making. He was haunted by the legacy of Watergate and the slow-tide Vietnam War. He had to fight the image of himself as an accidental president and to cope with the lingering angry reaction to his pardoning of Richard Nixon.

As elections drew near, he had problems with saboteurs—such as Butz and Brown, who made inopportune remarks. Sometimes, as during the second debate when he declared that Eastern Europe was not under Soviet domination, the inopportune remark was his own.

Carter was not free from campaign blunders either. His remarks on Lyndon Johnson's character and his comments to Playboy on lust cost him support.

The three televised debates, the first ever between an incumbent president and his challenger, showed the American voters two evenly matched candidates, most analysts agreed, and on election eve the major polls had Ford and Carter running neck and neck.

Carter was no doubt helped by his choice of running mate, Walter Mondale, the liberal senator from Minnesota, helped pull voters for Carter in the industrial Northeast. His confrontation with Robert Dole in the first vice-presidential TV debate was a successful one and an NBC poll taken a week before the election showed Mondale running 18 points ahead of his opponent.

Results gave Mississippi's 7 electoral votes to Carter, but he made a victory statement to the waiting crowds in Atlanta. President Ford, who had gone to bed at 3 a.m., conceded the election the next day, giving Carter "my complete and wholehearted support."

Carter won 297 electoral votes from 23 states, putting the old Democratic formula of industrial Northeast with the solid South back together. Ford carried every western state except Texas and Hawaii, 241 electoral votes from 27 states. Nevertheless, Carter won by almost 2 million popular votes—53 per cent to 48 per cent for Ford.

In spite of predictions of an extremely tight voter turnout, 80 million Americans went to the polls to choose their next president. Of those eligible to vote, 53 per cent did so, down from the 55 per cent turnout in 1972.

According to an AP election day poll, most voters said they chose the candidate they voted for because they agreed with his stand. But most Carter voters, it was found, it was time for a change.

The Death Of Mao

2. China was already in mourning for two leaders who had died earlier in the year—Premier Chou En-lai and Chu Teh, founder of the Chinese Red Army. But the nation plunged into a frenzy of grief when News Agency announced that Mao Tse-tung was dead.

Mao had been ill for some time and Chu, in fact, had taken over many duties for the ailing chairman. No cause was given for his death, although medical experts who studied films of his recent appearances said he showed symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

As the government began preparations for the mourning ceremonies, tens of thousands of his countrymen gathered before Mao's portrait in Tien An Men square, holding the Chinese symbol of mourning, a white flower. It was in this square in 1949 that Mao watched his victorious soldiers parade after winning the civil war against Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang.

As elections drew near, he had problems with saboteurs—such as Butz and Brown, who made inopportune remarks. Sometimes, as during the second debate when he declared that Eastern Europe was not under Soviet domination, the inopportune remark was his own.

Carter was not free from campaign blunders either. His remarks on Lyndon Johnson's character and his comments to Playboy on lust cost him support.

The three televised debates, the first ever between an incumbent president and his challenger, showed the American voters two evenly matched candidates, most analysts agreed, and on election eve the major polls had Ford and Carter running neck and neck.

After his death, Hua Kuofeng, a sixth vice-premier and little known outside China, was named his successor. Most regarded him as a compromise between the radicals, led by Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, and the moderates. Most observers felt that Chiang Ching was a force to be reckoned with in post-Mao China.

After Mao's death, Premier Hua moved quickly to consolidate his position. Chiang Ching and her radical proteges, Chang Chun-chiao, Yao Wen-yuan and Wang Hung-wei,

Good wishes and gifts, including works of art and music, funds for commemorative buildings, special books and special exhibits, arrived along with thousands of foreign visitors, who included royalty and heads of state. Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, spent six weeks in Britain's former colony.

Although celebrations had been going on for a year, it was a Fourth of July to remember. Seven million people, together with President Gerald Ford and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, watched as the U.S. Coast Guard training ship

Eagle led 15 tall sailing ships and a flotilla of 200 smaller craft up the Hudson to visit America's happy birthday. At the Miami Beach Convention Center 1,141 people recited the Pledge of Allegiance to become the country's newest citizens.

The guns of the U.S.S. Constitution, "Old Ironsides," were fired for the first time in a century. Time capsules were buried containing everything from signatures of famous people and Bicentennial coins to a Frisbee and a pair of cut off blue jeans.

After a turbulent decade of unrest caused by Watergate and the Vietnam War, the Bicentennial offered Americans an opportunity to reaffirm their faith in themselves. Said one young celebrant, "Somehow I feel more American at this moment than ever before."

Once again Americans were concerned by the state of their financial affairs. After early optimism, the nation's economy stumbled badly at mid-year, leaving many wondering what had gone wrong.

The nation's Gross National Product, which showed a

5. Not long after the American Legion held its national convention in Philadelphia at the end of July, many of those who had attended it were stricken with a strange ailment. The symptoms were similar to viral pneumonia, but of the 180 persons infected, 29 died. The death rate of 17 per cent was considered unusually high.

The disease was a mysterious one for many reasons. The middle of the summer was hardly the flu season. And all the victims were in some way connected with the American Legion convention.

At first health officials feared that it might be an outbreak of the dreaded swine flu. But this proved a false alarm. Other doctors lay the high death rate to the fact that most of the Legionnaires were over 40 and therefore not as able to resist any virus. But the actual cause remained unknown.

"There's an outside chance we may never find out the cause," said Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. "There are times when diseases baffie all of us."

In November, as medical researchers still looked for the culprit, the Legionnaires' Disease claimed its 30th victim—the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, which had hosted the convention. The hotel, for 68 years innkeeper to Philadelphia's Main Line, had been given a clean bill of health. But the surrounding public was too much for the "Grand Old Lady of Broad Street," and when room occupancy, which had run 80 per cent before the Legionnaires' convention, dipped to mere 8 per cent, the Bellevue Stratford closed its doors.

6. Space travel once again captured the public imagination as Viking 1 made the first successful soft touchdown on the planet Mars in late July.

The landing, which had been postponed from an originally planned July 4 touchdown, left scientists thrilled. "There are tears in my eyes," said Noel Hinners, associate administrator of the U.S. Space Agency. The July 20 landing marked the seventh anniversary of the date the first man, Neil Armstrong, walked on the moon.

The landing site chosen for Viking 1 was the western slope of the Plain of Chryse. In the photographs beamed back from the lander, it looked very much like the deserts of southern Arizona—minus the cactus.

The successful Mars landing was eight years in the making and Viking 1 had blasted off 11 months before its dramatic touchdown 200 million miles away.

Six weeks later, on Sept. 3, Viking 2 landed amid a partial radio blackout in a field of sand dunes called Utopia.

Both Vikings, equipped with a scooping arm and mini-lab to carry out tests automatically, sent back results to earth at the speed of light.

Neither lander found evidence of organic compounds that would mean the existence of life on Mars, but the Viking 2 mother ship discovered a polar ice cap made of water ice, one of the preconditions for life to exist.

The Liz Ray Tale

7. After two years of Watergate-related revelations in the nation's capital, it was shown-and-tell time again in Washington. Elizabeth Ray told the Washington Post that powerful congressman Wayne Hays had given her $14,000 a year of the taxpayers' money just to be his mistress. Miss Ray's accusation came just weeks before the publication of her novel, "The Washington Fringe Benefit," a 172-page romp through the bedrooms of Washington.

Hays at first denied the accusation, then admitted having had a "personal relationship" with Miss Ray. But he contended she had earned her salary as a clerk. One by one he Florida Marine Patrol officers confirmed that transshipment of a catch at sea is "very common," the newspaper said. "I expected this kind of situation to develop," said Dr. John Greenfield of the National Marine Fisheries Service. "It was a natural. I wondered whether the Bahamians themselves would even seriously try to enforce the law."

The Herald said that the Bahamas government has four patrol boats to enforce marine laws, and recently all were idle in Nassau harbor due to engine problems, gas rationing and bad weather.

The 1977 national budget contains $5.2 million for a bigger boat and two helicopters, and some government officials want the Bahamas to require that all crawfish be legally processed.

At West End, Grand Bahamas, about half of the crewmen and most of the captains are Miami Cubans, the Herald said. Many of the 42 commercial crawfish boats in an eight-hundred Grand Bahamas fleet have such Bahamian names as Gracias Dios and Dos Hermanos.

There are about 150 boats working the Bahama banks where 1,000 lobstermen are fished. The price of crawfish is up to $5 per pound.

After a 19-month nationwide search, Miss Hearst was arrested in San Francisco. Two years to the day after her kidnapping, a jury was sworn in to try her for the Hibernia Bank robbery. The jury found her guilty, but sentencing was delayed for six months while she underwent psychiatric testing at a San Diego federal prison.

In November, Judge Orrick granted Patty Hearst her freedom—on $1-million bail pending appeals. But her legal troubles are not over. Early next year she faces trial in Los Angeles on charges of kidnapping, assault and robbery.

The Entebbe Raid

8. It began as a commonplace hijacking. Air France 139 from Tel Aviv to Paris had just left the ground in Athens when three men and a woman announced they had taken control of the plane.

The Airbus was met at Uganda's Entebbe Airport by President Idi Amin Dada who said he would handle negotiations for the hostages' release. The hijackers asked for the exchange of 68 comrades held in five countries.

kidnaping remained uncertain. A note demanding a ransom of $5 million was later found at the Woods estate. It had never been sent.

Calif. When they reached the California Rock and Gravel pits outside of San Francisco 11 hours later, the children and driver were forced into a buried trailer and were left.

While California organized a massive search for the missing children, driver Ray was digging a hole in their underground prison large enough for Robert Gonzales, age 8, to slip through. Thirty-six hours after the busnapping, the children and driver were back in Chowchilla.

The search for the kidnapers lasted two weeks longer. Police arrested Frederick Woods, son of the president of the company which owned the quarry, and two friends, James and Richard Schoenfeld.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Miami Beach Hotel Strike Spreads To Fontainebleau

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — As thousands of guests served their own food, carried their own bags and made their own beds at six hotels, a hotel workers union pledged to continue and expand its strike.

Herbert "Pinkie" Schiffman, president of the 11,000-member Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union Local 355, said the strike, which began Saturday, would spread today to more hotels. He declined to say which ones.

Picket lines were up at the Doral Country Club, the Carillon, the Deauville, the Eden Roc, the Shelbourne and the Doral Beach. All are on Miami Beach's famed Collins Avenue except the Doral, which is in northwest Miami.

The hotels would not say how many guests were being inconvenienced, but most are close to capacity at the holidays.

Edwin Dean, head of the 40-member Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, said late Sunday that negotiations were deadlocked over wages, benefits and tips.

State Highway Toll: 17

By The Associated Press

Two persons killed when their car went out of control near Wacahulla were among at least 17 fatalities on Florida roads as the 78-hour Christmas holiday drew to a close, the Florida Highway Patrol said today.

Police said Angela Roberts, 19, and Frank Keller, 20, both of Fort Meade, died Sunday when their car skidded out of control on rain-slickened State Road 35 and was struck by another vehicle.

The patrol had predicted that 27 persons would be killed in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Thursday and 12:01 a.m. Monday.

Paul Helliwell Dies

MIAMI (AP) — Paul Helliwell, a prominent Miami lawyer who was instrumental in the purchase of the Disney World site in Central Florida, is dead of a collapsed lung. He was 62.

Helliwell, who suffered from emphysema, lost consciousness Friday night in his Coral Gables home, police said. Rescuers were unable to revive him.

Ten years ago, Helliwell acquired much of the real estate southwest of Orlando where Walt Disney wanted to build an amusement park. The firm did not want to make the purchases openly for fear that disclosure would boost prices.

Lawyers Fear TV Trials

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Lawyers say they are reluctant to experiment with televised trials for fear of sensational reporting and adverse publicity.

"The primary concern of all of us is that the electronic media do not turn a matter of solemnity—a trial—into a soap opera," said William F. Blews, a St. Petersburg lawyer.

Court rules ban cameras during most court proceedings, but the state Supreme Court has authorized four circuit judges to experiment with televised trials.

At first, the high court only agreed to allow two judges, Ben C. Willis of Tallahassee and Parker Lee McDonald of Orlando, to hold the trials.

But the court reported last week that neither lawyers nor their clients would agree to the experiment and expanded the authorization to two more judges, Major B. Harding of Jacksonville and John J. Crews of Gainesville.

Oil Spill Fund Grows

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida's trust fund for oil spills is growing fast enough to protect the state in case of such disasters as last week's Argo Merchant spill off Massachusetts, a state senator says.

"The fund is growing at a rate substantially higher than we had first predicted," said Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami.

Graham said that Florida has $11.9 million in its "Coastal Protection Trust Fund" and pointed out that it was increasing by about $5 million annually.

The fund, which is slated eventually to be maintained at $35 million, was set up in 1974 by the legislature through a two-cent-a-barrel tax on all oil coming into the state.

Tucker Bids For Peace

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Democratic Speaker Donald Tucker has made two moves that may be peace overtures to Republicans in the House, Minority Leader Bill James says.

Tucker, who angered Republicans last month by slashing their office staff from 11 to two, has upped the staff to three and appointed a Republican to a leadership post—a rarity in a Democratic-controlled House.

Classy Inaugural Field Keys SOKC Opener

One of the classiest inaugural fields to ever go to post at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club will parade to the starting box in tonight's ninth race.

The field is highlighted by five grade A greyhounds from the always tough Taunton track in Massachusetts. South Dakota, a grade A brought in from Tampa and the rebounding Joe Mischief out of the Paul Scheele Kennel and you have as tough in inaugural field as will be found anywhere.

It is tough to pick a leader of the Taunton contingent. Heater Scott is the early favorite in the two box. The Dan O'Connor dog is coming off three impressive schooling race victories — including the fastest time of pre-season practice, 30.87.

But you can't count on Count Axe outside in the eight hole running for C&V Kennel. The County was the only greyhound to turn in two sub-31 second 5/16 races in pre-season. Before winning all three of his schooling races, the County had won four of 14 at Taunton with five finishes in the money.

The greyhound with the best Taunton record, however, is T's Pretty Boy. The John Yamin dog will be breaking in from the five hole and News Director in the four hole. Taunton while racing with tough double Grade A competition. He also won all three of his schooling races.

Rounding out the Taunton greyhounds is Surfie Maybe in the seven hole and News Director in the four hole. Surfie Maybe runs for the Richard Miles Kennel. He won three of 30 at Taunton with seven seconds and three thirds. News Director, who won two of four at Taunton, runs for Falcin Falcini.

Almost lost in the shuffle of Taunton dogs is My Della running for R. O. Collins. The Sodrac Park win champ will be breaking from the three hole.

In the season just recently concluded at Sodrac. My Della was runner-up in 34 times. She finished first 26 of those times. She finished in the money 31 times and finished poorer than fourth only twice in her 36 starts.

Rounding out the Inaugural field are two less heralded greyhounds who none-the-less could win it all. Speed On Go in the six hole has been brought in from Tampa by Fred Petersen. She was running grade A at the always tough Tampa track with five wins, three seconds and a third to her credit.

In one hole could be the sleeper of the field. Joe Mischief is a Paul Scheele dog who is coming off an injury. He likes the Sanford-Orlando track, having won seven of 18 starts last year while finishing in the money 13 times. Mischief won all three of his schooling races in impressive fashion, beating the field by at least five lengths all three times he went to post.

Six new kennels have been given bookings at Sanford-Orlando, half of them from Taunton. Fulginiti, Miles and O'Connor all have just completed seasons at the Massachusetts track.

Lloyd Cager has been brought in from Monticello, while Edgar Trow is coming in from Colorado Springs. John Bugner is the only rookie of the 28 kennels at Sanford-Orlando, running in his first season ever this winter.

Minnesota Oakland

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "There's more than one way to win a football game," says Minnesota Coach Bud Grant.

Grant's Viking legion proved it again Sunday, turning several Los Angeles mistakes into points and a 24-13 victory in the National Football Conference title game.

The Vikings, who became the first team to qualify for the Super Bowl appearance, met Oakland Jan. 9 at Pasadena, Calif., in Super Bowl XI.

"We've got the people who believe they can kick it, catch it, block it or whatever has to be done," said Grant. "They proved again that there's more than one or two ways to win these things."

Minnesota, buoyed by the brilliant play of its special teams and the offensive firepower of Chuck Foreman, raced to a 17-0 lead early in the third period before Los Angeles made a late charge.

The Vikings turned two Ram turnovers into a 10-0 halftime lead. Bobby Bryant sailed 90 yards with a blocked field goal attempt for a touchdown and Fred Cox kicked a 25-yard field goal after a blocked punt.

"They have a history of blocking kicks and punts, and they're very good at it," said Rams quarterback Pat Haden, who engineered the Los Angeles comeback. "We had some breakdowns and gave them too many easy points."

The Rams, who have lost three straight NFC championship games, drove to the Minnesota one midway through the opening period. After Haden failed to score on third down, the Rams decided to try for the field goal.

Nate Allen, acquired earlier in the season from San Francisco, came through unscathed to block the field goal try and Bryant picked up the football in full stride on his scoring run to give Minnesota a 7-0 lead.

"We just tried to get a good jump on the ball and Nate does that very well," said Bryant, who also intercepted two Haden passes.

Los Angeles' Tom Dempsey, who had a potential game-winning field goal blocked by Allen in a 10-0 overtime tie with the Vikings in the regular season, said the timing was off of a fraction of a second on the play.

Foreman, finishing the day with 113 yards rushing, raced 62 yards to the Los Angeles two on the second play of the third period. He blasted in from the one two plays later, and Minnesota pulled ahead 17-0.

"They could have rolled over," said Grant, praising the Ram comeback. "They were every bit as good, maybe even better, than we thought they were going into the game."

Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton, trying to hit rookie Sammy White in the end zone with a scoring pass that could have given Minnesota a 24-10 lead, was intercepted by Monte Jackson. The revived Rams swept 80 yards in six plays. Lawrence McCutcheon scoring on a 10-yard run.

Dempsey missed the point-after, and Minnesota held a 17-0 lead with less than 20 minutes to go in the game.

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Pittsburgh Steelers, the magic Super Bowl number ended at two — two championships won during the regular season, two massive reasons why the Steelers had averaged 212 yards per game on the ground, why quarterback Terry Bradshaw could be selective and successful in his passing, why the defense, so well rested between appearances, could do its job so fearfully well.

But Harris, with bruised ribs, and Bleier, with a sprained toe, never set foot on the Oakland Coliseum field during Sunday's game. Without them, the Pittsburgh ground game went no where. Bradshaw had to pass much too often with limited success, and the defense burned itself out — and the Raiders, with some solid running and passing of their own, won 24-7.

And so Oakland, which hasn't been to a Super Bowl since the number 11 when it lost 33-14 to Green Bay will be in number 11 on Jan. 9 in Pasadena, Calif., facing Minnesota. The Vikings are making their fourth Super Bowl appearance (and still looking for a winning one) following their 24-13 National Conference title victory over Los Angeles earlier Sunday.

Just how much the absence of Harris and Bleier hurt the Steelers depended on who was doing the talking.

Coach John Madden, whose Raiders are riding a 12-game winning streak, said it meant nothing. "Stark, Franco and Rocky didn't play," he acknowledged, "but that didn't make any difference. Hell, no. You put the men you have out there for 60 minutes. We've played the Steelers in games with people missing, too, you know."

But Chuck Noll, whose Steelers' winning streak ended at 10, said the handicap was enormous. "It's tough to come into the biggest game with your hands tied behind your back, with two of your big weapons out."

In each of the last two years it was the Steelers who beat the Raiders for the AFC title.

This time it was very clear very early that the Steelers weren't going to go out and take the title. If they were going to get it, Oakland was going to have to give it to them.

The Raiders never even came close to offering up a post-Christmas gift. Ken Stabler, who completed 10 of 16 passes for 80 yards and two touchdowns, never threw an interception. The Raiders never fumbled the ball away.

What have been the benefits of football for Darrell Royal besides making a good living?

"My wife, Edith, said one time she's glad I still have a game to keep playing. I don't picture myself as much more than average as far as intelligence is concerned. I've done poorly on aptitude tests. I read poorly; I read slow; my comprehension is slow."

"I think I have some ability to deal with people. And to teach my game."

As the ongoing director of athletics at the university, Darrell Royal will still deal with people. But the teacher has retired.

Royal Quitting, But Leaves Mark

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

AUSTIN, Tex. — Darrell Royal, a country boy from Hollis, Okla., coached the University of Texas football team for the last two decades without ever having a losing season. Now, abruptly, he has quit the sport which absorbed his life.

"It's coach as long as I enjoy it," said Darrell in a conversation in his paneled Texas Memorial Stadium Office earlier this year, "and there are more pleasures than minutes."

It's apparent, after 184 victories in his college coaching career, that the minutes have overcome, and so the reflections of Royal provide a valuable tapestry of a game that has provided an exotic pattern of sports sociology. College football is a peculiarly American manifestation of the educational system.

Royal has emerged as a critic as well as booster.

For instance, his basic thesis: Football doesn't build character, as coaches have always claimed.

"Football is the type of game," he said, "where the elimination process the weak are eliminated. Those that are still standing, coaches are prone to say, 'Hey, look what we've built.' They neglect to say how many were jockeyed in the process of getting a select few."

"You keep skimming the cream off the top. It takes a different type person to play football than any other sport. Not many people are meant to play football."

That make it sound elitist.

"It is," admits Royal, "in a way."

Where does football fit into the American educational system?

"It's the cohesive that keeps a lot of people interested in the university. Whether it's right or wrong, a lot of people maintain their interest in football through the university and that interest points them in a direction that's more important than football. The Board of Regents meetings are always held on football weekends because that's when they can get people to come back and attend meetings."

"In the university, it's a release. These young kids have so much energy that's got to be released somewhere, and there's no better place than a Saturday afternoon or a Friday night on a college campus to let 'em all come and boot and holler and raise hell and let off that steam."

But Royal has been depicted as an autocratic despot in the handling of a football squad, by a former player, Gary Shaw, in a book called, "Meat on the Hoof," and accused of treating players as cattle.

"I think he's in the definite minority," says Royal, "and that minority has always been there. He got with a group of people who had the ability to put it into words."

This negativism was there when I was playing, but with a group of people who had the ability to put it into words."

What is there that's bad about college football?

"Recruiting. There's a lot of hypocrisy and outright cheating. Sometimes a sense of ethics. The athletic scene may be getting too big. The tail is beginning to wag the dog. Coaches who have been big get to feeling all powerful and that the university is in operation just so they can have a football team. They're going to call the shots to let the school know what they have to do to keep me and keep my program going."

"Inevitably these people self-destruct."

Royal this past season also charged the University of Oklahoma with spying on his practices and challenged that school's coaches to take lie detector tests. He has advocated the polygraph for several years as a device for detecting lies because of the approach of the coach. I think that's bad. I'm sure I've rubbed some boys wrong."

What have been the benefits of football for Darrell Royal besides making a good living?

"My wife, Edith, said one time she's glad I still have a game to keep playing. I don't picture myself as much more than average as far as intelligence is concerned. I've done poorly on aptitude tests. I read poorly; I read slow; my comprehension is slow."

"I think I have some ability to deal with people. And to teach my game."

As the ongoing director of athletics at the university, Darrell Royal will still deal with people. But the teacher has retired.

ORLANDO — It's just the first week of winter but the Minnesota Twins are already thinking about 1977 and the development of minor league players. At Tinker Field last week, Orlando Twins general manager Bob Willis announced he would be resigning as Orlando Twins manager.

ORLANDO (AP) — The team that Al Davis built — and the journey threatened to tear down — is returning to the Super Bowl.

"We've got one more game to play, and we're going to be champs," vowed linebacker Monte Johnson, one of the younger Oakland Raiders, after Sunday's 24-7 destruction of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the American Football Conference title game.

When asked what it meant to be going to the Super Bowl, Johnson replied frankly, "I don't know, I've never been there. But I know how the Steelers feel now. I've been in their position the last three years."

The Raiders had lost in the last three AFC title games, sending the Steelers to Super Bowl triumphs in 1974 and 1975. With a second half finish at the top of the league, Goryl led Reno to the division first half but lost the post season series two games to none. For his excellent direction as manager, Goryl was acclaimed "Manager of the year" in 1974 by the league. In 1975 Wisconsin Rapids finished the first half of northern division play in third place and the second half in second place, failing to reach the playoffs.

In 1976 Johnny Goryl was assigned to the Twins club at Reno in the California League. In 1975 Wisconsin Rapids finished the first half of northern division play in third place and the second half in second place, failing to reach the playoffs.

Goryl's record as a manager over the last 11 years has been progressively impressive. After an opening stint with the O-Twins in 1966, Goryl spent two years in 1967 and 1968 with the Pacific Coast League, where he was a player coach. From 1970 until 1972 Goryl managed

UPSHAW SAID AFTER Sunday's victory. "It's been a long wait."

Uplshaw, running back Pete Banaszak, receiver Fred Biletnickoff and cornerback Willie Brown are the only current Raiders remaining from the 1967 team.

"We've lived with this thing a long time, the talk about how we couldn't win the 'big one,'" said Coach John Madden after his team finally did.

"But we overcame a lot of adversity this year, went 13-1 and did it right," added the coach who lost two starting defensive linemen and fullback Mary Hubbard with injuries before the season began.

Madden was in his first year with the Raiders, as an assistant coach, in 1967. Davis, the onetime Oakland coach who now is principal owner of the National Football League team, fired John Rauch after the 1968 season and promoted Madden.

"I'm happy for John and the four of us who played nine years with the Raiders, as well as the ones who came after. They're the ones who've made us what we are today," said Banaszak, who contributed 45 yards to the

Quebec Blasts Jets

By The Associated Press

The Winnipeg Jets just don't get any respect. They had just returned from an unsuccessful appearance at the Ivestia hockey tournament in Moscow and, in their first league game following the tournament, were humiliated 12-3 by the Quebec Nordiques.

After spotting Winnipeg a goal in the opening minute of play, Quebec poured in seven consecutive first-period goals to quickly put the game out of reach.

"I thought before the game we might have a tough first period and get down a goal or two," said Winnipeg Coach Bobby Kromm after the massacre. "But not seven to one."

In other World Hockey Association games, Calgary beat Cincinnati 6-3, New England defeated Minnesota 3-2, Birmingham overwhelmed Houston 6-2 and San Diego came from behind to defeat Indianapolis 2-1.

Most of the Quebec damage was done by Real Cloutier.

Returning to action after missing five games due to a knee injury, he tied two WHA records — most points in a period with five and most points in a game with seven.

Whalers 3, Fighting Saints 2
New England's rookie center Brett Callighen scored his first WHA goal and it was a big one, giving the Whalers their victory over Minnesota. Callighen's goal came off a rebound when Fighting Saints goal tender Louis Levesseur gambled by coming out the net — and lost.

Cowboys 4, Stingers 3
Calgary took a 3-0 first-period lead and rolled to its victory. Both teams are on streaks but moving in opposite directions. The Cowboys have won four out of their last five, while the Stingers have now lost five in a row.

Bulls 4, Aeros 2
Mark Napier, Birmingham's 19-year-old captain, hasn't had that much of a career yet but he will probably remember the goal he scored against the Aeros.

Besides giving him a total of 30 for the season, it came on a penalty shot.

Mariners 2, Racers 1
Defensesmen just aren't what they used to be. Years ago, they were content to stay back at the red line and pass the puck ahead to their speedier, more mobile forwards. But since Bobby Orr came on the scene, the game has changed. Witness the game at San Diego.

Paul Shmyr broke out of his end with the puck and fellow defenseman Randy Legge trailing. Exchanging passes, the two broke in alone on Indianapolis' goaltender with Shmyr beating him for the winning goal two minutes into the final period.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Eliot Teltcher of Palos Verdes, Calif., scored an upset victory to move into the finals today in the boys' 18 division of the Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Championship.

The 14th-ranked Teltcher defeated top-seeded Larry Gottfried of Lauderdale, Fla., Sunday and faced John McEnroe of Douglaston, N.Y., in the finals.

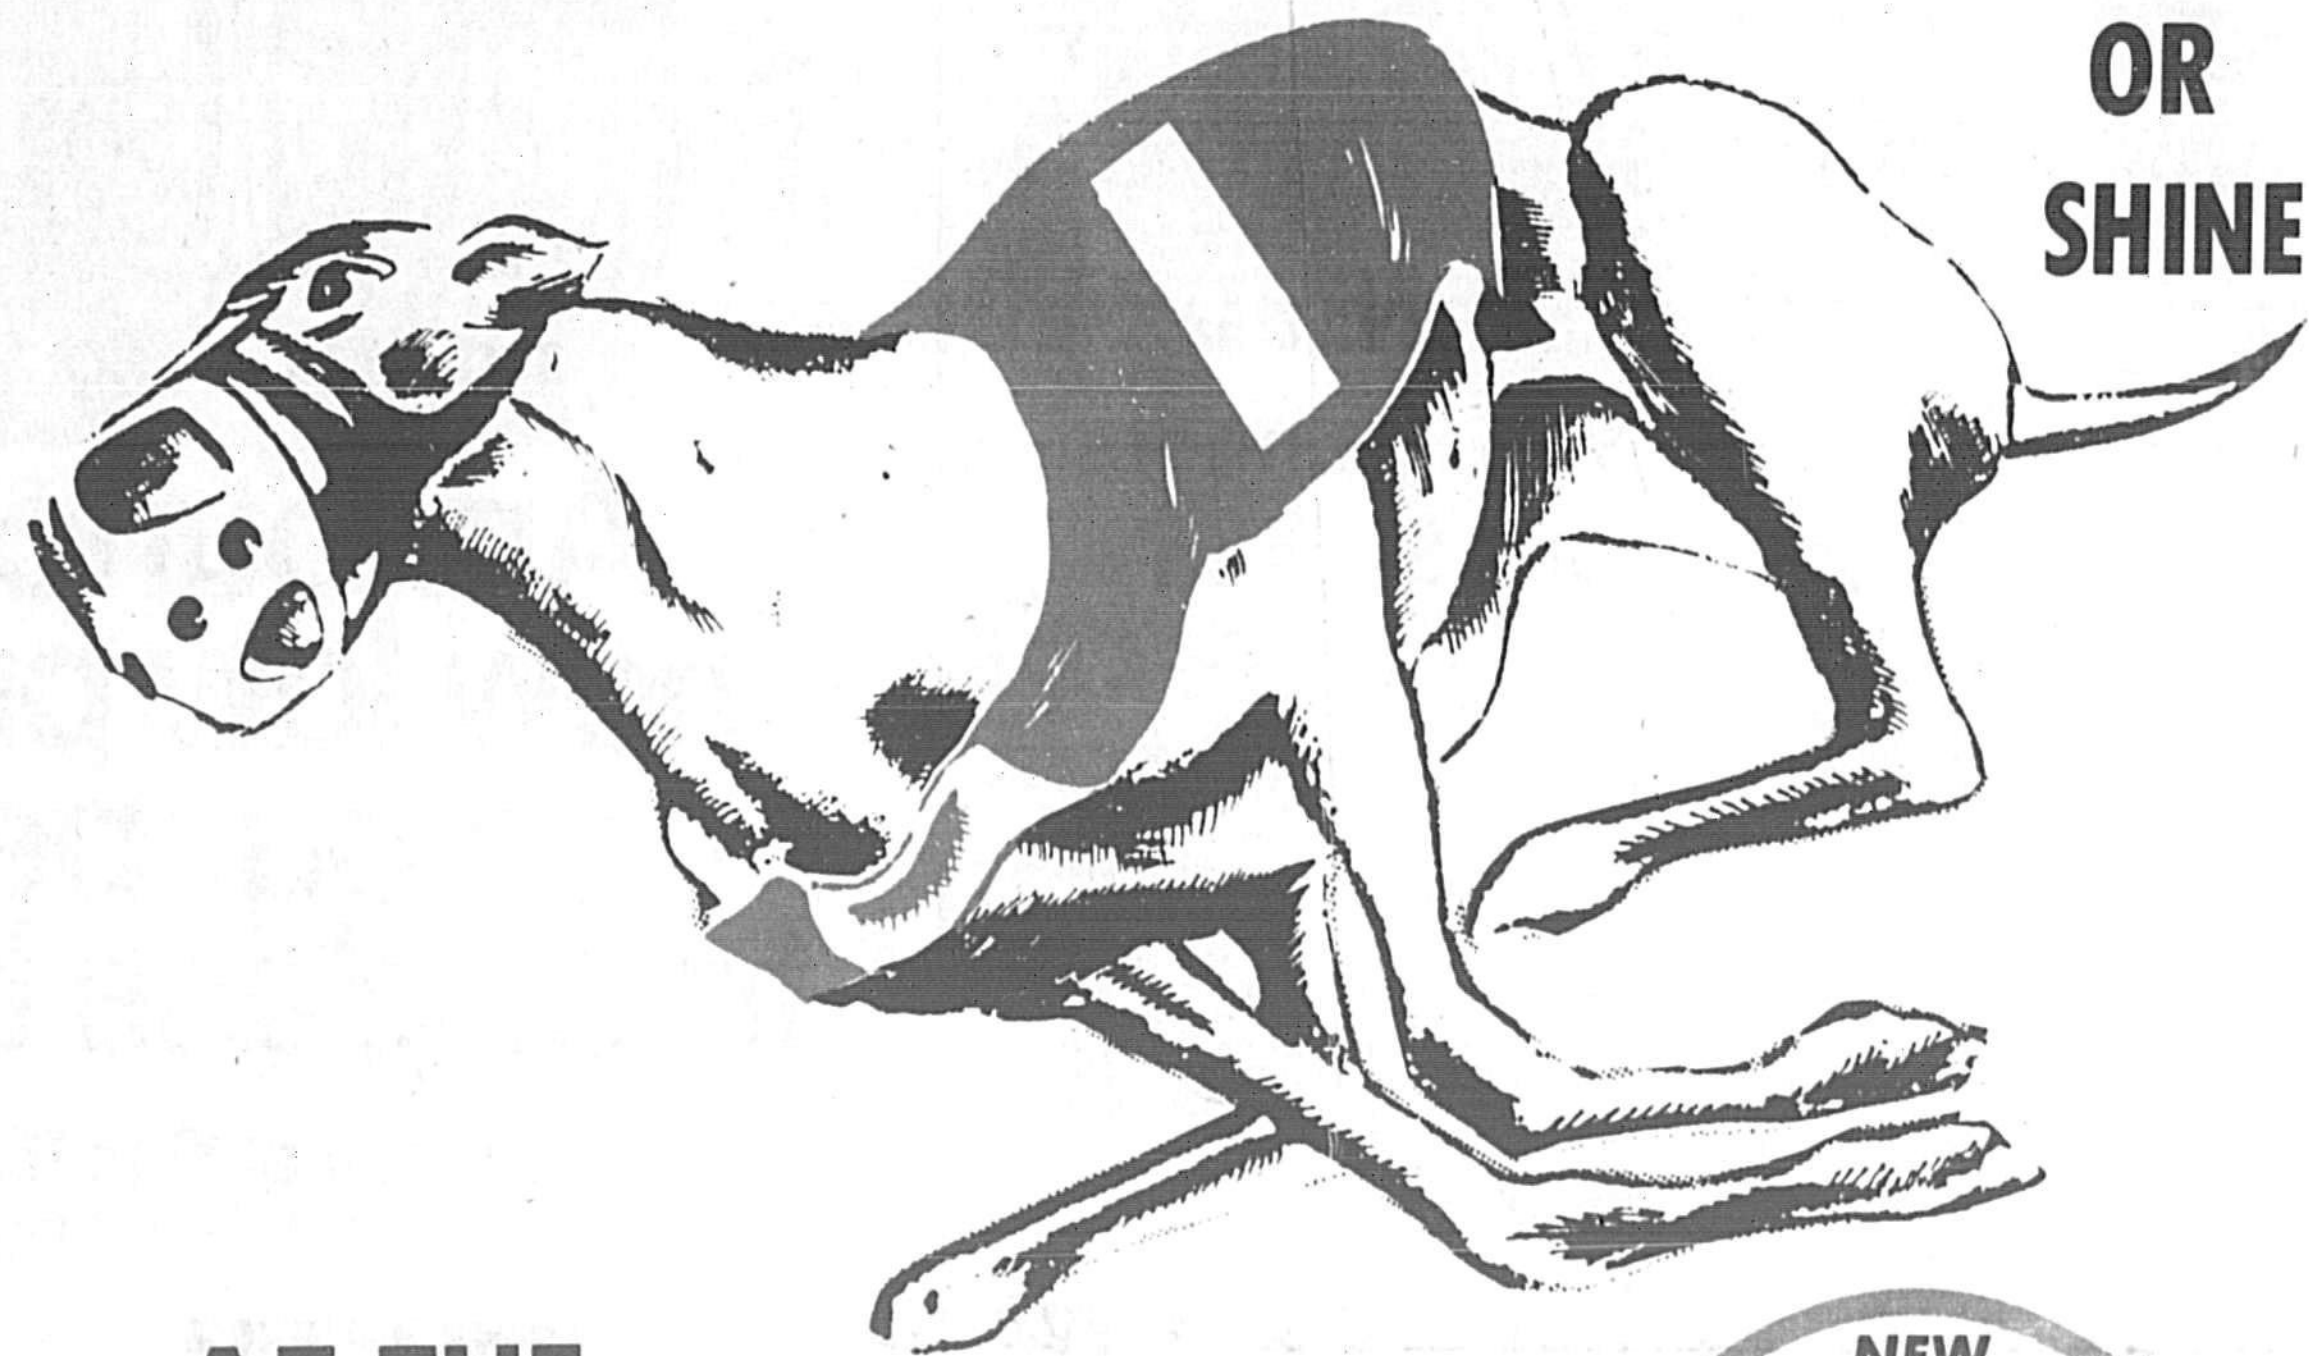

Teltcher kept Gottfried off balance with soft, high-bouncing returns to win 6-3, 6-3.

McEnroe, who lost to Gottfried in the U.S. junior tennis finals last year, beat Robert Vant Hoff of Downey, Calif., 6-1, 6-4.

In the finals of the girls' 18 division, top-ranked Marise Kruger was up against Anne Smith of Dallas, Tex. Both won their semi-final matches Sunday.

Miss Kruger of South Africa overwhelmed Maria Rothschild of St. Louis, Mo., 6-3, 6-2, while Miss Smith, second seed in the tournament, defeated Tanya Harford of South Africa, 6-4, 6-0.

At The Hospital...

In the true Christmas spirit of giving and sharing, the employees of Seminole Memorial Hospital gave gifts and shared their Christmas party this year with the boys from the Seminole Youth Ranch and staff and residents at the Good Samaritan Home.

Funds collected at the hospital's Halloween Sale and through donations and a check from the area doctors totalled $2,081, which was shared equally between the two institutions. Two wheelchairs and a food center was given to the Good Samaritan Home, as well as small personal gifts accepted by Mother Ruby Wilson (below), the home's director. Youth Ranchers each got a new wrist watch as well as sporting equipment, personal gifts and a heavy duty washer for the Ranch. Showing off their new watches are (right, from top right, clockwise) Robert, Al, Mike, Brian, Fred, Chris, Tony, Guy, Ronnie and Bill.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby: I am 30, college educated, have a good job and money in the bank. I'm 5 foot 2, weight 130, and people tell me I look like Paul Newman.

I like sports, and the theater, and I love people. Older women, children and animals adore me. I come from a good family, smoke only a pipe and drink moderately.

My problem? I am lonesome. Refuse to chase tramps. Girls tell me they like me as a "brother." I have more "sisters" than a convent. What's wrong with me?

LONESOME: Either your description is off, or you are.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 20, and for nearly five years I have carried one of your columns in my wallet. It is so worn I can scarcely read it, but it's done me more good than any single thing I've ever read.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and who needs the advice as much today as I did then. I am enclosing the column. I am the girl who wrote the letter signed MOTHER HATER.

"WISER NOW": Yes, I'll reprint the column. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: You will probably think I am a monster, but I am a girl of 14, and I hate my parents. Especially my mother.

She is so old-fashioned it's pitiful. She wants to pick out all my clothes and tell me how to wear my hair. And I am the only girl in our crowd who doesn't wear eye makeup. She won't let me go in cars with boys. All she worries about is my reputation, and I swear I haven't done anything wrong. She is killing my chances to go with the right kids and be popular.

"FOURTEEN AND LUCKY" CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Merry Christmas. And may God bless you and yours.

*Tomato Catsup Adds To Favorites

Spicy tomato catsup has been a favorite with people all over the globe for centuries. Americans have been making and eating it since the 1700's, when the tomato seed first immigrated from Spain and Cuba. Catsup has always been used extensively in cooking, whether as a condiment or a recipe ingredient.

Most catsup lovers today realize the versatility of catsup, recognizing it as an important ingredient for main dishes as well as a delicious condiment. Tomato-Beef Bake is an easy-to-fix casserole adding the lively tanginess of catsup to the creamy richness of cheese and sour cream to make a mouth-watering one-dish entrée.

Saucy Spread is a recipe that really puts a zing in your appetite. The bite of cream style horseradish and hot pepper sauce is tempered by the sweetness of catsup.

40 Minutes In The Dark

Five hundred residential and commercial customers in downtown Sanford were without electricity for 40 minutes and longer Monday afternoon after an unidentified truck driver backed his truck into a power pole at Poplar Avenue and First Street.

As a result of the 3 p.m. accident, a power line snapped and whipped around other lines shorting out circuits, according to Florida Power and Light District Manager Scott Burns.

When the emergency crew attempted to restore service, repairs were further delayed when a disconnect switch at Persimmon Avenue and First Street went out.

Burns said power was backed to affected areas by switching substation feeds to prevent loss of power for several hours while the switch was replaced.

However, the Sanford Sewage Treatment Plant was directly affected and took over an hour to restore. City Utility Director S.M. Riche Jr. said the plant continued to operate during the period as the storm by-pass motors automatically come on when there is a power failure.

The area affected was mainly confined to an area east of French Avenue north of First Street and west of Palmetto Avenue.

William Sanders, consumer service supervisor for FP&L, said the City Hall and the County Courthouse were in the affected area, but lights were not out in the courthouse as it has an alternate feeder line.

Traffic signals were out and police officers directed traffic at the main intersections.

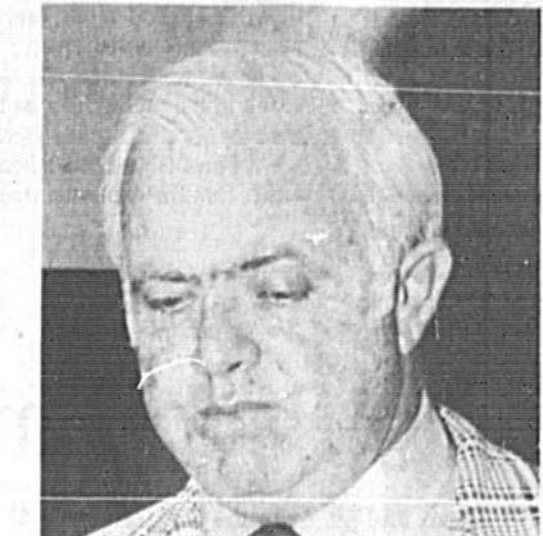

In south Seminole, a bulldozer being used to level ground on SR-496 south of Howell Branch Road broke a natural gas main Monday afternoon.

County fire units and sheriff's deputies stood by until an emergency crew from Florida Gas Co. repaired the eight-inch line.

No injuries were reported by deputies.

SHERIFF POLK:

'Somebody goofed... it was just a human error...'

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A Midway man arrested in a Sunday robbery at Sanford should have been in county jail — he had been freed by error two months before while awaiting sentencing in a resisting arrest case.

"I accept full responsibility," said Sheriff John Polk. "Somebody goofed in my department. There'll be an internal investigation and it will be handled on that level."

Harold Earl Moore, 22, didn't know why he was set free on Oct. 27 but he didn't question officials. Instead, he went to see his court-appointed lawyer, Carol Burke of Sanford. Burke didn't check on why his client was released, but just warned Moore to be sure to show up for sentencing before Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor on Dec. 16.

The erroneous release of Moore from county jail a month to the day after he had been convicted by a trial jury of resisting an officer with violence and resisting an officer without violence came to light Monday when an examination of jail records on Moore spotted the entry on a jail card.

The jail card's backside entries showed that Moore was acquitted by the jury on Count I — battery of a police officer and found guilty on the other two charges. The entry also noted that Judge McGregor ordered Moore held in custody during a presentence investigation and pending sentencing on Dec. 16.

Two lines below was the entry showing that the sheriff's department received the official court document indicating acquittal on Count I on Oct. 27 and that Moore was released from jail.

For a while Monday, sheriff's records department personnel couldn't find the court order of acquittal. Polk said it was found later to be misfiled.

Polk said personnel should have noted the earlier entry on the jail card and that the acquittal document was noted at the top

"Count I." "But they didn't," he said. "It was just a human error and as sheriff of Seminole County it's my responsibility."

Polk said Monday afternoon that he's taking steps to prevent such a release error happening again. He noted that approximately 3,500 persons a year are booked through county jail and this is only the second time during his eight years as sheriff that such an error has been made.

He said a couple of years ago a juvenile was released in error but he was found hitchhiking within an hour and returned to jail. "I will be working with the courts and the clerk's office to set up a better method of communications on court actions concerning prisoners," Polk said. "But in no way am I blaming what happened in Moore's case on the courts or the clerk's office."

Today Moore is in county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on an armed robbery charge. He and Lamar Mills, 21, also of Midway, are

Seminole Shuns Use Of Amur

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission today stymied efforts by the state to introduce the controversial, weed-igniting white amur into three Seminole lakes in an effort to curb the growth of pesky hydrilla.

Commissioners deadlocked, 2-2, over whether to allow the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to place the weed carp into Lake Oriata, Lake Of The Woods and Mirror Lake, three South Seminole bodies of water affected by hydrilla.

Action was postponed until the Florida Cabinet Jan. 6, 1977 decides which state agency has the responsibility to monitor pollution-fighting activities in the state of Florida.

The DNR and the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission both are vying for the position of authority. DNR officials want to place the amur in Seminole waters, but Game and Fresh Water people say it's premature to use the amur and that the fish needs further study before being introduced into any more Florida waters.

Commission Chairman Dick Williams and Commissioner Bob French voted in favor of the amur, while Commissioner John

Will Ridgewood Avenue Become 'Victory Lane'?

By MARYLIN TIPTON
Herald Writer

In response to a request from Seminole High School principal Don T. Reynolds the Sanford City Commission Monday night considered a possible change in the name of Ridgewood Avenue to "Victory Lane."

The Commission authorized City Manager William E. (Pete) Knowles to discuss the change with Reynolds and suggested that, as an alternative to changing the name of the street, a commemorative sign be placed beneath the present street sign. This sign might, suggested Knowles, be shaped like a shield and designate the street "Victory Lane." Reynolds had made the request "in honor of this year's football team."

After much discussion the Commission allowed the Sanford Rotary Club to use the Civic Center Jan. 8, 1977, without charge. The club had requested use of the facilities for their District Institute Meeting which will bring 225 to 250 people into Sanford.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan voiced the only opposition to the move, saying he would not change "my" policy for this or any club and intended to remain consistent with his past voting record.

The Commission awarded a certificate of appreciation and a plaque to retiring Sanford Commissioner.

Police Sgt. Russell W. Tench Tench served with the Sanford Police Department for 28 years.

A certificate of appreciation and plaque also were presented to Sidney M. Richeard, director of utilities for the city. Richeard, who has been director of utilities for Sanford since 1967.

In other business, the Commission:

- Recommended an increase in budget for purchase of improvements of park sites cutting the proposed budget by 27 per cent.
- Rejected the only bid received for an airplane for the police department, deciding to call again for bids.

Beckwith Makes A Key Request

Circuit Court Clerk Arthur Beckwith Jr., whiked into county commission chambers today requesting his need for a key to the courthouse building in Sanford.

Beckwith was excluded from a list of persons who have access to the doors after locks were changed earlier this year by Bob Ellis, director of administrative services.

When locks were initially changed, Beckwith fumed and fretted and demanded that he be given a key. However, all his protestations fell on deaf ears.

At a county meeting today instructed the county's personnel department to look into the possibility of providing Beckwith with his much-coveted key.

Sanford Utilities Director Sidney M. Richeard Jr. is leaving to become superintendent of utilities for New Smyrna Beach after 14 1/2 years with the city. He was honored by Sanford City Commission Monday night.
