Drug Testing, Homes For Elderly On City Agenda

Sanford commissioners are expected to authorize funding Tuesday for a mandatory drug testing program for city employees suspected of substance abuse and all job applicants. The commission is also expected to discuss homes that care for the elderly in area zoned single-family residential.

The commission will meet at 7 p.m. in the first floor commission chambers of city hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

The drug testing program would begin in mid-December as Sanford's response to nationwide proliferation of illicit drug use, commissioners say.

The testing program has been discussed by commissioners since early fall.

Commissioners are also expected to approve funds for substance abuse prevention counseling, to be provided by a private organization, and a series of four seminars next month, open to staff, their families and all city residents.

Public input on the elder-care facilities controversy is expected to be permitted. The city has cracked down on four such facilities in recent weeks for operating in single-family areas. City staff has since worked up guidelines, to be considered by the commission, that would open more parts of the city for legal operation of such facilities and other types of adult-care operations.

Discussions at the commission meeting will come on the heels of a mass rally the city sponsored in downtown Sanford to protest substance abuse, and the signing of petitions to support the lifting of city legal restraints on elder care operations.

On Saturday, while more than 1,500 residents demonstrated against drug abuse at a parade and rally, Della Summers, 74, was seated in the lobby of a Sanford supermarket collecting signatures in support of elder-care operations.

Mrs. Summers, 74, is a resident of 2005 S. Oak Ave, a home whose owner is being fined by the city for allowing its continued operation as an elder-care facility in violation of Sanford zoning law. The operation is located in a single-family residential zone, where such facilities are prohibited.

Britain Seeks Allies' Help Against Syria

LONDON (UPI) — Braving the wrath of radical Arab nations, Britain today took its campaign against international terrorism to Europe at a meeting of foreign ministers of the European Community.

Officials said Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe headed for the meeting in Luxembourg seeking strong public support from Britain's European partners for its stand branding Syria a sponsor of terrorism.

Britain Friday broke diplomatic relations with Syria, the Soviet Union's chief ally in the Middle East, claiming Syria masterminded a plot in London to blow up an El Al Israel jumbo jet with 375 people aboard April 17.

Officials said Howe, at today's meeting in Luxembourg, would present "conclusive evidence" of Syrian involvement in the bomb plot.

The attempt was foiled and Jordanian-born Nezar Hindawi, 32, was convicted and given a 45-year sentence by a jury at the Old Bailey Central Criminal Court. That was the signal for Britain to sever relations with Damascus.

The United States, which withdrew its ambassador from Damascus, and Canada which recalled its envoy for "consultations," appeared to be the only members of the Western alliance to come out openly in support of Britain's stand.

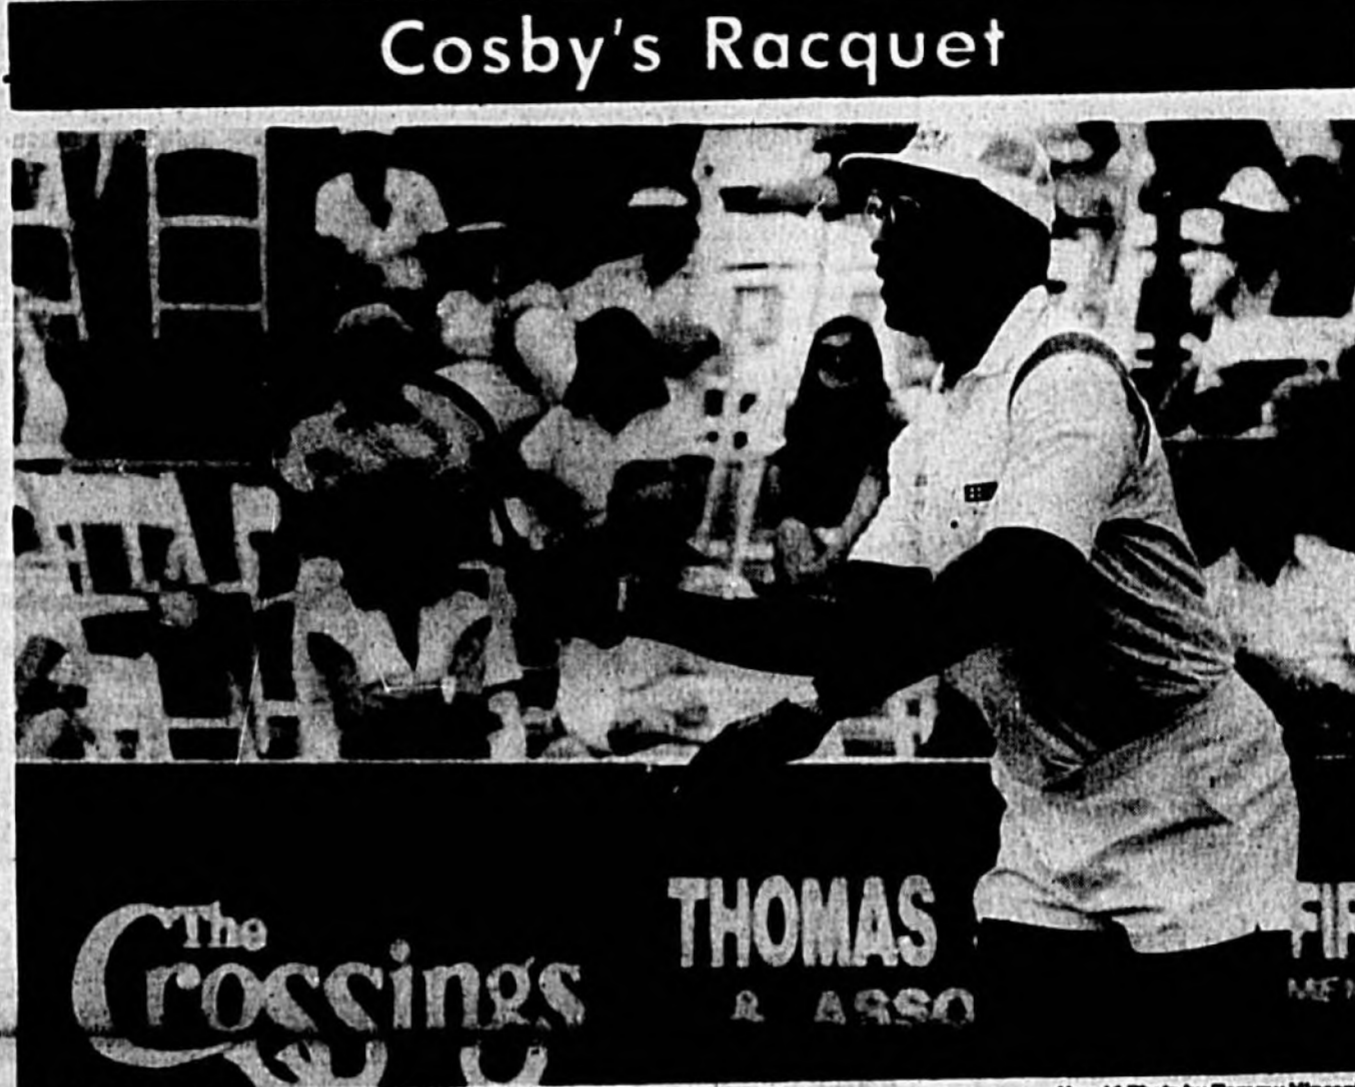

Reaction from the West Germany was muted, as it was from France — which was reportedly about to conclude a $288 million arms sale to Syria. France also was hoping for Syrian help in releasing French hostages held in Lebanon.

The Soviet Union, Iran and Libya publicly went to Syria's support, claiming the British charges were part of a U.S.-Israeli plot to malign Syria in the eyes of the world. They warned of dire consequences.

British newspapers noted that reaction from other states in the region was less harsh.

"I think he (Howe) will be doing his best to convince our partners of the reasons for our actions," a Foreign Office spokesman said of Howe's mission in Luxembourg. "He will be looking for widespread

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Crash

A Maitland man was killed and a Casselberry man seriously injured during a two-vehicle accident early Sunday in south Seminole County.

Killed was Scott J. Resna, 20, of 660 Brookside Road. He died around 2 a.m. at the scene on Dodd Road near Red Bug Lake Road.

Brian D. Strickland, 20, of Casselberry, driver of the 1984 Ford Resna was riding in, was in serious condition today at Orlando Regional Medical Center where he was taken by helicopter after the accident.

Resna and Strickland were not wearing seatbelts at the time of the accident and were ejected from the vehicle. Alcohol was involved in the incident.

Driver of the second vehicle, John N. Hagan, of 8916-B, Mills Road, Winter Spark, was treated and released at Winter Park Memorial Hospital.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, Strickland and Resna were southbound on Dodd Road at a high rate of speed when the car went out of control on a curve and traveled into the path of Hagan's 1971 Mercury.

Both cars were destroyed.

Resna is the 29th traffic fatality of the year in Seminole County.

Dropping In On World Series Brings Endangerment Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — An actor who parachuted onto the Shea Stadium field during Game 6 of the World Series in an effort to charge up hometown fans has been charged with reckless endangerment, but says the stunt was "one of the most beautiful jumps I've ever made."

The parachutist, Michael Sergio, 37, of Manhattan was released without bail Sunday by Queens Criminal Judge Allen Beldock, who rejected District Attorney John Santucci's request he set bail at $10,000.

The parachutist was ordered to return to court Nov. 24.

Police charged Sergio with reckless endangerment, criminal trespass and disorderly conduct but Santucci said he is urging the Federal Aviation Administration to hand down federal charges as well.

"I saw (New York Mets second baseman Wally) Backman do a wonderful double take and I saw the outfielders looking straight up at me," said Sergio, who said he has made 1,900 parachute jumps.

Sergio, who said he is an actor and musician, wore an orange jumpsuit as he floated onto the field Saturday night as the Boston Red Sox batted in the top of the first inning against the New York Mets.

With a multi-colored parachute and a flag proclaiming "Go Mets" billowing above him, Sergio was loudly cheered by the 55,078 fans who jammed the stadium for the game eventually won 6-5 by the Mets in 10 innings.

He said he got the idea because New York pitcher Ron Darling had complained postgame crowds were not cheering for the Mets as ardently as fans did during the regular season.

Sergio said he "would have loved to land on home plate but there were people around and I wanted to do nothing to jeopardize any of the players."

Police took Sergio, who refused to say whether he jumped from a plane or how long he was in the air, into custody as soon as he landed.

"That's the only way to beat the traffic in this town," quipped Joe Garagiola, broadcasting the game on NBC television.

Fess Promises Spotlight If Pajcic A No-Show

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Tonight's Seminole County Council of Mayors sponsored debate between Republican Bob Martinez and Democrat Steve Pajcic will go on, with or without Pajcic.

Pajcic campaign spokesman Chris Gressock said flatly this morning that Pajcic "is not going to appear (in Seminole County) because Mr. Martinez won't debate Wednesday in Miami."

A miffed Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess, council chairman, said this morning that if Pajcic doesn't show, a spotlighted empty chair will be in Pajcic's place on the stage "to accentuate his absence."

"If he can't fulfill this commitment, then that would raise questions about other commitments he makes," Fess said.

Fess said this morning attempts were still being to talk Pajcic into appearing. Pajcic said Friday afternoon that he would not appear at Monday's debate, but said Friday night he would if Martinez would debate in Miami Wednesday.

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith said today that Pajcic campaign officials had agreed in July to Pajcic's appearance tonight.

She said Pajcic would be campaigning in north Florida tonight.

Pajcic said in a televised Friday night debate at Walt Disney World's Epcot Center that he would debate tonight in Seminole County, if Martinez would agree to debate Wednesday night in Miami.

Pajcic extended a hand to shake on the agreement, and Martinez accepted the handshake, but said after the debate that the act did not mean he agreed to debate Wednesday.

"He didn't want to just stand there," with Pajcic's hand extended, a Martinez spokesman said this morning. Martinez called Pajcic's offering a "desperate" move.

Fess said in addition to trying to reach Pajcic, the council was also extending "long-shot" invitations to U.S. Senate candidates, Republican incumbent Paula Hawkins, and Democratic challenger Gov. Bob Graham.

Fess said the council had been planning the gubernatorial debate since May. He said Pajcic wanted the event to be televised, and the council obtained television coverage. Fess said Pajcic didn't like the time of the coverage, and that a Tallahassee station hadn't been assigned to cover the event.

Ms. Gressock said lack of statewide television coverage was another factor for Pajcic's decision to not debate tonight.

WESH-TV 2 Programming Director Ken Smith said this morning that if both candidates show, the station will broadcast the debate at 10 p.m. Tuesday on a delayed basis. If Pajcic doesn't show, "we would not devote an hour to Mr. Martinez's campaign."

Woman Rejects Plea Bargain In Murder Trial

A Sanford woman has rejected a plea bargain offer and is scheduled to go to trial this week on a first-degree murder charge.

Trial for Linda Freney, 31, of 103 Seminole Gardens, is set Wednesday through Friday. She is charged with the April 20 killing her long-term boyfriend Lester Cooper, 48, of the same address. The state is not seeking the death penalty.

Ms. Freney has turned down a state's offer that she plead guilty to second-degree murder in exchange for a 12 to 17 year sentence for the unknown result of a jury trial for first-degree murder.

The 12-member jury could set her free, send her to jail for at least 25 years, or find her guilty of lesser charges with various prison terms.

Ms. Freney was indicted by a grand jury in May.

According to court records, Ms. Freney is accused of shooting Cooper in the head. At the time they had lived together for 10 years.

Police arrived at their home to find Cooper shot in the left cheek by a .22-caliber handgun. He was in the bathroom.

After the shooting, the woman reportedly cradled Cooper's head in her lap or tried to help him, then then became incoherent. According to police, the shooting may have been the culmination of a fight the couple had started earlier.

Cooper had been arrested in the past for battery on Ms. Freney.

Chaos Marks London Stock Market Change

LONDON (UPI) — A day of revolutionary change in the London stock market got off to a disastrous start Monday with the computer system crashing as trading began — stalling the biggest upheaval in the exchange's 184-year history.

"All is chaos and confusion," one broker reported from the exchange floor as the market officially opened at 9 a.m. "It's a complete mess," said another.

The stock exchange took down its main SEAO computer, which tells dealers the latest share prices, when it suddenly started showing wild price fluctuations. The system was out of order intermittently for more than an hour and serious trading did not get under way until about 10 a.m., traders said.

Until then, dealers had to go back to the old system of face-to-face bargaining.

Electronic share trading is the cornerstone of the biggest day of change in the stock market's history, labeled "Big Bang."

The hitherto exclusively British institution also opened its doors to membership by foreign banks and brokers and abolished the system of fixed fees for buying and selling shares.

It poses an explosive challenge to the New York and Tokyo markets for a major share of what has become an around-the-clock, around-the-globe market in shares. London trades while the other two are shut down and now will be tempting overseas buyers with cheap commissions.

Many brokers had expected the coming week to be something of an anticlimax, predicting quiet trading conditions while dealers learned the new methods and new computer systems.

For three years now, major U.S. and overseas banks have been buying up Britain's blue-blooded stock brokerage firms to form powerful new securities houses. The banks already are big operators in the foreign exchange and international

IN BRIEF

United Mine Workers Convenes Its Ever First Special Convention

ATLANTA (UPI) — Leaders of the United Mine Workers have begun a historic effort to enhance the union's power before nationwide coal negotiations begin with multinational corporations that are troublesome to weather a strike.

UMW President Richard Trumka called the first special convention in almost 100 years to ask for the power to negotiate a merger or affiliate with another labor organization, such as the AFL-CIO. The UMW left the labor federation in 1947.

In announcing the meeting, Trumka highlighted his concern over the changing coal industry.

In addition, Trumka wants the 1,800 delegates to remove a $70 million "cap" on the union's strike fund, which would give the UMW more muscle going into next year's talks. Union officials peg the current fund at $50 million.

Fugitive Pastor Prays For Ouster

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A fugitive Texas pastor whose church has been padlocked and soon may be sold in a battle over an unlicensed boys home has called on churchgoers to pray for God to "remove" Texas Gov. Mark White.

"I pray to God as I asked the congregation to pray. Stop these men. Stop the governor. Stop the judge. Don't let them sell the church," said the Rev. W.N. Otwell, pastor of the Community Baptist Church of Fort Worth.

Otwell, who has been provided sanctuary by Rev. R.L. Hymers Jr., pastor of the Fundamental Baptist Tabernacle of Los Angeles, urged about 400 members of Hymers' congregation Sunday to pray for the election defeat of White.

Otwell has been held in contempt of court by state District Judge Paul Davis in Austin, Texas, for refusing to follow state law and license his church-run boys home in Forest Hill, a suburb of Ft. Worth.

Piedmont Accident Investigated

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A quick-thinking passenger on a Piedmont airliner that skidded off a rain-slick runway, injuring 34 people, unlatched the door after the jet stopped near railroad tracks and helped others deplane.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators were to inspect the damaged plane today to determine the cause of the accident at 8:05 p.m. EDT Saturday when Piedmont Flight 467 landed at Charlotte-Douglas International Airport.

The plane tore through a chain-link fence at the end of the runway and came to rest on an embankment leading to Southern Railway tracks.

Bill Bush of the NTSB said the Boeing 737-200 jet carrying 113 passengers and five crew members on a flight from Newark, N.J., skidded about 440 feet off the end of a runway, causing extensive damage from its nose to its wing.

2nd Frozen Embryo Baby Born

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI) — The birth of a healthy 6-pound, 15-ounce boy through a frozen-embryo "test tube" technique used only twice in the United States with success was hailed as "a good thing for infertile couples."

Although the technique has been used successfully elsewhere in the world, the delivery Sunday of Travis Cody McCullar marked only the second time the frozen-embryo method has been successful in the United States, doctors at John Muir Hospital said.

The first U.S. birth using the technique came June 4 at an undisclosed Los Angeles hospital when a 9-pound, 11-ounce boy was delivered by Caesarean section.

FBI Investigates Mercenaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conservative activist could be indicted for violating the Neutrality Act by allegedly organizing combat raids into Nicaragua, the U.S. attorney's office says.

An FBI investigation into the activities of Thomas Posey of Decatur, Ala., yielded statements from American mercenaries who said they led the raids into Nicaragua that Posey planned.

The investigation could lead to indictments by early next year for violations of the Neutrality Act, said Ana Barnett, a spokeswoman for the U.S. attorney's office in Miami.

The Neutrality Act bars private citizens from launching combat operations against governments with which the United States is not officially at war. Violations of the act are punishable by up to three years in prison and a $3,000 fine.

Booster Designs Narrowed Down

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Space agency engineers are in the midst of a series of tests to develop a new design for shuttle booster rocket fuel-segment joints, a key hurdle on the road to resuming shuttle flights in 1988.

John Thomas, manager of the booster redesign project at the Marshall Space Flight Center, planned a news conference today to review the status of the effort to fix the faulty fuel-segment joints that doomed the shuttle Challenger on Jan. 28.

A "preliminary design review" of the new joint configuration has been completed and while competing designs apparently are still under study, NASA is focusing on one that features three O-ring seals and a "capture feature" to keep the fuel joints from bulging open during ignition when internal pressure soars to more than 900 pounds per square inch.

Booster maker Morton Thiokol Inc. already has test hardware on hand at its Brigham City, Utah, plant featuring some aspects of the new design to study how the new joint fits together and a series of other tests are under way to develop new O-ring material that is more resistant to temperature extremes.

Challenger's faulty booster had two rubber O-ring seals in each of three fuel-segment joints per rocket. The seals were in place to prevent flame from burning propellant inside from escaping in a catastrophic "burn through."

But the joint between the lower two fuel segments of Challenger's right-side booster was weakened at launch by ignition pressure and other factors and later ruptured completely, allowing flame to burn through, triggering the worst disaster in space history.

Rocket engineers at Morton Thiokol are now conducting test firings using two segments and just enough propellant to simulate ignition pressure to study joint and O-ring operation.

Anti-Drug Bill To Become Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug dealing is a high-risk business that nets a high financial reward. Now, a new law is going to make the price for getting caught equally as high.

President Reagan is scheduled to sign into law today the new $1.7 billion anti-drug bill — the biggest single commitment of federal dollars ever made in the ongoing and, so far, largely unsuccessful battle against illegal drugs.

The landmark legislation, to be signed in a White House East Room ceremony, increases enforcement and interdiction efforts with new manpower and machinery aimed at making smuggling drugs into this country more difficult.

It also raises the prison terms and fines for those convicted of violating virtually any federal drug law, and dealers convicted of using children to help sell drugs will be subject to double the normal criminal penalties.

The measure provides extra money to hire hundreds of new drug enforcement agents and to acquire new ground radar for the nation's southern border, new radar and chase planes, jet helicopters and other hardware.

It also allocates at least $475 million for new drug treatment, prevention and education programs, $124.5 million to build and staff more federal prisons and $230 million for state and local law enforcement agencies.

In addition, the new drug law — passed in response to what polls showed was growing national concern about drug abuse — pays for more U.S. attorneys and marshals, makes money laundering a federal crime carrying a penalty of up to 20 years in prison and establishes new foreign aid limits to drug-producing countries that do not cooperate with U.S. eradication efforts.

Legislators who passed the bill in what some skeptics called a fit of election-year anti-drug frenzy say the new measure warns drug smugglers that the federal government is finally getting serious in what has been a losing battle to stop the import and use of marijuana, cocaine, the cocaine derivative called crack, heroin and other illegal drugs.

"Beware, the counteroffensive has begun," said Rep. James Quillen, R-Tenn., when the House passed a compromise version of the bill.

A compromise measure was necessary because both the House and Senate loaded the original bill with so many extraneous or constitutionally questionable amendments that final passage was threatened.

The House approved an amendment that sought the death penalty for drug kingpins convicted of some drug-related murders but Senate death penalty opponents voted to filibuster unless it was removed. It was taken out.

Other House provisions, later removed, gave the military arrest powers in drug cases, ordered the president to "substantially halt" the flow of illegal drugs into the country within 45 days of the bill becoming law and relaxed the exclusionary rule so that evidence gathered illegally during warrantless searches could be used at trial if officers acted in "good faith."

The Senate added several provisions to the bill and a few remained in the final version. One taken out was attempt to outlaw "dial-a-porn" telephone operations in which callers hear sexually explicit messages.

Thunderstorms Drench Tampa Bay

Forecasters Say World Series OK

By United Press International

Storms that forced the postponement of the decisive seventh game of the World Series spread more rain today from New England to Florida, while other showers doused the Pacific Northwest.

However, the National Weather Service predicted the rain along the Eastern Seaboard would end in New York by tonight, allowing the seventh game of the World Series between the Mets and the Boston Red Sox to be played.

"Right now it looks like they should be able to get it in," NWS forecaster Bill Barlow said. "There is only a slight chance of showers (Monday) afternoon, and it appears most of the rain should be over by Monday night."

Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth postponed the game scheduled for Sunday night in New York, citing a wet field and a forecast of more rain. The game between the Mets and Red Sox was rescheduled for 8:10 p.m. EST tonight.

Thunderstorms Sunday also drenched the Tampa and St. Petersburg area in Florida with up to 10 1/4 inches of rain, flooding some streets.

Nearly an inch of rain fell Sunday night at Boston.

Elsewhere, rain and showers fell on parts of the Pacific Northwest and northern California. Nearly an inch of rain was recorded at Tacoma, Wash.

Fog cut visibilities to near zero in some areas of the Middle Atlantic states, the Northeast and the lower Great Lakes.

Senate Races Appear Toss-Ups

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The big question in the Nov. 4 election is which party will take control of the Senate, with both Republicans and Democrats forecasting victory but aware the "game isn't going to be over until it's over."

With President Reagan saying continued GOP control of the Senate is crucial to the final two years of his White House term, from 10 to 15 key races are considered too close to call.

But because 22 GOP seats are up this fall, Republicans have to do more than just break even in the 34 races nationwide. As White House political aide Mitchell Daniels said: "We're going to win a majority of Senate races ... but good ain't good enough."

Democratic pollster Peter Hart, saying about 14 Senate races are too close to call with just more than a week of campaigning left, declared: "It's the Yogi Berra election — the game isn't going to be over until it's over."

"It feels fairly good for the Democrats," Hart said, "but it's a mystery all the way."

Republican pollster Robert Teeter said the outcome is impossible to predict, but the GOP might suffer a net loss of two seats, meaning the party would hold a 51-49 Senate edge when the 100th Congress begins in January.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., who is not up for re-election this fall, also said the GOP would hang on to a 51-49 edge. But Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas said, "I would bet we'd win, but not by much. I would guess 52-48."

Lugar, Bentsen, Teeter, Hart and Daniels appeared on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley."

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Sen. George Mitchell of Maine, chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee, asserted, "Democrats will regain control of the Senate, 53-47."

Thatcher's Party Chairman Quits After Alleged Prostitute Payoff

LONDON (UPI) — Jeffrey Archer, a millionaire best-selling novelist and politician who returned from disgrace to enjoy the confidence of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, was back in sackcloth and ashes today.

Archer, 46, quit as deputy chairman of Thatcher's ruling Conservative Party within hours of the release of a Sunday newspaper story giving a detailed account of his alleged attempt to pay "hush" money to a prostitute.

Announcing his resignation, Archer — married to a Cambridge chemistry professor and with two teenage sons — said he had never met the lady in question and never "had any association with a prostitute."

The newspaper said Coghlan declined the money and handed it back.

Pretoria Ousts Red Cross Mission

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa, expelled from an International Red Cross conference in Geneva because of its racial policies, has ordered 16 IRC representatives to leave the country.

Ortega Hints At Hasenfus Pardon

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — President Daniel Ortega hinted that captured American flier Eugene Hasenfus could be pardoned if he is found guilty of terrorism for running guns to U.S.-backed rebels.

"Justice will be applied," Ortega told reporters Saturday night.

"On the other hand, the Sandinista revolution has characterized itself as generous and flexible. Pardons have been given, even to former members of (deposed dictator Anastasio) Somoza's national guard," Ortega said.

Priest Says Israeli Friend Held

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An Australian priest said he has established that an Israeli friend — reportedly seized abroad by Israeli agents — is being held secretly to face charges of selling Israel's atom bomb secrets to a British newspaper.

Vanunu, 31, a former nuclear plant worker, disappeared in England Sept. 30, five days before London's Sunday Times newspaper named him as its primary source in a report that Israel has secretly built and stockpiled between 100 and 200 nuclear warheads during the past 20 years.

Don't Play Games With Toxic Waste

"A high stakes game of chicken," is the way one lobbyist described the confrontation between Congress and the Reagan administration over legislation to strengthen this country's toxic-waste cleanup program. In some respects, it's South African sanctions redux, this time on a domestic issue. On toxic waste, as with South Africa, the advice the president is getting is not sufficient for the task at hand.

Both the House and Senate overwhelmingly have passed compromise legislation that would strengthen the toxic-waste law and provide $9 billion for cleaning up the nation's waste sites during the next five years. The legislation, the product of more than two years of arduous effort, enjoys the support not only of environmental organizations, but industry and labor groups as well. Such a consensus is a rare accomplishment.

The president's senior advisers, on the other hand, recommended a presidential veto because the legislation calls for new taxes, including a broad tax on corporate earnings and one on crude oil. The administration "cannot accept a smorgasbord of new taxes disguised as a super-fund reauthorization bill," James C. Miller 3rd, director of the White House Office of Management and Budget, explained.

The toxic-waste legislation is written in such a way that a presidential veto would have canceled, in addition to the $9 billion in proposed funding, an appropriation of $1.48 billion to pay for the current operations of the toxic-waste law.

President Reagan, however, disregarded those advisers who wanted this vital legislation scrapped. He signed the bill.

"Playing chicken" with toxic waste is foolish. It reminds us of a venerable proverb, origins unknown: He who plays chicken often ends up a dead duck.

We're happy Mr. Reagan didn't play the game as some of the White House inner-circle wished.

Goodbye M'Bow

The decision of Amadou-Mahtar M'Bow not to seek a third term next year as director of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization means a major policy goal of the Reagan administration concerning changes in the U.N. family of agencies may be closer at hand.

That should come as no great surprise. M'Bow, from Senegal, was on the administration's hit list. When the United States left UNESCO two years ago, preparing the way for Britain to do likewise, the agency was on thin ice. Its money was short, largely because of Washington's and London's decisions to stop paying their respective quotas to support the agency. Thus, M'Bow was presiding over an organization that was losing viability.

By most accounts, M'Bow reigned over one of the most patronage-ridden, inefficient U.N. agencies in existence. Some conservatives providing intellectual ammunition and lieutenants for the administration's broad attack on the United Nations objected primarily to the way the UNESCO director handled money and jobs at the agency's Paris headquarters.

Others were incensed that a man from a Third World nation would permit ideological assaults on the United States and the principles this country alleges to hold dear, such as freedom of the press. UNESCO has been the heart of the movement to license journalists. Conservatives object to that restriction on the press in principle, but fail to be as enthusiastic about a free press when it covers the Reagan administration.

M'Bow's departure gives UNESCO members a chance for a new start. Rather than continuing to play the coy outsider — trying to call the shots from afar — the United States should rejoin UNESCO, accept the U.N. political game and play it better than its rivals.

Reagan Gives All In Midterm Campaign

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is giving his all to the midterm political campaign to help Republicans retain control of the Senate.

He wants the "Reagan Revolution" to continue after he has left the White House, and by electing candidates who share his conservative philosophy, he believes that can be done.

But Reagan has not always had his way even with a Republican majority in the Senate. He and the majority parted company on tougher sanctions against South Africa to show America's repugnance, as Reagan has often put it, against apartheid, the system of separation of the races.

Reagan also has had to compromise, accepting less money than asked for on defense and more money than he wanted for the Superfund to clean up toxic wastes.

But Reagan has won many legislative battles by virtue of his personal intervention and lobbying. A senator or a congressman will get a telephone call from the president urging him to vote for a certain measure. Implied in the call is a promise to campaign for the candidate, or a warning that there will be no campaigning for him.

Every president has done it. And in the majority of cases, it is difficult, sometimes impossible, to say no to the president.

Reagan has been determined that his second term would be dynamic and that it would not cater to potential successors waiting in the wings. His high profile on most issues indicates that he does not want to be counted out.

So his ambition and drive has not abated. And he has set aside the final week of the midterm election campaign to be available to lend support to Republican candidates who may be on the ropes. It is difficult to remember a president who has done so much campaigning for his party.

It's no secret; he enjoys the hustings. He likes to make speeches and he has a staff that provides the red, white and blue settings where he feels very much at home. They lift his spirits, and his style is easy, affable, exuding confidence.

When Reagan has needed Democratic support to show a solid front in foreign policy, he has urged unity and bipartisanship. But when he is on the stump, all that is forgotten.

He does not mind accusing those who want to cut his military budget of endangering national security. As for his dealings with the Soviets, well no matter, he wants total support.

He has said on several occasions that the Soviets are waiting to win from dissension in the United States what they cannot achieve at the bargaining table.

His relationship with House Speaker Thomas O'Neill is a case in point. They made up and broke up more times than young lovers. But in the end they were philosophically at odds.

O'Neill was chagrined when Reagan attacked the Democrats after the speaker had called him before the Iceland summit assuring him of his party's support.

Politics being adversarial at best, it is understandable that when the president wants to help Republicans he is going to have to go for the Democratic jugular.

Saliva Predicts Ovulation

By Sarah Fisher Lowe

DENVER (UPI) — A new device that uses saliva to predict ovulation is being tested for use in birth control, and experts say it could be a major breakthrough in natural family planning.

The system, called Cue Ovulation Predictor, is as easy to use as sucking on a lollipop and avoids the religious and cultural edicts that frown on intrusive birth control devices. It also is able to predict ovulation five days in advance, its inventors say.

That is something other ovulation prediction methods cannot do, said Dr. Louise Tyrer, vice president of medical affairs for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

"Other methods which predict ovulation when it occurs or after it occurs, such as basal body temperature, are not useful in birth control," she said. "They can tell you when it's safe to resume having intercourse (after ovulation), but now when it's safe to start (before ovulation)."

"If the data support that it does actually predict ovulation five days in advance, it will be a major breakthrough," she said.

Planned Parenthood's national medical committee of 30 family planning experts is awaiting results of Cue's clinical tests, Tyrer said.

The Cue predictor measures minute changes in sodium and potassium levels in a woman's saliva. The levels peak about six to seven days before ovulation, increasing in electrical conductivity which is measured by a spoon-like sensor.

After the peak is reached, the woman switches to a vaginal sensor to determine the exact day of ovulation.

The reason for the changes is under investigation.

Cue, approved by the Food and Drug Administration only for use as an aid to conception, has been available commercially for a year. It has proven 98 percent accurate, said co-inventor Jennine Regas. Before it can be marketed for use as a birth control device, it must be tested for effectiveness and re-approved by the FDA, she said.

Currently, there is only one FDA-approved home ovulation predictor kit on the market. Manufactured by Hygeia Sciences in Newton, Mass., it predicts ovulation 12 to 24 hours in advance.

Regas fashioned a homemade sensor to test her own saliva using a table fork.

Oil Companies Avoid Paying Fines

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Oil companies that gouged the public during the period of price controls before 1981 may not have to pay millions of dollars in fines, thanks to federal bureaucrats rushing to meet a White House deadline for a new regulation.

The bumbling bureaucrats' hasty action allowed some oil companies to destroy records that the government would have needed to prosecute them for price-control violations, according to an unreleased General Accounting Office report obtained by our associate Lucette Lagrado. The report was requested by Rep. John Dingell, chairman of a House subcommittee on oversight and investigations.

The regulation that was so precipitately rescinded last year required oil companies to hold onto the records of their transactions throughout the period of price control, 1973 to 1981. After decontrol, the Energy Department prosecuted many of the control-era

JEFFREY HART

Liberal Litmus Test

Those who were worried that President Reagan would bargain away his Strategic Defense Initiative at Iceland are now somewhat reassured. But Secretary Gorbachev won the first round politically and therefore is on the offensive. Reagan and SDI are on the defense, politically.

Gorbachev's number one political priority is to slow down and block the so-called Star Wars missile defense. He did not get Reagan to trade it away in Iceland for warhead cuts that would be strategically meaningless. Score one for Reagan.

But Gorbachev played his hand very cleverly. He offered, for the first time since World War II, substantial cuts in the Soviet warhead arsenal. This put Reagan in the position of "blocking" warhead cuts because of his insistence upon going ahead with SDI. Gorbachev is no doubt optimistic about winning the public opinion contest here, in Europe, and in Congress.

Gorbachev's scientific advisers have no doubt told him that SDI, even if it can never be made foolproof, is very likely to be good enough to neutralize the threat from Soviet ICBMs. If the Soviets cannot count on an ICBM getting through, to a particular target, well, they had better not launch one. Therefore having failed to get Reagan to bargain away SDI at the Iceland summit, Gorbachev used the summit to set in motion political forces within the West with which Reagan must now deal.

It was almost comic to see ABC-TV's Peter Jennings expressing what amounted to Gorbachev's position in debate, not really an interview, with former National Security advisor Robert McFarlane.

Mr. Jennings, a correspondent, but really a kind of volunteer participant in the politics of this issue, strongly indicated that SDI might not work, might be destabilizing, and stood in the way of prized agreements on warhead reductions. McFarlane made the administration's case well, but he must have thought that he was still listening to some negotiator from the Gorbachev team.

In my opinion, opposition to SDI will become a litmus test of acceptance to the liberal-left for anyone seeking the 1988 Democratic nomination. At the moment it is not quite a litmus test, but it will fast become one.

We have recently seen a report by a 100-member Democratic Policy Commission called "New Choices in a Changing America." Formed by National Chairman Paul Kirk, the commission was supposed to move the Democrats into the mainstream in foreign policy. The report was supposed to dispel the "blame America first" attitude with which the Democrats are saddled. And the report is pretty good.

But there is a dynamic in the Democratic Party that drives it to the left. This is no doubt due to a veto power that various radical groups, New Left, feminist, militant black, can exercise over a prospective nominee's chances.

In 1984, all candidates except Fritz Hollings backed a "nuclear freeze," which was then the leftist benchmark. True enough, they usually fenced their support — used "parachutes" as it were. The freeze would have to be "verifiable." Yeah.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Tax Bill Basically Unfair

WASHINGTON — In the final days of the 99th Congress, a number of congressmen expressed grave concern about the effects of "tax reform." One of the most outspoken was U.S. Rep. Bill Frenzel (R-Minn.), who analyzed the mis-labeled reform in detail and characterized it as — "anti-growth, and lots more."

That's what this commentator has been saying for months. Though the legislation won approval, it's not a tax reform law; it's a tax redistribution law, and a bad one.

The United States has the lowest savings rate in the world. So what did Congress do, with the enthusiastic encouragement of the administration? It lowered or repealed the important savings incentives in the tax code. As Congressman Frenzel said, the Joint House-Senate conference committee on the tax bill "sharply reduced incentives for capital formation."

One of the principal objectives of the "tax reform" was supposed to be fairness. Congressman Frenzel notes that "the drafters of tax reform have put $100,000 earners into a higher marginal rate than million dollar earners. As a matter of fact, the $38,000 single filer will pay at the same rate as the $1 million earner." So much for fairness under "reform."

At a time when the cost of education is rising, education being the key to personal and national progress, the 99th Congress, with the backing of the administration, decided to tax scholarship stipends which formerly were untaxed.

Other changes in the tax law put strict limits on tax-exempt building bonds issued by private educational institutions. These limitations will be imposed at the same time the tax law denies private colleges gifts of appreciated property. The bill is anti-charity in other ways: elderly, blind itemizers will lose deductions.

The cost of "tax reform" will be imposed on business at a time when American business is in trouble. As Congressman Frenzel explained, "The loss of investment tax credits and the stretching of depreciation schedules means that America's basic manufacturing industries will pay more taxes." He warns that the new tax money they must pay will either cost them market share or will be added to their customers' costs.

Congress simply will have to repair the damage done.

IN BRIEF

Miami Police Shootings Leave 1 Dead, 2 Wounded

MIAMI (UPI) — Police shot three people in separate incidents over a 13-hour period, killing a woman who fired a gun at her boyfriend during a domestic argument and then turned it on a police officer, and wounding two men.

The shootings come shortly after the release of a report by the Crime Control Institute, which shows Miami ranking fourth among large cities in the number of citizens killed by police officers per 100,000 population. New Orleans, Jacksonville, Fla., and Dallas head the list.

Vivian Oliver, 28, was struck by one bullet early Saturday as she argued with her 63-year-old boyfriend Willie Daniels at the Campbell Auto Park where he worked in Miami's downtown area, police said.

Miguel Cardenas, 34, an alleged home invasion robber, was running from a police sergeant when he was shot in the buttocks as he tried to climb a locked gate between two businesses, police said.

Three hours later, at 11:45 p.m., police officer Willie Bell accidentally shot Wilfredo Diaz in the right shoulder during a massive citywide cocaine sting operation.

More Soviet Arms Beached

JUPITER (UPI) — A tin case of Soviet-made 122mm detonation fuses almost carried off a beach by a couple in Coral Cove Park is the latest arms to wash ashore in Palm Beach County.

A spokesman for the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said the fuses, found Saturday on a northern Palm Beach County beach near the Martin County line, will be held until representatives from the U.S. Army's 66th Bomb Disposal Detachment can take it away. The fuses are used to launch rockets.

Since Oct. 18, 47 rocket fuses, six cannon shells and three rocket-propelled grenades have washed up in Palm Beach, Martin and Brevard counties.

Miami Paper Endorses Graham

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Herald "enthusiastically" endorsed Democratic Gov. Bob Graham Sunday in the Senate race against incumbent Republican Sen. Paula Hawkins.

An editorial in the Herald's Sunday edition said the Senate was the place for "the two most thoughtful individuals that each state could send there."

"Florida has ... a U.S. Senator — Paula Hawkins — who meets that test only rarely, and on most days and most issues not at all.... In six years she has shown no growth, gained no stature."

The editorial referred to Hawkins' gaffes earlier this week when she called Mexican-Americans unpatriotic and said Soviet and U.S. Communists were rooting for Graham's victory.

Papers Endorse Martinez, Pajcic

Political endorsements from Florida's newspapers continued to pour in Sunday, with only about two weeks remaining before election day.

The Tampa Tribune editorially endorsed hometown favorite former Mayor Bob Martinez for governor, while across the bay the St. Petersburg Times endorsed his democratic opponent, Steve Pajcic.

The Gainesville Sun endorsed Pajcic for governor, citing Pajcic's experience in the legislature and his past record on issues facing the state.

Conservationists Applaud New Bill

New Life For Superfund

See Editorial, page 4A

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Past critics of the government's handling of the Superfund toxic waste cleanup effort predict improvement under the reincarnated program, now bolstered by an influx of money and new cleanup standards.

"If history is any indicator, it will be less successful than we would hope, but more successful than past performance," said Blake Early of the Sierra Club, one of several environmental groups that monitored the new Superfund law throughout two years of deliberations in Congress.

"We're looking for improvement," agreed Eric Draper of the National Campaign Against Toxic Hazards. "But if the past is any measure of the future with Superfund, it is only in communities where people demand that they do the work ... that it actually gets done."

The new law, signed by President Reagan Oct. 17, provides the Environmental Protection Agency with $8.5 billion over the next five years to clean up some of the nation's worst hazardous waste sites and another $500 million to handle problems caused by leaking underground storage tanks.

The new budget is more than five times larger than the sum set aside for the first five years of the program under the original Superfund law passed in 1980.

Besides the expanded budget, the new law also outlines cleanup requirements and grants citizens the right to sue if they think the cleanup effort is not being handled properly.

EPA Administrator Lee Thomas predicted last week it will take about six months to rebuild the program after the year-long slowdown caused by financial problems tied to delays in reauthorizing Superfund.

He said he will push officials responsible for the day-to-day operation of Superfund to exceed the 375 cleanup starts required under the new law but cautioned that the work will not be accomplished quickly.

"They (the cleanup programs) are far more complicated than anybody thought," Thomas said. "I used to talk about how in eight years we'd have a vast portion of this problem behind us. ... We're not going to have this problem behind us for a long time."

Despite the new money and the cleanup schedule, Superfund will not be able to make up for lost time, Thomas said, estimating at least another 150 cleanup projects would have been started over the last year if money had not been scarce.

Planning or actual cleanup work already has begun at about 450 of the nearly 900 Superfund sites, he said.

Besides its recent money troubles, Superfund was plagued in its early years by scandal. Nearly two dozen EPA officials, including former Administrator Anne Burford, were forced out of office in 1983 amid charges that Superfund was being mismanaged. The troubles complicated early efforts to get the program running.

Tempers Shorter Now With Diplomats' Dishpan Hands

By Charles Mitchell

MOSCOW (UPI) — Already the jokes about U.S. Marines with dishpan hands are wearing thin.

Tempers are a bit shorter and morale is not quite as high as some U.S. Embassy officials would like to think.

A cease-fire has taken hold in the diplomatic expulsion war between the superpowers but the scoreboard figures are deceptive: 80 Soviet diplomats out of the United States and 10 American diplomats out of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet missions in Washington and San Francisco are still working as before. The American missions in Moscow and Leningrad are not.

Although both sides now have 251 accredited diplomats in each other's country, the Soviet missions, by tradition, rarely employed local workers, preferring to bring in their own people to do such mundane tasks as cooking, cleaning and driving.

For the Kremlin, the removal of the American diplomats was a token gesture. The real crippler was the ban on employing local Soviet staff in support roles from driving cars to mopping floors to dealing with the stifling Soviet bureaucracy that makes getting an airline ticket a half-day affair.

Most American diplomats stationed in the Soviet Union have their own opinion about who won the war — and it is not Washington.

"I don't think Washington really knows what this means. I don't think they have a clue. It may sound like a petty move but it has crippled this place," said one diplomat.

ANALYSIS

Life at the American missions has changed drastically virtually overnight because of the withdrawal of the 260 Soviet support staff.

Ambassador Arthur Hartman is driving himself to work, his wife Donna doubled as a waitress at a reception at her home. The 62-strong Marine contingent battles dirty dishes. Economic, science and agricultural experts empty trash cans, change light bulbs and now probably spend as much time keeping the place clean as they do pouring over briefing papers in the front line post of superpower relations.

The United States is left with two basic options. Washington can pull out diplomats and replace them with low-level service personnel at great cost or allow more temporary Soviet personnel to work in the United States in exchange for the Kremlin permitting more Americans to work in Moscow and Leningrad.

Option number two would amount to the Kremlin making Washington say "uncle."

"Washington is saying they crippled the Soviet spy operations with the expulsions but it won't take them long to replace those people. Here it is going to require a fundamental change in how we conduct our diplomacy and how much diplomacy we can actually conduct," one diplomat said.

Sad SAC Offense Makes Life Easy For The Defense

It has become abundantly clear in this high school football season that defenses are totally dominating the offenses. Not because the defenses are that good, but simply because offenses are that bad.

The county's best defense is no offense.

After seven weeks of high school football the leading passer in the SAC is Lake Howell's Mark Wainwright. Wainwright is averaging 63 passing yards per game and Lake Howell is a running football team. The Silver Hawks are the only team in the county that has shown any type of offensive consistency.

Incidentally, Lake Brantley's Greg Ebbert, a junior lefty who has not played that much for Brantley and is in his first season of football, is second in the SAC with 52 passing yards a game, and the Pats are 0-6.

If that doesn't say how weak the SAC passing attacks are, nothing does.

Here is an example of how mediocre the SAC offenses are.

In Lyman's 3-0 victory over Seminole last week, the two teams combined for 261 yards. Both teams proved that they are sound defensively, but have a lot to be desired offensively.

In Lake Mary's 7-0 thriller over Oviedo, the two teams combined for a whopping 211 offensive yards.

The problem with the county offenses is simple. Oviedo, Lake Mary, Lyman, Seminole, and Lake Brantley can not throw the football at all.

Here are some statistics from Lyman's 3-0 win over Seminole. Lyman's Darren Boyeson went 2 for 8 good for 16 yards with an interception. Seminole's Dwayn was 1 for 5 good for 10 yards and a pair of interceptions. Impressive.

In the Lake Mary 7-0 win over Oviedo, Oviedo's John Pettit went 1 for 7 good for 5 yards. Mike McCurdy went 0 for 2. Lake Mary's Carlos Hartfield, who is replacing Shane Letterio at quarterback, was 0 for 4 in his first start of his career.

Wainwright has showed that when he needs to throw the football he can. But the Howell running game has been so effective that there has not been much need for Wainwright to throw.

The Lions, Rams, Seminoles, Greyhounds, and Patriots know that they can't throw the football. In fact, they don't even try to throw very often. Why waste time on something that isn't going to work anyway?

The result of the lack of passing is a game where both teams run the ball, stop each other, and exchange punts.

The reason that the defenses look so good is because the offenses are one dimensional. Defenses don't have to worry about a threat of passing because there is none.

Outside of the SAC, defenses are finding that life is tougher in district play.

Take Lyman, for example. The Greyhounds are 4-2. They are 3-0 in the SAC while posting a record of 0-2 in District 5A-4.

Teams can shut each other down in the SAC but once they play district games, it is a different story. They are playing teams with more offensive talent, usually resulting in losses.

SAC games are becoming very boring due to the lack of offense.

At halftime in Lyman's victory, Lyman coach Bill Scott was so sure that neither the Greyhounds nor the Seminoles would score that he was already planning what he planned to do in overtime. Scott knows that the defenses are dictating the outcome of games.

Lake Howell, the only SAC team with an offense this season, has a great one-two punch with running backs Nate Hoakins and Cornell Rigby. Another offensive asset that Lake Howell has is an offensive line that blocks well. The O-line for the Hawks is simply dominating the line of scrimmage and that is what wins football games.

Met-Killer Hurst Gets Final Call

NEW YORK (UPI) — The rain that forced Game 7 of the World Series to be postponed Sunday gave the Boston Red Sox another day to soothe their psyches after the team's crushing 10th-inning collapse in Game 6.

But perhaps more significant, it also washed away Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd's starting assignment by giving Met-killer Bruce Hurst the needed rest to start in tonight's makeup game.

Boston Manager John McNamara announced late Sunday night that because of the rainout, he would shuffle his pitching rotation and substitute the left-handed Hurst for Boyd, the volatile right-hander originally scheduled to start Game 7.

Hurst, who won Games 1 and 5, will be working on three days rest tonight when he opposes right-hander Ron Darling. The game is scheduled to start at 8:10 p.m. EST.

Tonight's forecast for the New York area calls for scattered showers during the day, followed by fair weather tonight with temperatures in the 50s.

According to a source close to the club, Boyd, the loser in Game 3, was extremely upset when he received the news from McNamara. He had to be consoled by teammate Al Nipper in the lobby of the club's midtown hotel, the source said.

"It hurts so bad, but what can I do?" Boyd told USA Today. "Bruce is on a roll, and Mac thinks the Mets have a better left-handed lineup. It's just that it was my turn, and after all I've been through ... I'm sorry, but my sensitivity is going to show through."

It was the second major setback this season for the 27-year-old Boyd. After being left off the American League All-Star team, he threw a tantrum and was suspended by the club. Later, he was hospitalized for psychiatric evaluations.

"This hurts more (than not being named an All-Star)," Boyd said. "I was psyched to pitch the game that means everything. Mac said I'd be the first out of the bullpen, but I really don't know if the intensity will be there."

Boyd may be unhappy, but it's easy to see McNamara's logic.

Hurst, working on three days rest for only the second time this year — the other was Oct. 12, in Game 5 of the AL playoffs — has dominated New York in his two Series starts.

"The rainout definitely gives Boston an advantage," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said.

"They can make a change in their pitching and throw a guy who has given us a great deal of trouble. I was disappointed they called it."

Hurst blanked the Mets 1-0 on four hits over eight innings in Game 1 at New York, then came back on four days rest to shackle New York in a complete-game 4-2 victory in Game 5 at Fenway Park.

Before Tim Lincecum's homer in the eighth had not permitted a run in 15 straight innings, Boyd, meanwhile, surrendered nine hits and six runs in a 7-1 loss to the Mets last Tuesday.

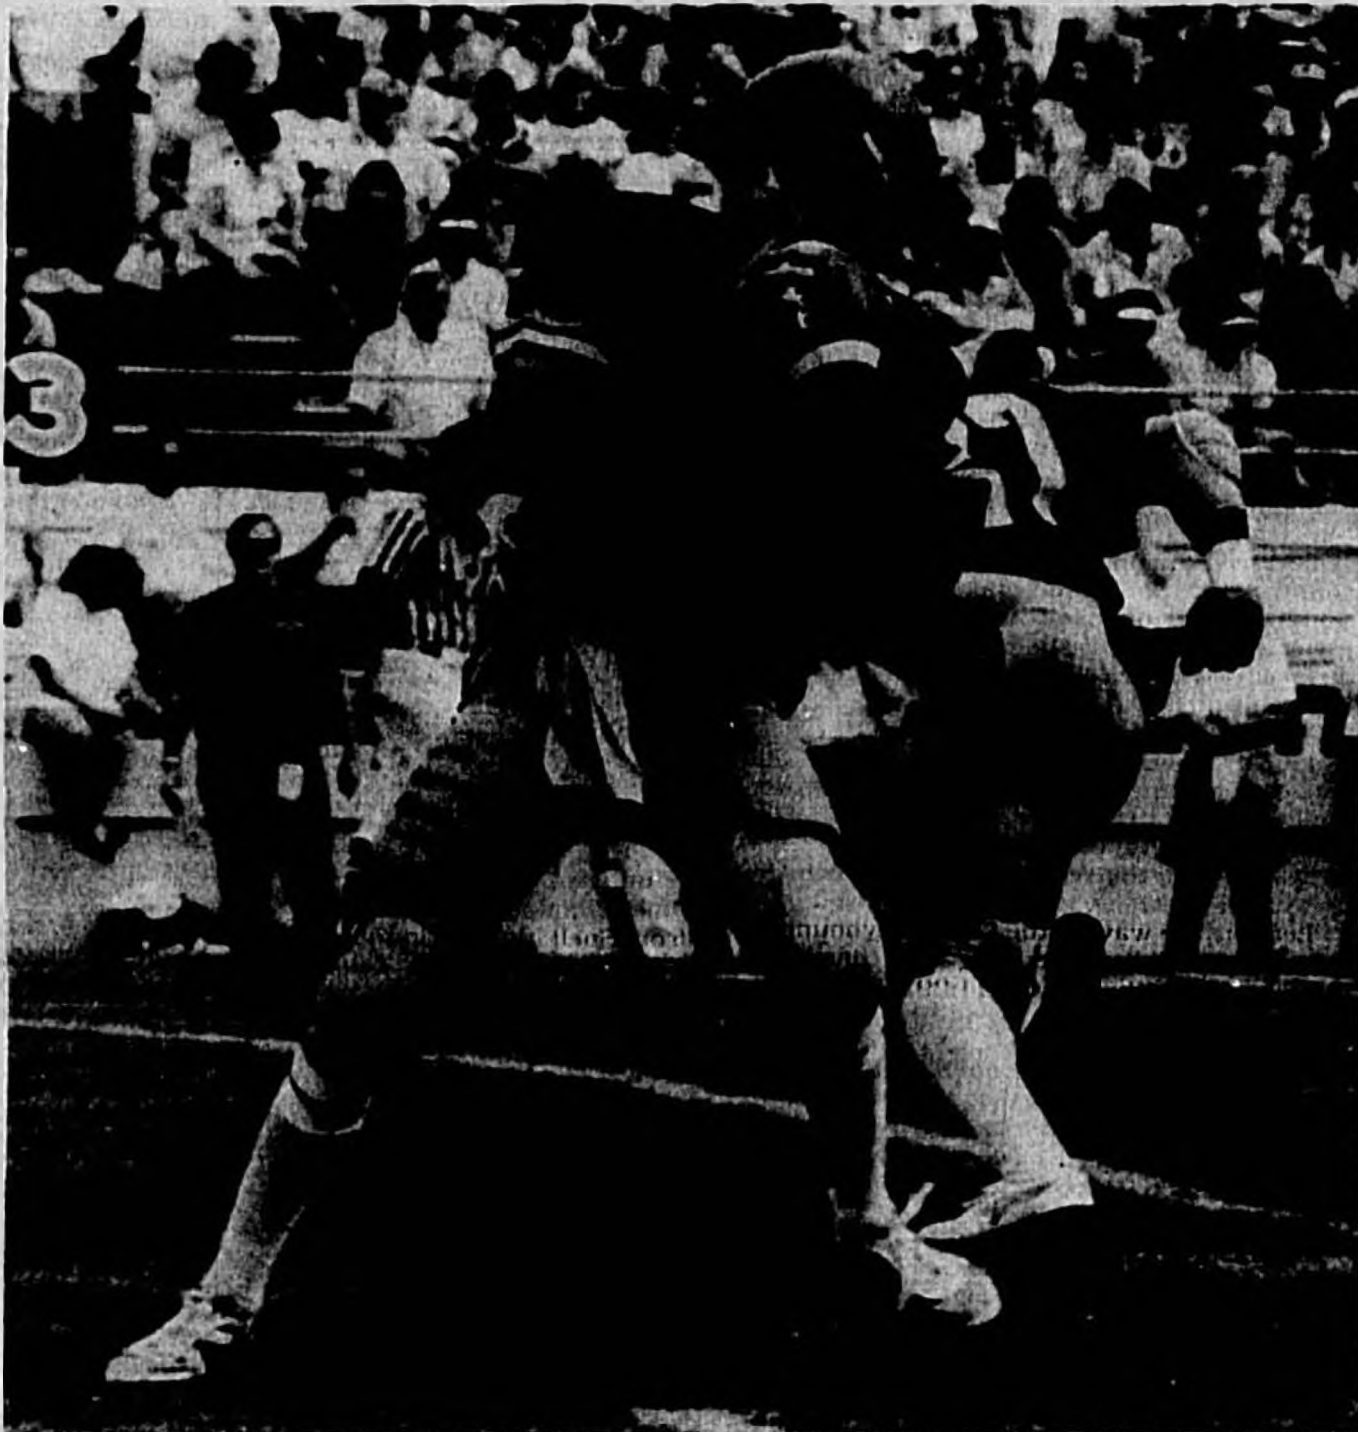

Hurst could become the first pitcher since Detroit's Mickey Lolich in 1968 to win three games in one Series.

The Mets did not relish the first World Series postponement since Oct. 27, 1981. They said they owned the momentum following Saturday night's 6-5 victory. "We would have liked to have played tonight," Mets catcher Gary Carter said. "(The rainout) may let them pick up the pieces."

The Mets, trailing 5-3 with two out and none on in the bottom of the 10th Saturday night, rallied for three runs to force tonight's decisive game. The tying run scored on a wild pitch by Bob Stanley, and the winning run came home when Mookie Wilson's routine grounder slipped through the legs of first baseman Bill Buckner for an error.

UCF's Roller Coaster Hits Rock Bottom

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO — The University of Central Florida football team has been on an emotional roller coaster this season.

Three weeks ago the Knights were 4-1 and ranked 18th in the NCAA Division II poll. They had aspirations of a possible playoff appearance. After three consecutive losses, however, the Knights have gone from rags to riches and back to rags again.

In Saturday afternoon's 31-28 homecoming loss to NAIA underdog Wofford (3-4-1) before a school-record 23,760 fans at Orlando Stadium the roller coaster hit rock bottom.

"This loss was a total surprise to me," second-year coach Gene McDowell said after the game. "I thought that we could play poorly and still beat them. I guess that I was wrong. This was probably the worst game that I've seen us play since I've been here."

The loss drops the Knights to 4-4. It marked the third straight time that the Knights have lost their homecoming game. After the game, the Beach Boys entertained the large crowd, no doubt helped by the concert.

The setback extinguished any UCF playoff hopes. "They (the playoffs) are history," McDowell said. "But we still have a chance to have the best season in UCF history."

Things won't get any easier for the Knights as they will face a pair of Division I-AA teams in the next two weeks. On Saturday, UCF will travel to Virginia to take on Virginia Military Institute before playing host to Georgia Southern, the defending Division II national champions, on Nov. 8.

UCF came into the game heavily favored against Wofford, but somebody forgot to inform the Terriers as they outgined UCF in net yards, 427-391.

The UCF offensive performance was quite simply a nightmare. Especially the quarterbacking. Starter Darin Slack went 6 for 22 with a career-high five interceptions. Slack's five interceptions were one shy of the school record. Dana Thyson threw six against Bethune-Cookman in 1982. Back-up Tony Lanham, who broke his little (throwing hand) finger on the first snap which he took, didn't fair much better as he went 3 for 11 with one interception.

McDowell blamed the loss on the interceptions. "We lost this game because we threw the ball right into their hands," McDowell said. "Both quarterbacks look like they are getting confused. We are going to try and simplify things this week."

Slack has already thrown for 11 interceptions this season. Lanham has been picked off six times. "If (the interceptions) has cost us the last three games," McDowell added. "Darin simply had a horrible day today. He has had some great days for us, too. It's just one of those things that happens."

UCF jumped out to a 19-6 halftime advantage and may have thought the second half would be a cakewalk. "We train our players not to take anybody lightly," McDowell said. "They are supposed to be intellectually and emotionally mature. Today they weren't."

After Wofford scored its go-ahead touchdown on quarterback Chuck Frazer's 17 yard run with 3:32 left to go ahead, 31-28, the Knights had one last chance to win or tie the game. Lanham guided UCF to the Terrier 24-yard line with 3 seconds left to play.

It put UCF well within the range of kicker Eddie O'Brien (who had already booted field goals of 37, 32 and 51 yards) but McDowell opted to go for the victory.

Lanham's pass to Bernard Ford in the right-hand corner of the end zone was deflected by cornerback Freddie Gibbs as time expired.

"I had absolutely no intention of going for a tie in our homecoming game," McDowell said of what would have been a 41-yard field goal attempt. "The primary thing that we wanted to do was win. I'm sure that Eddie would have made the kick, but we had to go for the victory."

A 49-yard touchdown catch by Ted Wilson and a 45 yard interception return for a touchdown gave UCF a 13-0 lead with just 3:05 gone in the game. O'Brien's 37-yard field goal made the score 16-0.

Wofford came back with its

Penn State Quiets Alabama, Critics

United Press International

Those who criticized fifth-ranked Penn State for winning because of an easy schedule figure to be less vocal this week in light of the Nittany Lions' 23-3 romp over No. 2 Alabama.

D.J. Dozler and his heir apparent, sophomore Blair Thomas, each ran for a second-quarter touchdown, and Massimo Manca kicked three field goals as the Nittany Lions, 7-0, handed Alabama its most lopsided defeat in a decade.

Alabama was the highest ranked team of six Top 20 clubs to lose this weekend. No. 3 Nebraska was upset by Colorado 20-10. No. 14 Mississippi State lost to No. 7 Auburn 35-6. No. 18 Clemson lost to No. 19 North Carolina State, co-No. 17 Stanford was defeated by Southern Cal 10-0 and co-No. 20 North Carolina was downed by No. 11 Louisiana State.

"Somebody would have to play awfully well to beat us," Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said. "It would take a really good football team to beat us right now. We're playing about as well as you can play. We're a good team and we beat a good team."

En route to their 18th consecutive regular-season triumph, the Nittany Lions shackled the top rushing attack in the Southeastern Conference. Penn State's swarming defense, headed by outside linebacker Shane Conlan, snapped

Alabama's 13-game unbeaten streak and dropped the Crimson Tide to 7-1.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, No. 1 Miami was idle. No. 4 Michigan defeated Indiana 38-14. No. 6 Oklahoma topped Iowa State 38-0. No. 8 Washington downed Oregon 38-3. No. 9 Arizona State ripped Utah 52-7 and No. 10 Texas A&M dumped Rice 45-10.

No. 12 Iowa survived Northwestern 27-20. No. 13 Arkansas downed Houston 30-13. No. 15 Arizona ripped California 33-6, co-No. 17 UCLA destroyed Washington State 54-16 and co-No. 20 Baylor defeated Texas Christian 28-17.

At Boulder, Colo., O.C. Oliver fired a 52-yard touchdown pass to Lance Carl and Jeff Campbell scored on a 39-yard run to enable Colorado to snap an 18-year losing streak against the Cornhuskers.

"I promise as long as I play at Nebraska, Colorado will never ever beat us again," said Nebraska sophomore defensive end Broderick Thomas, who had three fumble recoveries for the Cornhuskers. "I raise my right hand and promise you that they will never beat us again as long as I'm with Nebraska."

Rusty Kenney Finds Enough Oil To Beat Bucs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A rusty Bill Kenney was enough to help the worst offense in the NFL to its best day of the season.

Kenney was recalled from his exile on the bench and started Sunday. He guided the Chiefs to a 27-20 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The win marked the best eight-game start for the Chiefs, 5-3, since John Mackovic took over as coach. Tampa Bay, meanwhile, dropped its fifth-straight and fell to 1-7 on the year.

"It was harder than I expected," Kenney said. "I expected to step right back in synch."

Judging from his first series, it appeared Kenney wouldn't show any affects by being benched for the first seven games. The eight-year pro moved the Chiefs 80 yards in 10 plays, handing off to Mike Pruitt for the final yard.

Kenney also directed scoring drives of 13, 8, 7 and 4 plays.

"Our whole team played better," Mackovic said. "I think we were able to put our into better positions today, Bill was a little bit rusty. We felt he was able to get some parts of the game going, but this was a good starting game for him."

Kenney's stats were not sterling — he finished the game 15-of-29 passing for 230 yards — but the team looked better. The Chiefs compiled a season-best 355 yards after averaging just 238.4 yards a game the first seven weeks of the season.

"I was pleased with my performance," Kenney said. "I was most happy when they came back to tie the game and we were able to come right back and drive down the field and score. We got the winner and then turned it over to the defense to do the rest."

The Buccaneers went 80 yards in 13 plays — helped by 31 yards in Kansas City penalties — tie the game at 20-20. The Chiefs' Kevin Rose was called for pass interference to give Tampa the ball at the Kansas City 3 and on the next play, James Wilder, who finished with 110 yards, went in for the touchdown.

Raines To Lead Alumni Against Faculty In Baseball On Saturday

National League batting champion Tim Raines, an outfielder for the Montreal Expos, heads the list of graduates who will be on hand Saturday for the Seminole High Faculty-Alumni baseball game.

Raines will not only play in the game but will be available to sign autographs prior to the start. The game is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. There is a $1 admission charge for adults and no charge for children. The game will be played at the Seminole High baseball field and all proceeds go to the baseball program.

Joining Raines on the Alumni team are his three brothers, Ned (who played in the San Francisco Giants organization), Levi and Sam. Another former Seminole great who played in the Giants' chain, David Wiggins, will also play along with grads Rodney Turner, Nick Brady, Tom Robare, Billy Griffith, Dean Smith and Robert Smith.

Taking the mound for the Faculty will be Seminole High Assistant Principal Bobby Lundquist who was an All-Southeastern Conference pitcher at the University of Florida. Mike Powers (who played in the Expos and A's organizations) will be ready to come on in relief. Also playing for the Faculty will be baseball manager Mike Ferrell along with Roger Bethard, Lance Abney, Whitey Eckstein, Chris Spilliois, Greg Reglater, Carlos Merlino, Emory Blake and Jeff Farno.

Coach Ferrell said the game is scheduled to go nine innings. "If we can hold out that long." — Chris Fister

Lucky Crenshaw Wins Vantage

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — The elements helped decide the winner of another golf tournament Sunday, and almost nobody was happy about it except Ben Crenshaw.

Crenshaw put together an outstanding round of 64 Sunday morning to take a one-shot lead over Payne Stewart in the $1 million Vantage Championship, then dashed into the clubhouse for a quick bite to eat before going out and doing battle with Stewart for 18 more holes.

Suddenly, however, the skies darkened and dumped a torrent of rain on the Oak Hills Country Club course, forcing tournament officials to call a halt to the event and declare Crenshaw the winner.

"I'm the most fortunate soul around," said Crenshaw, who fired a 54-hole total of 14-under 196. He won for the second time this year and collected the $180,000 top prize in the tour's next-to-last tournament of the season."

Brighton: Graf Drops Lindqvist

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Steffi Graf, the world's No. 3 player, overpowered Sweden's Catarina Lindqvist, 6-3, 6-3, Sunday at the Brighton Center to win a women's $200,000 tennis tournament.

The 17-year-old West German, winning her eighth tournament of the year, collected $40,000 following the one-hour final, in which she once again put on a brilliant display of groundstrokes.

"I think I played technically very clever today," Graf said. "Catarina has a very good backhand and makes you move around a lot but today I was hitting hard and she couldn't do too much."

Graf returned to the court with Czechoslovak Helena Sukova to win the doubles title with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Tine Scheuer-Larsen of Denmark and France's Cathy Tanvier. The winners shared $15,000.

Tullius, Robinson Capture GT

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Bob Tullius and Chip Robinson scored Jaguar's first International Motor Sports Association Camel GT victory since April 1985 Sunday when they won the Eastern Airlines 3-Hour at Daytona International Speedway.

Tullius, who last won a Camel GT event at Pocono International Raceway in September of 1983, and Robinson, who scored his first Camel GT win, drove their Jaguar XJR7 GT Prototype for three hours, one minute and 46.810 seconds.

They averaged an event record 113.979 mph and covered a record 97 laps of the 3.56-mile circuit. The victory was worth $32,500.

Rose, Gioe Win Duet National

Mary Rose and Fran Gioe, a pair of Altamonte Springs sisters, won the duet portion of the 50-55 age category of the Master National Synchronized Championships in Fort Lauderdale Sunday.

Rose, a member of the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame, and Gioe repeated their victory in the same classification four years ago.

Rose is the mother of Lyman High standout Charlie Rose and the wife of International Swimming Hall of Fame member Eddie Rose.

Prost Wins Back-To-Back Titles

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI) — France's Alain Prost Sunday became the first driver since 1960 to win back-to-back world driving championships when he captured the Australian Formula One Grand Prix.

Prost went into the last of the 16 Grands Prix for the year trailing Britain's Nigel Mansell by six points and needed a victory to retain the crown. Mansell, needing only a third place to secure his first world championship, was forced out of the race with a blown tire.

Selko: Becker Aces Past Edberg

TOKYO (UPI) — Boris Becker of West Germany pounded out 19 service aces to defeat third-seeded Swede Stefan Edberg, 7-6 (7-5), 6-1, Sunday and win his first $375,000 Seiko Super Tennis Tournament.

The 18-year-old two-time Wimbledon champion now has won two weeks in a row, having defeated Ivan Lendl in the final of the Australian Indoor last week. It was Becker's eighth career singles title and his fifth championship this year.

Crampton Gets Another Reward

ROSWELL, Ga. (UPI) — Bruce Crampton, who left competitive golf for eight years because he found it "too stressful," is finding his return on the PGA Senior Tour very rewarding.

"When you consider the circumstances, it's somewhat amazing," Crampton said Sunday after beating Gary Player by one stroke to win the rain-shortened PGA Senior Challenge for his fifth victory in less than six months.

Australia IV Scores Easy Win

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) — Alan Bond's new Australia IV scored an easy victory over the older Australia III in 2:17 Monday, but officials of the boats' syndicate mulled how to speed up both yachts as the Kookaburras kept winning in the America's Cup defense trials.

Seminole Lands 7 All-Americans

Davis, Jones, Brown, Willis, Martin, Roberts, Webster Honored

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Fleet-footed Pat Davis now makes his home in Jacksonville, where he is training to run for Florida Junior College.

Scholarly Alvin Jones now does his jumping as an Ivy Leaguer at Princeton University in New Jersey.

Quiet yet explosive sprinter Louie Brown is earning his wings in the Air Force.

While these three Sanford natives now seem worlds apart, they share a bond that will keep them close in spirit for years to come. The 1986 Seminole High graduates were key components in the track team's 4A State Championship.

Along with underclassmen Dwayne Willis, Eric Martin and Maurice Roberts from last year's squad, Davis, Jones and Brown were honored for their impressive efforts in 1986 by being named All-Americans by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association.

On the girls side, Dorchelle Webster made the All-American team for her performance in the hurdles.

The NHS/ACA All-America team was compiled based on results from all state meet performances. The top 10 times/distances from around the nation in each event are All-American. The team is announced in the October issue of the National Coach newsletter.

Jones, who won state titles in the triple jump and long jump, had the fourth-best triple jump in the nation at 50-6½ and tied for eighth in the long jump at 24-0. Jones won the triple in '86 for the second successive season.

The top triple jump was a leap of 51-4½ by Marcus Hooks of California Lakewood. Ed Manderson, of St. Petersburg Admiral Farragut, had the top long jump at 25-2, one of only two jumpers in the nation to go 25-0 or better.

Jones was also selected All-American by the Track and Field News where he was one of the top three in the nation based on consistency and big meet performance.

Willis, Brown, Martin and Davis combined for a time of 41.2 to win the 440 relay at the state meet and that time was the fifth best in the nation. Willis is a junior at Seminole High this school year while Martin is a senior. The top 440 relay time was 40.54 by Texas' Galveston Ball High.

The state champion mile relay team of Willis, Maurice Roberts, Brown and Martin teamed for a time of 3:15.54 which was eighth best in the nation. The number one mile relay time was 3:14.04 by Hazelwood East out of St. Louis.

"When you consider the fact we ended up having two of the top relays and one of the best triple jumpers and long jumpers in the nation, we had a tremendous year," Brauman said. "The guys who helped us win the state were deserving of the recognition they received."

Brauman, who was 4A Coach of the Year after in guiding Seminole to the state meet title for the second year in a row, said the trio of Jones, Brown and Davis was the cornerstone of a powerful team.

"You don't replace those kind of guys very easily," Brauman said.

Seminole High's girls squad came away with its first 4A State Championship a year ago and coach Emory Blake expects to have his entire team returning for 1987.

As a sophomore, Webster won the 330 low hurdles at the state meet with a time of 43.37, the 10th best time in the nation. And Webster ran that time out of lane eight, the lane given to the slowest preliminary time. Webster had fallen in the preliminary race but got up and made up enough ground to qualify for the finals.

The top time in the 330 hurdles was 41.32 by Jancene Vickers of Pamona High in California.

An Honorable Mention All-America selection out of Seminole County went to Lyman High's Ralph Philpott. As a senior, Philpott won his second straight state high jump title.

The nation's top high jump was 7-1½ by Jeff Martinez of Brighton High in Colorado.

Performances Please Coaches, Controversy Mars Gator Invitational

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

The University of Florida Gator Invitational Saturday at Gainesville was marred by controversy, but area coaches were pleased with the performances they received from an individual standpoint.

Lyman High came away with the county's best performance in both the girls and boys meet. The Lyman girls finished fifth overall when an error was spotted by Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson.

Lassiter (Ga.) won the girls meet with 52 points. Winter Park took second at 99 with a strong effort from Janice Wilder, who finished second individually, leading the way. Colquitt (Ga.) was next with 183 points followed by Middleburg at 216.

Leading the way for the Lady Greyhounds was senior Julie Greenberg who finished 19th overall with a time of 11:29.9 for 3,000 meters.

Lyn Gomezperalta was next, running an 11:42 which was good for 25th place while Tracy Fisher regained her form after falling at the beginning of the race to place 43rd with a time of 12:02.5. Tara Braheny and Adele Portnoy came in together at 12:27 good for places 84 and 85.

"We're coming on like gangbusters, we're really starting to come together as a team," Lyman coach Fred Finke said.

Finke said he knows the abilities of his top three, so he was most impressed with Portnoy and Braheny.

The Lake Brantley Lady Patriots were next for Seminole County with a projected score of 352 giving them eighth place, but the places issued to the Lady Pats gave them a total score of 442 which would back Brantley up to 13th place, according to Gibson.

Leading the way for the Lady Patriots pack was Heather Camino who finished 73rd with a time of 12:20.1. Colleen Lievertz crossed at 12:25.6 good for 83rd, Lisa Frizzel was 89th at 12:33.5, Kristen Avery 94th at 12:36.5 and Jennifer Josephs completed the Brantley scorers coming in

Cross Country

103rd overall with a time of 12:41.6.

Lake Brantley coach Mary Littlebrant was pleased with the efforts of her team coming off a poor performance in the SAC Championships.

"We rebounded well Saturday," Littlebrant said. "We mentally put ourselves out of the SAC. But we hope to comeback, the girls are really excited about districts."

The Lake Mary Lady Rams came in 18th overall without the services of Sue Kingsbury who led the way in the SAC run. Heather Heikkila led the way for Lake Mary as she came in 70th at 12:19.8. Freshman Allison Snell ran an impressive race as she was 74th at 12:20.9. Tabatha Gano was next for the Lady Rams at 12:58.9 for 119th place while Lisa Shelby was next at 13:05.3 for 137th place. In the boys portion of the race, county coaches said the confusion in the chute gave almost every team the wrong score overall. The three chutes that were operating merged and it was just a question of luck whether you were close to the correct score.

Robin Rogers, the leading runner in the county, showed he can run with the best as he placed fourth overall with a time of 15:37.5 for 5,000 meters, which translates to a sub-15 minute three mile run. The quiet junior had a chance to finish third but made a costly wrong turn that helped Clearwater Countryside's Chip Backus win by less than a second.

Freshman Teddy Mitchell turned in his best performance of the year, running 16:25.7 for 41st place. Mike Mohler was next for the 'Hounds with a time of 16:38.4 for 59th. Senior Kevin Quinn came though for Lyman running 17:25.1 and placing 125th.

The Lake Mary Rams were one of the teams who did not know where they actually finished, but the Rams received another solid performance from juniors Eric Petersen and Brad Smith. Petersen finished 26th overall with a time of 16:10.2, and Smith was 39th with a time of 16:23.2.

The Lake Howell boys team also ran Saturday and were also a victim of the mixup as the Silver Hawks had two runners come in together and received place cards that separated them by 37 points.

"We had one of the guys in the back with a higher card than our front runners," Lake Howell coach Joe Corso said.

Jeff Van Buskirk led the way for Lake Howell running a time of 16:31 followed by Kavan Howell at 16:53 and Steve Steffy at 17:36.

Rose Sparks 'Hounds To Third At Woodson

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Don Clark said before the season started, the 1986 Lyman Greyhounds could be one of his best teams ever.

Lyman may not look like a force in dual meets, where it lacks depth, but when it comes to the championship meets, Clark has the quality front-line people to make the Greyhounds a contender.

Those front-line swimmers turned in solid performances Saturday as the Greyhounds took third place in the prestigious Woodson Invitational at Fort Lauderdale Pine Crest.

"After the way we looked

Swimming

Saturday, I think we're ready for the conference meet," Clark said. "We had some great performances, especially on our distance guys."

Host Pine Crest, a 3A powerhouse, won the boys meet while Winter Park was second followed closely by Lyman.

Charlie Rose had a big meet for the 'Hounds as he took first in the 100 butterfly with a time of 54.5 and finished fifth in the 200 individual medley at 2:01. Lyman also got a sixth in the 200 IM from Chuck Reinighaus who turned in a time of 2:04.3. Reinighaus also placed in the 100 breaststroke with a sixth-place time of 1:04.3.

The distance swimmers who Clark was impressed with were sophomore Nick Radkewich and freshman Dave Bandy. Both recorded excellent times in the 500 freestyle with Radkewich sixth at 4:59.3 and Bandy seventh at 4:59.8.

Also placing for the 'Hounds in an individual event was Tom Mooney who took eighth in the 100 backstroke at 58.3.

The backbone of the Lyman High team is the relay teams that Clark hopes will thrust the 'Hounds into a top-three finish.

Both relay teams placed high in Saturday's meet as the 200 medley was third at 1:43.9 and the 400 free fourth at 3:31.

The 200 medley team includes Rose, Mooney, Reinighaus and Sam Rennard while the 400 free relay team, which Clark said could go All-American by the state meet, consists of Dave Bandy, Jim Bandy, John Jones and Radkewich.

"The guys have been working really hard so some of the distance times were better than the sprinters," Clark said. "We probably won't shave too many boys for conference but when I shave them, they're going to go wild."

Netters Face 'Test' Week

Seminole County volleyball players have some big tests to pass both on and off the court this week.

While its nine-week exam for county students, it is also the last week of the regular season with the Seminole Athletic Conference title and top district seedings still up for grabs.

The SAC crown will most likely be decided Thursday when Oviedo hosts Lake Mary. Oviedo must first defeat Lyman on Tuesday. The Lady Lions, 17-2 overall, host Kissimmee Osceola tonight in a game that could give Oviedo the top seed in the district.

In other action Monday, Lyman, 0-10 overall, has a nonconference game at Orlando Oak Ridge. In Tuesday's matches, Lyman is at Oviedo and Lake Howell (10-7) hosts Lake Brantley (5-15). The match between Lake Mary and Seminole scheduled for Tuesday has been moved to Monday, Nov. 1, because of exams.

Lake Mary, 13-5 overall, has a match Wednesday at home against DeLand and the Lady Rams could possibly clinch the number one seed in the district with a victory. District seedings are based on 4A, non-tournament records.

Midwest: Bottom To Top In League Competitiveness

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Rockets were considered a team of the future until they stunned the Los Angeles Lakers to claim the Western Conference title last season.

The series triumph sent the Rockets into the NBA championship series where they lost in the sixth game to the Boston Celtics.

"In a few short years, this division has gone from the bottom to the top in terms of competitiveness," said Houston General Manager Ray Patterson. "The winner of this division may not win as many games as last year. The quality of play has improved that much."

Coach Bill Fitch agrees and worries if his team will live up to its advance billing as conference champion.

"One thing I'm sure about is it's going to be a very hotly contested division," he said. "It will be interesting to see if we can learn to live in the shadow of our success."

The Rockets won the division with a 51-31 record, four games ahead of Doug Moe's Denver Nuggets, the team Patterson fears the most.

"The addition of Darrell Walker is great for Doug's system," said Patterson of the team that Houston replaced as division champions. "We also saw a lot of improvement in Blair Rasmussen. He came on strong late in the season and (Wayne) Cooper has always been on the threshold of being a dominant player."

The outspoken Moe believes his team can overtake the Rockets.

"We are determined to win the Midwest Division championship this year," Moe said. "I think we have the talent to do it. We don't have the best raw talent in the NBA, but when you take into consideration the mental toughness part, we're right up there."

Dallas and Utah made major overhauls while San Antonio's strength at guard and Sacramento's tremendous play at home will keep both in contention.

The Rockets return their top eight players, led by "Twin Towers" Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olujuwon. Sampson appears to have matured, while Olujuwon continues to improve his game. Rodney McCray, Robert Reid, Lewis Lloyd, Allen Leavell, Jim Petersen and Mitchell Wiggins will make up the nucleus of the team.

Reid, more comfortable at forward, was forced to play point guard late last season when Leavell was injured, and performed adequately. Fitch would prefer Reid to come off the bench to allow Leavell and Lloyd to run the team.

The Nuggets addition of Walker from the New York Knicks gives Denver another guard who can perform at both ends. He should team well with T.R. Dunn and Lafayette Lever. Rasmussen had an exceptional playoff and if he can start at center, it would enable Moe to play Cooper at power forward. Scorer Alex English, who has averaged 26 points a game in seven NBA seasons, also returns.

The Mavericks traded for James Donaldson to improve their rebounding late last season and also dealt away Jay Vincent and Dale Ellis.

Mark Aguirre, Sam Perkins, Derrick Harper and Rolando Blackman all return. Coach Dick Motta knows his team must improve defensively. The Mavericks committed the fewest turnovers in the league, but permitted 114 points a game.

Utah Coach Frank Layden traded Adrian Dantley and acquired Kelly Tripucka and Kent Benson from Detroit in the offseason. He also has Darrell Griffith returning from a year layoff with a stress fracture in his foot.

Portland's Mychal Thompson, right, appears to be throwing a body block into Denver's Wayne Cooper (42) and Nugget teammate Mike Evans. The Nuggets hope to make up the four games they trailed Houston.

Pacific Drift: Is LA's Grip Slipping?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pacific Division door, slammed shut by the Los Angeles Lakers the past five years, could be opening just a crack.

The Lakers have won the division each year over the past half-decade and last season they finished a league-record 22 games ahead of second place Portland.

Then, the Lakers were defending their NBA title. But since, they have lost to Houston in the Western Conference final and cleared most of their bench. Gone are forwards Maurice Lucas, Mitch Kupchak and Larry Spriggs and guards Mike McGee and Ronnie Leater.

New to the team are veteran point guard Wes Matthews, rookie guard Ron Kellomaki, No. 1 draft choice forward Billy Thompson and veteran center Frank Brickowski.

"Teams have gotten closer to us," admitted Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "We were ahead of the pack, but now some in the conference have pulled even."

"But the Lakers are not dead. Contrary to popular belief, the Lakers did not have a disappointing season last year. We had a great season, only a disappointing finish."

"The biggest challenge facing the Lakers is to find another reason for winning. All teams want to win, obviously, but sometimes it takes a little added incentive to put one team over the top."

Basketball

(Editor's note: The NBA regular season opens Friday night with a full schedule.)

The core remains, led by 39-year-old Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The center will open his unprecedented 18th NBA season with new bulk and less body fat. Abdul-Jabbar will see familiar faces in guards Magic Johnson and Byron Scott and forwards James Worthy and Kurt Rambis.

"We'll be back," Riley said. The Portland Trail Blazers have a new coach in Mike Schuler and last year's College Player of the Year in Walter Berry of St. John's. Berry waited until October to sign his contract and join Sam Bowie, Kiki Vandeweghe and Kenny Carr on the front line.

The Blazers traded guard Steve Colter to Chicago for the rights to forward Larry Krystkowiak and a pair of second-round draft choices. They then traded Krystkowiak's rights and forward Mychal Thompson to San Antonio for forward Steve Johnson.

"It's a new-look Portland team, one that promises not only to be one of the most exciting in the NBA, but one that is among the best as well," Schuler said.

The Los Angeles Clippers finished third in the division, but they've had nothing but problems since the season ended. They watched others get richer while they waited until the third round of the draft to choose their first player — guard Dwayne Peole of Pepperdine.

Guard Norm Nixon might miss the season with a knee injury and guards Derek Smith, Franklin Edwards and swingman Junior Bridgeman were traded to Sacramento for guards Larry Drew and Mike Woodson.

"Our goal for the coming season is to make the playoffs and continue to build our foundation for the future," said Coach Don Chaney.

Like the Clippers, the Phoenix Suns won 32 games in 1985-86. Coach John MacLeod blames it on bad luck.

"The Suns have had some hard-working ballclubs over the past two years, but just when we seem to be making headway and establishing some consistency, injuries to key performers push us back," MacLeod said. "Bad knees, stress fractures and an assortment of other medical problems stalked us last year from the opening day of training camp until the end of the season."

Phoenix again relies on Walter Davis, Larry Nance and Alvan Adams. Their top draft choice was William Bedford from Memphis State. The 7-foot-1 center will miss the first two weeks of the season because of arthroscopic surgery on his right knee.

The Seattle SuperSonics have changed their look, peddling center Jack Sikma and two second-round draft choices to Milwaukee for center Alton Lister and two first-round picks. They also obtained center Clemon Johnson from Philadelphia and guard Terence Stansbury from Indiana.

"The changes necessary for the 1986-87 Seattle SuperSonics are clear," Coach Bernie Bickerstaff said. "Last year we were a 46-minute team. We've learned that the game is a little longer and we have to do a little more, work a little harder."

George Karl has left as coach of Cleveland to take over at Golden State. The Warriors finished 32 games behind the Lakers, but figure to improve if North Carolina State rookie center Chris Washburn adapts quickly to the NBA.

"Looking at the center position, we have three very good players in veterans Joe Barry Carroll and Jerome Whitehead and our first-round pick Chris Washburn," Karl said. "For all the negatives written about Carroll, he did average 21.2 points and he did average 8.5 rebounds per game."

The Warriors also return guards Sleepy Floyd, Lester Conner and Chris Mullin.

NBA PREVIEW

WESTERN CONFERENCE MIDWEST DIVISION

Houston Rockets
Last season's record — 51-31, lost to Boston in playoff finals.
Coach — Bill Fitch (4th year).

Starters — Robert Reid (pg), Lewis Lloyd (pf), Akeem Olujuwon (c), Ralph Sampson (pf), Rodney McCray (sf).
Top draft pick — Buck Johnson (f), Alabama (1st round, 26th overall).

Strength — One of top front lines in NBA; team new playoff-season; Reid, Wiggins, Petersen, McCray can play two positions.
Weakness — Lloyd, Wiggins and Leavell lack consistency; relatively young team needs to keep intensity throughout season.

Outlook — Return to NBA finals made more difficult because of increased strength in conference; Sampson has matured and Olujuwon could become game's best player.
Denver Nuggets

Last season's record — 47-35, lost to Houston in second round playoff.
Coach — Doug Moe (7th year).

Top draft pick — Maurice Martin, St. Joseph's (Pa.) (1st round, 14th overall).

Strength — Addition of Walker from Knicks and top pick Martin improve back court; English always among NBA scoring leaders.
Weakness — Inconsistent outside shooting and lack of a second scorer behind English.

Outlook — If Natf's knees hold up and defense lives up to expectations, Nuggets should challenge Houston for Midwest Division title.
Dallas Mavericks

Last season's record — 44-38, lost to LA Lakers second round playoffs.
Coach — Dick Motta (7th year).

Starters — Sam Perkins (pf), Mark Aguirre (sf), James Donaldson (c), Derek Harper (pg), Rolando Blackman (pg).
Top draft pick — Roy Tarpley, Michigan (f), (1st round, 7th overall).

Strength — Balanced attack with each position having a legitimate backup; trading of Jay Vincent and Dale Ellis improved chemistry of club; Mavericks have led the NBA in fewest turnovers past two years.
Weakness — No major ones, although relationship between Motta and Aguirre is shaky, an explosion between the two could disrupt the team.

Outlook — Mavericks could make a major move this year; with a good start they could challenge Houston for division title.
Utah Jazz

Last season's record — 42-40, lost to Dallas in first round playoffs.
Coach — Frank Layden (4th year).

Starters — Karl Malone (pf), Thurl Bailey or Kelly Tripucka (sf), Mark Eaton (c), Rickey Green, John Stockton (pg), Darrell Griffith (pg).
Top draft pick — Dell Curry (g), Virginia Tech (1st round, 15th overall).

Strength — Inside defense of Eaton and Malone; trade of Adrian Dantley to Detroit ended two-year feud between the forward and Layden.
Weakness — Lack of a post-up forward with Dantley gone; no backup for Eaton who has trouble against the NBA's smaller, quicker centers.

Outlook — Return of a healthy Griffith and more variety without Dantley monopolizing the ball should improve Jazz offense; Eaton and Malone must supply more offense to advance in playoffs.
Sacramento Kings

Last season's record — 37-45, lost to Houston in first round playoffs.
Coach — Phil Johnson (3rd year).

Top draft pick — Harold Pressley (g-f), Villanova (1st round, 17th overall).

Strength — Theus averaged who 18.3 ppg and 6.4 assists last year; Thompson strong rebounder; vocal home crowd has sold out small Arco Arena.
Weakness — Defense; Smith, Edwards and Junior Bridgeman, acquired from LA Clippers to shore up defensive play, must adapt to new system.

Outlook — Kings could move up in division if new players mesh; development of Kleine, in his second season, could be key to season.
San Antonio Spurs

Last season's record — 35-47, lost to LA Lakers in first round playoffs.
Coach — Bob Weiss (1st year).

Top draft pick — Johnny Dawkins (g), Duke (1st round, 10th overall).

Strength — Backcourt could develop into a force; Robertson named All-NBA second team, Defensive Player of the Year and Most Improved last season.
Weakness — Spurs have aging center in Gilmore; need to improve defensively and attack the boards more; Moore coming off year-long bout with meningitis.

Outlook — Spurs have reached playoffs nine times in 10 years; Weiss plans to take advantage of guards; inside game must come around.
PACIFIC DIVISION

Los Angeles Lakers
Last season's record — 42-20, lost to Houston in third round playoff.
Coach — Pat Riley (4th year).

Starters — Kurt Rambis (pf), James Worthy (sf), Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (c), Magic Johnson (pg), Byron Scott (pg).
Top reserves — Michael Cooper (sf), A.C. Green (pf).
Top Draft Pick — Billy Thompson (f), Louisville (1st round, 19th overall).

Strength — Same starting lineup that won little two seasons ago; Abdul-Jabbar still dominates and is in excellent shape; Johnson and Worthy are in prime.
Weakness — Bench weakened with veterans Maurice Lucas, Mitch Kupchak, Larry Spriggs, Mike McGee and Ronnie Leater all gone; lack of quality backup center.

Outlook — The Lakers are still smarting over conference final loss to Houston; new players need to become seasoned by playoff time.
Portland Trail Blazers

Last season's record — 40-43, lost to Denver first round playoffs.
Coach — Mike Schuler (2nd year).

Starters — Ken Carr (pf), Kiki Vandeweghe (sf), Sam Bowie (c), Terry Porter (pg), Clyde Drexler (pg).
Top reserves — Steve Johnson (f), Jerome Kersey (f), Jim Paxson (g).
Top draft pick — Walter Berry (f), St. John's (1st round, 14th overall).

Strength — Rebounding and defense of Bowie; guards Drexler and Porter adapting well to Schuler's defensive scheme; small forwards Vandeweghe and Kersey can score.
Weakness — Backups to Bowie are Johnson and 34-year-old Caldwell Jones; must improve rebounding and defense against bigger teams.

Outlook — Players have responded to Schuler's emphasis on team defense; the Blazers can run and will score, but success depends on Bowie's fragile left leg holding up through season.
Los Angeles Clippers

Last season's record — 32-50, did not make the playoffs.
Coach — Don Chaney (2nd year).

Starters — Marques Johnson (sf), Cedric Maxwell (pf), Benoit Benjamin (c), Larry Drew (pg), Mike Woodson (pg).
Top reserves — Michael Cage (pf), Sam Williams (pf).
Top draft pick — Dwayne Peole (g), Pepperdine (3rd round, 54th overall).

Strength — Benjamin had strong second half in rookie season; veterans in front court.
Weakness — Inconsistent problems; pg Norm Nixon will miss most of season with knee injury; lack of depth in backcourt; little quality depth throughout.

Outlook — Dismal; a new marketing campaign could be the team's best effort of the season.
Phoenix Suns

Last season's record — 32-50, did not make playoffs.
Coach — John MacLeod (14th year).

Top reserves — Ed Pinckney (sf), Mike Sanders (fg).
Top draft pick — William Bedford (c), Memphis State (1st round, 6th overall).

Strength — Nance coming into his own; Davis has successfully returned from drug and alcohol rehabilitation; Humphries developing into quality point guard.
Weakness — Little bench depth; Bedford progress set back because of arthroscopic knee surgery; reserve guard spot a concern.

Outlook — Phoenix cleaned house and could rely on as many as four rookies; the Suns are planning for the future, which will not help them this year.
Seattle SuperSonics

Last season's record — 31-51, did not make playoffs.
Coach — Bernie Bickerstaff (2nd year).

Starters — Tom Chambers (pf), Xavier McDaniel (sf), Alton Lister (c), Michael Phelps (pg), Gerald Henderson (pf).
Top draft pick — Nate McMillan (g), North Carolina State (2nd round, 20th overall).

Strength — Chambers and McDaniel can score at forward; acquisition of Ellis, Lucas and Johnson adds depth to front court.
Weakness — Back court is an unknown with Henderson moving to off guard and Phelps becoming point guard; with four off-season trades, Sonics must learn to play together; Lister won't be the offensive factor at center that Sikma was.
Outlook — Bickerstaff has reshuffled deck with a number of player trades; benefits may appear when club uses the six first-round draft picks it has acquired over the next three years.

The owner, Charles Cameron was told by the city Sept. 9, through a certified mailing, to close the operation. He refused and was slapped with a $250-a-day fine. The fine began Oct. 15.

Three more elder-care facilities were cited by certified mail Oct. 16 for the same violation of zoning law. These property owners have until Wednesday to close, according to the city's building department.

City staff, acting on concerns expressed by commissioners, prepared guidelines to alleviate zoning restraints on elder care operations. Commissioners are expected to discuss the guidelines Tuesday as prelude to their preparation for possible adoption through ordinance during subsequent public hearings.

Mrs. Summers had more than 100 signatures in support of elder-care operations by mid-afternoon, Saturday. She said she was dropped off at the supermarket by her landlord, R.J. Jack, who, along with his wife, Constance, leases 2005 S. Oak Ave. from Cameron.

Mrs. Summers said the petitions would be presented to commissioners Tuesday, "to put the squinch on them, make them start thinking."

She said she "was told the city is going to come in and shut us down, throw us out on the street," and that the city didn't tell the property owner and his lessor the operation violated zoning law "before dropping the boom on us."

"That's why I'm here today," she said. "Mrs. Jack's lawyer said 'Get out there, let the city know how the people feel.' We're not going to be put on the curb."

Mrs. Summers and two other elderly women are living in the home with the Jacks. Before the fine was levied, four women were at the home. According to the state Department of Rehabilitative Services, the number of residents required HRS licensing of the home. However, an application was not made, and even if it had, the home could not have been licensed because HRS requires proof the operation is allowed under city zoning, according to HRS adult congregate living facilities supervisor Jo Ann Lynch.

Both Cameron and Mrs. Jack say they plan legal action against Sanford to invalidate the zoning restraint.

In fact, Cameron's threat of legal action figured heavily into the fine leveled against him, according to Sanford Code Enforcement Board member Ned Yancey, one of 4 code board members who voted to impose the fine.

The immediacy and severity of the $250-a-day fine was prompted by the Sept. 9 notification Cameron received to close the operation, his failure to do so, and the request for time he made to the board Oct. 14, to prepare a lawsuit, rather than relocate the tenants, Yancey said. The board voted 4-1 to impose the fine.

City commissioners and code board members have expressed regret that circumstances necessitated involvement of the elderly tenants.

Any plans to open more parts of the city to elder-care facilities, which operate as profit-making ventures, will consider the elderly, as well as neighboring property owners, to avoid infringement of their residential rights, commissioners say.

Search On For Mine Accident Victims' Bodies

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Rescue workers battled early today to recover the bodies of six miners killed by an elevator that failed and fell 2,600 feet down a gold mine ventilation shaft, an official said.

Kennedy Maxwell, manager of the Randfontein Estates Gold Mine, said experts went down the shaft today to begin an investigation of the accident.

He said about 100 rescuers worked through the night Sunday to bring the last of 26 injured miners to the surface.

Two seriously injured miners were flown by helicopter to a hospital about 20 miles to the east in central Johannesburg.

Others were taken by ambulance to nearby hospitals and were likely to be released today, Maxwell said.

Correcting reports Sunday that the bodies of the six black men killed in the accident had been recovered, Maxwell said rescuers were still working to free them from under 120 tons of steel cable at the bottom of the 2,600-foot shaft.

He said one of two counter-balanced elevator cages, known as a "kibble," broke its steel rope about 7:40 a.m. Sunday and plunged to the bottom of a ventilation shaft under construction.

A heavy steel crossbeam was being hoisted on the opposing cable as the kibble was lowered, he said. The mechanism ran out of control, sending the kibble down and the crossbeam up into an overhead winding mechanism.

Maxwell said the overhead winding mechanism was damaged, cables broke and the beam fell back down the shaft with all the steel rope from the two elevators. He said 28 blacks and four whites were working at the bottom of the shaft, most of them on wooden stages suspended from ropes.

Three men were knocked from a wooden platform and were crushed by the falling cage, he said. Three others were crushed to death by the heavy steel rope that fell in coils around the shattered elevator.

About 100 rescuers, sealing torches flashing at the bottom of the shaft, worked for eight hours to rig an emergency elevator.

By sunset they had brought most of the injured to the surface, but it took long hours to free the last two and to begin recovering the bodies, Maxwell said.

It was the second gold mine accident in little more than a month. A fire a mile underground killed 177 men Sept. 16 at the Kinross mine east of Johannesburg.

Mine managers are still waiting for an official report on the Kinross disaster, which was the worst in South Africa's 100-year gold mining history.

Heavy pressure apparently was being applied to Pajic this morning from around central Florida. Local officials, television officials, and state and local Democrats were all reported lobbying Pajic to appear.

"We've had one stipulation after another, and we've worked very hard," Fess said. If Pajic is a no-show, Fess said the event won't turn into a "one party pep rally."

Tonight's questions will center on municipal issues, such as growth, transportation, and crime, Fess said.

"Fifty-three to fifty-seven percent of the population in Florida lives in cities, so these are important issues for many," Fess said.

A Martinez spokesman said this morning that the former Tampa Mayor will be at the debate tonight, even if Pajic isn't.

The debate begins at 8:30 p.m. at the Altamonte Springs Hilton Hotel, near Interstate 4 and State Road 436.

bond markets. Now they pose a challenge to British institutions in the stock market and to Britain's merchant banks in the field of investment banking — raising money for big companies.

All but one of the top 50 stockbrokers and nine stock jobbers have been swallowed up into large new financial conglomerates. Only eight big brokerage houses remain in British hands.

Financial giants such as Citicorp, American Express, Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Group and Union Bank of Switzerland have acquired big stakes in London stock market firms. Others such as Salomon Brothers and Goldman Sachs have established big new offices in London — "financial supermarkets" offering a complete range of services to big clients.

The impetus for change was the government's insistence on abolition of fixed commissions on share deals. It had been three or four times more expensive to buy shares in London than in New York or Tokyo, and London was losing valuable international business.

The scrapping of commissions triggered a fundamental change in the way the London market works. Stock brokers had acted simply as agents and advisers to anyone buying shares. They bought them from a wholesaler known as a jobber.

Reduced commissions mean brokers will have to match buying and selling orders themselves, cutting out the jobbers.

collective action" against Syria.

A government source said Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher does not expect the Europeans to break off diplomatic relations with Syria, but would like to see ambassadors recalled and the cancellation of planned cultural and political visits.

The Defense Ministry declined comment on newspaper reports that Britain's Special Air Service anti-terrorist unit was ordered to fly to Cyprus to defend British interests in the Middle East against possible Syrian reprisals.

The reports also said British embassies and military bases in the Middle East were placed "on a high state of alert" and told to be ready for terrorist attacks.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which slipped 4.78 last week, was down 3.37 to 1828.89 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 427-327 among the 1,151 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 7,370,000 shares.

The stock market finished narrowly lower in active trading Friday, unable to extend Thursday's sharp advance.

Analysts said the market took a breather after

Thursday, when the combination of positive corporate earnings reports, economic data, a strong dollar and rising bond prices helped the Dow climb 26 points.

But Brian Luedtke, analyst at Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood in Minneapolis, said his firm did not view the Thursday advance as the beginning of a sustained, broad-based market rally.

"If the Dow moves to the upper 1800s, you will see a lot of selling," Luedtke said. Because investors lack a specific scenario with which to justify buying stocks, takeover situations are attracting more than their usual share of attention, he said.

Tin Producing Counties Open Talks

JAKARTA (UPI) — The Association of Tin Producing Countries (ATPC) began a two-day ministerial meeting Monday, with China apparently willing to cooperate in the search for a mechanism to shore up depressed world tin prices.

Indonesian Mining and Energy Minister Subroto, named chairman of the ATPC Monday, said he hoped the conference would produce "substantive decisions" that "might even bring about gradual improvement in the overall tin situation."

He said the association meeting was the first high-level gathering of tin producers since a crisis triggered by the collapse of the 22-nation International Tin Council's stockpiles in October 1985. With the tin council virtually inoperative, he said, the industry has turned to the association as the only agent capable of international intervention.

Association executive secretary Victor Siahaan said member countries might impose a production ceiling to bolster prices if Brazil and China — which are not members — were willing to cooperate.

The leader of the Chinese delegation, Wang Tiance, said his country would cooperate with the association to help stabilize the world tin market.

China and Brazil were attending the conference as observers.

Actor Forrest Tucker Dead At 67 Of Lung Cancer

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Forrest Tucker, an actor who portrayed crusty characters and rugged leading men who was best known as Sgt. Morgan O'Rourke in television's "F Troop," has died of lung cancer. He was 67.

Tucker died at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Motion Picture and Television Hospital in Woodland Hills, where he had been admitted "a day or two" earlier, spokeswoman Linda Tigert said. She would release no further details of his death.

Tucker made his biggest mark as a star in the mid-1960s television series "F Troop," a military farce featuring the gallant incompetents at Fort Courage, somewhere west of the Missouri River. In post-Civil War days.

Tucker, as Sgt. Morgan O'Rourke, secretly negotiated a highly profitable treaty with the fictional Hekawai Indians, who gave him exclusive rights to sell their souvenirs to tourists.

The actor's success in "F Troop," other television shows and movies, theater and radio fulfilled a show business dream he had from the age of 15.

At 6-feet-5 inches, Tucker was a natural for heroic roles. He was an immaculate dresser and was seldom without a carnation in his buttonhole.

Tucker was born in Plainfield, Ind., on Feb. 12, 1919, and started his career in the 1930s as a master of ceremonies for the Gayety Burlesque Theater, Jr. Washington, D.C.

The theater discovered he was underage and fired him. Lying about his age again, he joined the Army and served two years. Tucker returned to the Gayety, working at night while in high school.

He then performed in theaters and nightclubs throughout the country. Producer Samuel Goldwyn gave him his first break, bringing Tucker to Hollywood for his screen debut in "The Westerner" with Gary Cooper in 1940.

movie career. He became known for his portrayal of tough characters in "Hellfire" and "Sands of Iwo Jima."

Tucker acted in more than 100 movies, including "Never Say Goodbye," "The Yearling," "Pony Express," "Trouble in the Glen," "Finger Man," "Stagecoach to Fury," "The Abominable Snowman," "The Quiet Gun," "The Night They Raided Minsky's," "The Wild McCullochs," "Final Chapter — Walking Tall," "Plaza Suite," "That Championship Season" and "Showboat."

He appeared with Bob Hope in "Cancel My Reservation" and with Rosalind Russell in "Auntie Mame."

When Tucker moved to television, his rugged good looks and acting ability earned him major roles in series including "Daniel Boone," "Gunsmoke," "Hollywood Palace" and "The Dean Martin Show."

In 1973, six years after the demise of "F Troop," Tucker teamed up with Bob Denver of "Gilligan's Island" for a syndicated situation comedy, "Dusty's Trail," which lasted one season. He also was in the short-lived series "Ghost Chasers" in 1976 and "The Rebel" in 1979.

Tucker had his first starring role on Broadway in "Fair Game for Lovers." In 1958 he made his first appearance as Harold Hill in "The Music Man," a role he played for four years across the country.

Successfully tackling nearly every medium, Tucker hosted a popular early-morning radio show in Chicago in the mid-1970s. It featured music and interviews with celebrities including Maurice Chevalier and Sammy Davis Jr.

An avid golfer, Tucker played with many top professionals and was a regular at the Lakeside Golf Club near his San Fernando Valley home, favorite links for Bob Hope, George Gobel and other celebrities.

Tucker was hospitalized on Aug. 21 for the second time in a week when he collapsed before a ceremony in which he was to receive the 1,830th star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Earlier this year, Tucker married his fourth wife, Sheila Parker, who performed with him in "The Music Man" road show. He is also survived by three children from his previous marriages, and one grandchild.

Polish Proposal Is No Joke But Sad Reminder Of Plight

DEAR READERS: I would like to share a rather unusual letter with you. The postmark on the envelope indicated it came from a small town in Poland. The return address, written in a neat legible hand, read: Mr. Roman Majewski and Mr. Jozef Warzynski. The letter was written entirely in Polish, with the exception of two English words — "necking" and "petting".

Since Polish is Greek to me, I sent the letter to Mr. B.J. Solak, a Polish-born friend now living in Aspen, Colo., who at 78 still happily skis and hikes. I asked B.J. to please rush the English translation, hoping the letter wasn't just a bad Polish joke, or worse yet, something of an embarrassing nature.

My Polish friend swiftly accommodated me with this English translation:

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: You fame has gone far beyond the frontiers of the USA and has reached us in our unhappy land. We are aware that the San Francisco Chronicle publishes your column, so we hope that it, and perhaps some other newspapers, will publish our matrimonial offer.

Dear Abby

We are two 100 percent gentlemen, over 30, sensitive and sincere, of unusual courage, endowed with superior capacities for love, from necking and petting to seeking adventurous new ways of lovemaking. We are endowed with rich spiritual values, and while capable of loving like nobody in the world, we regard marriage as sacred and holy, and we would be faithful like gold.

We desire to meet two American women who know the Polish language and wish to marry two sincere young men of Polish nationality. Age is of no importance. A photo would be appreciated, but will not be the decisive factor. We are not seeking material wealth, only love from two American women who would teach us the English language, as we wish to become completely Americanized and live in your wonderful country.

Miss Van Buren, kindly accept our expression of deep respect and appreciation for your assistance in this matter. We are hoping for a compassionate response.

ROMAN AND JOZEF
Sadly for Roman and Jozef, as a matter of policy this column does not provide a matchmaking service, so please, readers, no letters asking to meet them.

While their letter may strike many as somewhat amusing, it conveys a very important message: Here are two obviously sincere Polish men who are willing to marry any American woman, sight unseen, in order to live in the land of the free and home of the brave. Three cheers for the red, white and blue!

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on those who wrote in to tell you about the secret "code" used by loved ones in the service overseas to communicate their locations during World War II.

I live through those years and was aware of that practice. As I look back, I am not surprised that Tokyo rose and Lord HaHa could personally welcome by name new arrivals in a combat area within a day after their arrival.

When I served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, we were told, "A slip of the lip may sink a ship."

I wonder how many men died because someone tipped off the folks at home as to where they were going.

RICHARD C. ROSENALT, DAVIS, CALIF.

DEAR RICHARD: Only you and Omaha reader Laurie S. Robertson (Major, USAR, Ret.) wrote to express that view.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UNMARRIED, PREGNANT AND BETWEEN TWO FIRES": Since you are opposed to abortion because you consider it "murder," and your only problem is whether to keep your baby or put it up for adoption, I urge you to get in touch with an organization called Birthright.

Mr. and Mrs. Marc David Klein

Tammy Bauerle, Marc D. Klein Repeat Vows

Tammy Shirley Bauerle and Marc David Klein are announcing their marriage today. They were married on Aug. 2, at 6 p.m., at the Sanora clubhouse, Sanford. Mrs. Allen Davis performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bauerle, 43 Jasmine Drive, DeBary. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Klein, 2414 Stevens Ave., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white gown fashioned with a satin basque bodice featuring a scalloped lace off-the-shoulder neckline, accented with seed pearls and sequins, that formed short puffed sleeves. The sheer skirt over satin terminated in a sweeping chapel train. A headpiece of sequins and pearls held her pearl-trimmed veil of illusion and she carried a cascade of white carnations and English ivy showered with tiny ribbons.

Mrs. James Williams of New Jersey attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a pastel pink off-the-shoulder gown with a spray of pink flowers in her hair and carried an arrangement of pink silk flowers on a hand fan.

Bridesmaids were Pamela East and Paula east, cousins of the bride. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father served his son as best man. Ushers were David East, cousin of the bride, and Mark Comley.

Rachel O'Brien, niece of the bride, from Michigan, was the flower girl. Ring bearer was Daniel Kelly, nephew of the bride, from New Jersey.

The reception followed in the clubhouse.

The newlyweds are making their home in Sanford where the bridegroom is employed by Spencer Pest Control and the bride is employed as a nail technician.

Out-of-town wedding guests came from Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Miami, Tampa and Ft. Lauderdale.

CFRH Plans Halloween Tour, Fun

A safe and healthy Halloween, "spiced" with a trip through Central Florida Regional Hospital's poison garden spooked with scarecrows, is what the Sanford hospital has planned for "trick or treaters" and their families Halloween Eve from 6-9:30 p.m.

A gift of a healthy apple, coloring book, poisonous plant brochure, along with a free X-ray of their treats is also being offered. The scarecrows will be made and entered in a contest for hospital employees and then placed in the garden as an added attraction.

Ten thousand trick or treat bags, imprinted with safety tips, were distributed this week to elementary schools in north Seminole and southwest Volusia counties for the benefit of both parents and youngsters.

This annual event is part of the hospital's "Partner in Education" program which is designed to expand and support educational opportunities for students through employee and corporate involvement in special educational activities.

Who's Cooking?

The Evening Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week. Do you know someone you would like to see featured in this spot? The Cook of the Week column is published every Wednesday. Novice cooks and ethnic cooks, as well as experienced cooks and master chefs add a different dimension to dining. Who is your choice? Maybe it's your mother, father, brother, sister or friend. Bypass Surgery Has An Affect On Aging

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — One year ago, I had a quadruple heart bypass. If one, two or even three of the bypass arteries become blocked, will the blood supply continue through the remaining artery with little or no effect?

DEAR READER — No, it wouldn't. The heart needs circulation from all of its arteries in order to function normally. You had surgery to bypass arterial obstruction that prevented oxygen from reaching heart muscle. One open artery is not enough to do the job.

Unfortunately, the aging process affects all of us, whether or not we have had bypass surgery. We can do certain things — such as exercise, reduce blood cholesterol and discontinue smoking — to retard the rate of blood-vessel aging.

But the aging process is inexorable, and bypass patients often show progressive narrowing of bypass segments. Therefore, it is important after surgery (as it is before) to change one's lifestyle to moderate risk factors. Successful surgery is far from a guarantee that coronary artery disease can be avoided. The bypass patient is simply given a better quality of life; he must use his remaining time prudently. That means taking good care of himself and using medicine as needed.

Bypasses tend to close with time. Although the aging process cannot be avoided, bypass surgery may give heart patients a second chance to reduce the factors that accelerate coronary artery disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have two infections in my nose: E. coli and klebsiella. Antibiotics and sulfa drugs have not helped. The otolaryngologists cannot help either. What's the next step?

DEAR READER — For antibiotics to be effective against infections, the drugs must be tailored to the bacteria. Your doctor already knows which microorganisms are causing your infection. The next step is to perform sensitivity studies to identify which drugs will knock out the bacteria. Then you can be given a specific antidote and, in theory, the infection should clear up.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been trying to get pregnant for a year, with no luck. Could my history of urinary-tract infections be the problem? I'm 20.

DEAR READER — Urinary-tract infections do not commonly affect fertility. However, some venereal diseases — like gonorrhea — can infect both the urinary and reproductive tracts, causing urinary symptoms and sterility. Although this might not be true in your case, see a gynecologist to identify the reason you are having trouble becoming pregnant.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The opening two-diamond bid, the Flannery convention, is a strange animal to most of our readers. It normally describes a hand of 12-15 high-card points with four spades and five hearts. After hearing this bid from his partner, South thought he could safely bid a game. Four hearts was a good contract, played from either hand. Catch the ace of clubs onside or find the defenders' trumps dividing 3-2, and almost surely 10 tricks will come home to roost.

That was the view declarer took of the deal. He won the opening diamond lead and immediately led a club to dummy's king. East took the ace and returned a club. That lost to West and a third club allowed East to overruff dummy's small heart with his eight. Later South played A-K of hearts. When the queen failed to drop, declarer was set a trick.

Of course there are various ways to make 10 tricks, but no play is automatic. Try this approach and see what happens.

After winning the ace of diamonds, play A-K of spades (pitching a club) and ruff a spade. Then play the diamond king and ruff a diamond. Now ruff dummy's last spade and cash the king of hearts. Then play the last diamond. When West plays the 10, ruff low in dummy. East can overruff but must then lead either into the A-J of hearts or away from the ace of clubs. Either way, declarer takes 10 tricks and makes his contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 28, 1986

Good things could happen for you in the year ahead through your organizational affiliations. If you are asked to run for an office at your favorite club, by all means do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Frivolous interests might sidetrack you from responsibilities that should have priority today. Wasting time now will double your work later. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Success will be denied you today if you aren't as strong a finisher as you are a starter. Don't quit before reaching your goal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Associates are likely to have more faith in your abilities today than you will yourself. Don't let negative thinking do you in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll do reasonably well for yourself today, so be content with your lot in life. If your expectations are unrealistic, you're apt to be severely disappointed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Any agreement you make today must be clearly thought out. If it is not constructed properly, it'll soon come apart at the seams.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, if you fail to follow through on a project the way you initially envisioned it, you might not be proud of the end result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extra mindful of your social image today. If you play down to others or treat them indifferently, you'll wind up with less members in your fan club.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Don't be overly concerned about making a big impression on others today. You could boast and exaggerate in order to feed your ego.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be forthright today, even if it hurts. If you follow this policy, you won't have to worry later about what you told to who and why.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial conditions could be a trifle tricky for you both today and tomorrow. Use your best judgment so that you can hang onto what you have.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In order to pacify you today, an associate might make you an extraordinary promise that you'll take to heart. Unfortunately, his or her sincerity is questionable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Protect your interests today, but also be sure to share fairly with others what they helped you gain. Selfishness could bring problems.
