WILL MEET IN SANFORD

Moving Picture Men Will Come Here Next Year

At the morning session of the Florida Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitor's League, Sanford was chosen as the next meeting place and April 15, 1914, chosen as the date. Another matter that came up for consideration was for protesting against the high license of $400 a year charged moving picture shows. The exhibitors will seek to have the license reduced by circulating petitions in various theatres.

Part of the afternoon was devoted to a demonstration of the "Mutual Film Service," given in the Majestic Theatre under the direction of J. T. Cheatham.

Last night the delegates were tendered a banquet at the El Pasaje Restaurant, concluding the most successful gathering of picture men ever held in the state.

The officers had been reelected for the ensuing year. They are E. O. Griffith, of Tampa, president; Carl Kettler, Jr., of West Palm Beach, vice president; A. H. LaBelle, of Tampa, secretary and treasurer. The board of directors are Louis H. Kalbfeld, Palatka; S. J. Harvey, Milton; Thornton Parker, St. Petersburg; S. P. Davis, Arcadia.

Members of the league who were in attendance included: Harry Wadham, Bradentown; E. O. Griffith, J. S. Matthews, C. F. Tarbell, Antonio Juran, B. A. Lasstraps, West Tampa; Thornton Parker, St. Petersburg; L. H. Kalbfeld, Palatka; S. J. Harvey, Milton; Carl Kettler, West Palm Beach; Att. McGinnis, Key West; Mrs. A. R. Tucker, Plant City; B. W. Polica, Tampa; J. F. Karnatz, Sanford; S. P. Davis, Arcadia; Mrs. Emma C. Bender, Kissimmee. Names of twenty-five or thirty others, who could not be present, were enrolled at their own request.—Tampa Tribune.

Seminole's New Jail

The county commissioners of Seminole county following their usual policy of saving the taxpayer's money have decided that the county needed a jail and needed it now and to save the money that is now being spent in other counties to house and feed our prisoners the new county will build a new jail at once.

Pursuant to this policy the commissioners will purchase the Hill property on Palmetto avenue next to the city hall and now occupied by E. E. Brady's livery stable and on this property a new jail will be constructed. According to plans and specifications the new jail will cost about $10,000, as the building is already on the ground and with a few changes can be made to fit the wants of the county.

Bids for the jail work will be advertised at once and the work will start within the next thirty days. The building to be used is a very good one, being looked best for the proposition and was purchased, or will be, at once.

The county will save money by the transaction as a jail of the size needed by our county would cost new almost twice as much, and regardless of where the new court house will be built will be needed and the county will have it ready.

SANITATION AT HOME

A clean home is more to be desired than great riches, for uncleanness and long life don't travel far together.

Every Florida home-keeper would prize with indignation at the suggestion that her house was not a model of cleanness. Most homes are clean, to the non-medical observer. The floors are swept and the bric-a-brac is dusted; there is the regular cleaning day for the sleeping rooms each week; the dining room and living-room get theirs every day. The good woman of the house delights to tell of the heavy burdens she bears, many of them entirely unnecessary and self imposed, in keeping her indoor kingdom in fit condition. Then there is the annual "house cleaning" time, which brings sadness to mankind, and a kind of imperial joy to womankind, for it is then that she asserts her royal prerogatives and makes home a bedlam while it lasts.

But, (and how many stories have a "but" as a sort of disfiguring sequel to spoil them) with all the scrubbing and sweeping and dusting, many, too many, homes are not clean, sanitarily clean. In the hidden corners which are reached once or twice a year, perhaps never reached at all, thin layers of dust accumulate, where disease-bringing germs love to congregate and multiply until a sudden draft gives them opportunity to accomplish their death dealing mission in the world.

The kitchen is clean, scrubbed until the paint is scrubbed clean on baseboards and door frames, but the flies are free to enter through the unscrubbed windows from the garbage can just outside, or from places even more disgusting. They are free to alight on uncovered food and to leave on it unmentionable filth that has clung to their feet from previous and recent wanderings. They come in at the open and uncovered pantry window to pollute tonight's dinner or tomorrow's breakfast.

The living room, the library and the bedrooms, ablaze with light, invite the mosquito to enter from the darkness of the outside night and to infect the household with the poison of malaria. Many good housekeepers, even in enlightened Florida, fail to see the necessity of window screens and screens for outside doors. To them screens over the beds are sufficient and they are put up to avoid the discomfort of an all night fight with mosquitoes and hot for sanitary reasons. To them the screened porch is a luxury, not a necessity. And when in the absence of screens about the earth closets outside but near the house, of screens on doors and windows and, sometimes, over the bed, disease and death come into these screenless homes, they are resignedly taken as mysterious dispensations of an all-wise Providence, a kind of discipline which in the end, somehow or other, works out a higher individual spirituality. The worst of it is that the poor housewife does not realize that she has the whole blame. Perhaps it is fortunate, after it is all over, that she does not know. It would add to her sufferings and, goodness knows, she has enough without that.

It is the aim and purpose of the modern sanitarian and sanitary boards and organizations to educate the housewife, to show her how to make her home clean in the scientific and safe meaning of the word. With the homes of Florida scientifically clean, the death rate from typhoid fever would fall close to the vanishing point. Malaria would diminish to the degree of becoming a medical curiosity, and most of the deaths of Florida's residents would be the result of unavoidable accidents or of old age.

What applies in this respect to the home, has an equal significance for those other places where people live and eat and sleep. The Florida Legislature of 1913 created a hotel commission, whose duties were made to include inspection of the public houses and boarding houses of the state. This commission must see to it that every bed sheet is not less in size than certain prescribed dimensions; that the time honored roller towel is banished from public lavatories and that individual towels are substituted; to see that screens are provided for windows in accordance with certain prescribed rules, and to have a general supervision over sanitary provisions necessary to public health and comfort.

This commission has a large value for the traveling public whose wanderings include the smaller towns of the state that are not blessed with energetic and active health officials. It is important to the comfort of the traveling man that the bed sheets should be at least ninety-nine inches long, and not ninety-eight, especially in hot weather when he never draws one over him except to smother under it in the attempt to ward off the attacks of the blood thirsty mosquito, and it doesn't make much difference what is the length of the sheet on which he tosses.

This commission is not a department of the State Board of Health, although at the direction of the board, and not on its own initiative, it may perform certain functions to regulate sanitary matters.

Florida should be one of the most healthful states in the Union. It stands high in the list, and its location in a balmy climate, which favors outdoor life through all the year, gives it large advantage from the health viewpoint. But natural advantages are not sufficient. There is a science of living and it is just as much a science as is mathematics. A disregard of the laws that have been formulated or discovered through this science of sanitation, is quite as disastrous in a warm climate as in a cooler one.

There are many indications of a more general recognition year by year among the people of this most southerly state, of the principles that have been discovered relating to the preservation of health and the promulgation of life. This recognition is bearing fruit by the practice of these laws. The people of Florida are being educated. They are learning the value of clean homes, of clean food and clean living.

Cleanliness is next to godliness. It conduces to righteousness, for the strong, healthy man or woman should be better morally than the invalid, whose views of life are likely to be narrowed by constant association with himself to the exclusion of the broadening influences that come from mingling with the world on an even footing.

Death of Mrs. Adams

Mrs. Alice Adams died last Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. DeCoursey on Magnolia avenue.

Mrs. Adams had been here about two years, coming from her old home in Kentucky to Florida for the benefit of her health. She had long been afflicted and for sometime had almost lost her eyesight, but with Christian fortitude and bravery bore her suffering until the end came as a relief.

Funeral services will be held at her home in Burlington, Ky., to which point the remains were carried on Thursday.

Mrs. Adams leaves two daughters, Mrs. DeCoursey and Miss Adams of this place a son in Jacksonville and two sons in Kentucky to mourn her loss.

Tax Assessor Arthur Butt has completed the Seminole county tax books and will turn the same over to the authorities of that county next week.

It has been a tedious task and the assessor has hardly had an easy path since the job was undertaken.

WILL OUST POSTMASTERS

Republicans Have No Place at the Ple Counter and Must Leave

Washington, Sept. 9.—A center rush on the patronage battlements is being organized. Many Democratic United States senators are enlisted in the movement and Democratic members of the house of representatives are wishing the enterprise godspeed.

The center rush is to be on in full force as soon as the present extra session of congress ends. It is thought now that congress will adjourn by the middle of next October and the month of November should witness some patronage developments.

The movement relates chiefly to senatorial patronage and will be devoted to prying loose the bonds that hold United States marshals, district attorneys, revenue collectors of customs in office.

Democratic senators are especially hopeful of being able to break into the clover patch through the department of justice. It is being impressed upon Attorney General James C. McReynolds with the force of a ton of brick that he should profit by the lesson of District Attorney McNab of California.

From this premise it is argued that the attorney general does not know, and can not know, when some other district attorney or United States marshal will touch off a mine under him, and the best plan, according to the attorney general's senatorial advisers, is to reorganize the forces of the department of justice from top to bottom.

United States marshals and district attorneys are commissioned for a term of four years, but Postmaster General Burleson has a way of getting out of office postmasters that is hardly commensurate with the length of their term.

PRINTERS COST CONGRESS

Employing Printers Will Get Together In Ocala In November

A decision has been reached as to the dates for the holding of the first state-wide Printers' Cost Congress in Florida. Authority for the holding of such a congress was given at the last meeting of the Florida Press Association, held at Tampa in June, and Harry L. Brown of the Record Company, St. Augustine; Robert J. Holly of the Herald, Sanford; and J. M. Burrow of the Burrow Press, Pensacola, were appointed members of a special committee to make all the arrangements.

Ocala was selected as the meeting place, and for some time past negotiations have been in progress with Col. Frank Harris of the Ocala Banner, P. V. Leavengood of the Ocala Star, and Secretary J. D. Rooney of the Ocala board of trade, for the purpose of definitely deciding on the dates.

A considerable variety of Cost Congress literature has been prepared, and will be mailed to the owners of every print shop in the state of Florida.

The Ocala board of trade, through Secretary Rooney, is going to see to it that the visitors to the "Brick City" are given a good time.

The sessions will open Thursday night, November 13th, with a general mass meeting, when an address of welcome will be given.

It is expected that every newspaper in the state will give considerable prominence to the coming congress, as the widest publicity is necessary in order to arouse the proper degree of interest.

New Public School at Kalamazoo

Judge Voigt attended the meeting of the county school commissioners at DeLand last Tuesday and presented a petition for a public school to be established at Kalamazoo.

The facts in the case, the commissioners conceded the justice of the request but owing to the short time before the opening of schools and the necessary delay in establishing a new district and building a suitable building, it was finally proposed that the residents of this new settlement should provide a temporary building.

The county school commissioners will have a suitable permanent school building erected as soon as necessary steps can be taken and the new district permanently organized.

Will Stevens continues to make the Stuart Times a very bright and interesting sheet. The Times is doing good work in boosting Stuart and the East Coast.

Rube Allyn, editor of the Sarasota Sun, had acquired a motor boat, and alludes to it as "an unresponsible piece of mechanical devilry." Rube made a mistake. He should have purchased a secondhand automobile.

If the cartoonists who picture John N. C. Stockton on horseback, and spurred, want to leave the impression that that gentleman proposes to cover this great state in that way they are doing him an injustice. A man foolish enough to attempt such a feat wouldn't be worthy of a seat in Sanford's city council, to say nothing of one in the Upper House at the Nation's capital.—Reporter-Star.

Let him ride the horse and take his place on the Orlando city council.

KNOWS OUR HOTEL

Bob Holly and the Sanford Herald are hard after a big-tourist hotel for Sanford and they ought to get it. Probably no town in the state today needs a big tourist hotel worse than Sanford. Situated at the head of navigation on the St. Johns river and coupled with hundreds of attractions, it is a charming spot. The Sanford House is a big institution and was an old hotel when the editor of this paper first saw it back in the eighties. Holly is after an hotel with all the 1913 improvements thrown in and not one of the vintage of 1880.—Stuart Times.

HANDSOME HARRY BROWN

In the last issue the Eustis Lake News-payer pays a tribute to a Florida newspaper man who is so heartily esteemed and admired by the whole press gang that we all delight to sound his praises. Harry L. Brown is his name. St. Augustine is his home and the Daily Record of that city and its publishing plant his pride and joy. Harry is the man "big" of the approaching printers' convention in Ocala, and the Lake Region is deeply within the truth when it says of him:

"A fact one always expects to see at the annual meetings of the Florida Press Association is that of Mr. Harry L. Brown, general manager of the St. Augustine Record Printing Co. He is a good talker, a good looker, and a hard worker. No other editor in Florida has done so much to place the printing business upon a proper paying basis as has handsome Harry Brown. He dreams of the best system as does a lover vainly try to dream of the girl he left behind him—or who left him behind! Harry publishes a daily paper in the oldest town in North America, St. Augustine, but his office equipment is not so antiquated. In fact, it is bang up to date.—Lakeland Telegram.

BUYING THROUGH THE PAPER

One of the difficulties in making household purchases is that the majority of people hate to disappoint salespeople. After the clerks have done their best to make explanations, most people dislike to leave without making a purchase. The store may advertise that it is always a pleasure to show goods. But after a stock is disarranged, the majority of people dislike to put salespeople out. Sometimes clerks get tired and cross and say unpleasant things when customers are critical. At the same time judging by the analogy of business a good deal of study of conflicting offers is needed for judicious buying. The purchasing agent for a manufacturing concern would never dare to buy until he had seen the leading offerings.

A great many people for the reasons set forth above, are always, consciously taking articles that do not appeal to them. The things don't look like good value. But either they are too tired to hunt for something better, or they dislike not to buy after having given the trouble to show goods.

When you buy after studying the newspaper advertising, you save a lot of needless friction, and you get the benefit of competition. After comparing the offerings of different merchants you can satisfy yourself pretty thoroughly as to which is giving the best bargain in a given line. You can make a shrewd guess as to who will make the best cuts to clear stock, who has had the most enterprise to secure good styles and the most substantial values.

All that remains then, is to go direct to the spot and get the goods. As it is fatal to misrepresent in the white light of public print, the result usually proves satisfactory. Five minutes in the newspaper saved you money, and enabled you to avoid friction.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

SOUNDS LIKE MAYES

Frank O. Mayes, editor of the Pensacola Journal, who has been mentioned several times more than any other man as a candidate for governor, replies to these many complimentary references and offers of support—in such a sensible, practical, pointed way that we give his reply in full as taken from the Journal of Sunday. Mr. Mayes pertinently recalls the fact which seems to have escaped most of us, that it will be nearly three years before the primaries to nominate a candidate for governor. This being true, it seems hardly less than absurd that the matter should be persistently, earnestly and elaborately discussed as though the selection of such a candidate was an issue right up to the people of Florida to be determined and we didn't have any time to spare in doing so.

Mr. Mayes' letter will strengthen the general opinion that he is excellent timber for governor, but he is entirely right to decline making any definite announcement on the subject in view of the three years crowded with changing and unknown conditions and history that hasn't happened between now and the date of the nomination. His Journal article is as follows:

No man could be insensible to the very great compliment contained in the serious suggestion of his name for high office, and the editor of the Journal is not lacking in appreciation of the altogether too generous comment which the state press has made concerning him. On the other hand, no man, unless he be independently rich or exceedingly over ambitious could nearly three years ahead give definite assurance that he would be a candidate for so important an office. The gubernatorial primary will not be held for almost three years. Governor Trammell's successor will not enter office for more than three years. Conditions change rapidly. The man who might be regarded as a logical candidate today might, either by his own acts and expressions or by changing circumstances, be entirely eliminated from consideration in much less than three years.

Florida has hundreds of men, any one of whom would make a good governor. The discussion of these men and of the policies involved in the selection of a governor is proper and pertinent at all times. In fact such discussion is a tremendously desirable and the columns of the Journal are at all times open to it. But so many elements and conditions are involved in a campaign for governor that we imagine no individual in the state could this far ahead definitely announce that he would make the campaign.

The editor of the Journal has no over-possessing ambition to hold office. He realizes his own limitations as probably no one else realizes them. He may never be a candidate for public office. At the same time he does not care to give bond that he will not at some time be a candidate. In the meantime the state press should continue its discussion of all available men and when the time to make the campaign arrives there is no doubt that some man will be found whose name will be acceptable to the great masses of people in the state. But there is plenty of time to find him.

NEED MORE FAITH

Unless you have faith you will never succeed and this is more than true of a city. Take the big cities of the world and the early history of each is founded in faith. The founders and those that came after them had faith in their city and demonstrated it not only by building houses themselves but inducing others to do likewise. Faith in a city is infectious and the stranger within our gates is first impressed with the fact that we have faith and if we lack faith he will go to a city where faith is manifested in the happy faces of a contented people firstly and secondly in their works. It is useless to ask any man to locate in Sanford if our own faith in the city is of the lukewarm type. It is not only useless but foolish to ask any man or group of men to build a hotel in Sanford if the citizens of Sanford are not willing and ready to assist in every way with encouragement and money. It is useless to ask factories to locate here without offering them free land, light taxes and better freight rates than some other city can offer.

Atlanta is a shining example of a city built by hot air and little to back it up and yet this so-called hot air was personified by the people of Atlanta having faith in their own city. They had it before the war. They had it after the city had been laid waste. They had it after the men of the southern army tramped over the desolate wastes left by the armies and they returned to Atlanta to build a larger city with the abounding faith that all would be well with them. Show me a man from Atlanta today and you cannot get him to say there is another city in the world that has more faith in its own city than Atlanta. They pull for Atlanta and with but little to make a start they have built a city and are building it greater every year.

Faith makes a city. The Herald has never lost faith in Sanford and has boosted it early and late. We have more right now in sight to make a large city than we ever had before and yet in the fact of prosperity there are some people standing in their own light and spend their time grumbling about what should be done without ever stretching out their hands or loaning their pocketbook to help anything.

Let us have more faith in our city. Let us have enough faith in our own game to make greater inducements to have a hotel built here. We have more factories and there are men here in plenty who have enough of this world's goods to give a lot for a site or take stock in some worthy home enterprise. We need the bulkheading done and some of our people should take the contract and the work should be pushed. There are hundreds of ways in which our faith should be manifested in helping our home town.

We have one of the best propositions in the world and about the only thing lacking is faith in our own city.

THE WORLD WITH WILSON

In his determination not to approve of the Huerta regime, President Wilson has the backing of Great Britain, France, Japan and other powerful nations. The thing that should be especially gratifying to every American citizen is the support of practically all the Central and South American countries in the efforts of the United States to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Mexican revolution.

Latin-America has felt kindly towards the United States—with a few exceptions and rare instances—since the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine. Argentina makes greater use of our legal documents than of those of any other country, because of the similarity of existing conditions. In the law libraries of Buenos Ayres and other South American cities are excellent collections of American constitutional, diplomatic and legal works. Dr. Okla, recent minister of foreign affairs in the Argentine cabinet, says they often find that the supreme court of the United States has decided questions on which they have only begun to study. Judge Cavilcanti, a member of the supreme court of Brazil, is a graduate of the Albany, N. Y., law school. The schools of several Brazilian states, of Peru, Bolivia and Chili are, to a considerable extent, under directors and teachers from the United States. Many experts from the United States are now engaged in agricultural and other work for some of the countries south of Mexico.

Thus it may be seen that the President had good grounds for believing that his course would be supported by our South American neighbors.

Mexico cannot hold out with her near neighbors and the rest of the world against her. The world is right and Wilson is right, Mexico must get tight.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Judge's charge doesn't affect a man so much as the charge his lawyer is going to make.

Making Two Ears of Corn Grow Where Only One Grew Before

Not getting the right amount of rain at the right time, is one of the principal causes of crop failure. This is past history, however, on thousands of profitable farms throughout the country. These farms use Electric Power, and motor driven pumps allow irrigation in the right amount and at the right time.

There are suitable G-E Motors for running the machines in the Barn, in the Dairy, and in the Field. Almost every task and chore on a farm can be done more rapidly, more economically and more safely with Electric Power, than in any other way.

Why Use L. & M. Semi-Mixed Real Paint. Because it's economical. Because it is pure White Lead, Zinc and Linseed Oil. Because it's the highest grade quality paint that can be made. Because when the user adds three quarts of Oil to each one gallon of the L. & M. Semi-Mixed Real Paint, it makes 1 1/4 gallons of pure paint at a cost of about $1.40 per gallon. This saves the user about 60 cents a gallon on all the paint used. The L. & M. has always been the highest grade and most perfect paint produced. Sold by T. J. Miller & Son, Sanford, Fla.

DIXIE SOAKED AGAIN

Engineers Resent the Attack Made on J. C. Brown in Paper

The following resolutions were passed by Division No. 769:

Whereas, There appeared in a recent issue of Dixie, an article headed "A forger and a fraud. Railroad engineers indignant over an alleged division endorsement of J. C. Brown, for U. S. Marshal."

Whereas, This article misrepresents the facts and is calculated to do an injustice to Brother Brown and Division No. 769;

Resolved, That we, the members of this division, in a regular meeting assembled, do most heartily concur and approve of the action taken by our worthy Chief Engineer and secretary, in endorsing Bro. J. C. Brown, for the appointment to the position of U. S. Marshal.

Whereas, This matter was brought up at a regular meeting of Division 769, on June 4th, and the Division was then informed that the chief engineer and secretary had endorsed Bro. Brown, in the name of the Division and that no further action was necessary. But since the publication of the article in Dixie was unauthorized by this division and is misleading and erroneous and is an injustice to Brother Brown, therefore be it Resolved, That we, the members of Division 769, deplore the unqualified, baseless story and resent the statements contained therein.

Be it Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Dixie and request its publication to make correction.

Be it Further Resolved, That we reaffirm our support of Brother Brown, believing him to be capable and in every way qualified for the position which he seeks.
