Chiles inaugurated today

TALLAHASSEE — In what he called "a Florida jubilee," Lawton Chiles was inaugurated as the 41st governor of Florida today.

His inaugural comes nine months after he surprised the state by announcing his return to politics, a world he left because of "burnout."

Chiles broke tradition by inviting all of Florida to inaugural ceremonies in Tallahassee today, and by returning money to the state that had been allotted for the festivities.

Lawton Chiles

Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay and other elected Cabinet officials were also sworn in during the ceremonies today.

Raiders rusty in loss

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College Raiders women's basketball team played their first game since December 11, Monday evening.

Unfortunately, they looked like a team that had not played in four weeks as they were rolled over by the Shaunce College Saints from Illinois 90-72 at the Health and Physical Education Center.

Four hostages reported freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The radical Palestinian guerrilla group headed by terrorist mastermind Abu Nidal said today that it has released four Belgian hostages and that they would be handed over to Belgium within 48 hours.

The group's official spokesman said the four were being swapped for a Palestinian jailed in Belgium.

Photos key to rape case

SANFORD — Ralph Santiago, 32, of Geneva, entered a no contest plea to three counts of rape of a child and two counts of use of a child in a sex act in Sanford on Monday.

Photographs that Santiago allegedly took of himself and the child in sexual poses were key to his arrest by Seminole County Sheriff's Investigator Dan Praat in July. When Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize agreed to allow those photos to be entered as evidence against Santiago Monday, Santiago entered his plea, rather than face trial.

A friend who took a shower at Santiago's house reportedly found the photos when searching for a towel. He reported the find to deputies and that led to the arrest, records show.

Riddle sentenced for stabbing

SANFORD — Edward Thomas Riddle, 23, of Oviedo, has been sentenced to up to 50 years in prison for his part in the Jan. 18, 1990 stabbing death of an associate.

Riddle's initial charge of first-degree murder in the death of Carl L. Richardson, 23, of Orlando, was reduced to second-degree murder when he entered a guilty plea. He agreed to testify against co-defendant, Amos Barr, 28, of Geneva, who faces a first-degree murder charge. Riddle was sentenced in Sanford on Monday by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr.

A third man who was reportedly with the group at Lake Pickett in south Seminole County alleged both Riddle and Barr stabbed the victim.

Florida's chief economist envisions good future for Seminole

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — The president has finally admitted we're in a recession. The country could be at war by the end of the month. Housing construction has dropped.

And Florida's leading economist says Sanford and Seminole County will be among the most financially healthy places in the state and country this year into the mid-1990s.

"There is tremendous opportunity for expansion," Hank Fishkind told Sanford business people this morning. "There is probably no better place to do business this year than Sanford and Seminole County."

Crisis strikes home

Sanford area families unite, offer support

SANFORD — It seemed that nowhere in the world last night was the countdown to Jan. 15 felt so deeply as it was among those at the first meeting of Sanford's Operation Desert Shield Support Group.

But in meeting halls across the United States since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, there have been the same exchanges of photos from Saudi Arabia, of frustration about slow mail delivery, of the relief that arrived with a 3 a.m. phone call, of continuing prayer for peace.

About 30 relatives of Desert Shield service personnel last night gathered at the American Legion hall on Sanford Avenue. The group agreed to meet weekly — because all there felt they needed support on a regular basis.

The next meeting will be Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. "We learn from one another. We console one another," Judy Osborn, organizer of the support group, said. "A lot of times one person might have a real good week and another person may have a week that's no good at all."

France's insistence breaks allied unity

By BARRY SCHWEID

BONN — French officials, meeting with Secretary of State James A. Baker III today, stuck to an independent approach for resolving the Gulf crisis by offering Saddam Hussein a Mideast peace conference if Iraq withdraws from Kuwait.

The city was buzzing with diplomacy the day before Baker's long-awaited meeting with the Iraqi foreign minister. Jordan's King Hussein arrived without fanfare for a meeting with Germany's president, Richard von Weizsacker.

Traveling across Europe, Baker was working to create a united front within the anti-Iraqi alliance in advance of Wednesday's meeting with Tariq Aziz.

In the face of U.S. opposition to a peace conference, French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas stressed his government's independent course while saying France shared in the determination of the United States to have Iraq pull its troops out of Kuwait by next Tuesday.

"You know the position of the United States and France," Dumas said as Baker craned an ear. See France, Page 5A

SANFORD — A month-long investigation in a major arson fire in downtown Sanford has brought one arrest, and more arrests may be coming, according to city arson investigator Teri Murray.

Otha Fulton, 40, of 88 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, is charged with three counts of arson and one count of burglary in connection with the fire. Late on Dec. 11 through the following morning the fire made a devastating sweep of the westside 300 block of S.

Sanford Avenue. Murray arrested Fulton Monday at the county jail, where he was being held in connection with two other Sanford arsons. On Nov. 30, he and William Henry Howard, 49, of Sanford, allegedly firebombed a boarding house at 807 Magnolia Ave. out of anger. Both have been arrested in that case. Fulton is also charged in connection with another arson to 801 Magnolia Ave., Dec. 1, Murray said. The owner of the boarding house is the resident at 801 Magnolia Ave., records show. Florida soldier may be suicide victim PENSACOLA — Funeral services are scheduled Wednesday for an Army officer who died from what military officials say was a self-inflicted gunshot during Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia.

Investigators still have not yet determined whether the death of 2nd Lt. Shannon Patrick Kelley, 23, of suburban Gulf Breeze was an accident or suicide.

His body was shipped home Sunday. Services are set for 12:45 p.m. CST at Olive Baptist Church in Pensacola, followed by burial with full military honors in Barrancas National Cemetery at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

Kelley was found dead on Dec. 31. Army officials said he died from a self-inflicted gunshot from his M-16 rifle.

Kelley, a graduate of the University of West Florida in Pensacola, was a supply officer with the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky. He reported for duty in Saudi Arabia on Oct. 9 after taking leave to marry the former Ruth Reeves of nearby Pace.

Survivors include his wife, parents Fred and Elaine Kelley of Gulf Breeze, and a sister, Heather Kelley, also of Gulf Breeze.

Swedish man appointed a lawyer

MIAMI — A man whom the Swedish government is trying to extradite in a $1.3 million fraud case was appointed a public defender after telling a U.S. magistrate he cannot afford a lawyer.

U.S. Magistrate William C. Turnoff on Monday advised Hans Arne Berglund, 47, of his rights to an extradition hearing and appointed Assistant Public Defender Gregory Preibsch to represent him at a hearing tentatively set for Jan. 29.

A warrant was issued for Berglund on New Year's Day in an action initiated by the Swedish government, which had spent three years looking for him on charges of gross fraud and embezzlement.

According to an affidavit by Assistant U.S. Attorney Jose Bonau, the Swedish government said Berglund allegedly conducted the crimes while working for a Swedish financial institution, Svenska Handelsbanken.

Berglund is accused of contacting the firm's customers and offering to negotiate more favorable loans for boats they had purchased. He told the clients he would replace existing loans with new loans having lower interest rates and longer payment periods, the affidavit said.

Berglund then obtained new loans without redeeming the old loans, the affidavit said. To avoid discovery, he allegedly altered the customers' addresses and used his own post office box.

'Cautious' UF student victimized

MELBOURNE — Along with thousands of other students at the University of Florida, Wendy Kuhlman takes special precautions as a result of the August slayings of five students at off-campus apartments.

After the murders, she moved to a second-story apartment that came with two roommates and a security alarm. She carries a can of Mace to deter any assailants.

But Sunday afternoon, when returning to the Gainesville school from her home in Satellite Beach, Ms. Kuhlman, 22, felt secure enough to leave the keys in her car at a Melbourne gas station.

The car disappeared. Minutes after the theft was reported, Florida Highway Patrol officers spotted the car on Interstate 95. A trooper stopped and arrested the driver, Cedric Wallace, 20, of Tallahassee.

He had been convicted from the Leon County Jail to Sharnon for driving an option on a private license and a gun trafficking charge.

On Saturday, he had appeared before Judge Dean Moxley, who dropped the failure to appear charge and released him on his own recognizance. Wallace was scheduled to appear for the cocaine trafficking charge Feb. 25.

Controversial golf resort approved

TALLAHASSEE — A state agency has approved a proposed golf resort near seaford-rich Apalachicola Bay following revisions that officials say will protect the sensitive environment.

The Department of Community Affairs, which rejected a previous version of Green Point Golf Resort in Franklin County, is recommending that incoming Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet give final approval to the new plan.

"The revised plan provides much greater protection for the bay and its shoreline while allowing for reasonable economic development," outgoing DCA Secretary Tom Pelham said Monday.

Pelham said the plan protects the bay — one of the richest oyster beds in the nation — by moving the 18-hole golf course away from the water. There are also tough restrictions on pesticide use and on clearing land along the bay shoreline.

Chiles becomes 41st governor

Inaugural comes soon after return to life in politics

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Nine months after he surprised the state by deciding to run for governor, Lawton Chiles today becomes Florida's 41st chief executive.

Even Chiles marvelled Monday at his quick political return after leaving the U.S. Senate in 1988, saying he would have laughed off anyone who predicted a year ago he would occupy the Governor's Mansion in 1991.

"I would still have said they were crazy," he said.

Chiles, 60, was scheduled to take the oath of office shortly after noon today on the east steps of the Old Capitol. The six independently-elected Cabinet members and incoming Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay were to be sworn in before Chiles.

Today's forecast called for cloudy skies with a 40 percent chance of showers, but a heavy sustained downpour wasn't considered likely, said Don Shepherd, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service.

"It's more the off and on kind, rather than steady rain," Shepherd said. "It'll still be cloudy, but there may be a couple of breaks in it. We may see the sun some."

Chiles on Monday returned

Gov. Lawton Chiles (l) gives a "thumbs up" with Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay during a campaign stop in Lake Mary the day before Chiles defeated Bob Martinez in the general election.

$35,000 in state money earmarked for his inaugural events, joining outgoing Gov. Bob Martinez in using no taxpayer funds. Martinez, however, accepted contributions of up to $10,000.

"This is the first time in the history of the state that individual donations of $100 or less have financed the entire inauguration," said Chiles, who also limited contributions to his gubernatorial campaign to $100.

"We said we want to return to 'government to the people,' and we feel that giving this money back to the state and keeping with our $100 limit continues to be important," Chiles said.

About $330,000 was raised for today's events, not including in-kind contributions such as rental cars for the parade, said Inaugural Committee Chairman Tom Staed.

After the inauguration, Chiles and MacKay planned to walk in a parade wearing their trademark plaid shirts and khakis.

A street festival of food, music and arts was planned near the Governor's Mansion until evening, when a musical gala featuring 17 acts with Florida ties will be held at the Civic Center.

The capital was abuzz with activity Monday as preparations were finalized for the inaugural ceremony and for Chiles' "Florida Jubilee."

New governor opens term facing heavy Washington influence, budget squeeze

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Lawton Chiles opened his fifth decade in Florida politics today faced with questions about priorities, governing style and a horde of problems that includes major cash shortages.

"I'm just looking forward to it," Chiles said Monday as he prepared to become Florida's 41st governor.

Chiles spent his first 30 years in government on the legislative side.

"I think the whole difference is that you're called to execute instead of bringing about a collegial decision," Chiles said in a recent interview. "The big difference is that when you don't have time to put all the people together and you have to make a decision, you've got to try to lead the course."

The former three-term U.S. senator is expected to detail more specifics about his plans for Florida in his inaugural address Tuesday.

Chiles' predecessor, Republican Gov. Bob Martinez, came to Tallahassee with executive experience, but quickly ran into trouble with the Legislature and eventually voters.

But Chiles expects to avoid confronting legislators.

"I think being a legislative animal, I have some kind of an idea how they think, what they need," he said.

One experienced hand in helping lawmakers make the transition to governor, Charles Reed, said Monday a lot of any top executive's success depends on his priorities.

"He'll need to have a vision and stick to it," said Reed, now chancellor of the State University

You've got to try to lead the course.

Inaugural like FSU game, but 'more sedate'

By CAROL PUGH
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — To local police and chamber of commerce officials, today's inaugural of incoming Gov. Lawton Chiles really isn't that much different from a typical Saturday when the Florida State Seminoles play.

"This (the inaugural) is sort of similar to a football game," said Bob Bone, president of the Tallahassee Area Chamber of Commerce.

But one of the main differences is that the game generates more money for the local economy.

A Florida State game generates about $18 million in local economic impact, compared to about $11 million expected for the free inaugural, Bone said Monday.

Local law enforcement officials are also drawing the football comparison.

"It's really the same," said Tallahassee Police spokesman Sgt. Phil Kiracofe.

To Kiracofe's relief, not everyone is showing up — and those who do will "hopefully be a lot more sedate" than a collegiate game.

System. "A short, clean agenda ... don't try to do too much," Reed added Monday. "And hire good people."

Chiles, who began his state political career in 1958 when elected to the state House from Polk County, appears to be relying heavily on his Washington and political contacts in assembling much of his administration's starting lineup.

Six new staffers are moving from the nation's capital, including his top advisers on the budget, Florida commerce and environment, and his image-maker.

Chiles likely to find Governor's office more to his liking

By DAN BEWELL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — After being frustrated as a U.S. senator, Lawton Chiles may find the governor's office more satisfying, say veterans of both jobs.

"Compared to serving as governor, being in the U.S. Senate is about as exciting as watching a stump rot," said Henry Bellmon, the outgoing Oklahoma governor who served in the Senate for two terms, 1969-81.

Bellmon, who returned to Oklahoma's governorship four years ago, is one of few modern politicians who have gone from senator to governor, compared to the opposite path.

Chiles, 60, retired from the Senate after three terms in January 1989.

Four arrested on sex charges

CASSELBERRY — City County Investigative Bureau agents working undercover in Red Bug Lake Park, Red Bug Road, Casseberry, report arresting four men who allegedly made sexual advances to male agents.

Charged with either assignment to commit a lewd act or committing a lewd and lascivious act Monday afternoon were:

Albert Gene Taylor, 57, 220 Twelve League Circle, Casseberry; Karl H. Thomas, 36, 480 Wildfox Drive, Casseberry; Dennis Patrick Carney, 25, of Orlando; and Jay Dean Schoonover, 35, 183 Post and Rail Road, Longwood. Agents allege three of the suspects asked for sexual activity with the agent. CCIB agents allege Schoonover grabbed an agent's groin and allegedly said, "Aren't you the blatant one."

Man charged with faking prescription

SANFORD — A man who allegedly presented a fake prescription for a controlled narcotic to be filled at Medco, 2701 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, was arrested there at about 2 p.m. Monday.

Sanford police report charging Alan James Martin, 33, 720 Cherokee Circle, Sanford, with obtaining and attempting to obtain a controlled substance by misrepresentation.

Seminole County DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) in Seminole County:

• Mark David Doll, 28, of Deltona, was arrested at 9:45 p.m. Monday after his van failed to maintain a single lane on State Road 46, west of Sanford.

• Tracey June Leblanc, 28, 9701 State Road 434, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 2:20 a.m. Saturday after her car was clocked traveling 92 mph on Interstate 4 near Lake Mary.

Planners take county comp plan on the road

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Residents have an opportunity to review Seminole County's plans for the next 20 years today at Sanford City Hall.

County planners will take comments on the plan from 1 until 9 p.m. as part of a five-day county tour of the plan. Residents can view the presentation in the city commission chambers on the first floor of city hall.

The county's plans for the next two decades are lean and will be costly for residents. Despite a lowering of traffic congestion standards, road improvements will still cost $108 million more than the county has available for the next five years.

Traffic in several "core" areas, including the area flanking Interstate 4 between Sanford and Lake Mary, will be allowed to degrade to encourage mass transit use.

There are plans for starting a drainage system for the entire county that will require a monthly fee from residents or an increase in property taxes. County commissioners are already considering a fee for new homes to help keep library books available for everyone.

In all, the county will face up to a $188 million shortfall during the next five years to meet the demands of current residents and prepare for population growth into the next century.

The plans also call for new techniques in development incentives. Neighborhood builders may be able to "transfer" homesites from one development to another in other sections of the county in return for preserving environmentally-sensitive areas. Developers may be able to build extra homes on their property in return for pledging to build lower-cost houses or make road or improvements beyond what will be needed for residents of their community.

Financing sought for yacht plant

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A $3 million expansion of the new Rex-Meyers Yacht facility will continue after new financing is found, the company president said Monday.

"We won't table our plans," said Mike Meyers. "It may cost us another 30 or 60 days, but we plan to continue."

"We're wounded, but we're not dead," said Seminole County Port Authority administrator Dennis Dolgner.

Last week, the port authority learned it had been one of the big losers in the lottery for tax-exempt bonds. The bonds were needed to help finance port development to allow the expansion of Rex-Meyers manufacturing capabilities. All of the $80.1 million in state bonds available for Central Florida will be used for an Orange County low-cost housing program.

The $3 million would have enabled the current 39,000-square-foot Rex-Meyers facility at the port to double in size and eventually increase the current number of 31 employees to a total of 150 jobs, Dolgner said.

Rex-Meyers, builder of the sleek, black-hulled Midnight Lace yachts, began operations at the port in August after moving their manufacturing facility from Dania, near Fort Lauderdale. The company began building a 40-foot product, which sells for $260,000 or more, officials said then.

The new 40,000-square-foot building was to accommodate construction of a 68-foot model, which has begun in one of the two buildings in use, Dolgner said.

"The hull is within a few inches of the roof," Dolgner said. "They have to take a wall off to get it out. They flip it on its side then push it back in to finish it. It's really primitive conditions they're working under now."

Future plans call for another manufacturing facility at the port alongside the St. Johns River to enable the company to build a 100-foot model, Dolgner said. The facility could eventually provide jobs for 300 to 500 people.

Meyers and Dolgner said they are searching for replacement finances to allow the construction to begin. Dolgner said if no money at an attractive rate is available, he will apply for the tax-exempt bonds again in July, but he said he doubts bond money will be available then.

"We didn't expect this to happen, quite frankly," Meyer said. "But we'll keep looking for available financing. I don't think we'll have too much of a problem with that. Affordable, I don't know."

Long, hard journey

Youngsters who have run afoul of the law have the opportunity to learn about discipline as part of the Vision Quest program. Traveling about 18 miles a day on foot and in wagon trains, the teens pictured here were on East State Road 46 near the Lake Geneva Bridge yesterday. They had travelled there from Ohio. Living a rustic life on the road in the tradition of early American pioneers, the youngsters learn self-reliance and interpersonal skills. The group will complete its trek on County Road 426.

Contractors facing OSHA charges, fines

From staff reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Tri-City Electrical Contractors Inc., Altamonte Springs, may face $25,500 in fines levied by the U.S. Department of Labor Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), according to an OSHA release.

The citations resulted from an inspection of a Tri City work site at 3403 E. Colonial Drive, Orlando, where the company had been preparing to install a 2,000-gallon fuel tank. The release said.

The release said that as a result of the inspection, OSHA proposed $9,000 penalties for each of two alleged willful violations: failure to shore, brace or properly slope excavation walls and failure to provide a ladder for employees working in the excavation.

The release also said additional penalties totaling $4,100 were proposed for the following violations: lack of job site inspections; lack of employee training; failure to provide a dead front on an electrical panel box; failure to locate spoil from the open excavation; and failure to provide competent person inspections of the excavations.

SANFORD — The County Council of PTAs wants to be sure the three new members of the Seminole County school board understand — early in their term in office — the needs and concerns of the parents of the district.

Representatives from all schools with PTA organizations and district level PTA directors will meet with the full school board in a work session on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

"We want to meet casually and talk informally back and forth," said Judy Smith, president of the County Council of PTAs.

According to Smith, the PTA has worked closely with past boards, doing whatever was asked of them either as a group or on an individual basis.

"We are very committed to working to make the schools better in whatever way we can," Smith said.

She added that the direction of Tuesday's meeting will not be set in stone.

"What we discuss will depend on who is there," she said.

Because of the afternoon starting time, Smith said many PTA members who have young children might be unable to attend. She predicted that "as many as 30 or as few as 15" PTA representatives would be at the meeting.

"If more representatives from, say, Lawton are there," she explained, "the discussion might lean more to year round education. If more are there from Stenstrom, there might be more talk about overcrowding."

Smith said both those issues would be discussed, regardless of representation from the schools, however. Year round education and overcrowded classrooms are issues of great concern to the parents across the district, she said.

"The legislative program is something else we might talk about," Smith said.

She noted the importance of the two groups sharing their thoughts and stances on various subjects with one another right from the beginning.

"It allows for better focus and strategic planning," she said.

This is the first time in recent memory that the PTA and the board have met in an informal work session.

"I don't recall it being done in quite this way before," Smith said. "It has been done on a one-on-one basis before. They'd come to our meetings when we invited them, but the whole board has never met with the County Council before."

Smith said she hopes the meeting helps to establish a strong working relationship between the new board and the PTA that they have enjoyed with past boards.

Dade officers plead guilty to drug rip-off

Associated Press

MIAMI — Three defendants in a Metro-Dade police drug rip-off case pleaded guilty, hours before they were to go on trial in federal court.

U.S. District Judge Edward Davis on Monday accepted the pleas from former Metro officers Ernesto Sanchoyerto and Mario Beovides Jr., and civilian Thomas Rivera. Sentencing was set for March 14.

The prosecution refused to say if it requested 120 hours, even to testify for the government, as it seeks convictions against four remaining defendants: Roberto Gonzalez, a suspended division chief on the Metro force; his brother Jose C. Gonzalez, a suspended detective; Jorge Luis Ponte, co-owner of an auto-repair shop and former police officer; and Manuel Rodriguez, a self-employed Sunrise businessman.

After the three men entered their guilty pleas, jury selection started for the four who will face trial. The process is expected to continue today.

Two years ago, a federal grand jury charged the seven men with racketeering from 1981 through 1987 that resulted in the theft of $1.1 million, nearly a ton of marijuana and 50 kilograms of cocaine from Dade drug dealers.

Reno: Blaming HRS isn't answer

By JACKIE HALLFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Fiddling with the structure of the state's huge social services agency has been a popular pastime in Florida and too often has been presumed to be a solution, a witness told lawmakers.

With 44,000 employees, the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is the single most massive bureaucracy in the country outside the federal government itself. It is responsible for health services, welfare, child protection, programs for the elderly, mental health, alcohol and drug abuse services.

"Structure is very important, but there's always been a tendency when something is wrong at HRS to tinker with the structure," Janet Reno, named by incoming Gov. Lawton Chiles to head an advisory panel on social services, testified Monday before the House HRS Committee.

Chiles has promised to make a separate independent Department of Elderly Affairs and has talked about decentralizing HRS. The House panel is also working on improving the agency's structure.

There's always been a tendency when something is wrong at HRS to tinker with the structure.

— Janet Reno, head of a panel studying HRS

Reno, Dade County state attorney, said her task force has held two of at least seven scheduled public hearings on HRS and that one of the common threads in the testimony from clients, providers and observers has been that too often an organizational change has been assumed to be a solution.

Another theme running through a nine-hour public hearing in Jacksonville last week and several hours of testimony in Tallahassee Monday was the importance of the people who actually deliver the services, Reno said.

Although salary levels must be improved, there is also a need for better staff development.

Reno also said witnesses to her panel said the gap between HRS expectations and resources must be acknowledged.

"We've got limited dollars," she said. "Let us recognize that HRS cannot be everything to everybody. Let us recognize that HRS simply cannot substitute for an American family that has disintegrated and for American neighborhoods and communities that have disintegrated."

"And to knock HRS around the head for every tragedy that occurs because some other much more longstanding institution has failed is not right," Ms. Reno said.

Rep. Ben Graber, D-Coral Springs, told Ms. Reno her comments were on target but that they've been heard before and that what the lawmakers needed were hard statements about which services to cut if services must be cut.

Air turbulence

The U.S. airline industry has fallen on hard times. It is very possible that, during the next two or three years, America's eight major carriers will be reduced to three or four.

One increasingly likely casualty is Continental Airlines, the nation's fifth-largest carrier, which earlier this month sought protection from its creditors under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code.

In declaring itself insolvent, Continental follows the lead of its one-time slater carrier, Eastern, which has been operating under supervision of a bankruptcy court for much of the past two years. Eastern may yet be forced into liquidation.

The airline industry's decline has been quickened by developments during the last few months. Because of higher fuel prices, the looming recession and an expected decline in passenger traffic due to the economic downturn, U.S. carriers are projected to lose as much as $2 billion in 1991.

For an industry that has only $10 billion in equity, this amounts to a devastating hit. It has become clear, then, that if America is to have a viable airline industry with a sufficient number of carriers to guarantee adequate competition, the industry must have a substantial infusion of capital.

Predictably, the carriers are looking to Washington for new financing and other considerations. Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner has been urged by heads of the leading airlines to provide low-interest loans and fuel subsidies to help them through their current troubles.

A better solution is to modify the 54-year-old federal law that restricts foreign ownership of domestic carriers to no more than 25 percent of equity. The law is a relic of the era of Franklin Roosevelt, who felt that national security required that the domestic airline industry be firmly under U.S. control.

A half-century later, national security remains a pertinent consideration. Indeed, U.S. air carriers are transporting American troops to the Persian Gulf under contract with the Pentagon, which lacks sufficient airlift to get the job done on its own.

But even recognizing these legitimate national security concerns, the present 25 percent limit on foreign investment could be raised to as much as 49 percent without compromising America's defense interests. Under such a formula, domestic carriers still would be controlled by U.S. owners. At the same time, they could gain an infusion of up to $5 billion from foreign investors. In the long run, this additional capital would strengthen, not weaken, America's airline industry.

Kremlin quake shakes world

The text of the foreign minister's resignation speech is scary. It is not what Eduard Shevardnadze said, so much as the way he said it. Hysteria seemed close to breaking through his remarks.

What was he really telling the Congress of People's Deputies in the Kremlin?

Our reading is no better than yours, but we heard this message: The country is in great danger, threatened by reactionary forces within the government. Young epaulet-wearing colonels in the Congress are to blame. There is danger of dictatorship. But democracy will win out in the end.

Shevardnadze expresses support for Mikhail Gorbachev, but opposes the steps being taken to give Gorbachev dictatorial powers, for the reason that once such a form of government is established, there is no telling who might become the dictator.

The foreign minister expressed personal resentment over criticism of his foreign policies, policies that permitted the reunification of Germany and aligned the Soviet Union with the United States in the Security Council against the aggression committed by Iraq against Kuwait.

The tone was highly emotional. The man was worked up. It's ominous because he certainly knows a great deal he's not saying.

The situation in the Soviet Union has never seemed dicier.

Congressional Democrats revolt

WASHINGTON — With a zeal that would have drawn the admiration of many an anti-royalist during the French Revolution, House Democrats sent two aging and weary committee chairmen to the guillotine and the mob thirsted for still one more bloody head.

In their party caucus, the Democrats axed Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., the chairman of the Public Works Committee, and Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., the chairman of the House Administration Committee.

And they were honing the knife for Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, who barely survived to grow old a little longer.

Although many issues played a part in the rank-and-file revolt against the three chairmen, they shared one common burden — great age. Anderson is 77, Annunzio is 75 and Gonzalez 74.

Age, by itself, did not cause the revolt. After all, six committee chairmen are over 70, and Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, is so old he doesn't list his age. But he has been in Congress since 1941.

Anderson and Annunzio were the victims of a younger, different generation of congressmen — many of whom came to Washington during the post-Watergate years — who chafed under the autocratic rule of their elders and refused to accept seniority as the pinnacle of virtue.

These congressmen are now moving into positions of power in the Democratic caucus and they want aggressive, knowledgeable chairmen who are willing to lead more by consensus than by fiat.

Interestingly, no such purges take place in the Senate where seniority is still sacrosanct.

A few committee heads have been challenged but even in the years where civil rights legislation was an overriding issue, only a half-hearted attempt was made to depose Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., the segregationist chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The best, most recent example of how deeply ingrained the seniority system is was the flap between Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., for the post of senior, or ranking, Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee.

No such purges take place in the Senate where seniority is sacrosanct.

Helms, the more senior of the two, kept his campaign pledge when Republicans controlled the Senate to serve as head of the Agriculture Committee, ceding the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee to Lugar.

But when the Democrats seized the Senate in 1986, and took back all of the chairmanships, Helms pulled rank on Lugar and demanded he be the top GOP member on Foreign Relations.

Lugar won that fight, which was ugly, with the backing of some senators who detested Helms, considered Lugar much the better man, yet refused to meddle with the seniority system.

What did not escape the senators who supported Helms is that the seniority system, once broken, can be ignored again. And they realized that the next victim might be any one of them.

That possibility is not one that seemed to have bothered the House Democrats. Yet, those who deposed Anderson and Annunzio, Rep. Mel Price, D-Ill., in 1985, and three committee chairmen in 1975 will also one day be old, weary and part of the establishment.

And then, they too, may become the targets of still another generation of Young Turks.

Reject Chuluota development

An open letter to: Seminole County Commissioners

Regarding Magnolia Lakes Subdivision, Amendment to the Seminole County Comprehensive Land Use Plan — Change from present Land Use, Suburban Estates to Planned Unit Development (PUD)

When: Today
Where: Seminole County Services Building
Time: 5 Amendments to Land Use Plan are first on agenda.

Dear Commissioners:
We hope at this Public Hearing, you will say NO to the above mentioned amendment. It just doesn't make any sense! Suburban estates designation allows for clustering and public water and sewer at one house per buildable acre. This PUD request is for 1.5 houses per buildable acre. There are 221 acres, 128 buildable acres, and your staff has no problem with the PUD as submitted. There will be a cap of 129 houses. Seems very reasonable at first glance.

Once a PUD is granted, this developer or any subsequent purchaser of the property may come back to the county and ask for higher density development. It will be next to impossible to say no once you have granted a PUD which allows apartments, condominiums, townhouses, etc. Then, the developer has every right to complain about his land rights being taken away from him, because a PUD will have been granted. Two other developments in this remote and rural area have also requested Land Use Amendments from SE to PUD. If the Magnolia Lakes PUD is approved, it will set a precedent for future PUD's in this area.

Our main concern is where will the water come from??? The Magnolia Lakes property is not in the southern states utilities public service commission area; nor is it in the county's urban services boundary. Neither one of these utilities has asked for an extension of their service area to include Magnolia Lakes. There are no funds in this year's budget to extend the county's water lines (at McCullough and Lockwood Roads) to Magnolia Lakes in southeast Seminole County.

If SSU wants to use their new water treatment site (which is not in operation) they must get a modified consumptive use permit from the St. Johns WMD. Detailed analysis must be done before this permit is issued because SSU's Water Treatment Plant #2 is very close to high chlorides. There is a very real threat of salt water intrusion to the new and existing wells in the area.

Is it possible that the Magnolia Lakes developer wants to sell the property with a PUD designation to fetch a higher price than a SE designation would bring. If that were the case, the very reasonable 129 houses on 128 buildable acres would just be a myth. The new owners would more than likely ask for a higher density, and if the land use is PUD, it would be very hard to deny them that change.

Please vote to keep the Magnolia Lakes Property as a suburban estates land use designation. A PUD in this area would stand for purposely unleashed development.

Israel is the troublemaker

Why should thousands of young Americans die in battle to defeat Israel's enemy, Iraq? With Iraq in ashes Israel will dominate the Arab world and turn the whole Moslem world against the United States. The troublemaker in the Middle East is not Iraq, but Israel.

Are Americans destined to be dragged into a Middle East war because of Israel's intransigence, and the lack of political courage by our President and the Congress?

The poor judgement of the Zionists in attempting to build a Jewish state in a hostile Arab world plus their arrogance and territorial ambitions, has kept the Middle East in turmoil.

President Harry Truman recognized Israel as a sovereign state in exchange for the Jewish bloc vote in the 1948 Presidential contest. Every American lives with the legacy of a politician, past, present and future, Harry Truman knew what he needed to stay in the White House: Jewish financial support, Jewish votes and Jewish media support. He made it but the American taxpayer is still footing the bill.

According to the Constitution, American foreign policy is the responsibility of the President in conjunction with the Congress. However, it is the fanaticism of the American Jews for Israel and their support of the Israeli lobby (American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee) that dominates America's foreign policy.

Israel, not much larger than the state of Connecticut, and a member of the family of nations only since 1948, today has political control of America's presidential elections, dominates the Senate and has installed itself as America's political elite in a shadow government of political appointees, Congressional staff aides, Department Secretaries and layers of Civil Service bureaucrats.

Because of a lack of political courage in the highest echelons of our government, the White House and the Senate, selfish, self-seeking and indulgent politicians have failed to rein in Israel's "dogs of war." You can save American lives by writing to your Congressman to vote for withdrawal of American troops from the Middle East.

Will pension funds end up as S&Ls?

WASHINGTON — In 1989, the acting inspector general of the Labor Department warned that mismanagement of private pension funds amounted to a "potential S&L." It's fashionable in Washington to say that every financial crisis could be the next equivalent of the savings and loan debacle, but Raymond Maria knew what he was talking about.

With only a handful of regulators policing nearly $2 trillion in private pension plans, Maria felt there was a disaster in the making. He was accused of being overly alarmist and he was not appointed to keep the inspector general job.

Today pension funds are as vulnerable as ever. Outgoing Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole last fall proposed to Congress a series of changes to toughen up the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or ERISA, that governs pension plan enforcement.

Those proposals will be taken up in the upcoming session of Congress, but even if passed they will provide employees little security.

Where do 65 million American pension plan participants go for protection? To court. Uncle Sam has decided to leave most of the enforcement of pension plans to the workers themselves. When the Labor Department doesn't catch mismanagement or doesn't punish the pension plan managers, then the only thing left for workers to do is sue.

Dole suggested changes to the law when she realized that the 300 federal investigators who keep track of pension plans could not possibly police nearly 900,000 private plans amounting to one-third of all the nation's investment capital. Pension rights advocates say the changes are "a drop in the bucket." Pension lawyers complain that the proposals overlook glaring inadequacies in the system.

Karen Ferguson, who heads the Pension Rights Center in Washington, says, "They don't even begin to deal with the problem." Pension lawyer Jeff Lewis told our associate Dean Boyd that the proposals for change coming out of the Labor Department don't give workers the silver bullet they need to fight pension abuse.

ERISA allows workers to sue their employers over pension fraud, but the courts won't award punitive damages that could act as a deterrent to future abuse of pension funds by others. The Labor Department considered the notion of punitive damages but backed down. Some insiders blame lobbying by the industry. Another hole in the proposals involves outside consultants to a pension fund.

Under ERISA, a worker can't sue them if they give bad advice, or even if they conspire with the trustees of the plan to embezzle money. To their credit, the proposed changes would allow attorneys' fees and expert witness fees for the workers who are suing over embezzlement and mismanagement. But they don't do the same for simple benefit dispute cases, which are far more common.

In sum, there aren't enough Labor Department investigators to stop fraud and mismanagement as it happens, and the punishment for those who do get caught is mild. When workers sue after the fact to recover their money, they're handicapped by the law. If the government wants to leave the enforcement up to the average citizen, "It has to give them more tools to fight with," Ferguson said.

Congressional sources say that lawmakers will take up pension plan reform early in the session. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, will lead the battle to put more teeth in the law, but he will encounter stiff resistance.

Where do 65 million American pension plan participants go for protection? To court.

to an American interpreter's translation.

"I would remind you," Dumas said, "France supports an international conference since 1983 on the Israeli-Palestinian situation. So it is not a new position."

Pausing briefly, Dumas added for emphasis: "The government of the United States is well aware of this position."

France's insistence on offering Saddam a conference on the Palestinians' claims against Israel has jarred the U.S.-led coalition against Iraq.

Its public re-emergence today occurred less than 24 hours before Baker was due to meet in Geneva with Aziz.

That session, in which Baker will deliver a letter from President Bush to Saddam, could hold the key to war or peace in the Persian Gulf.

In advance of the session, Baker stopped in Paris and then in Bonn to meet with German officials. He also is going to Milan, Italy, on the way to Geneva.

Aziz has said he will press Baker to address "justice and fairness" for the Palestinians.

Saddam, meanwhile, has threatened to bomb Jerusalem in the event of war.

The proposal by French President Francois Mitterrand for a peace conference on the Palestinian issue has attracted support from Germany and Italy.

On Sunday, as he began an eight-day trip to 11 countries, Baker rejected the proposal as unacceptably linking Iraq's occupation of Kuwait with what the Bush administration considers to be a separate issue.

Baker reinforced this stand after Dumas spoke. "There should not be any linkage to other questions," he said.

Baker claimed, meanwhile, "there is absolute and total agreement between France and the United States on goals in the Persian Gulf situation."

Dumas said France agreed with the United States there should be no "linkage" to a pullout from Kuwait by Tuesday, the deadline set in November by the U.N. Security Council.

In France, Germany and Italy, Baker is appealing for a solid front against Saddam.

Vigils will send prayers for peace

By LAURA L. BULLIVAR
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — As the hours tick away toward the Jan. 15 deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait, the Sanford area is still with desperate prayers for peace.

First United Methodist Church, 419 Park Ave., Sanford, will observe a round-the-clock Peace Prayer Vigil beginning with 8:30 a.m. Sunday services Jan. 13. The vigil will conclude with a service of intercessory prayer at 10 p.m. Jan. 14, which will be the morning of Jan. 15 in the Persian Gulf.

Prayer partners and meditation materials will be available throughout the vigil.

Sharon Butler, of the church, said Sanford police have promised to step up patrols around the church for anyone wishing to visit in late-night or early-morning hours. Members of the church will be on the church property at all times, she said.

The vigil is open for anyone wishing to pray for family or friends in the Persian Gulf.

Richard Albury, pastor of Grace United Methodist Church in Lake Mary, will lead a World Peace Wish Gathering at Lake Eola Jan. 13 at 2 p.m. Music will be provided by New Mt. Calvary Baptist Church of Sanford.

Nancy Halbig, one of the organizers of the event, said the World Peace Wish Committee represents local citizens of all faiths.

"We believe in the power of prayer," Halbig said. "We want to let our troops know we support them. It's not political at all. We just want to show them our support."

On Jan. 15, the group is asking others to observe World Peace Wish Day by driving with headlights on and expressing the wish for peace through prayer.

Members of the group, ranging in age from 11 up, shared ideas of items soldiers need or want. Spices for bland military food, toilet paper, freezer "ziplock" bags, newspapers, tapes of ballgames and soap operas, even panty hose or condoms to protect guns from sand, were some of the ideas they swapped.

They advised each other on how to address mail, and how to be patient with its delivery. They passed along tidbits about local peace prayer vigils. They exchanged phone numbers. They prayed together. And they shared a few tears.

Denise Osborn, 21, had been married exactly one year to her Marine husband, Sonny, when he received his orders to be shipped out. Her husband, 23, has been in Saudi Arabia four months.

"It was hard when he left," she said. "I thought they were going to have to drag me on the plane."

"I told him, 'You're not coming back — I just know it.' I'm too young for this," Denise Osborn said.

Judy Osborn, Denise's mother-in-law, said her son's departure was no easier for her.

"They (Sonny Osborn's platoon leaders) sat us down and went through everything — the will, the next of kin, the body bags," she said.

Ask her how long her son has been in the Persian Gulf, and she answers slowly and sadly, "A hundred years."

Sharon White and her daughter Kristina, 11, came to the group seeking support one day after Sharon White's son Andy was shipped out from Germany to Saudi Arabia. The 20-year-old Marine is a Seminole High School graduate.

A few who attended last night's meeting have no relatives serving in Desert Shield. But they are no less haunted by the ongoing crisis.

Sue Ann Oinas has no family overseas, but has eight military pen pals she began writing after the Gulf crisis broke out. She keeps an album of all letters.

About 30 people with friends or relatives in Operation Desert Shield turned out last night.

photographs and mementos she receives from the soldiers and their families in the U.S., who she said have also begun to correspond with her.

Oinas' eyes teared up as she told about addressing the first letter she wrote, which included a poem she had penned, to "Any Soldier." That soldier, an Army man named T.J., signs all of his frequent letters to her "your soldier."

Judy Osborn said she has compiled a list of 35 names of Desert Shield personnel from Sanford. She asked that any other names be reported to her at 323-0108.

An Orlando psychologist who has visited Saudi Arabia will meet with the support group later this month. Rev. Jim Schroeder will also be assisting the group at its weekly meetings.

Just before Judy Osborn turned the meeting over to Schroeder for prayer, she fought back tears as she scanned faces around the room and told them, "We need each other."

any of the three fires.

Murray said witness statements and the awareness of the two earlier arsons, led to the arrest of Fulton. The investigation continues into the S. Sanford Avenue fire, which destroyed Polly's Thrift Shop, the AMVETS Club and Al's Army Navy Store. She expects to question both Fulton and Howard further about that fire. Other possible suspects will also be questioned and perhaps arrested in the case, Murray said.

On Dec. 3, Sanford police, after receiving a tip from Murray, arrested Howard in connection with a Dec. 7, burglary to the AMVETS Club, during which cigarettes were reportedly stolen. Howard allegedly admitted that burglary when Murray was questioning him about the S. Sanford Avenue fire Dec. 3.

Murray said she also questioned Fulton about the Dec. 11 fire at the jail on Dec. 3. He allegedly admitted to breaking into the AMVETS Club on the night of the fire. He allegedly said he was accompanied by several other individuals, whom he let into the building.

During their time inside the club, Fulton reportedly alleged a camp cook stole the group was using got kicked over during a fight over wine. He reportedly claims that's what started the inferno.

Murray said her investigation along with that of the state fire marshal indicates arson. Test results aren't back from a state lab, so the exact cause of the fire has not been pinpointed, she said.

However, Murray said, an amendment to the state's burglary statute designates any fire by any cause that is started during the commission of a burglary is considered arson.

Park, told businessmen and government leaders gathered at the annual Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce economic forecast breakfast a slow economy and construction of the Seminole County Expressway will be factors in the county's growth.

"Job creation will remain level through the mid-1990s," Fishkind said. "But the good news is people don't move away during a recession."

Congestion on Interstate 4 may slow housing starts in northern Seminole County although the expressway will support a continued housing boom in the Oviedo area, Fishkind said.

Fishkind said Florida's economy will remain healthy despite increasing unemployment rates. He said the state's employment rate continues to be among the highest in the nation. By 1993, the central Florida area, including Seminole County, will lead the state in commercial and manufacturing construction.

"Sure, even though the unemployment rate is going up who cares?" Fishkind quipped. "We have more jobs."

Although there has been a lot of attention placed on the recession during recent weeks, Fishkind said the economy has been slowing for two years. Retail sales have been dropping during that period, consumer confidence has dropped since Aug. 1989, housing starts have slowed since 1988 and manufacturing has slowed during the last 18 months.

Another sign the recession will end by 1992 is the recent lowering of federal and major bank lending rates. Fishkind said recovery usually follows within six to eight months after interest rates are lowered.

Fishkind predicted the recession, which he said began last July, will bottom out this summer then begin a steady climb to prosperity by next year or 1993. Fishkind said because of federal monetary controls and lean business practices the recession will be mild.

"The new commissioners and Mr. Hardy are engaging in the politics of revenge."

Perry said the proposal by acting City Administrator Don Terry for the creation of a citizens task force to oversee the activities of the Longwood Police Department is a move toward removing Police Chief Greg Manning from his position.

"When the new majority was sworn in they were immediately successful in removing the city manager and the interim attorney, I believe they're trying to remove the finance director and the police chief," Perry said.

Manning listened intently from the corner of the room as citizens and commissioners bantered over the proposed ordinance, which establishes a citizens' task force for the purpose of reviewing the operations, policies and procedures of the police department.

The ordinance was proposed after Commissioner Paul Lovstrand submitted a list of questions and concerns he has about the police department to Terry last week. He said he had "occasions to question the performance of the Longwood City Police Department" and cited incidents such as "the harassment of Gary Hefter and campaign helpers one evening by a police officer who followed them as they installed signs, telling them it was time to go home."

Manning replied to what he and commissioners called "the 20 questions" by 5 p.m. yesterday. He said in the case of harassment against Hefter, there had been "no written documentation of the incident."

"I can't say there is a vendetta," Manning said. "My concern is why was this not discussed with me. Our department has always enjoyed a great deal of community support and the question he (Lovstrand) has to answer is 'why?' Manning said.

Commissioner Rex Anderson questioned Lovstrand's motive. Anderson then turned to Hardy.

"It's all across the city about this and I've heard the term 'headhunt' more than once," Anderson said.

Hardy denied the allegation.

U.S. marshals have entered the manhunt, Hughey said, but because of Home's status as a federal prisoner housed by the county jail, local authorities don't know where he is from.

Home is black. He stands 5 feet, 9 inches tall and weighs 188 pounds. Home has several gold front teeth, Hughey said. He is believed to have been wearing jail-issued clothing at the time of the escape.

The criminal and internal investigations into the escape and related circumstances continue along with the manhunt, Hughey said.

Four hostages reported freed

By RODINA KENAAN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The radical Palestinian guerrilla group headed by terrorist mastermind Abu Nidal said today that it has released four Belgian hostages and that they would be handed over to Belgium within 48 hours.

The group's official spokesman said the four were being swapped for a Palestinian jailed in Belgium.

Belgian officials, however, said no decision had been made on the release of Nasser Saeed, who is serving a life term for killing a 15-year-old Jewish youth and injuring 19 others in a 1980 grenade attack in Antwerp.

Walid Khaled, spokesman for Abu Nidal's Fatah-Revolutionary Council faction, said the captives, missing since 1987, could be handed over to Belgian authorities before Thursday.

"They have been freed and moved to a friendly Arab country that we trust," said Khaled, who did not identify the country. The Nidal group is believed backed by Libya.

In Brussels, Belgium, a spokesman for Justice Minister Melchior Wathelet said today that "the government has not yet made any decision as regards the release of Nasser Saeed." Saeed was eligible for parole in July.

The Fatah faction said in 1987 that it seized the four Belgians aboard their boat, Silco, off the Gaza Strip. Newspapers have said the hostages were abducted by the Libyan navy, not by Abu Nidal's group.

They are: Emmanuel Houckens, 45; his wife, Godlieve

Kets, 51; their son, Laurent, 20, and daughter, Valerie, 19.

Five other people seized with them, including three children, have since been freed.

The group claimed the captives were collaborating with Israel's Mossad secret service. But their friends have denied any Israeli link.

In August, a Lebanese newspaper reported that a deal had been struck for an exchange of Saeed and the hostages. Belgian officials denied the report at the time.

Khaled said the hostages were in good physical condition. "They have been submitted to regular medical checkups," he said at a news conference at his office in Beirut's Mar Elias Palestinian refugee camp. "The Belgian administration has shown a great understanding to our Palestinian cause and that led to the happy ending of the Silco boat prisoners," Khaled added.

Khaled said release of the Belgians came in response to appeals from Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi.

His news conference followed a vaguely worded statement he issued Monday night suggesting the group had or would release the Belgians.

Because the Belgian captives are not believed held in Lebanon, they are not classified among the 13 Western hostages, including six Americans, kidnapped mainly by pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim factions.

The longest held is American journalist Terry Anderson, 43, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press. He was kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985.

Eight feared killed in London train crash

By JESSICA BALDWIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — A packed commuter train plowed into crash barriers at a London station during this morning's rush hour. At least eight people were feared killed, more than 180 were injured and many others were trapped in the wreckage, rescue workers said.

British Rail said the train's brakes apparently failed.

"The driver put on the brakes, but the train did not stop," said Chris Jennings of the state-owned rail network.

Police declared a "major disaster" at the Cannon Street station in the center of London's financial district as firefighters struggled to free people from the wreckage.

"There are 15 casualties trapped under the train of whom seven are alive," a spokeswoman for the London Ambulance Service said, adding the other eight were feared dead.

British Rail could not confirm the death toll, but said about 30 of the injured were seriously hurt. The train's driver was uninjured.

The train, which originated in Sevenoaks about 20 miles southeast of London, hit the crash barriers at about 5 mph, British Rail said.

Deficit estimate up

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The administration has raised its estimate of the current budget deficit by as much as $50 billion because of the recession, according to a published report.

The Washington Post says in today's editions that the Office of Management and Budget now is projecting the deficit for the 1991 fiscal year at $300 billion to $325 billion. In November, OMB director Richard Darman estimated it at $250 billion to $300 billion.

Edwin Dale, spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget, declined to comment on the report.

The new figures will be contained in the budget President Bush sends to Congress early next month.

The figures do not include costs for the military effort in Saudi Arabia and also would be $60 billion higher if a Social Security surplus were not counted.

The revision in the estimate comes as no surprise. Early last month, the Congressional Budget Office estimated the current year's deficit at $320 billion, and next year's at $337 billion at least.

Elissa and Robert with some of the many bicycles enthusiasts can find at The Quiet Revolution.

There's A "Quiet Revolution" In Lake Mary

There's a quiet revolution going on in Lake Mary and it's starting at The Quiet Revolution Bike Pro Shop, located in Lake Mary Centre behind Child's.

The Quiet Revolution is a bicycle shop for bicycle enthusiasts, foremost, Robert, Matt and Elissa, who run the shop, are all participants in the sport of bicycling. And all are concerned about the environment, which is the second focus of the shop, to promote awareness through activism. If people were to commute by bicycle, it could make a difference.

Robert, Matt and Elissa feel that bicycling is experiencing a re-birth — another revolution. And The Quiet Revolution wants to cater to the participants in the "revolution." The shop features the ATB — all terrain bicycle — which is being used more and more in commuting and recreation. They also carry road bikes, kids bikes, BMX, cruisers and mountain bikes such as Bridgestone and Scott. They are the exclusive dealer for Scott in the Central Florida area.

The Quiet Revolution also does repairs and tune-ups, has a wide variety of parts in stock, as well as accessories such as helmets, hats, clothing and water bottles.

The Quiet Revolution is currently holding a group ride every Saturday morning. All interested persons should meet at the shop between 8:30 and 9:00 AM for a fifteen-mile round-trip ride. They would like to add a road ride and anyone interested should call them at 333-0974.

Also on the agenda at The Quiet Revolution is the forming of a mountain bike group which will be involved in off-shore tours. The first destination in mind is Costa Rica. A highly successful preliminary trip was done last year on the same route which encounters rough terrain, mountains, volcanos, rivers, jungles and monkeys! These tours are coordinated by the shop, but are held to raise awareness and funds for saving the South American rain forests.

The Quiet Revolution opened in mid-November 1990. Their hours are Monday through Thursday 10:00 to 7:00, Friday and Saturday 10:00 to 9:00, Sunday 1:00 to 5:00. Bring in a movie stub from Lake Mary General Cinema to register for a BMX bike displayed at the Cinema or go to Gold's Gym in The Oaks of Lake Mary to register for a beach cruiser.

Magic wins again

ORLANDO — Jerry Reynolds scored 19 of 57 points by Orlando reserves as the Magic beat Sacramento 111-83 Monday, handing the Kings their 14th loss in 15 road games this season. Otis Smith added 17 points for Orlando, which won for the fourth time in six games. The Kings, led by Wayman Tisdale's 23 points, have lost eight of their last nine games.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Bulls trip Dolphins

TAMPA — Fred Lewis scored 17 points to lead South Florida to a 71-67 victory over Jacksonville Monday night. South Florida improved to 10-1 and 2-0 in the Sun Belt Conference. Jacksonville fell to 4-7 and 0-1 after its fourth straight loss. Marvin Taylor scored 15 for the Bulls, while Gary Alexander added 14 points and 17 rebounds and Tony Armstrong scored 12 points. Tim Burroughs led Jacksonville with 16 points and had 13 rebounds. Reggie Law scored 14 points and Hanna finished with 10.

Fiu loses

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. — Quincy Vance scored 27 points, leading three other Blue Raiders in double figures, as Middle Tennessee State beat Florida International 86-72 Monday. Also in double figures for Middle Tennessee (10-2), of the Ohio Valley Conference, were Kelvin Hammonds, 20 points, Kidd, 13 points and 17 rebounds, and Davis, 11 points. Florida International (2-10), a Division I-Independent, was led by Grady Thompson with 25 points. Dwight Stewart added 12 and Brett Lewis had 10.

Bethune wins second

DAYTONA BEACH — Bethune-Cookman's Clifford Reed led all shooters with 30 points and Reggie Cunningham added 25 as the Wildcats beat Maryland-Eastern Shore 88-80 Monday in a foul-filled contest. Bethune-Cookman (2-10, 1-1 in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference) built a 47-37 halftime lead with Cunningham and Reed combining for 31 points. Reserve guard Terry Taylor added 12 points for the Wildcats. Maryland-Eastern Shore (2-9, 0-2) was led by Robert Spear, who had 19 points before fouling out, and Dondre Phoenix, who had 15.

Rattlers drilled

TALLAHASSEE — Tom Davis scored 29 points and pulled down seven rebounds, and Emanuel Davis had 27 points, leading Delaware State to a 100-87 romp over Florida A&M. The win lifted the Delaware Hornets to 7-4 and 2-0 in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, while the Florida Rattlers fell to 3-6 and 1-1. Davis' total put him over the 1,000-point career plateau. Victor Floyd added 20. Florida A&M was paced by 15 points each from Kenneth Davis and Kelvin Daniels. Alfred Lawson scored 14, Copeland Jackson bagged 12 and Clarence Davis had 11.

Montana repeats

NEW YORK — San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana was selected as the NFL's Most Valuable Player by The Associated Press for the second straight season. For leading the 49ers to a 14-2 record and having yet another outstanding season in his 11th year, Montana received 26 of the 80 votes from writers and broadcasters who cover the NFL. Randall Cunningham of Philadelphia was second with 18 votes, followed by Warren Moon of Houston with 16. This season, Montana was the league's seventh-leading passer with an 89.0 rating. He completed 61.7 percent of his passes, tops in the NFC, averaged 7.58 yards per gain and threw for 26 touchdowns.

Raiders rusty in loss

Long layoff evident as SCC routed

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College Raiders women's basketball team played their first game since December 11, Monday evening.

Unfortunately, they looked like a team that had not played in four weeks as they were rolled over by the Shaunce College Saints from Illinois 90-72 at the Health and Physical Education Center.

Things looked promising for SCC in the early minutes when they jumped out to a 9-4 lead before disaster struck.

The Saints full-court press forced the Raiders to turn the ball over numerous times, igniting a 23-3 run that saw Shawnee take a 27-12 lead midway into the second half.

Teresa Martin and Pamela Williams both played outstanding games for SCC in the losing effort.

Martin led all scorers with 19 points, collected a game-high 18 rebounds and blocked four shots.

Williams came off the bench and gave the Raiders a much needed boost contributing 13 points and 12 rebounds.

But it was not enough as Magina Holder, Trisha Jones, and Susanne Heintz combined for 50 points and 24 rebounds for the Saints.

"We just didn't play ball tonight," said SCC Coach Ileana Gallagher. "We couldn't break their press at all, we committed too many turnovers and we didn't shoot the ball well either."

The Raiders committed 40 turnovers and hit only 27 out of 67 attempts (38.8 percent) from the field.

The only bright spot was at the foul line where SCC hit 17 out of 24 attempts (70.9 percent).

The Raiders will try to bounce back tomorrow evening against St. Petersburg Community College at the Health and Physical Education Center at 5:30 p.m. at part of a men's-women's doubleheader.

TRC opens Polar Bear with rout

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department Men's Monday Night Polar Bear Softball League opened play at Chase Park with two romps and a nail-biter, as Tim Raines Connection, Boomtown Boys, and Suffolk Homes all emerged victorious.

Tim Raines Connection blanked HD Realty 12-0. Boomtown Boys nipped Lambert Erectors 6-5, and Suffolk Homes demolished Wrecking Crew 14-7.

Tim Raines Connection scored five runs in the fourth inning and seven in the sixth while holding HD Realty to only six hits.

Leading TRC's attack were Eddie Jackson (two singles, two runs scored), Tim Raines (two doubles, run scored), Ned Raines (double, two runs scored), Billy Griffith and

Sanford Jaycees Players-of-the-Week

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Jaycees have announced the first winners of the Seminole Community College Player-of-the-Week honors for November and December for the men's basketball team.

The Jaycees will announce a winner each week for the remainder of the season with an awards ceremony and the announcement of the Scholar-Athlete of the Year at the end of the season.

The first winners for the Raider men are Sanford's Robert Moore for week #1, John Mackey for week #2, Brian Nason for week's #3 and #5 and Dennard Ford for week #4.

Moore was named for his play in the Alumni game and the Raider Tournament. For the week the freshman from Seminole High scored 63-points (21 points per game), grabbed 31 rebounds (10.3) and dished out seven assists as SCC got off to a 2-1 start.

Mackey, a freshman guard-forward from Albany, New York, was named after scoring 37 points (18.5) and grabbing eight rebounds in two games. He also played good defense and had several steals.

Nason was the first player to be named twice. The freshman guard from Memphis, Tennessee has been the team's leading scorer all season and has been able to score both inside and out. He was named the first time as he helped the Raiders break a four game losing streak by averaging 21 points, three rebounds and three assists per game.

He was named the second time after he earned all-tournament honors in the Brevard Christmas Tournament. In three games that week he scored 63 points, grabbed 21 rebounds and handed out five assists during as the Raiders went 2-1.

Ford, a 6-foot freshman jumping jack, was named after scoring 42 points, snatching 22 rebounds, giving out five assists and blocking seven shots in three games, all wins, by the Raiders.

Williams, Davison key SHS

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Matt Williams and Geordie Davison scored a goal only 1:21 apart to lead the Seminole Fighting Seminoles to a 3-0 victory over the Leesburg Yellow Jackets in boy's soccer action Monday evening at Seminole High School.

Seminole improves to 3-2-1 and 2-0 in district play while Leesburg drops to 4-2-3.

The Tribe has already matched last season's win total of three and is over the 500 mark for the first time in four years.

Williams made a run along the end line, beat two defenders and fired a shot into the bottom left corner past the goalkeeper to give the Tribe a 1-0 lead with only 8:28 remaining in the first half.

Davison's sent a strong shot into the net with 7:05 remaining in the half making it a 2-0 game going into halftime.

Midfielders Randy Bowlin, Williams, and Davison played a very good game offensively for Seminole unleashing a 21 shot attack on the Yellow Jackets goal and six corner kick opportunities.

Jim Johnson, Raymond Tosal, Shayne Stewart, and Marcus Egan led an outstanding defensive effort for the Seminoles that limited Leesburg to only nine shots on goal and only one corner kick.

Early in the second half, Travis Groover intercepted a pass in the Yellow Jacket penalty box and blasted a shot into the lower left corner of the net increasing the lead to 3-0.

"I'm very pleased with our win, by the Raiders."

Early detection aids in cancer recovery

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend had a pain in his right ribs for three months that was ultimately diagnosed as cancer of the liver. Is there a test that people with a high risk of cancer can take periodically to catch the trouble as soon as possible?

DEAR READER: Pain is often the first sign of cancer; this symptom deserves a thorough medical investigation in any patient. Unfortunately, however, by the time the malignancy causes pain, the tumor may already have spread or grown to the point where treatment is not satisfactory, only palliative. Cancer of the liver is such a tumor. Difficult to treat at best, painful liver cancer is almost always a problem because the discomfort indicates that the malignancy has spread to the liver covering or to the surrounding tissues.

Therefore, while I understand your frustration about your friend's ailment, I suspect that unless the cancer had been diagnosed before he had pain, little could have been done to alter the course of his illness.

You're correct that early diagnosis of cancer greatly improves the chance for cure. This is why doctors try to identify patients with high-risk factors, such as cigarette smoking, a family history of malignancy and exposure to industrial pollutants (such as asbestos). Also, this is the reason physicians encourage women to have Pap smears and mammograms. Further, men and women over the age of 50 are urged to have periodic screening for hidden blood in the stool, frequently an indicator of early cancer or pre-malignant lesions of the bowel.

At present, there is no test that will effectively identify early cancer in healthy people. Rather, doctors focus their attention on high-risk patients with symptoms, such as fatigue, weight loss and change in normal body functioning. True, there are blood tests that indicate the possibility of malignancies of the reproductive tract and the liver, but these tests are not sensitive enough to discover small cancers as part of a general screening procedure.

Perhaps your friend's cancer could have been diagnosed earlier by a CT scan (special X-rays) of the liver. However, as I stated, our methods of detection

MEDICINE

do not, in general, yield results that lead to a cure, once pain has developed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
West bid one spade, although some players might prefer a strong one-no-trump opening. When East passed and South overcalled two hearts, West rebid his spades, not wishing to sell out cheaply with a reasonable hand. That placed North in a slightly awkward position. North had intended to cue-bid two spades as a strong invitation to game, but that device was taken away from him by West's action. With too good a hand to bid only three hearts, North bid the game. West led the king of spades and continued with the ace as East played high-low. West next played the six of spades, and East was momentarily non-plussed. West had bid and rebid spades. Certainly that meant he had five of them, which would include the queen and jack. So why didn't West continue with another high spade? The answer was not difficult. Clearly West wanted East to ruff this trick, which could only mean that West was looking for a way to promote additional tricks from his own trump holding. The nine of hearts did not look like a giant trump, but this time it did its work. When East ruffed with the nine-spot, South had nothing better to do than to overruff with the jack. West's K-10-7 then turned into two defensive tricks, enough to set the game contract. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Osoi
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 9, 1991

Something rather extraordinary, and highly advantageous, might occur in the year ahead through a side venture in which you're involved. You'll have to stay on your toes in order to capitalize on developments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A joint venture in which you're involved looks good at first, but it might not be as spectacular as you think. Unrealistic expectations could lead to disappointment. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It may seem more convenient to let another handle an important matter for you today, but this could prove unwise. The individual you choose might be ineffective where you would know exactly what to do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not a good day to pretend to be knowledgeable about something which, in truth, you are not, especially if others are counting on your know-how to keep an endeavor on track.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to get involved in the intricate affairs of others today, because your managerial aptitudes might not be up to par. You could make matters worse.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In an effort to maintain harmony on the home front today, you may put too much emphasis on policies of appeasement, which will not serve you — or your mate's — best interests. Be realistic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Guard against inclinations to rationalize away problems which should be taken seriously today. Optimism is one thing; wishful thinking is another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions having an influence on your financial security might be mixed today. In one case, you may gain, while in another, you may be sorry.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to achieve desirable results today, you'll have to hit the ground running. If you procrastinate, your possibilities for fulfilling your expectations are reduced.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be grateful and not greedy with people who put themselves out for your concerns today. If their efforts are not acknowledged properly, they might not be available next time you need them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A friend who is a skilled manipulator might try to make big demands of you today, in order to compensate for a small favor this same individual recently granted you. Keep a yardstick handy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be a very rewarding day for you, provided you capitalize on your available opportunities. If you merely take things for granted, you could miss the boat.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your initial assessments of situations are likely to be on target today, but you might let negative, second thoughts creep in and cause doubts that could neutralize your appraisals. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
