of the losing team. South decided to use Blackwood and settled for six when North showed just one king. Six is the right contract and South made it.

At the other table, South went into a series of complicated bids after the three-heart response. Eventually he landed in seven. South won the club lead; ruffed a club; led a trump; ruffed his last club and ran all his trumps to win up with one spade and three diamonds while dummy hung on to the ace of spades and three diamonds.

West had never thrown a diamond and East came to the conclusion that South had started with two spades and the ace-king of diamonds. He unguarded his queen of diamonds and the grand slam made.

290 Abandon Burning Ship

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Flames erupted in the bowels of the luxury liner Cunard Ambassador today, forcing most of the 290 crewmen aboard to set adrift in life boats in the Gulf of Mexico, where they were picked up by rescue ships.

But the engine room fire raged out of control, and officials said there was a threat of an explosion if flames overreached diesel fuel. Fifty fire fighters and the ship's captain Robert Howard remained aboard.

There were no immediate reports of injuries. The 480-foot liner was carrying no passengers at the time of the fire.

The rescue ship plucked the other 240 crewmen out of their rafts and boats bobbing in gentle swells alongside the crippled vessel. Clouds of thick, black smoke shrouded the scene, about 39 miles southwest of Key West.

"The fire's in the engine room and it's serious," said Coast Guard Lt. George Johnson in Miami. "They tried to put it out themselves and couldn't."

The naval ship Tallulah, with only a small crew reached the burning vessel shortly after the men abandoned ship. It was unable to get too close to the liner because it was carrying aviation gasoline.

"There are no reports of panic. Things seem to be going orderly, as orderly as something like that can," Johnson said. He remained in radio contact with the ship and with Coast Guard planes dispatched to the site.

The nearest ship capable of helping to fight the flames was about three hours away when the first distress call came from the Ambassador at 7:15 a.m. EDT, Johnson said.

That was a 41-foot Coast Guard rescue ship with pumps, dispatched immediately from Key West. "They've found a hatch five feet above the water line and instead of pumping water over the top, we'll pump through the hatch right into the engine room," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The liner, owned by Cunard Lines Ltd., reportedly was leased to Bahamas Cruise Lines, whose officials in Miami were holding an emergency meeting. Most of the ship's crew are British.

The 210-foot Coast Guard cutter Diligence in Key West would not reach the burning liner until 11 a.m., Johnson said. The 565-foot cargo steamer California was about seven miles away.

The luxury liner, built in 1972, had left Miami at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and was en route to New Orleans to pick up cruise passengers, a spokesman said. The ship can hold a maximum of 600 passengers.

The Ambassador had discharged a load of passengers Wednesday, following a cruise to Nassau, Bahamas.

Casselberry May Remain Tax Free

The 1974-75 budget as it now stands for the city of Casselberry can be balanced without setting a tax millage, according to Councilman Edith Duerr.

"We originally estimated that we would be transferring money to utilities from general funds, but eliminating the utility transfer appears to eliminate tax millage," Mrs. Duerr said. Eleventh hour budget meetings Wednesday night and tonight bring the budget closer to a balanced state. A tentative budget is scheduled for adoption by Sept. 16 and presentation to citizens at a public hearing on Sept. 23. By state law, city budgets must be adopted by October 1.

Finalization of the general fund budget is expected to come at tonight's session, according to Mrs. Duerr.

"We originally planned to allot $200,000 to utilities," Mrs. Duerr said, "but since utilities provide revenue, rates can be raised in that department for its operation." The $200,000 can be transferred to the general fund budget, eliminating a need for a property tax, she said.

The initial $1,780,737 budget proposed by City Manager Harry Hug provided for an eight per cent across-the-board pay hike for all city employees. Even though $330,000 has already been sliced from the initial figure, Mrs. Duerr said that "it now seems that we can still balance the budget and leave in the pay increase."

Specifics concerning utility rate increases and revenues that would be generated will be presented to the council tonight by City Engineer B.C. Conklin.

County May Bus All Pupils

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board has denied the request of Altamonte and Eastbrook elementary school parents to bus children within the two mile limit to the schools, but unanimously adopted a motion which could lead to the busing of all students countywide.

Parents, insisting their children's lives are endangered walking along heavily traveled Palm Springs and Howell Branch Roads, jammed the school board meeting at the county commission's courthouse chambers Wednesday night.

The board adopted, on sheriff John Polk's recommendation resolutions directed to the county commission asking that walkways be constructed to both schools, that guard rails be installed to separate the walkways from the highways, and that Australian Circle from Eastbrook subdivision to the school be opened, paved and a bridge built across a drainage canal for auto traffic.

The resolutions also request a reduction in speed limits during school hours on the two highways and that "waist high" weeds be cut along the Palm Springs Road shoulders. The board asked that the county schedule the "emergency" work as rapidly as possible.

Dr. Stuart Culpeper, after a 15 minute recess when he talked with parents pushed to approval a motion asking the advisory committees at each county school to consider whether all students should be bused and how the board would pay the costs.

It was estimated that annual costs of transporting all students would be $2 million, $800,000 more than currently spent, in addition to the costs of acquiring new buses. Culpeper's motion passed after board member Jean Bryant noted that the advisory committee reports could be used as leverage on the state legislature for additional transportation funding.

School Supt. W.P. Lauer said before the board should approve busing more students within the two mile limit (the state does not provide the county with funds for busing students who live two miles or less from a school) other problems with bus overcrowding must be solved. He said the 10 currently used buses to transport exceptional children, handicapped whether physically or mentally, to special programs must be continued.

Lauer said the school system last year bused 1,800 "courtesy" students (those within the two mile limit) who were faced with dangerous walking situations, particularly in the SR 436, SR 434 and French Avenue areas.

In addition, he said with five new schools operating this year all school buses, in good condition, are fully used. He noted that 10-year old buses, not fit for everyday use, are kept for emergencies.

Disgruntled parents, who appeared to fully understand the board's position when they left the meeting, were still dissatisfied with the action. Many said they had been promised safety measures in the past and this was done.

The parents distributed their wrath equally among the board members. Lauer and administrative personnel, and marked their statements during a 90-minute discussion with boos, catcalls and applause for one another.

"How many bodies do you need before you do something?" one parent called from among the standees at the back of the meeting room.

Although Board Chairman Davis Sims conducted the meeting in good humor to this point, he called that statement "unnature and uncalled for" and threatened to shut off public participation. "We have to meet in the public, but we do not have to let the public participate," Sims said.

Seminole Losing School Money

Seminole County plagued with too many students for the past several years has a new problem—too few youngsters in two of the county's southeast high schools.

School Supt. W. P. Lauer told the School Board Wednesday night that Oviedo High School with 17 fewer students than anticipated and Lake Brantley with 149 less students than projected are in trouble.

Lake Howell is just not growing, Lauer said, noting that that Forest City school was expected to have 2,185 students and 2,006 are enrolled while Oviedo was expecting 1,200 and has 1,477.

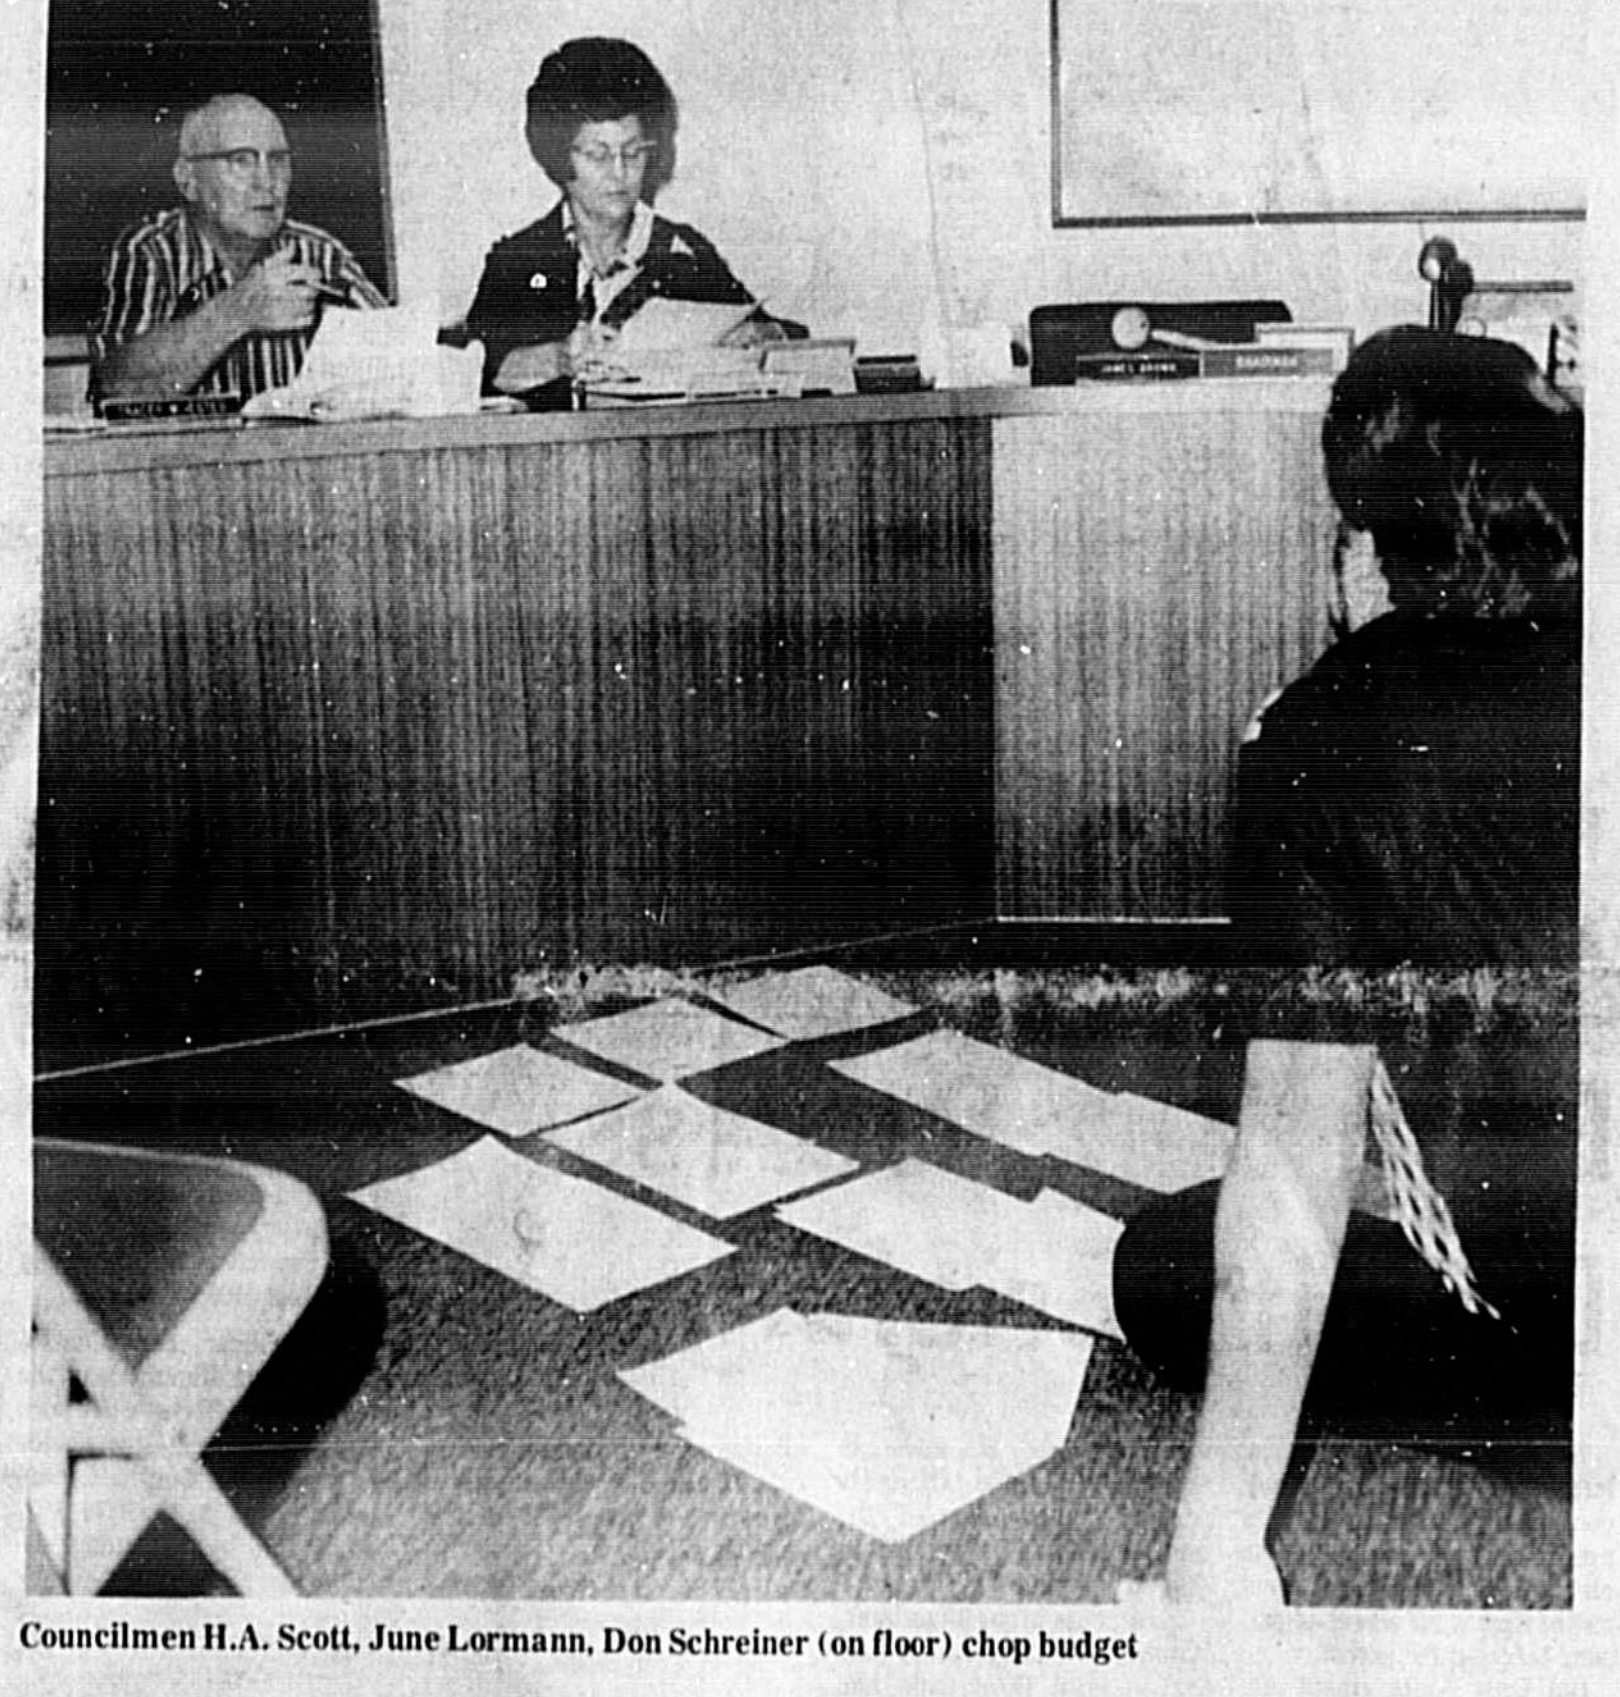

Lauer warned that unlike the elementary and middle schools, high school student enrollment does not increase as the school year goes on, rather it declines drastically as young people quit school.

The problem is a financial one. The school system projects enrollment and budgets accordingly for state funding at the rate of $70 per student, hiring personnel in line with the estimate.

When less students enroll than anticipated the high school budgets are thrown out of kilter, meaning that state money is lost.

Lauer added that the enrollment at Lake Howell High School, currently operating and 2,006 are enrolled while Oviedo was expecting 1,200 and has 1,477.

Lauer warned that unlike the elementary and middle schools, high school student enrollment

Bundy Trial Off Pending Appeal

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer

Monday's scheduled trial date for Altamonte Springs Public Works Director Don Bundy on charges he violated the state election laws and conspired to commit perjury has been canceled as legal maneuvering increases in the case.

Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook today said he will appeal a ruling by Seminole Circuit Judge Volle Williams suppressing testimony to the state attorney's office by Bundy and other witnesses.

While the appeal and Williams' suppression do not deal with the renewed and corrected charges Bundy was due to face Monday, the trial will be delayed until the matter is settled, Van Hook said.

The delay was fortunate for the state because Circuit Judge A. J. Hosemann Jr., now handling the case, this week said he would throw out the new charges if a key witness is not produced by the state for questioning by defense attorney.

The witness, John McGrath, allegedly gave Bundy $400 to be distributed equally between Altamonte City Councilman Don Dorfman, and then-councilman Donald Myers.

However, McGrath has remained in Tulsa, Okla., in recent weeks, and Brock has been unable to question him on the legal matters.

The perjury and conspiracy charges against Bundy stem from the state's contention Myers and Dorfman violated election laws by accepting the money from McGrath through Bundy.

Bundy and Myers have admitted to the state attorney's office they falsely said $400 was given to Myers when first questioned.

But those statements were suppressed by Judge Williams

Longwood Defeats Proposed Tax Hike

LONGWOOD—Plans to raise property taxes 63 per cent to six mills and to increase water rates were thrown out the window by city councilmen Wednesday night, after a four and one-half hour budget workshop session.

The council majority—Don Schreiner, June Lormann and H. A. Scott at midnight completed a fine combing department money requests and settled on a budget calling for an increase in property tax of 32 mill (32 cents per $1,000 property evaluation) with no hike in water rates.

Councilmen B. H. Ferrell and B. L. Helms and Mayor Eugene Jaques were absent. Helms has missed the past three council meetings and Jaques has been boycotting the meetings for two months since council began the procedures to reduce his $10,000 annual salary to $2,400.

Earlier this week council appeared ready to boost property taxes from the current 2.8 mills to six mills, the highest rate of taxation in city history. Ferrell also had said a substantial water rate hike was certain.

Council Wednesday night settled on a four mill tax levy for the new year.

The expense side of the budget sets $120,061.68 for the water department; $102,000, sewer department; $102,112.50 street department; $198,800 police department; $53,112 fire department; $9,700 city clerk's office; $19,160 water and sewer clerk's office; $15,700 municipal court; $9,600 building inspection; $10,530 parks and grounds; $13,900 bookkeeping department and $165,000 administration (including city attorney and accountant fees, insurance, social security and retirement).

Pay raises for city employees were held to 10 per cent across the board. Council budgeted no increase in monthly pay for themselves.

Airport Improvement Plan Approved By Authority

The Authority adopted the Master Plan for the airport as requested by the Federal Aviation Agency, prior to the final approval of a $1.6 million grant for the project.

Airport Administrator J.S. "Red" Cleveland said the initial improvements of the runways and lighting system could begin as early as Nov. 1.

Leases of buildings on the airport tract were approved for Starline Enterprises, Inc., Standard Law Enforcement Supply Co. of Ohio, Seminole Casket Co., and Challenge Unlimited and Challenge Airways.

deadline for submission of bids is Oct. 3.

Also, the board members moved to continue correspondence with both the county and the City of Sanford concerning the widening of Airport Boulevard into a four-lane highway. The latest response from the municipalities stated such an improved access road is in the plans, but the plans call for an extension of Lake Mary Boulevard, rather than improving Airport Boulevard. No details were given as to the date when such work would be undertaken.

The Authority did discuss the county's crime lab project, also to be located on airport property, stating bids on the construction of the estimated $125,000 facility are out. The

NATION IN BRIEF

Boycott Against Busing

BOSTON (AP) — Thousands of white parents have vowed to keep their children home today on the first day of court-ordered busing to integrate Boston public schools. School officials urged calm and police said they have the manpower for any incidents. High absenteeism was expected and some parents predict a two-week boycott to force dropping of the busing plan. A total of 12,200 students at all grades were to be bused under the federal order to the nation's oldest public school system, which is one-third black and two-thirds white.

Arabs Buying Shares In America

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN Associated Press Writer

The petroleum exporting countries are doling out money as carefully as they did oil during the embargo, but there are signs the United States won't get out of this time.

The oil exporting nations made billions of dollars from the four-fold increase in petroleum prices and, in most cases, their economies can absorb but a fraction of the earnings. Most are holding on to surplus revenues, putting it in a safe and ready sugar bowl; short-term bank deposits of no more than 90 days.

But some money is going to help the less developed nations and to purchase arms. Small amounts are being spent on real estate and business investments.

The United States government and American businessmen have been seeking a share of the oil money. Last weekend, there was an indication of partial success: financial sources

Saudi financial officials said the figure would be less than $1 billion, but more than $100 million. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon visited the Mideast this summer, trying to convince Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to buy a large quantity of the special Treasury bonds. He proposed that Saudi Arabia buy "well in excess of $1 billion."

The exact amount and terms of the Saudi Arabian purchase have not been decided on, but a more than they need. The World Bank calculated that the surplus would grow to more than a trillion dollars by 1985. That's almost 10 times the amount the United States has invested abroad.

Where is all the money going? Bankers, realtors and others in the financial community are reluctant to talk for attribution. They say they are afraid that pending deals could fall through and possible future transactions might be jeopardized.

By the end of this year, the 10 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are expected to have $60 billion

1976 Hopefuls Start Fund Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has raised and spent more than $1 million this year to gear up for a possible run for the White House in 1976, his finance reports show.

All but $40,000 of Wallace's donations have come in small gifts of under $100, the reports say.

Wallace is spending the money as fast as it comes in to work up valuable, computer-written lists of names and addresses of persons who will support him. The pace of Wallace's early fund-raising efforts is picking up. It took him 12 months to raise $1 million last year to pay off 1972 campaign debts and begin preliminary work for a possible run next time. This year, it took him only 9 months to raise slightly more than $1 million.

Wallace's latest report, covering the period up to Aug. 31, shows that he has spent $1.2 million this year, slightly more than he raised. This has reduced his cash reserve to about $141,000.

Other embryonic presidential campaign committees are functioning on behalf of other Democrats, including Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

The latest entry is a two-month-old committee set up by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., which reported raising more than $100,000 so far.

A Republican, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, put the fund-raising efforts of his own presidential committee on ice last month after Gerald R. Ford all but bowed up the 1976 GOP nomination by becoming the incumbent President. Next to Wallace, the best-financed presidential hopeful is Bentsen, who spent $200,000 this year and has $198,000 in cash left over. Almost all that money was raised before this year, because Bentsen has raised only $8,000 since June 1. All of the committees, McCarthy's is the most heavily dependent on a single donor.

The average of $300 in options, boosting the cost of the car to about $3,100, excluding mandatory charges such as taxes and delivery costs.

Last fall, when 1974-model cars were introduced, a brand-new Gremlin could be driven home for about $2,300. The Vega began the model year at $2,237. The basic Pinto was $2,021 in May 1974.

Price increases during the 1974 model year boosted the price of the average American auto by more than $400.

For the new model year, GM raised car prices an average $416, or 8.6 per cent. But the Vega climbed 12 per cent, or $265. Ford Motor Co. said its prices are expected to rise about 8 per cent, or an average of $118. Ford is expected to release specific figures today.

Chrysler increases average $100, or 4.8 per cent, the firm said Wednesday. AMC, with a heavy emphasis on smaller, less expensive cars, issued increases averaging $300, or 7.7 per cent.

The bulk of the 1975 increases are going on the better-selling autos, and despite a slowdown in the small car sales spurt, compacts and subcompacts have been moving steadily.

Drug Blitz Success Despite Briefing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest federal drug bust ever conducted by single narcotics agents was accompanied by an elaborate publicity effort that risked tipping off scores of persons targeted for arrest.

But Drug Enforcement Administration officials said that despite one news leak, apparently nobody escaped because of the publicity, although several persons still are being sought. And they said the operation was so successful that they probably will try the Madison Avenue approach again.

As of late Wednesday, the agency said it had taken nearly 100 persons into custody in this country, with Mexican authorities arresting 25 more in coordinated raids. Officials said they had crippled the multi-million-dollar market in illicit "pep pills."

In response to questions later, however, the drug agency said that at least 16 of those had actually been indicted and arrested in late July and over the Labor Day weekend.

Agents moved earlier against those individuals because of concern that they had been tipped off, an agency spokesman explained.

Also, the 10 million pills the agency plans to produce in court as evidence were seized prior to the overnight operation, during which only an expected 100,000 tablets were found in the course of a Los Angeles arrest.

Exhaust Fumes Affect Drivers

CHICAGO (AP) — Carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts may increase the possibility of traffic accidents, according to two studies reported by the National Safety Council.

The experimental studies published in the council's research magazine, The Journal of Safety Research, found that drivers subjected to levels of carbon monoxide typical in autos suffered losses in alertness and sharpness of vision.

Dr. Nicholas Rummo of the Environmental Protection Agency, Chapel Hill, N. C., and Kiriko Sarlanis of the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md., conducted a driver reaction time study with seven volunteers of ages 19 to 27.

The subjects operated a driving simulator for two hours, during which they were exposed to carbon monoxide levels commonly found inside moving automobiles. A separate test with normal air was used to establish a comparative base.

The subjects followed another car, projected in the simulator, at 45 to 60 miles per hour. As the lead car changed speeds, the drivers had to alter their own speeds to maintain a constant following distance.

Rummo and Sarlanis reported that all of their subjects had slower reaction times while breathing the carbon monoxide mixture and had greater difficulty adjusting their speed. Six of the subjects, who were nonsmokers, made fewer steering corrections, possibly indicating greater impact of the carbon monoxide on them, the researchers said.

The seventh subject, a cigarette smoker, made more steering corrections, leading the researchers to conclude that he may have been less affected by higher carbon monoxide levels.

In another study, Santo Salvatore, a Brown University psychologist, found six young adult subjects — all nonsmokers — experienced narrowed fields of vision while breathing carbon monoxide at levels normal in cars.

He also found that they had greater difficulty detecting objects pictured against low-contrast backgrounds.

Air Crash Kills 69, Cause Unknown

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Eastern Airlines jetliner had cleared its approach and passengers settled back for an apparently normal landing. Then, seconds away from the expected safe landing, the craft mysteriously plunged into a cornfield, killing 69 persons.

The DC-30 disintegrated and burst into flames as it bounced from the cornfield into a wooded hillside. Thirteen persons survived the crash on Wednesday, including a stewardess who walked away from the wreckage.

"There was no warning," said Charles J. Weaver of Charlotte, one of the survivors. "It looked like a normal landing approach. I looked out and saw the ground and I knew we were going to crash."

Cause of the crash of Eastern flight 4112 from Charleston, S.C., remained a puzzle as federal aviation investigators began their work. Authorities said there were pockets of fog in the crash area,

Jaworski Was Poised To Indict Nixon

WASHINGTON — Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski would have sought an indictment against former President Nixon "in a matter of weeks," according to sources familiar with the plans, if President Ford hadn't intervened with a pardon.

These sources say the special prosecutor intended to indict Nixon solely for obstruction of justice. Jaworski believed he had "an iron-clad case" against the former President and would get an "almost certain conviction," our sources report.

The case would have been based heavily upon Nixon's own tapes, which provide prima-facie evidence that he participated in the Watergate cover-up. Jaworski's deputy, James Neal, had already arranged for Secret Service technicians to testify about the taping system.

Our sources describe Jaworski as a man with a deep faith in the judicial process. They say he simply could not ignore the verdict of the House Judiciary Committee, which voted unanimously to impeach Nixon for obstruction of justice, not the will of the Watergate grand jury, which voted 19 to 0 to name him as an indicted co-conspirator.

The grand jury would have indicted him last March if Jaworski had not counseled that a sitting President couldn't be legally indicted. The threat of indictment hung over the former President like Damocles' sword. Sources who have had access to him in his seclusion at San Clemente describe him as "totally weary, terribly depressed and completely dependent."

One source has been struck by the "stark loneliness" of Richard Nixon. He is "absolutely alone within himself," the source explains. All sources agree that he has complete control of his facilities, although his conversation sometimes worries and his nerves seem frayed.

Nixon's psyche is so "delicate," our sources report, that his loyal aide Ronald Ziegler and attorney Herbert "Jack" Miller took President Ford's representative, attorney Benton Becker, aside before putting him together with Nixon at San Clemente. They asked the judicious Becker to keep the meeting informal.

Becker refused to comment on the meeting, except to say he found Nixon "alert" and "cordial."

The main cause of Nixon's anguish, according to our sources, was the expectation that Jaworski would ask the grand jury to indict him. The distraught Nixon even developed a strange inability to repeat Jaworski's name.

In a phone conversation with Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, R-Ill., for example, the former President mumbled: "We've got problems with that fellow...uh...uh..."

"Jaworski?" suggested Rostenkowski. "Yes," said Nixon. Others have also reported that he seems to have trouble with the special prosecutor's name. We have established that President Ford learned of Nixon's mental state and imminent indictment. White House sources say the President feared the indictment could cause his predecessor a nervous breakdown.

Here are the other reasons, which finally persuaded the President to move quickly to grant Nixon a "full, free and absolute" pardon: Ford's legal advisers, Philip Buchen and Benton Becker, determined that a pardon was the President's prerogative and had nothing to do with equal justice. Lyndon Johnson granted less than 200 pardons during his five years in the White House, for example, while Harry Truman issued about 200 pardons a year. People have been pardoned for crimes that kept others in prison. Buchen and Becker advised Ford, therefore, that the Nixon pardon would not affect the criminal cases against H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell and the other alleged conspirators.

"The President's lawyers came up with a quote from Alexander Hamilton, who, writing in The Federalist, declared: 'There are critical moments when a well-timed offer of pardon to the insurgents or rebels may restore the tranquility of the commonwealth.'" Under the preamble to the Constitution, the lawyers noted, the President is required to "insure the domestic tranquility." Ford agreed that a pardon, in Nixon's case, would promote tranquility.

—Buchen and Becker also contended there was no evidence Nixon had advanced knowledge of the Watergate break-in. He was guilty merely of covering it up in order to avoid political embarrassment in the middle of the 1971 presidential campaign. What started out to be a political move wound up as a criminal conspiracy. The lawyers quoted from Sir Walter Scott's famous line, "Oh, what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive!" Ford agreed that his predecessor hadn't started out to commit a crime but merely had become entangled in it.

—The President and his advisers also took into account Nixon's 23 years of political service, the last 24 under a national microscope. As one aide mused, "This is a terrible way to go after such long service."

Nuclear Weapons Just Keep Growing

Every now and then it becomes impossible for a sane person to read the newspapers without throwing up his hands in complete dismay. It all seems like a bad dream.

Several small items cropped up in the news the other day that would leave any rational person gasping for air and pondering the futility of it all.

There was for instance the news that since the inception of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks the United States has been adding four nuclear bombs or warheads to its stockpile while Russia has been adding one a day.

Well, the argument goes on both sides, we've got to maintain parity with the enemy; the national defense requires that we have sufficient strength to defend ourselves against the threat of international communism or, as the case may be, capitalism.

But that stockpile that is constantly expanded is already at the point where:

—The United States has a capacity of hitting every Soviet city of over 100,000 population with 36 bombs while the Soviets can hit every American city of that size with 11 bombs.

—The United States can destroy more individual targets but the Soviet Union has bigger bombs with two times as much raw megatonnage. The destructive capacity of each country is about equal.

And to make an absurd situation even worse both sides are stockpiling so many nuclear weapons that those outside the country are now vulnerable to attack by terrorist groups and could be held hostage if revolts caused changes of governments in the host countries.

These aren't the arguments of some woolly-headed pious professor. They come from Adm. Gene R. LaRocque, U.S. Navy Ret. who now heads the Center for Defense Information.

Adm. LaRocque told the Senate Atomic Energy subcommittee the other day that U.S. nuclear warheads and bombs stored in such countries as Greece, Turkey and South Korea are protected by concrete igloos and guarded by "relatively few men."

"A well-planned, well-executed terrorist attack could easily capture our nuclear weapons and a fast plane or helicopter could get them out of the country just as easily." And if the host country suddenly became an enemy instead of a friend "we couldn't get those weapons out and we might have to fight our way in to regain control."

It isn't bad enough that we have two governments sitting on such a storehouse of destruction but we now must face up to the possibility of a bunch of nuts or fanatics coming into possession of one or more of the most deadly weapons ever conceived by man.

Just to illustrate the insanity of it all consider: Adm. LaRocque says that the overkill capacity of the Soviet Union and the United States has so increased that the combined raw megatonnage of both nations is equal to 1.2 million bombs of the type that destroyed Hiroshima.

Is there no one in a position of authority and responsibility in either country to stand up and say:

Enough. This is madness.

Facts Hard To Come By On Economy

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Until we get our facts straight we are not going to cure inflation. Unless we up the production of steel, coal, gas, aluminum, oil, food and a fistful of other critically short basic materials, plus improve industrial efficiency, we are going to continue indefinitely to suffer from runaway prices and rising unemployment.

It goes without saying that we cannot attack those two problems — underproduction and inefficiency — unless we know their causes accurately. This seems beyond our capacity.

Take recent testimony before Congress by two leading economic spokesmen. One was William R. Simon, secretary of the Treasury and representative of the Ford administration. The other was J.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America and chairman of the Economic Policy Committee of the AFL-CIO, an organization highly influential in the Congress.

Abel, in short, said industrial profits have been going up exorbitantly. "...corporate after-tax profits jumped 28 per cent in the second quarter of this year... after a 19 per cent increase in the first quarter, (following) ... profit boosts of 26 per cent in 1973, 26 per cent in 1972 and 17 per cent in 1971."

Simon said that when the effect of inflation is eliminated and more realistic accounting applied, after-tax profits of industry actually declined by 21 per cent, from $36 billion in 1968 to $28.5 billion in 1973. He added that the effective tax rate on true profits rose from about 43 per cent in 1965 to 59 per cent in 1973.

"On this basis," said Simon, "after dividend payments, the retained earnings available for re-investment, which were $19 billion in 1968 were only $5 billion in 1973... Thus... the sharp rise in profits was an optical illusion caused by inflation. And this helps to explain why the ability of business to increase its productive capacity is in jeopardy."

Simon sees this lack of profit incentive as explaining why plant and equipment spending since 1960 in the United States was only 15 per cent of total output, whereas France invested 19 per cent, Germany 29 per cent and Japan 27 per cent. And why gross domestic investment in 1973 was 17 per cent for the U.S., 26 per cent for France, 25 per cent for Germany and 37 per cent for Japan.

Each man, Abel and Simon, had access to the same data. But their "facts" come out 180 degrees apart, a drastically important difference. If Abel's facts and reasoning are right, we are to crack down on industry and its profits, using these funds to bring us out of the economic mess we're in. But if Simon's is right, we must take the opposite tack, easing the burdens on industry to end inflation and unemployment. Says Simon "...we must make every effort to expand our productive capacity. To this end adequate profit incentives are crucially important."

Two diametrically opposed solutions. If we adopt the wrong one we face disaster. It would seem logical, therefore, to go to some length to determine whether Abel is right or Simon — or neither. Some simple research would do the trick. If they get the wrong answers it will be our necks.

THOUGHTS

For if a man lives many years, let him rejoice in them all; but let him remember that the days of darkness will be many. All that comes is vanity. — Eccl. 1:18

Rip Van Winkle

Letter To The Editor

Editor Evening Herald Sanford, Fla.

Dear Sir:

The announcement of the new hours for our Sanford Public Library is most welcome news! With Tuesday evening until 9 p.m. and Saturday to 1 p.m. many more of us will be able to take advantage of our educational and cultural center.

Perhaps this is a signal for expanded services to musical and educational tapes and recordings. Or to the loan of masterpiece copies for our homes and offices so old and young alike can appreciate treasures that have been confined to some faraway museum.

Your expanding paper might find reader interest in a weekly feature on the library's newest acquisitions and a review or two. Libraries in surrounding areas have found, "Story Telling Hours," successful to introduce parents and children alike to fun, adventure, growth through books... Or our Library could be a display center for our talented citizens' arts and crafts.

Above all, I hope that enough voters of our County will keep in mind that on Nov. 5, we have a straw vote to tell our County Commissioners that some educational dollars could be well spent on expanding our library system with Orlando so our students, and all of us, could get books by mail and many expanded services.

J.E. Elselein, A.P.R.

How do you figure it out? On the same night I'm spending some time at the courthouse watching the results of the primary election — and being most disappointed at the few who took the time to exercise their privilege of choosing their governmental leaders. — I was overwhelmed that same night to walk into the county commission meeting and be treated to Standing Room Only crowd.

It would lead me to assume that these people who were interested in the items on the commission agenda were the same group who also took out from their daily routine to cast a ballot.

And before you ask, yes I did vote...the 4th in line in my precinct.

It's hard to comprehend. Only one out of every four registered voters actually "did their thing!"

Anybody have some suggestions on improving this terrible situation? We just have to do something...In Precinct No. 41 (Milwee Middle School) they have approximately 750 registered voters, and ONLY 85 VOTED!

Look for a big shake-up in the local financial roads, folks. Too early to say more on this one, right now... Altabay, Sarge.

Anonymity High Price Of Success

Here is a truly disturbing commentary on the times we live in.

Top business executives, who have worked hard to achieve prominence in their fields, are now being urged to work equally hard to achieve obscurity and become just another face in the crowd. The idea is to help prevent would-be kidnappers — either political terrorists or ransom-seeking criminals — from zeroing in on them as prime targets.

"It all boils down to us never doing the same thing once, or reversing what comes naturally like eating in a favorite restaurant, or being expected regularly at the club at a certain time, or taking the same route home after work," observed one business leader at an executive protection seminar in New York.

Such seminars are being conducted in major U.S. cities by Burns International Investigation Bureau, whose director, M. Fred Rayne, has testified on anti-kidnap techniques and urban guerrilla tactics before the House Committee on Internal Security.

Corporate managers at seminars or at private briefings at company locations are provided with a 26-page manual covering some 200 dangerous situations, including actual kidnaping, and how to react to them.

Some of the rules include: Staying out of the office, unless others are there.

Keeping vacation plans within the family, and not even telling the friendly barber about the mountain retreat.

Alerting the family to watch for and report to police any strangers in the neighborhood — in parked cars, afoot or slowly bicycling about.

Personally writing for hotel reservations without mentioning company affiliation and picking up tickets at the airport when traveling, and even then purposely arriving earlier or later than expected.

Shunning all publicity and eliminating name and picture from company advertising.

"Business leaders come to our briefings hoping they can learn all about personal safety in one easy lesson," says Rayne. "It comes as a jolt to them when they realize they and their families have to adjust to virtually a new lifestyle by figuratively looking over their shoulders endlessly."

Paranoia, anyone?

Ugly rumors making the rounds, there were job offers made to encourage support for a particular commission-sponsored project. You know the type...you tell your folks to be in favor of this cause if I'll mean about 60 or 70 jobs for them."

Instead of educating the public on the advantages of the program we're subjected to something like the above. Well, it's unfortunate to say the least!

Back again on the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. As stated in earlier columns, I'm opposed to this restriction as it applies to driving on the Interstate, at least.

Well, I was happy to hear less an authority than Florida Highway Patrol Sgt. Jim Humphries express similar views adding: "we didn't have the speed-limit problem insofar as interstates are concerned; we never have in the past. I'd like to see the limit raised for these roads but maintain the 55 limit for those other roads."

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Elaine No Threat To Land

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Elaine presents no threat to land areas as it trudges across the North Atlantic away from the East Coast of the United States, the National Hurricane Center says.

The center also reported late Wednesday that a tropical depression that was dropping numerous showers on Eastern Cuba was still moving eastward and showed no sign of strengthening.

Interests around Cuba and the extreme northwest Caribbean Sea were advised to stay alert for later weather bulletins and small craft owners in that area were warned to remain close to port.

Dad Jailed In Family Deaths

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — A mother and her 3-year-old daughter were shot to death and two other daughters were in critical condition after being shot by their father while they slept, police report.

Authorities charged Steven Purwin, 25, the woman's estranged husband, late Wednesday night with two counts of first degree murder and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

Officers said the bodies of Carol Purwin, 25, and her daughter Christine, were found in separate bedrooms of the woman's home Wednesday morning by Mrs. Purwin's father.

The other two daughters, Stacy, 5, and Cheryl, 1, were found shot in the beds also. They were listed in critical condition in a local hospital.

Police said the couple had been living apart and had filed for divorce last month. They had been married for six years.

Authorities said Purwin used a pillow to muffle his small caliber pistol as he shot each victim in the head. Purwin was arrested Wednesday after walking near the docks at Port Canaveral, police said.

Dickinson 'Favor' Revealed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Florida Comptroller Fred O. "Bud" Dickinson suggested that his former law partner Frederick Prior be named organizational attorney for a West Palm Beach group seeking a bank charter from Dickinson, a banker told a 12-member jury Wednesday.

William DeVeer, a banker from West Palm Beach, testified Wednesday in the perjury trial of Prior, 49. Prior was indicted in a federal grand jury probe of Dickinson's financial affairs and methods of granting state bank charters.

He was scheduled to be recalled to the witness stand again today.

He said Dickinson told him that the comptroller's office would look with "greater favor" on his charter application if Prior was named to the attorney's position.

DeVeer said after Prior was installed and 18 others were added to the group's list of prospective stockholders at Dickinson's recommendation, the group swiftly obtained a charter for the Palm Beach Mall Bank.

Big Brother Wants To Be Your Doctor

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-440: Dr. Charles P. McCartney is President of our Chicago Medical Society.

He writes a message on the "President's Page" of our bi-weekly medical journal published here in Chicago.

"In 1974," Dr. McCartney began, "as in each year of the past decade, the physician is struggling with a federal bureaucracy for the control of medical practice."

"The Bennett Amendment has significantly advanced the cause of this bureaucracy. Personally writing for hotel reservations without mentioning company affiliation and picking up tickets at the airport when traveling, and even then purposely arriving earlier or later than expected."

"HEW, however, will carry out the provisions of this law until it is amended or repealed."

For you readers who are not fully aware of how Big Brother is now trying to become your doctor (as well as the wet nurse for all your other needs) let me digest some of the provisions of the Bennett Amendment.

In an election year, the bill seemed to be a good vote-getter, which is what motivates many Congressmen to pass nonsense legislation.

For it provides that a bureaucrat at Washington can reduce your stay in the hospital, at his option!

And even decree which hospital you may enter!

Plus when he decides you should be sent home from the hospital. You laymen will thus be the greatest sufferers when the HEW (alias Big Brother, M.D.) demands your intimate medical data!

'Blue' Words May Cost Cons Jobs

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Your new orange-and-white automobile license plate may be among the last made in Florida by convict labor if state officials have their way.

One of the reasons for the switch, the officials say, is that too many obscenities are getting on the ones made by convicts.

The state Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles said Wednesday that it will ask the Cabinet next week for authority to get bids from commercial manufacturers for license plates for 1977-1980.

Director Ralph Davis said he will also ask the Cabinet to approve making the next three-year tags emerald green and white. They will be good for the period between July 1, 1977, and June 30, 1980.

The new 1975 tags will be good for three years. Stickers will be issued as renewals for 1976 and 1977.

Replacement or new tags sold between now and the 1977 expiration date will continue to be made by inmates at Union Correctional Institute at Ralston.

"Tax collectors point out that a great majority of the personnel handling tag sales are inmates and that many young women of high school and college age are hired on a temporary basis during the 50-day renewal period," Davis said. "The tax collectors feel quite strongly and agree that these employees should not be subjected to this situation."

"Further, it is embarrassing to take a citizen's money for a tag and try to hand him a plate of inferior quality or bearing some obscenity. This has caused constant problems and confrontations that are not needed in offices already crowded with impatient people."

Davis added that collectors who got plates from a private firm this year said the plates were of good quality, had no obscenities and resulted in fewer problems with missing or duplicated tags.

"Of the 25 counties receiving tags made at the prison, 20 tax collectors have reported serious problems relating to missing and duplicated numbers, plates bearing paint smears and smudges, and illegible numbers because of a lack of paint," Davis said.

Despite a $25,000 last-week television advertising blitz, Gunter took only about 10 per cent of the populous South Florida vote.

It was Busby's first appearance before the grand jury.

John Busby of Gainesville seems to be in one position, philosophically, and sometimes he seems to be in quite another," Gunter said. "It almost seems to depend on where he is in the state of Florida."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Accused Slayer On Trial

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A jury begins deliberations today in the trial of a college student charged with murder in the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr.

If convicted, Marcus Wayne Chenault, 23, of Dayton, Ohio, could face the death penalty for Mrs. King's slaying in a burst of gunfire during services at the Ebenezer Baptist Church last June 30.

He also is charged with murdering deacon Edward Boykin and wounding a woman churchgoer, Mrs. King, 70, mother of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was shot as she played "The Lord's Prayer" on the organ.

Chenault contends he is innocent by reason of insanity. Two psychiatrists, the only defense witnesses, testified Chenault was insane on June 30 and still is. But under cross-examination both said Chenault can distinguish between right and wrong, the test for a person criminally responsible under state law.

Hostages Released

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Four North Americans held hostages by a guerrilla group in Ethiopia since March 26 have been released, a spokesman for Tanneco Inc. reports.

The four include three Tanneco employees and a United Nations geologist.

A Tanneco spokesman refused to discuss on Wednesday reports that a ransom had been paid to gain release of the men.

There had been reports that the Eritrean Liberation Front, which seeks independence for the northern Ethiopian province of Eritrea, had been seeking $1.1 million in ransom.

The Tanneco spokesman said the four men released are all reported to be unharmed. They are Powers Cayce, 36, of Plainview, Tex.; Motta Tavela, 52, a UN technician from California; Clifford M. James of Walkerton, Ont.; and James William Rogers of Greenwich, Conn.

The Canadian Foreign Ministry announced that the four were to have been taken to Khartoum, Sudan, for a direct flight back to Houston.

The four men were captured while prospecting for oil.

Mozambique's Capital Looted

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — More looting was reported Wednesday night in the black slums of Lourenco Marques, but reinforced Portuguese troops appeared to be getting control of Mozambique's seaside capital. Hospital authorities confirmed 50 persons — all but nine of them blacks — had died as a result of fighting that began Tuesday after the collapse of a white settlers' rebellion.

The revolt was sparked by the Portuguese government's agreement to give control of the government to Frelimo, the black guerrilla movement that has fought the Portuguese army to a standstill. There were unconfirmed reports that as many as 200 were killed in the fighting.

POW To Be Freed Thursday

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Emmet J. Kay of Hawaii, the last known American prisoner of war, will be freed Thursday as part of a general prisoner exchange between the Communist Pathet Lao and the Laotian army, a diplomatic source reported today.

The Laotian Communists gave neutral diplomats "a categorical assurance" Wednesday night they would free the 47-year-old civilian pilot with the first prisoners, the source said. Earlier reports said Kay would be one of the last POW's handed over.

Kay, 47, was a pilot for Continental Air Services, a charter line. The Pathet Lao captured him when his small plane was forced down in Communist territory on May 7, 1973, and he has been held at Sam Neua, the Pathet Lao capital in northeastern Laos.

Ethiopians Oust, Arrest Emperor

By The Associated Press

Military reformers pledged to democracy and a new deal for the peasants today deposed Emperor Haile Selassie, the world's oldest and longest reigning monarch, and put him under arrest.

The 13-man military committee that has been running Ethiopia for several months said it was recalling the emperor's 85-year-old son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, from Switzerland and would make him a figurehead king without any authority.

However, the prince suffered a stroke nearly two years ago. A friend in Geneva said he is still partially paralyzed and spends much of his time in the hospital.

The prince's son, Zere Yakob, who Selassie designated earlier this year as his successor as emperor, was believed on route to Geneva from Oxford University in England to see his ailing father.

Residents of Asmara, Ethiopia's second largest city, rejoiced in the streets when news spread that Selassie was deposed.

An eyewitness said Selassie was taken away in the back seat of a blue sedan.

The announcement that Selassie was deposed was made by the 13-man Armed Forces Coordinating Committee.

It said parliament was closed, the constitution suspended, that troops were forming a provisional government and that civilian cabinet ministers were asked to remain in their posts.

It said church and state would be separated in a new constitution being readied under military supervision, and that it would provide for a free press and a representative civilian government.

Unofficial estimates put Selassie's wealth abroad at $10 million, making him one of the world's richest men as well as ruler of one of the world's poorest countries.

Earlier, reliable sources in the Ethiopian capital reported that the military had detained the emperor's only surviving daughter, Princess Tsegagne-Work, who is the wife of an aristocrat accused of massive embezzlement of public funds.

The sources said the detention of the princess could signal the roundup of other members of the royal family.

The Armed Forces Coordinating Committee, a group of anonymous officers who have been directing the gradual military takeover of Ethiopia, has accused the emperor and the feudal landowners who with him controlled the country of embezzling millions of dollars, encouraging bureaucratic corruption and doing nothing to alleviate the effects of the drought which in the past two years killed an estimated 100,000 persons.

Wholesale Prices Go Up, Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 3.9 per cent in August, the second biggest monthly increase in 28 years, the government reported today.

Expanding prices last month ranged across almost the entire economy. There were substantial increases for everything from farm products to industrial goods.

Wholesale prices have risen at an adjusted annual rate of 37.3 per cent over the past three months. The August rise of 3.9 per cent works out to a staggering annual rate of 46.8 per cent.

The August increase in prices — following a rise of 3.7 per cent in July — was the second biggest in any month since November 1946, when prices jumped 4.2 per cent. The only bigger increase was last August's jump of 6.2 per cent following the lifting of the government's freeze on prices.

The government's Wholesale Price Index in August rose to 167.4 — 17.8 per cent higher than a year ago. The index is based on 1967 figures, meaning that it cost $167.40 to buy at wholesale a statistical variety of goods that cost $100 in the 1967-base period.

All figures are adjusted to account for seasonal differences.

Consumers seemingly can expect little relief in the coming months from the worst inflation in years since wholesale prices usually are quickly reflected at the retail level.

Watergate Haldeman's 'Threatening' Pardon Demand Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the last days of his presidency, Richard M. Nixon received urgent appeals for pardons from former aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the Washington Post reported today.

Quoted information sources, reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward wrote that Nixon rejected both requests and deeply resented the tone and character of the pleas.

The story said Nixon was especially upset by Haldeman's request, which was described as "threatening" and tantamount to blackmail. It said one source said the request implied "he'd send Nixon to jail if he didn't get a pardon."

Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, told the Post that he was unaware of any pardon request but did not believe that Haldeman would use a threatening tone because of his "generous and kindly attitude" toward Nixon.

Haldeman's wife said in California that her husband could not comment on the story because he is under court order not to discuss Watergate-related matters.

Ehrlichman could not be reached for comment.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman are on trial with four other defendants in the Watergate cover-up case Sept. 30. Ehrlichman already faces a prison term of 20 months to five years on his conviction in the Ellsberg break-in.

Meanwhile, the lawyer for two convicted Watergate figures says his clients will take quick advantage of President Ford's newly clarified offer to study pardon requests individually.

"We do intend to submit an application," Daniel E. Schultz, attorney for Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez, said in a telephone interview on Wednesday. He said the forms would be submitted to the Justice Department early next week.

Barker and Martinez, both members of the anti-Communist Cuban committee in Miami, pleaded guilty for their roles in the original Watergate burglary and were convicted by a jury in connection with the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Consumer finished goods, those products in the wholesale chain nearest retail outlets, rose two per cent.

Area Bicentennial Projects OK'd

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer

"Seminole County has traditions, customs, people, and community spirit," chairman of the county Bicentennial committee Jack Horner said, "and with all this we should have one of the best Bicentennial observances in the nation."

The committee met for the second time Tuesday night to give their official approval to the Bicentennial projects that will be carried out in the county in the coming months. But they also heard local folk singer Barbara Muller sing and play the dulcimer, they talked and laughed, and generally had a good time, according to Horner who is also executive secretary of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

"These are not going to be the kind of meetings where we solemnly read the minutes and then proceed on to the night of business. We'll have the type of meetings where everyone will enjoy themselves."

Each county in Florida has its own committee, and each committee is totally independent in deciding how to plan its celebration, Horner said. "No one tells us what to do; this is a completely grass roots thing."

At the "grass roots thing" last night, the commission gave its approval to:

- Pioneer Days in Ft. McCoy Park. Sponsored by the 14 Girl Scout troops in the county, the Boy Scouts will take on the flavor of the country's Colonial heritage.
- The renovation of the Bradley McIntire house in Longwood, to the circa 1880 era during which it was built. This is a combined project of the Longwood historical society and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Venable, who have already contributed to the structure's restoration.
- The Senior Women's club will initiate a project to beautify the Lake Monroe waterfront by landscaping, irrigation, construction of sidewalks, planting flowers, etc.
- All projects are funded by a combination of local matching funds—donations of cash or in kind goods—and state revenue especially set aside for the Bicentennial.

Cuts Due In Nixon Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee intends to trim the $50,000 request for former President Richard M. Nixon's transition to private life, the chairman says.

"You can safely say it will be cut considerably," said Chairman Tom Steed, D-Okla., of the House executive offices appropriations subcommittee, which takes up the matter today.

"The paring knife will be working all through this thing," Steed said.

He said such congressmen "don't want to approve a nickel" for Nixon's expense of President Ford's pardon for him, as well as any other former president, Ford announced an effort to reduce unemployment by creating 85,000 new public jobs.

Ford said he will speed up the spending of $415 million in funds already set aside for jobs to be created in state and local governments. He said another $1.3 billion will be available to local governments for manpower programs.

"This is an emotional thing," Steed said. "Unless we're able to bring out a tight, well-aimed bill it will be in serious trouble. And from the tone over in the Senate I think it may be in serious trouble there, too."

He referred to the Senate appropriations subcommittee hearing on Wednesday at which Chairman Joseph P. Montoya, D-N.M., told General Services Administration chief Arthur F. Sampson he was "given a snow job" by former Nixon aides.

Montoya made the comment when Sampson said Nixon aides Steve L. Ziegler and Stephen Bull told him at a San Clemente, Calif., meeting how Nixon needed the $50,000.

Montoya and Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., sharply questioned why Nixon needed more than twice the $70,000 transition money that went to former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Sampson testified that a special $100,000 Watergate tapes fund is required under the agreement for safeguarding the tapes over the next five years.

Labor Leaders Seek End To Tight Money Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor leaders at President Ford's second economic summit called almost unanimously for an end to tight money policies which have pushed interest rates to record highs.

The labor leaders echoed on Wednesday the thoughts expressed by a panel of economists at the first summit Sept. 5. But a change in tight money policies has been resisted by administration officials.

The labor leaders also charged that the government's anti-inflation policies are not working and may plunge the country into a severe recession with high unemployment.

At the start of the conference, Ford announced an effort to reduce unemployment by creating 85,000 new public jobs.

Ford said he will speed up the spending of $415 million in funds already set aside for jobs to be created in state and local governments. He said another $1.3 billion will be available to local governments for manpower programs.

The crop corn, which feeds the nation's livestock, was hurt a bit less by the recent drought in the Midwest than had been anticipated but will still be 11 per cent below last year's record harvest, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Keller, Beck Face Runoff

There will be a run-off for the Volusia County Council District Five seat between William E. Keller of DeBarry and incumbent George V. Beck of New Smyrna.

Keller, who had the endorsement of the Deltona Citizens Council, received 1,894 votes or 38 per cent. Beck with 1,766 votes tallied 37.2 per cent in this close race.

Defeated were Former Edgewater mayor Dana T. Armstrong with 739 votes and Maurice A. Eise, DeBarry businessman with 454.

By CARROLL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unimportant Friday the 13th, for you to increase your attractiveness. Congratulate others on their achievements.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to have a good time today, but do not take any unnecessary or expensive risks. Pay bills. Move affection for mate in m. s. m. s.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Add to harmony at home and bring out the best in both yourself and those who dwell with you. Plan how to become more successful, also. Read.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get information and keep appointments that will help you succeed more quickly in the future. Solve utility matters wisely. Shop.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your financial position to know where you stand. Don't rely on usual adviser who is busy now. Handle own affairs intelligently.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take the treatments you need to bring out your particular charm now when social life will be improved. A group affair can prove most interesting in p. m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Plan future more wisely, either alone or with clever organizers. Endeavor to help one who is in real trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Get together with good pals and make the right arrangements to further your aims. Try to make good friends of new acquaintances you meet recently. Avoid a troublemaker tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Solve credit matters. Don't force one civic matter that is in a stagnant state. Await a better day to do something constructive about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study those new interests but don't make any moves as yet on them unless you are better prepared. Listen to suggestions from one with different experience. Do something thoughtful for mate in p. m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep promises made to others carefully. If you encourage your mate, you get along much better. Avoid one who is trying to make trouble between you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over mutual affairs with one who is important to your scheme of things, as well as influential, and get good results. Avoid one who tries to block you. What Causes Sluggishness? DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes sluggishness? Does it occur in everyone after 45 years of age? Is lack of exercise, drinking too little water, overeating, being overweight and heavy food part of the problem?

DEAR READER — There are many causes, and it most definitely is not necessary just because you are 45. Some of the most alert, active and interested people I know are well over 45. It is often a frame of mind, basically a lack of interest in life and your environment. Often it is from a lack of challenge. Considering all the problems in the world to be tackled, that seems a bit ridiculous.

At about middle-age many people give up their dreams or realize the limited ones they started out with. The kids are grown up, the job is steady and things settle down to the peaks of tweedle dee and do hum. Now you can be tired, or as you say sluggish, for medical reasons, but in the vast majority of instances it is related to boredom and personality or psychological factors. Just look how energetic you get when you get mad.

All those other things you mention are important, but they often follow as a result of loss of interest in other things besides food and television.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is a diabetic. He takes insulin two times a day and Hydrinex tablets to keep his blood vessels open. They were closing due to diabetes. My question was, will smoking two packs of cigarettes a day cause him to be tired all the time? He is only 43 years old. Will it close his blood vessels? And, will the use of whiskey help his circulation?

DEAR READER — No diabetic should smoke. No one else should either for that matter. A diabetic has an increased likelihood of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries leading to heart attacks, strokes and poor circulation to the legs.

This often contributes to gangrene. Tobacco multiplies the likelihood of these problems in both normal people and diabetics. It is plain common sense that if you have an increased risk to start with that you shouldn't multiply it.

Cigarette smoke causes the small platelets in the blood, responsible for the formation of a blood clot, to clump. This may be a factor in the increased incidence of heart attacks and vascular disease in cigarette smokers.

Whiskey does not keep the circulation open. It does nothing beneficial for the circulation. It is only possible benefit as a tranquilizer. For people who need a tranquilizer, you can get some benefit that way, but usually being dependent on alcohol for that is a mistake also. In the diabetic it can contribute to liver damage.

Fatty liver is often a complication of diabetes so it should be used sparingly, if at all, by a diabetic. Diabetes can cause fatigue, but so can many other factors.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Losing Weight" booklet.

Chiles Had No Primary Favorites.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., played no favorites in Tuesday's Democratic Senate primary.

That's because Chiles has been friends for as long as 20 years with the four top vote-getters, explained Jack Pridgen, Chiles' aide.

The six candidates who were in the race for the Democratic nomination were: Sen. Wilbur Boyd of Bradenton, one of Chiles' best friends and his 1970 campaign manager, helped run Horne's Senate campaign.

So Chiles found it prudent to remain neutral in the Democratic Senate primary. His neutrality there came from his neutrality in the governor's race cost Chiles $200,000.

He donated $100 to Gov. Reuben Askew in June when it appeared that Lt. Gov. Tom Adams would be Askew's major opponent. But then citrus millionaire Ben Hill Griffin, Chiles 1970 Senate campaign chairman, entered the primary against Askew.

Chiles last week contributed $100 to Griffin's campaign. On the eve of Tuesday's election, state Sen. Sherman Winn, D-Miami, had secretary Lalle Blidworth pack his personal belongings in his Senate office. Winn defeated Daniel Joe Kwan of Miami Lakes but some of his friends thought the early packing meant Winn was fearful of losing.

"One of his friends heard about it and put up a sign in his office that said, 'Chiken Hill's home,'" Mrs. Blidworth said.

J.L. McMullen, who lost his third bid for the Secretary of State's office Tuesday, has altered his nickname during his election attempts over the years.

He went on the 1960 ballot as "Mac" McMullen but was listed in 1970 and this year as "White Acres" McMullen.

McMullen, a Live Oak pea and peanut packer, sells his products under a "White Acres" label.

"So many people in our trade channels got to calling me 'White Acres' that when I called people I got to calling myself 'White Acres' and it cut red tape and got me right through," he said. "So it was my trade that put the name on me."

Meanwhile, two campaigners ran into difficulties while flying about on the election trail. Ex-paratrooper Askew was the first one to bail out when an engine started smoking on his campaign plane.

Fortunately, the plane was on the ground in Fort Lauderdale at the time. Pettigrew, meanwhile, had a close call when the brakes failed on his campaign plane during a landing at St. Petersburg.

"We almost went into the sky," he said. "The pilot called to steer sharply to the right and we went off the runway, over a grassy embankment and a taxiway and up an embankment."

"Fortunately the embankment was there or we would have hit a fence," Pettigrew said.

Long promoted as the only investment vehicle that could withstand the malaise of world economies, gold stocks this week turned out to be no different than others, they plunged, some as much as 20 per cent in one day, Monday.

Homestate Mining shrunk $10.25 to $45. Campbell Red Lake fell $8.50 to $30.12. ASA Ltd. lost $10.37 to $79.25. Dome Mines declined $8.25 to $47.12.

CAIRO — (LENS) — President Anwar Sadat's efforts to mediate between King Hussein of Jordan and the Palestine Liberation Organization have gone sour.

The communique issued after King Hussein's visit to Egypt stated that the PLO was the legitimate representative of the Palestinians "except the part imposed on such West Bank areas as Israel withdraws from."

They are unimpressed by President Sadat's subsequent explanation that the king should have "only temporary custody" over the West Bank.

The PLO's quick response to the communique was that it would not now attend the planned meeting with Egypt, Syria and Jordan. Egypt and Jordan reacted to this by saying that if there is to be no preliminary meeting to sort out the differences between Jordan and the PLO, then the full Arab summit scheduled for September 3 would have to be postponed.

This, in turn, caused a fresh wrangle among the participants, with about eight Arab governments favoring a postponement and four, including the PLO, opposing it. Then, if the Arab summit is postponed, it is very likely that the Arab-Israeli Geneva peace conference (which has been vaguely scheduled for January) will be put back too.

The PLO's present position is that it will not consider going to Geneva unless the Sadat-Hussein communique is withdrawn — which would take some doing.

Whatever now happens, Yasser Arafat's policy of working with and through Egypt has been jeopardized. This, in itself, enables the more militant guerrilla groups to make the running.

The PLO is once more considering the formation of a government-in-exile and Arafat went to Moscow to seek Soviet recognition and support which, it is believed, will be forthcoming in full measure. But it will not make up for Egypt's defection. With every-one working at cross-purposes, inter-Arab politics have seldom been in such a tangle.

Watergate Back On Top - Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The malfunctioning economy may be in theory the nation's No. 1 problem, as President Ford has indicated, but once again Watergate has pre-empted the No. 1 attention.

For a month it seemed ill-fortunes haunting every household would be exposed by enlightened discussion and eventually routed by decisive action.

Those who held that view now are so certain. Whereas the pardon of President Nixon was decisive and required no conference, the No. 1 problem, the economy, remains in the discussion stage.

The President has indicated it is now too late in the Congressional season for enacting anti-inflationary legislation. And the inflation battle is being fought with much the same attitudes as the former administration's, led by a chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors chosen by Nixon.

Alan Greenspan, the chairman, has reiterated his belief that the money supply must remain tight, despite the consensus of economists at a White House meeting Sept. 5. That the money supply should be eased, the Federal Reserve Board has responsibility for controlling the amount of money fed into the economy. It can cut the supply if it feels too many dollars are chasing too few goods or release more funds if the supply seems insufficient.

The big controversy over tight money now is whether it might be strangling domestic industry while failing to hold down prices of oil and other imports.

Opponents of tight money argue the nation is on the verge of a deep recession and the economy needs an injection of financial energy rather than a further restriction.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that $6 million check that Eyal Knievel was waving around before his rocket launch into the Snake River Canyon? Well, it was a fake.

The promoters only gave Knievel a $250,000 advance. The check was pure rubber — part of the publicity that both Knievel and the promoters dreamed up.

There's another thing that is still floating around in their minds: the actual amount of money the whole extravaganza earned.

The promoters have released various estimates of the gross, but so far nobody has produced any firm figures. All that is known is that Knievel probably earned a lot of money — millions by his estimate — but nobody is sure.

But if current estimates are correct, Knievel's rocky quarter-mile earned him $6,666.87.

DEAR POLLY — How do you put body into a nylon lace tablecloth? Mine does not hold starch and sugar water yet gets sticky from spilled punch. — JOAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the lack of old-fashioned hair over seven states. None of us can find such towels so have to have my own. They are all made of soft cloth and have a present day soft cloth side on the ones we find in 100 soft towel makers. In my opinion, are only helping our whole country go soft. — MIM.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J.D.W. who wants to make a round floor-out length table cover should first measure from floor to table top, across diameter of the table and down to the floor on the other side. She will need a square of material that will cover both ways. Use one width of material centered on the table and then add the necessary width at each side to make the square.

Fold in half lengthwise and then in half crosswise so fabric is four layers thick. Make a string compass. Place material on the floor and thumbtack one end of string on double corner fold. The pencil to other end of string making string the length of the table edge. Draw an arc. Cut through all layers on pencil line and have a circle the desired size that is ready for hemming. — VELMA.

DEAR POLLY — and Mrs. J.D.W. — When making a circular floor length skirt for a table, use a skirt hemmer for marking the length and cut with pinking shears so it can be cut without hemming. — DOTTY.

DEAR GIRLS — Do remember when such a skirt is to be hemmed. Allowance for the hem must be made before cutting. A very narrow hem will lay flatter. I suggest using a skirt maker to make a finished edge only when such a skirt is required. To cut a small table on the dining table to make the job a bit easier on the back. — POLLY.

Kniewel's $6 Million Check Was Rubber

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that $6 million check that Eyal Knievel was waving around before his rocket launch into the Snake River Canyon? Well, it was a fake.

The promoters only gave Knievel a $250,000 advance. The check was pure rubber — part of the publicity that both Knievel and the promoters dreamed up.

There's another thing that is still floating around in their minds: the actual amount of money the whole extravaganza earned.

The promoters have released various estimates of the gross, but so far nobody has produced any firm figures. All that is known is that Knievel probably earned a lot of money — millions by his estimate — but nobody is sure.

But if current estimates are correct, Knievel's rocky quarter-mile earned him $6,666.87.

DEAR POLLY — How do you put body into a nylon lace tablecloth? Mine does not hold starch and sugar water yet gets sticky from spilled punch. — JOAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the lack of old-fashioned hair over seven states. None of us can find such towels so have to have my own. They are all made of soft cloth and have a present day soft cloth side on the ones we find in 100 soft towel makers. In my opinion, are only helping our whole country go soft. — MIM.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J.D.W. who wants to make a round floor-out length table cover should first measure from floor to table top, across diameter of the table and down to the floor on the other side. She will need a square of material that will cover both ways. Use one width of material centered on the table and then add the necessary width at each side to make the square.

Fold in half lengthwise and then in half crosswise so fabric is four layers thick. Make a string compass. Place material on the floor and thumbtack one end of string on double corner fold. The pencil to other end of string making string the length of the table edge. Draw an arc. Cut through all layers on pencil line and have a circle the desired size that is ready for hemming. — VELMA.

DEAR POLLY — and Mrs. J.D.W. — When making a circular floor length skirt for a table, use a skirt hemmer for marking the length and cut with pinking shears so it can be cut without hemming. — DOTTY.

DEAR GIRLS — Do remember when such a skirt is to be hemmed. Allowance for the hem must be made before cutting. A very narrow hem will lay flatter. I suggest using a skirt maker to make a finished edge only when such a skirt is required. To cut a small table on the dining table to make the job a bit easier on the back. — POLLY.

The War People Prefer To Forget

SAIGON — (LENS) — Vietnam's biggest battle since the Redfire in February, 1973, passed almost unnoted by the outside world.

It started on July 17, when communist forces overran two South Vietnamese hamlets near the district capital of Duc Duc, in the northern province of Quang Nam.

The South Vietnamese threw in some 3,000 extra troops as reinforcements and launched large-scale bombing strikes. The fighting still continues with some 10,000 North Vietnamese troops massed around Duc Duc.

The battle matters for two reasons, apart from its scale and the fact that the North Vietnamese appear to see Duc Duc and the neighboring town of Dal Loc as a stepping-stone on the way to Danang, South Vietnam's second largest city, 12 miles to the north-east.

From Duc Duc they can shell Danang — a city swollen with war refugees, where the huge former American air base lies almost unused — with their one-and-a-half 130mm guns. They could also strike at Highway 1, the main road between Saigon and the north.

Second, offensives of this kind swallow up South Vietnam's strategic reserve and its dwindling economic resources.

The North Vietnamese are staking a claim to the poll tax and the great deal on the hope that the economic crisis in the south will be a promotional gimmick, it was later revealed. The check was a fake.

On Wednesday, Arum reiterated his earlier estimate that theater receipts would total about $15 million, with promotional sales and other monies bringing total revenues to some $21 million.

That's $5 million lower than Arum had predicted only days before the jump, however, and even the revised figure may be on the high side.

After promotional fees are subtracted, Arum says Knievel's share of the gross will be about $3 million.

If that figure holds, then Knievel's net earnings would come to between $5 to 3.5 million after the 50 to 60 per cent taxes he expects to pay, plus the $1 million he has already laid out for the launching ramp, three "Sky-cycles," leaving the canyon and other expenses.

CAIRO — (LENS) — President Anwar Sadat's efforts to mediate between King Hussein of Jordan and the Palestine Liberation Organization have gone sour.

The communique issued after King Hussein's visit to Egypt stated that the PLO was the legitimate representative of the Palestinians "except the part imposed on such West Bank areas as Israel withdraws from."

They are unimpressed by President Sadat's subsequent explanation that the king should have "only temporary custody" over the West Bank.

The PLO's quick response to the communique was that it would not now attend the planned meeting with Egypt, Syria and Jordan. Egypt and Jordan reacted to this by saying that if there is to be no preliminary meeting to sort out the differences between Jordan and the PLO, then the full Arab summit scheduled for September 3 would have to be postponed.

This, in turn, caused a fresh wrangle among the participants, with about eight Arab governments favoring a postponement and four, including the PLO, opposing it. Then, if the Arab summit is postponed, it is very likely that the Arab-Israeli Geneva peace conference (which has been vaguely scheduled for January) will be put back too.

The PLO's present position is that it will not consider going to Geneva unless the Sadat-Hussein communique is withdrawn — which would take some doing.

Whatever now happens, Yasser Arafat's policy of working with and through Egypt has been jeopardized. This, in itself, enables the more militant guerrilla groups to make the running.

The PLO is once more considering the formation of a government-in-exile and Arafat went to Moscow to seek Soviet recognition and support which, it is believed, will be forthcoming in full measure. But it will not make up for Egypt's defection. With every-one working at cross-purposes, inter-Arab politics have seldom been in such a tangle.

The War People Production Cuts Bring Price Rise

By JACK WEBB The Herald Staff

It looks like John Sawhill, America's energy chief, is wrong.

It also looks like Tom Barger, former head of the world's largest oil company, is right. The price of oil won't go down. At least not enough to stem the huge flow of cash out of the United States and into Arab coffers.

For the last few weeks Barger has been crying Cassandra in an unending way, predicting that the Arabs and the other oil producers would soon cut back on oil production to keep the price of oil up. Sawhill, on the other hand, predicted that the price of oil would drop because of a worldwide surplus caused by belittling among the industrial nations.

On Aug. 22, Kuwait, Venezuela and Libya announced production cutbacks that will erase the world surplus of oil.

Which means that energy conservation headaches will be with America and the rest of the world for many years to come.

Barger — the man who has been proved right and wishes he hadn't — is the former head of ARAMCO and presently is consultant on oil and the Middle East.

The oil-producing nations are determined to maintain the high price of oil," said Barger in an interview just before the cutbacks were announced. "But the high prices they have now all over the world except, oddly enough, in the United States (Europe and Japan have reduced their oil consumption by more than 10 per cent, while the U.S. consumption, though below last year's estimates, has nevertheless gone up.)"

"So the oil-producing nations know they have to do something to maintain prices, and that means cutbacks in production."

The cutbacks — both those announced Aug. 22 and any future ones — won't be drastic enough to force a repeat of last year's energy crisis, Barger believes, but will be enough to remove the present surplus of oil from world markets, a surplus estimated at some a million to four million barrels a day.

The Venezuelans had said they would not allow the price to be cut," Barger noted. "They were perfectly willing to cut back production of their oil because they can't spend all the money they are making now."

Now that the oil producers have made their big move to keep the price of oil up, there is only one thing left for the United States to do, according to Barger.

Hope. The United States the price of oil will go down because of increased world production from areas outside the Middle East. In the short term, it can hope that Saudi Arabia, the one nation that has opposed oil cutbacks, can still prevail over its fellow oil producers.

"Saudi Arabia is the only nation that has insisted called for a reduced price of oil (because of worries that the high price of oil is causing international financial instability)," Barger said.

Barger noted, however, that Saudi Arabia has been under intense pressure from the other oil producers to join them in the cutback. The fact that the cutback was announced indicates, possibly, that Saudi Arabia has been persuaded to go along with the cutback plan.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia had been threatening to increase his oil production if the other producers cut back on theirs.

"I am not sure how they stand on this now," Barger said. "This is all bad news for the United States. There are widespread fears that the Arab new-found oil money, now being heavily invested in the West, will give the oil-producing nations a mortgage on the future of the United States, Japan and Europe."

All is not completely bleak for the West, though, as Barger sees it.

He believes that in three to five years there will be another surplus of oil despite the best efforts of the oil-producing nations to contain it, and that by 1980 the price of oil will begin to go down again.

That's because of increased production from areas like Alaska and the North Sea and continued belt-tightening among the industrial nations, together with the development of new reserves and production capabilities among the present oil producers.

But for now, and in the short-term, the price of oil will remain high. Very high. Oil now has a posted price of about $7.75 a barrel, which the oil-producing nations net about $6.30.

During the 15 years prior to 1970, the Arab oil producers averaged only between 76 and 86 cents per barrel.

That huge jump in price is financed by the industrial nations, who by the end of 1974 will have paid members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Libya, Algeria, Iraq, Abu Dhabi, Qatar, Iran, Venezuela, Ecuador, Nigeria and Indonesia) over $60 billion.

"Through this huge transfer of funds has been very disruptive, the oil producers aren't going to overblow us financially," Barger said. "They're not about to buy up all the stocks on Wall Street."

Instead, a great deal of the money is going into development projects in the oil-producing nations.

The Iranians, for example, just announced a revision of their five-year plan," Barger said.

"They're envisioning spending $89 billion over the next five years, of which $45 billion will be spent in the public sector for things like dams, agriculture, steel mills and other things. They anticipate a growth for the gross national product of 25 per cent annually.

"The has resulted in a tremendous boost in the living standards of all these countries."

In other words, oil is a boon not only for the wealthy citizens of oil-producing countries, but for the common people as well.

According to Barger, this has been true for many years.

As one young Saudi Arabian economist told a visiting VIP 20 years ago, "In 1945, Saudi Arabia had a total government income of $10 million. Last year we imported $110 million worth of food."

"Even the king can't eat all that by himself."

Despite their seeming unity, there are wide differences in philosophy among the oil-producing nations, Barger said.

Areas like Indonesia and Algeria can "use all the money they can get," Barger said. For that reason they want the price of oil high, but they would rather have the job or, quite possibly, before even starting it.

"If you feel you've been taken in by a crooked pool builder, get in touch with your local Better Business Bureau and also with the Division of Consumer Services, Florida Department of Agriculture & Consumer Services, Tallahassee."

McMahon advises, "We can't promise anything, but sometimes, by acting quickly, we can be of considerable help to the consumer."

'Gold' Mines Not Gold Mines

NEW YORK (AP) — It's really tough to make a speculative buck in the marketplace.

That wisdom, which invariably is developed after the fact, has been the lament of broken speculators ever since man developed trade, but it has become a dirge sung by a million-voice choir in the past decade.

The wail of the goldbug is now heard in the land, the latest victim of that diabolical tendency of the market to collapse without warning. Who said gold doesn't deteriorate? Owners of gold stocks will claim otherwise.

Long promoted as the only investment vehicle that could withstand the malaise of world economies, gold stocks this week turned out to be no different than others, they plunged, some as much as 20 per cent in one day, Monday.

Homestate Mining shrunk $10.25 to $45. Campbell Red Lake fell $8.50 to $30.12. ASA Ltd. lost $10.37 to $79.25. Dome Mines declined $8.25 to $47.12.

South African Press Code Slowly Strangling Papers

JOHANNESBURG (LENS) — One of the remarkable features of South Africa is that, for all its authoritarian tendencies, it still has a vigorously outspoken press. Whether the press will go on being so outspoken is now in doubt, the newspaper owners, under pressure from the government, are proposing that many people fear a form of self-censorship.

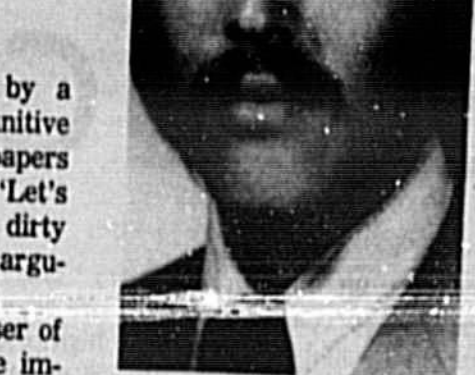

There have been constant threats of official action to "discipline" the newspapers, and periodically these have risen to a crescendo. One such rise was in 1962 after a series of internal crises, which culminated in the government's banning of the main African nationalist movements.

The then-Prime Minister Vorster warned the newspapers "to put your house in order" (by which he means they should cease publishing reports which he believed stirred up black discontent) or he would take action to censor them. Although most journalists were opposed to appeasement, the Proprietors Press Union, the proprietors' organization, drew up a code of conduct with a press council to adjudicate upon it.

For the most part the code spelled out normal newspaper practice and emphasized the press's right to be fully informed. However, many journalists feared that it would prove the thin end of the wedge and that if it did not silence the newspapers as the government wanted there would soon be renewed pressure to make it do so.

These fears are now being realized. In another upsurge of government feeling against the press last September the prime minister, John Vorster, repeated his predecessor's threat. At first the NPU did not respond. But last week a draft of the new laws which forbid mention of certain things and statements by anyone banned under the Suppression of Communism Act.

Drivers Beware: 'Jump' By Rules

By FRANK MACOMBER
The Herald Services

Remember the good old days before automatic transmissions, when a battery failure meant a neighbor or a passing motorist would give you a push or a pull?

Today it does no good to pull or push the car in gear if its gearshift is clutched. Nothing happens.

So, along came the so-called jumper cable as an emergency accessory. You can borrow power from the battery of your friendly neighbor or a passing motorist instead of a push.

However, it isn't quite that simple. The jumper cable can be a damaging tool if used improperly or carelessly. Too many stranded motorists have found this out too late.

If you carry a jumper cable, just in case your battery conks out in some secluded road or elsewhere, it would be wise to memorize the following instructions, or keep them handy somewhere in the car.

First, clip the other end of the positive or negative. Then clip one end of the jumper cable to the like-marked terminal of the booster battery.

Next, clip the other end of the same jumper cable to the terminal with the same marking on the run-down battery — that is, positive to positive, negative to negative.

Connect one end of the second jumper cable to the other terminal of the booster battery. The other end of this cable must be fastened securely to the bumper or engine block of the car with the dead battery.

Now engage the ignition of your car. If it does not respond immediately, start the engine of the other auto to avoid an excessive load on the booster battery.

Once your engine is running, restore the cell caps to both batteries. Then, remove the ground connection from the bumper or engine block of your car. Remove the other end of the cable from the booster battery. Finally, remove the other cable, first from your car, then the other end from the booster battery.

While there is little likelihood you could get a voltage shock during the jumper cable procedures because the clip handles are well insulated, incorrect positioning of the booster battery and, in some cases, even parts of the electrical systems of both cars.

Now you're ready to follow a sequence of procedures that will put you back on the road until you can find a battery shop or service station.

First, find the terminal on the run-down battery connected to the starter switch or other important economic voice in Washington is that of Dr. Arthur Burns, the Federal Reserve's chairman. But inflation, instead of abating, seems to be getting even worse. The 3.8 per cent increase in wholesale prices in July was a shocker, the largest one-month advance this year. Drought in the mid-West kicked up the food component of the index by 5.4 per cent. Industrial prices, instead of settling down as expected, rose another 2.7 per cent last month. In the three months since the end of price controls, wholesale prices have risen at an astonishing annual rate of 24 per cent.

Coed Jail Hopes To Aid Adjustment

CHESHIRE, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut correction officials say coeducation behind bars is one way they hope to make life easier for inmates when they are released.

The state's first coeducational correctional center is under construction here at the site of the old boys' reformatory. The $43-million project will have room for 360 men, aged 16 to 21, and 72 females. The women will be transferred from the Natick center for women, which is being phased out.

"It's a more normal, a more healthy environment for people to function in. It's more natural than segregating by sex," said Dr. Joseph Hickey, special assistant to Correction Commissioner John Manson.

The new center will have separate sections for men and women, but many of the programs — educational, industrial and recreational — will be coed. There will be no sharing of beds, Dr. Hickey said.

"The more you tend to isolate people from what life is all about in the larger world, the more difficult it is for re-entry for that individual."

"If an individual is absolutely terror-stricken by coming out of prison after three years because clothing styles have changed or he has not had the opportunity to interact with other individuals in a healthy way, with people of the opposite sex, clearly he will have a more

Unemployment: Next Crisis

WASHINGTON (LENS) — During this past frustrating year all economic forecasts in America have gone wrong because of the entirely unpredictable.

A year ago nobody foresaw last autumn's oil embargo, the quadrupling of the cost of imported food, the effect of depleted food stocks, the sear in foreign markets, this summer's drought, or the name and nature of today's President of the United States.

The American economy has proved both weaker and more inflationary than anticipated. Month by month, forecasts of business activity have been scaled down, while projections of inflation have been scaled up.

Gerald Ford assumes office at a time when the downward pressures on the economy are increasing, interest rates are at a peak and the rate of inflation is going up about 10 per cent a year.

Business activity was no better than stagnant in the April-June quarter. The rebound from the fuel shortage never appeared. After months of 1974, real GNP stayed flat for the next three months. It may rise slightly in the current July-September quarter, but economic policies in general

Savings—More Than Rainy Day Funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans aren't saving enough to finance the nation's future and the consequences could be absolutely appalling, "literally incalculable," according to the findings of a study just released.

It could lead to further urban decay, and decay, say the researchers who put the study together. It could mean failures of small- and medium-size businesses, the encouragement of industrial oligarchy, and more power shortages.

The dismal tale gets grimmer. It could very well mean that ecological and environmental programs will be aborted for lack of funds. It could mean high unemployment. It might mean chronically depressed stock prices.

Millions of Americans dependent upon private pension plans might find their resources drained away. Health and educational services might have to be curtailed. Living standards might fall.

These, says the New York Stock Exchange, are some of the implications of a developing capital shortage, a shortage that already is forcing business to curtail expansion.

Timber Doesn't Grow On Trees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — To meet the anticipated rise in demand for building materials and paper, U.S. forest products companies are currently conducting a massive program to sharply boost the timber grown on their 67.5 million acres of forestland.

The program is also designed to help preserve the nation's forests. The program will maintain the ecological system, which depends on forests to supply a part of our oxygen and habitat for wildlife.

Without intensive forest management, the country would be unable to meet its lumber and paper needs, industry experts agree. One reason is the country's continual demand for housing. Although there has been a recent drop in housing starts due to a "tight" money and the high cost of materials and labor, Congress has called for 25 million new and rehabilitated housing starts in the decade ending in 1978.

Meeting this goal will require about twice the amount of wood construction materials currently produced in the United States. Paper demand is also expected to rise as new uses for paper products are developed. At present, the average American consumes about 640 pounds of paper annually. By the year 2000, this figure is expected to climb to about 1,000 pounds.

Although the United States is currently growing more wood than it cuts, the need for wood timber is expected to double by the end of the century, according to C.R. Dahl, president of Crown Zellerbach, paper and forest products producer headquartered here.

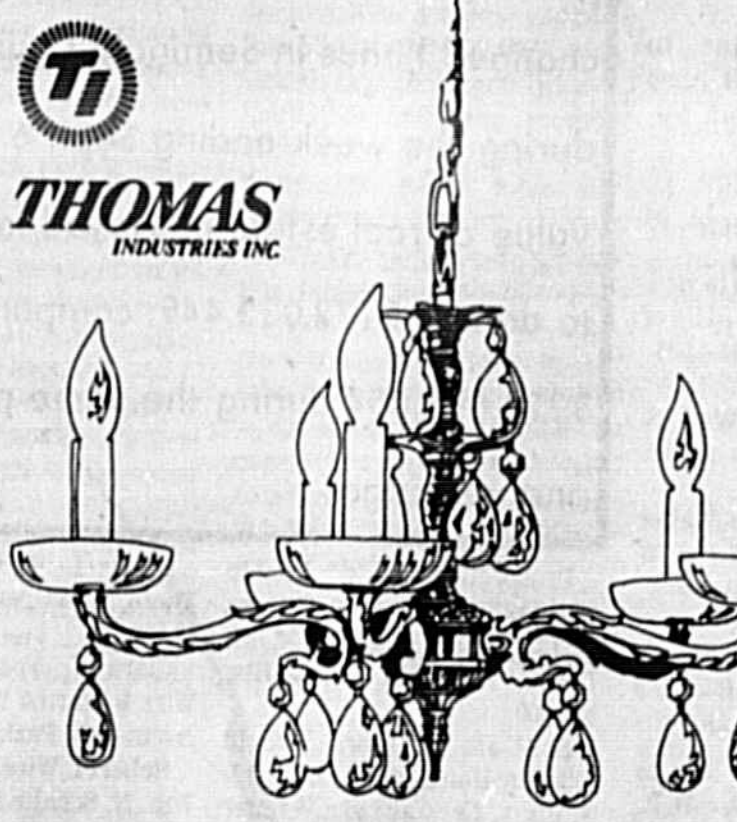

"Since the amount of forestland in the United States cannot be expanded, our only alternative is to make the land more productive," said Dahl. To boost the productivity of forests, paper companies use a wide variety of techniques. Tree grafting and cross-pollination are employed to improve "tree quality." Before they are transplanted in the forest, millions of young seedlings annually receive "intensive care" in specially built and equipped tree "nurseries."

One such nursery in Aurora, Ore., is a dramatic example of how science and technology can be combined to assist nature. About 12 million "minitrees" are annually grown in this nursery, which is about one square block in size.

Seeds produced by superior trees are placed in plastic "incubators" about the size of a large test tube. Electronically controlled moisture, temperature and fertilization enable the seedlings to develop an unusually healthy root structure and grow about twice as fast as bare root seedlings.

After a year in the nursery, the "minitrees" are transplanted in the Pacific Northwest, where they have an 85 to 90 per cent survival rate, significantly higher than seedlings dropped by trees in the forest itself.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

'Fly' Is Spirit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Spirits of St. Louis have announced a tentative agreement to sign James "Fly" Williams, former Austin Peay basketball star.

Williams, however, told newsmen that he had signed a $250,000 contract and had no doubts that he can make the team.

Williams has been invited to attend the Spirits' training camp that begins here Sept. 18.

Bucks In Exhibitions
MILWAUKEE (AP) — An eight-game National Basketball Association exhibition schedule for the Milwaukee Bucks which does not include any games at its home court in the Arena was announced Wednesday.

The only game in Wisconsin is one slated Oct. 1 against the Phoenix Suns at Green Bay.

Milwaukee will face the Boston Celtics Oct. 5 at Buffalo and Oct. 10 in New York, and the Buffalo Braves Oct. 6 at Rochester, N.Y., and Oct. 10 at New York. They will also meet the Indiana Pacers at Indianapolis Sept. 18, the Portland Trail Blazers in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 4 and the Virginia Squires at Norfolk, Va., Oct. 12.

Long Beach Coach

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gary Hannah, 34, an assistant at Colorado State for the last three years, was named assistant athletic director Wednesday at Long Beach State.

He replaces Perry Moore, who left Colorado State last month to become athletic director here.

Pirate Hurler Back

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates' orthopedic surgeon Dr. Albert Ferguson says relief pitcher Dave Giusti will join the team today in Philadelphia, and may be able to pitch in this weekend's series in Montreal.

Giusti pulled a muscle in his back Monday in Chicago while fielding a grounder in the bullpen and was returned to Pittsburgh for medical observation.

Baylor Jazz Coach

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans Jazz named Elgin Baylor, the No. 3 all-time leading scorer in the National Basketball Association, as assistant coach of the new NBA team.

Punt, Pass, Kick Competition

Local youngsters, between the ages of eight and 13 will be competing on Saturday, October 5, for one of 18 trophies in their first level of Punt, Pass and Kick competition. PP&K is an annual event, co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Co-sponsored locally by Jack Prosser Ford and Sanford Recreation Department.

First, second and third place winners of local competition in each of the six age groups will receive a trophy. Additional trophies will be awarded to the first place winner in the Zone, District, Area, Divisional and National finals.

Area, Division and National matches will be held in NFL team stadiums immediately preceding actual NFL games or during their halftime programs. Youngsters participating at these levels have a chance to meet some of the NFL players.

PP&K finals will be held at the National Football Conference championship game on December 29. Finalists will appear on national television and the winners in each age group will receive their trophies from Pete Rozelle, Commissioner of the National Football League.

Also, the names of the top winners in each group will be engraved in the Pro Football Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio, accompanied by a parent or guardian may register at the Jack Prosser Ford Dealership, or Sanford Recreation Department where complete preceding actual NFL games or during their halftime programs.

It's True, Wheels Drop Blazers.

By PETER ROGERS
Herald Sports Editor

From the atmosphere in the Detroit Wheels locker room one would believe they had just captured the Super Bowl.

Victory cheers and players congratulating each other could be heard throughout the stadium, but why shouldn't they or as head coach Dan Boisture stated, "they don't know how to act after winning."

Losers of their first 10 WFL games, the Michigan Based team came into Orlando's Tangerine Bowl a definite underdog to the league leading Blazers, and believe it or not they won.

The 15-14 win before 11,000 spectators Wednesday, was Detroit's initial win in the newly formed league, but as on other occasions, they had to struggle until the final gun sounded.

Blazer quarterback Bob Davis, who completed 16 of 33 passes in the game kept the outcome in doubt to the very end as he marched the home club in the final minute. Davis took the Blazers from their own 25 yd. line to the Detroit 30, completing three of ten passes in that final 60 seconds.

The Wheels, who had lost five previous games in the final two minutes, made sure it wasn't going to happen again. Safety Terry Hoepfner, who had previously intercepted two passes, knocked down Davis' final throw to Greg Latta near the end zone.

"When he (Davis) started putting the ball in the air at the end I thought it was going to happen again," expounded a jubilant Boisture after the game.

The Wheels surely looked the part of a team with a 10-0 record in the first half as they accumulated only 44 total yards to the Blazers 205, but trailed only 7-0 at intermission.

Florida's second quarter score came at the 4:30 mark, as Davis completed a 15 yd. pass to running back Jim Strong for the score. The try for the action point failed.

The touchdown was set up by kicker Bill Hobbs, who faked a punt and ran the additional five yards for the first down to keep the drive going.

Along with Detroit's lack of offense in the first half, Florida's defense was superb as they sacked quarterback Bubba Wyche five times for a total of 46 yards.

Detroit's poor play and lack of concentration could be attributed, according to Boisture, to the instability of the franchise.

"We never know from day to day if the team is going to be moved or even folded," the head man explained.

The Wheels have been rumored to be headed for Charlotte, or numerous other cities that have been mentioned.

As Wyche and punter Eric Guthrie, who faked a punt for a 22 yd. pass play in the second quarter stated, "The pressure is off now, and we want to win."

From their performance in the third quarter, the Wheels certainly proved they can win, as Wyche and wide receiver Jon Henderson teamed up for a 49 yd. touchdown play to even the score at seven.

Four minutes later, the Wheels got the ball again and Wyche completed a pass to fullback Sam Scarber. The Blazers 11 yd. line. From there, rookie Billy Sadler carried the ball into the end zone for Detroit's second score. The action point was converted.

Davis came out throwing in the final quarter and completed four consecutive passes to Tommy Reason, Eddie Richardson and two to Matt Masowski to the Wheels 20 yd. line.

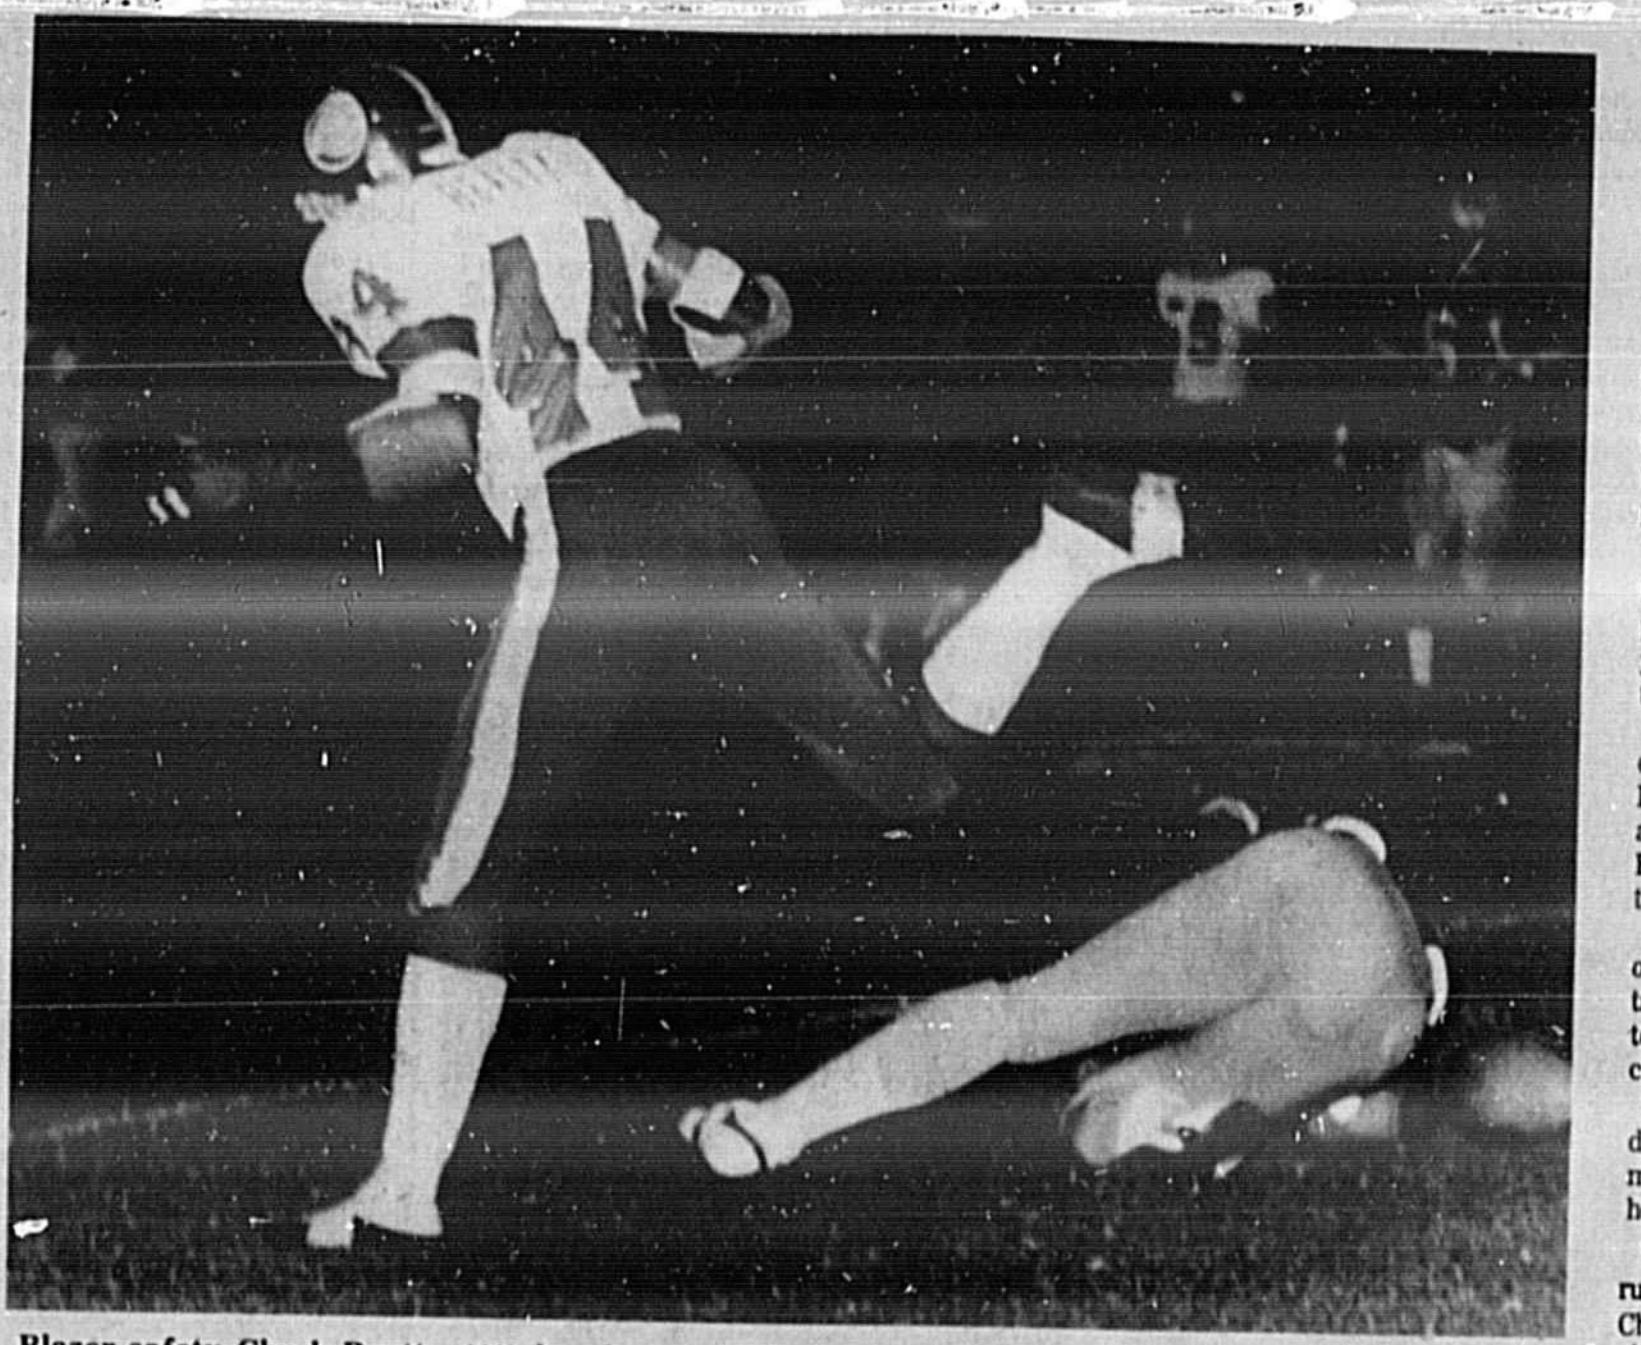

From there Reason scored on an end run. The action point was converted, making the score 15-14 Detroit. The Blazers marched 80 yds on six plays for their final score.

GRID DUST—With the loss, the Blazers are now 7-4 and will entertain Philadelphia and Chicago the next two weeks at the Tangerine Bowl. Detroit was playing its fourth game in the last 15 days. A somber Blazer coach, Jack Pardee said after the game, it was a total team loss, and that Detroit made the big plays and we didn't. Two Detroit assistant coaches stationed in the press box throughout the game did a victory dance in the final gun.

Birmingham Drops 1st

By HOWARD SENER
AP Sports Writer

The rookie World Football League — newly embarked on the second half of its 20-game season — no longer has any unbeaten or winless teams.

The Memphis Southern rolled to a 46-7 victory Wednesday night to hand the Birmingham Americans their first loss.

In Orlando, Fla., a six-yard touchdown run by rookie Billy Sadler and his subsequent action-point pass reception eventually became the decisive points for Detroit in its 15-14 victory over Florida.

But the Wheels, 1-10, got a bad scare in the fourth quarter when Ed Marshall, scored on a one-yard plunge. Detroit had to stop an action point pass that could have tied it.

The unexpected loss plunged Birmingham into a tie with New York, 7-4, in their battle for first place in the WFL Eastern Division.

Plunker Ed Marshall of Memphis snared three touchdowns — two of them from quarterback John Harris and one from running back John Harvey. The Southern defenders made three key interceptions.

Locked in a tight WFL Central Division race, Birmingham, 10-1, and Memphis, 9-2, held the best win-and-lose records in the league.

New time period for Jack Klugman and Tony Randall as Oscar Madison, sloppy sportswriter, and Felix Unger, fastidious advertising agency photographer-executive. The first episode of the season is "The Rain in Spain Falls Mainly in Vain," and Garo Yepremian, Miami Dolphins' place-kicking star, makes a guest appearance. He is recruited as a date for Oscar's secretary after her boyfriend breaks up her romance. Felix decides to change the disconsolate secretary's image and bring her excitement to her life, while Oscar remains unconcerned.

9-10 NBC IRONSIDE SEASON'S PREMIERE

"Rise the Devil!" Part I. A two-part launch Chet Ironside, Raymond Burr, into his eighth season. Carolyn Jones, Bill Bixby and Dane Clark help get it started with a strange tale about exorcism and murder. Miss Jones plays a psychic consultant who tells Ironside to tell him where to find the weapon used to kill a rich woman. The victim was found stabbed to death in the vault of her mansion and her daughter, played by Sian Barbara Allen, is found wandering in a daze, claiming to be possessed by the spirit of her dead brother. Bixby is the family doctor and Clark plays the victim's ex-husband. Tune in next week for the conclusion.

9-10 ABC STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO SEASON'S PREMIERE

The new season brings back Karl Malden and Michael Douglas as Lt. Stone and Inspector Keller for a third year. Leslie Nielsen guests as a policeman who drinks too much and accidentally fatally shoots his partner. To cover his own misdeed, he implicates another man, then tries desperately to head off an investigation by Stone and Keller, who begin to suspect the cop and not the man he's accused. Titled "One Last Shot," the opening episode attempts to draw some social implications on the evil effects of drinking.

Engelbert's TV Special Prelude To Movie

By DAN LEWIS
The Herald Services

Engelbert Humperdinck, the English pop singer whose curcut cross-country tour is once again grossing millions, is planning to test his acting skills next winter.

Humperdinck hopes to get started in his first movie, a remake of "The Student Prince," which his manager Gordon Mills feels is just right for him.

Humperdinck, whose career success is a parody of his singing style and a sexuality he exudes on stage, revealed that he is reading the script now.

"It will be a spicy version," Humperdinck declared. That fits his public image.

"I'm not certain how well I can act," the British singer observed. "I need a movie director to tell me. I think this film will be good as a start. If I do well, then I'd like to get into something heavier—a good dramatic role."

In the meantime, Humperdinck's current tour will keep him occupied in the United States through early October. For years now, he has been one of the top attractions on tour of theaters and nightclubs, sellout audiences everywhere, including Las Vegas.

He recently departed briefly from the tour to film a television special, which is now showing around the country in syndication.

The special's setting is Bermuda. Ann Murray, the Canadian country-music singer, is guest-starred, and special attractions are two local steel bands.

"I honestly feel this is the best thing I've ever done on television," Humperdinck declared. "We were all over the island, using historical places as sets. We took a good deal of care in making it. I was up at 3:30 every morning, and they taped little microphones to my body. I felt like the $6 million man."

Humperdinck sings many of his past hits in the special, including an improvised concert before a specially invited audience alongside the ocean.

"There's more of me in this special than in any of my previous television shows," he said. He had a variety hour series which lasted only one season several years back. "In my other TV shows, I'd be like a traffic cop, doing nothing more than introducing guests and singing a few songs. There's more of me in this show."

Humperdinck had one other bit of news. He recently became a father again—for the fourth time. The latest addition to the family is a son, Bradley, born some months ago.

Big City Crime Moving To Quiet, Rural America

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the quiet farm and hillside homes of rural America people are locking their doors at night.

Clara, 47, who were found dead in the ruins of a burned-out home they were rebuilding near Ensign, a town of 233 in southwest Kansas.

Both had been shot, and arson was suspected. Robert Claster, Kansas Bureau of Investigation Supervisor for the western part of the state, and Gray County Attorney Jay Don Reynolds said they have few leads in the case.

"I think the fact that the law enforcement in rural areas is hampered by a lack of personnel is one of the reasons for the increase," said Inspector Adel.

"I think the days of spawning crime in a geographic location is a thing of the past. I think the mobility of the criminal is such that local criminals are not confined to local areas."

Weldon Kennedy, a member of the FBI's uniform crime reporting division, acknowledges that statistics — if not kept in perspective — can be misleading, and that some of the increase is undoubtedly a reflection of steadily improving crime reporting methods in rural areas.

"There's definitely more crime out there. We just don't know how much." Georgia Bureau of Investigation Inspector Ronnie Agel says rural crime rates are certainly increasing, "the most serious crimes as well."

Examples He cites examples of recent crimes in rural Georgia. Four men have been sentenced to life imprisonment on charges including kidnapping that stemmed from a commando-type gang attack on the community of Glenwood last summer.

In Kansas, authorities are investigating the slaying of Richard J. Anton, 48, and his wife

DEAR ABBY Wife Wears Rich Sister's Clothes

DEAR ABBY: My wife (I'll call her Ruth) has a sister I'll call Peggy. Peggy's husband is loaded with money, and Peggy spends a fortune on clothes.

DEAR STIFF: I think you should tell your wife what you've told me. Talk it over, and maybe you can reach an agreeable compromise.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother was one-sixteenth black. She married a white man. Neither she nor any of her children had Negro features, and they all married whites.

DEAR NEEDS: Zero. A child will be no darker than his darkest parent.

DEAR ABBY: I am blind at age 14, and take my Seeing Eye dog, Juniper with me everywhere I go.

DEAR JENNIE: Thank you for your informative letter. This might be a good time to warn people against trying to be friendly with ALL strange dogs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Are you properly registered in order to cast your vote next November?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ALMONY POOR" IN BEVERLY HILLS, CAL.: That's the high cost of leaving; also it's the next thing that should be "Nadarized."
