

ENCHANTED HARBOR By DOROTHY WORLEY

CHAPTER 20
 Bill was used in a million minutes. Alvarez had said he would be very glad to show the visitors over the Silver Song. Bill had found him on deck, a pair of binoculars focused on the government boat.

Bill thought he detected a gleam of surprise in Alvarez's eyes, but it was quickly veiled.
 He said that he did not often take visitors aboard before noon,
 but he realized this was a special day and he would make a concession.

Bill thanked him, then said anxiously, "I heard you were moving out today. That's the reason I came early."

"On the contrary, I'm thinking of a party on board tonight."

"That's fine. You know, I suppose, that activities are pretty well planned for the day and that most of the people will go to the grand ball tonight."

"Of course. Perhaps I could make it a cocktail party before-noon, or a breakfast afterwards.
 I'd like to be hospitable. I may leave in a day or so. I've promised some friends a short cruise."

Bill thought, That's a blind. He wants to foretell every move he makes in order to eliminate conjecture. He doesn't know how near he is to disaster.

When the two government men,
 with Bill and Pete, were going over the boat a short while later, Alvarez said, "I don't believe I got your names correctly. I intend having a small party, and I'd like you to be my guests. Of course my invitations must necessarily be limited and I must keep track of them."

The men repeated their names, thanked him, but said they would be unable to attend, as they would be showing off probably before time for his party.

Bill was watching. Was that relief that had leaped momentarily to Alvarez's eyes? The men had been clever to say that. It put them in the Harbor Day visitor category.

Alvarez was the perfect host.
 He was meticulous in showing them over the boat, explaining gadgets, opening doors and drawers. There was no part of the boat they didn't see. It was as if the man were saying, "See, I have nothing to conceal. If you're looking for anything, you won't find it here."

One of the men went back to the Coast Guard cutter. The other said he believed he would stroll around town, look the crowd over,
 and probably listen to some of the speeches.

When he had left them, Pete said to Bill, "I don't want to stick my nose into something that's none of my business, but I sense something out of the ordinary.
 Did those fellows have a purpose
 in going over the Silver Song?"

Bill hesitated. Then, "Pete, I've known you long enough to know your trustworthiness. I need a little help today. Something's going to break, something big, and there mustn't be any slip."

"Just let me know what you want me to do."

"See Red Gallagher's shrimp trawler out there? He's usually gone before this time of the day."

"Guess he's taking a holiday."

"Some of the fishermen have gone out. I want you to keep an eye on the Molly B and on Red Gallagher. Walk around as though you were taking a stroll to see all the visiting boats that have come in. If the Molly B moves out, let me know as soon as you can. Also let me know if you see anyone talking to Gallagher today."

"What are you, Bill? A detective?"

"Presumably I'm a writer on vacation who likes to fish. At first, I think Alvarez may have been suspicious of me. I don't think he is now, but he's a little nervous. It's a natural thing for that government boat to be here on Harbor Day, but he may not know it."

"He was very accommodating in showing us over the boat."

"Of course. He must be a good actor. Therein lies his protection.
 He seemed to me to overdo it a little."

"I wish you had let me in on this before."

"I've been watching him ever since I came to Apalachicola. I only got a definite tip a few days ago—after Rita and Priscilla came."

"Good grief! They're not mixed up in this thing?"

"No. But Lookout House is.
 My first tip came that night of the party on the Silver Song. I heard Lookout House mentioned to Alvarez quite innocently by Rita, and a light dawned. I got a hunch and I was right. It all falls into a pattern. Oh yes, you asked me if I am a detective—I tell you about it tomorrow."

Pete stayed around in the vicinity of Avenue E and Market Street, since all cars going through town passed that corner.
 The Molly B. Pete Gallagher's shrimp boat, was still tied up at the dock and there was no sign of life about her.

He noticed a man and a woman
 walking along the water front.
 They stopped near the Molly B.
 Pete's heart accelerated. He thought immediately, They're Harbor Day visitors, of course.
 But there was something about the couple that aroused his curiosity. He had promised Bill to help; he couldn't let any possibility go by.

He sauntered down to the wharf and stood looking at the Molly B., watching the couple without seeming to do so. The man was stocky, flashily dressed. The woman was dark, dressed in a trim dark suit. She reminded him of someone—why Rita, of course.
 Size, appearance, coloring.

Gallagher stepped out on the deck of his boat. Pete said lazily,
 "Hi, Red. Not fishing today?"

Gallagher shrugged. "Too many boats around. Thought I'd just stay in."

The heavy-set man came a few steps nearer. "That what you call a shrimp boat?"

Gallagher looked at the man with a bored expression. "I fish
 in it," he said brudly.

Pete looked at the couple. "If you're interested in boats, there'll be rides around the harbor later on today."

"Thanks." The man moved his cigar to the other corner of his mouth. "Lot of activity here today."

"It's Harbor Day."

"We hadn't intended stopping,
 but we asked why the town was all decorated and someone told us that. What's behind it?"

"Harbor Day? The channel to the Gulf is a sure thing now. At present boats have to move all around the islands to get to the Gulf. When the channel is cut through, it will put Apalachicola back on the map. They've been working on this a long time and they set aside the second Tuesday in November to celebrate Harbor Day."

"Sounds interesting."

"Why don't you stick around?
 Most of the activity today is over at the park. Tonight there'll be a big fish dinner, banquet and ball.
 Everybody's welcome."

"That so?" The man's voice was that of a polite, interested stranger. "Maybe we'll go over.
 To the park, I mean. We're just seeing Florida and are in no hurry." He thanked Pete and they moved on. The woman had not spoken. Her eyes were restless and not once did they rest directly on Pete or on Red Gallagher.

NEW YORK 19 — There were these two men who met on a sub-way train. Hadn't seen each other for years.

Well, well, what's with you?
 "Been doing a little experiment-

 "Matter of fact, I successfully

The second man's eyebrows

 What kind of a creature was the

"Dunno's I can say," replied the

The Urge to Fish
 There are many voices crying
 in the wilderness of Manhattan, although few have the terrible imperative of the cross — breed-

 persistent is that which exhorts men to go fishing.

It comes from the Fisherman,
 a magazine published, naturally,
 in a midtown building called the Salmon Tower. In communications early and late it lays the lash to those who shirk the rod and line.

The most recent bulletin arrived by mail in the form of a baby blue announcement card. On the cover it depicted a stork carrying a baby which holds a fish
 net. Inside the card: "The Fish-

 nounces the birth of fisherman

The parents are announced as Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Cummings. But the key to the whole business comes out in a modest footnote at the bottom of the se-date card: "Mrs. Cummings is

There's a hot tomato and cheese dish your family will love as their favorite vegetable. Mix together 3 cups hot cooked rice, 1 cup shredded green pepper, 1 cup grated American cheese, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce and 1/4 cup water. (Do not wash the rice before it is cooked. This wastes much food value.) Spread the rice mixture in a greased shallow baking dish. Cut 3 medium-sized tomatoes in half. Peel the tomatoes if desired. Arrange on the rice, cut side up. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon salt over the tomatoes. Top each tomato with 1 teaspoon mayonnaise. Place under the broiler for about 5 minutes or until the mayonnaise browns. Serve this immediately.

Final Arrangements Made For FHA Meel

Martin H. Moyer, Director of the Federal Housing Administration at Jacksonville, announced today that final arrangements have been made for an F. H. A. sponsored conference to discuss the Administration's new program of housing for the elderly. The conference is to be held in the main-floor auditorium, Prudential Building, Jacksonville, at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, Jan. 29, and all those interested are invited to attend.

Special financing to provide both sales and rental type housing for the elderly was written into the 1956 legislation. Under the new Act, among other provisions, the F. H. A. is authorized to insure 90 per cent of the replacement cost of a rental project designed specially for occupancy by elderly persons and owned by a qualified non-profit organization. Such liberal financing is expected to encourage labor unions, churches, fraternal organizations, charitable institutions and other non-profit member organizations to embark on a vigorous long range programing to provide specially designed housing for their elderly members.

Moyer will conduct the conference with other members of his office in attendance. The principal guest speaker will be Arthur W. Sherwood, Director of the F. H. A. for Maryland, and Special Assistant for Elderly Housing.

 IT'S THE NEW FORD RANCHERO

HAULS LIKE A TRUCK! No need to hold back on load. Pile it on—the Ranchero packs a greater payload than many standard pickups! Power plenty, too—Short Stroke 144-hp Six or either of two Short Stroke V-8's, up to 212 hp. Fordomatic or Overdrive available at extra cost.

HANDLES LIKE A CAR! Ball-joint front suspension and outboard-mounted rear springs—first time on any pickup—give true passenger-car ride. Cab interior is exactly like that of the '57 Ford Ranch Wagon. Power steering, power brakes, power seat and power windows available at extra cost!

Looking at the boldly modern styling of the new Ford Ranchero, you may find it hard to believe that it's actually a man-sized truck, built to do a man-sized job. But it won't take you long to find there's a lot of help behind the Ranchero's glamour.

It carries more than half a ton. That's more capacity than many standard pickup trucks offer you. The all-metal body floor is over six feet from front to back. Loading height is less than any pickup. No matter how you look at it, the new Ford Ranchero is a real workhorse.

And it's a show pony, too! The Ranchero looks, rides and handles like a passenger car. Its low, crisp lines and distinctive profile have a wonderful way of saying how progressive you and your company are.

The new Ford Ranchero is surprising in many ways, not the least of which is its low price. Never before has so much style and luxury been packed into so rugged a vehicle at such a low price.

The Sanford Police Department will crack down on violators of the city ordinance requiring motorists to come to a full stop at stop signs throughout the city.

Commissioner A. L. Wilson, at last night's meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, said "I am concerned about the apparent disregard of stop signs and safety laws of our city."

"We need a crackdown on speeding and those who are not stopping at stop signs," he said. Sanford Police Department Chief Roy Williams agreed with commissioners who spoke in favor of a continual drive against traffic ordinance violators. However, Chief Williams said "What we need is manpower and crublers."

"Whatever we need," Commissioner Wilson said, "should be provided to cut down on the terrific toll of injuries and property damage that we are experiencing now."

"I feel like something should be done about it," he said.

17-92 Deeds Are OK'd; Water Main Must Be Protected

Deeds and instruments transferring rights-of-way property to the State of Florida were approved last night by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

However, the approval for the signing of the instruments and one string attached to it.

"Water mains from the city's wells in the 17-92 area must be sufficiently protected from heavy equipment," commissioners said. "We will approve the signing of the instruments and deeds provided the city obtains assurance that these pipes will be properly protected," was the motion approved by the board.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles said that the mains are one, one-and-a-half, two and three feet deep. However, the shallow depth exists only in the ditches. Heavy turnpikes operated along the highways by contractors would split the mains, commissioners were told. "As soon as the ditches are filled we will be sufficiently protected," Knowles said.

Additional Local News On Page 8

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners requested the cooperation of the press in publicizing the crackdown on motorists. "Let them know he meant business," the commissioners said.

A report from the Sanford Police Department for the month of January revealed this morning that 150 traffic cases were made during the first month of the year with only nine dismissals. "The City Judge is issuing heavy fines," Chief Roy Williams told the Board of Commissioners. He said "The judge isn't being lenient at all."

In addition to requesting a crackdown on traffic ordinance violators, Commissioner Wilson also requested that a traffic light be installed at the intersection of First St. and Sanford Ave., 20th St. and French Ave., and look into the possibilities of a signal light at 20th and Sanford.

Commissioner Morie Warner stated that "A flashing warning signal at the intersection of First St. and Sanford Ave. would be more effective."

The problem of "blind" intersection was discussed by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners. "There are many of them," it was reported.

Feasibility of signal lights and other signals was turned over to City Manager Warren E. Knowles and Police Chief Williams.

Man Proposes Archery School, Range In Sanford

The possibilities of locating an archery range and school in Sanford was discussed with the Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night.

Jim Scott told the board "My business is archery." Scott proposed that the city allow him to operate a range in an area designated as exclusive "park property."

Presenting a sketch of his plan in locating the range in a zone where traffic is heavy, Scott said "I will build the entire range and cover it with insurance." Scott's answer came as commissioners questioned the archery expert about the safety of shooting the heavy bows and arrows within the densely populated section.

"This plan will provide recreation for both old and young," the archery expert told the Board of Commissioners. He said "I will cooperate with the citywide recreation program and teach archery to those children of sufficient age."

The matter was tabled until further inspection of property is made by both Scott and City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

President Agrees To Study

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two Senate committees voted 30-0 today for a sweeping review of U. S. Middle East policy over the last 10 years.

The unanimous vote came on a resolution by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark). The State department revealed that it would "welcome" such a study if it does not "breach the confidence of other friendly governments."

Republican congressional leaders also said President Eisenhower has agreed to such a review. They relayed the President's approval after a White House conference this morning.

The department's position was outlined in a letter from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Chairman Theodore Francis Green (D-RI) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It was not disclosed until after the vote when Green read the letter.

Military, Economic Aid

The vote came at a meeting of the Combined Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, which are considering Mr. Eisenhower's proposed Middle East doctrine to provide economic aid and, if necessary, military force to the Middle East.

Meanwhile, the House prepared to begin actual floor debate on the doctrine resolution, with approval expected Wednesday.

Fulbright's proposal states that the Middle East study will not begin until after the Senate acts on the resolution. It requests the state department to furnish in chronological form all documents which are "significantly" connected with developments in Middle East policy.

R. B. Roberts, vice president and Director of Economic Research of Florida Power and Light Co. will speak on the item he sells "Florida."

For many years, the development of Florida has been Roberts' absorbing interest, and his forecasts, based on intensive research and study in its growth and development, have proved remarkably accurate.

It is Roberts' continuing activity in directing the economic research activities of Florida Power and Light Co. that makes him particularly well qualified to speak on the subject he has chosen for Thursday night's occasion. Roberts was born in Indiana.

Board Requests Survey For New Post Office Here

A resolution adopted by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners officially asks the General Services Administration of the U. S. Government to immediately survey the immediate need for the relocation and new site for a Post Office within the City of Sanford.

The resolution adopted by the Board of Commissioners points out that the present U. S. Post Office is inadequate because of the tremendous growth in population and because of the traffic congestion in the center of the City.

It was requested that the survey be made in order that the City of Sanford will have adequate Post Office service.

In the presentation of the matter of obtaining a new Post Office for Sanford, Chamber of Commerce Manager John Krider told the Board of Commissioners at an earlier meeting that "It is possible that the new post office facility include offices for the number of government units stationed here in Sanford."

Other resolutions adopted by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at last night's meeting requested that the State Road Board name State Road 415 the Campbell Thorne Memorial Highway and that Park Ave. be retained as alternate 17-02.

Wait, See Altitude Taken On Hiring Of City Planner

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners took a "wait and see" attitude last night when discussions came up regarding the employing of a Consulting City Planning Engineer and a City Planner.

The city's Zoning and Planning Commission had recommended that the Consulting Engineer be employed and that the City Planner be employed by the consulting engineer. However, the question from Commissioner Earl Higginbotham "Are we meeting with any favorable results from the Board of Seminole County Commissioners on re-zoning?" started the wait and see stand.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles reported that he had met with the Board of County Commissioners on two occasions and once with the Seminole County Zoning Commission which produced "favorable results."

Commissioner A. L. Wilson said "I am not interested so much in the monetary assistance of the county commissioners as I am with whether or not they will go along with plans revolving around the fringe area."

No action was taken on the recommendation to employ the consulting engineer and the city planner until more favorable results are shown in the county's planning.

Legislative action is necessary," said City Manager Knowles "in order for the county to further its plans on both planning and zoning."

Local Farm Bureau Seeks To Erect Building In City

"The Seminole County Farm Bureau is interested in constructing an agricultural building in Sanford," said W. W. Lutz, past president of the local organization as he told the Board of Sanford City Commissioners of their plans.

"We would like for this building to be located in the proximity of the Court House," said Lutz. Lutz revealed that members of his organization had looked at city property located just east of Correll's Garage on east Second St. However, the size of the property was only 105 by 195 feet.

Boca Raton Area Will Be University Site

TALLAHASSEE (UP)—The Cabinet today accepted the recommendation of the Board of Control to acquire a 1,250-acre site at Boca Raton for a four-year university.

The airport site just west of Boca Raton on the Palm Beach-Broward county line was offered to the state free of charge. But the Cabinet and board recommendation provides it will be accepted only if a clear title can be delivered in 12 months. The Civil Aeronautics authority and Air Force both have leases on the property.

The Cabinet also left to the discretion of the Board of Control the question of whether a site for another prospective state university in the Pensacola area shall be accepted.

The action was swift and unanimous in comparison to the long battle which resulted when the Board of Control recommended a Temple Terrace site near Tampa for a university. The institution at Tampa will be the first of the new state universities built, provided the Legislature puts up the money.

The board is asking the 1957 Legislature to appropriate 12 million dollars to build a basic campus at Temple Terrace which could open by the fall of 1960.

Chairman Ralph Miller of Orlando said today the board visited four other prospective sites in Palm Beach and Broward and "It was the unanimous opinion of the board at its last meeting that the Boca Raton airport be selected."

King Saud Arrives Today For Visit; Greeted With Pomp

NEW YORK (UP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia arrived today for a state visit with President Eisenhower. He was greeted with the full pomp of the U. S. Navy and diplomatic corps and a cold shoulder from the city of New York.

Speaking softly in Arabic on the pier to which he stepped from a U. S. destroyer, Saud said he was "very hopeful that my visit and discussions will produce a strengthening and reinforcement of the relations between our two countries and beneficial results for the Middle East and all mankind."

The King's 6-year-old son, Prince Mansour, carried in the arms of one of the Saudi Arabian party, appeared delighted with the welcoming hands and panoply. He raised his left hand solemnly to salute each time he saw a camera pointed at him.

Saud and 16 of his party of 60 were piped off the liner Constitution in the lower bay this morning onto a Coast Guard cutter which delivered them to the destroyer Willis A. Lee.

State Can Legally Tax All Growers

LAKELAND (UP)—A citrus committee has been told the state can legally tax all growers to pay for healthy trees destroyed under the spreading decline program.

The unofficial legal opinion was presented by Winter Haven attorney Tom B. Walker at a meeting of the Florida Citrus Mutual group. Walker said he and two other attorneys felt the state had the power to tax citrus to compensate for the trees destroyed.

One grower, whose trees were destroyed under the Plant Board's "pull and treat" program, indicated he will seek to sue the board.

Jerry J. Chicone of Orlando said he would sue the board if the federal government did not provide compensation for trees destroyed. However, the federal government has not participated in the program.

Some controversy arose over whether the Plant Board could be sued without the state's consent. Walker contended that it could. He said it was set up as a separate corporation and the individual members could be sued.

New 'Loose Look' Is Introduced

By BARBARA MILLER
United Press Fashion Writer
PARIS 28—The fashion house of Jean Patou introduced a new "loose look" in women's clothes Monday to open the Paris spring showings which will decide the future feminine silhouette.

Patou's collection featured "fluid fashions" with two silhouettes—both with mobile, soft lines. By day it is the "loose look," often resembling unfitted sacks. Evening-time styles run to pretty bouffant dance gowns with light gathered skirts.

Underneath the two lines, the figure is normal. Bust, waist and hips are all back in the right places.

Belts make a successful comeback to the wardrobe. Like the silhouettes there are two styles—narrow loose tie belts that catch the fullness of unfitted suit jackets and wide sashes that firmly bind the waist of gay evening gowns.

Skirts are short. Patou's hemlines run against the current long trend. They are extra short, barely covering the knee-cap, giving the otherwise "fluid" creations a sawed-off appearance.

Buttons and bows decorate almost every one of the 130 Patou models. Velvet bows flutter on the skirts or shoulders of dressy styles.

Although Patou's gay fashions officially launched the 1957 spring collections, two dissident women designers jumped the gun on competitors to show ultra-soft and feminine styles over the weekend.

Comfort Stressed
Both Coco Chanel and Lucile Maguin put comfortable flattering lines ahead of the high-style eccentricity, which has made the male designers slightly unpopular with their own sex.

The next five days will show if these silhouettes "dictators" will bow to popular pressure for naturally lines and pretty designs.

But it will take the Thursday showing of fashion's mastermind, Christian Dior, to settle once and for the next six months, milady's new wardrobe.

Chanel, the champion of casual elegance, prefers a long lean look, built American style. Maguin designed for the typical Parisian—small, curvaceous and short waisted.

Both houses employed soft materials of chiffon, loosely woven tweeds and soft colors such as blue, rose-beige and rose-rose.

Team Studying Survival Plans

TAMPA 28—A five-man civil defense team, headed by Col. Gregory J. Freeman of Sarasota, met here Monday for a study of disaster survival plans for the Tampa-St. Petersburg area.

Freeman said the team also will discuss plans for establishing a statewide warning system.

This is the second of seven crucial target areas in the state to be visited by the team. Last week the group held its first meeting at Orlando. From here it will go to Miami, Homestead, Palm Beach, Jacksonville, Tallahassee and Pensacola.

After the team completes its tour it will return to Orlando for preparation of its final report and plans.

AEC To Hold New Series Of Tests

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is planning to hold a new series of atomic tests in Nevada late this spring apparently involving nuclear anti-aircraft weapons.

The AEC said in announcing the series that it would involve "low yield" tests.

It said a "major objective" of the tests would be to test "weapons for defense against attack."

The commission said the exact date for starting the test series will be announced later. Newsmen will be permitted "limited on-site reportage" of some of the explosions just as they were during the last Nevada tests in 1955.

The AEC also announced that during the year it will conduct separate Nevada tests related to the safety of various weapons and experimental devices "in the event of accidents such as fires during handling or storage" of nuclear materials.

For Low-Salt Dieters

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IF you're on a specially prescribed low salt or salt-free diet, you'd better make sure your drinking and cooking water is not spoiling it. Maybe you are getting too much salt just from the water.

You should be especially on guard against such a situation if you have a water softener in your home. Some of these units may increase the sodium or salt content of the treated water.

Salt Content
Just how much the salt content is boosted depends upon how hard the water is, the concentration of ions replaced by sodium and upon the maintenance of the water-softening machines.

Now this sodium content might be fairly high. Tests of samples of softened water from university buildings and private homes at Columbia, Missouri, showed the sodium content of one liter of water to be on the average of about 160 to 175 mg. The amount of sodium, of course, varied and occasionally was as high as 253

mg. per liter. This may be enough to nullify any effort to maintain a low sodium diet.

Solving Problem
In some instances, about the only way to solve this problem is to use the treated water for bathing, washing dishes and doing the laundry and to use untreated water for drinking and cooking.

Even this, however, may not be advisable for some of you who are on strict low sodium diets, for in certain localities, the sodium content of the untreated water may be high enough to spoil such diets.

In such cases, it is probably best to use distilled water or bottled water with a known low sodium content.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. B. 8: What causes a coated tongue?

A. Answer: A coated tongue sometimes results from constipation. If one is in good physical condition and feels well, no attention should be paid to the fact that the tongue is coated.

HOW MUCH IS A USED CAR WORTH?

Depends on the make, the model, and the year, of course. Every dealer tries to tell you his make is worth the most.

Here are the facts! The resale value of every make, model, and year is listed in the NADA Used Car Guide, the official "bible" of the industry. And here's what the NADA Guide shows:

"I listened to rumor!"

"I got the facts!"

A used Studebaker is worth more than other cars in the low price field, model for model, year for year. For example, the 1956 Studebaker 4-door President has the highest average resale value of all comparable V8's in its price class—both in percentage and in actual dollars and cents.

Unmarked Patrol Cars

In an effort to curb the growing highway accident toll, some states have begun the practice of using unmarked police patrol cars.

Some motorists feel that this is rather underhanded and sneaky. Although the criticism has some merit, there are also some good arguments in favor of this practice.

Human nature being what it is, drivers tend to operate a bit more cautiously when they know that any car within range may be a patrol car. But if all patrol cars are plainly marked as such, the driver prone to violate the law will drive carefully only when one of them is in sight and then speed up again as the coast is clear.

The clinching argument in favor of unmarked patrol cars is that the law abiding motorists has nothing to fear. Only the law violator need be concerned as to whether the car behind him is driven by a patrol officer.

At any rate, the use of unmarked police cars is an experiment well worth making. The cost of highway and street accidents in terms of injuries, lives, and property loss has become so high that every reasonable effort for cutting the toll deserves a trial.

Every type of appeal to the motorist has been made—courtesy, their obligations to themselves and their families, the eventual facing of death and destruction, cost of property damage, and the murderous taking of lives in highway slaughter. But none have been effective.

There have been times when those behind the wheel of a car feared the meeting of death, either of themselves or their fellowman. But as the speed of modernism becomes hardened into the minds of citizens throughout the country, cars hurtle themselves with the urging of their drivers unaware of what might be ahead at the next curve or intersection.

Anonymous police might be the answer—it might be the means of reaching out

George Is 70 Years Old Today

A United Press Extra

By DONALD J. GONZALES

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Walter

Franklin George, the courtly southern gentleman who stepped down as dean of the Senate less than a month ago, celebrated his 70th birthday today—quietly but definitely not in retirement.

Rather his schedule called for him to go to his office "as usual"

where he is zealously engaged in his new career of diplomacy.

Tonight he and Mrs. George will have a simple birthday dinner together in their suite in the Mayflower Hotel, their Washington home for more than 25 years.

"Mrs. George is not well enough for entertaining," George said.

"Well, just have a quiet dinner."

The white-haired Georgia Democrat, who ended his senatorial career Jan. 3, is devoting his full time now to his duties as a foreign relations adviser to President El-senhower.

He truly misses the Senate

where his stentorian oratory

swayed votes and stilled galleries

from 1922 until his retirement from the hall of Congress. George conceded, too, that he notices the absence of the bustle and bustle

of that body in which he served as president pro tempore.

Life is quieter.

"It's a different life," George said of his new role at the State

Department. "It's a quiet life."

"You have to look after more things in the Senate than you can possibly look after," he said. "A senator has all the problems. He has to be on record. He can dodge sometimes but sooner or later he has to take a position."

In his new role as a diplomat,

George has found his tasks less all-embracing. But the work still is "not too different from that of a well-organized committee of Congress." He headed two of the most powerful and important committees during his long tenure in the Senate—Foreign Relations and Finance.

George is working shorter hours

than when he was a Senate committee chairman. He arrives at the State Department about 9 a.

m., in time for Secretary John

Foster Dulles' morning staff conference with top aides. This provides a quick review of major world problems on a day-to-day basis.

Then he goes to his new office in the Department Building where the door to Room 6100 is labeled simply: "Walter F. George, Special Assistant of the President."

George is devoting his attention to problems related to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. With the personal rank of ambassador,

he is on a standby status for work

on other special diplomatic projects as well.

His duties keep him occupied until late afternoon when he returns to his hotel and quiet evenings with Mrs. George, "Miss

Lucy."

George is an optimist about

NATO, the 15-nation alliance against Soviet aggression.

He acknowledged that it faced

"difficulties" after Great Britain,

France, and the United States disagreed over the proper way to solve problems created by Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal. But he feels that "quite a lot of work"

can be done in Washington to strengthen the alliance, particularly in the economic and political fields.

Asked about his long Senate career, George singled out his work on "14 major tax acts, social security, veterans benefits, vocational education, and lend-lease legislation. He regards the presented World War II lend-lease bill as one which stands out particularly.

He recalled that the late Henry

L. Stimson conceived the program.

George takes pride in his part in enabling the legislation which enabled this country to get ready for war.

"If it shortened the war by one month, I felt history would give lend-lease its proper setting as a step toward preparing the nation

for war and then shortening the life of the conflict," George said.

"It prepared us for war, and it

Floridians and winter visitors as well will have an opportunity to see one of the nation's top television shows, two in fact, for the inimitable Garry Moore is bringing both his daytime show and

"I've Got a Secret" which will be broadcast live as a feature of the Florida Citrus Exposition.

Recent surveys show that "I've Got a Secret", featuring Garry

Moore, Henry Morgan, Bill Cul-

lin, Jayne Meadows and Faye

Emerson is one of the most popular shows on the air. Garry Moore with his genial, bubbling personality has long been one of the country's favorite TV entertainers

and in bringing his daytime, and night shows to Florida, although costly, should prove one of the most profitable investments ever made in Florida and citrus promotion.

The Florida Citrus Commission,

aided and abetted by the incomparable Dick Pope of Cypress

Gardens, is responsible for this TV

masterstroke and it should insure

a record breaking attendance for the Exposition as well as tremendous favorable publicity for the state and the citrus industry.

While Garry and his lovable

gang will, of course, remind us that "Winston's Taste Good Like a Cigarette Should" he can't help

but comment on the healthful value of Florida Citrus fruits as well as tell of the charms and advantages of the state itself.

Thanks to Dick Pope, at least one member of the "I've got a Secret" cast wants to learn to water-ski and one of the thrills

of the show will be seeing Jane

Meadows do her stuff at both

Cypress Gardens and the Expon-sition.

It seems that Jayne has a lot of influence on Steve Allen and she is bringing him down to look after her on her Florida date.

Steve does a pretty good job in his own right as far as TV is concerned but being married to Jayne,

he takes orders just like all the rest of us do so he will be here

"extra added" so to speak, and

I wouldn't be surprised to see a few of picture releases showing not only Jayne Meadows and Steve

Allen on skis but Henry Morgan,

Bill Cullin, Faye Emerson, Skitch

Henderson, Denise Lor, Durwood

Kirby, Ken Carpenter and a lot of other celebrities hanging on the ropes in an effort to make a name

are coming down several days in advance of the show to practice.

They say some folks will "Walk

a mile for a Camel" but I'd walk

a lot further than that to see and hear Garry Moore and his gang so I expect to be more or less a week long citizen of Winter

Haven while the gang is doing their stuff there. I recall, in New York, a couple of years ago I stood in line for over an hour just to gain admission to the theatre

where Garry was putting on his

"I've got a Secret" program and it was well worth it. So you can take it from me I'm not going to miss it when he is down here on my doorstep.

Then I understand the Citrus

Exposition itself this year will be something to write home about.

Bob Eastman, the new manager of the show is one of the most able and capable men in the business and he is the kind of a guy that must top everything else or he is not happy. A kind of cross between Mike Todd and Cecil B.

DeMille. With Bob at the helm you can rest assured that the 1957

Florida Citrus Exposition will not be "just another festival" so if you are smart you will make it a point to see this wonderful show

which will be staged in Winter

Haven from Feb. 9 through Feb.

16.

Better take a week off and visit

this wonderful section of the state.

In addition to beautiful Cypress

Gardens, the Citrus Exposition,

you can take in such outstanding attractions as Bok Tower, the Great Masterpiece and Passion

Play at Lake Wales, all stellar attractions.

Slowdown For Dulles?

Washington insiders say Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may start to take things easier soon. Even since his operation for cancer, he has kept up the fast pace he set for himself when he took office. But now his intimates are urging him to delegate to his associates some of the many chores he has insisted on handling personally. Especially, they want him to stop making so many exhausting flights to far parts of the world. Dulles will be 66 on February 25.

Pole To Pole

Don't be surprised if the Russians attempt a round-the-world flight — by way of the North and South Poles — to match last week's non-stop world flight by American Air Force planes. London experts say they can do it with their four-jet Bison bombers.
The Bisons are credited with a range of 7,100 miles or more.
They could be refueled by tanker planes based on friendly countries and in the Antarctic, where a Soviet scientific mission is stationed.

Inside Monaco

Word comes from Monte Carlo that even hardened news men blushed at the intimate details
they received on the birth of Princess Grace's baby. One of the attending doctors gave an hour-by-hour account from the moment the Princess's labor pains started, with nothing left out. Some reporters cabled the facts to their home offices ("low information")
but so far they haven't seen print.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes and family of Pinecrest have as their house guests for two weeks, Mrs. Holmes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tusaus of Davenport, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Tusaus have been visiting many attractions of Central Florida that they missed on former trips here. Included have been Marineland and Blue Springs. We understand they are having a wonderful time in the near future they will visit Lakeland and St. Petersburg before their return trip to Davenport. Their car is loaded with souvenirs and their memories full of Florida as we love it.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Fenwick have as their house guests for an indefinite time, Mrs. Fenwick's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Acker and their three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Acker are considering the purchase of a home here in Florida.

The Seminole Indian week-end cruise to Lake George attracted some of our enlisted men here in Sanford. Among those making the trip were Photographers mates H. C. Ogles and Cliff Williams, using Mr. Ogles' 16 foot runabout. The members of the cruise left here Saturday and returned Sunday evening.

Everyone taking part in the cruise enjoyed a Bar-B-Q and dance before starting the return trip. They all had a lot of fun so you could say the cruise was a real success.

Corning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

VAH-7 hulas the spotlight in weekend activities, especially since drumming up the news seems to take second place to the Follies these days. Friday night, Happy Hour at the B. O. Q. was well attended by sevensers, as farewells were made to several, baby presents were given out, and weddings noted also. A detachment left today to be gone for five months, and it seems to me five months won't be very long for these girls left behind, as they are all busy with jobs, babies, school, or planning trips themselves. Elly Garbark was a guest, and will be remembered by many. Her husband is now in VAH-1, and has already left for the Med. Elly was given a box of seatic pills, since she will soon make the trip over herself, by freighter.

Gretchen Hall, Elaine Bass, and Joan Weigle gave a "Complete Surprise" party for Lou Johnson Saturday afternoon. The occasion of course, was Lou's 21st birthday, and to celebrate her coming of age, cocktails were served. Attending were John and Terry Price, Jane and John Miller, Cy and Lou Johnson, Pat and Kay Dwyer, Ruth and Forrest Norvell, Marvin and Elaine Bass and Joan and John Weigle. The gay spot that afternoon was Gretchen's house in Loch Arbor.

We played golf with Cy and

Jean Filton Sunday, and what a miserable game it was. Am seriously thinking of quitting, but after writing about the green fairways and long shadows, I guess most people think I'm out far only the scenery anyway, and they are right. Can't let today go by without mentioning the long awaited A.D., which landed with our seeing it. Especially since it goes to our squadron. Ernie Horrell and Chuck McBratnie are the deserving heroes involved, and I love their comments about this mighty First being a routine Navy flight.

Hope by now everyone has heard about the Sultan's contest. Vote for the man in your civic organization who has been selected. There will be jars in the banks and drugstores with a contestant's name or picture on it. It's a penny a vote, but a dime or quarter will really put your choice in the running. It's all part of the High Favor Follies, and the Sultans will be presented the eighth of February at the first performance. Saturday night, the most popular one will be featured in a special number in the Follies. I think it's the one with all the dancing girls. All proceeds go to the Auxiliary to help in the ultimate goal, that orthopedic table. Better get your tickets now, especially if you want a reserved seat. And if you are a skeptical from Missouri or some other place, go down to one of the rehearsals, and you'll see for free just what to expect. I defy you not to laugh.

A general committee meeting was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Stone. Mr. Dean Reeder, the Cargill director, presided. Reports were received from chairmen of each committee. Mrs. Stone explained the Box Office Exchange system. Whereby all those who have bought reserved tickets may designate their seats by going to the Box Office at the Chamber of Commerce, which opens the sixth of February. Hours will be from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. These tickets are two dollars apiece and are tax exempt. Gen. Admission tickets will be on sale at the Box Office in the High School nights of the performance and will be 1:50. In order to get a good seat, it would be wise to buy early," remarked Mrs. Stone.

Mr. Reeder announced that all expenses have been met, and from now on all the money that is made will remain in Sanford. The financial report was reviewed, and met with little change. Mr. Reeder praised the cast and committee members for their hard and untiring work. Kenneth Rockwell, director for Cargill, who left for Gainesville after the meeting, spoke to the committees for several minutes, and was both enthusiastic and hopeful about the success of the High Follies. "The only thing left to worry about is the sale of tickets," said Mr. Rockwell. "The cast is excellent, and you seem to very

Two Honored Sunday With Joint Birthday Celebration, Reunion

Mrs. Al Wilson and the Rev. W. J. Wilson Sr. were honored on Sunday, Jan. 27 with a surprise birthday party at the Wilson home at 468 Rosalia Drive.

The guests were served lunch in the back yard from a long table loaded with turkey and all the trimmings.

Later in the afternoon some home movies of the whole family were shown and enjoyed by all. The party doubled as two family birthdays and a family reunion. All but three of the Rev. Wilson's eight children were present.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Grady Ashley, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barsh, Gainesville; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wilson, and Ray and Carol, Fitzgerald, Ga. and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson and Johnnie and Lynn, New Smyrna Beach.

Man-Made Cavern Is Tourist Draw

FRESNO, Calif. — A man-made cavern near here has become a big tourist attraction after remaining a "secret world" for 45 years.

The Fresno Underground Gardens were created by one man who worked with a pick and shovel for nearly 40 years digging out some 60 rooms as much as 20 feet beneath the surface. This maze of rooms, passageways, gardens and courtyards was revealed to the public in 1955, eight years after the death of its creator.

Baldassare Forestiere became known as the "human mole" during the years he worked on his mysterious project. The structure never was completed, but visitors are amazed at what he did accomplish.

Citrus trees, rare shrubs and flowers are protected from the scorching summer heat in underground courtyards opening to the sky. One tree is grafted to bear seven different kinds of fruit.

In explaining the purpose behind Forestiere's tireless efforts in excavating the gardens, the story is told that he at first planned only to build an underground living quarters to escape from the heat of the San Joaquin Valley, where summer temperatures soar to 120 degrees or higher. On the hottest days, temperatures remain in the 70s in the caverns and it is several degrees warmer than above ground in the winter.

Forestiere's plan to open this "secret world" as an underground restaurant is explained to tourists as they roam through his below-ground apartment and an automobile tunnel some 700 feet long.

Joseph Forestiere, an older brother, added a huge ballroom to the structure after it was opened to the public and is planning construction of a fish pond which tourists may view both from above and below.

Alcohol And TB Make Hazardous Combination

By NORMAN M. BUNDSEN, M.D.

WE'VE all heard the warning! Because he is an alcoholic, he that alcohol and gasoline don't mix. Safe driving campaigns are continually making the public more conscious of this fact.

Unfortunately, however, alcohol and tuberculosis do mix—all too easily. This is a problem of which very few persons are aware.

From the Tide

The rate of alcoholism among tuberculosis patients is much greater than the TB rate among the general population. And unless we can do something to stem the tide, this proportion will continue to increase.

In fact, Dr. Dan Morse, superintendent and medical director of the Peoria, Illinois, tuberculosis sanatorium, reports the problem is rapidly becoming one of the most important deterrents to effective control of tuberculosis.

If we were to stamp out all but one cause of tuberculosis in your community, chances are that the sole remaining victim would be an alcoholic.

Must Reform

Studies show that seldom does an alcoholic with tuberculosis recover completely, unless he reforms.

Dr. Morse puts it a bit more bluntly:

"The alcoholic with tuberculosis who continues his alcoholism almost always ends up with the undertaker."

An alcoholic with tuberculosis presents a serious problem to a community.

Because he is an alcoholic, he will seek friends who are apt to be alcoholics. And since severe alcoholism interferes with proper nutrition and lowers resistance to all diseases, his drinking companions are extremely vulnerable to infection, too.

What can we do about the problem?

Compulsory Isolation

Dr. Morse advocates compulsory isolation of all alcoholics with tuberculosis in a contagious stage who do not voluntarily isolate themselves. Going a step farther, he suggests that we re-examine our attitudes toward drinking in general. He explains:

"Our present culture in the United States not only accepts social drinking but makes it a 'must.' This attitude is a definite change from 30 to 40 years ago.

Next Generation

"Perhaps we need to retreat a little. If we continue to think as we do, the vast majority of the coming generations will be drinkers, a certain percentage will be alcoholics—and the problem will always be with us."

It's food for thought, all right.

'Bacteriostat Age' Dawning In U.S.

NEW YORK — We Americans, who already claim the world record for cleanliness, are about to go ourselves one better.

Dawning before us is the "bacteriostat age," in which chemistry takes over to surround us with germ retarders.

This means, say leaders in the manufacture of bacteriostats, that much of our clothing will have finishes which prevent perspiration odor, and can take repeated washings and still be germ-retarding.

Baby's toys will be sanitary, despite repeated chewing and tossing on the floor. Even the paint on the walls, the rugs on the floor will be doing their part to make life one of sanitary bliss.

Lawrence Iason, president of Sanitized Sales Co., said he foresees the day when paper, leather, plastics rubber and just about every fabric including the synthetics will be bacteriostatic.

This means they will be given antiseptic finishes during the manufacturing process, to inhibit the growth of bacteria and other microorganisms which cause odor, mildew, mold or discoloration.

"Within a year," said Iason "every person in the country will come into contact with materials which have been sanitized."

But, he explained, we will be aware of such finishes only because of the label. He said the chemicals used are colorless, non-inflammable, and will not affect the finish, texture or color of any material. The federal government also has okayed the use of the term "non-toxic and non-irritating," he said.

Australian Claims Cyclone Detection

By GARY SHEARSTON

United Press Staff Correspondent
BRISBANE — A young Australian seismologist claims he is able to detect cyclones as soon as they develop by microseism records.

Microseisms are earth vibrations similar to those set up by earthquakes, but they are much smaller and have a characteristic pattern.

Storins on the surface of the sea generate microseisms which are transmitted through the earth's crust to a seismograph station.

The seismologist is P. S. Upton of the geology department of the University of Queensland, and he made his statement, at a meeting of the Tropical Cyclone Symposium attended by 60 scientists from 12 countries.

He said he found that cyclones generated microseisms with a period of vibration of about five seconds.

Upton said microseisms from cold fronts and extra-tropical storms had pulse rates of three and seven seconds respectively.

By means of tables, built up from records of previous cyclones, the microseismic data could be used to find cyclones almost as soon as they developed, with a possibility of accurately tracking them down, Upton added.

U. S. Navy View
Upton said scientists use a highly specialized form of seismograph to record a particular type of microseisms which are invariably generated by cyclones over the Coral Sea.

N. Brann, acting on behalf of V. Ruckey of the U. S. Weather Bureau, said the U. S. Navy had abandoned its efforts to use microseismic recorders.

N. Brango of the U. S. Navy and Naval Aerological Service said this was done because their researchers had not always been able to use them on cyclones. He added the Americans had been working on the project for six years.

C. S. Ramage, of the University of Hawaii, later advocated a network of seismic detectors in northern Australia, to locate and track cyclones.

Ramage said microseismic conditions in northern Australia offered detection potentialities unequalled anywhere else in the world.

He added that detectors would be cheap, results could be transmitted easily to cyclone warning stations and weather observers could be quickly trained in their operation.

Microseismic research has been carried on in Brisbane under the direction of O. A. Jones for the last six years, and records have been obtained of most cyclones that occurred during that period.

Hopes Are High Today For Good Prices On Citrus

LAKELAND — Citrus men had high hopes today of good prices on oranges and grapefruit for the remainder of the season.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that three of its market agents in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago had reported citrus prices would hold at satisfactory levels. That is, P. Joy, market agent in Philadelphia for the large citrus cooperative, reported that the scarcity of such competitive fruit as pears, grapes and apples has left citrus in a "good spot."

"We should have good going for the balance of the season... providing we keep the standards of fresh oranges and grapefruit high," Joy said.

He also reported that the "very high prices" being asked for this year's limited American market pretty much to ourselves. He said most of the California valencias are earmarked for export.

Carelessness Is Often The Cause Of Chilblain

By NORMAN M. BOWEN, M.D.

CHILBLAIN is an ever present winter hazard. In fact, pernio, as we call it, is one of the most common forms of winter ailments. Fortunately, it also is about the mildest form of injury you can suffer from cold weather, although chronic cases can be serious.

Females Affected
Probably because of their lack of adequate protective clothing, adolescent females are the usual victims. Feet and legs are most often involved, but hands, fingers, nose and ears also offer good targets for the cold.

Women about 35 years of age with stout legs and thick ankles are the most likely candidates for chronic pernio.

Anyone who is undernourished, particularly a young child, is a likely victim if he remains outdoors for very long in cold weather. Even moderate exposure to cold may produce chilblain if the blood supply in your tissues is below normal.

Severe Spasm
Chilblain is caused by a severe spasm of the blood vessels of the skin when a susceptible person is exposed to cold and damp weather. An itching and burning of the affected part generally is the first indication that you are suffering from chilblain. You'll notice a bluish-red tinge to the area which will disappear under pressure.

Cleansing the affected area each day with water and massaging it gently with warm oil helps. It's better, though, to prevent chilblain from occurring in the first place. And it's the simplest thing in the world to do.

Just dress warmly. In addition to wearing your usual heavy winter garments, also don warm stockings, mittens and ear muffs.

Extra Socks
If you know your feet are susceptible to an attack of chilblain, wear two pairs of socks during the day—a pair of woolen socks over a thin pair of cotton hose. Even though it might be frowned upon in high society, it's a good idea for those of you with susceptible feet to wear a pair of woolen socks to bed during these cold months.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
E.D.: I have a large ulcerated hernia of the stomach. Is there any treatment for same and is lifting harmful?
Answer: The only cure for hernia, as far as is known at the present time, is an operation. Wearing a support may help.

Search Is Resumed For More Possible Explosion Victims

ROSELLE, Ill. — Authorities today resumed their search for more possible victims in a store-apartment building explosion that killed at least seven persons and injured 14 others.

The blast Monday reduced the three-story building to rubble, burying some of the victims under tons of debris.

Workers, with the aid of search-light beams, continued the grim probe of the ruins until late Monday night before calling off the search until today. Officials said the bodies of all of the victims were believed recovered, but the search will continue to make certain.

Of the 14 injured, nine required hospitalization and one youngster was in critical condition. Mike Pinn, 9, whose brother, Robert, 10, was killed in the blast, was not expected to live.

which was believed to be too small for the planned building. "Each county Farm Bureau is attempting to construct an agricultural building in its community," Lins told the city commissioners. "Whether or not the government builds a new Post Office with office space for various agencies, we will construct our agricultural building," he said. The request was tabled until other properties are examined.

"CURE" DRAWS CHARGE

NEWARK, N. J. — Magistrate Nicholas Castellano ordered Hattie Wright held for action of the Essex County grand jury Monday when she was unable to tell him whether a cure for asthma worked. "I drink some every night for my asthma," she told the judge. She added that she did not know whether the cure worked because she had not "finished the bottle yet." Hattie, 29, was held on charges of illegal possession of "corn likker."

CHAPTER 30

When the heavy-set man and the woman had moved away, Pete said to Gallagher, "You'll have plenty of visitors today."

"Yeah," the seaman said, "but a lot of questions. That kind of just left—he hasn't any sense about boats."

"People don't, unless they live around water."

Gallagher shrugged. "I know that. That's a government boat out there, the gray job."

"Coast Guard."

"That's right. Come it brought to some of the big fellows." He looked at Pete as if he expected him to volunteer some information. There was a peculiar note in his voice that caused Pete to wonder. Did the man want confirmation of his conjecture regarding the reason for the Coast Guard cutter's being there?

"Who said anything?" Gallagher said, looking off to where the boat was anchored. "Too many boats crowded in here today... I couldn't get out. May be to do it yet."

When Pete was back on Main Street, he saw the heavy-set man and dark woman getting into a car. It was a gray Packard, with a license plate indistinguishable from rust. That was a little queer because the car was new. When he came closer, he saw that they were arguing.

When he was near enough, he said, "Hello!"

The man's expression changed instantly. "Oh—you're the young fellow we saw down on the water front just now... Tell me, is there a bar around here?"

Bill pointed out the Gibson Hotel a couple of blocks down the street. He told them there was a bar in the hotel and there was also one at Maud's Tavern just across the causeway.

"You live here?" the man asked.

"Yes, I was born here."

"Guess you like it, then. For myself, I've never understood what anybody does in a place like this. Any industry?"

"Oh—fishing, principally," Pete said vaguely. "Apalachicola has the largest oyster beds in the world. Mostly, we just—live. We don't hurry through life."

"That's good," the man said good-naturedly. "If you had a chance to hurry these days, well, I'd be hunting that drink. Thanks for the information."

The woman said something in Spanish to the man as the car backed from the parking space. Pete watched them park and enter the Gibson Hotel, then he went to look for Bill. He found him at the Park and told him what had happened.

"What did they look like?"

"The man was stocky. Well dressed, sporting a big diamond like a lump of ice. The woman was slender and dark, a good looking. Reminded me a little of Rita."

"Bill stopped suddenly and looked at Pete. 'Are you sure they're still at the Gibson?'"

"Yes. He was hunting a bar. I directed him there. He didn't seem to be in any hurry."

"What sort of car were they driving? What license tag?"

"A gray Packard. I looked at the license but I couldn't read it. It was bent and rusty looking. Even the description tally sheet the people you're looking for?"

"The woman's description does. That car had already been spotted."

"Didn't you better go down to the Gibson?"

"It's better that I stay away. They're being covered anyway. And I don't want Alvarez to know that I have anything on my mind other than enjoying the day."

Pete stopped suddenly. "There's Peggy," he exclaimed, "with Rita and Priscilla! I completely forgot that I promised to pick Peggy up at eleven. I'm going to have to think fast."

Peggy didn't seem at all disturbed. She said they were three deserted females. Dick had called Priscilla and when she finally agreed to see him, he didn't show up, so she, Priscilla, and Rita had come together.

"Dick had an emergency," Bill said. "I talked to him. He tried to call you again, Priscilla, but you had already gone. Then he turned to Peggy. 'And you're going to have to excuse Pete, too. I had some business and wanted him to help me.'"

"I know," Peggy said cheerfully. "But no one should have business on Harbor Day."

Bill's eyes moved over the three girls. "I understand Alvarez is having a breakfast party on his yacht after the ball tonight. Anybody here invited?"

"I'm not," Peggy said immediately. "The Stanleys always have a breakfast party at their Lodge and we're supposed to go there."

"Maybe it would be more fun on the yacht."

"But we aren't invited on the yacht," Rita said.

"I have an idea that party is something Alvarez thought up on the spur of the moment," Bill offered. "But he'll probably carry it through. If he should have it and invite you, I wish you'd all go."

Pete said, "You know, Bill, I had that same idea—that Alvarez planned the party on the spot. If he really did intend to move out, he probably thought no one would suspect."

"We're still here," Peggy said. "What on earth are you talking about?"

Bill told them about the visit to the Silver Key that morning. Rita said, "The man who went with you wore from the government boat, weren't they?"

Bill looked at her steadily. "How did you know?"

"I didn't," she shrugged slightly. "It was just a hunch. And I was bent and rusty looking. Even the description tally sheet the people you're looking for?"

Bill gave her another glance and said nothing.

Rita looked at her watch. "It isn't quite time to get in line for dinner. I'm going to run over to the post office to mail a letter. I'll find you somewhere on the grounds when I get back." She stopped as she caught sight of Dick.

Dick came up, apologizing for his delay.

"Remember all visitors are in one line, home folks in another," Peggy reminded Rita. "Bill, you have to get in line with Rita and Priscilla—you're really a visitor, you know."

"No use to get in line yet," Dick said. "There's plenty of time. Priscilla and I will walk around awhile."

"That leaves me out in the cold," Bill said. "Unless Rita will let me go to the post office with her."

"I wouldn't think of taking you away from the festivities," Rita said. "I'll be right back." She turned and walked away, giving him no chance to go with her.

Bill watched her get into her car. He was sure she had no letter to mail. Where was she going? As he had no particular interest in the speeches, he got into his own car and turned it toward town. He had almost reached the hotel when he saw the man and woman Pete had told him about come out. He slowed his car to a crawl. Another car got in his way, but he saw Rita stop her car, blink, and he thought the man said something to her before she started up again.

Governor, Benson Are To Discuss Agriculture Query

WINTER HAVEN (FNS) Governor LeRoy Collins is expected to discuss citrus and general Florida agricultural problems when he meets here with Secretary of Agriculture, Nathan Mayo, Friday, Feb. 13 as a part of the "Florida Agriculture Day" feature of the Florida Citrus Exposition.

The Governor has reshuffled a tight schedule of meetings and appearances to allow him to visit the citrus show, Winston Lawless, FCE president, said recently.

"The meeting of Governor Collins Secretary Benson and Commissioner Mayo should result in pointing up some of the problems such as water resources, spreading decline, the Med fly and the expansion of our export market for Florida citrus," Lawless said.

Lawless said the Governor, Benson and Mayo would be presented to a nationwide TV audience on the Garry Moore (CBS) show Friday morning, which runs for 90 minutes over the entire network. Moore is bringing his daily shows along with his Wednesday night "I've got a Secret" panel show to the Exposition beginning Monday, Feb. 11.

This is the first time in seven years of TV broadcasting that Moore has "gone remote," taking his show out of New York.

Posture Affects Health

By JAMES E. HENNING, M.D.

GOOD posture is a habit. Unfortunately, poor posture is, too. Good posture is desirable for appearance's sake, but it's also essential for good health. Whether you're standing or sitting, posture has a direct effect on your efficiency, comfort and body functions.

If you slump, you not only feel uncomfortable, but your blood circulation is reduced, your breathing is shallow and your abdominal organs sag and function improperly. You'll probably become tired much more easily.

Good Posture
If you slump, you not only feel uncomfortable, but your blood circulation is reduced, your breathing is shallow and your abdominal organs sag and function improperly. You'll probably become tired much more easily.

Proper Posture
Proper posture, on the other hand, permits use of the body in the simplest and most effective way. Because of proper balance, rhythm, timing, coordination and muscle contraction and relaxation, you can do everything much more easily if you maintain good posture.

What is good posture? Well, you should appear to be standing straight when viewed from the side. An imaginary vertical line should be able to pass through the ankle, hip, shoulder and ear.

Natural Position
You don't have to assume a military stance. Good, straight posture actually is a natural position. Practice it and it soon will become a habit.

First, of course, you'll have to break the poor posture habit many of you unconsciously have. The backbone and feet and legs which frequently assume poor posture will help remind you of the need for doing something about it.

Some persons may be unable to assume good posture even though they try. Luckily they are in the minority. But if you find that it is virtually impossible to stand in an erect position, better see your doctor about it.

Sometimes there are physical imperfections which contribute to bad posture. This is a problem for your physician.

COMMON AND ANSWER
Q. B. What are the symptoms of tumor of the brain?
A. Answer: Symptoms of brain tumor depend upon the size and location of the tumor within the brain.

Most brain tumors cause headaches, disturbances of the various sensations and sense organs, such as the eyes; at times, attacks of vomiting may occur.

If a tumor of the brain is suspected, immediate study by a neurologist is advisable.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CORT

SOMEONE IS SURE to write a book about the Ritz Hotel in Paris. It dates back to 1893, when the gay Prince of Wales (later King Edward VII) summoned Charles Ritz and told him, "I want a nice, secluded little hotel in Paris where I can steal off for occasional—or, relaxation. It must have English service, American plumbing, and French cooking!"

Ritz went back to Paris and bought the Lausum Palace on the Place Vendôme. It contained only twenty apartments, the demand for which was so insistent that Ritz expanded less than two years later. He bought a structure on the Rue Cambon, built an arcade to connect it with the Lausum Palace and that's the way it's been ever since—200 rooms with a staff of 400 to give guests the kind of service they wish they were accustomed to.

No electricity is allowed in the kitchen; the chefs claim it makes the "specialites de la maison" taste different—and heaven forbid that anything come along to disturb the ritual established 64 years ago!

Atomic, Hydrogen Bomb Production Increasing; Plant Expansion Needed

Dulles Defended By Ike Against Charges Of Demos

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower stoutly defended Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today against Democratic charges that Dulles' diplomacy has failed in the Middle East.

Criticism of Dulles has mounted since Congress began consideration of Mr. Eisenhower's "fight it out" plan to defend the Middle East against aggression.

The House expects a final vote on the proposal this afternoon.

The President told his news conference that he has no reason to change his opinion expressed Jan. 19, 1956, that Dulles is the best secretary of state he has ever known.

The President added today that Dulles to the best of his knowledge has never undertaken any foreign policy act which the President disapproved.

The Democratic fire has become so heavy that some senators have suggested Dulles' dismissal.

Answering this criticism, Mr. Eisenhower said he had noticed that Dulles' critics had not come with any constructive proposal of what should have been done—even with the advantage of hindsight.

Shriners Announce Hospital Expansion Improvement Plan

MILAMI (UP)—The board of trustees of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children announced today an $8,500,000 expansion and improvement program for their 17 hospitals across the country.

Galloway Calhoun, president and chairman of the board from Tyler, Tex., said $4,500,000 would go to operation of the hospital clinics, $1,500,000 for rehabilitation of Shriners hospitals at Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., St. Paul, Minneapolis and Greenville, S. C., and $2,500,000 for construction of a new hospital at St. Louis.

The announcement came during the board's mid-winter meeting here.

Calhoun said Shrine hospitals, since their inception, have served 245,000 children "regardless of race, color or creed."

Episcopal Diocese Launches Building Program Drive

ST. PETERSBURG (UP)—The South Florida diocese of the Episcopal church today launched a $400,000 to $700,000 for an ambitious building program.

Some 1,000 lay clerical members of the diocese met here Tuesday to map plans for the campaign.

WASHINGTON 47—The Atomic Energy Commission said today that A-bomb and H-bomb production is swelling at a rate that necessitates multi-million dollar expansion of its fueling weapons plant.

It also reported "new design principles"—stemming from last year's H-bomb tests—"which will lead to more efficient weapons that can be more effectively employed."

This apparently means the hydrogen weapon has been tailored to missiles and bombs for a variety of military uses other than mere destruction of cities.

The AEC also claimed "a notable advance" toward nuclear propulsion of aircraft. For the first time, it said, a turbojet plane engine was powered with atomic heat in a ground test.

These were highlights of the AEC's 21st semi-annual report in which it said "significant progress" was made in the last six months toward fulfillment of President Eisenhower's international atomic for peace program.

As a special feature the commission published a five-chapter report on "radiation safety" in the U. S. atomic project. Although 331 persons have received "overexposures" in the past 17 years, no serious health problems have been reported, the report said.

Of the 331 persons, 200 received their overexposures from the big H-bomb shot in the Pacific on March 1, 1954. The other 131 of whom died in 1943, received (Continued On Page Seven)

New Floods Strike Southwest Virginia

POUND, Va. (UP)—New floods struck southwest Virginia today, adding more towns to the distress area where waters of more than a dozen flooded communities near the Virginia-Kentucky border were marooned.

Disaster teams rushed help to the stricken mountain regions. At least one person was known dead and three others were missing in tempestuous floods created by four days of heavy rain in the upper Cumberland River basin.

Damage estimates ran into the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons evacuated their homes in the broad flooded area.

The band and its 65 pieces will leave for Tampa and the Gasparilla next Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Stolen Goods Found; Man Admits Theft

A cache of stolen goods was uncovered yesterday afternoon in the Snow Hill section near Geneva by Constable J. Q. "Slim" Galloway and Deputy Sheriff Morgan McClelland.

Constable Galloway explained this morning that a white man had rented the Negro home and in routine investigation found the large array of furniture, tools, doors and screens.

"Possibly" said Constable Galloway, "the items came from several different places."

G. G. Collins, 66-year-old white man who gave his address as St. Petersburg and claims that he came originally from Ohio, was taken into custody Monday afternoon on a warrant signed by Carey Reams of Forest City.

Reams claimed that more than a thousand dollars' worth of merchandise had been taken from a home and farm which he owned on Cameron Ave. in a list submitted to Constable Galloway.

Collins denied taking the list of articles at first but, said the Constable, admitted the theft of the articles when confronted with the fact they had been found near Geneva.

The list of articles Reams claimed were taken from his property on Cameron Ave. includes: a gas butane log fire place; a gas heater, a new jet water heater with pump and tank; a studio couch; three pillows; one set of plumbing joints one set of fixtures for water heater; one bathroom; one bedroom door; one porch light; one cabinet set; one dinette set with four chairs; one antique oak rocker; two sets of shower fixtures; one set twin beds with mattresses; three window shades; one plumbers torch; one lawn rake; one yard rake; and one weeding hoe.

2 U. S. Military Attaches Ordered To Leave Russia

LONDON 47—Radio Moscow announced today two U. S. military attaches have been ordered to leave Russia, apparently in retaliation for the expulsion of Soviet officials from the United States.

The broadcast said a Soviet note demanded the "immediate departure" for Maj. Hubert Tansey and Capt. Charles W. Stockell, assistant military attaches assigned to the U. S. embassy in Moscow.

The note, handed today to Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, said the two men had been "engaging in activities incompatible with their status as diplomatic officials."

Radio Moscow said.

Their further stay in the USSR is therefore undesirable," the note said.

Radio Moscow gave no details of the charges against the two men.

900 Non-Union Workers On Strike At Patrick AFB

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Va.—Some 900 non-union workers went on strike at the nation's top-secret guided missile firing range early today and picketed entrances of two government bases.

Scores of pickets manned entrances to Patrick, embracing a vast missile assembly area, and to the storage and firing reservation at nearby Cape Canaveral on the Florida east coast.

A civilian spokesman said the strike will not interfere with any test firing now scheduled.

A spokesman for Pan American World Airways, chief civilian contractor at the facilities called the strike "illegal" and said the workers will be fired if the strike continues.

The strike was called "by surprise" late midnight EST and pickets appeared in droves at each of four entrances to the bases in time to meet pre-dawn shifts with their "on strike" placards.

Officials Search For Stowaway

FORT LAUDERDALE (UP)—A German stowaway who fled from a ship in his underwear shortly after a $400,000 fire broke out aboard the vessel, was the object of an intensive search today.

Soon after the SS Lewis R. Sanderson, a German tanker, tied up in Port Everglades for repairs from the blaze, Manfred Kohlhammer, 24, of Stuttgart, Germany, escaped through a port hole.

Dockworkers gave clothing to a man answering his description after he told them he was robbed of his clothing by a bandit.

Capt. George Fruggalt said Kohlhammer was found aboard the ship shortly after it left Belgium for New Orleans. He said the man told conflicting stories that he was a refugee from Czechoslovakia, East Germany and a deserter from the French Foreign Legion.

The captain said he did not believe Kohlhammer started the huge fire aboard the vessel.

Wilson Sticks To Attack

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's "draft-dodging" statement about the National Guard was very unwise.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference that men who joined could not have been slackers when they entered the guard under proper provisions of law.

He said he did not believe that Wilson wanted to damage the National Guard, but he thought his secretary of defense certainly made a very unwise statement without stopping to think.

Wilson told a House subcommittee Monday that the National Guard was a "sort of scandal" during the Korean War; that some young men were using it as a "draft-dodging business."

Wilson stuck to his charge after conference with Mr. Eisenhower.

Wilson told reporters his language may have been tough but that it was an accurate account of the situation.

His discussion of Wilson's remarks largely supported the secretary's position that the guard needs a more rigorous basic military training. But he openly disputed Wilson's choice of language.

His discussion of Wilson began with a simple question: "Do you share Secretary Wilson's complaint about the National Guard?"

The President said in a low tone of voice that his interrogator knew better than that.

He said that anything the leaders of the National Guard had done, to the extent of his knowledge, had been done under existing law which provides that young men between the ages of 17 and 18 can enter the guard directly.

He said he had struggled for years to make the guard a first line of defense. But, he said, it was never going to be that kind of force, a force needed by this country in a day of increasingly complex and more deadly weapons, until the government could have these National Guard recruits undergo six months of hard, efficient and basic training.

The President said he felt certain this was Wilson's goal. But he thought Wilson had made a very unwise statement without stopping to think.

Big Crowd Enjoys Comedy Classic 'Charley's Aunt'

A near capacity audience saw Players Incorporated present "Charley's Aunt" at the Pinerest School auditorium last night.

The Seminole Mutual Concert Association sponsored presentation was the third in a series of four concerts for the 1956-57 season.

A cast of ten displayed superb acting in the Brandon Thomas' comedy classic.

Possibly the most laughed-at phrase of the entire production was made by the sprightly old lady played by Ken Lynch Jr. when he repeatedly used in his lines "I'm Charley's Aunt from Brazil, where the nuts come from."

Others in the cast and the parts they played were: William Callahan who played Stephen Spetigue; Edmund Torrance played Co. Sir Francis Chesney; William Starrs as Jack Chesney; Frank Fabin as Charley Wykeham; Ken Lynch Jr. as Lord Fancourt Babberly; Christopher Kotschnig as Bassett; Constance Schneider as Donna Inacio d'Alvadorre; Mary van Valkenburgh as Amy Spetigue; Carole Macho as Kitty Verdun; and Patricia Kern as Ella Delahay.

"Charley's Aunt" will not soon be forgotten by members of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

Final concert of the season will be presented on Feb. 14.

Repairs On Home Wrecked In Search Of Ghost Cat Start

GLENDORA, Calif. (UP)—Repairs began today on Vincent Carter's $20,000 home, almost wrecked in a search for a "ghost cat" whose haunting cries turned out to be a squeaky water meter instead of the cat's meow.

Construction crew began repairing holes in walls and torn down sections of siding left from a 22-day search by police, firemen, construction men and technicians for what was believed to have been a cat trapped inside a wall.

The actual cause of the wailing was finally located Tuesday when a sound engineer using sensitive equipment traced the menacing to the defective meter. Hundreds of spectators had crowded around the house and had to be roped off by police.

Carter, whose family was plagued with the cries ever since moving into their new house nearly a month ago, sighed with relief and said that he and his wife and their two small children could now return to "normal lives."
