Performs Three-Color Television

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(Special)—The first color television broadcast in the world was made by the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) on Jan. 1, 1936. The program, which was a performance by the opera singer, Joan Sutherland, was transmitted from the BBC's studios in London to a receiving station in Glasgow, 400 miles away. The broadcast was a landmark in the history of television, as it was the first time that color pictures had been transmitted over a long distance. The BBC's color television system, known as the Baird system, was based on the principle of sequential color. This means that the color pictures are transmitted one color at a time, in a sequence. The receiving station then combines these individual color pictures to form a complete color picture. The Baird system was a significant achievement, as it demonstrated that color television was possible. However, it was not until the late 1940s that color television became a practical and widely used technology. This was due to the development of the cathode ray tube (CRT) color television system, which allowed for the simultaneous transmission of all three primary colors (red, green, and blue). The CRT system was more efficient and produced higher quality color pictures than the Baird system. Today, color television is a common household appliance, and it has become an important part of our daily lives. The development of color television was a result of the efforts of many scientists and engineers, and it is a testament to human ingenuity and the power of technology.

Lightray Gun Is Used By Canadian Training Troops

CAMP BORDEN, Ontario, Jan. 21.—(Special)—A harmless ray gun which, military officials said, "shoots" with the accuracy and range of a medium machine gun, is being used by the Canadian armoured corps in training here. By means of a light bulb, magnifying glass and lens, the ray gun is "fired" in exactly the same way as an ordinary machine gun. It is equipped with a telescopic sight similar to that used on machine guns. When used in mock battles the gun will cause "casualties" by catching men in the flickering light. Those "shot" by the gun will have no doubt that they are hit, officials said, because even at ranges up to 1,500 yards in bright sunlight, the ray is nearly blinding in intensity at its center. A few feet on either side, within what would be the "beaten zone" of a machine gun, a reddish-yellow light is plainly visible. The gun was conceived by Col. J. H. ...

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Income Tax This Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(Special)—The Treasury has completed distribution of blanks to 15,000,000 individuals and 1,500,000 corporations from whom it expects income tax returns this year. Technically, returns were due Jan. 1, but officials said it was customary for many persons to wait almost until midnight March 15, the deadline, before filing them. The anticipated number of individual returns was double the 1940 figure, due to the Defense Revenue Act of last summer. This act cut exemptions for single persons from $1,000 to $500 and for family heads from $2,500 to $2,000, besides adding a 10 percent "surcharge" to the regular rates. That meant that the Treasury wanted a return from every unmarried person who earned at least as much as $1,500 a year and every family head who earned $3,477 a year last year. Figuring that the millions of new taxpayers would need at least as much help as their "old customers" in filling in the tax blanks, officials said they were starting early to organize informational facilities at the 53 collector's offices throughout the country. The number of anticipated corporation returns was only about 500,000 more than last year, but many corporations will have an extra return to fill out in compliance with newest of the defense taxes—the excess profits levy. The United States army is to be increased to 1,400,000 in 1942.

GRIFFIN ALLOWED

"It's the one unforgivable social error"

It is common for many people to be afflicted with indigestion and acidity. This is often due to the fact that they are eating too much and too fast. The result is that the food is not properly digested and the stomach is overburdened. This can lead to a variety of symptoms, including bloating, gas, and heartburn. The best way to avoid these problems is to eat a balanced diet and to eat slowly and in moderation. It is also important to avoid eating too late in the evening, as this can interfere with the digestive process. If you are experiencing any of these symptoms, it is important to see a doctor. They can help you determine the cause of your problem and recommend the best treatment. In the meantime, you can try some home remedies, such as drinking warm water with lemon juice or taking over-the-counter antacids. These can help to relieve your symptoms and improve your digestion. Remember, a healthy diet and lifestyle are the key to good digestive health.

McNary Cites Powers Given In Lend Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Senator McNary, Oregon Republican leader and running mate of Wendell Willkie in the Presidential campaign, today denounced the Lend-Lease bill in its present form.

McNary Cites Powers Given In Lend Bill

He said the bill grants an extraordinary total power to one person.

McNary defined his position as the House Foreign Affairs Committee received a statement from Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, describing the bill as contrary to democratic control by the people over their own destiny.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill indicated today that Britain's plan for an invasion of the European continent was the impelling reason for the government's preparations to convert labor.

He referred to the need of supplying "an army that could be taken overseas with all it would require for continuous action against the Germans" and said the plan to meet this need "was just beginning to come into production." He spoke before commoners.

No Benefit To South Seen From Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Work Projects Administration said yesterday the national defense program probably would not improve the economic condition of the rural south.

Corrington Gill, assistant WPA commissioner, said this conclusion resulted from a WPA study, "The Plantation South, 1934-37," just made public.

Recent increases in the size of southern plantations, a shift to wage labor at the expense of tenants, and farm mechanization, have resulted, Gill said, in widespread unemployment and under-employment. The cotton and tobacco planters do not expect their situation to be offset by the national defense program, it was added.

Little Church Around The Corner In New York Famed Far And Wide

By LILLIAN N. BRANAN

The Church of the Transfiguration or better known as "The Little Church Around the Corner" is on 29th St. between 5th Avenue and Madison Avenue, New York City. The first service of the parish was held on the first Sunday in October, 1848, at the house of Lawson Carter, 18 E. 24th Street. The church was built the following year.

The quaint and rare elaborate flowers and shrubs, the tall elm, surviving two of its fellows, the gay fountain which delights the birds, all enclosed by an iron fence and overshadowed by office buildings are known to visitors from all parts of the world. The sanctuary light burns day and night telling of the Presence that heats and blesses.

The seal of the church bears the date 1849, the year when the parish was formally incorporated. The parish of the Transfiguration church in the Upper East Side of New York City to carry on the historic Oxford movement of reviving the full Catholic faith in the Anglican Church. This church was a pioneer in the daily celebration of the Holy Communion in a private home in 1880. The 1900 pound bell in the tower tolls at the moment of the consecration of the Eucharist.

Upon the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the church, the Rev. Peter Dalmond and his choir in 1849, the original choir of men and boys, introduced one of the earliest applications of the organ in the church. There is the main part of the church and three chapels. The oak chapel services between the chancel and nave are richly covered with old-fashioned Gothic statues of St. Barbara and St. Anne and the two large Gothic and smaller figures of St. Baptist, St. Elizabeth, St. Peter and St. Paul.

The first service of the church took place in 1849. The temple, founded by the Rev. Peter Dalmond, was built five years later. The youngest was the first service of the church. The church was founded in 1849. The church was founded in 1849. The church was founded in 1849.

Improvements To State Parks Are Urged By Board

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 22.—(Special)—Among the recommendations made in the Florida Park, Parkway and Recreational Area Study report, completed under the sponsorship of the Florida State Planning Board, of which George G. Gross is executive secretary, are the expansion of recreational facilities in existing state parks and improved access to main highways; the acquisition of areas which, because of their scenic, scientific archaeological and historic values should be preserved; and the acquisition and development of ocean and gulf beach areas to provide recreational opportunities for year-around population as well as for out-of-state visitors.

The report in which these and other recommendations are made is a 128-page, mimeographed volume in which all phases of recreation are discussed and recommendations based on a study of the park and recreation areas, and the need of the people of Florida in this respect.

The Florida State Planning Board believes that recreation planning is a social necessity because provision of adequate recreation areas and facilities is one of the major factors in defense against anti-social influences.

Recreation in Florida has unusually significant economic implications to our tourist industry—our source of greatest revenue, the report says, recreation is a large, fast-growing business which is becoming increasingly competitive among the states. Florida City to Key West as an overseas gateway, a study of rivers, streams and lakes to determine recreation possibilities; the acquisition and development of areas in sections of the state not now served; that priority be given to areas and facilities which meet mass needs; enlargement of aviation facilities; acquisition of land for wildlife areas; establishment of recreation programs in state parks; development of recreation areas and facilities in rural sections; and expansion of recreation in state institutions. The legislative requirements necessary to carry out the recommendations are listed.

The report also recommends that the activities of all federal, state, county and municipal agencies be coordinated into a statewide recreation program, and that an educational program be conducted to acquaint people with the recreation and conservation areas and facilities throughout the state.

Seed of New Corn Is Released To Farmers

QUINCY, Jan. 22.—(Special)—The Florida Experiment Station is now releasing to farmers seed of a new variety of yellow corn, Florida Yellow, for 1941 planting. It is said to be especially adapted to northern and western Florida.

Field records for five years have shown the new variety to yield as well as the prolific white varieties on test, averaging slightly more than 24 bushels per acre at Gainesville and 26 bushels at Quincy. It has outstanding strength of stalk, a very high percentage of the stalks standing upright at harvest time. The ears are covered with long light heavy husks which afford protection against weevils and ear worms.

J. D. Warner, agronomist in charge of the North Florida Experiment Station, where the seed are for sale, believes that the new variety will greatly increase average production of yellow corn in Florida.

Yellow corn is desired by cattle and poultry farmers because of its extra vitamin content and value in the ration.

Stewart Says— Mussolini's Fiasco Would Hurt Prestige Of Axis-Pal Hitler

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Special From Columbus
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was more subtle in his recent New Year's message to King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy than his Italian ally. Churchill was in his subtlest mood in his message to the Italian people, shortly preceding the presidential cable to their emperor (DORRIS Mussolini being the real one). The White House, however, has been so sure that P. King Emmanuel D. R. actually intended to be subtle. It seemed to him that he meant nothing more than he specifically said in his holiday greeting to his majesty. And maybe it's true that the Emperor Emmanuel III, in the wake of his dispatch was unimpressed. Nevertheless, taking it in connection with things he's said previously and his policy recently, the message certainly hurt the Emperor's prestige.

Prime Minister Churchill declared out and out that "we mean and we mean" was responsible for Italy's participation in today's war and supported to the hilt the Emperor's decision to refer to Mussolini and beyond a doubt, expected to be understood.

Prior to the Churchill broadcast President Roosevelt already had described Italy as having "stabbed France in the back." It appears now that he felt that the stab had been done by Benito rather than by the Italian people, for as far as the people are concerned, he plainly wished them well. In his message to King Victor, that he expressed the hope that "during the year to come the Italian people may be enabled to enjoy the blessing of a righteous peace."

Nobody can guess otherwise than that he's "anti" the Axis dictators. But like Winston Churchill, he appears to distinguish between Italy's dictator and the rest of the Italians. Possibly he and Winston also distinguished between Dictator Hitler and other Germans, but they haven't announced it plainly. However, relative to Italy, and F. D. R. has announced it by very obvious implication.

Reports from Germany don't indicate any considerable German disaffection with Herr Hitler, which is understandable; he had fairly good luck with his part of the war thus far.

Admiral Raeder, though, it is believed, is not so sure. He is an Adolf Hitler Germany, to begin with. And if he was, the run of luck in his forces have had since the outbreak of the war in Africa have been enough to make him waver in his standing among his home folk. Furthermore, the hope is that the war will end by getting into the war in the first place.

Admiral Raeder has another advantage over Benito.

Admiral Raeder's whole thing in Germany. He heart the ghost of a theoretical possibility that he has a thing, technically at the head of the Italian government, Benito horned into the boat-ship at approximately 1938 and 1939. Mussolini's had to submit to him—up to date. It doesn't stand to reason, however, that he's liked it as he's still the king of papers. It's by no means certain, however, he'll be rejected at a chance, if he thinks he can one, to reassert himself—which he can't do without losing Benito.

Here, and presumably in London, it's surmised that Mussolini does believe the time is ripe for him to make a stab at re-establishing himself.

It's Benito's case—Winston Churchill's broadcast, being anti-Mussolini but not anti-Italy, was right down the line. It's by no means certain, however, he'll be rejected at a chance, if he thinks he can one, to reassert himself—which he can't do without losing Benito.

If Benito's report with a heavy price in the hands of the Axis partners here to an end.

All States Want To Get Warships Named For Them

By John Grever
AP Feature Writer
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—If you can make seven or less 23 with one left over, you're the mathematical wizard the NAVY needs to name its new two-ocean fleet.

That problem's got to be solved, or there's going to be a bounty on admirals in 10 states disappointed when a battleship isn't named for each. There are only seven battleships still unchristened, and 23 states are contesting for the honors.

Senators, representatives and civil delegations are pushing so hard to win the nomenclature sweepstakes. Even Navy Secretary Frank Knox of Chicago is on the spot, because there's no U. S. Illinois.

In the past, there's been heavy favoritism in naming U. S. war vessels. Some states have had only one ship in their names, others as many as six.

The 23 states not now represented by a battleship and the number of vessels previously named for them are: Oregon, 5; Montana, 2; Kansas, 2; Nebraska, 2; North Dakota, 1; Minnesota, 2; Louisiana, 2; Florida, 4; Georgia, 1; South Carolina, 2; Virginia, 4; Delaware, 2; Rhode Island, 2; Connecticut, 2; Maine, 2; New Hampshire, 2; Vermont, 2; Utah, 1; Wyoming, 2.

Kentucky, Georgia, North Dakota really have the loudest squawk coming. Each has had only one ship in its name in history.

Technically, Utah, Wyoming and Oregon don't belong in the list of 23, because each has a ship namesake, even if they aren't battleships. The Utah is an ex-Atlantic warship used as a target ship. The Wyoming is demilitarized and used as a training vessel.

The Oregon is the veteran of the Spanish-American War which captured world attention in her famous dash around the Horn to Cuba.

She illustrates how seriously states take their namesakes. When she was obsolete, there was talk of scrapping her. Oregon citizens raised such a protest she was "loaned" to the state as a naval tied up in the Willamette River at Portland.

Rutherford B. Hayes
(Nineteenth President, 1877-81)
By Central Press
WITH THE Marine band playing "Darling, I Am Growing Old," one of his favorite tunes, Rutherford B. Hayes took the oath of office on Sunday, March 4, 1877. Since March 4 fell on Sunday, his inauguration had been slightly postponed—had been privately sworn in at the White House on Saturday, March 3, and then took the oath of office publicly and formally on Monday, March 4. Even more unusual than his inauguration had been his election, for he had participated in the most famous presidential race in our history, and had defeated Samuel J. Tilden by so small a margin that the electoral commission, appointed by congress, did not make known its choice until March 3.

C. L. Powell was erroneously listed in an article in yesterday's Herald as having been convicted of a charge of reckless driving at Municipal Court Monday. The charge against Mr. Powell was dismissed. A. L. Kelly, charged with reckless driving, was judged guilty and given a suspended fine of $10 or 30 days.

How to FIGHT "FLU"

THE FIRST RULE IS— don't take unnecessary chances. Avoid draughts and crowds. Dress warmly. Keep dry. Don't work or play too hard. Get plenty of sleep. And at the first sign of a cold or a "run-down feeling," see your doctor.

THE SECOND RULE IS— build up your resistance to the "flu" germs that hit the air. One good way to do that is to get plenty of fresh Florida grapefruit.

Florida grapefruit is loaded with resistance-building vitamins. It is especially rich in Vitamin C. And it also supplies the precious minerals that help alkalize your system in nature's own way.

Many physicians prescribe diets consisting almost entirely of citrus fruits after "flu" has struck.

But don't wait until it's critical that you build up your resistance to this swift and deceptive disease.

See that every member of your family gets plenty of fresh Florida grapefruit regularly. Two big glasses of fresh-squeezed juice every day are more than enough. And eat this delicious fruit daily "on the half shell."

Hundreds Killed In Rumanian Disorders; Tobruk Is Captured

Over 14,000 Italian Prisoners Are Taken As Libyan Base Falls To British Iron Guard Said Behind Rebellion Legation Says Premier Antonescu Has Complete Control

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 23—(AP)—Although Rumanian legations in southeastern Europe declared that Premier General Antonescu had mastered Rumania's rebellion, diplomatic sources expressed the belief that some disorders still continued. They asserted that at least one high general had been killed from the Guards, and that the Italian army was still in the Rumanian state.

A bloody civil war with Rumanian rebels was reported today in the Rumanian state in North Africa. The British reported the capture of Tobruk, which was controlled last night by more than 14,000 Italian soldiers. The British reported the capture of Tobruk, which was controlled last night by more than 14,000 Italian soldiers.

Italy's Libyan base of Tobruk fell to the British Army of the Nile shortly after noon yesterday when Australian troops surged into the battered town, after a whirlwind final assault of barely 30 hours, and overpowered its 20,000 to 30,000 defenders. It was announced officially that the British had captured Tobruk, boosting to perhaps 100,000 the number of British troops engaged in Britain's offensive.

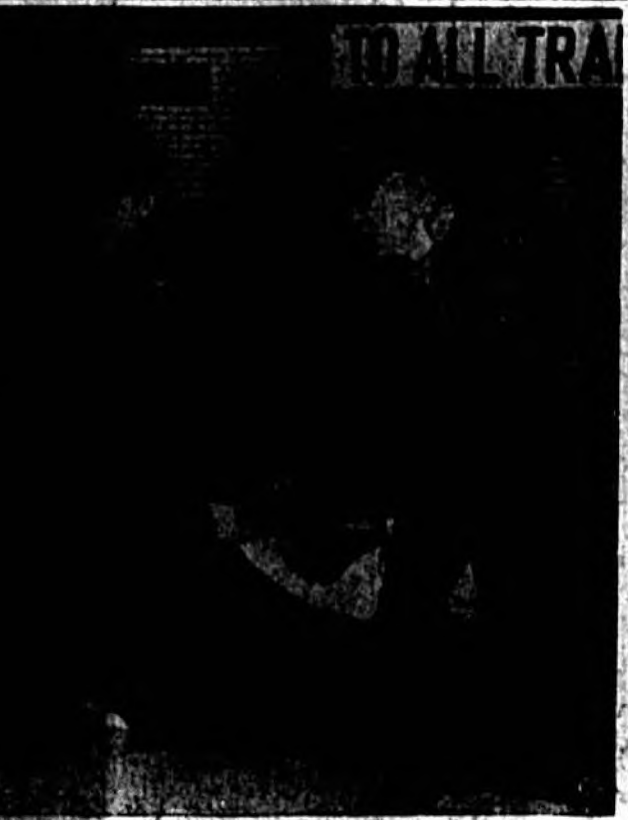

Italian prisoners by the thousands were reported to have been taken in the blow against Tobruk, boosting to perhaps 100,000 the number of British troops engaged in Britain's offensive. (In London the capture of the headquarters of the 22nd Italian Army at Tobruk was reported.) The capture of Tobruk, 80 miles deep into Libya, after 21 days of sleep by land, sea and air was said to have knocked out of the war 130,000 Italian troops, or two-thirds of Marshal Graziani's army of Libya.

When the British blitzkrieg swept across the desert on Dec. 1, overpowering 24th British, 22nd, 21st, 10th and 7th Armies, and winning out the Italian invasion of Egypt, Graziani had about 200,000 troops. The Australian troops surged into Tobruk behind a battering rain of tanks and a terrific assault by British warships and bombing planes after completely cutting off the sea route for the 20,000 to 30,000 Italian "horrible" holding the Mediterranean port and base.

Last night, it was stated by Gen. Sir Archibald Murray, commander of the British Army of the Nile, that the capture of Tobruk was a "decisive blow" against the Italian position in Libya. Yo-Yo Co-Champions Of City Are Named After Stiff Competition

Co-champions of yo-yo were named in a contest held Tuesday and Wednesday at the Aldon Company store on First Street. Spectators dodged the flying tops and nervous contenders competed for the honors of the day, which finally went to Bud Jones, twice champ of the city, and Stanley Hockey. The contest, under the direction of Alfredo Lardizabal from the Philippine Islands, attracted a crowd of people who appeared as nervous as the competitors, with the air full of missiles. The tricks were hard but the boys had the added handicap of the spinner, "walking the dog," "the breakaway," "around the world," "the creeper," "loop-the-loop" and last of all, "rocking the baby."

R.A.F. Raids Factories In Ruhr Section

German Aerial Activity Is Limited; Greek Forces Report New Success

By Associated Press
The R.A.F. carried the fight to Germany with overnight attacks on the steel, oil, and munitions works at Dusseldorf, pounding the heart of the industrial Ruhr for the twenty-first time. The Germans engaged in only limited aerial activity over Britain.

The Greek High Command, meanwhile, reported new successes on the central Albanian front. Britain is "getting into its war stride" with 40,000,000 troops ready to repulse any German invasion of the British Isles but there is a shortage of manpower in the war factories supplying these forces with weapons. Prime Minister Churchill said yesterday.

Defending the policies of his eight-man war cabinet, Churchill spoke in the House of Commons in support of the government's drastic new plan to conscript men and women workers — by compulsion where necessary — to speed up the nation's arms output.

The armed forces, Churchill said, may be compelled to reduce their demands for greater manpower during the next six months to provide workers for vital industries such as armaments.

The armed forces are enormous, he explained, because in 1939 they were set up along with a vast series of plants and establishments with the view of "continuous action on the continent of Europe against the German enemy."

Last June, however, the British armed forces were driven off the European continent. Sufficient factories have been established to supply the British armed forces with all necessary weapons and supplies, he said, and the 16th month of the war finds 100,000 more workers in munitions and aircraft plants than at the end of four years of the World War.

"We are now about to enter for the first time in this period of manpower stringency because for the first time we are going to have apparatus and layouts which this man and woman power will be required to handle," he told the members of Commons.

Selling Course Is Planned For Local Employees

District Coordinator Attends Conference To Lay Groundwork

Employees in Sanford stores will have an opportunity again this year to learn improved methods of selling a course on principles of merchandising education by the distributive education section of the Florida State Board for Vocational Education.

Miss Evelyn Beal of Daytona, coordinator in the Central Florida district for vocational classes, was present at a meeting of a group from the Sanford Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce last night to decide what course would be offered and to lay the groundwork for tentative plans call for the course to begin week after next.

Miss Beal said today, and the instruction period will last about 10 weeks. The coordinator will go to Orlando soon to arrange for an instructor, she said, and will return to Sanford probably next week to make final arrangements for the course. One class a week will be held. The day and time will be selected later.

Asked what type of people would be particularly interested in a class in the principles of merchandising, Miss Beal replied, "Anyone who comes in contact with people." Employees of stores will be the principal beneficiaries of the classes, she explained, but managers are also invited to attend.

Content of the course will be outlined in the future, the coordinator said, since the instruction for each city is patterned after its particular needs.

"Similar classes are being held all over the United States, as well as in Florida," Miss Beal declared. "In Daytona recently the employees of a mail order company were trained."

Colder Weather And Snow Hit Midwest

By Associated Press
Much colder weather and widespread snow struck the mid-west yesterday, leaving sub-zero conditions in the Dakotas and warding the mercury downward to the Great Lakes and southward to Texas.

The new cold wave, one of a series of rapid weather changes, was moving eastward, threatening to stop rising temperatures that carried comparatively mild weather over a large part of the nation's eastern half. Yesterday's southern weather was almost balmy in some localities, but the overnight prediction was for a turn to colder to the Gulf.

Negotiated Peace Is Called Preferable To Victory By Either Side In War

Flier Calls For 10,000 Aircraft

United States Urged Not To Enter Any Foreign Conflict

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)— President Roosevelt reported to Congress today that $13,466,534,331 of the emergency relief funds had been spent by the government from April, 1935, to Dec. 31, 1936.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)— Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh told the House Foreign Affairs Committee at a hearing on the lease-lead bill today he'd prefer "negotiated peace" in the European war to a victory by either side.

A victory on either side, he said, "would result in production of Europe of a type we've never seen," and would be "one of the worst things that could happen."

Lindbergh asserted he opposed the bill first because it was a step "away from democracy" and second because "it's one more step closer to war and I don't know how many more we can take short of war."

Asked whether he favored continued aid to Britain, Lindbergh said that was "a very difficult" question, adding inasmuch as this country had taken a stand on the issue "we cannot very well justify dropping that policy."

Lindbergh declared flatly that even a combination of the United States and Great Britain could not win the war "on the present basis" of aid to Britain.

He called for the creation by this country of an air force of about 10,000 first line planes with an equal number of reserves to insure American security, and urged this country not to enter any foreign war.

As the afternoon hearing on the lease-lead bill began yesterday, Chairman Bloom made public a letter from Secretary Morgenthau saying that British dollar and gold assets available to pay for American war supplies had increased $30,000,000 since information on the subject was given out Jan. 15.

While the House hearing was going forward before the smallest crowd so far, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided to begin similar hearings today. Secretary Hull's proposal will be called as the first witness, followed by other high federal officials who supported the bill before the House group.

Senator Barkley, the majority leader, expressed hope after a conference with President Roosevelt today that the lease-lead bill could be disposed of by Congress within 6 days. The House committee agreed late in the day to conclude hearings Saturday and to begin consideration of amendments Monday.

The committee has arranged to hear Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson today. They have been invited by what Chairman Bloom has called the "minority" of the Committee opposed to the bill. Bloom said William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, would be called as a "majority" witness Saturday.
