MEET HELD TO CUT RATES ON MOVING FRUIT

Governor Hardee, Rail Chiefs and Fruit Growers Confer in Jacksonville for Development of the Citrus Industry

Economic Meet Of Vast Importance

Discuss Adjustment of Rates on Transportation and Co-Operative Marketing Fruits

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 11.—A conference looking toward the development of the citrus industry of the state attended by officials of the various transportation lines entering Florida and of nearby states and representatives of the Florida
Citrus Exchange, was held here Friday under the auspices of the Florida Development Board. Gov.
Cary A. Hardee, who arrived in Jacksonville Friday to attend the conference, presided.

The principal topics of discussion were the adjustment of freight rates and co-operation between the carriers and growers in co-operative marketing as a means of developing the citrus industry.
Gov. Hardee, following the conference, declared the meeting
"one of the most important economic conferences that has ever been held in Florida." The governor stated that the California Fruit Growers were facing well at the hands of western railroads and that they are able to place their fruit in the east at rates nearly as low, or quite, as Florida fruit.
He asserted the distance as haul from California to the east is twice as great as from Florida.

Gov. Hardee's statement follows:
"I regard the meeting of the high officials of the various transportation lines entering Florida and of nearby states, with the representatives of the Florida Citrus Exchange as one of the most important economic conferences that has ever been held in Florida. It was held upon the invitation and under the auspices of the Florida Development Board.
I was given the honor of presiding at the conference. High officials of the transportation companies were present with the officials of the Florida Citrus Exchange and in frank and open discussion we talked about the needs of the citrus industry.
"The meeting was helpful and a spirit of co-operation was quite evident. We laid upon the conscience of the railroad operators the fact that the problem with which we were confronted was a mutual one. They see it in that light. If the citrus fruit industry thrives and growers receive a good price for their fruit, not only will it benefit the producer, but the country, the increased volume of fruit which we may expect from year to year will be an ever in-

As a result of heavy rains falling during the past 40 that thousands of dollars have been lost by farmers and growers of Sanford and the vicinity. At the present time it is impossible to estimate the exact loss but certain of damage done to the celery crop.

Several streets subjected to the steady downpour and to the rush-and made unsafe for travel. On particularly true where a concrete not enough to stop travel.

Both sides of the bridge were hurriedly reinforced with heavy timbers as soon as the danger from flood became apparent, but the waters had washed away one set of these reinforcements when the Germans May Gain Taste Bulgarian Cigarettes, Report

PLNOVDIV, Bulgaria, Oct. 10.—When diplomats disagree, business sometimes goes by the board, and what is Greece's loss may become Bulgaria's gain. Just because a minister insisted French was the language of diplomacy, the tobacco growers of Plovdiv hope to find a new market for their product in Berlin.
Heer von Schoen, German minister to Greece, arrived in Athens and announced he would make his official address to the president of the Greek republic in German. But the Greek foreign minister, M. Roussos, insisted that French was the language of diplomacy in Greece and elsewhere, and said that Herr von Schoen should speak in French.
The German press then took up the matter, and pointed out with resentment that a Greek minister to Germany had been permitted to make his presentation address to the president of the German Reich in Greek. The boycott on tobacco, the chief product of Greece, followed.

Germany in 1923 imported 12,000,000 kilograms of tobacco, and Bulgarian growers are hoping to attract a considerable proportion of the Greek shipments for at least as long as the boycott lasts.

From time immemorial, leavening gas has made the "touch" which made the paste of flour and water a digestible food—the staff of life. A flat and soggy loaf or biscuit is an unleavened food. So it is that leavening agents such as yeast or baking powder are employed.

To insure to the American housewife complete leavening of her biscuits, cakes, muffins, etc., which is so important to perfect digestion, the pure food authorities found it wise to require a certain standard of leavening strength in baking powder.

To maintain this guaranty of digestibility—to insure minimum deterioration of leavening strength, baking powder is packed in tin. This prevents absorption of atmospheric moisture. Dampness produces premature reaction in the can—results in loss of leavening gas.

The food official, would properly condemn baking powder if packed in cheap sacks.

But what about self rising flour? It comes to the southern housewife from remote northern mills packed in porous bags. What happens to this mixture of baking materials and flour?

Chemical analysis shows that much of it has lost its leavening strength before it reaches the consumer.

Breadstuffs made with such self-rising flours cannot rise properly—they come to the table heavy, flat, and soggy.

Why don't the pure food officials demand that self-rising flours contain 0.5% leavening gas, the equivalent to the 12% required of baking powder?

Calumet Baking Powder is scientifically and legally correct—the last spoonful is as pure and sure as the first.

Packed in tin—keeps the strength in

REVEREND HENRY EMERSON FOSDICK HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION TO THE NEW YORK PRESBYTERY ON MONDAY

Was Answer to Judgment of Presbytery General Assembly; Pulpit Center Controversy Past Two Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The Rev. Dr. Henry Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist preacher in a Presbyterian church, whose pulpit for two years has been the center of an international controversy between Fundamentalists and Modernists, Monday handed his resignation to the New York Presbytery.

It was Rev. Dr. Fosdick's answer to the judgment of the Presbyterian General Assembly that he should forswear his Baptist membership and become a Presbyterian by subscribing to the Confession of Faith, or give up his associate pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of New York.

The issue had been clearly drawn, both in the dictum of the General Assembly and a subsequent communication formally tendered the minister by the Presbytery of New York. It was considered reasonably certain the resignation would be accepted.

That it had been tendered was made known in statements issued today by Dr. Edgar Whitaker, work, chairman of the special committee of the local Presbytery designated to deal with the Fosdick case. There was set forth the text of the decision of the Judicial Commission of the General Assembly at Grand Rapids, Mich., last May 28; a formal notification Dr. Fosdick last September 1; and the pastor's reply, dated today.

In declining to become a Presbyterian, Rev. Dr. Fosdick wrote that he was not moved by denominational reasons, for he had no sectarian loyalties. He was convinced, however, that he would be guilty of "moral surrender" if he subscribed to the Confession of Faith after two years of vehement personal attack from a powerful section of the Presbyterian Church.

"In answer to this proposal," he wrote, "I must in all honesty set my long standing and assured conviction that creedal subscription is a practice dangerous to the welfare of the church and the integrity of the individual conscience."

"For him to forsake the Baptist Church for the Presbyterian would 'encourage a return to a denominational closed shop,' it would 'suggest a retrograde sectarian movement'; it would be 'to agree with an attitude with which I radically disagree, to fall in with a denominational spirit which I regret and deplore.'"

"I must not do what for me would be a disingenuous and fruitless thing under the guise of taking solemn vows," he wrote. Rev. Dr. Fosdick has been associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church for five years. Not until two years ago, however, did his voicing of liberal modernist views rouse the wide opposition which began demanding that the local church oust him and ended by proposing him for trial before the General Assembly on heresy charges.

The Presbytery of Philadelphia, which forced the ultimate decision of the Assembly, led those who attacked Rev. Dr. Fosdick's sermon, "Shall the Fundamentalists Win," and his preachments questioning the divinity of Christ and the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Time after time the local church voted confidence in its pastor. Other churches came to his defense; college students memorialized the General Assembly to disregard attacks upon him; laymen, elders and ministers all over the country aligned with the two opposing forces; the controversy became international and called forth opinions from high churchmen across the sea.

But the pastor continued preaching his liberal doctrines. On the lecture platform he called the controversy "a pitiable affair."

The General Assembly at Indianapolis in 1923 adopted a resolution of "censure" directed against him. He resigned. Whereupon the New York Presbytery unanimously endorsed his teachings and preachings and declined to accept the resignation. Later a special committee of the local presbytery voted 111 to 28 to exonerate him of charges that his utterances bordered on heresy and flouted the doctrines of the church.

While Rev. Dr. Fosdick was in England last May as a delegate from the Committee on International Friendship Through the Churches, the Presbytery of Philadelphia again demanded that the General Assembly, in session at Grand Rapids, take action against him. The decision of the Judicial Commission and the resignation received today was the result.

The pastor's letter to his presbytery, in part follows:

"The proposal of the General Assembly calls for a definite creedal subscription, a solemn assumption of theological vows in terms of the Westminster Confession. There have been two historic attitudes toward creedal subscription among evangelical Christians. Some have welcomed it—others have felt that this practice is perilous to honesty and hampering to the free leadership of the spirit.

"There are many creedal statements which express in the mental formulas of the generations when they were written abiding Christian experiences and convictions. I honor all of them; they represent memorable achievements in the development of Christian thought. But for me to make a creedal subscription in terms of any one of them would be a violation of conscience.

"After two years of vehement personal attack from a powerful section of the Presbyterian Church I face now an official proposal which calls on me either to make a theological subscription or else leave an influential pulpit. Any subscription made under such circumstances would be generally and, I think, truly interpreted as moral surrender.

"I am entirely willing that my theology should be questioned. I am entirely unwilling to give any occasion for questioning my ethics.

"Here (in the First Church) was an object lesson in the new freedom with which Christians could

Labor Leaders In England Expecting Victory In Election

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Events following upon the governments' defeat Wednesday night have moved with unusual expedition. The prime minister early Thursday obtained royal assent to the dissolution of parliament, which was propagated with the usual formalities tonight and immediately dissolved by the king's proclamation, the privy council for these formalities meeting at the unusual hour of 7 o'clock in the evening. The king, as always, omitted no courtesy in meeting the labor premier's wishes, despite the fact that the unaccustomed haste to get through the formalities, provided for by the constitution, is somewhat of a novelty.

Premier MacDonald had two reasons for advancing the date of the elections as much as possible—first, a desire to avoid inconvenience to the business community and public interest generally, and second, the necessity of holding the general elections so as not to conflict with the English municipal election, scheduled for November 1.

Mr. MacDonald and his parties conceive themselves as on a wave of popularity, and therefore, considered it advisable to hasten the elections to the utmost.

So far as the elections are concerned, therefore, Ireland is out of the picture. There is, in fact, no great question to place before the electors. All the parties admit that the Campbell case is no question for an appeal to the country; hence the conservatives and liberals will thrust forward the question of a guaranteed loan to Russia. This, however, is not the sort of an issue to excite the electorate greatly.

I regret and deplore, as you see, my reasons for declining the court's invitation which you have extended to me spring from my conscience. I must not do what you would be a disingenuous and fruitless thing, under the guise of taking solemn vows. I am sure you would not have me do it."

MAY BRIDGE LAKE WORTH

WEST PALM BEACH, Oct. 11.—Property owners may soon act on proposals to bridge Lake Worth inlet, extend ocean boulevard northward to Jupiter, and develop a more adequate road system in the territory immediately north of this city. The board of county commissioners have ratified the petition for creation of the district. An election was immediately called for November, the exact date to be fixed later, and the property holders probably will vote on issuance of $625,000 in bonds to cover expenses of the improvements.

JUNIORS ELECT OFFICERS

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 11.—Joe Sears, son of Congressman Sears, and a native of Kissimmee, has been named by members of the Junior Class at the University of Florida, as their president. The vice-presidency went to Lee Worley, of Miami, while Silas Croech, of this city, won the post of secretary-treasurer. Preston Bishop, of Dunedin, was named to carry the banner and uphold the standard of the class as honor representative.

CANAL POINT, Oct. 11.—Work has been started on 33 general drainage ditches in the hokee drainage district. The work calls for ton ditching machine to be completed within 30 days. The ditches are to be 10 feet deep and 8 feet wide at top and 5 1-2 feet wide at bottom. The Pahokee district embraces 20,000 acres of land.

$10 CAN BE WON THIS WEEK

The Herald will award a special cash prize of $10 to the contestant turning in the most cash subscriptions during the Third Period of the Big Campaign---Contestants must check in before 10 o'clock Saturday Night

Easy to Win a Prize

While it takes a certain amount of work, it is comparatively easy to secure enough votes to come out of this campaign winner of one of the fine prizes offered by The Herald to the young lady who secures the most votes in the campaign.

Only a short time remains in which contestants may work. A little more than six weeks is left. Before you know it the entire campaign will be a matter of history and some fortunate young lady will be the proud possessor of that beautiful Buick Standard Six touring car which you have admired so many times.

A special prize of ten dollars is to be given to the worker turning in the most cash subscriptions during the third period which is scheduled to end at ten o'clock on Saturday night. Winner of this prize will be announced in The Sanford Herald on Monday afternoon.

The Herald office will close promptly at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Don't delay checking in. Don't expect the office to remain open for you. It will close right on the dot.

When the fourth period begins there will be another cut in the voting schedule. The voting power of subscriptions will be less during the fourth period than they are now. And then again during the fifth period they will be reduced again. The last period will find it a very difficult matter to secure votes.

The worker who works now stands the best chance of winning on November 22.

ORLANDO, Oct. 11.—Navy, state commissioner of the state, believes there is a opportunity for dispensers of orange juice to increase their sales by making it available to their patients in Florida hospitals, army object in the commission is, of course, to help extend and consumption of Florida oranges. Irish Free State Imports Totaling More Than Exports DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The total value of the imports of the Irish Free State during the first six months of this year was about $167,391,000 while the value of the exports was $109,387,465.

Of the exports, Great Britain took nearly $186,500,000, and Northern Ireland a little more than $15,000,000. United States is third on the list of recipients of Irish State products, the total being $487,000. From America the Free state took goods to the value of $8,956,755, or nearly 20 times as much as it sold to America.

The Free State exports consisted for the greatest part of cattle, sheep, pigs, butter and eggs. In the six months the Free State bought nearly $3,000,000 worth of touring motor cars.

Motion Picture Man Sees Poverty, Misery

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—"After what I have seen now at Berlin, I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of the Berlin population lives in misery and poverty," said D. W. Griffith, American film director, supervising two film productions, produced here, to a German newspaper man.

"I guess that my good friends who freely supplied me with mislead- ing information about German prodigality divided their worthy endeavors only between the Hotel Bristol and the Palais de Danse, while visiting here," the film man added.

BANDITS GET $20,000 ERISTOW, Okla., Oct. 11.—Twenty thousand dollars in loot was secured by bandits from the Old Town State Bank near here early today.

Leader Of Indians Earnestly Pleads Use of Pagan Rites

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 11.—John Still Day, a "medicine man" representing 400 pagan Indians on the Red Lake reservation near the Canadian boundary, protested against the efforts of the Indian bureau to abolish old tribal customs when he appeared before the Senate Indian Affairs sub-committee during its investigation here.

Mention had been made to the sub-committee that the tribal dances were detrimental to the Indians' crops, and that they interfered with the educational work among the younger members of the tribes.

Still Day is a tall, handsome, Chippewa fullblood. He did not wear the barb of the tribal healer but appeared in the attire of the white man. Speaking through an interpreter he told the committee that he was not the chief nor the great speaker, but protested against "the white man's efforts to take away my religion."

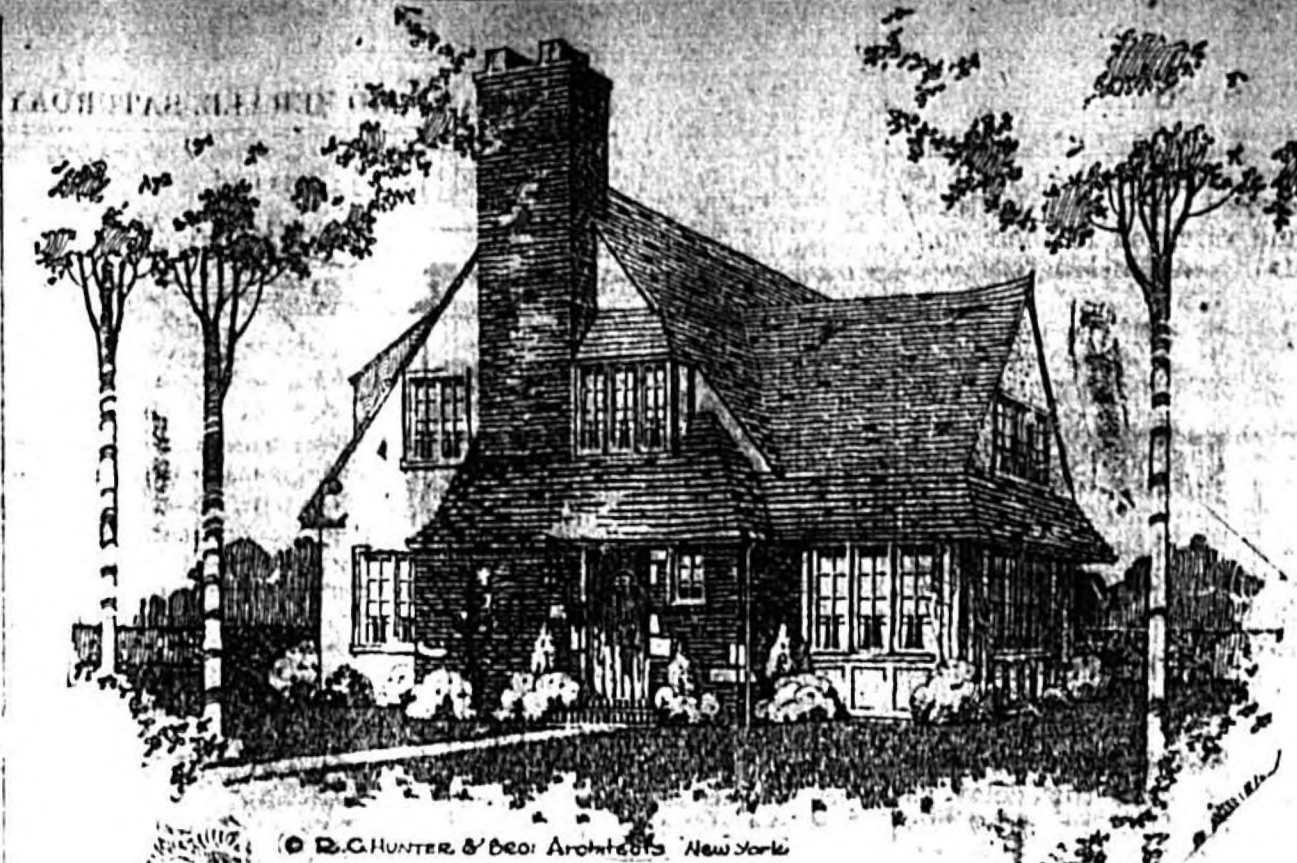

The pagan band lives in a place isolated from the rest of the Red Lake Indians, and its members still indulge in the ancient tribal dances which frequently last two and three days.

Old Assay Building Re-Assembled For Use By The Crafts

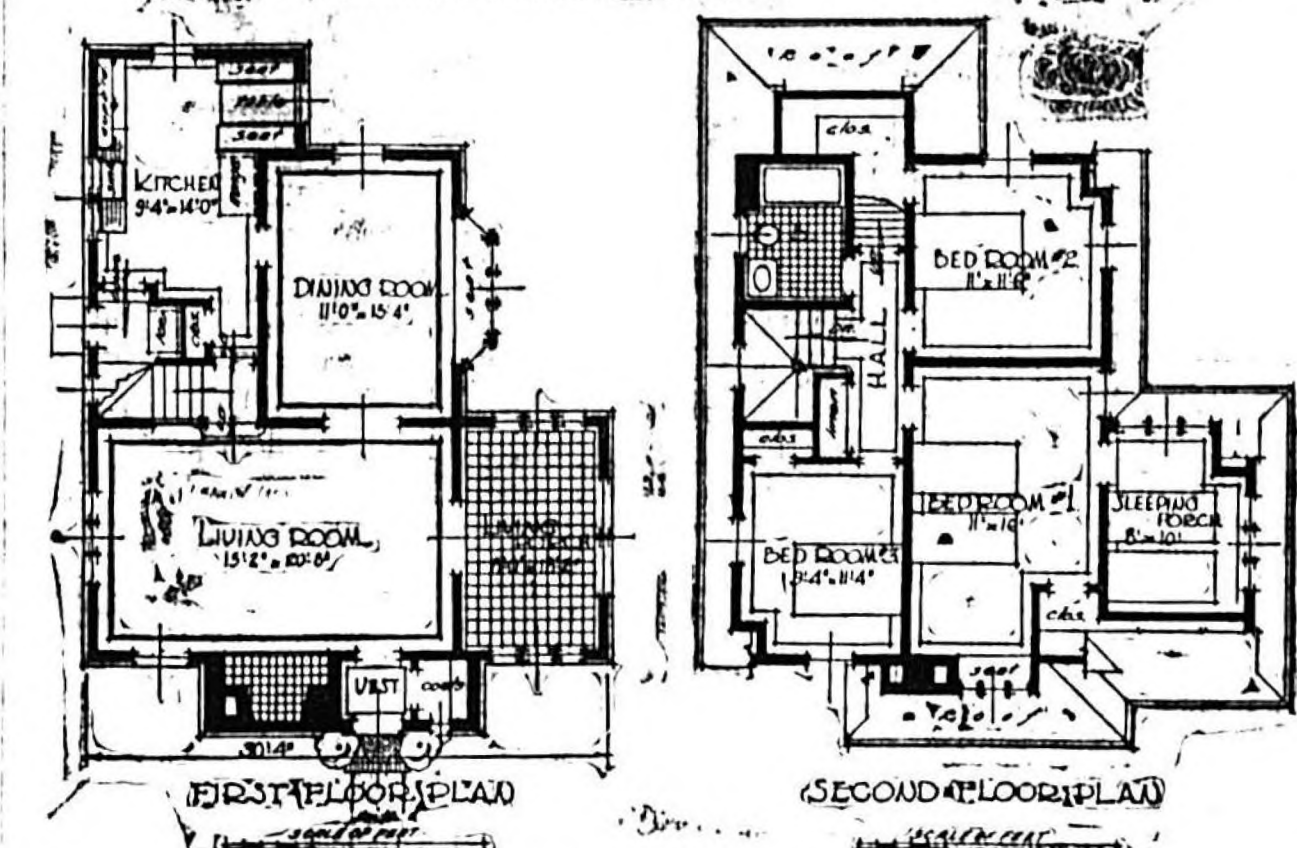

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The facade of the old United States Assay Office Building, which formerly stood at 15 Wall Street, has been reassembled stone by stone as the front of the new American wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in Central Park. The new wing will be devoted entirely to American art of the Colonial, Revolutionary and Republic periods and will be formally thrown open to the public Nov. 10.

The building will be unique in that its 18 rooms for the most part will be installed with the actual woodwork that formed the walls and ceilings of historic and characteristic early rooms. Collections of objects of American furniture, silverware, glass and pottery of the seventeenth, eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries will be shown in the appropriate rooms.

The American wing will teach present and future generations of Americans that the men to whose struggles they owe the foundation of the American Commonwealth were refined in their tastes and by no means indifferent to beauty. Though for the most part they neglected the arts of painting and sculpture, their instinct found expression in the houses they built and the furniture they bought for daily use.

More and more the trend of building leads toward the English type. And there is a reason, the Colonial and Dutch Colonial houses are numerous to an appalling degree. This little stucco house is English in influence. The brick chimney and vestibule extension add variety and harmonize well with the dark roof of variegated color shingles and the half timber work. Among the green leaves and foliage this house would be charming of cream stucco with red brick chimney and extension and weathered timber work.

The entrance is in a vestibule with coat closet on one side. The living room is large and has an open fireplace. The dining room opens from the living room with a double opening and the kitchen fully equipped, together with dining alcove and rear entry is at the back of the house.

The stairs go up from the rear of the living room, landing in a hall on the second floor. There are three bed rooms and tiled bath with a sleeping porch of one bed room, an unusual feature.

There are generous closets with a special closet for linen in the hall. All bed rooms have ample light and ventilation. Cost about $7,900.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The body of former President Woodrow Wilson will soon be removed from crypt to simple marble sarcophagus in Bethlehem chapel.

The Washington cathedral will remain temporarily. The sarcophagus will be completed within a month. The only ornamentation in marble is a Crusader's sword en- cased in a relief on the marble slab cover, a brief inscription, too.

The Paper Delayed

The World's Series is over. The baseball championship of so-called "world" has been determined, at least as far as the year of 1924 is concerned, and the battered Giants have packed their bags and returned to their dugouts in New York, while pennants fly in Washington.

In its desire to furnish its readers with the latest and most interesting news, The Herald has gone to great lengths to get a detailed account of each game and to furnish such account to subscribers at the earliest possible moment.

Consequently The Herald has been delayed every day this week in reaching its readers. To make this delay as little as possible this paper made every effort to save time.

But regardless, The Herald, of necessity, was late. Getting the papers to readers was further hampered by rain. Even the elements conspired to delay the news.

Under such conditions as this, however, it was inevitable that some subscribers fail to receive a copy of The Herald. Wet, cold, and dark, boys forget out-of-the-way places.

We appreciate these calls. We are always glad when a subscriber lets us know of poor service. We are always glad to send a paper out by special messenger.

Compulsory Democrats, What Are They? The Herald's curiosity is aroused. It wants to know just how far the average southern-born man would submit to a law requiring him to be a Democrat or a Republican.

In Louisiana they have a law that makes a petition seeking a place of election ballots for an independent or new-party candidate invalid if that petition is signed by voters affiliated with either of the dominant parties.

In other words if a young man, knowing nothing of political parties, should affiliate with the Republican or with the Democratic party in Louisiana and later desire to break away and help make a candidate outside of either of these parties, the law forbids.

"The Solid South" cannot be kept "solid," can it, through election machinery that makes only Democratic victory possible at the polls? And then, The Herald predicts, instead of using election machinery for the corraling of Democratic voters honest Democrats will undertake the education of the masses into an understanding of the superiority of the party to which they have been supposed to belong for geographical solidarity.

The young man voting for the first time should know why he is aligning with a political party. He should believe in its principles and be ready to fight for his honor.

Every voter in the South should be free to vote for what he or she thinks is right. And every voter should be convinced this year that Davis and Bryan should be supported, not merely because they are Democrats, but because they and their party stand for something.

As Brisbane Sees It

Mr. Coolidge Says It. Say It Harder, Please. Caterpillars Won't Hurry. The Hangman, Perhaps. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has said just what the people wanted him to say about the League of Nations and Japan's immigration restriction, that she should dictate our immigration laws.

Referring plainly to the League of Nations effort to bully this country, the President says that Americans ought to "reserve to themselves the choice of their own course and the decision of their own action."

EUROPEAN diplomats will understand that clearly; Asiatic diplomats, also. It means that this country, serving notice on other powers that we are able to manage our affairs and intend to do it.

This is to notify Japan and the League of Nations that the United States will attend to its business. We warn Japan and the League to keep their hands out of our affairs.

MEYER LONDON and Professor Nearing have a Socialistic debate. The professor says "class consciousness" should keep Socialists from voting for La Follette.

COMMUNISM is dying out in Russia, as it would anywhere else, the instinct of individual possession being the strongest in human beings next to self preservation.

FOURTY YEARS hence men will be just beginning to make "real money." At present men are only beginning to learn how.

YOU CAN'T change anything in this world suddenly. You can't even change a caterpillar into a butterfly in five minutes.

AS FOR class consciousness, there is enough in the man conscious of the fact that he is a citizen of the United States, and determined to see that all classes get fair treatment, no favoritism.

A HORRIBLY sordid tragedy will presently occupy a jury and, later perhaps, the hangman. Mrs. Willow, thirty-eight, had working on her farm a boy, seventeen, Ralph Shadle.

In the usual way, he blames the woman, she takes the blame and says "I want to hang if they hang him." And there is the trial background.

REPORTERS, jury, judge, and perhaps the hangman, will attend to the details then plus one of the next cases. In one way, Japan is another, would have made a long story out of that case.

AN OLD WOMAN, 85, found wandering in a big city park, unable to tell where she lived, is taken to the hospital. She could only say, "My address is 301."

Will this "poor" old lady be identified and taken home? She WILL, for in the bar that she carried she had $4,620.75 in cash, besides some jewelry.

Another thing that Sanford folks should do right away is to visit other towns in Seminole one evening in every week or month and find out what they would like to have in good roads, better schools, advertising and other matters of interest.

Some time ago I spoke to the Chamber of Commerce about more benches on the streets for the accommodation of the visitors.

Now people are coming to Sanford and buying property. They recognize the fact that Sanford has a great future and they seem able to look farther ahead into the future than we home folks can see.

Every young man in Sanford should buy a piece of land and sooner or later build a little home. If he is single he can rent the home and get a nice investment out of the place.

The fellow that wrote that latest classic, "It Ain't Gonna RAIN No More," made the mistake of his life, or he must have lived in Arizona, because it seems to be it has rained since last January.

Polk county has dropped out of the All Florida Exposition at New York and this big county will not be represented at the Garden next spring.

When Christopher Columbus discovered America, Friday Roax had started on the boat basin at Sanford, but he says that it will finish it in time at that.

The small market gardener and poultry raiser can make a good living near Sanford. In the heart of the greatest trucking center in the state we have difficulty in obtaining fresh vegetables all the time and eggs hover around the fifty-cent mark all the year.

And all of this goes to show that the curb market started in Sanford many years ago should have been kept alive to the present time when it would be growing strong.

The cities in Florida that are getting the crowds each year are the cities that advertise—don't forget that it takes advertising and all kinds of publicity to bring the new folks to your city and in the measure that Sanford advertises, we will get the new guests this winter and next spring.

Sanford folks in Orlando this week had a good idea of what advertising will do to bring the crowds to your city and make it a trading center. All that Orlando merchants do to bring in the crowds could be done by Sanford merchants, if they would get together and go after the business.

There will be some excitement in Florida elections after all. Several of the Democratic nominees for Congress have Republican opponents and Joe Sears in the Fourth has a Republican and an American opponent.

Another thing that Sanford folks should do right away is to visit other towns in Seminole one evening in every week or month and find out what they would like to have in good roads, better schools, advertising and other matters of interest.

Saturday Evening Sermon

men and women in the Kingdom. If we make the Kingdom of God and His righteousness first, what will be the principles governing our lives?

The attorney will be an attorney plus, and the plus will govern and direct the doings of the attorney. The farmer will be a farmer plus, and the plus will direct the doings of the farmer. The mechanic will be a mechanic plus, and the plus will govern the doings of the mechanic. The physician will continue to practice in his profession but he will be a physician plus and the plus will direct the doings of his life. The leading of others to make Christ and Christ's principles supreme in their lives will be the goal of their efforts.

I summon you—every one of you—to a very candid study. What other goal is worth our major considerations? If I make the securing of money my goal, and direct my efforts to that end, I shall bankrupt my own soul, and curse the community. If I make pleasure my goal, I shall one day discover that my finer powers have been brutalized, and quite probably, I shall find that I have bankrupted the souls of others. Righteousness in my own character, and the reign of Christ in the lives of others make the only goal worthy of my endeavors, and this goal is worthy of my most sacrificial efforts.

My Christian Comrades, I want you to adopt this as your goal. If you have already adopted this goal as your own, well and good. If not, adopt it now. I want you to make the Kingdom first because this is the goal set for us by our Lord, and it is the only one worthy of our efforts. I want you to make "The Kingdom first" your goal because as you train yourselves, and then run for the goal on the way you will come upon the treasures which make your life complete. I beg you, comrades, to make the Kingdom first because the lost of our city, and our own district are dying without Jesus, and if they perish without our Savior, their blood is upon us. I want you to make "The Kingdom first" your goal because a church composed of such men and women is invincible in any community or city. I beg you to make the Kingdom first because Jesus gave his rich, brave, pure life to reach the goal and He reached it, and He knows that you and I can reach it, and in teaching it we shall fit some of the multitudes out of their sins and mystery, and shame up into the life which only is worthy of real men and real women.

You will hunger to hear just a closing word. If we make the Kingdom first, there will not be the remotest doubt about our being fully enlisted in Kingdom work. We shall fling to the winds our little petty excuses, and commit ourselves fully and heartily to the work of making God's righteousness supreme wherever we may go. Are we ready today to say by God's grace we will make the Kingdom first?

The Art of Beauty

By R. M. DOUGLAS

EGYPTIAN WOMEN 4,000 YEARS AGO EXPERTS IN COSMETIC ART

THROUGHOUT the ages woman's chief attention in beauty matters has been centered on her complexion. Even in the dark ages, when prepared creams and ointments were unknown, women used their primitive methods for bleaching, softening and purifying the skin.

The ancient Egyptians—beavers in the beautifying effects of water, and a bath in their revered

Nile which they lashed upon as a sort of dolly, was a favorite beauty treatment. The Egyptian woman also mixed certain ingredients of a slab of butter, sea salt mixture out of doors to melt, and then applied it to her face. Women of the Egyptian nobility, 4,000 years ago, had two kinds of rouge, an orange toned rouge, much like our Mahatma's rouge of today, for their olive-tinted skin; and a red rouge for their lips. Their eyes were carefully made up with Kohl, a mixture favor during the hours of an adjunct to the black powder of burnt almonds, applied with a bodkin.

As an indication of the importance attributed to the artificial beautifying of the body in those days, it will be noted that even after embalming, the faces of Egyptian women of high rank were painstakingly rouged and their eyebrows painted with antimony.

Coming down farther through the centuries, although the "cosmetics" in favor during the Renaissance were elemental in nature, they were nevertheless, luxurious. Madame de Maintenon, for example, bathed in the juice of crushed strawberries. Plain water bathing was not much thought of as an adjunct to beauty. When Diane de Poitiers, wife of Henry II, kept her skin clear and white by rising at 6 o'clock every morning to take a cold bath, it was considered so unusual that a legend had to be invented to explain it. It was said that she took a bath in a tub filled with crushed gold.

RECEIPTS FOR WORLD'S SERIES GO OVER THE MILLION MARK AND SHATTER PREVIOUS RECORDS

Exceed by $34,000 Series Last Year. But Attendance Figures Lower Than for Yankee-Giant Series Year Ago

Each Senator Will Receive About $5,370

Giants Will Receive $3,820 Each; 283,695 People See Series of Seven Contests

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A new record for world series receipts was established by the Giants and Senators. Figures for the seven games, $1,093,104, exceed by $34,289 those of the only other million series, the six-contest battle between the Giants and Yankees in New York last year.

Attendance figures were not shattered, however, the work of 283,695 set in this series fell 17,735 short of the 301,430 who saw the classic last season.

Washington players will divide $148,991.63 of the total fund and New York will split up $99,827.75. The remaining 26 per cent of the total players share will be divided among the second and third place clubs in each league.

The Washington melon will be split into 26 shares of $5,730 each. Manager Harris announced after a meeting of players which followed the game, Hiller and Taylor, substitute infielders, and Al Schacht, each will receive two-thirds of a share and the 24 remaining portions will be equally divided among the other players.

Captain Nock, Altrick and Trainer Mike Marlin. Lump sums will be divided by the players to Wade Laffler, outfielder, who was ineligible for this series, to the clubhouse boy, Frank Baxter, and to the Senator bat boy.

The Giants left hurriedly after the contest to catch a train and did not announce a division of their cut. The approximate figure for each and 26 men of the Giants eligible list, including Coach Jennings, would be $33,820.

Double-Play Wizards

LEFT TO RIGHT, PECKINPAUGH, HARRIS AND JUDGE. The whole baseball world claims this Washington infield trio the fastest double-play combination on the diamond today. In fact, a lot of experts think that the Nationals, in Peck and Harris, have the fastest keynote combination in the history of the sport.

Time was, in the height of the old Chicago Cubs' glory, when the baseball world thrilled to the old slogan, "Tinkers to Evers to Chance." But it is doubtful if that trio, great as it was, had any edge at all on "Peck to Harris to Judge."
