

PROBLEMS OF FAR EAST HELD CONFERENCE ATTENTION ADJUDGED INTEGRAL PART

Of the Question of Armaments
While Naval Reduction is Progressing

AND COMMITTEE OF WHOLE

MADE UP OF AMERICA, ENGLAND, JAPAN, FRANCE, ITALY, CHINA, BELGIUM, PORTUGAL, NETHERLANDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(By The Associated Press).—Problems of Far East whose solution is adjudged integral part of the question of armaments, held the attention of the conference today while plan for naval reduction was passing through the hands of committee of experts. For the first time delegations from the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal, Netherlands, acting as committee of whole on Far East assembled for preliminary discussion, and lay plans of procedure, United States attitude is this country's interest is not nearly so great in Far Eastern as naval question and each power appeared waiting other speakers first. There are indications that the American naval reduction plan was itself compromised on what the United States naval experts first proposed as American delegate suggested originally probably be unacceptable to Great Britain, Japan, American suggestion not limit aircraft understood not only be because convertibly commercial aircraft to war purposes but in order not hinder air developments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Decision was reached at an executive meeting of the committee on limitation of armaments late yesterday to appoint a commission of admirals from each delegation to draft a report on naval armaments. The report will deal with details under the plan broached by Secretary of State Hughes, which already has been accepted in principle.

The commission will be composed of one admiral from each delegation, under the presidency of Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the United States Navy, and will be assisted by the technical experts and advisors of the several delegations.

A resolution directing the secretary of the navy to stop all work and expenditures on the nine battleships and six battle cruisers in various stages of construction in private and government shipyards was introduced yesterday by Representative Britton, Illinois, ranking Republican member on the house naval affairs committee.

The battleships involved are the Colorado, Washington, West Virginia, South Dakota, Indiana, Montana, North Dakota, Indiana, Montana, No. Carolina, Iowa and Massachusetts.

The battle cruisers specified are the Lexington, Constellation, Saratoga, Ranger, Constitution and the United States.

"Because of the consideration," the resolution declared, "of matters of agreement other than naval armament, it is probable that the armament conference may continue in session for several months before a final understanding and satisfactory conclusion has been reached."

BROTHERHOODS ARE READY TO MEET HALF WAY SHOW THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Will Meet the Railroad Heads on All Questions at Once

ALL THE OTHER WAGE CUTS

WILL BE DISCUSSED AND MOST OF THE PETTY CASES DECIDED BETWEEN THE TWO PARTIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(By the Associated Press).—Plans of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to meet demands of the railroads for revision of rules and working conditions agreements and for further wage cuts were completed yesterday at the close of a two-day session of 650 general chairmen and officials.

Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers, and William S. Carter, president of the firemen and enginemen, explained the settlement under which the recent general strike order was canceled and received their followers' endorsement of their action.

Requests from ninety-eight railroads for revision of rules and working conditions were considered and the counter-demands formulated. Mr. Stone announced last night the unions were agreed on a concerted program in the rules cases.

Announcement was made yesterday that the four big brotherhoods have signed agreements with roads in the eastern, western and south-eastern districts for setting up adjustment boards provided for in the Esch-Cummins transportation act. Two assistant grand chiefs will represent the engineers on the boards—F. A. Burgess on the Southeastern and H. P. Daugherty on the western. The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be represented by A. F. Whitney on the western and W. N. Dokas on the southeastern board. No appointments to the eastern board have been announced as yet. Representatives of the other unions have not yet been selected.

Creation of the boards is expected to speed up the work of the United States Labor Board by relieving its docket of the hundreds of petty cases of individual grievances. All such disputes will be first referred to the nearest adjustment board for arbitration, and only in event of a deadlock on the board will the case come before the government tribunal here.

Each of the boards is to have eight members, one from each of the brotherhoods and four representing the roads in its territory. Agreements run for one year, and may be renewed.

Roads in the eastern territory which have already signed the agreement include the Baltimore & Ohio system; New York Central; Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis; Lake Erie & Western; Toledo & Ohio Central; Zanesville & Western; Kanawha & Michigan; Boston & Albany; Michigan Central; Pittsburg & Lake Erie; Indiana Harbor Belt Railway; Cincinnati Northern; Kanawha & West Virginia; Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute.

The southern district agreement bears the signatures of the Atlanta & West Point; Western Railway of Alabama; Atlantic Coast Line; Central of Georgia; Charleston & Western Carolina; Chesapeake & Ohio; Florida East Coast; Georgia Railroad; Louisville & Nashville; Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis; Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis; Norfolk & Western; Norfolk Southern; Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac; Seaboard Air Line; Winston-Salem Southbound; Gulf & Ship Island.

In the western territory the agreement has been approved by eighteen roads.

described as "recent shocking disclosures of criminality in the city of Washington where at this time a policeman is held for theft of an automobile," Bartlett declared the commission had determined on account of this, although no provision for it, to make character investigations and ratings henceforth in certifying applicants for Washington police force.

REAL AMERICAN WOMEN OF THE OLDEN DAYS

Read at the November meeting of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, N. S., D. A. R.:

That all America honors Martha Washington, is due not entirely to the fact that she was the dearly loved wife of our greatest hero but because she possessed those heroic qualities that make women great in whatever walk of life they are found. At the time of her marriage to George Washington, she owned one of the largest estates on the Paumonkey river, and it was standing at the door of her beautiful colonial home that the young hero fresh from his first military triumphs saw and loved Martha Curtis. After their marriage she lived the life of the Virginia gentry and it was not until the Revolutionary war that she showed those traits that made her famous. During the darkest days of the Revolution she was constantly with Washington at army headquarters relieving suffering and ministering in every way to the soldiers; upon her Washington relied for help, comfort and inspiration. Martha Washington gave to the country its highest ideal of wifehood, loyalty and patriotism.

It is interesting to note that altho, our statesmen felt able to write our constitution, they sought the aid of a woman in designing the flag, which is the outward symbol of our country. Betsy Ross was a Quakeress and when very young ran away and married John Ross, who soon died leaving her a very young widow and she kept open his tailor shop and soon attained quite a reputation in what we would now call the decorating profession. When the committee appointed by Congress, consisting of George Washington, Robert Morris and Col. George Ross, to design a flag for the new born Republic, they went at once to her and she without further ado, while they were talking clipped out our five pointed star. The day after the flag was adopted by congress she married Joseph Ashburn, a sea captain, who died a prisoner, and her third husband John Claypole died of wounds received in battle. It is easy to believe that she was an extremely attractive woman and must have been patriotic as well to give three husbands for her country.

A West Virginia woman preformed one of the most outstanding acts of heroism during the colonial days. A little band of men and women were imprisoned in Fort Henry when it was besieged by the Indians. The defenders of the Fort were almost without powder and Elizabeth Zane begged permission to secure a keg in her brother's house outside of the stockade. Having been given permission, she was let out of the gate. She flew on four winged feet and the Indians laughed to see a squaw appear before them but as she darted out of the house with the powder slung over her shoulder they understood her mission and death laden arrows began to fly but God rendered the fusillade of shot powerless and the only injuries she received were a wound in the arm and the clipping off of a lock of hair.

Probably Molly Stark does not deserve the prominent place we are giving her for her fame comes through her influence upon her husband. At the battle of Bennington, Captain Stark shouted "Boys there are the Red Coats. Before night they are ours or Molly Stark sleeps a widow." The thing that strikes us most is the purity of her life and the devotion to her husband. She followed him into camp and before the battle of Codd's Hill he gave her a horse and instructed her to mount when she saw the British to spread the alarm into the neighboring country. The married life of these two was one of singular beauty and devotion.

At the Battle of Monmouth we find a woman doing Red Cross service alone. It was Molly Ludwig Hays and because she gave the dying soldier water and ministered to the living that she gained the name Molly with the pitcher or Molly pitcher. During this awful battle while she tended the wounded under fire her husband fell mortally wounded and she stifling all grief, gave her best service where it was most needed, to her country. She manned the gun all the rest of the battle. The next day Washington commended her and she served in the army eight years wearing a soldier's cocked hat and coat. She was the first sergeant in the U. S. army that was a woman.

In Catherine Schuyler we find a woman of the highest social rank. Raised in luxury during the revolution she preformed a great many deeds of valor as well as suffered for the army a great many hardships. When the British were at Saratoga she made a perilous journey to her country place for her treasures saying to those that would warn her, "What a general's wife afraid." She set fire to an immense field of wheat rather than let it fall into the hands of the British. She gave thousands of dollars and supplies to the revolutionary army.

Susan Livingston was the daughter of a British subject who was ardently attached to his country, but upon the colonies declaring their independence he cast his lot with Washington and became a rebel governor of New Jersey. Susan Livingston was one of a number of beautiful sisters, who was famed for their beauty and were called "The Livingston Graces." One dark night two regiments of redcoats went to the Livingston home, called Liberty Hall, to secure the governor and some important military papers. Susan led them from room to room apparently hunting the dispatches and finally led them to where the papers were secreted but pretending that they were love letters and begged the officers not to read them and stated that she would give them the dispatches, reaching upon the topmost shelf of the bookcase she handed them some legal looking documents and they departed happily not dreaming that they had been fooled by a girl's quick wit.

Florida has a heroine, while not of Revolutionary fame, did her share toward discovering Florida and thereby adding later a state to the union; this is Donna Dolores the ward and love of Ponce de Leon. The story of his hunt for the fabled fountain is too old to be retold but his love for his beautiful and young ward was the incentive that led him to the Land of Flowers. In his death delirium he saw her drinking from the fabled fountain. Histories differ, some saying that he married her before his death and others saying that he did not.

To the ones that preserve the traditions of the Republic in loyalty and patriotism is due as much honor as that that aided to secure it and to Mary S. Lockwood, the Little Mother of the D. A. R. is due a medal of honor. She had the thought and inspiration that lead to the founding of the great society whose aim is to preserve these sacred traditions.

To the ones that give to an entire state this new vision is due not only that state's loyalty and devotion which she has in full measure but a place also in the history of that state for she is building a structure of patriotism for the future and to such a one Florida is proud to refer "The D. A. R. mother of Florida, Mrs. Joelling Christopher, of Jacksonville."

Mrs. Arthur B. Gilkes, of Jacksonville, is not only the war mother of D. A. R. in Florida but the mother of Sallie Harrison Chapter of Sanford. Let the seed of loyalty to our country that she has planted never die but grow and flourish until the debt that Seminole county owes her accrued interest with each succeeding generation and our sisters will join us in calling her blessed for she builded better than she knew.

Let us not forget that each of these brave women stood first in the place of their homes, their devotion to their families and husbands and that each heroine stood sponsor for a hero, that their family life was a benediction to all about them and their devotion to country was not surpassed.

MRS. B. J. STARLING.

BRIDGE FOR MRS. WOODRUFF.

Entertaining in her usual charming manner, Mrs. James Murry Wallace was the hostess yesterday afternoon at a bridge party at the Woman's Club, complimenting Mrs. John Develin Woodruff, there being ten tables of players, while a number of guests joined the players for refreshments.

The club rooms were never more beautiful than for this occasion. Tall wicker baskets filled with chrysanthemums, yellow zinnias and golden cosmos were effectively placed around the room. Graceful ferns on pedestals were also used. On cabinets, were crystal baskets with golden cosmos. Tall floor lamps shaded with yellow cast a mellow glow over this pretty scene.

Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Woodruff received the guests at the door. Mrs. Wallace was lovely in apricot georgette, while Mrs. Woodruff's becoming frock of jade green brocaded cotton crepe trimmed with jet, with this she wore a picture hat of black.

The prizes awarded for the unusually interesting game of bridge were exceptionally pretty. Mrs. George DeCottes making high score was awarded a lovely boudoir lamp. In cutting for the consolation, which was a dainty vanity case, Mrs. J. E. Barrett was the fortunate one. Mrs. Woodruff was presented a Dresden Doll boudoir lamp as souvenir of the occasion.

CHO CHO THE HEALTH CLOWN

Cho Cho, the health clown, gave two performances to large and delighted audiences of school children and interested visitors this morning at the High School and at the Grammar school auditoriums.

He demonstrated most graphically and in an amusing manner the value of clean teeth and also milk and cocoa and other good foods and the harmful effect of tea and coffee on children.

He emphasized in a manner that will always be remembered by his auditors the value of well cooked oatmeal, eggs, and green vegetables, dried and fresh fruits for children. He showed that the place for cucumbers, peppers, pickles, fried foods, radishes and green bananas for children, is the garbage can.

Cho Cho said, "milk is the most nourishing food of all. There is nothing as good as milk and butter. Why some grownups give up drinking milk, I don't understand, unless it's lack of brains." He emphasized the three "H's" for cooking food "Boil, Broil, and Bake" but never fry. He urged the children to eat more prunes and less meat, saying that there was more nourishment in a dish of prunes than a large piece of meat.

He then told the children that chocolate was splendid for them but should be eaten at the table following their meals.

He gave some excellent health rules for children illustrating each, such as the right way to brush the teeth, how to take a bath, going to bed early, having fresh air in the bed rooms, playing out of doors the greater part of each day, etc. He also stressed the importance of drinking plenty of water every day.

He suggested that every school should have scales for weighing the children each month, saying that each child should gain a half pound in weight each month.

At the close of his talk he "did" some stunts that delighted the children hugely.

The many friends of John Gillam will be glad to learn that he is improving after the bad fall in which he sustained several severe injuries. He expects to be out again in a few days.

PIPE ORGAN CLUB

The Pipe Organ Club met with Mrs. Schelle Malnes, Monday afternoon, Nov. 14th. The meeting was presided over by the President, Mrs. C. J. Ryan. Mrs. Sina Bray, the secretary, called the roll which was responded to with the names of operas and their composers. After the business meeting a most interesting one at this time, because of the good financial report, the club went into social hour.

Mrs. Robert Glenn sang "The Last Rose of Summer," from Plotow's "Martha," in a most pleasing manner.

Then Minnie, the negro maid, served an enormous pumpkin pie to Mrs. Forest Gatchel, the chairman of the bazaar committee. When the pie was open, it was found to contain many, many beautiful gifts for the Christmas Bazaar.

At five o'clock Mrs. Malnes, assisted by Mrs. Moore, served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Newman was the new member received at this meeting and duly initiated. The club will meet with Mrs. R. B. Jarvis on Oak avenue on Monday, 21. As the holidays draw near the interest increases and it is a merry group of ladies who meet every Monday afternoon in the interest of the club.

ORANGE BELT BEE KEEPERS ASS'N BUSY AS BEES

Read at a meeting of Orange Belt Beekeepers' Association held in Sanford, September 21.

The Orange Belt Beekeepers' Association is a thing of recent birth. Perhaps you have not heard of it. And cannot judge its worth. Well here we are a score and more. We are by the bees to stay. And if we've failed to spell success. We want the better way. Now we have found by looking around. One does not know it all. Its organization brings success. Be your business great or small. Its not the hours, the whys, the when. That people want today. But after all is said, its then. Say did YOU make it pay? God made the little busy bee to bless this earth and man.

And if we would a blessing be, we'll follow his plan. Bees organize, they colonize, they surely make it pay. Get busy then like good Bee men pass in your name today.

Next meeting will be held at the Commercial Club building in DeLand, November 19th.

The curious indifference of the American people towards honey, has cost this country more in dollars, cents, public health, and common com-mated.

The manufacture of refined sugar in no wise assists in the development of the nation's most important agricultural industries, altho bee-keeping in the production of honey results in untold riches through pollination of the food farms of the country.

Neglect of the bee, through over-emphasis of the importance of the cane, beet sugar and glucose industries, has not only resulted in the withdrawal from the human family of a sugar food and sweetness of infinitely greater value than refined sugar, but it has brought failure to many a fruit district that would otherwise flourish beyond the dreams of the fruit farmer.

That honey and the honey bee should have been lost sight of in the advance of civilization constitutes one of the many curious blunders which humanity, while priding itself on its progress, is so prone to commit.

It is not generally known that in the United States we consume only 40,000,000 pounds of comb honey and 120,000,000 pounds of extracted honey annually. All this honey is gathered by the bee in the form of nectar from the blossoms of white clover, sage, sweet clover, alfalfa, cotton, golden rod, orange, palmetto, gallberry, wild sunflower, and sweet hay.

What this pollination means in the production of food is not realized by the average person.

The Van Rensselaer apple orchard in Medina county, Ohio, tells the whole story which the farmers of America might well heed to their advantage. The Van Rensselaer farm produced on the average of five hundred bushels of apples annually until its owner trimmed and sprayed his trees and began to keep bees where-upon the production of the same orchard with not a single tree added, leaped from five hundred to sixteen thousand bushels in a single season.

Yet, not so long ago, bees were looked upon by the farmers of the United States as a nuisance and many lawsuits have been bitterly prosecuted in order to destroy the so-called pests.

Mr. Repp, of New Jersey, who owns a large apple orchard, producing 120,000 bushels of apples, says that bees are so indispensable to the growing of fruit in this country, that fruit growers can afford to pay five dollars a colony to local bee men for putting the bees in orchard during bloom, taking them away again at its close.

These men knew the fruit growers did not understand they were driving away the very agency necessary for the proper pollination of the fruit bloom when they were fighting the honey bee as a pest. But they learned their lesson by experience, as was shown in one instance where the bee keepers were driven out of a certain locality. After two years of fruitless orchards, the bees were welcomed back again. Orange growers of Florida are beginning to realize bees in order to insure their being in what the bee means to their crops. A local orange grower having offered to share expense of moving bees in order to insure their being in each of his large groves.

Honey cannot be adulterated. Many think if honey is granulated it is not pure honey. But all pure honey will become solid unless heated to 160 deg. fahrenheit, and held at that temperature for a certain time. But honey heated in this way loses all its fine flavors and distinguishing characteristics, although still wholesome and delicious.

Honey is not put through any refining process to prepare it for consumption on your tables, but is eaten as made by the bees, while sugar, glucose and syrups of all kinds, undergo all kinds of refining and concentrating before fit for our use.

It has been found that a person suffering from diabetes can use honey in moderation when they can not consume a single cube of granulated sugar without suffering the keenest distress.

The writers personal experience showed that while children suffering with a severe case of whooping cough often can not retain enough food to nourish them, honey not only stayed in the stomach but contained enough nourishment to keep the child in good strength. At the same time, honey soothes the throat and controls the cough as well as any cough medicine.

Cakes or cookies containing honey retain their moisture much longer than those sweetened with sugar only.

- One sup honey.
- One-half cup sugar.

- One-half cup sour milk.

- One-half teaspoon soda.
- Four cups sifted flour.

WHAT IS THE RED CROSS DOING?

Miss Ellrabeth Cooley, field director of the American Red Cross, began preliminary work last week looking toward the perfecting of the Red Cross organization in Seminole county for the Fourth Roll Call, which began November 11, with Mr. J. C. Hutchinson as chairman.

"We are finding the people of the South keenly alive to the imperative necessity for not only the carrying on of the present peace program of the Red Cross but for its extension," said Miss Cooley, and on that account we are looking forward to a generous and enthusiastic response when the roll is called for those who stand for the progress of humanity.

"Many people, however still do not know just what our peace program is. The Red Cross is chartered as an organization to meet the emergency of great national catastrophes or local disasters and with the United States at peace with the world, it is difficult for some to see just how vitally important is the work we are doing."

The fact is that the Red Cross' biggest work was outlined for it after the armistice was signed, and the last gun fired on November 11, three years ago. The war had ended, but many of the responsibilities of war had just begun. Take, for instance, we are doing for our disabled soldiers. In 1919, there were only 3,000 of the boys in hospitals under government care. In 1920 that number had increased to 17,000 and in 1921 to 26,300. The coming year will doubtless find the number increasing in the same or a greater ratio. "The Red Cross is spending $10,000,000 a year to help the ex-service man and his family. This money is used in setting machinery in motion to get him the compensation, or the hospital treatment, or the educational opportunities that are rightfully his, and which the government is glad to give if the man can be located and his claim proven. The money is spent to see that his home fires are kept burning while he is being rebuilt in a hospital. It is spent to see that he has an opportunity to utilize his new usefulness when he is made new. It is the big, big work of the Red Cross and no one can realize its vastness until the knowledge comes of the fact that the Red Cross is a great humanitarian agency that is struggling to give this man who served us in time of stress an equal chance with his fellows in times of peace. Another feature of the work is the Public Health Nursing Service which is growing in favor throughout the south."

As a result in many communities, the people are getting new ideas of living, for home hygiene is taught as well as nursing, and the children are growing up with a new and better chance to meet the world and its problems.

The Red Cross is organized so that everybody can be a participant in making its benefits possible. No big monetary subscriptions are sought. The Roll Call of each year provides the entire revenue of the organization. When the work that is accomplished is considered and the potentialities of the organization are realized we believe that the Red Cross furnishes the biggest paying investment known since money was coined.

Great to be back home again.

After you see some other section of Florida you like Sanford better than ever.

And after you see some other section of the United States, you like Florida better than ever.

From which deduction the Dear Reader can gather that Sanford is easily the best city in the best state in the greatest country in the world.

Aside from the fact that we are busy trying to make a living and keep two days ahead of the sheriff, we were not too busy to take a hand in the disarmament proceedings at Washington, and it is strange, indeed, that our advice was not asked by President Harding.

Clean up week. Get busy. Clean up front and back, and in the middle. Make Sanford the Spotless Town, and keep it that way all the time. We have one of the cleanest cities in the state at all times, but we can make many improvements at that. Let's go.

Florida is a great state. There seems to be some location in the state where you can grow something that cannot be grown successfully in any other states or at some other locality in our own state. We firmly believe that Florida has more "chosen spots" for different fruits and vegetables than California or some of the foreign countries. It is interesting to note the wonderful possibilities of this state and to know that the half has never been told.

The Sanford Daily Herald took first prize in the recent contest for first page makeup. The contest was staged by the University of Florida Extension department, and was entered by all the papers of the State. To take first prize in front page contests of this kind, makes us feel very chesty, indeed, even though the make up man, Charlie Barnes, did the work. Anyhow, Charlie and "us," killed the bear, and we all feel proud of the fact. The Daily Herald is some paper.

Sanford is fast becoming the greatest wholesale center in this part of Florida, and if the good work of the Chamber of Commerce keeps up, Sanford will one day be the greatest wholesale center of Florida. This may sound far fetched, but it is the logical location, and this goes for Jacksonville and Tampa—they are both too far from the center of the state, and have no better facilities than Sanford will have in a few years, when we get deeper water from the mouth of the St. Johns river to Sanford. It is coming, and all we need is a little more push and pull. With celery and lettuce, with tourists, with wholesale distributors, Sanford will be a city of 25,000 in five years.

"FLORIDA HONEY WEEK"

The beekeepers of the entire State are enthusiastically in favor of the subject, "Home Market for Home Products," and as nearly as can be figured out they are "hitting the nail on the head."

Honey is the beekeepers' home product.

duct, and he is getting tired of seeing his honey shipped out of the State to be mixed with other honeys, and then sent back here for sale at three or four times the price that he is willing to take for it at the start.

There can be no question as to the quality of this "Florida First Honey." It is pure and nice and wholesome, and it is to impress the consuming public of Florida with these facts and to encourage the more sensible plan of home consumption that Florida beekeepers, in co-operation with Florida storekeepers, are proposing to devote the week just before Thanksgiving to showing up the facts just as they are.

"Florida Honey Week" will be devoted to demonstrations that will tend to convince us that we do not need to add other honeys, and freight charges, and commissions, and middlemen's profits to our own fine honey to make it the best ever. It is that already. Like the rainbow, it needs no retouching.

The newspapers heartily approve of this first class business move, and if you will go to your groceryman he will tell you that he is in favor of it, too.

When the time comes let us all stand up and join the "Florida First Class."—Plant City Courier.

THE FAITH THAT FINDS EXPRESSION.

The following editorial written by L. S. Fitzhugh for the Wilmore, Ky., Enterprise, will be interesting to Sanford citizens. Mr. Fitzhugh visits Sanford often as the guest of Geo. A. DeCottes, and he is a real Florida booster:

There is one outstanding characteristic of the average Floridian that impresses the visitor at once, when brought in contact with him, and that is his incurable optimism. In Florida everything is lovely and the goose hangs high at all times and seasons. Drought may burn and floods may sweep, prices may go below the cost of marketing and leave him with a crop that does not pay to harvest and ship, winds may shake the oranges off his trees and the fly may eat them up, banks may tighten on him and the automobile may have to be sold. What might be truly designated hard times and a gloomy outlook may stare him in the face and call on him for sacrifice. But in the face of any or all of these trials, to the ordinary citizen, he faces the world with a cheery smile and an unshaken faith in his state and the favored spot on this earthly footstool and an abiding belief in the good fortune of anyone who is lucky enough to live there.

"Hard times been hitting your country up there?" he will ask in a tone of commiseration, "we haven't felt it here. Of course money has been hard to get—the banks have been a little short of funds and ain't making any loans, they've got to hold the money to market the citrus crop you know—and vegetables didn't bring much more than enough to pay the express on the northern market. The orange crop has been cut in two by the unprecedented dry and hot summer and what is left are small. Trade's been a little slack at the stores and people have been having some difficulty in meeting their bills and keeping their credit up. Men have been having trouble in finding funds to buy fertilizer for the coming season and are straining their credit some. There are even a few who claim that we ARE having the hardest season of years. Of course there are always a certain number of calamity howlers everywhere but they do not represent the sentiment of the community. They are just naturally what you would call billious minded croakers. They are no credit to the State when they talk their pessimistic gloom."

"Town lots are advancing every day," says another, "and if that ain't a sign of prosperity I don't know what is. There are not many being sold it is true but that does not hinder them from stiffening in price. It shows the holder's belief in the value of Florida property as an investment in a growing state. We are looking for the best season in years and high prices (how many do that every year) and there are more tourists coming this winter than ever before. Hard times? We do not know the word in Florida."

The old cracker sits in the door of his shanty and looks on the waste of sandy ground in front of him approvingly: "The wind blew my stable down, last week, and a tree fell on the old cow and she died right there. The old woman's down with the rheumatism and my oldest son, John, run off last week and got married and left me without any help on the place. Fertilizer got so high last year that I couldn't afford to buy and had mighty little stuff raised in consequence. I been shaking, myself, right smart with the ague and not been able to work much. But the sweet potatoes did fine and the fish bit all right. I killed a couple of alligators and a seven foot rattler and sold the skins for what little money we needed. It's a great country for those who know how to live in it. I'm sorry for them in the north, who have to freeze all winter and can't go barefooted."

"Hard times?" says the real estate man. "This don't look like it does it?" And he unfolds a map. "We are putting this subdivision on the market and have had any number of inquiries as to the price of lots from all over the country. Now we haven't sold many yet but are getting ready for a great rush for them as soon as times get better—I mean as soon as the tourist season open. Prices are advancing and we can't say how long we will hold at the present low figures. Better buy now if you want a bargain. They are going up with a whoop as soon as times improve—I mean as soon as the season opens."

And so it goes. This universal optimism is in the air. It gets in the system of the outsider soon and he too becomes a booster for Florida if he stays any length of time—it is that infectious. It also acts as a tonic of the most beneficial sort. It is impossible to believe that the world wide depression and straitening has left Florida out in the cold. It is reasonable to suppose that she has her share of the burden to bear along with the rest of America. But if she has been wounded she bravely conceals the hurt and directs attention from it. Troubles are largely imaginary anyway. The sky is still bright. The air is soft. It's a favored country and people. Tomorrow is coming and in the meantime today is not so bad. So why worry—hard times? None here.

And probably this constant putting forward the cheery note of self congratulation is efficacious in banishing much of the spectre. A thing ignored is apt to become a thing unfelt. At any rate, Florida will tell you that she has not felt any specific depression and it is tolerably certain that Florida believes it from the long reputation.

In the mean time and all the time the native boosts his state and its transcendent advantages over all other states as a place to live, grow rich and be happy. He shows it up in all the bright colors of a glowing picture. He adds to a vivid imagination a sincere belief and leaves an impression that catches and lingers. It is a growing state and he is stimulating its growth by every light he can throw on it. The dark shades he leaves out—if he honestly believes there are any dark shade. And he gets there.

Florida is rapidly filling up and making long strides in development and larger statehood. How much of her advancing growth is due to the persuasive belief and that word of her children can only be realized by those who have come much in contact with them and listened to their untiring song.

FLORIDA PAPERS IMPROVING MAKING MANY CHANGES PUTTING IN EQUIPMENT.

ALLAHASSEE, Nov. 16.—The Tallahassee Democrat has joined the half dozen or more Florida daily papers which in the last few months have been forced to increase their facilities in order to handle their rapidly growing business. The Orlando Sentinel recently had to install a new press and increase the number of columns in the paper; the Gainesville Sun is planning to increase its size after having been issued in six column for forty-four years; the Fort Myers Press has completed arrangements for the reorganization of the paper and extension of its plant; the St. Petersburg Independent and Clearwater Sun have installed new presses and made other improvements. Other dailies have purchased new equipment, including typesetting machines, and are increasing the size of the papers but in the case of the Democrat, the news department has been run out of house and home.

The Democrat has had to obtain other quarters for the news department, the mechanical department requiring all space in the building, which for some years has housed all its departments. The space in the building opposite the Leon hotel, formerly occupied by H. H. Brown, has been leased and Frank Webb, news editor and his assistants, will move in, handling a tthat end all news to be published in the Democrat. It is believed here that the Democrat will be the only daily in Florida with the news department not in the same building with the mechanical department.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: J. T. Reeves is no longer connected with me in any way, and I am not responsible for any money, fertilizer, or anything he may charge to me. The agreement I declare broken—and at an end.

CLEAN UP WEEK
Let's clear the papers off the street, and make Sanford clean and neat.

Nell Shipman in Big Outdoor Triller Will Open Here Friday

Friday and Saturday the Star Theatre will offer the greatest picture of the year in Nell Shipman in "The Girl from God's Country." Movie fans will remember Miss Shipman for her splendid work in "Back to God's Country." She again uses Brownie, the Nell Shipman bear, and her own pack of malamute dogs in new situations in the Canadian North Woods. "The Girl from God's Country" is said to be Miss Shipman's best picture, and her portrayal of a dual role provides the real dramatic treat of the year on the screen. Miss Shipman is also author and director of "The Girl from God's Country," and critics who have already reviewed this picture have been warm in their praise of her work in this production.

An all-star cast supports Miss Shipman. Such screen celebrities as Boyd Irwin, Edward Burns, Al W. Filson, George Barrall, Walt Whitman, C. K. Van Auken, Lillian Leigh-ton, L. M. Wells and Milla Davonport are seen in roles suitable to their talents. "The Girl from God's Country" is released by the F. B. Warren Corporation.
