Bus stop move illegal?

Hagerty questions Longwood ordinance

By MIKE PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Longwood has called for a halt to school bus stops on main arterial streets but Seminole County School Superintendent Dr. Paul Hagerty says the ordinance may not be legal.

Hagerty will ask a judge to delay implementation until the legality of the ordinance can be considered.

Longwood officials passed the emergency ordinance last night. It specifies that no school bus stops will be allowed on main arterial streets within the city limits beginning Thursday.

Hagerty said this morning, "We are looking into the legality of the ordinance now, and we plan to ask a judge to place a delay on the implementation of the ordinance until all of the legal points can be determined."

'Neat kids' behind bus safety change

LAKE MARY — If anyone could have gotten out of the way of the runaway trailer that rammed through a bus stop on Oct. 9, it would have been Arcadio Vergara and Michael Beckler, said Michael Kalin.

The accident happened so quickly that Beckler is fighting for his life in critical but stable condition and Vergara is in fair condition but is still being monitored closely at Florida Hospital in Orlando.

A recent addition to their circle of friends, Jeremy Milhouse, was killed in that same accident.

Kalin, who is president of the Lake Mary Babe Ruth League, said that the two were "very athletic and versatile in their athletic ability."

Both boys were pitchers for their respective teams in the Babe Ruth League, but they also played some games at different positions in the infield and the outfield as needed.

"Their teams were both in the hunt this season," Kalin said. "And those boys played a part in getting them there."

Kalin said that the boys in their

County granted money for affordable homes

By MIKE PFEIFFER

Seminole County could gain over $3.1 million for low income housing projects during the next four years.

The grants, to be given by the state to the various counties, will be discussed at a statewide convention in Altamonte Springs beginning Wednesday.

"The specific use of the money to be received by our county will be determined by the Seminole County Advisory Committee that was recently set up," said Huberta Davis, housing specialist with the county's planning department.

According to the Florida Low Income Housing Coalition, FLIHC, in Tallahassee, the money specifically allocated to Seminole County will start low but continue to grow.

A spokesman for Frances Billman, project coordinator in Tallahassee, said Seminole County would receive $305,82 during the present fiscal year already underway. "For 1993-94," she said, Seminole will receive approximately $479,205. For 1994-95, the amount is $549,976, and for 1995-96, approximately $1,820,923 will be allocated for low income housing."

The FLIHC session in Altamonte Springs will last three days.

Davis will be representing the county during the gathering.

"We will be on hand for observation and information," she said, "rather than being involved in the actual presentation."

Davis expects the meeting will prove to be very helpful. "We have many new programs on low income housing coming up," she said, "and we are looking for as much information as possible, especially concerning these new state funds which will be available."

"At its last meeting," she explained, "the county commission approved setting up an Affordable Housing Advisory Committee, and for the next 60 days, we will be setting up the criteria for monthly meetings"

Former Soviet citizens: Jails not nice places

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The seven visitors from the former Soviet Union agreed with many Americans who visit a "lock-up" for the first time, jails are not nice places.

A group of seven students with the Kriebel Institute of the Free Congress Foundation toured the Seminole County Sheriff's Office and John E. Polk Correctional Facility Monday to experience how Americans deal with a necessary issue in any society: what to do with those people who violate our laws.

Ushered through the Seminole County jail by Lt. Russ Hatzel, the visitors were taken through the book-in section where arrested people are photographed and checked for medical history. One visitor had his "mug" shot taken on the jail's state of the art computer image storage system.

The tour took in both minimum and maximum sections of the institution, often with handcuffed inmates or unrestrained trustees passing by.

The tour was the visitors' latest central Florida stop, which included a Saturday rally in Geneva. Robert Thompson, deputy director of the Free Congress Foundation, said the trips are part of a six-week training session for the former Soviet citizens to expose them into all facets of American life, including political as well as economic and social.

After their training is complete, the visitors will return to their countries to conduct seminars in American-styled democracy and capitalism. The Washington, D.C. organization was formed in 1986 by Robert Kriebel, founder and former chairman of Loctite Corp., makers of the "Superglue" brand.

The seven tour members readily admitted they had never been inside a jail before, even in their own country. Such visits require approval from the courts and local authorities, they said. But armed with print and broadcast accounts of their prisons, the visitors were left with the impression that while

Campaign sign of the times

Sanford mayor challenges opponent, candidates: No signs

By MIKE PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Bettye Smith, Sanford mayor and candidate for reelection, has challenged her opponent and all city commission candidates to refrain from putting up campaign signs.

"We're trying to clean up the city and keep it that way," Smith said this morning. "One of the ways we can do this is to avoid having campaign signs jammed together at various intersections like we are already seeing in other areas."

Smith's opponent for the mayoral race, Sara Jacobson, refused to comment on the matter this morning. "Bettye hasn't directly talked to me about this," she said, "and I would be interested in finding out her reasons before I make any comment," she said.

Smith said this morning the elimination of signs would not only add to the beauty of the city, but is a big campaign saving for the people running for election.

"I know two of the candidates seeking the district 1 seat have already agreed not to put up signs," Smith said, "and I commend them for this approach. I would hope that anyone else who will be seeking election will join us in this move."

Present Commissioner Lon Howell, and one of his two opponents, Bob Church, had agreed not to put up signs during a press conference the two held at Liberty Park on Oct. 8.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Debate-Florida

Observers: Bush did better, still has a chance

By DAN SHAW
Associated Press

MIAMI — President Bush may have won the battle in the last presidential debate, some Florida observers say, although there's disagreement about whether he still has a chance to win the political war.

"I think George Bush did better this time in getting his message across," Gov. Lawton Chiles said Monday night.

"But I think Bill Clinton came out without making any mistakes or making anyone not want to vote for him."

Chiles said independent Ross Perot also scored some points, but added that Perot "really went after Bush, even more so than" emphasizing his own longshot candidacy.

Chiles said his recent travels around the state lead him to believe Clinton has a good chance of carrying Florida and even boosting Democratic candidates in the state that gave Bush his largest margin in 1980.

"It looks better and better for Clinton," Chiles said.

The governor's former Senate colleague, ex-Sen. Paula Hawkins, a Republican, said Bush showed that he still has a chance.

"I thought Bush came out a winner. He was confident, calm. I think he's ready to go get 'em."

Mrs. Hawkins was frustrated, though, that the president haltingly and incompletely answered the question posed to each candidate about why he didn't have more women in his inner circle. She noted Bush forgot to mention his secretary of commerce, Barbara Franklin, and his deputy campaign manager, Mary Malin.

She said she knows Bush has personal difficulty going on the attack and highlighting his own achievements. She said Bush's mother, who lives in Florida, will probably call him to chide him for bragging about his achievements.

"It's difficult for him. He was raised to be genteel, polite," she said.

She added that as a former senator, she believes Perot's claims he can gain majority support in Washington "are something he's incapable of. He keeps saying he's going to clean 'em out. I get this terrible feeling that if they don't vote with him, they're going to get shot."

Also pleased was Dr. Zachariah Zachariah, an India-born Fort Lauderdale medical doctor and Bush-Quayle fund raiser.

Flying dead bodies big business

FORT LAUDERDALE — Each year about 4,000 dead bodies are flown out of Hollywood-Fort Lauderdale International Airport, making it the apparent world leader in that category, airline experts say.

South Florida's other major airports in Miami, Palm Beach and Pinellas counties ship well under 3,000 per year, according to the Florida Department of Health.

"It's a very big business ... because you have so many people who retire down there and want to be buried where they came from," said Tim Neale, spokesman for the Airline Transport Association in Washington.

Delta Air Lines, which ships 3,500 bodies a month around the country, reports Fort Lauderdale is its busiest city for that traffic.

Glenn: Defense funds needed for health

TITUSVILLE — The type of cutting-edge research taking place with the space shuttle and proposed for Space Station Freedom "will again put us far ahead of every industrialized nation in the world," says John Glenn.

The first American to orbit the Earth was on the Florida Space Coast Sunday as part of a fund-raiser for his re-election bid to the U.S. Senate.

The past year was critical to the construction of the space station, and continued support for it is encouraging, said Glenn, who added that money previously earmarked for military hardware might be redirected into spaceflight contracts.

However, said Glenn, most of the money previously used for defense is needed for health, education and other domestic programs.

'Boy, it's good to be back home'

JACKSONVILLE — Miss America Leanna Cornett was greeted in her first trip back home since winning the title with a marching band, a throng of well-wishers and Navy ROTC cadets in crisp, white uniforms.

"Boy, it's good to be back home. I'm truly blessed to be part of this wonderful community and family," said Ms. Cornett, to a throng of several hundred people Sunday at The Jacksonville Landing.

During an hour-long ceremony, Ms. Cornett was loaded down with plaques, framed pictures of the city's skyline, proclamations, the key to the city and a lot of hugs.

At a news conference before her appearance, Ms. Cornett discussed AIDS awareness.

"I adopted it for my platform at the pageant because I was so angry that so many people were undereducated about AIDS. If I were Miss America or not, I'd still be an AIDS activist," she said.

Death row inmate loses appeal

WASHINGTON — Florida death row inmate Jacob John Dougan, convicted of a Jacksonville area murder 18 years ago in what he called an attempt to start a revolution and race war, lost a Supreme Court appeal.

Dougan was convicted of killing hitchhiker Stephen Anthony Orlando on June 17, 1974, near Jacksonville.

Court records show that Dougan, who lost his appeal Monday, and five companions drove around Jacksonville looking for a "devil" — any white person — to kill.

They picked up Orlando in Jacksonville Beach, drove him to an isolated trash dump and stabbed him repeatedly, records show. As Orlando begged for his life, Dougan shot him twice in the head, killing him.

Graham's health care reform challenged

WEST PALM BEACH — Republican challenger Bill Grant has charged that Sen. Bob Graham's proposals for health care reform would create a costly, massive federal health care system.

Grant, in a debate Monday with the incumbent U.S. senator, said Graham's health solution, which would require employers to provide health insurance for their employees, would increase payroll taxes 9 percent, cost 800,000 jobs and create a government-run health system four times larger than Medicare.

Fisherman to be sentenced on 11 counts

PENSACOLA — A Florida Panhandle commercial fisherman and his seafood company face potential criminal and civil penalties in excess of $12.5 million in a construction kickback scheme.

Raffield Fisheries Inc., the second-largest employer in Port St. Joe, will be sentenced Dec. 12 on 11 criminal counts and its president, Gene Raffield, on a single charge.

The company pleaded guilty Friday in U.S. District Court to accepting kickbacks from a construction company that was rebuilding its fire-damaged plant with a $1.3 million federal loan.

Florida sees 47 % increase in population of children under 6

By JACKIE MALLIFAX
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida may have a reputation as a haven for the nation's retirees, but the state also has one of the fastest growing child populations in the country, an advocate says.

The 1980s saw a 21.4 percent increase in the number of Floridians under the age of 18 and a 47.8 percent rise in the number of children younger than 6, according to Jack Levine, executive director of the Florida Center for Children & Youth, a non-profit advocacy group.

Only Nevada, Alaska and Arizona saw a greater growth in their child population. Nationwide, the number of children declined 0.2 percent during the decade.

But in Florida 555 babies are born every day.

"This is what's called the echo boom. These are the babies of the baby-boomers," Levine said Monday. "This is the phenomenal population growth which is reflected in a growth state like Florida."

In 1980, Florida had nearly 2.9 million people under the age of 18 and more than 1 million children younger than 6.

"If we don't plan for this 47 percent increase of today's babies today, we will never ever be able to afford the debts that will be incurred," Levine said.

He estimated it would take $1.4 billion in new money to provide the prenatal care, immunizations and child-care slots to the pregnant women and children now going without. But, he added, every dollar spent on prevention saves $5 to $7 in avoidable bills for doctors, hospitals and social workers.

"When it comes to kids it's not whether we pay, it's when," Levine said.

Gov. Lawton Chiles said Levine's figures should dispel any misperceptions about the needs of children in a state known for its elderly population.

"We have to take care of these children," he said, calling them the raw material of the state's future.

Butterfly makes a comeback

By The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH — The largest known colony of a tropical butterfly thought to be extinct in the United States as recently as 1980 has been discovered in northern Palm Beach County.

The Florida atala butterfly is making a comeback in part because of human action — its only food plant is now widely used in landscaping, said Carmen Berrows-MacDougall, an environmental consultant and coordinator of the Butterfly Project.

The project helps children plant gardens to attract butterflies so the students can learn to appreciate Florida's biological diversity while fulfilling the state's environmental education requirement.

Berrows-MacDougall was surprised to find the colony two months ago. "Never have atalae been found north of Broward County," she said. "It was hard to believe."

Berrows-MacDougall said she caught a glimpse of the butterfly's red belly highlighted by the sun as she was driving.

She discovered the butterflies in August on coonite plants, the larvae's food source, on a median strip owned by Florida Power & Light Co.

She refuses to divulge the street for fear butterfly collectors will try to capture atalae.

They are listed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as candidates for endangered status. The designation would make it a violation of federal law to kill them.

Tom Emmel, a professor of zoology and entomology at the University of Florida, said the resurgence of atalae was an amazing example of a species coming back from the brink of extinction.

The atalae once flourished amid the coastal pineclands of South Florida, where their larvae could feed on the Zamia pumila, known as coonite, which looks like a dwarf palm and has existed for 200 million years.

Former opponent backs sheriff

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Ealinger can finally boast the endorsement of a former opponent. Monday, GOP opponent Larry Conniff said he would not stray from party lines and would back the Republican nominee for sheriff. Conniff admitted the endorsement was not based on ideology.

"It's time to solidify the Republican Party," said Conniff. "I am a Republican. I support the party. The voters spoke. I've got to go along with the voters."

In declaring his allegiance to the party and their choice, Conniff said he would not follow in the footsteps of fellow partisan Harold "Beau" Taylor who resigned his newly-won post of GOP committeeman Sept. 2 to publicly endorse Democratic nominee Charley Fagan. Republican by-laws prohibit party officials from campaigning for candidates in opposing parties.

Fagan has also received the endorsement of former Democratic opponent David Locher.

Fagan said he didn't consider Conniff's statement a sign of support for Ealinger, but for the party.

"I'm sorry to hear that," said Fagan this morning. "It goes against what Larry has said for the last six months."

Conniff admitted he has been critical of the sheriff during the campaign. At one point, Conniff had even alluded to his teaching a course in Michigan attended by Ealinger by saying "Who do you want, the teacher or the student?"

Conniff said he has not discussed issues with Ealinger, but said he hopes to have an input into the sheriff's policies. Ealinger said he would lend an ear to his former instructor.

"We have discussed some stuff," said Ealinger. "I and Larry Conniff had the same ideas toward moving the sheriff's office forward, the basic same ideas."

The only former sheriff's candidate yet to endorse someone else is Republican Harvey Morae, who waged a bitter campaign against Ealinger. Morae said this morning as a committeeman, he can't publicly endorse Democrat Fagan but he added "I strongly support what Charley stands for. I believe he is a man of integrity. I don't think I could endorse Don Ealinger for the reasons I expounded during the campaign. I have serious questions about his integrity. And from what I have seen since the primaries, he has done nothing to change my perception."

Makita Latean Brown, 27, 1152 Dunbar Ave., Lake Monroe was charged in connection with a warrant for violating the terms of her probation on charges of soliciting for prostitution. Police said she was loitering in the area of 7th Street and Pine for more than half an hour and a check of her identification revealed an outstanding warrant. She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Allegation unfounded; deputy returns to job

SANFORD — An internal affairs investigation has absolved Seminole County sheriff's Sgt. Ron Gilbert of any wrongdoing.

One week after he was suspended with pay, sheriff's critic Gilbert returned to work, according to Seminole County Sheriff's Office records. The records indicate an internal affairs investigation into an allegation Gilbert was insubordinate to his commander, Lt. Matt Stewart.

Gilbert has since been transferred to the warrants division from the road patrol division at the same pay level. The shift was one of several made recently and unrelated to the investigation, said Sheriff Don Ealinger.

Ealinger said an employee, whom he refused to name, had alleged Gilbert told a group of deputies "Lt. Stewart is out to screw you" or a similar statement. A report of the investigation showed none of the deputies confirmed the statement so the allegation was declared officially unfounded.

Ealinger said the allegation was serious and denied the investigation was retribution for Gilbert's criticisms.

"It involved a possible insubordination by a member of the sheriff's office which is a very serious allegation pursuant to the efficiency of the organization," said Ealinger. "It is completely separate to the letter and had nothing to do with that matter."

Gilbert declined comment, saying "I just want to leave things be."

Gilbert, along with Sgt. Mike Messer, wrote Gov. Lawton Chiles in April criticizing State Attorney Norm Wolfinger's investigation into allegations of brutality by agents in the City County Investigative Bureau. The sergeants wrote sheriff's officials intimidated sheriff's employees from talking to state investigators about the allegations.

Inmate can't be fed drugs to make him sane for execution

By KERRY PRINCE
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Louisiana's Supreme Court says an inmate cannot be forced to take drugs to make him sane enough to be executed — a ruling the man's attorney says makes it unlikely he will ever be put to death.

In a 5-2 ruling Monday, the court blocked the execution of Michael Owen Perry for the murders of his parents and three other relatives. It said forcing him to take drugs would violate his privacy and would be cruel and unusual punishment.

"Carrying out this punitive scheme would add severity and indignity to the prisoner's punishment beyond that required for the mere extinguishment of life," Justice James Dennis wrote.

The court left open the possibility of an execution if Perry ever regains his sanity without the use of drugs.

But June Denlinger, Perry's attorney, said, "We believe that is an impossible burden."

Perry, 37, was convicted of murdering his mother, father, nephew and two cousins in 1983 in the town of Lake Arthur. A schizophrenic, Perry contends pop singer Olivia Newton-John is a goddess living under Lake Arthur. At one time, he shaved his eyebrows so his brain could get more oxygen.

Perry was convicted in 1985 in the shooting deaths. He was twice found incompetent to stand trial, but in 1988 he was deemed able to help with his defense.

In 1988, state District Judge L.J. Hymel ruled Perry was too incompetent for execution but said prison authorities should administer the drug Haldol, against his will if necessary, so he could regain competence and be put to death.

In a dissent Monday, Justice Walter Marcus said the measure of competency to undergo execution should be the ability of a prisoner to understand what the death penalty is and why he is being put to death.

"The administration of medication produces the required level of competence for Perry to undergo execution and is therefore consistent with his sentence," Marcus wrote.

Couple convicted of murdering daughter

By The Associated Press

SANTA ANA, Calif. — A husband and wife were found guilty Monday of murdering their 5-year-old daughter during what prosecutors depicted as an attempted exorcism in 1978.

A jury convicted Marcos Morales, 56, of first-degree murder in the death of his daughter, Lisa. His wife, Beatriz, 47, was found guilty of second-degree murder.

Another daughter, Monica McLellan, 20, who had testified against her parents, cried as the verdicts were read in Orange County Superior Court.

During the trial, Deputy District Attorney Lew Roenblum said the couple began to believe Lisa was possessed by demons after she pushed one of her sisters down a flight of stairs. "They constantly referred to her as the evil one, the devil," he said. She was kept naked and unwashed in a bathroom, the prosecutor said. At times, witnesses spotted bruises and cigarette burns on her.

The couple's oldest daughter, Beatriz Morales Quintero, 23, testified she heard screaming in the bathroom the November night that Lisa died, apparently drowning in the tub.

"Dad (was) yelling, and then after that I heard my mother yelling, and then I heard it being quiet," she said.

Mrs. Quintero also offered testimony prosecutors said supported their contention that Lisa's body was disposed of on a beach near Tijuana, Mexico. The body was never found.

"My mom, she was saying we were going to go somewhere, and she gave us little gifts because we were scared. ... When we got in the car ... there was this bag by my feet. ... It felt like a body."

Salvation Army says thanks

Emergency Disaster Services provided by The Salvation Army in response to human need in south Florida have been given in the highest tradition of The Salvation Army. It is impossible for us to personally contact the thousands of donors of clothing and food, water and cash donations as well as volunteer service, who have assisted us in meeting the needs of the disaster victims.

The unprecedented damage left in the wake of Hurricane Andrew has been more than matched by the unprecedented response from Floridians and citizens across the USA who have responded so generously in support of our disaster services in south Florida. Because of this generous response, The Salvation Army has now made a long term commitment to assist with the rebuilding of homes in Dade County.

To our many friends we say "Thank you and God bless you."

Red Ribbon Week

Does the thought of losing someone you love to drug abuse make you so mad you could "see red"? Even if you could be absolutely certain that your son or daughter would never fall victim to the addictions caused by alcohol and other drugs, no one can say who will be the next victim of a drug-related traffic crash.

All over the nation during Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 24 to Nov. 1, 1992, we will all see red as people from all walks of life join together in a comprehensive acknowledgment of our determination to reclaim our neighborhoods, cities and youth into a society no longer impacted by the abuse of alcohol and other drugs.

The National Federation of Parents (NFP) organized the first Red Ribbon Campaign in 1988 in response to the death of Enrico Camarero, the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) agent who was tortured and murdered while on a drug supply investigation in Mexico. As a result of the investigation into this crime, the DEA began to expand its focus to incorporate an increased emphasis on reduction in demand for illegal drugs, as well as supply reduction. Since, in a free market economy such as ours, supply will always follow demand for a product, whether the product is cocaine or can openers, demand reduction is absolutely essential in order to win any lasting victory in the war against drugs.

Red Ribbon Week is about impacting the American drug abuse problem from a positive perspective. A young person or adult who never experiments with drugs will not become addicted, regardless of his or her genetic or social predisposition. During Red Ribbon Week, people from law enforcement agencies, businesses, civic organizations, governmental and social service agencies, schools, churches, and families will be standing together to proclaim our mutual commitment to a life-style free from the impact of the abuse of alcohol and other drugs. When we all stand together, determined to eliminate the demand for illegal uses of alcohol and other drugs, we give clear demand-reduction messages to our young people. When our programs are coordinated, we minimize duplication of efforts.

Within the bounds of propriety, there is no "wrong" way to join in the Red Ribbon Week acclamation. You can show your commitment in a personal way by placing red ribbons on your clothing, car antenna, front door, mail box, spouse, kids, and pets during Red Ribbon Week. Encourage the members of your family, church, civic or social group to organize an event or program themed on drug-free living during the campaign. Proclaim your determination to live free from the impact of illegal drug use by supporting and participating in the Red Ribbon activities in your community.

For technical assistance and support in planning a Red Ribbon activity, or for more information on events taking place during the week-long acclamation, contact the Seminole County Schools' Drug Prevention Office at (407) 330-2694 or 330-2695. The suggested time-line for Red Ribbon activities is:

- Oct. 24 and 25 - Red Ribbon Sports Weekend
- Oct. 26 - Red Ribbon Decoration Day
- Oct. 27 - Reach Out Day
- Oct. 28 - Wear Red and Rally Day
- Oct. 29 - Sign Up and Pledge Day
- Oct. 30 - Red Ribbon Recognition Day
- Oct. 31 - Drugs Are Scary Day
- Nov. 1 - Red Ribbon Religious/Family Day

Clinton's Moscow visit shrouded in fog

What if Bob Dornan is on to something? Suppose the fire-breathing congressman from California is not just blowing smoke when he suggests that young Bill Clinton's trip to the Soviet Union 22 years ago, at the height of the Vietnam War, was not entirely innocent?

At the very least, it seems, the story of Clinton's holiday in Moscow merits the same scrutiny that, say, The New Yorker recently gave over to allegations by a convicted felon that he once sold dope to young Dan Quayle. Voters hardly should be expected to accept at face value the Democratic candidate's recollection of what occurred during his travels to Russia, seeing how unforthcoming he has been in accounts of his anti-war activities.

This much we do know: Clinton began a one-week visit to Moscow on the final day of December 1969. While the future governor of Arkansas was ringing in the New Year from Red Square, 5,000 miles away in Vietnam, 65 young American soldiers were dying for their country at the hands of the Soviet-backed communists.

Clinton somehow remembered the time of his Soviet visit as a period of good relations between our two countries... a very friendly time, a good atmosphere. What could he have been smoking? In December 1969, the friendly Russians were still supplying the North Vietnamese army with everything from small arms to tanks that were being used to kill American kids.

Candidate Clinton says that the Soviet Union simply was the last stop on a travel itinerary that included visits to Finland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark. He also says that his 40-day excursion, a respite from his studies at Oxford, had nothing to do with his anti-war activities.

There is, at the moment, no evidence to the contrary. But the Democrat raises suspicions by refusing to disclose whom he saw while vacationing in Moscow.

Should voters accept the word of his handlers that Clinton bumped into all kinds of people and leave it that?

It happens that six weeks prior to his visit to communist Russia, Clinton actively participated in a major anti-war demonstration, the so-called March of Death, outside the U.S. Embassy in London. Richard McSorley, a Jesuit priest who headed Georgetown University's Center for Peace Studies in London, remembers that young Bill Clinton helped to carry a coffin, into which the anti-U.S. demonstrators tossed the names of dead American soldiers.

Father McSorley, who told me that he continues to support Clinton's presidential candidacy, remembers that young Bill was one of the student organizers of the demonstration. Clinton, however, claims that he was not a big organizer of anti-war activities.

One of these two men is playing fast and loose with the truth, and I don't think it is the priest. It seems clear that Clinton was far more active in the anti-war movement than he previously has let on. Just as it is clear that the man who would be our next commander in chief managed to avoid the draft by less-than-honest means.

Clinton somehow believes that his activities as a young man as a draft dodger, as a small anti-war organizer, should not be held against him as he pursues the presidency. He attributes the questions about his record during the Vietnam War days to an attempted smear by those who oppose his candidacy.

Suppose young Clinton's trip to the Soviet Union was not entirely innocent?

"I'm Larry King. The subject is suspenders. President Bush flexes his, Ross Perot snaps back and Gov. Clinton keeps up his pants."

Electric car can save jobs

At least one Michigan auto plant is staying on the job because at least an industry giant is taking a risk to forge the link between economic reality and environmental sense.

Workers at the Lansing Craft Center aren't going to lose their jobs even though the car they've assembled in the past has been dropped from the General Motors lineup. Instead, they're going to build this country's first mass-produced electric car. It's called the Impact.

"It is fair to say that the Lansing center was saved because of the Impact," says Bethany Young, GM's senior analyst for market development.

It's worth keeping an eye on how this innovation fares. The internal combustion engine is so much a part of our lives that to many it seems immutable, as permanently rooted in the American tradition as are the peas and the V-8 are, after all, the meat and potatoes of American industry. Visionaries who have proposed we begin using power from a source other than gasoline are regarded as eccentrics to be tolerated, perhaps, but taken seriously, never.

Let me assure you, the executives at big, bureaucratic and conservative GM haven't suddenly gone barmy because they're pouring millions into a car with no engine, no transmission, no tailpipe and no emissions. In fact, they're betting they may just have an inside line on the future with their car, which, by the way, doesn't need tune-ups or oil changes either.

While GM plans to be first, it is by no means alone. Other American, Japanese and German manufacturers are well along with their own entries to the electric car and van market, which should premiere at selected local showrooms within the next three years or so.

This is not a case of enlightened entrepreneurship pursuing opportunity despite risk. Far from it. It's a much more mundane instance of government prodding industry to innovate.

Lawmakers in California, the U.S.'s biggest car market with its foulest air, have mandated that by 1998 at least 40,000 of the new cars sold there be free of emissions. Five years later, the figure jumps to 200,000 emissionless cars. To make the rule stick, they said automakers who don't offer emission-free models can't sell their piston-powered ones either. Electric cars are 97 percent cleaner than their gasoline counterparts, even counting emissions from power plants that supply the juice, according to California officials. The state's utility companies say they can provide electricity for up to 1 million vehicles without any new power plant construction.

Of course, if people don't buy the new offerings, the rulemakers are going to look exceedingly foolish. That's the risk they took. The risk GM and the others are taking is that they can meet the challenge and turn a profit doing it.

GM is leading the way with its sporty Impact, a two-seater that looks a lot like the popular Miata and is expected to sell in the $16,500 range. And this is no overzealous golf cart. The Impact will do 0 to 60 mph in 8 seconds (better than a lot of its piston competition), have quick pick-up for passing, and a 75 mph top speed. The Impact's in-city range will be about 80 miles on a full charge, perhaps 120 miles on the highway.

For power, GM is relying on a new version of an old technology: lead-acid batteries that can be mass produced easily and almost completely recycled. The Japanese are thought to be ahead on the next generation of batteries, the fuel cell which can produce electricity from hydrogen. The federal government is backing a research project with U.S. automakers to catch up on the Japanese.

Getting the juice to the car will be nearly as big a project as getting the car on the road. Hughes Aircraft is developing that technology. It is expected to include a three-hour, overnight home charger and "electric kiosks" where you could get a full charge in 15 minutes. Some fast-food chains are now negotiating deals to provide the kiosks free to get customers inside where it is thought they'll spend more money than if they just use the drive-thru.

Letting someone else pay for your car fuel — now there's an idea that just may catch on.

It's worth keeping an eye on how this innovation fares.

Sexual orientation is a fact of life

I remember when one of the most awkward things you could say was, "I have a lot of black friends." It was usually a lumber-headed attempt at trying to prove how enlightened and progressive you were, and truly enlightened hearers noted that if you WERE genuinely oblivious to color, you wouldn't need to mention skin hue.

That said, here I go: I have wonderful gay friends. We didn't choose each other as friends because of sexual orientation but because we treat each other with humor, insight and caring. We don't talk much about their being gay or my being heterosexual unless it relates to another topic we're discussing, nor do we avoid it. It is simply one part of the whole picture that defines us.

So why do I bother to mention my friends' sexual orientation? Why isn't it something, like skin color, to which you become so oblivious that it isn't an issue? I mention it because back in the time we were boasting of black friends to show enlightenment, no one was suggesting blacks change themselves to become more white. There are many people who demand that gays change themselves, however, and some of them believe gays are bad people, people who don't deserve to be accepted just as they are.

One of the most troubling aspects of the "change or else" demand is the reaction of some in the anti-gay contingent to medical research suggesting there may be true biological differences in homosexuals and heterosexuals. I'm not a scientist and can only read about what scientists explore, but I enjoy medical reporting and keep clips on a variety of medical issues and this research is one of them.

One of the most interesting articles I've read lately is about the difficulty scientists have in even defining completely through standard genetic testing whether a person is male or female. Earlier this year, The New York Times reported that a gene mutation on a chromosome, defects in hormone production and other naturally occurring conditions result in "blurred gender" that cannot be determined by gender tests used by the International Olympic Committee.

Research into possible biological differences in gays and heterosexuals is in its early stages, and we absolutely don't know what it means yet. That's why I was shocked to see the immediate reaction to the research by some in the anti-gay crowd, declaring that the research is being misinterpreted to win cultural approval for homosexuality and repeal of laws against it.

Nonsense. Science is science, not a social agenda. If science were to prove that homosexuality is nothing more than the psychological result of environment, then that is what it would prove. What some opponents of homosexuality are doing now is to take evidence that suggests nature may have a hand in sexual orientation, and saying if it is a natural condition it is no more than a "disease" we should try to cure.

Syndicated columnist Cal Thomas wrote in September, "There were great strides on the genetic front... which may someday contribute to the debate on homosexuality, when it was announced that doctors are now able to identify embryos with genetic defects only a few days after conception and, in some cases, remove damaged genes that cause such maladies as cystic fibrosis. They can then replace the embryo in the womb, which leads to the birth of a normal baby."

In other words, homosexuality may be a condition of nature, but that doesn't mean we can't cure you even if we have to do it while you're in the womb.

Here I go: I have wonderful gay friends.

 which will get us deeply involved in all aspects of low income housing."
 Davis cited four ways the money could be used, including paying impact and utility charges for eligible persons.
 "Then we can subsidize developers and builders in both profit and non-profit organizations," she explained.
 "Other uses may include for the acquisition of land, or to pay for mortgages or mortgage interests."
 "But those two items still remain to be determined," Davis said.
 David said the funds in Seminole County will go for financing low income houses, as well as homes for elderly and handicapped, plus some qualifying first-time home buyers.

 She explained that 75 percent of the money must be used directly in the fields of construction, rehabilitation or emergency repairs.
 According to Frances Billingsley, with the coalition, the conference that starts tomorrow is expected to attract over 200 local government officials, leaders, non profits, public housing authorities, private builders, planners and attorneys.
 Workshops at the event will explore opportunities available to counties to form local housing partnerships with the private sector.

 Among guest speakers at the convention will be Bob Detjen, of the Southeastern Regional Office of Fannie Mae in Atlanta, Jamie Ross of 1000 Friends of Florida, and Michael Poole of the Coalition for the homeless of Central Florida.
 The meeting gets underway at 3 p.m., Wed., Oct. 21 at the Altamonte Springs Hilton and Towers, S.R. 436 at Interstate 4.
 Thursday, registration begins at 8 a.m., with presentations starting at 9 a.m., and workshops to start at 1:10 p.m. The conference will end at noon, Friday.

 "The big thing here," he added, "is the safety of the children. Bus safety experts throughout the country have insisted that going into a subdivision with a bus is less safe, because re-entry into the fast flow of traffic increases the accident potential."
 The Longwood Commission heard comments from over a dozen citizens last night, including persons involved in youth sports and recreation programs.
 Parent and city commissioner, Fred Pearl demanded the city take immediate action after the death of one Lake Mary student over a week ago.
 Hagerly however, said this morning, "When you consider the Lake Mary situation involved brakes that were not operating on a trailer, and the other points of the accident, it was a freak accident and we shouldn't let the emotions of the moment endanger all the rest of the children."
 Last night, Pearl commented, "We are being told by the school board that we don't have the right to speak out," he said, "but I would like to know how long it would take our city attorney to draft an emergency resolution to prohibit the pick-ups on main arteries. Let's take some action now."
 Attorney Becky Vose responded that she could do it within minutes. Deputy Mayor Rex Anderson then called for a brief commission recess, and Vose immediately began writing wording for the emergency ordinance.

City Attorney Becky Vose draws up the emergency ordinance moving school bus stops off main roads in Longwood.

Following the recess, the original resolution was approved by a unanimous vote, and Vose was called to read the emergency ordinance.
 The new ordinance specifies, "Loading and unloading of school buses on main arterial streets is prohibited." It continues, "No school bus shall stop along any main arterial street (as designated by the Police Chief) within the City of Longwood for the purpose of loading or unloading school children."
 The presentation drew a huge standing round of applause from the packed commission chambers. Although a resolution similar to one passed by Lake Mary last Thursday night was being discussed, the new ordinance was drafted during the actual meeting.
 The original resolution called on the city to endorse a proposal to have the Seminole County School Board join in a joint committee to consider safety with school buses picking up or discharging youngsters near busy streets. Lake Mary unanimously adopted the measure which will create the committee within 60 days.
 The citizens however, informed the commission they were not satisfied with the ordinance supporting the safety committee. Faced with over 100 angry parents from both cities, they were encouraged to take immediate action, rather than wait for the 60 days.
 Chris Mylett, a Longwood resident who also addressed the Lake Mary City Commission, discussed the one death and two critical injuries in the accident last week in Lake Mary.

 "I challenge you the commission, to do something, and do it now. That's why we elected you," Mylett said.
 The commission was short one member, with Commissioner Clancy Keith absent. Only commissioners Fred Pearl and Paul Lovstrand, and Deputy Mayor Rex Anderson were in attendance.
 Police Chief Greg Manning was asked to discuss the situation. "There is no reason why a school bus can't pull off into a residential area to pick up the children," he said. "It's less dangerous than picking them up on a major artery, and no one can tell me that two or three minutes more it will take is going to cost that much extra gas."
 The instant ordinance was immediately approved by a unanimous vote of the commission.
 As the document is an emergency ordinance however, it expires in 60 days. By that time, the commission must either bring it back for formal first and second reading and public hearings, or allow it to drop.
 Following the meeting, Chief Manning commented, "If the city would have allowed this to die, I believe the school board would just continue doing whatever it wanted to, and I don't believe that would necessarily be in the best interests of our children."

 Several citizens questioned what action the school board might take in response to the emergency prohibition. Commissioner Pearl observed, "Let them fight it if they want to, but we have passed it."
 Anderson commented, "At least we are letting this and other surrounding communities see where we stand, and I hope they will all add their support."
 Police Chief Manning will be checking all areas considered to be main arteries within the next two days to determine exactly where bus stops might have to be moved.
 Citizens leaving the meeting were of the same opinion, indicating a victory, with the support of the City of Lake Mary. Several, including Commissioner Pearl, also commented on the next step if the school buses don't stop when the bus stops are moved by the City.
 "If they don't stop," Pearl said, "I'll be paying a visit to my attorney the very next day."
 Although the ordinance is to go into effect this Thursday, it could be delayed until the School Board obtains a court injunction preventing it until the legal aspects of the ordinance are examined.

 conditions and treatment may differ, basic incarceration remains the same.
 "It is the same as in Russia," said Moscowite Sergey V. Vassiliev, president of the SMENA Foundation, a Russian organization that seeks democratic changes in the country. "They are put in prison and people try to forget about them."
 "Mankind has yet to find a way to solve this problem," said Peter Voltakhovskiy of Odessa, Ukraine. "What I have seen here is that life in prison is not as charming as it is for people on the outside. But it is comparable to life inside and outside prison in our country."

 "The main thing is to prevent crimes," said Bogdan Popescu-Necescu of Bucharest, Romania, a founder of the National Liberal Party in that country. "If they are provided with decent conditions they will not want to commit crimes because they will want to be on the outside."
 But he added that the treatment of inmates was different. "It is not like trying to give orders to slaves to try to make it as difficult as possible for them," said Popescu-Necescu. "Here, it is different."

Kids

 neighborhood in the Hills of Lake Mary subdivision are all very athletic, but Vergara and Beckler stood at as superior athletes because of their quickness and versatility.
 The boys also played football in the Beckler's backyard quite often.
 Kalin said that the Beckler home was the center of a lot of activity for the boys because they have a large back yard and Michael liked having his friends around him.
 Last summer, under Vergara and Beckler's leadership, the neighborhood boys mowed the weeds from a vacant lot across the street from the Beckler's Lake Como Drive home and made their own baseball field.
 "There were 12 or 14 guys out there every day beginning at 8 a.m.," Kalin said. "They'd play all day long."

 Kalin said that, like their friends, Beckler and Vergara loved to play Nintendo games. The two had helped organize an exchange so that the youngsters would be able to have new games all the time.
 Vergara has been very involved in the CCD program at All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford, Kalin said. Beckler was also very involved in his church.
 "They're all really neat kids," Kalin said. "We're all very concerned about Arcadio and Michael."
 The Hills of Lake Mary has set up a trust fund to help the families of the boys pay for medical and other expenses.
 Donations to the fund should be sent to Seminole National Bank, P.O. Box 2057, Sanford, Fla. 32772-2057.

Any design you can imagine can be incorporated into a custom made rug. And the best place to go for a custom rug on a budget is Mandy's Rug Shack.

Bob Padgett has built a lot of things in his life. He was in the construction business in North Florida for many years. Now he's building a reputation for excellence in construction and design of custom made area rugs.

This particular decorating feature has not been available to many homeowners because the designs are labor intensive and therefore expensive. But Bob's low overhead and many years of experience makes his designs more affordable. Any size, shape or color is available. Imagination is the only limitation. The rug shown in the photo above is an original conception of Bob's and the design actually extends beyond the rug's border. Only the best quality plush carpeting is used. All rugs are professionally backed and bound for durability. Turn around time on most jobs is two weeks, never more than three, according to Bob.

In 1985, Bob and Amanda "Mandy" Padgett decided to move to Sanford. They first opened their rug and auto mat operation at Flea World. Business was good, so the Padgett's recently decided to expand to a seven day a week operation, opening a new store at the intersection of Lake Mary Boulevard and Highway 17-92, Winn Dixie Shopping Center.

Mandy's Rug Shack and Bob's Auto Mat Service carries machine washable bath, kitchen and accent rugs, oriental design carpet, welcome mats, conventional bound carpet, throw rugs and carpeting, auto, truck and van mats in ten color selections.

Wall-to-wall carpeting, plush and indoor/outdoor, is available with or without installation.

The really unique thing about Bob and Mandy's business is the price. Their prices truly beat department store prices, and the selection is enormous. The low prices are no joke. The fact is that there is truly no middleman between Mandy's Rug Shack and the carpet mills. Bob travels to Georgia once a week to buy new inventory and fill orders for custom carpet.

Bob is one of not many small buyers still able to get volume discounts on auto mats and rugs. He passes these discounts on to his customers. Ford, Chrysler and Chevrolet van and auto mats meet manufacturer's new car specifications at below dealer prices.

Visit Bob's Auto Mat Service and Mandy's Rug Shack Monday through Saturday from 10:00 AM to 8:00 PM on Sunday 10:00 AM to 6:00 PM. If you have any questions about custom rugs or carpet installation, give Bob a call at 321-8009.

Order Holiday Greeting Cards Now At CGA

It's hard to believe that it is almost that time of year again. Only ten weeks until Christmas. Have you started making your list and checking it twice. And what about Holiday Greeting Cards. Why not let Classic Graphics/Aiken Printing Company (CGA) handle that for you this year. CGA offers a wide variety of styles, for business and personal use. But there is no time like the present; order now to insure that your greetings arrive at their destination before the new year does.

Everyone at CGA will have alot to celebrate this holiday season. The combination earlier this year, of two existing business, has been a real boon to the new company. Aiken Printing, a Sanford business since 1949, joined forces with an eight year old company, Classic Graphics, to form CGA. The new combination means 51 years of experience and a dedication to "old time" quality service. Their only business is printing.

CGA specializes in business printing: letterheads, envelopes and business cards are the standard fare. But CGA can also do flyers, banners, tri-fold brochures, booklets and more. CGA has a graphic artist on staff; another plus for your business since most printing houses have to send this work out as well. Linda Newcomb has five years experience and is well-versed in all phases of layout and design.

James Wise handles the press end of the business with 10 years experience in raised and flat lettering.

As Production Manager, Tim Alken has been running presses for 20 years, starting as a young boy working with his dad, Dick Alken.

CGA offers free pick-up and delivery, servicing Orange, Seminole and Volusia counties. There is a five-day turn-around on most printing jobs. CGA is also equipped to help with political campaigns, from signs to hats and buttons.

For special occasions, CGA handles a full line of greeting cards, wedding invitations and announcements.

CGA is open Monday through Friday from 7:00 AM to 6:00 PM. If you have a problem deadline, CGA will work with you to meet your needs. Evening and weekend hours are available by appointment. CGA is located, as has Aiken Printing for the past twenty years, at 208 South Sanford Avenue. We have a full staff of sales people available. Jack Croach, Sales Manager, will be glad to meet with you day, night or on weekends by appointment, to service your needs. Call 322-5434 or 630-5939 to schedule a salesperson to call on your business! Fax service is available for incoming and outgoing correspondence.

Joy Wells, owner of Seminole Trading Company has a basketful of values for you.

Shopping Hobby Turns Into Business At Seminole Trading Company

You may recognize Joy Wells from the picture above, but you just can't place the face. Joy had a Charlie Chips (Charlie Chips) route in Seminole county for four years. It was a successful business venture for her. She loved her job and she loved her customers. But the one thing she loved more was SHOPPING. So she gave up her route in February 1981 and opened Seminole Trading Company, a household item consignment and resale shop. Now she can do the thing she loves and still make a living.

When you visit Seminole Trading Company, you will find the fruits of Joy's labor of love. Pots, pans, china, dishes, utensils, tables, chairs, sofas, coffee tables, linens, children's items, drapes, curtains, bedspreads, quilts, bathroom accessories such as towel bars and hampers, wicker baskets, pictures, wall decorations, picture frames, dolls, jewelry, glassware, candle sticks, country items, lamps and entertainment centers.

Actually, 90% of the store stock is consignment items. Joy prices the items through comparison shopping and experience. She says she has a feel for what people will pay for an item.

If you have some unwanted household items, Seminole Trading Company offers a good way to make some extra money. Consignment items stay in-house for ninety days, but Joy says that it is rare for an item to last that long, because things are priced right. Joy gives a 50-50 split on consignment items. Children's items are very popular, so Joy is eager to accept them. If you are looking for toys, some clothing, crib sheets or blankets, look here first. Joy accepts consignment items on a daily basis, without appointments.

Consider doing your holiday shopping at Seminole Trading Center. Joy offers free layaway, for 30 days.

Seminole Trading Company is located on Highway 17-82, just south of County Road 427 (3206 Hwy. 17-82). Joy says she is easy to get to, but hard to find because county ordinances do not allow her to put up a sign on the road, but just look for J. Taylor's Custom Vans, across from Hess Mart.

Seminole Trading Company is open Tuesday through Sunday, 10:00 AM to 6:00 PM. Joy says she finds a lot of people like to go shopping on Sunday after church. She's closed Monday, because that's when she does her shopping!

If you would like any more information on buying, selling or trading at Seminole Trading Company, give Joy a call at 322-6878. Or just give Joy a call and tell her you miss her delivering potato chips.

A cantankerous debate opens dash to election

By JOHN RANK
AP Political Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. — President Bush and Bill Clinton today opened a two-week dash to Election Day fresh from a stormy debate marked by clashes over trust and taxes and Ross Perot's frequent, pointed attacks on Bush's foreign policy.

Bush's last debate performance was his best, repeatedly criticizing Clinton for a "dangerous" pattern of waffling on issues ranging from trade with Mexico to war with Iraq.

Bush was more focused and aggressive than in the first two encounters, yet instant polls showed voters viewed Clinton a narrow winner, suggesting Bush had not done much to loosen Clinton's tenacious grip on a double-digit lead.

With the election two weeks away, Bush needs a hearty and historic turnaround if he is to win a second term.

Their debate series over, Clinton and Bush today began what promises to be a heated and hectic campaign finish. For all the post-debate bragging of the campaign, the schedules best illustrated the state of the race.

Bush headed South, for a train tour of Georgia and South Carolina, trying to rebuild a crumbling Republican base. Clinton looked to solidify leads in Illinois and Wisconsin before a swing through Western states that were once thought solid Republican.

Clinton provoked few fights during the third debate in eight days, but he returned Bush's volleys, mocking Bush's trust argument with a recitation of the president's "read my lips" tax promise, his pledge to create 30 million jobs and his support of what he once called "voodoo economics."

To Bush's charge that Clinton was a failed governor, Clinton countered that Arkansas was heading in the right direction under his leadership while the country floundered under Bush.

For his part, Perot said neither of his opponents' economic plans added up and that he would spend more than $60 million of his own money on his campaign. Perot again left the specifics to his TV ads, turning in another colorful debate performance.

"We'll be down in the trenches under the hood working on fixing the old car to get it back on the road," he said. Perot said voters worried about jobs should support a businessman who has created thousands — and ignore "these folks in the press telling you you're throwing your vote away."

Perot's sharpest volleys were aimed squarely at Bush, whom Perot said needed wars to remove Saddam Hussein and Manuel Noriega from power only because he had built up their regimes. And Perot's mere presence complicated Bush's at-

Final debate doesn't change voters' minds

By CHRISTOPHER SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — James Walker arrived at a final presidential debate party undecided about his choice and left it leaning toward Ross Perot.

But a sampling of voter reaction around the nation found other Americans' minds mostly unchanged by what they heard in 90 minutes of boasts and barbs.

At Monday night's debate-watching gathering in a middle-class black neighborhood here, about 20 backers of Perot, Bill Clinton and President Bush all said their views were reinforced by the candidates' performance.

Even the uncommitted mostly remained so. "Right now I'm farther away from being decided than I was before," Yusuf Muwakkil said.

Only Walker raised his hand when the group was asked if any minds were changed by the debate.

"If I had to vote tomorrow, I'd vote for Perot," he said, repeating the Texas businessman's promise to "give the country back to the people."

Walker, who was stationed in Japan while in the military, liked Perot's call to revise trade agreements on terms more favorable to the United States. "We're in bad shape financially," he said. "Perot is a proven businessman."

"Government doesn't work like a businessman," countered Teresa Jeter-Chappell, a Bush supporter.

"Whoever said Ross' one-liners weren't working was wrong," added Monica Jones, who often laughed heartily at the independent's colloquialisms during the debate.

tempts to land a knockout punch on Clinton.

The fights Monday night were on familiar issues, but spiced at times with the tension and intensity befitting a final clash.

Some highlights:

—TAXES: Bush argued that Clinton couldn't be trusted to keep his pledge to raise taxes only on the rich. "Mr. and Mrs. America ... watch your wallet because his figures don't add up and he's going to sock it right to the middle-class taxpayer." Clinton said Bush had zero credibility on the tax issue and said Bush was wrong to promise never to raise taxes. But in implementing his campaign promise, Clinton vowed: "If the money does not come in to pay for these programs we will cut other government spending or we will slow down the phase in of the programs. I am not going to raise taxes on the middle class to pay for these programs." Perot said generally that he would raise taxes, asking voters "to take fair, shared sacrifice."

—VIETNAM DRAFT: Clinton said he did not regret his opposition to the Vietnam War, but did wish he had done a better job responding to questions about the steps he took to avoid the draft. Bush said the issue wasn't avoiding the draft but whether Clinton's answers were part of "this pattern" of evasive answers and waffling. Perot came to Clinton's defense, saying, "I don't look on it as personally relevant."

—IRAQ: Perot and Bush clashed when the Texas billionaire alleged that Bush had in effect told Saddam Hussein he could seize northern Kuwait and then "we went nuts" and to war when the Iraqi leader seized the entire emirate. "That is absolutely absurd," Bush said. Clinton gave Bush credit for his war leadership but said Bush should own up to "coddling" Saddam even after he used mustard gas against his own people.

The candidates were hard-pressed to list key women advisers when asked to explain why their closest aides were "white men only."

Now you can make heat out of thin air.

A few years back, scientists developed something that could keep you warm in winter without burning a single drop of oil or molecule of gas in your home. And keep you cool in summer without using one kilowatt of electricity more than necessary.

They called it a "heat pump," that innocent-looking thing you see at the right. But it wasn't until today that anyone developed something to help the average homeowner afford such sophisticated technology. We call that the "FPL Heat Pump Discount." You don't have to understand all the technical details of how a heat pump works (and they can get pretty technical) to take advantage of its efficiency. All you have to know is that there are scores of reliable, hard-working contractors ready to knock up to $584 off the price of qualifying equipment if you just tell them FPL sent you. You'll save money on the cost of a heat pump system. And the system will save you every month on your energy costs. If you'd like a list of FPL participating independent contractors, plus a buying guide and discount details, call us at 1-800-DIAL-FPL (1-800-342-5375). Heat, Bulls help victims

MIAMI — Michael Jordan sparked a 20-point first-half lead they never relinquished as the Bulls beat the Heat 111-94 in an exhibition game to aid the victims of Hurricane Andrew.

Jordan suggested the game to Heat partner Billy Cunningham this summer shortly after the storm caused extensive damage.

About $400,000 was contributed to We Will Rebuild, a civic organization spearheading the relief effort. Children who were left homeless or whose families suffered damage due to the hurricane were seated at courtiside.

Jordan finished with 15 points in as many minutes of play. Horace Grant also scored 15 for Chicago, while Glen Rice led Miami with 21. Rookie first-round draft choice Harold Miner added 15 for the Heat.

Question divides PoW vote

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Which is more important, winning a big game or posting big numbers?

That was the question that faced the Herald sports staff this week as Seminole High's Travis Perkins got his first start of the season and directed the Tribe to an unexpectedly easy win over Edgewater and Lyman's Bobby Washington had a monster game as the Greyhounds, as expected, hammered Bruce Creek.

So rather than alight either one of the young men, it was decided to honor both players with this week's

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Travis Perkins

Editor's note: Seminole's Travis Perkins and Lyman's Bobby Washington are this week's Sanford Herald Players of the Week.

Other players considered were:

• Seminole's Matt Parker, who intercepted two passes, returning one for a touchdown, and broke up another pass.

• Lyman's Todd Cleveland, who ran for 208 yards, scored three touchdowns and added a two-point conversion run.

• Lake Brantley's Jeff Shaw, who had an interception and passed for 32 yards.

• Oviedo's Paul Bass, who gained 85 yards and scored a pair of touchdowns.

• Lake Howell's Maurice Smith, who ran for 32 yards and a touchdown and passed for another 51 yards.

Timetable for Giants decision coming this week?

Associated Press

TORONTO — By the end of the week, there may be a timetable for deciding the fate of the San Francisco Giants.

Bud Selig, the chairman of baseball's executive council, said Monday he will discuss the team's situation this week when he attends World Series games in Toronto.

"I'll be having some conversations up there," Selig said by telephone from Milwaukee. "It's a very complex situation. But there should be enough conversations that we should be able to know when we'll know something. We can't let this go on forever."

A Florida group headed by Vincent J. Naimoli agreed on Aug. 7 to purchase the team from Bob Lurie for $115 million. A Bay area group headed by Peter McGowan last week made a $95 million counteroffer to National League president Bill White.

Any deal needs the approval of 10 of 14 NL owners and eight of 14 American League owners. Baseball officials say the issue is likely to be decided during a special major league meeting in November.

"There's nothing new, really," said Selig, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers. "I talked to the group that met in Atlanta with Mr. Naimoli:

Peter Widdington and Stanton Cook, and I talked to (ownership committee chairman) Fred Kuhlmann. We just keep going on it. But nothing's happened, as of yet."

The issue is being examined by the ownership committee and by the executive council. The next scheduled major league meeting isn't until Dec. 9 at Louisville, Ky., prompting the likelihood of a special session.

Home calls irk doctor's wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband has practiced medicine in a fairly large city for more than 30 years. Why do patients call him at home? He has an answering service to handle his telephone calls on weekends and after office hours.

When a patient calls our home, I have to call the answering service and have him paged. He had patients calling him at home in the evenings who say they didn't want to bother him during office hours! Abby, he has a receptionist to answer calls, and his patient charts are at his office. There were times when he had to go back to his office to review the patient's chart.

Friends and relatives "don't want to bother him at his office," so they call him during dinner-time at home. These are not emergency calls — they want a prescription, or think they are coming down with whatever is "going around."

We have an unlisted number; we can't keep on changing it. You would be doing a lot of physicians a big favor if you printed this.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Most physicians do not give their home numbers to their patients. Nor should they — with few exceptions. Perhaps it's time your husband worked out an agreement with another doctor (or two) to handle each other's calls on a rotating basis so they can all enjoy some free time.

DEAR ABBY: I just got my local blood bank pin from my local blood bank. My peers are in awe, but it was easy!

Several times a year (not more than every two months), I go to my blood bank, take some routine medical tests, and then I go to the donation section.

There they paint my arm with disinfectant, jab me with a needle, and hand me a rubber ball to squeeze while I sit like a couch potato watching television. After 15 or 20 minutes, the needle is painlessly removed, my arm is bandaged, and I go to the "goody table" where I'm stuffed with cookies, candy and orange drink. Then I'm given a pin saying, "I gave blood."

I'm made to feel like a philanthropist even though I haven't donated a dime in cash. What could be easier?

DAVID RUBIN, STATEN ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR DAVID: You are a philanthropist. There is a crucial need for blood and you care enough to routinely donate it, which is the ultimate lifesaving gift to the person who needs it.

DEAR ABBY: Last spring I received a telephone call requesting a donation to the National Children's Cancer Society Inc. Since my father died of leukemia, I was more than willing to make a donation, and I asked the person on the telephone to mail the information to me because I had never heard of their organization.

Within a few days, I received the information and a "contract" to fill out pledging to contribute a specified amount. I put the letter and contract aside until I had time to check the organization out.

First, I contacted the Better Business Bureau and inquired about this "society." I was told they had no record of any National Children's Cancer Society Inc.

I continued trying to learn something about the charity and discovered that the National Children's Cancer Society was under investigation for fraud. I returned my pledge notice with a letter informing them that I had decided not to make a donation after learning that they were under investigation.

Abby, please warn your readers. I am signing my name, but please don't publish it. Sign me...

CHARITABLE BUT CAUTIOUS
DEAR CHARITABLE: You are commended for your intelligent handling of a questionable charity. Sadly, almost every city is plagued by fraudulent "charities" that rip off the public.

Readers, it pays to check out every organization that solicits you for money if you are not already familiar with it. Your Better Business Bureau is listed in your telephone directory.

Other sources of information about charities are the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Charities Division, 4200 Wilson Blvd., Suite 800, Arlington, Va. 22203, and the National Charities Information Bureau, 19 Union Square West, New York, N.Y. 10003-3386. Please enclose a long (business-size), self-addressed, stamped envelope when you write for information.

'Under Siege' is in first again, 'Public Eye' bombs

By JOHN MORSE
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — Moviegoers preferred martial arts over tabloid photojournalism, keeping Steven Seagal's "Under Siege" first at the box office while virtually ignoring Joe Pecki's "The Public Eye."

"Under Siege" earned $11.2 million in its second week of release, according to figures released Monday by Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc.

"The Last of the Mohicans" was second with $5.8 million in ticket sales.

"The Mighty Ducks" made $6.5 million for third. The new horror film "Candyman" was fourth at $5.4 million.

"Concating Adults," starring Kevin Kline in a drama of marital infidelity, premiered in fifth with $5 million.

"Mr. Baseball" earned $2.3 million for sixth and "Hero" made $2.2 million for seventh. "Sneakers" with $2 million, was eighth.

Plunging 49 percent in its second week of release was the Christopher Columbus movie "1492: Conquest of Paradise," which finished ninth with $1.3 million.

"The Public Eye," which critic Roger Ebert compared to "Canablene," earned just $1.14 million for 10th.

"A River Runs Through It" and "Night and the City" performed strongly in limited release. "South Central," on the other hand, managed an anemic $195,000 in 87 theaters.

Here are estimated top ticket sales Friday through Sunday, according to Exhibitor Relations, with distributor, weekend gross, number of theater locations, average per location, total gross and number of weeks in release.

Figures are based on actual receipts and projections where actual figures were not available. One location can include several screens in multiplex theaters; studios generally do not disclose the true number of screens.

1. "Under Siege," Warner Bros., $11.2 million, 2,348 locations, $4,781 per location, $30.3 million, two weeks.

2. "The Last of the Mohicans," 20th Century Fox, $5.8 million,
