

Portion of new I-4 bridge opens Monday

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — After some 24 months of construction, a portion of the new Interstate 4 bridge over the St. Johns River will open to traffic next week.

Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) officials said Thursday that Volusia County commuters traveling to Seminole and Orange counties will be able to use the new westbound bridge beginning Monday morning. The switch from the old to the new bridge is expected to occur after midnight Sunday, April 27.

Though construction of the west-bound bridge is complete, only two lanes will open. The new bridge will ultimately accommodate three lanes of westbound traffic with 10-foot shoulders on each side of the travel lanes. However, I-4 east and west of the bridge remain two lanes. Crews are currently working to widen I-4 to six lanes from Saxon Boulevard in Volusia County to Lake Mary Boulevard in Seminole County. Florida DOT officials anticipate the road work will be completed in late spring or early summer 2004.

The new east-bound bridge over the St.

Johns River is expected to open this summer. The new east-bound on-ramp from U.S. Highway 17/92 will open as well.

Granite Construction started preliminary work on the $107 million bridge replacement on March 17, 2001. In addition to replace the bridge over the St. Johns, the scope of work includes widening I-4 from the bridge east to Saxon Boulevard, and replacement of the Enterprise Road Bridge over I-4 in Volusia County.

The widening of I-4 from the bridge west to Lake Mary Boulevard is a separate $28 million project.

When a young patient is given a stuffed animal at Arnold Palmer Hospital, the memory of Anne Pacheco is kept alive.

Pacheco, a cancer survivor for 22 years, loved children, and each year, the pre-school teacher would buy toys for youngsters who were fighting the same disease. When she lost her battle against cancer four years ago, her sister, Mary Salbach, decided to continue Pacheco's mission of joy.

Today, more than 1,000 stuffed animals, craft kits and toys have been delivered to Arnold Palmer Hospital and Nemours Children's Clinic, Oncology Department courtesy of Salbach's organization Hugs From Anne. The newly

Documentary tells reservists' stories

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter

SANFORD — A documentary capturing the thoughts of Seminole County's military reservists, "Citizen Soldier: Twice the Citizen," will debut this weekend on Seminole Government Television (SGTV).

The original SGTV production, which airs at 9 p.m. today and Sunday, features interviews with Seminole County's military reservists just prior to the start of Operation Iraqi Freedom. The group, which includes employees of Seminole County and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, share their thoughts, fears and hopes about the possibility of being called to active duty.

"Viewers will be able to hear some of the concerns that reservists have about being deployed," said Andrew Cardona, co-producer, photographer, and editor of the documentary. "Most of them think of their families and whether they will be taken care of."

Cardona devised the idea for the documentary to help family members, friends and co-workers remaining in Seminole County realize what these men and women are going through.

This program is dear to my heart," said Cardona, a Vietnam War veteran and former National Guard reservist. "I've been in their shoes."

Cardona and Matt Chesler, program manager of SGTV, agree, now is a perfect opportunity to reflect on the events of the war and the days leading up to it.

"It's great to get these guys on tape now instead of 30 or 40 years from now," said Cardona, whose son and daughter-in-law are in the U.S. Army, but remain in the Mother recounts story of son fighting in Iraq when POWs captured

SANFORD — A local mother looks to God for guidance after her son is wounded during battle in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Marine Sgt. Bernard I. Mitchell II, son of Geneva Mitchell of Sanford, was deployed to Iraq just two days before the war officially began, leaving behind family and friends.

According to Geneva, 27-year-old Bernard was shot in the arm while fighting in the same vicinity as the Army 507th Maintenance Company in which five officers were captured and held as prisoners of war.

"He's not at liberty to tell us exactly what happened," said Geneva, mother of 11 including three military personnel. "All I know is that he was shot, but managed to escape."

According to Maj. Mike Newman at the Pentagon, the Marines were in action that day. At this time, the Pentagon is unable to confirm whether Bernard's unit was being ambushed.

"A lot of operations were going on that day," he said. "We don't get a level of detail on incidents."

Although Bernard, who is a communications specialist, was able to escape after a bullet grazed his arm, several of his unit members were killed or seriously wounded.

According to Geneva, after one of Bernard's friends was shot, he pleaded with Bernard to take his life to stop the pain. Bernard refused, but his friend later died in his arms.

"Bernard said it was the most horrifying thing he has experienced," said Geneva. "He has to live with that for the rest of his life."

After his wound healed, Bernard returned to the battlefield only to be shot in the arm again. This time, his injuries were serious and he was taken to a hospital in Japan, where he remains in recovery.

"I'm dealing with it by keeping my eyes on the Lord and staying in prayer with believers," said Geneva, a member of First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church in Sanford. "I know God's in control. If I didn't know that, I couldn't make it."

Gabil's petition making its way to White House

By Michelle Jerla
 Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Sergio Gabil is a man on a mission. With his son's car and a stack of yellow legal pads, he's slowly making his way to the White House to show President Bush and the troops in Iraq that he and thousands of others support Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The Lake Mary resident, an immigrant from Costa Rica, began his support mission April 6 when he began collecting signatures in front of City Hall. His ultimate goal is to present President Bush with the petition containing at least 5,000 signatures voicing support for the war and the troops in Iraq.

"Since I could not be with the soldiers — I'm 60 years old and disabled — I decided I needed to do something to show support for the troops and the president's decision of sending them over there," Gabil said. "What he is trying to do is bring peace with the times. He is not allowing terrorists to try to overcome our way of living."

Gabil, a member of Seminole's Republican committee, knows what it means to fight for his country. When he came to the United States in 1963, he was drafted into the Army. Although he was prepared to go to Viet Nam, he was injured during basic training and was honorably discharged from the military.

Today, Gabil is a self-proclaimed poet. With an artist's passion, he decided, while watching the events of the war unfold on television, that he needed to do something to show his support for the war — no matter the cost.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

From the Midwest ... I didn't pick this one up Around The Clock, but I thought I'd pass it along anyway.

Did you hear the one about the mayor who tried to pass an ordinance that outlaws lying? No seriously. The New York Times reports that Jo Hamlett, mayor of Mount Sterling, Iowa, proposes an ordinance that would make it a municipal misdemeanor to tell a fish story or any other type of tall tale.

"I just feel like it would put a little more Midwestern honesty back in these people," Hamlett told The Times.

Hamlett says he would use the money generated from fines to pave the town's roads.

"I'll tax anything," he said. A case could be made that lying is not a big problem in Mount Sterling because Mount Sterling is not a big city. According to The Times, the town has a population of 40, "according to the 2000 census, but Hamlett counts 53, if you believe him." The town is so small that City Hall serves as a church and community center and the post office is nothing more than the front porch of a hunting lodge.

In a town that small, there's not much to do but sit around the table at Mount Sterling's only restaurant, A.J.'s Bar and Grill, and tell tall ones. In fact, the town is known for its fantastic fibbers. As The Times' Jodi Wilgren puts it, "If lying were in the Olympics, Mount Sterling would win a medal to match the first-place trophies its women's pool team has collected in the Southeastern Iowa bar league four years running."

"They'd just as well take the town off the map," if the town outlaws fibbing said Charlie Brewer, 62. Brewer operates the junk yard and is considered the top teller of tales in Mount Sterling. "That's like banning sex in the whorehouse."

Hamlett, realizes he faces an uphill battle. The town has no jail or, for that matter, law enforcement. And with a monthly salary of $5, the mayor's not sure he wants to invest a lot of time convincing the council to pass the ordinance. (Rumor has it, though, that he's pushing for a strong mayor form of government. Sanford Mayor Brady Lessard said he is willing to offer his advice on the matter.)

Some suspect the mayor himself is telling a whopper. In a town known for stretching the truth, what taller tale is there than the one about the mayor who tries to tax fibbing?

No means ... I don't know: Sanford City Commissioners need to make up their minds: Is the city going to charge fees for special events or not? In a span of three months, commissioners have flip-flopped three times.

The city incurs additional expenses for special events like extra police coverage and overtime for recreation and public works employees who assist with shutting down and opening up downtown streets.

In February, commissioners agreed to waive fees for the Sanford Chamber of Commerce Mardi Gras.

On March 10, when Sanford Main Street asked for a waiver for St. Patrick's Day event, commissioners pontificated about the need to hold firm and charge groups for city expenses generated by special events. Commissioners rejected Main Street's request and vowed not to waive any more fees.

Evidently, between March 10 and April 14, the commissioners and mayor had their backbones surgically removed because all five caved when the Florida State Association of Elks asked for $1,200 in fees to be waived so they could have a parade down 1st Street.

Commissioners, either waive the fees or don't waive them, but show more consistency.

Furthermore, if commissioners are truly concerned about costs, then perhaps they should investigate the department directors who are padding their budgets with outrageous expenditures for special events. The department directors said it would cost $1,200 to close 1st Street for three hours so the Elks can hold a one hour parade. That seems excessive, particularly when about two-thirds of that cost is overtime pay, most of it in the police department. Doesn't the police department have a group of specially trained volunteers (Citizens on Patrol) who could help out for these events?

For the St. Patrick's Day event, it was even worse. Howard Jeffries, who takes care of grounds maintenance for the city, originally said his department would have to charge more than $1,000 to accommodate the Main Street event. His department cuts grass and plants flowers. How does closing 1st Street affect the grounds maintenance budget? Jeffries later lowered that cost when questioned about it.

Maybe that mayor in Iowa was on to something. The city could start by fining department directors who fudge on their budgets.

You got mail

In the age of technology, letters are becoming obsolete

What do you find in your mailbox these days? I'll bet there are bills, flyers, ads, magazines, and offers for new credit cards at a ridiculously low rate. But I ask, how long has it been since you received a handwritten or typed letter from a friend or member of the family? Most of you probably will tell me it's been a LONG time.

Nick Pfeifauf

These days, we have other forms of communication between people who are miles apart. There is the telephone, e-mail, and for those who can afford one, a fax. On the phone, you listen, respond, then hang up. For e-mail, you generally read what is on the screen, then hit delete. Faxes generally end up in the trash can, but very few members of a family or a friend would fax you anything. For service personnel presently serving in Iraq, some of the lucky ones get on television or picture phones and send a message back home. One or two minutes however, and it's gone.

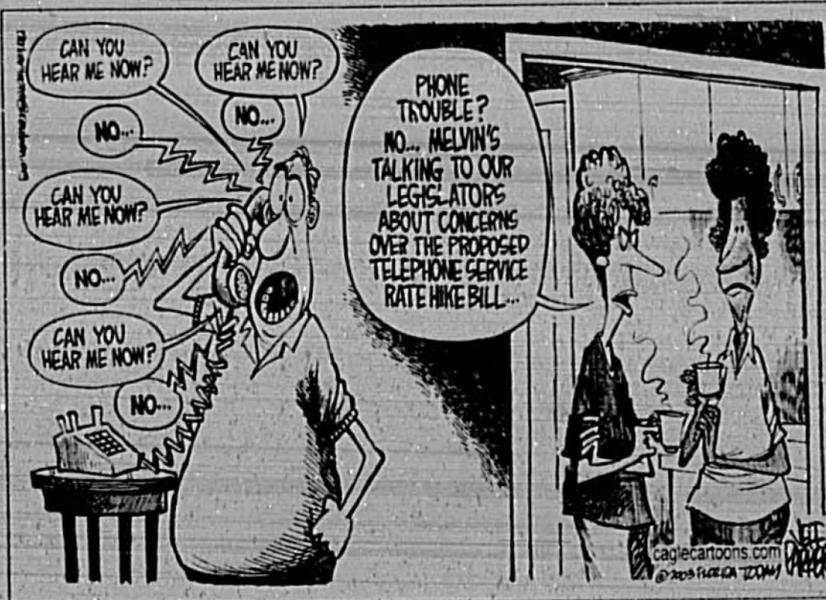

That's the point. We no longer have any physical recollection of what is happening, especially in our family or friends who are far distant. I remember back during World War II, the Korean and Vietnam conflicts, service personnel wrote home often, and usually, every one of those letters were kept (many were tied in a yellow ribbon).

I have in my possession, several hundred letters written home and to other relatives by servicemen during the Civil War. Reading them, I am well aware of the hardships they endured, the battles in which they were involved, where they saw action, and often, which of their friends did or didn't make it through a battle. It's a private and personal history of ancestors. What do you have now? Is there anything you can show your children and grandchildren? Some former members of the service perhaps don't want to talk about it. Others though, may hold themselves proud and look forward to their grandchildren or great-grandchildren reading about them, even a hundred years or more from now, well after they're departed.

These comments won't change anything. In this modern world, there are many new forms of communication. Most of it however, will be lost for posterity.

We'll have to leave it to historians to write about what happened to armies and nations, but few will write about individuals or families. The only thing our offspring will know about individuals in the family and close family friends is what may be recalled by the older generation, which often times has a tendency to be enlarged somewhat.

Tell you what to do. Take some time and actually WRITE someone a letter about yourself and/or your family. I'll bet that letter is saved for a considerable time. People who are far away want to know about you, but they want to be able to remember you in years to come. Writing and mailing is the only way as I see it.

Thomas recalls the inspiration of R.T. Milwee

To the editor: Someone said — out of our beliefs are born deeds; out of our deeds we form habits; out of our habits grow our character, and out of our character we build our destination.

Approximately 44 years ago, I applied for employment with the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction; R.T. Milwee was superintendent. Visiting his office frequently, I found him to be a very kind and extremely patient man. Upon entering his office one morning, he could sense the frustration I was experiencing. He stared at me and said, "Robert, get those frown lines out of your face, things are going to get better." R.T. Milwee helped to make things better for me.

The numerous conversations we shared epitomized his beliefs, deeds, habits, character, and destination. Most likely, he grew tired of my thanking him incessantly for helping to make my struggle easier, but he just said, "You stay close to Herman Retcoe," and I did. A warmhearted and caring person has departed this life, and I say to the family — your loss is my loss.

Robert B. Thomas, Jr. Sanford

The winners and losers of the war — so far

The conventional wisdom after the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, was that nothing would ever be the same. That was an exaggeration, born of shock. In fact, the war on Iraq may turn out to be more important over time, partly because under our new doctrine of preventive attack, this famous victory can be replicated — again and again.

Richard Reeves

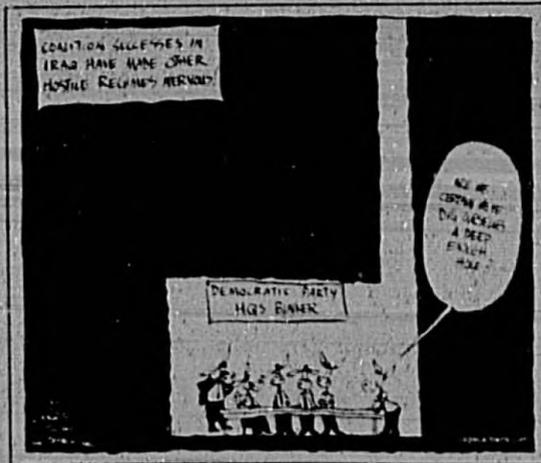

There are winners and losers in wartime and after war — not just countries, but individuals, institutions, movements, even ideas. Things will change as always, but as of now, as statues of Saddam Hussein fall into the streets, here are the winners: — Right or wrong, and I think they were wrong, the ideological warriors have won the day. President Bush, Vice President Cheney, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, National Security Adviser Condoleezza Rice. They did what they said they would do militarily, and did it well and quickly. If he was indeed the architect of the lightning Iraq campaign, the manic Secretary Rumsfeld deserves more than a few apologies. — The military is looking like a younger Michael Jordan. For the moment, they are the defenders, expanders and diplomats of the realm. — The press, taking a higher rate of casualties than professional soldiers, made some flag-waving mistakes in covering the war to date. But correspondents and reporters, anchor men and editors, were obviously having the time of their lives. As after Watergate, when another government fell with reporters embedded in the process, a lot of talented young people are going to get the idea that this is more fun than investing other people's money. — The oil companies, whose leverage just went way up in their discreet desert struggles with the peoples who happen to live on the sand over the pools of black gold. — The Supreme Court, which put Bush in the White House, now knows that the American people are perfectly comfortable with judicial supremacy. The Supremes now have permission and precedent to end elections, perhaps wars, too, as soon as television viewers of limited attention spans become bored with inconclusive action. The losers now seem to be: — The Congress, formerly a co-equal branch of government. There is something laughable about watching the Senate's dons of foreign policy, Republican Richard Lugar and Democrat Joe Biden, turn to the cameras and admit they have no idea what is going on when the country is at war. Ignored by the White House and the military, they have been getting their information from a higher source, cable television. — Islam and the Arabs. How many divisions does the pope have? Soviet monster Joseph Stalin is supposed to have said when he was warned of the power of Roman Catholicism. With all their ornate rhetoric, how many divisions do the Arabs have that are willing to fight? — War critics. How many platoons do they have? The regime in Washington and its media procurators made MREs of commentators who said the United States had no need and no right to attack the bad boys of Baghdad. — Syria, Iran, France, Germany and any other country subject to preventive destruction. — The United Nations, tagged as irrelevant, at least until we need it to clean up our mess. — Secretary of State Colin Powell, who must be scheduled for early retirement. He was just wrong — in the eyes of the president and his men — about too many things. — Richard Perle, Paul Wolfowitz and the other theorists of an Americanized Middle East. They are public figures now, and will soon enough lose the freedom and power of whispering in the ears of taller men. From now on they must function on their own, in the withering spotlight. — The airline business. Americans are frequently squashed fliers. — Israel. There is always a curse in getting what you want. As the wild Mideast becomes even wilder with Americans on the scene as God's police, America-haters in the region and world, powerless to challenge the great United States, will mobilize and vent their wrath on our little friend around the corner. — So, and so far, we have won. Paraphrasing Benjamin Franklin's view of the Republic, we have a victory, if we can keep it.

The Herald asks people what they think ...

Severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) is a respiratory illness that has recently been reported in Asia, North America, and Europe. Countries worldwide are struggling to contain varying outbreaks of the flu-like illness that has already killed more than 260 and infected more than 4,300. About 200 suspect cases of SARS and 40 probable cases of SARS have been reported in the United States. We asked people how concerned they are about SARS.

Very. It's a very scary epidemic. It shows how small our world is, and how fast an epidemic can travel.

I'm concerned as the rest of the country is. But I'm not traveling, and my family is not traveling so far for me. I'm not too concerned.

I'm very concerned. Working in a skilled nursing facility with 114 patients whose health is already compromised, it would be devastating.

I'm very concerned. Working in the field that I work in, my job requires me to have a lot of contact with people.

I'm very concerned, especially since I work in the health care field.

The Junior Senior Banquet had been given by the junior class in honor of the senior class in the school cafeteria with 250 attending.

Invitations had been issued to Supt. T.W. Lawton, members of the school board, principal G.E. McKay, the SHS faculty and members of the graduating class who were asked to attend the launching of "The Good Ship 1933" in the form of a banquet. As the guests arrived, they were escorted from the gangplank to the ship (banquet table) by Sam Bradford and Melvyn Taylor, the skippers. As they arrived at their tables, they were

Place cards were miniature logbooks featuring a picture of the guest. The books had been made by Laura Mae Brown,

Betty Colbert, Evelyn Nipper,
Blanche Cunningham, Virginia
Gillon, Eloise Winn, Gladys
Kinlaw, Elizabeth Methuen,
Doris Battern and James Henry Dyson.

The cafeteria was decorated with a background resembling azure blue waves above which were gold and silver stars representing the sky. The windows were transformed into portholes while chairs, life preservers and oars were placed around the room.

Among the novelties placed on the banquet tables were miniature ships and sailors made of clothes-pins.

The items on the menu
included mermaid's delight, creamed shark, potato boat, sea-noodle's carpenter's tool flies and sea train. The meal was served by members of the sophomore class dressed as sailors.

St. Clair Cameron, president of the junior class, acted as pilot (tourmaster) and introduced the guest. First speaker to be called on was Charles Palmer, who responded with "Ship

Aho!" a welcome to the seniors.
Theodore Wade, president of the senior class, answered with "All Aboard."

To the Admiral and his Aides (Supt. Lawton and the school board) Dorothy Marshall spoke a few words in which she said

The Admiral and his Aides have kept the entire Seminole Fleet afloat while other county fleets have been found to sink.
Supt. Lawton then gave a short talk to the guests.

James Russell gave a short address in which he compared Prof. McKay and the faculty to a captain and his crew who loved their ship (Seminole High School) and would do everything possible for the good of the passengers (students). Prof.

McKay responded by telling how he had watched the class since it first set sail 12 years before and wished the members success in the sea of life.

Marjorie Jills read an original poem to the senior class and their sponsors, Mrs. James A.
Wright and Mrs. R.C. Maxwell, who responded with a poem which they had written. Carolyn Cogburn then addressed Mrs.
J.M. Stibichaper and Rodman
Lehman, sponsors of the junior class, after which they answered with a few words.

The banquet was brought to a close by a toast "Bon Voyage" presented by Eloise Winn.

United States. "There is a lot of historical significance to this documentary. It's a show that can be relevant for years to come."

During World War II, much of the significant history was lost," he added. "Now, many of them are passing and we're just now trying to get their experiences on tape."

In total, more than 168,000 reservists have been called to active duty, making it the greatest number since World War II. Of those, more than 2,400 are Central Florida residents who are a part of our community.

"We are the local government cable access channel, so we try to keep everything local," said Chesler. "When we see an opportunity like this one — to do something timely, relevant and local — we go for it."

Since filming the documentary, several reservists have been deployed including Carlos Rivera, an employee with the Florida Department of Corrections.

"Getting the job done is easy, leaving your loved ones is the hardest part," said Rivera, during the documentary. "We've got a job to do and that is my job right now. I'm active duty U.S. Army and I'm going to do a good job."

Throughout the documentary the question is asked, "Does this generation have what it takes to get the job done?" After watching, you can decide for yourself.

"If Seminole County residents want to see and hear what is in the minds and hearts of the young men and women in our military reserves, watch it," said Chesler.

SGTV can be viewed on Bright House Networks, formerly Time Warner Cable, on channel 9 and Heathrow Cable on channel 2. For future air times, log on at www.co.seminole-fl.us/11/cab-sched.htm.

Here's what people are saying about 'Citizen Soldier: Twice the Citizen'

"I think the documentary is extremely important because it helps people have more of a sense of patriotism and become more involved. They realize it's real people who are defending our nation. This documentary helps add the human element to the war. The people who are fighting for us are brothers, sisters, fathers and mothers."

—Maria Parker, documentary vocalist

"For me to be able to see my husband, who was deployed right after the filming of the documentary, was so special for me. My son took it to school and his history teacher played it for all her classes."

—Jeri Rivera, whose husband, Carlos, is featured in the documentary

Mitchell

The only difference we can make is prayer," she added. "They are there and we are here and we can't change that. We can only pray."

Bernard joined the military in 1964 after graduating from Seminole High School.

He just had an urge to join the military because his dad was an Army veteran," said Geneva, whose late husband, Bernard T.

Mitchell Sr., fought in the Vietnam War. "It's one thing to talk about war, but another when you have to live it. He says he would still join if he had to do over again. He's learned a lot, grown and matured from it."

When Bernard was deployed he left behind his wife, Larkisha, and their two children, 4-year-old Bernard III, and 2-year-old Aniana.

"He has a lot on his plate to deal with," she said. "He has to continue to know that God is in control. If we fear, we will fall. It's easy for me to say not to fear. I hurt because he hurts and is going through that. But, I don't understand because I'm not going through it. I'm not there, but God is every where."

Geneva's worries didn't end when her son was safe in a Japanese hospital. Her daughter, Army Specialist Hilda Mitchell, is currently in Korea on standby to be deployed to Iraq any day.

Geneva is currently taking care of her granddaughters, Taylor, Genevieve and Hilda's return.

Another of Geneva's daughters, PV2 Genesis Mitchell, will soon deploy to Korea to relieve troops.

"I'm hoping God will intercede and call this thing off before they will have to go," she said. "We have to realize God uses our bodies to bring children into this world, but they belong to him. We are just caregivers. Awake ownership, but they are not ours."

Two of Geneva's other daughters, Angela and Laura, are also anticipating joining the military in the years to come.

"Even with things going on they want to serve the country," she said. "They figure if Bern can make it, so can they."

"I don't try to discourage them," she added. "I've always taught my kids to set goals and then follow through with them."

Mission

"Pets don't make a lot of money," he said. "But, that didn't matter. My family has been very supportive. My son has told me that he is very proud, and he even let me borrow his car for the trip."

Cabil's mission is more than a local endeavor. After he spent the day gathering signatures in Lake Mary, he spent Good Friday on the steps of Orlando's City Hall. He's traveled to Miami and West Palm Beach, and on Thursday he left for Tallahassee. Once he finishes in Florida, he plans on traveling to Texas and then driving up the southeastern coast, stopping in major cities to collect signatures.

He won't stop until he arrives in Washington, D.C., where he hopes to present the petition to the president.

"I'd like to have at least 5,000 signatures when I get to the White House," Cabil said. "Right now, I don't know how many I have. When I got to 2,000, I got tired of counting."

In the grand scheme of things, Cabil said he realizes he is just one person in a country of millions. He hopes, however, his mission may inspire others to get involved in the world around them.

"This country is a team," Cabil said. "Think of it like a beach. A beach is not made up of one grain of sand. I do something, and then somebody else does something. If we all come together, then we can preserve the greatness of this nation."

He's already inspired many families to lower their blood white about the war. His legal pads do not only contain names but also faces, faces voicing support for the troops, including one from Lake Mary Mayor Thom Greene.

"Sergio is truly a patriotic man — and he wasn't even born in the United States," Greene said. "This man has more patriotism in his little finger than most people have in their entire body. He's amazing."

sister," Salbach said. "She was the one who really loved children and was always around them. This is a way to continue what she was doing for the kids."

Salbach began Hugs From Anne four years ago with help from co-workers at Sakowitz Eye Center, which has offices in Sanford and Orange City. By placing a donation jar at the reception desk, the office manager and her group raised about $100 to buy stuffed animals for the young patients.

Today, the fund-raiser has evolved into a miniature toy store at the eye center. Instead of making a donation via the jar, patients of Sakowitz can purchase one of many stuffed animals that line the office walls for $5 and then donate the toy to Hugs From Anne. Last year, the group raised about $3,000 for its cause.

"It's amazing how people want to help," Salbach said. "It shows you that what we are doing must be right. Because it's just happening. Dr. Sakowitz and our patients have been fantastic. They have been incredibly generous. Even when patients don't have much to give, they find some way to help. Recently, an elderly woman came to the eye center to ask for samples of eye drops that she could not afford to purchase.

"When she saw what we were doing, she gave us a $2 donation," Salbach said. "While that may not seem like a lot, we know that it did mean a lot to that lady and are grateful for her generosity."

Another way the clinic's patients have shown their support is through a recent garage sale Hugs From Anne hosted as a fund-raiser. Along with donating items, many of them shopped at the event and helped raise $1,520 for the organization.

After a certain amount of money is raised, members of the non-profit group go out and buy stuffed animals. Once their arms are stuffed with toys, they make monthly drops at the two medical facilities in Orlando.

"We call them love runs," said Angie White, a technician at Sakowitz Eye Center. "The joy is having the experience to see a child have something to make his or her day a little better. They end up with a toy to love and hug."

Although Hugs From Anne has come a long way in the past few years, Salbach said the group still has a long way to go. This year, the group's goal is to raise $10,000 in order to purchase 5,000 stuffed animals, which will bring it closer to its goal of "a stuffed animal for every patient."

As for why Salbach will not quit until her organization achieves its goal — the answer is simple.

"This is my way of helping," Salbach said. "I can't cure them, and I can't give them a lot of money. But, I can do this. And, I know I'm doing something for them in my sister's memory."

Anybody who would like to make a donation to Hugs From Anne can call Salbach at 386-574-0700 or visit Sakowitz Eye Center, located at 313 N. Mangostine Ave., in Sanford and 1061 Medical Center Drive, Suite 204, in Orange City.

On Sunday, May 4, the Fab Follies will also help raise money for the organization by performing at 3 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. Cost of admission is $5, and all proceeds will go toward helping Hugs From Anne.

Community honors those who serve crime victims

The Seminole State Attorney's Office in partnership with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office paid tribute to the victims of crime and honored the people who serve them at the 16th annual Seminole County Crime Victims' Rights Week awards luncheon Thursday at the Country Club at Heathrow.

Seminole County Deputy Sheriff Corporal Michelle Dowda received the Hugh Thomas Award for Law Enforcement Officer of the Year. Dowda was commended for her compassion for victims of crime and all members of the public that she has served in her eight years in the sheriff's department.

Bobbie Hanson, an advance registered nurse practitioner and certified nurse-midwife who conducts all of the sexual assault case examinations in Seminole County, was named Victim Advocate for the Year. In addition to working full time during the day on Dr. Clyde Climer's staff, she is often called out at night to conduct those exams and is later called upon to testify in court. She was lauded for her professional and caring manner displayed during her examination of victims and her ability to focus on their emotional well being as well as her criminalistic duties.

Sandi Maisak, who received the Outstanding Support Award, is a 30-year-veteran of the State Attorney's Office where she now works as a program specialist on Project Pay Back. With her help, Project Pay Back has enabled juvenile defendants to pay $499,002.90 back to their victims in the past 10 years, said State Attorney Norm Wolfinger.

Assistant State Attorney Tom Hastings was named the Attorney of the Year for his successful efforts to keep crime victims informed of the progression of their cases. Hastings has also provided something else to victims that is very necessary to their recovery - victories in court. He is dedicated to pursuing justice and protecting those victimized by criminals, Wolfinger said.

The theme for this year's event was "Victims' Rights: Fulfill the Promise" and focuses on not only the accomplishments made over the past years in service to victims but also the need to have a federal constitutional amendment passed to protect the rights of victims of violent crime. A patriotic musical program featuring soloist Massachusetts State Trooper Sergeant Daniel M. Clark, also known as "The Singing Trooper," was awe inspiring and a moving tribute to the men and women overseas in the armed forces.

Lake Brantley girls win district tennis title

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — With the Spring Prep Sports Tournaments starting to hit their stride, the Lake Brantley girls tennis team was the first to win a district title as they easily coasted to the Class 4A District 2 Championship at Lake Brantley High School.

The Patriots (11-1) were so dominant that they had already clinched the team title, and a spot in Friday's regionals in Gainesville against Buchholz.

But Lake Brantley did not get satisfied

Winter Springs boys fall just short of advancing to regions in just earning the regional trip, they went out and won four of the five individual singles titles and one of the doubles matches. The Patriots finished second in the other two.

Things did not go as well on the boys' side as Winter Springs fell just four points short of knocking off powerful Spruce Creek, 24-20.

The Patriot girls were not the only county team to earn a district title as both teams from Trinity Prep dominated the Class A District 4 Meet in Daytona Beach.

The Saints' girls won 21-12 and the boys romped 20-15.

In other action, Lake Brantley, Lake Mary and Oviedo advanced to district titles in boys lacrosse.

The Patriots outscored Winter Springs, 15-7, while the Rams (10-5) routed Lyman, 18-0, to advance to Friday's District 2 Championship Game.

The Lions doubled the score on Timber Creek, 8-4, to earn a spot in the District 3 final opposite Winter Park (15-3), which crushed Lake Howell, 24-1.

In girls' play, Lake Brantley continued its impressive season taking a 16-4 victory over Flagler-Palm Coast. Kaley Feudley had four goals for Lake Brantley (4-1) and Lauren Hoffman made three

Bump in the road

Oviedo streak ends, but Lions rebound quickly

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

OVIEDO — Some fans may have seen a glimmer of hope when the Oviedo baseball team saw its winning streak end at 18 games in a 2-0 loss to Winter Park on Monday.

But the Lions (7-2) ranked No. 1 in the Class 6A State Poll, came right back the next night with an impressive, 5-1, victory over Lyman.

Justin Stines was stellar on the mound, hurling a complete-game four-hitter at the Greyhounds.

The only big mistake by Stines was home run to Kyle Harmon, Nick Stram accounted for two of the other hits, going 2-for-3.

Offensively for Oviedo, Bridger Hunt was 3-for-3 with a pair of RBI, while Matt McClung launched a two-run homer.

Lyman ran into another suddenly red-hot squad as the Greyhounds were shutout, 6-0, by DeLand.

Bryan Bennett got two hits for Lyman (8-18) off Mike Harr, who struck out nine as the Bulldogs, who were woeful early in the season, improved to 4-11.

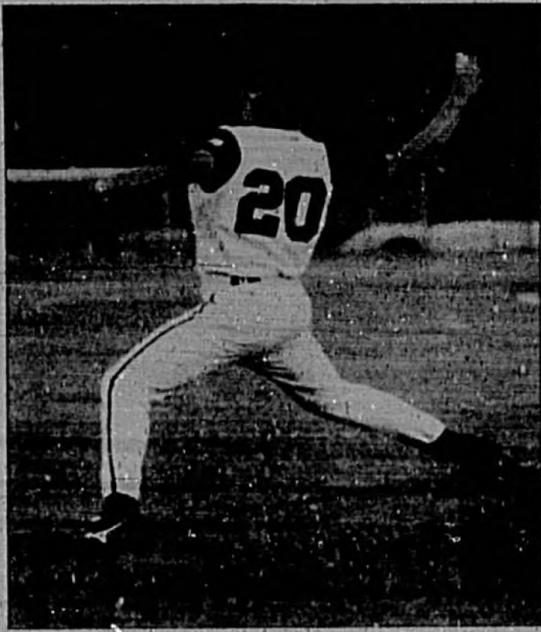

Lake Howell is another team that seems to have things going in the right direction with the districts set for next week.

Leah Lilly was 2-for-3 as Class 6A No. 4 state-ranked Lake Mary edged Winter Springs, 2-1, Thursday night. The Rams will be the top seed in the 6A-District 2 Tournament at Seminole, while the Bears will host 5A-6

Lake Mary proves worth

LAKE MARY — If there was any doubt as to the Lake Mary softball team deserved its lofty ranking, the Rams squashed those thoughts this week.

Wednesday night the No. 4 ranked team in Class 6A not only spoiled No. 1 Class 7A Lake Highland's first game in its new O'Mara Family Sports Complex, Lake Mary put a hurting on an old friend, Michelle Grimage, in a 10-3 victory.

The Rams (24-3) sent 14 batters to the plate in the top of the first inning and scored nine runs against Grimage, who played for Lake Mary as a freshman before transferring to the Orlando private school.

Lauren Horvath and Kristen Patton both drove in two runs in the first inning outburst as Lake Mary scored the most runs given up by the Highlanders (16-5) in one game all season.

Horvath finished the game 3-for-4 with 3 doubles and the two RBI, while Patton was 2-for-3 with her two RBI. The Rams had 10 hits on the night.

Olivia Popowsky was the beneficiary of the Lake Mary attack, scattering three hits and striking out six.

The Rams then closed out the regular season on Thursday with a 7-1 victory over Winter Springs, the latest in what has become a tough derby between the two.

Leah Lilly went 2-for-3 to the head Lake Mary and Andrea Kain pitched two strong innings in relief to get the win.

Rushing was 2-for-4 for the Bears.

In other games this week, Seminole defeated powerful Edgewater for the second time this season, romping past the Eagles, 11-4.

Fighting Seminole coach Dave Rogers used all three of his pitchers, seniors Jenny Abendroth and Andrea Palko, and freshman Emily Edelman, and the trio combined to strike out seven.

Abendroth helped out with a triple, while Ashley Labor drove in four runs and Crystal Smiley was 4-for-4.

Lyman closed out the regular season on a strong note with wins over Powers Oviedo and Apopka.

Elrod pitched a complete game, five-hitter as the Lions edged the Lions, 2-1. Knauiss was 2-for-3 with a double for the Greyhounds.

Oviedo's Tomasetti lasted only two innings before Kelly Ray came on to pitch five innings, striking out seven. Simpkins was 1-for-2 for the Lions.

Burke then hurled a complete game on Thursday as Lyman again prevailed, 2-1, over the Blue Carters.

Whether led the Greyhound attack, going 2-for-3 with a double and driving in both runs.

Debbie and John Oriel turn pieces of fabric into works of art

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

Magnolia Square Treasures is similar to many of the antique and collectible shops in downtown Sanford. Its shelves are stocked with various knickknacks, and its racks are filled with clothes. Tess the cat and Baby the dog can often be found curled up on their blankets ready to take afternoon naps.

However, the familiarity of a downtown antique shop disappears once a customer enters the back of the store. Instead of artifacts from bygone eras, there is a huge embroidery machine that possesses hundreds of lights, switches and spools. It represents the heart of the business.

"The collectibles are here to get people into the store," said Debbie Oriel, who owns and operates the store with her husband John. "When they come in, they get to see what we do with the sewing and embroidery."

Using computer software and the embroidery machine, the Oriels can create hundreds of designs on virtually any type fabric. State-of-the-art technology allows them to either choose pre-made designs or create their own in a matter of hours.

Today's sewing technology has come a long way from when Debbie began the craft when she was a child. Everything was done by hand, and sewing was a way to pass the time.

"When I was little, I used to sew doll clothes," she said. "My grandmother would sit me down and give me something to sew."

As a teenager, Debbie used her sewing skills as a way to earn some spending money. She'd embroider items by hand for her customers, never imagining that one day she'd have a machine to do most of the intricate work.

"When the first embroidery machine came out, I had to have it," she said. "But, although we now do most of our work by machine, I still do a little handwork."

Turning her talent into a full-time business was always a dream for Debbie. Nevertheless, after she married and started a family, she wanted to focus her attention on other things.

"As my daughter was growing up, I wanted to stay at home," she said.

"But, once my daughter left home, I decided I wanted to do something more."

So, Debbie and John, who is a retired engineer, began traveling to hobby and craft shows to display and sell Debbie's sewing wares. However, the Geneva couple eventually became tired of transporting, loading and unloading the items from a truck, so they looked for something closer to home. They set up shop at Flea World for a couple of months until they moved to Sanford's Farmers Market.

"We were doing so well in the market, we decided to find a building and open a business," Debbie said. "So we bought the building in downtown Sanford and have been working on it ever since."

While John helps with Debbie's sewing and embroidery, his main priority is renovating and restoring the building. After more than a year, he finally has most of the major repair jobs finished and is now working on the cosmetic problems, including new carpet.

He also has a little more time to help Debbie with operating the embroidery machine. When he's not working on the building or helping his wife, he can also be found repairing and restoring sewing machines.

"Debbie has made me learn more about sewing machines than I've ever wanted to know," he said.

Along with custom embroidery — walk-ins are welcome — Debbie specializes in service and creative sewing and hemming. She also has her own line of painted and embroidered clothing, which she sells at the store.

Magnolia Square Treasures is open Wednesday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. For more information, call 407-324-5515.

Literary Group of Sanford Woman's Club meets

By Shirley Mills
Special to the Herald

The Literary Group of the Sanford Woman's Club met at the home of Toby Troutman on 9th and Palmetto on March 19. Twenty-two ladies were in attendance. Our treasurer, Charlotte Knowles, shared with us her discussion with the librarian on what books would be welcome this year. It is our custom to give a selection honoring our present chairman each year. We will decide what our selection will be during the next meeting. One of our new members, DeLoris Forbes, was our speaker. She is an author herself and has written more than 40 books. Many of her books are mysteries, and she reviewed her latest, called

"Perils of Marie Louise." There will be a run on it at the library, now. A list of books that members had read and thought worthy of sharing was given out with some discussion on each. We were then invited to enjoy refreshments prepared by Toby Troutman, Frances Mitchell and Betty

Guest speaker talks about stamps during April meeting of DAR

Annie P. Seabrooks, Diversity Development Specialist for the United Postal Service, was guest speaker at the April meeting of Sallie Harrison Chapter, DAR, Friday (April 11) at the Sanford Garden Club. Representing the Central Florida District, she has served in the U.S. Postal Service for 22 years.

The speaker told members and guests that each year approximately 50,000 suggestions are submitted for the pictures used on stamps. These suggestions go to an Advisory Council in Washington, D.C. Much research is involved during a time period of three years before a suggestion is accepted for publication. She showed a video, which portrayed "Women on Stamps." Most of these stamps featured an individual and represented her accomplishments. Some, however, represented groups such as American Revolution seamstresses, America Surviving the Depression, Women's Support in World War II, the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, The General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Danes of the 20th Century.

More than 160 stamps since 1893 have featured women who have had a lasting impact on American history. Queen Isabella was honored twice, in 1893 and 1992. Three stamps have been issued for Martha Washington, two for Harriet Tubman, one each for Proconhobs, Sacagawea, Amelia Earhart, Mary McLeod Bethune, Georgia O'Keefe and many others.

The speaker gave each person present a booklet, which lists all women with their accomplishments and date of issue of each commemorative stamp, along with a picture of the stamp. The U.S. Postal Service publication features aviators, athletes and activists. They are explorers, educators and champions of women's rights. They are artists, abolitionists, politicians and physicians. They are war heroes, pioneers, and national leaders.

Fran Morton decorated tables for the luncheon with an Easter basket at the head table and clusters of Easter eggs at other tables. A commemorative Korean War flag was draped on the front side of the head table. Sandra Thomas, chairman of the 50th anniversary commemorative committee announced that the two-year commemorative observance will end on Veterans Day.

During the business session, Regent Virginia Powell and acting Chaplain Mary Anne Cleveland conducted the opening ritual. Ann Howland led the salute to the Flag of the United States of America. The Americans Creed was led by Virginia Mikler and the National Anthem was led by Sandra Thomas.

Ope Bukola, a junior at Seminole High School, was a special guest and read her prize-winning essay, "When Our Defense is Threatened." She submitted her essay to a contest sponsored by the Optimist Club. Her presentation served as the Chapter's National Defense report and was enthusiastically received by members.

The Chapter presented Ope with a $25 Savings Bond.

Dr. Lois Somerville read the President General's message. The Regent will include a report on State Conference at the May meeting. Seven Chapter members attend State Conference.

They were Virginia Powell, Lois Somerville, Barbara Hall, Libby Boyd, Ann Howland, Lorraine Buhmann and Virginia Mikler.

Colbert.

On April 16, Ruth Gaines along with Mandy Tooley and Vernice McCarty, hosted our Literary Group at Ruth's Home on 7th and Oak in Sanford.

Fourteen members were gathered to share poetry that each had selected. Our treasurer told us that two chaffing dishes had been purchased for the club in honor of the club's 90th birthday. Also, Charlotte Knowles told us that a Harry Potter book and tape had been given to the library in honor of our present chairman, Vivian Buck.

Lovely refreshments were enjoyed, and we look forward to next month when our guest speaker will be Louise Witzenburg.

We will meet at the home of Elizabeth.

Sibling rivalry can get rather ugly where beauty is concerned

QUESTION: I'm concerned about sibling rivalry between my two daughters. What are the areas of potential conflict that should be handled with care?

DR. DOBSON: There are three areas that are most delicate. First, children are extremely sensitive about the matter of physical attractiveness and body characteristics. It is highly inflammatory to compare one child at the expense of the other.

Suppose, for example, that Sharon is permitted to hear the casual remark about her sister,

James Dobson
Focus on Family

Betty is sure going to be a gorgeous girl. The very fact that Sharon was not mentioned will probably establish the two girls as rivals. If there is a significant difference in beauty between the two, you can be assured that Sharon has already concluded, "Yeah, I'm the ugly one." When her fears are then confirmed by her parents, resentment and jealousy are generated.

Second, the matter of intelligence is another sensitive nerve. It is not uncommon to hear parents say in front of their children, "I think the younger boy is actually brighter than his brother." Even when the comments are unplanned and are spoken routinely, they convey how a child is seen within his family. We are all vulnerable to that bit of evidence.

Third, children (and especially boys) are extremely competitive with regard to athletic abilities. Those who are slower, weaker and less coordinated than their brothers are rarely able to accept second best with grace and dignity. Consider, for example, the following note given to me by the mother of two boys: "It was written by her 9-year-old son to his 8-year-old brother, the evening after the younger child had beaten him in a race.

Dear Jim,
I am the greatest and your the baddest. And I can beat everybody in a race and you can't beat anybody in a race. I'm the smartest and your the dumbest. I'm the best sport player and your the baddest sport player. And your also a hog. I can beat anybody up. And that's the truth. And that's the end of this story.

Yours truly,

Richard
This note is humorous to me because Richard's motive was so poorly disguised. He had been badly stung by his humiliation on the field of honor, so he came home and raised the battle flag. Such is the nature of humankind.

QUESTION: Sometimes my husband and I disagree on our discipline and argue in front of our children about what is best. Do you think this is damaging?

DR. DOBSON: Yes, I do. You and your husband should present a united front, especially when children are watching. If you disagree on an issue, it can be discussed later in private. Unless the two of you can come to a consensus, your children's perception of right and wrong will begin to appear arbitrary. There are even more serious consequences for boys and girls when parents are radically different in their approach. Some of the most hostile, aggressive teenagers I've seen have come from family constellations where the parents have leaned in opposite directions in their discipline. Suppose the father is unloving and uninterested in the welfare of his kids. His approach is harsh and physical. He comes home tired and may knock them around if they get in his way. The mother is permissive by nature. She worries every day about the lack of love in the father-child relationship. Eventually she sets out to compensate for it. When Dad sends their son to bed without his dinner, Mom slips him milk and cookies. When he says "no" to a particular request, she finds a way to say "yes." She lets the kids get away with murder because it is not in her spirit to confront them. What happens under these circumstances is that the authority figures in the family contradict and cancel out each other. Consequently, the child is caught in the middle and often grows up hating both. The "middle ground" between extremes of love and control must be sought if we are to produce healthy, responsible children. Lovebugs invading the lives of Central Floridians

Lovebugs are small black flies with a red thorax that have been invading our lives for the past several weeks.

They are considered a nuisance mainly because they congregate in large numbers along highways and splatter on windshields and grills of our cars.

Damage

Car's windshields become covered with the fatty remains that can become thick enough to obscure vision. The flies can also clog radiators and cause our cars to overheat. The fatty tissue can pit our car's finish if not removed within a few days. A word of caution, do not paint your house now, lovebugs can mar freshly painted surfaces.

Feeding

Adult lovebugs are harmless — they do not sting or bite.

Al Ferrer

They feed on the nectar of various plants, especially sweet clover, brazilian pepper and goldenrod.

Frequency of Flights

Two flights of lovebugs occur each year in Central Florida. The spring flight occurs during late April and

May

A second flight occurs in fall around late August and September. Flight periods generally last 4-5 weeks. Flights are usually restricted to daylight hours and temperatures above 68 degrees F. Mating takes place almost immediately after emergence of the females. Adult females live only 2 to 3 days.

Control

There are several effective insecticides available for lovebug control, but spraying can be impractical because infestations occur over such a vast area and for a short period of time. You can control lovebugs in confined areas like porches and around your home with aerosol sprays available for other household insects.

Predators have substantially reduced the population of lovebugs in Central Florida during the past several years.

Lovebug larvae populations are extremely high in pasture areas, making an ideal environment for certain bird predators like robins and quails. Armadillos are thought to be predators as well, but scientific data has yet to back this up.

Certain beetle larvae, earwigs and centipedes have been found to be natural predators of lovebug larvae in the soil.

Lovebugs and Your Car

There are several things a motorist can do to lessen the lovebug nuisance.

First, travelling at night can reduce the incidence of lovebugs since they are active only in the day, usually after 10 a.m. Also travelling at a lower speed will reduce the number of bugs splattered on your car.

There are many types of screens available that can be placed on the front grill of your car to protect the finish and prevent the radiator from becoming clogged. If a large screen can't be used on the front of the car, a smaller screen can be put behind the grill but in front of the radiator.

Splattered lovebugs should be washed off the car as soon as possible. Cars that have been waxed recently are more protected from damage by lovebug residue.

Soaking the area with water for several minutes will aid in removal too. When lovebugs are numerous, or you know you will be travelling at the peak times, you can spread a light film of baby oil or use an aerosol oil spray over the front of the hood, above the windshield, and the grill and bumper. This practice will make lovebug removal easier.

Big Top comes to Museum of Seminole County History

He's half human, half reptile. The Alligator Man is one of Nature's Mistakes! So claimed the poster from one of the circuses that came through Seminole County in the first half of the 1900s. There was also Dori, Diva of the Amazon, a fearless woman who would immerse herself in a pit of vipers! And the Amazing Human Torch ate fire and survived.

Mary Rowell

Circuses, usually going by names like the "The Greatest Show on Earth", were yearly visitors to most towns of any size. The circus would lead a parade through town to encourage people to come join them under the "Big Top". With the circuses were also carnivals and sideshows.

The Seminole County Historical Museum has captured a little bit of the magic of the circuses of yesteryear with a new display.

Historian Charlie Carlson talked about the history of circuses in Seminole County at the most recent meeting of the Central Florida Historical Consortium.

The meeting marked the debut of the new display. In the old days, a ticket to the circus might cost you anywhere from 50 cents to $2. You can get a better deal at the Seminole County Historical Museum. Admission is free.

The museum is located at 300 Bush Boulevard, right off 17-92 across from Flea World. Hours are Tuesday through Friday 9 a.m. to noon and Tuesday through Saturday, 1 to 4 p.m.

For more information, you can call the museum at 407-665-2489.

One way to get students interested in the great monuments of the world is to have them build one! An exercise in history and geography, teachers at Greenwood Lakes

Pet of the Week 'Shelly'

Shelly, a 4-year-old, spayed female wire hair pointer mix, is looking for a good home. Although Shelly's friends at the SPCA of Central Florida in Seminole County — where she's lived since April 12 — will miss her, the canine is looking for a new home where she can have her head and ears rubbed. She is gentle, housebroken and already knows commands such as "stay" and "lay down." Her friends at the shelter say Shelly really wants to find a nice, quiet home, and she is good with children of all ages. However, she doesn't like her back patted, and she responds better to women than men.

To adopt Shelly, call the Humane Society of Seminole County at 407-323-8685 or visit the facility at 2800 County Home Road in Sanford.

Old column tells story of how man's sex life has gone to the dogs

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior citizen at an independent living facility. I told my physician I feel like an old car — fix one part and another falls apart. I said I did not need an overhaul, just a new motor. Your column (plus coffee) starts each day for me. I recently found an old one I saved. A Dog Named Sex, and methinks it's time to run it again. I wanted to send it to my grandson, but alas, my clipping is yellowed with age. Thanks, Abby.

BEVERLY NUNNELLY, EDMOND, OKLA.

DEAR BEVERLY: You're welcome. I'm pleased to oblige. I have had several requests for it lately — and it always brings a smile. Read on:

A DOG NAMED SEX

By Monty Storm

Dear Abby

When I went to City Hall to renew my dog's license, I told the clerk I wanted a license for Sex. He said, "I'd like one too!" Then I said, "But this is a dog." He said he didn't care what she looked like. Then I said, "You don't understand. I've had Sex since I was 9 years old." He winked at me and said, "You must have been quite a kid."

When I got married and went on my honeymoon, I took my dog with me. I told the motel clerk I wanted a room for my wife and me and a special room for Sex. He said, "You don't need a special room for Sex. As long as you pay your bill, we don't care what you do." I said, "Look, you don't seem to understand. Sex keeps me awake at night." The clerk said, "Funny, I have the same problem." Well, one day I entered Sex in a contest, but before the competition began, the dog got loose and ran away. Another contestant asked me why I was just standing there, looking disappointed. I told him I had planned to have Sex in the contest. He said, "Wonderful! If you sell tickets, you'll clean up!"

But you don't understand, I said. "I want to have Sex on TV." He said, "They already have that on cable. It's no big deal anymore." Well, my wife and I decided to separate, so we went to court to fight for custody of the dog.

I said to the judge, "Your honor, I had Sex before I was married." The judge said, "The court is not a confessional. Please stick to the facts." Then I told him that after I was married, Sex left me. He said, "Me, too." Well, last night Sex ran away again, and I spent hours looking all over for him. A cop came over to me and asked, "What are you doing in this alley at 4 o'clock in the morning?" I said, "I'm looking for Sex." My case comes up Friday.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on the letter from "Paying the Price," the grandmother who had a cup of coffee with a male acquaintance and got herpes. I am an 84-year-old man who has never had a venereal disease, and I'm an avid coffee drinker. I have three or four 12-ounce mugs every day. I have been drinking coffee as long as I can remember. Abby, coffee will not give you herpes.

OLD COFFEE HOUND IN TEXAS

DEAR OLD COFFEE HOUND: I agree. It's the "sweet talk" that went WITH the coffee that caused the woman's problem!

FOOD

Spice up a meal with some salsa

In honor of National Salsa Month, try Huevos Motuleños, 3 eggs with Salsa, Ham and Tortillas from "High-flavor Low-fat Mexican Cooking" (Wiking).

Huevos Motuleños
(Eggs with Salsa, ham and tortillas)

For The Salsa

- 5 medium ripe red tomatoes
- 1/2 medium white onion, cut in half
- 3 cloves garlic
- 1 habanero chile, cut in half and seeded
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 4 corn tortillas
- 1/2 cup fat-free canned refried beans

For The Eggs

- 1 tablespoon lard or olive oil
- 1/2 medium white onion, thinly sliced
- 1 clove garlic, thinly sliced
- 12 egg whites
- 2 ounces Canadian bacon or country-style ham, cut into 1/4-inch dice
- 1/2 cup cooked green peas
- 1 tablespoon crumbled queso fresco

1. To prepare the salsa, heat a frying pan over a medium-high flame. Roast the tomatoes, onion, garlic, and habanero until lightly browned, eight to 10 minutes for the tomatoes and onion, four to five minutes for the garlic and chili. Transfer the roasted vegetables to a food processor, and grind to a coarse puree.

2. Transfer the puree to a saucepan. Add the oregano, cinnamon, salt and pepper, and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring with a wooden spoon. Correct the seasoning, adding salt and pepper to taste.

3. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Bake the tortillas until they are golden brown, about five minutes. Transfer the tortillas to plates or a platter, they'll crisp up as they cool. Warm the refried beans in a saucepan.

4. Heat the lard or oil in a nonstick frying pan. Lightly brown the sliced onion and garlic over medium heat, three to five minutes. Add the egg substitute and cook until scrambled, two minutes, stirring with a wooden spoon. Add salt and pepper to taste.

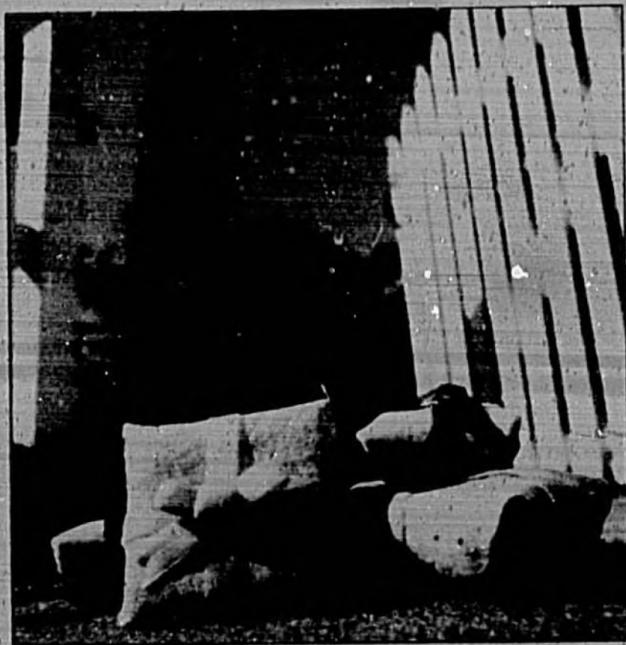

5. Warm the Canadian bacon and peas in a nonstick saucepan over medium heat.

6. To assemble the huevos motuleños, spread refried beans on each of the tortillas. Mix the scrambled eggs on top. Spoon the salsa over the eggs, and sprinkle with the bacon, peas and queso fresco. Serve at once.

Celebrate Cinco de Mayo

Burrito Presents

Tasty treats to 'wrap up' Mexican Fiesta

Cinco de Mayo recognizes the victory of the Mexican army over Napoleon III's French army in 1862 at the Battle of Puebla. The Mexican army, though heavily outnumbered, defeated the French, considered to have the most powerful army in the world at that time. The holiday is celebrated with food, drinks, parades, and other events.

Set the scene for your fiesta with some Mexican blankets, sombreros, dolls or other accessories that are usually available at local stores. Mariachi music will make the perfect musical accompaniment to the meal. These "Burrito Presents" from "The Secret Gift of Food" (Hyperion), by Clark Crespo, will get everyone into the spirit.

Burrito Presents

Serves 4

- 1 bunch green onions
- 1 leek, sliced lengthwise
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 cup tomato, chopped
- 1/4 cup onion, chopped
- 2 ounces green chili pepper, diced
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (15 ounces) kidney beans, drained and mashed
- 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
- 6 flour tortillas (use different flavored tortillas like spinach and tomato if you wish)

Preheat oven to 350 F. Bring a medium pot of water to a boil, and dip the green onions and leeks in quickly with tongs. Let them cool on a plate.

In a large skillet, heat the vegetable oil over medium heat. Add tomato, onion, green chilies, garlic powder, and salt to the skillet, and cook until the onions begin to brown about five minutes.

Add the mashed beans and cheese, and mix well.

Wrap the tortillas in aluminum foil and heat in the oven for 10 minutes. Remove the tortillas from the oven. Spoon a scoop of the bean mixture into the center of the tortillas and wrap. Fold the horizontal sides in toward each other, and roll the burrito up toward you.

Place the burrito on a plate or serving dish. Wrap one leek around the width of the burrito, then another around the length.

Tuck the ends of the leek underneath the burrito. Tie a simple bow with the green onion at another fork at the spot where the leeks cross on the burrito.

Mexican food made authentic

From Sinaloa's rugged, majestic mountains and pine forests to Veracruz's green coasts and tropical jungles, Mexico is a varied country. Mexico's food embodies this diversity depending on the region; traditional dishes can reflect Caribbean, Spanish, Mayan or other influences.

Below are two easy, traditional tomato sauce recipes that show the range of Mexican cuisine. Both can be made ahead and refrigerated for up to three days.

Grown since the ancient days of the Incas and Aztecs, tomatoes were Mexico's gift to the European world. Mexican tomato growers continue this tradition today by cultivating tomatoes that combine centuries of know-how with the latest innovations in quality and safety practices. For decades, Mexico has been the leading supplier of vine-ripened, high-quality tomatoes to the United States during the winter and spring months.

Veracruz-Style Tomato Sauce

This piquant sauce has Mediterranean influences. Serve it as those in Veracruz would—warm, on baked or broiled fish.

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 5 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 1/2 cups minced white onion
- 2 1/4 pounds Mexican beefsteak tomatoes, chopped
- 2 canned mild green chiles, drained
- 6 pimento-stuffed green olives, chopped
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 1 1/2 teaspoons dried oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon each dried thyme and marjoram
- Salt and pepper to taste

Heat oil in a medium saucepan. Add garlic and onion; sauté on medium heat until onion is translucent, about 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 30 minutes on medium-low heat, stirring occasionally, until sauce is thick. Serves 4-6.

Fresh Enchilada Sauce

Enchiladas are popular in several Mexican regions. For an easy yet authentic version, roll up corn tortillas with grated Mexican-style cheese. Top with this fresh sauce and bake covered at 350 F. for 30 minutes. Garnish with chopped onions, and serve them as antojitos—little snacks.

- 6 dried, dark red chiles
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup chopped white onion
- 4 cloves garlic, sliced
- 2 medium-sized Mexican beefsteak tomatoes, quartered
- 1/2 teaspoon cumin
- 3/4 cup to 1 cup water or broth
- Salt to taste

Soak chiles in hot water about 25 minutes, until soft. Drain and remove seeds. Combine all ingredients, including chiles, in a blender, and puree until smooth. Serves up to 10.
