On Walking Without Shoes (From Poetry, Australian Quarterly)

Put off your shoes, and feel with the bare foot. How the couchgrass springs and twirls with life, and sand Carresses like cool silk; the bitumen road Presses up friendly and firm, and the prickling gravel Bids you walk with a new awareness, unknown To the shod multitude whose feet know only The carpeted floor and the bath-room's wet cement.

We go where, every third marriage in the fall. Obviously the thing to do is to marry first or second.

Chairman Doughton wants to know how the Republicans can possibly cut taxes 20 percent as Representative Knutson said they would. May be they'll do it the same way the Democrats did it in 1933.

Eddy Gilmore, Associated press Bureau chief in Moscow, for the past five years, says, "I am sure neither Russia's leaders nor the people want or are preparing for war now." Hitler did not want war either. He said so repeatedly. What he wanted was to take over Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and point north, south, east and west without a war. It was the British and the French who started the war.

Henry Wallace without a doubt will be the candidate of the communists for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948. After Truman's many recent blunders he may decide not to seek re-election though he could get the nomination if he wants it. The logical man for the Democrats to offer as an opponent to Mr. Wallace in the convention is Secretary Byrnes. He worries the anyone in the Democratic party today commands the respect and confidence of all political parties and factions except the Russians.

It isn't the children of the nation who need educating so much now as their parents. So says Bob Hutchins of the University of Chicago who has left his post as chancellor for a nine months course in adult education. What's the use of educating our children, he suggests, if their parents are so dumb as to destroy the whole world and everything that is on it with atomic warfare in the next five or ten years. "For an educator to devote his time to educating children from 8 to 21 years old in the hope that the world may thereby be saved, is, I believe, highly unrealistic," he declares.

John L. Lewis whose rugged health and overbearing paunch indicate that he feeds well and enjoys good red meat, upsets the apparent no less than Henry Wallace and comes out against meat price ceilings. Kristianse is much rather have a good stein steak at a dollar a pound than be stuck at all at 90 cents a pound. And besides coal miners don't miss coal on a diet of carrots and peas or bread and milk. Naturally we feel sorry for the coal miners in their present predicament. But we also feel sorry for the lumberjack, the farmer, and millions of unemployed people in the hospitals and on the streets. The other road need to be built on their blood, not on the blood of the coal miners.

The Lesson Of History

Walter Lippmann wrote the other day that the one great lesson of history is that nobody learns anything from the lessons of history. Most thoughtful people have anticipated that sooner or later the lessons of World War II would be forgotten and the slogan, "Remember Pearl Harbor," was popularized to help keep them in mind, but no one expected that so soon after the horrible failure of appeasement, isolation, and unpreparedness, we would find ourselves being urged to try that road again.

Henry Wallace may be right that "Getting tough with Russia," may lead to a third World War, but there is no reason whatever to believe that being soft with her will be any more fruitful of peaceful results than Neville Chamberlain's humiliating surrender to Hitler at Munich. "Peace at any price" was tried, even before that by Woodrow Wilson, who said, "There is such a thing as being too proud to fight," and that too failed. For once, let's see what being strong and ready will do.

It may lead to war. And all of us can agree with Henry Wallace and his communist allies that it will be a terrible war, that thousands of our sons will be sent to die on foreign soil, and that whole cities will be destroyed and civilian populations decimated. Nobody wants such a war, certainly not in this country, and probably not in Soviet Russia. And nobody advocates a "preventive war" now in order to avoid such a war in the future.

Laurels During Life

In the midst of new reports on strife and enmity, it is heartening to read of the public celebration in Madison, Conn., honoring a 74-year-old physician for 10 years of "faithful service to the community." More than 100 of the 700 children Dr. Milo P. Rindge had delivered paraded past him as he sat in a 1907 horse-drawn buggy on the village green. The "Rindge babies" were all ages, including a few grandparents. Among them were 3 children of the doctor, 2 of them also physicians, and a Bronze Star holder of World War II who had saved 81 French children under shell fire.

At a public reception friends pressed to shake the doctor's hand, and at a dinner he was given a gold watch gratefully inscribed by these "babies," many of whom came from surrounding towns.

Most eulogies come with the casket flowers. These Connecticut people expressed their appreciation to their good friend while he could enjoy it.

Was AFL Maritime Strike Deliberate Blow of WSB? Maine's Election Results Please Demos' Secretary

WASHINGTON—Many labor observers interpreted the AFL maritime strike as a deliberate attempt by the Federation to smash the War Stabilization Board.

Since V-J day, the AFL has urged abandonment of the government's wage controls and the board which administers them, while the CIO has been pretty much on the other side of the fence. The maritime strike gave John L. Lewis a golden opportunity to assail WSB. Lewis has been one of the bitterest foes of the board and its predecessor, the War Labor Board.

Some of the main chief's lieutenants urged AFL President William Green to poll the federation's executive council by telephone and obtained approval of a withdrawal of the AFL representative from WSB. The issue is headed into a showdown fight of the AFL convention in Chicago next month.

LOOK FOR CONGRESS TO BROADEN its investigation into the disposal of surplus property in housing projects. With an eye on November elections, Senate and House committees are getting in stride for wider inquiries into the purchase of military items at home and overseas by favored contractors.

LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM RITT, Central Press Writer. PRESIDENT TRUMAN says he doesn't think much of the sport of fishing. Among those heartily concurring with him are the lowly earth worms and all members of the fishy tribe. Others likely to agree with the president are those who have spent entire afternoons out in a boat without accomplishing anything more than just wetting the end of a string. The male box turtle, according to Factographs, always has red eyes. For such a slowly-moving creature it appears he must lead a pretty fast life. For winning an international match recently a famed chess player received a prize worth $40. What's this—overemphasis? A Moscow newspaper claims that Soviet factory workers have too many bosses. And all of them named Joe? A London pedestrian carries a horn which he operates crossing streets. It's the only way he can talk back to busy motorists. King George of Greece, thinks Grandpa Jenkins, may have been less excited about getting his throne back than he was over the fact the recent election solved his housing problem for him.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

An earthquake occurred in Florida last Tuesday evening but nobody except scientists knew it. Marion H. Gilmore of the navy's micro-seismograph center where the delicate gadgets record tremors, reported at Miami that some part of adjustment is going on deep below Florida. Several of these rumblings in the bowels of the earth have lately been recorded—possibly due to readjustment of limestone deposits. TAMPA, Sept. 23. (Special)—draft call. He went on further to say that at the present time there are 11,000 unemployed people of all skills in the Tampa area. Mr. Simmons also pointed out that the average unskilled worker makes $22 a week, of which $22 is his usual take-home pay. Mr. Simmons further stated that the average teen-ager would be missing a wonderful opportunity if he failed to avail himself of the benefits of the GI Bill. To the high school graduate, the educational provisions of the GI Bill has to offer, namely: education and job training, guaranty of loans, unemployment allowances, including aid for self-employed and job-finding assistance.

Robert C. Simmons, head of the Tampa United States Employment Service, pointed out that employers are reluctant to hire teen-agers due to the fact that there is a surplus of skilled personnel at this time, and that in most cases, the teen-ager is awaiting the GI Bill or await draft call and thereby stand a chance of not availing himself of the four major kinds of help that the GI Bill has to offer, namely: education and job training, guaranty of loans, unemployment allowances, including aid for self-employed and job-finding assistance.

Whooping Cough Is Not Simple

By W. V. Billing, Touchton Drug Co. No childhood disease can be ignored as a simple matter, or as something that must be endured. Whooping cough lasts of all. Young children, as young as six months old, can be protected from this really serious threat to health and life. Consult your doctor about immunization from whooping cough. Do not allow your child's life to be threatened. Do it at once. Epidemics occur from time to time, and then it is often too late to set up the natural guard against disease. Your doctor, your druggist, are your allies in protecting your child's life.

Rural Common Sense

By Spod-Johnson

STILL AN URGENT NEED
One of the most acute shortages in the world today is in fats and oils, as any housewife who has tried to purchase soap can testify. Supplies in this country are shorter than they were a year ago, at the end of the war, and people throughout the world are in desperate need of fats.

The Department of Agriculture says that unless kitchen fat salvage continues to supply 10 percent of the tallow and grease production, as it did during the war years, there may be an even greater shortage of laundry soap, packaged soaps and other needed products.

Those who know say that it will be well into 1947 before world exports can even approach pre-war volume. Until imports of fats and oils into the United States become normal, housewives must continue to save and turn to use fats. Only in this way can they help themselves get the soaps and other household essentials they need.

American kitchen continues to supply an important part of the fats and oils industry needs. They have become an essential conversion factory for industry.

Yes, two-thirds of American housewives are not currently salvaging fat. If every housewife saved fat at the average rate of the three-fifths who are saving, the supply of used fats could be increased 60 percent, thus easing the strain on edible fats and oils and increasing the amount of soap which can be manufactured.

Industry still has numerous problems a year after the end of the war. There is no reason for a let down in fat salvage for many months to come.

Rust or dark spots can be removed on scissors by rubbing off roughness with fine sandpaper or steel wool and rubbing on a little oil.

Celery Feds Drop Final Playoff Tilt To Senators, 2 To 0

4,997 Fans See Howington Hold Orlando To Four Hits

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, JR., Herald Sports Editor

The Orlando Senators are the Florida State League pennant winners and the victors in the haughty playoff series today by virtue of their 2 to 0 rousing they placed on the Celery Feds at Tinker Field before 4,997 fans yesterday.

The Orlando boys played ball early as well as their mother club, the Washington Senators, would have, committing no mistakes and taking advantage of three Fed errors.

Jodie Howington pitched magnificent ball. The Fed left-handeder gave up but four base hits walked three and sent one down by the strikeout route. Had Howington been given better support as field and better strategy been used the Feds would have been the victors in the fray.

Howard Martin, the lanky Senator righthander, handled hurling duties for the victors. Martin gave up five hits and walked three Feds.

Martin was in trouble in the opening inning as Bryant singled, followed by a free pass issued to Bob Tuttle, and Dave Stride dropped a perfect bunt in front of the plate to fill the sacks. Buddy Lake lined a drive into Earl Ermer's mitt who was playing back on the grass at second base. Then Ermer finished the drive as Levy grounded out, Ermer to Cozzi to Burns for a win-kill.

This was the first and only Sanford rally. Only five other Sanford men reached first and none others advanced to second.

The Senators' tilted their title in the fourth as Horton beat out a grounder to first which was sacrificed to second by Jack Lavelle. Lavelle was safe on the play at first, Burns rounded second and went to third on the play. Ermer drove a long high fly into left, which Lake snagged, but Burns scampered home on the throw.

The Senators tallied their final run in the eighth as Dominguez passed a two bagger into left center, followed by an intentional free pass to Burns and a single to center, scoring Dominguez. This placed the game in the cooler.

Howard Martin tossed a brilliant game, but his success can be attributed to the flawless support of his team mates and the senator ability to take advantage of the Fed miscues.

Bryant was the only Sanford man to solve the offerings of Martin for more than one inning. He hit safely twice.

Jensen Brothers Announce Opening Of Bowling League

Western Duckpins To Be Used In Matches On Local Alleys

The Jensen brothers, owners of the Sanford Bowling Alleys, have announced that a bowling league will begin Oct. 1 at their alleys and anyone interested in joining a team can contact the manager of the alleys and will be assured of being placed on a team.

The contests will be played on regulation alleys using Western Duck Pins. This game is very popular in the northern states and is now being brought to the Florida people gradually.

The game has gained popularity since it can be played by young and old alike.

Many people have this game confused with duckpin played on regulation lamp alleys, and it is a misconception. Western Duckpins are called "small tenpins" because they are played under the same regulations, but Western Duckpin bowling is recognized as requiring more skill and accuracy.

The small ball is sufficiently easy to handle and the beginner can usually handle it well enough to derive a large amount of enjoyment from the start.

SPORTS ODDITY

Many a baseball hitting record established by Babe Ruth will stand for years to come. One mark which the Babe put on the books was set, not by his slugging, but by his pitching. Babe pitched 29 consecutive scoreless innings of World Series play. The string started when Ruth won a 2-1 game for the Boston Red Sox against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1916 series. The game lasted 14 innings, and Babe held Brooklyn scoreless in the last 13 frames. Two years later, against the Cubs, he pitched another 10 innings of shutout ball, to establish a pitching record which is often forgotten, in view of Ruth's hitting accomplishments.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF, AP Newsfeatures

DALLAS—Fact and fiction become so interwoven in the realm of sports that it is difficult to determine where one stops and the other begins. The longer the period, the greater the story.

I talked to Leroy (Batshe) Paige, the great Negro pitcher. Down through the years I had often heard how Paige got his nickname. It was said some writers, because of his big feet, "Now, sub," said Paige, "I don't have feet any bigger than the other fellas. I got that nickname when I was a red cap and could carry some satchels at the same time." Paige pointed to a shoe; it wasn't much larger than mine and I wear seven and a half.

Dana X. Hible, University of Texas football coach, is known for his inspiring pre-game talks. He reads a stirring poem, tells a great story or makes a heart-throbbing speech. But here's what he told the Texas A. and M. team to fire it up to win an important game in the last ball. "Well, girls, shall we?"

The speaker, famed gray coat and the majors, is called one of the greatest outfielders of all time. But this started as a mediocre pitcher. It was at Cleburne when the city was in the Texas League. This couldn't get the batters out and the club owners had decided to give him his release when Ben Robinson, the manager, knuckling pitcher could hit, suggested they shift him to the outfield. They did and he went to baseball's greatest glory.

Frank Oatis, Texas League pitcher, came to America from his native Hawaii to play baseball at the suggestion of Ty Cobb. Some surprising press agent put out a report that Oatis was a native of the state and the big Hawaiian became quite a drawing card not only because he was a good ball player but he had a claim. The closest he ever was to the royal house was reading about himself in the paper.

The late Jake Atz, manager of many league baseball was the stories relate really named Zimmerman. A ball club he played with in his youth paid the town of Atz, Texas, for the right to use the name. Atz never tried to correct the story and many people always will believe it to be the truth. Atz who piloted Burn Worth to six pennants in a row in the Texas League 28, died last year at New Orleans. He were alive today he would just grin and ask, "What difference does it make?"

So, as sports march with time, facts are magnified, stories not only are fabricated, but the fabrications are magnified and the dust of the years covers the facts.

There was that day in 1916 when Georgia Tech rolled up one of the greatest scores in football history—22 to 0. No one disputes the record, though it was on October 7, 1916, at Atlanta. Georgia Tech actually beat a team by that number of points. According to the records it was from Cumberland University. However, says one of the men who played in that game, Cumberland didn't have a football team in 1916.

Who, then, made up this story that put Georgia Tech into the gridiron history books?

Dean Gaudin, retiring district attorney at Dallas, tells the story. He should know about that game, he was the quarterback of the team that played under the name of Cumberland University of Lebanon, Tenn.

It never was explained, relates Gaudin, why a telegram from the athletic department of Georgia Tech directed to the Kappa Sigma Fraternity House instead of to the gymnasium at Cumberland University.

In the telegram, the Georgia Tech officials asked if Cumberland would like to play a football game. The fraternity boys read the telegram and, after a long questioning, then a young fellow named Fullback Allen—"Fullback" wasn't his real name but Gaudin says, that was all he ever knew him by—suggested "Let's play 'em."

The Kappa Sigma boys figured it would be fun to joust on the gridiron with Georgia Tech, about whom they knew little because in that period football games didn't spread very well. Besides, they all were law students and were too concerned with the haberdashery and real estate to take time to read the sports page—if there were any sports pages thereabouts.

A wire was dispatched, probably collect. Gaudin said, informing Georgia Tech if it would furnish railroad tickets the gridiron gladiators of old Cumberland would be there.

The Kappa Sigma boys neglected to inform university authorities of the project. No use of that; they could just surprise everyone when they returned with the Georgia Tech weights on their belts.

While waiting for the train they made up signals and worked out plays they felt would bring touchdowns. Two or three of the boys had had a modicum of high school football experience, and, of course, knew all the answers.

High in enthusiasm but low in gridiron ability, 15 fraternity boys departed for Atlanta. Thirteen

Grid Giants To Present Strong Football Team

By FRANK ECK, AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y.—The strength of the New York football giants haven't reached the ears of rival teams in the National Football League but they will. The giants, usually slow starters, will be one of the surprises of the circuit.

Stout Steve Owen, starting his 21st season with the club that brought big time pro football to New York in 1925, has more speed than ever, both up front and in the backfield.

Calligaro Back Owen toyed with the T once before but just when the season was about to start, his T quarterback, Len Calligaro, formerly of Wisconsin, snapped an ankle. Calligaro is back now and fighting Frank Filchok for the No. 1 assignment. Filchok is glad to be on his own after having played the shadow behind Sammy Winder in Washington.

Other backs include George Franck, Minnesota All-American of 1940; Bill Paschal, the league's leading ground runner in 1945; and Steve Strickland, a power back who has improved since dropping baseball. Frank Reagan of Penn State, Mule Hoes, Howie Livingston and Joe Sulz are also on the team.

Top Tackles

The giants have two of the best tackles in football in Jim White of Notre Dame and De Witt (Tex) Coulter, the 235 pound giant who flunked out at West Point. Owen tried the six-foot four Coulter at end but the 1945 All-American tackle will be at his regular post when the season opens with a night game All-American for the Irish in '46.

Repeating the veteran Mel Hein at center will be Chet Gladchuk who gives the Giants a fourth All-American. Gladchuk took All-American honors at Boston College in 1940. His replacement is Lou DePhillips, the old reliable moved from Fordham.

Guard spots are in the capable hands of Lou Young, All-league in 1945, and Bill Holberton of Tennessee and Bill Edwards. Owen has four crack ends in Don McCafferty of Ohio State, Jack Mead of Wisconsin, and the veterans Jim Poole and Jim Lee.

The roster will warn you 70 times out of 71. The trouble is you never know when that deadly 77th time is going to come snaking at you. Sports Editor

Florida Officials Begin Task Of Registering 8,000 Students For Classes Today

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 23. (Special)—With applications of admission for more than 8,000 students on file, officials of the University of Florida will begin today the task of registering and assigning sections and classes the largest student body in the history of the state university. Former students register today Tuesday and Wednesday and all first-time students will be registered beginning Thursday and continuing Friday and Saturday. Classes will meet Sept. 30. Although the majority of the problems of expansion for an unprecedented enrollment had been solved on the eve of the registration period, the housing shortage in Gainesville remained the biggest headache for University officials and students alike. Officials urged that students who have not definite assurance of a place to live defer their college entrance until the second semester. Even over-night rooms are scarce, they pointed out. All available on-campus housing has been assigned. Lewis Slack, assistant registrar, emphasized, and the City of Gainesville is filled to capacity. Until additional temporary housing is completed, no more room space is the first of the year, the school year, he said. Qualified former students, all of whom have been notified and registration permits, will report Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, according to their individual card assignment. They will report to Room 204, Language Hall, and must present their registration permit before they can proceed with registration. First-time students at the University will report Thursday morning, September 20, at 9:00 o'clock, at the University auditorium for orientation and registration. The registration period or them will continue Friday and Saturday morning. Meanwhile at Tallahassee officials at Florida State College for Women were making arrangements to temporarily take care of some of the University's overflow. Students will be assigned to the University of Florida ranch at Tallahassee on a voluntary basis, it was emphasized. More than 2,000 students, all of whom were enrolled in the summer session, registered for classes the latter part of August and the second summer session term ended. No other registrations or applications have been accepted since then.

Employment Service Begins Drive To Obtain Thousands Of Citrus Workers

With the largest and earliest citrus crop in recent years which will require several thousand more workers during the current season than last year, the United States Employment Service has started its recruitment drive to supply these workers. The Employment Service is requesting women interested in work in the citrus industry to register for employment at their nearest office. Some plants expect to open early in October and others will register under way as the season progresses. The local United States Employment Service offices who have orders in their files from citrus employers will supply all details concerning the location, types of jobs, wages, living accommodations, and other desired employment information. While the majority of the increased demand for workers will be for women sectionizers, there will also be an increased demand for peelers and floor workers. Sectionizers remove sections of fruit from peeled oranges, tangerines, and grapefruit with a small knife. Skilled workers can start on a piece-work basis, while unskilled or less skilled personnel begin on an hourly scale and change to piece-work basis as they become skilled. Near Record Milk Supply Available For County Diets

Seminole County residents will consume more than 5,376,000 quarts of milk and milk products this year in maintaining the County's high nutritional standards, it was predicted today by the nation's leading distributor of dairy products. "With a near record supply of milk coming from the nation's dairy farms, consumption of dairy products this year is expected to equal that of 1945 when more than 60,000,000,000 quarts were consumed," said G. W. Diehl, head of A. & P. Food Stores national dairy department. "A 22 percent increase in per capita consumption of milk during the war years helped overcome the loss of nutrition caused by curtailed supplies of fats and oils and helped bring about the nation's high nutritional wartime levels." A greatly increased supply of most cheese products is now available in many sections of the country and other milk products are expected to continue plentiful during the fall and winter months, Diehl said. These products contain nearly 14 percent of the calories, 24 percent of the proteins, 19 percent of the fats, 74 percent of the calcium and 45 percent of the riboflavin consumed by the average individual. The pioneering efforts of food chains in developing a streamlined distribution system, Diehl said, have made possible the quick movement of milk and milk products from dairy centers of densely populated consumer areas. Modern refrigeration equipment and improved handling methods were also cited as instrumental in maintaining the high nutritional qualities of dairy products. Seminole County's 700 farms are expected to produce more than 1,000,000 quarts of milk this year.

Stalin Tells World That Threat Of New War Does Not Exist

Russian Policies In Germany Not To Be Directed Against Britain And U. S.

MOSCOW, Sept. 24, (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin put up a calming hand today and told the world that he did not think there would be another war in the near future because he believed there was no real danger of a new war and that the threat of war does not exist at the present.

Stalin suggested that the rumors and alarms about a possible new war were just so much talk—but for a purpose. He blamed the talk on what he called naive politicians and military-political intelligence agents who, he said, need this clamor to do their things.

To help their government ward more concessions, to make it hard to cut the military budgets of their countries, and to put a brake on the demobilization of troops and thereby evade the quick growth of unemployment in their countries.

Stalin did not mention the countries he had in mind. There were many things that he said, in reply to a list of questions submitted to him by the Moscow correspondent of the London Sunday Times, in which the United States was mentioned specifically.

The Russian Prime Minister said the United States now holds a threat to peace in having a monopoly of atomic weapons. Stalin minimized this by declaring that he does not believe the atomic bomb to be as serious a force as certain politicians are inclined to regard it; that atom bombs merely are intended to intimidate weak nerves and that in themselves they can not decide the outcome of a war, and that the atomic bomb monopoly will not last for very long and besides, use of the bomb will be prohibited.

Stalin was asked whether he believed the earliest withdrawal of all American troops from China is vital to future peace. Stalin answered, "Yes, I do." In reference to Henry A. Wallace's recent foreign policy speech, Stalin was asked whether western Europe and the United States can be assured that Soviet policies in Germany will not be directed against them. The Prime Minister replied that the use of Germany as a weapon against the west is excluded by both the Potsdam agreements and by the Soviet pact with Britain and France against German aggression. He added: Any such use of Germany would be against the Soviet Union's best interest. Stalin talked about demilitarizing Germany as one step toward a stable and lasting peace.

The Soviet leader also commented that he does not believe that the United States and Britain are trying to encircle Russia with a capitalist ring. They could not do that, he added, even if they wanted to.

Southern Political leaders offered varied comments today on Stalin's statement. Florida's Senator Claude Pepper, who is one of America's foremost advocates of cooperation with Russia, agreed with the Soviet leader. Pepper said Stalin's foreign policy expressions seemed to be very forthright and very encouraging.

The Florida Democrat said the speech simply confirms the belief he had all along that a sensible and honorable basis of understanding and cooperation could be found between the United States and Russia.

Senator Walter George was no quite so quick to form an opinion. The senior Georgia statesman, a former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the real difficulty is what to believe, because "only pleasant predictions come out of Russia."

Senator George said he cannot foresee a war in the immediate future between Russia and the western democracies. He qualified this, however, by saying that Russian policies are such that they may cross the dead line at some unexpected point and bring on a conflict.

George said that today's expressions from Stalin were "a definite part of the system of Russian propaganda. Russia probably will get all she can, but to get short of war."

Kaiser Requests Additional Time To Make Replies Shipbuilder Disputes Group's Figures On Company's Profits

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24, (AP)—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser today asked for more time to answer questions in a government inquiry into the wartime record of his shipbuilding firms.

The House Merchant Marine Committee was told yesterday that Kaiser shipbuilding enterprises received $192,000,000 in profits from the government on a capital investment of $2,500,000. The committee asked Kaiser how this happened.

Today the shipbuilder replied in a statement that he could not answer on short notice what he termed an endless number of detailed and technical questions about five years of transactions by Kaiser Company, Inc. He declared that counsel for the committee had brought up points which call for a staff of accountants, engineers and others to answer.

In a statement Kaiser said: "We want this committee to understand that there isn't a single thing we aren't happy to disclose that is in our books and corporate records."

Then he added, that as a practical matter, there isn't a single man in the Kaiser organization qualified to answer questions on the complicated corporate financial and business transactions over a five-year period. Kaiser has disputed the figures relating to profits made by his organization. He said that combined net profits after taxes of the four Kaiser shipbuilding yards were less than one-tenth of one percent of the total volume of work done for the Maritime Commission. That, he emphasized, is after deducting all losses.

Suits Filed Against Florida Slaughters

MIAMI, Sept. 24, (AP)—The OPA today filed eleven suits against South Florida slaughters. Chief enforcement attorney Paul Hyman says six more suits are in the process of being filed.

The suits were prepared by the food enforcement attorney on reports from nine OPA investigations. ## Warren Says U.S. On Brink Of New War

Urges Prevention Of Conflict Even To Point Of Appeasement If Necessary

Declaring that the United States is on the very brink of war with the most powerful nation on earth, Fuller Warren, Jacksonville attorney and 1940 candidate for governor, told the inter-city meeting of Rotary clubs at the Seminole Country Club last night, that everything possible should be done to prevent this war even to the point of appeasement and added that we cannot leave it to our diplomats, our senators, our military leaders and the heads of our government to perfect a lasting peace.

Pointing to the fourth object of Rotary which is "the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace," Mr. Warren told the members of the New Smyrna, Deland and Sanford Rotary clubs that it is their duty and the duty of every other civic and fraternal organization in the country to find a way out of this unnecessary misunderstanding with Russia since the next war, if it comes, will be the last one and "there won't be enough people left on earth to start another war."

Mr. Warren emphasized the terrific destructive power of the atomic bomb which he declared could not remain a secret of the United States for long. He also pointed to the increasing speed and range of air power and the destructiveness of V-bombs, disease bombs and many other secret weapons which he never been used yet. And declaring that, if we cannot find a way to make peace permanent, we should at least do everything we can to insure peace for our time.

Although suggesting that there is greater danger of war today than there was in the summer of 1938, Mr. Warren insisted that there is no basic cause for war between this country and Russia. The basic causes of war, he stated, are: (1) The desire of one country for the land of another, (2) desire of one country for the trade of another, and (3) hangover of grudges from some past war.

None of these conditions exist today to cause trouble between this country and Russia. He said that Russia wants no part of Russia and Russia does not covet any of our territory, there are no trade conflicts and relations between the two countries have been traditionally friendly.

Declaring that he did not like the Russian form of government, he stated that it is much better that the government which the Russians had under the czar and that they are still making progress. He urged the people to wake up and stop this terrible trend toward a new war, which he said would destroy civilization.

"The last war settled nothing," he declared, "and neither will the next one."

Mr. Warren's remarks followed an address of welcome by President G. W. Speer to the visiting clubs from New Smyrna and Deland and responses from Paul D. Southard, immediate past president of the New Smyrna club and Gerald Frierson, president of the Deland club.

G. W. Spencer, chairman of the golf tournament committee, announced the winners in the tournament and presented prizes to Harry Tooke for low gross, Jake Jacobs and E. D. Scott for low net, and Gerald Frierson and Robert Cornell for highest scores. Charles Morrison led the club in singing with Harry Kudell at the piano.

Continuation Of City Commission Adopts 1946-47 High Taxes Urged By Snyder Today

Treasury Secretary Speaks to Bankers Association Meet

CHICAGO, Sept. 24, (AP)—Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder called today for a continuation of high taxes. He said that for our common good, our present tax levels must be maintained for some time.

In an address before the American Bankers Association in Chicago, the Treasury Secretary said that "high taxes must continue if we are to balance the federal budget and reduce the national debt. Said Snyder: "I think that it is pure fantasy, if not plain demagoguery, to talk of tax reduction and debt reduction in the same breath."

The Treasury Secretary added that the federal government should strive not only to balance the budget but also to achieve a substantial surplus for paying off the debt. These are the views he expressed when he entered the Treasury, Snyder remarked, and they have the full support of President Truman.

Snyder said that in the six months ending Sept. 1, the Treasury had reduced the debt by about $14,000,000,000. He predicted that so far as cash is concerned, the government will tap in more money than it spends this year.

The overall deficit for the current fiscal year, Snyder asserted, will be slightly less than $2,000,000,000—a great improvement over the $4,500,000,000 estimate of last January.

Big Four Ministers Receive Criticism From Col. Hodgson, Australian Delegate

PARIS, Sept. 24, (AP)—The Allied peace conference has taken steps to ease the tension along the southeastern frontier of Slavic Europe in the Balkans. The Military Commission of the conference voted today to remove all fortifications along Bulgaria's frontier with Greece.

The action was taken with the approval of an amendment to the suggested Bulgarian peace treaty. Greece had offered the amendment.

This decision came as an American spokesman hinted at a speedup in the work of the peace-makers. So far, not a single treaty has been completed with any of the former enemy nations involved—Italy, Romania, Finland, Hungary or Bulgaria.

The Foreign Ministers of the Big Four plan to sit down today to consider the question of what to do about Italy's colonial possessions. They also announced their intention of speeding up other treaty amendments in order to save time.

Just a few hours before the Big Four Ministers were scheduled to meet, they were criticized in scathing terms by Australian delegate, W. R. Hodgson. Long champion of the smaller nations, Col. Hodgson attacked the ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia for agreeing among themselves on a number of key issues.

Foreign Minister's decision that the final disposal of Libya, Eritrea and the Italian Somaliland were to be determined jointly by the Big Four.

The Australian berated the major powers for stipulating that the United Nations would dispose of those Italian colonies if the Big Four could not agree among themselves.

Declared Hodgson: "They already had in mind that they were going to disagree."
