

GREAT BRITAIN ACCEPTS AMERICAN PROPOSALS LAID BEFORE ARMS CONFERENCE

Japan's Acceptance in Same Sense to Follow

CONFERENCE HAD PREVIOUSLY ADOPTED COMMITTEE PLAN WORKED OUT

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—In unison, the spokesmen for Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan today accepted "in spirit and principle the American proposals for limitation of naval armaments, making only reservation for suggestions of modification of details."

Great Britain's acceptance of America's proposals for limitation of naval armaments was formally laid before the arms conference today by Arthur Balfour, heading the British delegation. Baron Kato's statement of acceptance in the same sense for Japan was to follow. British acceptance in "principle and spirit." Before hearing the statements the conference unanimously adopted the committee of whole plan worked out by the big five. Balfour said he was first to arise to deal with subject which was near to hearts of all conference because "Great Britain and the United States are more profoundly concerned with all that touches naval matters than it is possible for other nations to be." After describing England's dependence on water for sustenance and widely scattered units of the British empire, Balfour contrasted the concentrated situation of the United States whom he congratulated on the position and added he was not lamenting over the situation of Great Britain but pointing out conditions which he said her enemies would not let her forget. Balfour said taking battleships as basis the British thought these limitations would be accepted, but suggested the submarine tonnage might well be reduced and that possibly construction of large submarines prohibited. Suggestion would not affect main structure of proposals Balfour said and when he promised "Full, loyal and complete cooperation" of the British nation toward the general American plan the audience rose and applauded. Balfour explained big submarines which might be prohibited would be the kind used only for attack, pointed out stimulation industry by lower taxes after armament reduction which he said also makes idealism practical proposition. He read congratulatory cablegram from Premier Lloyd George on the American proposals.

Miss Campbell, aged 20, said she was a member of the party at which Virginia Rappe is alleged to have suffered fatal injuries, and that she does not believe Arbuckle had anything to do with her death. She declared the girl was a member of the party at four o'clock when Miss Campbell joined the party, while it is said the prosecution claims she was injured several hours before that. Miss Campbell denied that she tried to hide from the San Francisco authorities.

NO MORE NAVAL WARFARE SAYS HUGHES TO DELEGATES, GENERAL TERMS ALL RIGHT

Britain, Japan, Italy and France Praise the Program as Outlined by United States

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—In order Arthur J. Balfour, for Great Britain; Baron Kato, for Japan; Senator Schanzer, for Italy; M. Briand, for France, rose and praising in highest terms the plans and program suggested by the United States, gave adherence of their governments to general terms of the proposals. Secretary Hughes thanked the representatives for their cordial expressions and said it is assured that "there will come out of this conference appropriate agreement to the end that there will be no more offensive naval warfare." Hughes said there are subjects which must be discussed by naval experts and also suggested the committee on the Pacific and Far Eastern questions meet tomorrow. The conference then adjourned.

Ulster's Watchword Is "No Surrender," at Irish Parleys

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The negotiations among British, Sinn Fein and Ulster officials regarding the future of Ireland have now entered a stage in which the negotiations are talking of intermittent conferences extending over months instead of weeks. The chief interest this possibility has at the moment is that it promises to make impossible an early visit of Prime Minister Lloyd George to Washington, as he has been hoping to do all along.

This development is assuming great importance in English public and official spheres, because the Washington conference has suddenly attained proportions in British eyes of an event of tremendous and absorbing significance.

Counter proposals for an Irish settlement to those made by the Ulster cabinet last week were forwarded to the Ulsterites last evening by the British representatives, informing the Ulsterites that their alternative proposal was not acceptable. No further meeting between the British and Ulster delegates has yet been arranged.

It now seems that the premier's diplomacy must be directed to bringing Ulster into a three-cornered agreement. In the meantime the Sinn Fein will sit on the sidelines and await developments. "The northerners are the bad boys now," remarked one of the Sinn Fein delegates.

Ulster's watchword is "no surrender," but some of the newspapers find comfort in the thought that this is the first stage of all in the bargain making. The crux of the difficulty rests in the Sinn Fein's claim that Ireland must be a government unit, as opposed to Ulster's claim that if Ireland is to have a dominion status, Ulster must be under independent rule.

The concrete foundation base for the new press, which was shipped last week, is down, and work on the paper storage house which will hold two carloads of paper, is progressing rapidly. An automatic sprinkler system for fire protection will be installed, which will reduce fire risk to the minimum.

An open competitive examination under the rules of the U. S. Civil Service Commission for the position of postoffice clerk in the Winter Park postoffice will be held Nov. 20.

WOULDN'T WORK IN THE SOUTH

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—New York is employing business methods to solve its problem of domestic service. The long vacant place of the old-fashioned servant is being taken by the "home assistant"—working a 48-hour week and going and coming to work each day as a stenographer or factory worker. She also buys her own meals and expects her employers to address her as "Mrs." or "Miss."

The reluctance of women since the war to engage in housework and domestic service at wages which families of moderate means can pay led a group of New York women to investigate the problem. They found that women revolted from domestic service because of the long hours of labor, lack of definition of their tasks, uncertainty of their hours of recreation, and the feeling that a certain social stigma was attached to their positions.

The result of the investigation was a determination to put housework on a business basis and make it as dignified an occupation as office or factory. The women who have been attracted to housework on the home assistant basis receive $18 a week for a 48-hour week. They get Sundays and holidays or their equivalent time off and a vacation of two weeks with pay at the end of a year's work. They are paid over-time at a specified rate.

A weekly schedule of household tasks in the employer's home is arranged that will keep the worker busy every hour she is scheduled to work. She quits at noon and goes out for her lunch. When the day's work is ended she leaves for her own home. The domestic servant has become a business woman with the same freedom and independence as the rest of her sisters in the business world.

The success of the new venture led the investigators to organize the Bureau of Household Occupations which acts as a clearing house for the home assistants and a place where both the assistants and their employers can have difficulties adjusted as they may arise. Mrs. Richard Boardman, Mrs. George D. Pratt, Mrs. Henry S. Patterson and Mrs. Roberts M. Walker are among the women who are actively engaged in the work.

Figures Are Staggering But Looks Like Good Thing

MUCH IS SPENT

ON CRAFT TO BE USED AS TARGETS THAT WERE WASTE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Actual cost to the United States of the scrapping of the present naval building campaign, naval officials estimated today, would be between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000, exclusive of any salvage plan that might reduce this total. In his statement to the conference on limitation of armaments Saturday in presenting the American proposal, Secretary Hughes said the work already done had cost $330,000,000, but these figures do not include costs incident to abandonment of the ships under construction.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt said today that the program would save the government about $200,000,000 in naval expenditures. The figure is the difference between the total cost of the completion of the ships, about $600,000,000 and what scrapping them all would cost. Included in the scrapping costs are allowances for reimbursement of contractors for work they have been compelled to do in their yards in preparation for the huge craft to be built. There is no to start work upon new ships until an agreement actually is reached by the conference and ratified by the governments involved. That was made plain today. Construction on the great majority of the vessels is proceeding very slowly, however, the division of available building funds averaging about $2,000,000 a year per capital ship involved. The only ships upon which work has been brought to a complete standstill pending developments in Washington are the two at New York navy yard. Stoppage there, it was said, does not involve probability of damage suits for breach of contract.

In any case, it was added, expenditures now in progress on ships that may within a few weeks, perhaps days, be ordered scrapped are of such a nature that they could not be saved in any case.

The bulk of the $2,000,000 a year for each ship is for materials ordered and which would have to be paid for in any case. Only one or two cases is there a large labor force at work on actual building of the ships.

One phase of the program naval officers have been struck with is its probable effect on the three great shipbuilding plants doing most of the new ship construction for the government. Those plants, it was said today, were engaged almost entirely on government work and on those ships which would be scrapped under the plan. All three, it was predicted, would in all probability be forced to close down. They are the plants of the New York Ship Building Co., the Fore River (Mass.) Co., and the Newport News Co.

It was very evident that naval officers quite generally expected Mr. Hughes' program to be accepted with only minor modifications. There was some surprise indicated that the British delegation had not announced acceptance immediately when the plan was presented, leaving to a later time such adjustments of details as might seem desirable.

Now that jurors are permitted to sample the evidence in hooch cases, fewer men are dodging jury service.

MOVIE TOWN AIDS HOUSING

Fake Belgian Village, at a Little More Cost, Provides for a Score of Families.

Even the movies have their utilitarian uses, it seems. In some sections of the country they seem in a fair way to help solve our housing problems. At least they did so in a Westchester town not long ago.

The scene—the movie scene, that is—was a Belgian village, and with the accustomed profligacy of the picture producers the entire village must needs be built. The intent and purpose of the director was to build the houses of board and paper-mache, and then destroy them all when the picture was completed. Certain residents of the town, however, were possessed with foresight, says the New York Sun. The township was suffering from building restriction, and some one figured that the movie men could build their village of slightly more substantial material at a comparatively little increased cost. The proposition was put to the director, who agreed to let the town supply him with materials and labor on a proportionate basis.

As a result the town has added nearly twenty new houses and twenty new families have moved in, paying the township only slightly more than the property was worth. The township taxes the houses, the housing situation is relieved, the movie men have vanished and everybody is happy.

TO RESTORE WORLD WONDER

Mexican Government Will Remove Debris Covering Great Pyramids of the Sun and Moon.

Not only are the two great pyramids, those of the sun and the moon, situated near San Juan de Teotihuacan, Mex., to be restored to their original lines, but the Mexican government has made an appropriation for excavating and reconstructing the ruins of the great buried city surrounding the pyramids, which flourished more than 4,000 years ago. During the last four years immediately preceding the revolutionary period, considerable work had been done in the matter of clearing away the accumulation of debris that covered the pyramid of the sun, and it stands forth today as one of the greatest wonders of the world, according to archeologists. This pyramid is three times as large as the great Cheops pyramid near Cairo, Egypt, and in its construction giant blocks of stone were used. It is 1,400 feet square at the bottom. In height it is only 200 feet, and but for this fact would be one of the most imposing structures ever made by man. It is stated, "The pyramid of the sun is smaller than the one of the moon."

Paying Fines As You Go.
Some useful things have occasionally come out of the turmoil in Central Europe. One of the best plans of which we have heard is a new fining system which is used in Prague. The police carry receipts for fines for various sums in their pockets, and present them for immediate payment to hilarious citizens who break the peace by singing or playing on musical instruments on the streets at the wrong time, or where the volume of harmony is too great. This tends to allow the citizens of this old city to get some much needed rest. This system has worked so well and has become so popular that it was extended to traffic violations as well. It would certainly be a great convenience if we could adjust minor infractions such as a smoking automobile, or failure to keep automobile lamps lighted, without having recourse to the police or traffic courts.—Scientific American.

Three Battleships To Be Completed in Next Twelve Months

WILL NOT ABANDON NAVAL BUILDING PROGRAM IN ANY EVENT

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—The American naval building program as it now stands, bears an important relation to the problem confronting the armament conference. It is interesting to review it.

About 100,000 tons in capital ships will be added to the navy next year even under reduced appropriations. Included are three new battleships of the Maryland class, 21-knot ships carrying eight 16-inch, 45 calibre rifles each, and all oil burning, long cruising radius craft. They are the Colorado, now 80 per cent finished, the Washington, 70 per cent, and the West Virginia, 62 per cent. Four light cruisers also will be finished next year but do not figure importantly in the question of naval armaments.

Construction of these ships has reached a point where there is said to be little chance that they will be affected by any conclusions reached by the arms conference. Behind them, however, is progressing, very slowly with funds now available, the building of a formidable fleet of big ships. In this group are six 43,000 ton battleships, to carry main batteries of twelve 16-inch, 50 calibre rifles and have a speed of 23.25 knots; and six battle cruisers armed with eight 16-inch rifles and with a speed of 33.25 knots. The battle cruisers originally were designed to make 35 knots but were replanned with heavier batteries and increased side armor and resultant reduction in speed.

Three of these larger battleships are about one-third built while the others range down to 10 per cent finished. The delivery date of all is marked "indefinite" in navy books. The battle cruisers are from 10 to 25 per cent finished except one, the keel of which has not been laid.

With other craft of a more or less auxiliary nature for this backbone of heavy ships, the American building program as it now stands, includes 69 ships with an aggregate of 734,928 tons. If a number and tonnage ratio be applied to make a comparison with other building programs which will play a part in the arms conference, the figures on the best data available here would be:

Great Britain, 13 ships building, aggregating 40,000 tons, and a project as yet uncertain for four new battle cruisers aggregating 170,000 tons.
Japan, 85 ships building aggregating 805,000 tons.

With all of these programs finished in 1927, the relative figures in first line ships would be about as follows: Great Britain, 32 ships, 883,650 tons; United States, 27 ships, 983,000 tons; Japan 24 ships, 865,000 tons. The British would have 22 first line dreadnaughts and 10 modern battle cruisers, United States 21 dreadnaughts and 6 battle cruisers; Japan 12 dreadnaughts and 12 battle cruisers.

Grouped in this way, the difficulty in measuring off these forces against each other for the purpose of determining a method of limiting future building by international agreement or reaching an understanding as to the relative strength to be maintained on the sea by each naval power is obvious. The factors do not balance against each other; each fleet has elements that do not check against the others. Japan would show a preponderance in battle cruisers that would cause natural concern to a navy as deficient in that important element in modern naval strategy as the American fleet.

There is further discrepancy disclosed in examination of the characteristics of the ships. Not a great deal is available as to details of the Japanese craft, for instance, and the Washington government may be somewhat in the dark although details of the American fleet, originally planned in 1916, are generally known to all powers.

The recent Japanese battleships, Mngato and Matsui, are comparable to the American Maryland class, although superior somewhat in size, speed and secondary batteries. Similarly, the American 43,000 ton class of battleships, under slow construction, compares in type with the four new Japanese line of battle craft also building, except that the Japanese ships are a trifle larger and probably will exceed the American 23 knot speed, it is said.

It is in the two battle cruisers programs, however, that widest differences are found and it appears to naval experts here that the Japanese have been setting a new pace with these craft. Their program includes eight new cruisers, the first two said to be 44,000 tons armed with twelve 16-inch rifles each as against the 8 16-inch guns on the six American cruisers. There is understood to be only 500 tons difference in weight in favor of these two Japanese cruisers, however, and with main batteries one third heavier, there is necessarily a sacrifice in other qualities somewhere, either in protective armor or in speed. Details as to these characteristics have not been obtainable here.

The next two Japanese battle cruisers is another step forward in armament, navy officers say. With the same tonnage, they will carry eight 18-inch rifles instead of twelve 16in. It is said. Presumably other characteristics are as much the same as the earlier pair. So far as known these new Japanese batteries will be the heaviest afloat when the ships are commissioned. Of the other four cruisers little is known, so far as could be learned, beyond the fact that they also will register 44,000 tons. They will not be finished before 1926 at the earliest, it is understood.

Even this scant outline of the characteristics of ships in each fleet brings out sharply the difficulty in measuring them against each other for purposes of limitation of naval armaments. Neither in tonnage nor in number of ships in a type is a correct scale for comparative purposes to be found, say American naval officers. They also reject any suggestion that a limitation might be set in terms of appropriations because of the wide variance in cost of construction with American craft the most expensive by far.

Nor is there, apparently, a solution to the problem in measuring big gun strength. In terms of existing ships, Great Britain has a total of 288 rifles afloat of 12-inch bore or larger, the United States 190 and Japan 96. Against Great Britain's 44 12-inch, 144 13.5-in and 100 15-inch guns, the United States has 64 12-inch 124 14-inch and eight 16-inch; Japan eight 12-inch, 80 14-inch and eight 16-inch. These figures are for the 32 British first line craft, 18 American and 10 Japanese, and here again there is ground for controversy as to how they might be set off against each other to reach a comparative scale of battle power.

Complicated as the problem would be with consideration of all other elements of naval warfare, aircraft and submarines and the vital consideration of defensible repair bases which rises to almost first importance in relation to Pacific naval problems, it is even more strikingly apparent that the naval efforts of the three powers are facing a measurement of naval power for use in limiting armaments.

It seems certain that it will take a great deal of interchange of ideas and give and take among the experts at the conference before a unit of measurement could be agreed upon, even if a theory as to the distribution of these units as between the powers which would be satisfactory to all, previously had been worked out.

A very important business meeting was held. Plans were made and perfected for the Christmas bazaar which will be December 1st and 2nd. It was also decided for the Guild to meet every week from now until the bazaar. The next meeting will be Monday afternoon at 3:30, with Mrs. Howard Overlin as hostess, and will meet at the Welaka apartment. It is requested that all members be present at the next meeting.

HON. H. R. STEVENS ENDORSED BY GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Good Government League held last night, a constitution and by-laws were adopted, and the committee appointed at the first meeting of the League to make a thorough examination into and report upon the affairs of the City, and the manner in which the present administration had conducted the business of the City, made the following report, based on the data prepared by the Certified Public Accountant, Ernest T. LeBaron:

Statement Giving Statistical Data Comparing the Old Form of Government of the City of Sanford with New Commission Form

	Old Form Government 1919	Commission Form Government 1920	Commission Form Government 1921 to Oct. 31

GLEANERS CLASS ENTERTAINED

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Gleaners Class was held last evening at the home of Mrs. E. D. Brownlee, on Oak avenue.

Several matters of special importance were discussed, and articles were turned in, to raise money for the class.

At a late hour Mrs. Brownlee served food and gold cake with hot chocolate as refreshments.

About twenty-five members attended this delightful meeting.

MOTHERS CLUB

The Mothers' Club will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Williams, on Oak avenue, instead of the Parish House, as previously announced.

CIRCLE NO. 3, ENTERTAINED

Mrs. T. B. Dobbins and Mrs. J. M. Moye, very pleasantly entertained the members of Circle No. 3, yesterday afternoon at the apartment of Mrs. Dobbins, 618 Oak avenue.

A large number of the circle members were present, and spent the afternoon very enthusiastically working on doll clothes for the Christmas bazaar. Clothes for all sorts of dolls are being made, baby dolls, flappers and nutrons. Some of these costumes are exact copies of Paris models, most of them are designed by an expert designer, Mrs. Virginia Coney.

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Dobbins and Mrs. Moye, assisted by Mrs. McLeod, served an ice course.

The next meeting will be Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Williams.

SALE OF PLANTS

The civic committee of the Welfare Department is actively engaged in keeping "civic" week, and are doing every thing to interest the people to help beautify Sanford. Saturday they will conduct a sale of hibiscus and bouganvillea plants.

Clarence Woods, of Eustis, and Willis Powell, of Tavares, are in the city this afternoon looking them over. Clarence Woods was formerly in the newspaper game and was editor of the Eustis Lake Region for many years but lately is taking it easy. Willis is the secretary of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce and one of the greatest boosters in Florida or any other state. We are always glad to have Clarence Woods and Willis Powell in Sanford.

Dr. J. H. Wendler, editor and manager of the Winter Park Post and head of the new company that will soon put out the Daily Post, is in the city today.

JACKSONVILLE—The Florida State Fair here will be a success financially, even though it should rain during the entire week, for the largest rain insurance policy ever issued in Florida has been written according to insurance agents. The policy is for $68,000, and is in favor of the Florida State Fair and Exposition and the Jacksonville Driving Club. Should two tenths of an inch of rainfall be recorded any one day between the hours the gates open and close compensation for the day is to be paid by the insurance company.

Unpaid Taxes, Dec. 31st.....	26,912.50	15,673.28
It will be noticed that there has been a reduction of over $10,000 in the Unpaid taxes notwithstanding an increase of over fifty per cent in the tax roll of the city.
Amount of Taxes paid by R. R. The above figures refute the statement that the Railroad is not paying its proportion of taxes. The value of all Railroad property is fixed by the Comptroller of the state and the railroad is assessed just the same percent on the value of its property as any other citizen.	4,503.26	5,641.69
Amount of Sinking Fund to retire bonds	None	71,000.00
Interest on above is being added to fund.
Had old government complied with law there would have been in sinking fund Dec. 31st, 1919, in round figures, $100,000.00.
On account Old Government's failure to do this the new Commission form of government will have to raise for the next ten years an average of $14,000 per annum, in addition to the bond interest.
Bonds retired	None	2,000.00
Outstanding City Warrants, December 31st.....	49,324.44	34,966.31

It is interesting to note in connection with this item that the present City administration has reduced the outstanding City Warrants over $15,000.00, which amount was paid in cash, in addition to which all warrants issued by commissioners have been paid and no time warrants or temporary loans are outstanding at this time.

Total expenses in excess of income 16,154.22

This item represents increase in City Warrants outstanding during last year. Old form government and increase in City debt burden, which draws interest at the rate of 6 per cent.

Net income in excess of expenses None 2,845.47

It will here be noticed that the present administration has placed the city on the right side of the ledger.

City Debt burden reduced in 22 months under the Commission form of government:

Sinking Fund.....$71,000.00
Old Form Warrants paid 14,328.13
Bonds retired 2,000.00
Permanent improvements made in 22 months under Commission form of government:
New Sewers and Drains $ 9,285.23
New Streets and Bridges 12,466.93
White Way 900.00

It will be interesting to the tax payers of the City to know that all of the above improvements have been paid for in cash by the City; and that heretofore it has been customary to put the City in debt for like improvements either by bond issue or time warrants.

After a full discussion of the report, the evidence of the efficiency and business-like administration of the present government was so conclusive that the following resolution was offered and unanimously carried:

Whereas, we have made a careful and thorough investigation of the present form of government of the City of Sanford, Florida; and

Whereas, the result of our investigation is to convince us that the present form of government is a business form of government; and that under the able administration of the present City Commission our city has prospered, and from falling annually deeper and deeper into debt, it is now on the right side of the ledger, having paid off and discharged a considerable portion of the indebtedness of the City; created a sinking fund of $70,000.00 for retiring bonds and paying interest thereon; and, in addition, the present administration has equalized taxation, so the assessments are now just and uniform; installed and maintained an accurate and up-to-date system of accounting; and has been progressive and constructive, and we feel that it has merited and should receive our confidence and support; and

Whereas, the Hon. H. R. Stevens, as Mayor and Commissioner, has contributed very largely to the accomplishment of the improvements and progress of our City for the past two years by devoting, without compensation, largely of his time and energy to the affairs of the City, NOW THEREFORE,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE OF SANFORD AND SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA:

That we endorse the present form of City Government of the City of Sanford, Florida, and commend the energy, fairness, efficiency and ability of our present City Commissioners. And

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that we, believing the best interest of the City of Sanford would be promoted by re-electing for another term of office, the Hon. H. R. Stevens, do endorse him for re-election as City Commissioner for the City of Sanford, Florida.

There will be a meeting of the Good Government League at the Court House Friday night, November 18th at eight p. m. at which time all citizens of Sanford and Seminole County, who are in sympathy with the aims and purposes of the Good Government League are invited to attend.

Donald Crisp Production Made in England Sets High Standard

Setting a new high standard for excellence, Donald Crisp's Paramount production of "Appearances" which will be the feature attraction at the Star Theatre tonight, is in many respects a remarkable photoplay. In point of players and settings it is not surpassed by any photoplay production presented here this season.

The story itself is unusually captivating. It was written by Edward Knoblock, a playwright of international fame. The theme deals with that class that is given to living far beyond its means in order to keep up appearances in society—a class not confined to England alone. This propensity all but leads to a tragedy in the lives of several persons, and in the development of the story many scenes of great dramatic power arise.

The outdoor views, many of them photographed on the grounds of historic Highcliffe Castle in Hampshire, England, are most beautiful. The fine English landscape is pictured in all its rich beauty and many views will be easily recognized by anyone who has traveled in King George's domain. The interior settings are wonderfully massive.

The players appearing in the picture are thorough artists. Mary Glynn, the beautiful English actress who was seen in "The Call of Youth," has the leading feminine role, while David Powell, popular with Paramount audiences, has the leading man's part. The picturization was made by Margaret Turnbull, a scenarist of international reputation.

WHY HOSPITAL RATES ARE HIGH

The following article was prepared by Mrs. Roy H. Ellis and read at the District Meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary held recently at Apopka. It is printed by request of a number of those present and in reply to questions that are constantly asked.

First, in trying to help you see why hospital rates are high, I shall just compare hospital rates with those of a good hotel. When you are a guest at a good hotel you pay from $3 to $20 or more per day for your room; if you have a private bath you pay from $1 to $3 per day extra for it. If you have a drink of ice water you tip the bell boy. If you have your meals served in your room you pay not only for your food but also 25c or more for the extra service.

Now, if you are a patient in a hospital you pay $3 to $8—in some hospitals $10—per day for your room. Your doctor orders certain medication or treatment for you; perhaps certain diet—this you get. The head nurse on that floor sees that the doctor's orders are carried out, and that you are bathed, your bed and room kept clean and comfortable. Each floor must be equipped to meet any medical or surgical need, and have enough nurses to answer all patients' calls. This you get for the same amount of money, and often for less, than you pay for merely a room in a hotel.

Experienced hospital managers figure that it costs $1,000 per bed per year to maintain a one hundred bed hospital. New York City Hospital figured that it cost the city $3 per day for each patient cared for, but the deficit was great and now they claim $3.15 is the very least it can cost to keep a patient per day; contagious cases much more. And this is for a bed in a ward with twenty-five or more of New York's charity; not a private or semi-private room.

Each department of the hospital must be headed by some one trained for that particular work and, as you know, it must be paid for. I shall give you the average monthly cost of maintaining the departments of a modern 100-bed hospital. Business staff, $300; directress of nurses and her assistants, $300; dietitian, $100; kitchen help for nurses' meals and patients' trays, $150; laundry labor, soap, etc., $500; electricity for elevator, laundry, lighting, etc., $400; telephone, installing house system of phones, $300; rent per month $25. Then there are orderlies, maids, groceries, milk, wood, coal and gas besides. The number of pupil nurses required in a one hundred bed hospital is from twenty-five to thirty-five. The average amount of salary paid them is $20 per month. And you can figure for yourself about how much it costs per month to give them room, board and laundry. Put even at that it is readily seen that the training school is a very great aid in maintaining a hospital. The cost of training these girls is much less than keeping enough graduates to do the same work. These pupils under the supervision of graduate nurses can care for the same number of patients as graduates, who would make your hospital expenses very much greater.

The amount of linen required to furnish a hundred-bed hospital is a very large item of expense. Say you average three fourths your capacity; that means an average of about seventy-five beds to be given a change each day. That is for an average clean case, but many, yes, a great many, cases require more than one change a day. Two sheets, a draw-sheet two pillow cases, counterpane, is the least required. And for the convenience of operative and all very sick patients regular hospital shirts are furnished; a clean one as often as needed. The frequent laundering of these linens of course causes them to wear out much more quickly than do our household linens; and they must be replaced.

Another large item of expense is fuel. Both wood and coal are used to furnish steam for operating room sterilizers, hot water, the laundry, the dish-washer; and in cold weather for heating the building. And coal is $10.50 per ton.

Now comes a very important department of the hospital, and the most expensive to equip and maintain, the operating rooms. In these rooms a patient commits himself to a surgeon's care completely. His very life is in his hands, and he must have all the things necessary for that operation in readiness. Everything he uses must be absolutely sterile. We know a chain is as strong as its weakest link" and so in operating-room technique one small error may cost a patient his life from infection. The surgeon wants to feel that the nurse in charge of the operating room is highly efficient in every sense of the word; ready for any emergency that may arise; conscientious in the preparation of everything used in the operation, from needles to dressings; so the hospital must have a trained nurse in charge of the operating room and to train the girls who work under her. I shall try to show you the cost of materials used for one operation for pux appendix, and enumerate only linens and dressings that must be sterilized for that one operation. First these articles must be freshly laundered, then each gown, cap, sheet, package of towels, sponge, etc., must be wrapped in a separate cover and steam-sterilized for one hour, then very carefully handled so as not to let them come in contact with anything which is not sterile:

- 11-2 doz. towels for instruments and surgeon's hands.
- Three caps (head covers).
- Two surgeon's gowns, $4 each.
- Three face masks.
- One nurse's gown.
- One laboratory sheet.
- One instrument table cover.
- Eight taped sponges.
- One solution stand cover.
- One hundred gauze wipes.
- One piece rubber drain, 50c.
- Three pair rubber gloves, $1 to $3 per pair.

- Six tubes catgut, 30c a tube, $1.80.
- Ten strands silk wormgut, 50c.
- The following for sterilizing patient's skin for incision:
Ether to wash, 3 oz., 35c.
Iodine, 3 per cent to paint all of abdomen and side, 5c.
For anaesthetics:
Three cans ether, $1.50.
Vaseline and other articles, 50c.
Two towels.
- One face protector.
- Eye and mouth sponges.
- One mask cover.
- Cost of steam for sterilizing, $3.

Now suppose you had this operation done in your home and had to supply these necessary articles and you would have to buy most of them, for homes aren't equipped for hospitals—you would find that it not only cost you more for the things needed, but if you had a nurse come and prepare for and help with this operation you would pay her $10 to $15 for her services. And you would know that you were taking great chances with your patient's life, because it is impossible to have a room in your home washed with an antiseptic solution; to be sure that all solution basins pitchers, trays, gloves, sutures, instruments, sheets, towels, gowns, caps, dressings, drains, etc. were properly sterilized and handed to the surgeon for use without being contaminated in any possible way. So when you pay $15 for the operating room to have your troublesome appendix removed, please remember that trained nurse, her two assistants and an orderly that may be needed while you are in the operating room. Here they are equipped for every emergency that may arise, and you do not have to send to the drug store or elsewhere for what you need quickly. And this equipment is very expensive. Those of you who have had occasion to buy gauze, bandages, drugs or other articles for the care of the sick from the drug stores know something of the cost of them.

Hospitals and sanitariums are instituted for the express purpose of relieving the suffering of mankind; to be of service. The nurses in training are taught that the patient is their first consideration, no matter what she wants, how she feels, or how much she would like to tell an unreasonable patient what she thinks; she must never let her real feelings be known; must do her work cheerfully and well. Be of service! Service, then, not money making, is the idea of the hospital, and the charges are made with the idea of covering the actual expense of maintaining such an institution.

The Orlando Reporter-Star is publishing the life of Lena Clarke—from all reports it ought to be interesting reading.

The Sanford Herald truly says: "After looking them all over it would seem that Sanford has the best prospects of any city in the state. But you can't lay down on the job and take it for granted."

TOURIST CAMPERS

A friend of the Telegram who has been watching the tide of tourist traffic pouring into this state estimates that there will be more visitors this year than last, but that fully half of them will bring their own sleeping quarters along.

This situation has its advantages, because, if it were not for the auto, and the possibility of camping out, many of them would not come at all. The rail rates, supplemented by the rent charges which such an increase in the population of the state would make almost inevitable, would deter them.

On the other hand, it is perfectly true that campers do not spend as much as roomers. Neither do they form the same intimate acquaintance with the people of Florida, nor are they so likely to become permanent settlers or to make permanent investments.

This never can be done entirely, and certainly it can not be done by grumbling at the way the northern people who spend the winter here seek their accommodations. The tourists are not to be slighted or thought the less of because they prefer to look after their own comforts while here.

It all runs back to one point. Florida needs more houses. In fact, houses ought to be so plentiful that they would lease at the same rate of interest that the capital invested would bring if loaned.

STATE HEALTH BOARD ON TOURIST CAMPS

Tourist auto camps are an institution in Florida. Whether these camps are good or bad for the community they are here and must be supervised. During the winter season of 1920-21 there were many faulty camps in the state, the faults however were not so much with the camps as with the lack of supervision and management of them by municipalities wherein they were located.

What were the evils of the camps last year? First, many towns advertising camps and bidding for this kind of tourist made no provisions for sanitary upkeep. The tourists came and lived as best they could in the midst of inadequate facilities; second, many of the campers were winter laborers who went forth in the respective communities bidding for employment, and third, in several of the larger camps, commissaries were established and food sold to campers at a price cheaper than in the neighboring towns.

Why should the citizens of a community criticize a condition for which they themselves are directly responsible? It is true that many campers were careless, indifferent towards property and rights yet the errors of a few should hardly be sufficient to condemn all when municipal regulations were wholly absent. A town or city should not bid for auto tourists unless such town or city is willing to be responsible for the camp maintenance.

There were some excellent camps in Florida last year. The camp at DeLand was a model, also that in DeSoto Park in Tampa. In the latter camp there were at all times about 1,000 campers under strict municipal supervision and everything went well.

There are going to be some bad camps this year for reasons stated above, but as fast as found these camps will be condemned by the state board of health. The state board of health will not tolerate insanitary, poorly operated camps this season.

The cities of West Palm Beach and Bradentown have recently promulgated very business-like comprehensive ordinances to handle camps. The West Palm Beach ordinance defines the limits of the camp grounds; it creates an office of camp superintendent with police and managerial authority; it requires that all tourists desiring to enter the camp apply to the superintendent, giving name of person in charge of the party, number in party, permanent home address, make and number of automobile, length of stay in camp. A fee of 25c per day is charged for use of camp, this sum to go to a fund provided for the special service rendered the tourists in camp.

AVOIDABLE ACCIDENTS

Accidents will happen, we presume, as long as the human race lives, but at that, it would appear the most of them, should never have happened. At the recent national safety convention in Boston statistics were given showing that there were 23,000 fatal accidents in industry in the United States in 1919. Non-fatal accidents amounted to the staggering sum total of 675,000 in the class of those necessitating four weeks' absence from work, while upwards of 3,000,000 were hurt by accident sufficiently to lose one day from regular tasks.

It is thought that these fatal accidents do not include household accidents and startling as the total of all the accidents record is, it is entirely reasonable to suppose that no effort was made to eliminate such casualties. The speed mania is responsible for a large share of the accidents listed and the victims were largely from the ranks of childhood. The Record has pointed out time and again that the average death from the automobile is nothing short of murder.

The mania is speed, more speed, notwithstanding when fact are sifted in court the speeder was going nowhere in particular. Simple precaution in driving and a sane speed limit would, in our opinion, cut down the appalling death rate of accidents. Then there is the carelessness of the airplane mechanic and the consequent tragedy. While the industrial institutions apparently care little what becomes of the worker, the worker, in a greater number of instances, cares even less. There should be as big a campaign on to ban accidents as there is to ban sickness and disease. In the one respect the United States leads the world in fearfulness and in the other, this country has nothing to boast about. It is time that we quit propagating about trifles like a drink of corn liquor and give attention to remedying the evils of useless accidents. Possibly this doctrine will win very few votes in the mad whirl of the people toward the devil, but that does not prove that it is not worth trying.—Columbia State.

YOUR DOLLAR

I'm the Red Cross, keep me burning; Now the battle's left behind Soldier heroes sick and suffering, Left them crippled, left them blind. All I ask of you is money— Oh, how pitifully small A thing it is for you to give When they gave their all! Just a dollar from your pleasures For some other person's need; While you honor the departed By your side the living bleed. One of this late war's young heroes Died here in the midst of you, It was I who gave him comfort, That's what YOUR dollar can do! —Orma Jean Surbey. Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Nov. 10, 1921.

DON'T BLAME THEM FOR CUTTING LOOSE.

ORLANDO, Nov. 14.—Automobile thieves in Florida hereafter probably will examine cars they intend to steal as a result of the experience of a gang near Lockhart several nights ago. Two cars containing automobile tourists were overtaken by darkness near that place and the occupants camped for the night. One machine, a high priced touring car, attracted the fancy of a member of a gang and he attempted to run it away after the campers had gone to sleep, but found it was locked and he could not get the motor started.

At midnight several of the gang returned with a truck, attached a tow rope to the car and started quietly off. All went well until the truck and its tow reached the brick paved highway where the driver of the truck speeded up. The burst of speed was answered by yells from the touring car and it developed that while nearly all of the tourists had pitched camp and were sleeping under tents, two women had elected to sleep in the car. The bandits in stealing the machine had not discovered it was occupied.

The thieves immediately cut the tow rope and disappeared in the darkness leaving the touring car and its frightened passengers on the highway. The car was towed back to Lockhart by the first passing motorist.

SANFORD WILL SOON HAVE COMMODIOUS NEW CLUB HOUSE.

The contract has been let by the board of governors and the building committee of the club for the erection of a fine club house on their grounds on Union avenue and Lake Monroe, and the building will be completed on or about March 1st.

It is to be regretted that the building cannot be finished in time to be of more service to the tourists this season but on account of several delays, it was impossible to let the contract and get the plans ready before this time. The contractor, Frank Lossing, has agreed to push the work with all possible speed, and the club will be complete before the contract time, if possible.

The club house will be approximately 60x70 feet on the ground, one story, and basement, with a fine auditorium. The size of the auditorium is smaller than at first contemplated, but provision is made whereby it can easily be enlarged when occasion demands without any changes in the present building. In fact the club house, as it will be built is a completed unit of the original plan which called for a club house to cost approximately $23,000 and this original plan can be carried out at any time the club feels able to do so. The building to be built at this time is said to cost less than half that amount.

The Sanford Rod & Gun Club now has about 150 members and all are enthusiastic about the proposition. Sanford has long been in need of such a place as is now being built, where the tourists and local people as well can have a meeting place and conventions which are always glad to come to Sanford on account of our central location in the State can have a meeting place.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
J. T. Reeves is no longer connected with me in any way, and I am not responsible for any money, fertilizer, or anything he may charge to me. The agreement I declare broken—and at an end.
