Mobs Attempt To Storm U.S. Embassy In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)—Jeering leftwing mobs tried to storm the U. S. embassy today in new demonstrations that signaled near civil war against Lebanon's pro-western government.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Lebanese government had rounded up a number of opposition leaders, including Henri Pharaon, former foreign minister. Lebanon has hinted strongly the anti-government riots were led by foreign nationals. Today the charges of outside intrigue increased when a Lebanese Coast Guardsman captured a gun-running sailboat off the southern coast.

Officials said the naval patrol seized 12 men, 8,000 rifles and Egyptian currency amounting to about $140,000.

Jacksonville Firm To Continue Barge Loadings In Area

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners approved continued negotiation with a Jacksonville firm for the unloading and loading of barges in the Sanford area. The possibilities of using the present barge pier for barge loading and unloading was discouraged by the commission members but approved negotiation for the use of an area west of Park Ave. and East French Ave.

May 17 Proclaimed Armed Forces Day By President

The President of the United States has proclaimed May 17, 1968, as Armed Forces Day. The year 1968 marks the eleventh year of the unification of our Armed Forces under the National Security Act of 1957. The President has deemed it appropriate that one day each year be dedicated to paying special tribute to the members of the Armed Forces.

Lebanon's 9,000-man army appeared to have restored control over the riot-torn capital during the night but new rioting and street-lighting broke out for the fourth consecutive day.

The nation was threatened with general insurrection against the pro-western policies of President Camille M. Chamoun. Militant broadcasts from Cairo and Damascus urged the mobs to overthrow Chamoun.

Seized Full Control Damascus radio reported the inhabitants of Tripoli and Zhorra in northern Lebanon had seized full control of the towns and said Germanes there withdrew under Army escort.

Armed forces join in displaying the vital elements of our protective efforts, giving civilians who do not have the opportunity to keep abreast of the day to day developments, to see at least once a year some phases of national defense.

CDR. Hamrick took occasion to emphasize the invitation to Sanford Rotarians and to attend the open house on Saturday, May 17, at the naval air station. There will be a static display of a B 47 from McCoy Air Force Base and a 100 series fighter, probably an F 102, also from the Air Force.

The Navy will show its powerful A3D, carrier-based jet bomber, the AJ which is being replaced by the Douglas, a Cougar, rigged for easy inspection — and picture taking. The speaker emphasized that this year cameras will be permitted on the base on Armed Forces Day.

The 17 year veteran of the navy gave a quick resume of the way in which the $2.9 million appropriated for the modernizing of this base is being spent. He said that most important to the operation was a concrete slab of some 80,000 square yards for hard stands for the planes. There will also be considerable improvement in both the East-West and North-South runways. Hangars, barracks, and other buildings will be included in the construction now under way and on which bids are being requested.

President Myron Reck announced that there would be no meeting on May 20, but the annual cornhusking and boat ride would be staged by the Club Service committee on May 28.

The guest speaker was introduced by Ed Best.

Sportsman's Assn. Schedules Meeting Tomorrow Night

The Seminole County Sportsman's Association will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Elk's Lodge annex.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Cotton Brown, president of the organization, is to make recommendations to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission for the hunting season of 1968-69.

Brown said, in his notice to members, "There are quite a number of things that will come up that should be discussed."

The president of the sportsman's group urged "all members to be present."

Milwee: Bond Issue Failure Means Double Sessions

LONGWOOD — "Criticism of Public Education" was the topic of an address by County School Superintendent Rayburn T. Milwee when he addressed members of the Logwood Area Chamber of Commerce.

Milwee explained that the failure of the bond issue last fall coupled with 4% increase over last year's attendance in the elementary grades, leaves no alternative but to have double sessions at Lyman Elementary School when the new term begins in September.

It is hoped, he said, that facilities and buildings will be available by the second semester, so that classes may be resumed on full schedule. Any unforeseen delay in delivery of materials, or excessive bad weather can cause second semester double sessions.

Bids are to be opened and contracts let in June for construction of a new elementary school at Altamonte Springs.

The schoolboard also has long range plans for the building of new school plants and additions to existing plants to meet the needs of the 1500 elementary students anticipated within five years, and the 800 high school students expected in the southeastern section of Seminole County alone.

Noting that schools are the county's biggest business, because it is in the schools that our most precious possessions — our children — spend most of their time, Milwee called attention to the fact that more money is spent every year for cigarettes, cosmetics and beer than is spent on all schools combined.

"Criticism is as old as the schools themselves," said the educator, "but the more recent criticism has been the complaint that not enough science, not enough advanced math is taught, and that there has not been enough emphasis placed on languages. Much of this criticism

Parking, Pay Head Board Discussions

Parking and pay were the predominant subject discussed at the meeting of the Board of San City Commissioners last night.

The subject of parking came up with a request for the return to angle parking on Magnolia Ave. between First and Second Streets.

However, after nearly an hour of discussion with Magnolia Ave. merchants, the originator of the request asked that it be "withdrawn" in favor of the city's planning and action.

A. L. Lyons, representing Sanford Electric Co. told the board of commissioners "When you cut parking in half you cut business in half. Is it better to have a safe town with nobody there or one a little bit hazardous with people there to shop?"

Sidney Vihlen of Randall Electric Co. contended that it is better to have too long people will have to change their place of business because of parking — there should be some solution.

However, City Manager Warren E. Knowles stated "There is as much or more parking than when we had angle parking — accidents are off 80 per cent due to parallel parking — and the meters are used more than they ever were."

"Additional parking lots seem to be the answer," said Commissioner Earl Haginbotham.

Mayor Merle Warner told the group attending last night's session that "We are working on the problem but we are not going to tick safety out of the window."

Sanford Police Chief Roy Williams was instructed to crack down on illegal parking in alleys. At the same time, merchants were urged to report parking violations to the Sanford Police Department.

The discussion of pay involved the use of the Sanford-Civic Center.

To make the civic center more attractive to clubs because of finances and also, the Board of Commissioners agreed to reduce charges for use of the Lobby Room from $3 an hour to $2.

The reduction includes services and air conditioning and heat.

City Manager Knowles reminded commissioners that the cost for air conditioning is $6 an hour and that the cost to clubs for rental barely covers janitorial services.

Presently only two civic clubs in Sanford have indicated that they will use the Sanford Civic Center for meetings. The Kiwanis Club and Rotary Club will begin to use the center when completed.

Other clubs which have indicated that finances will not permit them to use the new Sanford Civic Center are: Lions Club, Jaycees, Civitans, Business and Professional Women and the Pilot Club.

is not justified, in-as-much as most schools are doing a very fine job with existing facilities, but in some instances perhaps the criticism has awakened officials and the public to the needs of the schools," he said.

Milwee closed his address by urging support of the bond issue if and when it is again brought before the public; and entreated his hearers to keep up active participation in community affairs.

Saturday Annual Poppy Day In Sanford

All preparations for the observance of the annual Poppy Day here Saturday have been completed.

Mrs. C. E. Hunter, president of the American Legion Auxiliary said today.

The little red flower, now famous for its ability to provide much for the disabled veteran, will be distributed in the downtown section of Sanford under the direction of Mrs. Russell Trench, chairman of the Poppy Distribution. Her headquarters will be established at 113 Magnolia Ave.

Heading the Annual Poppy Day Observance this year is Mrs. Roy Tills.

Local citizens will be asked to wear the poppy, manufactured by disabled veterans in veterans hospitals in exchange for a contribution.

It is hoped by all Legionnaires and Auxiliary members that with a "little red poppy" worn over hearts this Poppy Day a remembrance will be created that says "God bless you and keep you" to those who have come back from wars to wheel chairs, crutches, and eternal darkness."

District chairmen who will serve at stations throughout Sanford will be: Mrs. J. G. Galloway, Mrs. B. L. Miller, Mrs. Sid Richard, Mrs. Earl T. Loucks, Mrs. Sybil Smith, Mrs. Paul Fezold, Mrs. Charles D. Webster, Miss Edna Chitenden, Mrs. Fred Bolly, Mrs. Lewis Rollanda, and Mrs. Mary Alexander.

Women of the American Legion and other women's organizations will be on the streets all day, offering the little flower to all passers-by.

BRING YOUR CAMERA — Is the theme at NAS Sanford during Open House on Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 17. A sleek F4F "PANTHER" is being reserved especially for "Shutterbugs" who would like to round out the family photo album with a picture of the wife or girl friend in a Navy jet fighter. Waving happily from the cockpit is pretty Carole Caruso. Mrs. Caruso is a secretary employed at the Naval Air Station. On Armed Forces Day, visiting hours to the air station will be from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and don't forget — "Bring Your Camera." (Official Photo, U. S. Navy)

THE LONE DEPUTY

WHAT WAS HAPPENING? The Lone Deputy, a character from the comic strip, is shown in a scene where he is being questioned by a man in a suit. The man in the suit asks, "Have you seen anybody worth a spot as any—let's take her down?" The Lone Deputy replies, "I don't know, but I'll try to find out for you."

CHAPTER 10
BRUCE JARVIS had not known any feeling of real security from the time his parents had died of scarlet fever when he was ten and the Potters had taken him. He hadn't been to school a day since then; he had seldom had the satisfaction of having his stomach full; he had not known love except from Jean Foster, who had been his sister could have been to him.

The only other bright spot in Bruce's life was the younger Farnum girl, Susan. The Farnums had taken the place in the Yellow Cat valley to Potter's. Lizzie Potter was always talking about what a shiftness lot they were, with George Farnum stealing a calf for Walt Cronin whenever he got a chance, or butchering a steer and selling the beef to Cronin. There was an older girl, Doris. She was sixteen, just a few months younger than Bruce. She always wanted to hold Bruce's hand whenever she had a chance, and if she could get him away from the others she liked to be kissed.

It was exciting to kiss her, but kind of scary, too. She wanted to get married, but he knew he was a long way from being ready for that. He needed to talk to someone about it, but there wasn't anybody. Not even Jean. She still thought he was a kid and she'd just laugh. Maybe she'd tell her mother, and then there'd be hell to pay. He was scared of Lizzie's long tongue more than anything else in the world. It seemed to grow sharper with the years, and it ought to, the way she honed it on him every day. He hated Lizzie, and he had nothing but contempt for Sam because Sam let his wife run him. He never made a decision. She did all the talking just as she had today when that deputy Price Regan was here. Sam just grunted, or smiled blandly, and kept still.

But Jean was made of different stuff. For a long time she had fought with her mother. Finally she had enough of it. Just a few weeks ago she'd said: "You're not going to talk to me any more like that. I'm twenty years old. I can get a man if I have to. Or I can go to Saddle Rock and get a job. I will, too, if you don't hush up."

Lizzie had hushed up, all right, but that only made it worse on Sam and Bruce. She'd always seemed every bit of a woman of Bruce she could, and now she was on him if he took a long breath. As soon as the deputy rode off, she said to Bruce: "You got over all that nonsense. We don't get enough wood for supper. You hear now?"

He heard and obeyed, rebellion growing in him until he knew no counter stand it any longer. He'd run away. There was nothing to be done here and he didn't want any part of it. They were all fools. Frank Evans and Sam Potter and George Farnum and the rest of them up the Yellow Cat, allowing themselves to be ordered around by Walt Cronin and getting deeper into debt all the time.

He pulled on the crooked handle all he was out of breath. Every time he stopped to wipe the sweat off his face, he expected to hear Lizzie yell at him from the back door. As soon as a cut dropped off the log, he picked up the ax and split it, then he started on the log again. All the time he was thinking about what he'd do.

He'd talk to Susie this eve. The settlers gathered at Cronin's store every Saturday night. The men drank all their credit would stand, and the women bought a little of this or that, but mostly it was a social occasion. The settlers had little to do but gossip. They took care of some of it on Saturday nights, and picked up again on Sunday mornings when they gathered at the Potter place. They always had a service of sorts, with Sam preaching a sermon that Lizzie wrote for him during the week. After the service there was always potluck dinner, with the women gabbling like a bunch of geese and the kids running around, the boys chasing the girls and the girls squealing. The more Bruce thought about running away, the more he knew he was in a bind. He couldn't do anything if he was on foot. He had to have a horse to get a job, but he couldn't buy one. He didn't have five cents to his name. All he ever got from the Potters were his meals and a place to sleep and hand-me-down clothes. Well, he'd steal Potter's saddle horse. He had that much coming and more. But Lizzie wouldn't see it that way. She'd get the deputy Regan after him, and they'd hang him if they caught him, but he'd make sure he didn't get caught.

Lizzie called him to supper and he carried an armload of wood into the house and dropped it into the box behind the stove. Lizzie talked all through the meal just as she always did. Sometimes she got so far behind in her eating that she had to finish after the rest were done and had left the table.

"You go harness up," she told Bruce. "I want to get to the store ahead of everybody else." She always tried, and sometimes succeeded. Not that she ever actually bought anything. There wasn't anything new to see, either, for Cronin hadn't been able to get over Dunlap Farnum to the county seat since last fall, and he wouldn't, or couldn't, buy anything in Saddle Rock. Max Harter refused to do his stock at retail prices, and Cronin wouldn't pay them. But it didn't make any difference to Lizzie whether there was anything new to see or not. She loved to stand at the retail counter and look enviously at the hats, or feel the cloth on a hat.

Tonight Bruce had to grease the wagon, and for no reason except perversion he took his time. He dawdled harnessing the team and he was slow hooking up, and all of Lizzie's nagging didn't hurry him. She wasn't any more successful with Sam, who sweat in the kitchen, and Jean, who was the last one to get dressed. By the time they were in the wagon, they heard the Farnum rig coming down the creek, and Sam allowed they might just as well wait for their neighbors.

Lizzie was so worn out with an hour of that fretting that she couldn't talk. She sat on the seat beside Sam, straight-backed, her body hands laced on her lap, her face so pale that she looked like a ghost. Bruce liked to tell Susie that Lizzie could make an acre out of milk sooner than anyone else on the Yellow Cat. All she had to do was stand and stare at a pan of fresh milk for five minutes and it turned to clabber. When the Farnum rig pulled up beside the Potter wagon, George Farnum sang out: "Butchered me a Broken Ring steer to keep up on the rim this morning and spotted this critter, so I choused him down morning glory gulch and slaughtered him. I taken me a hind-quarter and I've got the rest here for Cronin. You want a quarter, Sam?"

"No," Lizzie said. "The deputy was out here today inquiring around. I kept him standing up, George Farnum, and they clap you into jail."

Farnum was a big, bald-headed man who had lost his wife the year before. He didn't seem to have a care in the world. Now Farnum's great laugh broke out of him. "No, ma'am. They won't clap me into jail. Not with Walt Cronin looking after things..."

SYMBOLS OF HOPE

So a stranger once in a while and enter your own home with both eyes open, suggests Margaret Spader, home services officer of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. "Does it look like four walls set up to shut out the elements and the world? Or, does it suggest the excitement of spring—sunlight pouring in windows, peace, good will, happy voices and delicious aromas?" Miss Spader suggests that you endeavor to get a true perspective on what your home actually looks like. If that picture does not express how you really feel about home and family life, it's time to clean out the things that dim the view.

Payroll at any hospital amounts to 60% of the total hospital expense. In 1966, the payroll amounted to $230,000 a year. In 1967 the figure rose to $275,000 a year. An anticipated $330,000 will be paid to employees during 1968.

Filmland Facing Crisis

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD—Nonconformist moviemaking, many in the core, is facing a crisis involving an industry-wide strike which probably will not affect movie or TV production one iota.

The Screen Directors' Guild, made up of about 1100 directors and assistant directors, has set a strike deadline for next month. If the major studios and independent producers don't toe the mark, the Guild will take a walk.

In any other business this would be serious. But not in Screwballville.

Most directors—certainly the top-notchers—are under private contract to movie makers. They are obliged to work regardless of a strike.

Nothing To Lose
 The strident element of the Guild, those demanding a strike, are unemployed and would have nothing to lose—and not much to gain—by hitting the bricks.

A coming note is added by producers who appear to be unconcerned by the threat. A spokesman for several moguls said they would be delighted by a strike. It would give them an opportunity to try their hands at directing.

Many members question whether directors can be considered as labor instead of management and their hearts aren't in the strike move. Nevertheless, the Guild claims 92 per cent of the membership voted to strike.

Joe Youngerman, executive secretary of the Guild, is one of the few souls taking the situation seriously. "From now on," he says, "no member will be able to sign a personal services contract without first submitting it to the Guild."

"I'm sure our members won't work until a new contract is signed with the Guild."

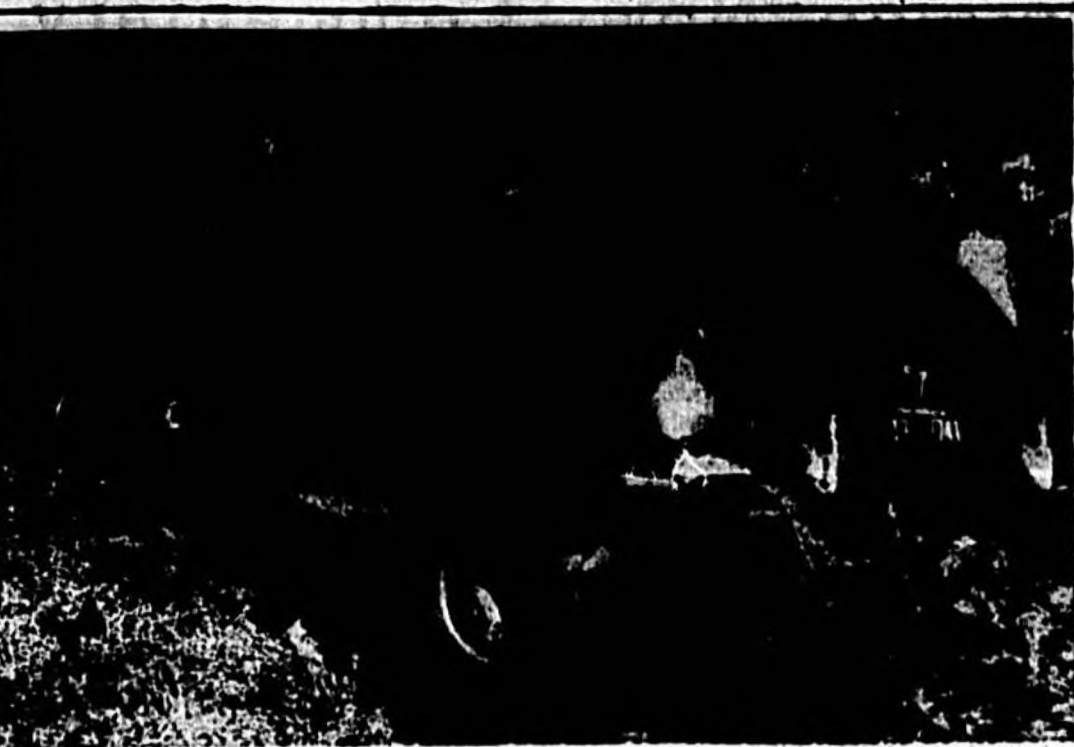

Director Henry King, one of the great ones, says "I have a contract with 20th Century-Fox, and I would have to work if they asked me."

Veteran Megaphones
 Roy Rowland, Mervyn Leroy, Richard Thorpe and Leo McCarty are other veteran megaphones who must abide by contractual commitments.

The Guild also will be thwarted by producer-directors such as George Stevens, Cecil B. DeMille, and Sol Siegel, as well as producer-director-actors Gene Kelly, Robert Cummings, Dick Powell and Jackie Cooper.

"If a director owns 51 per cent of the picture or TV show he's directing, he doesn't have to abide by the strike," says Youngerman.

The Guild strike promises to be as ineffectual as the current musicians' walkout. Producers are scoring their films in Europe and Mexico while Hollywood musicians are finding work slinging hash and allied endeavors.

Conservation News

By BEN WIGGINS
 Soil Conservationist, USDA

The week of May 11-18 will be observed by many organizations and churches throughout the country as Soil Stewardship Week. In order to promote soil stewardship the supervisors of the Seminole Soil Conservation District recently obtained several sets of Sermons and materials to be used as guides in observing this week.

Any minister or church organization interested in obtaining a set of these materials should contact Ben Wiggins, 4th Floor, Sanford Atlantic Bank Building.

Throughout the ages, man has offered humble thanks to his Creator for the priceless gifts of soil, water, and sunshine that make all things possible. In all lands, man has paused on certain days or seasons of the year to remind himself of his sacred obligation to cherish and care for the Lord's earth which gives birth and nourishment to all. While man has sometimes been negligent in his stewardship of the land, his shortcomings have seldom been wanton. Most often they have come from the lack of knowledge or understanding of the Divine law of creation, or the absence of spiritual guidance to remind him that he is but a custodian, not owner, of the Lord's land.

In 1939, the U.S. government sent out one of its leading soil scientists, Dr. Walter C. Loudermilk, to the near East to learn, if possible, why the vast population and flourishing cities of Biblical times had ceased to exist. Dr. Loudermilk and his party made exhaustive examinations over many thousands of square miles. They inspected ruined cities, many of which they found buried deep under the products of soil erosion, ancient abandoned irrigation systems, dried-up stream beds, barren deserts, and remnants of one time forested areas.

From his findings Dr. Loudermilk concluded that man's failure to be a good steward of God's gift to mankind was the direct cause of the waste and desolation that greeted his eyes. Before leaving, Dr. Loudermilk was invited to make a radio broadcast in Jerusalem summarizing his findings. Pondering what he might say, the night before, he wondered if Moses might not have added an 11th Commandment to the Children of Israel had he been forewarned of the calamity to befall the land. He put his thoughts on paper and broadcast for the first time what has since become known as the "Eleventh Commandment":

"Thou shalt inherit the Holy Earth as a faithful steward, conserving its resources and productivity from generation to generation. Thou shalt safeguard thy fields from soil erosion, thy living waters from drying up, thy forests from desolation, and protect thy hills from overgrazing by thy herds, that thy descendants may have abundance forever. If any shall fail this stewardship of the land, thy fruitful fields shall become sterile, stony ground and wastelands, and thy descendants shall decrease and live in poverty or perish from off the face of the earth."

23,494 meals were served during 1956 in the Seminole Memorial Hospital. In 1957, 84,187 meals were served, cooked in the hospital kitchen.

Good thing he did because, dog-tired and drowsy, he might have fallen asleep at the wheel while driving.

This little incident suggests, in a small way, the hospitable attitude of Phillips 66 Service men generally. Ask any regular patron of Phillips 66 Stations and he'll tell you that Phillips Dealers go out of their way to treat you and your car right—perform many a service you wouldn't expect to get elsewhere.

Better yet, drive in and see for yourself what "Hospitality on the Highway" means.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERR

ONE CIVIL AUTHORITY in Naples are confronted with one of the great mysteries in the entire history of Italy. The Neapolitan Census reveals 181,658 married men and 184,503 married women! Are bigamists rampant there? The Police department hurriedly organized a Division of Marriage Swindlers to make an investigation.

A favorite tourist attraction in Florida is a wild animal show just off U. S. Route 1. All kinds of makes—from the harmless to deadly rattlers—are sold at so much per foot, but there's one reassuring note in the catalogue: "No poisonous snakes will be sold to anyone without parent's written consent."

In Cleveland, the Plain Dealer reports, a husband who went shopping reached down to pick up a sack of potatoes, only to find he had grabbed a woman shopper in one of those abominable new dresses.

They are scattered on the ground like pebbles, or lie just underneath the surface silt in the bushland, the diamonds of Sierra Leone. They are washed in from outside the colony by five rivers and provide easy pickings for tens of thousands of native farmers.

Patrols Unfeasible
 It is impossible for the British and their native levies to patrol the far-stretching bush so thoroughly that the diamonds can be protected.

When the rivers shrink after the rainy season, customs men use slow-moving planes to spot the main centers of pirate activity. Any bush pilot will tell you how the diamond pickers scurry for cover at the sight of a plane.

But the planes and other patrolling schemes merely serve as a slight harassment to the farmers who merely stoop to reach a diamond bonanza.

Sierra Leone—It got its name which means "Lion's Head," from the early Portuguese traders—has the added disadvantage of having a long frontier with Liberia, the easy-customed state that attracts most of the illicit diamonds.

British customs officials say there are bush landing strips just across the border in Liberia where big-time operators keep planes waiting to whisk the uncut stones far away to lucrative markets.

Smuggling Widespread
 But not all the smuggled stones pass through Liberia. Many are smuggled out through Freetown airport, by apparently bona fide travelers.

Only two months ago a Belgian was arrested at the airport with $112,000 worth of illicit stones on his person. He was a recognized diamond buyer and had legally acquired the stones in his suitcase. The illicit jewels were carried in little bags strapped underneath his armpits.

What happens to the river of illicit diamonds that drains the lifeblood from one of Britain's best-run and least-restive territories in Africa?

The customs men believe the vast majority find their way behind the Iron Curtain, via the Middle East. There, in the Communist states of Eastern Europe, a diamond is worth greatly inflated sums in local currency—and nobody asks its pedigree.

FORD SUNLINER...
 America's glamorous, best-selling soft top

FORD SKYLINER...
 World's only retractable hardtop

Why people who love CONVERTIBLES buy FORD

Only Ford lets you choose from a steel-top convertible or a fabric-top beauty. Who else but Ford... world's largest convertible maker... could offer you two different kinds of convertibles. There's the fabric-top Ford Sunliner and the steel-top Ford Skyliner... world's only retractable hardtop. They're both styled and powered in the Thunderbird tradition. You'll see at a glance why they're both the value leaders of the convertible world.

Nowhere else can you find so much convertible fun so little money. Take the Ford Sunliner for example. A comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices shows it's America's lowest-priced convertible. Yet Ford's closest competitor can't touch the Sunliner for rear seat leg room, trunk space or ease of top operation. As for the Skyliner, it's the world's only 2-in-1 fine car... a snug steel-top and a breezy convertible. Just touch a button. The all-steel top vanishes smoothly into the rear deck... and you're sitting pretty in the smartest convertible ever. It's another example of the advanced engineering you get in every Ford car.

 Mr. Holts conducted members through the nursery advising the use of botanical names. He used the Bauhinia tree as an example, as it has many common names. An air plant, the Platycodon (Star Horn Fern) was most interesting. The pups, (small new plant) start on the bottom of the other plant.

Orchids, Mr. Holts related, are very easy to raise. When they are through blooming, fertilize them and hang them in an oak tree and water when only extremely dry. When it turns cold, take them inside.
 For best results raising Crotons, fertilize every two to three weeks lightly, but not during the winter months. Mr. Holts also answered many questions for the members on other flowers and lawns.

President Thinks Reds Capitalizing On Unrest

WASHINGTON (UP)— President Eisenhower said today it looked as if there is some kind of concerted plan by the Communists in the anti-American demonstrations around the world.

He said he thought the Communists were capitalizing on latest unrest.

The President told a news conference that the possibility of hostile demonstrations against Vice President Richard M. Nixon on his South American tour had been discussed in advance of the trip.

But the President said no one had anticipated the violence which occurred in Caracas, Venezuela, Tuesday.

Will Tour Europe

He said there never had been any thought, however, of cancelling any part of the tour because of the anti-American outbursts.

The President also said he expected Nixon to go ahead with his plans for a European tour later this year. He said he wouldn't think of cancelling those plans. Nor did he believe Nixon would think for a minute of doing so just because of the possibility of hostile demonstrations.

The President defended his action in sending 1,000 troops to U. S. bases in Puerto Rico and Cuba, saying this was the simplest precautionary type of measure in the world.

Ready to Move

He said the Venezuelan government was not notified, but that he had simply put the troops in a place where they would be available in case the Venezuelans said they couldn't handle the situation.

V4H-5 Participates In Aerial Display

On May 9 and 10 Sanford's Heavy Attack Squadron Five played an important part in orientation of the other armed services when students of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces were treated to a demonstration of the Navy's air striking power aboard the super carrier USS Forrestal of Florida's east coast.

The Savage Sons of Sanford took part in the precision aerial display which included crack formation flying and mine laying operations. Qualified as a Fleet graduate, honorary society of personnel outside of Heavy Attack Squadron Five who have participated in Savage Son training flights, was Lt. Gen. G. W. Mundy, U. S. Air Force, who rode the ASD twin jet bomber from catapult to arrested landing aboard the giant carrier.

Police To Crack Down On Motorists Making U-Turns

The Sanford Police Department will crack down on motorists making U-turns in the downtown shopping area.

A report U-turn in front of the Sanford Fire Department which held up the dispatch of a fire truck to an alarm brought quick action of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners approving the move by local police officers.

The President was receptive to a suggestion by the Washington Evening Star that there be a big turnout to greet Nixon Thursday when the vice president is scheduled to return. A Star reporter noted that his newspaper was carrying a front page editorial suggesting that government workers be turned out to show that the people here like Nixon.

Alcorn Foresees 11 House Seats For State By '60

ORLANDO (UP)— Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn predicted today that Florida will be entitled to 11 house seats after the 1960 census and that "Republicans are going to win a majority of those seats in 1960."

He made his forecast in a speech prepared for delivery to the Florida Republican state central committee.

"After the 1960 census, when the reapportionment of Congressional seats is made, your state will probably have 11 house seats instead of the present eight," Alcorn said.

"I venture this prediction now; Republicans are going to win a majority of those seats in 1960."

Ready to Move

He said the Venezuelan government was not notified, but that he had simply put the troops in a place where they would be available in case the Venezuelans said they couldn't handle the situation.

Bomb Exploded In Front Of Embassy As Fighting, Rioting Enter 6th Day

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)— Anti-government terrorists exploded a bomb in front of the American embassy today in the sixth day of nation-wide fighting and rioting.

The bomb did no damage and the bomb thrower was arrested by police.

The mob then built a road block of paving stones, scaffolding and wooden beams 500 yards from the embassy. Police moved in at once to try to tear it down.

Reliable sources said today Prime Minister Sami al Solh was willing to resign in favor of a military government if the military could guarantee the restoration of order but that the guarantee was not forthcoming.

Gen. Faud Chehab, the army commander, also was reported unwilling to mix in politics. As a result Solh did not resign and decided to stay in office until he received guarantees that the resignation of his cabinet would pave the way for a rapid restoration of order.

Heavy fighting was reported, but the government officially denied reports that a large part of the country had fallen to the forces trying to depose President Camille N. Chamoun.

Anti-government forces cut telephone lines and sabotaged railway lines and bridges north and south of Beirut. The rebels were armed with modern automatic weapons and grenade launchers smuggled into the country from abroad.
