And now, tomorrow

The cap... the diploma... symbols of achievement. They mark the end of one way of life and the beginning of another. But ten years from now, where will this diploma be and what will it mean? Will it be packed away in an attic trunk... or will it be on the wall of a room or office? Will it have been thrown out by accident or cast into a seldom-noticed corner? And what of the hopes and dreams that go with it? What will have happened to them? Who knows? There is no set answer to life, no single solution to all its problems. Nor can anyone live life alone. Whether your diploma is still crisp or has gotten dusty—whether your dreams are still bright or have become slightly tarnished—forget about personal ambition as the sole answer to everything. Think of your own immortal soul. Go to church, and talk to God about it, through prayer.

Cox At Watergate Helm, Vows No Delay In Probe

By WILLIAM DICKE Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he will stand for no investigative delays, Harvard law professor Archibald Cox has been sworn in as the government's Watergate prosecutor. Cox's superior, Elliot L. Richardson, took his oath of office as attorney general in a separate and more elaborate ceremony Friday. Richardson replaces Richard G. Kleindienst, who resigned saying close associates were implicated in the Watergate scandal. Cox will be probing the case to stay on for the time being so there would be "no break or delay in the investigation," but that he will later review their status on his staff. President Nixon looked on at the White House as Chief Justice Warren Burger administered the ceremony in the East Room, usually the setting for major diplomatic and other formal activities. Generally, cabinet officers are sworn in at fairly routine ceremonies watched by family members and friends. Without mentioning the Watergate scandal, Richardson said: "There are times when the institutions of government are under stress." But, he said, "it is not because the structure is not sound. It is sound. If there are flaws, they are in ourselves." He said he will seek to reverse a trend toward "laziness" in American government. Richardson was elected lieutenant governor and attorney general of Massachusetts and served the Nixon administration as undersecretary of state; secretary of health, education and welfare, and secretary of defense. Nixon underlining his reportedly expressed concern for national security, announced that Richardson will remain on the National Security Council, the nation's top security group. In other Watergate developments: The Senate investigating committee rejected a suggestion that it press immediately to find out if President Nixon is involved in the scandal. Samuel Dash, the committee counsel, said the suggestion by Sen. Herman Goldwater, D-Ariz., was discussed briefly and then rejected. "Five of the convicted Wa-

Skylab-To-Earth Contact 'Rationed'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Listeners accustomed to the constant space-to-earth communications of the Apollo moon missions heard only on-again, off-again communications with the Skylab astronauts. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's budget decreed things had to be that way. When the three astronauts roared into orbit Friday to rendezvous with their crippled space station, they found themselves frustrated by their inability to discuss with ground crews ways to fix a stuck solar power panel during an hour-long space walk. The astronauts—Charles Conrad Jr., Paul J. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin—had voice communications with mission control only during short passes over a dozen ground stations. When last heard from after one pass, they were getting back in their Apollo spaceship to dock at Skylab's hatch. But when they came back on the air, listeners on earth were dismayed to hear they were unable to do it. Again, NASA ground crews strained to hear radio broadcasts of the crew's second problem of the day—this one to gain entry to their $294-million orbiting laboratory. Shortly before midnight, some 15 hours after they blasted into space, they finally succeeded. Jim Kukowski, a NASA official from the Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland, said Skylab's communications system was the product of simple physics and money mathematics. "It would require 60 tracking stations around the world to maintain constant communications with Skylab," Kukowski said. "Costwise, we just couldn't do it."

Askew Invokes Immunity

MIAMI (AP)—Claiming executive immunity, Gov. Reubin Askew and two aides have refused to answer a defense subpoena to testify about their role in seeking wiretaps in the Dade County corruption probe. Askew, legal aide Edgar M. Dunn Jr. and Florida Department of Law Enforcement chief field counsel Edward A. Miller were subpoenaed to give depositions Friday relating to the wiretaps. But Askew filed a brief in Dade County Circuit Court contending he was immune because the wiretap requests came in relationship with the official duties of his office. The motion added that "by virtue of the employment positions and relationship of the governor of Florida acting in his official capacity," Dunn and Miller are also immune and "respectfully decline to appear to testify."

Murder Charges Lowered

Two people involved in a Monday night shoot-out at Island Pond near Geneva were charged with aggravated assault Friday after first degree murder and manslaughter charges were dropped by the state attorney's office. Audrey Kathleen Baker, 43, of 806 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, originally charged with first degree murder in the shooting incident in which her husband was killed and three people injured, remained in the county jail under $1,000 bond on the new charge Saturday. Lanzo C. McKeever, 22, of 2615 Mitchell Road, Oviedo, charged with manslaughter in the shooting, posted $1,000 on the aggravated assault charge Friday. Frank L. J. Kriz of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department said the charges in the case were made on the recommendation of the state attorney's office. An argument broke out over a dog at Island Pond, a popular swimming spot, and Kriz said Mrs. Baker started shooting. Kriz said McKeever apparently returned fire, and as a result Hamilton Loch Baker was struck three times and killed. After questioning the two suspects and 14 witnesses, Kriz contacted State Attorney Abbott Herring Monday night, who recommended the charge of first degree murder for Mrs. Baker and manslaughter for McKeever be dropped. "The files went to the state attorney's office and that's how they came back," commented Kriz Saturday morning on the new charges. "All decisions on charges were made by the state attorney's office," added Kriz, who revealed that he had planned to take the case to the Seminole Grand Jury and let it

High Winds Of Watergate

America Will Survive The Storm

It is too soon to put together more than a skeletal story of what really happened in the Watergate affair, but we can already begin to measure its impact on the American people.

There are those who say Watergate does not surprise them a bit. They are the cynics who seldom see anything, but the seamer side of politics.

Arabs Resort To Blackmail

Oil Stains Mideast Diplomacy

A week-long debate in the United Nations Security Council produced a resolution which called for a cease-fire in the Middle East.

While one more U.N. resolution of insignificant force is now filed away, the major powers are faced with another event which has a much greater potential for affecting the future in the Middle East.

The United States must reject this form of blackmail if it expects to have any value as a mediator and if there is to be any chance for a fair and enduring settlement in the Middle East.

It's Still 'Spare Rod, Spoil Child'

The flogging of wives and sailors has been banned for a hundred years. Mental hospitals and prisons prohibit the physical punishment of their inmates.

But corporal punishment in the schools remains as much a part of the American way as the 'I speak for Democracy' contest or the Thanksgiving pageant.

A 1969 survey by the National Education Assn. for example, 65 per cent of the elementary schoolteachers and 55 per cent of the secondary schoolteachers polled favored "judicious use" of bodily punishment.

A survey by Grade Teachers magazine found that nearly half the respondents had used corporal punishment during the preceding school year; 20 per cent had employed it more than five times.

After schools in Pittsburgh prohibited spanking, 73 per cent of the system's teachers signed a petition asking the ban be lifted.

"In the year 1973," says Miss Divoky, "corporal punishment is alive and well in an astounding number of U. S. schools and will probably remain so until judges, teachers, parents, administrators and the public at large decide that society has finally become civilized enough to drop child beating from its prescribed curriculum."

From the White House in Washington, it was announced that neither the current meetings nor those in mid-May will be for "the purpose of reconciliation."

There are whispers that government forces in Laos and Cambodia are just as weary of war as are their Communist-sponsored adversaries.

School Boss Shows Muscle

By JEAN PATTESON

The firing of two Seminole principals by Supt. Bud Laver, which generated a widespread flare of public interest in school board affairs, culminated in a most deflating anti-members failed to turn up.

The names of the doomed principals, Jack Redding and Robert Clinkert, were on everybody's lips. Students threatened to march in protest every day until their principal was reappointed.

An exercise in freedom of speech perhaps, but it achieved nothing in a practical sense. School board members all knew they were powerless to change the course set by their superintendent.

For the first time in the past 15 years, other than during brief vacations, Onnie H. Shomate, the elected city clerk of Longwood, was not in her usual place taking the minutes of the city council meeting Thursday night.

Nonexplanation was given during the meeting for the fact Mrs. Shomate was seated at the council table. Taking notes was Mrs. Helen Spaulding, the receptionist and zoning board clerk.

In recent months a member of the city zoning board went to the mayor and complained that an official zoning map had not been kept up to date over the years as required by the zoning ordinance.

Longwood Council Actions

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The moratorium the city placed on duplex construction is to be continued until an ordinance is adopted eliminating the two-family buildings from residential zoning, the council decided Thursday night.

By eliminating the duplexes from both categories, there will be no zoning designation where they can be built under the current zoning ordinance.

Mayor Eugene Jacques said he had many inquiries from builders on when the moratorium will end. City Atty. S. Joseph Davis Jr. said any inquiries about a building permit can go to court if he feels the moratorium is unreasonable. Davis indicated it is doubtful the city action will survive a court test. "You've got to show good, valid reasons for putting on a moratorium," Davis said.

The board unanimously voted to instruct the attorney to prepare amendments to the zoning ordinance eliminating duplexes and in the interim "the moratorium stands." The amendments will be in effect until the city receives the recommended new zoning ordinance from CALNO planners and it is adopted.

$200 For Study

Allocation of $200 toward the study on law enforcement for which Sheriff John Polk recently received a federal-state grant was approved by the council. The board was told Sanford and the county are paying $1,800 each for the study. Police Chief Wesley Dowell said the study will show the needs of the department for the next five years.

In other business, bids were called on a new pickup truck and a front loader back hoe. Bids are to be returned by 4:30 p.m. June 14. Anticipated cost of the back hoe-front end loader is $15,000.

Council Chairman William Klosky reported the county is allowing the city to use the sanitary landfill at Sanlando to dump trash. The county is changing the city's reduced rate of 25 cents per yard, he said. Klosky also told council the county commission will have a joint meeting with council at 7:30 p.m. June 13 at city hall to discuss mutual problems.

The mayor was authorized to retain the services of James Gamble and Tally Hattaway to appraise the old city dump. At the same time the board agreed to accept a binder from a prospective buyer found by Councilman B. L. Helms.

City Must Economize

Councilman B. H. Ferrell, again warning economy is needed in view of the city's financial condition, voted against the purchase of a 1,000 gallon per minute pump for fire truck. The low bid of Jack Cooke at $37,325 was accepted. Delivery is to be in 240 to 260 days.

Ferrell first questioned what had happened since last week when the need for a ladder truck was stressed. "We are going to let CALNO handle it. One is needed for the entire South Seminole community," Klosky said.

Ferrell said last year the city had $100,000 left at year end in the city treasury and $96,000 of this was carried over into the current budget. "It will be doubtful if we will have $40,000 carry-over this year," he said.

When Klosky said the city would budget the sum over a five year period of revenue sharing funds, Ferrell replied, "I don't like to see this much money spent from revenue sharing. I think one of our worst needs in the city is paving."

It was pointed out the city plans in a participation project with the county to have paved Longwood-Markham Road and Longwood Hills Road.

Pipe Drainage

State secondary road funds are being requested to pay the costs of piping the drainage water from the area west of SR 17 through the center of the city to its ultimate outfall in Fairy Lake, Jacques said.

The mayor said Klosky met with County Commissioner John Kimbrough during the week to request the piping to alleviate the "hazardous" condition in the ditch. In addition, Jacques said a state Department of Transportation official discussed the problem with him.

The board also authorized City Engineer William Palm to review the final plans of Columbus Harbour to be built by the Hobbs Development Co., Pensacola.

Palm said, in view of the fact the city is obligated to serve the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club at the Hobbs sewer treatment plant in Columbus Harbour, he will expedite review of the plans.

Dot X-Rates Television

By DON FREEMAN
Copy News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Into the touchy domain of semieroticism, an indefinable area of taste and morality, is where the English are stepping, but very slowly. And with one suspects, a certain sense of worldliness.

This summer, following a practice used in several European markets, independent British television will begin an experiment with its classic fiction system for "X-rated," which is to say overly violent or overly sexy programming.

How will it work? It could hardly be simpler. While the shows considered most graphic or explicit are unfolding, a continuous white spot will be flashing in the upper corner of the television screen. Not even a red dot. Just a little white spot.

The experiment will be conducted by Sir Lew Grade's station, known as ATV, which is based in Birmingham and beams a signal all over the English Midlands, the heartland of the nation's industry.

If the test proves successful — by what gauge is only speculative now — this system of the white dots would then be used in the fall by the 14 other commercial outlets in Britain.

Lord Aylestone, who is the chairman of England's regulatory Independent Broadcasting Authority, has already expressed quiet reservations over the whole notion of classification of TV shows. "It would be a pity," says Lord Aylestone, "if the symbol became an attraction to watch a program rather than acting as a warning."

The statement is, of course, reflective of a man aware of human contrariness and also the ways of human ingenuity. Producers were quick to realize, when movies first fell under a system of letter classification, that an "X" rating might well hype the old box office.

It has been known to do just that. In England, often described with or without justification as having the world's best television.

Committee members were told that despite a law requiring it to do so, the Corps on at least 12 occasions this year failed to consult the Florida Department of Pollution Control before issuing permits for dredging and navigation projects.

"It seems to me the law is pretty clear," Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D. Wis., chairman of the subcommittee, told Col. Emmett C. Lee, head of the Corps' Jacksonville office. "The law says when you grant a permit, you give the state a chance to comment."

Reuss said the evidence presented appeared to show a failure on the part of the Corps to work closely with state and other federal agencies.

The Environmental Protection Agency was criticized for advocating disposal of 100 million gallons of treated sewage into deep wells in South Florida, chiefly in Dade County.

Two members of the subcommittee, Reps. Dante Fascell, D. Fla., and Gilbert Gade, R. Md., expressed skepticism over the proposed method.

The congressmen were told that state and local agencies have expressed "grave reservations" about the safety of such disposal methods.

The subcommittee members were told that the Corps failed to prosecute a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph after notifying the firm of what the Corps termed Carling Can-Am Coming To Gainesville, Ga.

By GARY TAYLOR
The Carling Can-Am... announced sponsorship of the upcoming Canadian-American Challenge Cup at Road Atlanta in Gainesville, Ga., and the $75,000 event will be held there.

This is the second race of the 1973 season to be sponsored by Carling and Black Label Special racing machines... Englishman David Hobbs will be at the wheel of the Black Label McLaren at Road Atlanta and other Can-Am events.

Carling officials expressed their delight at sponsoring the Road Atlanta Can-Am, calling it "the most important race in the Southeast," and especially so since Atlanta is the base for their southern division marketing officer and the site of the newest Carling brewery.

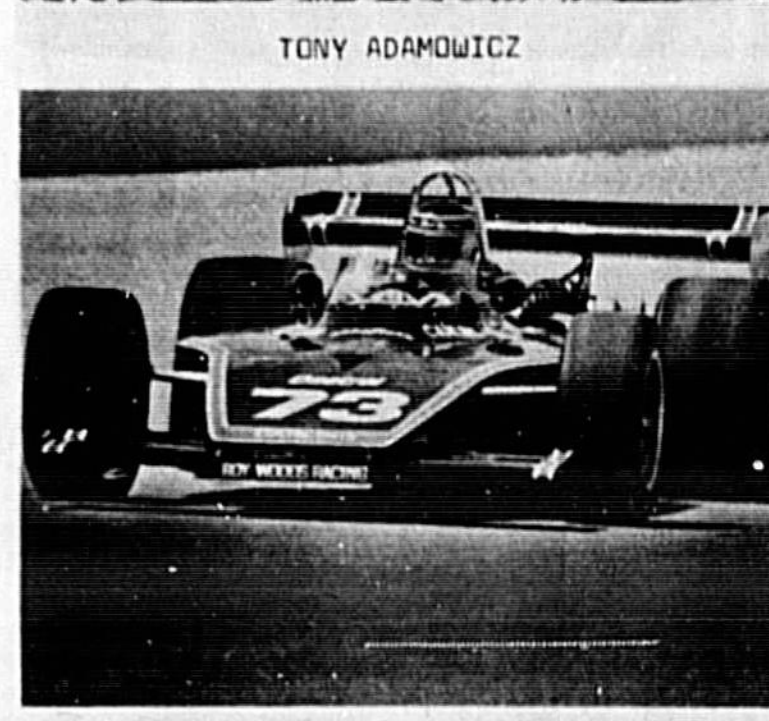

Carling will also sponsor the Tuborg 400 NASCAR National race June 17 at Riverside, Calif., named after Carling's new American-brewed Tuborg beer. Larry Smith drives the Black Label Special in the NASCAR Grand National Winston Cup event.

May has been a tragic month for auto racing, and it's not over yet. At least three drivers have lost their lives, one in a race, one in practice and the other in a private vehicle while traveling.

First, popular late model modified sportsman driver Bill Towley was killed during a supermodified program at Five Flags Speedway in Pensacola in the first three events of the season, and also the previous week, before leaving the track.

Indy 500 Motivation Different

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Two racing drivers whose fathers crashed to their deaths against the concrete walls of the Indianapolis Speedway will be gunning for victory in the famed 500-mile race, but with different motivations.

"I don't get me wrong, I loved my father and he loved me," Vukovich said. "But my father's racing record hung over me like a blanket throughout my career. People always are asking why I don't race like my father. I suppose in a way I have resented it."

"I'd like to win to prove I am a racer in my own right," Tony Bettenhausen was auto racing's national champion in 1951 and 1958. In every Indianapolis race between 1948 and 1959 he led at one stage or another, finishing second once, ninth once and fourth twice. He never won.

He was the favorite in 1961, but on May 12 he crashed in a tangle and died, leaving three sons—Gary, the oldest at 31; Merle, 28, and Tony, 27. Merle lost his right arm in an accident last July at the Michigan International. Tony is a rookie.

The elder Bill Vukovich became a racing legend. He won the 500 in 1953 and 1954 and was leading in 1955 when his car crashed, sending him to his death.

Little Billy was only 11 at the time—a youngster troubled because his father always was on the road and unable to play baseball with him like other boys' fathers.

"I couldn't have cared less about racing," young Vukovich explains. "I never got in a race car. My father never did anything with me. All he could think about was racing, racing, racing."

Vukovich's legacy from his father is constant pressure. "It's tough to be the son of a famous race driver," he said. "You are exposed to constant criticism. No matter how good you are, people make comparisons and say, 'You stink.' I have a son, Billy, 9 I never want him to be a race driver."

Bettenhausen has three boys—Gary, 11; and twins Cary and Todd, age 9. He agrees with Vukovich—the nomadic life is an international auto junkie is not conducive to the best home life. "I rarely get to see my boys, either—I never get to play with them," he said. "It's unfortunate. But if they decide they want to be race drivers, how am I going to stop them?"

Vukovich knows, as well as I—their kids have minds of their own."

Understandably, User is reluctant to make any predictions about how the race will go. Last year, he sprinted away from the rest of the field for 31 laps of the 200-lap contest. Then a broken distributor rotor put him out of the running.

This year, User does not see himself "springing away from either Hutterford or Donohue and hopes that the meticulous care being taken in the preparation of his No. 8 Osoneite Eagle will allow him to be around for the entire 500-mile distance.

Steered member User, whose four-lap qualifying average was 198.183 mph, will be joined in the starting field by Jerry Grant, whose 190.233 mph average netted him 18th starting spot in the No. 48 Osoneite Eagle, and Wally Dallenbach, whose 190.194 mph average was good enough for 20th starting spot in his No. 62 Osoneite Eagle.

The three drivers, together, are veterans of 23 previous Speedway races. User will be starting his 11th 500 here; Grant and Dallenbach are each starting their seventh.

User, 39, has 16 career wins on the United States Auto Club Championship Trail. He won the '500 here in 1968 and was the USAC national champion that same year. He began racing in super modified cars in 1949 at Roswell, N.M., while still in his mid-teens.

Grant, a 38-year-old from Irvine, Calif., was leading the race here last year when he stopped on the 188th lap to have a vibrating front tire checked. During the stop, his car was accidentally given fuel, in violation of the rules, from User's nearby tank. Instead of holding his second place finish, of-framed "ended" his race on that 188th lap, and Grant was dethroned to 12th position in the final standings. His best finish in the '500, therefore, was in 1970, when he finished seventh.

Dallenbach, 36, first raced at the Speedway in 1967, and had his best race last year. The East Brunswick, N.J., native started in last position and finished fifth. Although he has never posted a Championship Trail victory, he has come close, with four seconds and four thirds.

Thrill Show At St. Pete
The 30-year-old Joe Chitwood Thrill Show opens their 1973 season Friday night at the Sunshine Speedway in St. Petersburg, with Joe Chitwood Jr. and his brother Tim carrying on the family tradition.

A famous troupe of thrill drivers will perform before the public for the first time since they left the path of destruction doing special stunts on the streets of the latest James Bond film, "Live and Let Die."

The debris included 13 1973 Chevrolet, 21 boats, a double-decker bus, six motorcycles and eight airplanes, seven of them jets. The United Artists release, expected to come to this area in June, worked with a production budget of $12.9 million.

Friday night's opener will reveal 1973 Corvettes, Camaros and Vegas, pacing snappy precision driving routines, including on-trail wheelies and one will make a space rocket jump. Other acts will include a motorcycle fire wall crash, the automobile fire wall crash and the "T-Bone" crash.

The latter half of the program will feature a 25-lap Figure-8 feature and a 25-lap Formula 500 race. "I'd be a terror in the boxing ring with this thing," says Tony A-Z. "I'll be no problem at all in the ring. The palm is open and I can grip just fine. That's what the left hand does anyway and I won't have any difficulty."

The Woods crew under "Kas" Kastner has the Carling Black Label Lola repaired for Michigan after hectic sessions in the Gardens. Cal, shop followed by the long trip east. Adamowicz is repaired after attention by two Los Angeles doctors who repair clients include the Rams and Lakers professional teams.

From the performances in the first two races, the L&M Championship series is living up to its promise as the most competitive in road racing. Half a dozen drivers have demonstrated that only split seconds separate them. A couple of other top contenders are sure to be among the high finishers after selecting early season mechanical problems.

Series leader Jerry Schockler, with first place and second place finishes to his credit, leads the Michigan challengers, driving a Winston Delta Trojan. Englishman Peter Gethin (Marathon Chevron) is just 12 points behind Schockler, 35 to 23. Former champion David Hobbs (Haggar Lola) has finished third and fourth to trail Gethin by one point. Brian Redman (Steel Lola) won the Riverside race and sits fourth in the standings. Adamowicz is in a triple tie for fifth place, the three top Americans in the series, each with 12 points. The others are Brett Langer and Gus Hutchison. Victory at Michigan is worth 20 points and more than $15,000.

JERRY FADEM, Trinity Prep Senior signal caller, who missed last season, shows his poise in a crowd, getting off his pass with three varsity glimmers trying to drag him to earth. The Seniors took a 24-6 win, while Fadem received his advice from former Oklahoma star Jack Mildren, who now calls the Baltimore Colts' defensive secondary home.

Trinity Prep Seniors Top Varsity

Trinity Prep seniors can't defeat the upcoming varsity, then you didn't have a very good group of seniors and they shouldn't have played that much," remarked one of the coaches after the Trinity Prep upper-classmen dropped the 1973 edition of Trinity Prep Sports, 24-6 in the final scrimmage of Spring Football practice.

The seniors scored once every period on a varsity squad that was without the services of six starters, but Coach Tom Ruby, who watched last season as his graduating members compiled the best record in the county, again saw the evidence of Trinity Prep's top performers.

Jerry Fadem, who did not play last year, generated the signal caller, hit star flanker Ray Parsons with a 25 yard pass receiver then went 30 more yards to paydirt in the third period for the only varsity tally. Except for Cleveland's running, which bordered on the peer-genius level, neither offensive team was able to move consistently against the other's tough defense.

Defensive standouts for the varsity were linemen Brad Purdon, Tom Dickerson and Rick Lapp, who all receive All-County mention last year, while first team center and linebacker Rob Knowles shone consistently from his linebacker slot, as well as Brown and Parsons in the secondary.

Without the services of Wall Brown, Dave Terwillinger, Greg Miles, Greg Chandler, Larry Hernandez and lineman David March, due to either injuries or in participation in other sports, the varsity found itself without either its first or second team running backs and much of its defensive secondary experience.

For the Seniors, Lou DeGanahl and Paul Bouldin shone on the line, with Mike "Red" Austin taking the appearance of the "Mid Linebacker," and last year's starting quarterback Steve Saxton played an outstanding defensive secondary game. The Senior crew used their experience and talent to fully exploit the younger squad's mistakes.

"We got a lot more to do. It was our first spring practice... but we have a lot more to do. It was our first spring practice... but we have a lot more to do. It was our first spring practice... but we have a lot more to do."

As of 9:10 a.m. Saturday, the team, comprised of Matt Schultz, Keith Traster, Henry Stanley, Ron Lyob, John McLean, Bob Goddard, Steve Hargis, Greg Miller, David LaSore and Norman Grant, had reached 192 miles and was "running strong," according to Track Coach Jerry Poscy.

"They should break the record around noon," he added, as the youngsters went round and round the Brantley oval in hopes of setting the new standard. "A school in Illinois turned the trick in 1973 with 220 miles, and we won't settle for less than 221," Gibson stated.

He was on the scene for the entire 24 hour period, stopwatch and pad in hand, calculating the record-try. The School, located near Forest City on SR 434, is comprised of just freshmen and sophomores, with several of the runners out for track the first time in their lives this past year. The Brantley track did quite well in regular season meets, winning all but one of their track endeavors.

All but one of the youngsters are distance runners at the school, with Hargis coming off the basketball and football teams. Schultz and Stanley are both Brantley record holders in the mile, two mile and 880 yard runs, respectively.

THE SPORTS TIME MACHINE

By Dave Brase and Tim Simons

Ralph DePalma pushes car to finish in 1912 Indy Indianapolis, 1912

For more than six hours a man and a machine have worked handily together. The man is Ralph DePalma, one of the world's great race drivers. The machine is a shiny, new, chain-driven Mercedes-Benz. Sitting at DePalma's side in the big gray car is a factory-trained mechanic, Rupert Jeffkins.

The 50,000 spectators here for this 1912 Indianapolis 500 mile race have witnessed a great demonstration of driving skill. DePalma has driven smoothly and methodically for 480 miles and has built an insurmountable five lap lead over Joe Dawson, a native of Indianapolis, is driving a National, a car built in Indianapolis. This contest has been the favorite of the crowd, but the all-horse entry has been outclassed today by DePalma and the Mercedes.

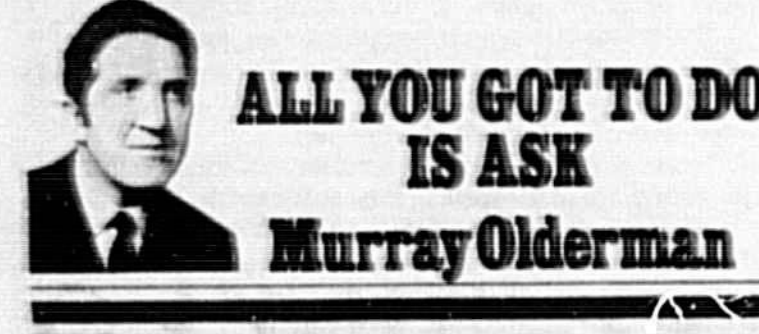

DePalma wears into the 191st lap with only five to go. He strikes down the back-straightaway at 85 miles per hour confident of victory.

Suddenly coming out of the northwest turn, the balanced rhythm of the big four-cylinder Mercedes engine is shattered by the loud hammering sound of metal on metal. White smoke is following out of the exhaust pipe. DePalma and Jeffkins know what has happened. Joe Dawson's pit crew also knows. A chalk board in the National pit directs Dawson to go.

At a greatly reduced speed DePalma passes in front of the main grandstand in his struggling machine. The clattering engine has four laps to go and DePalma desperately needs to keep it running.

It does for awhile. With two and a half laps to go the inevitable happens. DePalma's Mercedes has stopped. DePalma releases to accept this fate. He urges Jeffkins to get out and help him push the car to the finish. Gallantly and doggedly, the two men push the 2,000 pound Mercedes around the north turns and down the main straightaway. The crowd is now cheering for them but it's an impossible task.

Joe Dawson passes them repeatedly and wins the Indianapolis 500 with an average speed of 70.72 miles per hour. Later DePalma has lost the race but won the hearts of all racing fans.

ALL YOU GOT TO DO IS ASK Murray Olderman

The tipoff: The real quest in San Francisco baseball is not for a successor to Charley Fox—the media already has him fired if he loses two straight—but for a new top man in the organization to take over for aging, increasingly seclusive Horace Stoneham. It can't be seen Pevey W., sleeps in the pressbox.

Q—Can you tell me how Sandy Koufax can give up that million dollar deal with NBC and settle for Maine?—Greta Kaufman, New York.

A—It's just like Sandy said—he was never comfortable as a telecaster. And he is a private person who prefers the life of a handyman at his own digs in East Hutton, Maine, to the exposure of a celebrity. A la Martin Brando, he threatened one annoying reporter with a punch in the snout for trespassing on his domain.

Q—I'm a helluva shortstop who's been in the army a couple of years and gets out next December. All I want's a chance to play ball. How do I get it?—T.J. Sam Grady, Germany.

A—Wait till the snow melts. Better yet, buy a plane ticket to Florida. Almost all the teams participate in the instructional leagues and will be polite enough to look you over. Each major league club has a player personnel director whom you can contact for a trial. "Puck" club you're interested in and write him now. The American League office in Boston or the National League office in San Francisco can provide the names.

Q—Our school would like to have Howard Cosell come here and lecture at a communications seminar. How can I get him?—Hill Rivers, Sanford, Calif.

A—Bring bag of shekels. Howard's getting heavy with his new status as a celebrity and demanding a minimum of $5,000 for appearances. For students, provide complimentary.

Q—Who's got more money, Lamar Hunt or Clint Murchison?—Chris Jones, Orange, Texas.

A—It depends whose oil well came in last. Lamar has a broader base of sports interest than Clint since, in addition to Kansas City Chiefs, he controls terms, has a piece of pro basketball, owns a soccer team and used to have some baseball action. All Clint has, besides the Dallas Cowboys, is his crew cut. Though he's looking seriously into a big tennis resort enterprise in the Los Angeles area high on Mulholland Drive.

Q—I keep telling the guys in the neighborhood that Roberto Clemente first came up with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and they tell me I'm all wet. Who's right?—Neil Maloney, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A—Come in out of the rain. Neil Roberto technically did belong to the old Brooklyn Dodgers. They had given the late great Puerto Rican outfielder a $10,000 bonus and kept him with them in the Southeast. After he was hit only 257, they neglected to bring him up to the parent club, as required for bonus babies, and the Pirates drafted him that fall for $4,000. It was the best deal that Branch Rickey, then running Pittsburgh, ever made.

Q—Anything to the rumors that Oakland has tried to get back Mike Epstein from Texas? If you ask me, they should never have traded him.—Boggie Perrino, Stockton, Calif.

A—Maybe they asked Reggie Jackson instead. It never made print, but big Mike and slugger Reggie had a fist brawl last year when he was in Texas. That, as much as his publicized plane argument with manager Dick Williams during the World Series, got him shipped to the Rangers. It's unlikely they'll get him back.

Porting shot: Don't be surprised if there's a change in Monday night football's "Imbly Trio." Their controversies may be good show but a lot of friction and tension has also come out of it—between the principals.

One Of Top Harness Drivers In Nation This Spirited 'Filly' Has A Lot At Stake

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

She has a tom-boyish appearance in her teased brown hair and soft brown eyes. She speaks in an animated manner and is patient with her interviewer who displays such ignorance about the animals and sport that occupy her every waking moment 16 hours a day, seven days a week.

She was a slim, but rounded figure and would be taken for a girl in her mid-twenties rather than the 32 years old she is.

"During the season I eat only one meal daily at about 3 in the afternoon. But I eat anything I want. During the off-season I put on 25 pounds.

"Driving is great for the figure," she said, showing her trim waistline, "and a great bust builder."

Aren't you considered one of the best sulky drivers in the nation regardless of sex? "Well I don't know," she answers. "There are man fine drivers. My husband is Chuck Farber, you know," she continues, looking a little disgruntled that her interviewer does not seem to recognize the name.

The record told the story of Beatrice Farber of Livonia, Mich., Hawkville, Ga. and Casselberry, Fla. Last year in 188 drives, she scored 43 wins, 27 seconds and 22 thirds for a 382 universal driving record rating. Billy Haughton, considered one of the top men in the sport in the country had a .353.

Bess has been a woman driver since 1970 and she and her husband have only a small part of their 70 horse stable at the Seminole Turf Club racing this season.

Born in Michigan, and reared on a farm, she always liked horses, but went through school and became a legal secretary. "I was making good pay, I had everything—a big horse and a swimming pool, but I was not happy," she said.

"I love horses. It was my dream to own a race horse. Do you remember the contests where one suggested a name for a race horse and the winner won the horse. I bet I submitted a million entries to contests like that.

"Growing up on the farm I rode everything—the cows, the bulls, the steers. If it had four legs, I rode it.

"I don't do anything else but work with the horses. I don't even own a dress. Well I do have one long one that I use strictly for the horsemen's meetings that we go to once a year.

"On the race track when I am competing, the urge to win is so bad I could almost hate the others. Well, not really, I just want to win. I don't see the horses and off the track we are all friends.

"The secrets of our success? We won't tell them. If any horseman has a problem with his horse we all try to help out. But we all have secret ways of doing things too.

"One can never know all there is to learn about horses and racing. There is no way to learn it all.

"No, I don't think I have lost my femininity. I certainly feel feminine when I dress in my colors and white pants and get on the track for a race."

Bess said.

"A good male driver is good and a good female driver is good," she said, admitting however, she believes women do have an advantage in driving. "Most women's hands, since they are not as muscular, are light. That is a natural thing with a woman and an advantage."

"I found it very easy to break in to racing. My husband had been driving for 20 years when we got married. Three weeks after I got my license he broke his arm and I fell into the stable work.

"We have 70 horses—21 of them here—and I know all by name. A lot to do with horses comes from instinct," she said.

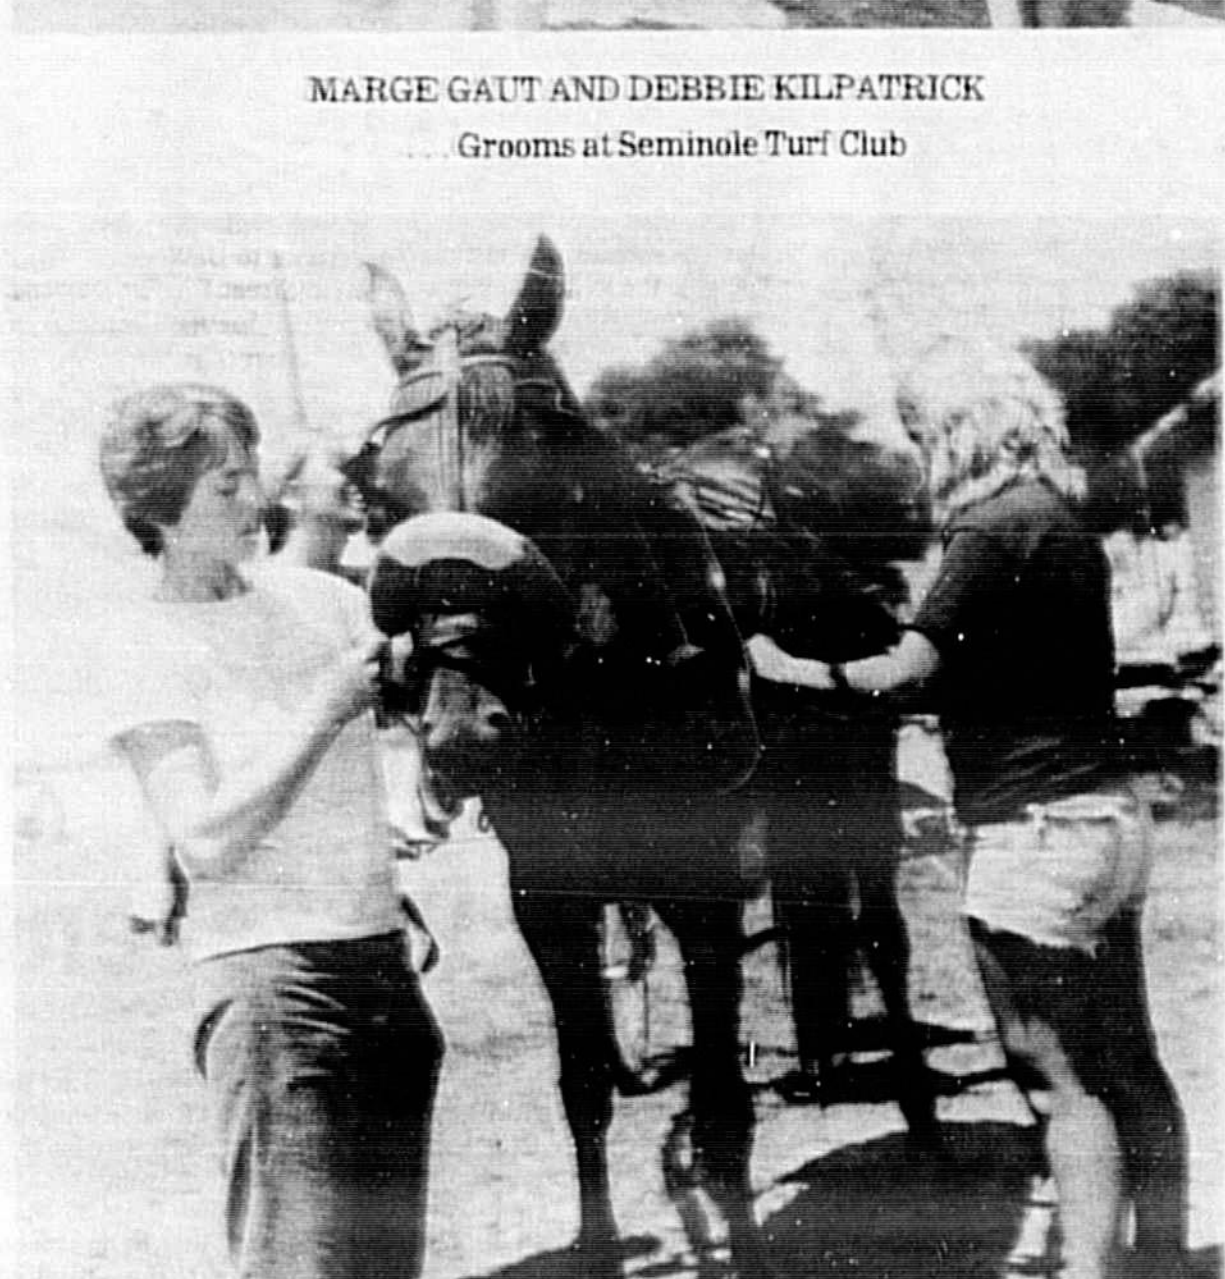

"You just know it and feel it.

Bess and Chuck have a breeding farm in Michigan and the young colts, not long after birth, are taken to their farm in Hawkville, Ga. for the sunshine.

trying to fill the 25-36 slots.

Scott turned the first lap in third day qualifying at 132.275 n.p.h. and got better on the second, a 132.426 that carried him the 29th position in Sunday's 46-car field.

Buddy Arrington, another driver who failed to qualify in the continuation of Thursday's second qualifying session, was forced by a rain storm.

Seeking one of the 12-24 starting spots, Scott managed only a spell of 145.891 miles per hour. It wasn't good enough. He then fell back into the regular group practice the turns."

Scott's concern for the turns at the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway is understandable. He cracked up in a practice run and lost a lot of driving time while his crew put it back together.

"I still think about it when I go into that turn," he said. "But I feel like it will be all gone by Sunday."

Scott won the right to drive

Bob Moose Didn't Learn From Previous Mistake

By KEN RAPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Moose didn't learn from his mistakes. He made the same mistake twice—and Lee May hit both of them out of the park.

It took two sliders that didn't slide, and that was the ball game," said Moose after serving up two home runs to May that helped the Houston Astros beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2 Friday night.

Moose threw a waist-high slider to the Astro slugger in the fifth inning and May hit it over the center field fence at Three Rivers Stadium to give the Astros a 1-0 lead.

Then May teed off on another fat pitch from the Pirate right-hander for a two-run homer in the sixth.

"I knew I made a mistake the instant I let it go," said Moose. "So did May. You could see his eyes get big."

Coffee Honors Prospective Members

The lovely home of the Ralph Austin Smiths was the setting for the annual membership Coffee, sponsored by Home Life Department of Sanford Womens' Club, May 19 from 10 to 12 a.m.
Club members brought as their guests prospective members to get acquainted and enjoy a social hour with the group. Delicious refreshments of mocha punch, nuts, mints and a large assortment of cookies, sandwiches, brownies and other party fare was served.
The beautifully appointed table, overlaid with an heirloom lace cloth, was highlighted by the centerpiece, featuring red roses (the official club flower) along with white daisy mums, baby's breath, fern and natural rose foliage in a cut glass bowl. Arrangements of red roses and other flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the area.
In the receiving line were Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, hostess; Mrs. Jack Burney, club president, and Mrs. C. Boyd Coleman, Home Life department chairman. Mrs. Kenneth Wing was overall chairman of the coffee committee assisted by Mrs. Donald Flamm, John Polk, Phillip Logan, William Kirchhoff, Wilfred Conrad, S. J. Davis, Jr., William Southward, William B. Wray, Douglas Stenstrom, William Stemper and R. M. Herndon.

Mrs. Woodrow Clark, third vice president, and Mrs. Milton Smith presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. A. C. McReynolds and Mrs. Richard Elam were in charge of guest registration and name tags. Coffee committee members assisted by other club members served as floating hostesses.
Guests (prospective members) attending included Mrs. Carl L. Schilke, B. L. Sanders, Gordon Stanley, R. N. West, Jr.; Lelia Welch, Ashby Jones, Margaret Dunn, W. L. Carter, Grace Wallace, Stella Hyman, Hilda Thorne, Dot Williams and Josephine McDaniel.
The Sanford club is a very active organization composed of local women who present interesting and informative programs and participate in local, state and national projects. There are four departments, Home Life, Fine Arts, Public Affairs and Social in addition to the general business luncheon meeting the first Wednesday of each month, October through June.
To become a member, a candidate must be proposed by one member and endorsed by two others of at least one year's standing in the club. Her name is presented to the membership committee, then to the board of managers for approval.

Mrs. Earl W. Lau, author of the book, "Teaching Table Techniques", a prelude to "Gracious Living", was introduced by Sanford Garden Club vice president and program chairman, Mrs. Walter Lee, as guest speaker at the final luncheon of the 1972-73 season.
Mrs. Lau reviewed the following helpful household hints: what to use to remove grease and other stains from clothing; what kind of candles to use for table decorations that won't drip; and the use of cold water to remove stains.
She set up four tables, each in a different color scheme, ready for dinner, lunch and a buffet. She explained how to match your color schemes in table cloth, napkins, silverware, glassware and centerpiece.
One table was set with a black luncheon cloth with chartreuse napkins, a chartreuse centerpiece on a white base, white China plates, cups and saucers and regular glassware. The napkins were folded in four and were round, so that they could double as place mats.
A second table was a pink, blue, white and green color scheme, with the cloth, a pale pink embroidered at the bottom in deeper pink, white and green. Light blue candles were set in glass holders and pink carnations in a rigly glass vase was the centerpiece. The water glasses were pale pink and the China plates were white with pink border of flowers and pink napkins.

GRAD PARTY HONORS DANEEN HARPER

MRS. DANNY SMITH was hostess at her Washington Street home for a "Coke and Chatter" graduation party, honoring Daneen Harper, member of the 1973 graduating class of SHS. Thirty classmates and friends joined her for an afternoon of fun and were served ham sandwiches, chips and dips, pretzels, hors d'oeuvres, ice cream floats and cold drinks. Lori and Jill Harper, sisters of the honor guest, served as floating hostesses. Hostess gift was a combination wallet and memo container. Left to right are Mrs. Smith, hostess; Miss Harper, honoree; and her mother, Mrs. E. C. Harper Jr.

Foster Parents To 29 Children...

Couple Has Five Adopted Children

The Philosophy of Al and Bea Morris: It doesn't hurt a child to carry his weight around the home.

By ELDA NICHOLS Correspondent

Bea Morris, Longwood, loves children! In fact, her love knows no bounds, as she is the mother of five adopted children, from 9 through 12 years of age...

present time. Said Bea, "When you love children and they love you, there's no end to the things you are called upon to do."

In the midst of all the controversy over abortions, population explosion and limiting families, the atmosphere is in fresh contrast. Bea, and her husband Al, were childless for six years after their marriage until they adopted a tiny baby girl, only three days old. A few years later, they added a baby boy. Recently, three more children were adopted as a group as they were natural brother and sisters.

When applying for their last child, and questioned closely as to boy or girl preference, Al's only comment was, "We'll take what ever the Lord sees fit to send us!"

Bea said, "When we brought the three older children home for their first visit, we were all very nervous. We were each afraid we would do or say the wrong thing, but after that, everything fell into place."

Two of the newer adopted children have had emotional problems, resulting from being shifted from one home to another. "But they are progressing nicely now, and we see improvements daily," said Bea.

Contributing to this atmosphere is Al's philosophy: "It doesn't hurt a child to carry his weight around the home."

Consequently, each child has specified chores and does them. Outside activities are also on the agenda for the kids in the Morris household. They all attend Sunday School and belong to other church groups.

The two older girls, Faye and Gloria, are members of the Longwood Fife and Drum Corps, and recently returned from a trip to Williamsburg, Va. with the entire corps. They also belong to a girls' softball team.

The Morris home abounds with pets. A beautiful white rabbit, cats and kittens and a new puppy, all share in the love the children have for animals.

A small foster child is now in residence with the family, and the Morris children include him in their activities. In fact, they would like to make him a permanent member of their group.

Bea laughed and said, "Some people think it is perfectly alright to have a large, natural family, but when we say we've adopted five youngsters, they generally react with a startled, "You're kidding!"

"It's true that organized confusion reigns here on Sunday morning," said Al, a Sunday School teacher for many years.

"Bea, a quiet, soft-spoken woman who keeps her cool amidst the confusion, smiled as she looked at her brood and said, "God has really blessed us with these fine, healthy children, and we are proud of each one."

Lydia Schmidt Displays Patriotism As President Of Legion Auxiliary

By FANNETTE EDWARDS Correspondent

The three important days of May, Mother's Day, Memorial Day and Poppy Day, are all significant to our lady of this week.

Lydia Schmidt is a mother (as well as a grandmother and great-grandmother), the widow of a W.W.I. veteran and Legionnaire and president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 255 in Deltona.

On May 24 and 25, she and many of her auxiliary members were at the Plaza and elsewhere in Deltona selling that little red poppy, emblematic of the poppies that grew in Flanders Field when our boys sailed across the sea to help other nations retain their freedom, but never came back home to tell about it. Lydia and Edward (her late husband) did not retire to Deltona, until after her family had been reunited. The eldest son and daughter had married and had families of their own. The youngest boy was ready for college. They came here as a most happy pair of contented folks.

They settled in Deltona because after living in other climes, they thought it would be perfect for retirement. In Deltona they found the type of neighbor that gives company, the climate that seemed closest to perfect and the beauty that only Mother Nature can create.

Lydia was born and reared in Yonkers-on-the-Hudson, New York, and as she says, "Spent practically my whole life there."

She attended the Christ Episcopal Church in Yonkers, where she met Edward one Sunday during church services. He was a young veteran of W.W.I, who had just returned from Service overseas. Two years later they were married in the very same church.

"They were blessed with three children, Adele, Edward Jr. and young Douglas. Adele, (Mrs. Gene Evans) is happily married and is now living in Casselberry. She has seven children and four grandchildren.

The eldest son attended the University of Georgia where he received his B.S. Degree and then the University of Michigan to earn his Masters. He is a scientist, is married and has three children and lives in St. Louis, Mo.

The youngest boy chose the University of Florida in Gainesville which is considered the best Engineering College in the country.

The family moved to Gainville and lived there during the four years the son attended college. On the day he graduated, he became married to a lovely classmate. Today, he is a Professor of Electronics at Vanderbilt "U" in Nashville, Tenn.

A year later they tried retirement in Arizona, but didn't like the climate, the locale or the people. One day they visited some friends who had moved to Deltona.

"One look at the place, the beauty of the community, the climate and the friendly people we met through them and we were convinced," said Lydia.

They returned home, sold their house and in July of 1966 moved to Deltona. They immediately joined all the clubs they could and became very active in community affairs. They joined the shuffleboard team and became such experts that they have won seven trophies.

They joined the Civic Association and she, the Auxiliary, where she is now serving as treasurer. He became a voluntary fireman and she became a member of the Auxiliary and is secretary for the second year.

Being from New York, they joined the Empire State Club as charter members and worked on many committees. They loved to dance so attended many social functions of all these clubs.

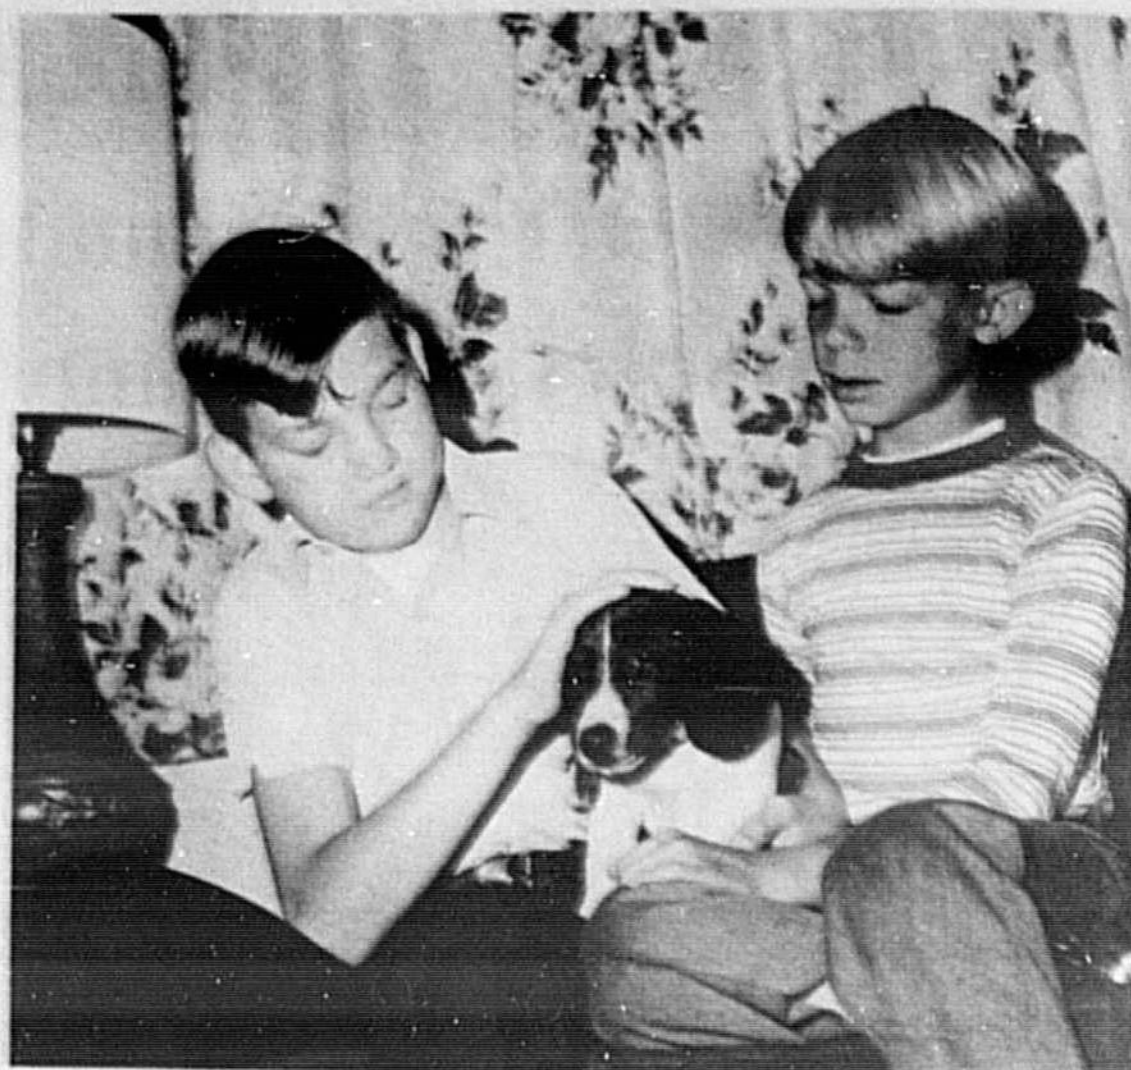

When the American Legion Post and Unit were organized in Deltona, they became charter members of the post and unit, through with the one that respectively. Here she served as the first secretary for three years. Last year she served as president and last week, was reelected for another term, because of her qualifications as a leader.

But fate had decreed otherwise, for on Oct. 7, 1972, while playing on the Shuffleboard Team, Mr. Schmidt collapsed and never regained consciousness. That was the last day of their companion activities.

"I thought it was the end of the world for me," said Lydia, "but the people in Deltona are so wonderful. They were with me every moment. And they insisted that I continue on with my everyday activities. So I did."

She had just presided at her first unit meeting in the Legion Auxiliary and was sure that she would never be able to go through with the one that

CLONTZ, 322-7961, or SHIRLEY HAUMAN, 322-0516. Can't wait!

Fanciers of the finest never had it so good! If it's at all possible, the annual "A Night of Dance," is more sensational, super-frag, and super superior to previous revues as a take-off of "superstar" opens the lavish production next weekend at Seminole High School auditorium, June 2, at 8 p.m., and June 3, 4 p.m.

During the super exciting show, some 250 talented dancers from adorable preschoolers all the way to college girls of School of Dance Arts will put their best foot forward in fast-paced tapp, jazz and ballet numbers to absolutely stunner your hearts away.

A REMINDER...at last year's show, there was not even standing room only and many missed the show after arrival on the scene. Tickets are available from any student, at the door or by calling 323 1000.

ANN BRISSON saved the day! I was literally climbing the walls over a wedding photo Winter Park studio promised to send three days earlier, to meet deadlines.

Ann was in the studio during my catastrophe when the receptionist volunteered to bring the photo to me...in 30 minutes.

So all's well that ends well...and I was the first to see a family portrait of the Brissons which is the most fantastic work of art I have seen in a long time.

Once again...thanks a million, Ann! LINDA D. KILPATRICK, daughter of MR. AND MRS. J.A. KILPATRICK, 808 Cherokee Circle, will graduate cum laude from Western Carolina University on June 3.

ROSAMOND CHAPMAN is proud as punch over her eldest granddaughter's accomplishment. The dance is designed to raise funds for Seminole County Unit of the American Cancer Society, in lieu of the usual door-to-door crusade.

RESERVATIONS ARE A MUST! The donation tab is so low that you'll feel guilty having so much fun for so little. NICK PFEIFAUER is in command of the music and your choice of spirits will be available.

For reservations, call JEAN NIKI McKIBBIN was the related setting for a patio barbecue supper party honoring SHS grad SUSIE BISHOP, daughter of KATHARINE AND GEORGE D. BISHOP JR.

Miss Susan White, W.E. Higginbotham Married In Morning Garden Ceremony

The groom's mother wore a pastel yellow ensemble of silk shantung with white lapels, white beaded trim, matching accessories and a yellow cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. J. St. Clair White, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a long-sleeved pastel blue dress and white cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Bertie Roberts, maternal grandmother of the groom, chose a long sleeve princess style dress of sequins with matching accessories and a white cymbidium orchid with pink throat.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the lovely garden. The bride's table and two punch tables were overlaid with white organdy, over yellow. The bride's table was decorated with bridesmaids' bouquets the other two were highlighted by arrangements of yellow gladioli, full mums, lilies and ferns in tall brass containers.

The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow daisies. Served along with the cake and punch were melon baskets filled with seasonal fruit balls; ham biscuits, minted and pecans.

Miss Patricia Healy attended the bride's book. Mrs. John Ivey, Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. W. E. Dodson, and Mrs. James G. Lee cut and served the cake and pouring were Mrs. J. H. Trapp, Mrs. Henry Wight, Mrs. Gordon Stanley, and Mrs. Arthur Beckwith.

Miss Blair Boniface was in charge of the rice bags and floating hostesses were Mrs. Sue Ann Seibot and the Misses Kandy Sipes, Linda Lee and Sandy Mize.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and their new residence will be 137 N. Elliott Ave., Sanford. The groom is employed by the Seaboard Coastline Railroad. Mrs. Higginbotham chose a pink pants suit for traveling.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts and family, Auburndale; Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Mero and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ruber, Tampa; Dr. and Mrs. John Boniface and family, Virginia Beach, Va.; Mrs. Dale Scott, Coronado, Calif.; Mrs. William W. Kirtley, Titusville and Rev. and Mrs. H. Wight Kirtley, Deltona.

The bride's mother chose a sleeveless dress with bodice of pink, green and white with matching accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

No leader can be more successful than the members allowed to be. Aldous Huxley, a great philosopher, once said: "The great end of life is not knowledge but action."

It was decided that regular meetings would be held during the summer months in order that various projects could be continued actively. All members are urged to attend the second and fourth Thursday luncheons.

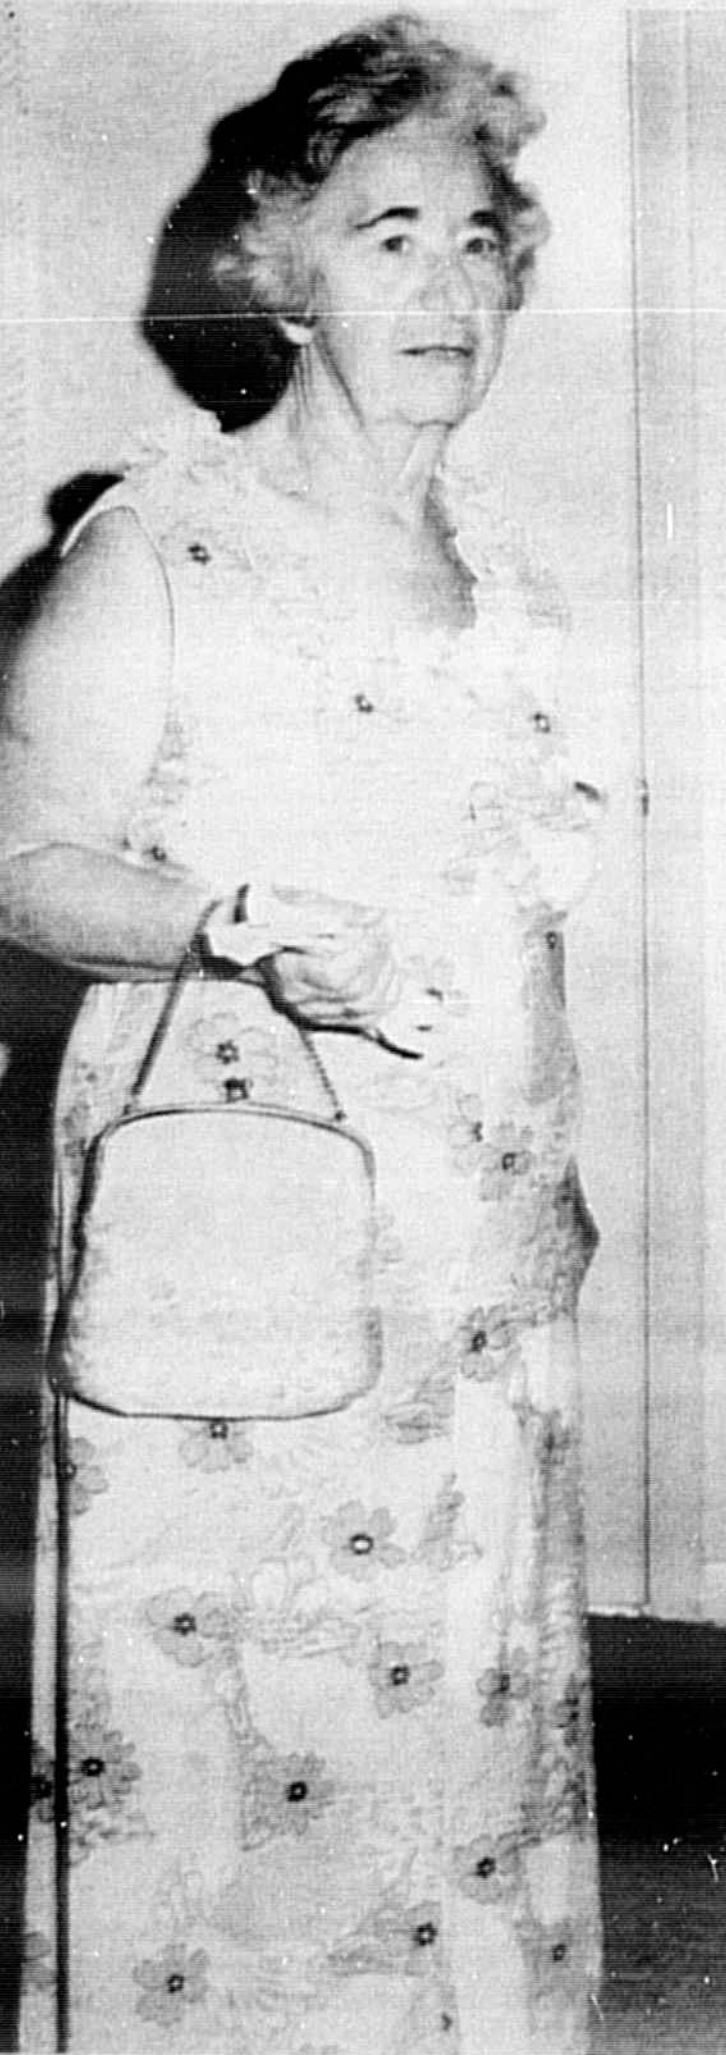

Officers of SISTER, Inc. for the 1973-1974 term were installed recently at Bram Towers by Mrs. Ann Steczkowski, parliamentarian.

Using Edmund Burke's quotation "The only thing that needed for the triumph of evil is for good women to do nothing," the following officers were installed: president, Vivienne Sweeney; first vice-president, Mildred Handolph; second vice-president, Dot Powell; third vice-president, Ruth Swinney; recording secretary, Val Colbert; treasurer, Zelda Siskind; and corresponding secretary, Margaret Ganas.

It was pointed out that the leader of the organization is the hub of the working gear, members of the board the spokes of that gear but that members provide the drive.

Geneva Gems

If you are wondering why you have not been seeing the friendly face of "Mom Pearl" around Geneva lately, it is because she and her dear friend, Katherine Ward, decided to take a flying trip to New York to visit with Mrs. Varborough's daughter and son-in-law, Virginia and Sidney Krafetz.

There is another very active, close to 80-year-old lady who is hard to top down. Mom Pearl is up at ten before some of us have even turned over good.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Dunn, Sr., of Rest Haven and their son, Dick, have taken off for Atlanta where they will visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McDaniel. On their way home they will stop off to Eatonton, Ga., to visit with another son, Jimmy and his wife Linda.

Mrs. Dunn (Margaret) told me that son Dick will be home for a month on leave from Keesler Air Force Base and then will go to Patrick where he will be stationed.

Mr. Donald Norton (Lacie) is back home after taking her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Givetti back to Vergennes, Vt. Speaking of vegetables and food, Joe and I had a lovely evening with Mrs. Paul Maxwell and our mutual friend, Mrs. Rilla (Grandma) Kinnaird last Wednesday when we gathered at the Maxwells for a sumptuous dinner, when Lacie says "come for dinner" she means eat enough for a week. She even gives "doggie bags" (arf, arf) if you like.

Had a real good laugh talking with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb the other day. They told me all about their forthcoming trip to Chattanooga where they will join their hand friends for a while before they proceed on their ocean voyage which will take them to Europe and Hawaii, where she also knows them. Knowing them, it might be any place, especially if triple-A is anywhere around.

They did not mean down long enough to tell me that their sons, and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lamb from Miami and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Lamb from Hialeah had been up for a visit. If you try to pin these two active folks down (they will soon be 80 and 81) they will tell you, in no uncertain terms that "we would rather wear out, than rust out!"

And you know what, I really believe. I get tired just hearing of where they have been!

Just learned that Mr. and Mrs. Larry Arnold have moved into their new home down on West Haverhill Lake. Harney, welcome neighbors.

Terresa Tyre, Paula Edwards, Roxanne Reynolds, Martha Reynolds, Barbara Ashlock, Jeanie Willis, Shirley Sherer, Glenda Dalton, Alice Bruner and Marlene Kauler in Ovidio by Mrs. Debbie Moore and Brenda Willis, also of Ovidio. Luanne is the bride-elect of Richard Reynolds of Orlando.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth embossed with golden wedding bells. Matching napkins and plates were used as accompaniments. The centerpiece featured a bride and groom doll. Refreshments of white wedding cake, fruit punch, nuts and mints were served.

Those invited to attend were Joyce Tyre, Paula Tyre, around the Mathieux household considerably???

Esther Smith, my very most favorite news helper told me that she had been enjoying a visit with her lovely daughter, Marilyn, and her son-in-law, Jack. Marilyn and Jack took a few days off to run down to Miami and Palm Beach.

Esther said that when the children returned, Marilyn would remain behind to catch up with her visit and Jack would go on home to St. Louis so that means that our gal Esther is in for a good two weeks vacation visit with her daughter.

I was happy to learn that Russell Hall is home from the hospital and is doing very well. Keep up the good work Mr. Hall and you will soon be fit as a fiddle!

Phyllis Heidt is here from Henderson, N.C. visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. (Bill) Dibble. She was accompanied by her daughter, Frances Dunn, and grandson, Ricky. While in the area they did Disney World.

The United Methodist Women of Geneva enjoyed a lovely outing down at Ft. Lane Park where they gathered to share a carry-in dinner. There were 16 members present and six guests from First Church of Sanford.

This will be their last meeting of the current agenda. They will convene their Fall session in September at the new parsonage (if it is completed by then).

If you see John Samples pointing a finger at you, have a care and don't mention the word "chicken" to him. It seems if as our boy, John, was preparing the tasty fowl (fowl?) when he met with an accident, according to what Judy report, he might be near lost a digit but thanks to the good work of our local doctors (over in Sanford) he will just be uncomfortable for a while and then be as good as new.

I just had a very lovely note from my dear friend, Rev. Wm. Ed Timms who lives down at Aldersgate and he tells me that he had a very delightful visit with his niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Timms from Barbary, England who came over for the 50th birthday of their uncle who was honored at a party at the Mullet Lake Home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott.

Rev. Timms is the former pastor of the Methodist Church of Geneva. I was so sorry not to be able to attend the party but I have heard several reports that all was just the best.

Regulation Means Authority
By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Real Estate Editor

If the State of Florida is going to regulate a business, an industry or a profession, it's going to have to provide its regulatory agency with the means to do it. If it doesn't the state should get out of the way and let the business, industry or profession regulate itself.

Don't get us wrong, we're not advocating that the State of Florida, for example, turn the real estate profession loose and have no regulatory body at all. But Florida is going to have to give the Florida Real Estate Commission the wherewithal to do its job in a professional, efficient and expeditious manner.

And, it is quite apparent that during the past several years Florida has not met its obligation to its people by failing to provide the necessary means for the Florida Real Estate Commission to carry out its duties and responsibilities in just such a professional, efficient and expeditious manner.

Building Home
Let's assume you're building a home. It's time to pour the concrete for your sidewalks and driveways. You order your rebar-mix for 7:30 a.m. You notify the city's building inspection department so an inspector can be on hand to make his checks on forms, consistency of the rebar mix, etc. But the inspector, with dozens of inspections to make that particular morning doesn't show up at the building site.

The result is costly!

Actually, the same thing is happening elsewhere in Florida because the Florida Real Estate Commission, charged with licensing real estate salesmen and brokers and regulating the real estate profession in this state, is being unduly and unjustly handicapped by previous policies which are no longer appropriate and justifiable in this day and age.

And, naturally, I wouldn't make a statement like that without reason and justification.

Also, I'm sure that nobody cares what a real estate editor thinks. But, I'm certain they care about why I think that way.

The Florida Real Estate Commission operated on a budget set by the State of Florida. This is despite the fact that the Florida Real Estate Commission is a self-supporting agency. But not only is the real estate commission a self-supporting agency, it also contributes a portion of its proceeds to the general fund of the State of Florida.

So, let's erase any thoughts anyone might have that the regulation of the real estate profession costs the tax payer a dime. It doesn't.

Where does the commission get its money? Everyone a person qualifies to take the real estate license law exam pays a fee to take the examination. This is more than enough to actually offset the cost of giving the exam. Every exam taker pays a fee to take the real estate license law exam to become a broker he pays a fee to take the examination. Again, this is more than enough to offset the cost of giving the examination.

License Fee
Everytime a licensed salesman or a licensed broker renews his license he pays a fee which is more than enough to offset the cost of renewing the license.

Then, the average person would ask, what's the trouble? The trouble is that no matter how much the commission takes in from license fees, it can only spend what is allowed in the budget set by the state. The budget established by the state has been so unduly low and unrealistic that it has caused one of the worst "license" jams in the history of this state.

Last week we reported that something like 30,000 to 35,000 Floridians will ask the commission to examine them for a real estate salesman's license during 1973. Because of the lack of ordinary clerical personnel an applicant will have to wait from four to six months before the commission can give him the examination.

Right now, 4,000 people who have taken the educational course for salesman and have taken and passed the license law examination for salesman, are waiting for their licenses to be issued.

All salesmen who file applications to be examined for a broker's license must have their apprenticeship checked and the commission has a backlog of some 2,000 applicants.

Four times a year the entire commission just about comes to a standstill when news letters must be mailed to the registered brokers and salesmen who will be licensed in Florida by July 1, 1974.

Now the shame of it is that the Florida Real Estate Commission has the money to hire the necessary personnel and purchase the necessary equipment to handle this workload in the professional, efficient and expeditious manner we've been talking about.

But the commission is hamstringing by the unrealistic budget limitations forced upon it by Tallahassee. It is absolutely unreasonable and there's no better way to describe it.

Florida is said to have the second largest number registered and licensed real estate brokers and salesmen in the United States.

And, if Florida is going to regulate a growing profession such as the real estate business in Florida is growing, the Tallahassee bureaucrats, the Legislature, and perhaps even the state, some changes are made and made quickly.

The Florida Real Estate Commission's task at the present time is comparable to hiring 35 people to handle the concession business at a Super Bowl football game. It just can't be done!

'Pool' Your Resources For A Swim -- And Then Some!

By HERALD CASSELLBERRY
Herald County Editor

Having your very own swimming pool these days is not uncommon since it has become an accepted appendage of our affluent society, but there are swimming pools and there are swimming pools. Through a combination of perspiration and inspiration the Kenneth Haynes family of 1129 Dove Land, Winter Springs, have created a thing of beauty far above the run of the mill backyard "cement pool."

One would not be surprised to see Esther Williams herself doing a back stroke with a flower behind her ear in the sparkling waters of this tropical oasis. Ken describes the shape of the pool, which he designed himself, as three intersecting circles. An island on one side of the pool is planted with a gracefully leaning cabbage palm, fern and day lilies. Other landscaping around the pool includes banana trees, gardenias, palms, bulb rubus, fern, day lilies, periwinkles, philodendron and a bird of paradise.

Although their home, located on an acre corner lot, was not custom built -- it was three-fourths completed when they purchased it -- Ken and his wife, Jane, agreed that it could not have been more suitable if they had designed it themselves. The Spanish motif of the architecture has been carried out by the owners in their choice of decor, furniture and their plans for the pool and other projects which have personalized the home.

Mediterranean tile of light blue design was used in the pool and a mosaic of a sailfish in darker blues was made by the Haynes' 13-year-old son Danny. The pool is composite of ideas gleaned from a pool they had previously built while living in San Jose, Cal. and other pools they had seen. They also have two daughters, Debbie, 15 and Sherri, 11.

The family moved here a little over a year ago when Ken obtained a master franchise for the state of Florida for a franchise carpet and upholstery cleaning business -- Servo-Pro. A nationwide freight tie up of the time delayed delivery of equipment and the launching of his business venture, but gave him the time in which to develop his ideas for the pool design. One of the special features of the heated pool is a therapeutic spa separated from the rest of the pool by the island and featuring a built-in bench and three water jets in the wall of the pool.

When the master plan was complete he put it out for bids with Atlanta selected as the builder. By doing much of the work themselves such as the grading, decking and steps the cost of the pool was approximately $5,000.

The pool is surrounded by red brick decking -- all laid by Mrs. Haynes and the children -- with steps leading up on each side to concrete terrace and diving platform. The area is enclosed with fence and wall of brick and wrought iron. Still to be completed on the terrace are stucco arches, a barbecue, a palm tatch rack, and benches.

The family mixed the mortar all by hand and 20,000 bricks have been used in the decking, fence, and circular driveway which is in front of the house. The water theme is carried out at the front entrance and as well as the back yard. There are fish ponds and fountain with rectangles of brick serving as stepping stones to the front door.

The family enjoys sitting around a fire in the brick fire pit which they built in the decking in the backyard and having cookouts.

Well, this week has really started off with a "be kind to 12 weeks" and how!

Just wish that you could see all of the very lovely fresh vegetables which have been sent to us, cucumbers, squash, string beans, (Ore and Stewart are at it again) and even a big bag full of that famous Weaver's watercress, minimum from over Ovid.

Now who can deny that someone loves me... or do you think that they are trying to tell me to cut down on certain foods and eat more vegetables?

Well, that ever, it surely is mighty good eating. We even had enough to put in the freezer.

Speaking of vegetables and food, Joe and I had a lovely evening with Mrs. Paul Maxwell and our mutual friend, Mrs. Hulla (Grandma) Kinnaird last Wednesday when we had dinner at the lovely Mrs. Larry Root had already returned to Vergennes from her trip to Dallas to visit with her Mom while he is in the area on business.

While chatting with Lucile she told me that Mr. and Mrs. Larry Root had already returned to Vergennes from her trip to Dallas to visit with her Mom while he is in the area on business.

Regulation Means Authority

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Real Estate Editor

If the State of Florida is going to regulate a business, an industry or a profession, it's going to have to provide its regulatory agency with the means to do it.

If it doesn't the state should get out of the way and let the business, industry or profession regulate itself.

Don't get us wrong, we're not advocating that the State of Florida, for example, turn the real estate profession loose and have no regulatory body at all. But Florida is going to have to give the Florida Real Estate Commission the wherewithal to do its job in a professional, efficient and expeditious manner.

And, it is quite apparent that during the past several years Florida has not met its obligation to its people by failing to provide the necessary means for the Florida Real Estate Commission to carry out its duties and responsibilities in just such a professional, efficient and expeditious manner.

Building Home

Let's assume you're building a home. It's time to pour the concrete for your sidewalks and driveways. You order your ready-mix for 7:30 a.m. You notify the city's building inspection department so an inspector can be on hand to make his checks on forms, consistency of the ready-mix, etc. But the inspector, with dozens of inspections to make that particular morning doesn't show up at the building site.

The result is costly!

Actually, the same thing is happening elsewhere in Florida because the Florida Real Estate Commission, charged with licensing real estate salesmen and brokers and regulating the real estate profession in this state, is being unduly and unjustly handicapped by previous policies which are no longer appropriate and justifiable in this day and age.

And, naturally, I wouldn't make a statement like that without reason and justification.

Also, I'm sure that nobody cares what a real estate editor thinks. But, I'm certain they care about why I think that way.

The Florida Real Estate Commission operated on a budget set by the State of Florida. This is despite the fact that the Florida Real Estate Commission is a self-supporting agency. But not only is the real estate commission a self-supporting agency, it is authorized to receive a portion of its proceeds to the general fund of the State of Florida.

Government Says 'City' Jobs Up In Southeast

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Non-farm employment in the Southeast increased 11.9 million in March, according to figures released today by the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Brunswick A. Bagdon, southeastern regional director of the bureau, said the eight-state total was 65,900 higher than in February and 146,400 above the March 1972 level.

Bagdon said small declines were noted in Miami, Mobile, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn. And he said six metropolitan areas in the Southeast, including Orlando, reported no increase during the month. Other places include Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Knoxville, Tenn.

The net increase of 68,900 jobs in the region between February and March reveals an increase of 28,600 and 40,300 in the goods producing and services producing industries respectively.

Last year, the monthly increase was equally divided between goods and services.

The data was obtained from the Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Government Says 'City' Jobs Up In Southeast

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Non-farm employment in the Southeast increased 11.9 million in March, according to figures released today by the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

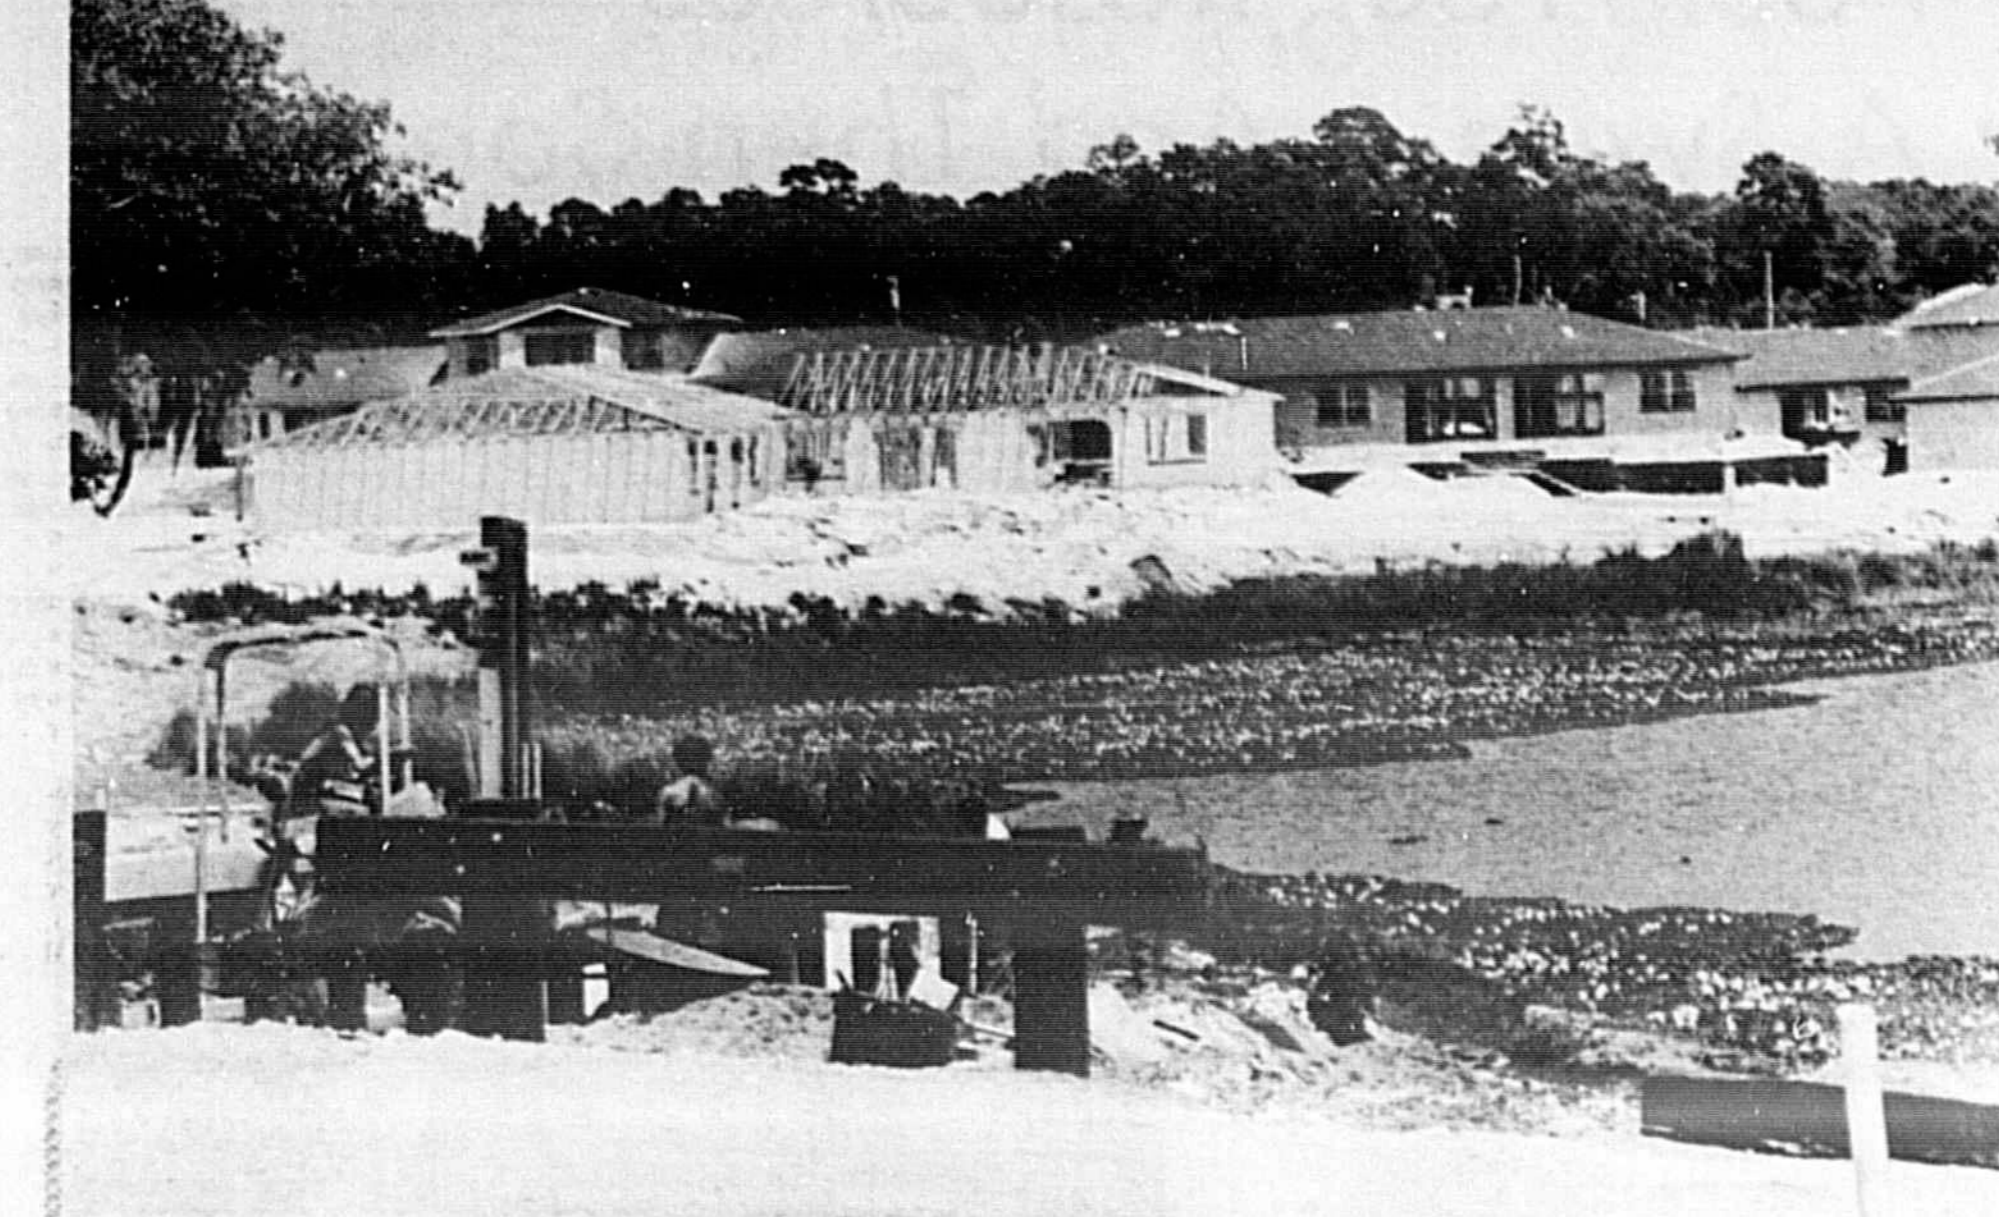

Brunswick A. Bagdon, southeastern regional director of the bureau, said the eight-state total was 65,900 higher than in February and 146,400 above the March 1972 level.

Bagdon said small declines were noted in Miami, Mobile, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn. And he said six metropolitan areas in the Southeast, including Orlando, reported no increase during the month. Other places include Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Knoxville, Tenn.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

EXTERIOR BEAUTY combines with an interior layout that solves some of the problems of daily living, in this four-bedroom home. Plan HA780Y. It features a living room on the side, with graceful low window to overlook the side yard. Additional light is attained through the large front window, which has a window seat. The recreation room, here called the "early American" room, has ceiling of exposed beams and a fireplace with woodbox. Informal gatherings can be served food very conveniently from the kitchen. The latter has two walls of appliances and work space. Double sinks and broom closet are boons to the housewife. Four bedrooms, all good size, are on the second floor. The master bedroom has its own bath and sun deck. Architect is Herman H. York, 90-04 104th St., Jamaica, N.Y. 11424. There are 922 square feet on the first floor and 923 on the second. Anyone interested in learning the rest of the blueprint can write to York.

more than any other county. However, Bay County was the leader among counties in 1971-72 with a total of 12.5 million seedlings planted on 17,990 acres.

In these days of timber shortages, news of this type is good news for the future. Here in Central Florida, tree planting for recreation, environmental and beautification purposes has helped to intensify the demand for a wide variety of seedlings. The Division of Forestry will soon start accepting orders for late Fall delivery of trees. Order forms can be obtained from the Division of Forestry office or from the Extension Service.

BACK SEAT DRIVER EVEN ON TRAINS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Trains may not have mothers-in-law but they do have back-seat drivers.

High-speed Metroliners that run between New York and Washington D.C. use an electronic "back-seat driver" designed by WABCO here to keep the trains from exceeding speed limits and for emergency stops.

The electronic system picks up traffic signals along the track, relays the signals to the cab and automatically slows or stops the train if the engineer fails to respond.

Good Gardens Make Good Neighbors

By Sheila and Allan Swenson

That grand gal of gardening, Ruth Stout, is probably the match queen of the world. Her crusade for the much to achieve no-work gardening has finally caught the attention of millions.

Fact is, the idea should have caught on long ago. Mulching pays several ways. It holds moisture in the soil where plants need it. It keeps the ground cool or warm, depending on type and amount of mulch. It adds organic matter as the mulch materials decompose.

But most of all it saves labor. Nobody likes to weed. Weeds rob water and fertilizer valuable plants need. Proper mulching stops weeds from sprouting. That's the main reason to follow this time-proved technique.

In our "Practical Book of Organic Gardening," we point out you can use many easily available materials. Straw, hay, leaves, grass clippings, wood chips, peat moss, just about any organic material around.

For a handy, permanent gardening guide, order Swenson's "Practical Book of Organic Gardening." Send name, address and 2¢ with check or money order for $1.25 (plus 25¢ postage and handling) to Organic Gardening Book, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Allow three weeks for delivery.

seems to care about the environment. Funny thing is they were doing this years ago too. Another amazing point. Much of the credit is clearly due to a love of the land among the grounds crew. It is exemplified by the lead of the crew, Kurt Knaut. For some nine years he has been designing, planting and maintaining what amounts to a botanical garden.

His work has brought letters from civic leaders, governmental officials, and just passerby who took time to write a complimentary letter about the outstanding appearance of the area.

But there is more to the story. It has become a company philosophy. Peaceful, gracious surroundings are a conducive to good work. It is easier to straddle a top environment to an attractive environment.

OH! IN THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Anyone who works with wood or glue or both knows the value of clamps. While contact cement and other fast-setting adhesives have reduced the usage of clamps to some extent, most bonding projects in wood-working still require clamps.

There is a wide variety of clamps. The most common — that with which most of us are familiar — is the C clamp, so-called because its frame, including the jaws, is shaped roughly like the letter C. The steel and variations of C clamps are almost endless, literally running into the hundreds. Because most of these clamps are made of metal, pieces of wood should be inserted between each jaw and between each jaw and the surfaces.

Nearly all hardware stores and lumber yards carry pipe or iron clamps. Actually, you can purchase a pipe clamp, you have bought only part of the equipment. To make it work, you must also buy a piece of pipe that fits into holes in both ends of the clamp. A half-inch clamp, for instance, requires a half-inch piece of pipe, so always buy the clamp first. There is a crank handle at the end of one part of the clamp that is turned to tighten or loosen it.

A pipe clamp is ideal for use on large surfaces. If you were making a big rectangular table top made up of several long pieces of wood that had to be glued together, a pipe clamp would span the surface and hold the lengths of wood in place until the adhesive had dried. The longer the pipe, the larger the area that can be handled by the clamp.

Professional wood workers make frequent use of what are called toolmakers' clamp or hand screws, made of two wooden jaws and two adjusting screws by manipulating one or both of the screws, the jaws can be made parallel or tilted at any desired angle. Since the jaws of this type of clamp are made of hardwood, one must be careful to use a soft pad between the jaws and any soft-wood being worked on.

With all kinds of clamps, there is an important principle. Tighten them only moderately. Tightening them too much will cause the work to twist or otherwise get out of line, ruining the gluing job.

The many varieties of clamps include some which are really straps or bands. And, of course, you can use a pipe clamp, except that it is stationary while those discussed here are portable.

Q — I intend to put down resilient floor tiles on our attic floor. There is nothing there now except a subfloor. I have been told that I must first put down a more permanent floor in order to cement the tiles to it. Is this so and what is meant by a more permanent floor?

A — Forget about the term "more permanent" floor. What is needed is an underlayment, which can be either hardwood or plywood. First make sure that all length of the subfloor are securely attached. In buying the hardwood or plywood, specify that you want the underlayment grade. It costs less than hardwood or plywood intended for use where it will be seen. You will find the underlayment easier to work with the 4 by 4 size rather than the 4 by 8. In nailing the underlayment to the subfloor, leave a tiny space about one-eighth of an inch — at the joints.

Q — The sink in our basement backs up whenever there is any kind of stoppage in the plumbing line. Why does this only happen there and not in any of the upstairs sinks?

A — Because the basement sink is the lowest point in the line.

For either of Andy Lang's helpful booklets, "Simple Plumbing Repairs" and "Wood Finishing in the Home," send 20 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.

Q — I varnished the top of a coffee table. It came out very well, but not quite perfect. A friend suggested that I use putty powder and oil to get a superfinish. I did what he told me. The finish came out fine. I mean to say, it was like glass when I ran my fingers over it. But I wasn't too happy about the fact that the putty took the gloss off the varnish. Is there any way I can restore it? It doesn't have to be as glossy as it was originally, but I just don't like the present dull finish.

A — Putty is an abrasive and therefore naturally cuts down on the high gloss of a finishing material. What you had to do now is to polish the finish to give it a satiny look. One of several ways to do this is to polish the surface of the table with rottenstone and oil.

Do a small area at a time, pouring a little oil on the wood, then sprinkling some rottenstone powder into the oil. Use a clean cloth, preferably something made of felt, rub the area vigorously. Then move on to the next area and repeat the procedure. When all parts of the top have been done this way, repeat the rubbing over the entire surface. The harder and longer you rub, the more you will be satisfied with the results.

Here's How Greenhouse Needs Light

By VIVIAN BROWN

You can eat, relax and entertain in your own greenhouse. You may even build it yourself. If you want to be a serious grower, you can do as the Romans did — get a nice long growing season for vegetables.

The unit may be a tiny enclosure, part of a living area or a large annex of your house. The idea offers the ultimate in tranquility for those who would commune with nature within four walls.

A greenhouse environment can be planned almost anywhere there is maximum light, drainage, protection from wind plus convenience, observed Jean Eaton in discussing his book "Gardening Under Glass," which is all about greenhouses and how to grow the plants that go into them. A long-time expert, Eaton is the director of Old Westbury Gardens and president of Kitchener Research Laboratories, the research arm of the Brooklyn Botanical Garden, where he is also a member of the board.

The ideal site for a greenhouse is one that is unobstructed toward the south. But

Director Ritter Urges Action On His Board

Construction Licenses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Director Lou Ritter told a House subcommittee today that his department of Professional and Occupational Regulation should be abolished or given some control over the 29 boards under its jurisdiction.

Ritter said he had urged the construction industry licensing board to hire an independent testing service to prepare its examinations but the board persisted in preparing the tests itself.

The commerce subcommittee began a study of the board's examination procedures as a result of the general contractors' test taken in March by 2,149 persons. The board first said none passed then in two steps increased the passing number to 1,887.

Heating units, frostproof footing, electricity and water are required in most greenhouses. In planning the heat one needs a BTU reading can be gotten from heating specialists, who will base their findings on the size of the house planned and the temperature to be maintained.

As for materials — steel, aluminum, wood, fiberglass and polyethylene plastic are being used successfully. Eaton has had an aluminum greenhouse for 15 years that has required no maintenance costs, although he remarked, aluminum initially costs at least 20 percent more than other materials. Wood offers a uniform appearance since it does not cool off as quickly as less absorbent materials, and many people prefer it. Rot-resistant woods — cypress or redwood — would be preferable.

The basic greenhouse is not really expensive, he explained. A 12-foot, automatically ventilated, do-it-yourself lean-to (with glass) costs about $500. Others of the same size would cost $100 to $1,200. The foundation and heat are additional. Greenhouse roofs may be determined by many things — necessary headroom, snow loads, the aesthetics of the shape of the unit.

Although glass in the thickness needed to weather the elements is more or less traditional, panes of rigid plastic and other fiberglass materials provide good light transmission and hold up well.

Realtors Back Legislation On State Land Use Laws

CHICAGO — The NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS has changed its policy on land use legislation pending in Congress and the REALTORS Board of Directors has recognized the right of states to develop land use plans in areas of heavy public facility concentration and overriding environmental concern.

In essence, the action assures general backing by REALTORS of present legislation pending in Congress which is supported by Senator Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) and the Nixon Administration.

President J.D. Sawyer announced today that action by the Board "recognizes a growing need for an overall land use policy to promote more effective land use planning by state and local governments."

Action by the REALTORS in amending their statement of policy identifies fundamental areas of agreement with Congress and the Administration in developing pending land use policy. Sawyer said, while at the same time continuing to disagree with any plan by government to usurp local controls in matters of strictly local concern.

Sewer and no-growth moratoriums, and extensive delays and litigation causing cancellations of significant residential, commercial and industrial developments because of unsettled environmental questions, have created uncertainty and even chaos in many areas of the country, the REALTORS' President said.

The new policy states: "We recognize and support the immediate need for a land use policy which would address itself to the planning of land resource use by state and local government in areas of critical environmental concern and in areas impacted by key public facilities, with due consideration to individual property rights and to the board guidelines established in the national interest."

"We also believe in the continued fundamental right of local government to determine the use of land on all other matters within its boundaries."

"We oppose the use of federal money to coerce the state and local governments in their development of land use plans."

"We condemn the confiscatory practice of land use moratoriums by any level of government."

Previously, the policy of the Association, as adopted in 1972, had stated: "We oppose the use of the power of federal money to influence or coerce the states to develop statewide land use policies which would limit the power of local governments to zone the use of land within their jurisdictions."

"We reject as wholly unwarranted and unnecessary federal and state government limitation of local zoning power in determining the residential, commercial, and industrial development of the land."

Real Estate Question Box

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Real Estate Editor

(Editor's Note: If you have an inquiry about real estate, taxes, zoning, etc., address your question to Editor, Lifestyles, The Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla. 32771. Please sign your name. However, only initials will be used.)

Editor:
There is a lady in my neighborhood who is planning to move north for a couple of years. She owns several homes in this area and she has asked me if I would be interested in collecting the rent, handle repairs, keep records, etc. For this she said she would pay me a percentage of the monthly rent collected. I would also have the responsibility of renting the units if and when they became available. I was telling my mother about this and she said she thought I would have to have a real estate license to do something like this. —Mrs. DEJ

Dear Mrs. DEJ:
Your mother is correct. If you're going to show rental homes to prospective tenants, formulate rental agreements and leases, collect rental payments, arrange for repairs and the like, you're going to become an agent for the owner. To perform these duties you will need a real estate license.

Let me explain:
If the property or properties were yours, you could manage them without a license. If you do it for an owner you become the owner's agent and you must have the proper license. If you do it without a license you could be violating the Florida Real Estate Code.

If I were you I would call the Florida Real Estate Commission office in Winter Park before getting involved.

Editor:
A builder is constructing two new homes in our neighborhood and I am told that he must pave the street in front of these homes before he can sell them. Is this true? —Mrs. LFD

Dear Mrs. LFD:
If those homes are being built inside the City Limits of Sanford the builder will have to place on deposit with the City of Sanford the necessary funds to pave his share of the street in front of those homes.

Editor:
Can a deed restriction specify that no home in a given area be constructed for less than a specific amount of money? —GAK

Dear Mr. GAK:
Yes, it can. However, it is very seldom used anymore because of inflation. Normally, deed restrictions today provide that no less than a certain number of square feet must be constructed on a given lot or parcel of property.

Editor:
If one individual agrees to sell a piece of property to another individual is it necessary that a contract be put in writing? —LNJ

Dear Mr. LNJ:
The sale of a piece of property from one individual to another can be done without a written contract but the verbal contract would not be enforceable if one party defaulted. Consequently, we are not lawyers and you should consult an attorney or a real estate broker. It is safe to say that a contract for the sale and purchase of a piece of property must be in writing.

Editor:
My real estate broker tells me that it is common practice for a seller of a piece of property to take a note secured by a second mortgage as part of the down payment. Is he correct? —Mrs. DAF

Dear Mrs. DAF:
Your real estate broker is correct. It is common practice for sellers of property to take a note secured by a second mortgage as part of the down payment.

Let's suppose you are interested in selling your home for cash down to the mortgage and the prospective buyer will assume your existing mortgage. Let's pretend you're asking $35,000 for your home and the existing mortgage is $25,000. Your buyer would need $10,000. If he doesn't have $10,000 you could agree to accept $5,000 in cash and a note for $5,000 secured by a second mortgage. You and the buyer would have to negotiate the terms of note.

A Big Decision Buying A House Takes Time

By LOUISE GILL
Extension Home Economics Agent

Shopping for a house follows a careful weighing of your family's needs and your income prospects.

After deciding that buying a house is right for your family at this time, you are ready to shop. One way to find out what houses are available is to check the newspaper advertisements.

You may also want to talk with real estate agents. Select agents as you would a doctor, dentist or lawyer. Inquire of friends. Check with mortgage officers of several banks and savings and loan associations for their recommendations. The agent you plan to deal with should be active in the neighborhoods you are interested in and be able to show you pictures of homes he has sold recently in your price bracket. Watch for "open house" signs and tell friends that you are in the market for a house.

Systematically evaluate potential houses and assess their merits and detractions for your family. Check sheets are available from some real estate agents or you can make your own. Here are some points you should consider in the purchase of a house:

—The neighborhood. Is it attractive and well maintained? Is the neighborhood zoned residential? Are there flooding problems? Are there children in the same age group as yours? Are there public facilities and utilities? Is it likely that special assessments will be levied in the near future?

—The lot. Is it graded so water will drain away in every direction from the house and from the lot? Is it large enough for adequate privacy and the family activities you enjoy? Does the lot have attractive and healthy trees? Is automobile access simple and easy? Are there sidewalks? Is the view from the house pleasant? —The house. Will it continue to meet your needs and be at-

Ranch Home Of Bricks Tops List

What type of architecture does the typical American family prefer in today's single-family home market? While the overall favorite is the one-level ranch home, there are some major differences in preference between young, middle-aged and older families and tastes definitely vary by geographical area.

These were some of the conclusions reached in a seven-state survey of real estate brokers conducted by J.I. Kislak Mortgage Corporation, the mortgage banking services division of The Kislak Organization, and one of the nation's largest mortgage banking companies in the conventional, FHA and VA financing field.

Slightly more than half (55 percent) of all brokers who responded to the Kislak survey singled out the ranch as the most popular style, with colonial taking second place. Following well behind were modern, bi-level and split.

But these clear national choices blurred considerably when the same brokers were asked to name the preferences of home buyers in three different age brackets—under 30, 30 to 45, and over 45.

Under 30s Like Modern Best

Among those under 30, modern was the style with greatest appeal, followed closely by the split level. Bi-level homes ranked third and ranch homes showed up fourth. Colonial style homes, which figure high in national preferences, appeal to only a scattering of those under 30, the brokers said.

Geographically, the under 30s differed too. In Florida, for example, the modern home was the clear favorite. Townhouse living shared second place with ranch and bi-level homes, but splits drew scarcely any votes. In New Jersey, on the other hand, splits were the favorite by far, bi-level and modern architecture next, and ranches in fourth place. Georgia, supposedly a southern state, shared an almost identical point of view with New Jersey, differing completely from its southern neighbor, Florida, at least in the under 30 group.

30 to 45 Age Preferences

Tremendous differences exist in the 30 to 45 group too, the brokers told Kislak. Colonial style homes take first place in the overall preferences, with ranch homes second, followed closely by bi-level and split-level living. Townhouses had only limited appeal in sharp contrast to the under 30 group, a reflection of the expanding need for living space as families grow and their children move up through elementary and high school.

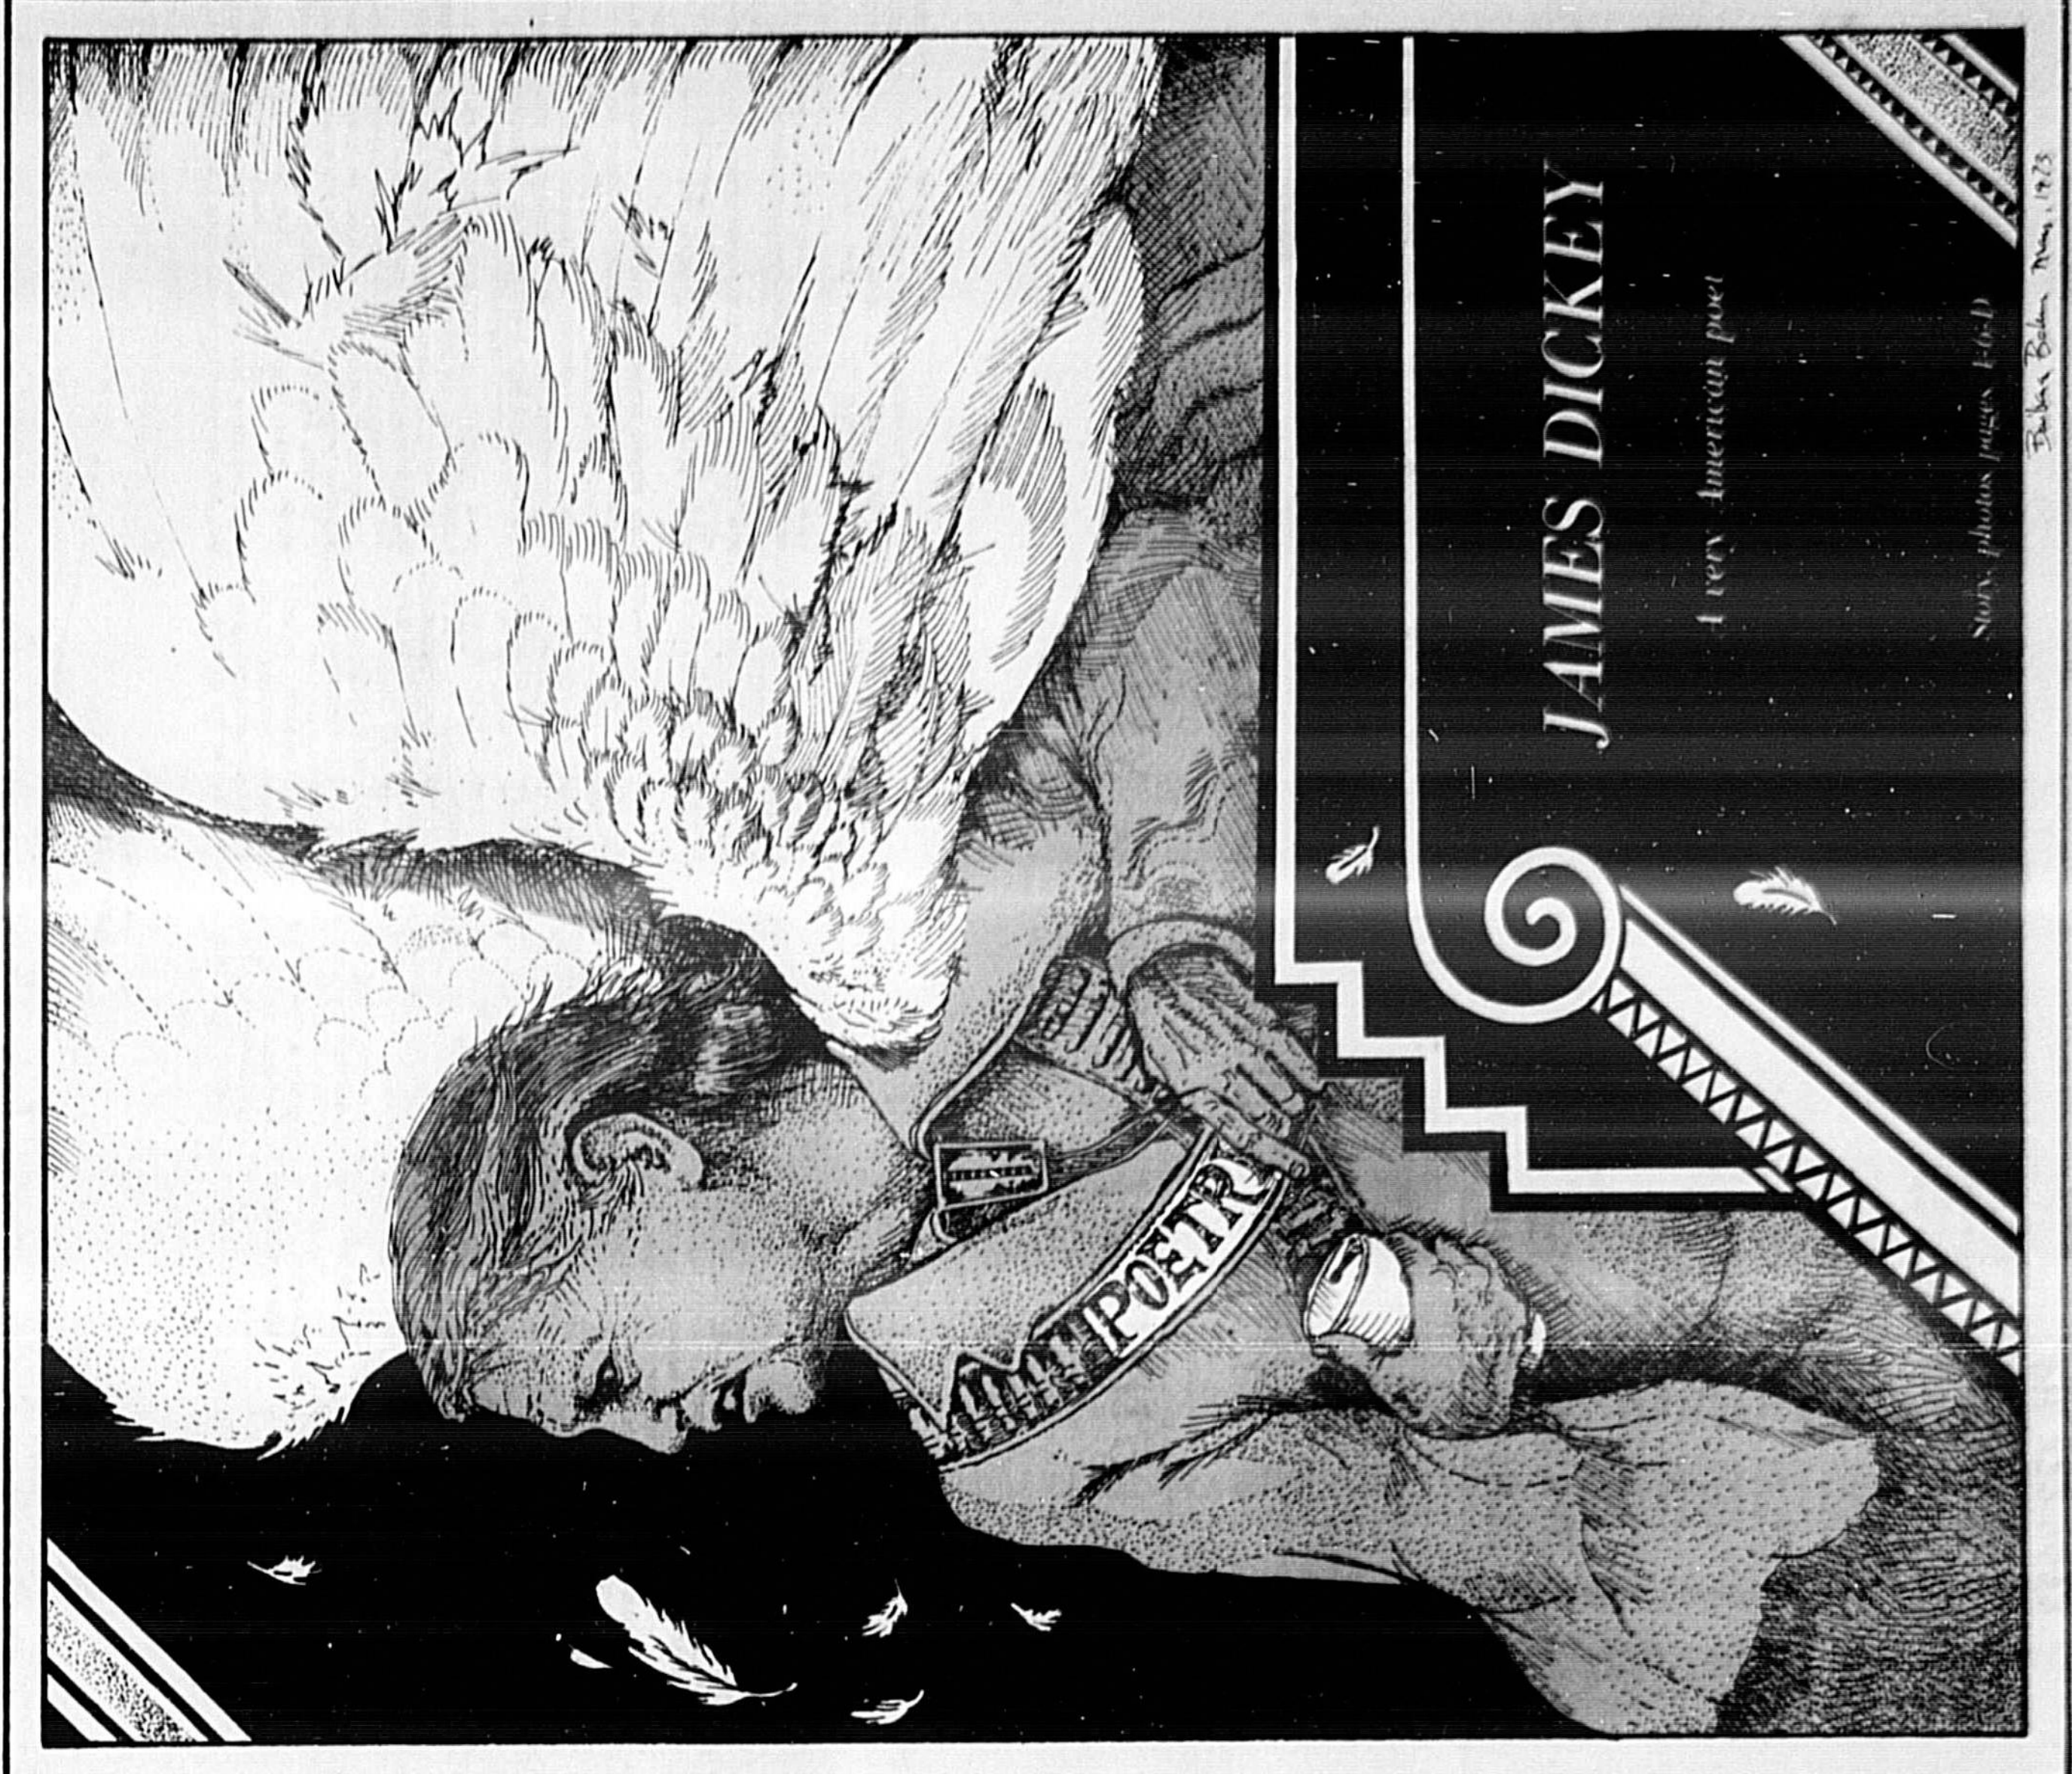

Floridians in this age group differ a good deal from the national average, however. Ranch homes take first place with modern homes close behind. Split levels, colonials and bi-level homes, despite their generally larger square footage, are bunched far back.

Over 45 Group Different Too

Once buyers are over 45 their preferences change again, according to the real estate brokers quizzed by Kislak. First place goes solidly to ranch style homes—a reflection of the demand for one level of living space. Townhouses rate second, colonials third and tudor style homes fourth. Moreover, responses from different geographical areas conform closely to the national average, indicating that no matter where people over 45 live, they prefer ranch homes first and have great interest in town house living.

Toilets: How to Avoid Hand-Jiggling

By BARBARA A. CURRY

From "Okay, I'll Do It Myself" by Barbara A. Curry. Copyright © 1971 by Random House, Inc.

Now you know what should go on in your toilet—when it doesn't, here are some remedies. For all problems, lift the tank float here.

Either straighten or bend it, depending on where it's missing. Don't be too drastic with the cure. Hit the handle again and see where the ball flops. Continue fiddling until it zeroes in on the outlet.

One toilet problem unrelated to the tank is the stopped up one. No drain cleaners here. The only recourse is the plumber's helper. Well, not quite. There's always the plumber himself. But try the helper first. Unless you have a plaster or some other unsoluble down the toilet, or there's trouble elsewhere, with dedicated effort the dam will bust.

off the top of the tank.

Dear Mrs. DAF:
Your real estate broker is correct. It is common practice for sellers of property to take a note secured by a second mortgage as part of the down payment.

Heather Hall Construction Is Underway

ST. CLOUD—Heather Hall Condominiums, a Tompkins Development Company project located just west of St. Cloud on SH 325, is out of the ground, and well on its way to a completion date.

Joe Nerove, Sales Manager for Tompkins, expects to see the 232 unit development sold out before completion. Promotional and advertising programs will begin later this month, with emphasis on pre-construction sales. Heather Hall will feature one and two-bedroom condominiums in a countryside setting. Nerove feels the location and atmosphere will appeal to young families, couples, and others who want to live outside the city, yet stay within minutes of Orlando shopping and work areas.

complication and expense. Certainly try to get your landlord to do it. If you get nowhere and just can't stand the Chinese water torture, you can buy a complete kit of the tank insides and readily do the job. Don't forget to turn off the water!

One toilet problem unrelated to the tank is the stopped up one. No drain cleaners here. The only recourse is the plumber's helper. Well, not quite. There's always the plumber himself. But try the helper first. Unless you have a plaster or some other unsoluble down the toilet, or there's trouble elsewhere, with dedicated effort the dam will bust.

Toilet Seats. If you are saddled with a cheap plastic seat and a park, bright place to work, you can buy your own and store the landlord's. The only figuring you have to do is the shape of the seat in relation to the bowl. For instance, if you have the standard oval bowl, the elongated seat won't fit.

If the tank is filled but the water continues to run, the inlet valve isn't closing properly. Take the rod that holds the tank float and raise it slightly. If the water stops, bend the rod until the float is at that height when left to its own devices. If that doesn't work, the float is probably water-logged. It should not be an iceberg—more under than floating. About half in the water and half out is right. Unscrew the float from the rod and replace with the newer solid-plastic type which should end that problem for all time.

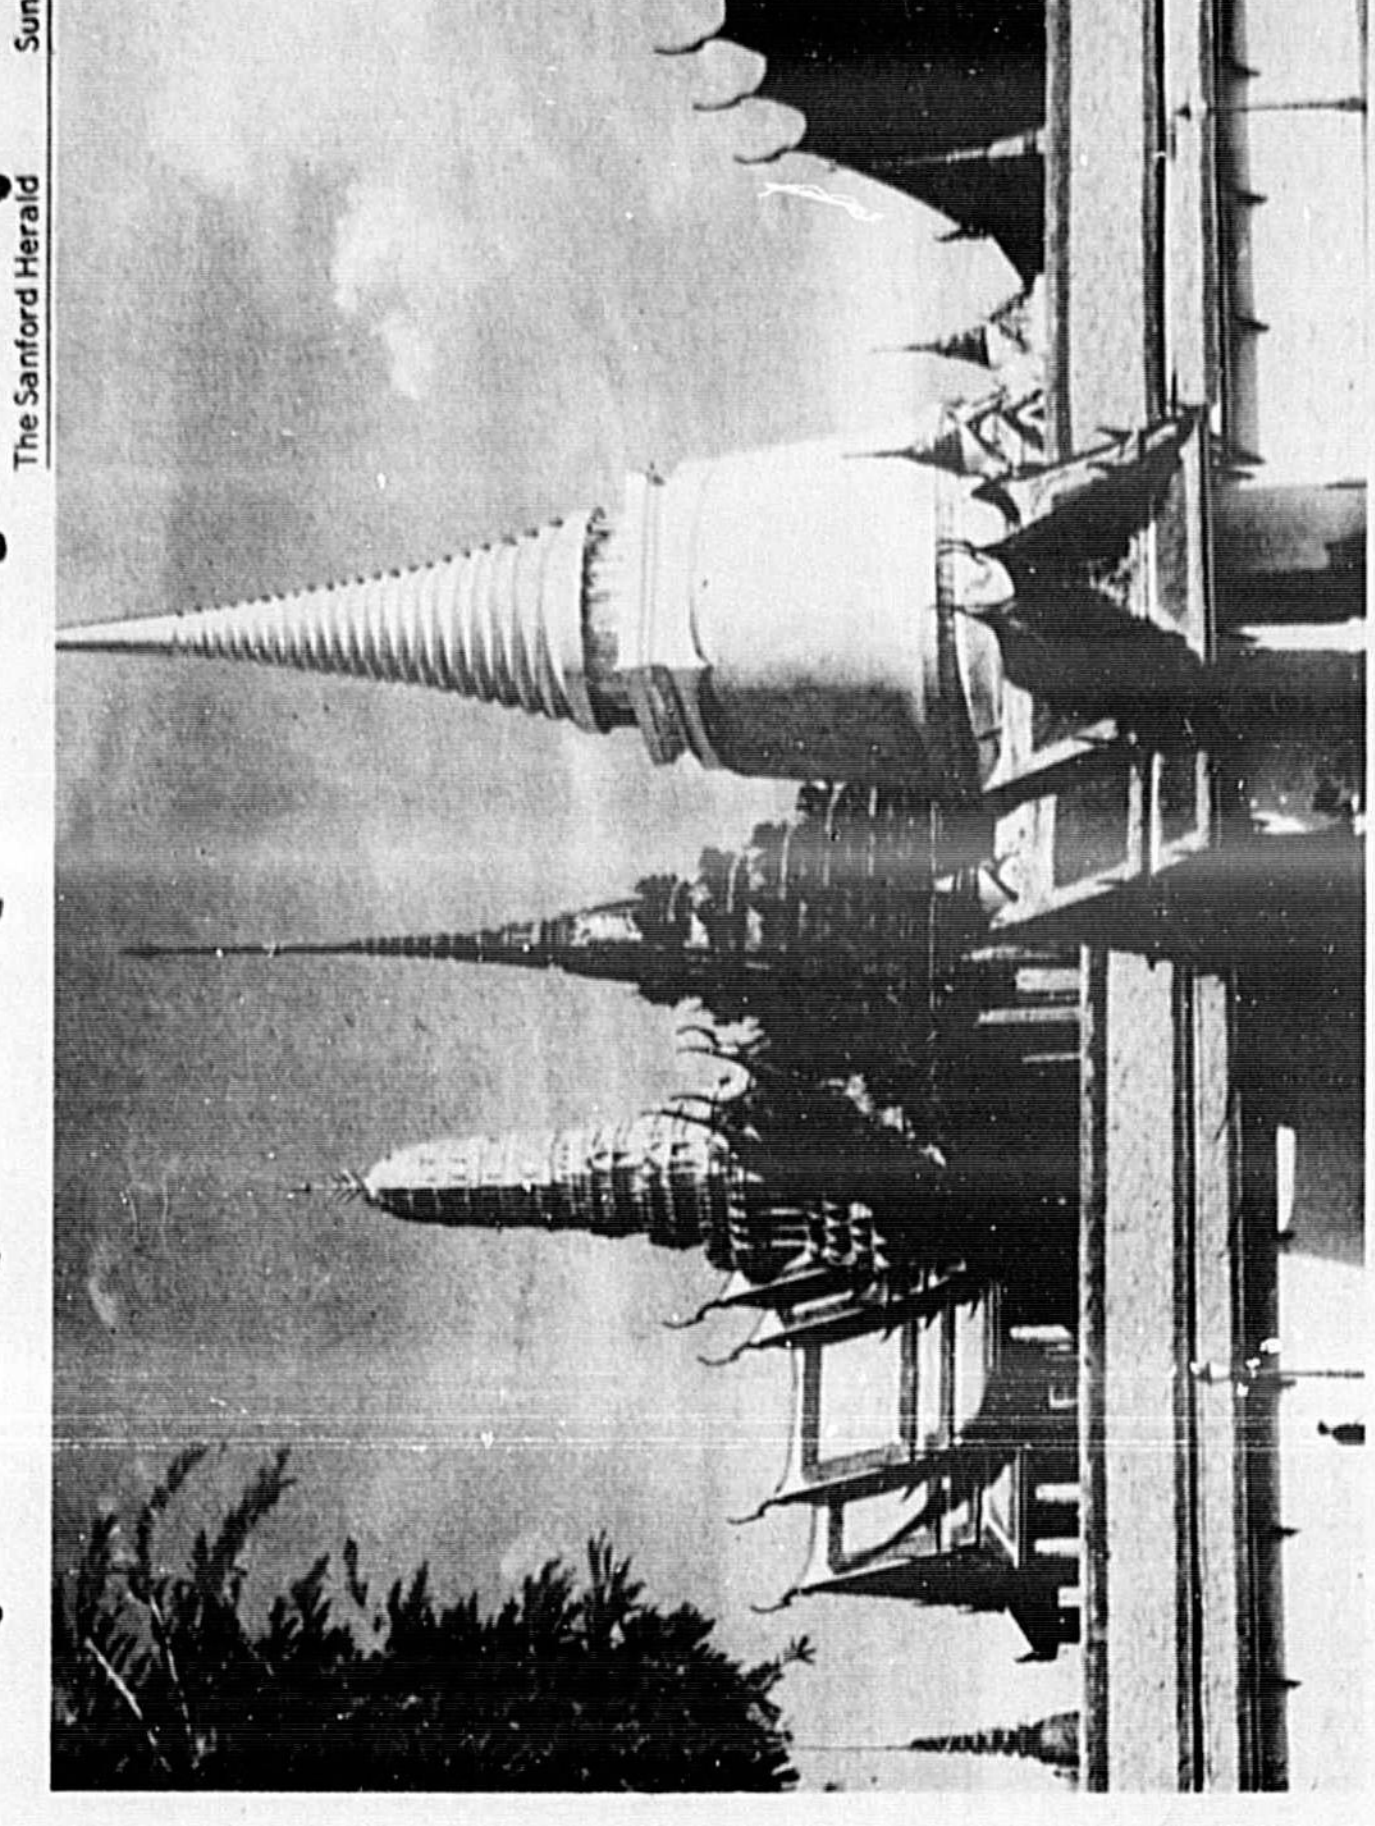

When none of these suggestions ends the problems, you can figure the works are kaput. Rather than repair it piecemeal, the whole glorious apparatus should be replaced. If you're renting, you may not want to get into this

ABOUT ANIMALS

Porcupine — Porcupines are found in many of the northern and western states and in forests and eat the bark and leaves of trees. A porcupine has long, sharp quills that pull out easily. Its quills cannot throw their quills but by moving their tails back and forth, they try to stick the quills into their attacker.

OUR NEW AGE

MAN-MADE MEAT

—THE COMING REVOLUTION... AS DEMAND FOR PROTEIN INCREASES FASTER THAN THE SUPPLY AND PRICES CONTINUE TO RISE, NEW MEATLESS "MEATS" SURPRISINGLY CLOSE TO THE REAL THING, WILL HAVE TO FILL THE GAP.

A NEW "STEAK" NOW BEING DEVELOPED HAS APPEARANCE, COLOR, TEXTURE AND TASTE VERY CLOSE TO A CUT OF PRIME BEEF.

THE BASIC INGREDIENT OF SUCH "MEATS" IS SOYBEANS, WHICH ARE ROLLED, FLAKED GROUND, PROCESSED TO REMOVE THE OIL, THEN SPUN OR EXTRUDED INTO FINE THREADS THAT ARE OVER 90 PERCENT PROTEIN.

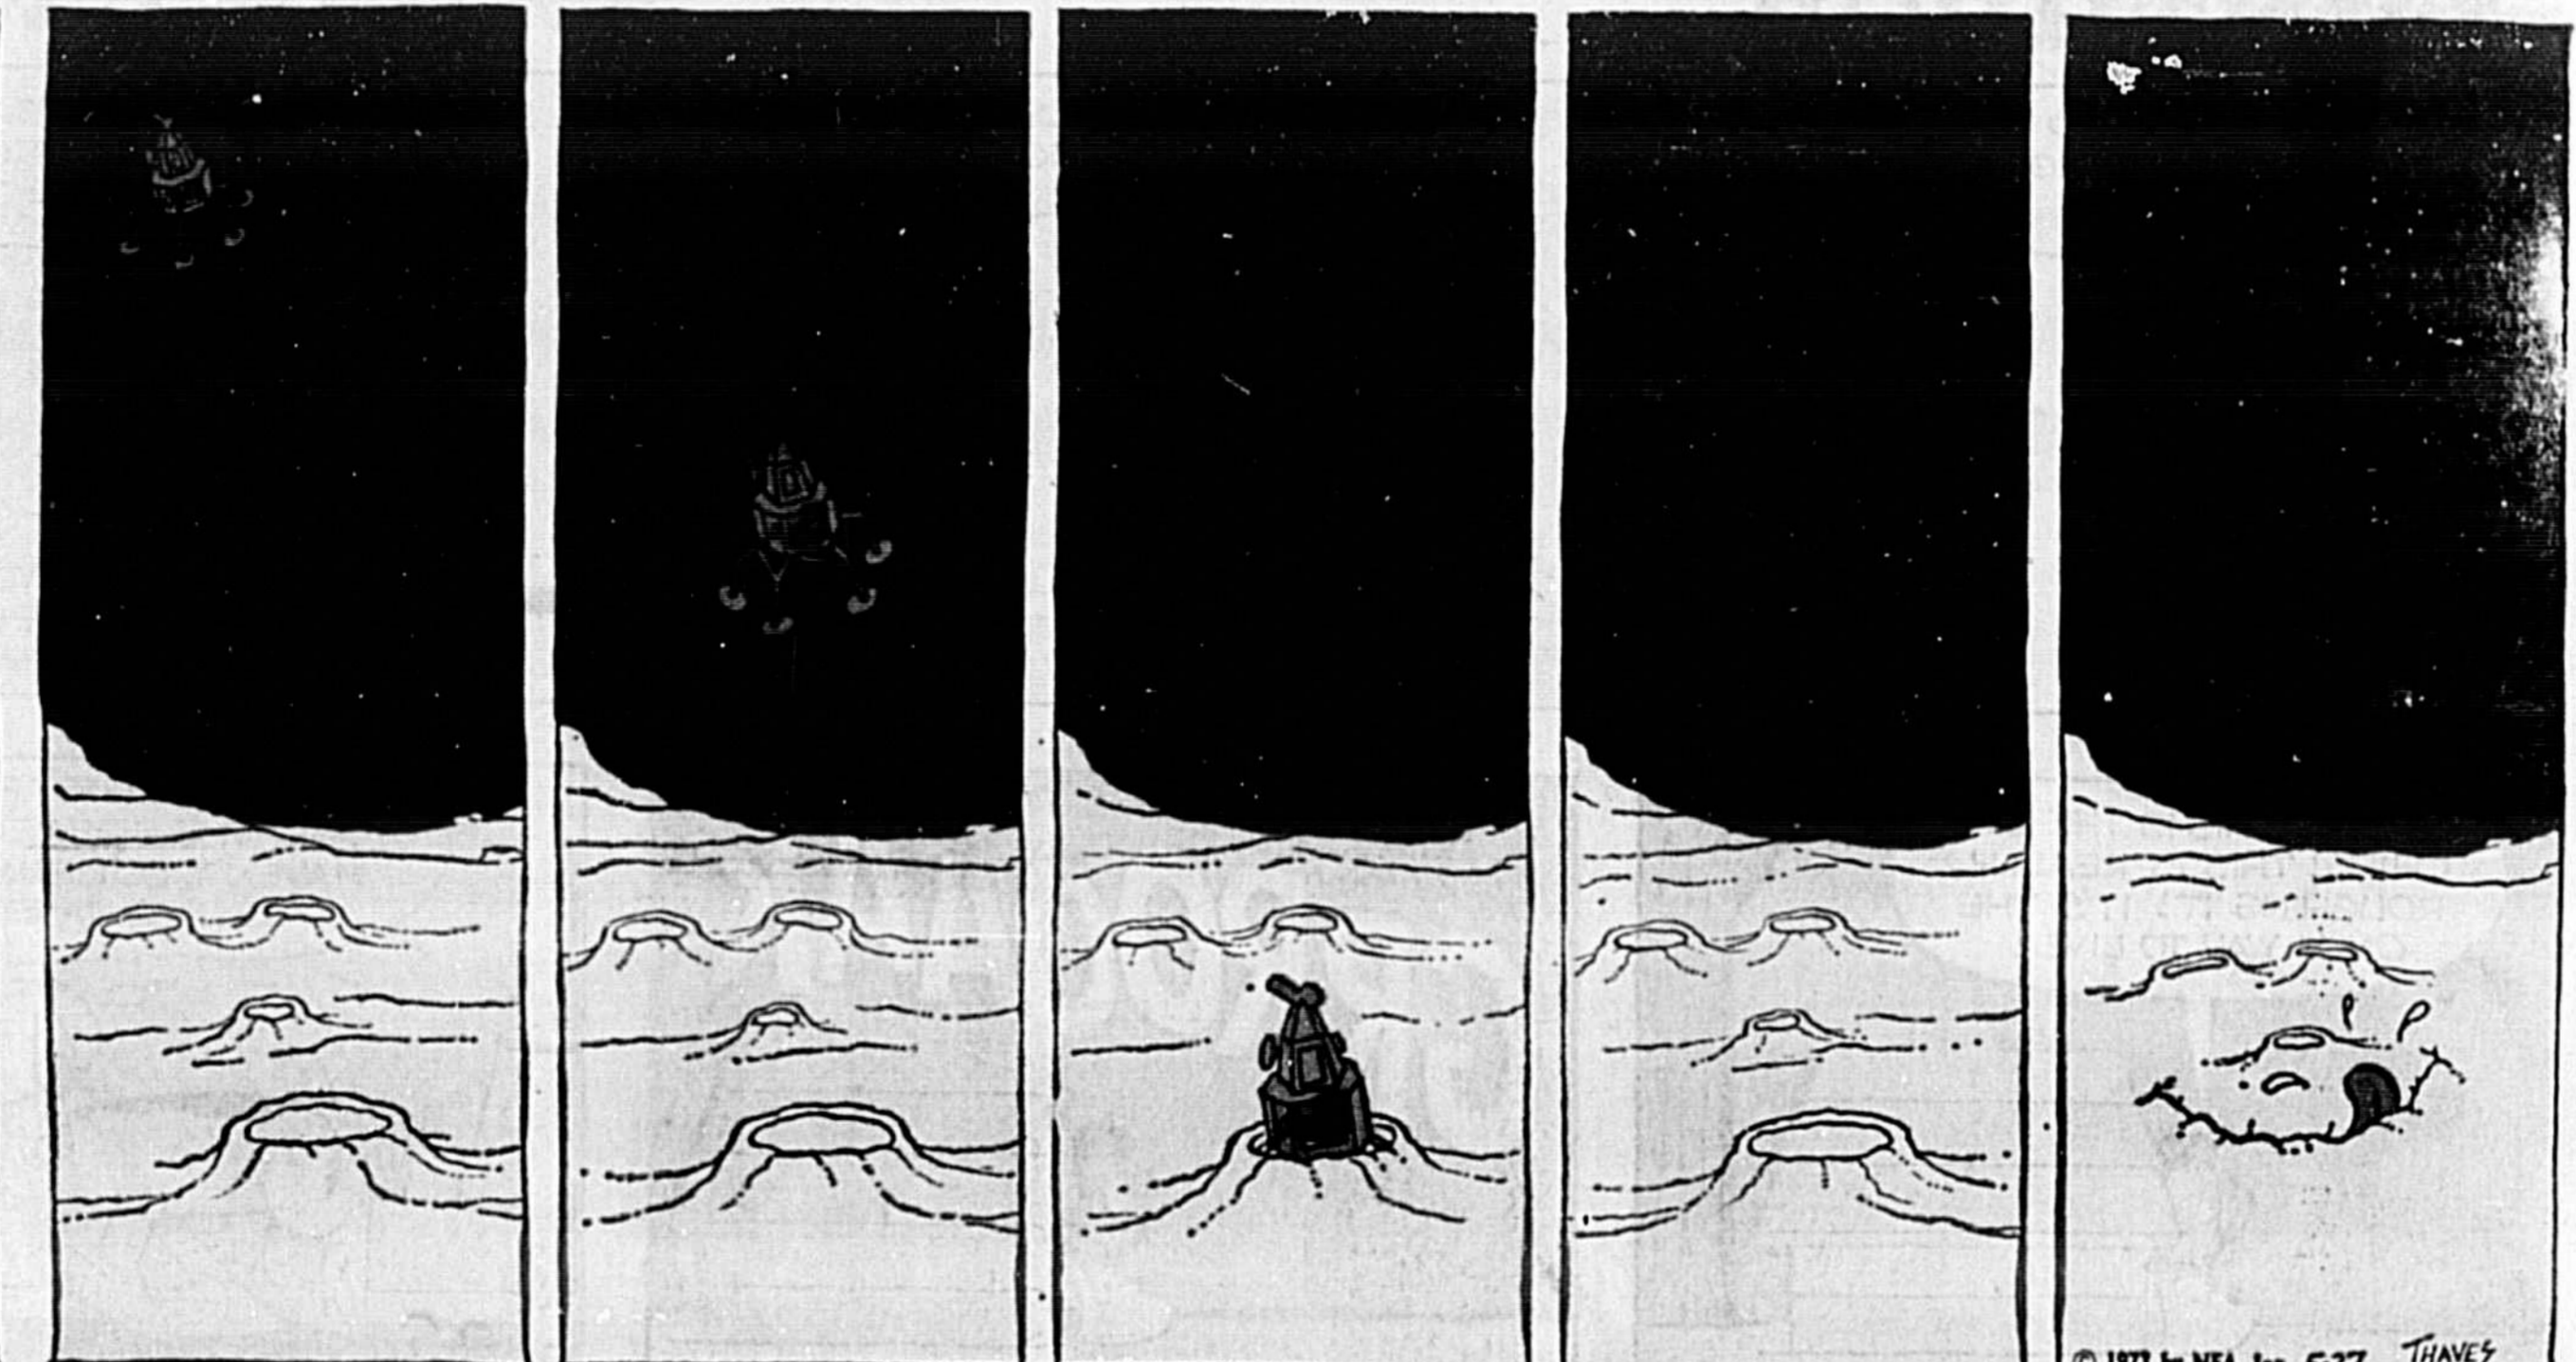

THE FIBERS ARE STRETCHED TO GIVE THEM GREATER STRENGTH AND CHEWINESS AND CUT INTO SHORT LENGTHS TO BE MIXED WITH COLORING, FLAVORING AND ADDITIONAL NUTRIENTS.

WHEN THE NEW MAN-MADE MEATS MOVE FROM THE LAB AND SPECIALTY SHOP INTO THE NEIGHBORHOOD SUPER-MARKET—AND THE ADVANTAGES OF LOW PRICE, HIGH NUTRITION AND NEAR-ZERO CHOLESTEROL CONTENT ARE REALIZED—THE REVOLUTION WILL BE ON.

CARL PAYNE TOBEY'S This week in ASTROLOGY

Pisces IMAGINATION Plus Aquarius INVENTIVENESS!

WITH SUN IN PISCES AND MERCURY VENUS AND SATURN IN ARIES FOR INVENTIVENESS, DR. SEUSS (TED GEISEL) WRITER OF CHILDREN'S BOOKS, ALSO HAD MARS IN ARIES. SIGN OF CHILDREN, AT BIRTH, THE IMAGINATION OF PISCES PRODUCED THE FANTASIES OF HIS AMUSING CHARACTERS.

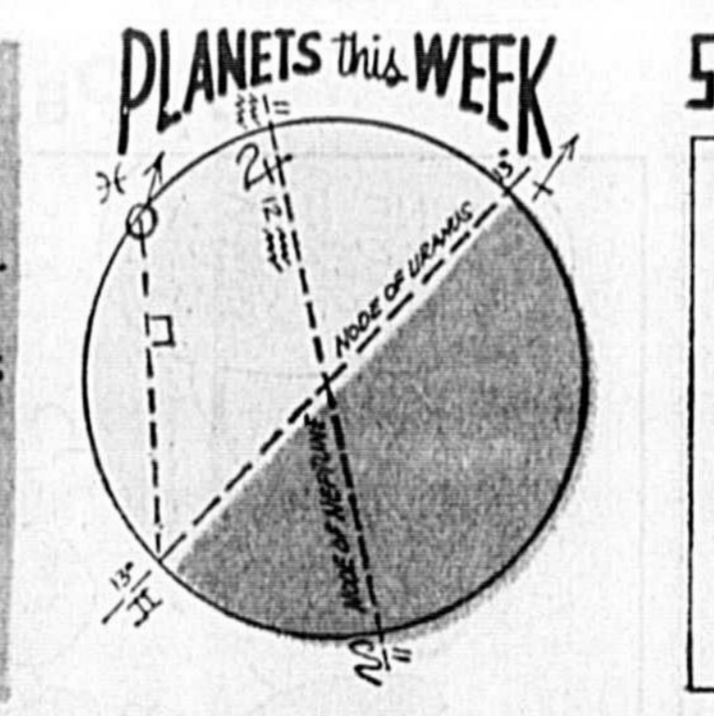

Valentine 5-27

Tobey's Prediction

THE WEEK OF MAY 27-JUNE 2 CAN BE VERY FUZZY IN MANY WAYS. THERE IS CHAOS ON THE UPPER LEVELS. MOTIVES ARE MYSTERIOUS AND ILL-DEFINED. DECISIONS ARE DIFFICULT. THERE CAN BE SO MUCH MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL TERRITORY TO BE COVERED, MANY PEOPLE CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHERE THEY WANT TO GO. THE ESP LINES ARE ALSO BROADCASTING CONFUSION.

JUPITER ON NODE OF NEPTUNE, MARS SQUARE NODE OF URANUS, MOON MOVES FROM ARIES THROUGH TAURUS AND GEMINI INTO CANCER. SUN 5° TO 13° GEMINI, MERCURY 13° TO 27° GEMINI, VENUS 18° TO 26° GEMINI, MARS 13°-18° PISCES, JUPITER 12° AQUARIUS, SATURN 21°-22° GEMINI, URANUS 19° LIBRA, NEPTUNE 6°-5° SAGITTARIUS, PLUTO 1° LIBRA, LUNAR NODE 9° CAPRICORN.

SCIENTIFIC and NONSCIENTIFIC EVALUATION

SCIENTISTS TRY TO EVALUATE EVERYTHING IN MATERIAL TERMS. AS DR. CARL G. JUNG SAID, "ALL THE CORPSES IN THE WORLD ARE CHEMICALLY IDENTICAL, BUT LIVING INDIVIDUALS ARE NOT." ASTROLOGY EVALUATES LIFE... NOT MATTER.

Astrology Student's Notebook

JUPITER IN VIRGO AT BIRTH GIVES A PHILOSOPHICAL OUTLOOK THAT IS PRACTICAL AND BUSINESSLIKE. KNOWLEDGE IS HIGHLY VALUED—BUT MAINLY KNOWLEDGE THAT CAN ENABLE THE INDIVIDUAL TO SUCCEED IN A MATERIAL SENSE. THE ABSTRACT MAY BE MORE DIFFICULT TO UNDERSTAND WHEN UNRELATED TO MATERIAL THINGS. SECURITY BECOMES QUITE IMPORTANT.

POLLY'S TONGUES

DEAR POLLY—When having trouble removing candle wax from dishes, candle holders and such, put them in the freezer. After the wax is completely frozen it will slide off.—L. F. P.

DEAR POLLY—When you want to leave a note on the door inside a storm door or on an apartment door, write it on an envelope and stick the note to the door with the glue on the flap. I save the Post-it's to send to my sister, as they do not have your column in her paper.—VIVIAN

DEAR POLLY—To keep baby's blankets from slipping off I made a hunting bottom out of baby-print flannel and then lined the inside so it would slip easily over the blankets. Use two pieces 20 x 22 inches, round the bottom edges, sew together and make a casing at the top for inserting a piece of elastic about 19 inches long. This slips under baby's arms, keeps him cozy and warm and does not tend to be as slippery as synthetic blankets.—MRS. M. K.

DEAR POLLY—Whenever I want to drain a can of fruit that is to be used in a cake, muffins or whatever, I open the can with a beer-type can opener and drain the liquid off into a glass or jar. This saves washing an additional strainer.—ADELINE

DEAR POLLY—After washing and drying but before using paperholders, spray them with spray starch and let dry again. They stay clean longer and will wash clean more easily.—DEBBIE C. FAY

DEAR POLLY—Each time sheets and other linens are washed, vary the way they are folded so folding the same way each time creates creases that will weaken the threads along that line.—FAY

DEAR POLLY—Try using nylon thread when you are gathering fabric. Its strength allows the gathers to pull up evenly. It also holds them securely where wanted until they are stitched in place.—GINA

Brighten It Up
Brighten up these gingham aprons with a giant-size rose or a delicate pansy border in easy cross-stitch. Pattern No. 178 has space directions, graphs for embroidery on gingham.

TO ORDER Send 60¢ with name and address, pattern number and size to NEEDLEWORK (c/o this newspaper), Box 4388, Midtown Station, New York, N.Y. 10018.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

LAURA MATHEWS OF TROY, ALA. ASKS:

DOES AN OSTRICH WIDE ITS HEAD?

YOU CAN'T SEE ME!!

NO, AN OSTRICH DOESN'T REALLY HIDE ITS HEAD IN THE SAND, ACCORDING TO A POPULAR IDEA, A FRIGHTENED OSTRICH THINKS THAT IT IS SAFELY HIDDEN WHEN IT HIDES ITS HEAD IN THE SAND. WHAT REALLY HAPPENS IS THAT, WHEN RESTING OR HIDING, THE OSTRICH MAY SIT AND STRETCH ITS LONG NECK ALONG THE GROUND WHILE KEEPING WATCH WITH ITS SHARP EYES. AT A DISTANCE ONLY ITS BIG BODY CAN BE SEEN, AND IT MAY LOOK LIKE THE OSTRICH IS INDEED HIDING ITS HEAD IN THE SAND. BUT IF THE DANGER COMES TOO CLOSE, THE OSTRICH DOES WHAT OTHER ANIMALS DO—IT RUNS AWAY AT TOP SPEED.
