

Six-Day Week A "Must," Says Manufacturer

Martin Says Government Should Have Powers To Draft Labor, Industry

Substitute For Loan Bill Drawn

Drafter Of Measure Says He Discussed It With Willkie

DETROIT, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Federal Labor Conciliator James F. Dwyer today announced that as a "defense measure" he insists that all plants of the Eaton Manufacturing Company, suppliers of airplane engine parts, be required that all striking employees be sent back to work. The strike began at the Eaton plant in Saginaw, Mich., spread to the company's plants in Detroit, Eastland, Ark., and Marshall, Mich., and then to Cleveland, Ohio, affecting about 25,000 workers. This is the first time such a drastic step has been taken anywhere in the country, Dwyer said.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Glenn L. Martin, airplane manufacturer, testified before the House Naval Committee today that the government should have power to draft both labor and industry for defense production.

He also asserted that a six-day week for "all means necessary" in defense industries is essential for making heavy and expensive equipment.

A substitute for the Administration's bill to require the government to draft labor and industry for defense production was introduced by Representative Simpson, Republican, New York.

Under his measure, a concurrent resolution would have to be approved by Congress before the president could supply war materials to China, Greece or other nations resisting the Axis powers.

Simpson, serving his first term in Congress, said before introducing his substitute he discussed it with Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, who approved the "with modifications" one modification was a limitation on the duration of the president's powers.

Bulgaria Says Nazis Haven't Entered Nation

Italian General Captured In Africa; British Report 9 Planes Shot Down

By Associated Press—Bulgaria today issued a formal denial that any foreign troops had entered the country in the first officially published notice of foreign reports of German troop movements there.

The British reported the capture of the Italian Blackshirt General Arsenio after he had been spotted from the air "hiding by the waters edge" in North Africa, and the destruction of nine airplanes believed to be German Junkers 87's in a heavy weekend raid.

Turkey's official radio and press accepted Bulgarian Premier Philoff's expressed desire for neutrality yesterday as proof that despite the premier's recent "health" visit to Germany he did not commit Bulgaria to a new pro-German policy in the Balkans.

This pro-Bulgarian stand was made as staff officers of Britain's Middle East command arrived for military discussions which observers said might affect the course of the war in the Mediterranean, the Balkans, and Africa. The two-day military session began today.

Bombs Poured On Plymouth; Greek Forces Pursue Italians

Battle Beyond Kiliura Said Developing Satisfactorily Despite Opposition

By Associated Press—Greek forces smashed doggedly at the heels of the retreating Italians across the central Albanian foothills, and the R.A.F. reported a strong aerial attack on Serrai, the center of Albanian oil production to which the Fascists are falling back.

The battle beyond Greek-captured Kiliura "continued to develop satisfactorily" in the face of stubborn Italian opposition, Athens reported.

Greek quarters last night hailed the retirement of Italy's Albanian commander, Gen. Ubaldo Soddu, as an indication that Greek capture of Kiliura has cracked the Fascist defense system in southern Albania.

Apparently spurred on by the success at Kiliura, Greek forces were reported pushing farther up the coastal road toward Valona and smashing deeper into the Kiliura-Tepelini area.

Greek opinion was that an imminent offensive of the Italian Albanian defense system had been smashed at Kiliura, opening a new route of attack against Valona which the Fascists are fortifying against possible siege.

Greek reports said Italy had pushed almost an entire division, about 15,000 men, into the Kiliura-Tepelini area.

A correspondent with the Greek army on the southern front reported Greek troops were entering at fortified heights guarding the Tepelini area.

The so-called Soddu line, which has failed to stem the Greek advance, actually consists of fortifications erected hastily in recent weeks, informed quarters here.

The mountain still remains a formidable barrier to a Greek push on Valona, but the Greeks believe the worst already is past.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

BEHOLD, I BRING DEATH AND SORROW TO THE WIDOWS OF THE EARTH...

Christmas, 1940

(From The Saturday Review of Literature) How many years to Bethlehem?

The friendly, soft candle light is pale fire to death...

Through skies the Wise Men humbly scanned, Three keen hunters sit...

But eyes nor grave is deep enough To shield your flesh and bone...

What need of law to still the bells, For how should bells be merry?

Guests of the High Command, Who cradled the slums, There was an earlier Golgotha...

Buy your automobile tag now and avoid the last minute rush...

A St. Petersburg writer wants someone to get up a Committee to Defend England by Aiding the United States.

A state bulletin claims business was better in Florida last year than at any time since 1928.

They say a new flu vaccine is being tested, but judging from the number of cases reported, the results are like the British, waiting there "too late with too little."

Florida has a law that fixes a fine penalty for driving an automobile when drunk.

San Francisco's former San Francisco Chronicle recently been bought by a new owner.

The new editor is 58 years of age, has been married three times, and has three children.

It is known how well you will sell after you see our new business.

Those who saw the General Motors "Preview of Progress" show at the High School auditorium, last night were impressed with the vast field of enterprise still awaiting development.

It has been the custom in recent years to say that our unemployment problem was due to the machine age, that because of new inventions and scientific discoveries men were being thrown out of jobs...

Because of science and invention, because we live in the machine age, hundreds of thousands of men are employed today in automobile factories...

Men will talk with each other thousands of miles apart over an insignificant instrument which they carry in their pockets.

Who Said Peace? Whoever it was said there never has been a good war or a bad peace...

In the period between World War I and World War II there has been continuous warfare somewhere in the world, which the St. Petersburg Independent lists as follows:

- 1) After the former, the Poles and Ukrainians fought for control of eastern Galicia, Poland won.
2) In 1919 the Allies and White Russians invaded Russia. They finally withdrew.
3) In 1919-21 the Irish were in revolt against Britain's "Blacks and Tans." The treaty of peace, which followed created the Irish Free State, now Eire.
4) In 1919-22 Spain fought against the Riffs in Morocco, with heavy losses on both sides.
5) In 1919-23 Iban Sa'ud carried out his conquests in Arabia.
6) In 1920 Russia attacked Poland, but was thrown back at the gates of Warsaw. The same year Turkey attacked the Armenian republic, capturing Hara and Alex. and securing direct access to Russia.
7) In 1920-26 there was much fighting among rival generals in China.
8) In 1921-22 the Greeks invaded Asia Minor, burned Smyrna, but were eventually defeated by the Turks.
9) In 1925 the Druse rebellion in Syria against the French administration was unsuccessful. The same year the long Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia got underway.
10) In 1926-28 there was more civil war in China.
11) At that time the Chaco war was underway. It lasted through 1935.
12) In 1931-32 Japan invaded Manchuria, wrested it from China.
13) In 1932 there was furious fighting in Shanghai between Japanese and Chinese.
14) In 1935 Italy conquered Ethiopia.
15) In 1936-39 Germany and Italy, with behind-the-scenes backing of the British government and the United States, intervened in the Spanish civil war.
16) In 1937 Japan, also seeking raw materials, invaded northern China. That war is still going on.
17) In 1939, in the last war before World War II, Italy invaded Albania, and Japan fought an undeclared war with Russia along the border of Manchukuo.

It may be possible some day for every house to have only one light bulb, placed on a central position. Mr. Harning predicted. The light for every room would be piped from the central bulb just as is now done with water, using a glass tube that transmits light around corners.
The newspapers of 1940, Mr. Harning predicted, will not be delivered as it is now, by news boys on a bicycle. Instead, during the night, a receiving device will be pointing a newspaper fascicle, relayed from a central point. He showed a sample of this futuristic newspaper, which will be published by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The print was legible, and the pictures clear.
Though he said he hoped the United States would never be cut off from its source of crude oil, Mr. Harning asserted that it is now possible to make automobile tires from materials all found within this country. He showed one of the tires on the stage.
The television stunt was performed by Mrs. Margaret Bell, who in a television truck on the stage was a receiver. Mr. Harning indicated with the completion of a television set. Mrs. Bell and Mr. Harning gave a demonstration of how the device of the future would administer to the patients, and without leaving the bedside. The first case was a television set for the "office" request of Mrs. Betty "patient" is to sit and her tongue. She did the dental check since to the screen to examine the patient's tongue.

Red Cross To Aid Prisoners Of War

The American Red Cross has received assurance from the British authorities that navicerts will be issued for the shipment in bulk of standard food and clothing parcels to the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva or distribution among war prisoners of British and Allied nationalities. Mrs. J. G. Sharon, Jr., chairman of the Seminole County Red Cross Chapter, announced today upon receipt of a letter from National Red Cross Headquarters in Washington, D. C., explaining the sending of parcels to war prisoners.
"This is in accordance with the committee's responsibility under the Treaty of Geneva to provide for the welfare of war prisoners.
"Under this program packages will be distributed among needy prisoners of British and Allied nationalities. A certain proportion of each shipment will be held in hand at Geneva for delivery in parcels to be identified by name and address by American donors. This plan will make it possible for individuals in this country to have standard packages delivered to particular prisoners in whom they are interested without the delays involved in parcel post shipment.
"Parcels sent by individuals through regular postal channels are removed for shipment at Bermuda and must await postal service at Lisbon, both of which delay delivery. In addition, difficulties for the prisoners may occur as a result of including prohibited articles in such packages.
"We have purchased from the United States Postal Service approximately 150,000 parcels, each of which cost $2.30 apiece, to be sent at the earliest possible date. Shipment will be made by ocean freight to Lisbon where a delegate of the League of Red Cross Societies and the International Red Cross Committee will arrange for transshipment to Geneva. Each recipient of a package sent by a special donor will upon a postal receipt be returned to the contributor via War Prisoners, Inc.
"Each of these packages contains the following: evaporated sweetened milk, cocoa, hard biscuits, sardines, condensed milk, marmarine with vitamins A, B, C, concentrated orange juice, sugar, and dehydrated wheat product.
Anyone interested in the program is asked to communicate with the local chapter of the American Red Cross by telephoning 800.

Plymouth Raided By Nazi Airmen; Many Are Killed

Britain's expanding day-and-night air offensive last night was said to have dealt smashing blows to vital Axis targets in Italy, Germany, Belgium and France, while low-flying British fighters machine-gunned German "invasion" troops entrenched along the channel coast.
The specter of a German invasion attempt, scarcely noticed since the Christmas scare, sprang alive again when people read such headlines as that splashed across the Evening News.
"Royal Air Force fighters machine-gun German invasion troops in day attack."
More conservative Air Ministry accounts said British fighter planes had swept low over the French coast along the narrowest neck of the Channel and strafed German troops in trenches along the beaches.
The Ministry also reported British bombing attacks within the past 24 hours on oil facilities at the French coast, on the German coast, and on the German coast, as well as raids on submarine bases, airdromes, shipping and other targets from the Norwegian coast to the Bay of Biscay.
In the account of the wide spread offensive the British people saw two possibilities: (1) that the R. A. F. was striving to smash plans for an invasion attempt, and (2) that British air strength has become sufficient to permit offensive operations against the enemy on a body basis by day and by night.
The Air Ministry said the raid on the French coast Sunday, reported by the Evening News to be the third in as many days, was carried out by fighter planes. Unofficial speculation about the German trenches was that they were designed possibly to repel British invasion attempts, protect troops from snipers, or for use in drilling and unloading massive force.
