Hiring Policy

Judiciary And Elections Office Not Following County Policy?

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners will not be responsible for lawsuits involving personnel decisions in the courts or supervisor of elections' office unless those offices join the county's personnel system.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender told commissioners Monday night the judiciary and elections supervisor have not been following the county hiring policy. Those actions could lead to a discrimination suit by a disgruntled job

Commissioners agreed those offices should follow county policy or develop one of their own,

County Personnel Director Lots Martin said one example of the judiciary's actions was in the hiring of a coordinator for the Juvenile Alternative Services Project,

"They posted a JASP secretary's job but the coordinator was just hired," Ms: Martin said.

"The constitutional officers either have to be in or out of the personnel code," Neiswender said. He explained those offices have been using the code in some instances but ignoring it in others they felt did not apply

"There has got to be a crystal elega explanation," he said "If you're in you're in for everything, It you're out, you're out

Neiswender said this action is necessary to protect the commissioners, and ultimately county (unding sources, from discrimination suits

He said the county would probably be responsible for both offices in a discrimination suit because they use money allocated from the county's general fund.

By law, those offices do not have to participate in a personnel code established by county commissioners because they are elective offices. But Neiswender said since both offices are receiving county funds, they are the county's responsibility unless the offices set up their own policies.

The county has a posting procedure for hiring in county offices. Jobs are posted and a list of qualified applicants is sent to the office doing the biring. The head of the department chooses from the list.

"We're not accepting any responsibility for offices that have not opted into the system," he said.

He said the judiciary's hiring practices, which include hiring new staff when new judges are elected, have been discussed with a representative of the courts,

But in judiciary unless someone takes responsibility (for a personnel policy) we must assume the commussioners have responsibility," he said.

Neiswender said the judiciary should be told to participate in the county's system. The supervisor of election's office should have a choice between joining the county system or establishing its own.

"The issue is consistency with a personnel system that will stand up in court," he said. By the same token that they should hire by the system they should fire by the system. That's defensible in court '

If a discrimination suit were filed by a person disgruntled because he did not receive a job that was not posted, the county could lose federal funds since compliance with equal employment opportunity laws is a condition for receiving those

Casselberry Opposes Cable Bill

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry City Councilman Frank Shutte couldn't have summed up the mood of city fathers any better regarding a Senate bill dealing with deregulation of the cable television franchise system when he put his feelings across rather

"I don't like it. It's another example of local authority being diluted by big government. It takes away from the cities their own financial decisions."

Shutte's comments came at Monday night's City Council meeting and eventually led to the council adopting a resolution to oppose the proposed Senate bill which would set a national rate scale for cable franchises and remove local municipality's power to negotiate on franchise fees.

Senate Bill 2172, drafted by the U.S. Senate Commerce Committee's subcommittee on communications and sponsored by Sen. Barry Goldwater. chairman of the subcommittee, would require the Federal Communications Commission to establish a single rate municipalities could charge cable companies for franchise fees. By law the rate would be no more than the system cost local government to administer. If a local city claimed the rate to administer and regulate the franchise exceeds the national rate, that city would have to petition the FCC for an exception for a higher fee.

No national fee has been suggested yet, but Casselberry city officials have a sneaky suspicion the national rate would be much lower than what local cable companies are presently paying various Central Florida cities.

If the bill is passed into law, revenues from cable companies to city coffers. could drop similicantly.

"Cable has everything to gain and you can bet they'll be lobbying in favor of this bill," said Shutte.

"We have the lowest rate around for basic service, but that rate doesn't reflect what it costs the city for utility easements and property easements for the cable franchise," said Shutte... "Every local city has its own problems and circumstances as far as cable is concerned. How can the Senate say what's right for everybody?" Orange-Seminole Cablevision serves Casselberry as well as Longwood, Sanford and Winter Springs.

Under a non-exclusive franchise agreement with the city, Orange-Seminole pays Casselberry 8 percent of its gross annual revenues, which total about $30,000 for the city's budget cof-

The other cities Orange-Seminole serves also benefit from the franchise fees in similar fashion, Longwood is expected to receive about $5,000 in franchise fees next year, Winter Springs will get about $14,000 and Sanford will get a maximum of $22,500.

The county's other municipalities also pick up substantial franchise fees.

Altamonte Springs' agreement with Storer Cable Communications means about $27,500 for the city while Winter Springs has recently awarded a nonexclusive franchise to Evans Cable for 3 percent of Evans' gross revenues. Since the service is new in Winter Springs, no estimates on what annual revenues the franchise agreement means for the city can be totaled.

The three cable companies also have an agreement with Seminole County for service in the county's unincorporated areas for about $25,000 annually in franchise fees.

While a reduction through regulation of those revenues wouldn't cause any earth shattering budget deficits for any of the cities, Casselberry's beef is the feeling of encroachment by big government.

Trade-Off Sanford, County Eye Land Exchange

Will most of the offices aside from judicial functions at the Seminole County courthouse on Park Avenue be moving to the Five Points area in the near future?

That's been the drift of discussion among county commissioners and staff for the past several months as office space has all but disappeared in the wake of a rapidly growing court system.

But that may have changed. And it all began with a remark from Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore in early May at a Sanford City Commission meeting. He said then that the city is willing to cooperate with the county by swapping ownership of the city parking lot east of the courthouse to provide a site for courthouse expansion downtown.

Moore said at the time that the city would be agreeable to a swap of the city-owned property for some usable county property.

County Commission Chairman Robert Sturm said Moore set in motion an alternative that the County Commission didn't

"If we can place a courthouse annex adjacent to the courthouse itself, that would be the best place," Starm said:

While it had been mentioned that the first two stories of a multi-story addition to the courthouse might be a parking garage, Sturm said that may not be financially possible.

"We've seen estimates that it would cost $4,000 to $8,000 per space for a parking garage," Sturm said. In any event, he said that the county will have to replace the parking space it will be using up with the courthouse expansion.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff has urged his colleagues and the county staff to begin seriously discussing the swap of property with the city. At the beginning of the talks, he said the county could consider giving the city the old Health Department building and its property - about one half block - on French Avenue in exchange. Kirchhoff noted that the property is near the city's

City Commissioner David Farr sald he is sure an agreement can be worked out between the city and the county. City Commissioner Milton Smith also agreed that the city should do what it can to assist the county. "Sanford is the county seat and the county offices should be here. I don't know specifically what property should be swapped, but I'm sure we can work something out," Smith said. - DONNA ESTES

Site Decision Expected On County Health Building

The Seminole County Commissioners will make a decision in the next few weeks on a site for the proposed new $2.5 million. county health services building.

Dr. Jorge Deju, director of the county's health and human services, said today the site selection process has narrowed down to three possible locations all within a two-mile radius of The current health department facility on French Avenue.

Deju said a survey revealed that the majority of those using the health facility and its services live within a two-mile radius of French Avenue (U.S. 17-92) and 13th Street.

The planned new facility would contain 29,000 to 30,000 square feet. Its construction would be financed from the interest generated from a $5.4 million trust fund. The trust fund was set up with money received from the Hospital Corporation of America for the sale of the old Seminole Memorial Hospital. Deju said the sites being considered are: the former Smorgasbord restaurant property, west of U.S. 17-92 in the Five Points area and two sites near U.S. 17-92 on Airport Boulevard.

The site will be six to 10 acres, Deju said. The cost of acquiring the land and its preparation is estimated at $200,000. he said. Construction of the building itself is expected to run about $1.8 million and roads and other paying is anticipated at

Deju said the estimates were made six to eight months ago and actual costs may be higher now.

Architects on the project are the firm of Helman, Hurley, Charval and Peacock, Winter Park.

Dr. Deju, explaining the financing for the new building, said the county put the proceeds from the sale of Seminole Memorial Hospital—some $5.4 million — into a trust fund. The interest from that fund now pays about $300,000 annually for indigent medical care and some additional money for Medicaid costs.

"With the interest that has been earned and is being earned, we can continue to fund the indigent care, the Medicaid costs and the construction of the new health facility without touching the principal," he said. "In other words, the new building will not require an increase in property taxes."

Dr. Deju said for some time the county commission has committed to constructing a new health facility. He said this is vitally needed because of new state-funded health programs including nearly $100,000 annually for improved maternity care and $106,000 for other health services for the county.

He noted the population has nearly doubled in the past few years yet there has been no space to expand the health department facility on French Avenue.

The new facility will either be in Sanford or very close to Sanford. Dr. DeJu said many patients walk to the health facilities and they also will be able to walk to the new facilities.

Tour Of Hospital Helps Longwood Facility's Chances

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Hospital Corporation of America's tourby Longwood officials and residents of its psychiatric hospital in Chattaneoga may have provided the impetus it needs to get approval from the city of Longwood for construction of a similar facility there.

A public hearing is scheduled for Aug. 16 before the Longwood City Commission to consider a requested zoning variance HCA needs to build the 80-bed, $3.9 million psychiatric facility on the 26-acre site north of State Road 434 and west of State Road 427.

All of those who took the tour were favorably impressed with the Valley Psychiatric Hospital. Some — like John Crystal and Joe Pavone - plan to sell the idea of a similar facility in Longwood to as many residents as possible. But others are concerned that once the psychiatric hospital is approved, the general hospital, which is what the city really wanted, will fall by the wayside. HCA officials say a $23.4 million general hospital will be built, on the same

And the corporation has received state approval for both facilities, according to Kim Beaton of the Health Systems Agency of East Central Florida.

A state certificate of need for the psychiatric bospital was recently extended to Jan. 25, 1983, while the state certificate for the general hospital is extended to June 21, 1983.

By those dates. Beaton said both the facilities must be under "physical and continuous construction" or HCA will lose the certificates.

Longwood's Land Planning Agency has recommended that the City Commission approve the zoning variance to permit construction of the psychiatric hospital.

Crystal, a member of the city's Board of Adjustment, was one of 10 city officials and residents who toured the Chattanooga facility. Commissioner Steven Uskert, out of the city on vacation, and Mrs. Virginia Warner could not be reached for comment.

All of the others were impressed with the Valley Psychiatric Hospital's programs, its homey and friendly atmosphere and the warmth of the administrators and employees.

Crystal said, "I've never been to a hospital where the staff was so obviously dedicated. The physical layout was nice, the way the programs were run was super; the type of structured program was good."

He said the entire hospital complex will be a tremendous boon to the city not only in tax revenue, but in the clean type business that will follow such as doctors' offices and ancillary services needed by a hospital.

At the Aug. 16 hearing, Crystal said he will report his observations to the City Commission. "And I'm going to talk to everyone I can to get them to come out to the hearing."

Noting there is still a stigma attached to psychiatric hospitals, Crystal said he believes if the HCA programs are explained properly, Longwood's citizens will support the facility. "The hospital could do nothing but help the city. The Orlando area needs this kind of service,"

"A psychiatric hospital in Longwood run like the one in Chattanooga isn't going to hurt anyone," Pavone said.

What impressed me was the houses in the $100,000 to $150,000 price range that were built around the hospital since it pened," he said.

Pavone said he is also anxious to have the general hospital built, saying there is a real need in Longwood for the facility. "As long as I see the foundation begin for the general hospital, I'll be happy."

Geri Zambri who is with the city's zoning department, said, "Valley Hospital was pretty nice and seemed more like a private home. It didn't have an institutional feeling."

Former City Councilman Percy White laid tile before his retirement at both Chattahoochee and McClenny, state mental hospitals.

"Valley Hospital was altogether different," he said. His main concern is whether Longwood will receive assurances that the general hospital will be built as well as the psychiatric one. HCA officials said during the tour that construction of the general hospital will follow the psychiatric one by about six

City Commissioner J. R. Grant thought Valley was a marvelous facility, "I don't see where a hospital like that one will harm anyone," Grant says he wants HCA to build both the psychiatric and the general hospital, but he sees no need to put pressure on HCA and doesn't know how the city could do that anyway. "HCA did everything in Sanford that they said they would. And its new hospital is an asset to Sanford," Grant Emery Meineke, vice chairman of the city's land planning agency, said the public lacks knowledge about modern psychiatric treatment today, And yet mental illness can happen to anyone. "I think we could use a hospital like Valley here in Longwood," Meineke said. Major June Lormann was pleased with what she saw at Valley. "I certainly see a need for our area. An insane asylum is not going to be built here. Nor will the hospital be for the criminally insane or violent. The trip was most educational and informative," she said.

Mrs. Lormann reserved her final decision until after the Aug. 16 public hearing. "I would like to know what everyone thinks," she said.

Doctors: Hinckley Too Dangerous To Be Free

WASHINGTON (UP1) - Presidential attacker John W. Hinckley should be confined in a mental hospital because he is dangerous --- especially to Jodie Foster, the actress with whom he has been infatuated for years, doctors concluded.

In a report submitted Monday by St. Elizabeth's Hospital to U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker, who presided at Hinckley's trial, the doctors said Hinckley suffers from major depression and schitotypal personality disorder, marked by bizarre fantasies and

They found Hinckley aslo shows characteristics of other disorders including narcissism, commonly described as a grandiose sense of self-importance and a constant desire for attention, the Washington Post reported in Tuesday's editions.

The psychiatric report will be weighed at a release hearing scheduled for next Monday.

U.S.-Israeli Split Opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A sharp difference in priorities has emerged in talks between Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and U.S. officials about the fighting in Lebanon.

The difference surfaced as an escalation of the fighting in Beirut appeared to dim any chance for an early negotiated solution. A State Department spokesman said an end to the fighting is a "prerequisite" for a negotiated solution.

The American priority is to end the fighting that is causing mounting casualities and making negotiations impossible. The Israeli priority is to remove the PLO armed forces from Beirut and Lebanon.

Sanford Woman Swindled Out Of $150

Police are continuing their search today for a smoothtalking, tuxedo-clad man who swindled a 32-year-old Sanford woman out of $150 and took a Sanford furniture store employee

Cherry Smith Pinder, of 21 William Clark Court, told police she answered a knock at the door of her apartment at about 5 p.m. Monday and was greeted by a man with no front teeth, who was wearing a black tuxedo with a ruffled white shirt. The man, posing as an employee of a Sanford furniture store, told Ms. Pinder the store was having problems with the Internal Revenue Service and that he could get her new furniture at a greatly reduced price, police said.

Police said Ms. Pinder drove the man to the furniture store and gave him her driver's license as identification to purchase the furniture along with $150 cash. The man told Ms. Pinder to wait for him at the front of the store and he went to the rear of the store supposedly to talk with a store employee, police said.

Police said the man then told the employee that he was Ms. Pinder's brother and that they wanted to purchase furniture for their mother. He added that their mother would only pay the employee for the furniture because she didn't trust him or Ms. Pinder with the money, police said.

The man asked the employee to drive him to his mother's home to pick up the cash while Ms. Pinder waited at the store, police said. The two drove to Lake Monroe Terrace apartments, where the man fled with Ms. Pinder's money, police

By unanimous vote, the council adopted a resolution prosing Florida Power Corporation's request to abolish er reduce special utility rates for nunicipalities.

Florida Power is considering ending its Municipal Service-I rates, which provide cities with a 15 percent rate reduction over normal utility costs.

The loss of the special utility rate would cost Casselberry about $34,000 more in electricity bills next year.

In adopting the resolution, which will likewise be sent to the Florida League of Cities, Casselberry approved an expenditure of up to $100 to chip in with the League of Cities for lobbying efforts and legal representation against Florida Power's request.

The council also moved to send a copy of its resolution opposing the move to the Public Service Commission's public counsel.

Interest Rates Down: Factory Orders Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Interest rates at commercial banks and on government securities are dropping, overwhelming continued lack of progress on other economic fronts.

The decline in interest rates was far brighter news than the evidence of recession contained in new June economic figures released by the Commerce Department.

Based on June's figures for factory orders, the nation's businesses would have even less reason to look for an immediate recovery of the economy.

New orders for all manufactured goods declined 0.3 percent. And the durable goods portion of June's factory orders dropped 1.9 percent, a worse decline than in the department's early bird reading of "big ticket" items 11 days ago which showed a 1.5 percent drop.

Working Out The Bugs Of Releasing Refugees

MIAMI (UPI) - The federal judge who ordered nearly 2,000 Haitians freed from detention centers across the nation scheduled a hearing for today to iron out problems arising from the first releases.

As more refugees were freed from the Krome Avenue camp, four more Haitian refugees arrived from the Bahamas Monday as stowaways aboard a freighter. Authorities ordered them to return to the island nation when the freighter returns to its home port later in the week.

The problems with the releases began last Friday when the first 17 refugees to be freed failed to report to a special master appointed by U.S. District Judge Eugene P. Spellman,

That sparked an argument between resettlement workers and government spokesmen over who has the responsibility to monitor weekly reports on the locations of the Haitians who are freed pending political asylum hearings.

UCF Drum Major Killed

University of Central Florida (UCF) marching band drum major Troy Driggers, 20, of Wildwood was killed early Sunday in an automobile accident near Prattville, Ala.

Driggers and two companions, Cliff Granger, 18, of Miami, and Harold Richard Stevens, 19, of Clearwater, were returning from Birmingham, Ala., where they had attended a drum and bugle corps competition, when the accident occurred. The passengers are in the intensive care unit in a Montgomery hospital.

Driggers apparently went to sleep at the wheel of the car, which went off the road and struck a tree on Interstate 65, according to state troopers.

A pre-med student in his third year at UCF, Driggers was the only drum major the band had ever had. Driggers and Stevens were roommates at UCF,

Israel Warns Final Assault May Be Near

United Press International

Israeli forces moved at least 200 tanks to the edge of west Beirut and warned civilian residents to "flee before it is too late," but an angry President Reagan demanded an end to the violence in the war-torn city.

Trying to avert a bloody assault on west Beirut, U.S. envoy Philip Habib presented a new plan Monday for evacuation of the 6,000 Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas trapped by a tightening circle of Israeli troops.

The tension around Beirut, where an edgy cease-fire was maintained today, stretched to the White House in Washington, where a U.S. official reported Monday "open, deeply felt irritation with Israel."

Necessary Steps Toward Recovery

When is the biggest tax hike in history good news for the American people?

Right now.

In the past year, it has been tax cuts, rather than hikes, that have been acclaimed as good news. But they have done more harm than good. The federal government, cash-poor after the tax cuts, is deeply in the red: The administration estimates the budget deficit for the coming year at $117 billion. And this astronomical deficit has meant that the federal government has had to borrow huge sums of money, driving interest rates up and keeping the economy in the throes of a devastating recession.

The administration has painted a relatively rosy picture of the economic future, saying that the size of the deficit will drop drastically in the coming years. And that the economy is already on the road to recovery.

But it seems likely that that loyal outlook is overly optimistic. Private economists have said the deficit will be far larger and congressional Budget Director Alice Rivlin shocked the Senate Budget Committee recently with her own predictions.

The deficit will top $140 billion, she said, not just this year but for the next three years. This would be double the $70 billion deficit the Reagan administration has predicted for fiscal 1985.

We have said before that the deficit is the biggest obstacle to a healthy economy. As Rivlin told the Senate committee: Continuing huge deficits will keep interest rates high, thereby keeping spending down and "the projected economic recovery will be severely limited."

The deficit must be cut drastically if the economy is to be helped back to its feet. The ultimate goal must be a balanced budget.

But supply-side policies toward that goal have proven themselves ineffective. And a constitutional amendment is the wrong way to go about it.

What is needed is a return to conventional policies: Increase revenues by raising taxes; reduce expenditures by slashing spending.

The tax hike now before Congress is a step in the right direction. But it will only make up one-fourth of the revenue the government lost through this year's tax cuts.

When budget time rolls around again next spring, drastic spending cuts may need to be

As Rivin said, that even to reduce the deficit only to the target figures set by Congress and the administration "will take another look at the whole budget - not exempting defense spending. not exempting the entitlement program, including Social Security, and not exempting the tax side.

Barring an economic miracle, the 10 percent across-the-board tax cut scheduled for next July will have to be abandoned.

Tax hikes like the one now before Congress will cost the American people money.

But a continued high deficit will only serve to cripple the economy indefinitely. And that will cost the nation far more.

The Grim Arena

Time is running out on deau, row.

State legislatures have been increasingly successful in adapting capital punishment laws to the specifications that the U.S. Supreme Court spelled out in a series of landmark cases in the last decade. There are now 36 death-penalty states.

Meanwhile, the numbers of condemned prisoners have been growing. At the end of 1981, the death-row population was 838, by far the most since a count of the condemned began being taken on a national basis in 1953.

What this means is that the United States within the next year or so will be confronting a spate of executions "without parallel...since the Depression era."

The words are those of Benjamin H. Renshaw, acting director of the Justice Department's statistics bureau, in comments accompanying a report on death row today. It is grim reading throughout.

-The 1981 count was up 150-16 percentover the previous year, among the steepest increases in a decade. It included 11 women, all in Southern states-four in Georgia, two in Texas and one each in Maryland, North Carolina, Kentucky, Alabama and Oklahoma.

-Blacks comprised 41 percent of all deathrow inmates.

-Of the 36 death-penalty states, 28 held prisoners under capital sentences. The largest numbers were in Florida (161), Texas (144) and Georgia (91). These three states accounted for close to half the condemned population. Two of them -Texas (26) and Florida (24)-along with California (40) also contributed the most new death sentences during the year.

-However, Texas and Florida also remanded the most sentences-22 and 18 respectively. But on a national basis, only one prisoner was removed from death row for every three added.

-In Oregon and Washington, all sentences were vacated. Both state supreme courts found the capital penalties then on the books unconstitutional.

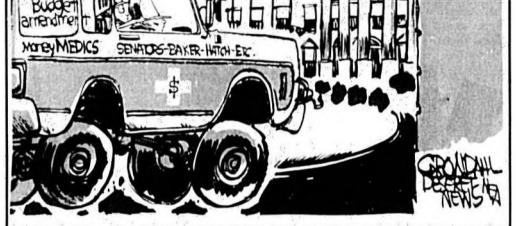

-Ohio, on the other hand, enacted a new law to replace one thrown out by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1978, and Oklahoma added a new capital crime-rape of a minor or mental incompetent. Alabama, Connecticut, Texas and Virginia also revised existing laws.

-There is a pronounced regional pattern to the death-row population. Of the nine Northeastern states, five of which have the death penalty, only one held prisoners awaiting execution-Pennsylvanis, with 11. Numbers were similarly sparse in the North Central states, but the South and West were different stories. In the former, all but one-West Virginia-are capital states, all of which held sentenced prisoners.

The watershed case on the death penalty came in 1972 with Furman vs. Georgia, in which the Supreme Court found that the often arbitrary and capricious manner in which it had been invoked constituted cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment. There had been a moratorium on executions for the previous five years, while challenges to capital laws made their slow way through the courts.

Although the moratorium ended in 1977 with the intensely debated death of Gary Gilmore before a Utah firing squad, only three other executions have since been carried out.

But that almost certainly is about to change. It's in the numbers cited. Also, many of the condemned are nearing the end of the long appeals process.

ROBERT WALTERS

OK Move, Wrong Reasons

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In a city where the politically powerful regularly act contrary to the public interest, it's always refreshing to find pollucians doing the right thing - even if they're motivated by the wrong reasons.

That's the case with the proposed constitutional amendment to require balanced federal budgets in the future, an eminently sensible concept being embraced by many of the country's most reckless and irresponsible spendthrifts.

Atop that list is President Reagan, who holds the dubious distinction of being the first chief executive in the nation's history to submit to Congress an annual budget with a deficit in excess of $100 billion.

Not far behind the president in that category are hundreds of members of Congress who presumably believe they can euchre the voters by ostentatiously endorsing the principle of a balanced budget while simultaneously approving record-breaking federal deficits.

Finally, there is the National Tax Limitation Committee, the group principally responsible for the awesome lobbying campaign on behalf of the amendment, NTLC promotes itself as an independent, nonpartisan organization but, in fact, it has served as a shill for the Reagan White House.

Opponents of the amendment, noting the shamelessly cynical posturing by its adherents in recent weeks, have vehemently denounced the proposal as a fraud, a hoax, a diversionary scheme and a flimsy public relations gimmick.

To the extent that the amendment indeed is being manipulated by individuals and organizations seeking self-aggrandizement and short-term political gain, that criticism is

Reagan has offered the country an "economic recovery program" that would, according to the Congressional Budget Office. produce more than $564 billion worth of new government deficits during his current fouryear term of office.

Yet when recently endorsing the proposed amendment, the president had the audacity to proclaim: "We must not, and we will not, permit prospects for lasting economic recovery to be buried beneath an endless tide of red ink."

Citing that dichotomy, Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., suggests that Reagan administration support for the amendment "raises certain questions of credibility." A less circumspect critic might have referred instead to "hypocrisy" and "duplicity."

Those adjectives are equally applicable to Congress, which apparently prefers theory to reality when dealing with balanced budgets. The House and Senate last month approved a resolution clearing the way for a recordshattering deficit of almost $104 billion in the next fiscal year

Finally, there's NTLC, which claims that it "was founded in 1975 for a single purpose: to constitutionally limit spending and taxes at all levels of government."

In fact, NTLC has devoted much of its energies during the past 18 months to serving as a White House helpmate, promoting a Reagan budget wholly unrelated to any constitutional limitation and attacking "Democratic Party bosses."

When the White House last February unvelled its proposed budget for the next fiscal year, calling for a deficit of $91.5 billion (later recalculated to more than $100 million), NTLC responded with a 500-word press release that didn't even mention the president's name, much less criticize him for abandoning his campaign commitment to a balanced budget.

The proposed constitutional amendment deserves a broader base of support if for no other reason that its potential to serve as a psychological deterrent to future presidents and members of Congress insensitive to the problems posed by adding to a national debt that already totals $1.14 trillion.

Notwithstanding the current sense of euphoria among the proposal's most zealous promoters, amending the Constitution remains very difficult task. Indeed, no new language has been added to the document since 1971.

If the new proposal is viewed as merely a parochial cause embraced by a relatively small group of Reagan allies and self-serving legislators anxious to divert attention from their profligate habits, it will fall - and the nation will have lost an important opportunity to bring some sanity to the budget process.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Foreign Policy Problems

The change of command at the State Department is a reminder of the uncertain direction of American foreign policy over a long period of years. While the Soviet Union has had the same foreign minister since the 1940s, the United States has had a succession of secretaries of state. In the last couple of years, U.S. foreign policy has been directed by Secretaries Vance, Muskie and Haig. And now comes George P. Schultz.

At the same time, the United States has had virtual rival secretaries of state at the National Security Council, with NSC directors Zbigniew Brezinski, Richard Allen and, now, William P. Clark playing major roles.

Well, that's partly the nature of American government, a democracy that allows for maximum change and minimum centinuity. The uncertain course of U.S. foreign policy also is attributable to presidential errors with respect to personnel.

In the case of President Reagan, his foreign policy views were set forth over a period of years in speeches, articles and newspaper columns. On being elected President, however, he chose a Secretary of State -Alexander M. Haig - who had no previous identification with the Reagan movement or set of ideas associated with that movement. The end result was disagreement on major policy issues, and Mr. Haig's apparently forced resignation.

Several years ago, this writer, in an article published on the Op-Ed Page of The New York Times, suggested that former New York Senator James Buckley, who was long identified with the Reagan movement and the Reagan philosophy, was best suited to be Secretary of State in a Reagan administration. Unfortunately, Senator Buckley received a lesser role in the State Department. Now, the President has chosen George Schultz, an economist with experience in the Nixon administration. He is a capable individual and an experienced government official. One wonders, however, whether he will be able to steer U.S. foreign policy along the lines that Ronald Reagan set forth over many years. His experience in foreign policy matters is limited, and he may have to share authority with White House staff members who, with the exception of Vice President Bush, don't have the background for expert guldance.

Most disturbing is the fact that Mr. Schultz has no well-perceived global view. And that is what a good Secretary of State must have in order to be effective. Whoever conducts foreign relations for the President should have a clear idea of the kind of world the United States wants to advance, including detailed understanding of a variety of interstate relations. This knowledge and vision can't be acquired in a matter of weeks or months. In the absence of the necessary vision, the State Department apparatus gradually will assume direction of affairs. Unfortunately, this apparatus is not on President Reagan's wavelength. By the way, what has happened to the dozens of Reaganite foreign policy advisers announced after Mr. Reagan's election? Few of them seem to have landed in policy-making or advisory positions.

President Reagan's foreign policy outlook is sound as evidenced by his opposition to the gas pipeline that would make Western Europe dependent on Soviet energy. Unfortunately, many of the President's views aren't translated into U.S. policy. Unless his Secretary of State is a committed Reaganite, there's little likelihood that American foreign policy will be strong and effective.

Modernizing Voice Of America

WASHINGTON - Two weeks ago, President Reagan announced plans to modernize the "old and deteriorating" equipment with which the Voice of America beams news and commentary to much of the world, particularly to countries in the Soviet

The upgrading is necessary to overcome Soviet jamming of VOA broadcasts, which are often the only source of objective information in those lands.

The White House declined to reveal how much this modernization program will cost. But my associate Indy Badhwar has seen an internal briefing paper prepared for the president, giving details of the proposed expenditures.

The confidential document, sent to the White House by the International Communication Agency, puts the situation in stark terms: Unless VOA gets about $300 million for construction and land acquisition, it will be a bush-league operation compared to Radio Moscow's high-powered propaganda operations.

Quoting from an eyes-only memo from ICA Director Charles Wick to White House aides Ed Meese and James Baker, the briefing paper states:

"Without assurances that VOA will be able. to operate with state-of-the-art equipment from sites in Germany, the United Kingdom, Morocco and Sri Lanka, we will no longer be a principal competitor in the international broadcast business, a field already dominated by the Soviet Union."

The Soviets now have at least 39 500kilowatt transmitters on the air, the paper explains, "In addition to booming their broadcasts wherever they please, their power is beginning to crowd weaker signals such as our own from nearby facilities," the document warns.

The $300 million is designed primarily to improve the quality of VOA's reception in Eastern Europe, Soviet Central Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America. It would also allow an increase in broadcasting hours and in the number of languages in which VOA transmits its programs.

The ICA briefing paper lays out several suggestions for overcoming "critical gaps in our coverage" around the world. Here are some of them:

- VOA is negotiating for a site on Grand Cayman Island in the Caribbean, from which it could send medium-wave broadcasts to Central America.

- Negotiations are also under way for transmitter sites in Sri Lanka, from which VOA broadcasts could reach all of China. large parts of southern and western Asia and Soviet Central Asia.

- The relay station in Tangier would be upgraded by the installation of 10 500-kw and three 250-kw transmitters, antennas and a power plant, at a cost of $150 million. Tangier beams to Eastern Russia, the Caucasus, the Persian Gulf area and central Africa.

- The Munich relay station would get eight 500-kw transmitters with antennas, at a cost of $45 million. The present equipment. "manufactured before World War II. operates with vacuum tubes," the briefing paper notes, adding with understatement: "It is no longer reliable."

The proposed modernization of the Munich facility "would assure VOA of a strong signal as far as Soviet Central Asia and Western Siberia in the U.S.S.R.; it would reach Pakistan and Afghanistan, to which Pushtu language broadcasts will soon be initiated. and Iran in Southwest Asia, the entire Saudi peninsula including Oman and the two Yemens, and the strategic Horn of Africa."

Negotiations with West Germany may be tricky, the document warns, because the proposal would involve allocation of new frequencies in an already crowded broadcast band, and would also draw fire from leftists. But the briefing paper concludes that "Bonn's" response would probably be positive."

Two-out ralltes spelled victory for Jacksonville Southside and doom for Key West Monday as Southside scored three times in the top of the seventh to break a 4-4 tie and claim a 7-4 victory in first round action during the Florida Junior Major Legue State Tournament at Chase Park in Sanford.

"It was one of the great games we played all year," Jacksonville manager Rick Jason said. "It's always tough to beat Key West, they played one hell of a

With two outs in the seventh, Jacksonville via four straight hits, vaulted into the lead. Scott Jason and Craig Ferrell ripped back-to-back singles and both advanced on a Key West error. Bobby Ridenour then slashed a single to right to plate two runs and Kelvin Smith followed with a booming, 300-foot double to the gap in left center.

Ferrell pitched six innings for the victory while Chuck Kirk hurled the last inning and pitched out of a two-out jam. Jacksonville Southside advances to a winner's bracket matchup with Port Orange today at 1:30. "We came through with four key hits in the seventh," Jason added.

In Monday's second first round game, Tallahassee Westside survived four innings of torrid St. Petersburg Fossil Park hitting and rode Tony Lomack's three-run double to a 3-1 victory.

Bruce Gaines went the distance on the mound for Tallahassee, striking out five in the process. Gaines struggled through the first four innings allowing eight hits but retired the last 10 St. Pete hitters in St. Petersburg died on the bases, leaving nine base runners on in the first four frames.

Strategy was the game in the fourth contest Monday as Panama City Southern and West Palm Beach exchanged more managerial maneuvers than the first three games combined.

A three-run sixth inning demoted West Palm from driver's seat to bac, seat as Panama City squeezed out a 42 victory. Tracey Birch's bunt single drove in Doug Lee with the winning run and Lee retired West Palm Beach in order in the seventh to sew up the victory.

West Palm Beach will meet St. Petersburg Tuesday at 11:30 while Panama City meets Tallahassee tonight

For the first four innings, for the most part, it was "forth and back" game (as opposed to the more popular "back and forth" game), the hitters were coming forth to the plate and walking back to the

In going the distance for the victory, Lee allowed six hits and struck out 13. Allen Botkin pitched the entirety for West Palm Beach, gave up four hits and struck

Key West took advantage of poor defensive play by Jacksonville and tallied four times in the bottom of the first. Eddie DuMarias led off with a walk and Dean Thompson followed with a single that put runners on first and second with no outs.

With one out, Billy Nicely ripped a grounder to short and everyone was safe when the shortstop chose to throw home instead of third or first. Nicely picked up an RBI and Luis Gonzalez followed with a single to knock in Thompson, Gonzalez took second when the center fielder's throw went to third. Nicely then scored on a wild pitch and Gonzalez came across on a double steal.

Jacksonville Southside picked up two runs in the top of the second after it appeared Key West was out of the inning untouched. With two outs, Kenny Kirk drew a walk, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Chuck Kirk was the batter with a count of 2-2 when the umpire allegedly called strike three. Instead he meant ball three and the Key count full and sent the base runner back to third base. Chuck Kirk then hit a grounder to third and reached on an error as one run scored and he later scored on Reggie Ruddy's single.

Key West ran itself out of a big inning in the bottom of the second and Jacksonville came up with some head up fielding. Allen Perez walked to lead off the inning and DuMurias looped a double to right but took too wide of a turn at second. Perez was eventually out at third in a well-executed run down. Thompson then grounded one to the shortstop who caught DuMurias between third and home in another perfectly executed run Jacksonville Southside tied the game with a two-out rally in the top of the third. Craig Ferrell, the starting pitcher for Southside, ripped opposing pitcher Perez for a double and stole third. Bobby Ridenour drew a walk and stole second to put runners on second and third with Kelvin Smith at the plate. Smith responded by bouncing a single up the middle to plate two runs and knot the score at 44.

Key West got its lead off man on in the third but came up empty. Nicely singled to right, stole second and reached third on a passed ball. But Ferrell calmed and caught two hitters looking while the third hitter grounded harmlessly to third.

Neither team threatened again until Key West tried to push across a run in the bottom of the sixth. Tony Estenos walked to lead off the frame and pinch runner Skip St. Pierre was sacrificed to second by Chris Garcia. Alton Whims then lifted a fly ball to center and St. Pierre tagged at second and headed for third but was cut down on a brilliant throw by Chuck Kirk in center field for Jacksonville.

After a two-hour rain delay play resumed with the score still tied at 4-4 going into the seventh inning.

The ground crew did a fine job to get the field ready for the remainder of Monday's games. Jason said his team and coaches were enjoying their stay in Sanford.

St. Petersburg had a rocky first inning, stranding two baserunners in the top of the frame and yielding three runs to Tallahassee in the bottom of the first

St. Pete Fossil Park cut Tallahassee's lead to 3-1 in the third but left the bases loaded Rob Rabb led off with a slicing double to left and went to third on Sam Harris' long fly ball to left. Robb scored on Jeff Chears' bloop single to right

Gene's Gleam Tells The Score, 3-1, Bring On Belmont, Says Altamonte

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

ROCKLEDGE - Well, so much for Largo, bring on Belmont Heights.

The gleam in Altamonte manager Gene Letterio's eye could have illuminated Yankee Stadium as he and his Juniors happily paraded off the field here Monday night following a hardearned 3-1 victory over Largo in the first round of the State 13-Year Old Tournament.

Altamonte's victory sets up a dream match with Belmont Heights, a 12-0 winner over Boca Raton in Monday's second game. Belmont, a Tampa-based powerhouse, is a registered guest at the Little League World Series just about every year.

Last year, Letterio's 12-year-olds were just one strike from a trip to Williamsport against Belmont Heights when Tampa tied the score and went on to win in extra innings. It also won the second game and went on to finish second in the world to Taiwan.

Tonight's big game is set for 8. Largo and Boca Raton play at 5:30 p.m. The loser goes home while the winner meets tonight's loser at 6:30 p.m. on Wed-

There wasn't much time for reflection upon Monday's victory as most of the Altamonte Juniors were already contemplating tonight's big matchup.

"I think our whole team was looking

Baseball

I was standing out in the coach's box, I couldn't help but think about Tuesday after we got the lead."

It was Largo, though, which jumped to an early lead in the second inning when it scratched out a run off Altamonte ace Mike Schmit. Catcher Scott Paquette started it with an infield single, then moved to second on a nice sacrifice bunt by Frank Stoop.

Schmit reached back to strike out Billy Adam, but opposing hurler Larry Peterson looped a basehit to right center to chase home Paquette for a 1-0 lead.

Peterson, like Schmit allowed just three hits for the evening, but two of those came in the fourth inning when Altamonte scored all of its runs.

After Schmit grounded out to first. Neal Harris reached on an error by the third baseman and stole second. Ryan Lisle coaxed a walk and Marty Posey followed with a single to center scoring Harris for a 1-1 deadlock.

On the throw to the plate, Posey alertly took second with a head-first dive and when second baseman Stoop returned the throw to the plate, Lisle scored with a similar dive for a 2-1 lead.

left field and when Adam overran the City last year, is already well-schooled ball, Posey came around to score another on the intense rivalry. ahead," admitted Letterio. "I know when run for a 3-1 advantage.

settled down thereafter. The polished righthander retired 15 of the final 17 hitters. No one trespassed beyond second base. The one that tried - leadoff hitter John Bell - was gunned down at third on a crisp throw by Lisle to Shane Leterio who made a quick tag.

"This game was Mike Schmit," announced G. Letterio afterwards. "He was more determined to win this game than anything." Schmit struck out 11 batters and walked no one during his threehitter.

Tonight, however, Letterio won't have Schmit available to neutralize Belmont's bats. Harris will be on the mound for Altamonte with Schmit moving behind the plate.

Letterio hopes Schmit's strong arm and quick release will keep the Belmont Heights' baserunners on hold.

In Monday's second game, Gary Sheffield tossed a one-hitter and Belmont Heights used six Boca Raton errors to cruise to a 12-0 victory. Sheffield fanned eight hitters and allowed just a sixth-inning single by Todd Castor while going the distance.

ALTAMONTE ANGLES - The Belmont Heights' fever is apparently catching. Outfielder-first baseman Bruce Carlson then chinked a single to Marty Posey, who played in Panama

"I've heard enough speeches about Armed with a two-run lead, Schmit them," related Posey, whose been a definite plus to the Juniors, "I practically know every pitch of that game (last year's loss) by heart."

It took Johnny Ray a long time, but when he did It, it was a winner.

"Nobody likes to go 0-for-8, especially in one game, so I'm glad I could get a hit at any time," Ray said Monday night after breaking a slump with a two-run triple in the 17th inning that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. "This was a big

The winner was Enrique Romo, 6-2, who entered the game in the 15th. Jim Kaat, who pitched six innings, fell to 4-2. The game was the longest in the National League this year and lasted 4 hours, 55 minutes.

The Cardinals tied it in the ninth. Tom Herr led off with a double off reliever Rod Scurry and Lonnie Smith singled to right to tie it 2-2. Jason Thompson hit a 3-1 pitch over the right-center field wall in the eighth to give the Pirates a 2-1 lead. The blast, Thompson's 19th of the year, scored Bill Madlock, who singled.

Bucs' Reavis Retires

TAMPA (UPI) - Tampa Bay Buccaneer offensive tackle Dave Reavis, who played in the 1974-75 Super Bowls with the Pittsburgh Steelers, has retired from football to go into private business.

Reavis announced his retirement Monday, ending a career in which he played in 100 NFL games, including 74 for Tampa Bay, 69 of them as a starter.

The 6-foot-5, 265-pound Reavis was drafted out of Arkansas by the Steelers in 1973 and came to the Bucs in the 1976 veterans allocation draft when Tampa Bay and Seattle entered the NFL.

He cares about it passionate'y - so much so he literally tingled with excitement Sunday when he was inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame along with Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson and Travis "Stonewall" Jackson.

It was a deeply emotional experience for all four men, but none of them showed it as much as Chandler. He not only called his installation "one of the happiest days of my with him," he says. "I just hope and pray life," but he also evidenced it by everything Bowie Kuhn will come out of this alright." he did and everything he said.

Chandler cares for baseball so much he centers around the efforts being made to fire as anything else. Bowie Kuhn, the present commissioner.

Kuhn quite likely will find out whether he'll be retained or not at the summer meetings in San Diego, Aug. 18-19, and right now his chances are about 50-50. Three National League clubs - the Car-

"There are lots of men in the Senate and the him out as their commissioner, he'd be rather House of Representatives who would like to see federal commissioners in charge of all sports. The Congress has said to sports, 'Manage your own affairs.' I don't think there is any justification for threatening or picking a fight with the commissioner. He's a decent chap. It's his business to protect the integrity of the sport and that's what he's doing."

> It would be a sad day for the owners if baseball ever was run by a federal commissioner, according to Chandler.

"The owners would never be able to fuss

During the time he served as baseball's "I'm just glad that if they felt I deserved it, second commissioner, from 1945 until July, 1951. Chandler was so friendly with the ball players he called most of them by their first names. He was known as "a player's comsees the growing prospect of its suffering the missioner" and that's the way his plaque here most telling body blow in its history and he in the Hall of Fame reads. He also backed his has done something about it. His concern umpires to the hilt and he is as proud of that

As commissioner, Chandler had his critics but even they admitted he wouldn't lie for anything or anybody. He and Jocko Conlan, the only living umpire in the Hall of Fame, were reminiscing about that and Conlan recalled a game in which Mel Ott of the dinals, Astros and Mets — are all for ousting Giants protested a strike called on him.

"Ott said, 'That wasn't a strike,"' Chandler related. "Jocko said, 'Yes, it was.' Ott said, 'You're a liar.' Jocko pointed a finger at him and said. 'I'm not going to be a liar for anybody. You're out of the game,"'

Chandler then went on to talk about his own "I'm not going to be a liar for anybody,"

"That's the way I am, and that's the way I've leave now and getting ready to report to Ft.

Benning, Ga. for Airborne Training on Aug. 6. Maureen, a 1977 graduate of Seminole High School where she was a cheerleader, entered the Army on Sept. 3, 1981 after graduating with a degree in Business and Marketing from the University of South Florida.

She went for eight weeks of Basic Training It Ft. Jackson, S.C. and then on to Ft. Benning, Ga. for Officer's Candidate School.

This training was for 14 weeks and Maureen said she was glad that she had such good legmuscles from cheerleading because she needed strength to keep up with the men in her platoon in climbing towers and field exercises.

Everyone at OCS is trained for field command, even though they may have other specialties. "The physical demands, as well as schooling, were twice as hard as at basic," Maureen says. Only 160 out of 210 cadets completed the course.

Maureen is the daughter of Howard and Cathy Harrison of Sanford. Upon completion of OCS, the family went to Ft. Benning so that her dad could commission her in a special Following OCS Maureen reported to Ft. Lee, Va. on March 14 for 14 weeks of training at the Quartermaster Officer Basic School. She felt she learned more about "supply" during these 14 weeks than she did in all of college.

Second Lt. Maureen Harrison is home on . She requested airborne training, saying, "I always thought parachuting was fun It's a school where not everyone can go, and I want

> She will make five actual jumps from an airplane, after training in jumping off a tower Three of these will be day jumps, and two at night. Right now she's spending every morning running around Sanford to prepare for the five mile runs she will have to do each day in Airborne Training.

> On Aug. 31, after a year of training and schooling, Maureen will be going to Augsburg, Germany for three years. Here she will be the Troop Issue Support Officer in charge of the supply of Food to all dining facilities, commissaries and field personnel in southern Working under Maureen will be 15 military personnel, and 21 German and American civilian employees. She's looking forward to learning about the German people, the language and the customs, she says.

Being in the military is becoming a tradition for the Harrisons. Maureen's dad, Howard, retired as a Lieutenant Commander from the Navy: sister Colleen is an Air Force Captain, stationed at the Pentagon; Tamara has an Army ROTC scholarship and will be a senior at Florida State University, and Patrick will be going into his sophomore year at Stetson University where he has a four-year Army ROTC scholarship.

Howard Harrison (Lt. Cmdr., USN, ret.) conducted a special ceremony when his daughter, Maureen Harrison, was commissioned as a second licutenant in the U.S. Army at Ft. Ben-

Rumors False Linking Company To Witchcraft

DEAR ABBY: I just received a mimeographed letter in the mail telling me not to buy products made by Procter & Gamble. It was signed, "A Good Christian." It said the Procter & Gamble Co. supports a religious cult dedicated to witchcraft and the devil. As proof they sent a picture of the P&G trademark insignia - a man's face in a half-moon with 13 stars, a symbol of Satan.

The letter stated that the owner of Procter & Gamble appeared on "The Merv Griffin Show" and also on "Donahue," saying he owed his success to "Satan"!

Abby, can you find out if the Procter & Gamble Co. has any connection with Satan and witchcraft, because if it has, I am not buying any more of its products.

NEEDS TO KNOW IN OHIO DEAR NEEDS: Letters such as the one you received have been circulated through the U.S. for the last two years, and there is not a shred of truth in the rumor that P&G is connected with Satan, witcheraft or the devil!

Furthermore, neither Merv Griffin nor Phil Donahue has had anyone from Procter & Gamble on their shows, but this rumor has been so widespread that both Griffin and Donahue have had to send

Coal-Oil Mix Used By Plant

Commercial power plant use of a coal-oil mixture (COM) from a regional production and distribution center became a reality recently with the startup of a 125-Mw Florida Power Corporation unit retrofitted to burn COM.

The successful firing involved Unit 1 at Florida Power's P. L. Bartow plant in St. Petersburg, COM for Unit 1 is being supplied by COMCO, a joint venture company owned by Dravo Corporation, A. T. Massey Coal Co., Inc., and Electric Fuels Produced at COMCO's Port Sutton production facility, the COM being burned at Bartow is being delivered from Port Sutton across Tampa Bay to Bartow in 12,000-barrel shipments abroad an ocean-going oil tank barge. Detailed data describing Unit 1's performance will not be available for several months, but COMCO has already delivered enough COM to Bartow to demonstrate that equipment and systems already in place to handle oil shipments and deliveries can readily be adapted to the transportation of a slurried fuel like COM.

We chose Tampa Bay as the location for our first production facility in order to demonstrate the feasibility of delivering slurried fuels by conventional water transportation from central processing plants," explained COMCO general

Recession Helps Law Firms Grow

NEW YORK (UPI) - The nation's 50 largest law firms grew still larger this year - an average of 8 percent - despite the recession, a survey released Monday said.

The average number of lawyers in the top 50 firms grew to 235 in 1982 from 217 in 1981, the survey by the National Law

Chicago's Baker & McKenzie, the largest firm in last year's survey with 583 lawyers, topped the field again this year with 613 attorneys, according to the annual study by the nation's largest selling legal publication.

The number of top 50 firms with 200 or more lawyers rose from 28 to 36, and only six of the firms shrank. Thirteen of the legal firms added 30 or more attorneys in 1982.

Experts in legal economics cited an array of reasons for the growth of the 50 firms. "Large law firms always grow, even in recessionary times. Large corporations - the clients of the large law firms - generate legal business whether they're losing money or making money," one expert said.

Geographic distribution of the top 50 firms changed little in the past year. As in 1981, 23 of the 50 largest firms were in New York City, eight were in Chicago, and three each were headquartered in Cleveland, Houston, Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

Forty-seven of the 50 largest firms have offices in Washington, D.C., and 28 have foreign branches.

Maintenance Neglect Costly

NEW YORK (UPI) - It took Milton Bevington some years to realize that people waste more energy than defective buildings, poorly designed machinery or even extravagant

"The waste of energy by maintenance people alone is so great that if all building maintenance were done properly, the energy savings in the United States would be about $27 billion a year, said Bevington, who heads Servidyne, Inc., of Atlanta, which provides energy consultation and control management services to a long list of companies.

"It took us much longer than it should have," Bevington told United Press International, "to realize that maintenance neglect accounts for a staggering 40 percent of all energy waste in industry and commerce. Then one Sunday about four years ago we sat down and made a computer simulation problem out of it. The results astonished us. After several more tests we finally reached the conclusion that really good maintenance could save about 2.2 million barrels of oil equivalents a day. That's $27 billion a year."

Moreover, he said, all that money could be saved without a penny of additional investment - just by tightening up rather drastically on everyday procedures. Beyington admitted that's a lot easier said than done.

Tightening drastically on everyday procedures means dealing with people, who may not particularly want to be cooperative.

"Most building owners already are paying for proper maintenance and are not getting it," Bevington said. "The truth is that building maintenance is one of most neglected areas of business. It is little advanced from the time of the start of the industrial revolution late in the eighteenth century."

He said most firms go by the maxim, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." That may be good politics, he said, but it makes little sense if it's followed to avoid proper preventive procedures.

He said maintenance as practiced is like operating blind. "There's usually no way in the average business to measure the labor cost of building maintenance. It's just guesswork based on adding up the paychecks of those engaged to do it."

There also seldom are any performance standards either for the quality or quantity of work done. In fact, often there's not even any method of determining if the work has been done at all, so even diligent efforts by managers to check on maintenance produce a result that could be marked only grade B,

As a result, the cost of maintenance is so inflated Bevington says "it's like buying a ticket to a ballgame, getting rained out and paying a surcharge for the raincheck."

Once the nature of the problem was realized, Bevington said, the solution was found to be application of the same painstaking maintenance controls to buildings that are applied to manufacturing processes and machinery.

"This has worked but it takes a lot of attention to detail," Bevington said. He said a lot of his clients who originally had been signed for advice and services on saving energy by retrofitting new energy-saving equipment and insulation to their plants and buildings began applying for additional help in saving by improved maintenance procedures and better training of maintenance workers. "This takes very detailed study and advice and unflagging attention to make it work," he said. Some companies, the Hyatt hotel chain for example, and several universities and other institutions, found a greater potential in saving energy by good maintenance than they could hope for from expensive changes in their heating, lighting and air conditioning

Altamonte Springs police arrested Ms. Hull at Wymore Road and Lake Destiny Drive after receving a call from a restaurant manager in that city who said a motorist had driven over a curb in his parking lot and damaged his property. Bond was

-Russell Irvin Foye, 23, of 2442 Laurel Ave., Sanford, arrested 1:39 a.m. Saturday, charged with DUI (alcoholic beverages). Foye was arrested by deputies at U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 434, Winter Springs. Bond was set at $500.

Couple Sues Home Builder

By TENLYARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man and his wife feel they are standing on firm ground in a lawsuit against a construction company who they say built their Washington Oaks home on a less than solid foundation.

Robert Lee and Marilyn Hill, of 102 Drew Ave., filed suit in Seminole Circuit Court claiming the Wingfield Development Company, formerly called the Hallmark Construction Co., of Altamonte Springs, was negligent in building their home on a poor foundation, causing the structure to crack.

The lawsuit claims the home, built in June 1974, suffered cracks in the ceiling and walls presumably because of high winds and rains in April, 1982. However, when the Hills sought to collect insurance on the storm damage claim, they discovered the home had been built on a sub-soil foundation and that the structure had no footing, the lawsuit alleges. As a result of the poor foundation and not the storm, the structure was damaged, the suit states.

The Hills are seeking an undisclosed amount of damages in excess of $5,000. Their case is expected to be heard by Circuit Judge Vernon Mize, Jr., although no trial date has

In addition, Hormoz Rezvani, of an address undisclosed, has filed suit in Seminole Circuit Court against the City of Altamonte Springs, an Altamonte Springs police lieutenant, the Holiday Inn of Altamonte Springs, three Holiday Inn employees and the Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York seeking an undisclosed amount of damages in Rezvani maintains in his suit that while he was a guest at the Holiday Inn, at 230 W. State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, he was arrested unjustly and mistreated and that charges filed against him concerning the December 1980 incident were later dropped by the state attorney's office.

The suit alleges that Rezvani checked into the hotel on Dec. 27, 1980, and that at 2 a.m. Dec. 28, 1980, he was arrested by police 1.t. Edward Overman on charges of trespassing at the request of the hotel management. Rezvani claims Overman "acted without cause" in arresting

On March 27, 1981, state prosecutors declined to file charges in the case and, according to Rezvani's suit, caused him humiliation, embarrassment and anguish.

Rezvani states in his suit he was also assaulted by hotel employees at the hotel's "Why Not Lounge?" after he was asked to leave the bar which was about to close for the

The suit alleges that hotel employees, including Michael Casey, John Hansen and Louise Viera, falsely arrested and illegally detained him in connection with the incident. The suit also charges Overman and the City of Altamonte Springs with false arrest and imprisonment of Rezvani.

The case is expected to be heard before Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr., although no trial date has been set.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, August 4, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY August 4, 1982

You are likely to form opposing views. partnership this coming year in areas where you have several different purposes. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There is a chance today that you may be tempted to do something against your better judgment. To ignore your own counsel might prove unwise. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birth date and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Strive to be industrious today, but don't attempt to take onthings which exceed your limitations, Recall the straw that broke the camel's back!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Being your own person is admirable, but today all will go smoother for you if you abide by the will of the majority rather than oppose SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Family problems should be kept within the confines of the home today. If you permit outsiders to intervene, you may open up something you will regret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Gauge your audience wisely today. Take care not to introduce into a conversation

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb.

19) You function best today if left to your own devices, so try to steer clear of persons who make demands of your time and who attempt to dictate your activities. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Difficult situations will be knowing that you can work things out, and you will. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid groups or cliques today where you may have to deal with a member with whom you're not on the best of terms. A confrontation is possible. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is not the day to challenge authority figures, especially those who have some influence over your career. You could come out a triffe bruised.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to let having the last word be too important today, particularly if it could jeopardize a relationship. You might win the battle but lose the war.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you are on guard today, there's a possibility you might be maneuvered so as to be held accountable for another's mistakes.

Runner Puzzled By Weight Gain

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 44 years old, 5 feet 10 and weighed 140 pounds for the past eight years. I had maintained this weight by being fairly active and watching what I ate.

About four months ago 1 took up running and now run between two and five miles every day at an eight minute. per mile pace. I still eat the same type and amount of food that I did before I took uprunning.

My question is, why have 1 gained about five pounds? I was under the impression that by doing this much exercise I would be able to eat more and still maintain my 140 pound weight. Obviously I am still far from being obese but I sure am puzzled by the weight gain. My other physical activities are still the same as before I took up running.

DEAR READER - 1 learned a long time ago not to accept as a fact everything people told me. You may think you are eating, and drinking, the same number of calories but that remains to be proved. You would need to have a food diary before and now to have a more correct idea.

But you can gain weight losing weight. Remember that pounds on the scales do not mean pounds of body fat. And pounds on the scales is a poor way to check your calories eaten compared to calories used.

If your statements are correct you may have developed some increase in muscle size, perhaps in your legs. To illustrate what happens - if you lose a point of body fat that eliminates 3,500 calories of stored food energy. But if you gain a pound of muscle from your exercise that will represent only about 600 calories. You could have a net loss of 2,900. Duofilm. Beyond that, as you increase endurance exercises you may increase blood volume and body fluids which can account for a minor weight gain. The important thing for health is to eliminate

Box 1551, Radio City Station, New Your, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Like the boy described in one of your columns, I also had warts that kept returning in spite of surgery, over-thecounter drugs and various treatments. A friend suggested that I place a piece of aspirin on the wart and from exercise rather than cover it with a wet Band-Aid and continue to do so until the wart deteriorated and finally disappeared.

It has been several years now since I treated my last wart. I realize everyone's system is different, but I hope this suggestion might be of some help to that young man you wrote about

DEAR READER - Thank you for your thoughtfulness. Aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid. That is the same ingredient found in salicylic acid plasters that I mentioned in the column you read. There are several preparations that contain salicylic acid such as are 75 percent water and are nitrogen will then be successful

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Hungarian expert Paul Lukacs presents a couple of play problems in each issue of the "Bridge World" magazine. We show his bidding here and find South in a slightly optimistic spade, slam

A trump is opened East follows and you win Try to find the best line of play which is going to work this

Here it is. Play a second trump and then finesse dummy's diamond gueen. If it loses you need both a successful club finesse and diamond 10 finesse. However, it wins and you are now in very good shape. You play a heart to the ace, ruff a heart, diamond ace, ruff a diamond and ruff your last heart. Dummy's 10 of diamonds can now be led. If East wins you need to take the club finesse, but this time East discards so you simply chuck your five of clubs. West is on lead and must either give you a ruff and discard or lead a club up to your ace-queen. Why didn't you consider a double diamond linesse?

Because if West held both diamond honors the play you adopted was sure to work. Why didn't you consider squeezes and play against king and one club offside? The chance of such action is less than the chance of the club finesse being on-
