

FEW FOOTBALL UPSETS ATTEND GAMES SATURDAY

Holy Cross And Pennsylvania Title Aspirations Dashed

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—No member's initial football test eliminated only four leading contenders for sectional honors and left other favorites more firmly entrenched than ever.

Pennsylvania and Holy Cross in the East, Virginia Poly in the South, and Oklahoma in the "big six" were the only major casualties Saturday in a day made notable by the paucity of upsets.

While the four were falling by the wayside, Southern California in the Far West, Pittsburgh, Colgate, Brown and Columbia in the East, Tennessee, Auburn and Louisiana State in the South, Michigan and Purdue in the "big ten", Texas and Texas Christian in the Southwest, and Utah in the Rocky Mountain group continued their hold on the top positions.

Southern California, which may have to share the coast conference title with the University of California at Los Angeles, maintained its undefeated record by trouncing California, 27-7, and now seems confident to finish its conference season unbeaten. Stanford absorbed its third straight beating, losing this time to Washington, 14-13. Oregon defeated Oregon State, 12-6, and Washington State pulled out a 12-0 decision over Idaho in the last quarter. U. C. L. A. was still and will not return to conference competition until Nov. 19.

Pittsburgh, with its crack back E. Warren Heller and Mike Sebastian in form, spoiled Penn's debut in an unbeaten season, 19-12, while Brown's new Tom McLean, who had 85 yards in the winning yards of the game to check Holy Cross, 10-7. Columbia, thanks to the absence of Red Matal, who blocked a punt in the third quarter, and ran across for a touchdown in the first, Navy, 7-0. Colgate, checking in with one of the East's best sectional triumphs, wall-poled Mississippi College, 27-0.

But perhaps the most astounding performance of the day was the 46-0 rout of Harvard, which grows more impressive with each passing week. The Crimson, who had a chance at Yale, Harvard, Fields and other Army back, ran wild.

Football, resuming from two successive defeats, upped the high-scoring St. Mary's, 44-0, from California, 14-0, and playing the visitors, all the way, over a New York University team in a 14-0 victory. Penn State, 14-7, from that of Michigan, 14-7, and Syracuse, won from Oglethorpe, 27-0.

Michigan handed Indiana a 7-0 licking to protest its ambition for, and Purdue, undefeated, led by Northrup, ran rough on Chicago, 17-0. Ohio State, finally won a game, kicking over Southern, 20-0, while Wisconsin was taking Illinois over the head, 20-12. The conference, held even in inter-sectional games, in Minnesota, turned back Mississippi, 26-0, and Iowa, although making a brave showing, lost to Nebraska, 14-13.

Nebraska, incidentally, virtually clinched the "big six" crown when

Spencer, 38; Bernard, 42; and Spaulding, 40. Point to point for Sanford: H. E. Ellis, and J. Herbert, 1-12 point; for each team: R. Lombard, and H. E. Ellis, 1-12 point; for DeLand, A. C. Ford and G. The first scene was enacted by John G. Kellum, J. R. Alford and Dr. W. H. Rogers, representing three original ministers, the Reverend Joseph Styles, the Reverend Pratt and the Rev. Nathaniel A. Pratt, who were sent

Dumas Reviews City's Handling Of Bond Matter

(Continued From Page One) would be nothing for you to do but to explain your predicament. You would tell the banker in a nice way that you didn't even possess the few dollars for the interest payment.

Under those circumstances, if the banker said to you, "This is a little bit unusual, but I'll tell you what I'll do. If you pay me 1-1/2 percent interest, I will cancel the other 1-1/2 percent and renew the principal until such time as you can refund it, you'd think he was being about as fair as could be expected under the circumstances, wouldn't you?"

All this might not mean so much to you if the banker held no security for your note and you had nothing so that a judgment against you would be no good. But suppose he had a mortgage on your home or your farm. Even if your home wasn't worth as much as the mortgage, you would not like to have him for close it and move you out into the street. You would be mighty glad if he cut the interest rate to 1-1/2 percent and gave you more time to pay the principal.

Now this is not so very different from the plan which the present Commission is a truly working unit at present. After months of hard work and constant negotiation, we have prevailed upon the Bond Committee to allow us to pay them 1-1/2 percent interest in return for which they promise to cancel all the interest coupons. In other words, under our present agreement our debt is not piling up. It is constantly being reduced and we are daylight ahead.

We have another agreement with the bondholders under which we are able to purchase Sanford bonds at market price with all funds paid into the city treasury for delinquent taxes. This feature alone enables us to retire the principal of our indebtedness at

Court Reverses Alabama Decision On Seven Negroes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—The Supreme Court today set aside the death sentences imposed on seven negroes at Scottsboro, Alabama convicted of assaulting two white girls. The ruling means the cases will go back to Alabama courts for a new trial.

The highest court upheld the contention of the negroes' counsel that they had not had a fair trial. In making the decision, Justice Sutherland said the men from the time of their arraignment had been substantially denied counsel at the time such representation was of vital importance in properly preserving the rights of the defendants.

He suggested the cases had been forced to trial without proper preparation by counsel. The alleged attack occurred on a freight train. The case attracted a wide attention and because of intense feeling aroused by extra guards have been at the court on every opinion day since late last term.

Great interest is centering in the 15th game of the Florida, when the United States of Florida at Los Angeles comes to meet the "Fighting Gators" of the state university.

Watch New York

Rain or shine The Sanford Herald through the great news gathering agency of the Associated Press will receive election returns tonight from every state in the Union...

While we hesitate to prophesy the outcome of a national election, we will, nevertheless, venture the prediction that the key to the situation is New York state.

So we advise our readers tonight to watch New York. If Roosevelt secures a plurality there of 200,000 or more votes, the predicted Democratic landslide is under way.

For it is almost indisputable that if the Republicans carry a single state outside of New England they will carry all of New England. It is equally indisputable that if they carry New York they will carry Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

With 140 votes in the East and 110 in the Middle West, Hoover would then have a total vote of 250 with 266 needed for re-election.

So keep your eyes on those two states tonight and you may know in advance what the final outcome will be.

Football Changes

Originally the game of football was supposed to epitomize all that was hard, tough, and rough, minus the need of any mental processes whatsoever.

The day of the closely knit formations, of "tackles back" of firing wedges, and catapulting players, has given way to wider open plays, of forward and lateral passes, hidden balls, and spinners.

The latest step in this trend has been taken this season by a couple of teams on the Pacific coast where the experiment with three men on a team, one man used solely as the field general, is being tried.

It will probably take time for this latest innovation to become widely adopted, and it is interesting to contemplate how the football players and the fans will receive the idea of one man playing on a team without taking any of the risks of physical combat.

It is conceivable that the time is not far off when the biggest hero of the game will be like the biggest hero of a war, the man who is behind the firing line directing his men what to do.

Prohibition May Find Its Future In Voting Today

(Continued From Page One) to the power of the federal government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

The Democratic platform says: "We advocate the repeal of the 18th Amendment. To effect such repeal we demand that the Congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that proposal, we urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control of the states."

In addition the Democrats adopted a declaration for "immediate prohibition of the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution."

Accepting the nomination with an address to the convention, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee, said: "I congratulate this convention for having had the courage, fearlessly, to write into its declaration of principles what an overwhelming majority here assembled really think about the 18th Amendment. This convention wants repeal. Your candidate wants repeal. And I am confident that the United States of America wants repeal."

Accepting the Republican nomination, President Hoover called attention to what he termed the "bitter controversy" over prohibition, cited the party's platform declaration, pledged himself to "enforce the law as they exist, and said:

"It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we re-assume a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the states and local authorities. That change must avoid the return of the saloon."

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and the up- on which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it sees fit, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its innumerable political and social complications and its organized interference with other states."

The pronouncements of such dates and conventions of varied varying expressions from the national prohibition organizations, some supporting President Hoover, others making no commitment, and all urging the election of Congressmen and Senators taking their view of the liquor controversy.

W. C. T. U. President Expresses Thanks

Mrs. F. B. Mitchell, president of the local W. C. T. U., this morning expressed the appreciation and thanks of her group to "All those who so kindly helped in making the 49th annual state convention an outstanding success."

She made particular mention of the owners of the 190 homes that were made available for use by the 225 delegates who came from all over Florida to attend the convention, and declared that the cooperation of the Sanford press was a contributing feature to the convention's success.

Mr. Coolidge concluded with this statement: "It is not the spirit of the American people when the captain of their ship has guided them through a storm and is approaching a safe harbor to discharge him and then claim that the storm was created by him. Nor are they accustomed to disregard their duties and repudiate their obligations. Their courage is too great and their moral fibre is too strong to follow those who seek to tempt them with any such suggestions."

"From my knowledge of President Hoover, after sitting at the cabinet table with him for eight years, after considering the difficulties he has encountered and the policies he has proposed, I believe that he is the best man for us to entrust with the presidency in this great emergency."

BEAN CROP IN FLORIDA WIPED OUT BY DELUGE

Richard Gray, meteorologist at Miami, said the 21.86 inches precipitation was a record for Florida and classified the rain as a flood-burst at Canal Point. Other points in the state had less than two inches of rain in the 24 hours ending at 11 A. M.

Fred C. Elliott, secretary and engineer for trustees of the internal improvement fund, said from his Tallahassee office that the Belle Glade experiment station reported a rainfall of 11.5 inches; that Canal Point reported 14 inches and the state prison farm in that section had 7.5 inches.

The Belle Glade experiment station said its figures were only for the period between Sunday night at 10 o'clock and yesterday at 10 A. M. The main highways were reported unobstructed by Chief of Police R. H. Harrison of Pahokee, although many were covered with water. Harrison said many lateral roads were under water, as were most fields in his section.

One white family in Pahokee had to leave a flooded home, as did most negroes in the town, Harrison said.

County Commissioner Willard B. Smith, at Pahokee, expressed belief that the greater part of the bean crop had been ruined. Even if the rain stopped today, he said, it would take several days to water over fields to subside, by which time the crops would be spoiled.

The deluge came on the heels of

"bean growers' holiday," which was caused when growers refused to ship their produce because of low prices. A general resumption of shipping began yesterday after prices rose to around 40 cents a hamper. Commissioner Smith estimated 40 to 50 cars of beans were picked in the Pahokee area before the rain began.

Meteorologist Gray at Miami said the heaviest rainfalls in Florida's history failed to approach the mark at Canal Point. On Aug. 2, 1925, St. Petersburg had 15.45 inches of rain in 24 hours. New Smyrna had a precipitation of 13.22 inches Oct. 9 and 10, 1924, and Miami streets were flooded Nov. 29 and 30, 1925, when 15.10 inches fell.

Coolidge Makes Final Plea For Herbert Hoover

(Continued from Page 1) situation was "too serious for us to consider employing a personal favorite for any one because he smiles at us and entertains us."

"We must have someone who can work for us," he said, "some one who knows how. We know we cannot have perfection in this world but we want the best we can get. Promises and good intentions are not enough. We cannot afford rash experiments."

Referring to the campaign last night, the former President said, "People have become more and more convinced that he (Hoover) is right. The vagueness and weakness of the proposals and claims of the opposition have become more and more apparent as the strength and soundness of what President Hoover has done and proposed have been revealed."

"The more we have learned of his record in office, the more we have realized his grasp of affairs, the stronger has become our determination to support him for re-election."

"In this campaign," Mr. Coolidge said, "we have heard a great deal of discussion about our material welfare. That is natural and proper because the prosperity of the people is always important, but there are other things which are even more important."

"No great question has ever been decided by the people of this nation on the sole basis of dollars and cents."

The Age Of Selection is here

Our times are marked by one vast advantage over all past history—freedom of choice for the average person.

A young man now has a hundred interesting careers to consider. His grandfather had ten. Many paths are open to the scientist, writer, teacher, athlete, business man. When we travel, we often choose between rail and bus and car and plane. Every last thing we buy is one of many offered.

This is the Age of Selection. For advertising keeps us informed. Tells us the special benefits of this, the new features of that. Shows us how to build houses and how to make muffins. Explains why and where and when and how much.

As we read we learn how to discriminate, to recognize worth, to be sure of value received. Before we buy a car or refrigerator or a can of beans, we know what it is and what it offers. Advertising teaches us how to live by this year's rules.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE PILGRIM'S FIRST WINTER

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Herbert Rose, celebrated painter... inspired by the bitter hardships endured by America's first settlers in their conflict with raw, wild nature (1620). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies
