A prayer for the nation

The 40th consecutive National Day of Prayer will be commemorated today in cities and towns throughout the United States. In light of recent events in the Middle East, our nation is experiencing a heightened awareness of and participation in prayer.

Join thousands of others across America for at least five minutes of united prayer to acknowledge our dependence upon God, give thanks for the many blessings our country has received from Him through the years, recognize our need for personal and corporate renewal of moral values and intercede for the healing of our nation and for the guidance of our governmental leaders.

Though the observance of this day goes back to the First Continental Congress, it wasn't until 1988 that Congress and the President established a permanent date for the National Day of Prayer, the first Thursday of each May.

Auction set for Saturday

SANFORD — An auction to benefit the Children's Miracle Network will be held Saturday at Wal-Mart Discount Cities, 3653 Orlando Drive, Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

A rummage sale and bake sale will be held at the same time, and refreshments will be available.

The profits from the auction and sales will go to help the Children's Miracle Network a non-profit organization at Shands Hospital in Gainesville. The funds are used by CMN to provide a variety of services to not only seriously ill children but to their parents who might need assistance while their child is hospitalized.

The auction is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Saturday, May 4.

Soviets donate rare find

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — A bag full of hair wouldn't excite most people the way it excited scientists at the Illinois State Museum. But then most people aren't studying the mammoth.

The Soviet Union's Zoological Institute gave the bag of rare mammoth hair to the museum Wednesday. The Smithsonian is the only other museum in the Western Hemisphere that has such rare material.

"The material ... comes from an animal that is 10,000 years old but preserved as if it were collected from the animal only yesterday," said State Museum Director R. Bruce McMillan.

Mammoths, giant, elephant-like creatures, first appeared about 5 million years ago and roamed across much of the Northern Hemisphere. They reached North America about 1.9 million years ago, then mysteriously died out about 10,000 years ago.

The hair given the Illinois museum belonged to a female mammoth discovered frozen in Siberia in 1979. It is believed to be one of the species' last survivors.

The museum may conduct tests of the hair's genetic material. It is to go on display by summer.

Goldsboro unites for aid

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A group of approximately 60 concerned citizens in the Goldsboro community met at the First Impression's Early Childhood Development Center annex last night, to discuss recent problems with flooding and standing water in their community and the potential danger from disease-carrying mosquitoes.

In calling for the meeting, James H. Brooks, Jr., director of the center wrote to the people of Goldsboro. "The reason for the flooding and standing water is that we have an inadequate sewer/waste water system. Our community has to contend with open ditches with stagnant water." He gave the area of West 7th Street as an example of the problem.

Brooks had suggested that the citizens attend last night's meeting so that a combined approach can be reached. He also called for the matter to be addressed at the next meeting of the Sanford City Commission on May 13.

A petition to be given to the City is currently being circulated throughout the Goldsboro area. It calls for a thorough survey and assessment of the problems, a plan of action, a specific timetable outlining the work to be done and that money be earmarked for the project. Brooks said, "We made 50 copies of the petition to take around for signatures."

Concert sponsors stay in red

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Columnist

SANFORD — Unless the community comes forward with support Seminole Community Concert Association may be forced to bite the dust. Founded in 1938, the 53-year-old cultural institution began the 1990-91 season with financial problems.

Citing "lack of patronage" for a deficit of $5,307.71, Bette Gramkow, president of the SCCA Board of Directors, said at the beginning of the season she was optimistic that as the season got under way, more support would be forthcoming through established memberships, new members and business patron sponsors. "Tight money" and the "changing times" were also blamed for a decrease in support.

A fund-raising dance April 5 attracted only 71 patrons and, according to Gramkow, SCCA went into the hole $600 in attempting to raise much-needed money. Membership was slightly higher than that of the past season, Gramkow said.

Lake Mary-area voters face changes in polling precincts

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — At least four north Seminole County voting precincts may be split this summer due to population growth.

Three of the four precincts are in the Lake Mary-Langwood area and the fourth currently includes most of the suburban estate homes of the Markham Woods Road area.

Elections Supervisor Sandra Goard decided precincts should be split if they exceed 1,700 registered voters to speed election-day processing of ballots and to assure all voters can cast ballots before poll closing times.

Seminole County commissioners will review the workplan next week and may see the first population counts for each of the five commission districts. New districts and commission boundaries could be adopted in September. Those boundaries may shift next year when the Legislature redistricts legislative and congressional districts, Goard said.

About 30 county precincts with

About 30 county precincts with 1,400 to 1,700 voters may be subject to splits.

1,400 to 1,700 voters will be compared with county growth projections to determine if they pass the 1,700 mark within three years. If so, they may be subject to splits as well.

Several smaller precincts may be considered for mergers into adjacent precincts if access and polling places allow. For example, Precinct 1 in Sanford's Highland Park neighborhood had 396 voters registered on Dec. 31, 1990, according to county election records.

Goard said small precincts may be eligible for mergers with adjacent precincts after future population growth projections in the precincts are considered.

County statistician Don Hastings says the precincts with more than 1,700 voters track closely the fastest growing areas of the county. Hastings will match 1990 U.S.

Census data with county commission district boundaries to compare population counts in each district. District lines will be redrawn to have comparable numbers and to maintain neighborhoods.

The precincts eligible for splits based on current registration include Precinct 26 west of U.S. Highway 17-92 that includes portions of Sanford, Lake Mary and unincorporated areas. The precinct had 1,854 voters registered in December, compared with 1,234 voters at year's end in 1987. 1987 was the year the last precinct split was completed.

Precinct 84, which includes portions of Lake Mary and the unincorporated neighborhoods of The Crossings and Greenwood Lakes has tripled in size during the three-year period. In 1987, the precinct had 936 voters. By 1991, 3,336 voters were in the precinct, making it the largest precinct in the county.

Due to its registration size, the precinct could be evenly split and both halves would nearly top the City support boosts tax plan

County ready to declare July 9 date for election

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County has the approval of enough cities to move ahead with its sales tax road-building program if the voters approve it in July.

Commissioners will consider formally designating July 9, the date previously mentioned in formally for the special election, during a hearing next Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The referendum will ask voters to approve a 10-year, one-cent sales tax increase to provide the foundation of a $450 million road construction program.

The tax would raise about $25 million each year for the construction program. The remainder will be paid from gasoline tax and impact fee collections.

County officials say the sales increase will be needed to avoid a property tax raise to pay for the construction. Much of the construction program will be needed to match road capacity with current residents and to keep adequate road capacity available for future residents.

Without the tax increase, the county faces a $106 million deficit just to pay for those roads needed to maintain current capacity levels. Officials say road conditions won't get better, they just won't get worse during the next 10 years with the construction program.

According to a state law, the county must share the sales tax collections with the cities unless those cities representing more than half the population of the municipal population agrees to relinquish their share to the county. Then all cities must relinquish their share, said County Attorney Bob McMillan.

Two weeks ago, commissions from Sanford, Altamonte Springs and Winter Springs each agreed to give up their claim to shares of the sales tax. The combined populations of those three cities equal about 64 percent of the city dwellers in the county.

Lake Mary is scheduled to consider the agreement tonight. Longwood and Oviedo will consider it May 6 and Casselberry will consider it May 13.

Although he had initial concerns about the proposal, Lake Mary Mayor Rany Morris said Wednesday he now supports it.

"I do think the expansion of roads does encourage growth," Morris said. "Just taking a road from two lanes to six lanes is not going to solve your traffic problems for very long. But I'm satisfied that the road projects are needed. The county could raise the revenue through property taxes without the referendum vote."

The money for the utility improvements is already contained in Lake Mary's 1991 Budget.

The Lake Mary City Commission will hold its regular session tonight, beginning at 7 p.m. at City Hall.

Payment approval expected in county, city pact

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The city commission is expected to approve payment of over $1.2 million tonight, as its share of an Interlocal Agreement with Seminole county regarding the Lake Mary Boulevard Phase I Road Improvement Project.

The plan involves construction of water and sewer utilities situated in rights-of-way of the county, on Lake Mary Boulevard from Markham Woods Road to County Club Road.

The commission had already entered into the agreement with the county in November of last year. The project calls for the county to incorporate utility work on Lake Mary Boulevard into their bid documents. The city agreed to pay a portion of the contract.

On April 23 of this year, the Seminole County Commission awarded the bid to John Mahoney

Construction Company. The amount Lake Mary is to pay for the work is $1,256,982, plus an additional $167,763 for the construction administration which is not included in the original amount.

The project is not associated with the present county drive to obtain agreement by all of the city governments in Seminole county for a major road and highway program for which the county is seeking a one cent sales tax increase for financing. That proposal is to come up on the ballot later this year. Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun said, "This is a roadway contract where the county is putting in water and sewer lines. It isn't connected with the highway project."

Teen charged in school locker room rape

TAMPA — A 16-year-old youth has been charged with raping a classmate after school in the girl's locker room.

The junior was pulled out of class Tuesday at Robinson High School and arrested by Tampa police. He was charged as a juvenile and taken to the Hillsborough County Regional Detention Center.

School officials said the rape, reported to them on Friday, occurred as the 15-year-old girl went into the locker room to change clothes to go home.

"If this occurred, it's an isolated situation," said principal Sylvia Albritton, principal. "It's a situation that can happen anywhere."

The principal said the accused teen has a spotless record at school.

Mrs. Albritton said the girl had been practicing with the track team in the adjacent gymnasium Thursday just before going to the locker room shortly after 4 p.m. to change clothes.

Ship to be named for Vietnam battle

MAYPORT NAVAL STATION, Fla. — The USS Hue City, the only Navy ship that will be named after a Vietnam War battle, is to be commissioned Sept. 14 at this Florida base.

The USS Hue City, which will have a crew of 367, is expected to bring an annual payroll of $8.3 million to Jacksonville, said U.S. Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla.

"While the rest of the Department of Defense is being downsized for tactical and budgetary reasons, the strategic importance of Jacksonville to our nation's defense is exemplified by the Navy's continued commitment to keeping a vigorous naval presence in our hometown," Bennett said.

Pay raises and school money appear certain

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A handful of major issues confronted Florida legislators today, but an accord with Gov. Lawton Chiles appeared certain on a $133 million package for schools and state worker pay hikes.

"We think we've got the framework of an agreement that should hold," said House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach.

Chiles said Wednesday he could agree to a plan giving the schools $90 million more for fiscal year 1991-92 and handing the employees a 3 percent pay hike at a cost of $43 million.

The schools and pay raise issues were among the final stumbling blocks that have prevented lawmakers from adjourning the 1991 session before Friday's deadline. The other major issues were:

—A bill (CS-HB 427) that would virtually eliminate smoking in many public places and require larger restaurants to set aside more than a third of their space for non-smokers.

—An ethics bill (SB 1024) that requires lobbyists to quarterly report all gifts to public officials worth more than $25. Public officials are prohibited from accepting such gifts over $100.

—A tax measure (HB 1413) raising the documentary stamp tax on property deed transactions from 55 cents to 60 cents per $100 of value to fund the second year of bond sales for the Preservation 2000 environmental land purchase program.

—A measure (CS-SB 1000) creating a new statewide health care commission and making several other changes in health care laws.

—Legislation (CS-SB 1342)

that would allow financially troubled Hialeah Park to resume thoroughbred racing in the fall and set up a study to determine whether the state should buy the track.

Although state employees will see a small pay increase under the tentative budget agreement, some will also be faced with increased medical insurance costs.

The school and pay raise money would come from the Department of Transportation through partial early repayment of a $131 million loan made to DOT from general government accounts in the 1970s to finish interstate highways. The proposal is to take $109.5 million of that loan and reduce the state's share of paying for health benefits to workers at a $17 million savings.

The balance of the $133 million would come from a couple of accounting wrinkles. Chiles told the senators he wanted to ensure repayment of the loan wouldn't hurt DOT's road construction plan.

Sen. Ken Jenne, D-Davie, said DOT could repay the loan, originally due in 1995, so long as it got the proceeds from the $100 "new wheels on the road" fee from 1992 on. That fee generates $24.7 million a year.

"If it's a deal, we can go home," Gardner said.

Wetherell, Chiles and Senate President Gwen Margolis, D-North Miami Beach, all appeared to agree on the funding levels, which would raise per-student spending in each of Florida's 67 school districts by some $15, or about 0.5 percent.

The original $8.1 billion education budget included in the overall $29.3 billion spending plan was short some $54 million, or a drop of about $22 per student.

Six hospitals cause for concern

By CATHERINE WILSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Death rates for Medicare patients in Florida were lower than expected based on hospital usage, but were high enough at six hospitals to cause possible concern, a federal report said Wednesday.

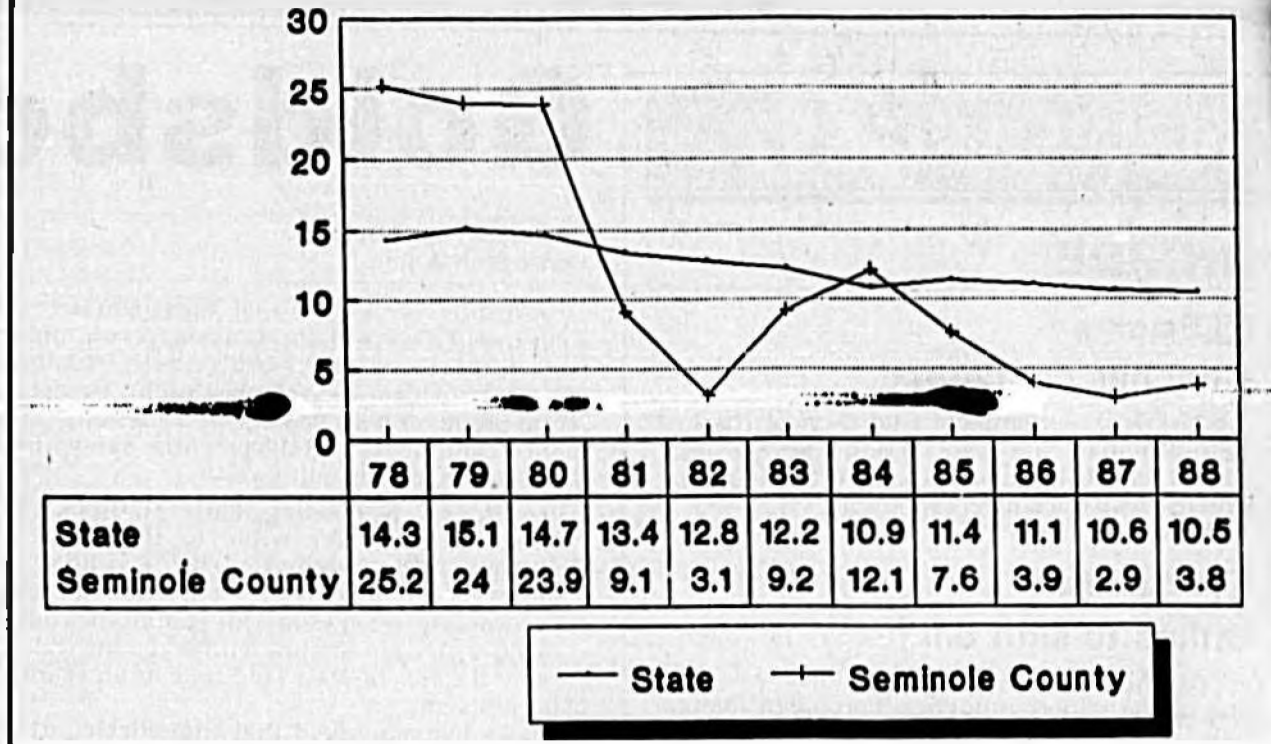

The statistical review by the Health Care Financing Administration indicates "health care in Florida, and particularly health care for the elderly in Florida, is certainly a quality service," said Mark Milner, spokesman for the Florida Hospital Association.

But he charged that when the analysis gets down to the level of individual hospitals, weaknesses such as the case sampling and the study's failure to account for patients over age 85 raise questions about the report's validity.

Figures for deaths 30 days after admission at six Florida hospitals and 65 nationally show that "grounds for concern may exist about the institution's performance," said HCFA, which runs Medicare, the government health care program for the elderly and disabled.

They are: the 450-bed University Medical Center in Jacksonville; the 224-bed Southeastern Medical Center in Miami; the 144-bed Waterman Medical Center in Eustis; the 159-bed Universal Medical Center in Plantation; the 118-bed Humana Hospital Sun Bay in St. Petersburg, and the 120-bed Humana Hospital Pasco in Dade City.

All six had significant differences between actual and predicted mortality rates in two previous study years and made the list again in the new study, which covered the year ending Sept. 30, 1989.

Some medical officials discounted the significance of making the list even once.

"So many variables go into a study of this sort that it does seem to indicate that the validity of the studies would come into question," said Jerry Soud of the Florida Medical Association. "I would assume hospitals do get a little nervous about those kinds of reports, but I don't personally believe it is any reflection on a particular hospital."

Campaign financing bill sent to Chiles

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Although he didn't get all the reforms he wanted, a top aide says Gov. Lawton Chiles will sign one of the nation's toughest campaign finance bills passed by the Florida Legislature.

A compromise bill (HB 2251) passed Wednesday in the Senate by a 24-16 vote that included limits on campaign contributions of $500 from individuals, political action committees and corporations and $50,000 from political parties.

Chiles, a Democrat, campaigned last year under a self-imposed limit of $100 per contribution in his race against former Republican Gov. Bob Martinez.

"We're very pleased that we've started to change the way we elect candidates in this state and it's very much in keeping with the way the governor chose to run his campaign last fall," said Julie Anbender, press secretary for the governor.

Florida would be the largest state in the nation to have such a low limit, said Bill Jones, executive director of Florida Common Cause, which supported the legislation.

"People would be able to run for office free of owing special interests anything," Jones said Wednesday.

Like the House, the Senate vote was on a nearly straight party line basis with most Democrats for and most Republicans against the legislation. The House passed it 74-38 Tuesday.

The new legislation would allow candidates to accept contributions only for opposed elections.

A legislative candidate opposed only in the general election would have a $500 limit rather than the $3,000 limit under existing law. But if a candidate is opposed in his own party primary, he would still be entitled to campaign funds for that race if a prospective opponent in another party has primary opposition. The same goes for the runoff. Chiles had sought a more restrictive $500 limit covering all three elections.

Secretary of State Jim Smith, a Republican, also supported the reform measures, but had been pushing for a $500 limit on party contributions.

Most of the Senate debate was over public financing of campaigns for governor and Cabinet seats. Opponents objected to the use of general tax dollars to help pay those costs if assessments on candidates, political parties and political action committees and voluntary contributions fail to bring in enough money.

POLICE BRIEFS

Traffic stop leads to jail

Daniel Louis Mohr, 25, of Winter Park, was pulled over by Longwood police shortly after midnight Wednesday morning, because his 1987 Nissan pickup's left headlight was inoperative. During the investigation of the situation however, a K-9 narcotic search team was called to the scene and the dog, after checking the truck indicated that some form of narcotic substance was detected inside.

Officers searched the vehicle and uncovered one bag of what they described as a green substance in the glove compartment, and a pipe in the ashtray that had what was considered to be a narcotics odor. After the green material was found to be marijuana, Mohr was taken to the Longwood Police Station for booking, then placed in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

Man wanted in Volusia County nabbed

A man wanted on an active warrant issued in Volusia County, was arrested at his home in Oviedo Tuesday by officers of the Oviedo Police Department.

James Horace Hightower, 31, of 879 Doctors Drive in Oviedo, had been wanted by Volusia County authorities since October, 1990. The four charges in the warrant included sexual battery, burglary of a dwelling and two separate charges of aggravated battery.

Hightower is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility until he can be transferred to Volusia County.

Man arrested in earlier drug investigation

Sanford Police have arrested Ruben W. Black, 19, of 107 Scott Drive, Sanford, on charges connected with a drug crackdown on April 19.

The Special Investigative Unit with members from the Sanford and Apopka Police Departments, conducted the undercover operation in the 6th Street and Palmetto Avenue area of Sanford, during which time an officer reportedly made a purchase from Blake. Following an investigation into the identity of the material purchased, officers were able to make the arrest Tuesday at Blake's home. He is being held in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on charges of sale and delivery of a controlled substance as well as possession of a controlled substance.

Pushes motorcycle, ends up in jail

Deputy Richard Harrell of the Seminole County Sheriff's department, driving through Altamonte Springs Tuesday afternoon, noticed a man pushing a green 1988 Kawasaki motorcycle down the street and offered to help. According to a police report, Louis Anthony Allen, 19, 147 Jackson Street in Altamonte Springs, told Harrell the motorcycle had broken down and he was pushing it. Allen reportedly identified the motorcycle as belonging to his neighbor.

After Altamonte Springs Police officers arrived, a further check of the vehicle indicated it had been reported as stolen, sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning from the home of its owner, Robert Bedaw, at Windson Apartments. Bedaw had reported the motorcycle was removed from inside the rear of his pickup truck parked near his apartment.

Allen has been placed in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on charges of grand theft of a Motor Vehicle and Burglary of a Motor Vehicle.

Newspaper box busted open

Late Monday night, Sanford Police discovered a vehicle parked with its trunk lid opened, on a dirt road south of the Sanford Cemetery, and investigated.

As they approached the scene, two young men reportedly ran into a wooded area. Officers called for the two to return, and they responded.

In their investigation, officers found a Sanford Herald coin-operated newspaper box that had been broken open, a hacksaw on the box, and a wrench and hammer nearby.

The older of the two was identified as Eric Walter Mann, 18, Dreden Court, Sanford. The other, a juvenile, was not identified. Mann reportedly told officers the newspaper box had been removed from the Geneva Garden Apartments. Because of the value of the box, Mann was charged with Grand Theft, and molestation of a vending machine, and placed in jail at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

OVIEDO — Kirk Middleton, the Seminole County fire marshal, said the extent of the fire damage to the media center at Tusawilla Middle School made the process of finding the cause of last month's blaze at the school slow, but the evidence was clear that it had been deliberately set.

"We took our time pulling the debris out of there so we wouldn't destroy any evidence," Middleton said Wednesday of the 20 day investigation. "Plus there was the whole roof thing to be moved away."

Middleton said he has released the building to the Seminole County school district so that the reconstruction project can begin.

The district hopes to have the school rebuilt in 116 days, in time for the Aug. 26 opening of classes.

"The majority of the damage is in the media center," Middleton said, "but there is some damage to the classrooms, but most of that is smoke damage."

The April 11 fire caused an estimated $2 million in damage to the building. The cost of the fire to the district may rise to more than $5 million, including the cost of transportation and administration of double sessions.

Tusawilla Middle School students attend classes at South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The South Seminole students have classes from 7 a.m. to noon.

Walker and Company, a Winter Park general contractor, has been hired by the school district to reconstruct the school.

A spokesperson for the company would not speculate on their ability to complete the project before the first day of school until they have a chance to assess the extent of the damage.

Richard Wells, assistant superintendent of facilities, said the scheduled goals of the reconstruction should be met without difficulty if the "major damage" is limited to the media center.

The Florida Fire Marshall's office is investigating the arson and has already questioned nearly a dozen Oviedo-area juveniles.

Community growth plans run into snags

Staff and wire reports

GAINESVILLE — Florida communities should look at experiences in cities in other states for clues to future growth and work to get citizens involved in growth plans, two University of Florida professors said.

By July 1, growth management plans are due from 457 local governments. Eighty percent of those local governments already have submitted their plans, state Department of Community Affairs officials say. Seminole County's plan was submitted to DCA for a 90-day review on April 1.

But only 185 of the plans submitted so far managed to comply with state service standards, they say. The rest are being sent back for revision.

The ultimate penalty for failing to comply is a loss of state funding, according to Florida's 1985 growth management law.

That law requires local governments to set service standards for roads, water and sewer treatment, garbage disposal, drainage and recreation.

Growth in other regions of the country can be a good indicator of Florida's future, said Jay Stein, a UF professor of urban and regional planning. The economics of cities such as Cleveland, Buffalo and Philadelphia affect the flow of people coming into Florida, he said.

Swanson found that communities of all sizes are struggling with how big they want to become. He has studied growth strategies in Florida, Pennsylvania and New York.

Discovery performs space acrobatics for Star Wars

By LAURA TOLLEY
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Space shuttle Discovery executed a series of tricky twists and turns today in a Star Wars experiment to help scientists develop a system capable of detecting and destroying enemy missiles.

After steering the shuttle to within 1 1/2 miles of the $94 million satellite that's gathering data on the maneuvers, the crew directed Discovery through a fancy flip-flop 161 miles above Earth.

The satellite watched and collected data on the exhaust plumes from the shuttle.

The high-flying acrobatics were a repeat of a Wednesday performance conducted with the two craft 6.2 miles apart. Another test was planned later in the day. Later still, the satellite was to study chemical and gas clouds sprayed from the shuttle and a canister released into orbit by the astronauts Wednesday.

Pentagon scientists hope to develop sensors that can "read" a rocket's exhaust and identify an enemy missile without being fooled by camouflage gases or confusing the missile with natural phenomena, such as atmospheric light.

After today's tests, Discovery astronauts planned to snatch the satellite from space with the shuttle's robot arm and tuck it back into the cargo bay.

The first plume test was delayed for nine hours Wednesday when the astronauts encountered trouble aiming the satellite, which had been released from the shuttle earlier in the day. The problem was solved and four tests were completed.

All seven crew members, who generally had been working in 12-hour shifts, had a hand in the technical turns.

Columbia Rolled out to launch pad

CAPE CANAVERAL — Space shuttle Columbia has begun its slow trip to its seaside launch pad for a research mission later this month.

Kennedy Space Center employees rolled Columbia out of an assembly building just before midnight Wednesday for the four-mile journey, which takes about six hours.

Commander Michael Coats fired Discovery's right maneuvering engine, shaking the ship with a roar and sending out a long exhaust plume. The crew captured the display with the satellite's infrared sensors and TV cameras.

The firing pushed Discovery almost a mile out of its orbital plane. Coats then fired the steering jets, causing the shuttle's nose to flip 140 degrees from north to south. Another engine firing served as a brake.

After another cartwheel, Discovery was back behind the satellite, whizzing around the world once again at 17,500 mph. The entire sequence took 27 minutes.

In a broadcast aired later on NASA television, the shuttle appeared as a small glowing spot in the dark sky. Brilliant bursts of light could be seen when the engines were fired.

"It is wonderful to see it come together, and it came together today," said Michael Harrison, program director for the Strategic Defense Initiative, or Star Wars.

Earlier in the day, the 4,200-pound satellite had moved into the wrong position, and the first two attempts to correct it failed.

Drinking, driving

After eight years of steady decline, drunken driving among teen-agers is on the rise again, something that auto safety experts blame on the ease with which underage youths can buy liquor. In a recent study, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety found in 97 of 100 attempts, 19-year-old and 20-year-old men in the Washington, D.C. area were able to buy a six-pack of beer. In a similar test in New York, underage buyers were able to purchase alcohol 80 percent of the time.

The study showed that it made no difference in what type of store the illegal buy was attempted. The young men were able to buy beer just as easily in the big national chain stores as in small mom-and-pop package shops. All this is having an impact.

In 1980, 53 percent of all fatally injured drivers younger than 21 had blood alcohol concentrations of 0.10 or higher. By 1987, after all states had raised the legal drinking age to 21, highway fatalities involving underage drinkers dropped to 28 percent.

But alcohol-related traffic deaths among teen-agers and underage adult drivers are on the rise again. In 1989, the last year for which statistics are available, 52 percent of the young drivers killed in auto accidents were legally drunk. Drunken-driving deaths in this age group has increased amid a general decline in alcohol-related traffic deaths for all other age categories.

The National Commission Against Drunk Driving cites ineffective enforcement of existing laws as one of four major obstacles to lowering the incidence of alcohol-related deaths and injuries, and calls for greater enforcement of age-limit laws. In two New York counties where police had imposed a crackdown on teen-age liquor purchases, Insurance Institute investigators found that underage youths were much less successful at buying beer than in counties where no such special enforcement efforts had been tried.

At a recent conference on drinking and driving, Insurance Institute President Bryan O'Neill said, "Maybe if some retail establishments lost their licenses to sell liquor, things would get better in a hurry." Maybe he's right.

To keep the trains rolling

In the complicated dispute between the nation's railroads and the 11 railway unions, one thing is clear: A prolonged strike would be devastating to the economy of the nation as a whole.

Railroads ship more than a third of the nation's goods. Hundreds of thousands of people, from farmers to auto workers, from urban commuters to coal miners, depend on railroads.

A prolonged strike would idle not just the 235,000 railroad workers who walked off the job, but over a half-million other workers whose jobs are tied to the smooth running of railroads and, if the strike were to continue, the hundreds of thousands of others who would be affected by its ripple effects on the economy.

It's estimated that a strike would cost the nation's businesses $1 billion a day. In the process, it also could easily deepen the recession that has been battering the country.

The president was right, therefore, to call on Congress to approve legislation to suspend the strike under the Railway Labor Act, one of whose provisions was designed for just such a situation. The process has been used 11 times in the past 28 years to settle such disputes, and Congress was right to use it again.

Various permanent settlement scenarios are being debated. President Bush wants Congress to force the parties to accept recommendations made by a three-member commission he appointed to mediate the dispute, recommendations rejected by the unions months ago.

The unions want a new panel named that they believe will come up with terms more acceptable to labor. Some in Congress are calling for an additional cooling-off period lasting anywhere from 50 to 100 days.

Given the complicated issues of wages, health benefits and work rules underlying the strike, defining the terms of a fair settlement is incredibly tough. But Congress' responsibility is clear, and that's to keep the trains rolling.

CHUCK STONE

Untangling two very knotty issues

A nation as neurotically obsessed as America is with values that are divided by sex, race and class must eventually reform both its legal system and religious ethos if constitutional inequities based on those divisions are ever to be eliminated.

In April 1991, we may have begun two long-delayed reforms.

First, a woman rape victim was identified by prominent members of the national media, thus focusing national attention on a questionable double standard that publishes the name of the accused male victimizer, but not the alleged female victim.

Second, the national spokesman of a major Protestant denomination recently submitted a report on human sexuality that, in effect, endorses premarital sex among teen-agers and recognizes the religious legitimacy of families headed by gays and lesbians.

"Rather than inquiring whether sexual activity is premarital, marital or postmarital," said the report to the Presbyterian Church (USA), "we should be asking whether the relation is responsible, the dynamics genuinely mutual and the loving full of joyful caring."

Translation: It is possible for unmarried persons to still worship God by enjoying God's precious gift of sexual relations.

For sheer historical magnitude, the universalization of sexual relations could reform church theology as dramatically as Martin Luther's challenge of indulgences did in 1516.

A media reform of similar importance is maturing. A policy seems to be emerging that will no longer automatically withhold the name of a rape victim, while the name of the accused victimizer is published.

The key word here, of course, is accused. And there have plenty of falsely accused rapists — some of whom served lengthy sentences.

But this impetus toward constitutional constency is not based on the media's born-again fair-mindedness, but on a tardy infatuation with the class and prominence of the accused.

William Kennedy Smith has been so widely publicized as an accused rapist because he is a member of one of America's most prominent families.

His accuser, also has had her name splashed across the front page of The New York Times and broadcast on the "NBC Nightly News." The change in news policy that once shrouded the victim from publicity may have been based on the accuser's lifestyle, which apparently offended The New York Times, and a lurking skepticism about acquaintance rape.

The woman jogger who was raped in Central Park, another nationally publicized case, was never identified by the major media, for example. One other difference in the two cases is that the Central Park jogger's accused rapists were black. That may also explain why The New York Times published the name of Smith's alleged victim and not that of the respectable businesswoman jogger.

Such a moral ambiguity has long subverted America's egregious hypocrisy about rape. Through the ages, women have been subjugated as second-class citizens.

A media reform of similar importance is maturing.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Echoes of the role of cars

BOSTON — When 47 Saudi women staged a "drive-in" last fall, wheeling their luxury cars around Riyadh for a half-hour before the police stopped them, I had the same mixed reaction of many other Americans.

On the one hand, I groaned at our allegiance to a country that wouldn't let women drive, let alone vote. On the other hand, I had a hard time joining a fight for the right of rich women to drive their own Mercedes.

As a second-generation American woman driver, I hadn't thought of driving as freedom since I was first licensed to take to the road. For most of my adulthood, the car has been a tool to get where I have to go with the people and things I have to take there.

American men, we are continually told, have a love affair with the automobile. But most American women are looking for a commitment. I just wanted a car that would be there the morning after to help take the kids to school.

Now, months later, reports filter back that these Saudi women are still being punished for their brief time behind the wheel. They and their movement have been "chauffeured" underground by the religious police.

Against this background, comes Virginia Scharff's new book, "Taking The Wheel" as a lively reminder that even in America, automobility was once seen as a driving force for social change. And not everybody was keen on the idea.

Her book is one of those rare and delightful touring vehicles through history. It starts almost a century ago, when the automobile was built by and, most decidedly, for men. Here too, the first women who wanted to drive were the wealthy. Here too, women started driving before they started voting.

In the early years of the 1900s, when cars were still cranked up for action, there was a heated debate about whether women should or could drive. The argument reeked more than faintly of the odorous controversy raging then around women's rights.

Women as a whole, argued one traditional man, "are utterly unfit to pilot ships, command armies or operate automobiles, through no fault of their own. They were born that way."

Taking to the open road was, in turn, a strike for female independence, even rebellion. As Scharff, a University of New Mexico historian, writes, "Climbing into an automobile, a woman rejected the cloister, certainly and potentially also the female sphere of hearth and home." Or purdah and veil.

During Teddy Roosevelt's years in the White House, his impetuous daughter Alice drove alone from Newport to Washington reaching speeds of 25 miles per hour. This created the sort of national uproar that led her father to admit that he could rule Alice or the country but not both.

Even Henry Ford, who put men squarely in charge of family life and family cars, inevitably contributed to this change. A sales brochure of World War I vintage, geared to Ford's female customers, laid it out succinctly, "No longer a shut-in, the woman reaches for an ever wider sphere of action.... And in this happy change, the automobile is playing no small part.... It is a real weapon in the changing order."

"The prospect of unleashing women on the American landscape," Scharff concludes, "deeply disturbed many observers who worried that mobile women would be beyond control, socially, spatially, sexually."

Decades later, half a world away, a Saudi teacher echoes that fear of sexual freedom when asked why driving so threatened the Muslim establishment. He answers obliquely, that "driving could lead to temptations that would hurt the sanctity of women."

Today Americans, Men and women, may feel more imprisoned in our cars than freed by them. We spend as much time commuting to work as our Russian counterparts spend lining up for food. A suburban mother doesn't regard her station wagon as a room of her own. It's the mobile office she takes on her daily rounds.

We're more conscious, too, of the damage the car has done. The car is to the environment what the cigarette is to the body. Gasoline-powered liberation sounds a bit like a Virginia Slims ad. You've come a long way, baby?

But the bulletins from the Mideast and the past, are echoes of the real and symbolic role of the car. Women are still trying to take themselves where they want to go. In Saudi Arabia, when men are in the driver's seat, it isn't just a figure of speech.

Her book is one of those rare and delightful touring vehicles through history.

Whistleblowers find going tough

WASHINGTON — The war on drugs is being compromised by the credibility of the U.S. Customs Service, which is at an all time low.

Customs Commissioner Carol Hallett recently circulated a memo to her employees nationwide asking them to send her any information they had about corruption in the agency, and she promised them complete confidentiality if they were afraid of retaliation. Hallett was flooded with letters, and within days the Customs grapevine was buzzing with some of the whistleblowers' names and their allegations.

In January we reported that a huge Customs investigation into drug smuggling had been compromised in 1989 when two customs agents were taken off the case. The two, Lou Smit and John Graham, were removed from the investigation and harassed when they began telling their superiors about information they received from the FBI on possible corruption in Customs.

In February our associate Dean Boyd uncovered allegations that some Customs employees had allowed the border town of Brownsville, Texas, to be turned into a sieve for drugs. We also reported that Customs management and even internal affairs investigators didn't want to hear about the corruption allegations, especially when they involved friends in senior Customs positions. Employees who continued to complain about corruption were harassed.

Hallett's response to our columns was to fire off an internal memo to every Customs employee saying that our reports "unfairly impugn" the character of Customs. Then she encouraged any employee who was nervous about reporting wrongdoing to Customs internal affairs investigators to instead send the complaints directly to her. She promised confidentiality. "Place your information in a sealed envelope addressed to me and marked, 'TO BE OPENED BY ADDRESSEE ONLY,'" she suggested.

Employees in the southwest region, which includes Texas, took the invitation seriously and flooded Hallett with confidential letters. It took only a few days before internal affairs agents and supervisors in the southwest region knew who had written many of the letters and what they said. Once again, the whistleblowers became the targets of retaliation.

Rep. Doug Barnard, D-Ga., ranking minority member on a House subcommittee that oversees Customs, got wind of what was happening and sent a scathing letter to Hallett saying that alleged intimidation of two whistleblowers "directly resulted from letters written by these two special agents to you personally...." Barnard's subcommittee has been investigating the allegations of drug-related corruption, mismanagement and cover-up in the southwest region Customs staff since February.

We asked Customs officials why the confidentiality of the whistleblowers was compromised, but they said it was "inappropriate to comment on the matter at this time since it is under review by the Treasury Department inspector general's office."

The Treasury Department, the parent agency of Customs, is in the middle of its second investigation of possible corruption in the southwest region. The first investigation was initiated last year, but the findings have been kept under wraps.

In Barnard's letter to Hallett, the congressman said that Customs internal affairs had been warned that its agents should keep their noses out of the Treasury investigations, but had ignored that warning and intimidated some employees who had sent confidential letters to Hallett.

Within days the grapevine was buzzing with some of the whistleblowers' names.

audience. Board Member Roger Harris mentioned that most of the membership is "gray-haired."

Gramkow appointed a committee to draft a letter and survey that is to be mailed in a few days.

The forthcoming season's concerts are usually booked during the winter months of the preceding season and the booking agency is paid in four installments.

The concerts scheduled for next season are: C.C. Ryder, Sounds of New Orleans and American Boys Choir. The price to the agency for these concerts is $11,500.

Last season's concerts featured the Glenn Miller Orchestra, Monumental Brass and Leonard Pinnario, pianist. The season opened with a well-attended free concert and membership drive in Centennial Park, Sanford. As Board Member Walter Smith, treasurer, put it, "A good season... a good variety."

For the past several seasons, the SCCA has had a reciprocal agreement with the New Smyrna Beach Concert Association allowing SCCA members to attend the NSB series and vice versa. This feature doubles the value of the subscription costs which are: $30, single membership; $15, student; $75, family; $125, patron; and $250, sponsor.

According to Smith, it will be the decision of the SCCA membership and community to determine the fate of the ailing concert association. Several board members agree that it "doesn't make sense" to plan a new year when the association is in the red from last season.

The board has considered for the SCCA to go inactive for a year to reorganize and dissolve the debt. Letters will be mailed to the membership with a survey to determine if members will continue to support the organization during and following the inactive year. Also, members will be asked for $15 each to help liquidate the debt.

In addition to SCCA members being addressed on the issue of the concert association's insolvency, an appeal is being made to civic organizations, newcomers to the community and to businesses to financially help this cultural group survive.

Several board members expressed concern over the type of concerts being offered which are mainly geared to a mature audience. Board Member Roger Harris mentioned that most of the membership is "gray-haired."

Also eligible for a split is Precinct 86 which includes small portions of Lake Mary and Longwood and includes the unincorporated area of Myrtle Lake Hills. The precinct had 1,731 voters by 1991, up from 1,182 three years ago.

One of the county's largest precincts geographically is Precinct 85 which extends from State Road 46 along Longwood-Markham Road and Markham Road on the north to the Markham Place and Markham Pointe subdivisions on the south and the Wekiva River to Interstate 4.

Precinct 86 had 1,706 voters at the end of 1990 and still has several undeveloped neighborhoods.

Other precincts eligible for splits include Precincts 86 and 8 which flank Red Bug Lake Road, Precinct 34 in Winter Springs, Precinct 79 which includes the Deer Run and Sterling Park neighborhoods, Precinct 85 which includes Alafaya Woods in Oviedo and Precinct 12 in Altamonte Springs.

Goldsboro

The petitions are to be presented to the City Commission at its next regularly scheduled meeting on May 13 at the City Hall, at which time Brooks urged Goldsboro residents to attend.

Mayor Betty Smith and City Manager Bill Simmons both attended last night's meeting. Brooks said Simmons did an excellent job in presenting the technical aspects of the situation, saying the Goldsboro area needed larger pipes to provide for better street drainage, but that the short term solution might be to unclog the area ditches to provide for improved water runoff.

Simmons explained a survey currently underway that is costing the city $100,000. "Most of the work," he said, "will involve the two main streams that flow through the Goldsboro area, so we'll know more about the problems when that is finished." Simmons said the survey could be done within two to three months.

"One of the reasons behind the initial problems of poor drainage," Simmons said, "is that under normal conditions, a developer builds an area, and when the houses are sold, there is tax money with which to pay for proper drainage. Goldsboro," he added, "is a different situation. It was a separate city until 1911 when Sanford annexed it, and there is no new housing sales tax dollars available." Simmons said that Goldsboro drainage costs would have to be paid for equally by all areas of the city.

Mayor Betty Smith pledged to do what she could in supporting their efforts. City Commissioner Bob Thomas, who had also been invited, sent a letter to the group, saying, "It is a well known and documented fact that the predominantly African American Community of the West Side of Sanford has been neglected forever." Thomas said the efforts of the group, "is welcomed to the superlative degree."

Cholera danger: consumer tips

WASHINGTON - Fish and produce imported from several South American countries is being inspected for possible cholera contamination. None has been found. But here are some tips for concerned consumers:
- Cooking fish to 140 degrees for three and a half minutes kills any bacteria. Peeling fruits and vegetables removes the covering that might have carried any germs.
- Washing hands and utensils with soap and water after handling any food that could be contaminated assures against spread of bacteria to other foods in the meal.
- Freezing breaks down the cholera bacteria after about 10 days.

Blast kills 3; 120 hurt

STERLINGTON, La. - Fires burned through the night at a fertilizer plant after explosions killed at least three people and left five missing in the ruins today, officials said. More than 120 others were reported hurt.
The blasts Wednesday at International Minerals and Chemicals Corp. hurled a man into the street, shattered windows in nearby homes and were felt eight miles away, witnesses said. Flying debris damaged a hospital and a school.

Storm toll: tens of thousands

DHAKA, Bangladesh - More than 35,000 people were killed when a cyclone savaged the southeastern Bangladesh coast, national news agencies reported today. Unofficial estimates said the death toll could surpass 100,000.

IN BRIEF

Geico Blazers win again

OVIEDO — The Geico Blazers won their fourth straight game in the Inter-County Basketball Association Men's League by defeating the Noids 74-66 Sunday night at the Oviedo High School gymnasium.

Geico's win sets up a showdown of decorated teams this Sunday at Oviedo, the Blazers (4-0) facing the Oviedo Magic (3-0) in the first game of a tripeheader scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

John Mullins led a balanced Geico attack with 19 points. Also chipping in were Cliff Williams (16), Sam Haynes (15), Garth Bolton (12), Marcus Neal (12) and Joe Donoho (3).

Providing the offense for the Noids were Jeff Whipple (25), Davis (11), Lawson (10), Ruhnke (9), Gungwisch (8), Raciak (5) and Mann. Quackenbush and Kappel (2 points each).

In Sunday's other game, the Hungry Howie's Hoodlums ripped Oviedo Dun and Pawn 102-55. Nino Lyons paced the Hoodlums with 29 points. Other contributors were Reggie Johnson (25), Buzz Younce (22), Sam Hamilton (8), Jeff Morris (7), Rock Lorraine (6) and Jay Evans (5).

Doing the scoring for Gun and Pawn were Nels Pate (21), Vic Thomas (15), Charles Hardy (9), Steve Buchanan (6) and Mike Doby and Tyrone Adams (2 points each).

BASKETBALL RECORDS

Ryan tosses no-hitter No. 7

ARLINGTON, Texas — Nolan Ryan pitched his seventh no-hitter Wednesday night in the most dominating performance of his amazing quarter-century career.

Ryan, 44, struck out 16 and shut down the best-hitting team in the major leagues as the Texas Rangers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-0.

The Blue Jays, leading the majors with a .276 average, did not hit a single ball hard and flailed helplessly at his assortment of fastballs, sharp curves and changeups. The closest they came to hit was in the sixth on Manuel Lee's blooper to center field, which Gary Pettis caught on the run at his shoetops.

The crowd of 33,439 chanted "No-ian! No-ian!" as he took the mound in the ninth, and Ryan (3-2) did not disappoint his hometown fans. He retired Manuel Lee and Devon White on routine grounders and finished his gem by striking out a swinging Roberto Alomar.

Henderson steals base No. 939

OAKLAND, Calif. — Rickey Henderson finally swiped Lou Brock's record, diving head first into history Wednesday for career steal No. 939.

Henderson ran his way into the record book in the fourth inning against the New York Yankees, setting off a five-minute celebration for baseball's new steal king.

"Lou Brock was a great base-stealer, but today I'm the greatest of all time," Henderson said to the crowd of 36,139 in the Oakland Coliseum.

Henderson's historic steal came in the fourth inning with Tim Lary pitching and Matt Nokes catching. Henderson immediately pulled up the base, held it above the head in his right hand and pumped his left fist in celebration.

"When I felt my hand on the base, it was a dream come true," Henderson said after Oakland's 7-4 victory. "All that work and dedication paid off."

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

Evans hooks Mudcats for Suns

JACKSONVILLE — Dave Evans carried a one-hitter into the ninth inning as Jacksonville (13-8) defeated Carolina (12-8) 6-1 Wednesday.

Evans (1-2) struck out five and walked two in the game, finishing with a three hitter.

Jacksonville's Frank Bolick was 3-for-4 with four RBIs; Anthony Manahan was 4-for-5 with two doubles and one RBI; and Ted Williams was 3-for-5 with three runs scored.

Losing pitcher Pete Murphy (1-1) went five innings, allowing seven hits and five runs.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Florida rallies by South Florida

GAINESVILLE — Herbert Perry belted a game-tying two-run home run and pinch-hitter Joe Russo singled home Jason Beard with two outs in the eighth as Florida rallied for a 5-4 victory over South Florida Wednesday.

Brian Purvis started the Gator rally with a one-out single. After working the count to 2-1 off reliever Mark Reed (9-5), Perry hit his 15th home run of the season to tie it at 4. Mario Linares followed with a walk, and after Brent Killen filed out, Bo Camposano singled, setting the stage for Russo's game-winning hit.

Headed to Gainesville

Seminoles chase after region title

By GARY BODENMAN
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — At the 3A-District 6 track meet last Friday, Seminole High School coaches Ken Brauman and Nate Perkins were a little concerned about their respective teams.

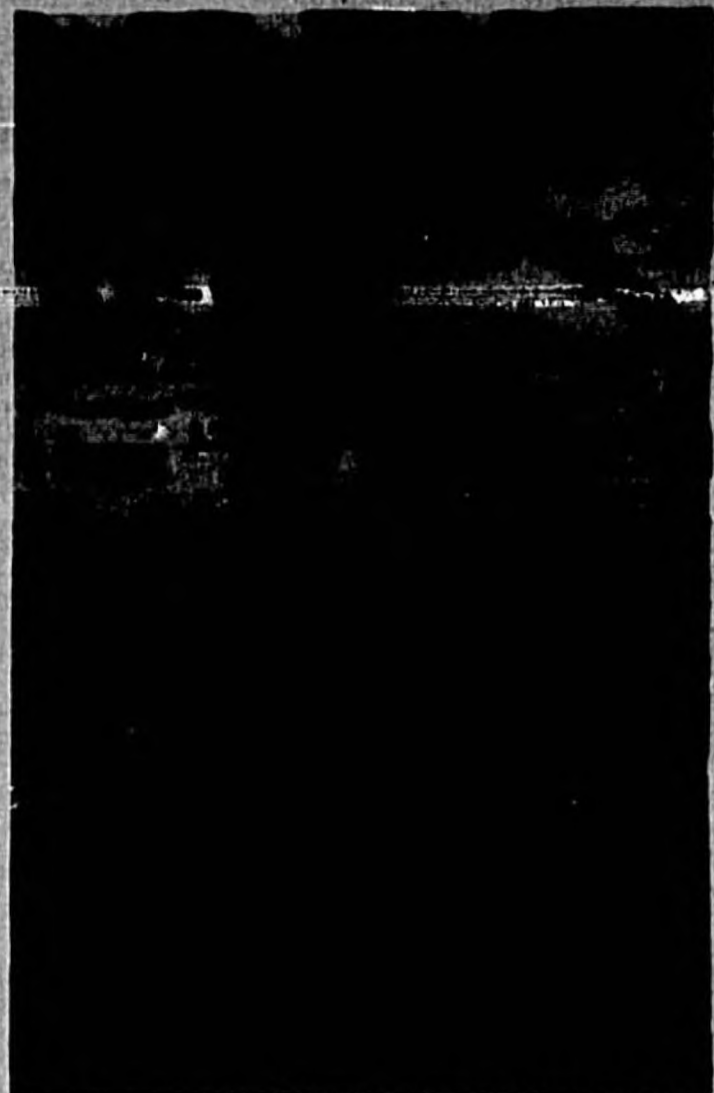

But on the eve of the 3A-Region II meet, scheduled for this evening in Gainesville, Brauman and Perkins are a little more optimistic about their team's chances of repeating as regional champions.

"We had a real good week of practice," said Brauman. "The kids have worked real hard and we've done the things we think we've needed to do in order to perform better."

"We're walking into a real buzzsaw going up there. The district meets in the Tampa and Hernando areas were basic district meets. But the Gainesville district was a very high quality meet. There were some outstanding results. And based upon those results, Gainesville-Eastside and Gainesville-Buchholz would have to be, by far, the favorites to win the meet."

That's not to say Seminole is conceding the meet. Leading the Tribe will be district champions Carlo White (shot put), Henry Williams (triple jump) and Michael Clark (400-meter dash), the 4 x 100-meter relay (Brent Dees, Williams, Corey Wilson and Anthony Neal) and the 4 x 400-meter relay (Camilli Hitchman, JoJo Murphy, Dalvin Davis and Clark).

Other regional qualifiers are Bernard Sparrow (discus and shot put), Dees (long jump and 200-meter dash), Andre Scott (triple jump), Paul Goddes (high jump), Gareth Forde (110-meter high hurdles), Wilson (100-meter dash), Neal (100-meter dash), Williams (100-meter dash), Hitchman (400-meter dash), Gary Rowe (400-meter dash), Davis (800-meter dash), Terrance Jones (800-meter run) and Ricardo Allen (800-meter run).

Somewhere in there, Brauman sees a combination that could lead to a regional championship.

"The throwing events will be very crucial," said Brauman. "Outside of Carlo, they're not that strong in our region. Bernard Sparrow could be second in shot and anywhere from sixth to first in the discus. It just depends on what kind of day he has."

"The triple jump is another crucial area. There are three legitimate 49-footers. Whatever Henry Williams can do to offset some of those people would be an advantage. In order for us to win the regional, we have to do really well in the relays. That's a team-up area. The 400-meter dash is another crucial area. So is Dalvin Davis in 800."

Brauman is hoping that the higher level of competition at the regional meet will spur the Seminole to a greater length and quicker times.

"I think competition is everything," said Brauman. "We run 3:22.7 in the 4 x 400-meter relay and we win virtually untouched. But it's only the fifth best time in the region. The guys think they can squeeze three more seconds out of it."

Perkins added that senior leadership from people like Kecia Ward

(who won the 400-meter dash; placed third in the long jump and combined with Kim Brown, Kecia Lawrence and Tonya Robinson to win the 4 x 400-meter relay) will go a long way to determining what the Seminole girls will accomplish this evening.

"Kecia Ward has been on two state championship teams," said Perkins. "She knows when to get up for big meets. She's been there and she knows what it takes to get there."

Also participating in the regional meet for Seminole tonight will be district champion Kecia Lawrence (300-meter low hurdles), Tina Williams (100-meter high hurdles) □ See Tribe, Page 28

H.D. Realty knocks off Regency Mazda

From Staff Reports

H.D. Realty	000 000 0-0 4
Regency Mazda	001 000 1-1 7

SANFORD — H.D. Realty won the battle for third place with a 15-3 shellacking of Regency Mazda in the only game played in the Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Night Spring/Summer Slowpitch Softball League at Pinehurst Park.

The scheduled game between Ed Bussard's Pro Bass Guide Service and Bikini Beach and the game featuring the Wrecking Crew and Aronow were rained out.

The Wrecking Crew and Ed Bussard's Pro Bass Guide Service are both 2-0 followed by H.D. Realty (2-1), Regency Mazda (1-2) and Bikini Beach and Aronow (both 0-2).

After a scoreless first inning, H.D. Realty jumped on Regency Mazda for five runs in the top of the second. Jack Eltonhead started the big inning with a single and went to third on a double by Phil Harcock. Mark Morgan followed with two-run triple. Morgan scored on a single by Duane Carlson.

The next two batters made outs but Bob Kelly doubled Carlson to third and Chris Dapore scored both with a single.

Regency Mazda came back with a run in the bottom of the second on a single by Steve Noodley, a double by Jerry Brussel and a sacrifice fly by Scott Pensala.

H.D. pushed the lead to 7-1 with two more runs in the top of the third. Jim Schaeffer singled and Mack Thorne and Eltonhead walked to load the bases. Harcock hit into a fielders choice to score Schaeffer and Morgan doubled to score Thorne.

The winners added two more runs in the fourth on a home run by Kelly and four consecutive singles by Chryst Daney, Schaeffer, Thorne and Eltonhead. The 10th run scored in the fifth on walks to Carlson and Carl Thorne, a single by Brian Goddard and a sacrifice fly by Kelly.

A home run by Daney started a five run top of the sixth for H.D. Realty. Singles by Mack Thorne, Eltonhead, Harcock, Morgan, a sacrifice fly by Carlson and a double by Goddard accounted for the other runs.

Regency Mazda scored its final two runs in the bottom of the sixth on a single by Jim Nulty, a fielders choice, a double by Keith Sparks and a two run error on a grounder off the bat of Jeff Sladek.

Contributing to the 22-hit H.D. Realty attack were Kelly (home run, double, single, two runs scored, two RBI), Morgan (triple, double, single, two runs scored, three RBI) and Eltonhead (three singles, two runs scored, RBI).

Also contributing were Daney (home run, single, two runs scored, RBI), Harcock (double, single, two runs scored, two RBI), Goddard (double, single, two RBI), Mack Thorne (two singles, two runs scored), Schaeffer (two singles, run scored) and Dapore (two singles, two RBI).

Doing the hitting for Regency Mazda were Scott Bass (two singles), Sparks (double, run scored), Brussel and Ken Perry (one double each), Noodley (single, run scored), Nulty (single), Bob Borake (run scored) and Pensala (RBI).

Smitty's Plumbing drains Hall's Stucco

From Staff Reports

Hall's Stucco	000 000 0-0 4
Smitty's Plumbing	001 000 1-1 8

SANFORD — Jack Jenkins retired 16 straight batters as Smitty's Plumbing knocked Hall's Stucco from the ranks of the unbeaten 3-0 in a night shortened by rain in the Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Night Spring/Summer Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

The second game between the Sanford Police Benevolent Association (SPBA) and Florida Manor ended in a forfeit win for Florida Manor when one SPBA player was ejected and another left early, leaving SPBA with only nine players.

The scheduled game between DCC and Hopkin's Meats was rained out.

Florida Manor is the only unbeaten in the league with a 3-0 record. Trailing the leaders are Hall's Stucco and Smitty's Plumbing (both 2-1), Hopkin's Meats (1-1), DCC (0-2) and SPBA (0-3).

Next week, Hall's Stucco plays SPBA at 6:30 p.m., DCC faces Smitty's Plumbing at 7:30 p.m. and Hopkin's Meats takes on Florida Manor at 8:30 p.m.

Jenkins was in complete control on the mound for Smitty's Plumbing. He retired the first two batters he faced before Jim Hall reached on a single. Jenkins then proceeded to retire the next 16 Hall's Stucco batters he faced.

Hall's only chance to break the string was in the fourth when Mike Wilson singled to right, but Chad Roll's throw to Sam Griffith cut Wilson down at second base as he tried to stretch his hit into a double.

The best chance for Hall's Stucco to score came in the seventh when two singles and a fielders choice put two runners on with one out. But Wilson lined into a double play to end the contest.

The Smitty's Plumbing offense was not much better but they took advantage of what they got.

Sam Griffith opened the second inning with a single and scored on a double by Mike Rotundo. Rotundo moved to third on an error on the play and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jeff Wall.

The other Smitty's Plumbing run scored in the third when James Smith singled and went to third when the throw in from the outfield was wild. Smith then scored on a sacrifice fly by Jenkins.

Doing the damage for Smitty's Plumbing were Rotundo (double, single, run scored, RBI), Smith (two singles, run scored), Griffith (single, run scored), Johnny Haddock, A.W. Ires and Roll (one single each) and Jenkins and Wall (one RBI each).

Mets drop Cubs, stay undefeated

Special to the Herald

OVIEDO — The Mets remained unbeaten in Bambino (10-12 year olds) Division action in the Southeast Seminole Babe Ruth League as they came from behind with four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to nip the Cubs 5-4.

Don Werner sparked on the mound for the Cubs, allowing just one run and three hits going into the bottom of the sixth. Werner and battery mate Mike Galone helped their team's cause on defense by combining to throw out five Mets who attempted to reach base via the bunt.

But the game came apart for the Cubs in the sixth. Danny LaPolla led off with a single down the right field line. LaPolla advanced to third on a double to right-center by Nick Caldwell. The Cubs appeared like they would squeak the rally when LaPolla was tagged out at home on a squeeze bunt attempt by his brother, Kevin LaPolla.

But Matt Tucker followed with a grounder to short and Caldwell beat the throw to the plate. Kevin LaPolla ended up on third on the play and scored on a ground out by Chris Caldwell, but now there were two outs. Adam Carter came through by lacing a single to center to score Tucker with the tying run.

Eric Ponder advanced Carter to second with the winning run with a single to right. Pinch-hitter Steve Foreman then became the hero with a double to right to score Carter.

Chris Caldwell was the winning pitcher for the Mets, hurling six strong innings. He gave up just three hits and struck out 11 but his defense kept him in trouble by committing eight errors.

The Caldwell brothers, Nick and Chris, were the hitting □ See Babe Ruth, Page 28

Berrys celebrate 25th anniversary

SANFORD — Bob and Carol Berry of Sanford celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Wednesday, April 24.

A family dinner celebration was held at the Cattleman's Steak House, Sanford, and festivities carried on in Fingersh's, Sanford. Marvin and Helen Wright, parents of Mrs. Berry, hosted the celebration. They are owners of Vantage, Sanford.

The honorees have three children — Eric, who is in the carpet business; Wade McGowan, homebuilder; and Barbara-Gail, homebuilder. The Berrys have four grand-children.

Bob Berry has been in the carpet business for 20 years at Sanford, and Carol Berry is a sales manager at Winn Dixie Stores Inc.

The couple's secret for a long marriage is to keep each other happy.

Questions about sex need answers

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased with your response to "Baby's Confessions." Sexually active teens need to know how dangerous sex can be, even when proper precautions are taken.

In Virginia, parents are entitled to information about birth control, pregnancy, genital care and sexually transmitted diseases without their parents' consent or knowledge. Our health clinics and private physicians are required by law to respect a minor's privacy with regard to these sensitive issues. I am an obstetrician-gynecologist, and anything told to me by a teen regarding sex may not be shared with a parent without the teen's permission.

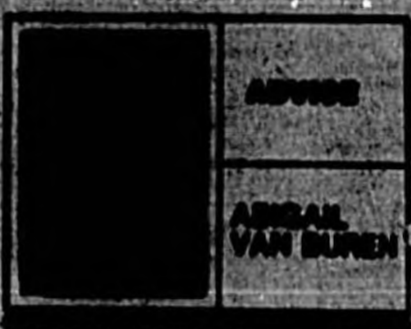

The best family situations I have seen are those in which love allows parents and teens to discuss sexual activity without fear of punishment. Although parents may not like the fact that a daughter or son is sexually active, being judgmental and punitive only alienates an adolescent and makes it that much harder to protect him or her from the many dangers of unprotected sex. Value judgments must be put aside.

I would encourage any parents or adolescents who have questions about the availability of health care for sexually related problems to call their local city or county health department. God bless you, Abby. And God bless the children.

MATTHEW J. WENNER, M.D., COLLEGE, VA.

DEAR DR. WENNER: Thank you for your kind, reassuring words. I came in for copious criticism for suggesting that teens who need answers for questions about sex should go to Planned Parenthood if they don't feel comfortable asking their parents. Lucky are the people who live in Virginia, and the other states whose laws protect a minor's right to privacy.

DEAR ABBY: A prominent chief in Michigan asked you to advise your readers against Installing double dead-bolt locks.

Well, as a security consultant, may I say there are two sides to that issue? Since families are much more likely to be burglarized than to experience a late-night fire, the additional security provided by a dead-bolt lock is the reason those locks are such big sellers.

Although I agree that the use of these locks is hazardous for hotels, hospitals and nursing homes, there are two good security-related reasons for using them in single-family residences.

The first is doors that have glass or plastic inserts (or panels) with standard locks, a burglar can simply break the glass or push the plastic out, stick his hand inside the door and unlock the latch. He can then open the door and enter the house. A double dead-bolt lock prevents this.

Second: There are cases where a team of burglars with large trucks or vans have carried away all the furniture, major appliances and even the light fixtures!

However, when a homeowner uses a double dead-bolt lock, a burglar can steal only what he can remove through the windows. This would be time-consuming, attract attention and appear suspicious to the neighbors or police.

When using a double dead-bolt lock, the rule is: Always lock your door, and keep the key in the lock when you are home. If you follow this rule, you will be safe and secure.

"MAC" MC CAULY IN COPPERAS COVE, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: I am married, but I am very much in love with a man who is 20 years older and also married. I believe he cares very deeply for me. Neither of us has any intention of divorcing our spouse. We are extremely close, share intimate moments when we meet, speak to each other two or three times a day, but we do not sleep together.

When we meet clandestinely we hug, talk, hold hands and kiss passionately. We respect each other deeply and have a very unique relationship. My question: Can two people who do not have sex with each other be considered to be having an affair? We are physically attracted to each other, but for a host of reasons, we do not have sex together.

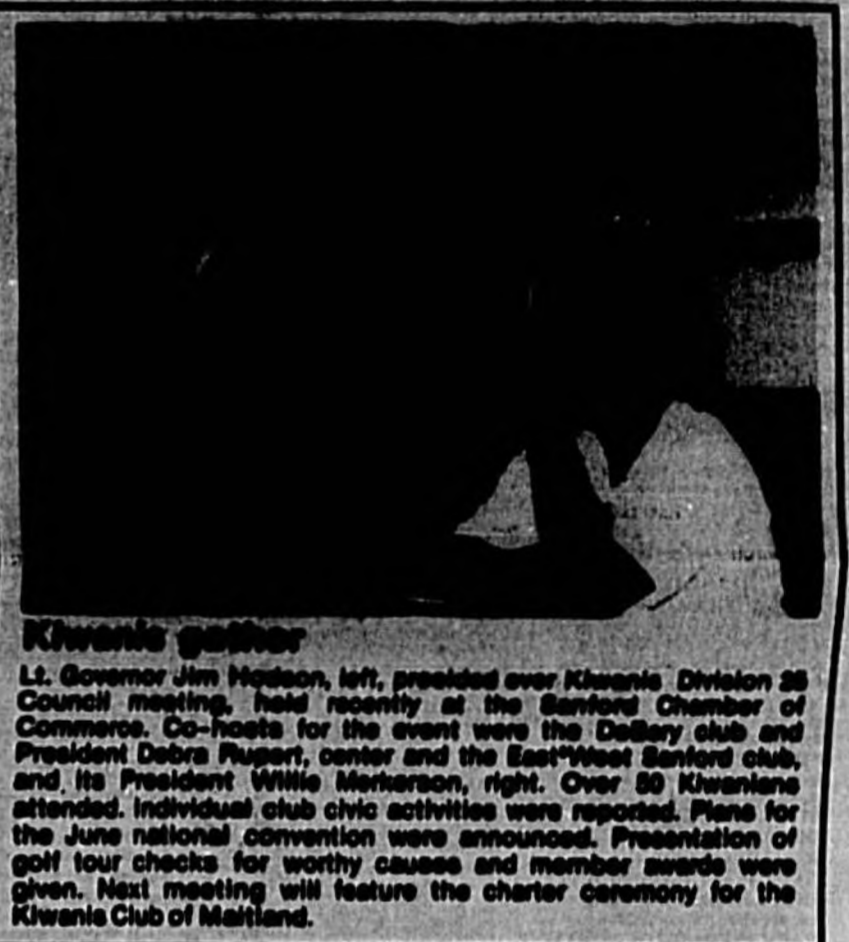

I think we are having an affair, and he thinks we are not. Is there such a thing as an "emotional" affair? When two people are having an affair, is sex always involved?

DEAR "GLADYS": You are emotionally bonded. And since you care deeply for each other and express that caring in physical ways — holding hands, hugging, kissing, even though you have never slept together, but meet to carry on clandestinely — I would say you are "having an affair," which could be more appropriately called "an unfertilized romance." DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your columns for years. Some of the letters you get sound so far out, I wonder if people make them up just to see them in print. How can you tell if a letter is for real or false? CARRIE, N.J. VAN

DEAR ABBY: Fabu letters weekly sound like soap operas with verbiage amounts of conversation, and the writer goes on and on — "creative writing" isn't hard to spot. A name and address is never given, and the writer never says, "Please don't print this." CARRIE, N.J. VAN

Kiwanis gather
Lt. Governor Jim Houston, left, presided over Kiwanis Division 25 Council meeting, held recently at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Co-hosts for the event were the DeBary club and President Dora Puzari, center and the East-West Sanford club, and its President Willie Merikson, right. Over 80 Kiwanians attended. Individual club civic activities were reported. Plans for the June national convention were announced. Presentation of golf tour checks for worthy causes and member awards were given. Next meeting will feature the charter ceremony for the Kiwanis Club of Maitland.

Medication controls a rapid heartbeat

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife has been diagnosed with WPW syndrome, following numerous visits to our local hospital for rapid heartbeat. Would you please give a Monday morning quarterback's assessment of how often this occurs and how often it is misdiagnosed?

I cannot say how often WPW is misdiagnosed. Any doctor familiar with EKG (cardiogram) patterns should be able to identify the characteristic pattern - especially when given the history of paroxysmal atrial arrhythmias.

DEAR READER: Wolff-Parkinson-White syndrome is an abnormality of the heart's conduction system, marked by an acceleration of the electrical impulses traveling from the atria (low pressure heart chambers) to the ventricles (high pressure cardiac chambers). This accelerated conduction can easily be demonstrated on a cardiogram, a test used to identify the pattern of electrical activity in the heart. WPW is harmless and does not indicate heart disease.

Nevertheless, some patients with the condition (which is believed to be congenital) experience troublesome attacks of paroxysmal atrial arrhythmias, bursts of rapid and/or irregular pulse that may result in weakness, lightheadedness, angina or heart failure. In rare instances, WPW causes a prolonged, rapid heartbeat that can lead to cardiac damage or sudden death. This type of dangerous heart rate can be diagnosed by a cardiogram or Holter monitor.

The frequency and duration of the arrhythmia varies from patient to patient, most of whom need no treatment. For patients who experience repeated attacks of rapid heartbeat, preventive therapy is advisable. Quinidine, procainamide and propranolol are the three most popular prescription drugs for this purpose.

I suggest your wife explore the possibility of preventive therapy with her doctor. Once her bouts of rapid pulse are brought under control, she will no longer have to rely on the inconvenience of acute, emergency room management of her condition.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
When beginners are learning card play, they have trouble visualizing the possible distributions of the opponents' cards, and which line of play circumnavigates most, or all, of the various adverse holdings. If you are declarer in three no-trump, always start by counting your top tricks when the dummy is exposed. Here you have six. This little piece of counting tells you that if you can bring home four club tricks, not five, you will have nine in all. After winning the first trick with the king of spades, ask yourself what can cause you trouble. Only a 4-0 club split might be embarrassing. Suppose West has all four. You can cash the ace of clubs and lead a low one through him. When he plays low on the second round, win with dummy's jack, return to hand with a heart to the ace and lead another club. Contract made. But what if East has all four clubs? Now if you start with the ace, you will lose two club tricks and go down. You mustn't overlook the power of your nine. The right play is to start with a low club from hand. If dummy's jack wins the trick and East discards, play a low club back to your ace and a club toward dummy's queen. However, if West discards and East wins dummy's jack with the king, you are still safe. Probably he will return a spade. You win with the ace, cross to the king of diamonds and lead a low club, finessing his 10. Now cash the ace of clubs and lead your last club to the dummy's two good tricks.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Shared ventures look like your most promising area in the year ahead, especially if you associate with people who have contacts and expertise that you lack.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take your involvements seriously today, but also treat whatever occurs philosophically. Knowing that everything will work out for the best enhances your chances for success. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Taurus' Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you have wanted to change cannot be done immediately, but it can be constructively altered in stages. This is a good day to begin the process.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Your assessment is reasonably good today, provided you don't make impulsive decisions and judgments. Weigh and balance all your alternatives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Let your industrious inclinations prevail over your social impulses today. You'll get greater gratification from being productive than from being frivolous.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An endeavor in which you're presently involved will have a better chance for success if it is reorganized properly. Look for ways to improve existing procedures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Early indicators could be a trifle dismal today, but don't let that discourage you. Your luck improves with time and your end results look promising.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to liberate yourself from restraining influences today. If you're anchored to one place or a set of conditions for too long, it could produce negative effects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are presently in a brief cycle that offers better material prospects than usual. Keep an eye peeled for ways to make or save money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Listen to the advice of friends today, but don't discount your own evaluations. The answers you're seeking can be found within this mix.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It is essential that you allocate adequate time to yourself today, especially if you have some personal matters to attend to that need prompt attention.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being a pragmatic visionary today will help you formulate plans that will give you better probabilities for achieving your objectives. Think realistically.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be more effective and a better producer today if you do the best you can. Your sense of self-approval will be so high that you won't have to go fishing for praise.

LAKE MARY — A voter registration sponsored by the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee has been scheduled for May 18 in front of the Publix supermarket, Lake Mary Boulevard at Rinehart Road. Registration will held from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Woman dies after 911 call

FORT LAUDERDALE — A woman who collapsed and died during a 911 call told police she feared her son was trying to give her a heart attack, but the young man denied he wanted to hurt his mother.

"My mother comes from the old school. I'm in the '60s," Scott Conrad said Wednesday. "We argued a lot. It was not physical. She felt I was trying to hurt her because I had a woman here."

Prosecutors and the medical examiner's office reviewed the case, and no criminal charges are planned. Fort Lauderdale homicide detective Steve Palazzo said Thursday.

Police questioned the son and girlfriend, Rakin Walker, and they admitted having an argument with Daisy Conrad. The son said he was unaware of his mother's heart condition, but Ms. Walker said they both knew her condition, a police report said.

According to the police, Ms. Conrad dialed 911 Tuesday night. Just after she told a police dispatcher that she thought her son and his girlfriend were trying to give her a heart attack, she collapsed.

Hawaii, Florida beaches dominate

BALTIMORE — Beautiful scenery, soft sand, clean water, and balmy temperatures helped Hawaii and Florida top a list of the nation's best beaches compiled by a University of Maryland geologist.

Stephen Leatherman compiled his list of the 50 best coastal beaches based on questionnaires on 650 beaches sent to scientists from government and academia in 22 coastal states.

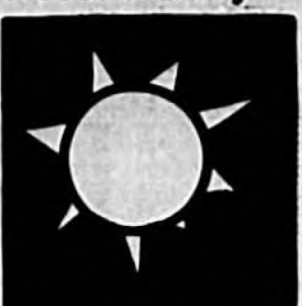

The best beach in the nation is Kapalua Beach on Maui in Hawaii, according to the survey. It is followed by Grayton Beach and Perdido Key state recreation areas on Florida's panhandle.

Florida, with its long shoreline, had seven of the top 10 and 32 of the top 50 beaches. Hawaii had the other three in the top 10 and six in the top 50.

High schools score well Seminole improves, Lake Mary holds its own

By VICKI BOESCHNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Scoring well above the state average on the High School Competency Test (HSC), Seminole High School pulled into third place among the district high schools in scoring and within two points of Lake Mary High School.

"Oh, I know it's not really a race," Wayne Epps, principal of Seminole High School said with a laugh yesterday afternoon soon after the scores were announced, "but I'm real proud of the fact that we keep moving up every year."

Lake Brantley High School finished in first place in the district rankings, followed by Lake Mary and Seminole high schools. Oviedo, Lyman and Lake Howell high school completed the list.

Last year, Seminole . . . 2701 Ridgewood in Sanford, was the fourth highest finisher in the district scoring.

The score "88" the HSC represents the percentage of students in the school who passed the test.

Seminole High School scored a 93 on the communication skills portion of the test and an 88 on the math section. See Test, Page 5A

Sheriff's coffers grow from federal drug raid

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Sheriff's department will possibly be able to improve a number of new educational programs, its K-9 division, crime prevention areas and Citizen Assistance Patrol in the near future, thanks to a check in the amount of $62,935 received Thursday from federal agents.

The money is part of a $74,000 confiscation made in connection with the apprehension and arrest of Peter Hall, 1003 Bear Lake Road in Forest City, in 1989, under federal charges of sale and delivery of drugs. Prior to the check presentation yesterday, Sheriff Don Eslinger discussed some of the history of the case saying that Hall had first been arrested in 1974, on a similar charge, again in 1989, and the third time during this past week. During the 89 and 91 raids, the same firearms which consisted of several rifles and many pistols, were confiscated. See Check, Page 5A

Lake Mary cops vote to unionize Move follows similar action among Sanford police ranks

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City Manager John Litton said he's disappointed the majority of Lake Mary police have voted to form a union, but not surprised.

"There's been rumblings of this for some time," Litton said. "We know the PBA (Police Benevolent Association) has been meeting with cities. Wednesday, 10 of the departments 18 officers voted to form a local bargaining union and have the PBA represent them. Six of the officers voted against the union and two others were out of town. A simple majority of nine was required to form the union of the voting officers. The union will represent patrol officers, corporals and sergeants."

Lake Mary's police union vote becomes the latest in a move to unionization by local police. Although a sufficient number of Sanford police have signed cards requesting a union vote under state Public Employee Relations Commission rules, a PERC clerk said this morning the requests have not been received.

Litton said what did surprise him was the number of officers who voted against the union. "That was not a mandate," Litton said. Litton said no individuals have come forward as union leaders. He said some of the complaints city administrators have heard from officers was that there is a perception some are treated favorably compared to others.

"There have been concerns See Union, Page 5A

Lake Mary still hoping for buried power lines

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City and county officials remain confident power lines can still be buried along Lake Mary Boulevard despite a Florida Supreme Court decision Thursday against them.

"Of course we're disappointed," said Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris. "But there are a variety of other solutions available. There's still time to work this out." "I am still hopeful Florida Power, in a show of community spirit, will go ahead and bury their lines," said Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun. "There's a clear contrast between their actions and the actions of other utility companies who have agreed to bury their utilities."

do not plan to bury their power lines.

"We would like to work with the city and county to come up with a design that is nice as possible and complimentary to their landscaping plan," said Karen Raihill, FPC spokesman. "We will do anything we can do to blend in our design with their landscaping short of undergrounding." Morris said a Public Service Commission study ordered by the Legislature may yet show power line burial is cost-effective. The lines may not have to be buried for another year, he said, time for solutions to be found.

Florida Power Corp. officials could not be reached. Thursday, the Florida Supreme Court, in a 6-1 decision, ruled Lake See Cable, Page 5A

Legislature quits; school, pay-hike money OK'd

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — For the first time since leisure suits and extra-wide ties were in style, the Florida Legislature managed to leave the Capitol earlier than scheduled.

Lawmakers unanimously passed a $133 million package to boost spending on schools and grant pay raises for state workers and then officially adjourned at 12:27 p.m. Thursday.

The 1991 session, scheduled to end by midnight tonight, marked the first time since 1975 that legislators finished the public's business early.

The $133 million funding bill (SB 1314) provides $90 million in new money for schools, which comes on top of the $8.1 billion education budget contained in the overall $29.3 billion spending plan lawmakers sent to Chiles on Tuesday. The extra dollars will enable Florida's 67 school districts to absorb 80,000 new students, boost per-pupil spending by $13 and avoid threatened layoffs or loss of programs.

"It wasn't a money session," House Speaker T.K. Wetherell said, noting that Chiles refused to consider general tax increases. "We limited the agenda and said we were going to do a few things and do them right."

The legislation, a hard-fought compromise between Wetherell,

Senate President Gwen Margolis and Chiles, also sets aside $43 million for 3 percent pay hikes for state and university employees beginning Jan. 1.

It was a fitting end to a legislative session that saw few tax increases and cuts of $1.3 billion in government services. Florida motorists will

Action-packed weekend

Two days of eating, listening, walking, having fun planned

By NICK PFEIFAU
and J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writers

It looks like an action-packed weekend for Seminole County residents searching for something to do.

Fun choices include: the Championship Chili Cook-off at Flea World, to benefit the Leukemia Society of Central Florida; the Regional Oratorical Competition hosted by the Sanford Optimist Club; CROP! Walk to help hungry people in Sanford and elsewhere and Kids Fest in Altamonte Mall, sponsored by the Missing Children Billboard Campaign.

The events are:
Chili Cook-off

For the 7th consecutive year, the tantalizing smell of chili will cover the grounds of Flea World this Sunday, as the Championship Chili Cook-off gets underway at 9 a.m. Proceeds from the event will go to the Leukemia Society of Central Florida.

Twenty-five great chili cooks and their teams from the southeast will be competing for the first place award which includes a cash prize, weekend get-away and five foot tall Flea World Championship trophies. The Flea World Championship

Chili Cook Off, sanctioned by the International Chili Society is Sunday, May 5, at Flea World, 4311 Orlando Avenue, S. Highway 17-92, in Sanford.

Oratorical contest

SANFORD — The Optimist Club of Sanford will be the host this Saturday for the Regional Oratorical Competition, to be held at the Chamber of Commerce building on East 1st Street.

Rick Howe of the Sanford Optimist Club explained, "This is the third level of competition. The first was our local meet here in Sanford on April 11, won by Christopher Black a Seminole High School freshman, and Angela Wiggins, a Sanford Middle School seventh grader." He continued, "The second level has already been held, with Wiggins again a winner, along with Chris Johnson, a Lake Mary High School freshman."

This Saturday, Wiggins and Johnson will be in level three, the zone competition, going against youth from the Ocala and Jacksonville areas. The two local students will be representing both Seminole and Volusia counties.

Competition will get underway at the Greater Sanford Chamber of See Weekend, Page 5A

Cops crack down on adult bookstores

POMPANO BEACH — Police are cracking down on adult bookstores by charging back-room sex acts can transmit AIDS, but an attorney claims the effort is just the latest scare tactic to close down the unwanted shops.

Six owners or employees of Pompano Book and Video Inc. have been charged with racketeering, conspiracy to commit racketeering, permitting lewd behavior and public nuisance. Investigations in progress have targeted five other adult bookstores and movie theaters in Broward County, prosecutors say.

"We are not moralists. This is not a moral campaign," said Assistant State Attorney Scott Raft, who filed the charges. "We've got a bigger problem, and if we don't deal with the bigger problem, people are going to die."

Charges were filed under a state law that gives authorities broad power to shut down businesses that display a continuing pattern of criminal conduct.

Odd death ruled accidental

WEST PALM BEACH — A man with a slashed wrist whose body was found at sea on a rented boat that had run out of gas appears to have died accidentally, the FBI said.

"At the current time, our information does not tend to support that suicide or foul play was involved," said FBI agent Robert Neumann. "It tends to look like it might be an accident."

The death of James Manteris, 48, of Jupiter came under odd circumstances.

Blood from a five-inch wound in his left wrist was found all over the 21-foot boat rented April 18, but no weapon capable of inflicting the injury was found aboard, said Coast Guard Lt. Kenneth King.

Convicted killer denied parole

TALLAHASSEE — A school bus mechanic who gathered 3,005 signatures on petitions to keep his 4-year-old daughter's killer in prison broke into tears when the state parole commission agreed with him.

George Halstead of Vero Beach carried the petitions and four fading photographs of his daughter to Tallahassee to present his case Wednesday against Brooks John Bellay, 25.

The convicted murderer was 14 when he was accused of raping and fatally beating Angel Ann Halstead. The neighborhood boy pleaded guilty to second-degree murder after confessing to the August 1979 killing and was sentenced to life in prison.

Banking bill affects credit cards

Interest on charge accounts may rise

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A banking bill that would pave the way for higher interest rates on credit card borrowing went to Gov. Lawton Chiles on Thursday.

Comptroller Gerald Lewis called the bill the "bankers' relief act of 1991" and said he will ask Chiles to veto it.

However, a veto also would wipe out the state's banking laws because the bill (CS-SB 2200) also re-enacts those statutes for one year. Without the bill, the laws will expire Oct. 1, under a sunset provision.

Lewis wants Chiles to call the Legislature into special session to re-enact and strengthen the laws.

"With the conditions banks are in today, I think we need tougher regulations," Lewis said.

The Senate sent the bill to the governor on a 36-4 vote. Sens. Lincoln Diaz-Balart, R-Miami; Roberto Casas, R-Hialeah; Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, and Javier Souto, R-Miami, voted against it. The House had passed it 67-43 Wednesday.

The bill would lift an existing 18 percent interest rate limit on state-chartered banks and savings and loan associations. Lewis contends the rates shouldn't be deregulated unless the Legislature give him more powers over the financial institutions.

Deregulating the rates would make state banks more competitive with those outside Florida, said House Commerce Committee Chairman Art Simon, D-Miami.

Simon said he also wanted to delay a review of the banking laws until next year to give the Legislature more time to study the role of the state and federal authorities in regulating banks.

Health care package sets up pool purchasing for services state buys

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Lawmakers sent a health care package Thursday to Gov. Lawton Chiles that sets up pool purchasing for all services paid for by the state and limits insurance premium increases for small businesses.

The legislation (CS-SB 1000) passed the House on a 67-43 vote, shortly after a 39-0 vote in the Senate a day earlier.

The House accepted the package as rewritten by the Senate even though the upper chamber deleted a key House proposal. The House had battled all session to create a Health Care Commission that would regulate the state's $32 billion health industry and recommend sweeping reform.

Instead of the commission, a "working group" composed of members appointed by the governor will issue a study by next year. Rep. Elaine Bloom, a

Miami Democrat who chairs the House Health Care Committee, called the group a "major victory for the House."

One of the main sponsors of the commission proposal, Rep. Mike Abrams, D-North Miami Beach, said the working group was a disappointment.

The Senate also had dropped a House proposal to let insurance companies write policies for businesses with fewer than 25 employees that include only basic hospitalization and surgical coverage.

A related provision that was included in the final legislation limits the increase in rates and ranges of premium costs for small-group insurance. Under the legislation, an insurance carrier can't raise a premium for an existing policy more than 15 percent what a new customer is charged, said Rep. Jack Acherl.

"The carriers have been essentially jerking people around ... by putting them into a contract and then substantially increasing premiums in six months or less and then doubling premiums," said Acherl, D-New Smyrna Beach.

Most of the 2.2 million people who have no health coverage, either from private insurance or Medicaid, are employed or the children of workers. Many of them work for small businesses that can't afford health insurance for their employees.

In the pool purchasing bill, a private non-profit corporation is established to buy health care more cheaply for state workers, state prisoners and people who receive Medicaid benefits.

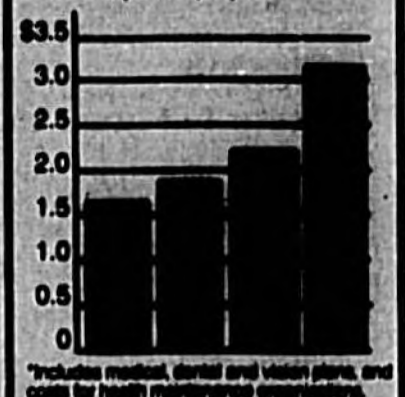

The board could be expanded to local governments like cities, counties, and school districts as well as people who contract with the state to provide services to residents.

That would add up to about 5 million people, according to Sen. Jeanne Malchon, the sponsor of the pool purchasing bill.

Malchon, D-St. Petersburg,

Prostitutes can sue pimps

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles has let become law without his signature a bill permitting prostitutes to sue pimps who take their illegal earnings by coercion.

The bill, which became law Thursday, is designed to deter and punish pimps and compensate prostitutes for injury suffered when pimps use physical force, blackmail or extortion by allowing them to file lawsuits. The prostitutes would be immune from prosecution for any testimony stemming from such lawsuits.

Smoking bill killed

TALLAHASSEE — A bill to dramatically reduce smoking in public places was killed when the Senate declined to take up a bill that included a tobacco industry amendment.

The legislation (CS-HB 427) was passed by the House, but only after Rep. Jim Burke, D-Miami, got an amendment attached that prohibits employers from making hiring or firing decisions based on whether a worker smokes.

The bill would have banned smoking everywhere in day-care centers, schools, community colleges and universities and in many common areas of other public places. It also would have required restaurants that seat more than 50 people to set aside at least 35 percent of their capacity for non-smokers.

Deed tax may increase

TALLAHASSEE — A tax increase on property deeds that

Gov. Lawton Chiles wants to pay for the Preservation 2000 environmental land-buying program is on his desk.

However, the legislation includes a controversial amendment that would exempt Florida's largest sports stadiums from some growth management planning.

BOTH CHAMBERS

GIFTS — Voted (House 114-0, Senate 40-0) to pass a bill (CS-SB 1042) that would require lobbyists, their clients and political action committees to disclose all gifts valued at more than $25 given to public officials. Goes to governor.

BUDGET SUPPLEMENT — Voted (House 115-0, Senate 40-0) to pass a bill (SB 1314) that would add $133 million to the state's $29.3 billion budget to grant 3 percent pay raises to state workers and give more money to school districts. Goes to governor.

STATE WORKERS — Voted (House 106-3, Senate 38-2) to pass a bill (CS-HB 463) that would repeal career service statutes July 1, 1992, forcing the Legislature to conduct a sunset review to determine whether changes should be made in the system. Goes to governor.

EDUCATION ACCOUNTABILITY — Voted (House 107-4, Senate 33-7) to pass a bill (CS-SB 2054) that would surrender some of the Legislature's power over schools to teachers and parents. Goes to governor.

THE GOVERNOR

MILITARY INSURANCE — Announced Tuesday that he signed into law a bill (SB 602) that will prohibit changes in coverage or premium increases in the health insurance of military reservists.

Teacher 'manufactures' knowledge

By VICKI DeGORMEN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Jim Burd helps youngsters at Lakeview Middle School, 100 Lakeview Dr. in Sanford, learn how computers can help in the manufacturing process.

His class, Exploring Manufacturing Technologies, is designed to give young people a brief overview of how computers and other technologies can be used to assist in the manufacturing process.

While most students who pass through the doors of Burd's class leave with miniature baseball bats or simple turned pieces produced on a computerized lathe, one student took the challenge of programming the tool to new heights.

Greg Tormaschy, an eighth grader who is a proficient chess player, wrote a program that allowed him to produce a chess set on the machine.

The class is part of the middle school exploratory wheel. Students, experiencing different career options, work in different classes to see where their interests and talents lie.

Burd said that his class is a vocational program, but that it is not "an easy A" class.

"It's not what you think of when you think of the old shop class," Burd said.

The computerized lathe that

Tormaschy used to make the set is similar to the set up often used in modern manufacturing plants.

"It's a bit limited in what it can do because it's so small," Burd said. "The idea is the same, though."

Tormaschy wrote a program which instructed the machine to make thousands of cuts to form the intricate details of the 32 pieces of the chess set as well as the board.

"He used the project to fulfill the requirements of several things," said Burd. "I'm really proud of what he was able to do here."

Some hand work was done on the king and queen that was too small to be completed on the computer.

Teacher and student have played a game or two on the game board.

Burd is not saying who is winning in that challenge.

"Greg's accomplishments in the class are what I'm proud of," he said.

Woman accuses grandson

LONGWOOD — A local man was arrested Wednesday after his 75-year-old grandmother told police he had struck her during an argument. Edward W.K. O'Hannesian, 18, 211 E. Hornbeam, Longwood, was arrested at his home and charged with battery and battery on a person 65 years old. He was held at the Seminole County jail on $2,000 bond.

O'Hannesian's grandmother told Longwood police he hit her arm and the side of her head with his fist. O'Hannesian's brother also told police O'Hannesian struck him, according to police reports. Although he was not arrested when police first responded at about 5:30 p.m., O'Hannesian was arrested when he returned to the home about two hours later, reports show.

Four charged with drug offenses

SANFORD — Undercover agents with the City-County Investigative Bureau arrested four Sanford residents on drug-related charges Wednesday.

David Calvin Cleveland, 27, 113 McKay Blvd., was charged with sale of cocaine after a CCIB agent reported buying a 600 piece of crack from him Thursday evening. He was held on $5,000 bond.

Marquis Cornelius Howard, 19, 2450 W. 18th St., and Rodney Stephen Conquest, 29, 107 McKay St., were arrested after a CCIB agent reported buying cocaine from Howard on Southwest Road near 18th Street. The agent reported Conquest moved away from Howard when agents arrived to arrest him. Agents report finding 10 grams of cocaine in Howard's pockets.

Howard was charged with sale and possession of cocaine. He was held on $5,000 bond. Conquest was charged with conspiracy to sell cocaine and held on $3,000 bond.

LeRoy Cole Jr., 34, 2261 Water St., Midway, was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of cocaine with intent to distribute it by CCIB agents on Sipes Avenue. Agents report finding 18 cocaine "rocks" and four small bags of marijuana in Cole's clothing. He was additionally charged with violation of probation charges at the Seminole County jail.

Man charged with car burglary

SANFORD — Marc William McDonald, 20, Sanford, was charged with two charges of burglary to a conveyance and petit theft Wednesday.

A Sanford policeman reports seeing McDonald under two cars parked at a East First Street address on April 27, bought thought he had permission from the owner to work on the cars.

The owner of the autos later reported batteries and a tag was stolen from the cars, arrest reports state. McDonald was arrested at Franklin Arms Apartments and held on $1,000 bond.

Traffic stop brings weapons charge

SANFORD — Solomon Hardy, 28, 2043 Sipes Ave., Midway, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and possession of a sawed-off shotgun Wednesday by Sanford police following a traffic stop.

Police report stopping Hardy on South Orlando Drive for driving 50 m.p.h. in a 45 m.p.h. zone at about 5 a.m.

After giving him a warning, police issued Hardy a citation for not having proof of insurance, arrest reports show. Police report asking Hardy to search his car, but he refused. One policeman reported seeing a knife handle under the driver's side seat and another officer, using a flashlight, reported he also saw a knife.

A subsequent search of the car revealed a knife under the seat and a loaded sawed-off shotgun in a gym bag, arrest reports state. Hardy was held on $4,000 bond.

Man turns self in at jail

SANFORD — Nathan Ferrell Bradley, 34, 815 E. Seventh St., Sanford, turned himself in to the Seminole County jail Wednesday for a 1986 warrant for his arrest for violation of probation for a possession of a controlled substance conviction.

He was also held on 1991 warrants for driving with a suspended license, failure to a child restraint and improper equipment.

Sanford mom charged with tot's addiction

SANFORD — Dianne Nelson of Sanford was added to the growing list of Seminole County mothers who have been arrested for delivering cocaine to their babies at birth.

Nelson, 29, of 1015 Persimmon Ave. in Sanford, gave birth to a boy at Central Florida Regional Hospital on Nov. 8 of last year.

Routine blood tests revealed the presence of cocaine in the plasma of both the mother and the child.

No arrests were made at the time.

Information about the case was handed over to the state attorney's office where Michelle Heller, an assistant state attorney conducted an investigation with the assistance of Bob Bartholow, an investigator with the Sanford Police Department.

It was revealed that the child born to Nelson in November 1990 was the second child born to her in as many years who tested positive for cocaine at birth.

Heller was not available for comment this morning.

Bartholow arrested Nelson at her home on Thursday afternoon. She was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where she is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Bartholow was also unavailable for comment this morning. It is unclear who is caring for her children at this time.

Profund change

The crisis engulfing the Soviet Union is becoming all the more dangerous with the steady erosion of Mikhail Gorbachev's legitimacy.

Except for a diminishing circle of Communist Party hard-liners who are keeping the Kremlin leader in power, the central government has lost its authority over Soviet society. The multifaceted economic and political problems confronting the country will only worsen as long as a discredited regime seeks to reimpose authoritarian control over the disintegrating union.

With the economy in a disastrous tailspin and separatist movements growing in strength, the best hope for orderly reform and some semblance of stability may lie in a proposal for roundtable talks to form a "national consensus" government.

The negotiations would bring together major segments of Soviet society — leaders of the breakaway republics, political movements, the party, striking workers, the military, the KGB — to establish a new central government with a measure of credibility and support among the people. The regime organized from such negotiations may or may not include Gorbachev.

In 1989 a similar process was employed in Poland at a moment of extreme crisis involving Warsaw's Soviet-installed regime and the Solidarity workers' movement. Those roundtable talks resulted in the creation of the first non-communist government in the East bloc and a swift evolution to a democratic government committed to a free-market economy.

The situation in Poland was made easier by the existence of a far-reaching consensus among principal elements of society — workers, intellectuals and the Roman Catholic Church. All were determined to overthrow communism and move toward capitalism. There is no such consensus today in the Soviet Union.

All the same, the Kremlin's broad loss of legitimacy creates an opportunity for fundamental restructuring of the country's political power.

What is needed is a decentralization of authority, with relative autonomy for the republics, and a rebuilding of political institutions from the bottom up. Continued efforts by Moscow's party elite to impose order from the top down are surely destined to fail, perhaps with violent consequences for millions.

Gorbachev's chief political rival, Russian Federation leader Boris Yeltsin, has endorsed the concept of roundtable talks. He has been joined by many of the reformers who once surrounded Gorbachev but were forced from government by his rightward tilt.

Although the Kremlin leader has not embraced any formula for sharing power, his government is under increasing assault from both conservative hard-liners and liberal reformers. This week alone, Gorbachev faces challenges to his authority from within the party's Central Committee and the Supreme Soviet, the country's parliament. Meantime, potentially millions of workers are ready to stage strikes against his rule.

Gorbachev's response to this upheaval has been more economic half-measures and a futile clampdown on public demonstrations, strikes and other forms of dissent. Unless he soon recognizes the need for more profound change, the Soviet Union will edge ever closer to the abyss.

Bureaucracy stifles U.S. education

President Bush has now unveiled the plan for reform of the American school system whereby he hopes to redeem his pledge to become known to history as "the education president." The new education secretary, Lamar Alexander, has appeared on every talk show in Washington as the point man for the Bush policy. Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell and House Democratic leader Richard Gephardt have responded by welcoming what they describe as Mr. Bush's belated interest in the problem of education, but have mournfully condemned his plan as both too little and too late.

Critics compare the reading ability and other skills of the average American high school or college graduate with those of (a) Japanese or German students of the same age, and point grimly to the relatively poor American performance. How can America possibly compete with such countries in future years, they demand, if our workers are practically unable to read or write, let alone do simple arithmetic?

That is a good question, and it bothers a lot of people. Most of all, it bothers parents. As a result, the issue of education has a permanently powerful head of steam, as every politician learns at his county leader's knee.

From its very outset, this nation has believed that, by guaranteeing every youngster a free education up to some specified level, it was making opportunity equal and democracy possible. That is why the United States today spends a larger proportion of its huge gross national product on education than Germany, France, Britain or Japan. Why, then, is the performance of our students so poor?

One principal reason is that between the public treasury and America's schoolchildren stands a big, hairy, 800-pound gorilla called the National Education Association. Money intended to help schoolchildren is paid over, not to the children, but to the vast educational bureaucracy dominated by the NEA. This bureaucracy, in turn, chooses what is left of the money (after it's taken its own share) to the teachers, who are represented primarily by another gorilla only slightly smaller: the American Federation of Teachers. Anything left over... but forget it. Practically nothing is left over.

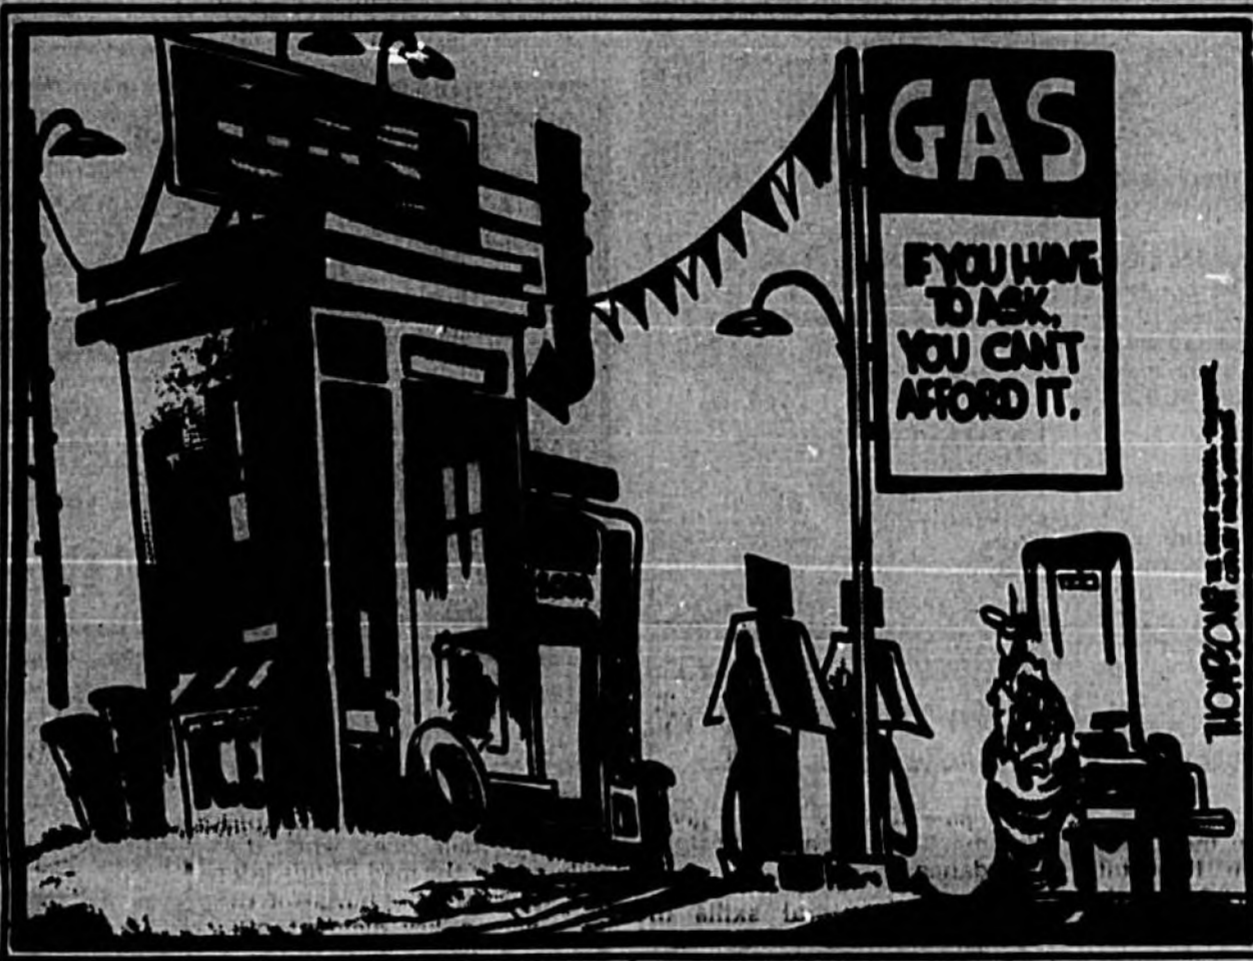

Our workers are practically unable to read or write.

Appropriations for "our schoolchildren," then or "our schools," or "improving education," go largely into the pockets of the educational bureaucrats and the public school teachers. The schools themselves continue to suffer.

That, of course, is why the perfectly sensible proposal to give parents vouchers and let them choose the school they want to send their children to terrifies the NEA and AFT the way a crucifix terrifies Dracula. They know very well that no sensible parent would send a child to one of the snake pits which, in our major cities, public schools have so widely become.

And that mention of "snake pits" brings us to the second principal problem in American education. No other major nation in the free world undertakes to educate its entire population through high school, let alone provide it with a free college education, without sorting out, by appropriate tests, those who can benefit from such an education and those who can't.

ROBERT WALTERS

High-tech thwarted by ideals

AUSTIN, Texas — The facilities where Sematech produces semiconductors are known as "clean rooms" — and that's an understatement. They're designed to shield the high-technology manufacturing process against even microscopic dust particles.

Sematech employees allowed access to the clean rooms are garbed in special uniforms that cost about $400 apiece and are made of materials that shed no fibers or other contaminants. From the top of their heads to the bottom of their feet, they're covered by hoods, goggles, surgical masks and boots.

Working in the sterile environment necessary to manufacture computer chips free of impurities, they're in charge of monitoring computer-controlled robotic arms and other sophisticated electronic equipment mounted on panels, racks and tables.

Sematech isn't the country's only manufacturer of the semiconductors indispensable to the operation of everything from television sets to supermarket cash registers to military fighter planes. But it's unique in one important respect: Half of its $200 million annual budget comes from the federal government.

The other half is contributed by a consortium of 14 companies concerned about the industry's future, including chip makers such as Intel, Motorola and Texas Instruments as well as computer manufacturers such as IBM, NCR, AT&T, Harris, Rockwell, Digital Equipment and Hewlett-Packard.

The public funding comes from a relatively obscure, 33-year-old Pentagon unit with an annual budget of $1.2 billion known as the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency. Indeed, Sematech is DARPA's flagship project.

Moreover, leaders of both organizations are convinced that government-industry partnerships are crucial to the retention — and, in many cases, the restoration — of this nation's competitive position in the global marketplace for semiconductors and dozens of other advanced technologies indispensable to future economic success.

Indeed, many of the Japanese achievements in the production and marketing of such products in recent years are attributable to the active role its central government plays in targeting specific technologies, then coordinating the research, financing and manufacturing efforts with participating companies.

But President Bush seemingly has been ambivalent on the matter and his senior policy-makers are sharply divided on the issue.

Some are convinced that at least limited federal intervention is desirable — if not imperative — to restore this country's high-technology industries to positions of world leadership. They include Commerce Secretary Robert A. Moabacher and D. Allan Bromley, the president's science advisor.

Others are vehemently opposed, arguing what they believe are unjustifiable government meddling and the imposition of "industrial policy" — detested by rigid conservatives — upon what ought to be a free marketplace.

Among them are John H. Sununu, White House chief of staff; Richard O. Darman, director of the Office of Management and Budget; and Michael J. Boskin, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

Last year, Dr. Craig I. Fields, DARPA's widely respected director, was summarily removed from his post, presumably because his aggressive promotion of public-private high-technology partnerships antagonized powerful members of the White House staff.

But proponents of federal participation argue compellingly that the laissez-faire position dominant within the White House places this country in an intolerable position when competing against the nations around the globe whose governments are willing to actively support and promote initiatives they believe will benefit their economies.

Rep. Norman Y. Mineta, D-Calif., notes that in recent years a constant stream of reports produced by knowledgeable, concerned people have called upon the federal government "to make technological competitiveness an urgent national priority."

But the Bush administration, he fears, "appears on the brink of abandoning our high-technology industry in the name of misguided ideology."

Public funding comes from an obscure Pentagon unit.

Congress probes Custom dealings

WASHINGTON — Investigators for Congress and the Treasury Department are closing in on the U.S. Customs Service, and the day of reckoning is coming for Customs employees who have been dodging charges of internal corruption.

We have been tracking the investigations being done by a House subcommittee and the Treasury Department inspector general for months. They are looking into charges that the Customs internal affairs department, which is supposed to police corruption in the agency, doesn't when friends are involved.

Last February we reported that Customs employees across Texas had turned over thousands of pages of documents to the internal affairs department. Those documents listed alarming allegations ranging from misuse of government funds to outright fraternization between Customs agents and drug dealers in the Southwest. And these are the people at the front line of defense in the war on drugs. Many of those named in the documents held management positions. Internal affairs pulled its punches and the whistleblowers were harassed.

One management official whose name turned up in the whistleblowers' documents had already been investigated three times by the Treasury Department inspector general at his previous Customs post. Each time the charges were substantiated. Twice, as "punishment" he has been transferred to new jobs that amounted to lateral moves.

Rep. Doug Bernard, D-Ga., chairman of the House subcommittee that oversees Customs, didn't pull his punches when he sent a letter of warning recently to Customs Commissioner Carol Hallett. He cited a sworn affidavit from a Texas Customs agent who was told by his supervisor, "As long as the commissioner does not know that internal affairs is corrupt, she will continue to use them... since she has no choice in the matter... They are all she has to rely on to conduct her investigation."

Hallett has been on the job for almost two years. Several Customs employees told our associate Dean Boyd that they think Hallett wants to get to the bottom of the mess, but they suspect she is being shielded from the worst of it by some of her subordinates.

But with Congress and the Treasury Department now doing independent investigations, some in Customs are beginning to sweat because they can't pull the strings anymore. One employee told us, "Most of these guys have worked in the internal affairs network and they all know each other. They're used to having access to all the information on internal investigations through their network. But today all that has changed. They're not in the loop and they're scared."

Problems with internal affairs are not new to Customs. In 1989 the General Accounting Office issued a report saying that if someone was to make a claim about corruption in Customs, there was no guarantee that the claims "would receive proper consideration."

The report included one of the most unsettling examples of internal affairs agents in action. In July 1987, internal affairs was told that someone from Customs may have broken into the GAO offices and stolen files while the GAO was investigating Customs. Internal affairs did not investigate. Months later an anonymous tipster called the Treasury Department and repeated the claim. Treasury verified that it had indeed happened, but the burglars, who turned out to be internal affairs agents, were given a slap on the wrist.

A former Senate investigator who followed the break-in story said, "It shows you the cavalier mind-set of some of these guys."

Customs employees suspect she is being shielded from the worst of it.

Fun Feet

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Fun, education and prizes for kids and parents are the highlights of the Kids Feet at Altamonte Mall Saturday, sponsored by the Missing Children Billboard Campaign.

Several activities and services will be provided to educate parents and their children on safety and prevention measures. Seminole County deputies will be on hand to provide identification fingerprinting, P.A.I.T.H., the talking robot fire truck from the Altamonte Springs Fire Department will be on hand to give kids fire safety tips.

The MCBC places photographs of missing children on billboards throughout the state, including 14 locations in Central Florida. The Florida Outdoor Advertising Association has donated 100 billboards throughout the state on a monthly basis to display the photographs and names of missing children. Sponsors can pay the expense of posting five billboards for $3,000 per year.

"We hope to raise awareness for children safety in the area," said Judy Merk, MCBC executive director. "It's a fun day to raise awareness."

Congressman Bill McCollum, who represents Seminole County and is the MCBC chairman, and Orlando Magic center Greg Kite, MCBC spokesman, will be on hand.

The fun begins at 10 a.m. with the showing of "The Jetsons" at Renaissance Theaters next to the mall. Tickets are $2 and movie-goers along with mall visitors who register before 12:15 p.m. will be eligible for a drawing for a Schwinn Frontier bike, donated by WCPX-TV, Channel 6. Other prizes include 24 basketballs signed by Kite and other gifts.

Parents can register for free airplane trips, cruises and free passes to Disney World, including Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park and EPCOT.

Entertainment will be provided by the Orlando Magic girls, Rosie O'Grady's Goodtime Jazz Band and several school groups, including the Lyman High School Jazz Band.

CROP Walk

SANFORD - The community's first CROP Walk will be held on Sunday beginning at 2 p.m. The walk, over both five and one-mile courses, will begin and end at Centennial Park, at Park Avenue and Fourth Street in Sanford.

Organizers of the event have set a goal of recruiting 300 walkers and raising $10,000 to help hungry people, both in Seminole County and in countries around the world. Though most of the funds raised will be used by Church World Service in overseas relief and development work with such people as the Kurdish refugees fleeing Iraq, a percentage will stay in Sanford, to be used by the Christian Sharing Center and the Outreach Rescue Mission.

Members of approximately 13 churches in Sanford will be participating in the walk.

Residents of the community are invited to join in the effort. All those who are walking are urged to ask family, friends, and neighbors to sponsor them for this event. Sponsor envelopes are available at many local churches.

For information contact either Bonnie Schumacker or Rev. George Spransy at the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford at 322-2662.

Rep. Mike Abrams, D-North Miami Beach, called the session "frustrating" because there wasn't enough money in a recession year to improve government services - just enough to keep the state afloat and provide a minimal safety net for its most unfortunate citizens.

Hari Krishnas walk across Seminole

By VICKI BOBROWEN

SANFORD - Wearing the traditional orange doti and Nike running shoes, Vitahihakesvara Dasa motioned this morning to the rest of his group of Hare Krishnas who were making their way along U.S. Highway 17-92 through Sanford on a pilgrimage from Boston to Miami.

The pilgrimage, known as padayatra, is a form of spiritual awakening Vitahihakesvara Dasa, the leader of the group, said with a thick Philadelphia accent.

"It is a walking festival meant to inspire devotion to the Supreme Lord," he said, checking his the group's progress on his Casio digital watch.

Walking with a pair of oxen yoked to a slicker yellow covered wagon, progress is slow, but sure.

"We try to go 10 miles in a day," he said. "More or less. It is not really important."

This morning they had started at sunrise "somewhere, there, across the water," Vitahihakesvara Dasa said, pointing across Lake Monroe toward Volusia County. He said they hoped to cover another five or six miles before stopping this afternoon.

"We do not know where we will be when we stop so we do not know where we will stay," the leader said. "At times we will find hotels owned by Indians who are sympathetic and give us a room or two. Otherwise we will camp out with our bus."

The bus, still in Volusia County this morning, follows the group at a distance with supplies

Seeking spiritual inspiration through simple living a group of Hare Krishnas walked through Sanford this morning on their way to Miami from Boston.

Their padayatra will eventually take them through the Caribbean islands, a leader of the group said.

they need for their trip, including a copy machine and a typewriter for producing pamphlets.

"We lead a simple life," said Radhika Raman Dasa, a native of Czechoslovakia, who had joined the group in Boston. "We eat from nature and we do not alter our minds with material things."

The of five men and a woman, had been in Volusia County for several days before coming to Seminole County according to Florida Highway Patrol officials who report no complaints about the people and their animals.

Shanuaka Dasa, the only woman in the group, wore a flowing purple doti and a red Budweiser cap and banged out a steady beat on a small drum while the other members of the group chanted the mantra they believe will bring them the inner peace which will bring them closer to God.

"Hare Krishna Hare Krishna. Krishna Krishna Hare Rama. Hare Rama Hare Rama. Rama Rama Hare Hare," they intoned over and over again.

Mary and Seminole County do not have the authority to force FPC to pay for the burial of their power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard when they are moved for the roadway widening.

If all cities and counties could force electric companies to bury their lines for aesthetic or other reasons, FPC told the court it would cost them $2.5 billion to bury lines everywhere in the state. Such a cost would force an increase in rates in order to maintain a reasonable profit, the court said.

The court said the Florida Public Service Commission has the sole authority in the state to regulate utility rates.

Although the city has 20 days to ask for a rehearing on the decision, Lake Mary Attorney Ned Julian told commissioners Thursday night he saw no reason to pursue the case.

Lake Mary and the county sought to force utility companies to bury their lines when the widening of the road begins later this summer. The burial of the lines was a key element of a roadway beautification plan approved by Lake Mary and the county in 1989.

The landmark Lake Mary Boulevard "gateway" plan called for zoning and landscaping restrictions for businesses adjacent to the road and for extensive landscaping along the road with the costs shared equally by Lake Mary, the county and Sanford. Sanford never adopted the plan so it was never formally adopted, although the county and Lake Mary follow its guidelines.

The gateway ordinance required utilities to be buried along the roadway unless the governments decide against it. FPC sued the city and the county in June 1990 to avoid being forced to pay the $1.2 million burial cost. Last August, Seminole Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. ruled in favor of the city and county and said they could order utility lines buried at the company's expense.

Rabun said the county is committed to landscaping the roadway even if the power lines are not buried. He said the county has committed to spending $230,000 for the road beautification.

Test

Lake Mary High School, 655 Longwood-Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary, had a 94 on the communication skills and an 89 on the math.

At Lyman, 90 percent of the students passed the communication skills section and 79 percent of the students passed the math test. Lyman was the fifth highest scoring school in the district.

David Winger, director of testing for the Seminole County school district said that all Seminole County schools scored at least as well, and in most cases much higher, than the state average score of 86 on the communication skills and 79 on the math.

"Our schools consistently do better than the state average," Winger said.

The HSCT is taken by all 10th graders across the state. They can take it four times a year through their senior year until they pass it.

"It is a requirement for graduation," Winger said. "If they don't pass it, they do not get a diploma. They get a certificate of attendance."

"Students minimal skills in reading and math, that's it," Winger said.

Lake Brantley High School, 991 Sand Lake Rd. in Altamonte Springs, was the top scoring school in the district with 96 percent of its students passing the communication skills portion of the test and 95 percent of the students passing the math section.

Check

"We know they are exactly the same ones we took last time," said Ealinger. "They still have the Sheriff's Department evidence numbers on them."

Ealinger explained that because of the way the case was handled in 1989, Hall was allowed to get the confiscated firearms back. At that time, he was sentenced to only 30 days in jail plus 5 years probation for the drug conviction, but since he had already served more than 30 days awaiting trial, he was allowed to return home without any further jail time.

As for the present conviction, Ealinger said, "This time he is being charged federally, so it won't be quite as easy." The Sheriff added, "We have a much closer working relationship between our department and the U.S. Government in handling such cases. It's a matter of, if the state doesn't put people away, it has got to be done federally, and this is the way it's being done now."

In presenting the check, Bob Moreno, the managing Assistant

U.S. Attorney paid special tribute to Ealinger. "His cooperation has been outstanding, and I want to express my thanks to Sheriff Ealinger for an outstanding job on this case."

Peter Rieff, with the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency in Orlando, said, "When money is seized in a case such as this, we try to turn as much as we can over to the law enforcement agencies involved. In that way, the taxpayers of that community are actually getting a better deal."

expressed about equal treatment," Litton said. "They want to assure that everybody is treated equally in every situation. That's impossible to guarantee."

Litton said the city had made effort during the past four months to open communication with officers. He said the city has also raised the officer's salary and benefits to a level where the city is competitive with surrounding small cities such as Longwood and Winter Springs.

A.B.A.T.E. asks motorists to be more aware of motorcycle riders

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local motorcycle fanciers say not enough automobile drivers pay enough attention to them.

"I didn't see him, that's what most people say," said Elizabeth Sawyer, a member of the Seminole County chapter of A.B.A.T.E., American Bikers Aimed Towards education. "They're not conscientiously aware that motorcycles are out there."

May is "Motorcycle Awareness and Safety Month" in Florida and the Seminole County commission has also proclaimed May as a month to be aware of motorcycle safety. Sawyer said more auto drivers need to look for motorcycles when they drive.

Seminole County A.B.A.T.E. has about 200 members, says chapter president Jim Kneeland, of Sanford. The local group is about 10 years old. Although Kneeland said A.B.A.T.E. is active in political issues affecting motorcyclists, such as the state's "helmet law." Sawyer said the group performs charitable acts as well. Sawyer said the chapter has made contributions to the Sanford Police Explorers and has helped the families of injured police.

Sawyer, of DeBary, said she has been riding motorcycles for 13 years and currently owns a 750 c.c. customized Honda motorcycle. She said she first became attracted to motorcycles as a young child.

"I saw all the shiny parts on motorcycles and said 'Hey,'" Sawyer said. "And now I have my own."

Evergreen Cemetery plot costs may rise

By NICK PFIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The cost of purchasing a cemetery lot may increase considerably in the near future. The city's Cemetery Advisory Committee has recommended that the amount be increased from the present $350 to $450 per plot.

The increase would only effect lot purchases at the Evergreen Cemetery on 25th Street.

Committee member Jim Jernigan said, "We should have considered an increase before now. We're just way behind the times."

The committee meeting on Wednesday did not have a quorum, so no official measures could be passed.

Unemployment drops

Florida reflects surprising national development

Associated Press

Florida's jobless rate for April declined to 6.8 percent from 7.5 percent. It was reported today.

The surprising drop reflected the national picture. The nation's jobless rate fell to 6.6 percent in April, an unexpected improvement that marked the first decline in unemployment in nearly a year, the government reported today.

The 0.2 percentage point decline in the civilian jobless rate, down from March's rate of 6.8 percent, was the first decrease in unemployment since last May, when the rate fell from 5.4 percent to 5.3 percent. The Labor Department said.

The number of unemployed Americans decreased by 300,000 in April, the agency said. However, the government noted that at 8.3 million, the ranks of the jobless still number more than 1.4 million higher than last July, when the current recession began.

Though unemployment fell in April, today's report also provided a bit of bleak economic news — U.S. businesses continued to cut jobs last month as non-farm payrolls fell by 125,000.

The number of unemployed and the job loss number can differ because they are derived from different surveys. In addition, the total number of the jobless can decrease because people quit looking for work and drop out of the labor force.

Today's report also said that while the number of people working in April grew, about half of the increase was in self-employment, which would not show up in the payroll survey that showed jobs falling by 125,000.

The 125,000-job loss for April was considerably less than the declines of the previous six months. The Labor Department said. It was also a much more moderate drop than analysts had been bracing for.

Most private economists had been predicting that unemployment would shoot up as high as 7 percent in April and jobs would drop by as much as 200,000.

The decline in the unemployment rate to 6.6 percent in April followed steep increases of the previous two months. The jobless rate now stands 1.1 percentage point higher than last July.

The payroll numbers showed that about 40,000 of the jobs that were lost came in manufacturing, which has been in a tailspin for more than two years. However, that 40,000-loss was considerably less than the average of 115,000 in the previous five months, the Labor Department said.

The auto industry added nearly 15,000 workers, reflecting resumed production at some plants following inventory control shutdowns, the government said.

Construction employment was down by 20,000 in April, as hiring fell short of seasonal expectations for the second straight month, the Labor Department said.

TV's prime-time soap limps into sunset

LOS ANGELES — Thirteen years of frolicking at Southfork Ranch are ending for J.R. and the rest of the Ewing clan.

"Dallas" limps into the sunset on CBS with a two-hour finale tonight and a fraction of the popularity that transformed it into one of the world's most talked about television shows.

In its home days, the 13-season saga of lust and treachery amid oil rigs and sprawling cattle ranches was America's No. 1 prime-time show.

Over the years ratings plummeted; cast members quit; story lines grew old and just plain preposterous. Critics and fans belayed over the infamous 1986 shower scene in which Bobby's death — and a whole season of shows — turned out to be a dream.

Iranian may make book tour

WASHINGTON — The State Department is recommending that former Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr be allowed into the United States to promote his book charging that the Reagan presidential campaign struck a deal to delay the release of American hostages, an official said.

The recommendation Thursday by Deputy Secretary Lawrence Eagleburger was sent to the Justice Department, which has the final say about whether to grant Bani-Sadr an entry visa.

U.S. law bans the entry of Bani-Sadr because he was president of Iran when U.S. diplomats were held hostage for 444 days from November 1979 to January 1981 by Iranian students in Tehran. The prohibition can be waived.

Soviet fire fighters may have secrets

WASHINGTON — The losses from the fire at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow five weeks ago are greater than initially thought, as the State Department says some Soviet firefighters walked off with U.S. government secrets.

A preliminary inspection showed that computer disks with classified information were stolen as well as items from open safes that were abandoned in the chaos that occurred after the fire erupted, officials said Thursday.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler indicated that no highly sensitive material was purloined.

White House expands travel probe

WASHINGTON — A flap over use of government aircraft is growing as the White House expands its review of chief of staff John Sununu's travel and a congressman calls for an ethics investigation.

The White House on Thursday also leaped to the defense of Vice President Dan Quayle, who flew on a military jet for an overnight golf trip to Georgia last week just hours after President Bush asked his legal staff to review the policy covering Sununu's travel.

Many overweight but won't admit it

By NANCY BERAS
Associated Press Writer

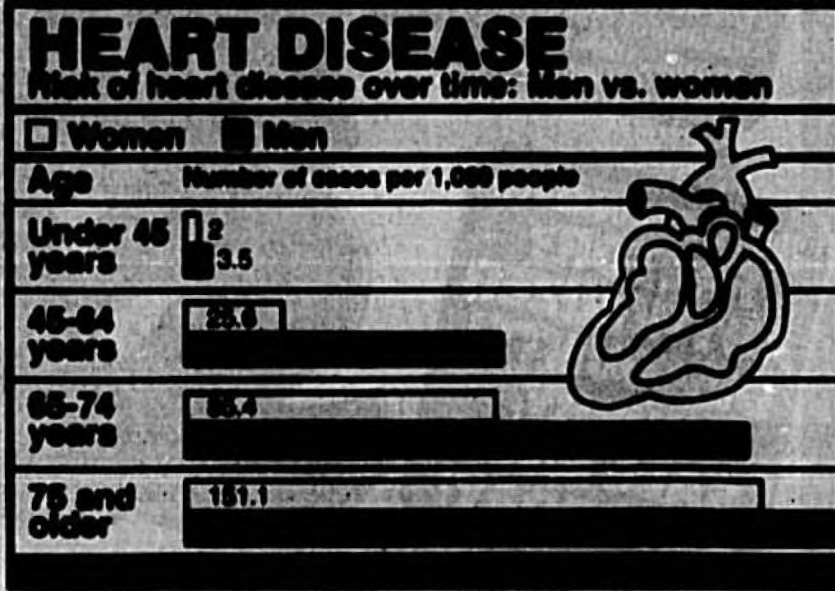

WASHINGTON — Nearly one-third of overweight Americans don't think they are too heavy, and men — far more so than women — refuse to acknowledge that flabby form filling the mirror, a national survey shows.

The annual survey of various health-promoting practices found that 64 percent of American adults are overweight. Of those, 31 percent feel they are "at about the right weight."

At the same time, 14 percent of Americans are underweight, of whom 77 percent think they are at about the right weight, according to the survey released Thursday by Louis Harris and Associates for Prevention magazine.

Overall, Americans scored 66.2 out of 100 in the November survey of their health practices, the same as a year earlier. But that score is up from 61.5 percent in 1983, the year of the first survey.

The survey measures practices such as smoking, alcohol and

About one-fifth of American men who are 75 years old or older have some form of heart disease, according to medical data. Women have a lower risk of heart disease than men at all ages.

drug use, exercise and weight control, diet and nutrition, control of stress, frequency of medical exams and safety precautions at home and in the car.

The survey found that health behavior "has improved significantly since 1983, with greater numbers of individuals actively watching key elements of their diet such as their cholesterol level," a summary said.

But it called the lack of overall progress in the past year surprising and said the nation needs to foster "a climate that encourages habits such as healthy eating, regular exercise or daily stress control."

The most significant setback detected in the surveys was in controlling weight, the magazine said. The proportion of Americans who are overweight has risen six percentage points since 1983.

It said 36 percent of Americans are at least 10 percent over the recommended weight range for their height, sex and build, based on widely used life insurance company tables.

"Overweight women are far more likely to see the reality of their physical condition than overweight men," the report said. "Men are twice as likely as women to feel 'at about the right weight' when they are in reality overweight."

It added that "the first step toward overcoming a weight problem is often simply recognizing that a problem exists."

Forty-six percent of those with a weight problem said they had tried to lose weight during the past month, the survey found.

Conservatives trounced; early election unlikely

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — Opposition parties have trounced the governing Conservatives in local elections, handing a bruising electoral debut to Britain's new prime minister, John Major.

The drubbing in the town halls of England and Wales on Thursday virtually ended speculation that Major, who succeeded Margaret Thatcher after she was ousted in November, will call a general election this summer.

That would be a year before the government's five-year term expires.

Instead, 47-year-old Major was expected to wait until the autumn in the hope that falling interest rates and the prospect of economic recovery will send voters back to the party.

"The Tories will not want a general election now but our country desperately needs one," John Cunningham, the main opposition Labor Party's campaign manager declared.

The Labor Party rolled up votes in Conservative enclaves of northern and central England, while the centrist Liberal Democrats inflicted major losses in the prosperous Tory heartlands of southern England.

With results declared in 330 of the 369 local councils at stake, a tally by Press Association, the British domestic news agency, showed the Tories had lost a hefty 997 seats. Labor had gained 621 seats and the Liberal Democrats 644.

Labor had gained control of 15 new councils for a total of more than 100 and hoped to improve on its 117 total before the vote.

The Tories lost more than 30 of their 119 councils and the Liberal Democrats won control of at least 14 councils. No party won overall control in dozens of others.

Liberal Democrat leader Paddy Ashdown said, "It's been a stunning night for us."

Conservative Party chairman Chris Patten acknowledged the party "had a very steep hill to climb."

But he recalled that last year, when Mrs. Thatcher was becoming increasingly unpopular and the recession took hold, the Tories were often 20 points behind in opinion polls.

"We have pulled back ... we are now on our way and better economic times are ahead," said Patten. Now, the Tories are on average in opinion polls just one point ahead of Labor.

Discovery astronauts snatch Star Wars research satellite

By LAURA TOLLEY
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The Discovery astronauts snatched an orbiting "Star Wars" research satellite and packed it back in the shuttle's cargo bay after it studied exhaust plumes and rocket fuel sprayed into space.

The 4,200-pound satellite spent 38 hours in space collecting data on a series of tests designed to help scientists build a defense system that could track and destroy incoming enemy missiles.

Discovery closed in on the $94 million satellite Thursday after the elaborate experiments were completed, and the crew snared it with the shuttle's robot arm.

Another propellant test was scheduled today with the satellite perched atop the 50-foot mechanical arm, which would be extended into space again. The craft also was to observe the Earth and the shuttle.

The experiment had been scheduled for early morning, but was delayed while controllers tracked the paths of the two spent canisters already in orbit. NASA wanted to make sure the canisters would not come too close to the shuttle.

Scientists were pleased with Thursday's results.

"They were hoping for a great database, but they're getting more data than they ever expected," said Maj. Carolyn Channave, a spokeswoman for the Strategic Defense Initiative, better known as Star Wars. "They're very impressed."

In two rocket propellant observations completed Thursday, the shuttle, satellite and fuel canisters whirled around the world in formation. While the canister spewed fuel, the satellite captured the events with infrared sensors and television cameras.

Earlier, the satellite watched the orbiter's exhaust plumes as the astronauts guided Discovery through a series of fancy flips never performed before by a shuttle.

Two cartwheels were executed Thursday when the two craft were just 1 1/2 miles apart.

SCC-area road plan fought

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Following a long meeting and a great deal of comment from area residents, the City Commission on a split vote last night tentatively approved vacating a majority of Main Road right of way.

The action, if approved, would return the land to the individual residents owning the adjoining property.

The vote was 3 to 2 to accept the first reading of the proposal. The second and final reading and final vote would be scheduled for the next Lake Mary City Commission meeting on May 16.

Broadmoor residents however, immediately began making plans for their next step in getting the proposal killed, and were still holding a discussion with their Attorney, Deb Sammons outside the Lake Mary City Hall at the end of the 3-hour long Commission meeting.

Those people considered a possible opening and paying of Main Road as one solution to the traffic problem of people driving to and from Seminole Community College from Country Club Road.

This morning, City Planner Matt West explained, "There are an estimated 5,000 vehicle trips per day going on Broadmoor Drive from Lake Mary to and from the Seminole Community College. The residents propose that if Main Road would become another entrance artery, it would reduce the traffic on Broadmoor."

During last night's meeting, West explained that when the property was first laid out, on July 7, 1926, the original owners established a 25 foot right of way, for use as an eventual road. "But neither the city nor the county ever opened it for use as a road," West said. "Since that time, some trailblazers have run their vehicles through there and tried to utilize it."

In October 1989, the City reviewed the problems on the area and created an order which officially closed the right of way to all pedestrian and vehicular traffic. West said, "Now, the staff is recommending the right of way be completely abandoned by the city, and the land should revert to the ten property owners adjacent to the right of way, in Lake Bingham Woods East and West."

The planner added that there is a power line in the right of way, and he had already received agreements from 9 of the 10 property owners who would grant the easement in exchange for the property, should the city abandon it.

When Mayor Randy Morris called for public comment on the proposal, Bob Moore, 370 Bush Court, was the only speaker. Moore said he represented the homeowners who would receive the property. "We are asking that you close the road," he said. "Opening that road, even in the future, would never serve any good purpose to the residents in that area."

Residents of the Broadmoor area however, were of a differing opinion. They didn't want the city to close Main, but to retain the right of way, until it is proven that it won't be needed as an S.C.C. access road at some future time, to help relieve Broadmoor traffic problems. The Broadmoor home owners had packed the audience, and previously arranged to have their side represented by Orlando Attorney Deb Sammons.

Sammons told the commissioners, "We want the ordinance postponed until the city and county's traffic problems are comprehensively analyzed and all of the traffic problems are resolved." She added, "We will go to court over this unless this proposal is not validated until the traffic problems have been resolved." Richard Schultz, 175 Broadmoor, also spoke in opposition to the measure, saying he represented the Broadmoor Community Action Group. "There has been no formal impact study done on the area, and we haven't seen any valid reason for vacating the land," Schultz added. "The staff says this resolution is in the public good. We don't see how it could be."

After several other Broadmoor residents spoke against the ordinance, Schultz finalized the citizens' discussion by saying, "No one came up here to ask you to open that land up as a road, we just want you to delay giving it away."

During city discussion, Commissioner David Meador, who is also a member of the Blue Ribbon Committee conducting a citizens study of the SCC traffic problems, used a chart to show why he agreed that the recommendation should be postponed, stressing the possibility that the right of way would eventually come in handy for use as a roadway to help alleviate the increasing amount of traffic.

Commissioner Tom Mahoney said he favored the proposal.

Sabal club's new owners plan change

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The new owners of Sabal Point Country Club have begun an extensive dress-up campaign at the 18-hole golf course and recreation facility.

A new snack bar has been added, parking lots are being resurfaced, landscaping is being added, new greens maintenance equipment is being brought as part of the improvements being added by Kamori International Corp., a United States company owned by Kamori Kanko Co. Ltd., Sapporo City, Japan.

Kamori concluded the country club purchase from NTS Corp. April 11 for an undisclosed amount, according to Seminole County courthouse records.

Hideo Kushibiki, representative to Kamori International, said the Japanese company owns about 155 18-hole golf courses in Japan, where golfing has become a national pastime. The corporation also operates two ski resorts in the United States, Steamboat in Colorado and Heavenly Valley in Lake Tahoe, Calif. It is part owner of a ski resort in Tignes, France.

Kushibiki said the company also plans changes to the country club menu and may schedule international weeks when chefs from other countries will be featured.

Sunniland wins SCC event

LAKE MARY — Sunniland finished first in the corporate division of the Seminole Community College Foundation Mulligan Masters golf tournament Wednesday at Timacuan Country Club.

Larry Dale Construction finished second behind Sunniland.

Finishing with the low gross in the four-man best ball format was the quartet of Superintendent of Schools Bob Hughes, Seminole High School assistant principal Bobby Lundquist, Lake Mary High School principal Don Smith and Toby Cardiff.

Two awards were also presented during the day's festivities. The John Lohr Award, for outstanding service to the college, went to Bob Santulli of DavGar while the Mac Blythe Memorial Scholarship, which goes to the outstanding SCC freshman athlete, was given to Brian Nason, a member of the Raider basketball team.

Evans to row for charity

DeLAND — Sanford resident Dean Evans, a junior at Stetson University and a member of the Hatter crew team, today will row from the Lake Beresford Yacht Club in DeLand to Lake Monroe, a journey of approximately 36 miles, to raise funds for the Volusia County Youth Village.

The Youth Village project, supported by the Florida State Human Rehabilitative Services office and Volusia County, will result in the construction of a new orphanage in the county.

On Thursday, Evans received a proclamation from the Volusia County Council honoring him for this action.

Anyone interested in making a donation to support the Youth Village project should contact District 2 County Council Representative Vicky Jackson at 1-788-6678.

Salles shuts out Orlando

ORLANDO — John Salles threw a shutout Thursday night, giving up only six hits in Charlotte's 7-0 victory over Orlando.

Salles (1-3) pitched for six innings for the win, striking out one batter. Losing pitcher Phil Wiese (1-3) had six runs, four walks and two strikeouts.

Kevin Roberson went 2-for-5 with a double and an RBI, and was one of two runs that crossed the plate in the first inning to open the scoring for the Knights.

Charlotte extended its lead to 5-0 in the fourth when Ty Griffin, Elvin Paulino and Bill St. Peter all scored.

Charlotte improved its record to 8-14. Orlando fell to 12-9.

Salkeld leads Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE — Roger Salkeld struck out 10 and threw his first complete game as Jacksonville defeated Carolina 6-1 Thursday night.

Salkeld (3-1) carried a no-hitter into the fifth and a shutout into the eighth before allowing the Mudcats' Lee Hines his first home run of the season.

Hitting stars for the Suns were Anthony Manahan, who was 3-for-4 with two RBIs, Jim Campanis, who had two hits, two walks and two RBIs, and Tim Stargell, with two singles and two runs.

Losing pitcher Lee Hancock (1-1) pitched for four and one-third innings, allowing eight hits, six walks, two strikeouts and five runs.

The win puts Jacksonville in first place by one-half game. Jacksonville is 14-8, Carolina is 12-9.

Patriots aiming for berth in softball final four

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Last year, the Lake Brantley Patriots cruised through the 4A-District 4 softball tournament, winning the championship game 18-1. But in the Region II title game, the Patriots were shut out 5-0.

Last Friday, Lake Brantley had to battle it's way through the district tournament, rallying from a 5-0 deficit to beat Oviedo 11-5 in the championship game.

When the Patriots take the field at Jacksonville's Drew Park for this afternoon's 4A-Region II playoff game against Jacksonville-Sandalwood at 3 p.m., Coach Renny Betris hopes that the lessons learned last year and last Friday pay dividends.

"You never like being behind 5-0, but when you come back from a deficit like that, you know you can do it again," said Betris, who will attempt to lead the Patriots to their third final four appearance in six years.

Betris and the Patriots know little about their opponent this afternoon other than Sandalwood, 14-10, defeated Jacksonville-Wolfson 3-2 in the 4A-District 3 championship game.

"We're going in blind, but so are they," said

Betris. "We know some people who have seen them play and they know some people who have seen us play, but you really can't learn much from that. If we hit the ball, we'll be all right."

The winner of today's game earns the right to face defending state champion Palm Beach Gardens in the semifinals next Friday in Niceville, site of this year's state tournament.

Palm Beach Gardens, ranked No. 1 in the final Florida Athletic Coaches Association state poll and winner of five of the last six Class 4A slowpitch softball state championships, defeated Cooper City 12-7 on the Region IV championship game Thursday night.

Tribe girls second, boys finish fourth in 3A-Region II

GAINESVILLE — The sixth time wasn't the charm.

The Jones Tigers out-distanced Seminole for the 3A-Region II girls' track and field championship Thursday night at Percy M. Beard Track, ending the Seminoles' streak of consecutive regional titles at five.

In the boys' half of the event, Seminole finished fourth while qualifying 12 athletes for next Friday's Class 3A state track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field. Gainesville-Eastside won the team title followed by Ocala-Forrest, Gainesville-Buchholz and Seminole.

For the girls, Keela Ward was Seminole's only individual regional champion (winning the 400-meter run with a time of 57.8) as the Tribe accumulated a team score of 40, five points behind Jones. At last week's 3A-District 6 meet, Seminole outscored Jones by 15 to win the team title.

Ward also ran on Seminole's 4 x 400-meter relay squad, combining with Kim Brown, Kischia Lawrence and Denice Manlin to finish second (4:02.9).

Lawrence placed second in the 300-meter low hurdles (47.91), one second in front of Katrina Brown, who finished fourth. Lawrence, Brown, Kaylissa Mullins and Kanika Whitehead finished second in the 4 x 100-meter relay (49.81).

Seminole's only other state qualifier was Rhonda Freeman, who cleared 5 feet to finish tied for second in the high jump.

Mullins just missed qualifying for the state meet in the 100-meter dash, finishing fifth with a time of 12.73. Only the top four finishers in each event advance to the state meet.

For the boys, Carlo White and Bernard Sparrow dominated the throwing events, racking up 16 of the Seminole's 35 points. White won the shot put with a heave of 51 feet, 8 inches while Sparrow finished second in the discus (152 feet, 0 inches) and third in the shot put (49 feet, 4 inches).

"I feel great," said White after the meet. "I changed my way of holding the shot. I'm looking toward 60 (feet). My reasonable goal for the state meet is 61 (feet)."

Henry Williams continued his excellence in the triple jump, finishing third with a leap of 47 feet, 1 inch. Williams later joined with Brent Dees, Corey Wilson and Anthony Neal to finish fourth in the 4 x 100-meter relay (42.55).

In the 800-meter run, Dalvin Davis used a strong start to help him finish third (1:57.46). Davis also was a part of Seminole's fourth place 4 x 400-meter relay, combining with Camille Hitchman, Jolo Murphy and Michael Clark to post a time of 3:21.96.

"I thought we ran real well," said Seminole boys' coach Ken Brauman. "We ran about as well as we could. At this level of competition, the quality rises to the top."

Also scoring for Seminole but not qualifying for the state meet were Clark fifth in the 400-meter dash, 50.25, and Terrance Jones (sixth in the 800-meter run, 2:01.59).

4A-Region III meet today at Showalter

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — This week's key phrase is "state quality points."

That's what the coaches at this evening's 4A-Region III track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field will be looking for, points that will stand up at next Saturday's Class 4A state track meet. Will somebody who scores tonight be able to score next week? Are the points "state quality?"

As far as the Lyman High School girls are concerned, they probably will be.

The Greyhounds are led by the Greenberg sisters, Janet and Rita, Ktannah Bresnick and Mildred Davis, all members of the Greyhounds' state championship cross country team, and Danielle Garrett, who played on Lyman's state championship soccer team.

At the 4A-District 9 meet last Friday, Janet Greenberg finished first in the 880-yard run and Garrett won the long jump, triple jump and 330-yard low hurdles. The Greyhounds also won the 4 x 110-yard and 4 x 440-yard relays.

In fact, just about anyone who won their event at last week's district meet would have to be considered a strong possibility to qualify for the state meet (the top four in each event advance to the state meet). And anybody who advances to the state meet has a shot at scoring.

Other Seminole County girls who won district titles last week include Lake Mary's Vivian Jones (shot put) and Christina Olson (440-yard dash). Wendy Peters of Oviedo (110-yard high hurdles)

Gator's Dockside remains unbeaten in Pinehurst play

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — After having to take a week off because of rain, the Sanford Recreation Department Thursday Night Men's Softball League returned to action with three games last night at Pinehurst Park.

Lee Cabinets started things with a 9-2 decision over AAA Tree Service, a late addition to the league. Gator's Dockside followed that with an 11-1 decision over Seminole Mobile Radio before the First Baptist Church knocked off Olive Garden 12-5.

Gator's Dockside remains the only undefeated team in the league with a 2-0 record. Lee Cabinets, which played a doubleheader the first week of the season, is 2-1. Seminole Mobile Radio and First Baptist are both 1-1 while AAA Tree Service is 0-1 and Olive Garden is 0-2.

Lee Cabinets combined timely hitting and solid defense, limiting AAA Tree Service to just two hits, for its victory.

Russell Holloman collected three

AAA Tree Service	000	200	0	-	2	2
Lee Cabinets	103	104	4	-	9	12
Gator's Dockside	040	001	0	-	11	17
Seminole Mobile Radio	000	000	1	-	1	10
Olive Garden	200	021	0	-	5	12
First Baptist Church	004	314	4	-	12	21

singles to lead Lee Cabinets' 12 hit attack. Rocky Kidd added a triple and one run scored. Also chipping in were Tony Davis, Allan Peterson, Bubba Split, Brooke Winn, Eric Selstad and Duane Lee (each with a single and a run scored). Craig Split and Danny Lee (one single each) and Ron Appel (run scored).

Providing the offense for AAA Tree Service were Rick Carter (single run scored), Baggett (single) and Randy Yates (run scored).

Gator's Dockside scored all of its runs in the even innings, striking for four runs in the second frame, adding six in the fourth inning and scoring one last run in the sixth. Seminole Mobile Radio averted the shutout by scoring a run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Cardinals, Pirates score Babe Ruth Baseball wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Co-league leaders the Knights of Columbus Cardinals and the Moose Lodge Pirates both won their games Thursday as the Sanford Recreation Babe Ruth Baseball League abandoned its original schedule to make up a pair of rainouts Thursday at Chase Park.

The Cardinals defeated the Hungry Howie's Cubs 10-2 to advance their record to 5-1 while the Pirates improved their record to 4-1 with a 15-7 win over the Pretty Punch Blue Jays 15-7. The Pirates still have a suspended game with the Woodman of the World's to complete.

Trailing the Cardinals and Pirates in the league standings are the Cubs (3-2), the Rotary Club Royals (2-2), the Kiwanis Club Orioles (1-3), the Blue Jays (1-4) and the A's (0-4).

In Thursday's first game, which was originally scheduled

Knights of Columbus Cardinals	305	02	-	10	1
Hungry Howie's Cubs	001	10	-	2	1

Pretty Punch Blue Jays	420	010	0	-	7	3
Moose Lodge Pirates	244	120	4	-	15	4 to be played on April 20, the Cardinals scored three runs in the top of the first inning and never looked back. The game was stopped after five innings because of the two-hour time limit.

The Cardinals only reached cub pitcher Don Hunt (11 strikeouts) for one hit, a first-inning single by Demetrius Jackson, but took advantage of 10 walks and a pair of hit batsmen.

Scoring the runs for the Cardinals were Jackson (two) and Larrus Davis, Terrell Jackson, Curtis Peterson, Cornell Daniels, Mitch Sheppard, Donnie Hinson, Lloyd Dixon and Cedrick Williams (one each).

Davis also threw a one-hitter to earn the victory for the Cardinals.

Magic's Skiles named NBA's most improved

By NEE FLORES
 Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Orlando's Scott Skiles, who hiked his scoring average by nearly 10 points and led the Magic with 19 more games than last season, was named the NBA's most improved player Thursday.

"As a point guard, it's my job to make things happen on the floor... but I was called upon to score," the soft-spoken Skiles said. "I'd rather lead off, but I do anything that helps the team."

Skiles, who averaged 17.2 points and 8.4 assists per game in leading the second-year team to a 31-51 record, edged Boston's Kevin Gamble and Houston's Kenny Smith for the honor.

The fifth-year pro received 25 votes of the 96 cast by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, three from each league city and 15 representing the national media. Gamble had 21 votes and Smith had 20 in the closest balloting in the award's six-year history.

Skiles was instrumental in the Magic's turnaround from a 10-31 start — worst in the league at the season's mid-point. The team went 20-18 after Feb. 1, however, and improved its victory total by a NBA-best 13 games after going 18-24 in its inaugural season.

Skiles averaged 7.7 points and 4.8 assists per game a year ago, but emerged as a team leader after moving into the starting lineup early this season. Besides leading the team in scoring and assists, he paced the club in minutes played.

"You can't separate what has happened with our club and what happened to Scott Skiles," said the Magic's general manager, Pat Williams. "They are one and the same."

Skiles had been surprised to be named most improved. "I'm in awe. I didn't really expect it," he said.

"Anytime a player gets recognition like this, it's generally because the team has done well," said Magic Coach Matt Guentz. "As a point guard, Scott did what he had to do and then some."

"He deserves credit for creating opportunities for his team mates. He's one of the better point guards in the league," Guentz added.

Skiles had at least 10 assists in 25 games this season and set an NBA record with 30 assists in a game against Denver on Dec. 30.

"He always thought he had been capable of producing for an NBA team. But 'I never got the chance,' in previous years with the Milwaukee Bucks and Indiana Pacers, Skiles said.

"Matty's (Guentz) given me the chance," said Skiles, who recently signed a four-year, $8 million contract.

Prior to this year, the closest balloting for the most improved award was last season when Miami's Rony Seikaly beat Indiana's Reggie Miller by seven votes.

Skiles, Gamble and Smith were followed in this year's balloting by Washington's Harvey Grant, Golden State's Tim Hardaway, San Antonio's Sam Elliott and Seattle's Shawn Kemp. Seven other players received one vote each.

striking out eight and walking seven. Travis Byrd singled and scored twice. Ryan Colgate added a single and a run scored.

Also chipping in were Tom West (single) and Alex Acosta, Matt Harris, Gregg Lernbach, Willie Jones, Eric Navas and Shawn Green (one run scored each).

The Blue Jays were led by Russell Sapp (single, two runs scored), Charles Hunter (single, run scored), Bobby Richards (single), Richard Reddick (two runs scored) and Lan Voy and Ray June (one run scored each).

Next on the schedule for the league should be a Saturday tripleheader at Chase Park. Besides the suspended game between the A's and Pirates that needs to be completed, the games originally scheduled for April 25 — the Cubs vs. Royals and Blue Jays vs. Orioles — still need to be made up.

Tracey Butt contributed a pair of singles and scored three runs to lead Gator's Dockside. Jay Crutchfield and Brian Rogers both hit two singles and scored two runs. Harold Beasley chipped in with three singles.

Also contributing were Derek Pike (single, two runs scored), Mike Kirby and Frank McNulty (both with two singles and a run scored) and Lloyd Wall, Jeff Deen and Jerry Harman (one single each).

Ted Freycenet singled twice and scored the only run for Seminole Mobile Radio. Greg Wells, Jim Speake and Gary Little each had two singles while Paul Bracker and Jeff Kappert added one single apiece.

In the nightcap, the Olive Garden took the early lead by scoring two runs in the top of the first inning. But by the time they scored their third and fourth runs in the fifth inning, First Baptist had pushed across four runs in the bottom of the third and added three more runs in the fourth.

After the Olive Garden closed the gap to 7-4 in the top of the fifth, First Baptist scored a run in the home half of the fifth, only to see the Olive Garden get the run back in the top of the sixth. First Baptist then led the game with a four-run outburst in the bottom of the sixth.

Sidney Brook highlighted First Baptist's 21-hit assault with a home run, double and two runs scored. Billy Gracey had four singles and two runs scored, Jack Eltonhead chipped in with three singles and two runs scored, and Robert Jones added a double, two singles and a run scored.

Other contributors included Bob Barbon (two singles, two runs scored), Tim Palmer and Jim Cornell (both with two singles and a run scored), Mike Hendley (single, run scored) and Tom Gracey and Jeff Betheny (one single each).

and Lake Howell's Kelly Kobia (discus).

On the boys' side of the event, Lake Howell and Lake Mary should spearhead the county's efforts. Even though the Lake Mary Rams boast five district champions, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks (who won district titles in three events) edged them out for the district team crown last week by 1 1/2 points.

Leading Lake Howell's squad will be district champions Colby Brown (discus), Marquette Smith (long jump) and the 4 x 110-yard relay team. Lake Mary features district titleists Alex Greene (pole vault), Terrell White (shot put), Anush Collins (220-yard dash) and D.J. Lewis (two-mile run).

The only other district champions from Seminole County were Lyman's Chris Cotton (triple jump) and T.J. Jarosik (high jump).

Rounding out the regional field this evening will be athletes from the Metro Orlando area (District 10), Melbourne, Merritt Island, Vero Beach and area (District 11) and the area encompassing Boca Raton, West Palm Beach and Lake Worth (District 12).

IN BRIEF

Sanford AARP will gather

American Association of Retired Persons Sanford Chapter is meeting Wednesday, May 8, 1 p.m. in the Eastwood Civic Center at Longwood and Magnolia avenues, Altamonte Springs.

Entertainment and refreshments will be provided. For more information, call 336-8145.

Sanford chapter of AARP will meet

The American Association of Retired Persons plans to celebrate "Older Americans Month" this May. In support of this effort, AARP has adopted the theme "Older Americans Bringing Life to Education." The association's public education activities are to encourage older adults to become more involved, whether it's by working with this country's youth, by helping adults improve their literacy skills, or by assisting older persons coping with the transition of aging.

Sanford Chapter 1977 will meet Thursday, May 9, at 11:30 a.m. in the Sanford Senior Center, First Street, Sanford. A covered dish luncheon will be followed by a timely and informative presentation by Susan Albee, director of the Seminole County Better Living for Seniors. Area seniors are invited. For details, call 330-8686.

Welcome wagon hosts coffee

Seminole Spokes, the Welcome Wagon Club of Seminole County, is hosting a coffee to welcome newcomers to the county and to help them make new friends, to get involved in the community and to introduce them to all of the fun activities. The May coffee will be held Thursday, May 9, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. If interested, call Michele Cannon, 333-8936 or Betty Rippetoe at 332-7636.

DAR to meet

Belle Harrison Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce at 2 p.m., Friday, May 10. "Comments on the Flag" is the subject of the program by Mrs. Jean Davis.

Crooms hosts talent show

Crooms School of Choice PTA is hosting a talent show and family social at 7 p.m., Thursday, May 23 at the school, 2300 West 13th St.

Women artists offer workshops

Women Artists Group offers a number of workshops scheduled for the next several months. Many are for seniors who want to develop their art interest. Activities include creating earrings and jewelry, and painting shirts and blouses. Puppet making is designed for those wanting to work on a TV show creating characters.

The Women Artists Group is also looking for advanced painters to share studio space. For more information call Joan Wahl at 323-6349.

Light a candle for missing kids

The Fourth Annual National Missing Children's Day will be held at Sunshine Park, in Winter Springs, May 25, from 11 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. at which time candles will be lit for all missing children.

Volunteers are needed for the event. Call 327-4405.

Kids fest coming

Kids' Fest '91 will be held Saturday, May 4, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Altamonte Mall Center Court.

Meet Greg Kite of the Orlando Magic and the Orlando Magic Girls. Continuous entertainment provided. Sponsored by the Missing Children Billboard Campaign.

Sometimes minister needs earthly reward

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a minister who has performed many weddings over the years. Some couples have been generous. Others have not. Other than the few times he has received absolutely no compensation, the following incident is the worst slap in the face I can remember.

The couple were in their 40s and it was a second marriage for both of them. Both were well-paid professionals. My husband met with them for counseling and he helped them plan their wedding. The bride did not like the traditional marital vows so she asked my husband to rewrite them. He did, and she seemed very pleased.

The wedding was beautiful. They paid the organist, vocalist, florist and caterer. Immediately following the ceremony, they presented my husband with a check for $10 — made out to the church! (At least my husband has never received a stuffed owl as one of his colleagues did!)

Even after many disappointments, my husband still refuses to "set a price" for performing a marriage ceremony.

Your opinion, please.

PREACHER'S WIFE IN GEORGIA

DEAR WIFE: I think a clergyman, on being asked to officiate at any kind of ceremony, should state his or her fee. This would eliminate the awkwardness of asking, "How much do you charge?" Some well-paid ministers of prosperous churches do not accept fees for services — but most are overworked and underpaid and would welcome a generous check.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago, when I married my wife, she had a 22-inch waist. Now it's about 39 inches. She's 30 pounds overweight, smokes like a diesel truck and wears sloppy, ugly sweats.

I have absolutely no desire to make love to her. I roam the malls, hunting after the slender maidens in tight jeans. I haven't fallen yet, but fear it's only a matter of time and opportunity.

What's a slim, attractive, successful, moral, virile, sensuous grandpa to do?

A LUSTING OUT IN INDY
DEAR LUSTING: Obviously, your wife has let herself go, but if you were a quality man and truly loved her, you would have made every effort to try to rehabilitate her instead of using her sloppiness and bad habits as excuses for lusting after more attractive women.

You may be a slim, attractive, successful, virile and sensuous grandfather — but no moral man "roams the mall lusting after slender maidens in tight jeans."

DEAR ABBY: Re the mother who wanted to know what to say to people who can't resist touching the baby: Your answer was appropriate. I'd like to pass on another idea from the pediatrician for a friend's baby. Buy or make lightweight drawing mitts for baby when you take him/her out or have company. The first thing a baby does when you extend a finger is grasp it. The second thing the baby does is put a finger into his/her mouth. More germs are passed from hand to hand than from any other form of transmission.

Since hearing this advice, I pass it on to every new mother I know, and I hope you will want to pass it along to your readers.

EVELYN DE FOSTER, SANTA MONICA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman with two young children from a previous marriage. My children lived with their father and his second wife for three years. We now have joint custody.

I get really upset when my children tell me that their stepmother disciplines them for every little thing.

Abby, I do not let my present husband discipline my children because they are not his, and I feel that my ex-husband should follow the same rule. I have told my ex-husband how I feel, but he ignores me, saying that his wife has his permission to discipline my children as she sees fit.

I keep telling my kids that they don't have to listen to their stepmother. How can I convince this woman to leave my kids alone?

THEIR REAL MOM

DEAR REAL MOM: You are being very unfair to tell your children that they don't have to listen to their stepmother. Children need rules and discipline whether they are in the home of their "real" parents or their stepparents. When you undermine the efforts of your husband's present wife to discipline his children, you confuse them. Their stepmother has every right to discipline those children when they are in her care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who has let my hair grow very long, down to my shoulders. It's always shampoed and looks pretty, but some people call me "Mia." How can I let them know that I am a man?

ELLIS

DEAR ELLIS: Grow a beard.

The Ultimate Connection

Communication is a basic need in our world. For over one hundred years, the telephone has transformed the invisible energy produced by our voice into an intelligible form of communication. Whether by phone near or around the world, we expect to make that connection.

Now let us consider another invisible, more ethereal form of communication... prayer. Each time we come to God with faith and the acceptance of His will, we should expect to connect with Him, our Source of all that is wise and good.

Mark 11:24 confirms this as we read...
"Though I say to you, all things for which you pray and ask, believe that you have received them and they shall be granted you."

What an incredible impact prayer can have upon each day of our lives!

As we worship God this week, may we remember to thank Him for the divine communication of prayer which is truly the ultimate connection.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Bill Coffman, director of language missions department, Florida Baptist Convention. Followed by music to include: The Singing Price Family, The Ladies Trio, Aethias and Leonard and Qua, with games, popcorn, snow cones, and dinner on the grounds.

Mother's Day Gospel Concert

SANFORD — A Mother's Day Gospel Concert featuring the Mississippi Mass Choir, The First Shiloh Mass Choir, Allen Wiggins and Ronald Nathan will be held at the Sanford Civic Center, 401 E. Seminole Blvd., on May 11 at 7:30 p.m. The event is sponsored by the First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Seventh Street and Elm Avenue. Rev. H. D. Rucker, pastor. Advance admission is $12, $13 at the door. Tickets are available at the church. For information, call 322-5489.

Zion Hope marks activities

SANFORD — Zion Hope Missionary Baptist Church, corner of Orange Avenue and Eighth Street, will present A Mother's Tender Loving Care fashion and singing program May 4 at 7 p.m. at the church. Also, on May 19 Rev. Elias Caffey, of Zion Hope MB Church, extends an invitation to all ministers to join him in the Ministers March during the Annual Family and Friend day at 11 a.m. at the church.

Youth mission project affects lives

By REV. SIDNEY BROOK

After several weeks of looking at different mission projects in Sanford, our youth mission organizations here at First Baptist Church, Pioneers, High School Baptist Young Men and Acteens, selected the Rescue Outreach Mission as a target project.

In working with Mother Weaver, founder and leader of the mission, the youth groups selected on three occasions over a three month period for the young people to go and participate in this worthwhile Christian mission.

You see, the Rescue Outreach Mission, for those who are not familiar, is an organization that provides emergency food and care for the hungry and homeless.

Now that the three months are over, I sit here as a leader to evaluate this project and the impact it had on our group. I can see that after only three short months our youth have become more compassionate, loving, caring, understanding, and directly knowledgeable of the needs that we have right here in Sanford. They also have a better understanding of the Rescue Outreach Mission and its purpose.

As for the disappointments, I

Salute you for your testimony to us as a community and individuals.

-Rev. Sidney Brook

can only reflect on one and that is the inability to meet all the needs that we have here in Sanford. After only a few hours of service, our eyes have been opened to see the many needs that we have as a community.

To Mother Weaver and the Rescue Outreach Mission, I salute you for your testimony to us as a community and individuals. Your work and the work of others like you are surely examples for us to follow. Thank you for the opportunity given to our young people to participate in your ministry. Your ministry has made an impact in our lives and we look forward to serving with you again.

"Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

"For I was an hungred and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

"Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?"

"When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?"

"Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?"

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

"Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels:

"For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

"I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

"Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?"

"Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

"And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal."

-Matthew 25:34-46.

Moral, social questions discussed at conference

With America facing recession, moral breakdown and confusion about the future, surveys indicate that people have started turning back to the church for answers, according to a release from People of Destiny International in Washington, D.C.

Will the churches deliver what the people of the '90s want? What role should the church play in affecting society? These questions will be addressed at "Celebration '91," a conference at the University of Central Florida campus May 9-11.

The same confusion and moral compromise prevalent in society, due to rejection of the truth, are present in many traditional churches," according to Larry Tomczak, who will be a guest speaker. However, he says Christians are beginning to discover God's true purpose for the church.

"God is setting the backdrop

against which His glorious church can arise in purity and power," Tomczak said. The church will increasingly be made up of people who serve God and each other wholeheartedly, thus giving hope to people in despair. Tomczak is part of a team of men leading People of Destiny International in Washington, D.C., a non-denominational ministry involved in training leaders and planting local churches.

Another featured speaker will be C.J. Mahaney, senior pastor of Covenant Life Church in Gaithersburg, Md., and the leader of the People of Destiny leadership team.

People of all ages are welcome to attend. The conference will include five main sessions in the mornings and evenings, children's ministry for ages 1-12 and youth sessions. Swimming, volleyball and other recreation will be provided in the afternoon. Meals will be available on campus.

Metro Life Church of Greater Orlando, one of 22 churches related to People of Destiny, will host the Celebration '91. For more information, call the church office at 740-0561.

Paola community presents old church with a new name

PAOLA — Rev. Dean Fetzer, pastor of the Paola Wesleyan Church, 6650 Wayside Dr., returned to the area with a new challenge to carry out the responsibility of his duties as pastor.

The Paola Wesleyan Church took the new name of Wesleyan Church of Paola Inc. recently.

With the help of Steve Swagerty, a survey company, to survey the property and Frank Whigham, of Stenstrom, McIntosh, Julian, Colbert and Whigham Law Firm, the deed was rewritten to the discipline of the Wesleyan church.

The Florida District Board of Administration signed a release acknowledging the name transfer on the deed to The Wesleyan Church of Paola Inc. The church plans to move the personage to the back of the property to use the area where the house is now for parking.

God is giving the pastor great plans for the future. "God has returned me with a vision for this community," according to Rev. Fetzer.

Rev. Fetzer recently held a program at the newly named church as a challenge for Sanford and Lake Mary.

This Sunday, Rev. Ramond Keneall, district supervisor of the Florida District of Wesleyan Church of North America, will be guest speaker at 11 a.m.

With the month of May being the closing conference year for 1990-91 and the new conference year beginning in June, an annual meeting of the Paola church will be held Tuesday, May 7, at the church.

Drug guards against intestinal problems

DEAR DR. GOTT: I take Motrin 600 milligrams four times a day for my arthritis. Everyone I speak with says it will ruin my stomach. What do you suggest?

ding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR READER: Motrin, Feldene, Voltaren, Naproxen and similar drugs are very useful in treating the pain and stiffness of arthritis. However, they all have a common side effect: stomach irritation that may progress to ulcers. Although this complication is, in the main, dose-related, newer or low-dosage taking these medicines will probably experience symptoms of indigestion and heartburn. Of more practical concern, some patients develop ulcers and intestinal bleeding without having had any prior warning.

Therefore, anti-arthritis drugs — a real boon to people in pain — also have their own built-in set of hazards and should be used only after the risks and benefits have been thoroughly understood. Taking these drugs with antacids or food — or even using standard anti-ulcer therapy — is not helpful; stomach problems often occur anyway.

All the news is not bad news, however. Spurred on by the high incidence of stomach ulcers in arthritis patients requiring treatment, one pharmaceutical company has marketed an antidote. Cytotec (misoprostol) is the first drug developed and sold for this purpose. When taken four times a day, the pill effectively blocks the stomach-irritating qualities of anti-arthritis drugs. Cytotec is available by prescription only, so ask your doctor if it would be appropriate for you.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Understan-

What would you have done as South opposite the one-diamond opening? "Pass" is the textbook choice, but the two Souths from a team game hoped their partners would rebid in no-trump, allowing them to show their hearts.

North's bidding shows about 15 or 16 points and 3-1-5-4 distribution. With fewer points, he would raise immediately to two spades.

Both Wests led the heart two, so the Easts knew that declarer had five hearts. That meant South must have 5-5-2-1 or 5-5-3-0 distribution. Things were looking grim.

The first East won the initial trick with the heart king and switched to the spade king. With at least 10 points marked in the East hand (the A-K of hearts and the spade king), declarer decided to play West for the A-Q of diamonds. He won trick two with dummy's spade ace, cashed the club ace, ruffed a club in hand and led a diamond to the jack. West ducking. Another club ruff and a second diamond left West with no answer. He won with the ace, cashed the Q-J of spades and led a heart to his partner's ace, but that was only five tricks for the defenders.

The second East won the first trick with a deceptive heart ace and returned the spade king. Now declarer decided not to play for diamond miracles. He won the spade in dummy, cashed the A-K of clubs, discarding a diamond, ruffed a club and led the heart queen. He was surprised when West played low, but what could he do? He ran the queen, but East produced the king and led a second trump. West cashed the Q-J of spades, the heart jack and the diamond ace for one down and a swing of four IMPs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

There is a possibility, as a result of your desire to help another, that you'll get involved in a very unique endeavor in the year ahead. However, you will discover that you're the one who can clean the greatest benefits.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) By being a keen observer today, you may learn how someone you admire handles a situation that usually causes you problems. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's an opportunity for you to participate in a worthwhile endeavor at this time, even though it has been initiated by two others. You won't be invited in; you'll have to ask.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to garner support for a matter important to you, you must present your case as ingeniously as possible. Lift the limitations from your thinking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations in general can be turned around to your advantage today, so try to establish objectives that produce the most meaningful results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The game is not over today until the horn sounds. If you get involved in a competitive development where the end results look a bit dubious, keep this in mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Involvements in spur-of-the-moment activities could put you in the company of pleasant people with whom you don't ordinarily associate. This can be a fun day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Although you usually prefer to function independently of others, you are likely to be more comfortable and effective as a team player today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things are still looking good for you where generating favorable financial activity is concerned. Keep working on ways to build your bank balance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Knowledge is one thing, and having the right connections is another. Fortunately, you have both elements going for you today, therefore you can do very well for yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's a whole new ballgame today; there's a good chance you can successfully wrap up something you haven't been able to conclude to your satisfaction.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An acquaintance of yours, who usually plays the role of adversary, may unexpectedly become your proponent today, helping you succeed in something you couldn't have accomplished alone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something quite unexpected, which could have profitable ramifications, might develop for you today. It will be unique and, perhaps, not too easy to discern. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
