Alcoholism In Industry

An industrial seminar to help businesses reduce production losses resulting from poor health of its work force and management team will be held in Orlando Friday. The seminar, sponsored by Brookwood Lodges, will be held at the Harley Hotel in downtown Orlando, 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Statistics show that over 60 percent of employee health problems are directly or indirectly attributed to alcohol abuse.

This seminar is open to Central Florida business people who want further information about alcoholism in industry. For required reservations, call 299-8631 in

Savings Tax Breaks

By almost a 100-to-1 margin, Florida Federal Savings customers voted in favor of greater savings income tax incentives when the Association joined the Savings and Loan Foundation in a February survey of savers' opinions. Nearly 4,400 Florida Federal savers

At the new year the Washington-based Savings and Loan Foundation kicked off a series of advocacy campaigns on personal economic issues, polling citizens with lobby displays in member associations and through magazine ads with clip-and-mail ballots. The Foundation plans to use the balloting results in lobbying efforts on Capitol Hill.

The first campaign asked the question, "Isn't it time to give a real tax break to savers," and proposed a taxfree limit on savings interest income of $1000 for individuals and $2000 for joint tax returns—up from the existing $100 and $200 exemptions scheduled for 1982

Enrollment Extended

JACKSONVILLE - Blue Cross & Blue Shield o Florida's annual open enrollment period for Florida senior citizens age 65 and over desiring coverage under the Florida Plan's Complementary Coverage program, supplemental to Medicare, is now underway and will extend to May 31, 1981. A special feature of this year's open enrollment period is that no medical examination is required for applicants. Those who wish to enroll will be accepted regardless of their past medical history. ### Job Sharing a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Barbara Larson Stuart and Lorraine Ball Harrison have been named as the new Executive Director of the Parent Resource Center Inc., in Orlando.

The two women will "job share" the position. Job sharing is an innovative approach to work scheduling where two employees equally share the salary and responsibilities of one full-time professional position. Although better known in the northern states, the concept is still relatively new in the south.

Stuart and Harrison pioneered the job sharing concept at Walt Disney World Company in 1960, where they worked together as a Senior Marketing Barbara Stuart, 28, is a native of Delray Beach, Fla. Lorraine Harrison, 30, is from Seattle, Wash. Both are married and are parents of young sons.

Telephone Tyranny Trying To Executives

Special To The Herald The telephone, like the television, is a "modern convenience" which serves an excellent purpose for communications. But also like the TV, that phone may become a "god" - something we respond to without thinking about whether the convenience is serving us - or whether we are becoming its

This concept comes from Lauren R. Januz, publisher of EXECU-TIME - the time management newsletter for executives. Mrs. Januz goes on to explain how executives can find out if they are victims of telephone

"Do you ever get out of the shower to run for the telephone the moment it rings?" he

"Do you hurry up the steps and unlock the door to run in and grab the phone if it's ringing when you get home? At the office, do you interrupt someone who's visiting you on a long-standing appointment to take a call from someone who just decided to call you? Do you pick up the phone when a thought passes through your mind, instead of tending to your "A-Priority" projects and putting off the phone call until the proper time?"

If you recognize yourself, Januz continues, don't worry - you're quite typical. But you are a victim of telephone tyranny - and unless you recognize the hold that the phone has over you, and take steps to modify things, you will lose a lot of time catering to Ma Bell's little jingle box!

As a service to executives, Januz has outlined twenty such steps you may take to loosen the tyrannical hold of the phone and get that remarkable instrument working for you. Here's what he has to say. Think before you dial. Get out of the habit of reaching for the phone every time it occurs to time-effective step - especially right at this

Many people have the habit of conducting business on the phone for a minute or two and then saying, "So...how's everything?" You can almost feel the climate of the call changing from business to social. Avoid this by setting a date to get together with the caller for lunch or another social event. Or simply say "Sorry, I'm busy - got to make a waiting, though - it's not cricket to become a meeting in five minutes," or something times." Why should you answer the phone just because it's ringing? Have your secretary or assistant shield you from calls at least during certain parts of the day. Then gather your messages all at once, return calls and make the ones you've been saving up on policy about how you will treat being put "on" hold." Perhaps you will refuse to be put on hold, and call back later in your phoning period. If you decide to remain on hold, especially to reach someone who's hard to get by phone, keep some paperwork or reading handy so you won't simply stare into space

Do call before you travel. Confirmation calls can save you an amazing amount of useless travel time. Practice winding up conversations fast.

Here are some "ending words" you might can regularly for two-digit dialing. but I must go. Bye!" duration of each call you take or make for a business expense.

much personal conversation. How many did you pick up in the middle of important, concentrated work? Understanding your own phone time wasters will help you discipline vourself for improvement. Don't touch that phone! Train your assistant or secretary to take your calls, and make most of them, too, Pick up the phone already on the wire. (Don't keep them time-waster for somebody else.)

Give your secretary or assistant three separate lists of people. First, those you don't want to have put through to you. Second. during designated "quiet hours." Third, those you will talk to whenever they call - your boss, perhaps, or your top client. Let people know when you're not available.

For the convenience of those who call you often, do your best to schedule your "quiet hours" and unavailable time. Also let them know when your "phoning hour" is so they will know when to expect a call-back if they leave a message. The simplest phone time saver of all is a touch-tone phone. You can dial by touch-tone in about two seconds compared to several times that long for a dial phone. An electronic "speed dialer" is even faster - or perhaps your local Bell office can provide you with a "speed dialing" feature that lets your program 30 or so top people you want to try. "I know you have lots to do, so I'll Answering machines and services are a big let you get back to work now." Or, "Look at help for those without coverage at the office, the time - it's been great talking with you, or those who work at home. An answering service is more expensive in the long run, but Log your calls. List the time, purpose and more personal. And, it's deductible as a and expense of arranging a three-way meeting. Talk to the conference operator to set one up. There are firms which can arrange conference calls for scores of people all at once, as well.

Plan what you'll say. Outline your calls before you place them to make sure you cover all the important ground - helps void timewasting call-backs.

Shop by phone. You can call a department store and order staples like underwear. hosiery, etc. Take advantage of the wealth of direct mail catalogs, too-most have toll-free 800 numbers for ordering.

The phone is a message center. That is its function - not a "personal visit mechanism." Use it for terse messages and save "chewing the fat" for social occasions. Call instead of writing memos. Your word should be your bond, and you should expect this of others. "Cover the posterior" memos shouldn't be necessary in your firm. Get a phone amplifier. It frees you to walk around the room and handle other work while you're waiting for your party - and you can sign letters and do other "busy work" while you're talking. Get a telephone charge card. That way, you won't have to scramble for change in airports and train stations. Anyone with a phone can have one, and you get an automatic record of the calls you place using it.

orbiting factories and giant solar collectors beaming energy back to Earth are only a few of the benefits mankind can derive from the Space Shuttle.

"These advances and many more for us here on Earth will come a step closer to reality with the first launch of the Space Shuttle this spring," said Robert Anderson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Rockwell International Cor-

The Space Shuttle is designed to take off like a rocket, fly in orbit as a spacecraft and then land back on Earth similar to a conventional jetliner. "These capabilities combine to make the Shuttle the most complex 'machine' ever designed," said

"Over the next decade, NASA 's fleet of Space Shuttles is expected to make some 400 flights." Anderson noted. In addition to Columbia, Rockwell is building three more Shuttle Orbiters - the airplane-like spacecraft that carries the Shuttle crew and Major features of the Space Shuttle are its huge 15-feet diameter, 60-feet long cargo bay and its capability to transport up to 65,000 pounds of payload to Earth orbit. A railroad boxcar could fit into the cargo bay.

"Because of the Shuttle's payload hauling capacity, we'll be able to place space laboratories and scientists into Earth orbit," Anderson pointed out. For example, he said, the European Space

Agency, a consortium of 11 European countries, is building a laboratory called Spacelab that will make up to 50 trips into space aboard the Shuttle.

"The Shuttle will enable us to perform experiments cheaper and better than we could in the past," said Anderson. Because there is ample room in the spacecraft's cargo bay, several experiments can be performed on the same mission. "These experiments will be designed for manual operation and won't have to be automated for remote control," Anderson "From a cost standpoint, this means that about permanent manned space stations in which we can perform long-term experiments and Earth-related studies," said the Rockwell chairman. "Even such seemingly visionary ideas as huge orbiting solar panel arrays that can transmit the sun's energy back to Earth are being looked upon as a realistic means of helping to solve the energy problem.

"It all begins with the Space Shuttle - the tool that can put the vast resources of space to work for us here on Earth, Anderson said. "Equally important, Shuttle will provide us the capacility to do all of this more cost ef-

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) - Thai commandos surrounded a hijacked Indonesian jetliner with 50 hostages aboard and police vowed the seizure would end today "in whatever means necessary."

The hijackers, who were reported to be taking "speed" stimulant pills, upped their demand and hinted at dire consequences to the hostages, including two unidentified Americans, if their conditions were not met by a 9 a.m. EST deadline.

The hostages told negotiators they want $1.5 million and 84 political prisoners held in Indonesian jails to be flown to Bangkok in exchange for the hostages. In his new book, "The Slave State," Speer also offers new proof that Hitler personally ordered the mass murder of Jews and reveals that their systematic extermination was the subject of bitter disagreement among top Nazis. In the second excerpt of the book published in Der

Sunday was hatched by one or two British press barons, capped a week of leapfrogging charges of treachery inside Britain's counter-espionage service

The Sunday Times quoted the former head of M15, Sir Martin Furnival Jones, as saying the plot involved "a pretty loony crew," with "elements" in the army and City of London - London's financial center. The reports were taken seriously enough to be investigated, Jones said. The newspaper said Lady Falkender, Wilson's political secretary, identified the "prime mover" in the affair as Mountbatten, probably the most popular member of the British aristocracy.

Mountbatten, who was blown up by Irish Republican Army terrorists in 1979, was the uncle of Prince Philip. the queen's husband. He held senior military posts and was the last viceroy in India.

Pictures were being taken to illustrate an article Judy wrote about their friendship for the March issue of Redbook magazine. The two women got to know each other while campaigning for the Equal Rights Amendment. Judy recalles: "When my daughter Sarah was born, Maureen came all the way from California to Georgia to see her. She also let it slip to Sarah's big brother that she had once appeared in a very small part on 'The Incredible Hulk,' which was all she had to do to gain a permanent fan in our household."

Police Chase Drug Thief; Dog Sniffs Man From Bush

A 41-year-old man from the Blueberry Hill section of Apopka may have found his thrills Saturday when he allegedly robbed a Fern Park pharmacy and was chased through two counties by 30 cops and a helicopter before being sniffed cut from under a bush by a police dog.

Edward Booker Williams, 39 Cleveland St., was being held in the Seminole County Jail today in lieu of $10,500 bond on charges of armed robbery, grand theft, and use of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

According to police accounts, this is what happened: Williams entered the Dollar Prescription Center, U.S. Highway 17-92, about 2 p.m., pulled a sawed-off rifle from under his sweather, and forced the owner to fill a bag with narcotics. Williams fled in a Pontiac Sunbird and soon found himself being chased by 30 officers from five law enforcement agencies - the Seminole and Orange County sheriff's offices, the florida Highway Patrol, and the Altamonte Springs Apopka police departments. Orange County's Chase One helicopter also kept an eye on him from the air. Williams tried to elude his many pursuers by driving into an orange grove near Apopka, but a German shepherd from the Winter Park police department was brought in and sniffed him

ORDER SIGNED, ROLF TO PRISON -It's now official. The death sentence of Rolf - Seminole County's most notorious renegade German shepherd - has been commuted to a life term in jail.

County Judge Alan Dickey signed the order this morning transferring Rolf from the Seminole County Animal Shelter to a state prison, possibly Raiford or Starke. The logistics of the move - exactly when and how the transfer will be made - have not been finalized, but Assistant County Attorney Robert McMillan said, "he could be moved tomorrow or Wednesday." Rolf will not spend his last days as a prisoner. He will be put to good use, guarding other inmates at the state facility. Today's action effectively ends eight months of controversy over the four-year-old shepherd's fate.

The flood of bad news about such basic American industries as autos and steel has tended to obscure some equally dramatic success stories in other sectors of the U.S. economy.

Three that spring readily to mind are agriculture, integrated circuits and textiles. Examining the reasons for their recent success is more than just an exercise in national morale boosting — it provides some useful object lessons on what must be done in other American in-JEFFREY HART dustries if they are to survive and prosper in the face of stiff foreign competition.

Vigorous research and an attractive investment climate have helped keep American agriculture the most productive in the world. The 2 percent of the American workforce engaged in agriculture easily feeds the nation, with enough left over to earn billions of dollars in exports. Without these agricultural exports, the U.S. balance of trade deficits of recent years would have been disastrous instead of merely unfavorable.

Integrated circuitry, a technological spinoff of the space program, has provided the United States a competitive edge in computers and other advanced technology industries sure to grow in importance during the 1980s. As in agriculture, the key to success will lie in preserving, and enhancing, the kind of investment climate that can attract capital essential for further research and innovation.

Recent trends in the textiles industry offer heartening evidence that sick industries can recover, even when buffeted by foreign manufacturers enjoying the advantage of relatively cheap labor.

As recently as the mid-1970s, economists were writing off the U.S. textiles industry as doomed. Its markets in this country were shrinking probably lacks the stature to make it to the steadily as imports from Korea. Taiwan and Hong Kong increased.

lit particularly hard by the 1974 recession, textile manufacturers took drastic steps to cut costs and eliminate waste in their plants. Inventory controls were modernized, inefficient mills were closed, and workers the industry could no longer afford were furloughed.

This retrenchment — which might be profitably studied by auto, steel and rubber executives improved earnings and attracted badly needed investment capital. Most of this capital was plowed into new production equipment and technology that now provides domestic textile manufacturers with some advantages over their foreign competitors.

More importantly, the industry began aggressively marketing its best bargains in Europe, Asia and Latin America. The effort has paid off in the form of a brisk and rising export trade and sharply increasing profits.

The common denominators running through these three success stories are vigorous research. constant innovation, and an ability to adapt to a changing world market.

The Reagan administration is clearly determined to enhance prospects for American industry by reforming tax and regulatory policies that now act as a leaden drag on productivity and investment.

But industry, and labor, have a role to play as political and economic implications. It enwell. Well, now it can be. A trio of Seminole County programs designed to help hold down the rising crime rate are in dire need of concerned citizens such as yourself.

Early next month, all three will be holding training sessions for persons wishing to participate in the legal process. Most meet two or three hours, one night a week for 4-8 weeks. Participants get a concentrated dose of man-onthe-street jurisprudence: communications skills, defendants' rights, conflict resolution techniques, juvenile law....

You even get to pick which you would rather work with - kids or adults. Volunteers in the juvenile arbitration program deal with youthful first offenders charged with misdemeanors relatively minor crimes such as shoplifting, assault, and trespassing.

If that's not quite your cup of tea, there's the citizen dispute settlement program in which much the same type of crime is handled. But there, the accused are adults. The purpose of each is to resolve legal hassles before charges are filed and the case ends up in court, thus saving the county a considerable chuck of cash, and freeing judges to deal with the British agents kept a watch on the Wright brothers a full year before their historic flight at Kitty Hawk - a vigilance born of the prophetic realization England would no longer be a secure island if man learned to fly.

Research has revealed a prominent member of the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain was dispatched to the United States to study the progress of Orville and Wilbur Wright, said Professor Alfred Gollin of UC Santa Barbara in a paper to be presented today. # Notice Of Public Hearings

The Florida Public Service Commission has scheduled public hearing in Docket No. 810035-TP on the petition of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company to increase its rates and charges so as to produce additional annual revenue in the amount of $288.3 million. At the hearings, the customers of Southern Bell may be heard on any and all issues in the case relating to the proposed increases in charges or the adequacy of the company's services. All telephone companies in Florida operate under a long distance charge schedule which is the same throughout the state. Therefore, the charges which Southern Bell is proposing in long distance service would affect the customers of all telephone companies in Florida. Customers of all other telephone companies may be heard on the issues of whether the long distance service is adequate and whether certain proposed charges in long distance service should be implemented.

For the convenience of the public the Florida Public Service Commission has scheduled service hearings as follows:

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Anyone who has ever seen a basketball game realizes how games are won and lost by players on the court — the clutch basket, he important turnover, the missed free

But in the case of tonight's NCAA basketball championship game between North Carolina and Indiana, the two coaches involved will cast quite a huge shadow on the Spectrum floor once the first ball is thrown up (8:23 p.m. EST). There is North Carolina's Dean Smith, in his sixth Final Four but still searching for his first national championship. He's considered an institution in the sport, having built one of the nation's finest programs in his 20 years of heading the And there is Indiana's controversial Bobby Knight, whose Hoosiers captured the national championship on the same court in 1976. He's considered arrogant by some, a tactical genius by others, but most everyone is in agreement that he's one of the best floor coaches in the It's this 1-on-1 battle that will draw the

Howell Nips Lyman As Smith Charges Home With Key Run

Herald Sports Writer

Lake Howell's Gary Smith charged home with the winning run in the ninth inning, as the Hawks edged Lyman 4-3 Friday at Howell.

Smith led off the inning hitting a grounder to second baseman Benton Wood, Wood bobbled the ball, he recovered only to throw the ball away.

Jay Drivas followed with a deep shot nto center field. Mike Andriano made the catch at the fence, Smith tagged and beat the throw to second. Jerry Winterhalter walked. Tony DiMauro flew out to short for the second out. Cas Summers drew a walk to load the bases. Dave Martinez stepped to the plate. With a 1-1 count Kevin Brubaker threw a low pitch that got by catcher Brain Holzworth. "He was sent right away," and Howell coach Birto Benjamin. The ball hit a metal tube and bounced straight back to Holzworth.

Holzworth fielded the ball about 10 feet from the plate and hesitated for a second not knowing whether to keep the ball or to toss it to Brubaker waiting at the plate. He kept the ball but the hesitation allowed Smith to beat the tag, despite cries from Lyman coaches, players, and

> At Agra they saw the Taj Mahal, reputed to be the most beautiful building in the world, and the Agra "City of God" and was founded in 200 B.C. They traveled to Jaipur, a city which has straight and wide streets that have been laid out in blocks. Ir the center of the city, a huge palace of a maharajah, or ruler, is the show place of the city. Many of the buildings there are rose colored stone or stucco. Aurangabad was next with the Ellora Caves, then carved temples of the Hindu's, Buddhists, and commercial city. They saw the Hanging Gardens and the house where Mohandas Gandhi lived for 20 years. Dick said, "Surprisingly, it has now become the Gandhi Museum.'

The Herndons were delighted with their trip and the "decently warm" weather, they said. In another month the temperatures will be 110 degrees there. Dick said the only problem was the trip home ... "It was just TOO-O-O long!"

received a call from a friend of theirs in Daytona. which Dick compared to Washington D.C. While They had heard from friends in Honduras who have there, the Herndons visited a friend they hadn't started entertaining travelers at their home in the wood outside of Tegucigalpo, and in good state of shipping port on the Caribbean Sea. They flew to one of the Bay Islands, then took a small boat to a tiny island. Dick said, "We spent three beautiful nights under the stars and palms - in a very attractive home." This island home is owned by their hosts, and is the only home on the island. This was part of the tour set up for them by their hostess. She started these tours to help raise funds for the House of Love and Hope Orphanage is Tegucigalpa.
