Light rail choise

The Sanford City Commission has joined with other government entities in recommending the light rail system to be developed between Lake Motiroe and Orlando withzed the proposed CSN adjacency area, rather than next to interstate-4

The State Department of Transportation has requested all interested parties to submit their selection from among the two possible routes.

In order to allay concerns of the city of Altamonte Springs regarding using the CSX toute. Sanford also supported a request that a spur rail be developed from the CSX tracks to the Altamonte Mall area, similar to one expected from Santont to the Seminole Lowne Center

At the same time, the caty supported the planned High Occupancy Vehicle (HOV) lanes on the interstate highway, proposed between downtown Orlando and Altamonte Springs. The measure would provide better traveling areas. for commuters especially during peak traffic hours

Building lease

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission this past Monday, approved a lease extension of the city owned former Little Red Schoolhouse 51912. dmetto Avenue to Lauri Arts. Inc.

The dease time period is from March 1. 1994. to Feb. 28, 2001. The monthly cost for the lease has been determined at $1 per month.

Lanii had previously requested a 10 year lease be arranged but during work session. discussions earlier, it was determined that the five year lease, with the right for extensions. would be in the best interest of the city.

Helping addicts cross the bridge

Christmas on Wednesday was much merrer for residents of The Saidord Bridge than in previous years. They were able to give their family and triends, a very special, hard earned gill: their sobriety.

The Santord Bridge, a judicially sentenced, prison diversion drug rehabilitative center. opened on Holly Avenue in 1993 after 18th Judicial Circuit Judge O H. Eaton Jr., Johned. for a local drug treatment lacility similar to the Orlando Bridge.

"I was impressed with the center's idealistic approach," he said. "Diverting people into a program is more productive than sending them to fail or federal prison."

Client eligibility for The Bridge is determined in three different ways. As a part of sentencing, Judge Eaton, may rule that the public interest will best be served by sending an offender to the program. A parole or probation officer may divert an immate to the center, or a client also may choose to request Bridge treatment. Only non-violent offenders are permitted into The Bridge programs.

The success of the Sanford Bridge program is based upon the use of individualized treatment. Some clients may require the completely controlled environment of a modified therapeutic community. Others may only need outpatient services such as one-onone counseling or addictions education once or twice a week.

"We are a moderately intensive, retrictive program," said Executive Director Bunny Claramitaro. She described The Bridge as a facility whose typical clients have committed a

Virgin visitors give freely to needy

CLEARWATER - Pilgrims come in faith to a building where they see a likeness of the Virgin Mary on a window. They bring prayers, petitions and rosaries and leave behind candles, flowers and donations for the needy.

More than $8,000 cash has been stuffed into locked boxes outside Seminole Finance Corp., where the rainbow-colored. mantle-shrouded image on a tinted outside window has at-tracted an estimated 350,000 visitors in just over a week.

The cash is being given to local charities, building managers

Michael Krismanich, owner of Seminole Finance, said likely charities include All Children's Hospital of St. Petersburg, which already has received a check for about $1,100, and Hospice of the Florida Sun Coast.

"I don't think there are more generous people than the American people. I'm sure this won't stop until people stop coming, and I don't know when that will be," said Krismanich. Local authorities decided Thursday to keep extra police and city workers on duty at least through New Year's day to see if the crowds thin.

Four stoweways found in cargo ship

MIAMI (AP) - Fifteen stowsways from the Dominican Republic spent about four days in a cargo ahip container before arriving in Miami, authorities said. The men were found Thursday by the crew as the freighter Seaboard Voyager pulled into the Port of Miami. The vessel left the Port of Hains in the Dominican Republic four days earlier.

Eight required medical attention; two with severe dehydration were taken to Jackson Memorial Hospital. Metro-Dade Fire Rescue said.

"Apparently they had spent the voyage in a container," said

Luis Fernandez, fire rescue spokesman. It's not known how the men got aboard, but the ship's owner, Scaboard Marine, claimed Dominican customs officials inspected the containers last Friday and found everything in order, according to broadcast reports.

The stowaways were being interviewed by U.S. immigration officials, who will determine whether they should be sent back home.

Giri escapes shooting...twice

MIAMI - A toddler narrowly missed getting shot, twice, on Christmas, once with her father and again outside the hospital where he was admitted, police said. The 16-month-old girl was in her father's back seat when a car carrying three men in ski masks and dark clothing blocked their car. Two men with semisutomatic rifles got out and started firing.

"How nobody was killed is amazing, just amazing." Metro-Dade police detective Mike McDonaid, who counted 23 bullet holes in the car's hood and windshield and guessed at least 40 shots were fired, said Thursday. "It must've sounded like a mini-firefight out there."

The father was wounded in the stomach, and the girl was cut by broken glass. A passenger pulled the man and his daughter out of the car as the shooting was still going on. The two men shielded the girl with their bodies, lying face down on top of her, McDonald said. The father was wounded again in the buttocks. The passenger grabbed a handgun from the car and fired back at the gunmen, who drove off.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Tiny Key deer victimized by the breeding success of their herd

By WILL LESTER Associated Press Writer

MIAMI - Key deer, which have struggled to survive for more than four decades in the lower Florida Keys, may this year have been victims of their own breeding success. Wildlife officials said Thursday that a record 100 of the en-dangered deer, which grow to about 3 feet tall, have died this year. The previous high was 94 deaths in 1995.

This year, many of the tiny deer that died were yearlings facing a fatal combination of factors - roaming in search of new turf, but not old enough to know how to navigate heavy traffic. About two-thirds of those killed were hit by cars. Only about 250 to 300 of the deer remain and biologists say a new census is needed to confirm that number.

The white-tailed Key deer are among the rarest of American mammals. They can swim from island to island, drink salty water and cat mangrove leaves. Some live on Cudice, Sugarloaf and the Torch keys. but most live on Big Pine Key. Yearlings have trouble migrating to the less populated keys.

Don't forget that Christmas Spirit

Just because the stores are passing out filers announcing "After Christmas" sales and just because the trees, some still laden with times and a stray ornament or two, are sing tossed aside along the curb, it doesn't seen the Christmas Spirit has to head for the ncinerator as well.

Seminole County residents, especially those in Seaderd, have spent much of the last part of the year swimming through the worful unplementries of a bitter political season. It was enough to turn even Tiny Tim into the biggest Scrooge.

Bah Humbugi We just know there are no good people left in the world. The politicians have assured us of that. And Rush Limbaugh has assured us there are no good politicians left either.

Well, forget it! We can't keep thinking that WEV.

The Christmas holidays, with outpourings of Christmas love and generousity from all quarters, showed us there is good in Berninole County. There are people who care about others. There are people who put the needs of others ahead of their own and who expect nothing in return.

It is from these people we need to take a lesson.

Each of us needs to reach out to all of those people in our community who are less for-tunkte than we. We need to not only give them a helping hand, but also a bridge to the peruse with the skills they need to survive and peruse. A hold of the set of the survive and

Meaning 'peace on earth'

BOSTON _ When I was young, I was taught a prayer that ended by asking. "May we all know a just and everiasting peace." I repeated that prayer all through my childhood, both when there was a wishbone to brask and when semeone called for a silent moment. I eaid it, as children will, half out of ritual and half of superstition. But it was years before I really understood the complexity of this thought the ways in which justice and and half of superstition. But it was years before I really understood the complexity of this thought, the ways in which justice and peace were essential to each other and yet could conflict with each other. It was years before I knew how the demand for justice could become vengeance in an unending conflict. How the desire for peace could suppress great injustice in a graveyard of pain. New the words of this prayer come to mind at all sorts of moments, especially when peace on earth is a seasonal greeting. Not a reality. In Africa, in what passes for hopeful news, great hordes of Hutus have been walking back home to Rwands from Tansanis and Zaire. But the other day in the newspaper there was a brief mention of a Tutal woman standing by her house in a village when she saw a Hutu man walking back up the road. He was one of the men who killed her husband. I wonder how many times this story will be repeated? In Rwands, in the genocidal massecres of 1994, some 500,000 murders occurred, 250,000 rapes-mostly by Hutus, How many murders does that make? How many rapists? How many families of victims? In our own country where we demand to know if a single set offender has moved into

in our own country where we demand to know if a single sex offender has moved into the neighborhood, it is hard to imagine coexisting with such knowledge or suspicion of our neighbors. And yet without coexistence in

Consisting with such knowledge or suspicion of our neighbors. And yet without coexistence in Rwands, we are told, this is an uneasy histus before the next wave of violence. And the next. At the same time, the United Nations has set up a tribunal to investigate and punish those who have committed war crimes in Rwands. But in a country decimated of lawyers and judges, justice is at best stalled: at worst riddled with retaliation. Some 66,000 Rwandans have been arrested for war crimes and held in primitive prisons. Some do net even know what they are charged with while others are the victims of property disputes. The dilemmas are not that different in Beenis where there also are war tribunals. There, old and distant ethnic enmittes were stirred up into genocidal "oleansing" and murder and assault are fresh in the minds of parents of the dead and mothers of children created by rape. Nor is it different from other times and places where the demand for justice and the desite for marce are how when the different the places where the demand for justice and the laces where the demand for justice and the lesire for peace are locked like wrestlers who anot overcome and cannot separate.

A just and everlasting peace? "Somehow justice is bound up with memory and not forgetting. But living together requires a certain suspension of memory." suggests Michael Sandel, who tenches a course called "Justice" at Harvard. "I suppose the question to whether there is a human sentiment somewhere between forgiveness, which is very difficult, too much to sak, and forgetfulness.

"What makes these situations so morally complicated," says Sandel, "is that we do not want to encourage mass amnesis but neither do we want to encourage people to think all the time about the crimes their neighbors may have committed. If they do, there will be no have committed. If they do, there will be no living together." In the real world we count on some mix of punishment, atonement and time to salve wounds. In the aftermath of the Holecaust, there was a great terror that the world would forget. It took a half-century for the Japanese to acknowledge and atone for the wrongs they committed to Korean "comfort women." Today, Bouth Africa is atrusting to mediate committed to Korean "comfort women." Today, South Africa is struggling to mediate the claims of peace and justice in the wake of the humans rights abuses of apartheid. Bishop Tutu now presides over something named the Truth and Reconciliation Commission--a body that can grant amnesty to those on both sides who will publicly admit their crimes. But as the hearings to on. It is their crimes. But as the hearings go on, it is not clear if people can accept the notion that confessed killers may go free-even for the confessed killers may go free-even for the sake of reconciliation. As for Rwanda, where the wounds are still fresh? On a December morning, a young Tutal mother whose husband was killed spoke to the Boston Globe's Elizabeth Neuffer in two exhausted voices that describe the internal conflicts. "I am so angry. I want them brought to justice." she said of her husband's murders. And then later she sighed. "Ah, you have no idea how much I want just to forget." Sometimes it seems in a world that is as war-weary as ours, all there is to offer such a woman is prayer.

ncy I some 7.2 million people last year--about the same number served in 1994. Yet the number of meals provided increased by 16 percent and the number of nights spent in Catholic-run shelters by 35 percent.

"And many of (the recipients) work." said the Rev. Fred Kammer, president of Catholic Charities. "In the last two years, over half of those who came for emergency food or shelter were not on welfare. We are finding that a job does not necessarily get you out of poverty." The purpose of the press conference was to announce the results of the 1990 annual survey of Catholic Charities USA, but the subtheme was the devastation sure to come from the welfare reform for which both President Clinton and congressional Republicans have claimed credit. The survey findings were depressing: People have more--and more complex--problems, and charitable giving is down. Moreover, welfare reform--Kammer calls it "welfare repeal"--is poised to dump new millions of needy on the kindness of strangers. And the "end of welfare as we know it" will reduce federal funding for low-income programs by an average of $15 billion a year over the next seven years. "To give you a sense of what it would take to raise an additional $15 billion (to replace the federal cuta)," said (to replace the federal cuta)," said Kammer, "the total private giving to all human services in this country was only 011.7 billion last year. Giving to private charities would have to more than double next year to make up for government cuts."

Yet to leave the issue as between valiant--but--outgunned "good guys" and safety-net-shredding federal Scrooges is to ignore perhaps the toughest question of all: What to do about poverty?

Not even the most liberal Americana want merely to take better care of the poor--in part because they understand that the more you improve the living conditions of the poor, the longer become the lines of those seeking the improvement. On the other hand, lew of these who believe welfare does harm in the name of doing good want merely to heave the poor to their exemplary suffering.

The question is how to reduce the total amount of suffering. By increasing the amount of suffering. By increasing the amount of assistance? (But, te repeat, this inevitably increases the number of those needing assistance.) By stripping assistance of its anti-work inducement? (But this assumes that jobs are available if the poer would but bestir themselves to seek them).

I prayed to the devit and fold him. If you stop all of this now, you can have my soul." he recalled. "Then I prayed to God to help me, and within the hour, I was arrested."

- Picked up for driving under a suspended license. Dan said he overwhelmed with Was happiness and gratitude when he first arrived at The Sanford Bridge. Today, he is taking the phases of the program step by step, and feets that he is on his way to maintaining a clean and drug-free future.

A big help. Dan said, came from the intense soul searching and therapy he participated in with the other Bridge residents.

"Addicts listen to other addicts more than anyone .clac." he said, but insisted the -redit for his reliabilitation go towards a higher power. "I've been led to Christ, and He has shown me that there is no Dan without Dan being clean."

This Christmas, Dan was eligible to go home for the day on a 12-hour puss to celebrate holiday with his family and attend church.

"My sober self is the best gift I've given them."

Steve Christmas last year for Steve, 21, with not a memorable occasion. He said he was stealing and robbing to supply his drug habit and spent the holidays alone in a house without electricity. "The only time I said 'Merry Christmas' was to this guy next to me on the street using drugs," he said. "And it wasn't a merry Christmas. 1 was just fooling myself."

A Bridge resident since July of this year. Steve said his entire life was unmanageable due to his drug problem. He claimed he tried to stop using drugs many times. but went about it the wrong way.

"I'd say to myself. you can do it, you can do it.....But I didn't ank anyone for help. I tried to do it all on my own." he explained. "I had my pride but not my humility. I wns working the 'I' program."

At The Bridge. Steve said he has worked hard to adapt to the strict rules, yet he chose to enter the program. He has been learning to deal with stress and identify the red flags of warning for his drug orges. Most importantly. Steve said for the first time in his life, he has structure.

Within the next few weeks. Steve said he will be relased from The Bridge and plana to enter Seminole Community College. He is interested in carning an Associate Degree and pursuing an acting career. This Christmas was the best

Steve said he has in ages since he was looking forward to spending the day with his family, not just simply receiving gifts from them. "And New Year's is going to be great. am going to stay clean and sober."

Alan Alan. 37, has been at The Bridge for over a year and already graduated from the three-phase program. He chooses to stny at the center in the After-Care group. After-Care helps re-integrate Bridge clients back into the community by providing graduates low rent housing and extra time to work towards their goula.

Alan said he has been trying to save money, so he will not have too difficult a financial struggle when he does leave The Bridge. "Miss Buildy has told me I can stay as long as I want," he said. "Heing here is easy, but the real test is when you leave, and you have to use the things you've learned in here outside.

An alcoholie. Alan credited The Bridge for saving his life. The counsclors and Miss Burny don't let you get away with anything. I lust to work really hard to graduate--Miss Bunny and Lynda Swallow, my counselor, believed more in me than I did in myself sometimes."

Through the therapy and counseling classes Alon attended during his 13 months. at The Bridge. Alan said he realized he could make a new and drug-free life for himself. Miss Bunny kept telling me. "This is a new beginning." But I know being clean and sober doesn't mean everything is going to be great for the rest of my life." Alan explained. "Fve learned to deal with the stress and pain that goes with everyday life because of being here."

Alan sold he was looking forward to Christmas this year. "Last year. I was in jail, miscrable and lonely, This year, I told myself, was going to be different." he said. have spent so many Christmases thinking about how bad past Christmases were."

Orntifude is a newfound quality of life Alan said he learned to value at The Bridge. "Everyday, I go out behind the center and smell the blooms off the rose bushes." Brad Brad, 21, graduated from The Bridge in November of 1995. He returned on Dec. 6 of this month after spending Thanksgiving weeked binging on crack in downtown Orlando. "I got sick and tired of the way I was living, in and out of crack houses and motels. 1 wasn't eating or sleeping. My basic purpose in life was to get and do more drugs," he said.

Brad admitted he had not been working the program he learned during his stay at The "I thought I could" Bridge. handle my addiction on my own," he said.

This time is going to be different at The Bridge, Brad promised himself. He said he is going to be as hunest as he can with himself and others. "Last time 1 was here, 1 only did it as an obligation to the court. I guess I had to fall on my face again....t don't have the anawers, and these people do."

When Brad started using drugs at the age of 13. he had a childhood history behind him which included sexual abuse and family instability. When his mother died of cancer before he turned 18, Brad said he started using more drugs to remedy his emotional path.

"I wasn't there for my mother when she needed me." he said. "When I found out she had died. I was shipping school and drinking."

Self-medicating himself with drugs and alcohol. Brad slipped into a life of crime to uphold his habit. Stealing his father's volumbles and trading them for crack paid off until his father called the police on him-and took out a restraining order against his own son.

"I felt like a scum-bag Junkie," Brad said of that time in his life.

Reconciliation with his father did not take place until he was at The Bridge. When a massive stroke put his father in the hospital. Brad said he broke down and called him.

"I told him I loved him for the first time in years," he said. "And his final words to me were, 'I forgive you, son."

Brad said he will regret the strained relationship with his father for the rest of his life. but will always be grateful to the Bridge. "If I weren't here, 1 wouldn't have made the effort to contact my father. wouldn't have been able to make amends with him.

AROUND THE STATE

Spurrier spurns Falcons

GAINESVILLE - Florida coach Steve Spurtier, preparing his No. 3 Gators for a Sugar Bowl showdown against No. 1 Florida State, said he's not a candidate to replace June Jones as coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

A year ago, Spurrier rejected an offer to take over the Tampa Bay Buccancers, Since returning to his alma mater in 1990, Spurrier has led Florida to five Southeastern Conference titles

ELSEWHERE

Lions can Fontes

PONTIAC, Mich. - Wayne Fontes who won and lost more games than any coach m Detroit Lions' history, was fired after the team's worst performance in lour seasons

A playoff flop. Fontes was dismissed after eight seasons, making him the sixth NFL coach. to ose his job since the regular-season season ended. Two others were fired during the season-

Fontes, with one year left on his contract, goes out with a 67.71 record, including 5.11 this season. He was 1-4 in the playoffs.

Davis gets offensive award

NEW YORK - Terrell Davis has gone from obscure minning back at Georgia to mokie sensation to Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year monty two years

Davis, Denver's sixth-round choice in 1995. edged Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre, last year's winner, in halloting by 93 writers. Day received 361/2 votes, while Favre, the league's MVP last season, had 34: Davis rushed for 1.538 yards on 345 carries. and also had 36 catches for 310 yards, Favre passed for 3,899 yards and 39 touchdowns.

Rams get revved up

Romp earns Lake Mary boys a shot at Dr. Phillips

By JEFF BERLINICKE Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The short guys came close to dunking, the players were laughing on the sidelines and a good time was had by all

That's about the best way to describe the 91-52 blowout that was Lake Mary's first round romp over Jones High in the Lake Mary Holiday Tournament.

The tournament continues today with Loser's Bracket games at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. and Winner's Bracket games at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. The tournament will conclude on Saturday with four games at the same times.

The Rams scored early and often and by the time it was over, everyone from the starting five to the last guys on the bench, had turned the numbers on the scoreboard.

Paul Betk led the way with 19 and Matt Townsley added 17 as the Rams jumped out to a 29-11 first quarter lead and coasted from there.

"It's hard to keep the score down when you ye got kids who haven't played much," said first-year coach Mike Gaudreau. "No matter what the score is you never want your kids not playing. 400 percent.

Especially tonight in the second round game against Dr. Phillips at Lake Mary 18 p.m. starting time) The Rams have put up some pretty gaudy numbers in mining out to a strong start but haven't made a dent in the state rankings. A wintonight over Dr. Phillips, which heat Gamesville Eastside in their first round clash, could change everything

We want Dr. Phillips. Gaudrean said "They're the class of Orlando right now All season long people have said we're okay but wait until we play somebody. Well, now we have a chance

Last night. Gaudreau said he was alread his players would be looking ahead but he knew. soon enough he didn't have to worry. By the third quarter, the starters were relaxing on the bench as the score continued to mount and by the lourth quarter, the game burned into some thing you might hind during an atternoon physical class

So, after one month, Lake Mary is right where they wanted to be. They were expected to light-

The Lake Mary Rams went inside to get the job done against Jones on Thursday night, Paul Beik (left) musclos over a Tigers defender for two tor Seminole Athletic Conference supremacy and they are in the limit. They looked forward to proving a point against Dr. Phillips, now they have a chance. The chance came because everyone has contributed.

Most of the starting five is posting double figures consistently. Besides Betk and Townsley, derome Bingham, Randy Abrams and Ben Kersenbreck are doing their share, keeping of his 19 points, while Matt Townsley (No. 45. white uniform, right) avoids a block attempt to net two of his 17 points

detenses backed up and allowing the strong Lake Mary inside game to dominate

That's the thing that has surprised me the most." Gaudreau said "Everyone is contributing and that's what we needed from them. Sometimes our intensity isn't there for all 32 minutes but we're getting everything else we need

For all intents and purposes, the season starts touight

Kidd sent to Suns

DALLAS - Star point guard Jason Kidd and two other players were traded from the Dallas Mavericks to the Phoenix Suns for Sam-Cassell, A.C. Green, Michael Finley and a second-round draft choice.

Kidd, the co-Rookle of the Year in 1994-95 who had feuded with his teammates and was unhappy with the system installed by new coach Jim Cleamons, was traded along with Tony Dumas and Loren Meyer.

Fernandez signs with Indians

CLEVELAND - Tony Fernandez, who missed all of the 1996 season with the New York Yankees because of a broken right elbow, signed a one-year contract with the Cleveland Indians. Financial terms were not disclosed.

Fernandez, 34, has a .282 career average with the Yankees. San Diego, Toronto, New York Meta and Cincinnati. His best year was 1989 with Toronto, when he hit .257 with 11 homers. 64 RBIs and 22 stolen bases.

Sanford's Britt Henderson has been named to The Associated Press Little All-America Football Team after the defensive back led NCAA Division It in Interceptions with 12 this year.

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Sanford's Britt Henderson of Savannah State, who topped Division II with 12 mterceptions, has been named to The-Associated Press' Little All-America team

Henderson, the son of former Seminole High School star athlete Chilord Martin, graduated from Seminole High in 1992. The senior defensive back was a mainstay for head coach Emory Blake's Tribe that advanced to the sectional finals. that year.

Jarrett Anderson and Dante Brown are the record-setting running backs and Henderson's teammate, Lance Funderburk, the quarterback on the team.

Anderson, the Harlon Hill Trophy winner as Division II's top player from Truman State (Mo.), ran for a division-record 2,140 yards. averaged a division-record 194.5 yards per game and scored 28 touchdowns.

Brown of Marietta (Ohio) led Division III in rushing, scoring and all-purpose yards and also set the NCAA single-game rushing record with 441 yards against Baldwin-Wallace on Oct. 5. The 5-foot-11. 180-pound junior ran for 2,385 vards and 27 touchdowns and averaged 297.3 total yards per game.

Funderburk, who led Valdosta State (10-3) to the second round of the Division II playoffs, was 300of 459 passes for 3,732 yards and 35 touchdowns. Funderburk was fourth in the division in total offense with 334.2 yards per game and was fifth in passing efficiency at 154.5.

Clarion and North Dakota cach have two players on the team. which includes Divisions II and III and the NAIA.

The receivers are Ron Lelko of Bloomsburg, Carlos Ferralls of Glenville State and Jamar Natior of New Mexico Highlands:

Lelko led Division II in receptions and yards, catching 87 passes for 1.455 yards and 15 touchdowns. Ferralls caught 81 passes for 965 yards and six TDs in just eight games, while Natior had 86 catches 1.224 yards and 18 TDs.

Brian Shay of Emporia State is the all-purpose player. The sophomore had 2 103 yards rushing and 21 TDs. 247 yards receiving, 48 yards on punt returns and 340 on kickoff returns for an average of 248.9 total yards per game.

The offensive linemen are Bob Goltra of Pittsburg State. Chris Martin of Clarion. Todd Perkins of Texas A&M-Kingsville, Tony Ramirez of Northern Colorado and Don Struebing of Central Arkansas. Ramirez is the only repeater from last year's squad.

The other defensive backs are Peter Hinckle of Ursinus, Kim Niedbala of Clarion and Gerald Smith of North Alabama.

The kicker is Greg Janacek of Mankato State. Janacek hit 16-of-19 field goals - 84.2 per cent - and 34-of-35 extra points.

DAYTONA BEACH - The Daytona 500 is inarguably one of the toughest tickets in sports. Serious race fans who desire to witness "The World's Greatest Race" in person in 1998 have until December 31, 1996. to enter a drawing for coveted tickets.

Current ticket holders are not required to submit to this drawing to retain Daytona 500 tickets unless they desire to purchase additional tickets.

A random drawing for tickets will be held in January 1997, several weeks prior to the February 16, 1997 Daytona 500. Names drawn will be eligible to purchase tickets to the following year's race.

Following the drawing, those whose names are drawn will receive an invoice for tickets. New 1998 Daytona 500 tickets will be part of a two-day package with the Daytona 300 NASCAR Busch Series race.

Historically, several thousand unrenewed tickets have gone on sale the first business day of each new year, and have been available only to the first calls received. In 1996, more than 100,000 phone calls were attempted to the Speedway ticket office.

Therefore, for the 1998 Daytona 500, to be eligible to purchase tickets, interested parties must submit a postcard to: Daytona International Speedway Ticket Office; P.O. Box 2801; Daytona Beach, Florida, 32120-2801; lisitng:

•Name.

Daytime telephone number. Number of tickets desired (maximum of four).

Postcards will be limited to one per customer, and must be postmarked no later than December 31, 1996. Infield tickets for the 1997 Daytona 500 will be available at the gate beginning at 6 p.m. February 12th. Reserved RV Packages for Speedweeks 1997, and tickets to other Speedway events are available now by calling (904) 253-7223.

were short all night," Seikaly said. "I tried to overcome it, but the more you press, the worse it gets. Hopefully, next time I'll make my shots."

Seikaly was outscored by not just one Heat center, but two.

Alonzo Mourning had 13 points to go with eight rebounds and four blocked shots. His backup, Isaac Austin, added 17 points and six rebounds in 23 minutes.

"We expected Isaac Austin to be a big factor." Magic coach Brian Hill said. "He's been coming in and doing this to everybody."

Reserve Heat guard Voshon Lenard added 14 points, inteams in the East." Seikaly said. cluding three 3-pointers. The Miami bench outscored Orlanwill hase the strongest bench in do's substitutes 37-15.

"We want to come in the game and take it to another level." Austin said. "That gives the starters confidence that we can do the job."

Seikaly played his first six seasons for Miami, then was traded to Golden State in 1994 after complaining about the direction of the franchise. A sellout crowd of 15.200 jeered him repeatedly, especially when he missed his first three free-throw attempts. Hunt

He shot no better from the field.

"You've got to give the Heat credit - they played great defense," Seikaly said. "They're

"We're going to have to wait and 10 assists for the Heat, who until we get everybody back and won their third game in a row and increased their lead to 11/2 hopefully we won't have fallen too far behind." coach Brian Hill said. "We still want to be in games over second-place New position to make a run at the "We're continuing to im-prove." Heat forward P.J. Brown division."

Orlando trailed Miami 50-33 at halftime, largely because of 21 points by Hardaway. Seikaly hit three baskets in a row to cut the margin to 59-54 late in the third period, but Austin and Lenard each made back-to-back baskets to help the Heat rebuild the lead to 81-63 with six minutes left.

"We had a real bad lull in the third quarter." Miami coach Pat Riley said. "but we got great energy by Lenard and Austin to put it away in the fourth."

So you want to make some changes

The release earlier this summer of the Surgeon General's report entitled Physical Activity and Mealth certainly was well-intended. But its advice was far from ground-breaking. Americans have heard it before in countless other official reports: Get some exercise.

Perhaps because more than 60 percent of adults still are not heeding the call to engage in enough physical activity, the report tires to make "enough" sound simpler than ever. Walk, rake leaves, wax your car, wash windows . just do something.

Why won't people get off the couch and move their bodies? For that matter, why won't they ent less fat, make a salad, or have fruit for a snack when they know these things are good for them?

James Prochaska. Ph.D., a psychologist and head of the Health Promotion Partnership at the University of Rhode Island, says it's because change doesn't begin with action. thus, whenever advice to change starts with the admonition toact-which is most of the time-it can backfire.

than 90 percent of behavior change programs are designed with this 20 percent in mind." Everyone else falls through the cracks.

Dr. Prochaska says action is the fourth of 6 stages of change. Apparently. he's onto something, his approach has been used successfully by, among others, the National Cancer Institute to help people stop smoking, by the National Institutes for Alcoholism and behavior than about the cons of Alcohol Abuse to help manifer the old one. Altrategier Alcohol Abuse to help people stop drinking, and by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to curb behavior that leads to HIV infection. STACES OF CHANGE

There are 6 stages of change. You need to know which stage you're in to move forward effectively, because each one requires different strategies.

4. Action: This is the overt modifying of behavior, and the busiest stage of change. It's also the stage most visible to others. Birstogies: People in the action stage need to apply their sense of commitment to the change. They should also reward themselves, perhaps by change are prepared for action 'I. Precentemplation: the change. They should also reward themselves, perhaps by at any given time. Strategies: People in maintenance should apply the same strategies as those in the action stage: reward. countering, modification of the environment, and helping relationships.

> > 6. Termination: The problem no longer presents any temptation. The cycle of change is exited. Some experts termination never occurs, only that maintenance becomes less vigilant over time. One last important thing to remember experts say: "People who take action and fail within a month are twice as likely to succeed over the next 6 months as people who don't take any action at all."

Parents: Talk to your kids about sex

DEAR ABBY: This is in re to the letter from Carol Montgomery of Tucson, who wrote about a teen-ager who was afraid to tell her parents she was pregnant, so she secretly gave birth to a boy and strangled it. Now she is charged with first-degree murder. Ms. Montcomery uses this story to support her view that condoms should be distributed in high schools, thus making sex "safe."

Abby, her argument is funda-mentally flawed. She assumes that the girl and her boyfriend, having access to condome, would have used access to condome, would have used them. Last time I looked, the prognancy rate among unwed teen-agers is continuing to rise in spite of con-dom distribution. Obvioualy, some teen-agers armed with information and condoms are using neither.

The real tragedy of Ms. Montry's example is that the parents were unaware of what was happening with their daughter and also unable or unwilling to commu-nicate their love to her. When I was a teen-ager, my par-ents lovingly told me the facts about sex and expressed their hope that I'd wait until marriage. However, they also made it clear that if I chose to become sexually active and became pregnant, I would always have a home with them and they would love me, no matter what. Their strategy worked, and in spite of having raging hormones, I waited.

Instead of assuming that teening them condoms, perhaps we should encourage parents to talk with their kids, and decide how sex-

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank Carol Montgomery for expressing an opinion that I strongly believe in. We need sex education in schools to promote safer sex.

With the holiday season approcahing, Stockwell came up with an idea. An avid scratch golfer, he decided to donate his talents to Wilson's ministry. With the support of Mayfair and the local community, Stockwell set out on a mission.

Stockwell went out and collected pledges and got permis-sion from Mayfair to use the course. Riding in a golf cart carrying a large flag reading. "Swinging for Jesus." Stockwell got started last Monday. It turned out 500 holes weren't enough. He finished with 517.

He had some help from the other golfers at Mayfair who would see his cart speeding down the fairways and step saide. He also had help from volunteers who worked as spotters to help out whenever the shot wasn't straight down the middle.

Stockwell's first round lasted just one hour, 10 minutes.

He wasn't just out there hit-ting the ball as quickly as he could. He scored a best round for the week of 67 and even scored two eagles on the first day. The worst was the three double bogeys and one entry on his log that just said "other."

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - One hundred years ago this fall, Charles Sheldon stood at the pulpit of the Central Congrega-tional Church on Sunday evening and began reading his it was a tale about Rev. Henry

"Certainly, it would be hard to think of another book other than the Bible that has other than the Bible that has out-circulated it and been as widely read." Sheldon, who was minister at Sheidon, who was minister at the Congregational Church in central Topeka from 1889 until his death in 1946, wrote several books, many of them inspira-tional novels. But none caught on like "In His Steps."

The Rev. Dick Taylor, a retired United Methodist minister, remembers first reading it in 1948, when he was a student minister for a tiny church in Pine Hill, N.J.

Pine Hill, N.J. "It's the most basic Christian book of all time." said Taylor. "It is so simple, it is so basic. It has nothing to do with religion and everything to do with life." The book started out as a "story-sermon." Sheldon began writing the novel in the summer of 1806 and started reading aloud to his Sunday flock in October. A few weeks later, the story was serialized in a Chicago religious magazine called The

It hurt because the magazine was not copyrighted. Publishing houses could — and did — start producing the book without paying thebdes reyalties. It helped for the same reason

"His message did get out in a way it would not have other-wise." said Miller, author of "Following in His Steps." The book has never been out of print. Two movie versions have been made, and there is talk of a third, said Topeka playwright Phil Grecian, who adapted the novel to the stage. The novel is not remembered for its prose style. Critics had a field day with it. and Grecian called it "terribly written."

The book appeals to people for reasons other than suspense, literary style or even theology. "I think it is the simple message that transcends even Publishing houses started religion." Grecian said. "The message is: Be good to each other. I think in our heart of hearts we yearn for a gentler, kinder world. Jesus is obviously a vehicle for that." Garrett Sheldon, the author's great grandson, is a political science professor at Clinch Valley College of the University of Virginia. He has written an updated version of the story called "What Would Jesus Do," using contemporary situations and characters.

"One hundred years ago, and still today, it speaks to people very personally. It's the idea of each individual asking himself or herself what would Jesus do in my situation. It makes your faith part of your everyday life."

Faith is believing what God says simply because it is God who says it.

Stress and boredom

BOSTON - More than 35 people have signed a petition asking that a convicted murderer be allowed to have Nintendo video games in his cell because he is suffering from stress and boredom.

Alan Lussier, 49, is an inmate at the Bay State Correctional Center in Norfolk, where he had a Nintendo game system in his cell until two years ago, when officials confiscated it.

Prison policy forbids inmates from having video games.

"He's going nuts because he's got nothing to do," petition organiser Nancy Shepardson told the Boston Herald.

Lussier was convicted of murdering Christine Ross, 20. a Northeastern University nursing student, 25 years ago after they left a Halloween party together. Ross was found bludgeoned to death the next night in a vacant apartment.

State Rep. Donna Cuomo, whose brother Joey was stabbed to death in 1974, called the petition 'outrageous.'

"Being in prison is not about providing luxuries like Nintendo," she said. "He's there for punishment."

Nipped in the stub

SAN FRANCISCO - San Francisco health officials are trying to nip cigar smoking in the stub. Stogies, though trendy, smell bad, taste worse, and their their stube are as unsightly as dog droppings, according to the city health department's new campaign.

Signs reading: "Cigars: They look like what they smell like. Don't put them in your mouth!" greet club-goers in San Francisco's hippest night spots.

The department also is airing 30-second spots on cable television that show a dog animing at stogies being swept into a pooper scooper. Health officials are especially worried about how popular cigar smoking has become among young women. They say cigar smokers risk developing tumors of the lip, mouth and csophagus.

Trailer Trash Barble

SAN FRANCISCO - Trailer Trash Barbie, with her bad dye job and a cigarette dangling from her lips, was nearly as popular as Tickle Me Elmo among holiday shoppers this year.

Shoppers also have been asking for nose-pierced Big Dyke Barbie, Drag Queen Barbie (Ken in a wig and gown) and Hooker Barbie complete

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has pulmenary fibrosis, which requires occasional supplemental oxygen, fre-quent courses of antibiotics, an annu-al flu shot, and avoidance of cigarette smoke and other air pollution. What can he do further to maintain his basht? aith?

DEAR READER: Pulmonary fibre-sis means that the lungs have been scarred due to frequent infections, exposure to physical agents (coal dust, silica, radioactivity, caustic chemical vapors, and se forth), and the use of certain anti-cancer drugs (methotrexate and others). In about 50 percent of cases, no obvious cause can be determined. Regardless of cause, patients with

Regardless of cause, patients with pulmonary fibroals experience pro-gressive difficulty breaking, at rates that vary depending on the cause. Eventually, all such patients become breathless at rest, need supplemental oxygen, and must take special pains to avoid aggravating the lung damage. This is the reason that your husband takes a flu shot (to prevent a posttakes a flu shot (to prevent a post-viral pneumonia), has to use antibiotics on occasion (to cure bronchitis), and must avoid air pollution.

Pulmonary fibrosis is diagnosed by X-rays and special breathing tests, which confirm that the lungs are stiff and inelastic and cannot function property.

It sounds to me as though your hus-band is doing all he can to maintain his health, despite having a serious lung disorder. The only additional rec-ommendation that I would make is to urge him to receive the pneumonia vaccine about every five years. This vaccine, which is composed of 23 types of bacteria, will protect individuals against certain forms of bacterial nonla

Also, his breathing might be helped by a program of respiratory exercises under the supervision of a licensed inhalation therapist.

Finally, he (and other patients with this disease) should be under the care of a pulmonologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently had an ANA blood test that was positive 1:80. I was told that I might have lupus. What does this mean?

DEAR READER: Sometimes the body's immune system misperceives normal tissue as abnormal and tries to destroy it. Such a reaction is the basis for many diseases, including lupus, rheumatoid arthritis and others. In the process of attacking nor-mal tissue, the immune system forms proteins called antibodies.

The anti-nuclear antibody (ANA) blood test is a method by which doc-tors can identify the presence (and concentration) of antibodies against normal cell nuclei (the main controlting portion of normal cells). The pres-ence of ANA is usually reported as the least detectable dilution. Normal is up to 1:40, positive is 1:80 or greater, any-thing in between is inconclusive.

Surgeons must be very careful When they take the knife! Underneath their fine incisions Stirs the Culprit - Life! Bridge analysts must be careful too, when they make announcements about a deal. If there's a miscalculation, it isn't as serious as one by a surgeon, of course. But it will generate mail from sharp-eyed readers. What diagnosis would you make about this deal, in which you are West? Against four spades, you lead the heart ace: seven, two, three. What now? The deal occurred in a Sydney bridge club and was reported in Australian Bridge. South's jump to three spades was invitational. With a game-force, he would have started with a two-heart cue-bid. North just hoped South could run the clubs after drawing trumps. The killing defense is difficult to spot, even when you are looking at all four hands, unless you have seen the theme before. To sink the knife into declarer's heart - metaphorically, of

If South plays another trump, you continue with a club. This cuts declarer off from the dummy while East still has a trump left with which to rull the third top club.

At first, I thought continuing with the heart king would also work. Assuming declarer ruffs in the dummy and leads a trump, you win and switch to a club. However, declarer has 10 tricks: five spades, one heart (the es-tablished queen), one diamond, two clubs and one heart ruff in the dummy.
